Traditional Astrology which I have mentioned previously. Traditional Astrology is of course very much concerned with prediction, which was becoming unfashionable, but the wheel is turning.

MURDER AND THE LUNAR ECLIPSE

by Elva Howson (Vic.)

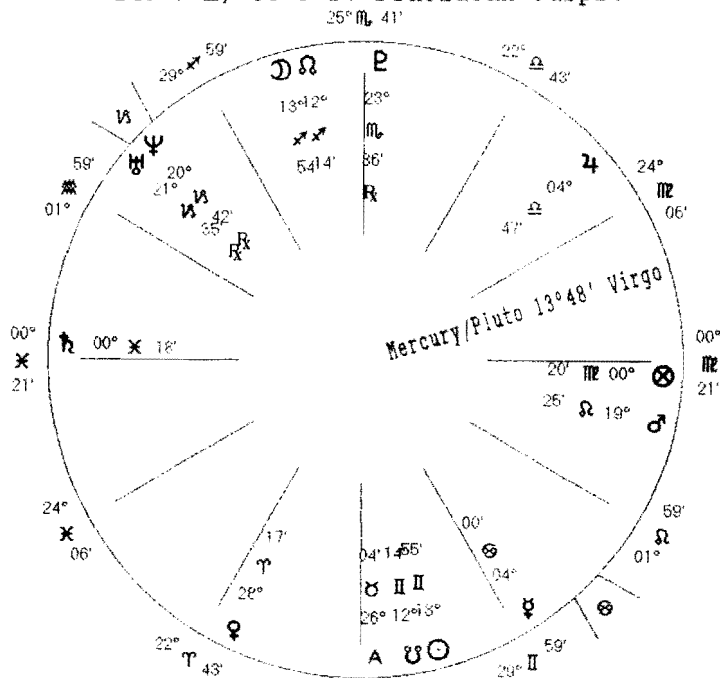

Fear enveloped our local community for a period of 7 weeks from 11th June to 31st July as a serial killer randomly took the lives of three young women (two students) by sadistically inflicting multiple stab wounds to their upper body and then cutting the throats of his victims.

The Lunar Eclipse prior to the murders is to my mind outstanding in showing the events that followed it so closely. Pluto conjunct MC with Algol and Mars/Saturn at the Nadir is a sure indication of gruesome death in the near environment, plus Mars square Pluto applying (partile at the first death).

LUNAR ECLIPSE PRIOR TO THREE SERIAL MURDERS

4th June 1993, 1:01pm GMT. Frankston, Vic.

145°7'E, 38°9'S. Placidian Cusps.

Mars/Saturn 24°52' Taurus 25° 41'
Mars/Ascendant 24°53' Taurus

Fixed Star	Posit
A Caput Algol	26° 04'

The second victim was the mother of a 12-day old baby, and public sympathy for her and the child, coupled with their own extreme nervousness brought forth massive media coverage (Mercury square Jupiter), and a public meeting of more than a thousand residents calling for the re-introduction of the death penalty (Sun-Moon square Merc/Plu), and a monetary trust has been set up for the child from public donations.

Vertex opposite both Uranus and Neptune is indicative of the extraordinary nervousness, sorrow and compassion experienced by the community and the panic felt by many as the killer stealthily struck for a third time. Thankfully a young man is now in custody.

INDIAN EARTHQUAKE

The earthquake in Western India on 30th September, a calamity of huge proportions, arouses the sympathy of the world. The question in the minds of astrologers is how could such a disaster have been foreseen and prepared for. There are probably several ways of approaching this problem, the most obvious one being to start with the Radix of the Nation and examine the Progressions and Cyclic Charts for the date of the occurrence.

Nicolas Campion, in his invaluable work, The Book of World Horoscopes gives two Charts for India - the date of Independence from the British in 1947, and the date for the proclamation of the Republic on 26th January 1950. See Charts 1 and 2.

At first glance I thought that Chart 2, for the Proclamation of the Republic, was the more significant because of the powerful conjunction of Uranus and Neptune, stationary on the date of the earthquake at 18½° Capricorn. At this position it is conjunct Mercury, square Neptune, trine Saturn and quincunx Pluto. This is a powerful combination of the "malefics", plus Mercury which is a convertible planet and takes on the nature of the bodies it aspects. In Chart 1 (Independence) the Uranus/Neptune conjunction is powerful simply through being on the 9th Placidian Cusp and trine the Equatorial Ascendant.

The Cyclic Maps for the two Radices make an interesting comparison, and it is a moot point which is the dominant Figure.

The Independence Chart 46th Age-Harmonic, (Chart 3) which relates to the date of the earthquake, has some striking configurations: Capricorn is on the Ascendant, and its Ruler, Saturn, is in the 4th House (the land) closely opposed by Mars, which already predicates a dangerous situation. Worse still is the conjunction of the Sun, ruling the Death House, with Pluto (the Destroyer) practically right on the Cusp, where their combined influence is at a maximum. These configurations alone would be sufficient to give warning of a calamity affecting the

Chart 1
INDEPENDENCE OF INDIA
 15th August 1947. 00:00am IST. Delhi.
 77°13'E, 28°40'N. Placidian Cusps.

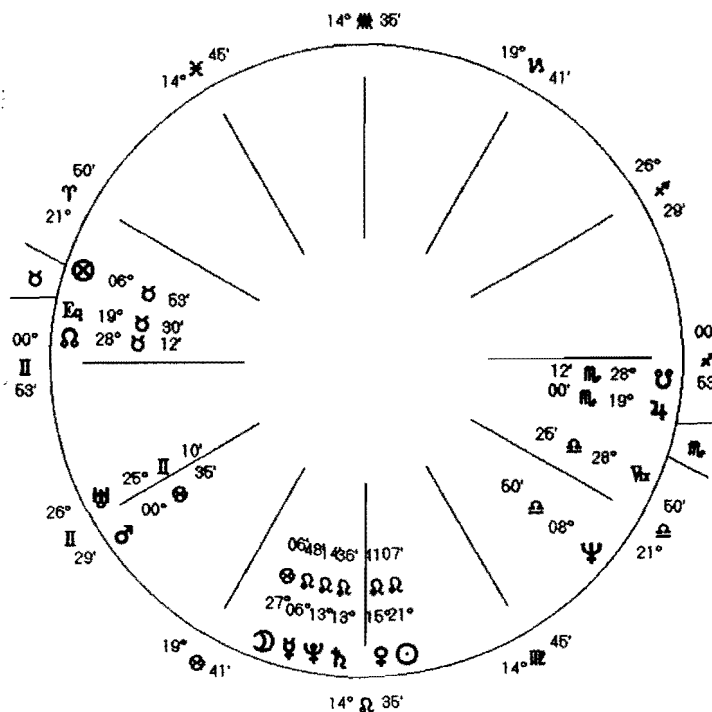

Chart 2
REPUBLIC OF INDIA
 26th January 1950, 10:15am IST. Delhi.
 77°13'E, 28°40'N. Placidian Cusps.

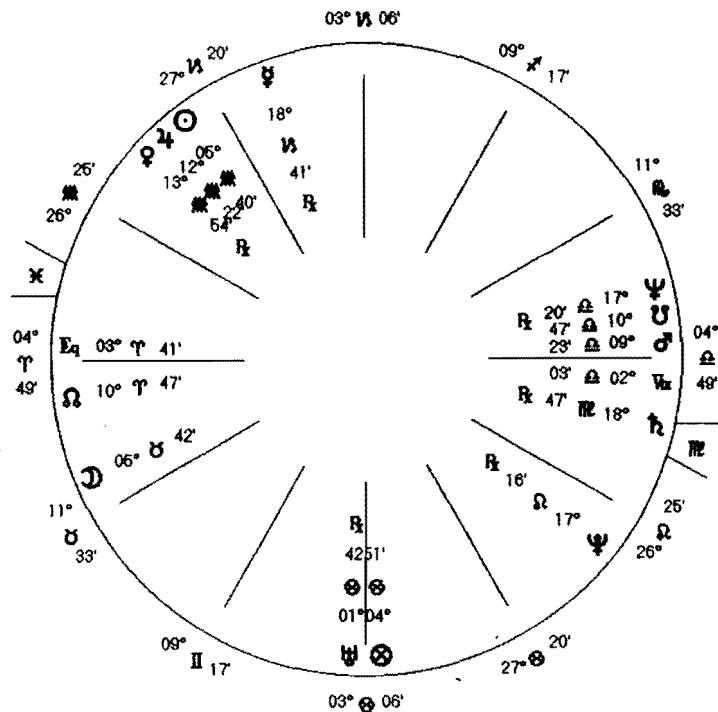

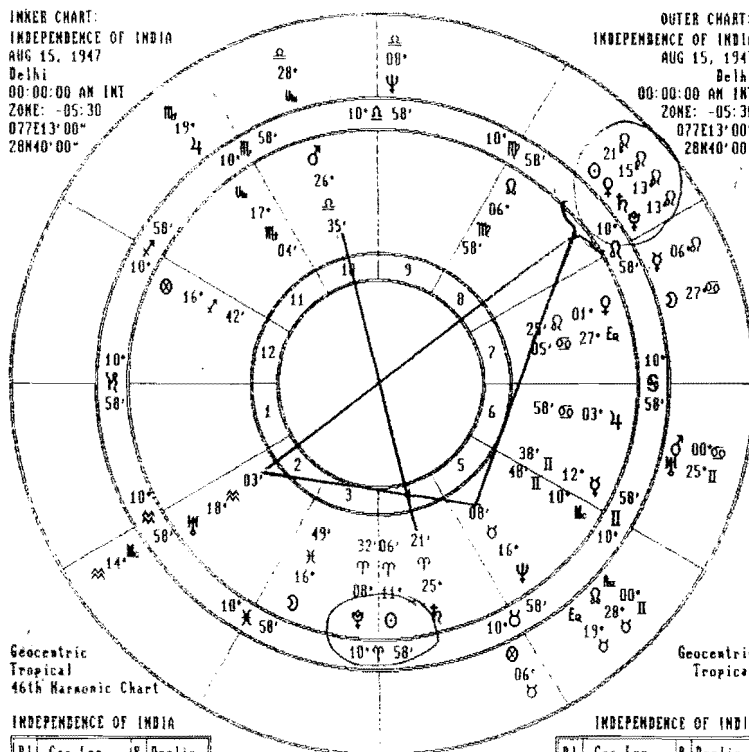

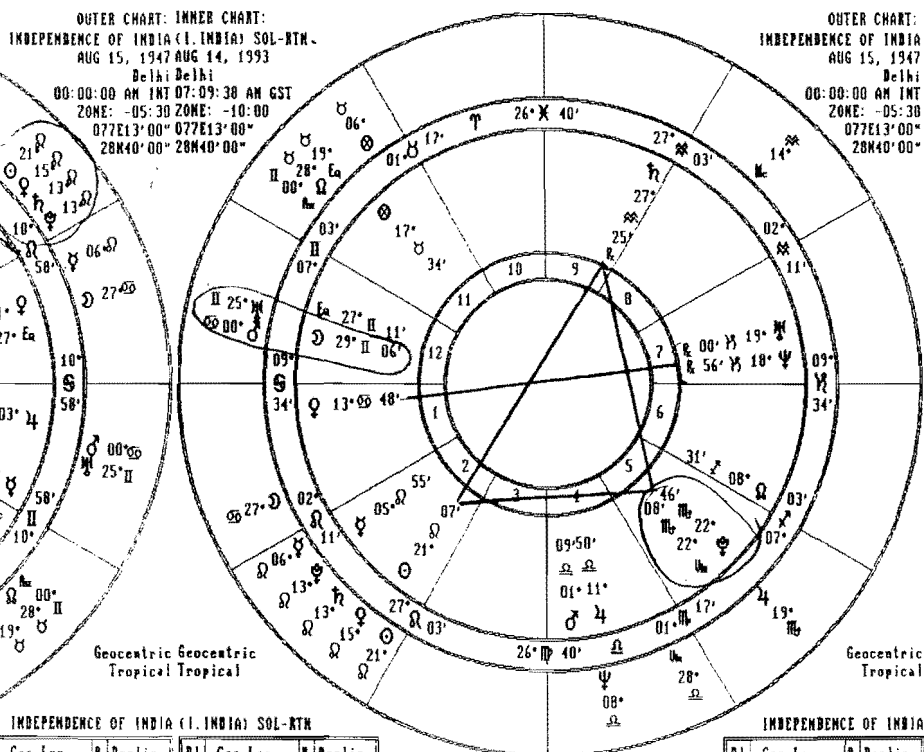

Chart 3

INNER CHART:
 INDEPENDENCE OF INDIA
 AUG 15, 1947
 Delhi
 00:00:00 AM INT
 ZONE: -05:30
 077E13'00"
 28N40'00"

Geocentric
 Tropical
 46th Harmonic Chart

OUTER CHART: INNER CHART:
 INDEPENDENCE OF INDIA (I. INDIA) SOL-RTM.
 AUG 15, 1947 AUG 14, 1993
 Delhi Delhi
 00:00:00 AM INT 07:09:38 AM GST
 ZONE: -05:30 ZONE: -10:00
 077E13'00" 077E13'00"
 28N40'00" 28N40'00"

Geocentric Geocentric
 Tropical Tropical

Geocentric
 Tropical

INDEPENDENCE OF INDIA

Pl	Geo Lon	R Declin.
☉	27°06'17"	+24°56'
☽	21°06'39"	+14°28'
☿	06°06'39"	+19°20'
♀	15°06'59"	+17°12'
♂	00°06'34'40"	+23°42'
♂	18°06'59'58"	+16°39'
♂	13°06'35'41"	+17°28'
♂	25°06'18'30"	+23°29'
♂	06°06'49'45"	+02°08'
♂	13°06'13'45"	+23°22'

INDEPENDENCE OF INDIA (I. INDIA) SOL-RTM

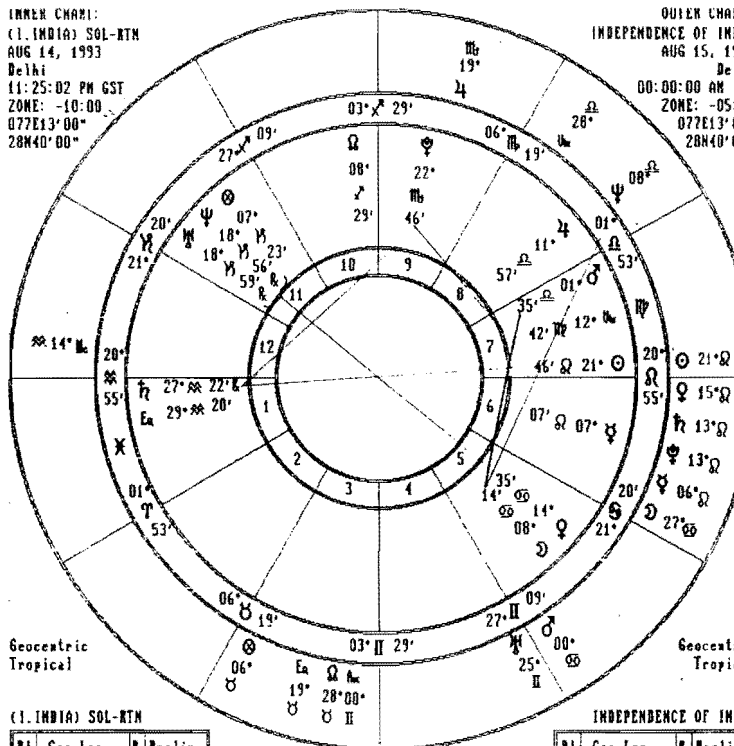

Pl	Geo Lon	R Declin.
☉	27°06'17"	+24°56'
☽	21°06'39"	+14°28'
☿	06°06'39"	+19°20'
♀	15°06'59"	+17°12'
♂	00°06'34'40"	+23°42'
♂	18°06'59'58"	+16°39'
♂	13°06'35'41"	+17°28'
♂	25°06'18'30"	+23°29'
♂	06°06'49'45"	+02°08'
♂	13°06'13'45"	+23°22'

INDEPENDENCE OF INDIA

Pl	Geo Lon	R Declin.
☉	27°06'17"	+24°56'
☽	21°06'39"	+14°28'
☿	06°06'39"	+19°20'
♀	15°06'59"	+17°12'
♂	00°06'34'40"	+23°42'
♂	18°06'59'58"	+16°39'
♂	13°06'35'41"	+17°28'
♂	25°06'18'30"	+23°29'
♂	06°06'49'45"	+02°08'
♂	13°06'13'45"	+23°22'

Chart 5

INNER CHART:
(I. INDIA) SOL-RTN
AUG 14, 1993
Delhi
11:25:02 PM GST
ZONE: -10:00
077E13:00"
28N40:00"

(I. INDIA) SOL-RTN

Pl	Geo Lon	R Declin.
☉	08° 00' 13.49"	+20° 45'
☌	21° 00' 45.42"	+14° 15'
☿	07° 00' 06.35"	+19° 11'
♀	14° 00' 34.55"	+21° 37'
♂	01° 00' 34.54"	-00° 08'
♂	11° 00' 56.47"	-03° 39'
♂	27° 00' 21.44"	-13° 49'
♂	18° 00' 58.34"	-22° 34'
♂	18° 00' 55.34"	-21° 26'
♂	22° 00' 46.20"	-04° 38'

OUTER CHART: INNER CHART:
INDEPENDENCE OF INDIA
AUG 15, 19 JAN 26, 1950
Delhi, India
00:00:00 AM 110:15:00 AM INT
ZONE: -05:00 ZONE: -05:30
077E13:00" 077E13:00"
28N40:00" 28N40:00"

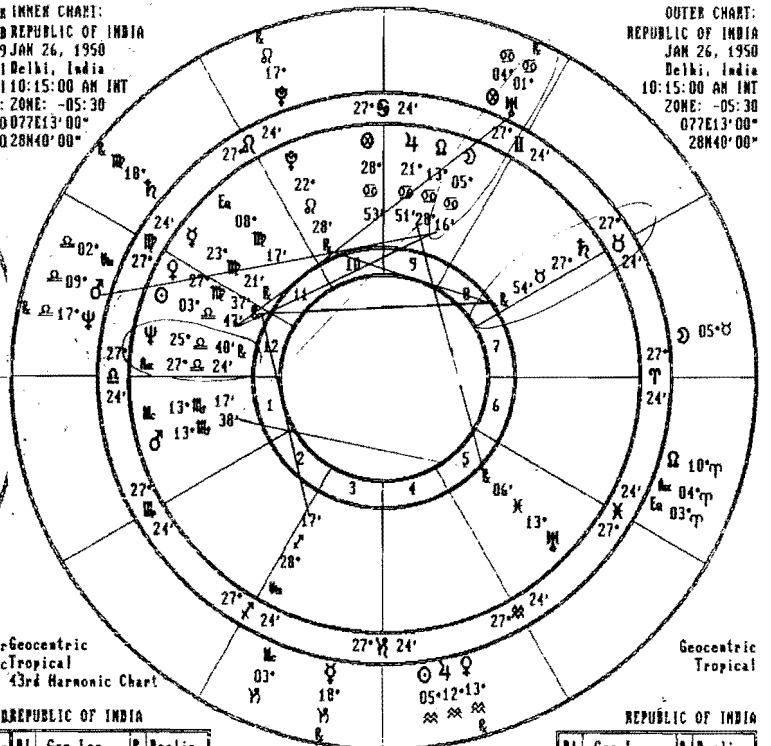

Geocentric
Tropic/Tropical
43rd Harmonic Chart

INDEPENDENCE OF INDIA

Pl	Geo Lon	R Declin.	Pl	Geo Lon	R Declin.
☉	27° 00' 06.17"	+24° 56'	☉	05° 00' 42.14"	+15° 32'
☌	21° 00' 06.39"	+14° 28'	☌	05° 00' 40.10"	-18° 52'
☿	06° 00' 47.47"	+19° 20'	☿	18° 00' 40.57"	-18° 57'
♀	15° 00' 40.59"	+17° 12'	♀	13° 00' 53.53"	-10° 26'
♂	00° 00' 34.40"	+23° 42'	♂	09° 00' 23.13"	-00° 58'
♂	18° 00' 58.58"	-16° 39'	♂	12° 00' 22.07"	-17° 41'
♂	13° 00' 35.41"	+17° 28'	♂	18° 00' 47.19"	+06° 23'
♂	25° 00' 10.30"	+23° 29'	♂	01° 00' 42.01"	+23° 42'
♂	08° 00' 49.45"	-02° 08'	♂	17° 00' 20.28"	-05° 19'
♂	13° 00' 13.45"	+23° 27'	♂	17° 00' 16.01"	+23° 32'

Chart 6

OUTER CHART:
REPUBLIC OF INDIA
JAN 26, 1950
Delhi, India
10:15:00 AM INT
ZONE: -05:30
077E13:00"
28N40:00"

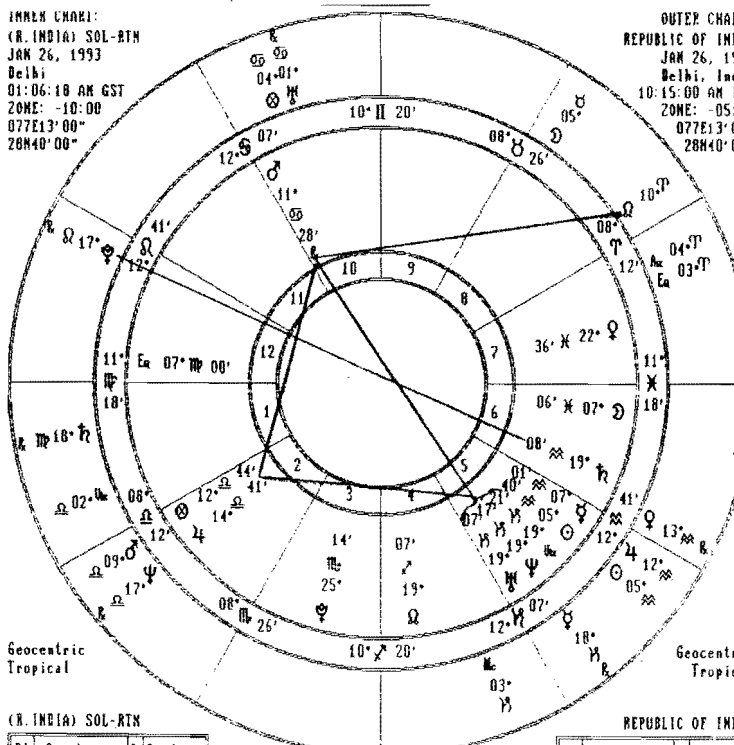

REPUBLIC OF INDIA

Pl	Geo Lon	R Declin.	Pl	Geo Lon	R Declin.
☉	05° 00' 42.14"	+15° 32'	☉	05° 00' 40.10"	-18° 52'
☌	05° 00' 40.10"	-18° 52'	☌	18° 00' 40.57"	-18° 57'
☿	18° 00' 40.57"	-18° 57'	☿	13° 00' 53.53"	-10° 26'
♀	13° 00' 53.53"	-10° 26'	♀	09° 00' 23.13"	-00° 58'
♂	09° 00' 23.13"	-00° 58'	♂	12° 00' 22.07"	-17° 41'
♂	12° 00' 22.07"	-17° 41'	♂	18° 00' 47.19"	+06° 23'
♂	18° 00' 47.19"	+06° 23'	♂	01° 00' 42.01"	+23° 42'
♂	01° 00' 42.01"	+23° 42'	♂	17° 00' 20.28"	-05° 19'
♂	17° 00' 20.28"	-05° 19'	♂	17° 00' 16.01"	+23° 32'

Chart 7

INNER CHART:
(R. INDIA) SOL-RTN
JAN 26, 1993
Delhi
01:06:18 AM GST
ZONE: -10:00
077E13:00"
28N40:00"

(R. INDIA) SOL-RTN

Pl	Geo Lon	R Declin.
☉	07° 00' 05.46"	-04° 16'
☌	05° 00' 40.11"	-18° 51'
☿	07° 00' 01.13"	-20° 32'
♀	22° 00' 36.24"	-02° 26'
♂	11° 00' 28.04"	+27° 00'
♂	14° 00' 40.40"	-04° 29'
♂	19° 00' 07.41"	-16° 04'
♂	19° 00' 07.23"	-22° 29'
♂	19° 00' 17.18"	-21° 23'
♂	25° 00' 13.56"	-05° 09'

OUTER CHART: INNER CHART:
REPUBLIC OF INDIA (R. INDIA) SOL-RTN
JAN 26, 1950 (JAN 26, 1993)
Delhi, India
10:15:00 AM INT 24:46 PM GST
ZONE: -05:30 ZONE: -10:00
077E13:00" 077E13:00"
28N40:00" 28N40:00"

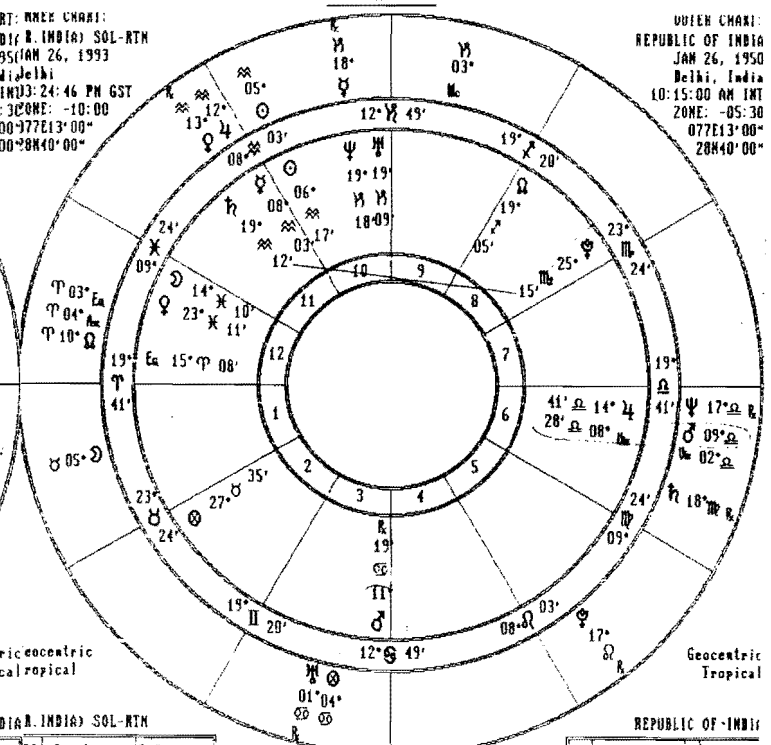

Geocentric
Tropic/Tropical

REPUBLIC OF INDIA (R. INDIA) SOL-RTN

Pl	Geo Lon	R Declin.	Pl	Geo Lon	R Declin.
☉	05° 00' 42.14"	+15° 32'	☉	14° 00' 10.22"	-01° 32'
☌	05° 00' 40.10"	-18° 52'	☌	06° 00' 16.33"	-18° 42'
☿	18° 00' 40.57"	-18° 57'	☿	08° 00' 02.32"	-20° 16'
♀	13° 00' 53.53"	-10° 26'	♀	23° 00' 11.07"	-02° 08'
♂	09° 00' 23.13"	-00° 58'	♂	11° 00' 18.33"	+27° 00'
♂	12° 00' 22.07"	-17° 41'	♂	14° 00' 41.01"	-04° 29'
♂	18° 00' 47.19"	+06° 23'	♂	19° 00' 11.55"	-16° 02'
♂	01° 00' 42.01"	+23° 42'	♂	19° 00' 09.26"	-22° 29'
♂	17° 00' 20.28"	-05° 19'	♂	19° 00' 18.28"	-21° 23'
♂	17° 00' 16.01"	+23° 32'	♂	25° 00' 14.36"	-05° 09'

Chart 8

OUTER CHART:
REPUBLIC OF INDIA
JAN 26, 1950
Delhi, India
10:15:00 AM INT
ZONE: -05:30
077E13:00"
28N40:00"

REPUBLIC OF INDIA

Pl	Geo Lon	R Declin.	Pl	Geo Lon	R Declin.
☉	05° 00' 42.14"	+15° 32'	☉	05° 00' 40.10"	-18° 52'
☌	05° 00' 40.10"	-18° 52'	☌	18° 00' 40.57"	-18° 57'
☿	18° 00' 40.57"	-18° 57'	☿	13° 00' 53.53"	-10° 26'
♀	13° 00' 53.53"	-10° 26'	♀	09° 00' 23.13"	-00° 58'
♂	09° 00' 23.13"	-00° 58'	♂	12° 00' 22.07"	-17° 41'
♂	12° 00' 22.07"	-17° 41'	♂	18° 00' 47.19"	+06° 23'
♂	18° 00' 47.19"	+06° 23'	♂	01° 00' 42.01"	+23° 42'
♂	01° 00' 42.01"	+23° 42'	♂	17° 00' 20.28"	-05° 19'
♂	17° 00' 20.28"	-05° 19'	♂	17° 00' 16.01"	+23° 32'

country and its people, but there is still more: Uranus and Neptune, the two planets whose succession of stations and conjunctions this year has precipitated a series of national and personal crises, are themselves in square in this Chart, and forming a potent T-Square with Natal Sun, Saturn, Pluto and Venus in the Harmonic 8th House (Death). Uranus opposite Saturn and Pluto is about as explicit astrologically as one can get for an earthquake - Saturn and Uranus creating the overwhelming tension, and Pluto being the planet chiefly responsible for massive destruction and loss of life.

The Standard Solar Return (Chart 4) is also significant without being as dramatic as the Age Harmonic above. Cancer rises, and its Ruler, the Moon, is in the 12th House (Sorrows and Suffering) conjunct Natal Mars and Uranus. The Sun forms a T-Square with Saturn and Pluto, while Pluto's conjunction with the Vertex adds significance to its role of massive destruction. Venus rises in this Chart, but any hope of alleviation from its gentle influence is spoiled by its opposition to Uranus and Neptune.

The Precessed Solar Return (Chart 5) though less explicit, depicts the drama in another way. Saturn rises in Aquarius opposed by the Sun and square to Pluto - again a prominent player in the piece. Saturn's influence is strengthened through its Retrograde motion which, being slower, gives it's damaging effect more time to operate. Pluto's elevation in the sky adds to its power. Mars is powerful on the Cusp of the Deaths House, square to the Moon (the populace), and Natal Neptune in the Solar-Return Deaths House is also square to the Moon. Uranus and Neptune play their part here by opposing Venus, Ruler of the House of Deaths.

The Horoscope for the Proclamation of Independence (Chart 2) gives many indications, apart from the aspects of Uranus and Neptune in conjunction at their Stations as before mentioned. In particular, the 43rd Age Harmonic, (Chart 6) covering the year from January 1993 to January 1994 is replete with apposite planetary configurations. Libra rises, and the Ruler, Venus, is almost exactly on the 12th Placidian Cusp (Sorrows and Suffering) and again almost exactly trine to Saturn on the 8th Cusp (deaths). The trine does not alter the reading from bad to good. The position of Venus is given added significance through the close square from the Vertex. Saturn itself is afflicted by the square from Pluto, the Destroyer. Mars rising is in a tight Grand Trine with Uranus and the Moon's Node. Here again, the trine does not improve matters. Mars in close association with Uranus is well-known for producing accidents and injuries, while the connection with the Node causes many to be involved.

Few Significators in this Chart seem to be not connected with the disaster. Neptune is on the Ascendant. The Sun occupies the 12th, square Radical Uranus. The Moon, representing the people, is conjunct Radical Uranus square the Harmonic Sun and square Radical Mars.

By contrast, the Standard Solar Return for the Republic (Chart 7) does not offer much or any evidence of the forthcoming earthquake and loss of life. Virgo rises, and the Ruler, Mercury, is innocuously placed near the 6th Cusp conjunct Radical Jupiter ("The Preserver"!) Mars is opposite Uranus and Neptune, but the orb is nearly 8°, and it is involved in a T-Square, not with Saturn or Pluto but with Jupiter! The T-Square itself is not specially close-orbed. Probably the most significant disaster-pointers are Saturn opposing Radical Pluto in the Solar-Return 12th, and Mars square to the Radical Node in the Solar-Return 8th. These hardly suffice to give a warning of imminent catastrophe.

The Precessed Solar Return for the Republic (Chart 8) has not much more to offer in the way of convincing evidence of the forthcoming tragedy. Aries rises, and the Ruler, Mars, is conjunct the terminal 4th Cusp, and opposite the conjunction of Uranus and Pluto. As this happens close to the Meridian it is important, but the orb of the opposition is still about 8°. The only other factors of significance are Pluto on the 8th Cusp (Deaths) square to Saturn (falls or crushing), and the Moon, representing the people, in the House of Sorrows and Suffering trine to Mars. All in all, one could hardly base a forecast of national catastrophe on this rather flimsy evidence.

The astrological deduction from this analysis is that reliance should not be placed on just one cyclic chart. If the Radix is accurately timed, generally the most useful of these Charts is the Age Harmonic.

- Dymock.

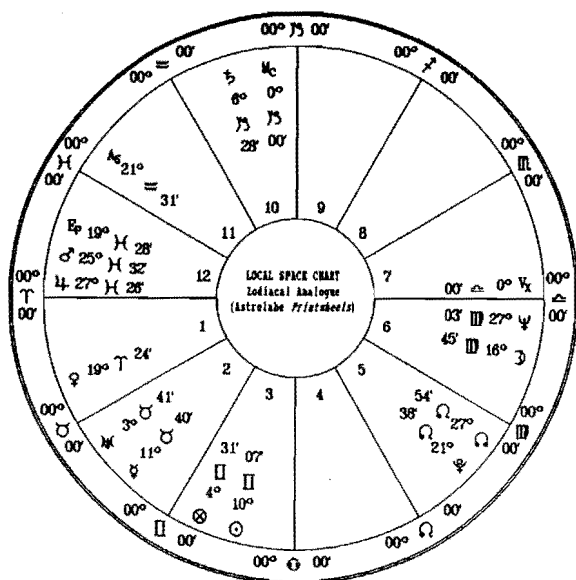

WHICH CHART FOR QUEEN ELIZABETH II?

There has been continual controversy in astrological circles since Nelson Page introduced his Chart for Queen Elizabeth II, rectified to 1:12:48am from the official time of 1:40am. The following letter gives support to the Nelson Page version, drawing on evidence from the Local Space Charts.

From MARGARET MILLARD (U.K.): At one time I worked on Local Space Charts, and discovered that if an event is very important it can be used in local space to compare with the natal chart, and if there is no comparison you have the wrong chart. So I had the idea of testing the Queen's Chart rectified by Nelson Page to 1:12:48am and the official Chart at 1:40am, and comparing them in local space with the Local Space Chart of Prince Charles.

LOCAL SPACE CHART FOR QN.ELIZABETH AT BIRTH TIME OF 1:12:48 AM

ELIZABETH II/1:12:48am	01:12:48 AM GMT	21 Apr. 1926
London	51°N 32°W	0°W 0600'
In Signs	15:06:43 S.T.	J.D. = 2424526.5508
Local Space Chart	R.A.M.S. = 153:27	Obl. = 23°26'55"
Tropical	No Ayanamsha	Geocentric Ecliptic

Planet	Geo. Long.	G.Trav.	Geo. Lat.	Rt. Asc.	Decl.	Hel. Long.	H.Trav.	Hel. Lat.
Sun-Earth ☉	10°11'07"12"	+0°00'	-24°57'	28°05'	+11°33'	10°11'07"	+0°00'	+0°00'
Moon ☾	16°45'14"	+0°00'	+13°53'	134°56'	+19°02'	16°45'14"	+0°00'	+0°00'
Mercury ☿	11°07'40"	+0°00'	-27°45'	5°02'	+0°05'	11°07'40"	+0°00'	-24°57'
Venus ♀	19°17'24"	+0°00'	-22°30'	345°11'	-6°15'	19°17'24"	+0°00'	+3°08'
Mars ♂	25°17'32"	+0°00'	-18°54'	323°44'	-15°54'	25°17'32"	+0°00'	+0°00'
Jupiter ♃	27°17'28"	+0°00'	-16°47'	325°06'	-14°38'	27°17'28"	+0°00'	+21°01'
Saturn ♄	6°17'28"	+0°00'	+21°41'	232°41'	-18°34'	6°17'28"	+0°00'	+16°59'
Uranus ♅	3°07'41"	+0°00'	-25°46'	357°52'	-1°43'	3°07'41"	+0°00'	-12°58'
Neptune ♆	27°17'03"	+0°00'	+16°21'	144°32'	+14°33'	27°17'03"	+0°00'	-25°34'
Pluto ♇	21°07'38"	+0°00'	-1°44'	103°39'	+21°14'	21°07'38"	+0°00'	+13°04'
N. Node ♏	27°07'54"	+0°00'	+3°08'	112°09'	+21°53'	27°07'54"	+0°00'	+0°00'

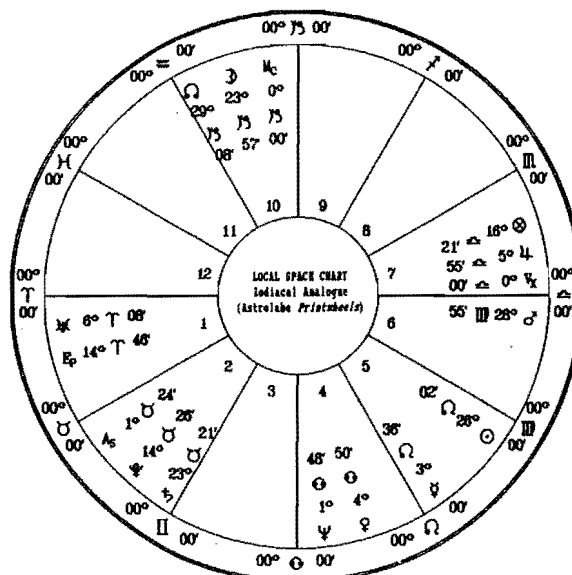

The value of Local Space Charts has not been recognized because they are difficult to calculate except for a skilled mathematician. Luckily, I have Nova, which calculates them for me. They are Zodiacal analogue positions and serve only to make it easy for astrologers to recognize aspects.

If Local Space Charts are set up for the time and place of important events and compared with those of the natal Local Space Chart significant contacts can be found, but as the planets move very quickly both charts have to be accurate. If no important contacts are found one or both of the charts must be incorrect. I therefore set up the two Charts for Queen Elizabeth II - the official Chart for 1:40am GMT, and the Chart for 1:12:48am rectified by Anthony Nelson Page, and validated by Alexander Marr.

LOCAL SPACE CHART FOR PRINCE CHARLES

Born 14th November 1948, 9:14pm GMT
London, 51°30' N, 0°8'W.

PRINCE CHARLES	09:14:00 PM GMT	14 Nov. 1948
London	51°N 31°00'W	0°W 0600'
In Signs	0:49:08 S.T.	J.D. = 2432870.3860
Local Space Chart	R.A.M.S. = 15:36:30	Obl. = 23°26'45"
Tropical	No Ayanamsha	Geocentric Ecliptic

Planet	Geo. Long.	G.Trav.	Geo. Lat.	Rt. Asc.	Decl.	Hel. Long.	H.Trav.	Hel. Lat.
Sun-Earth ☉	26°02'10"	+0°00'	-45°33'	230°01'	-18°23'	26°02'10"	+0°00'	+0°00'
Moon ☾	23°56'37"	+0°00'	+47°37'	28°28'	+11°14'	23°56'37"	+0°00'	+0°00'
Mercury ☿	3°07'38"	+0°00'	-46°28'	215°13'	-12°10'	3°07'38"	+0°00'	-45°33'
Venus ♀	4°07'50"	+0°00'	-43°09'	195°49'	-4°46'	4°07'50"	+0°00'	+48°15'
Mars ♂	28°17'55"	+0°00'	-32°16'	280°05'	-24°04'	28°17'55"	+0°00'	+0°00'
Jupiter ♃	5°07'55"	+0°00'	-25°40'	289°54'	-23°23'	5°07'55"	+0°00'	+43°45'
Saturn ♄	23°02'21"	+0°00'	-20°46'	157°38'	+10°55'	23°02'21"	+0°00'	-30°18'
Uranus ♅	6°07'08"	+0°00'	+25°51'	89°55'	+23°39'	6°07'08"	+0°00'	+17°47'
Neptune ♆	1°07'48"	+0°00'	-42°39'	193°36'	-4°10'	1°07'48"	+0°00'	-16°14'
Pluto ♇	14°07'28"	+0°00'	-3°10'	141°29'	+23°04'	14°07'28"	+0°00'	+13°04'
N. Node ♏	29°17'08"	+0°00'	+48°15'	31°41'	+12°50'	29°17'08"	+0°00'	+0°00'

There were complications at the birth of Prince Charles, and a report issued at the time stated that "consultants had agreed on a certain measure which had been found successful". The newspapers assumed it was a Caesarian, but this was denied. "Mother and child are now in a satisfactory condition" was the latest newspaper report.

The most powerful positions are those close to the Cardinal points.

Queen Elizabeth for birth at 1:12:48am

Saturn 6°28' Capricorn
Jupiter 27°26' Pisces
Mars 25°32' Pisces
Neptune 27°3' Virgo

Prince Charles born 14th November 1948,

9:14 pm GMT, 51°30' N, 0°8'W
Jupiter 5°57' Libra
Mars 28°57' Virgo
Venus 4°53' Cancer
Uranus 6°10' Aries
Neptune 1°51' Cancer

There are significant contacts between the first Chart and that of Charles. The Queen's Saturn near the Cardinal point 0° Capricorn opposes Charles' Venus and Neptune near 0°

Cancer, and squares Uranus in 6°10' Aries and Jupiter in 5°57' Libra. The Queen has produced an heir to the throne, and thereby has done her duty (Saturn near her MC analogue position) and it has been a happy event (birth of the heir) signified by Uranus near the analogue 0° Aries point.

One can also notice that her Local Space Node in 27°54' Leo in the analogue 5th House is conjunct the Sun at 26°5' Leo in Charles' Local Space Chart. The Ascendant in Local Space for the Nelson Page rectification of the Queen is in 21°31' Aquarius opposite Local-Space Pluto in 21°38' Leo.

Queen Elizabeth for birth at 1:40am
Saturn 29° 26' Sagittarius

There are no other planets near the Cardinal points! Local Space Ascendant 23°26' Aquarius contacts Saturn at birth of Charles, 23°22' Taurus, but this does not seem a suitable contact for the birth of an heir. There are no more contacts between the Charts.

The above are azimuth positions, but altitudes are also important. Altitudes for the birth at 1:12:48am: Uranus 25°46'. At Charles' birth, Uranus 25°49', Jupiter 25°38'. None of the altitudes for birth at 1:40am match any at the birth of Charles.

If one experiments with Local Space Charts one will find that they are a valuable asset in validating a chart, but the events must be important. In my mind there is no doubt that the balance of the evidence is in favour of Nelson Page's rectification.

Take heart if you don't always get it right!

"I remember reading an article in the Sydney Morning Herald a few years ago reporting that someone had made a survey of the reliability of economists' forecasts. The forecasts of prominent economists who worked for the major banks, stockbrokers and insurance in Sydney were examined for several years. These economists are paid huge salaries for their "expertise", and business decisions and even government policies are based on their advice. It was found that 10% of these "experts" were right about 50% of the time, while the other 90% were almost always wrong. A blind man sticking a pin into a list of possibilities would do just as well. Yet it is just this sort of person who would call us charlatans!

- Ross Harvey (NSW).

For readers who are interested in the correlation of scripture and astrology, Barbara Thiering's book, Jesus the Man (Bantam Books, $14.95) is a must as it gives a detailed chronology from 9 BC to AD 64, with Julian date, Solar date, hour, place of events and time phases. (Jesus was born 1st of March!). There are 100 pages of data in this 621-page book, which is fascinating reading.

(At 3pm, after six hours on the cross, Jesus is in intolerable pain. He cries out, both asking for the poison and reproaching Jonathan for his treachery. The crosses were erected at 9am.)

Refer Rudolf Smit's article, Astrologers' Forum Issue 79, 19th February 1988.

- Gisela Rosmann (Vic.)

From

The Technique of Solar Returns.
by Alexandre Volguine,

"I want to remind astrologers that the Annual Chart must be erected not for the place of birth, but for the place where the native is at the time of his birthday...Just as the Secondary [Progressions] use the configurations of a day for the image of the future events of a year, so the first day of a Return is the most important of all, and conditions the whole year.

"...It is very simple to test the rule we set down here. You need only cast two different Solar Returns, one for the place where the native was at the time, and the other for the place of birth - and then compare them with the events of the year.

"The inequality of the Horoscopic Houses is one of the principal factors that gives an astrological chart all of its individuality. Inequality of the Houses is the cornerstone of Solar Return interpretation, since an Annual House may embrace two, or in certain latitudes even three, natal Houses...Each of these superimpositions has a specific meaning.

"...When interpreting the Solar Return very great importance must be given to the planet occupying the Midheaven, since this planet often represents future development. For the most part it should be judged according to the natal House. A planet at the Ascendant may indicate a psychological tendency, and even an urge, but the same planet at the Midheaven denotes full activity, hence an event."

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock,
17th October 1993.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath NSW, Australia 2785.
Annual Subscription Australia & NZ $20, Overseas $A25.
Issue 142/143 May/June 1993

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

CYCLIC CHARTS

The matter of the best Cyclic Charts to use as a predictive tool continues to excite interest. In the absence of offerings from our readers I submit for consideration the following Standard (Tropical) and Precessed Solar Return Charts relating to events in the life of the Heir Apparent, Prince Charles.

A fairly recent drama was the death on 10th March 1988 of his friend Major Hugh Lindsay, buried by an avalanche in the Swiss Alps. I quote from The Sydney Morning Herald of 12th March 1988: "The heir to the British throne, who escaped death by a few metres, had wept as he helped dig out the body of Major Hugh Lindsay, who was crushed. According to reporters at the Klosters resort, Prince Charles blamed himself for leading the royal skiing party away from the crowded piste and persuading officials to let them onto a steep advanced run, despite avalanche warnings."

"The Prince and three other members of the party scrambled to safety as the avalanche broke 100 metres above them. Major Lindsay, a former equerry to the Queen and a close family friend, was killed instantly, authorities said." Another young woman in the group had both legs broken.

This event undoubtedly had a great impact on the Prince, and we should expect to see it reflected by dramatic cyclic charts.

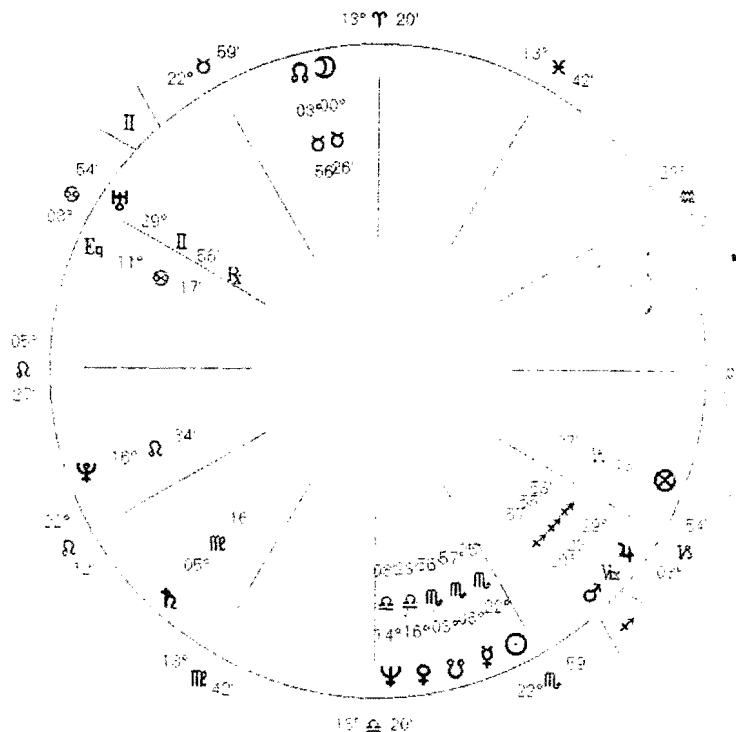

To begin with, let's have a quick resumé of Prince Charles's Birth Horoscope, as one should be familiar with the Radix before attempting predictive work. The royal Sign Leo rises, and its Ruler, the Sun, is in the Power Sign, Scorpio, squared by Scorpio's Ruler, Pluto. Hence, the Prince is no milk-and-water person but one with definite ideas and decided opinions. He has plenty of "grit" and drive, and probably more than a touch of arrogance. Introverted and moody, he could be difficult to live with as he lacks the ability to compromise and accommodate other opinions than his own. The Leo Ascendant lifts him above pettiness, and inclines him to benevolence, but, combined with the Moon in Taurus, suggests a streak of laziness

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Comparison of Cyclic Charts	1
More on the Federal Election	7

PRINCE CHARLES

14th Nov. 1948, 9:14pm GMT (official time)
London, 51°31'N, 0°6'W.

and self-indulgence.

He is "tight" with money (Moon in Taurus trine Saturn) but orderly, methodical, serious and persevering in his undertakings. The conjunction of Venus and Neptune in Libra betrays a different facet of his character - a creative faculty, love of beauty, music, art, literature and poetry, with leanings to the occult and hidden side of life. The Prince has sensitive feelings that can be stirred by the right person. He is probably unrealistic in his search for love, and unwilling to settle for anything less than his ideal, which leaves him open to constant disappointments.

The Moon opposite Mercury signifies both manual dexterity and mental skills, fluency in speech and ability in anything to do with oral or written communication. He is apt to get "nervy" and irritable when pressured. He needs frequent periods of rest or retreat from the "busy hum of men" and the demands of other people.

Jupiter opposite Uranus signifies a love of freedom plus a personal philosophy and ideas that are at odds with those about him, but which he nevertheless maintains rigidly in the face of opposition.

Mars in Sagittarius conjunct Jupiter, square Pluto and opposed by Uranus indicates a trait of recklessness, and makes him accident-prone. He could be something of a dare-devil at times, and this will lead him into further dangerous situations unless he learns to restrain his impulses. In hindsight, it is interesting to see that the Sun on the 5th Cusp at 22°25' Scorpio is closely square to the 8th Placidian Cusp at 22°12" Aquarius. This suggests a fatality (8th Cusp) occurring while on holiday (5th Cusp).

Passing now to the Cyclic Charts, it is a curious fact that the only one that is convincing in this respect is the 39th Age Harmonic (Chart 2). This relates to the Prince's Solar Year from 14th November 1987 to 14th November 1988, and so covers the date of the accident. Here we see the Sun in the House of Deaths (and near-death experiences) only 2°9' from the Cusp, and closely squared by Natal Saturn from the House of Friends. The Moon's North Node completes a T-Square with the Sun and Saturn, emphasizing the calamitous nature of the Sun/Saturn square. Additional testimony of misfortune comes from (1) the Moon closely opposed by Pluto and square Neptune, and (2) Mercury, ruling the Deaths House, in the Sector of Self-Undoing, and square both Natal and Harmonic Uranus ruling the terminal 4th House.

The Standard Solar Return (Chart 3) is not so striking. The features most appropriate to the fatality are the conjunctions of Saturn and Uranus with Natal Mars and the Vertex in the 5th House of the Birth Chart and the 1st House of the Solar Return. The conjunction with the Vertex certainly adds significance to the configuration, which does suggest a dire event during a vacation - not necessarily a death, as the 8th House is not involved. On the other hand, Venus almost exactly on the Ascendant and ruling the 5th House is descriptive of the holiday more than the fatality, notwithstanding its conjunction with Saturn and Mars which are 6° away.

Other factors lending weight to the inference one might draw of impending misfortune are the Natal Ascendant in the 8th House of the Return Chart, the Sun co-ruling the S.R. 8th and squaring Natal Pluto there (orb 6°), the Vertex in the 8th squaring Mars, and Mars opposing Jupiter, which is the Ruler of the Return. This opposition gives a hint of trouble through the streak of recklessness or bravado that is inherent in the Prince's Geniture, and which in fact led to the accident.

Chart 2:

Inner Circle and Cusps: 39th HARMONIC

Outer Circle: BIRTH POSITIONS

The Chart is drawn for the place of the occurrence in Switzerland, which is about 10° East of the birth place, London. If set for London, though the planetary positions remain the same, the House positions appear to be less significant. The Sun is now in the 12th instead of the 11th House, where it signified a friend, and though still square to Natal Pluto it is not now connected through rulership to the Deaths House. On the other hand Mars on the Cusp of the 11th House, closely sextile Saturn (less than 1°) portends some trouble to a friend.

The Precessed Solar Return (Chart 4), set for the birth place, in the present instance seems to be hardly relevant. Leo rises, and its Ruler, the Sun, is powerfully placed on the 5th Cusp, indicative of holidays, pleasure and enjoyment. Jupiter at the Midheaven, though opposed by Mars, is more suggestive of good spirits and worldly

Chart 3:

STANDARD SOLAR RETURN + BIRTH CHART

CHART:

CHARLES: SOL-RTM
15, 1987
16:32 AM GMT
16:32 AM GMT
16:32 AM GMT
16:32 AM GMT

CHARLES: SOL-RTM

Geo Lon	Decl.
11° 21' 51"	08° 55'
22° 25' 20"	18° 23'
03° 30' 58"	10° 33'
14° 09' 56"	23° 15'
24° 15' 49"	08° 38'
21° 17' 25"	06° 54'
20° 02' 57"	21° 54'
24° 55' 13"	23° 30'
06° 09' 03"	22° 20'
10° 24' 47"	00° 02'

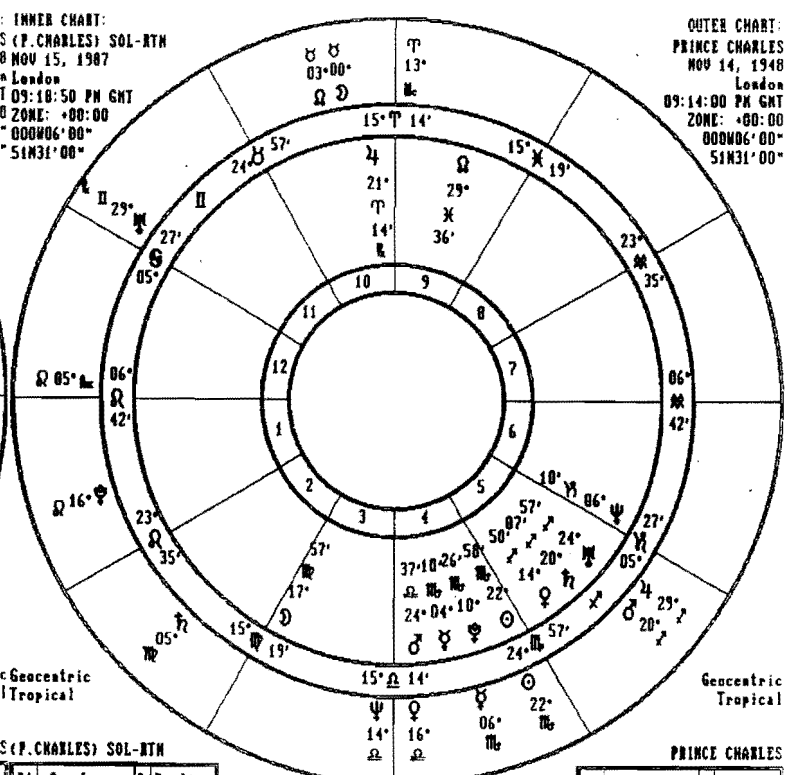

Dymock Brose
CONSULTANT ASTROLOGER
86 Clarence Road
Blackheath, NSW, 2785.
Tel (047) 87 8874

Chart 4:

PRECESED SOLAR RETURN + BIRTH CHART

CHART:

PRINCE CHARLES (P. CHARLES): SOL-RTM
NOV 14, 1948 NOV 15, 1987
London London
09:14:00 PM GMT 09:18:50 PM GMT
ZONE: +00:00 ZONE: +00:00
000006° 00' 000006° 00'
51N31° 00' 51N31° 00'

PRINCE CHARLES
NOV 14, 1948
London
09:14:00 PM GMT
ZONE: +00:00
000006° 00' 000006° 00'
51N31° 00' 51N31° 00'

PRINCE CHARLES (P. CHARLES): SOL-RTM

PL	Geo Lon	Decl.
♂	00° 25' 37"	11° 14'
♂	22° 25' 20"	18° 23'
♂	06° 57' 23"	12° 09'
♂	16° 22' 59"	04° 45'
♂	20° 56' 54"	24° 04'
♂	29° 53' 08"	23° 23'
♂	05° 16' 02"	10° 55'
♂	29° 55' 44"	23° 39'
♂	14° 07' 45"	04° 10'
♂	16° 33' 43"	23° 04'

PRINCE CHARLES

PL	Geo Lon	Decl.
♂	00° 25' 37"	11° 14'
♂	22° 25' 20"	18° 23'
♂	06° 57' 23"	12° 09'
♂	16° 22' 59"	04° 45'
♂	20° 56' 54"	24° 04'
♂	29° 53' 08"	23° 23'
♂	05° 16' 02"	10° 55'
♂	29° 55' 44"	23° 39'
♂	14° 07' 45"	04° 10'
♂	16° 33' 43"	23° 04'

success than guilt and contrition over the death of a friend. Hints of the tragedy occurring four months after the inception of this Chart are given by the presence of Saturn and Uranus in the 5th House, ruling the Deaths House, and conjunct Natal Mars, and by the Moon which, through the later time for the Chart caused by precession of the Sun, has now moved to a square of Saturn. All this, however, does not give the clear pointer to the death of a friend, such as is apparent in the Age Harmonic Chart. Precessed Solar Returns for the place of birth are often highly pertinent to the events that follow. This one is atypical.

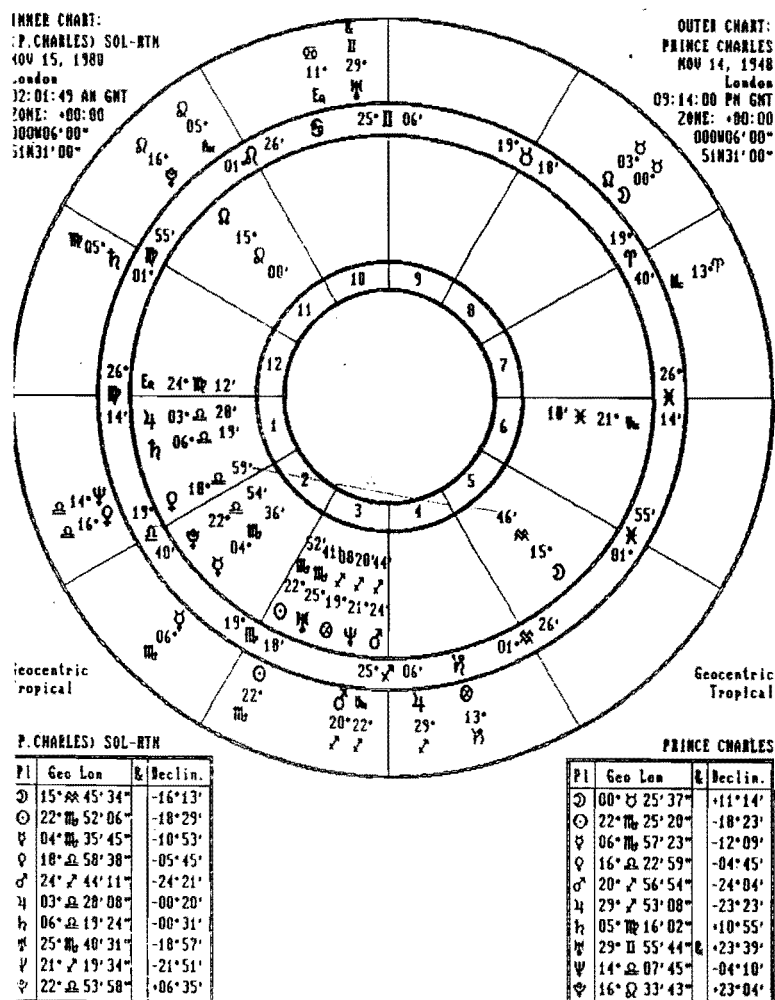

Aside from the above, the Secondary Directions (Converse) gave warning of a crisis in the life of Prince Charles in 1988 through the Regression of Mars to the exact conjunction of the Sun on 20th March. This was only ten days later than the actual event. When the astrologer finds a powerful conjunction like this the natural thing is to search the Cyclic Charts for more specific information than is given by the Secondary Regression alone. Hence the importance of finding which of these Charts is likely to be most helpful. Examples from readers are requested so that all can profit from our joint experiences.

The cyclic charts for the year of Prince Charles's marriage to Lady Diana on 29th July 1981 are also worthy of investigation. They are all set for London, the place of birth and of the event. The Precessed Return (Chart 5) is again disappointing in its lack of clear indications. There is nothing in the House of Marriage, and though the Natal MC is there, it is so far away from the Cusp as to be of little importance. True, Pisces on the Cusp, is traditionally ruled by Jupiter, and Jupiter rises in the Chart, about 7° below the Horizon. Jupiter's only significant aspect is the conjunction with Saturn - perhaps an unfortunate portent, the way things have turned out. The best aspect is the Moon's trine to Venus, which is in its own Sign and has Dignity in the 7th House.

The Standard Solar Return (Chart 6) is more indicative, though not entirely convincing. Mercury appears on the Cusp of the Marriage House, but is squared by the Moon. The Natal Part of Fortune is conjunct the Upper Meridian, signifying an increase in prestige

Chart 5:

PRECESSED SOLAR RETURN FOR PRINCE CHARLES'S MARRIAGE

and status. The Natal Ascendant is on the 5th Cusp showing the current activities are concerned with love, pleasure and celebration. Venus, ruling the Ascendant, is conjunct Pluto ruling the House of Marriage, and sextile Natal Mars, traditionally associated with the Sign Scorpio, which here is on the Marriage Cusp. The Sun and Uranus in the Marriage House do put an emphasis there, though they can hardly be considered a happy augury for the union.

The Age Harmonic (Chart 7) is again the most descriptive, and most readily yields the answer to the predictive astrologer: Pluto on the Ascendant points to a fundamental change in the pattern of living. Venus, ruling the Taurean Ascendant, trines Pluto signifying that the imminent change will be of an agreeable nature associated with love, pleasure and harmony (at least for a time!). The trine of Saturn to Pluto adds the element of increased responsibility in the the Prince's life. The Sun in the Marriage House, only 3° from the Cusp, highlights the possibility of a union, which is confirmed by the Sun's close trines to Jupiter, in the Sign of its Exaltation, and Uranus, Ruler of the Status House. The Marriage House is further emphasized by the Natal Sun being also conjunct the Cusp, within 2°.

Chart 6:

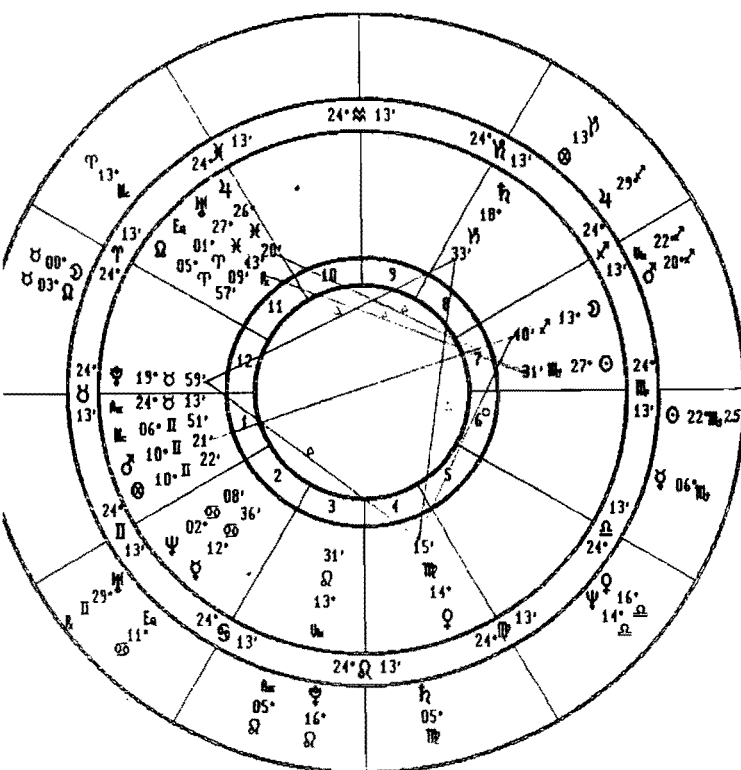

STANDARD SOLAR RETURN FOR
PRINCE CHARLES'S MARRIAGE

An interesting facet of this Chart is the position of the Moon in Sagittarius in the Marriage House, leaving the opposition of Mars and applying to the square of Venus. This suggests that friction was arising in the marriage even before the year was out, and all unbeknown to the bedazzled spectators. Nevertheless, the applying trine of Venus to Saturn, traditional Ruler of Aquarius on the 10th (Status, Prestige and Position) implies that the marriage would hold together for some time (four years?) for the sake of appearances.

Another Cyclic Chart of interest is the Synodic Return. This is a chart for the return each month of the exact natal angle between the Sun and the Moon. It is much neglected by astrologers generally, probably because its calculation is more difficult than the other Cyclic Charts. It is discussed, and its method of calculation described, by Robert DeLuce in his book Complete Method of Prediction (ASI Publishers Inc., 127 Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10016, 1978). DeLuce terms it an "Embolismic Lunation", and he writes, "In prognostication the embolismic lunation is intermediate in effect between the Progressions and Transits. As the Moon is the ruler of time in the embolismic lunation it is to be considered that the indicators therein relate to matters chiefly governed by the Moon. The Moon governs the subconscious mind, that part of the mind manifesting as habits. The Moon governs the glandular system and hence is influential in the emotions, affections and instincts. In matters external to the individual consciousness the Moon represents the mother, or affairs coming through family relationships. The Earth is the mother of all, the Moon most closely representing the Earth in the heavens, therefore the Moon represents habitations, domicile or inherited property, or property rights. It also represents a person's popularity or acceptance by the inhabitants of his community or place of nativity."

Chart 7:

Inner Circle and Cusps: 32ND HARMONIC
Outer Circle: BIRTH POSITIONS

The outstanding feature of the Synodic Return (Chart 8) is the very close trine between the planets of love and well-being, Venus and Jupiter. It is only 13' from perfect. Jupiter rules the Sagittarian Ascendant, and Venus the Libran Midheaven, so this is a strong pointer to marriage in a Chart that is principally associated with the Moon (domesticity, home, wife, etc). It is notable that notwithstanding these good auspices the union subsequently failed. A portent of this is the conjunction of Mercury and Mars - renowned for verbal if not physical warfare - Mercury in and ruling the House of marriage, and Mars ruling the House of the Home.

Chart 8:

SYNODIC RETURN 32 FOR PRINCE CHARLES
(Relates to year 14 Nov.1980 - 14 Nov.1981)

SYNOD. RET. 32 PR CHARLES

Pl	Geo Lon	Decl.
☉	00° 48' 52"	-25° 07'
☽	25° 11' 45' 34"	+23° 23'
♂	16° 11' 19' 12"	+22° 39'
♀	10° 10' 55' 52"	+19° 27'
♂	18° 11' 57' 19"	+23° 28'
♂	10° 11' 43' 15"	+03° 06'
♂	25° 11' 52' 05"	+03° 47'
♂	08° 08' 48' 30"	+23° 28'
♂	16° 11' 47' 14"	-05° 04'
♂	17° 11' 56' 37"	+23° 33'

PRINCE CHARLES

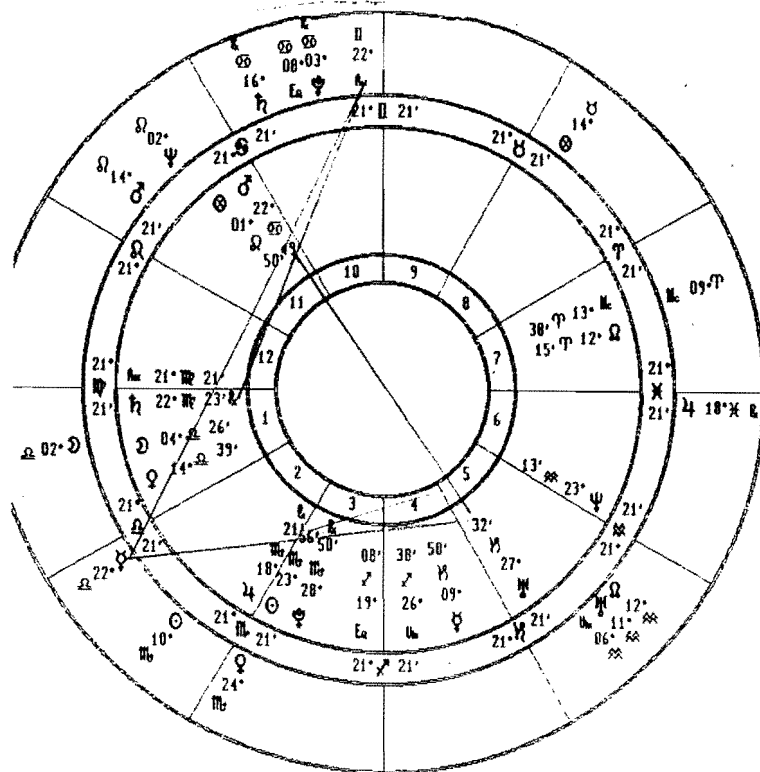

Pl	Geo Lon	Decl.
☉	00° 48' 52"	-25° 07'
☽	25° 11' 45' 34"	+23° 23'
♂	16° 11' 19' 12"	+22° 39'
♀	10° 10' 55' 52"	+19° 27'
♂	18° 11' 57' 19"	+23° 28'
♂	10° 11' 43' 15"	+03° 06'
♂	25° 11' 52' 05"	+03° 47'
♂	08° 08' 48' 30"	+23° 28'
♂	16° 11' 47' 14"	-05° 04'
♂	17° 11' 56' 37"	+23° 33'

My experience with Cyclic Charts has encouraged me more and more to place greatest reliance on the Age Harmonic. If the birth time is correct this Chart gives a very good indication of the main features in the year being examined. If the birth time is only approximate, the House positions can vary widely, though the planetary positions and aspects remain much the same. Here is a final example, one from my private practice, and once again the Age Harmonic outshines the others in its indications.

The Charts are drawn from the Horoscope of an elderly woman who, in the year covered by the Cyclic Charts, underwent spinal surgery, following which she suffered a long period of pain and general distress. Birth details are not given, to preserve the subject's anonymity. All Charts are set for Sydney, which was the place of birth and of the action.

Chart 9: Inner Circle, AGE HARMONIC
Outer Circle, BIRTH CHART

The Age Harmonic gives clear indications of the year's dominant events: Saturn in Virgo conjunct the Ascendant (and square the Natal Ascendant) warns of an unhappy, perhaps traumatic year. It did, in fact turn into a year of pain and suffering long drawn-out. Mars in a T-square with Uranus and Natal Mercury signifies surgery, particularly as the Houses ruled by the Significators are the 8th (surgery), the 6th (illness), and the Ascendant (physical body). Looking further, we see Neptune in the 6th House, almost exactly square the Sun, signifying an obscure illness, difficult to diagnose and treat. The surgery was succeeded by apparently unrelated and painful physical manifestations that the doctors could not cure, and which were finally relieved through homoeopathy. The Sun rules the 12th House (hospitals) and is in Scorpio, which governs the spinal column, conjunct Scorpio's Ruler, Pluto, emphasizing the point and indicating a fundamental, irrevocable change in the life. The subject was obliged to give up her vocation entirely for over a year, aptly shown by Venus in Libra opposite the true Harmonic MC in Aries. (The Chart MC in Gemini is drawn from the Harmonic Ascendant.)

Chart 10: Inner Circle, SOLAR RETURN
Outer Circle, BIRTH CHART

Pl	Geo Lon	Decl.
☉	09° 53' 02"	-08° 34'
☌	10° 58' 22"	-15° 07'
♂	29° 14' 24"	-21° 53'
♀	24° 28' 07"	-02° 43'
♂	12° 22' 01"	-15° 26'
♂	09° 54' 14"	-00° 43'
♂	00° 55' 40"	-20° 29'
♂	10° 41' 54"	-23° 23'
♂	14° 24' 00"	-21° 55'
♂	19° 55' 49"	-03° 45'

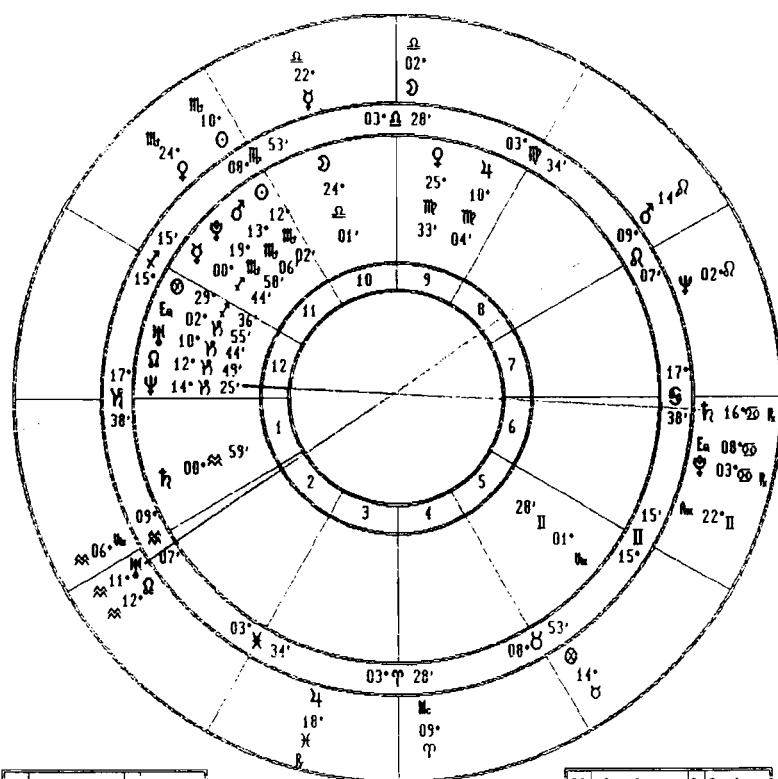

Pl	Geo Lon	Decl.
☉	02° 25' 36"	-04° 28'
☌	10° 58' 22"	-15° 08'
♂	22° 37' 45"	-06° 52'
♀	24° 39' 59"	-18° 53'
♂	14° 06' 57"	-18° 11'
♂	18° 47' 39"	-05° 40'
♂	16° 28' 43"	-21° 53'
♂	11° 48' 35"	-17° 54'
♂	02° 40' 26"	-19° 16'
♂	03° 08' 33"	-18° 11'

Contrast the above with the Standard Solar Return: Sagittarius rises, with its Ruler, Jupiter right at the Midheaven, signifying success and acclaim in the vocation. This was certainly true of the subject before the medical condition supervened, but hardly the most significant event of the year. Pluto on the 12th Cusp conjunct Mars and opposite the Vertex does suggest hospitalization and surgery, while Uranus rising conjunct the Moon's Node and Neptune means change and uncertainty. These indications, however, are mild compared with those of the Age Harmonic.

The most significant feature of the Precessed Return (Chart 11) is Neptune opposite Saturn across the Horizon, a potent indicator of illhealth. Additionally, the Natal opposition of Mars and Uranus lies along the 2nd/8th axis, and the Natal Ascendant and Pluto appear in the 6th House. The Sun, ruling the 8th (surgery) is conjunct Mars and Pluto in Scorpio, and square the Natal Mars/Uranus opposition. These are all significant features but do not depict the trauma and misery of the year with as much clarity and force as the Age Harmonic.

- Dymock.

Chart 11: Inner Circle PRECESSED SOLAR RETURN
Outer Circle BIRTH CHART

Pl	Geo Lon	R Declin.
☉	24° 24' 00" 39'	-13° 55'
☽	12° 10' 02' 07'	-15° 27'
☿	00° 2' 44' 04'	-22° 23'
♀	25° 20' 32' 46'	-02° 23'
♂	13° 10' 05' 56'	-15° 40'
♂	10° 10' 03' 50'	-08° 40'
♂	00° 28' 58' 49'	-20° 29'
♂	10° 10' 44' 15'	-23° 22'
♂	14° 10' 25' 20'	-21° 55'
♂	19° 10' 58' 21'	-03° 46'

Pl	Geo Lon	R Declin.
☉	02° 24' 25' 36'	-04° 28'
☽	10° 10' 58' 22'	-15° 08'
☿	22° 24' 37' 45'	-06° 52'
♀	24° 10' 39' 59'	-18° 53'
♂	14° 10' 06' 57'	-18° 11'
♂	18° 10' 47' 39'	-05° 48'
♂	16° 10' 28' 43'	-21° 53'
♂	11° 10' 48' 35'	-17° 54'
♂	02° 24' 40' 26'	-19° 16'
♂	03° 20' 08' 33'	-18° 11'

MORE ON THE FEDERAL ELECTION by Michael Edwards (U.K.)

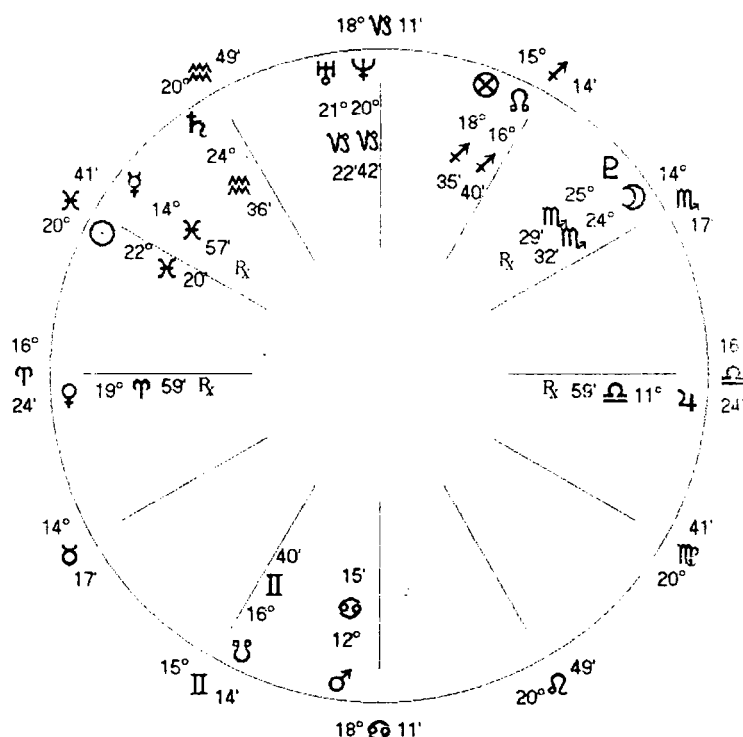

I am always fascinated by contest horoscopes. Your horse-racing method, I find, works relatively well. And the last Australian General Election quite rightly attracted much attention. In my own work I have never used close-of-polls figures, preferring the front end of the contest as the clearer index of the outcome. May I respectfully request that you print the time polls open in any future elections you cover in advance? [Certainly, Michael. -Ed.] Such information is often hard to obtain with any certainty abroad.

In the case of your Federal Elections I cannot agree that the Opening of the Polls Figure did not clearly show the result. Venus for the Opposition falls in the camp of their enemy, the First House, Peregrine and Debilitated by Detriment and retrograde motion. Her reception by Exaltation with the Peregrine Sun, natural Significator of the Government and Lord of the 5th, the Government's performance, restores him to power of a First-House nature, and her to power of a less fortunate 12th-House kind. And if you must use outer planets, the conjunction of Uranus and Neptune in the 10th, the Government's victory, squares Venus.

Mars for the Government falls in the 3rd, the Government's leader, and mutually applies by trine to a Detrimented, Fallen and retrograde Mercury, Lord of the 3rd, and of the 6th, the Opposition's 12th, penalties, injuries and disadvantages against them, here most aptly Goods and Services. Mars also mutually receives the Moon, natural significator of the Electorate, in the 8th, fear and anguish (especially with regard to tax matters) and the Opposition's supporters. Though both are in Fall, Mars at least has dignity by Triplicity while the Moon is Peregrine, with nowhere to go except by receiving Mars, thus strengthening both.

OPENING OF THE POLLS, 13TH MARCH 1993
Canberra 149°8'E, 35°17'S. 8am AEST. Placidus.

The Moon, opposing Algol, thus in peril of losing her head, translates light by trine from the Sun, the Government and its electoral performance. This might have augured well for the Opposition, especially as Saturn has Exaltation and Triplicity dignity in Libra on the 7th Cusp. But Saturn is in the Terms of Jupiter, himself retrograde and unfortunate in the 6th, penalising the Opposition. So the severely impeded Moon's exact afflicting square from [Saturn in] the Terms of a weak Mercury, Lord of the 6th, Goods and Services, and from the 8th, taxes, availed him nothing in respect of performance, turning against the Opposition and allowing the Government the victory he signifies as Lord of the 10th.

Indeed, this square also shows by House rulership the conflict between the 10th and 4th, the two Houses of victory: The weak Moon surrenders to the dignified Saturn, Lord of the Midheaven, in the House of the Government's friends, hopes and wishes. Victory was lost. Mars offers additional confirming testimony by his status as Almuten of the degrees of both Lights, and by his dignity by Exaltation and Triplicity on MC and IC respectively.

My reason for boring you [not bored! -Ed.] with this relatively detailed post facto analysis of this by now thoroughly flogged dead horse of a horoscope is twofold. Firstly, In Issue 140 Allan Johnson raised a most contentious philosophical point by questioning astrology's power to forecast events accurately, and to depict circumstances past, present and future. This issue lies at the roots of our practice, cazimi with its very heart.

Contest horoscopes fall within the domain of horary interrogations, the lowest class in the Aristotelean order of matters worthy to be judged, the most clearly divinatory form of horoscopy, and the most unashamedly predictive. The horary Figure for the Election is no mere "alternative chart and technique". It represents a critical moment in time, to which all moments in the past have led and from which all moments in the future will devolve. The horoscope (a word originally referring only to the rising degree) binds the moment to a specific place, and to an event or question. As I have tried to show above. The Traditional craft of horoscopic astrology, as faithfully handed down to us by our illustrious forebears, enables the astrologer to interpret the figure in terms of its subject, to read the course of time, "all things being equal" or not. For the Traditional astrologer of the past predeterminism had no relevance, for his task was "to know the will of God" in His eternal timeless present. Humankind, bound in time and space, have only our rational faculty with which to divine a glimpse of God's vision for us, His Providence. Of course the astrologer may fail to read correctly, but even that should appear in the figure, and can be judged from the condition of the 7th House, its lord and planets therein.

This brings me to my second point. Although other relevant charts may provide the right answer, the real question is that of judgement. Judicial Astrology has always suffered the harshest attacks from our critics. Yet its methods and procedures are fully delineated in clear detail by a vast body of literature dating from ancient times and culminating for English readers in William Lilly's Christian Astrology. Lilly's brilliant exposition of first Horary then Natal Astrology reveals that essentially the same approach applies to any horoscope, be it horary, electional, natal or mundane. The fact that his Horary rules work so well today goes to show that things haven't really changed as much as our current learned establishment would have us believe. So we ignore him and good old-fashioned judicial astrology at our peril, playing into the hands of our enemies.

Moreover concise interpretation resides in the precise terminology and dynamic structure of the ancient astrological model of experience. An Exalted significator shows an exalted person or matter. If accidentally Debilitated his ability to effect action is reduced. If he is in the Terms of Mars he will act in martial terms, according to the condition of Mars in the scheme. A Peregrine planet has no home, with all that implies for what or whom he signifies in our property-owning culture. An aspect, or "seeing", from another planet can pick him out, for better or for worse as the aspect indicates. Today's irresponsible creative literary imagination plays little part in good judicial astrology, indeed only serves to obscure sharp judgement with the inevitable ambiguity of words.

Our ancestors observed the Heavens above and the Earth below with their naked eyes, while we ruin ours poring over the ephemerides and computers within four walls. So with all due respect to Allan I would suggest that the problems he rightly bemoans spring from the fragmentation of our practice under the influence of humanistic science, progress, evolution and psychology, aptly denoted by Uranus, Neptune, Pluto, Chiron et al., discovered not by astrology but by science, and threatening to fragment yet further the most reliable and consistent astrological model we have ever had. We should never underestimate the vindictive skills of our foes without, nor the blind, uninformed folly of those within.

Well said, Michael. Close reasoning as above is a healthy corrective to what passes today as "Astrology", but is often little more than imaginative fantasizing.

My kind regards to all.

Dymock,

21st July, 1993.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath NSW, Australia 2785.
Annual Subscription Australia & NZ $20, Overseas $A25.

Issue 141 April 1993

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

THE GRAND NATIONAL DEBACLE

(From information sent by ROZ PARK, England)

Said to be the world's greatest horse race, the Grand National, run on 3rd April last at Aintree, England, became a fiasco and was declared void after all but a handful of the 39 runners did not realize there had been a false start.

Bookmakers said bets totalling £75m - the largest amount wagered in a single day in British gambling history - would be returned. The Government lost nearly £6m in betting tax on the refunded wagers.

There were two false starts, and after the second one most riders failed to notice the red flag that should have recalled them. They continued racing, and seven horses completed the entire four-and-a-half-mile race over 30 fences.

The Chart in the next column is for the actual starting time, which was eight minutes behind schedule. Apart from the false starts, the race was delayed because of a protest by up to sixty animal-rights activists, some of whom staged a sit-down in front of the first fence. The two false starts were caused by the starting tape entangling some of the horses and jockeys through failing to spring up quickly enough.

The abortive race was over at 4:13pm. Of the seven horses that did finish the course, the winner was ESHA NESS, an outsider at 66:1. Sadly for the rider, John White, the trainer and the owners, it was a hollow victory as the stewards declared the race void.

ROZ PARK wrote to me before the race that she thought an outsider would win, basing her judgement on Pars Fortuna in the 5th House approaching Neptune and Uranus. She writes further that most members of the "very traditional Astrological Lodge" of London say that all event charts can be worked out without recourse to the modern planets. In this Race Chart, the Moon is void-of-course, Jupiter is Retrograde and opposite Venus and the Sun in the 8th, and the Ruler of the 5th

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The Grand National Debacle	1
Richard Nixon's Marriage	2
Standard and Precessed Returns	2
The Federal Election Again	4

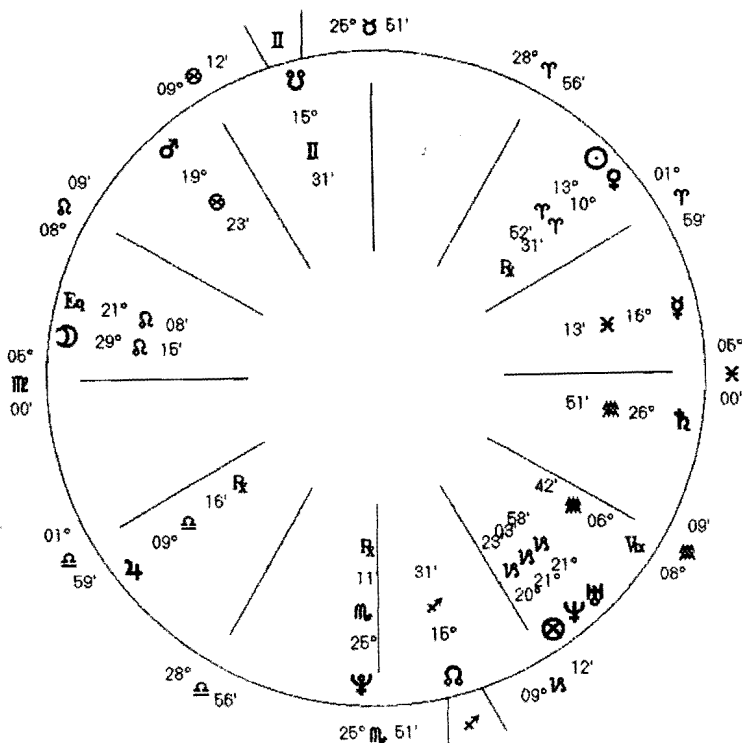

House (Saturn) is in the 6th, which appear to militate against a favoured horse winning. But the drama of the event, Roz reports, relates to Pluto conjunct the I.C., and Neptune and Uranus conjunct Pars Fortuna.

Comments of other readers will be welcome.

Using astrology, Roz Park has picked the winners of the English Derby three years in a row.

GRAND NATIONAL RACE

3rd April 1993, 3:58pm BST, Aintree, England.
2°56'W, 53°29'N. Koch Cusps.

NICK SUTHERLAND writes from the USA -

Richard Nixon's Marriage

Issue 134: Nixon married Thelma Catherine (Pat) Ryan on 21st June 1940 at Mission Inn, Riverside, California (33°59'N, 117°22'W). He met Pat at an amateur theater group after he joined a law firm in Whittier. He proposed to her the night they met, but she refused him for two years. I don't know if there was anyone else, but it seems doubtful.

Issue 132/133: Ross Harvey's comment about the most important planets in a Solar Return falling in Cadent Houses brought to mind a similar finding by James Braha. He remarks "...I have practised Hindu and Western Astrology, side by side, over the past ten years or so. I have continually noticed planets in Cadent Houses in Western charts falling in Angular Houses in the same person's Hindu chart. Thus I consider it more likely that the Cadent planets that Gauquelin proved to be so powerful were really Angular... My experience indicates that Western Houses and House rulerships produce accurate results only when they exactly match the Hindu positions for the same chart! Time and time again, when I have noted a planet in a certain House in the Western chart that resides in a different House of the Hindu chart, the symbolism of the planet in the Hindu chart yields the objectively verifiable results in the person's life."

These comments were taken from his new book HOW TO BE A GREAT ASTROLOGER, page 38.

- Nick Sutherland.

Thanks to Nick for the above. The place where Richard Nixon married Thelma Ryan is so close to his birth place that there is no appreciable difference in the standard Solar-Return Chart (see Issue 134). There is a difference, however, if we use the Precessed Solar Return. (See Chart).

An immediate difference is LEO rising, instead of Aries. As Volguine says (The Technique of Solar Returns, page 58,) "Annual Ascendant in Leo shows that the affections occupy center stage."

Aside from that, Natal Venus is now in the 7th S.R.-House, and the 5th House (romance) is well-tenanted by both Solar Return and Natal planets. The position of Natal Saturn near the Midheaven is typical of assuming added responsibility - in this case, marriage. Another significant factor is Natal Venus in the Marriage House, and the midpoint of Natal Venus and Solar Return Venus (27°11' of Aquarius) conjunct the Marriage Cusp.

RICHARD NIXON'S MARRIAGE: PRECESSED S.R.

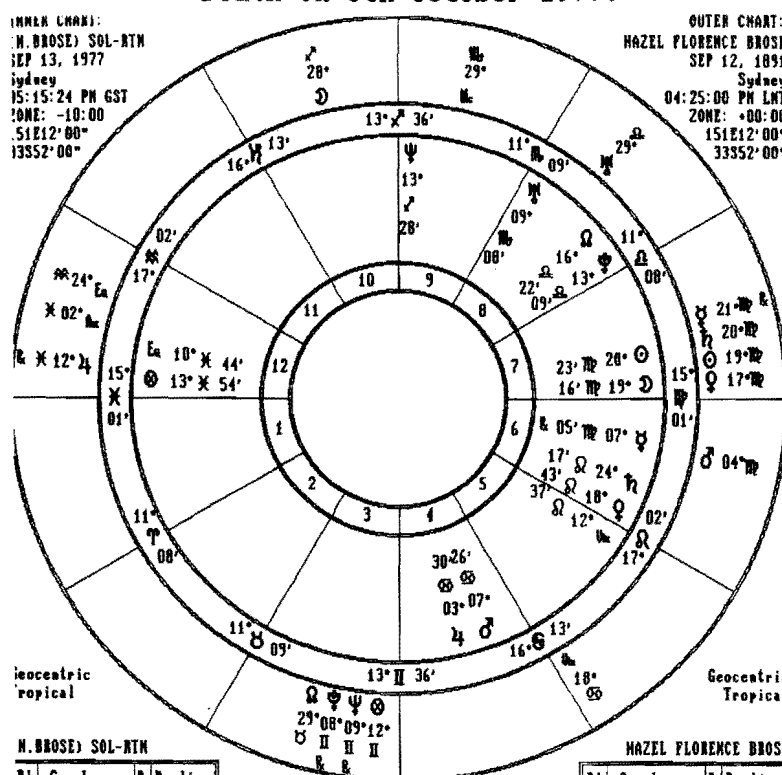

This Chart re-opens the perennial discussion about which Solar Return to use - the standard one using the natal position of the Sun, or the precessed chart where the Sun's position advances about 50" a year, to keep pace with the precession of the Equinoxes. Astrologers who use the Sidereal Zodiac don't have this problem. For the "Tropical" astrologer the choice is usually made on the basis of personal experience. I have frequently found the Precessed Solar Return to be superior, as in the above instance, but not always!

Here is another instance where the Precessed Chart is superior - the death of my mother on 5th October 1977, aged 86. Both Standard and Precessed Charts are shown, with the Birth Chart circumscribed around each.

The Precessed Chart is clearly more indicative of the event: The most prominent feature is Pluto on the 8th Cusp sextile the Ruler, Neptune, and conjunct the North Node, suggesting "transformation by death". The Signs on the Ascendant and Midheaven are the same as in the Birth Horoscope, indicating an unusually fateful year. Pisces rises, correlating with the 12th House - hospital, where the death occurred. The Ruler, Neptune,

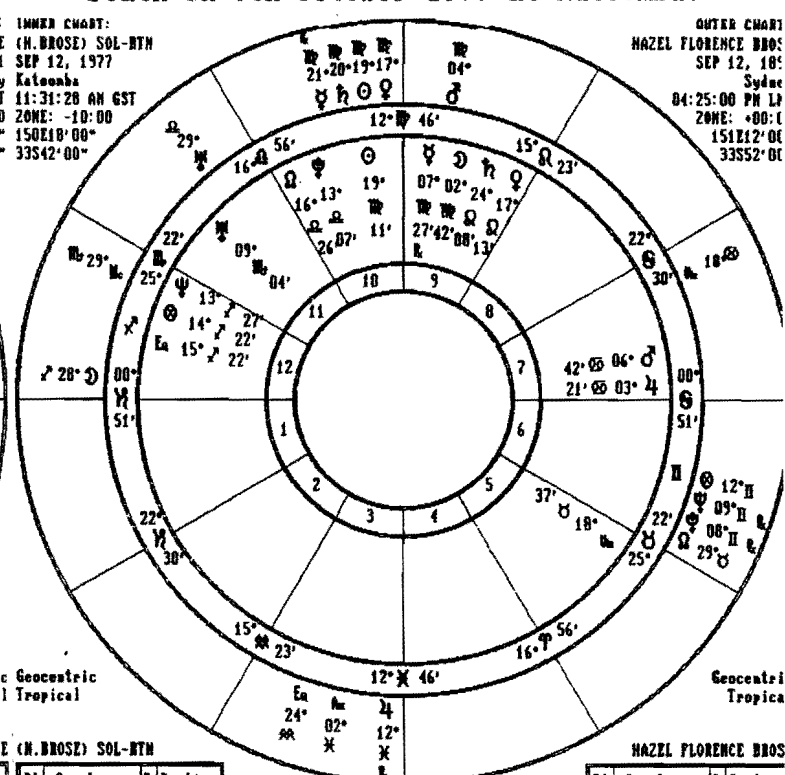

Precessed Solar Return

13th September 1977, Sydney. 5:15:24pm AEST.
Death on 5th October 1977.

Standard Solar Return

12th Sept. 1977, Katoomba. 11:31:28 am AEST.
Death on 5th October 1977 at Katoomba.

(H. BROSE) SOL-RTM

Pl	Geo Lon	Declin.
☉	13° 16' 16"	+02° 08'
☌	20° 23' 21"	+03° 48'
☿	07° 05' 06"	+07° 36'
☽	18° 42' 46"	+15° 40'
♂	07° 05' 06"	+23° 30'
♂	03° 30' 07"	+23° 00'
♂	24° 16' 50"	+14° 26'
♂	09° 07' 45"	+14° 10'
♂	13° 28' 05"	+20° 58'
♂	13° 28' 05"	+10° 03'

HAZEL FLORENCE BROSE (H. BROSE) SOL-RTM

Pl	Geo Lon	Declin.
☉	28° 48' 42"	-25° 59'
☌	19° 10' 59"	+04° 17'
☿	21° 05' 08"	+00° 16'
☽	17° 27' 16"	+06° 16'
♂	04° 49' 27"	+10° 50'
♂	12° 11' 35"	+08° 21'
♂	28° 16' 59"	+05° 36'
♂	29° 12' 43"	+10° 44'
♂	09° 03' 57"	+20° 14'
♂	08° 11' 19"	+10° 23'

HAZEL FLORENCE BROSE

Pl	Geo Lon	Declin.
☉	28° 48' 42"	-25° 59'
☌	19° 10' 59"	+04° 17'
☿	21° 05' 08"	+00° 16'
☽	17° 27' 16"	+06° 16'
♂	04° 49' 27"	+10° 50'
♂	12° 11' 35"	+08° 21'
♂	28° 16' 59"	+05° 36'
♂	29° 12' 43"	+10° 44'
♂	09° 03' 57"	+20° 14'
♂	08° 11' 19"	+10° 23'

is almost precisely on the Midheaven. Here it is actually conjunct the Progressed Sun at 14°58' Sagittarius, and square the SR-Sun and Moon, signifying a loss of vitality.

It is difficult to find any significant pointers in the Standard Solar Return. The Natal Moon is just above the Ascendant, and rules the terminal 8th House, but it is not severely afflicted by anything. The Natal Midheaven occupies the SR-12th, with Neptune therein, but this does not warrant a forecast of anything very drastic, even allowing for the subject's age (86).

On a different tack, it is noteworthy that the Age Harmonic Chart, No. 86 (not shown) supplies far more definite indications: Readers who print it out will see that Natal Mars rises conjunct the Ascendant, ruling the "Death" House, and almost exactly square Harmonic Saturn in the terminal 4th House. Natal Pluto, and Neptune in the Midheaven, not far from the MC, are opposed by Saturn in the 4th. Venus in the 8th is closely opposed by Neptune. Harmonic Mars and Uranus are conjoined in Pisces opposite Natal Saturn and Mercury. There is certainly sufficient there to warrant a grave prognosis.

Reverting to the question of the appropriate Solar Return - standard or precessed - though I still have an open mind on the matter, over the years I have had best results from two Charts - the Precessed Solar Return set for the birth place, and the Standard Solar Return set for the place of residence or significant action.

The same problem arises with regard to Lunar Returns. Sometimes the Standard Lunar Return, and sometimes the Precessed Return is preferable, in the sense that it is more truly indicative of the actual results. The Chart below is a Standard Lunar Return for the time when a woman left the man she had been living with for many years, and decided to make a new life of her own in a different State.

Natal Saturn rises just below the Ascendant, in opposition to the Vertex and Pars Fortuna. This sufficiently accounts for the separation from her long-time partner. Most significant, however, is Pluto right on the Midheaven and additionally conjunct the Natal Midheaven. This is particularly charac-

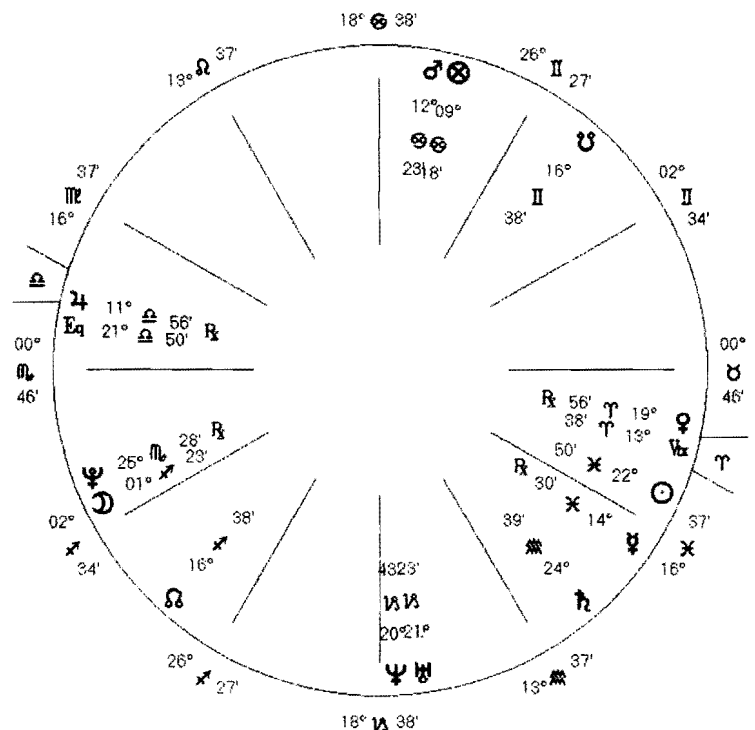

Inner Circle Standard Lunar Return.
Outer Circle Birth Chart.

you argued the case very well until I realized that the Poll Chart was incorrect, not necessarily your interpretation. The polls did not close in Canberra at 6 pm - they did for the Eastern States, but certainly not in West Australia, South Australia and the Northern Territory.

So often the poor West is forgotten and, as you are aware, the Government did not lose all the seats in WA as anticipated, and this had a strong bearing on the results. If you look at the 8-pm closing time [West Australia] you will see that Pluto is conjunct the Moon in the First House trining the Sun, and the 4th House has Neptune/Uranus squaring Venus ruling the 7th. I know which one I would put my money on out of those choices.

Federal Election, 13th March 1993, Canberra.
Closing of the Polls 8pm AEST.

teristic of a turning point in the personal history. A chapter of living is brought to a close, and a new phase begins in which the life is entirely transformed. This is exactly what happened to the woman concerned.

The Precessed Lunar Return is not shown for shortage of space, but its outstanding feature is the Sun and Jupiter in the 7th House, suggesting that all is going well on the marital front!

The experience of other astrologers would be welcome. Please cite specific examples.

The Federal Election Again

GILLIAN HELFGOTT (NSW) writes:

I am greatly enjoying Astrologers' Forum and look forward to it very much each month. You have done a remarkable job of keeping this going for so many years, and I trust it will continue for many, many more.

With regard to the Election Charts, I was particularly interested in all the comments. You say you were not correct with your assessment of the Coalition winning with the Chart for the closing of the Polls. I thought

Thank you Gillian. This does indeed cast a different light on the matter. As Gillian points out, the Poll was not finally closed until 6pm West Australian Time, which was 8pm in the Federal Capital. The Government (1st and 10th Houses) was now distinctly favoured - the Moon ruling the 1st conjoined with Pluto ruling the 10th, and both trine the Sun - while the opposing Coalition (7th and 4th Houses) faced defeat through the conjunction or Neptune and Uranus on their derived MC, square to Venus ruling their Ascendant.

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock,
6th June 1993.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath NSW, Australia 2785.
Annual Subscription Australia & NZ $20, Overseas $A25.
Issue 140 March 1993

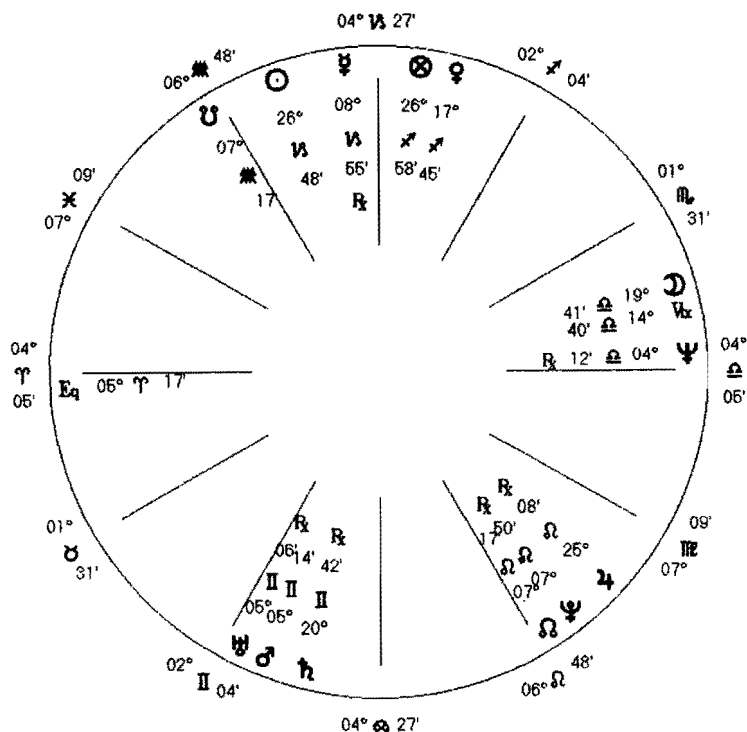

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

FEDERAL ELECTION POST-MORTEM

ROD and COLLEEN BRANDT (Qld.) have drawn my attention to the Daylight Saving Time that was in force at the date of Paul Keating's birth. Assuming that the clock time was indeed about 11:30am (an estimate from information supplied by the mother), this would change the Ascendant from 16°45' Aries to 4°5' Aries, as in the accompanying Chart.

PAUL KEATING

18th January, 1944, NSW 11:30am DST.
Bankstown, NSW. 33°55'S, 151°2'E. Placidus.

Rod and Colleen progressed this Chart to the date of the Federal Election, 13th March 1993, and found that Transitting Saturn, at 24°36' Aquarius, was less than half a degree from the conjunction of the Progressed Midheaven (Progressed by Solar-Arc in longitude) at 24°8' Aquarius. It would need only a small variation in the birth time (two minutes 8 seconds later) to put Transitting

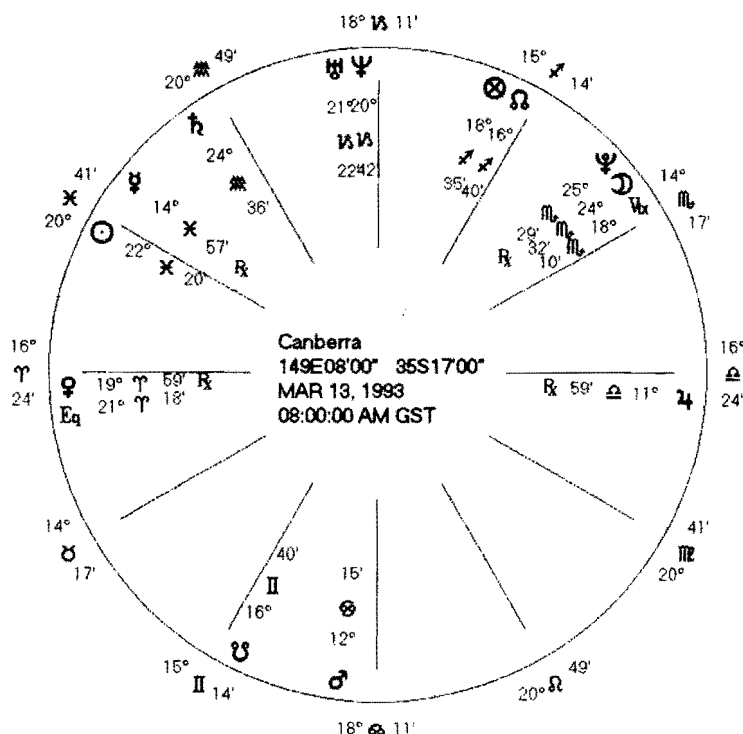

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Federal Election Post-Mortem	1
Readers' Analyses and Comments	1-4
Provisional Rectif.: Paul Keating	3
Horary Chart for the Election	3

Saturn exactly on the Midheaven. Rod and Colleen interpreted this as a win for the Prime Minister, with the implication that he would "have to make very sure that he does the right thing by himself, the Party and the Public".

Using the Opening of the Polls Chart, Rod and Colleen deduced a win for Keating's Government: (For the Government - East side, 10th and 1st Houses. For the Opposition - West side, 4th and 7th Houses).

OPENING OF THE POLLS, 13TH MARCH 1993

Factors in favour of the ALP are: (1) The majority of planets in the East. (2) Saturn ruling the 10th dignified by Sign and House, sextile Venus [though square Moon and Pluto]. (3) Mars, ruling the 1st House, also on the East side in the 3rd House, squaring the Ascendant and Jupiter and opposite the MC, which "adds a dominating power".

Factors affecting the Opposition are: (1) The Moon ruling the 4th House is in the 8th, in Detriment by Sign and House, and conjunct Pluto in Scorpio ("being sat on, so to speak"). (2) Venus, ruling the 7th is in the Incumbent Side's 1st House in Aries, in Detriment by Sign and House. (3) The foregoing position of Venus shows the Incumbent Party has power and domination over the Opposition.

In addition, Rod and Colleen used the Jupiter/Saturn method detailed in the September 1992 Issue of Astrologers' Forum (page 2). Although it failed, or at least didn't give a clear answer on that occasion, Rod and Colleen have used it to successfully predict a number of other Elections, and claim a success rate of six out of seven. The method, which readers might like to test for themselves, is drawn from Sylvia DeLong's book, Charting Presidential Elections. Rodd writes that Sylvia said in her book that out of 40-odd Presidential Elections the method failed in only three.

From the above, Rod and Colleen predicted a win for Keating, and published it in their February Newsletter before the Election.

Comments from other readers

I took the 10th House ("administration of power" - Carter) of the 8am Chart with its powerful conjunction of Neptune and Uranus in a Cardinal Sign, sextiled by the Sun, the Moon and Pluto, as the main indicator of the Government's retention of power.

Moon-Pluto gives powerful subterranean feelings. The Moon rules the 4th - the common people and the Opposition, and squares Saturn, reluctance to change, in Aquarius, certainly the Sign of the "people".

Mine is hindsight, of course, not foresight. Your willingness to be forthright about your views on the Chart is the kind of honesty that Astrology needs. Incidentally, I think that political charts, like close family charts, are harder sometimes to read because of the subjective element involved.

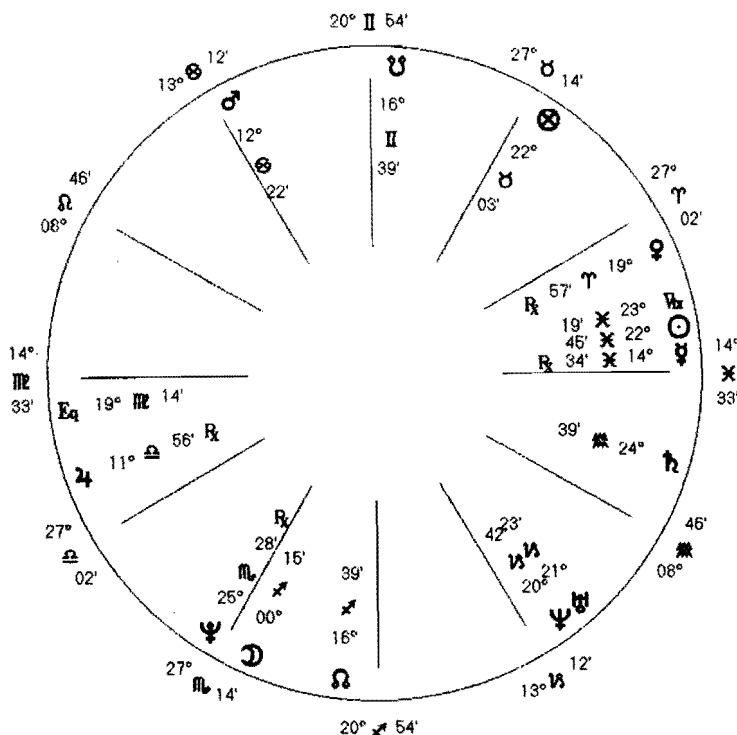

- Peggy Hetherington, NSW.

The transitting Moon was moving to the South Node in Dr. Hewson's Natal Chart [page 2, Issue 138], which signifies loss, trine to Natal Pluto in the 12th House (Self-Undoing), in the degree of the Nodes, = fatality. The transitting South Node is conjunct his MC!

CLOSING OF THE POLLS

13th March 1993, Canberra, 6pm AEST

149°8'E, 35°17'S. Placidian Cusps.

Mercury retrograde, in the Closing of the Polls Chart symbolizes returning to a previous condition. Ivy Jacobsen says retrogrades allow the person to "go back and try again". So, quite frankly, I suspected Mr. Keating to have advice of a very competent astrologer!

As for the Opening of the Polls, the final aspect of the Moon is the conjunction with Pluto in reverse motion, strong in the 8th (Taxes). We got our old tax system back - not the GST.

The fact that so many prominent astrologers were wrong highlights the fact that networking between Australian astrologers has a long way to go.

- Gisela Rosmann, Vic.

The real key [Closing of the Polls Chart] is the very close parallel between both Significators (Mercury and Jupiter), with the Dispositor of Jupiter (Venus) in the 8th House (loss), applying to the square of both Uranus and Neptune, Neptune being the Co-Ruler of Pisces on the 7th Cusp, showing the defeat of the Opposition Party.

- Leslie Black, Eng.

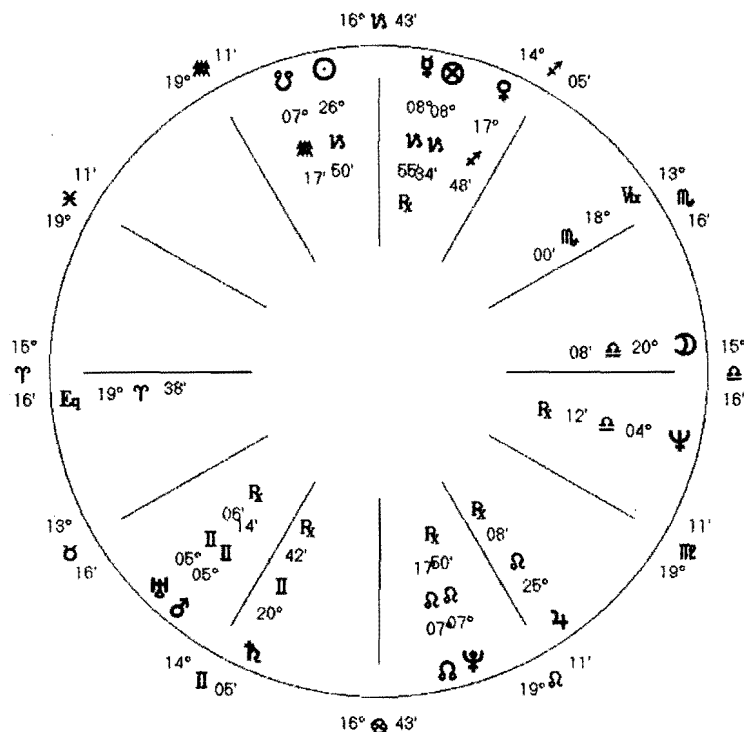

[Decl. Mercury 3°15'S, Jupiter 3°16'S.]

As regards Paul Keating. I think I may have the answer. I rectified his Chart using two major events in his life: 5th March 1983 when he became Treasurer in the first Hawke Government, and now 13th March 1993 when he won the Election against all odds. Based on my rectification with Primary Directions, using the Placidus/Van Dam System, I think he was born around 11:23am. [With Daylight Saving, this would be clock time 12:23pm. - Ed.]

PAUL KEATING

18th Jan. 1944, 11:23am, Bankstown, NSW
Provisional Rectification by Rudolf Smit
33°55'S, 151°2'E. Placidian Cusps.

Primary Directions for Birth at 12:23pm DST

March 1993

Progressive	Regressive
MC 90 Ma/Ur	Ma/Ur 0 Asc
(Mars rules Asc)	(orb < 4'!)
Asc 120 Sun (orb 5')	MC 60 Sun
Sun 60 MC, 90 Plu	Sun 120 Pl
(Co-Ruler of Asc)	Ma/Ur 90 MC
Ve 120 Ma/Ur
Pl 120 Sun

March 1983

Progressive	Regressive
MC 180 Ju	MC 120 Pl
Sun 90 Ma/Ur	Sun 0 Ve
Ve 0 Sun	Ma/Ur 90 Sun, 120 Ju
Ju 120 Ma/Ur	Ju 180 MC, 90 Asc
Pl 120 MC, 90 Ve

All these positions are well within orb (<1°). The "palace coup" of 19th December 1991 can also be explained by the same

Primaries that are valid for March 1993. For a more precise rectification I need some more data, for example when he met Anita van Iersel, his wife.

- Rudolf Smit, Netherlands.

This is how I saw it: The Right is governed by Leo (politically), the Left is governed by Aquarius, e.g., Leo = Cavaliers, Aquarius = Roundheads. As Parliament was dissolved, there was no Government or Opposition at the time of the Election (unlike U.S.A.), so I just considered the M.C. and these two Signs in your Canberra Election Chart [Closing of the Polls].

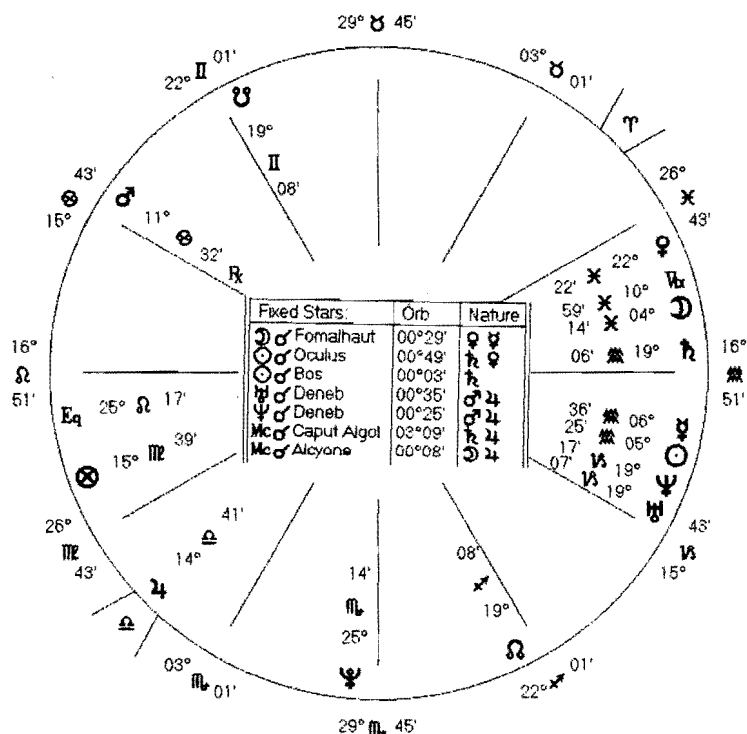

Aquarius is on the Cusp of the 6th House and contains Saturn which, though not itself a very hopeful planet, is one of the Rulers of Aquarius, so is quite at home there, and also is in trine to the MC (Government). So it occurred to me that Labour would win a close struggle.

- Margarita Lang, S.A.

N.D.Strachan (Qld) used a Horary Chart:

"Will the Labour Party win the next Federal Election in 1993?"

25th January 1993, 7:19pm, 26°57'S, 153°7'E. Regiomontanus Cusps.

As I was the Querent, the 10th House was allocated to the Government, which then became the 1st House of the Judgement Chart, and the other Houses were re-numbered from it. The Sign on its Cusp is Taurus, with its Ruler, Venus, exalted in Pisces in the derived 10th House - honour, status, prime officers.

One of William Lilly's aphorisms regarding the gaining of work positions is that if the Ruler of the 1st House is in the 10th, or the Moon and the Ruler of the 10th are in the 10th, then the position sought after will be gained, "...but not gratis; he must bestir himself, and use all the friends he can about it..." (W.Lilly, Christian Astrology, page 444). In this case, Venus, the Ruler of the 1st House, the Moon and Saturn, Ruler of the 10th House, strong in its own Sign, are all present in the 10th House. From this it seemed that with effort the Labour Party would win the Election.

Venus makes an applying trine to Pluto, indicating that some Plutonic experience is in store for the Labour Party in two to three years. Perhaps it will have an impact on the subsequent Election.

The Moon also refers to the public, and being Peregrine (in no essential dignity, wandering aimlessly) it describes the feelings of many people who did not believe that any political party offered the best or correct solution to the Country's problems.

The fixed star Fomalhaut is conjunct the Moon, showing eventual gain after many difficulties. The public may ultimately feel some improvement in the Country's situation. The fixed star Alcyone is conjunct the Radical Midheaven, or the re-numbered Ascendant. This could imply eminence, and perhaps high passion and ruthlessness (Vivian E. Robson, The Fixed Stars & Constellations in Astrology, pp.165, 119, 183).

- N.D. Strachan, Qld.

I think the practice of making a forecast for an election based on a chart for the opening or closing of the polls does have certain flaws. Basically, the whole exercise is based on the assumption that what happens during an election campaign has no bearing on the ultimate result. Once the date is fixed the rest is predetermined. I don't agree with this. It certainly can apply in a lot of cases - but there are others where it does not. A notable case was that of Harold Holt in the late 1960's. He got the biggest landslide in history, and he got it because of the use of violence and intimidation against Holt himself. This was highly dramatized, and swung the whole Electorate around in a massive 'sympathy vote'. We might say that in the event of 'all things being equal' the chart for the election will give a good indication.

A lot depends on the strategies of parties or leaders, and sometimes the blunders that can be made can turn the whole thing around and take everybody by surprise, which is what happened this year. I don't believe it was the determination of Paul Keating that won him the Election, but rather the blunders of John Hewson in allowing himself to be locked into a no-win situation through his support of the unpopular Goods' and Services' Tax. Hewson put up the target and Keating simply shot it down. Had the Liberal Party gone into the Election with the usual election platitudes they could have won fairly easily, and the Chart for the Poll would have been vindicated. The voters were ready for a change, but circumstances changed direction.

The same situation can occur when a person is setting up a business. He or she can go to an astrologer and get a successful chart for the launching - but that is not the whole story. A whole lot depends on whether the person is capable of running that business, or indeed any business. Some people would fail even in the face of the best possible chart.

What it means is that there is no guaranteed method of infallibly predicting an election result. Every election has its own particular agenda. What works at one time won't necessarily work at another. I think the practice of using the charts of the leaders can often give good results, but an X-factor can be unreliable at times. But apart from that you can get a situation where both candidates have a mixture of good and bad factors, which don't give the astrologer a clear-cut answer - and I would say this applied in the recent Election. So it was very much an unpredictable Election, and that was how it worked out. Just about everybody was taken by surprise, including the Party heads themselves.

Basically, even the Sun-Sign of the rival leaders can be important. Dr. Hewson is a Sun-Scorpio, and that is not a good Sign for being flexible and aware of which way the wind is blowing. Scorpio is dogged and inflexible - which in certain circumstances can be just what is needed - but not in this case. Scorpio's can easily paint themselves into a corner, which is exactly what happened. Of course, after the event it is always possible to look for alternative charts and techniques to explain everything. But is that always convincing?

- Allan Johnson, Tas.

I am gratified by the lively response of readers to the Election Charts.

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock,

16th March 1993.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath NSW, Australia 2785. Annual Subscription Australia & NZ $20, Overseas $A25.

Issue 139 February 1993

LABOUR WINS THE ELECTION

So I was wrong! We all make mistakes. Paul Keating kept his Government in power by relentlessly working on the fears of the Electorate regarding the proposed Goods and Services Tax of the Coalition. It was a personal triumph for the Prime Minister, and exemplifies the energy and fighting spirit of his Aries Ascendant, further accented by his Ruler, Mars, very closely conjunct Uranus in the articulate and expressive Sign Gemini.

PRIME MINISTER PAUL KEATING

18th January 1944, Bankstown, NSW.
33°55'S, 151°2'E. 11:30am (believed close).
Placidian Cusps.

Why did I and other astrologers fail to pick the winner in this Election? Was it inadequate astrological data, wrong interpretation, or simply the human factor? By the human factor I mean the power of character - strong will, fierce determination, intelligence and initiative - to overcome even severely adverse astrological factors. The late celebrated Yogic Master, Paramahansa Yogananda, declared to astrologers of his day

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Labour Wins the Election	1
P.M. Paul Keating's Chart	1
Opening of Polls Chart	1
Keating's Solar Return	2
Keating's Age Harmonic Chart	2
The Solar Eclipse Chart	3
The Aries Ingress Chart	3
A Different View of House Rulerships	4
Horary: Can a small lion be tamed?	4

his ability to achieve a desired end even against the most potent planetary deterrents, and he did in fact demonstrate this. So it is possible in certain circumstances even for ordinary mortals like us to win out against the astrological odds. Still, let's look at the more obvious factors:

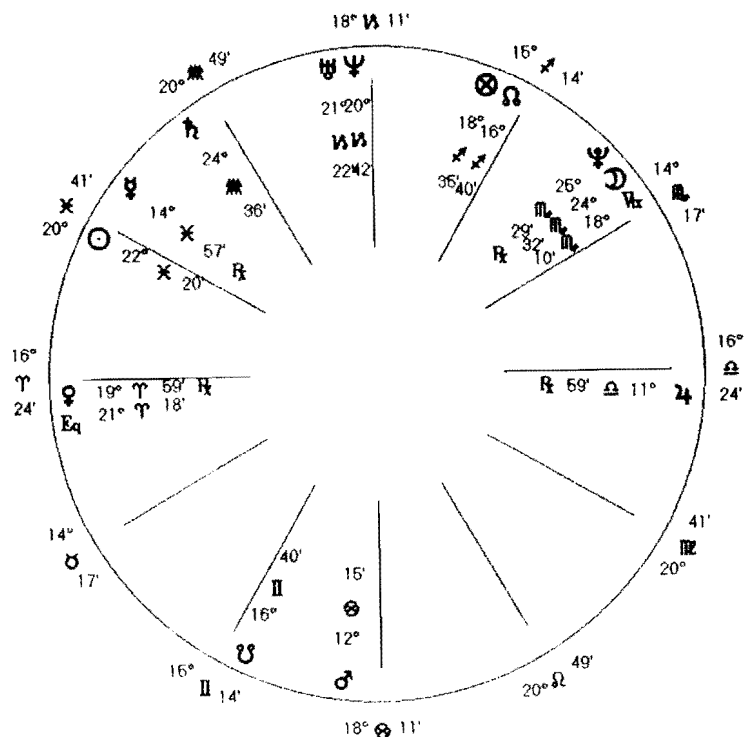

My hope and belief was that we should be able to determine the issue of a contest from a single chart not specifically connected with the birth charts of the protagonists. Certainly, this can often be done with a Horary Chart if the querent has a real interest in the outcome. So far as political elections are concerned, in the past I have found the chart for the closing of the polls to be sufficient to indicate the winner. In view of its apparent failure this time I looked also at the Chart for the Opening of the Polls on Election day. (See next page.)

This does not show a win for the Government, represented by the 1st and 10th Houses. Venus rising is closely squared by both Neptune and Uranus in the 10th, apart from the square to the Ruler of the Ascendant, Mars. These configurations are certainly negative. On the other hand, neither does the Chart indicate a win for the opposing Coalition, represented by the 7th and 4th Houses: Jupiter, just under the 7th Cusp (the Coalition's Ascendant) is retrograde and closely squared by Mars. Venus, ruling the 7th, is squared by Neptune and Uranus, as before noted. The Moon, ruling the 4th House (the Coalition's 10th), is trine the Sun but conjunct Pluto. If anything, this Chart is slightly more favourable for the losing side than for the victor. It is obviously useless for our purpose.

ELECTION 13TH MARCH 1993: OPENING OF POLLS

8am Canberra, 149°8'E, 35°17'S. Placidian.

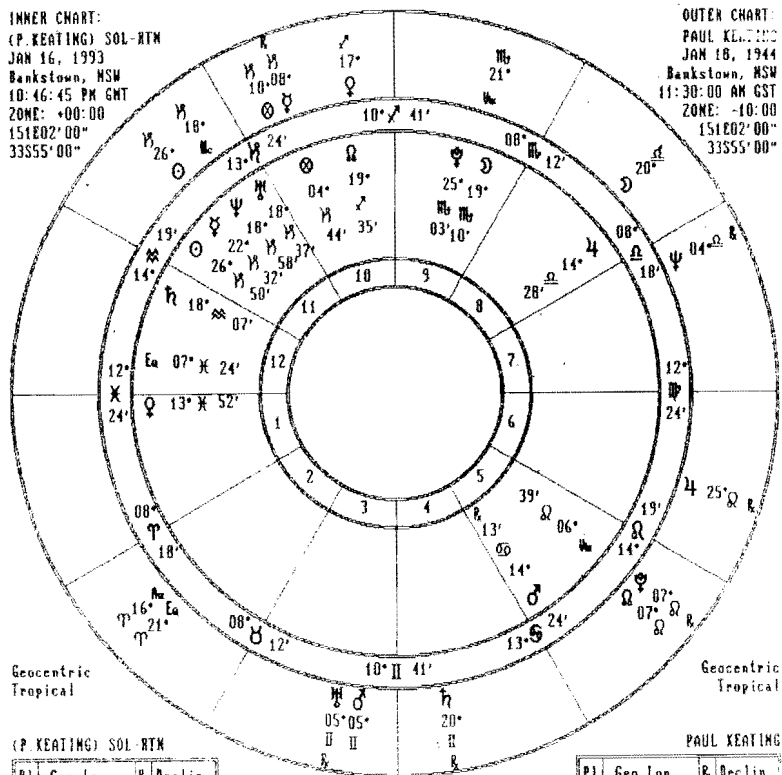

The Chart for the Closing of the Polls as analysed in the last Issue of Astrologers' Forum also gave the wrong answer. So we are driven back to analysis of the individual Horoscopes of the Leaders of the two main parties. From Paul Keating's Geniture we get the Solar-Return Figure in the adjacent column for the period of the Election.

This Chart does not immediately impress as one of victory, but the indications are there when we look into it. The principal, and most favourable factor is Venus, the Minor Fortune, right on the Ascendant and exalted in Pisces, its influence amplified by Natal Venus in the Midheaven, conjunct the Solar-Return Moon's Node. Mars trines Venus, adding strength and vigour. Venus "joys" in the 10th House (see later - A Different View of House Rulerships). Jupiter rules the Midheaven, and conjoins the Natal Moon. The square of Mars to Jupiter is indicative of the hard fight the Prime Minister had to win his second term in Office. At first glance, the conjunction of Uranus and Neptune with the Natal Midheaven looks to be a doubtful, even negative feature, but these two signifiers are in a close trine in the Birth Horoscope, and sextile the Solar-Return Moon, which radically changes the connotation.

By comparison, John Hewson's Solar Return (see page 3 of last issue), though it signalled a major development in his life was not specially related to an Electional win. We are assuming that Hewson's birth time was at or near 2:30am, as given in his biography.

INNER CHART:
(P. KEATING) SOL-RTM
JAN 16, 1993
Bankstown, NSW
10:46:45 PM GMT
ZONE: +00:00
151E02'00"
33S55'00"

OUTER CHART:
PAUL KEATING
JAN 16, 1944
Bankstown, NSW
11:30:00 AM GST
ZONE: -10:00
151E02'00"
33S55'00"

(P. KEATING) SOL-RTM

Pt	Geo Lon	R Declin.
☉	19° 10' 10"	-20° 10'
☽	126° 58' 05"	-20° 47'
☿	122° 32' 19"	-23° 21'
♀	13° 52' 24"	-06° 40'
♂	14° 05' 13"	-26° 46'
♂	14° 27' 59"	-04° 26'
♂	18° 06' 49"	-16° 22'
♂	18° 36' 56"	-22° 33'
♂	18° 57' 45"	-21° 26'
♂	25° 02' 59"	-05° 09'

PAUL KEATING

Pt	Geo Lon	R Declin.
☉	20° 11' 18"	03° 11'
☽	26° 58' 05"	20° 48'
☿	08° 54' 29"	20° 00'
♀	17° 48' 09"	-21° 04'
♂	05° 14' 27"	-23° 50'
♂	25° 07' 55"	-14° 06'
♂	20° 41' 42"	-21° 48'
♂	05° 06' 14"	-21° 04'
♂	04° 12' 27"	00° 22'
♂	07° 50' 04"	-23° 47'

Keating's 49th Harmonic Chart (next page) supports the prognosis of victory given by his Solar Return. The chief indication is the close conjunction of Harmonic Sun and Pluto with Natal Jupiter (in the outer circle), signifying achievement of great success. The close trine of Venus in the 10th House to Jupiter and the sextile to the Moon, Ruler of the Ascendant, is another very favourable factor. No matter if the Birth time is slightly out - the planetary aspects will not significantly change, only the House Cusps.

Finally, there is a clear indication from the Secondary Regressions in Keating's Chart: Venus at 20°42' Libra trine Natal Saturn at 20°42' Gemini on 15th March 1993. Saturn, it will be noted, rules the Midheaven of the Birth Chart.

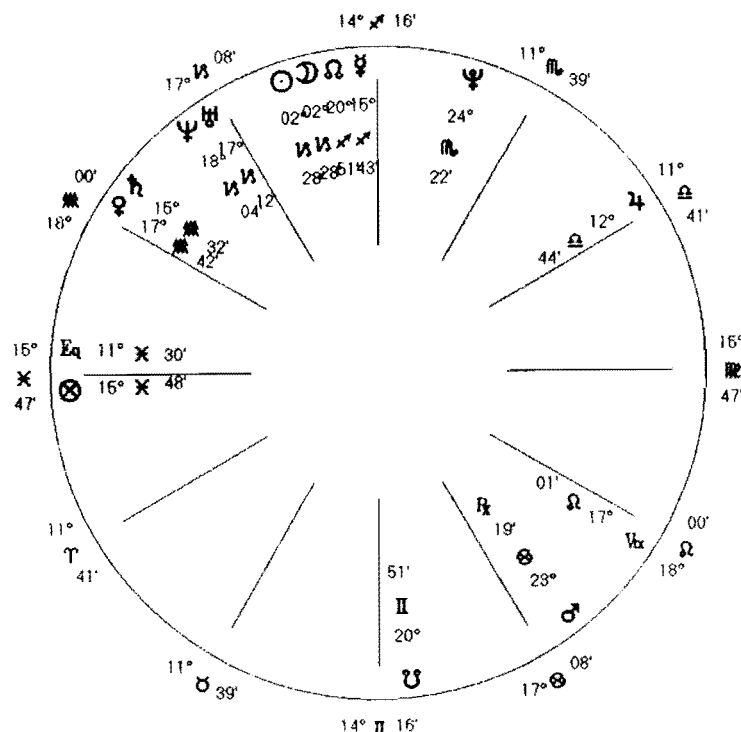

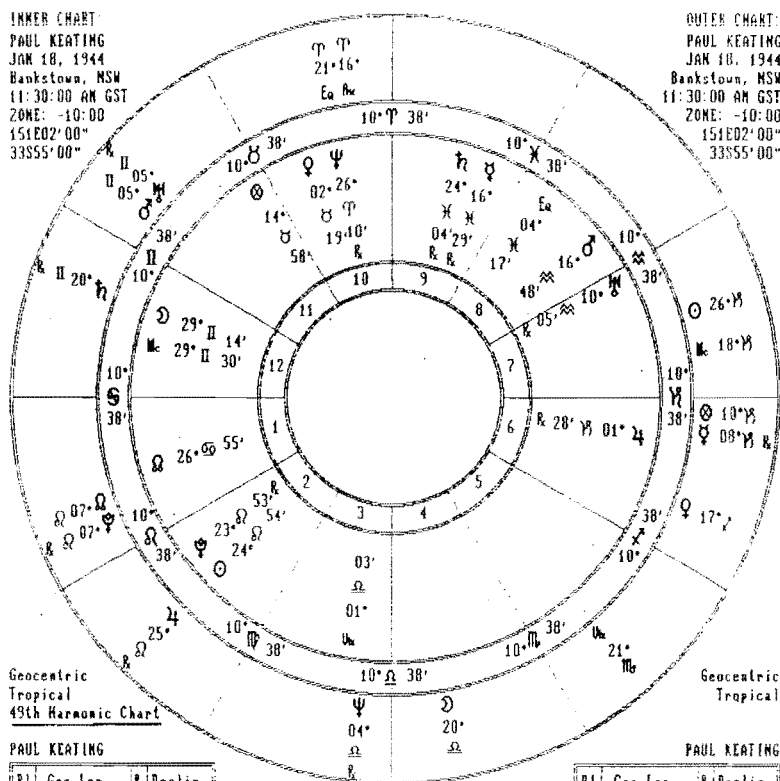

There are at least two other single charts that can and have been used to determine the outcome of a political election. These are the Solar Eclipse Chart and the Solar Ingress Chart (see below).

eight days prior to the Solar Ingress into Aries.

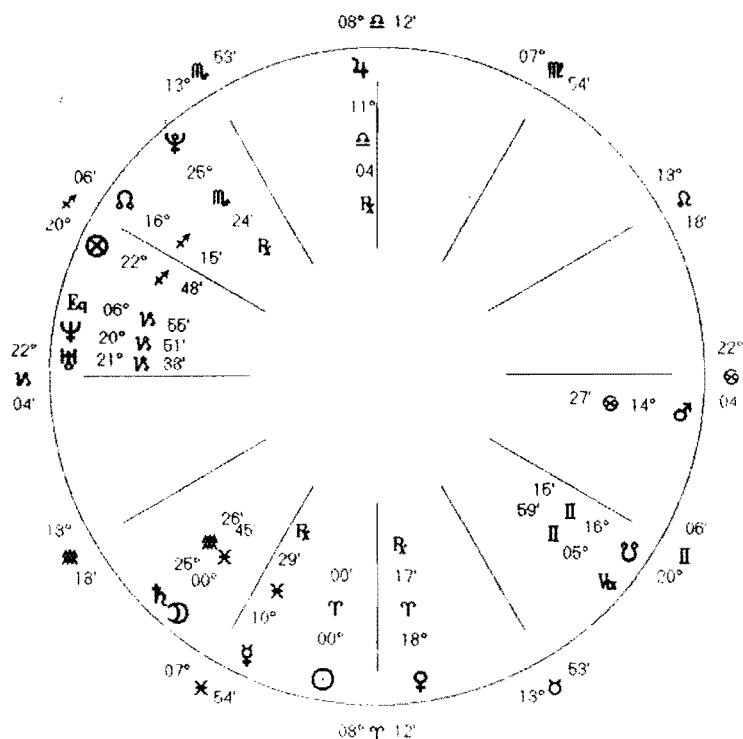

SOLAR ECLIPSE 24TH DECEMBER 1992

0:44am GMT Canberra, Placidian Cusps.

ARIES INGRESS, 20TH MARCH 1993

2:41pm GMT. Canberra. Placidian Cusps.

The Solar Eclipse previous to the March 13 1993 Election occurred on 24th December 1992, and is set for Canberra. Victory for Keating seems fairly obvious here. The group of powerful Significators in the 10th House (Sun, Moon, Mercury and the Moon's Node) can only be good for the Government. In addition, Jupiter rules both the 1st and 10th Houses - the Government's domain - and is sextile to the Midheaven and to Mercury in the 10th, as well as being trine to Saturn and Venus. Natal Venus is close to the Midheaven in its "Joy" House (see below) as in Keating's Solar Return Chart.

By contrast, the indications for the opposing Coalition were bleak - the Derived 10th holds Mars and Uranus, while its Ruler is in the Derived 4th opposed by Mars.

It should be mentioned that Cardinal Ingress Charts start exerting their influence some three weeks before the actual date of the Ingress (see Mundane Astrology by Baigent, Crompton and Harvey, page 251). In the present instance, the Election on 13th March was

The Ingress Chart is immediately seen to be favourable to the Government, with Jupiter less than 3° from the Midheaven. True, Venus appears in the Derived 10th House of the Opposition, but it is squared by Uranus and Mars, so must be accounted of negligible value for advancing the cause of the Coalition.

It was also fortunate for Paul Keating that his Natal Sun was rising, in this Chart, 6° below the Ascendant. His Natal Moon in the 10th trine to the Ingress Saturn is more fortunate than otherwise, despite its square to Uranus.

So what is to be learned from this exercise? For my part, I shall not in future rely on Charts for either the closing or the opening of the polls. What we principally need is accurate information concerning the births of the contenders. Here, though John Hewson's Birth Horoscope is in doubt, Keating's was reasonably accurate, and would have supplied the answer had I but investigated it. Though it is not yet clear just how much reliance can be put on the Eclipse and Cardinal Ingress Charts, they also pointed the same way.

I feel rather like the Wedding-Guest in The Rime of the Ancient Mariner,
He went like one that hath been stunn'd,
And is of sense forlorn:
A sadder and a wiser man
He rose the morrow morn.

- Dymock.

A DIFFERENT VIEW OF HOUSE RULERSHIPS

The substance of this article came from OLIVIA BARCLAY (U.K.) in a letter she wrote to an English astrological journal. It was published in Astrologers' Forum in May 1986:

From classical times the Sun ruled the 9th House (see Manilius' Astronomica Book 2, 9.05, and most other books written prior to this Century). There are moderns who believe that because Jupiter rules the 9th Sign it therefore rules the 9th House. This is a modern fallacy. Jupiter rules the 11th. It is extremely fortunate therein. Saturn rules the 12th House. This also accounts for the reason many doctors and scientists have the House accentuated, for they are helped in their careers by that planet. Mercury rules the 1st, and if placed there makes good speakers. The Moon rules the 3rd, and if placed there its unsettled roaming qualities are accentuated. Mars rules the 6th, the House of hard work. Venus rules the 10th, the House of Glory. The name of the 9th, which is ruled by the Sun, is the House of God or, for those who believed in many gods, the House of the Sun-God.

These rulerships were called the Joy of the Planets.

HORARY CHART: Can a small lion be tamed?

Here is an unusual question (for modern times), taken from Anthony Louis' book Horary Astrology.

In the year 483 AD the querent, in Alexandria, wanted to know if he could tame a young lion before spending a lot of money on a new pet. The Chart was interpreted by an astrologer named Palchus.

Palchus decided that:

- (1) The Ascendant at 2°14' Leo fitted a question about a young lion.
- (2) It would be tamed because of the House positions of the two benefics - Venus in the 1st, Jupiter in the 11th, where he rejoices. Further, the Moon, co-ruler of the querent, would soon trine Jupiter, primary ruler of the querent's domestic animals (6th House). Jupiter is also the natural ruler of large or wild animals, represented by the 12th House.
- (3) The lion would go abroad because the Moon had just left an opposition with Venus in the 1st (the "sender" of the Moon) and was about to trine Jupiter (the "receiver" of the Moon), natural ruler of long voyagers, in Gemini (travel) [and ruling the 9th - long journeys].

My kind regards to all. - Dymock,
 23rd March, 1993.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath NSW, Australia 2785.
Annual Subscription Australia and New Zealand $A20, Elsewhere $A25.
Issue 138 January 1993

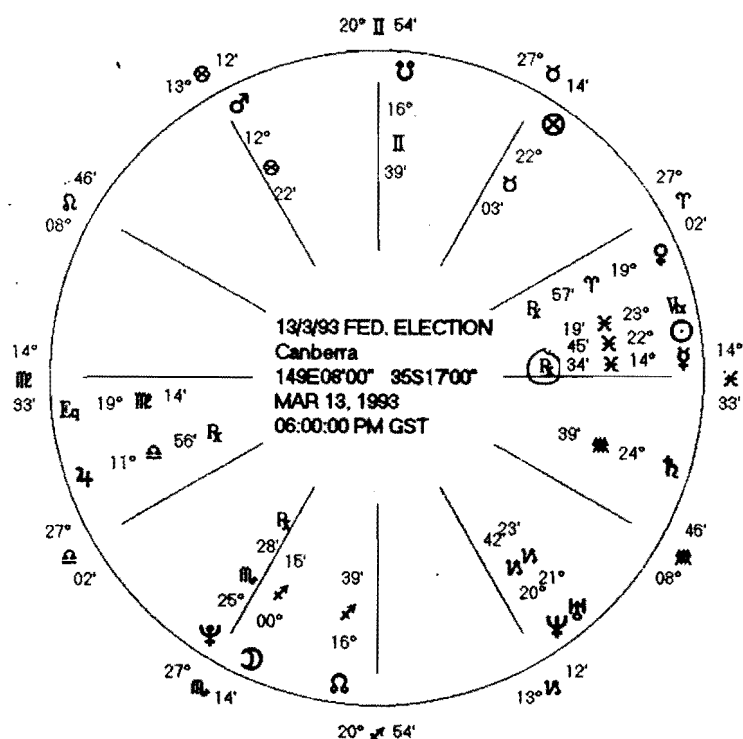

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

FEDERAL ELECTION

Prime Minister Keating has announced the date of the Federal Election as 13th March next. From the astrological point of view, the issue is already decided - in favour of the Coalition Party. This is shown by the Chart for the conclusion of polling on the Election date.

CANBERRA, A.C.T.

149°8'East, 35°17'South. Placidian Cusps.

The present Labour Government is represented by the 1st and 10th Houses, the opposing Coalition by the 7th and 4th Houses. Virgo rises, and its Ruler, Mercury, is retrograde and in the House of the Opposition - a bad sign for the Government. Labour's chances are further degraded by the rising of Jupiter (also retrograde) in close square to Mars and opposed by Venus. The trine of Mercury to Mars adds nothing to the Government's chances, as Mars is in its Detriment, and rules the 8th House. It is the death-knell for Labour in this Election.

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The Federal Election, 13 Mar.'93	1
Chart of Dr. John Hewson	2
46th Harmonic & Solar Ret.Chts.	2
West Australian Election Feb.'93	3
The English Monarchy	3
Chart of Duchess Sarah Ferguson	4
Price increase: Astrol. Forum	4

On the other hand, the Sun (success) rises in the Ascendant of the Opposition, in trine to Pluto, planet of power and authority, and closely sextiled by Fortuna, very strong in Taurus, its natural Sign. There is no doubt that the Coalition will win.

I have been given three Charts for Dr. John Hewson - same date and place, but different times (2:30am, which comes from a biography now on sale, 2:35am, and 4:40 am). I have examined these in the light of current events, and favour the 2:30am Chart, which is reproduced below. Readers could test the different times for themselves - a worthwhile project if Dr. Hewson is to be our next Prime Minister. He is fortunate to have the Sun in conjunction with Jupiter, and the Moon conjunct Venus. He was evidently destined for a rise in life.

Dr. Hewson's 46th Harmonic Chart, covering the period in which the Election will be held, is reproduced below, concentric with the Birth Chart in the outer circle. The fortunate Natal conjunction of the Moon and Venus is now closely conjunct the Midheaven in the Harmonic Chart - a very favourable augury for his success on March 13th. It is significant that no such favourable indications for success appear in the Age Harmonic Charts for either the 4:40am or 2:35am birth times, the latter of which is also depicted here for comparison purposes. Five minutes difference in birth time makes a huge difference in the planets' House positions. These Harmonic Charts are the best means of distinguishing between different birth times - much more so than the Solar Returns, where a few minutes difference in time has hardly any effect on the mundane placement of the Significators.

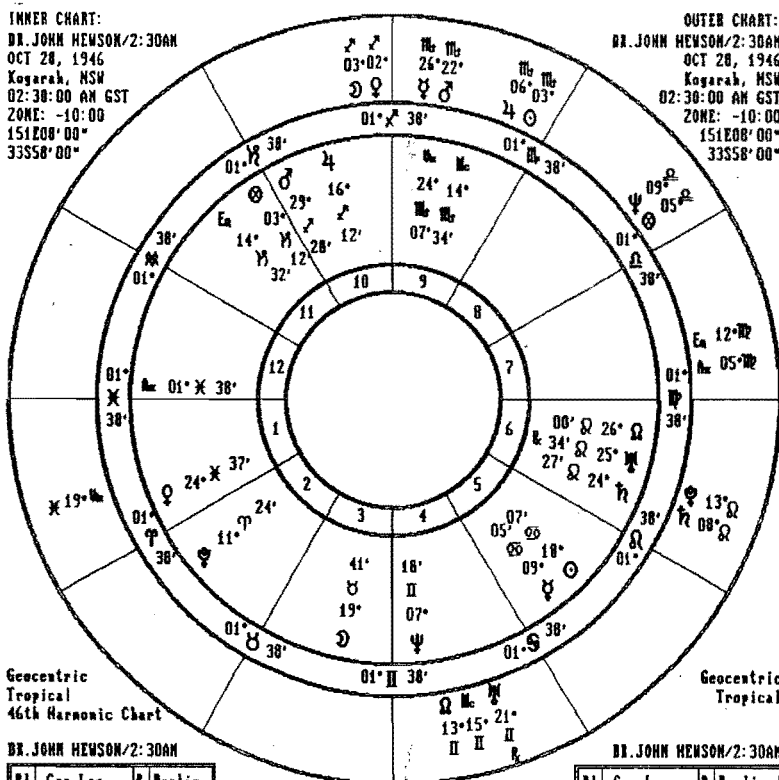

DR. JOHN HEWSON

28th October 1946, 2:30am, Kogarah, NSW.
151°8'East, 33°58'South. Placidian Cusps.

46TH HARMONIC CHART + BIRTH CHART

INNER CHART:
DR. JOHN HEWSON/2:30AM
OCT 28, 1946
Kogarah, NSW
02:30:00 AM GST
ZONE: -10:00
151E08'00"
33S58'00"

Geocentric
Tropical
46th Harmonic Chart

DR. JOHN HEWSON/2:30AM

Pl	Geo Lon	Decl.
☉	03° 41' 19"	-20° 09'
☌	03° 39' 17"	-12° 44'
☿	26° 56' 12"	-22° 06'
♀	02° 29' 30"	-26° 41'
♂	22° 48' 41"	-18° 48'
♂	06° 52' 27"	-12° 53'
♂	08° 21' 28"	-18° 33'
♂	21° 25' 31"	-23° 15'
♂	09° 17' 21"	-02° 21'
♂	13° 17' 28"	-23° 10'

OUTER CHART:
DR. JOHN HEWSON/2:30AM
OCT 28, 1946
Kogarah, NSW
02:30:00 AM GST
ZONE: -10:00
151E08'00"
33S58'00"

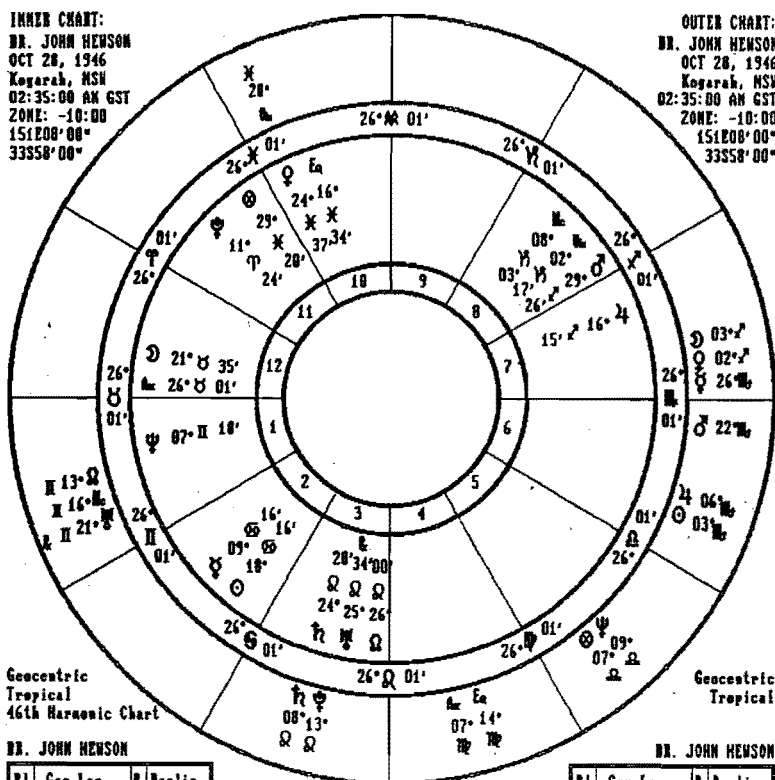

Geocentric
Tropical
46th Harmonic Chart

DR. JOHN HEWSON/2:30AM

Pl	Geo Lon	Decl.
☉	03° 41' 19"	-20° 09'
☌	03° 39' 17"	-12° 44'
☿	26° 56' 12"	-22° 06'
♀	02° 29' 30"	-26° 41'
♂	22° 48' 41"	-18° 48'
♂	06° 52' 27"	-12° 53'
♂	08° 21' 28"	-18° 33'
♂	21° 25' 31"	-23° 15'
♂	09° 17' 21"	-02° 21'
♂	13° 17' 28"	-23° 10'

BIRTH TIME OF 2:35AM
46TH HARMONIC INSIDE BIRTH CHART

INNER CHART:
DR. JOHN HEWSON
OCT 28, 1946
Kogarah, NSW
02:35:00 AM GST
ZONE: -10:00
151E08'00"
33S58'00"

OUTER CHART:
DR. JOHN HEWSON
OCT 28, 1946
Kogarah, NSW
02:35:00 AM GST
ZONE: -10:00
151E08'00"
33S58'00"

Geocentric
Tropical
46th Harmonic Chart

DR. JOHN HEWSON

Pl	Geo Lon	Decl.
☉	03° 43' 48"	-20° 09'
☌	03° 39' 29"	-12° 44'
☿	26° 56' 26"	-22° 06'
♀	02° 29' 38"	-26° 41'
♂	22° 48' 50"	-18° 48'
♂	06° 52' 29"	-12° 53'
♂	08° 21' 28"	-18° 33'
♂	21° 25' 31"	-23° 15'
♂	09° 17' 21"	-02° 21'
♂	13° 17' 28"	-23° 10'

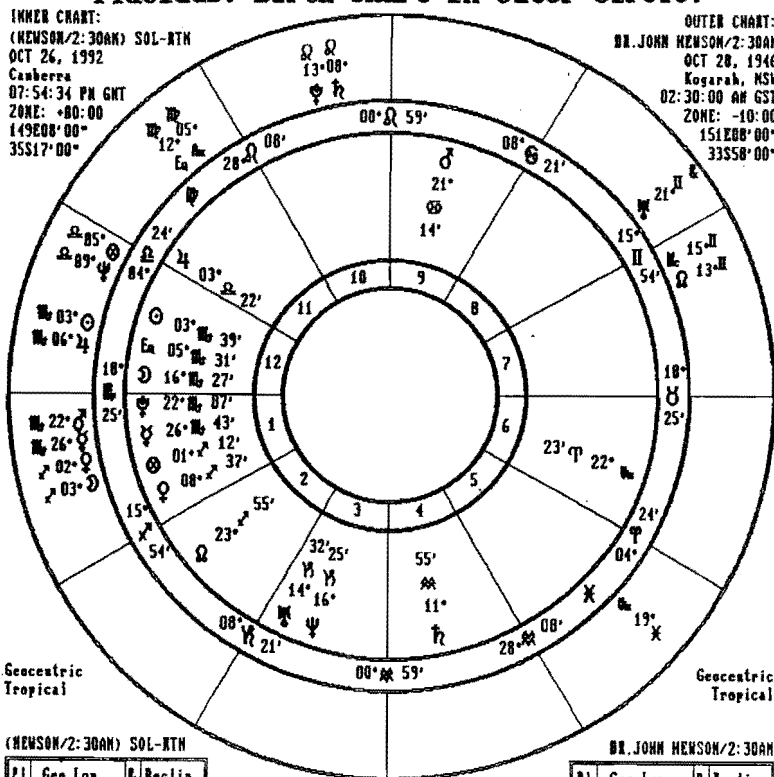

Dr. Hewson's current Solar Return (set for the National Capital) is also indicative of a major development in his life.

The most striking feature is the conjunction of the Moon and Pluto on the Ascendant, signifying a new chapter in his destiny. Intense application, the elimination of impedimenta and a stream-lining of his operation are indicated for him this year. It is a time of practical testing for Dr. Hewson through his having to deal with situations of stress or pressure. Much reorganization is required.

The Plutonian influence is repeated in the Secondary Progressions around the time of the Election. Using Naibod Angles, Progressed Pluto squares the Progressed Ascendant on 7th March, and the Progressed Moon is trine to the Progressed Sun on 16th March. Another fortunate indication for Dr. Hewson is the stationary position of Venus at 20° Aries on the 11th of March, where it is accented and in mundane sextile to the Natal Midheaven.

Using Solar-Arc Angles, Venus is trine to the Midheaven on 11th May, but this is too distant in time to be considered in relation to the 13th March Election. Solar-Arc

JOHN HEWSON: SOLAR RETURN, 26/10/1992
Canberra, 35°16'S, 149°8'E. 7:54:34PM GMT
Placidus. Birth Chart in outer circle.

(HEWSON/2:30AM) SOL-RTM

Pl	Geo Lon	Reclin.
☉	16° 26' 54"	-19° 39'
☽	03° 39' 16"	-12° 44'
☿	26° 43' 19"	-21° 59'
♀	08° 36' 36"	-23° 04'
♂	21° 53' 50"	+22° 52'
♂	03° 21' 37"	-00° 19'
♂	11° 55' 02"	-18° 13'
♂	14° 31' 38"	-23° 04'
♂	16° 25' 04"	-21° 44'
♂	22° 07' 07"	-04° 37'

DR. JOHN HEWSON/2:30AM

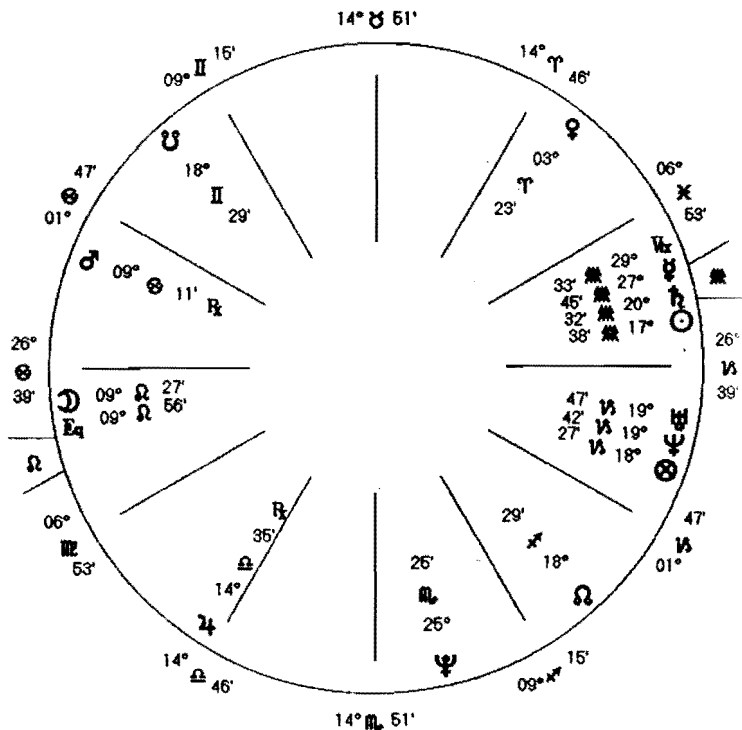

Pl	Geo Lon	Reclin.
☉	03° 41' 19"	-20° 09'
☽	03° 39' 17"	-12° 44'
☿	26° 43' 12"	-22° 06'
♀	02° 29' 30"	-26° 41'
♂	22° 48' 41"	-18° 48'
♂	06° 52' 27"	-12° 53'
♂	08° 21' 28"	+18° 33'
♂	21° 25' 31"	+23° 15'
♂	09° 17' 21"	-02° 21'
♂	13° 17' 28"	+23° 10'

Direction of all Significators for the 2:30am and the 2:35am Charts does not yield anything significant for the Election date.

While we are on the subject of Elections, here is the Closing-of-the-Polls Chart for the West Australian State Election on the 6th of February last.

The Labour Government was defeated by the Coalition, and this is again reflected in the Chart: The Moon and Venus (ruling the 1st and 10th Houses) were the Significators for the Government, and they were both afflicted - the Moon opposed and disposited by the Sun, Venus squared and disposited by Mars. The disposition of both Significators was sufficient to indicate that the Government would itself be disposited. If any confirmation were needed it was supplied by the Significators for the Coalition - Saturn ruling the 7th House, and Mars, Ruler (Horary) of the 4th - the Opposition's 10th. Saturn is exalted in Aquarius and conjunct the Sun (Success). Mars disposes (displaces) Venus ruling the 10th, which blighted the Government's chance of re-election. - Dymock.

WEST AUSTRALIAN ELECTION 6TH FEBRUARY 1993
Perth, W.A. 115°50'E. 31°56'S. 6pm. Placidus.

THE ENGLISH MONARCHY
by Leslie Black (U.K.).

The many troubles and adverse publicity that have beset the Royal Family during the year, culminating in the great fire damage at Windsor Castle on 20th November 1992, call for a look of probable causes from an astrological view point. The Chart of the English Monarchy has long since been established by eminent astrologers as founded on the Coronation of William I on the 25th December 1066, at Westminster Abbey.

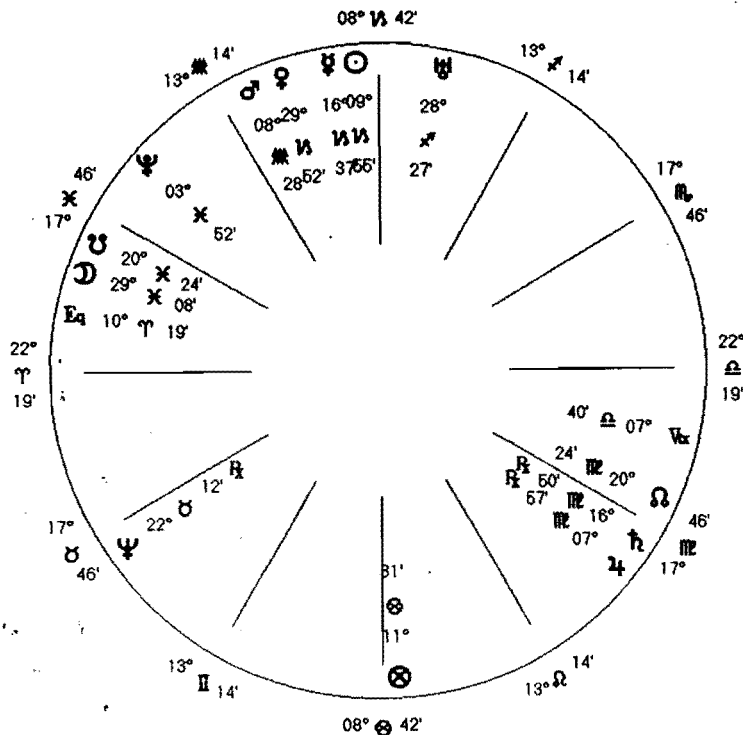

The Chart shows the third decanate of Aries rising, ruling England, with the Sun, representative of the Monarch, conjunct the Midheaven. The period elapsed up to the 25th December 1991 is 925 years, and when converted into Radix-Arc (59'8" a year) gives in degrees of the Zodiac, twice the circle, plus 191°43', this being the effective measure. When this arc is applied to the M.C. and Radical planets it gives a Progressed Midheaven of 20°25' Cancer, with an Ascendant of 15°33' Libra.

The Sun has progressed to the square of the Radical Ascendant, Mercury to the quincunx of Uranus, and Saturn to the conjunction of the Moon. The significance of these positions was considerably enhanced by the Transit effects on 20th November, when the fire broke out at Windsor Castle. Both Uranus and Neptune were directly over the place of Mercury in the Tenth House, while Mars was transitting the opposition of Venus and squaring the Ascendant, the latter being stimulated by the evil Direction thrown to that point from the Sun.

1066: THE ENGLISH MONARCHY

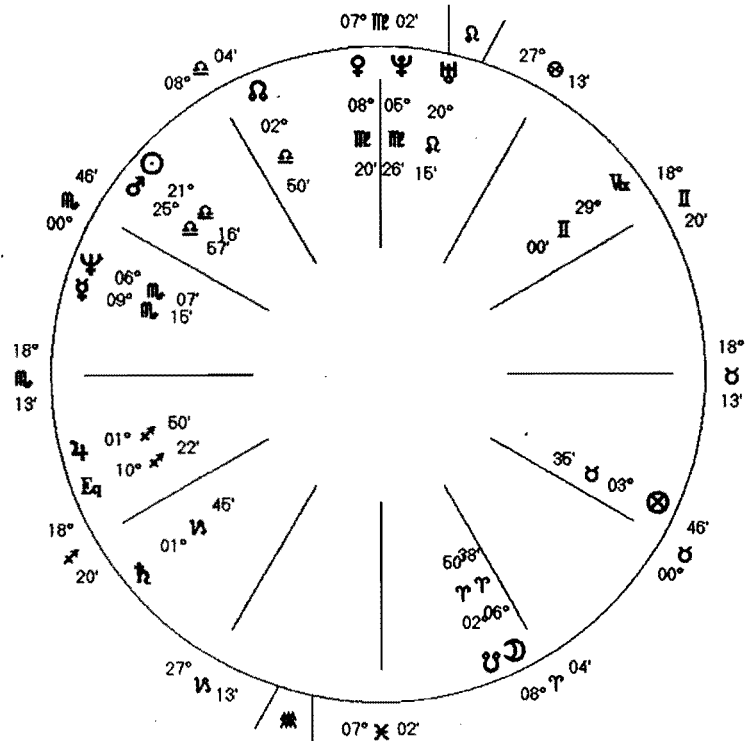

25th December 1066, 12 noon, L.M.T.
London, 51°32'N, 0°5'W. Porphyry Cusps.

A further adverse factor is to be found in the Solar Eclipse of 30th June 1992, which fell in opposition to the Sun and Midheaven of the Monarchy Horoscope. On 20th November Venus was in transit over the radical MC and Sun, in opposition to the Eclipse Point, while the Moon and Jupiter also formed squares to both. In the Radical Chart, the square of the Moon to Uranus, always a highly sensitive link, was triggered by Saturn's Direction to the conjunction of the Moon, which no doubt accounted for such an emotionally-charged period.

The position of 17° of the Cardinal Signs (Mercury's position) is a dangerous one at present for it coincides with a point of great strain in the world recession, due to the close proximity of both Uranus and Neptune in this degree area. The period between now and 1994 will continue to be one of great stress not only from a mundane point of view but for the English Monarchy as a whole, when Uranus in its final run overtakes Neptune thrice - in February, August, and October. The period will no doubt witness many changes affecting the English Monarchy.

SARAH FERGUSON, DUCHESS OF YORK
15th October 1959, London, 9:03am GMT.
51°31'N, 0°9'W. Placidian Cusps.

The above Chart is presented here for those who wish to follow the fortunes of the Duchess and their correlation with celestial phenomena. In 1992 Mars progressed to the conjunction of the Natal Ascendant on 12th May, the Progressed Moon was opposite the Progressed Ascendant on 9th June, and Neptune by Radix Arc (0°59'8" a year) was square to Venus on 19th June, followed by Progressed Mars parallel to the Natal Ascendant on 6th October. This was a critical period for the Duchess.

In 1993, among other aspects, are Prgd.Moon trine the Sun on 3rd April, Regressed Sun sextile the Ascendant on 13th June, Regressed Ascendant parallel Mars on 2nd August, Pluto Stationary square Uranus on 3rd August, and Jupiter by Radix Direction trine Pluto on 13th November. Any readers who wish to try their hand at delineating these might send their efforts to me for possible publication.

- Dymock.

PRICE INCREASE

With regret I announce that the annual subscription to Astrologers' Forum will now be $20 for Australian and New Zealand readers instead of $15, the figure that has stood for over five years. The overseas subscription (other than N.Z.) will now be $25. I'm sure readers will not need any detailed explanation of the price increase.

- Dymock,

24th February 1993.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath NSW, Australia 2785.
Annual Subscription Australia $15, Overseas $A20.

Issue 137

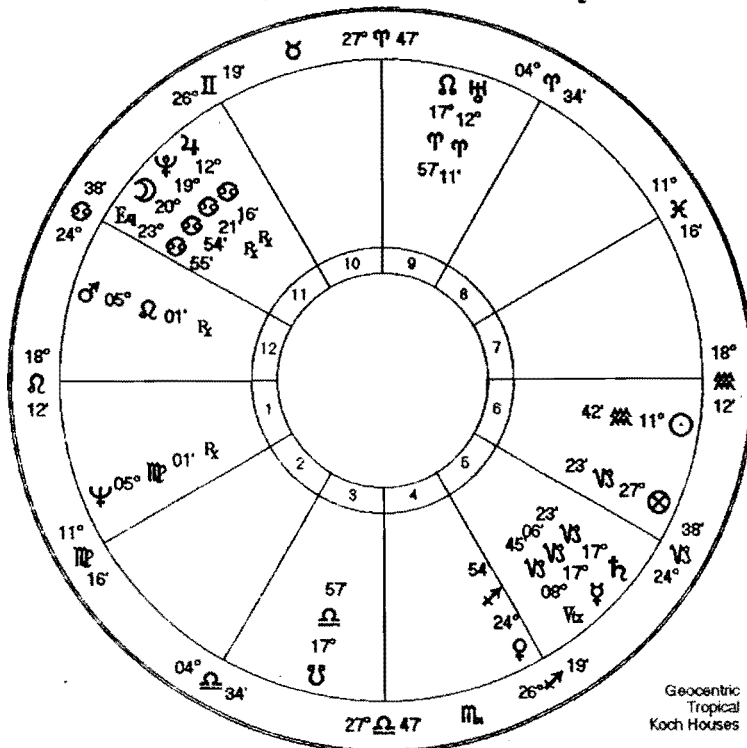

December 1992

THE FUTURE OF BORIS YELTSIN by Allan Johnson.

In the September 1991 of Astrologers' Forum I presented a purely speculative Chart of Boris Yeltsin with Aries rising, but the latest issue of the Astrological Association Newsletter from London now gives an actual birth time, information from his mother, through a Russian astrologer. Full details are: 1st February 1931, Butka, near Talitsa, Siberia, 56°47'N, 63°47'E, 4:30 - 5 pm. So I have put up the Chart for 4:45pm. No rectification has been attempted. This gives the main emphasis on the 5th and 11th Houses, rather than on the 4th and 10th. The 11th does relate to politics and organizations. Leo rising is not out of character with the type of person he is, and it fits his appearance as well.

BORIS YELTSIN

1 Feb. 1931 4:45pm, Butka, Siberia
56°47'N, 63°47'E. Koch Cusps.

In looking at Russia's future, the emphasis is now very much on Yeltsin's Chart. The Chart for the Soviet Union could have an

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The Future of Boris Yeltsin	1
Princess Anne Marries Again	2
Progressed Chart at Marriage, Age Harmonic and Solar Return	3-4
P.M. Paul Keating's Chart	4

overlapping influence, but the heavy transits of Pluto that corresponded with the events in 1989 and the early '90's have now largely passed, so it no longer has much validity, but it is interesting to note that the 1991 Progressed Sun moved into Aquarius - which is very significant for present events. The Chart for the Proclamation of Russian Sovereignty (12th June 1990) is too recent to be of much use, as the outer planets have not moved much from their Natal positions.

The situation in Russia at the end of 1992 is very fluid, with much talk of setting up a new Constitution. In my previous article I predicted that both 1992 and 1993 would be dangerous years for both Gorbachev and Yeltsin, and neither would really get his act together in that period. This is exactly what has been happening. Gorbachev has retired from the scene - but he may re-surface. Yeltsin is now exactly half-way through that highly critical phase, and continues to be on a very slippery slope - by no means in command of the situation.

The real threat to Yeltsin is the challenge of Civic Union, whose aims are strongly pragmatic. They are calling for a slowing down of the pace of reform. The Union, an alliance of former communists, captains of industry, and figures of the military complex, has increased its power dramatically in 1992. Its leader is Arkady Volsky, head of the Industrialists' Union. His Chart would be interesting, but I don't have it. He is a sort of economic pragmatist, much more a Gorbachev supporter, rather than a communist hardliner. These forces are determined to restore the role of the State in society, but not to go back to the previous communist society. So it could be called a "Third Force", as distinct from hardliners and reformers.

This is the type of situation that Yeltsin has to contend with in 1993, and his Transits do reflect this. 1993 is the big year of the Great Conjunction of Uranus and Neptune, and it will make the exact conjunction three times during the year - on 2nd February [19½° Capricorn], 20th August [18°48' Capricorn] and 25th October [18½° Capricorn]. These dates will be worth watching. Yeltsin has a very close Moon/Pluto conjunction in Cancer and the Uranus/Neptune will be closely opposite throughout the year, as well as in conjunction with Saturn/Mercury in his Natal Chart. Pluto/Moon is a highly impulsive combination, as well as obsessive, so it does not suggest compromise on his part. It could bring up a "make or break" situation. He may decide to assume complete power and rule by decree. His Progressed Sun is also moving towards a conjunction with Progressed Uranus. This is another pointer to confrontation rather than compromise. But at the same time he is a Sun-Aquarius, and these people can make a very sudden and unpredictable change of front if they think it expedient. So it will be interesting to see how he makes out. But if he is still in a pretty strong position at the end of 1993 his life could become much more stable from then on.

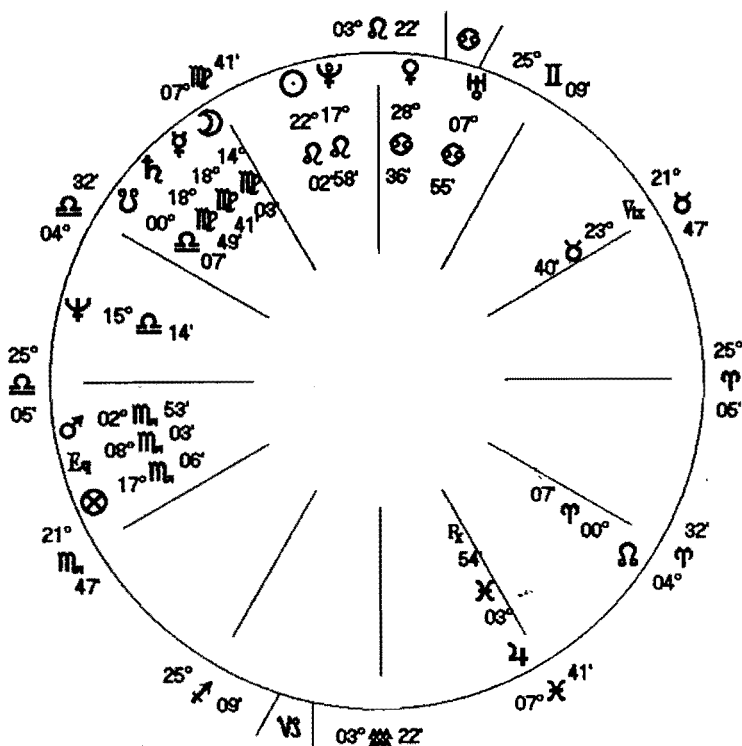

PRINCESS ANNE MARRIES AGAIN

Second or even multiple marriages are relatively common in modern society, and it is interesting to find the indications in the Birth Chart. It is not so obvious in Princess Anne's Horoscope. The usual pointers are absent - several planets in the Marriage House, a mutable Sign on the 7th Cusp, the Sun applying to a number of marriage Significators, Mars and Venus in the South-East or North-West Quadrants, etc. None of these factors is present in the Natal Chart of Princess Anne.

The conjugal Sign Libra on the Ascendant of her Chart does, however, signify the need for a partner, so this is one factor that would incline the Princess to re-marry. Another is Venus, Ruler of the Ascendant and of the Horoscope, elevated in the Sign Cancer and squared by Mars in the intense Sign Scorpio, signifying warmth and passion, so a celibate life is contra-indicated.

Other indications of a positive nature are hard to find, but we can borrow from Horary Astrology and take the 9th House as indicative of the second marriage. Gemini is on the Cusp, so Mercury rules, and the House also contains the intercepted Sign Cancer, which is ruled by the Moon. I see it as highly significant that these two bodies, the Moon and Mercury, are applying to a conjunction in the 11th House, the sector of gratified hopes and wishes (not just, as frequently stated, "hopes and wishes", which are the province of the 10th House). Mercury and Saturn are closely conjoined, and together they do appear to portray the general character of Commander Timothy Laurence, the new husband, a former Equerry in the Royal Household. This reminds me that the late C.E.O. Carter wrote somewhere that the Moon's aspects and applications often relate to marriage, for both men and women.

BIRTH CHART, 15TH AUGUST 1950, 11:50AM BST
London, 51°31'N, 0°6'W. Placidian Cusps.

Another interesting factor here is Princess Anne's Progressed Chart as at the date of marriage. Here it is, with the Natal Horoscope circumscribed around it. The Natal Moon, a principal actor in the piece, is only a few minutes from the Midheaven. This Lunar conjunction with the Progressed Midheaven is, of course, far more significant than would be the Progressed Moon conjoining the Natal Midheaven, the reason being that the Midheaven progresses at the rate of about 1° a year while the the Moon progresses at around 13° a year. The more slowly a Significator moves the more important and effective it is.

The Angles of this Progressed Chart have been arrived at by addition of the Solar-Arc in Longitude to the Natal MC. If the Angles are determined by the Naibod-Arc, or Sidereal time increment, the Progressed Midheaven at the same date would be 16°18'Virgo, 2°15'past the conjunction with the Natal Moon, representing an elapsed time of about 2 years and three months. This is certainly evidence that the better method of obtaining the Angles and Cusps in Progressed Charts is by adding the Solar-Arc in longitude to the Natal MC. Controversy still exists around this point. I myself have tested both methods for years, without being able to come to a firm conclusion. At times either one has demonstrated its superiority over the other. I should be interested to hear of the experiences of others in this respect.

INNER CHART:
12/12/1992 PROGRESSION
DEC 12, 1992
London
00:00:00 AM GMT
ZONE: +00:00
000006°00'
51N31°00'

Pl	Geo Lon	& Declin.
☉	09° 55' 25"	+04° 54'
☽	03° 06' 00"	-01° 14'
☿	17° 57' 12"	+04° 36'
♀	20° 42' 19"	+05° 00'
♂	00° 39' 41"	-21° 25'
♂	28° 49' 33"	-13° 06'
♂	24° 00' 33"	+04° 10'
♂	09° 19' 32"	+23° 25'
♂	16° 34' 04"	-05° 04'
♂	19° 09' 05"	+22° 51'

It is probable also that the Princess's time of birth was not stated precisely. If she had been born 1m.40s. earlier than the given time of 11:50am BST, then the MC by Solar-Arc progression would have been conjunct the Natal Moon on 15th December, just three days subsequent to her marriage.

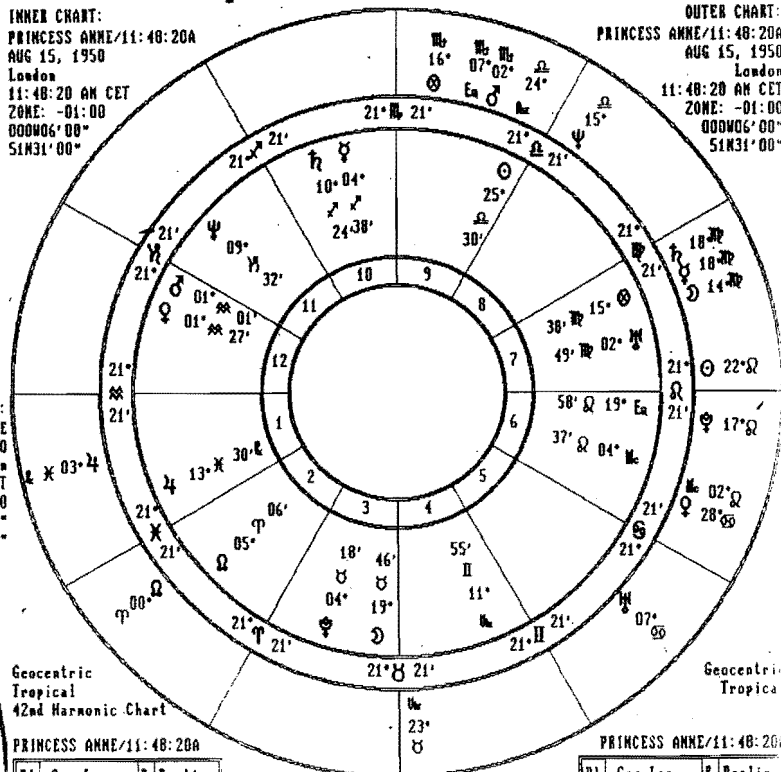

The closest Secondary Progression to the event for the 11:50am birth was Progressed Moon parallel Progressed Venus on 16th December.

Support for the suggested time of 11:48:20am is given by the Harmonic Chart for age 42 when the Princess married. For purposes of comparison I present the 42nd Harmonic Charts for both birth times, with the Natal positions circumscribed around

INNER CHART:
PRINCESS ANNE/11:48:20A
AUG 15, 1950
London
11:48:20 AM CET
ZONE: -01:00
000006°00'
51N31°00'

OUTER CHART:
PRINCESS ANNE
AUG 15, 1950
London
11:50:00 AM CET
ZONE: -01:00
000006°00'
51N31°00'

PRINCESS ANNE/11:48:20A

Pl	Geo Lon	& Declin.
☉	14° 03' 29"	+07° 29'
☽	22° 02' 12"	+14° 10'
☿	18° 40' 54"	+03° 31'
♀	28° 36' 21"	+20° 41'
♂	02° 52' 53"	-13° 11'
♂	03° 53' 34"	-11° 16'
♂	18° 49' 09"	+06° 12'
♂	07° 55' 28"	+23° 29'
♂	15° 13' 37"	-04° 32'
♂	17° 57' 34"	+23° 07'

PRINCESS ANNE/11:48:20A

Pl	Geo Lon	& Declin.
☉	14° 03' 29"	+07° 29'
☽	22° 02' 12"	+14° 10'
☿	18° 40' 54"	+03° 31'
♀	28° 36' 21"	+20° 41'
♂	02° 52' 53"	-13° 11'
♂	03° 53' 34"	-11° 16'
♂	18° 49' 09"	+06° 12'
♂	07° 55' 28"	+23° 29'
♂	15° 13' 37"	-04° 32'
♂	17° 57' 34"	+23° 07'

each. Inspection reveals that the new time gives a good indication of love and marriage, while the second is more indicative of a union being broken. In the Chart for 11:48:20am the Natal Sun conjoins the Marriage Cusp, whereas in the Chart for the given birth time, Uranus, the Disrupter, conjoins the Marriage Cusp.

In both Figures, the Harmonic Sun conjoins the Natal Ascendant, but in the first the conjunction is much more powerful, being close to the 9th Placidian Cusp.

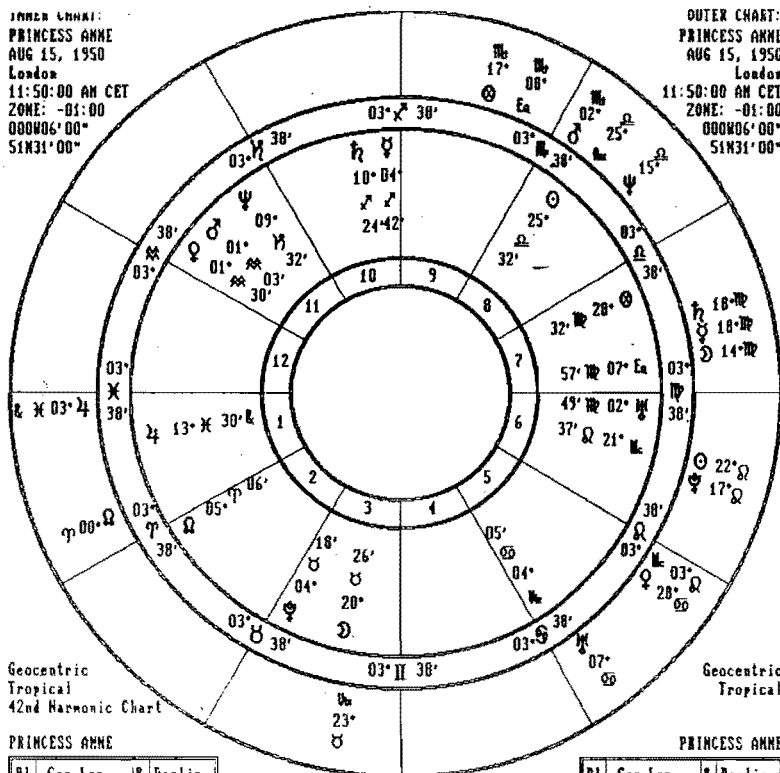

Small differences in time are magnified in the Harmonic Charts, which is what makes them such a valuable technique for fine adjustment of the birth time. Solar Return Charts, on the other hand, are barely affected, so it is not necessary here to present two of them.

Solar Return 42 has Sagittarius rising and Libra at the Midheaven. The respective Sign Rulers, Jupiter and Venus are in a wide conjunction (orb 8°50') in the 9th House, the Sector concerned with legalities. The House of Marriage is occupied by Mars and ruled by Mercury. Mars is square the midpoint of Venus and Jupiter, a configuration interpreted by Ebertin as "decisions...made through the joy of love (engagement, wedding)", which is most apposite. Mercury ruling the 7th, is conjunct

INNER CHART:
PRINCESS ANNE
AUG 15, 1950
London
11:50:00 AM CET
ZONE: -01:00
000W06:00"
51N31:00"

OUTER CHART:
PRINCESS ANNE
AUG 15, 1950
London
11:50:00 AM CET
ZONE: -01:00
000W06:00"
51N31:00"

PRINCESS ANNE

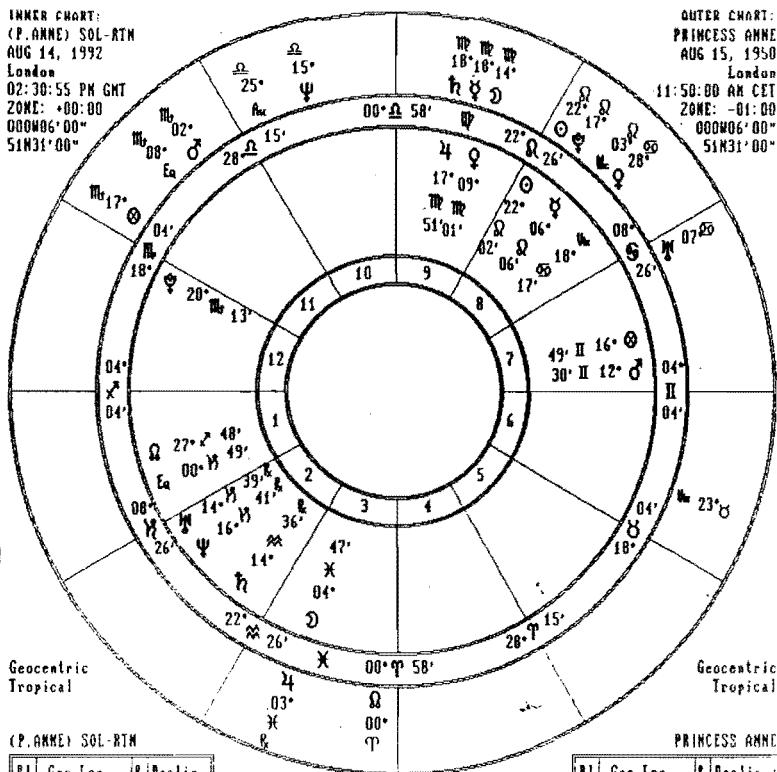

Pl	Geo Lon	R	Decl.
☉	14° 14' 03" 29'		+07° 29'
☌	22° 02' 12"		+14° 10'
☿	14° 14' 03" 29'		+07° 29'
♀	28° 06' 36" 26'		+20° 41'
♂	02° 02' 52" 55'		-13° 11'
♂	03° 11' 53" 34"		-11° 16'
♂	18° 18' 49" 09'		+06° 12'
♂	07° 05' 55" 28"		+23° 29'
♂	15° 13' 37"		-04° 32'
♂	17° 05' 57" 34"		+23° 07'

PRINCESS ANNE

Pl	Geo Lon	R	Decl.
☉	14° 14' 03" 29'		+07° 29'
☌	22° 02' 12"		+14° 10'
☿	14° 14' 03" 29'		+07° 29'
♀	28° 06' 36" 26'		+20° 41'
♂	02° 02' 52" 55'		-13° 11'
♂	03° 11' 53" 34"		-11° 16'
♂	18° 18' 49" 09'		+06° 12'
♂	07° 05' 55" 28"		+23° 29'
♂	15° 13' 37"		-04° 32'
♂	17° 05' 57" 34"		+23° 07'

INNER CHART:
(P. ANNE) SOL-RTM
AUG 14, 1992
London
02:30:55 PM GMT
ZONE: +00:00
000W06:00"
51N31:00"

OUTER CHART:
PRINCESS ANNE
AUG 15, 1950
London
11:50:00 AM CET
ZONE: -01:00
000W06:00"
51N31:00"

(P. ANNE) SOL-RTM

Pl	Geo Lon	R	Decl.
☉	04° 14' 46" 35"		-05° 27'
☌	22° 02' 12"		+14° 10'
☿	06° 05' 50"		+16° 14'
♀	09° 01' 23"		+09° 31'
♂	12° 11' 29" 49"		+21° 43'
♂	17° 17' 50" 50"		+05° 47'
♂	14° 14' 03" 29'		+07° 29'
♂	14° 14' 03" 29'		+07° 29'
♂	16° 16' 40" 38"		+21° 40'
♂	20° 17' 13" 16"		+03° 40'

PRINCESS ANNE

Pl	Geo Lon	R	Decl.
☉	14° 14' 03" 29'		+07° 29'
☌	22° 02' 12"		+14° 10'
☿	18° 18' 49" 09'		+06° 12'
♀	28° 06' 36" 26'		+20° 41'
♂	02° 02' 52" 55'		-13° 11'
♂	03° 11' 53" 34"		-11° 16'
♂	18° 18' 49" 09'		+06° 12'
♂	07° 05' 55" 28"		+23° 29'
♂	15° 13' 37"		-04° 32'
♂	17° 05' 57" 34"		+23° 07'

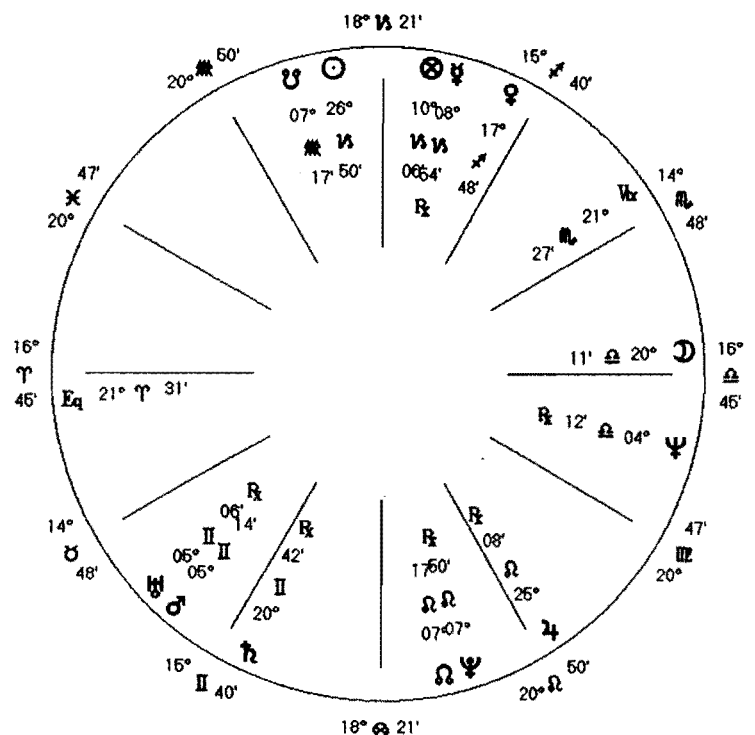

the Natal MC, a pointer to change of status through marriage, confirmed through the connection of Jupiter and Venus, ruling the 1st and 10th Houses.

An interesting point is the position of the Sun, on the Cusp of the 9th House, and ruling it, in square to S.R. Pluto in the 12th. Apart from the fundamental change in life that Sun square Pluto betokens, it is also indicative of the religious (9th House) obstacle that the couple faced. The Church of England does not countenance marriage of divorced persons, so Princess Anne was obliged to marry in Scotland. - Dymock.

FEDERAL ELECTION PROTAGONISTS

In view of the forthcoming Federal Election (date not yet set) astrological interest is centred on the Horoscopes of the Prime Minister, Paul Keating, and the Leader of the Opposition, Dr. John Hewson. John Hewson's Chart will be presented in the next Issue. Paul Keating's Chart is hereunder. The time is uncertain, but is based on information supplied by his mother.

PAUL KEATING
18th January 1944, Bankstown, NSW.
33°55'S, 151°2'E.
Speculative time 11:30am. Placidian Cusps.

- Dymock, 20th January, 1993.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath NSW, Australia 2785.
Annual Subscription Australia $15, Overseas $A20.

Issue 136

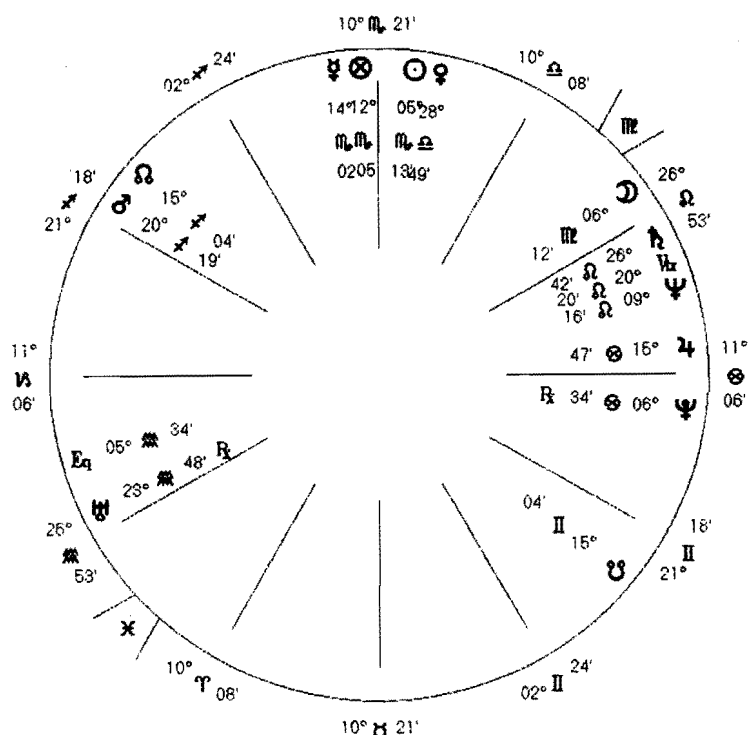

November 1992

TRAGEDY IN YUGOSLAVIA

by Allan Johnson.

Nicholas Campion's Book of World Horoscopes gives three charts that could have validity for Yugoslavia, the first one for 29th October 1918 is the one for the effective foundation of modern Yugoslavia, even though there was a Proclamation on 1st December. 29th October was the start of the actual Government itself, so I think this one was quite valid and could still be valid today, even though to a certain extent it has been superseded by the Chart for the Communist takeover. Both could have validity, with perhaps the Communist Chart being preferable as being more appropriate for current events. What is happening now is the outcome of the divisions that were operating during the German occupation and Tito's rise to power, and even though Tito is dead his influence is not. But on the other hand the Balkans have been a cockpit for war and conflict over the centuries.

YUGOSLAVIA, 29 OCTOBER 1918, 12pm CET
Zagreb, 45°48'N. 15°58'E. Placidian Cusps.

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Tragedy in Yugoslavia	1
Lady Diana's Marriage - Hindu System	2
Aftermath of the Melbourne Cup	4

The 1918 Chart is not such a drastic one with its trines and sextiles, but it does have a couple of interesting configurations. The first is the Sun/Mercury/MC conjunction, all making the square to Neptune. This can mean a lot of wishful thinking, deception and treachery, and ultimate instability. The other pattern is the Uranus/Saturn opposition axis. This also does not make for great stability but is more inclined for sudden upheavals. At the time of the Communist takeover transiting Pluto was right on Neptune in the 1918 Chart, thus stirring up (the configuration involving the MC and definitely marking the end of a chapter. But at the same time the Country retained its boundaries as a national entity, and entered a new phase of wishful thinking and only temporary stability. This means the 1918 Chart could still have correlation with current events, and this is confirmed by the fact that at the beginning of this year Pluto was stationary on 23° Scorpio, not only being in the 10th House but closely squaring Uranus and activating the Uranus/Saturn opposition, and will continue to activate this pattern through into 1993/94.

But possibly the Chart for the Communist takeover (31/1/1946) could take precedence. This Chart is a revolutionary one with Uranus right on the Ascendant, but it is not afflicted, instead being part of a Grand Trine (Uranus/Sun/Venus/Mercury/Neptune). This meant that Tito was much more successful than the other Eastern European countries, as he was able to challenge the might of the Soviet Union very early in his reign, and maintain his independence. The others were not so lucky. Tito broke with Stalin when Uranus was right on the North Node in the 1st House of the 1946 Chart. Apart from the Grand Trine, there are two other strong configurations - Sun/Venus/Mercury opposing Pluto, and Mars/Saturn opposing the Moon. When Marshall Tito died on 8th May 1980 Pluto was on 19°38' Libra, closely squaring the Moon, Mars and Saturn - precision timing.

YUGOSLAVIA, COMMUNIST, 31 January 1946
12pm CET, Belgrade. Placidian Cusps.
020E30'00" 44N50'00"

Now, bringing the Chart up to date in 1992, we can see that when the violent upheavals began in Yugoslavia in the early part of the year transitting Uranus and Neptune were in almost exact conjunction and right on Natal Moon and opposite Mars/Saturn - stirring up the same pattern. Saturn/Mars spells violence, and of course the Moon represents the people and their homes, and the carnage which has been going on, and the homelessness. These transits will continue on through this year and through 1993. So all this doesn't point to an early end to the conflict. A lot of things could come to a head in late 1993, and both Charts point to 1993 as a dangerous year. Looking at the Secondary Progressions in the 1946 Chart I think the most significant factor is that the Progressed Mars is now conjunct its own Natal position, and is moving very slowly in activating the Saturn/Mars conjunction. Progressed Venus being in opposition to Natal Neptune expressed the illusory nature of all the peace efforts - cease-fire's being continually agreed to, but never kept.

The danger of the situation is that Macedonians, Albanians, Turks, Bulgarians, could all be tempted to intervene on behalf of their own minorities within Yugoslavia, as some people are predicting. So it is a real witch's brew. I think we can say that present peace negotiations are not likely to be very successful, or there could be a temporary success which might be followed by further outbreaks of violence in 1993. The Grand Trine in the Chart may ensure that things won't get out of hand to the extent that some people think they will.

SOLAR RETURN FOR LADY DIANA - HINDU SYSTEM by Keven Barrett.

In India the Solar Returns are called Varshaphal, and they used Sahams, which in Western Astrology are called Arabian Parts. These were in use in India well before the Greeks learned how to erect a chart. Some time ago Dymock presented my work on Horary using these Sahams Parts, giving a Table of the original 30-odd Parts and those added over the last 2000 years or so. These Parts work on the A+B-C system, and are calculated for day births, marked (D), or for both day and night, marked (B), and A+C-B for night births, marked (N).

The Parts needed for marriage are
(1) Husband or Wife (B) = Asc+Venus-Sat.
(2) Marriage (B) = Asc+Des-Venus.
(3) Marriage/Deception (D) = Asc+Venus-Sun, or (N) = Asc+Sun-Venus. If B and C are both on one side of the Asc/Des Axis, then you add one Sign to the position of the resultant formula.

Because there are really only 30 numbers in each Sign, using 2° orbs and aspects of 30°, 60°, 90°, 120°, 150°, 180° and 270°, you will no doubt get any result to work after the event. Therefore there are rules to sort out the event and, indeed, if the event will happen. First you must use a Sidereal Hindu Rasi Chart Zodiac with equal House Cusps, which in our system is the Whole Sign Chart. The House-Ruler Parts will be a different degree if you use the Tropical system. You use only the planets to Saturn.

Rule (1). From the Solar Return the Personal Points only, including the Node, must be in aspect to the Solar-Return Event Sahams Parts.

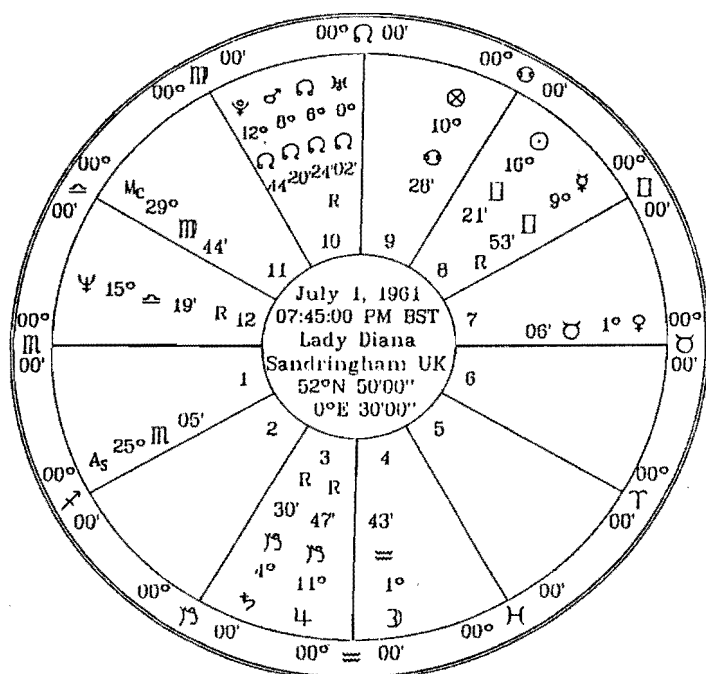

Rule (2). Any of the planets up to Saturn in the Solar Return must be in aspect to the Natal-Chart Sahams Parts.

Rule (3). Any of the Natal planets must be in aspect to the Solar/Lunar-Return Sahams Parts.

This then indicates that the event is possible within one year. The event can only happen during that year if you find, by applying the same rules to the 13 Lunar Returns, that one of them indicates the event (and therefore also times it). This is the method I used to predict Lady Diana's marriage, and later on the birth of a son. I use these Parts in all my work, but only when there is a correct, observed birth time. Hospital times can be rectified on past marriage or travel, but it is very time-consuming to do so. Remember that for approximately every four minutes of birth time the Ascendant plus or minus the House Cusp moves 2°, and the Ascendant plus or minus a planet moves 1°.

Birth Horoscope of LADY DIANA [Sidereal Zodiac]

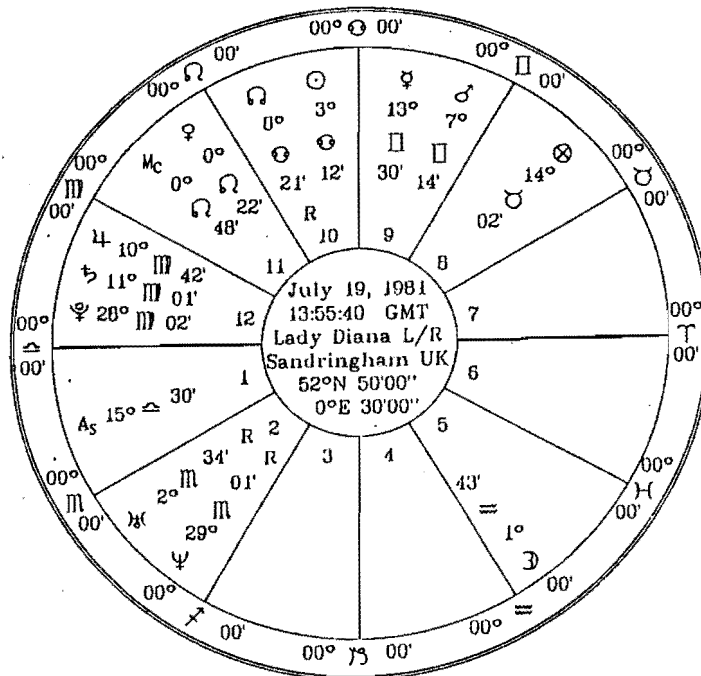

Anyone with Uranus in an Angular House in hard aspect to the Personal Points as in the above Natal Chart, is a person very difficult to be with if not getting his/her own way. In Lady Diana's Chart this combination is also joined with the Nodes/Mars/Moon axis. This Chart is not of one who takes to being in a subservient role; the emotional and anger imbalance will surface. Because Venus both rules and occupies the 7th House (which makes it a malefic in the Hindu system) and also rules the 12th, it is connected with Neptune occupying the 12th. This means that Lady Diana will look at marriage or any partnership with rose-coloured glasses.

In Lady Diana's Chart the Hindu DASA Progressed system from 1964 to 1982 is ruled by the North Node in the 10th House, bringing prestige and destiny matters to the forefront, also 4th-House matters (Nodes rule

SOLAR-RETURN CHART [Sidereal Zodiac]

LUNAR-RETURN CHART [Sidereal Zodiac]

Aquarius), 8th-House matters (Nodes House-Ruler, the Sun, in the 8th) and partner's resources (8th-House is second from the Marriage House).

In the Solar-Return Chart the 7th-House Ruler, the Moon, is in the 6th House, 12th from the 7th (confinement if negative, or self-realization if positive attitude).

In the Lunar-Return Chart the North Node is in the 10th House and rules the 5th House - 11th from the 7th (gains).

The sub-period (last one before the next major DASA from January 1981 to February 1982 is ruled by Mars, also in the 10th activating the partner's Resources House, and Mars rules the Ascendant and the 6th House.

In the Solar-Return Chart Mars is in the 5th (11th from the 7th), and rules the 4th and the 11th; Mars' House Ruler is in the 7th. In the Lunar Return Chart Mars is in the 9th, ruling the 7th and 2nd.

At the time of the marriage the DASA sub-sub-period was ruled by Mercury in the Natal 8th House (2nd from the 7th); in the Solar-Return Chart in the 6th (with the Ruler of the 7th) and in the Lunar-Return Chart Mercury is in the 9th House with the Ruler of the 7th. Transits in the Hindu system are also used for the timing of an event.

Looking at all Solar-Return and Lunar-Return Charts since her 18th and before her 20th birthday, we see indications did sometimes hit the Marriage House, but not all three Charts were connected, so marriage did not occur until her 20th birthday. The Sahams Parts do indicate when destiny affects a particular event.

Looking now at the Solar and Lunar Returns for 1981, we see positive indications for marriage:

The Natal Parts are Marriage (B) 19°4' Sagittarius, Marriage-/Deception (D) 9°50' Libra, Husband (B) 21°41' Aries (one Sign added as Venus and Saturn are both below the Ascendant/Descendant).

The Solar-Return Parts are Marriage (B) 28°4' Capricorn, Marriage-/Deception (N) 25°55' Capricorn (one Sign added), Husband (B) 17°26' Scorpio.

The Lunar-Return Parts are Marriage (B) 0°38' Cancer, Marriage-/Deception (D) 12°40' Scorpio, Husband (B) 4°51' Virgo.

I only wish to show you the activated Parts. The planetary aspects between all three Charts are easily seen and delineated.

Firstly, we look to the Solar-Return Chart for Personal Points only:

Rule (1). S/R Asc sextile S/R Husband, S/R Sun and Moon quincunx S/R Husband.

Rule (2). S/R Asc sextile Natal Marriage, S/R Moon opposite Natal Marriage, S/R Venus and Node square Natal Marriage-/Deception, S/R Saturn semisextile Natal Marriage-/Deception.

Rule (3). Natal Ascendant sextile S/R Marriage /deception, Natal Sun quincunx S/R Husband, Natal MC trine S/R Marriage.

In the Lunar Return, Rule 1 L/R-Moon quincunx L/R-Marriage, L/R-Sun sextile L/R-Husband, L/R-Venus and MC semisextile L/R-Marriage (takes care of the Personal Points); then also L/R-Mercury quincunx L/R-Marriage-/Deception, L/R-Jupiter and Saturn sextile L/R-Marriage-/Deception.

Rule (2). L/R-Node square Natal Marriage, L/R-Jupiter and Saturn semisextile Natal Marriage-/Deception.

Rule (3). Natal Saturn trine L/R-Husband, Natal Jupiter sextile L/R-Marriage-/Deception, Natal Moon quincunx L/R-Marriage, Natal Venus sextile L/R-Marriage.

From these multiple contacts it was apparent that marriage would occur.

I hope this short article will help you if you use Arabian Parts to understand some of the rules the Hindu Astrologers used centuries ago.

Aftermath of the Melbourne Cup

Good out of Ill

It was easier to pick the next USA President than the winner of the Melbourne Cup. The winner, SUBZERO, could not, by any stretch of the imagination, be termed a Venus horse - quite the opposite in fact. The "Venus" horse that might have won, LET'S ELOPE, was scratched.

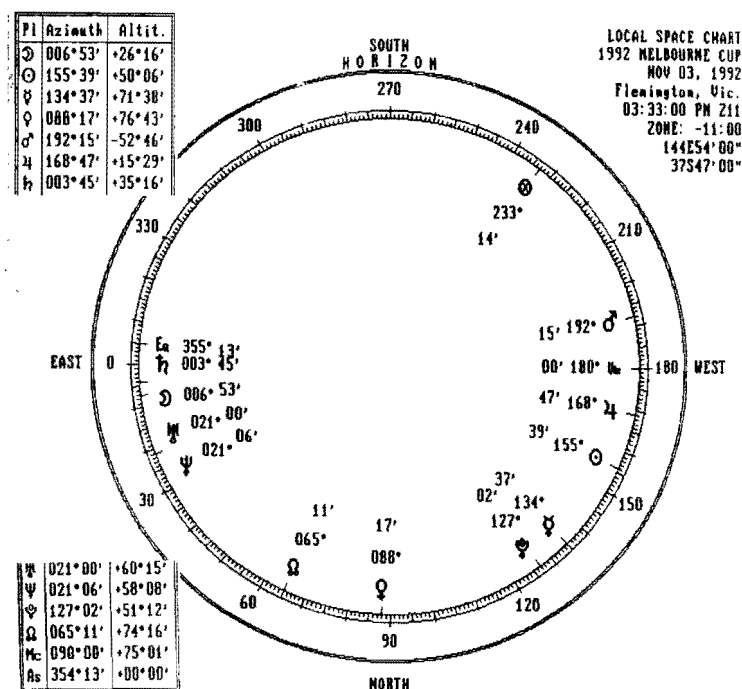

SUBZERO is a Saturnian name. The race Chart in the Tropical Zodiac, which has previously served me well, was a signal failure on this occasion, and a mystifying one as well.

While pondering this debacle I suddenly bethought me of the Local Space Chart - a chart with the planets referred to the plane of the local Horizon. Here it is:

1992 MELBOURNE CUP

3rd November 1992, Flemington, Vic.

3:33pm AEDT (approximate finishing time).

was elated to observe that in this Horoscope the planet Saturn was dominant! Here was a valid astrological reason for SUBZERO's win. Venus is 1°43' from the North Point, and Saturn 3°45' from the East Point. Both planets have power, but Saturn, the more ponderable of the two (which gives it more influence), is also conjunct the Moon (orb 3°8') - a telling factor. Furthermore, Saturn is closer to the Horizon (35°16') than Venus (76°43'), which again tips the scales further in Saturn's favour. Another significant point is that Venus is square Saturn (orb 4°28'), to which we may perhaps ascribe the scratching of LET'S ELOPE, and the defeat of horses representative of Venus.

So where does this leave us for future race horoscopes? For my part, I shall make a point of consulting the Horizon Chart as well as the usual Chart in the Tropical Zodiac. As I have said before, we may not make a pile of money (except occasionally) in the application of Astrology to races, but we do learn a lot more about Astrology!

Good luck to all you triers!

- Dymock, 24th November 1992.

Astrologers' Forum

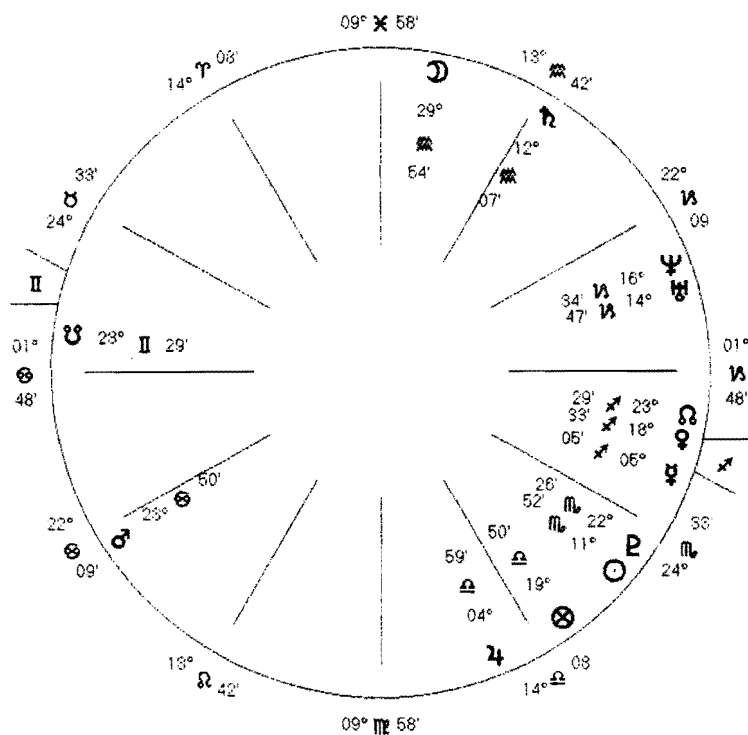

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath NSW, Australia 2785. Annual Subscription Australia $15, Overseas $A20.

Issue 135

October 1992

The USA Presidential Election is the important issue next week. It is to be held on Tuesday, November 3. No one was able to tell me exactly when the polls close. The USA Consulate in Sydney said "between 7 and 8 pm". As it will probably be 8pm, here is the Chart for that time at Washington, DC. The Chart shows that George Bush will lose:

USA PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION NOV.3 1992
Washington DC, 77°2'W, 38°54'N. 8pm EST

This Election is a little more complicated than usual as there are three contenders for the Presidency. George Bush, the incumbent, is represented by the 1st House, and his chances of victory by the 10th. His opponents are represented by the 7th House and 9th Houses, and their chances of victory by the 4th (which is the 10th to the 7th), and the 6th (which is the 10th to the 9th).

As Cancer rises, George Bush's Significator is the Moon, in the last degree of Aquarius, leaving the square of Pluto and applying to the square of Mercury, two adverse indications. The fact that the Moon is "void-of-course" also portends that Bush has no future as regards the Presidency. His 10th

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The USA Presidential Election	1
New Birth Chart for George Bush	2
Birth Charts of Clinton and Perot & Solar Rets. of all Candidates	3
The Melbourne Cup Chart	4

House is ruled by Neptune, which is here afflicted by the conjunction of Uranus and the opposition of Mars. That puts a quietus to Bush's hopes.

Which of his adversaries will win? Bill Clinton being the first contender is represented by the 7th House and its Ruler, Saturn. Ross Perot is represented by the 9th House (being the 3rd to the 7th - See Horary Astrology by Marc Edmund Jones). Clinton's Significator, Saturn, is exalted in Aquarius and strong through being conjunct a Placidian Cusp. It is square to the Sun, but not seriously incommoded thereby because of its elevation above the Sun and its mundane strength. On the other hand the trine to Jupiter is a very positive indication.

Clinton's derived 10th House, the Radical 4th, has Virgo on the Cusp and is therefore ruled by Mercury. Mercury is placed in Sagittarius in close sextile to the Ruler of that Sign, Jupiter, which much enhances the power of the sextile. From the point of view of winning, it has greater effect than the square to the Moon, Bush's Significator, which depicts the uncomplimentary personal remarks of the contenders in the recent televised debates.

Ross Perot's Significator is Uranus (quite appropriate in the light of Perot's performance to date), being the Ruler of the 9th. Uranus is conjunct Neptune, showing confusion and self-deception. Perot's derived 10th House (the 6th) is ruled by Pluto, which is square to the Moon. The trine from Mars shows his energy but does not improve his chances. His cause is a lost one.

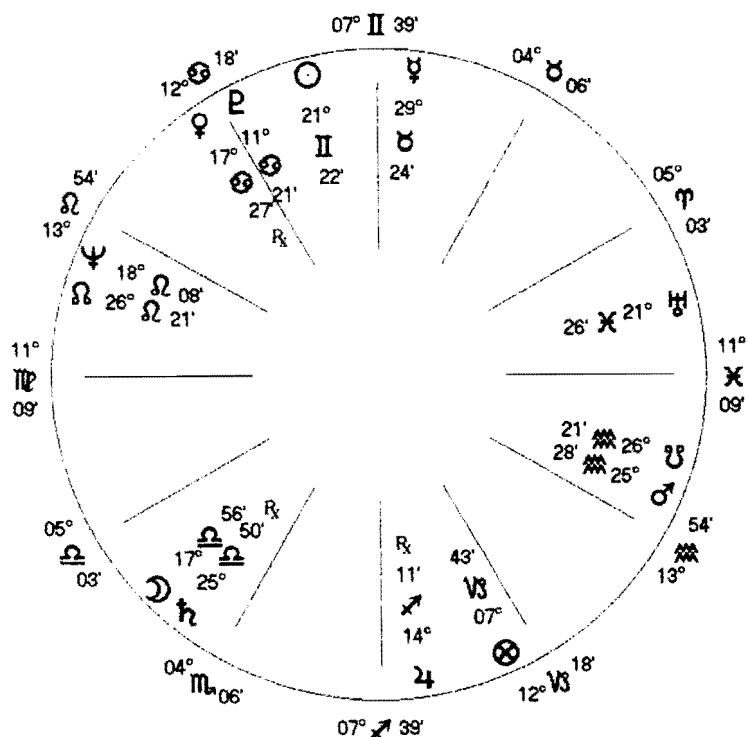

It is obvious that Bill Clinton will be the next President.
- Dymock.

Keven Barrett (NSW), the Australian agent for Astrolabe Computer Software, has furnished me with the birth data of the three contenders for the USA Presidency, including a new birth time for President Bush (11:45am) researched by Lois Rodden, indefatigable author of The American Book of Charts.

Here are the three Birth Charts, and the planetary influences affecting them at the time of the Election:

PRESIDENT GEORGE BUSH

12 June 1924, Milton, Mass. 42°15'N, 71°5'W.
11:45 am EDT. Placidian Cusps.

This birth time for George Bush is supported by the 64th Age Harmonic Chart, Bush's age when he was elected President in 1988. Here it is, concentric with the Birth Chart in the outer circle. The most striking feature is the extremely close conjunction of Harmonic Jupiter and the Moon with the Natal Midheaven, all within 1° of each other. Additionally, Natal Jupiter is on the Ascendant of the Harmonic Chart (orb 4°) and the Natal Ascendant is at the Harmonic Midheaven (orb only 1°). Harmonic Sun and Uranus are conjoined in the Midheaven. This is a rare combination of overwhelmingly favourable factors, and ensured Bush's election to the Presidency in 1988.

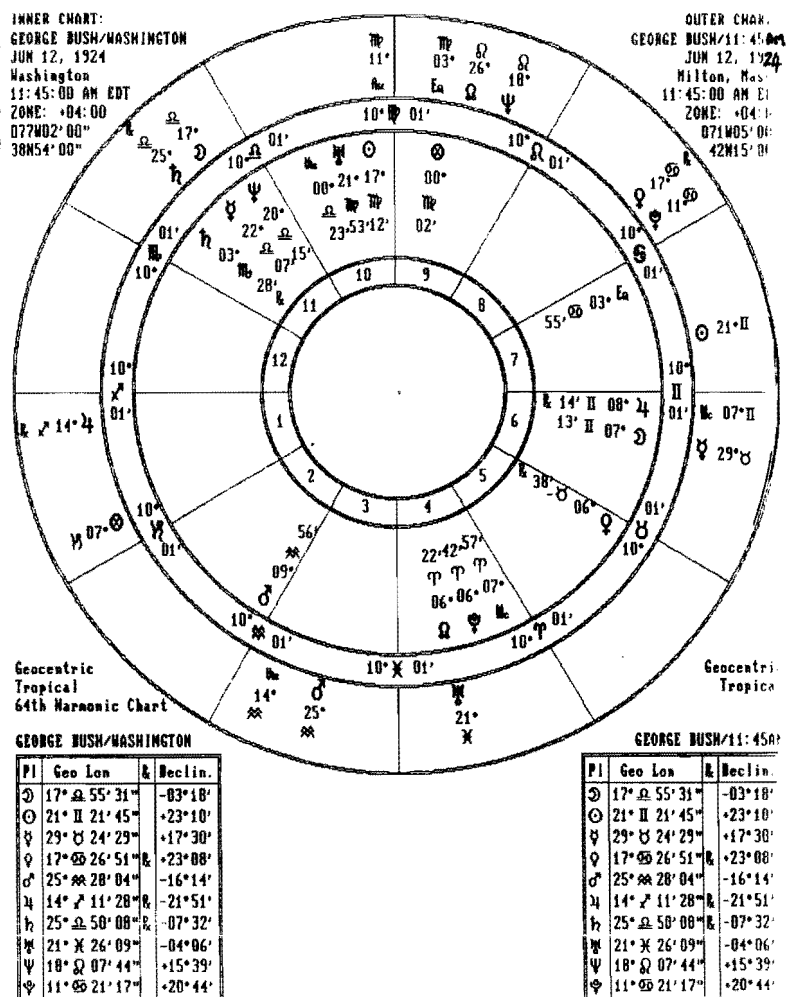

At the time of the coming Election on 4th November, Bush is disadvantaged by the Secondary-Regressed Moon opposite Saturn, exact on November the 7th, and Mercury (his Ruling Planet) stationary on 11th November opposite his Natal Midheaven. His chances of election this time are nil.

Inner Circle and Cusps:

GEORGE BUSH, 64TH HARMONIC

Outer Circle:

GEORGE BUSH, BIRTH CHART (11:45am Birth Time)

Clinton has the favourable Secondary Regression of the Moon to 20°18' Virgo on 11th November, where it is trine his Natal Moon, the Ruler of his House of Status and Achievement. His chances of election this year are certainly confirmed.

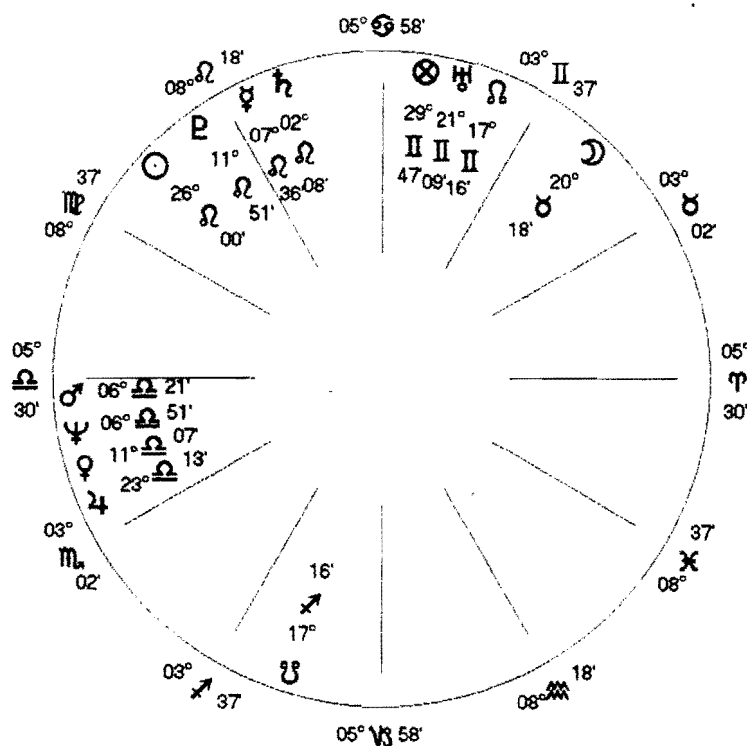

Perot has the Secondary-Progressed Moon sextile Saturn on 11th November, which does not do much to help him in the Election. On November 19 his Progressed Mercury is square Mars, which is definitely bad, Mercury occupying and ruling the Natal 12th House (Sorrows, Self-Undoing) and Mars occupying the 11th House of his Natal Chart, showing defeat of his ambitions (the 10th House).

The final series of Charts below are combinations of the Solar Returns (relocated to Washington) and concentric Birth Charts for each candidate. These tell the same story.

George Bush's Solar Return of 12th June is particularly adverse - Uranus and Neptune

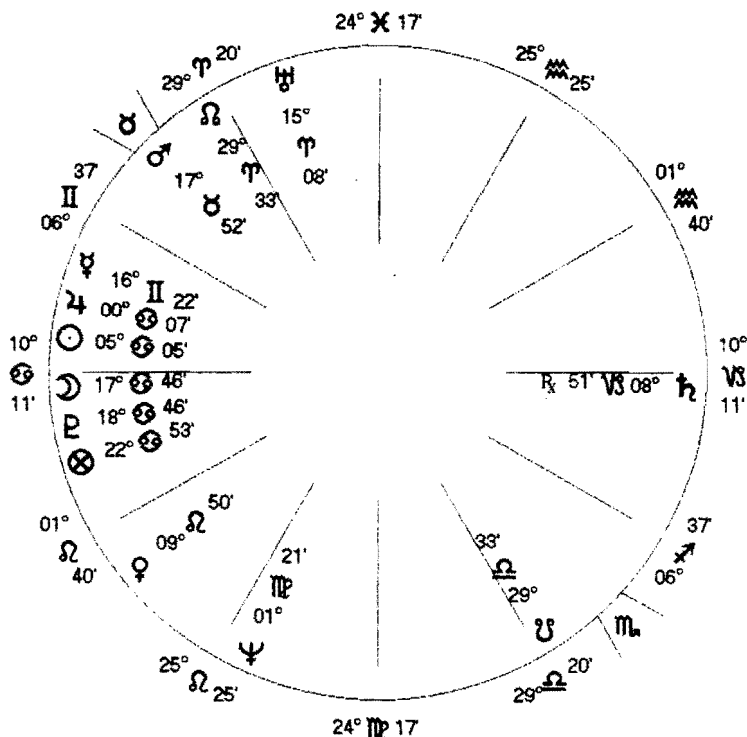

BILL CLINTON

19 August 1946, Hope, Arkansas, 8:51am CST.
33°40'N, 93°36'W. Placidian Cusps.

ROSS PEROT

27 June 1930, Texarkana, Texas, 5:34am CST.
33°26'N, 93°36'W. Placidian Cusps.

almost exactly on the Ascendant, and both Retrograde, and both opposing Natal Venus. Neptune occupies the Natal 12th, Venus the Natal 11th, again presaging defeat of his ambitions and hopes. Extra negative impact is

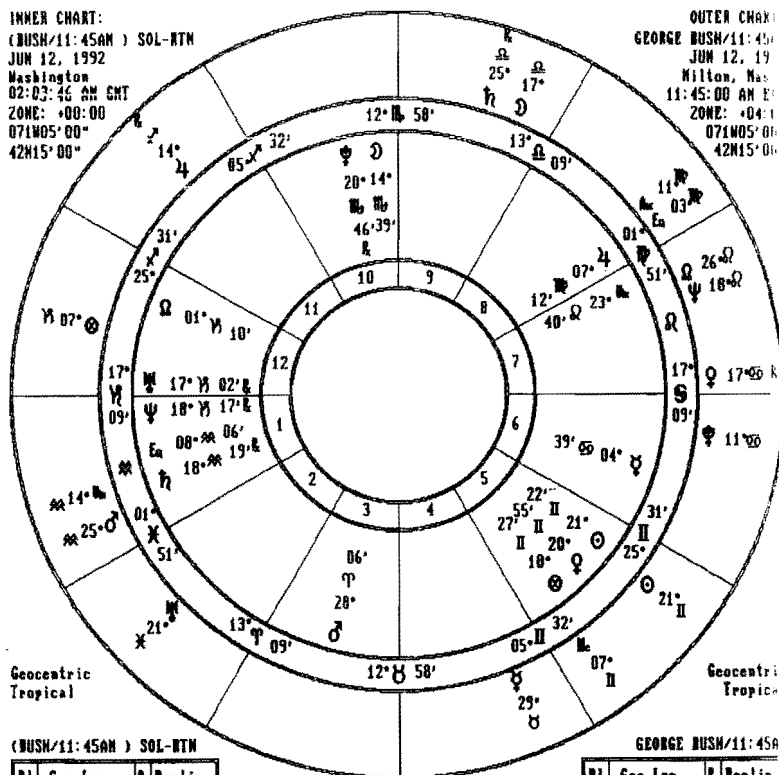

Inner Circle and Cusps:

GEORGE BUSH, SOLAR RETURN

Outer Circle: BIRTH CHART

INNER CHART:

(BUSH/11:45AM) SOL-RTM
JUN 12, 1992
Washington
02:03:46 AM GMT
ZONE: +00:00
071W05°00'
42N15°00'

(BUSH/11:45AM) SOL-RTM

Pl	Geo Lon	Declin.
☉	14° 39' 28"	-19° 52'
☾	21° 21' 46"	+23° 10'
♂	04° 39' 28"	+25° 17'
♀	20° 55' 30"	+23° 13'
♂	28° 05' 42"	+09° 38'
♂	07° 11' 44"	+09° 57'
♂	18° 19' 03"	-16° 11'
♂	17° 01' 35"	-22° 47'
♂	18° 16' 59"	-21° 27'
♂	20° 46' 08"	-03° 18'

GEORGE BUSH/11:45A

Pl	Geo Lon	Declin.
☉	17° 55' 31"	-03° 18'
☾	21° 21' 45"	+23° 10'
♂	29° 24' 29"	+17° 30'
♀	17° 05' 26"	+23° 08'
♂	25° 28' 04"	-16° 14'
♂	14° 11' 28"	-21° 51'
♂	25° 50' 08"	-07° 32'
♂	21° 26' 09"	-04° 06'
♂	18° 07' 44"	+15° 32'
♂	11° 21' 17"	+20° 44'

given by Pluto in and Ruling the House of Career, conjunct the Moon, with both planets square Saturn.

Clinton's Solar Return has the beautiful conjunction of Venus and Jupiter at the Midheaven, plus Natal Venus fulfilling his ambitions on the 11th Cusp trine to SR-Mars and Saturn, plus the Moon in applying trine to the Sun (orb only 1½°). Pluto on the Ascendant of the Return shows a new chapter of his life beginning.

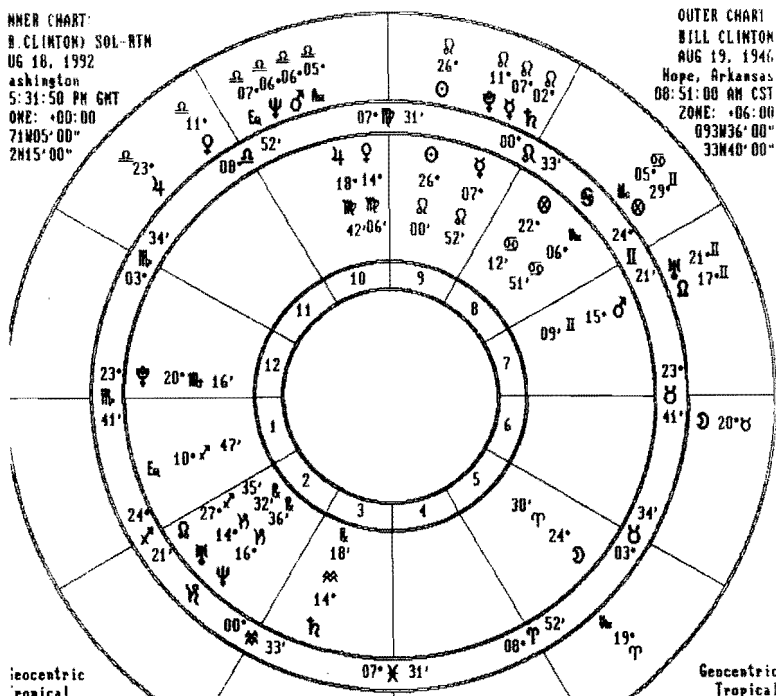

Perot's Solar Return has the negative indications of Natal Uranus in the Midheaven square to SR-Uranus and Neptune; SR-Venus in the House of Sorrows, ruling the 11th House and closely opposed by Natal Saturn (denying his ambitions); SR-Mars, ruling the Career House, conjunct the Moon and both square to Natal Venus; the Sun opposed by Natal Saturn and submerged in the 12th House together with a group of Natal planets.

- Dymock.

Inner Circle and Cusps:

BILL CLINTON, SOLAR RETURN

Outer Circle: BIRTH CHART

B. CLINTON SOL-RTM

Pl	Geo Lon	R Declin.
☉	24° 30' 29"	+13° 46'
☌	26° 00' 08"	+12° 51'
☿	07° 05' 42"	+16° 57'
♀	14° 05' 43"	+07° 33'
♂	15° 08' 35"	+22° 06'
♂	18° 41' 46"	+05° 27'
♂	14° 17' 54"	-17° 32'
♂	14° 32' 18"	-23° 05'
♂	16° 35' 40"	-21° 41'
♂	20° 15' 37"	-03° 42'

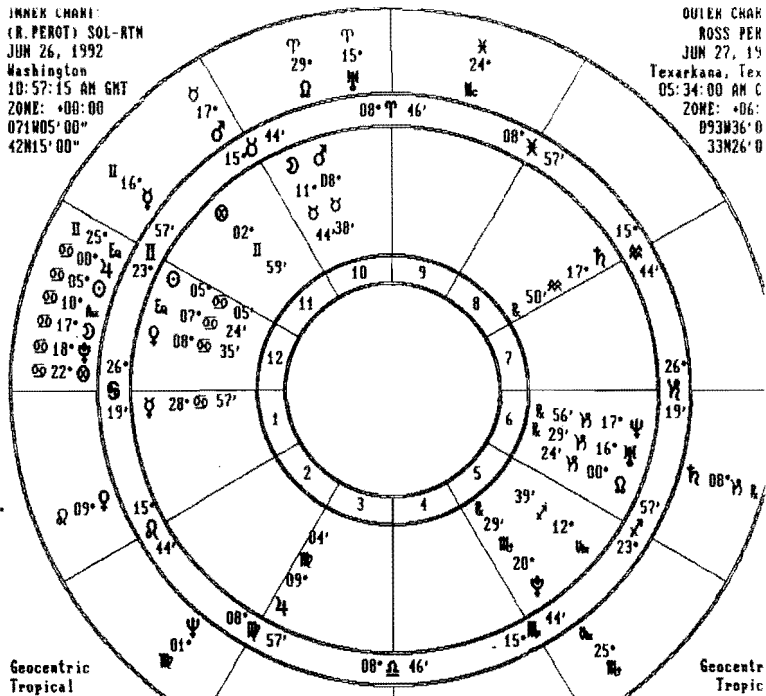

BILL CLINTON

Pl	Geo Lon	R Declin.
☉	20° 17' 51"	+15° 32'
☌	26° 00' 08"	+12° 51'
☿	07° 36' 25"	+17° 18'
♀	11° 07' 04"	-05° 07'
♂	06° 21' 13"	-02° 08'
♂	23° 13' 15"	-08° 00'
♂	02° 08' 07"	+19° 56'
♂	21° 08' 41"	+23° 13'
♂	06° 51' 04"	-01° 23'
♂	11° 05' 20"	+23° 22'

Inner Circle and Cusps:

ROSS PEROT, SOLAR RETURN

Outer Circle: BIRTH CHART

R. PEROT SOL-RTM

Pl	Geo Lon	R Declin.
☉	11° 44' 08"	+19° 09'
☌	05° 04' 35"	+23° 21'
☿	28° 56' 59"	+21° 44'
♀	08° 34' 46"	+23° 48'
♂	08° 37' 44"	+13° 17'
♂	09° 03' 36"	+09° 14'
♂	17° 49' 48"	-16° 23'
♂	16° 29' 23"	-22° 51'
♂	17° 55' 33"	-21° 30'
♂	20° 28' 34"	-03° 19'

ROSS PEROT

Pl	Geo Lon	R Declin.
☉	17° 46' 25"	+27° 09'
☌	05° 04' 36"	+23° 21'
☿	16° 22' 00"	+21° 16'
♀	09° 49' 53"	+19° 34'
♂	17° 52' 24"	+16° 27'
♂	00° 07' 22"	+23° 15'
♂	08° 50' 52"	-22° 27'
♂	15° 08' 28"	+05° 21'
♂	01° 20' 56"	+11° 37'
♂	18° 46' 29"	+22° 04'

The 1992 MELBOURNE CUP

Just about everything will stop in Australia on 3rd November, not for the USA Elections, but for the running of one of the world's most famous horse-race - The Melbourne Cup. It is an interesting exercise to try to pick the winner by Astrology. The Chart below is drawn for two minutes past the scheduled starting time to approximate the finishing time at the end of the two-mile course.

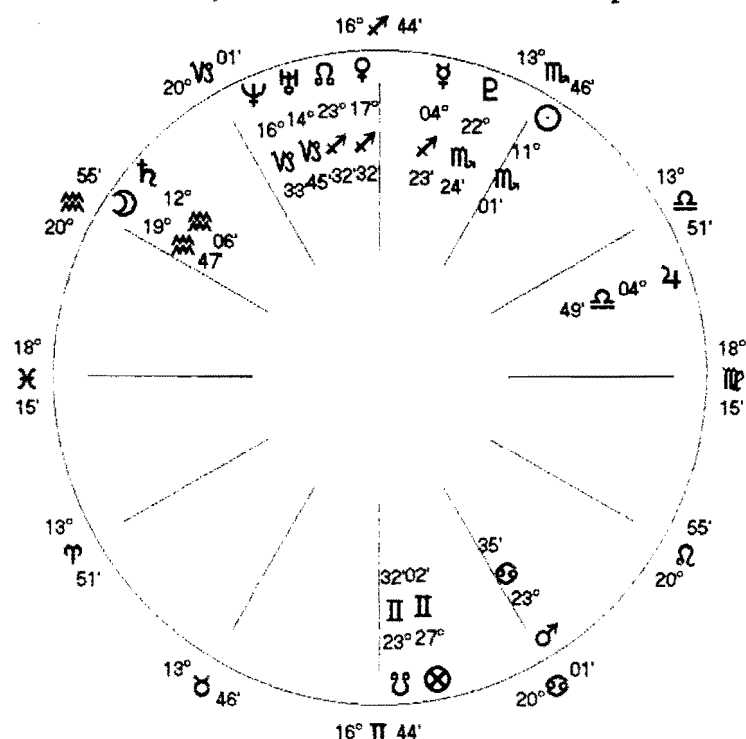

An obvious choice here is any runner described by the planet Venus, which is right on the Meridian of the Chart, and applying to it by the axial rotation of the Earth. If the race is delayed up to three minutes, Venus will be even closer to the Meridian and therefore stronger.

Unfortunately there is no room to give a list of the runners, so make your own choices, principally on the name.

- Dymock,
29th October 1992.

THE MELBOURNE CUP 1992

3 November 1992, Flemington, Vic., 3:32pm
37°47'S, 144°54'E. Placidian Cusps.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath NSW, Australia 2785.

Annual Subscription Australia $15, Overseas $A20.

Issue 134

September 1992

PREDICTIONS for the USA PRESIDENTIAL ELECTIONS, and VICTORIAN and QUEENSLAND STATE ELECTIONS

by Rod and Colleen Brandt.

To determine which Party will win these Elections, we have used the system that has long been in use in the USA for predicting Presidential Elections. In using this type of chart five simple rules apply. The chart is cast by using a Noon Ephemeris, and a simple Solar Chart is cast for the day of the election, excluding the Moon's Nodes. In this chart we consider only two important points - Jupiter for the Republicans or Liberals/-Nationals, Saturn for the Democrats or Labour, to determine which is stronger and therefore more likely to win. We do not use aspects, or the other planets.

We consider the elevation of the planets - whichever is more highly elevated will usually show the victor, especially if it is in the 9th, 10th or 11th House. There are exceptions, such as (a) if one Ruler is elevated over another but also in the confining 12th House so it loses the advantage, or elevation over the other Ruler if the latter is more dignified or on the Eastern side of the chart.

We consider Dignity by Sign: A Ruler in its Home Sign or Exaltation gains power. However, Home Sign is the strongest Dignity. We consider the Retrograde Ruler: The party whose Ruler is retrograde usually loses the election. There are two exceptions to this: (a) If the retrograde Ruler is spared by a Mutual Reception, in which case it may become stronger from its new home than its opponent, and the debility of a retrograde is voided. (b) If the incumbent Ruler is retrograde this can be interpreted as favourable for him/her unless the opponent's Ruler is extremely strong, since retrogrades favour a return, or a "going back". If the incumbent is retrograde but in mutual reception it may lose the advantage of retrograde. However it is NOT imperative for the incumbent party to be retrograde to win.

We consider Mutual Reception, which occurs when two planets are in each other's Home Sign, such as Jupiter in Virgo and Mercury in

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Predictions for the USA Presidential Elections, & Victorian & Queensland State Elections	1
USA Election	2
Comment on Solar Returns of President Bush and Lady Diana	3

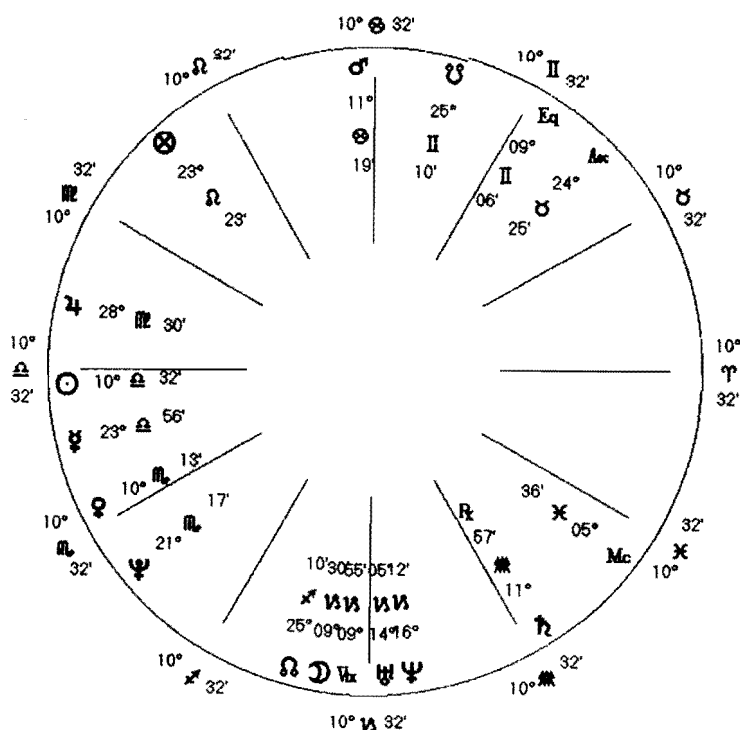

Sagittarius. In such an event, Jupiter should also be studied from his new home in Sagittarius, and may gain strength to win over his opponent.

We consider Disposition. A planet is disposed of by another when it occupies that other planet's Home Sign. Thus Jupiter in Capricorn is disposed of by Saturn. Saturn in Sagittarius is disposed of by Jupiter. One can lose power to the opponent if the opponent disposes of it. A final point - WE DO NOT CONSIDER ASPECTS as this only confuses the picture. We are concerned only with the basic rulers in question - Jupiter and Saturn. A strong or elevated planet can handle, overcome or make use of afflictions, while a weak planet is not made strong by good aspects. Rather, it is helping along and functions within the framework of its Sign and House.

Now, keeping the above points in mind, let us look at our Charts. First, the Victorian Elections, to be held on 3rd October 1992. Jupiter is the more highly elevated planet, but it is in the confined 12th House, and in detriment in Virgo. Saturn is in the 5th House but it is in its own Sign Aquarius, and it is retrograde. The incumbent party is represented by Saturn. There is no dispositor, and one could say that Uranus and Saturn are in mutual reception with each other, which could give Saturn a little more advantage than by transferring to its own Sign Capricorn, even though it is at the bottom or I.C. of the Chart. So it seems that Joan Kirner and Labour will be returned to power. However, it will not be with the advantage that they would like to have.

VICTORIAN STATE ELECTIONS, 3RD OCTOBER 1992

Solar Chart. Noon positions, GMT.
Jupiter = Liberals, Saturn = Labour

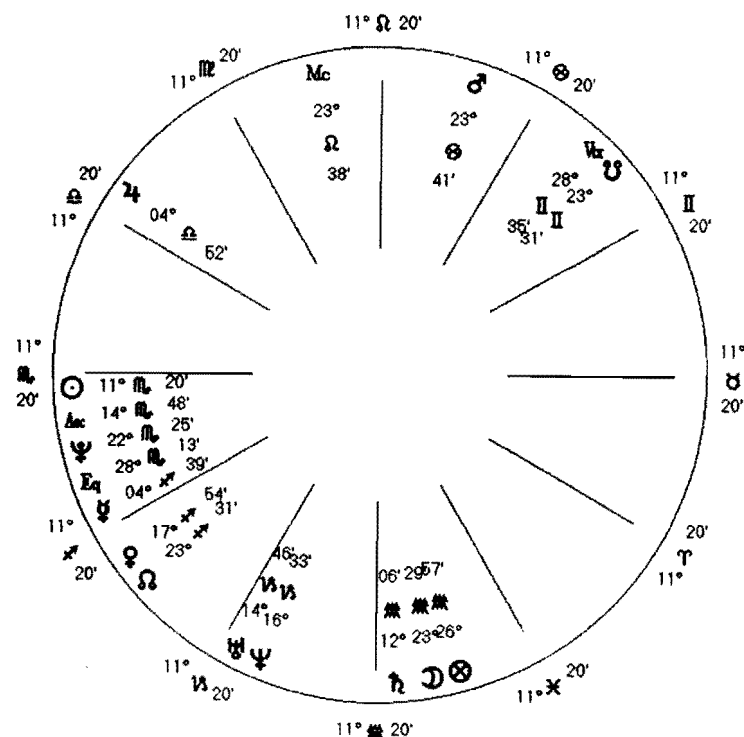

The Presidential Elections will be held on Tuesday, 3rd November. In this Chart we can see how Jupiter and Saturn have changed in this time. They reverse the rules used in the previous Chart. Here, Jupiter has moved out of Virgo and the confinement of the 12th House into Libra in the 11th House. Jupiter represents the Republicans and George Bush. Saturn represents the Democrats and Bill Clinton. Saturn is still in Aquarius in the 4th House. Its mutual reception with Uranus in Capricorn in the 3rd does give it an advantage, and we think Clinton will give Bush a run for his money. However, with Jupiter elevated in the 11th Bush and his Party seem to have an advantage.

Let us then go back to the subject of Disposition. The rule does state that a planet's Home Sign [is the strongest dignity], but remember that Saturn's Exaltation Sign is Libra, and Jupiter is in Libra. Could this also apply in this case? If it does, then Saturn certainly would have the advantage, and the USA could possibly have a change of government. In any case, it will be very close and hard won.

We have just heard the news that Queensland is going to the polls on Saturday, 19th September. Upon checking, we have found that the same type of charting that we used for the Victorian Elections applies here. In fact, the Charts are almost the same. With the planetary placements, particularly Jupiter

USA PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION,TUESDAY 3RD NOVEMBER 1992

Solar Chart, Noon positions, GMT.
Jupiter = Republicans, Saturn = Democrats and Saturn unaltered. This looks very favourable for Wayne Goss and Labour. So it looks like they will be returned to power.

QUEENSLAND STATE ELECTIONS, 19TH SEP. 1992

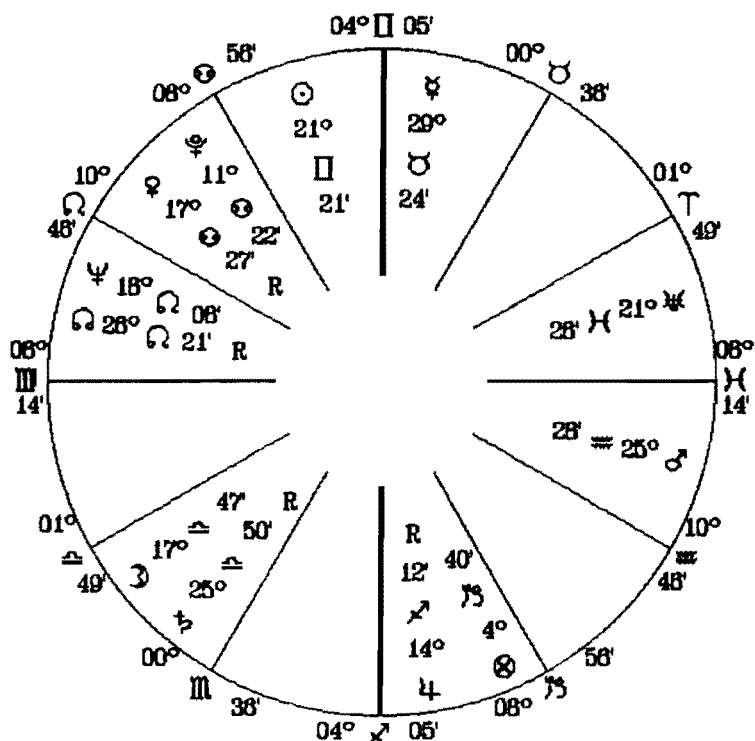

Solar Chart. Noon positions, GMT.

Saturn = Labour, Jupiter = Liberals/Nationals

PRESIDENT BUSH

12th June 1924, Milton, Mass. 42°15'N, 71°5'W
Speculative time of 11:30am. Placidian Cusps.
(Between 11am and 12 noon given by mother)

USA ELECTION

ROSS HARVEY (NSW) writes, "I was looking again at the Life-Span Revolution for George Bush's Chart the other day. I have to assume that he was born at about 11:30am, and that the rate is 4.49°/Yr. This gives MCd conjunct UR, and Asc.d conjunct Venus for his becoming President in November 1988. The same rate gives Saturn d. conjunct Asc. for late this year, and, if MCC. is conjunct Neptune for November 1988, Asc.c is conjunct Saturn for November 1992. This doesn't look much like re-election! I can't find anything in his Solar Returns that unequivocally indicates electoral success either, so I'm tentatively betting on President Clinton.

Ross Harvey asks an appropriate question: Could anyone have predicted marriage for Lady Diana from her Solar Return?

It is indeed the acid test of a Cyclic Chart that it does convincingly portray the principal event in the time period covered.

As with any horoscope, natal, progressed or cyclic, it is desirable to know something of the circumstances and prospects of the subject before attempting a reading. In the present instance, given that the subject was a nubile female of marriageable age, it is feasible to deduce marriage from several

LADY DIANA'S MARRIAGE TO PRINCE CHARLES
Solar Return 1st July 1981, at Birth Place

SIMPLE22

©1992 AstroLab, Inc.

prominent factors in the Chart.

The most significant of these is the close conjunction of the Sun and Moon, a union of the principal significators that invariably (in my experience) commences a new phase in the life. That this new phase would be married life is supported by other factors: The Sun rules the 10th House - status - which is very frequently if not always activated in the event of marriage. Marriage is a change of social status. Venus conjunct the Moon's North Node means a love union, further attested by Venus' rulership here of the House of Marriage. Additionally, Jupiter almost exactly sextiles Venus (orb 0°2'). Though I have not found that Venus and Jupiter alone signify marriage (unless, for instance, they are conjunct in the 7th House) there is no doubt that they help to draw people together through enhancing the love nature. The stage is set for a union if other factors concur, as here.

When we refer the Solar Return to her Birth Chart, (see concentric Charts below) the new chapter in Lady Diana's life is signalled by SR-Pluto conjunct the Natal Midheaven, and Natal Uranus conjunct the SR-Midheaven.

(Incidentally, in my experience it is much preferable to put the Cyclic Chart inside the Birth Chart, rather than the other way round, which is the usual practice.)

The marriage occurred on 29th July 1981, and it is appropriate that the particular activating factor was the Progressed Moon trine to the Sun on 6th August 1981, a week later.

Outer Circle: BIRTH CHART of

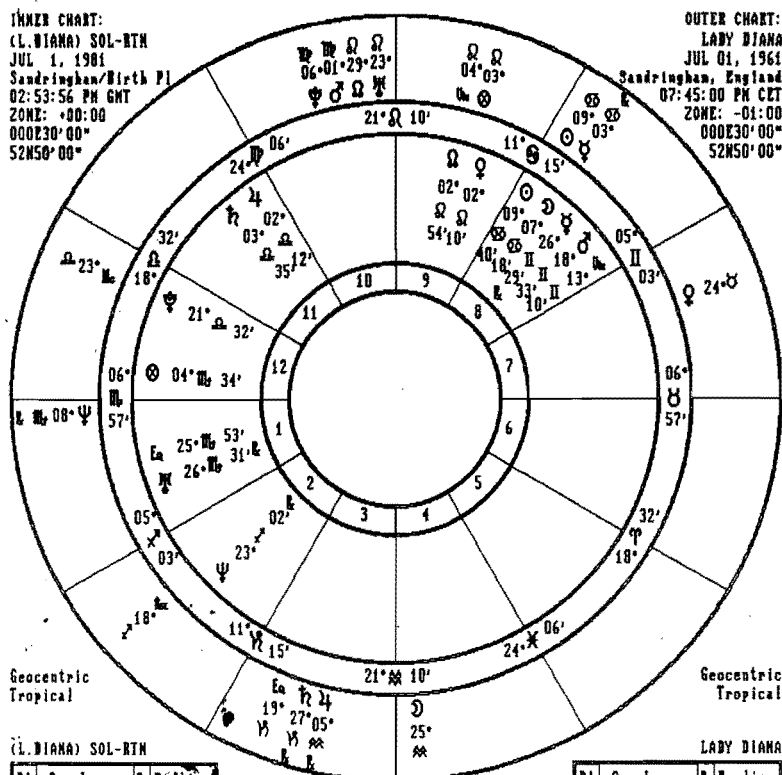

LADY DIANA, PRINCESS OF WALES

1st July 1961, 7:45pm BST Sandringham.

0°30'E, 52°50'N. Placidian Cusps.

Inner Circle and Cusps:

SOLAR RETURN FOR MARRIAGE

Geocentric Tropical

(L. DIANA) SOL-RTN

Pl	Geo Lon	Decl.
☉	07° 17' 44"	+21° 04'
☽	09° 39' 48"	+23° 05'
♂	26° 11' 45"	+18° 46'
♀	02° 09' 32"	+21° 11'
♂	18° 11' 32"	+23° 15'
♂	02° 11' 37"	+00° 19'
♂	03° 34' 55"	+00° 47'
♂	26° 31' 07"	+19° 10'
♂	23° 02' 08"	+21° 54'
♂	21° 32' 08"	+07° 36'

Dymock Bros
CONSULTANT ASTROLOGER
86 Clarence Road
Blackheath, NSW, 2785
Tel: (047) 87 8874

Geocentric Tropical

LADY DIANA

Pl	Geo Lon	Decl.
☉	25° 11' 45"	+12° 55'
☽	09° 39' 47"	+23° 05'
♂	03° 08' 12' 07"	+18° 41'
♀	24° 05' 24' 05"	+15° 59'
♂	01° 38' 45"	+11° 55'
♂	05° 05' 49"	+19° 32'
♂	27° 48' 49"	+20° 44'
♂	23° 02' 09"	+14° 25'
♂	08° 38' 14"	+12° 40'
♂	06° 02' 30"	+21° 01'

The Solar Return for ex-President Richard Nixon's marriage (see last Issue, p.8) does not unequivocally show the event, though there are strong pointers that way: Venus ruling the House of Unions is closely conjunct the Natal Moon (orb 0°17'), which is fairly typical of a man's marriage, and Venus is sextile Saturn ruling the House of Status (though this is a weak aspect, being only a sextile with an orb over 4°). SR-Moon ruling the 5th House (romance and love) conjoins Natal Uranus, which occupies the 5th House of the Birth Chart. Where a man is concerned, Moon conjunct Uranus is much associated with love unions.

Saturn opposite the North Node in the Solar Return is more typical of a separation than a union, and the same must be said of Venus square Uranus. Perhaps this did occur - Nixon would not be the first man to separate from a lover and marry someone else within the space of a few months. Nixon married on the 21st of June 1940, which was more than five months after the date of the Solar Return, so in that time he might well have left one prospective bride and become attached to another whom he subsequently married. Perhaps it was a "rebound" marriage after he was jilted - we don't know. If anybody has further information along these lines, and particularly if the place where the marriage occurred is known, I should be glad to hear it. It is possible that if Nixon married in a town or city remote from his birth place (which I have used for his Solar Return) there might be more definite indications of marriage.

Outer Circle:

BIRTH HOROSCOPE OF RICHARD NIXON

9th January 1913, 9:35pm, Yorba Linda, Cal.

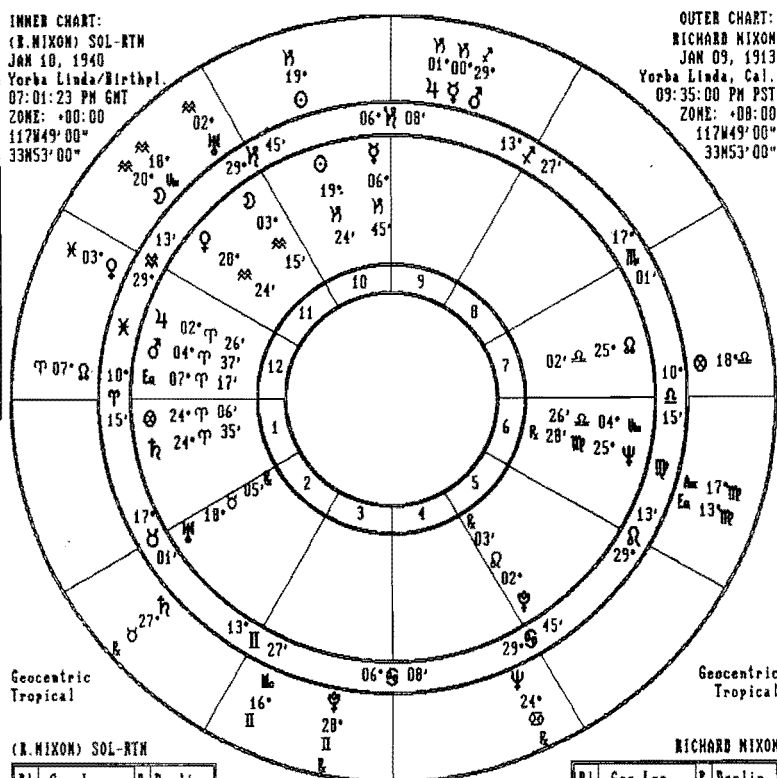

33°53'N, 117°49'W. Placidian Cusps.

Inner Circle and Cusps:

SOLAR RETURN 10TH JAN. 1940

Set for the Birth Place. Placidian Cusps.

(Marriage on 21st June 1940)

Geocentric Tropical

(R. NIXON) SOL-RTN

Pl	Geo Lon	Decl.
☉	03° 14' 51"	+14° 37'
☽	19° 24' 08"	+22° 02'
♂	06° 44' 32"	+24° 09'
♀	20° 24' 23"	+16° 19'
♂	04° 36' 51"	+01° 42'
♂	02° 26' 02"	+00° 11'
♂	24° 35' 24"	+07° 12'
♂	18° 05' 26"	+16° 55'
♂	25° 28' 03"	+02° 55'
♂	02° 02' 55"	+23° 27'

Dymock Bros
CONSULTANT ASTROLOGER
86 Clarence Road
Blackheath, NSW, 2785
Tel: (047) 87 8874

Geocentric Tropical

RICHARD NIXON

Pl	Geo Lon	Decl.
☉	20° 07' 18"	+18° 13'
☽	19° 24' 08"	+22° 03'
♂	00° 00' 52"	+23° 16'
♀	03° 29' 09"	+11° 30'
♂	29° 44' 55"	+24° 00'
♂	01° 40' 14"	+23° 14'
♂	27° 29' 03"	+17° 36'
♂	02° 41' 38"	+20° 07'
♂	24° 46' 12"	+02° 41'
♂	28° 39' 10"	+17° 17'

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock,

24th September 1992.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath NSW, Australia 2785.

Annual Subscription Australia $15, Overseas $A20.

Issues 132/133 July/August 1992

THE LIFE-SPAN REVOLUTION REVISITED

by Jack Nicholls

Since the publication of the original article (The Life-Span Revolution by Ross Harvey, Issues 125 - 127, December 1991 - February 1992) a number of readers have reported difficulty in understanding the subject. The following explanation may help some readers. In addition, the introduction of a graphical procedure to reduce the amount of work, should tempt more astrologers to try the method.

It is convenient to regard the heavens as positioned on the inside of a sphere of infinite radius - the Celestial Sphere - with the Earth at its centre, and the Celestial Equator as the projection of the Earth's Equator onto the Celestial Sphere. The plane of the Equator is at right angles to the Earth's axis, and the centre of the circle of the Equator is the centre of the Earth. Due to the Earth's rotation the heavens appear to rotate each twenty four hours causing the planets and stars to successively rise, culminate, and set.

Positions on the Earth's surface may be located by reference to a grid system, one co-ordinate of which - geographic longitude - involves measurement along the Equator beginning at the Greenwich meridian. The celestial equivalent of longitude measured along the Celestial Equator is termed Right Ascension (RA). The Sun's apparent annual path is a circle in the heavens - the Ecliptic - inclined at $23^{\circ}27'$ to the Celestial Equator, and the starting point for Right Ascension is taken as one of the two points where the Ecliptic and the Equator cross, namely, 0° Aries. Ecliptic or Zodiacal longitude which is listed in the Ephemeris also commences at 0° Aries. Sidereal Time is equivalent to Right Ascension being measured along the Celestial Equator in hours and minutes rather than degrees and minutes (that is, $RA = Sid.T \times 15$).

Measurements involving the rotation of the Earth will perforce be in Right Ascension, whereas chart data such as the Angles and planetary positions are in Zodiacal longitude. The Meridian is the great circle (that is, a circle having the centre of the Earth as its centre) which passes through the

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The Life-Span Revolution Revisited	1
Angles and Cadents in the Solar Ret.	5
Forthcoming Election in Victoria	8

North and South points of the horizon, and through the Zenith (the point directly overhead). The RAMC is the point where it cuts the Equator, and the MC where it cuts the Ecliptic. The Sidereal Time or Right Ascension of the Meridian at birth is the RAMC. Thus when the rate \times age (degrees) is added to, or subtracted from the RAMC, the movement is correctly along the Celestial Equator in RA. These direct and converse positions are converted to give the direct and converse MC's and the derived Ascendants. As the Ecliptic and the Equator form two sides of a triangle with an angular separation of $23^{\circ}27'$, trigonometric means must be used for the conversion of RAMC to MC. Conversion tables are available in many texts, or a calculator can be used in the application of a simple formula:

$$MC = \arctan(\tan RAMC \div \cos E)$$

where E is the obliquity - approximately $23^{\circ}27'$ (the exact value for a given date being shown in the Ephemeris). Once the MC is determined the associated Ascendant is found by consulting a Table of Houses, or by use of a calculator and another formula:

$$Asc = \arctan[\cos RAMC \div (\sin E \tan L + \cos E \sin RAMC)]$$ where L is the geographic latitude, with North + and South -.

One advantage of using a scientific calculator is that it can be programmed to perform both of these computations in one operation, so that after the values of E and L are entered only one entry for RAMC produces the associated MC and Ascendant.

The Graphical Procedure

The graph shown in Figure 1 is on metric paper measuring 28 by 40 cm., and is very convenient for the procedure. Mark the vertical axis in degrees from 0° Aries to 30° Pisces (or 0° to 360° if preferred) overlapping at each end as shown. The horizontal axis is marked with the rates from 4°/Yr. (corresponding to 90 years of age) to say 6°/Yr. (60 years), or 9°/Yr. (40 years), etc., depending on the age of the subject being investigated. Next draw horizontal lines for the ten "planetary" bodies at the conjunction and opposition positions, marking them accordingly.

For each Angle (MC and Asc, direct and converse), and for each event, lines will be drawn, and where they intercept the planetary positions the corresponding rates can be read. Intercepts appropriate to the events can be averaged to give the estimate of the life span.

Ten events from the life of George V have been used to illustrate the procedure, and the direct and converse MC's and Asc's for these events, using rates of 4°/Yr, 4.5°/Yr. and 6°/Yr. are listed in Table 1. The intercepts from Figure 1 appropriate to these events are shown in Table 2. Figure 1 also shows four examples, these being the direct MC and Asc lines for George becoming the Heir Apparent at his brother's death, and the converse MC and Asc lines for accession to the throne on his father's death. The 82 contacts from Table 2 were averaged to yield:

Median	5.11°/Yr.
Mode	5.16°/Yr.
Mean	5.06°/Yr.
Trim Mean	5.11°/Yr.

The Median is the central value when the items are arranged according to size. The Mode is the most frequent or common value. The first Mean is the arithmetic mean of all values, and the Trim Mean is the mean of the items that remain after discarding those more than 0.5°/Yr. from the first Mean. A value of 5.11°/Yr. corresponds to an age of 70.45 years, which is about two months from the actual age at death. There was no significant difference between the direct and converse values. Two-thirds of the contacts were obtained from the direct and converse MC lines, but this may be only a peculiarity of the particular example.

Three rates were used in calculating the data listed in Table 1. However, the MC and Asc lines used to obtain the results shown in Table 2 were drawn using only the coordinates at the 4°/Yr. and 6°/Yr. positions. It can be shown mathematically, or demonstrated graphically, that these lines are essentially linear over this interval. For example, the deviations of the intermediate points at the position of the 4.5°/Yr. rate can be examined in relation to the lines and seen to be very small. In fact they result in errors in the rates of about 0.06°/Yr., equivalent to a change in age of five months.

Other intervals not relevant to the present example may be examined using the George V data to determine what saving in calculation may be achieved without unduly prejudicing accuracy. For a single event, namely, becoming Heir Apparent, intervals of 4°/Yr. - 9°/Yr., 4°/Yr. - 12°/Yr. and 6°/Yr. - 12°/Yr. were tested. An intermediate rate of 6°/Yr. for the interval 4°/Yr. - 9°/Yr. had an error of 0.06°/Yr. (7 months), that of 9°/Yr. for the interval 4°/Yr. - 12°/Yr. had an error of 0.29°/Yr. (1.3 years) and the position of 9°/Yr. for the range 6°/Yr. - 12°/Yr. had an error of 0.15°/Yr. (8 months). Ranges involving rates greater than 12°/Yr., equivalent to ages of less than 30 years have not been investigated. It would seem feasible for an investigation from age 30 - 90 years (rates 4°/Yr. - 12°/Yr) to calculate Angles at rates 4°/Yr., 9°/Yr. and 12°/Yr. for a reasonable compromise between amount of work and accuracy of results.

PROGRESSIONS

This procedure is so simple that there is little to add to the original article. A table of decimal values of the year (as, for example, in Rectification of the Birthtime by G. Schwicker) is a useful aid in expressing the age for particular events, and Day Number tables (for example, as in Prediction - Using Common and Prenatal Cycles by Alexander Marr) are of assistance in obtaining the progressed and regressed dates. The aspects formed between the Progressed/Regressed Sun and planets are conveniently read from an aspectarian in an Ephemeris. Two days on either side of the calculated are allowed.

Table 3 lists the results for nine events in the life of J.F. Kennedy, working with a rate of 7.681 days/Yr., previously determined by the basic Life Span procedure as in Ross Harvey's article. A simple average gives the final rate of 7.672 days/Yr., equivalent to 46.92 years of age, which is 5.2 months from the actual age at death.

It is hoped that this small contribution may help in the application of a very significant procedure. Serious errors in the use of the Life-Span method may have unfortunate consequences, and great care should be exercised to ensure that correct results are obtained.

GEORGE V

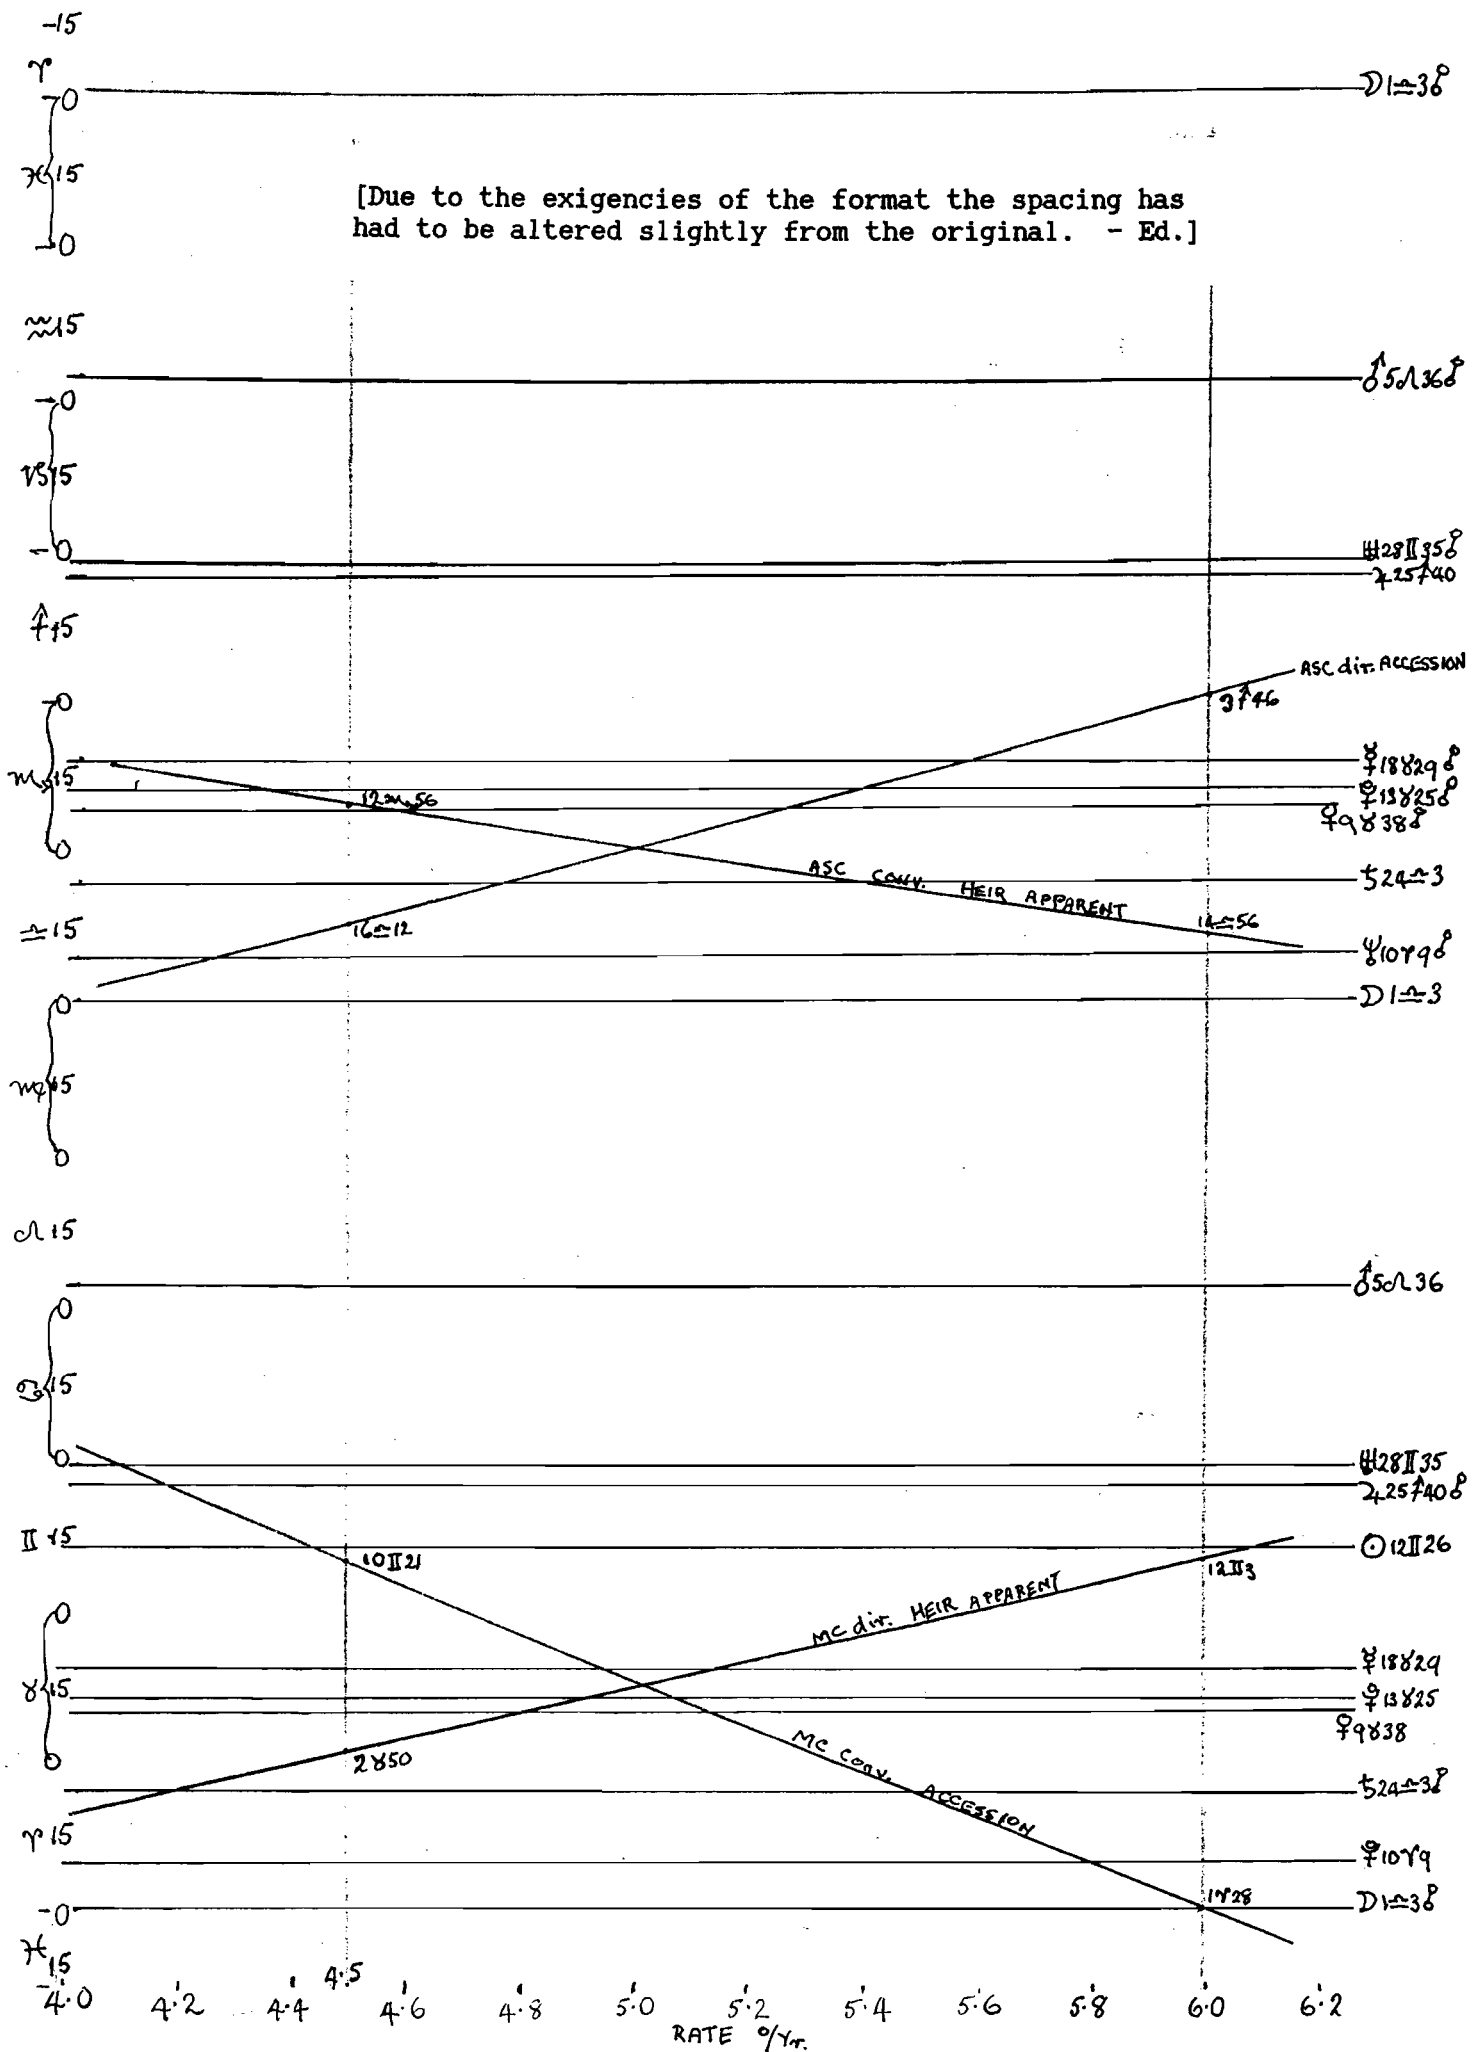

TABLE 1

Life-Span Revolution for George V

Born 3rd June 1865, 51°30'N. RAMC 270°53'.

(See Chart in Issue 125)

AGE	MC dir	ASC dir	MC conv	ASC conv
	Joined Navy, February 1877
11.6987	15Aq12	20Ge59	16Sc33	10Cp51
	Heir Apparent, brother died, 14 January 1892
26.6137	18Ar46	09Le01	13Vi05	22Sc13
	Married, 6 July 1893
28.0904	25Ar05	13Le11	06Vi47	18Sc03
	Son born, 14 December 1895
30.5315	05Ta19	20Le02	26Le31	11Sc12
	Son born, 30 March 1900
34.8192	22Ta33	02Vi00	09Le10	29Li14
	Accession, father died, 6 May 1910
44.9206	27Ge45	28Vi16	03Cn51	02Li58
	Accident 28 October 1915
50.4027	20Cn47	15Li50	10Ge51	15Vi24
	Illness, 21 November 1928
63.4685	13Vi27	22Sc27	18Ar27	08Le48
	Surgery, 15 July 1929
64.1150	16Vi14	24Sc17	15Ar39	06Le58
	Sister died, 4 January 1931
65.5863	22Vi37	28Sc29	09Ar16	02Le45

For a rate of 4.5°/Year

MC dir	ASC dir	MC conv	ASC conv
	Joined Navy
21Aq07	26Ge48	10Sc39	04Cp53
	Heir Apparent
02TA50	18LE21	28LE59	12SC51
	Married
09TA41	23LE00	22LE06	08SC13
	Son born
20TA42	00VI40	11LE01	00SC33
	Son born
07GE22	12VI47	22CN23	17LI02
	Accession
21CN17	16LI12	10GE21	15VI01
	Accident
15LE13	03SC28	16TA32	27LE45

MC dir ASC dir MC conv ASC conv

	Illness
17LI52	15SG56	14PI00	15CN26
	Surgery
21LI00	18SG16	10PI52	13CN08
	Sister died
28LI01	23SG46	03PI50	07CN43

For a rate of 6.0°/Year

	Joined Navy
09PI30	12CN06	22LI22	19SG19
	Heir Apparent
12GE03	15VI18	19CN35	14LI56
	Married
20GE16	22VI32	11CN20	08LI42
	Son born
03CN44	02LI52	27GE52	28VI22
	Son born
27CN43	20LI58	03GE57	10VI15
	Accession
00LI26	03SG46	01AR28	27CN44
	Accident
05SC36	00CP13	26AQ12	01CN23
	Illness
20CP02	16TA23	11SG36	16AQ43
	Surgery
24CP38	24TA25	07SG57	10AQ00
	Sister died
02AQ08	05GE35	29SC33	26CP45

Table 2

Rates from graphical intercepts for 10 events

MC dir	ASC dir	MC conv	ASC conv
	Joined Navy
-----	-----	-----	UR op 5.15
-----	-----	-----	JU cj 5.36
	Heir Apparent
VE cj 4.78	-----	-----	ME op 4.22
	Brother died
ME cj 5.12	-----	-----	VE op 4.70
PL cj 4.93	-----	-----	PL op 4.49
SU cj 6.03	-----	-----	SA cj 5.51

MC dir ASC dir MC conv ASC conv
SA op 4.20 ----- ----- -----

Married

VE cj 4.52 MA cj 5.11 -- VE op 4.45
ME cj 4.84 ----- ----- PL op 4.25
JU op 6.20 ----- ----- -----
PL cj 4.67 ----- ----- -----
SU cj 5.61 ----- ----- -----

Son born

VE cj 4.14 MA cj 4.72 --- VE op 4.07
ME cj 4.45 UR cj 5.97 --- MO cj 5.87
JU op 5.72 JU op 6.06 --- -----
PL cj 4.29 ----- ----- -----
SU cj 5.26 ----- ----- -----
UR cj 5.81 ----- ----- -----

Son born

SU cj 4.62 MA cj 4.11 MO cj 4.11 MO cj 5.15
JU op 5.04 UR cj 5.25 ----- -----
UR cj 5.11 JU op 5.33 ----- -----
----- SU cj 5.74 ----- -----

Accession, father died
MA cj 4.82 UR cj 4.12 NE op 4.37 MA cj 5.75
----- JU op 4.17 SA cj 4.79 MO cj 4.07
----- SU cj 4.47 PL op 5.37 -----
----- ME cj 4.98 ME op 5.53 -----
----- PL cj 5.09 VE op 5.25 -----
----- SA op 5.51 ----- -----
----- NE cj 5.81 ----- -----
----- VE cj 5.18 ----- -----

Accident

MA cj 4.18 SA op 4.91 UR op 5.96 MA cj 5.18
NE op 5.52 NE cj 5.18 ----- -----

Illness

NE op 4.43 MA op 5.20 MA op 5.55 -----
SA cj 4.65 ----- ----- -----
PL op 4.95 ----- ----- -----

Surgery

NE op 4.37 MA op 5.16 MA op 5.47 PL cj 5.73
SA cj 4.59 ----- ----- -----
MA op 6.16 ----- ----- -----

Sister died

NE op 4.27 MA op 4.88 MA op 5.28 PL cj 5.57
SA cj 4.48 UR op 5.55 ----- SA op 5.95
PL op 4.78 ----- ----- -----
UR op 5.48 ----- ----- -----
MA cj 6.05 ----- ----- -----

Median 5.11°/Year
Mode 5.18°/Year
Mean 5.06°/Year
Trim Mean 5.11/Year

TABLE 3

Progressions/Regressions to the Prg/Reg Sun for line events in the life of J.F.Kennedy, born 29 May 1917 & based on a rate of 7.681 days/year.

Age Yr. Rate x Age Prg.Date Regr.Date

Trust Fund

21.000 161.3 6 Nov 17 19 Dec 16

Graduated

23.063 177.1 22 Nov 17 3 Dec 16

Wounded

26.178 201.1 16 Dec 17 9 Nov 16

Congress

29.600 227.4 11 Jan 18 14 Oct 16

Senate

35.430 272.1 25 Feb 18 30 Aug 16

Married

36.290 278.7 4 Mar 18 23 Aug 16

Daughter born

40.497 311.1 5 Mar 18 22 Jul 16

President

43.337 332.9 27 Apr 18 1 Jul 16

Birth and death of son

46.197 354.8 19 May 18 8 Jun 16

Prgd Asp. Calc.Rate Regd.Asp. Calc.Rate

Trust Fund

par ME 4/11 7.57 tri JU 17/12 7.78 par UR 5/11 7.62

Graduated

----- ----- sesq JU 3/12 7.68

Wounded

sesq NE 14/12 7.61 par UR 9/11 7.68
----- ----- squ UR 8/11 7.72
----- ----- sesq PL 11/11 7.61

Congress

ssxt UR 12/01 7.72 cpar VE 15/10 7.64

Senate

par VE 25/02 7.68 smsq VE 28/08 7.62
----- ----- tri JU 29/08 7.65

Married

ssxt VE 4/03 7.68 par JU 21/08 7.74

Daughter born

smsq VE 4/04 ----- ----- -----

Prqgd Asp.	Calc. Rate	Regd. Asp.	Calc. Rate
President
cpar UR 25/4	7.64	conj. VE 3/7	7.64
conj ME 27/4	7.68	-----	----
par ME 28/4	7.71	-----	----

Birth and death of son

par PL 17/5	7.64	conj ME 6/6	7.73
squ UR 19/5	7.68	ssxt SA 6/6	7.72
-----	-----	smsq NE 6/6	7.72
-----	-----	tri UR 10/6	7.64

Mean rate 7.672 days/year

ANGLES AND CADENTS IN THE SOLAR RETURN

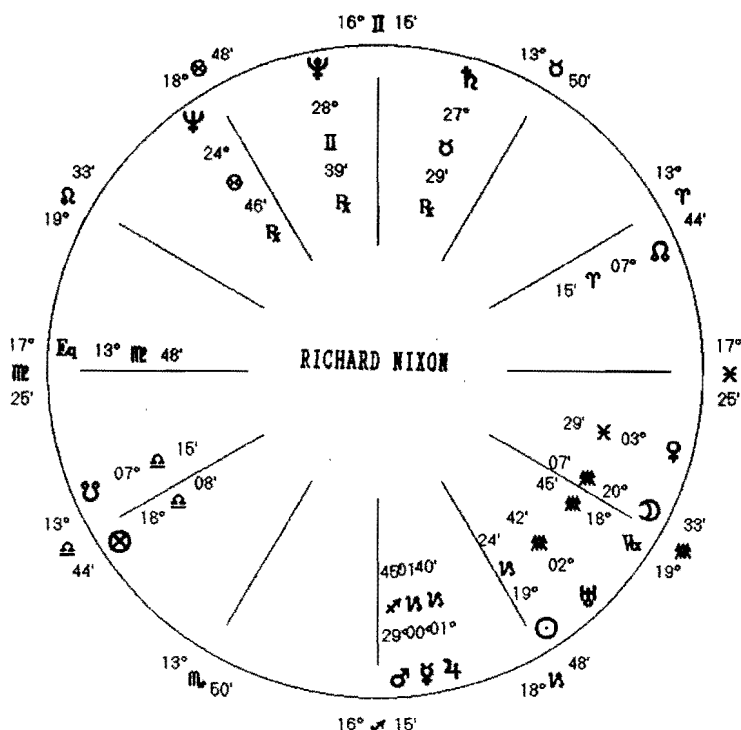

ROSS HARVEY (NSW) writes, "I have noticed something very interesting about Solar Returns just recently ... Specifically, the most important planets - those which indicate the chief influences for the year in question - are almost without fail to be found, not always conjunct the Angles as everyone has supposed, but in the Cadent Houses - just where Gauquelin said planets were at their strongest!"

Ross sends as examples the Horoscope of Ex-President Richard Nixon (Chart 1), and the Solar Return Charts for his election as President, for his resignation as a result of the Watergate Scandal, and for his marriage.

Chart 1

RICHARD NIXON

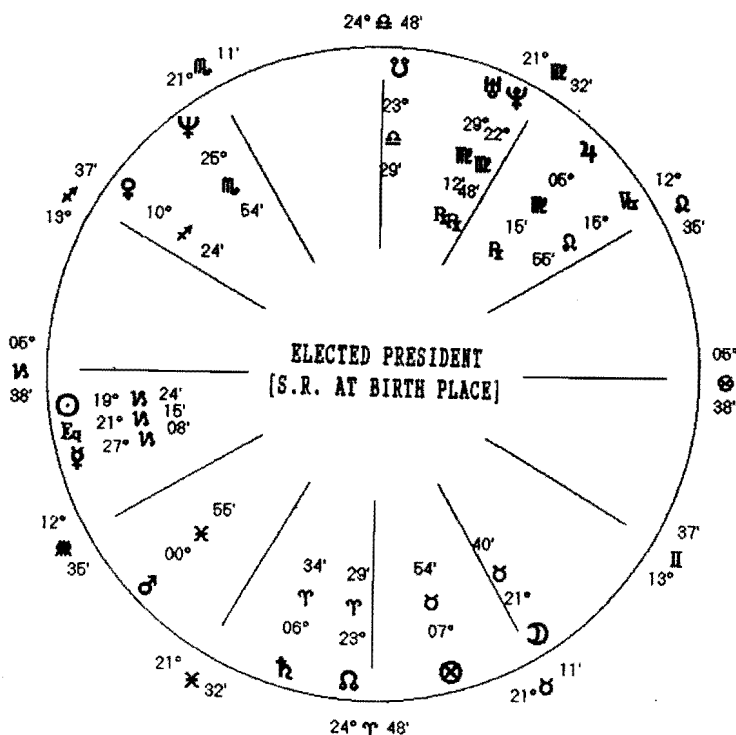

9th January 1913, 9:35pm, Yorba Linda, Cal.
33°53'N, 117°49'W. Placidian Cusps.

Nixon was elected President of the United States on 5th November 1968, and Chart 2 is his 55th Solar Return covering the period.

Chart 2

SOLAR RETURN AT BIRTH PLACE, 10 JAN. 1968

Ross draws attention to the position of Natal Jupiter, at 1°41' Capricorn, just above the Solar Return Ascendant. Ross takes this position as being in the Cadent 12th House. From my experience, this is a 1st House position. I have for years maintained that the Cusps are not the boundaries of the Houses but their most potent points. Planets near to a Cusp, on either side, have their energies highly emphasized.

The indications are more prominent if we relocate the Return Chart to the place of Government (Chart 3) instead of the place of birth. Now, Venus is in the 10th, less than 5° from the Meridian, and Jupiter, Lord of the 10th, is Angular in the 7th. Saturn (responsibility and authority) closely trines the MC. Highly significant also is the Natal Vertex at 18°45' Aquarius right on the Solar-Return Ascendant, bespeaking a turn of destiny, and emphasized by the Moon less than 1½° away.

The Solar Return for Nixon's enforced resignation on 9th August 1974, when set for the place of birth (Chart 4) certainly shows Saturn in the Cadent 12th House - no question about that.

Of prime significance, however, is Pluto, The Destroyer, almost exactly opposite the Midheaven (orb 0°17'), and the Nodal Axis in the Birth Chart practically identified with the Solar-Return Meridian (only $0^{\circ}17'$ away). This is about as clear a portent as one could have of a fall from the top.

Chart 3

SOLAR RETURN AT WASHINGTON, 10 JAN. 1968

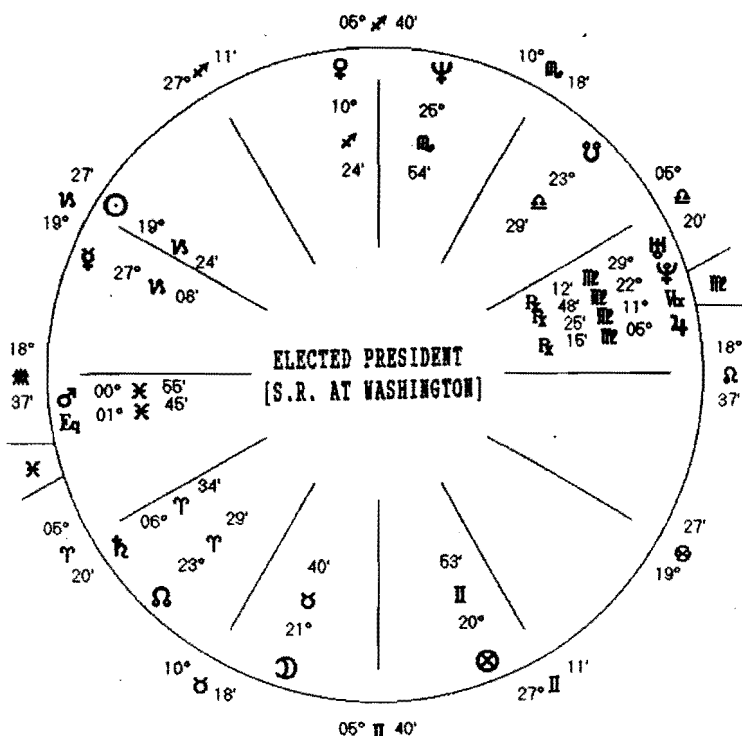

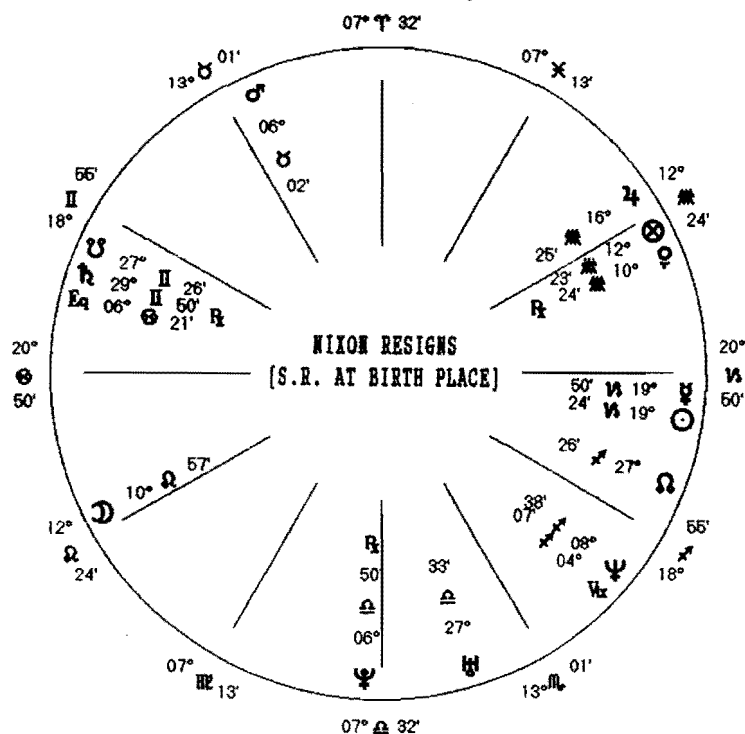

Chart 4

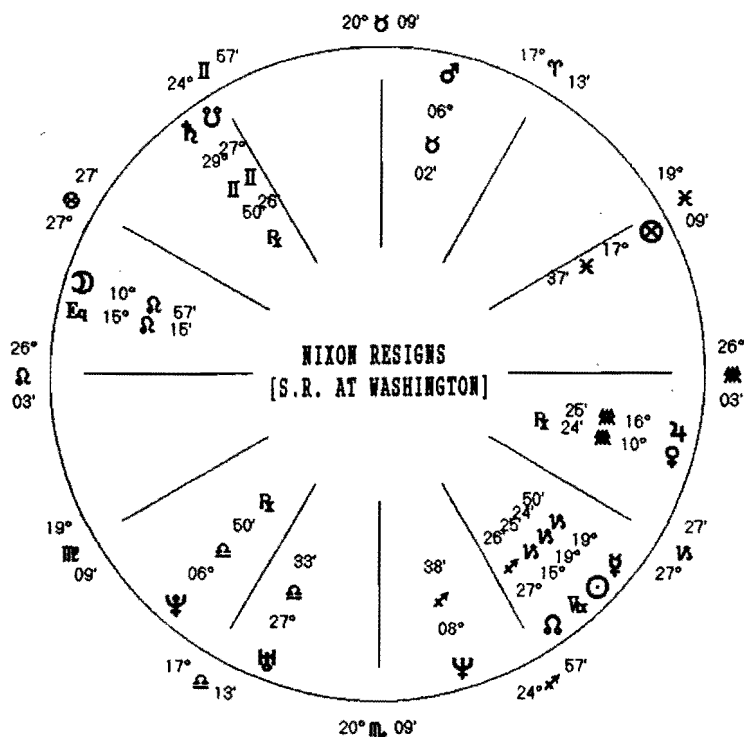

SOLAR RETURN 10 JAN. 1974, AT BIRTH PLACE

The picture is hardly less clear in Chart 5, SR relocated to the place of Government.

Chart 5

SOLAR RETURN AT WASHINGTON 10 JAN. 1974.

Here, Natal Saturn retrograde at $27^{\circ}29'$ Taurus is in the 10th House, closely square the Solar Return Ascendant, $26^{\circ}3'$ Leo (orb $1^{\circ}26'$), and almost exactly quincunx S.R.-Uranus (orb $0^{\circ}6'$). An additional testimony is the close opposition of the Moon, ruling the 12th House (self-undoing) to Venus, Ruler of the 10th (position and status).

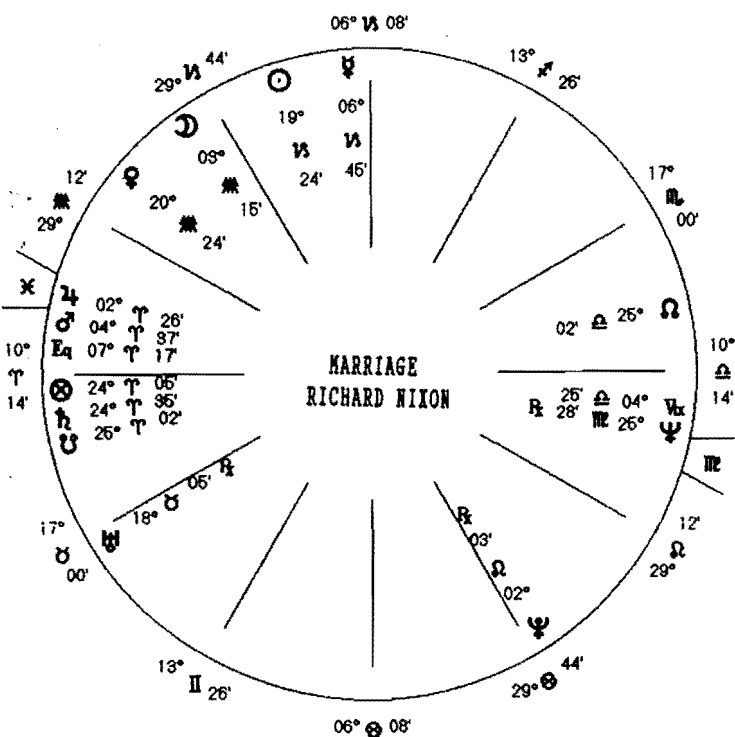

Nixon married on 21st June 1913, and Chart 6 is the appropriate Solar Return. As I do not know where the marriage took place I am not able to give the relocated Chart. Ross considers that the conjunction of Mars (Ruler) with Jupiter describes the event, and is in the Cadent 12th House. But is it? From the 12th Cusp to the Ascendant comprises 41° , the whole of the Sign Pisces being intercepted. In my view the commencement of the First House is therefore approximately 13° above the Ascendant, starting at about 27° Pisces, and accordingly I would place Mars and Jupiter in the 1st House. I accept that opinions will differ on this.

Ross further comments that the rising Saturn is inappropriate, but it does rule the 10th, and sextiles Venus ruling the Marriage House. Mercury at the Midheaven is consonant with change of status.

Matters are not conclusive. It would certainly be interesting to view the relocated chart if any reader can supply the place of the marriage.

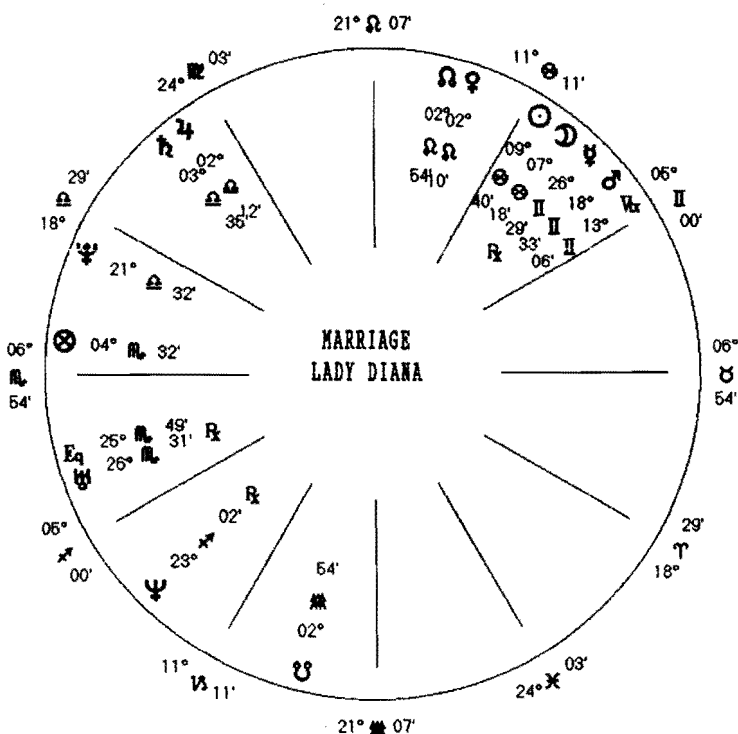

Chart 6

SOLAR RETURN 10 JAN.1940, AT BIRTH PLACE

Ross's proposition gains some support from the Solar Return for the marriage of Princess Diana, whose Birth Horoscope appeared in last month's Issue. The Princess married Prince Charles on 29th July 1981.

SOLAR RETURN 1ST JULY 1981 AT BIRTH PLACE
Sandringham, 52°50'N, 0°30'E. Placidus

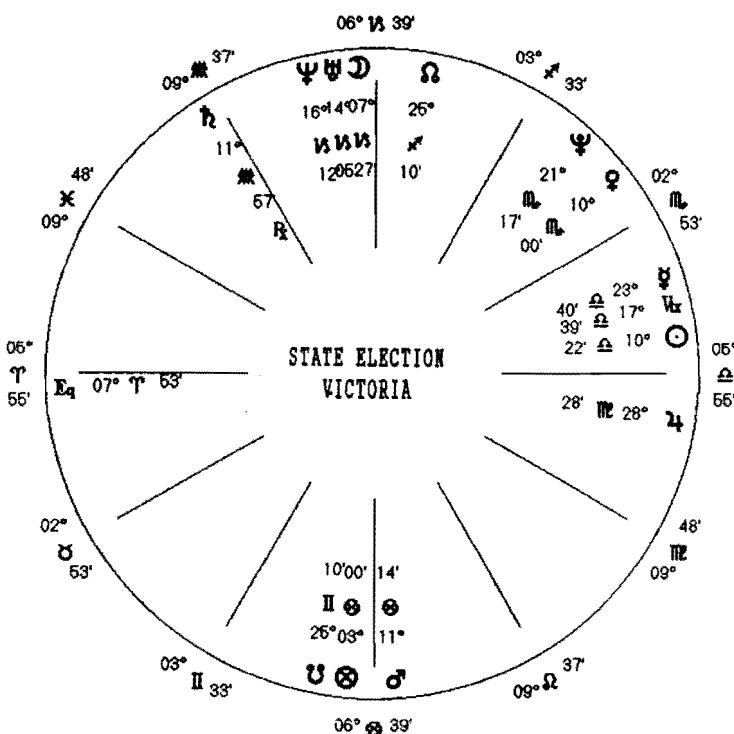

Ross comments, "Venus and Jupiter in Cadent Houses describe the event perfectly, whereas the contacts between the Solar Return Angles and the Radical planets are not even favourable." Natal Neptune and Uranus conjoin the SR-Ascendant and Midheaven respectively. It might be argued, however, that Neptune is trine the SR-conjunction of the Sun and Moon, the combination describing the "fairy-tale marriage", and Uranus at the Midheaven simply portrays the radical change of status of Lady Diana. It is true the Sun is Cadent in the 9th, but rules the 10th.

ELECTION 3rd October 1992, Melbourne, Vic.
144E58, 37S45.

Premier Joan Kirner has announced that the State Election will be held on Saturday, 3rd October. Here is the Chart (Placidus) for the closing of the polls at 6 pm:

The Opposition will win this Election. Though there are some conflicting indications, the principal ones are Venus, Ruler of the 7th (the Opposition's Ascendant) applying closely to a trine of Mars in the 4th House (Opposition's 10th) giving victory in a contest.

The Government's 10th holds the Moon, afflicted by application to the conjunction of Uranus and Neptune, while Saturn, Ruler of the 10th is "impeded" by being retrograde. On the other hand, the Sun in the Opposition's Ascendant is forming a close trine to Saturn by mutual application.

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock,
25th August 1992.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath NSW, Australia 2785. Annual Subscription Australia $15, Overseas $A20. Issue 131 June 1992

PLUTO AND THE ROYAL FAMILY by Allan Johnson.

Since I wrote the article on the Queen's Chart [May Issue] there have been further dramatic revelations on Charles and Diana. These two Charts, together with that of the Queen, do highlight tremendously the power of Pluto Transits. It is a remarkable coincidence that the Princess's Chart has a T-Square pattern in the very same degrees of the Fixed Signs as the Queen's, but a different set of planets is involved. Charles, in his turn, has Sun square Pluto, and again the same degrees are involved with his Sun being in 22° Scorpio. So this is a most fantastic tie-up with all three Charts, and this year Pluto is right on 22° Scorpio. So it is no surprise that this is the very year that their names should hit the headlines. The planetary timing is precisely spot on. Of course, this whole thing has been brewing beneath the surface for quite some time, but it is only in 1992 that we are getting the full revelations, and this whole set-up is a very convincing testimony to the validity of Astrology. A lot of statistical research on single items, such as redheads correlating with charts, has not produced such convincing results - but in practical working astrology like this results can be most impressive. This is where the research should be done. All three people are being hit by crisis at this time.

I think we can say that Pluto is really the planet for heavy drama - dramatic exposures, endings, new beginnings, transformations, "restructuring", the hand of Fate, and so on. These are all highly appropriate to what all astrologers understand by Pluto, even though it seems to be so insignificant in size and so far out in our Solar System. We might have expected we would get a lot of this while Pluto was in Scorpio - and we are getting it with a vengeance. Pluto does rule volcanic eruptions of all sorts, and usually has a note of finality. Particularly is this the case when Fixed Signs are involved. Actions do take a long time to build up in Fixed Signs, but when they do it is pretty final.

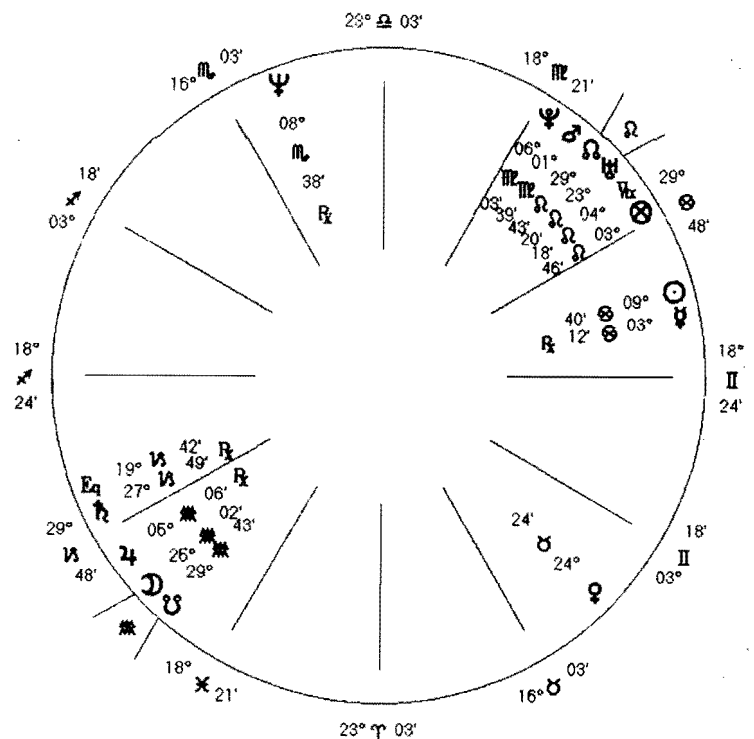

So at the outset the indications are not

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Pluto and the Royal Family	1
Lady Diana's Birth Chart	1
Lady Diana's Progressed Chart	2
Prince Charles' Birth Chart	2
A Near-Drowning, and Relocation	3
FAA International Conference 1994	4

hopeful for a working reconciliation. In Diana's Chart the T-Square involves Venus, the Moon and the Node, which are key planets for relationships and home and family, plus Uranus, which stands for disruptions and break-ups.

LADY DIANA, PRINCESS OF WALES
1st July 1961, 7:45pm BST Sandringham,
England. 0°30' E, 52°50' N. Placidian Cusps.

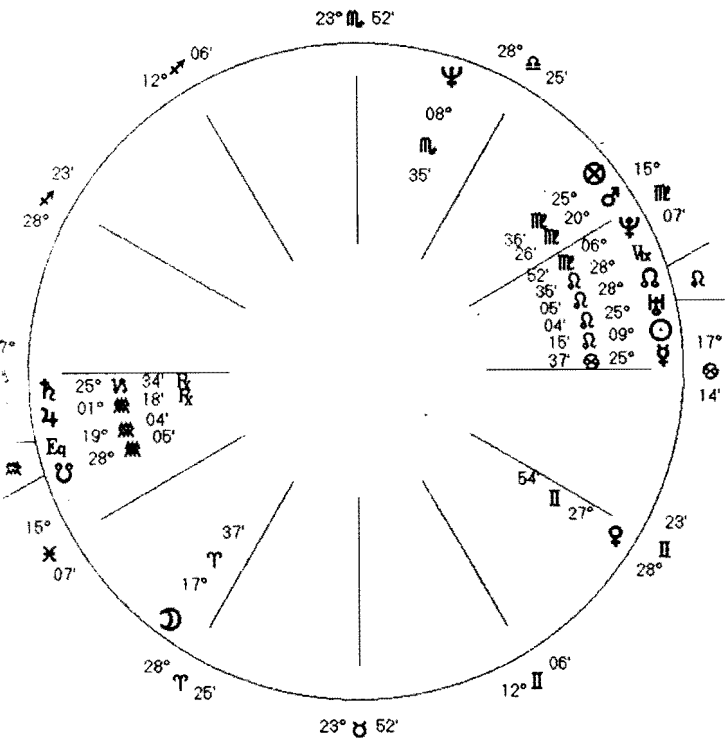

Basically, the Princess's Chart is not a good one for a single enduring relationship, which is what people like to see in a royal marriage. In addition to the T-Square there is also a Yod pattern involving Pluto, Mars, Sun, Mercury, and Jupiter. A Yod is often a Significator for a life divided into episodes, with endings and new beginnings and radical changes of direction, and in this case one point of the Yod is in the 7th House, although it is not being activated right now. But it does give the potential for a broken marriage.

Looking at the Secondary Progressions, p.Sun is separating from the square to Neptune, p.Venus is quincunx to Saturn, although trine at birth, but p.MC is squaring Uranus and applying to quincunx Venus. Progressed quincunx aspects frequently mark the end of a chapter. So all this does seem to correlate with what appears to be happening. It is hard to see a compromise solution being worked out, although it is being tried. It might delay the finality for a year or so. And that would fit with the Queen's Transits.

Lady Diana: Secondary Progressions 1 July 1992

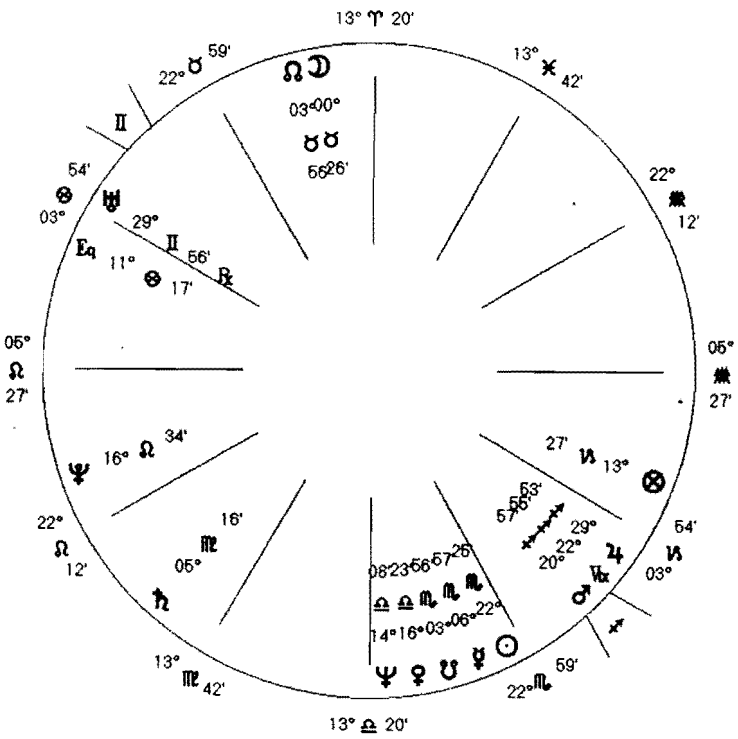

To move to the Prince's Chart, there are fewer factors to deal with. The most noticeable is Pluto in Leo in the Ascendant square to his Natal Sun. This is the key to this situation because Pluto sits right on his Sun right now. So it is activating the square from the 1st to the 4th House. This even more strongly confirms what is happening in his wife's Chart, and also explains a lot of things that have been going on for such a long time behind the scene. Typical of a Pluto/Scorpio set-up. Secrecy had to be the keynote, at least as far as the public was concerned.

Pluto in Leo in the Ascendant can be noted

PRINCE CHARLES

14th November 1948, 9:14pm GMT London
0°6'W, 51°31'N. Placidian Cusps.

for a degree of arrogance. He would like things to be always his way - and this seems to have been the case - and it does not give rise to hopes that he could make many compromises. Uranus rules his 7th House, and this can mean radical changes there. He has a heavily tenanted 4th House so he does attach a great deal of importance to the home and family in his life. This lines up with the Moon in his 10th, which is part of a Grand Trine to Saturn and Jupiter. So what is his destiny? How will he make out? At the moment he is in an extremely precarious position with his marriage threatened with divorce, and having a strong personal involvement with a married woman, and - what is even worse, it is a long-drawn out affair - and at the same time he is heir to the Throne. Of course there is a strong parallel here to his uncle, the Duke of Windsor - and he didn't make out so well. He abdicated and lived a pretty empty sort of life thereafter. His Chart was a fairly disconnected one, so lacked a strong sense of direction.

I think the Prince does have more sense of direction, and the Grand Trine to the 10th is his saving grace, and his MC does trine Pluto. I think the one big advantage in his case is that attitudes to sex, marriage and divorce have changed enormously in the intervening 60 years. We have had the sexual revolution. And the Palace has not been immune from it. So for that reason he could get more sympathy from the Church, Parliament and the public. Add to that the fact that the rest of his family are already involved in divorces. So there is no automatic alternative heir to the throne, as there was in the case of the Duke of Windsor.

To sum up the situation, there seems to be small prospect of avoiding divorce. From then on a lot depends on the character of the Prince. Sun-Scorpios are inclined to be tough characters, and with Pluto/Leo rising I think he will tough it out rather than rush into some sort of withdrawal. He can't abdicate as he is not on the throne. So in that case we might not get an early solution to the problem. It looks as if both the Queen and the Church are going to have to make a compromise. His p.Sun is in the first decan of Capricorn, and is not lining up with any powerful adverse aspects in the immediate future. In three years it comes to the conjunction of p.Jupiter. I think the most interesting factor in his Natal Chart is the Moon/Saturn/Jupiter Grand Trine. This could grant him that luck in the future when he will need eventually to become King. So I think he will make it. But the Monarchy itself is likely to undergo some restructuring that could also throw some new light on things.

A NEAR-DROWNING, AND RELOCATION by Margaret Millard.

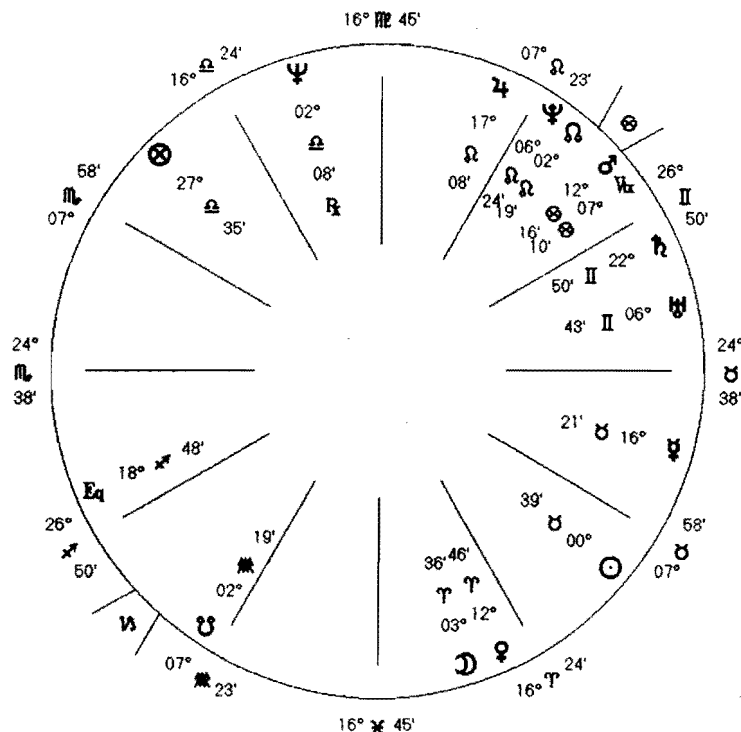

My daughter, Frances, on her 23rd birthday would no longer be on our family medical insurance, and I saw an alarming Mars/Neptune contact in her Solar Return. I therefore told her she should get medical insurance so that she'd be covered for an accident or operation, signified by Mars/Neptune.

On July 7, 1967, she was in El Salvador. I had met her in Guatemala, and had gone on to Costa Rica. She stayed, having become friendly with some Peace Corps people. She and another young woman, Ida, went swimming off a beautiful white sandy deserted beach. Ida was not a good swimmer, having learned to swim because the Peace Corps demanded it. They were swept out to sea on a strong current. Frances had her Lifesaving Certificate.

Ida became unconscious, and Frances took her in to shore, knowing that the current would eventually curve round and bring them back. Ida was half-drowned (I wonder what her aspects were) but Frances applied artificial respiration and brought her round. Lots of people have drowned there.

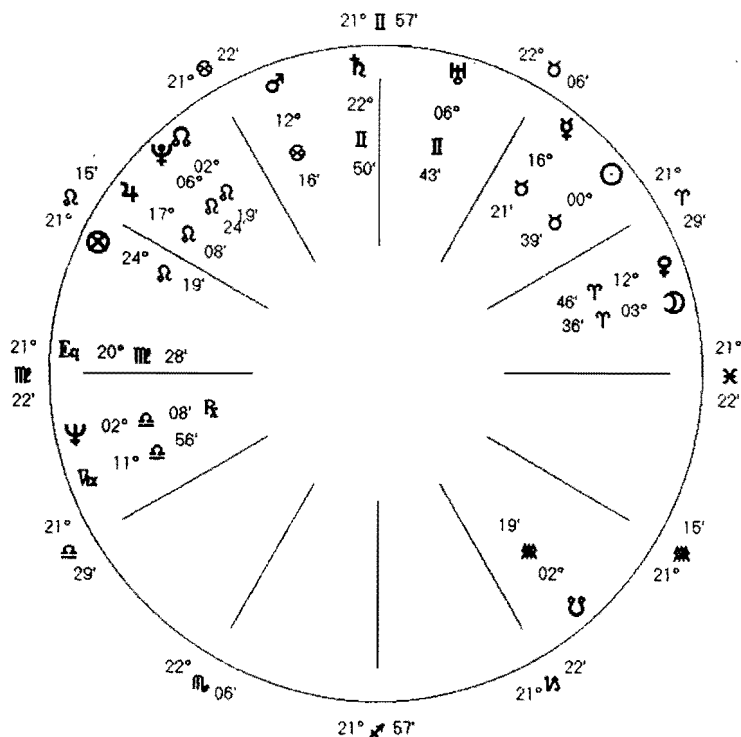

Here are the Natal and Relocated Charts:

FRANCES, 20th April 1944, 9:26:16pm GMT.
51°30'N, 2°35'W. Topocentric Dusps.

Here is the above Natal Chart Relocated to the place of the incident:

FRANCES, 20th April 1944, 9:26:16pm GMT.
San Salvador, 13°44'N., 89°10'W. Topocentric.

A nice case! I think both Charts show danger.

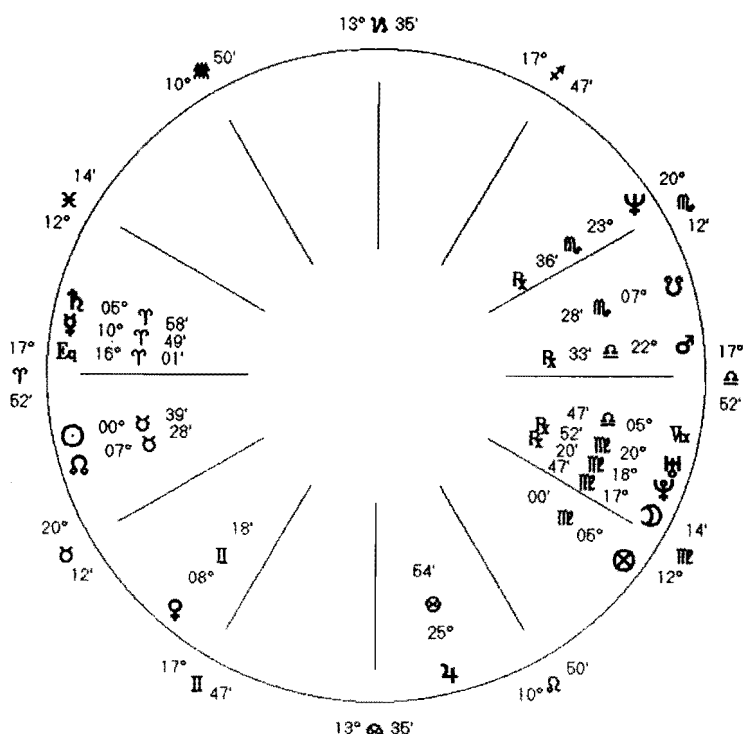

* * * * *

Margaret concluded her article here, but it is very worth while appending the relevant

Solar Return Charts for the two different locations as they strikingly illustrate the effect of relocation so far as the Annual Charts are concerned.

Here is the Solar Return calculated for the place of the near-drowning:

FRANCES: SOLAR RETURN 21 APRIL 1967,
Re-located to San Salvador
89°10'W, 13°44'N. Placidian Cusps.

The Zodiacal positions of the planets are, of course, the same in both Charts, only the House and Cuspal positions and those of the Vertex and Fortuna being different. So in both Charts we have the Moon conjunct Pluto and Uranus, and Mars square Jupiter.

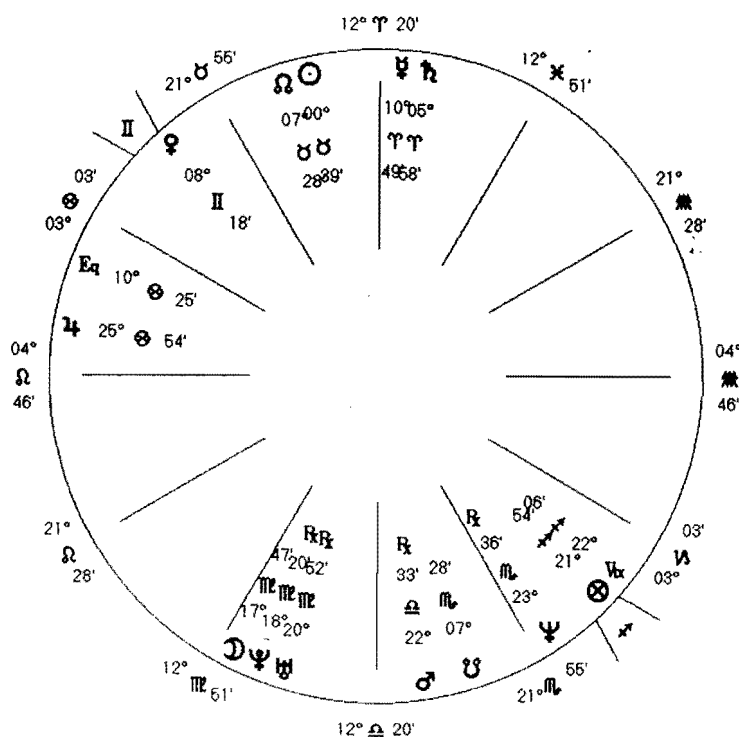

In the Relocated Chart Mars is the Ruler (more appropriate than the Sun ruling the Birth-Place Solar Return) and Mars just above the 7th Cusp emphasizes the dangerous nature of the events. The Natal Ascendant falls right on Neptune conjunct the 8th SR-Cusp, typical of drowning, which was providentially averted through the saving trine from Jupiter. Pluto, significator of death, rules the 8th House, and is conjunct both the Moon and Uranus. Natal Mars conjoins the SR-4th Cusp (endings) and the Natal Moon is opposite the SR Vertex, indicating a fateful event.

In contradistinction to the above, Natal Venus (peace and comfort) conjoins the Midheaven of the Birth-Place Solar Return. There is no special emphasis on the 8th House and its near-death experiences. Uranus rules the 8th and conjoins the Moon and Pluto which is some indication, certainly, but not as direct and specific as in the Relocated SR.

- Dymock.

FRANCES: SOLAR RETURN 21 APRIL 1967
SET FOR THE BIRTH PLACE IN ENGLAND.
2°35'W, 51°30'N. Placidian Cusps.

FEDERATION OF AUSTRALIAN ASTROLOGERS
10TH INTERNATIONAL FAA CONFERENCE 1994
 The Sydney Hilton Hotel
 January 27th to February 1st 1994

The FAA is holding an International Conference in January 1994. At this stage the following well-known astrologers have indicated that they would be pleased to lecture: Charles and Suzanne Harvey, Denis Elwell and Roger Elliott from the UK; Robert Hand and Susan Rushman from the USA.

The Conference will be aimed at "Good Old-Time Astrology", known in this country as "Fair Dinkum Astrology".

Interested readers who want to be on the mailing list are requested to register with the Conference Convenor, KEVEN BARRETT, 94 Blaxland Road, Wentworth Falls, NSW 2782. Phone and Fax [047] 573912.

Readers who have an incident to relate, with its astrological connotations, are asked to send the material to me for possible publication.

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock.

15th July 1992.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath NSW, Australia 2785.

Annual Subscription Australia $15, Overseas $A20.

Issue 130 May 1992

SPOTLIGHT ON THE ROYAL FAMILY

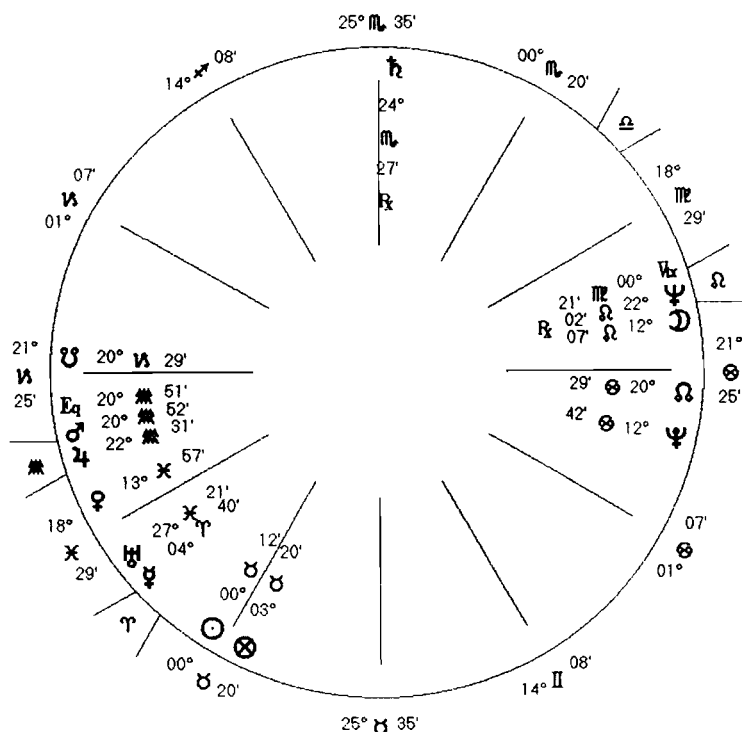

By Allan Johnson.

The recent news of the break-up of the marriage of Prince Andrew and Fergie has put the spotlight more than usual on the Royal Family. The result of a poll in the U.K. calls for the British Parliament to step in and reform the Monarchy, and of course this goes right to the status of the Queen herself. Another "re-structuring" seems to be needed in a world that has seen a lot of that already. So a look at the Queen's Chart seems to be in order. Of course it is not so much the Queen herself who is getting the criticism but her sons and daughters who are becoming poor role models.

QUEEN ELIZABETH II

21st April 1926, 1:40am GMT, London

51°30'N, 0°8'W. Placidian Cusps.

The Queen's Chart is pretty well-known among astrologers, and its major factor is the powerful T-Configuration in Fixed Signs. In this it has a strong similarity to the Soviet Union's Chart. In addition, Saturn in the T-Square is closely conjunct the M.C.,

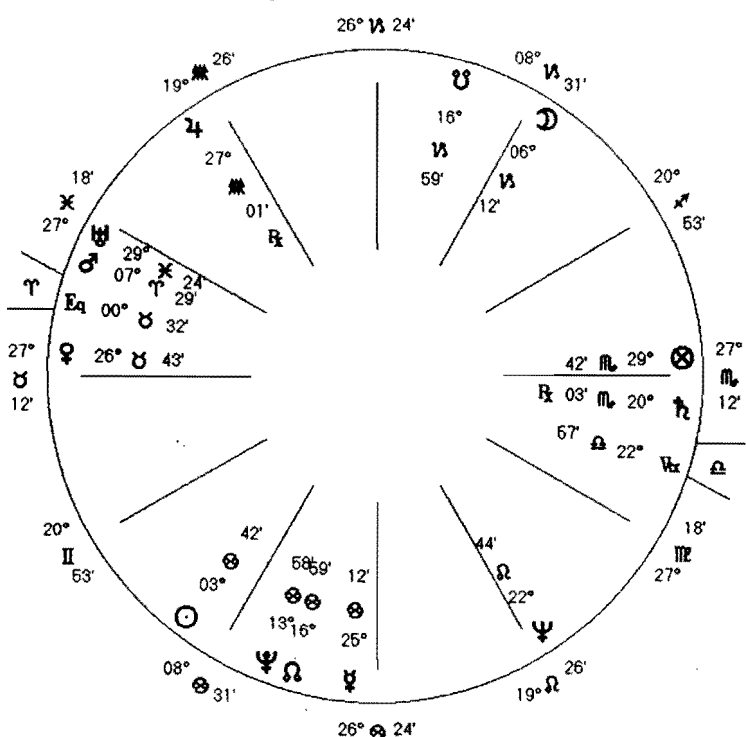

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Spotlight on the Royal Family	1
Chart of Queen Elizabeth II	1
The Annual Birthday Chart	2
The U.K. Election - Revised Chart	4
Rectification - a Quick Method	4

making it very much a "destiny" pattern. It is no surprise, therefore, to see that Pluto right now is closely correlating with this pattern, and during May makes the square to Neptune, Mars and Jupiter. So it is a powerful Transit, and during May Saturn in Aquarius is conjunct Mars and Stationary. So the Queen is going through something of a crisis. Her saving grace is that her Natal Sun is not afflicted, although it is exactly on a Cusp, and such people usually do lead fluctuating lives. The T-square involves the 1st and 10th Houses, so status and prestige are very much involved, as well as the 7th (relationships), but it seems to be more the partnerships of her family rather than her own marriage that is at the centre of the storm.

In the Secondaries the important factor is the Progressed Full-Moon Eclipse, which can be quite dramatic, and was exact in February. The Progressed Full Moon can mark a culminating point in a life. I don't think the existence of the Monarchy itself is threatened, but there could be a re-structuring of the financial side of things, especially relating to family members. They will have to justify themselves more than they have been doing. The Transit of Pluto over her T-Square will continue into 1993/94, and in those years it will be right on the M.C. so I think we can expect some definite developments. One important factor in her Natal Chart is the trine between Saturn and Uranus, and this can bring some unexpected lucky breaks. But the Monarchy will see some changes.

QUEEN ELIZABETH II
PROGRESSION TO 1ST JUNE 1992

SCOPE OF THE ANNUAL BIRTHDAY FIGURE By Marie Casey

The most interesting method of prediction, and the most clear-cut, I have found to be the Annual Birthday Figure. Looking back, before my research on these charts, it was as though something important was missing. Transits and Progressions were not adequate to establish a clear vision of future happenings, as there were various ways those energies could be released.

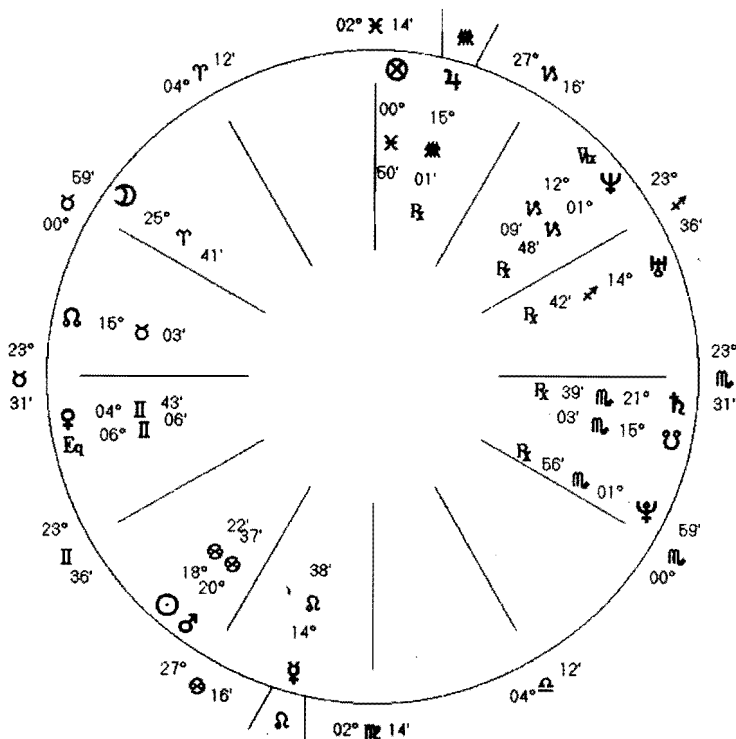

The Solar Return gives a blown-up picture of the year from birthday to birthday, stressing the new House positions of the planets and their aspects. It's been stated on various occasions that the aspects that form within the 24-hour period from the moment of the Return are chiefly important, but after studying many I found that very few aspects actually became exact within that 24 hours. The Moon, of course, makes most of those aspects. The slower-moving planets rarely form aspects, also Mercury, Venus and Mars are often retrograde, and the applying aspect may not become exact until months after the Return.

I was guided by my intuition to chase up those aspects in the Return that were fairly close - up to a 6° orb - thus looking up the Ephemeris to see when they would become partile. It was quite exciting to discover the events that manifested in various people's lives on the actual date of exactness.

In the Chart of one of my clients for the 1985-86 birthday year (see Chart 1) Mercury went retrograde after the birthday, and finally on August 20th, 1985, returned to conjunct itself in its own natural House (Third - travel, mobility). It was exactly on this day that my client began driving her new car, even though it had been purchased earlier. In fact, it was loaned to somebody else in the interim. This is a good example of a planet's own conjunction. Of course, Mercury is well-aspected in the 3rd House, which did warrant the new car (travel). Also, being in exact trine to Uranus in the Return on August 20th, Mercury formed the aspect again, which triggered off all those energies.

FEMALE CHART NO. 1
ANNUAL BIRTHDAY FIGURE
10th July 1985, 4.58pm GMT.

In the Chart of another client for 1985 (see Chart 2) notice how the Node and the Moon are placed in the 6th House (Health). The Moon especially relates to the health factor in a female chart, as the the Sun does for a male. My client had a series of medical check-ups which began on September 20th with a Hospital visit. On this day transitting Mars was in opposition to itself in the Chart. Note how Mars (6th-House Ruler) as well as relating to surgeons does square the Ascendant. The surgeon said she may require an operation (Mars).

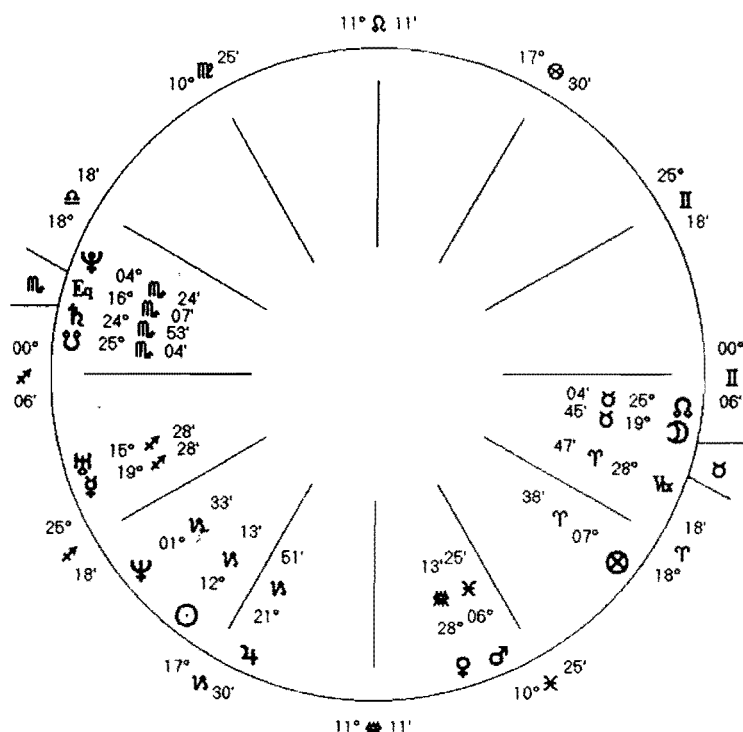

Saturn in the Chart is opposite the Moon and the Node. It went Retrograde in March, then came back to 24°53' on 1st October, to conjunct its own place. Saturn being a slow-moving planet was really in aspect within 1°

FEMALE CHART NO. 2

ANNUAL BIRTHDAY FIGURE

2nd January 1985, 4:1pm GMT, Sydney.

orb from 20th September through to 1° past on 21st October. There were more medical check visits during the last week in September and the first week in October, as well as dental appointments on 1st, 2nd and 8th October, just when Saturn was back to its original position in the Return. The whole series of visits was during Saturn's own conjunction and opposition to the Node, exact on 3rd October.

Having studied numerous Birthday Charts, I have found that all aspects, whether applying or separating at the time of the Return, produce events when activated by Transits, just as in a Natal Chart. Although they may not be major events, a significant facet of a person's life did become energised. People wish to know what the year has in store for them, and predicting from Transits to Natal, or Progressions, can be sometimes complex, whereas the "close-up" picture you get from a Birthday Figure makes certain events stand out, especially with the additional help of the new House positions for each year.

There are various methods of interpreting these Annual Figures, including the superimposing of Houses from the Natal Chart, Progressed Angles and Progressed Moon, etc. In this article I mainly wish to demonstrate the aspects that become activated during that birthday year.

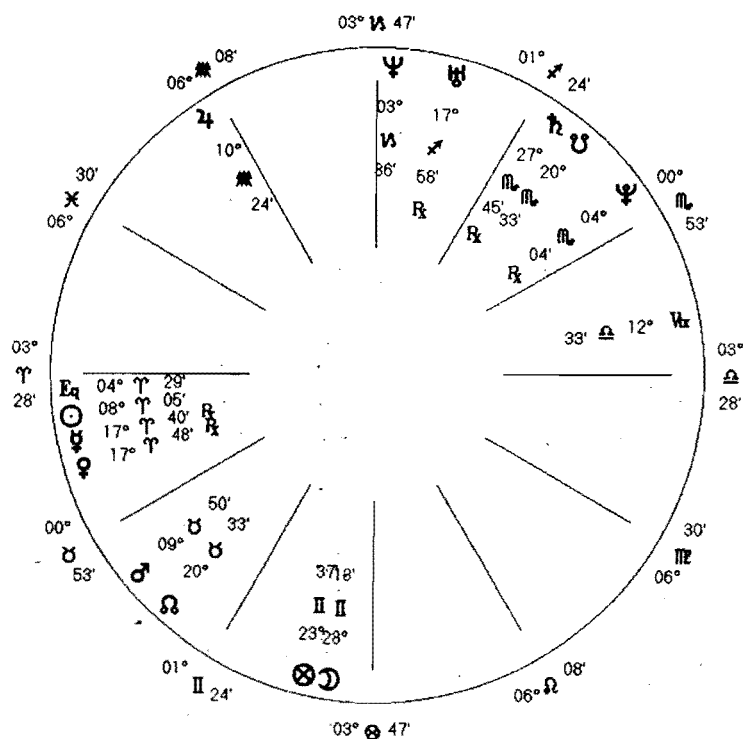

In my own Figure for 1985-1986 there are three planets on 17° (see Chart 3) almost in exact aspect. On first sight it appears they would become exact on the birthday, 28th March, then you note Mercury and Venus are Retrograde. This tells that the events will manifest after the birthday, possibly months later. In fact, it was on May 4th that Mercury (news) made the exact trine to Uranus in the 9th House (publishing). On that day my two-page article appeared in the Telegraph. It was also in a sudden (Uranus) way that the article was arranged, and the article was on Astrology - again Uranus.

FEMALE CHART NO. 3

ANNUAL BIRTHDAY FIGURE

28th March 1985, 7:47pm GMT.

When Venus after its retrograde motion made the exact trine to Uranus on 22nd May I finally decided to buy the printer for my computer. It arrived the next day. Venus always relates to expensive items, gifts, etc. At the time I did not realize that the aspect was exact, it was after the printer arrived that I checked my Solar Return and was rather thrilled to confirm it. Uranus was involved again, as the main purpose for buying the printer was for Astrology charting.

Following the Golden Rule when timing events that the Sun should make an aspect with the transiting planets involved, in order to time the event by the day, this should also be applied in the Solar Return. The Sun gives the power to activate the event, whereas the Moon is the hour-timer. When a client came for her first Chart reading the transitting Sun was in opposition to her Solar-Return Sun/Moon conjunction. The positions were:

S.R. Sun 20°15' Capricorn } Midpoint

S.R. Moon 23°15' Capricorn } 21°45'

On the 14th July at 2pm (the time of her appointment) transitting Sun was 21°43' Cancer, exactly opposite the Midpoint of that conjunction.

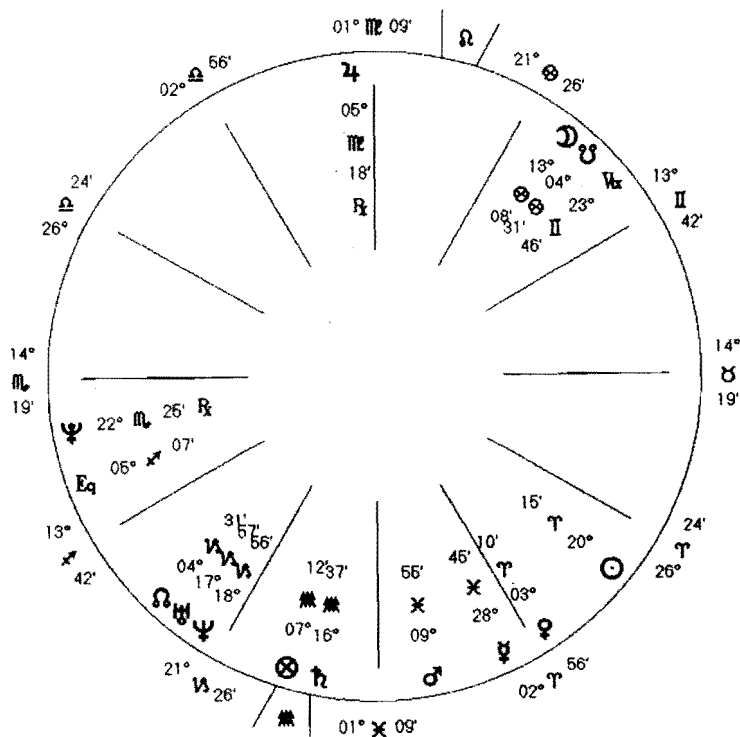

The First House reflects the self-focus and the Sun in the First encourages independent action. The Moon there psychologically adds to one's sensitivity. This was the time for self-confrontation and self-awareness by having her Birth Chart revealed.

U.K. GENERAL ELECTION 9TH APRIL 1992

LESLIE BLACK (England) points out that the Polls closed at 10pm (Summer Time), not 6pm, as in Australia. Here is the revised Chart:

London, 9th April 1992, 10pm B.S.T.

51°30' North, 0°10' West. Placidian Cusps.

This Chart is even more favourable for the Conservatives than the previous one. As before, the Government (Conservatives) is represented by the 1st House, and its chances of victory by the 10th, whereas the 7th and 4th apply respectively to the Labour Opposition. For the Government, Jupiter in the 10th, only 4°9' from the Midheaven degree, assures it of victory, whereas the Opposition was detrimented by Mars in its Derived 10th House, with the Ruler, Neptune, conjunct Uranus.

- Dymock.

RECTIFICATION - A QUICK METHOD by Ross Harvey.

If enough dated events are furnished, the following procedure will, in most cases, give an unknown birth time to the nearest hour (or better) with no more than a quarter of an hour's work. The object is to find the position of the Natal Moon, from which the time can be ascertained:

♦ Determine the possible range of the Moon on the day of birth.

♦ For each year in which a significant event occurred, observe the days when the Sun traverses those Moon degrees. Note down the position of planets (appropriate to the event) that, on those days, make a conjunction, opposition, square or trine to any of the degrees in the determined range of the Moon. Don't use either Mercury or Venus unless they are stationary or retrograde.

♦ Average the figures obtained to get the approximate position of the Moon.

EXAMPLE: Male born 14th June 1948.

(1) Moon's range 13° - 28° Virgo. The Sun would be here in September each year.

(2) Father died 1965: The Sun ranged from 13° - 28° Virgo from 6th - 21st September 1965. At the median date (13/9/65): Saturn 13°Pi20, Uranus 15°Vi32, Pluto 16°Vi15. Jupiter, 29°Ge11 is not appropriate for the father's death.

(3) Met future wife, 1983: Neptune on the median date (14/9/83) at 26°Sg28 is not appropriate.

(4) Long yacht voyage with girl friend, 1984: On 14/9/84, Neptune at 28°Sg40 inappropriate.

(5) Bought flat, 1985: Saturn 23°Sc26, Uranus 14°Sg10.

(6) First year in new home; working on a book, 1986: Mars 18°Cp11, Jupiter 17°Pi27, Uranus 18°Sg29.

(7) Married 1987; wife later miscarried: Saturn 15°Sg4, Uranus 22°Sg47.

(8) Son born, 1990: Saturn 18°Cp46, Pluto 15°Sc40.

(9) Bought house, 1991: Venus (Stationary) 21°Le1, Neptune 14°Cp2, Pluto 18°Sc11.

In the above there are three inappropriate positions towards the end of the possible Natal Lunar range (Jupiter and Neptune) so the birth was not late at night. Omit these three and average the rest. The result is 17°29' of Virgo. The actual position of the Radical Moon (from the known birth time of 6:16am AEST) is 17°32' Virgo. The time when the Moon was at 17°29' Virgo can be ascertained from the Ephemeris, using the same technique as for a Lunar Return.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath NSW, Australia 2785.
Annual Subscription Australia $15, Overseas $A20.

Issue 129 April 1992

THE HORIZON CHART

As astrologers we should be conscious of the enormous debt we owe to those wizards of astrological computing who have furnished us with the sophisticated programs that have revolutionized the practice of Astrology. This is particularly true for the professional astrologer who, instead of spending time on the tedious calculation of planets, points, Progressions, Directions, etc., can use the extra hours available for astrology instead of mathematical astronomy.

These thoughts are prompted by another astrological Program just received from Matrix Software in the United States. It is called Astromap - the Astrology of Relocation, using the Horizon Chart, with its coordinates of azimuth and altitude, instead of the Ecliptic and celestial latitude. The Horizon Chart is not a modern invention. It was used by the ancients, but has been developed enormously in the West since about 1970 when Michael Erlewine in the USA started examining its possibilities.

For a number of years I have been paying desultory attention to the Horizon Horoscope, originally with the help of that segment of Astrolabe's Nova Program that will calculate the Local Space Chart, as it was named by Michael Erlewine. I noted here and there its striking applicability to circumstances and events, both at the birth place and at subsequent relocations to distant cities. My attention became more keenly focussed after investigating the possibilities offered by the Matrix Programs - Maps and Quick Charts which extended the information and facilities available to an amazing degree - and without recourse to any of the complex mathematics that would otherwise be entailed.

Truly, the computer and these brilliantly devised Programs have advanced Astrology beyond the wildest dreams of the practitioner of a couple of generations ago. As one who started studying Astrology in the 1930's, using logarithms and trigonometry, I offer my heartfelt thanks to the mathematical magicians who have so vastly increased the scope of Astrology and our enjoyment of it. No doubt, if old-time astrologers could see

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The Horizon Chart and Relocation Astrology	1
The Tories Win!	2
By-Election Astrology	3
Book Review: Anthony Louis' Horary Astrology	4

the state of the art now, they would have difficulty in comprehending it.

In a Horizon Horoscope, the planets are referred to the plane of the Horizon instead of the Ecliptic. Their positions are plotted in degrees of azimuth around the circumference of the horizon, while their distance above or below this plane is recorded in degrees of altitude, positive or negative. The Horizon Chart can be regarded as the dial of a compass, with the planets pointing in different compass directions. I have found that the principal compass points, are analogous to the Cusps of a standard horoscope, and like them are places of peculiar potency. Any planet on or close to them, especially the four Cardinal Points (East, South, West, and North), has a major influence on the native which is enduring if it is the Chart of the Birth Place, and for any other location remains as long as the native stays in that particular locality. The intermediate compass points (East-South-East, South-East, South-South-East, etc.) also exert an influence hardly less powerful than those of the Cardinal Points. Closeness to the compass point is what matters. A planet right on a compass point, as on a Cusp, has a dominating influence while the native remains in the same place. Movement to a different locality brings in a different set of planetary influences, in accordance with their re-positioning around the horizon.

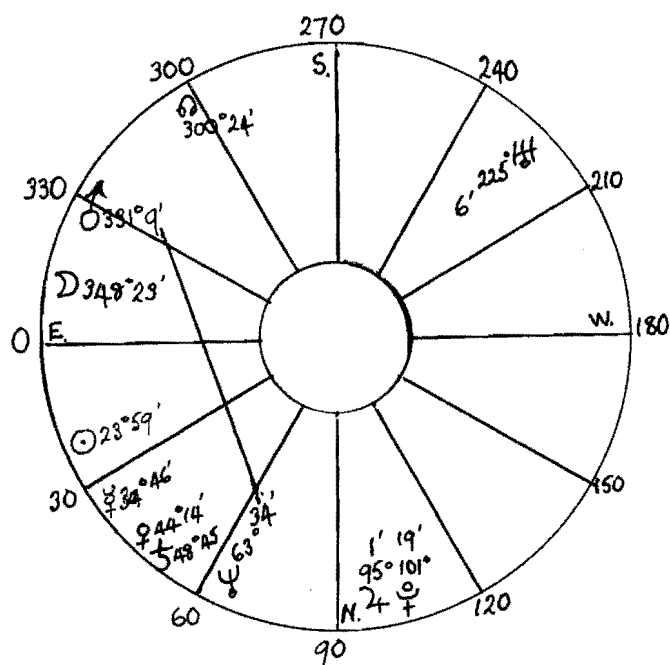

There are other factors of importance: A planet close to the plane of the Horizon, (within about 5°) either above or below it is powerful according to its nature, and so are any planetary conjunctions or aspects in the Horizon Chart, especially if within an orb of 30° for conjunctions or oppositions, 20° for squares or trines, and 10° for sextiles.

Though the Horizon Chart is at present used chiefly to assess the planetary effects of relocation (which planets are emphasized, which de-emphasized) it is also valuable for supplementing the information derived from the normal Ecliptic Horoscope, often bringing into play an influence of which one may have had an intuitive feeling but could not ascribe any factor to it in the standard Ecliptic-based Chart.

An example of the effect of relocation, as shown by the Horizon Chart, is my relocated Horizon Chart for Auckland, NZ, where, as related in the last Issue, I was nearly cut off at an early age.

AUCKLAND, 9th Sept. 1918, 5 50 02am

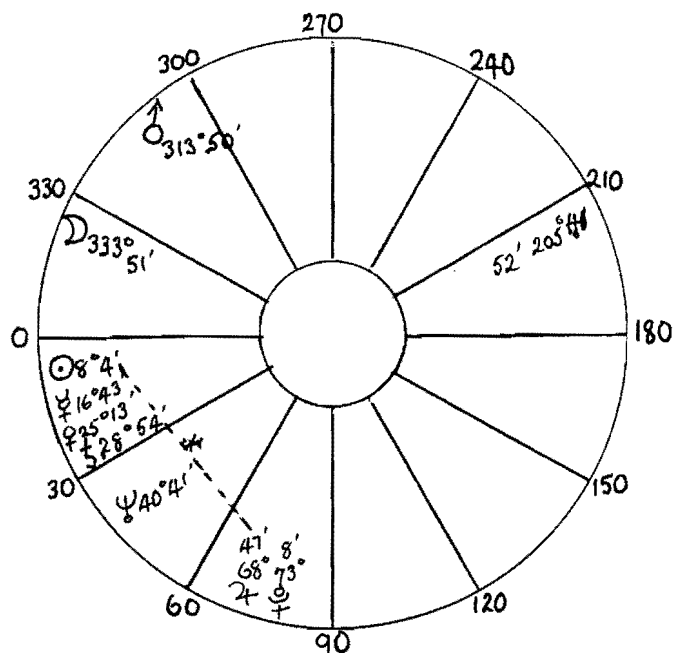

Mars, the planet of death and injury, is almost exactly on the East-South-East compass point (orb $109'$), and is square to Neptune (orb $2025'$) at the North-North-East Point (orb $3034'$). These compass points equate with the 12th and 3rd Cusps of the standard Horoscope, and with the involvement of Mars and Neptune add up to injury on the roads and hospitalization.

Mars and Neptune were brought into focus by the removal to Auckland. In the Horizon Chart for the Birth Place (see below), Mars and Neptune, though still in square, do not activate the dangerous 12th and 3rd Cusps. On the contrary, Jupiter here trine to Mars gives protection.

Horizon Charts are often drawn with the East on the right, as presented in an atlas,

ADELAIDE, 9th Sept. 1918, 5 50 02am but I prefer to have them similar to standard astrological charts, which simplifies their interpretation.

There aren't too many books as yet on the Horizon Chart, but Steve Cozzi's Planets in Locality published in 1988 is a comprehensive introduction, and deals also with the Prime Vertical Chart, as well as a number of other matters on the esoteric side of Astrology. [The Prime Vertical is the Great Circle passing through the Zenith, Nadir, East and West points. The Campanus system of Houses is based on it.]

Readers who have a computer with the appropriate Programs will find it rewarding to investigate the Horizon Chart, especially as regards relocating to maximise the effect of particular planets, but the Chart is also revealing in relation to the birth place. It seems to me that insufficient regard has been paid to the Horizon Map for the birth location, the main emphasis having been to find the best locations for success in different fields. Here is a rewarding area for research. Astrologers who have already investigated the Birth-Place Horizon Chart are invited to submit their findings for publication.

- Dymock.

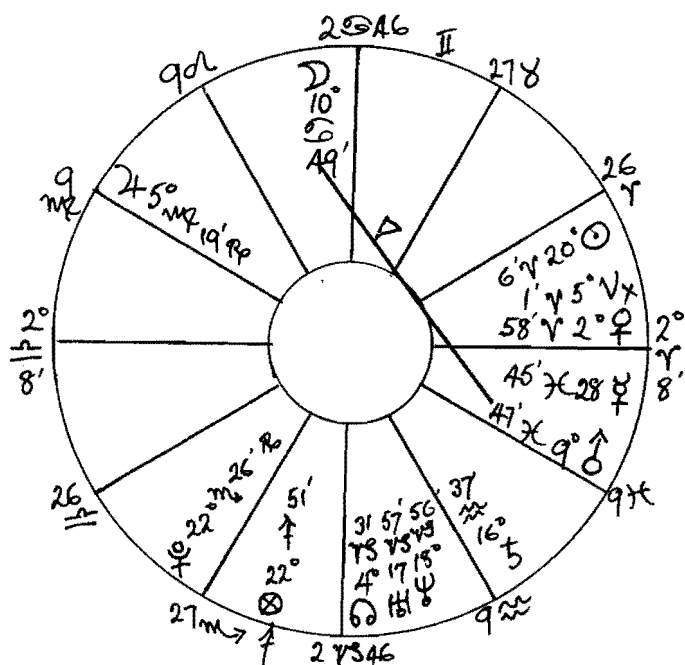

THE TORIES WIN!

Contrary to the expectations of most people John Major's Conservative Party was returned to office on April the 9th, though with a reduced majority. Three readers of this Journal essayed the task of predicting the result, but none made the correct choice. Were they basing their views on the right astrological data, or were they misinterpreting that data? I commend them for their efforts, anyway.

It is always much easier in hindsight, but here is the Chart for the closing of the polls in London, which seems clear enough.

U.K. GENERAL ELECTION, 9TH APRIL 1992
Closing of the Polls, 6pm BDT
London 51°30' North, 0°10' West. Placidus.

The Government is represented by the 1st House and the 10th (its chances of victory), the Opposition by the 7th House and the 4th (being the 10th House of the 7th). The obvious factor here is the Moon in the 10th, in close trine to Mars, and strong in its own Sign, Cancer. The derived 10th House of the Opposition, on the other hand, is afflicted by Uranus and Neptune, both square to the Sun. Plainly, this indicated victory for the Government.

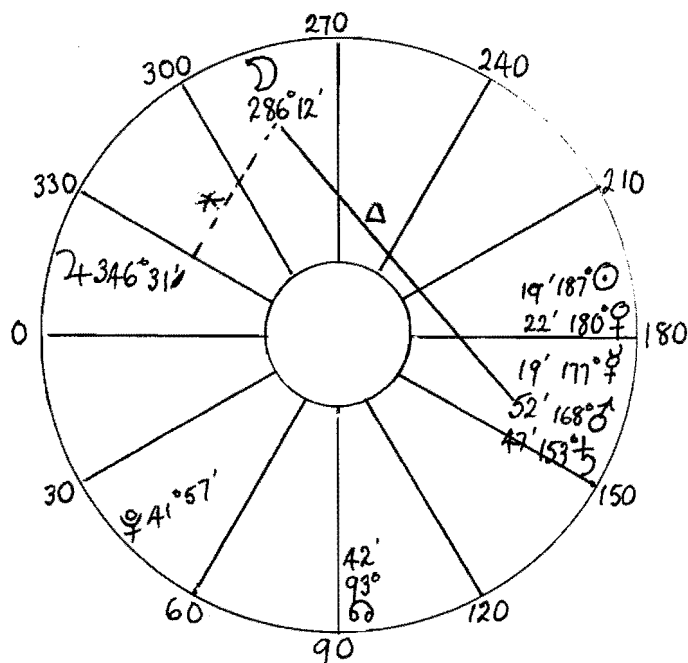

As a matter of interest, I give also the Horizon-Map version of the above Chart, in which the Government win is even more apparent. Here the Moon is still in the 10th Sector trine to Mars, but additionally supported by a close sextile to Jupiter (orb only 19').

The difficulty about using personal Progressions, Directions and Transits for the individual contestants, apart from the doubtful validity of the birth data, is that good or bad planetary influences may not specifically refer to the Election but to some other crisis in the life of the person concerned, whereas the above Chart is for the U.K. Election

HORIZON MAP

The planets' positions are in degrees of azimuth, around the horizon of London.

specific to the Poll itself. A Horary Chart, too, would be specific provided it were "Radical" on other grounds. It would have to be initiated by a person with a real interest in the result, and for a time when the matter was of some concern to him or her, and not be invalidated by any of the other "strictures against judgement".

- Dymock.

BY-ELECTION ASTROLOGY

ALLAN GRANT (Vic) has sent in this Chart for the closing of the polls in the recent By-Election in the Electorate of Wills, where neither candidate of the two major political parties gained the ascendancy. Victory, in fact, went to an Independent. This points up a further complication in the judgement of local elections. Where there are not just two main contenders but a number with approximately equal chances, how do we allot their planetary Significators?

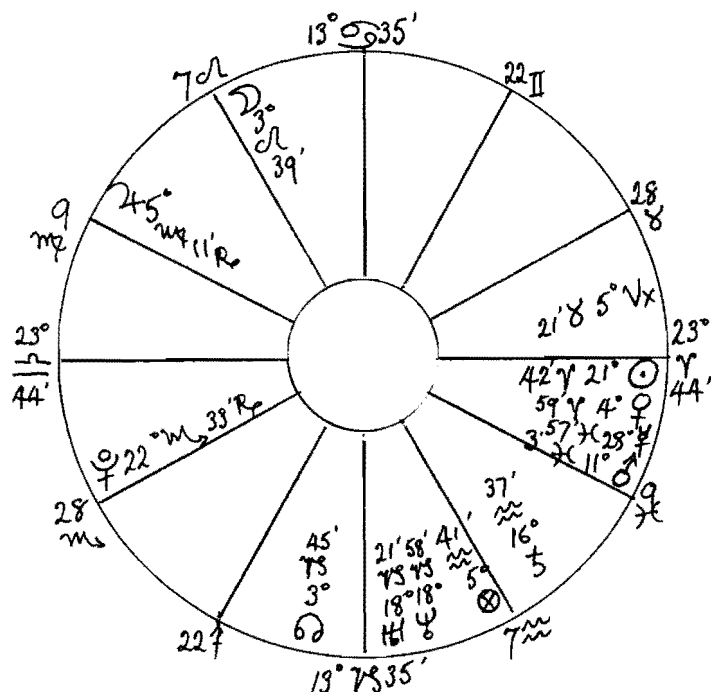

Looking at the Chart, one might venture the prediction in this particular case that an Independent would win because of the strong position of the nonconformist planets Uranus and Neptune. By a process of elimination, the field is left to an Independent. Neither the Government nor the Opposition is favoured in this Chart.

ALLAN GRANT wrote (before the Election) "[The] Chart ... does appear to be relevant to matters that have been of major concern in Australia; matters such as employment, health and education. These are all Sixth House matters that depend to a large extent on those who make Tenth House decisions, i.e., the government. The tie between the Tenth and Sixth Houses by Moon trine Venus conjunct Mercury makes the Chart relevant to the Government but because Venus is in detriment and Mercury in fall the advantage of the trine is weak.

COBURG, VIC., 11TH APRIL 1992

6pm. 144°59' East, 37°44' South. Placidus.

"To consider features relevant to the Opposition, the convention that the Chart's Descendant is the Opposition's Ascendant and the Fourth House is the Opposition's Tenth is used. There is a large group of planets in the Ascendant-to-MC quadrant, but most aspects show strain and difficulty. The Sun/Ascendant is indicative of action, and [the] square to Uranus/Neptune indicates career development but with difficulty. This possibly signifies the Opposition's slogan 'Fight Back'.

"The Uranus/Neptune conjunction was discussed in Allan Johnson's article in January 1992 (No. 126). Karl Marx's Chart has Uranus/Neptune in Sagittarius square Saturn/Pluto in Pisces, which Johnson suggests is relevant for a prophet - slow development over many years from the subconscious state. In the Wills By-Election Chart, Uranus/Neptune in Capricorn are square to Sun/Ascendant in Aries, which should show an immediate effect involving creative and imaginative activity in the area of careers.

"The Chart does not predict the winner but reflects the difficult and complex situation existing at present. The electors at the ballot box will decide the balance between a weak trine for the Government and strong squares for the Opposition."

The chances of individual candidates could probably be determined by the Horary Art if the Chart is "Radical" and properly interpreted. (Av, there's the rub.) It would be a matter of ascribing a House and/or planetary Significator to each candidate, perhaps according to their listing on a ballot paper. If anyone is brave enough to attempt this in the future, please send me the results.

- Dymock.

Book Review:

Anthony Louis' HORARY ASTROLOGY
(Llewellyn Publications, $37.95)

This is the third book mentioned in the October '91 Issue of Astrologers' Forum. It is the most voluminous, running to 557 pages, including the comprehensive index. It is distinguished by its mass of information, including many tables and lists that will be useful in other branches of Astrology besides Horary, and by its superb Horoscope Wheels that were specially devised for the book by Matrix Software.

The work is almost encyclopaedic in its content, and is obviously the result of assiduous application over many years. There are clear and detailed directions for practising the Horary art. Louis tells us how he approached Horary Astrology as a sceptic but became convinced of its efficacy after many investigations and being confronted by irrefutable proofs.

The main interest of the book lies in the large number (43) of Horary questions posed and answered, many dealing with the finding of lost items, a common enough question.

Louis also recounts the history of Horary Astrology. He delved into all the ancient works that he could lay his hands on, reading them in the original Latin. He mentions the contradictions that often appeared, and the change in the meaning of words. "House" to the mediaeval astrologers meant "Sign", whereas today it signifies the mundane House of the Horoscope.

The book has a very extensive "Rulership List", alphabetically arranged, that gives the House and planet/s associated with all manner of things and activities, and also a comprehensive Glossary running into 23 pages. Both these will be invaluable to students.

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock.

26th April 1992.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath NSW, Australia 2785.

Annual Subscription Australia $15, Overseas $A20.

Issue 128 March 1992

FURTHER COMMENTS ON THE RUSSIAN SCENE

by Allan Johnson

In my last article I did not have space to deal with another highly significant event which rates almost as much as the other two. This is the great Coup of 19th August 1991, followed a week later by the closing down of the Communist Party - a highly dramatic event. The Russian Communist Party was Lenin's baby. He nurtured it and devoted his life to its cause. So, if anything, these two dates should most certainly correlate with Lenin's Chart. And here again we have remarkable precision correlation: Transitting Pluto (final ends) was exactly opposite his Natal Pluto, while Saturn (the Grim Reaper) was at the beginning of Aquarius, only minutes away from an exact square to Lenin's Natal Sun, and conjunct his Moon by a small orb. This type of correlation is entirely beyond the realm of chance.

There are a lot of very important implications for classical astrology in this type of research, for it is concerned with actual events, as distinct from a lot of today's preoccupation with the psychological and the power of the Unconscious. These are important - but astrology is much broader and much more complex than the psychological astrologers would like to believe. I think the world emphasis on psychological astrology today is due to the fact that a lot of astrologers with university backgrounds are trying to limit astrology to a narrow field, and thereby make it more acceptable to the universities. But this can only be done to the detriment of mainstream astrology generally. The public will never cease to be interested in prediction, nor will astrologers. One welcome sign is the big revival of interest in Horary Astrology in the U.K. Of course the main bastion of classical astrology will always be the Mundane.

The type of research I am doing here does highlight the power of the Uranus Return. This is something that can't be in Natal Astrology except in the most exceptional circumstances, due to the limitations of the length of human life. Few people reach the

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Further Comments on the Russian Scene	1
Addendum to The Life-Span Revolution	1
Computer Bargain	2
Relocated Charts	2
Horary Chart - Property buy	4

age of 84, and those who do are not in the condition to respond to such a Return. But in Mundane Astrology things are different. The rise of Gorbachev occurred on the second Uranus Return in Marx's Chart, so I thought it might be interesting to see if there was anything comparable in the first Return. This would have occurred in 1902/3. History does record that there was considerable revolutionary ferment in Russia in those years, and some even saw the Revolution as imminent, but it never came. The exact Return occurred for the first time on 21st January 1902. Two weeks after that date 30,000 students went on strike throughout the country. A month later the head of the Czarist Secret Police was murdered by revolutionaries. So things were really heating up. There was widespread revolutionary activity in various parts of Europe as well as Russia, but it was too confused a pattern to allow one to pick out a single date like the Berlin Wall drama. The circumstances were different.

Now that the Soviet Union has been disbanded the Chart for the Russian Republic itself has importance. The English Astrological Journal gives the data for the Proclamation of Russian Sovereignty and I am presenting this Chart. [See next page] It is interesting to get the emphasis on Cardinal Signs that we get in both Gorbachev's and Yeltsin's Charts.

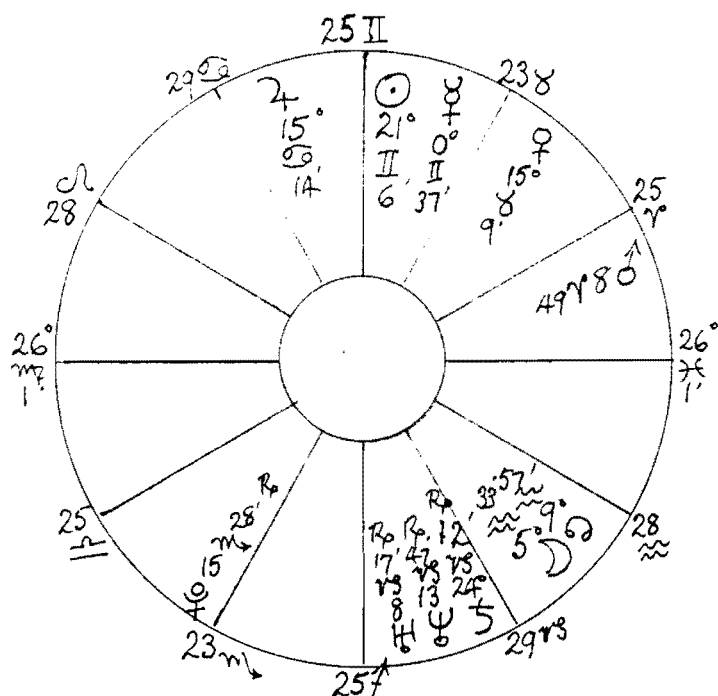

ADDENDUM TO THE LIFE-SPAN REVOLUTION

by Ross Harvey.

It is beginning to seem that the Life-Span Revolution is capable of development beyond

RUSSIAN SOVEREIGNTY PROCLAIMED

12th June 1990. Approx. 9:45 am GMT
Moscow, 55°45'N, 37°35'E. Koch Cusps.

the basic method described in the previous three issues of this Journal. The rate in degrees per year or days per year, once determined as described in the article, may be multiplied by two, three, four, etc., and the whole LSR procedure - movement of Angles, Primary Directions of planets, and the Progressions - may then be repeated at the accelerated rates. In other words, two, three, etc., revolutions of the birth chart, and two, three, etc., years before and after the birth, are also equivalent to the life span. The lower multiples of the rate (two, three, and four) may provide indications of events which the basic LSR omitted, though all crucial events will be found in the basic LSR, and the higher multiples of the rate, especially in the Progressions, will provide more exact timing, and will enable the life span to be estimated to within a few months. It has yet to be fully determined how many multiples of the rate should be considered, though, as would appear logical, the higher the multiple of the rate the less important on their own are the indications found with it. For particularly important events, indications in most of the accelerated rates may be found, and these will assist in determining the date of the influence's becoming effective more accurately than the LSR alone can do. It is intended that this will be the subject of a future article, where the procedure will be described at length and will be accompanied by an example.

COMPUTER BARGAIN!

Tandy 1000, with two 360K floppy-disc drives, 384K RAM and colour monitor, complete with manuals, instruction books and Programs for word-processing and office management - a very reliable piece of equipment. Only $250! Interested parties contact Ross Harvey, on [02] 489 4572.

RELOCATED CHARTS

Here are two Solar-Return Charts for a near fatal incident in my early youth: Aged seven, I was returning home from school along the Manukau Road in Auckland, New Zealand, when I hitched a ride up a hill perched on the connecting bar between a truck and the trailer it was pulling. The truck driver was unaware of my presence. The situation was fine until we arrived at the crest of the hill, when the truck started to speed up. Hastily alighting from the bar, I slipped, and the trailer wheels passed over my legs, breaking them and the pelvic bone and stripping much of the flesh just above my right knee. After five and a half months in Auckland Hospital I was again mobile, though with the right leg considerably shorter than the left.

The accident happened on the 9th of October 1925 at about 3:35 pm (Old N.Z. Time - 11½ hours ahead of G.M.T.). The two Solar-Return Charts are both calculated for 9th September, 1925, but Chart A is set for my birth place (Adelaide, Australia), and Chart B for the place of residence (Auckland, N.Z.).

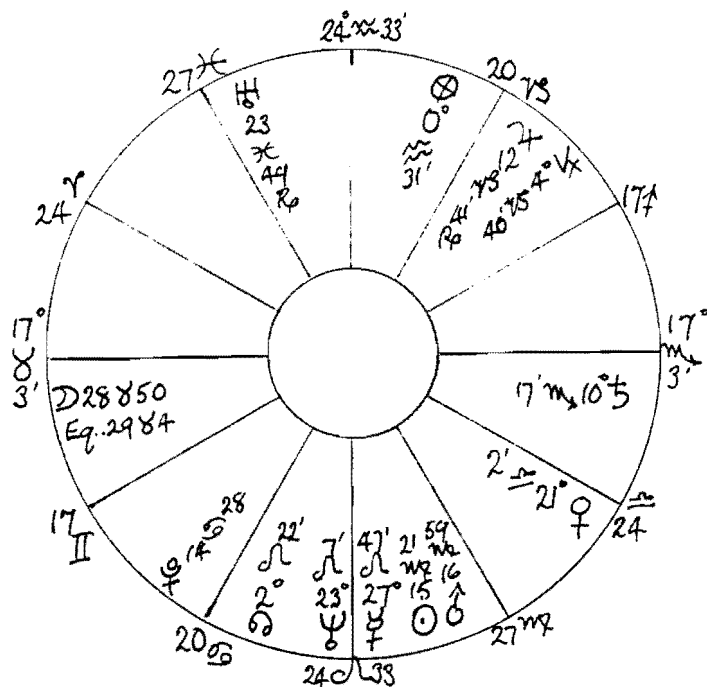

The Charts have the same planetary aspects, as they are both calculated for the same Greenwich Mean Time, but there is a significant difference in House positions, owing to the difference in the geographic coordinates.

By far the more apposite of the two is Chart B, the Solar Return relocated to the place of residence (and accident).

In both A and B we have the Sun conjunct Mars, and the Moon square Neptune, but whereas in Chart A the mundane positions are relatively innocuous, in the Chart B they are most pertinent to the event: The conjunction of the Sun and Mars, instead of being in the 4th House (the home), where it is irrelevant, is now in the 3rd, (roads and traffic) and, what is even more telling, is almost exactly square the Rising Degree.

Furthermore, the Moon in the Birth-Place Chart is in the 1st House, square Neptune, but its placement is much more to the point in the Residence Solar Return where it

CHART A: SOLAR RETURN 9TH SEPTEMBER 1925
(GMT 13:24:43 on 8th September)
at BIRTH PLACE, Adelaide, S.Aust.
138°35' East, 34°55' South. Placidian Cusps.

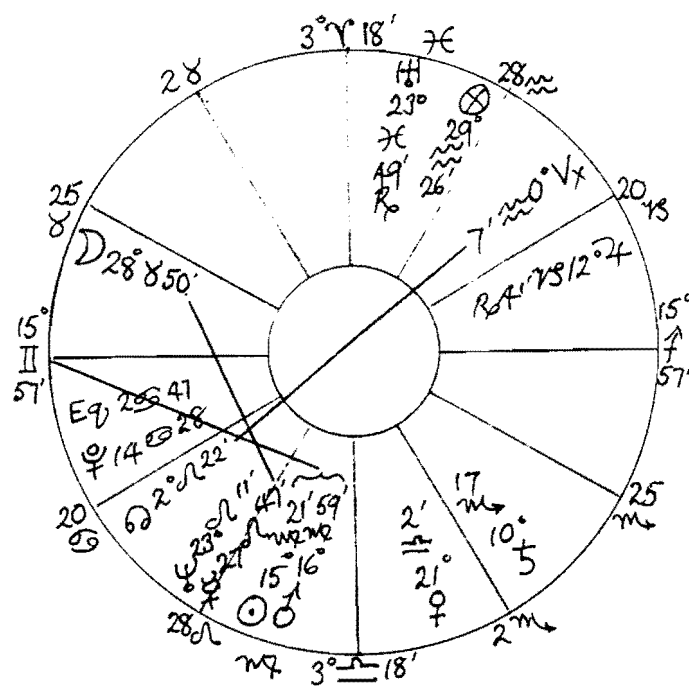

occupies the 12th House (hospitals), and has added significance through being close to the Cusp. Its meaning is further emphasized by the square to Neptune, natural Ruler of the 12th. In the Residence Chart, also, Mercury (vehicles) is right on the Cusp (Placidian) of the 3rd House (roads, etc.).

Chart B is also superior in a few other respects: The Ascendant is in Gemini (roads, transport, short trips), and its Ruler, Mercury, is appropriately placed in the 3rd House, indicating the principal focus of the year. In Chart A, Taurus rising relates to money, income and assets, which had no significance for me at all that year.

Again, though in both Charts the Vertex, signifying events of more than usual significance, occupies the 8th House (death and near-death experiences), in the Residence Solar Return it is on the Moon's Nodal axis, which endows it with an importance well beyond normal.

There is no doubt here about which is the preferable Solar Return. Without question it is the Chart relocated to the place of residence. This is a matter that I have been researching for years, occasionally finding points in favour of both locations (birth place, and residence/centre of activities). On balance, I have come to the conclusion that the relocated Return is the more significant. One needs an outstanding event, such as that described above, in any particular year to make a definite judgement.

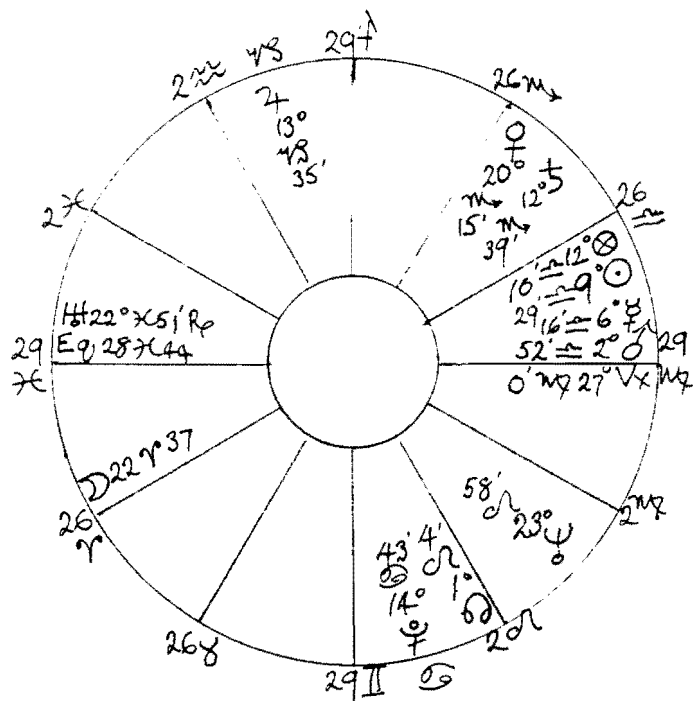

CHART B: SOLAR RETURN 9TH SEPTEMBER 1925
(GMT 13:24:43 on 8th September)
Relocated to place of residence, Auckland, N.Z., 174°46' East, 36°52' South. Placidus.

I have not yet firmly established the preferable location for Lunar and Synodic Returns, but the evidence so far points to the relocated chart as being the more indicative. Here, for instance, (see next page) is the Quarti-Lunar Return for the seven-day period from 3rd October to 10th October 1925 (accident on 9th October). Quarti-Lunar Charts are calculated for the return of the Moon to the exact square, opposition and square of its natal position (the Lunar Phases - first quarter, full moon and last quarter) as well as for the Moon's return to its natal position. Chart C is relocated to the place of residence at the time (Auckland). Mars and the Vertex being closely opposed to the Rising Degree spell momentous physical injury. This aspect is entirely dependent on the relocation, and does not appear in the corresponding Quarti-Lunar Return at the Birth Place.

As regards Secondary Progressions it is still an open question as to whether the place of birth or the place of (long-term) residence has the greater significance, or, indeed, whether the place of relocation has any significant impact on the incidence of Progressions and Directions. It is possible the age of the native may be a factor, as the older the person the further away he/she is from the geniture, and the closer to a different horoscope based on experience and personal development. The only Significators that would be affected by aspect are the

CHART C: QUARTI-LUNAR RETURN, OCTOBER 3 - 10, 1925, set for PLACE OF RESIDENCE

Zodiacal Points: Ascendant, Midheaven, Vertex, Equatorial Ascendant (E.P.), the Part of Fortune and the other Arabian Parts (for those who use them). Naturally, the House positions of all Significators could be radically different. Readers who have investigated this area of Astrology should submit the evidence and their conclusions. Considering the widespread emigration of people from their birth place to far distant countries, testimony of this nature should not be hard to come by. - Dymock.

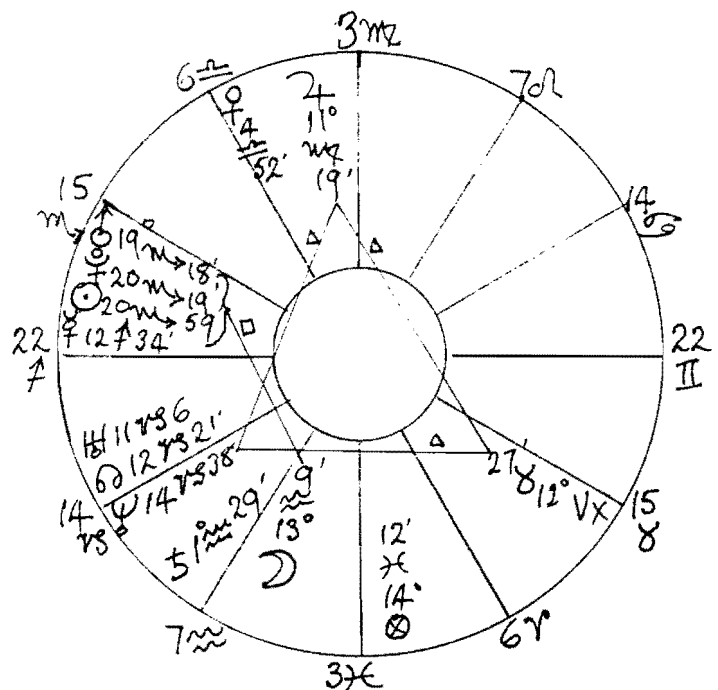

HORARY QUESTION: Shall I be able to buy this desirable property being auctioned today?

Some Horary Charts are complex and difficult to interpret. This one was dead easy. The querent, a woman, is represented by the Ascendant and its Ruler, Jupiter, in Virgo in the 10th House (she is a business woman). The property she wanted is represented by the 4th House and its Ruler, again Jupiter, by Horary tradition. This shows the connection between the Querent and the Quesited (the property sought).

Neptune on the 2nd Cusp forms a beautiful trine to Jupiter, which practically decided the question right away - Jupiter and Neptune in harmonious aspect bring large gains without effort. Additionally, the Part of Fortune occupies the 4th House, showing where her treasure is, and the Vertex completes a Grand Trine with Jupiter and Neptune, giving added strength to the Jupiter/Neptune link.

HORARY CHART

14th Nov. 1991, 7:48am Daylight Saving Time, 33°38' South, 150°18' East. Placidian Cusps.

I told the Querent she would get the property, and probably at a bargain price - which she did - and she is now happily living in it.

This Chart also illustrates the capacity of of a Horary enquiry to show future events not necessarily linked to the question. I refer to the applying squares of the Moon to Mars, Pluto and the Sun in the 12th House. The Moon rules the 8th House (other people's monies), Mars rules the 5th House (her children), Pluto the 12th (misfortunes and worries), and the Sun the 9th (legal proceedings). The Querent is currently pursuing two Court cases - one for the return of some thousands of dollars being withheld from her, and the other against her ex-husband who retains two of her children in his care, contravening an order of the Court. - Dymock.

BRITISH GENERAL ELECTION

The British Prime Minister, John Major, has called a General Election for April the 9th. It appears this Election will be closely contested, the rival Parties apparently being evenly balanced. Readers who care to try their forecasting skill are invited to submit their prediction of the result, together with the astrological data on which the conclusions are based, before April 9th.

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock.

24th March, 1992.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath NSW, Australia 2785.
Annual Subscription Australia $15. Overseas $A20.
Issue 127 February 1992

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

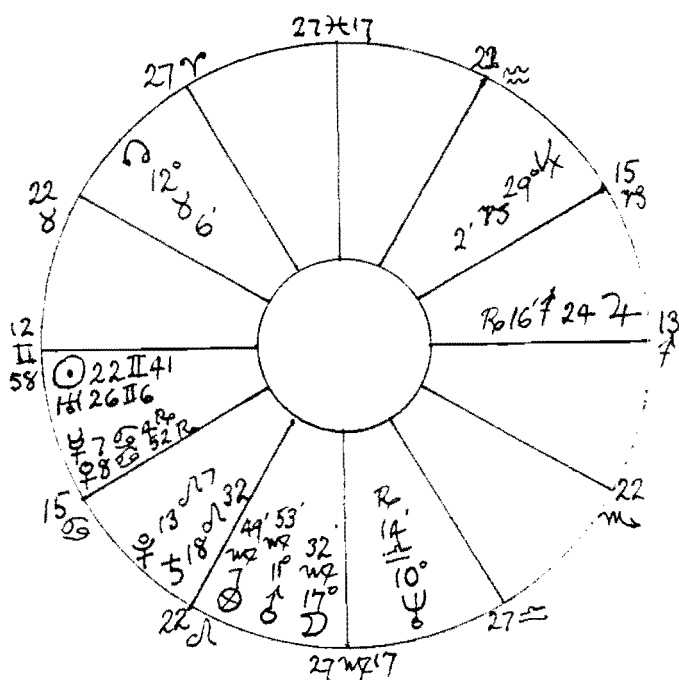

Here is the concluding instalment of Ross Harvey's innovative and valuable article, continued from the last Issue:

THE LIFE-SPAN REVOLUTION by Ross Harvey.

The final example is a living client, whom I shall call John. He was born at 6:17am AEST on the 14th of June 1948, at 151°13' East, 33°48' South. The RAMC is 357.51250°.

JOHN

14th June 1948, 6:17am AEST, Castlecrag, NSW, 33S48, 151E13. Placidian Cusps.

The first significant event of John's life was his father's sudden death while on a walking trip when John was 18.101 years old. Mars is so typical for this event that I looked straight for this: The direct Ascendant is conjunct Mars for this event at a rate of 4.451° a year. At age 21.60 years John left his job and went to art school; the converse MC is conjunct Jupiter at a rate of 4.341° a year. At age 22.583 John moved to the central city art school, and the direct

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The Life-Span Revolution (Concl.)	1
Prince Charles and the Life-Span Revolution	4
Comment on Re-location	4

MC is conjunct Mercury for this event at a rate of 4.436° a year, and conjunct Venus at 4.523° a year, and the direct Ascendant is conjunct Neptune at 4.392° a year. When several aspects fall within the same period of time they almost always relate to the same event. I am calculating the different rates only so that I can find the mean rate, and thus the life-span. At age 36.05 years John met his future wife.: The direct Ascendant is conjunct Jupiter for this event at 4.423° a year. In April 1986 at age 37.833 he and his fiancée bought a flat - the first property he had owned - and the direct MC was conjunct the Moon at 4.520° a year. On 9th January 1991 his son was born, and the converse MC was conjunct the Moon at 4.439° a year.

This was as far as I had got with my analysis of this Chart when I last worked on it, but I noticed that the direct MC would be conjunct Neptune at age 43.33 (October 1991) at a rate of 4.423° a year. I have just learned that John and his wife bought a house in the country in October and are to move just before Christmas. Note that the MC was conjunct Neptune by converse motion when the flat was bought. This aspect could have related to the birth of his son at a rate of 4.507° a year, but I prefer to link Neptune with property, as not only was the earlier Neptune aspect to do with buying property, but Neptune is in the Fourth House, if that is of any significance. There were no indications by the more usual means of prediction such as Progressions, Primary Directions of whatever system, or Transits, to indicate this important event.

The mean rate is 4.439° a year, and this gives an estimated life-span of 81.098 years. In practice this means 80 - 83 years. I have noticed on several occasions that the LSR rate tends to slow very slightly throughout the course of life, so estimates derived from events before middle age may be a year or two short. In the unlikely event that John asks me for my estimate, I would say "early to mid-eighties".

A further refinement of the LSR is that one should also calculate progressed and regressed Angles. To do this multiply the required age by the LSR rate and also by the Naibod Arc, add this to the RAMC, and then use the progressed RAMC so obtained to find the Progressed Angles. In other words one progresses the Angles by using the progressed sidereal time. Then find any conjunctions of the progressed Angles with progressed planets. Thus an Angle may make three contacts with a planet in either direct or converse motion during the course of the life. In a Chart I have been recently working on Jupiter is firstly conjunct the Ascendant by direct Primary Direction, then the progressed Ascendant is conjunct progressed Jupiter, and lastly the direct Ascendant is conjunct Radical Jupiter, all at the LSR rate. Someone has a good two years coming up!

I now use the LSR as my principal means of prediction, as it gives by far the best chance of telling major events or major periods of development in a person's life. It is mostly true that great accuracy of timing cannot be expected from it - within two or three months from the date of exactitude is the best one can hope for on average for a LSR conjunction to be effective. For greater accuracy one should look to Secondary Progressions of the Angles by the Solar-Arc in longitude - though even these are not wholly reliable - Transits, the usual Cyclical Charts, and perhaps Primary Directions - that is if Primary Directions really work.

To be able to use the LSR in prediction one will need to know the dates of all major events the client is able to supply, regardless of the person's age, and one will need to then work out the LSR rate, and consequently the estimated life-span. What use astrologers choose to make of this must be left to the discretion of the individual practitioner. It is usually regarded as unethical to attempt to predict the date of death, at least to some extent because there has not been any reliable way of finding it. For instance, Secondary Progressed Sun conjunct Saturn at age 75 may mean death, but it could relate to almost anything. I personally see no harm at all in telling young or middle-aged people that they will, in my opinion, live to a ripe old age.

Naturally in those cases where the indications are that the person will not live to a good age, I keep my own counsel - after all, I might be wrong. I was recently consulted by an elderly lady who was having health problems. I was able to reassure her that the problem was unlikely to be serious, as I knew she would live many years longer. What notice she takes of me is, of course, up to her, but I am quite confident of my opinion in her case.

To sum up, the length and course of development of a person's life is set at birth, and the Life-Span Revolution is the way of finding both. Some people may find the philosophical implications of this disturbing, especially those who believe in "free will", as the concept that events in one's earlier life may be predicted from the age at death, and vice versa, is contrary to their whole conception of how the Universe works. I venture to suggest that it is that conception of the Universe that is wrong.

Finally, I should like to thank Ken Gillman and, above all, Jack Nicholls, for their support and encouragement during the development of the Life-Span Revolution.

The following article on the mathematics needed for working the Life-Span Revolution was written by Ross, and should be read in conjunction with the segment on Theodore Roosevelt in last month's Astrologers' Forum.

LSR MATHEMATICS

The working in full is as follows:

The RAMC is 332.325° . First find the Right Ascension (RA) of Saturn's degree of longitude ($11^\circ 40'$ Leo— $131^\circ 40'$) by the formula where E is the obliquity of the Ecliptic, $23^\circ 26.5'$. Thus $$RA = \tan^{-1}(\tan 131^\circ 40' \times \cos E) = 134.128^\circ$$

$$RA = \tan^{-1}(\tan \text{longitude} \times \cos E)$$

The Meridian Distance is the distance between the planet and the Meridian, and is measured in Right Ascension (that is, along the Equator). Here, as Saturn is below the Horizon, it is the distance between the RA just calculated and the RA of the IC (RAMC $332.325^\circ - 180^\circ$). So,

$$332.325 - 180 - 134.128 = 18.197^\circ$$

One must next find the semi-arc (SA) of Saturn - here the nocturnal semi-arc, as Saturn is below the horizon. As the Earth rotates around its own axis the planets appear to an observer on the Earth to revolve around it in circles parallel to the Equator. That part of the circle below the horizon is the planets's nocturnal arc, and half this is the nocturnal semi-arc, that is, the distance from the planet's (in this case, Saturn's) anti-culmination to its rising. That part of the planet's circle from its rising to its culmination is its diurnal semi-arc.

Saturn's nocturnal semi-arc is found from the formula $SA(n) = 90 - AD$, where AD is the Ascensional Difference, which in turn is given by the formula,

$$AD = \sin^{-1}(\tan D \times \tan L)$$

where $D = \sin^{-1}(\sin \text{longitude} \times \sin E)$

South declinations and geographic latitudes must be negative.

The declination is thus 17.293° , and the Ascensional Difference is 15.561° . Subtract this AD from 90° to find Saturn's nocturnal semi-arc, which is 74.439° .

All this is necessary because one needs to find Saturn's proportional mundane distance in the First Quadrant. This is given by MD/SA (Meridian Distance \div Semi-Arc):

$$18.197 \div 74.439 = 0.2444.$$

In other words, Saturn (or more strictly Saturn's degree of longitude, as in this method the celestial latitude of the planets is ignored) is 0.2444 of the mundane distance between the IC and the Ascendant. The Third Dusp is 0.333 of the same mundane distance, and the Second Dusp is 0.666 of the same distance.

The rationale of Primary Directions is that as one moves the RAMC in either direct or converse motion by however many degrees a year one wishes, the planets move too, but retain the same proportional distance from the Meridian as they had at birth (because the degree of Right Ascension that was on the Meridian at birth is moving too). This is how the planets and Angles appear to move to an observer on the Earth as the Earth rotates around its axis every 24 hours.

To find the degree of longitude of Saturn's Directed position in this instance, one needs to use the Placidus equation to convert the proportion of mundane distance for any RAMC to longitude. Use the Converse RAMC for the age for this event:

$$RAMC_r - (\text{age} \times \text{rate})$$

$$332.325 - (25.301 \text{ years} \times 6.148^\circ) = 176.774^\circ$$

The equation for the First Quadrant (Houses 1 - 3) is also used for Houses 7 - 9 (simply use the opposite points). In Roosevelt's Chart, to direct Mars, direct $18^\circ 3'$ Cancer instead of $18^\circ 3'$ Capricorn, and add 180° to the result:

$$y' = 180 - ([90 - \sin^{-1}(\sin y \times LF)] \times PAF) + RAMC_p$$

where LF is the Local Factor.

$$LF = \tan E \times \tan \text{geographic latitude} \\ \tan 23^\circ 26.5' \times \tan 40^\circ 45' = 0.3737$$

PAF is the Proportional Ascension Factor, that is, the MD/SA fraction we have just found, 0.2444.

RAMC_p is in this case the Converse RAMC we have already found, 176.774° , and y, to begin with, is any number at all.

The formula for Houses 10-12 (and 4-6) is

$$y' = ([90 + \sin^{-1}(\sin y \times LF)] \times PAF) + RAMC_p$$

A programmable scientific calculator with multiple memories is essential for performing the calculations for Primary Directions. Enter y, any number at first, into memory A, the LF into memory B, the PAF into memory C, and the RAMC_p into memory D. Program the calculator so that the result of the calculation, y', is entered into memory A in place of y, the arbitrary number we started with.

In my calculator (a Casio fx-4000P) the Program reads

$$([90 + \sin^{-1}(B \sin A)] \times C) + D \rightarrow A$$

Note that the result of the calculation is recycled into memory A.

Repeat the calculation - simply keep pressing the Execute Key - and each time this is done the new y' will be entered into memory A and so can be used in the following calculation. Keep repeating until the figure given by the calculator becomes constant. The result from the calculation for the Directed position (for Saturn in this case) is the RA of Saturn's converse position (332.336°), which must be converted to longitude by the formula $\text{Longitude} = \tan^{-1}(\tan RA \div \cos E)$

The result of all this is $0^\circ 15'$ Pisces, the MC. In other words, converse Saturn at the rate of 6.148° a year for the age at which Roosevelt's wife and mother died is conjunct the MC.

From MARGARET MILLARD (England):

The Life Cycle theory is fascinating. I have worked out Prince Charles' life-span, and I find it to be 64 years approximately.

Prince Charles does not really have a royal Chart, as Jupiter, so prominent by its Angularity in the Charts of the last five monarchs of the United Kingdom, is in the 5th House opposed by Uranus. The Queen may never abdicate, and as Ross Harvey has pointed out, by his calculations she will probably live to be about 86.

Referring to Alexander Marr's remarks in his book Political Astrology, in which he shows that the Precessed Lunar Return Charts of the U.K. Chart of 1st January 1801 for the deaths of the last four monarchs had malefics exactly on the Angles, usually the 4th Cusp, I calculated the Precessed Lunar Charts for the year April 2012 to April 2013, and struck gold: Mars conjunct the Sun conjuncted the 4th Cusp in the April 2013 Precessed Lunar.

This covers the month of the 87th birthday of the Queen, and Prince Charles will then be 64 year 5 months of age. According to Alexander, deaths of male monarchs are shown by Mars and Saturn, or Mars alone (for George V Mars was conjunct the IC, and for George VI Mars was conjunct the MC) and the death of Queen Victoria was shown by Saturn conjunct Scorpio on 13th November 2012, a few hours before the Solar Return.

The theory that the chart lives on after death [see Alan Johnson's article in last month's A.F.] has interested me for some years. Recently I progressed Tito's Birth Chart to June 25 1991, the date of the declaration of independence of Croatia and the beginning of the civil war. The progressed Sun was square progressed Pluto. The progressed Moon was square progressed Saturn. Coincidence? I doubt it.

RE-LOCATE OR NOT RE-LOCATE?

From LESLIE BLACK (England): The above question, asked in December Astrologers' Forum 125, has been a moot point among astrologers, with some making a strong case in favour of relocation. I came to the conclusion very early in my studies that the whole idea was ridiculous. It does not make any difference whatsoever how many miles separates a person from his birthplace as the Natal Angles always remain the same, and work most adequately.

If a person moves from his birth place, where he was born, say, under Libra rising, to a location where Scorpio would be rising, would the Libra influence completely disappear? Or would he take on a blend of these two Signs? The obvious answer must be an unqualified NO!

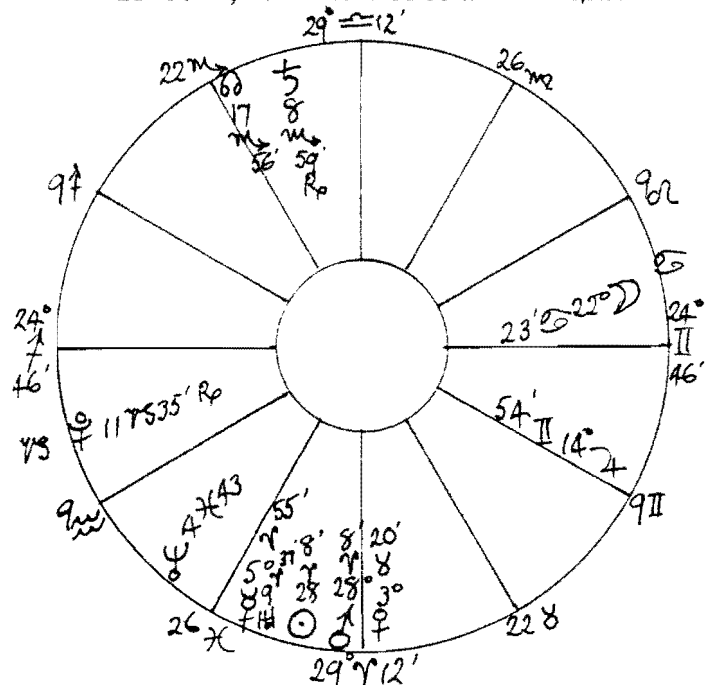

The answer remains the same for Progressed/Directed Ascendant, Midheaven, etc., as also for the Cyclic Charts - Solar, Lunar, Synodic Returns, etc. To re-locate these is no different from trying to change the location of the birth chart.

Although my sample of such cases is not a large one it is sufficient to support my opinion against such a measure as re-location. I have always recognized that a person is very much tied all through life to the Chart for the place of birth, and is in no way removed from it.

Views and experience of other astrologers will be welcome, preferably accompanied by illustrative examples, particularly in Cyclic Charts, showing how either the Chart for the Birth Place or the relocated Chart was the more indicative of events. The English astrologer/author Martin Freeman recommends using both places for Lunar Returns.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock,
18th February 1992.

PRECESSIONED LUNAR RETURN 18TH APRIL 2013
from HOROSCOPE OF UNITED KINGDOM,
1ST JANUARY 1801, 00AM, WESTMINSTER
51°30'N, 0°7'W. Placidian Cusps.

Venus close to the 4th Cusp.

In spite of the position of Venus I suspect that this shows the death of Charles, who may not even have lived to his coronation. His Solar Return for age 64 does not look good, and there is an eclipse on his Sun in 22°

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath NSW, Australia 2785.
Annual Subscription Australia $15, Overseas $A20.

Issue 126 January 1992

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

CONTEMPORARY EVENTS AND HISTORICAL CHARTS

By Allan Johnson.

Not a lot of research has been done on the continuing activation of a chart after the death of the subject. Everybody is aware that a person's influence does not end at death. This is a problem psychiatrists have had to deal with all the time. A dominating parent's influence can manifest long after they have ceased to be around. This applies even more so in the case of powerful historical characters. So there is a case for a parallel situation in astrology.

One of the titles we could give to the 20th Century is that it is the Century of Karl Marx. This is because his influence has been so widespread throughout the world, activating the lives of millions of people, and much blood has been shed in his name - despite the fact that he died in 1883 and never set foot in our Century. So right now, when we are in the final stages of the communist world and his statues are everywhere being dislodged from their pedestals, it is interesting to see what parallels are operating in Marx's Chart. Marx was born in 1818, so from 1818 to 1992 we have a time period of 174 years. But if Transits can still activate a chart after death they should still operate as long as that influence is prevailing. Marx has been universally accepted as the prophet for the world-wide communist movement. So it is worth looking at his Natal Chart to see if it really is the Chart of a Prophet. His actual birth date does seem to be beyond dispute, but there have been a few differing time versions, which is no surprise. Lois Rodden in The American Book of Charts puts forward the 2-am version with a lot of confidence, so it is worth working with.

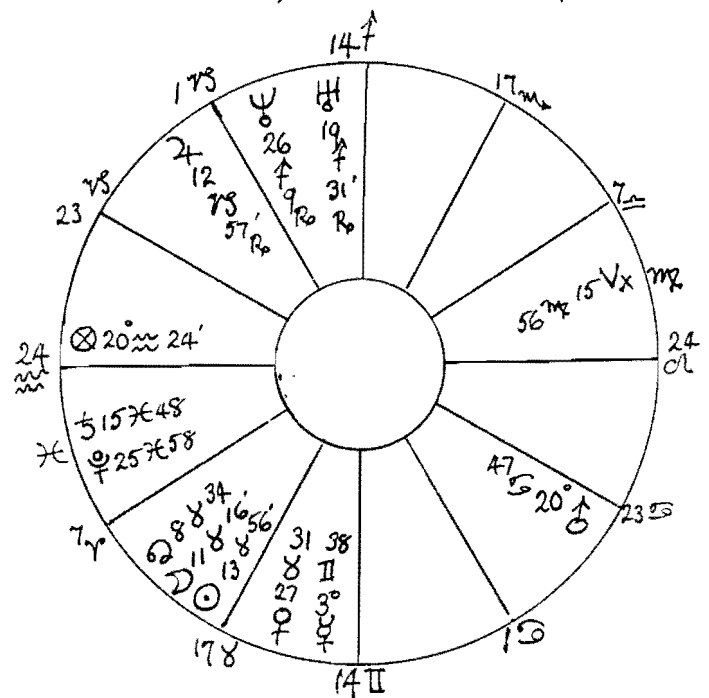

The main feature of this Chart is the configuration of Uranus/Neptune conjunction in square to Saturn/Pluto. This is a rare and powerful destiny pattern, as even the Uranus/Neptune conjunction can occur only every 171 years, and we are witnessing that event right now. The Neptune/Uranus conjunction in Sagittarius in the 10th House does seem pretty relevant for a prophet.

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Contemporary Events and Historical Charts	1
The Life-Span Revolution (Continued)	3
John F. Kennedy's Chart	3
Theodore Roosevelt's Chart	4

KARL MARX

5th May 1818, Trier, Germany, 2am, LMT
49°45'N, 6°38'E. Koch Cusps.

Uranus/Neptune can be highly creative, and of course Sagittarius suits a doctrine of world revolution, and the link with Saturn/Pluto is highly appropriate for Marx's sense of destiny, what he phrased as "historical inevitability". And of course Pisces also being involved in the configuration is a further indication of the great element of the visionary in his make-up. The Sun/-Moon/Node in Taurus trine Jupiter ensured that quite a bit of financial good fortune would come his way, and he certainly needed it for he was very inept at handling money. But this can also be considered the mark of a prophet. On the other hand the multiple square pattern applying to the 10th House is symptomatic of a hard life in many ways, with a lot of disappointments, and that was his lot, and with much ill-health in his later years. So both patterns worked out. He was very obsessive in his attitudes, and one might have expected planets in Scorpio, but in his case they seem to have operated through the opposite polarity of Taurus. So this Chart does seem to fit the person.

In looking for correlations of contemporary events with Marx's Chart we need a few key dates that stand out very definitely out of the welter of changing circumstances. One is the date Gorbachev became Supreme Ruler of the Soviets (11th March 1985). He really started the whole process. The other date is the breaching of the Berlin Wall (10th November 1989) which heralded the collapse of Eastern Europe. The Transits of Pluto, Uranus and Saturn are the ones involved in political dramas. For a situation like this we need really impressive correlations - and we do get them: When Gorbachev took office Transiting Uranus was right on Marx's Natal Uranus, and of course Uranus is the dominant planetary influence in Marx's Chart, and such a Transit stirs up the whole major configuration. This is "spot-on". Pluto is not significant. But it is on the second key date when it makes the opposition to Marx's Sun/Moon, while Neptune and Saturn are in conjunction and right on Marx's Jupiter, trining his Sun/Moon. If Marx would not have been happy with such an event, the people doing it would have! So both these important key dates do line up with Marx's Chart quite impressively.

The most significant thing about Marx's Chart is the Uranus/Neptune conjunction, and now these two planets complete their cycles and come together again precisely at the time of the demise of Marxism.

While Marx did set the agenda for the great revolutions of the 20th Century, there was another figure of even greater importance, and that was Vladimir Ilyich Lenin. Marx was the prophet and the visionary, whereas Lenin was the man of action who did actually achieve political power. He devoted his whole life to that one thing - the revolution. He was born on 22nd April 1870. His time is given precisely, and there has not been a lot of debate about it. Scorpio rising is very appropriate for his role of extraordinary devotion to a cause, but like Marx he has a cluster of planets in the opposite polarity of Taurus, with Pluto itself there in conjunction to Mercury. This says a lot for his obsessions. Emphasis on Fixed Signs gives him the endurance to see things through. But he needed much emphasis on Fire or Cardinal to do what he did. The

VLADIMIR ILYICH LENIN

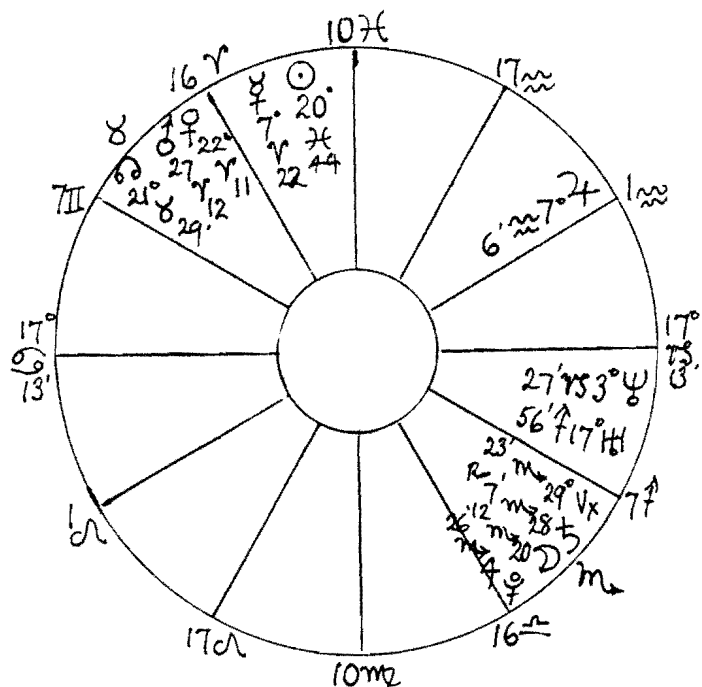

22nd April 1870, Ulyanovsk, USSR, 9:42pm LMT
54°20' N, 48°24' E. Koch Cusps.

Mars/Neptune conjunction in Aries and squaring Uranus is a revolutionary pattern. Mars conjunct Neptune can mean a great drive to realize a dream or vision. Although he did achieve power, his physical body went through a decline a few years later, so he did not have any long term of authority. Thus most of his life's activities were spent behind the scenes. Hence emphasis on the 6th House rather than the 10th. So this Chart figures.

GORBACHEV'S RISE TO SUPREME RULER

11th March 1985. Speculative time Noon.
Moscow, 55°45' N, 37°35' E. Placidian Cusps.

He died on 21st January 1924.

Using the same key date for correlations with contemporary events, with Gorbachev's rise to power we find Pluto in early Scorpio opposing the Sun and squaring the Moon, while Saturn is exactly on the Ascendant (which could mean the Chart is pretty accurate). Uranus at 18° Sagittarius makes the quincunx to its own Natal position. Pluto linking with the Sun and Moon so closely spells the end of a chapter, or the end of a dream. Uranus quincunx to Natal Uranus in the 8th House spells the same thing. The great drama of the Berlin Wall brought Pluto into close opposition to the Natal Mercury/Pluto conjunction, and this conjunction was a major key to Lenin's psyche. Uranus trine to his Natal Sun paralleled the fortunate set-up in Marx's Chart.

So there does seem to be a case for the activation of charts long after their owners have disappeared into the Great Beyond. Looking ahead for further light on the confused Russian scene at the moment, it is interesting to note that the great conjunction of Neptune/Uranus will be in 18° Capricorn next April, and so will be opposite to Lenin's Natal Uranus and squaring his Neptune/Mars conjunction, and this will be subsequently repeated in 1993. This lines up with other Charts, suggesting further dramatic developments in the 1992/1993 period.

THE LIFE-SPAN REVOLUTION

by Ross Harvey.

(Continued from Issue 125)

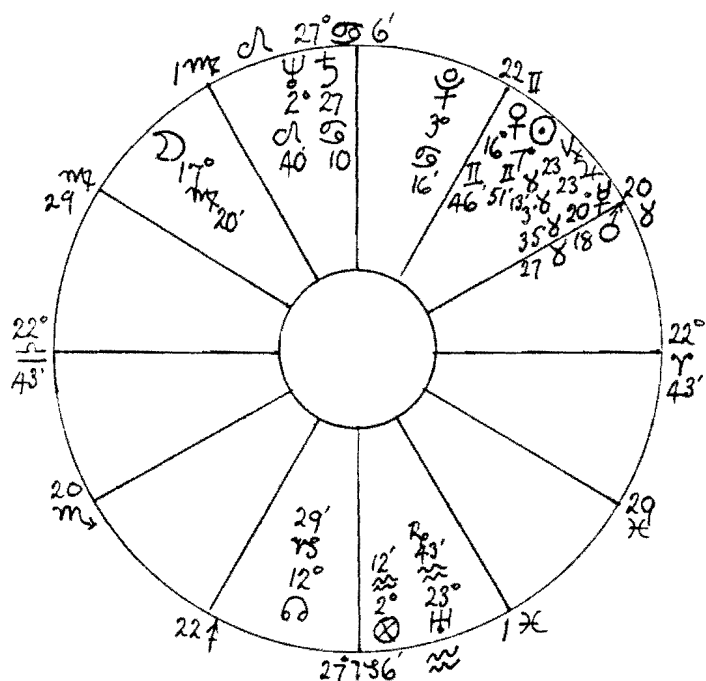

The second example is J.F. Kennedy, who was born at Brookline, Mass., USA, 71°7'W, 42°20'N, on the 29th of May 1917 at 3:14pm EST. The usual given time is 3:15pm, which I have rectified with Jack Nicholls' Solar Return Rectification technique. The time is sometimes given as 3:00pm, but the Nicholls method makes it clear that the time is within a minute or two of 3:15. One minute's difference in the time is not of great consequence for the LSR. The RAMC is 119.39693°.

Unlike King George who lived to a fairly average age and who died at seventy from the effects of smoking, Kennedy was murdered at age 46.484 years. There are two features which would have made me suspect that he would not live to a great age: one is that Saturn, the Ruler of the 4th House conjunct the Midheaven often tends to indicate a shortened life, though on its own this is not conclusive; and the other is that all the benefics are in the Third Quadrant. Kennedy's twenties were fairly eventful because of his inheritance, his war activities and his early entry into politics. I would have expected that one or the other Angle by direct or converse motion would have had to be conjunct a benefic for at least one of the events of these years. It can't be the MC as even at the standard rate of 4.5° a year the converse MC would have passed over all these planets by age twenty, so it must be either the direct or converse Ascendant. This at once limits the life-span to before the mid-fifties.

JOHN F. KENNEDY

29th May 1917, 3:14 pm EST, Brookline, Mass.
42°20'N, 71°7'W. Placidian Cusps.

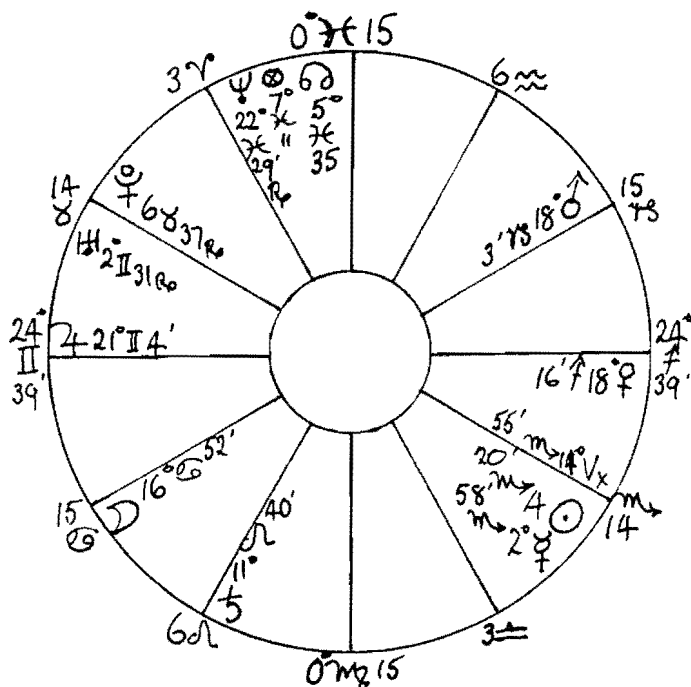

The first major event of Kennedy's life known to me is his receipt of a $1,000,000 trust fund on his twenty-first birthday. The first undoubted benefic that the Converse Ascendant reaches is Venus, and if this is exact on his 21st birthday the rate is 7.441° a year. He graduated at age 23.063 years, and the Converse Ascendant is conjunct Jupiter at a rate of 7.654° a year. He was sworn in as a member of Congress for the first time at age 29.600 years; Ascendant Direct is conjunct Pluto at a rate of 7.463° a year, and the Converse Ascendant is conjunct Uranus at a rate of 7.791° a year. He was elected to the Senate at age 35.430 years, and the Converse Ascendant was opposite Pluto for this event at a rate of 7.695° a year. He was married at age 36.290 years, and the Direct Ascendant was conjunct Uranus at a rate of 7.823° a year. His daughter was born at age 40.497 years, and the Direct MC was conjunct Venus at a rate of 7.809° a year, the Direct Ascendant was conjunct the Moon at a rate of 7.681° a year. He was elected President at the age of 43.447 years, and the Direct MC was conjunct Pluto for this event at a rate of 7.691° a year. Note that Pluto appears for each major advancement in his political career. The average of these ten rates is 7.681° a year, and when this is divided into 360° the life-span is 46.869 years. He was assassinated at 46.484 years. Note that the cause of death does not affect the life-span. Kennedy was destined to die at age 46 - 47, and I would have been able to predict this by the time he was 35 years old at the latest.

The next example is Theodore Roosevelt, born at 7:45pm LMT on the 27th of October 1858 in New York, $40^\circ 45'N$, $73^\circ 57'W$. The RAMC is $33s.325^\circ$. He died at 60.195 years.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT

27th October 1858, 7:45pm LMT, New York City
 $40^\circ 45'N$, $73^\circ 57'W$. Placidian Cusps.

Roosevelt's father died when the native was quite young, at age 19.288 years, and I have found on a number of occasions that Mars is associated with the (usually sudden) death of parents in fairly early life, as my next example will also show. The first possible contact to Mars is a conjunction of the Converse Ascendant, and if this is exact for this event, the rate is 5.820° a year. This alone would give a life span of 61.85 years, and this aspect is so typical of this event that it is the first thing I would have looked for had Roosevelt been a living client rather than a dead historical figure. He first married at age 22.000 years, and the Direct MC is conjunct the Moon for a rate of 6.180° a year. The most important event of his life was probably becoming President at age 42.822 years, and the Converse MC is conjunct Jupiter at a rate of 5.878° a year.

On the 14th February 1884 his wife and mother both died when he was 25.301 years old. The Direct MC could have been Saturn at a rate of 6.395° a year, but there is another possibility as this rate differs rather too much from what appears to be the average direct rate of 6.2° a year: This possibility is that Saturn itself by converse motion becomes conjunct the MC. In most cases when one is trying to establish the LSR rate it is enough to look for conjunctions to the Directed Angles, but to use the LSR for prediction one should also calculate the direct and converse positions of the planets at the LSR rate for the age in question. I use the PEA approach developed by Wim van Dam of the Netherlands. Find the MD/SA fraction of, in this case, $11^\circ 40'$ Leo, (that is, ignore Saturn's celestial latitude) and use the figure (0.244) in the Placidus equation with the converse RAMC at the LSR rate to find the converse direct position of Saturn. For this one will need a programmable calculator.

Saturn is conjunct the MC at age 25.301 years at a rate of 6.148° a year. [A full working and explanation of the mathematics involved is given by Ross, and will be presented in a following Astrologers' Forum] Unless the planet in question has significant latitude, using its latitude or ignoring it will make little difference in Primary Directions at the LSR rate simply because the rate is so much greater than is the case with conventional systems of Primary Directions. Note that, as with Directions of the Angles, only conjunctions of Directed planets to one of the four Angles are considered. They should be enough to account for all major influences during one's life.

Another quirk of the LSR, illustrated by Roosevelt's Chart, is that the direct and converse rates often differ slightly. In this case the direct rate is 6.14° a year, and the converse, 5.85° a year. The mean of these two is 5.995 which, divided into 360, gives the life-span of 60.050 years, very close to the actual age at death - 60.195 years.

[To be continued]

From the writings of C.E.O. Carter:

"... any body in an Angular House is powerful, and particularly so if it be exactly on an Angle. In such cases benefics, unless badly afflicted, are always beneficial in terms of the House occupied, i.e., Venus exactly setting helps the 7th House and is not to be regarded simply as "Venus opposition Ascendant"; on the other hand, malefics on the 4th or 7th Cusps will be bad for these Houses and will probably affect adversely the opposite Cusps."

My kind regards to all. - Dymock, 18/1/92.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath NSW, Australia 2785.
Annual Subscription Australia $15, Overseas $A20.

Issue 125 December 1991

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

From JENIFER POMMERIN (W.A.) we have more on the 1991 Melbourne Cup:

The Testing of Placidus and Koch Cusps by Horse Racing Results

For over a year now, I have been using the House System of Placidus for the 5th/11th and 6th/12th House Cusps, and the House System of Koch for the 2nd/8th and 3rd/9th House Cusps. Whether this is a viable proposition technically, I do not know. However it has been my experience (first discovered from work on the Forum Rectification exercises) that this combined House System works very well.

My method in horse races follows closely that of Dymock's (see Astrologers' Forum No. 120) except that the trines and quincunxes of planets to the Ascendant and Midheaven are included; and all names are considered regardless of form or weight. I also use etymology, and mythology (Gods, their attributes and stories, as Significators of planets and Signs).

In the recently run Melbourne Cup, two out of three placegetters were correctly forecast. The Chart showed Pluto conjunct the 9th House Cusp (Koch) and in trine to the Ascendant. SHIVA'S REVENGE was obviously a Pluto name to anyone acquainted with Indian mythology (Shiva, "the terrible destroyer"). LET'S ELOPE was also clearly indicated: In one of the legends, Pluto, the Lord of the Underworld, abducts Persephone, carrying her away to be with him forever as his loved one. (The drama and pathos of this theme is still with us in The Phantom of the Opera.) Although LET'S ELOPE would very likely respond well to Venus (and other planets, e.g., Sun, Mars) Venus in this race was over 3° distant from a Cusp and so not really a strong indicator.

MAGNOLIA HALL was not "seen". But one learns astrological meanings through such results. The magnolia appears to be a flower highly symbolic of the planet Pluto. A hall can relate to many planets.

In regard to the Metropolitan race at Randwick (see October Issue, No.122). A Koch 8th Cusp would bring in Mercury as the name

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
More on the Melbourne Cup	1
The Life Span Revolution, Part 1	2
Horary Answer—"Am I pregnant?"	4
The Question of Re-Location	4

significator instead of the Sun. I don't know whether SOLAR CIRCLE also failed to get a place as well as GARTER KING, but SOLAR CIRCLE is certainly indicative of the Sun, and should have been in there if that had been the planet closest to the Cusp. LORD REVENIR accords well with Mercury. One of the meanings of the French verb revenir (to come again/return) is to cost or account, and of course Mercury is one of the planets that "comes again" via retrograde action. MAHARAJAH admittedly fits well with the Sun. However a maharajah can be a prince or teacher, names indicative of Mercury, too.

It would be great if readers could check the above proposition for themselves and forward the results to the Editor; no need to bet - just erect charts for races already run. These results, for or against or inconclusive, would go some way to finding the most accurate House system - something that Astrology still seeks.

Recommended reading for any who would like to consider the planets in the God (or archetype) aspect is Mythology by Edith Hamilton, a publication of The New American Library. Myths are a good source of material of archetypal nature (character, events, objects) that can be given to the appropriate planet or Sign.

ADDENDUM to above: ALLAN GRANT (VIC.), writes regarding the astrology of horse-racing, "It would be interesting through research to discover how to interpret names like, e.g., Galilei, Galanal, Bungarby, etc." Readers are invited to submit their ideas and experiences on this and other points of interest. Even if you are not a punter, you will improve your grasp of astrology by studying the symbolism of the planets in relation to the names of horses. - Ed.

THE LIFE SPAN REVOLUTION

by Ross Harvey

We have all experienced occasions where we have been unable to detect events of the greatest importance with any of the conventional predictive techniques, such as Progressions, Transits, Primary Directions, etc. There are also few techniques that attempt to explain the course of development of one's life. I have long been trying to find a method that would remedy these deficiencies, and think that at last I may have done so. The method I have developed during the last six months is the LIFE SPAN REVOLUTION (LSR, for short).

The premise is that the whole horoscope makes one complete revolution - corresponding to the rotation of the Earth in the twenty-four hours after birth - in both direct and converse motion during the course of one's life, and that death ensues when the Angles and planets return to their original positions. The rate at which this happens has to be determined by correlating conjunctions of the direct and converse Angles with the age at which major life-changing events occurred. In effect, the LSR is a form of accelerated Primary Directions, but unlike the conventional systems of Primary Directions where approximately one degree of Right Ascension passes over the Meridian for each year of age, in the LSR the rate is between 4 and 6 degrees per year for most people in western societies, where the average age of death from old age is greater than seventy years.

The implications of this are that the life span and the sequence in which the influences of the planets are felt throughout life are set at birth. The cause of death is irrelevant - we live out our allotted span irrespective of whether we are murdered at 18 or die of old age at 100.

I have now tried the method on dozens of charts of well-known historical people culled from the generally available collections of data and, provided I have a reliable birth time and a biography that contains most of the really important events in the person's life, I have been able to get an estimate of the age of death within a year or two of the actual figure in every case. The LSR works impeccably, and in most cases the mathematics required consist in being able to multiply the age for a particular event by the rate (in degrees/year) and adding this to or subtracting it from the RAMC of the Birth Chart. A programmable calculator for calculating the Angles is extremely useful, but one can manage with a Table of Houses alone.

The only difficulty so far occurs with people who die before the age of about 30 years. For such people one needs a really comprehensive biography to have any hope of getting the rate, and hence the age at death. One is enormously helped if there were significant events in early childhood, but unfortunately this is not always the case. I have been searching for a reliable indication of a shortened life span in the Birth Chart, but without real success. I would suspect a comparatively early death if the Ruler of the 4th House were conjunct either the Ascendant or Midheaven, but I cannot be absolutely sure even of this. The usually accepted indications, such as afflictions of the Sun or Angles by the Ruler of the 8th House, do not work, as an inspection of any readily available collection of charts will show.

An extension of the LSR is to consider that the 360° motion of the Sun may occur in longitude as well as in Oblique Ascension, in other words that one whole year before and after birth is also equivalent to the span of one's life. When the Sun is Progressed or Regressed at the rate of the LSR, conjunctions and oppositions of the Progressed or Regressed Sun to Progressed or Regressed planets will correspond with major events in one's life. In many cases one will be able to estimate the rate, and consequently the life span, from Progressions and Regressions of the Sun without needing a birth time. In other words one can still to some extent apply the LSR even when one does not know the accurate time of birth.

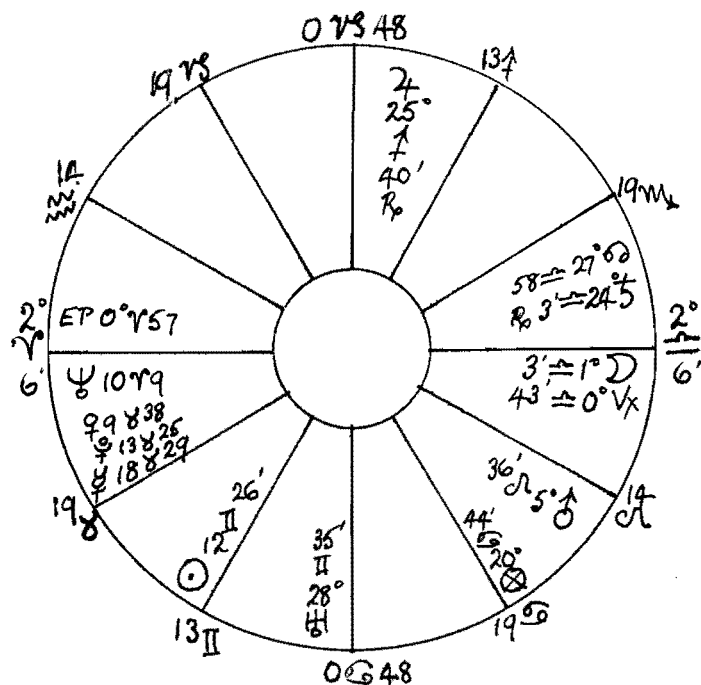

As my first example I have chosen the Chart of a person whose life span is known - King George V, born at Marlborough House in London, 51°30'N, 0°8'W, at 1:18am GMT, on the 3rd of June, 1865. The RAMC is 271.01733°, and the age at death is 70.634 years (died on the 20th of January, 1936). The source of the time is an official Palace announcement, and is unlikely to be wrong.

It is very helpful when one first applies the LSR to a new chart to have a major event in childhood, because one is less likely to be unable to decide to which event a particular aspect relates. When one does begin work on a chart with the LSR one has to use an average rate until one has found enough likely correlations to have worked out the true rate with some degree of reliability. So I assume that the person in question will live (or have lived) to about 80 years, for which the rate is $360 \div 80^\circ$ a year, or 4.5° a year.

The first major event in the future King's life was his joining the Navy at age 12. I do not know the precise date, so the resultant rate from this event will be a little more imprecise than usual. If we assume that the rate is 4.5° a year we then multiply this by 12 to get 54, and add this to, and subtract it from, the RAMC, and find the Directed Angles for this age. Then see if there are any appropriate planets near any of the Angles. The direct Ascendant is $28^\circ 12'$ Gemini, conjunct Uranus; the converse MC is $9^\circ 25'$ Scorpio, opposite Venus, and the converse Ascendant is $3^\circ 44'$ Capricorn, near Jupiter at $25^\circ 40'$ Sagittarius.

KING GEORGE V

June 3 1865 1:18am GMT, Marlborough House, 51°30'N, 0°8'W. Placidean Cusps.

This means that the King could have lived to about 80 years, or that the life span would have been significantly shorter if the Converse Ascendant were conjunct Jupiter. If the latter possibility is true, the rate at which the Ascendant would come to a conjunction with Jupiter at age 12 is 5.235° a year, for a life-span of 68.77 years - close to the actual figure. As the King is long dead, we know which figure is correct, but obviously this would not be so with a living subject, so we must look further. A quirk of the LSR is that rates, and consequently life spans, derived from childhood events, are slightly less accurate than those derived from events that occur roughly after the age of 20. A margin of error of a couple of years in the life span should be expected if one has to rely on events from the first two decades of life.

By far the most significant event in the King's life was his accession on his father's death on the 6th of May, 1910, at an age of 44.923 years. Multiply this age by 4.5° a year and find the Direct and Converse Angles. The direct MC is 21°26' Cancer, and the Ascendant is 16°19' Libra - neither conjunct anything. The converse MC is $10^{\circ}28'$ Gemini, and the Ascendant is $15^{\circ}6'$ Virgo. The converse MC is near a conjunction with the Sun, so the average rate is still possible. There are other possibilities, however: The direct MC could be conjunct Mars, though this is usually negative, and is often found to relate to the deaths of close family members; the direct Ascendant could be opposite Venus, and if this is so the rate is 5.242° a year. The direct Ascendant could be conjunct Saturn, though this too is unlikely. The converse MC could be conjunct Mercury, Pluto or Venus; if it is conjunct Venus the rate is 5.204° a year.

Another most significant event was the death of the native's elder brother in January 1892, and as a consequence of this he became the heir apparent to the throne. He had before this pursued a career in the Navy, and had expected to remain a sailor all his life. At the average rate of 4.5° a year, the direct MC for this event is $2^\circ 51'$ Taurus, and the Ascendant is $18^\circ 22'$ Leo. The converse MC is $29^\circ 16'$ Leo and the Ascendant is $13^\circ 4'$ Scorpio. The converse Ascendant is opposite Pluto, but the other Angles are not in aspect to anything. By far the most appropriate planet for this event (the death of a close member of the family) is Mars, however, and if the converse MC is conjunct Mars for this event, the rate is 5.382° a year.

In 1915 at age 50 (I do not know the exact date) he suffered a riding accident while inspecting front-line troops during the First World War. At the standard rate the direct Angles are MC 13°33' Leo, and Ascendant 2°19' Scorpio, and the converse ones, MC 18°29' Taurus and Ascendant 29°6' Leo. Once again Mars is by far the most appropriate planet for this event, and if the converse Ascendant is conjunct Mars, the rate is 5.170° a year. If there is any doubt about which of the rates obtained is the true one, one should list the rates from all possible planet/Angle conjunctions, and pick the most common. After one has rejected the more unlikely rates, one can average the remaining ones provided they are within ½° a year of each other.

Another way of checking the rate is to examine the Progressions. At age 12 (joined the Navy) at the standard rate the Sun would have progressed 54 days after the birthday to the 27th of July. On this day the Sun would have been conjunct Radical Mars, but this is not altogether appropriate; a little later, on the 6th of August, Progressed Sun would have been square Progressed Pluto, more appropriate for a change of circumstances, and this would give a rate of 5.346 days a year. Note that in the Progressions the rate is in days a year because the 360° that correspond to the life span are the Sun's motion in longitude, which takes a year to complete. Do not confuse this with the degrees a year rate of the LSR, because there the 360° are due to the rotation of the Earth in the 24 hours after birth, and are degrees of Right Ascension passing over the Meridian.

The future King married his late brother's fiancée on the 6th of July 1893. This seems more like duty than love. If the Sun is progressed at the standard rate it is at 14° Libra on the 7th of October 1865, not in aspect to anything. However, on the 26th of October the Progressed Sun is conjunct Progressed Saturn, at a rate of 5.162 days a year. This rate gives a life span when it is divided into 365 days, of 70.71 years, within a month of the actual age at death. The King acceded to the throne on his father's death at age 44.923 years on the 6th of May 1910. The Regressed Sun at the standard rate is at 21° Scorpio on the 13th of November 1864, not in aspect to anything. It is likely that it is either opposite Regressed Pluto at 12°12' Taurus on the 3rd of November, or conjunct Regressed Saturn at 21°1' Libra on the 13th of October. The conjunction is more powerful, and is as appropriate for the assumption of duty as it is for his father's death. The rate for this is 5.174 days a year, for a life span of 70.54 years, again only a month away from the actual age at death.

Even if we did not know how long the King had lived, it would by now be fairly clear that the average rate is about 5.2° a year, for a life span of approximately 70 years. If the rates (5.162 and 5.174 days a year) of the two Progressions just mentioned had been averaged (mean is 5.168 days a year) they would have given a date of death of 17th January 1936, three days before the actual date of death!

Other major events are his father's accession on the death of Queen Victoria on the 22nd January 1901 - converse MC opposite Jupiter at 5.217° a year; marriage at age 28.090 years - converse Ascendant conjunct Saturn (duty again) at 5.227° a year; the end of the War at age 53.42 years - direct Ascendant opposite Sun; Coronation at age 46.05 years - direct Ascendant opposite Pluto at 5.230° a year; promotion to vice-admiral at age 38 - converse MC conjunct Sun at 5.263° a year; and the Silver Jubilee in May 1935 at age 69.92 years - direct MC conjunct Jupiter 5.067° a year, and converse Ascendant conjunct Neptune at 5.103° a year. The last event is significant, as from the positions of Jupiter and Neptune in the Birth Chart one can tell that a significant event would have occurred about a year before death.

In all I found sixteen conjunctions of direct and converse Angles with appropriate planets that corresponded to major events, and the mean of the rates found from them was 5.204° a year. To find the estimate of the life span, divide this into 360 to get 69.18 years. This is within two years of the actual age at death, and is typical of the results that can be obtained from the LSR. Progressions of the Sun at the LSR rate can give a more accurate estimate, as has already been seen in this case, though it is usually harder at first to correlate Progressions with events. One should always start with the LSR.

[To be continued]

HORARY ANSWER: Am I Pregnant?

See last Issue for the relevant Chart taken from John Appleby's book, Horary Astrology. The author answered this question (correctly) as follows: "The indication of pregnancy here is the Moon in the Tenth House applying to Jupiter (Lord of the Fifth) by conjunction in Taurus. However, the perfection of that conjunction is interrupted by the Moon squaring Mercury before closing with Jupiter. It is unnecessary to speculate about the meaning of the Moon-Mercury square, because with Saturn at the Ascendant retrograde the question is destroyed. This is a primary consideration, and the answer to the question is a firm No. The querent was not pregnant."

RE-LOCATE OR NOT RE-LOCATE?

The question arises from time to time as to the efficacy and value of re-locating Birth Charts for the place of living, or the main centre of operations, as distinct from the place of birth. I am referring to both the geniture and the derived Progressed/Directed Ascendant, Midheaven, Part of Fortune and Vertex. The planetary Progressions would remain mathematically the same, though possibly relating to different Houses.

Now that there has been such a vast pattern of migration all over the world, many opportunities arise for studying the astrological effects, and it is particularly significant where the change of residence has been from one hemisphere or continent to another. It is also of prime importance for the people concerned.

Hardly less important, is the question of re-locating Cyclic Charts - Solar, Lunar and Synodic Returns, Age Harmonics, etc. Strong opinions have been expressed both ways. I believe relocating is a valuable technique, but I would like case reports, for or against, from readers who have made their own investigations.

Have a happy - and safe - festive season.
My kind regards to all. - Dymock,

16th December, 1992.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath NSW, Australia 2785.
Annual Subscription Australia $15, Overseas $A20.
Issue 124 November 1991

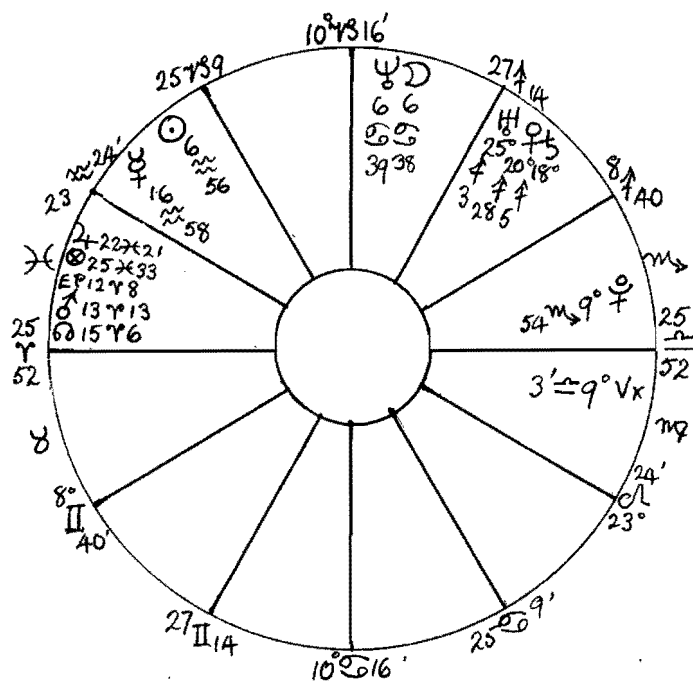

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

TERRY WAITE RELEASED

The welcome news today (19th November) is that after nearly five years in captivity as a hostage of the Islamic Jihad in Lebanon, Terry Waite, the personal envoy of Sir Robert Runcie, then Archbishop of Canterbury, was released yesterday and is now on his way home. This brings to mind the Horary Chart presented by Sue Ward (England) and published in the February 1987 Issue of this Journal. Sue asked the questions before it was known what had happened to Terry Waite, who had been sent by the Church of England to negotiate the release of Western hostages held by the terrorists. Here is the original Chart:

HORARY CHART

Is Terry Waite being held captive? Is he well? When will news of him be received?
27th January 1987, 10:17am UT, 00E45, 51N32.
Regiomontanus Cusps.

These were the comments on the above Chart made at the time:

SUE WARD: "Terry Waite, as a Church Envoy is signified by the 5th House from the 9th, i.e.,

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Terry Waite Released	1
Book Review: Derek Appleby's Horary Astrology	3
Melbourne Cup Chart - Insert planets	4

Aries, the Radical Ascendant. His Significators are Aries and its Ruler, Mars, and the Moon. The Church is shown by Sagittarius on the 9th Cusp, and its Ruler Jupiter, the senders of the Envoy. The message itself is the Moon. It is intended for Mercury, Ruler of the 7th House from the 9th which has Gemini on its Cusp, with Waite as carrier of that message.

"Mars, the principal Significator of Waite is in the 12th House (captivity). This position can also indicate his having undertaken a very long journey.

"Mars is Cadent, and does not aspect the Ascendant, showing he cannot come home, although the applying trine of Mars to Saturn, Ruler of the 12th, shows he could negotiate with his captors, or, as Saturn rules the 4th House from the 9th, that he will return.

"The Moon, Ruler of the original 4th House, is square Mars, showing him detained.

"Mercury, natural significator of news, applies to the dexter sextile of Saturn, Ruler of the original 10th House, the world. In the Ephemeris this sextile is perfected on the morning of the 28th January 1987, when news will be made public. [This was correct. -Ed.]

"Mars is strong in Aries, and the Ascendant not afflicted, so he is well.

"In the Ephemeris, Mars conjuncts the Radical Ascendant on February 14th, which could bring him back home; but it seems rather a long time.

The Moon conjunct Neptune shows confusion with regard to the message he carried. Mercury signifies the person the message is sent to and is in Waite's House of Friends and Objectives. But Mercury is disposed by Saturn, Ruler of the 12th, and is in mutual reception with Saturn [by "Term". See Lilly's Christian Astrology page 104. - Ed.] Could it be that the people the message was for are holding him? The good aspects involving Mars suggest that he may have gone to his captivity willingly."

OLIVIA BARCLAY (Eng.) wrote on the 5th February 1987: "Mars in Aries in the 12th House signifies a long journey to the East - East of Beirut - strong Mars and strong Jupiter by Signs, in health and great faith. In my opinion, Venus shows the obvious enemy, 7th House from the 1st, whereas Waite is in the hands of his unknown or unsuspected enemy, Saturn (being Ruler of the 12th) - his captors are the less obvious ones.

The Moon with Neptune so evident shows duplicity, and one of which Terry Waite may be aware since the Moon is his Co-Significator.

"I do not like the violent final Mars-Uranus aspect (the trine makes it easier). Venus, the obvious opponent, has been with the captors; Venus departs from Saturn, and it is Venus that activates the Mars-Uranus contact. Maybe, Venus seeks the ransom, its antiscion [9°32' Capricorn] falling on the 2nd House of the Church."

DYMOCK: "Perhaps the chief difficulty in Horary Astrology is determining the correct House to signify the person or matter concerned. C.C.Zain (Horary Astrology, p.140) says 'In a question which is of interest to the general public, rather than of special importance to the individual who asks it... the querent is not represented in the Chart. Instead, each House takes on its common significance ... and the question belongs to, and should be answered from, the Houses and their rulers thus commonly significant of the affairs chiefly involved.'

"I venture to think, therefore, that this Chart should be read as is. The Querent (Sue Ward) is not represented, but the prime mover, the Church of England, is indicated by the Ascendant in Aries (initiative and enterprise). The terrorists are shown by the Seventh; the Envoy, Terry Waite, by the Fifth (the House of Ambassadors); and the imprisoned hostages by the Twelfth.

"The Moon, Ruler of the 5th, now becomes Terry Waite's Significator, and is appropriately placed in Capricorn, the Sign of the Ambassador. The terrorists are also very appropriately signified by Pluto in the 7th, and the hostages (four university lecturers) by Jupiter in the 12th.

"According to Lilly, the cause of the mission is shown by the planet to which the ambassador's significator applies. In this instance it is Neptune, Co-Ruler of the 12th House, the hostages, in exact conjunction with the Moon. Waite's mission was to negotiate their release. The Moon's application to the sextile of Pluto shows he made contact with the terrorists. In my view, the exact Neptune conjunction, together with the square of Mars, also means that the mission will be unsuccessful, and that Terry Waite himself will be taken prisoner, as has occurred. The square from Mars looks dangerous for Waite - gunshot wounds? But the Moon's final application to the sextile of Jupiter is reassuring, and I take it to indicate Waite's eventual release - perhaps at the end of June, when Jupiter transits the Radical Ascendant. - Dymock."

Well, Waite was released, though not at the end of June (1987). Now that the drama has unfolded we have the opportunity to examine our interpretation of the Horary Chart in the light of what actually happened. My first thought was to see what Progressions, Directions or Transits in the Horary related to the date of Waite's release from his long ordeal, chained to a wall in a cell. The absence of clear indications here led me to question the traditional use of the 5th House as the "House of Ambassadors". There has never appeared to be any rationale for this. The nearest to a logical reason that I have come across appears in the recent book Horary Astrology by Anthony Louis, where he declares the 5th House rules "expressions of the self such as ambassadors, proxies and powers of attorney". I do not find this wholly convincing, either.

The upshot was that I decided to take a fresh look at the Chart in the light of the Progressions, Directions and Transits applicable to the date of Waite's release, because it appeared from my investigations that there had to be a different Significator for Terry Waite other than either the Moon or Mars.

Following C.C.Zain's teaching re questions of public interest (quoted above) I adhered to the idea of the Ascendant representing the Church of England, the motivating force in the matter, but decided that the 9th House, rather than the 5th, was more truly representative of Terry Waite, who was an envoy to foreign parts. The 9th has Sagittarius on the Cusp, so its Ruler, Jupiter, is the Significator of Waite - very apt, as Waite is described as "a big [Jupiter] man [6'2"] with a soft voice [Pisces]". Furthermore, Waite was no ordinary messenger, he was a man specially chosen for his negotiating skills, having had noteworthy success in engineering the release of several hostages on previous occasions. This is fully consonant with the generic Function Sagittarius - The Sage or Counsellor (see Isabelle Pagan, The Signs of the Zodiac Analysed).

With this hypothesis, the prevailing Transits and Directions become highly relevant: On 18th November, the day of Waite's release, at 8:17am EET, Mars transitting at 22°21' Scorpio was exactly trine Radical Jupiter (Waite) at 22°21' Pisces, in the House of Imprisonment. Mars trine Jupiter "frees from servitude, limitation and bondage" (Alan Leo). This Transit, then, timed the release to the day, but it must be remembered that Mars completes a full circuit of the Zodiac every two years, and there are two positions in which Mars trines Jupiter, namely when in Cancer or in Scorpio. Why, therefore, was Waite not released in June 1987, December 1987, June 1989 or December 1989, at which dates Mars again trined Jupiter?

The answer probably lies with Progressions and Directions in Terry Waite's own Geniture, to which, unfortunately I do not have access. However, the Horary Chart does give a series of indications: On 21st September, just two months before the date of release, Venus conjoined Uranus by Radix Direction (0°59'8" a year). This certainly carries the connotation of joy (Venus) from freedom (Uranus). On October the 6th Progressed Mercury sextiled Radical Uranus; on October the 30th the Progressed Ascendant trined the Radical Moon; and on November 25, just 7 days subsequent to Waite's release, Progressed Mercury is sextile to Progressed Uranus.

It should be noticed that if we accept the 9th House as being the true House for Terry Waite, then Uranus is his principal secondary Significator, being only about 2° from the Cusp. Certainly, this implies a break from tradition, which does not recognize Uranus as being a personal Significator in Horary work. If the Chart is re-drawn with Placidian instead of Regiomontanus Cusps, the 9th Cusp is 22°43' of Sagittarius, instead of 27°14', and then both Uranus and Venus become secondary Significators.

A further clue lies in the current Solar Return from the Horary Chart. Here it is, with the Radix inscribed around it. This concentric arrangement, with the Radix outside instead of inside as more commonly presented, gives a better picture of the situation. I regularly use it for all manner of Charts, both Progressed and Cyclic.

The accent is again on Uranus, the indications of release and freedom being Radical Uranus, now conjunct the Midheaven, and the reciprocal action of Radical Midheaven conjunct SR-Uranus; also Radical Jupiter and Fortuna conjunct SR-Ascendant, and Radical Sun opposite SR-Jupiter (expansion!); plus Radical Uranus in a T-Square with SR-Moon and SR-Vertex (a breaking of bonds). The Angularity of the planets gives them power, and the Vertex adds impact.

4TH SOLAR RETURN (27 JAN.1991 - 27 JAN.1992)

(Inner Circle: Solar Return; Outer: Radix)

27 Jan.1991, 9:25:50 GMT; 51°32'N, 0°45'E.

Solar-Return Placidian Cusps.

This kidnapping of Terry Waite, and Sue Wards's Horary Chart relating to it, have given us a rare opportunity to investigate and substantiate Horary doctrine in a less-than-common situation.

- Dymock.

Book Review

Derek Appleby: HORARY ASTROLOGY.

An Introduction to the Astrology of Time

Derek Appleby's is the second of the three books mentioned in the October Issue. It has two subtitles, the one appearing above, which is on the cover of the book and, more appropriately, The Art of Astrological Divination, inside on the fly leaf. The book is a paper back from the Aquarian Press selling at around $15, and containing the author's interpretation of about 50 Horary Charts, on which the aspiring Horary astrologer can exercise his own knowledge and judgement.

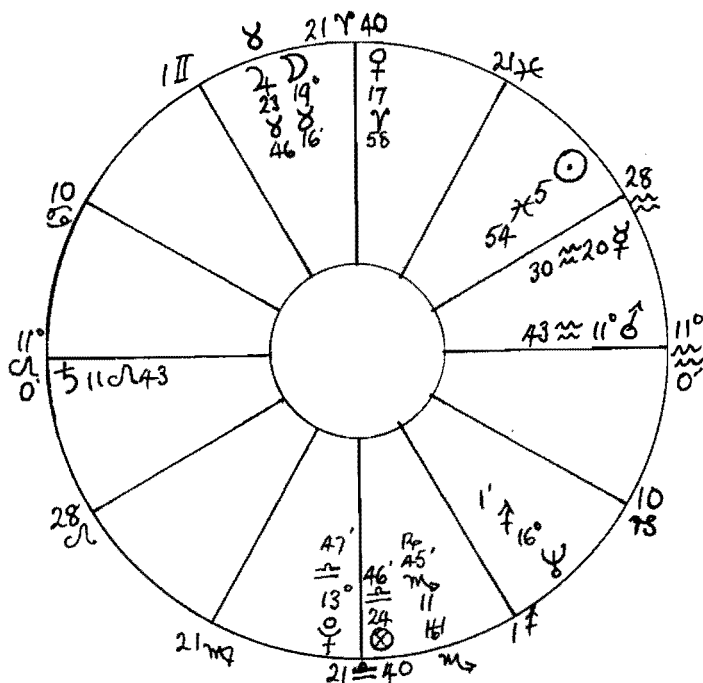

The Charts, comprising Part Two of the book and entitled "Collected Judgements", are grouped by theme - "Marriage and Relationships", "Births and Babies", "Property", "Education". "Career and Status", "Loss and Theft", "Sickness and Death" and "Miscellaneous". This is representative of the general run of questions that a Horary Astrologer is asked, and a study of them will certainly acquaint him/her with the basics of interpretation. It is unfortunate that the Charts are rather small, with the planets cramped together, which makes them difficult to read. However the earnest student will not balk at re-drawing them in a more legible manner.

Here is a typical Chart for readers to exercise their skills:

Question: Am I pregnant?

24th February 1977, 3:30pm GMT, London.

Appleby's reading will be given in the next Issue.

There is much information relating to the Horary Art in general, and the author gives his view on a number of controversial points as well as supplementing current practice with some new material. For example (page 200) "... a good, uninterrupted applying aspect between Sun and Moon is a very powerful indication of success, and the only time I have known it fail is when one of the Lights has been upon the degree of a malefic fixed star."

The author further declares, "My main purpose in this book has been to demonstrate by example how to approach a chart and how to apply oneself to the resolution of a question." It is wise to understand the difficulties the heavens have in producing answers to all manner of questions. We have to accept what we are given and make the best of it. If all the planets are contained within the space of two Houses, and neither of those Houses relates to the matter under consideration, but the chart is a valid one, do not reject the chart as unreasonable; the answer is there somewhere, and you must use all your ingenuity, intuition and any other powers you possess. Your approach should always be flexible."

The astrologer does not always get it right, and it is to Appleby's credit that he has included a number of his own errors, rather than present a false front of omniscience.

The book is marred here and there by editorial or other mistakes, such as the one on page 195, dealing with the invasion of the Falkland Islands in 1982. Something has been inadvertently omitted, which makes nonsense of the interpretation. Despite such errors, the book is well worth the money and, along with Olivia Barclay's book reviewed last month, should be acquired by all who aspire to the Horary Art.

My apologies to readers for inadvertently omitting the planets from this Chart in the last Issue. As all the Cusps were identified, no doubt those interested would have filled in the planets straight from the Ephemeris, but here is the complete Chart again.

MELBOURNE CUP 1991

5th November, 3:33pm, Flemington, Victoria.
37°47'S, 144°54'E. Placidian Cusps.

As was noted in the October Issue, the winner, LET'S ELOPE, correlates with Venus near the 7th Cusp, and the 2nd placegetter, SHIVA'S REVENGE, with Pluto, Mars and the Sun in Scorpio near the 9th Cusp.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock,

21st November 1991.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath NSW, Australia 2785.
Annual Subscription Australia $15, Overseas $A20.

Issue 122 October 1991
123

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

Those who follow horse-racing can sometimes pick up some fairly obvious winners. One such was the Metropolitan Race of 2600 Metres at Randwick, NSW, on 7th October last. The race was due to start at 3:45pm, so I timed the Chart for two minutes later, 3:47pm, to approximate the finishing time after allowing for the running of the race and a possible small delay at the barrier. Here is the Chart, and the starters:

METROPOLITAN 2600M

7th October 1991, Randwick, 3:47 pm.
33s55, 151e15. Placidian Cusps.

Starters:

- | | |
|------------------|----------------------|
| 1. Just A Dancer | 2. Solar Circle |
| 3. Lord Revenir | 4. Off The Record |
| 5. Princeville | 6. Magnolia Hall |
| 7. Maharajah | 8. Galilei |
| 9. Rural Prince | 10. Moods |
| 11. Pontiac Lass | 12. Coy County |
| 13. Destiny Boy | 14. Garter King |
| 15. Guile | 16. Tredegar Lad |
| 17. Din's Joy | 18. Initial Approach |
| 19. Pompeius | |

Following the method outlined in Astrologers' Forum No.120, I scanned the Chart for con-

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Metropolitan Horse Race 1991	1
1991 Melbourne Cup	1
Horary Astrology - New Books	2
Mikhail Gorbachev -
Margaret Millard's Rectification	3
Do Progressions Always Act?	4
Hospitals - Latitudes/Longitudes	4

junctions to a Cusp, and immediately fastened on the SUN, which appears a little more than 1° above the 8th Placidian Cusp. No other planet appears so close to a Cusp, so the Sun is the dominant Significator.

Inspection of the list of starters reveals three horses that are signified by the Sun: Lord Revenir, Garter King and Maharajah. Garter King could be eliminated from consideration on the grounds of its being out-classed. Of the other two, Lord Revenir won, and Maharajah came second.

MELBOURNE CUP 1991

5th November, 3:33 pm, Flemington, Victoria.
37°47' S., 144°54' E. Placidian Cusps.

The above Chart is calculated for three minutes past the official starting time

(3:30pm) to approximate the finish. The race has just been run this day, so only a post-mortem is possible. The winner was LET'S ELOPE, with SHIVA'S REVENGE 2nd, and MAGNOLIA HALL 3rd. LET'S ELOPE can be referred to Venus, The Unifier, just above the 7th Cusp (Unions). SHIVA'S REVENGE clearly relates to the only other group of planets close to a Cusp - Pluto, Mars and the Sun, near the 9th, and all in Scorpio, the Sign of Revenge. Shiva is the Indian God known as the Destroyer (Pluto). How much easier it is in hindsight! I do not see any obvious connection with the 3rd place-getter, MAGNOLIA HALL.

- Dymock.

HORARY ASTROLOGY - NEW BOOKS

It appears that the astrological fraternity has at last woken up to the value of Horary Astrology, which this publication has been advocating for years. Up to date there have hardly been any books of note on this branch of the art other than those that were written fifty or more years ago. Now, in the space of a year, we are treated to three worthy publications by modern practitioners. It is a refreshing change, and one that will direct the attention of many of those as yet uninitiated to what the author Robert De Luce called "the most useful and practical branch" of astrology - the Horary art.

The three books referred to are Horary Astrology REDISCOVERED by Olivia Barclay, Horary Astrology: An Introduction to the Astrology of Time by Derek Appleby, and Horary Astrology: The History and Practice of Astro-Divination by Anthony Louis. The first publication is reviewed here; the other two will be looked at in future issues of this journal.

Horary Astrology REDISCOVERED is the work of Olivia Barclay, Q.H.P. (Qualified Horary Astrologer). The subtitle is A Study in Classical Astrology and in Part Four: History, the author draws on her extensive knowledge of the writings of the early astrologers - Manilius, who lived about the time of Christ, Vettius Valens (2nd Century AD), Ptolemy (about AD 100), Palchus, Al Biruni, and others of more recent times such as Duplepper and William Lilly. This section is a unique contribution, and the reader cannot but be infected with the author's respect for the ancients and her enthusiasm for their teachings. As she points out, their astrology was very down-to-earth and practical, in contrast with the modern trend to treat almost everything in psychological terms, a procedure that allows the practitioners a great deal of latitude - or licence - as who can say whether their effusions are true or otherwise. Undoubtedly they degenerate into meaningless waffle at times, whereas the interpretations of the early astrologers were both definite and practical.

The above is something of a digression in this review of Olivia Barclay's book, for its principal theme is Horary Astrology itself, understanding and practising it. This is certainly rewarding. As the author says, the problems that arise in daily life are the realm of Horary. "It is much simpler to ask a direct question and work out a direct answer, than to wrest it from a natal chart with progressions, transits and ambiguities."

Olivia gives a lucid exposition of the nature and meaning of the planets, Signs and Houses, more especially in relation to Horary Astrology but relevant also to the delineation of birth horoscopes.

Part Two deals with specific questions, and how to answer them by horary means. Typical questions are "Shall we stay together?", "Will my wife come back to me?", "Where is my front door key?", "Will we get the House?". The study of practical examples is the best way to become familiar with the technique. Here is one of the Charts from Olivia's book, answering the questions, "Will my husband ever go? Will there be a divorce?"

Horary Chart 22nd January 1981, 7:20pm GMT
51°13'N., 1°24'E. Regiomontanus Cusps.

From this Chart Olivia deduced (correctly) that (1) the husband had another partner, and was living at the Querent's expense, (2) the husband's new partner was moving away from him, (3) the querent was also interested in someone else, (4) a separation would occur at a stated time, and divorce would follow, (5) the Querent was concerned for her daughter. How all this was read from the Chart is an exercise that readers might care to set themselves, and buy the book to find out how correct they were.

Part Three is an introduction to Mundane Astrology, using event charts, and deals with the disaster at Bhopal, the Libyan Reprisals (after the United States bombing in April 1986), the Challenger Space-Shuttle disaster in January 1986 and the Bradford fire of May 1985. These are instructive, and a useful adjunct to the more usual horary questions.

The book contains an extensive glossary, a bibliography and an index. It is published by the Whitford Press, and sells in Australia at $38. I recommend it. - Dymock.

Mikhail Gorbachev

Dr. MARGARET MILLARD (England) writes as follows: I do not know the birth time of Mikhail Gorbachev--no one does--and there are at least six Charts floating around. But I do know the birth coordinates. Privolnye is his birth place, a village so small that it is not on the maps, but I wrote to the cartography section of the National Geographic Society in Washington D.C. and asked them for the latitude and longitude of the Privolnye near Stavropol, his nearest big town. They sent me a list of 22 Privolnyes, but only one was possible, for the coordinates of the place where he went to school eight miles away were known, and 45°55' North and 41°19' East fitted perfectly.

I rectified the Chart by using Converse and Direct Secondaries by the method RA of Event-Sun minus RA of Natal-Sun divided by 360 and multiplied by 24 equals time in hours to be added to the birth time, to give the time of the day, which is, of course, the day for the day-equals-one-year measurement. I found one startling Converse Secondary dated January 4 1931, at 16:23:54 in Privolnye, which equated to the signing of the IMF Treaty on 8th December 1987. Seven planets were Angular. I considered that this Treaty was the end of the Cold War, and the most important event of our era.

My first choice for Gorbachev's Chart was with 10° Cancer rising, as Jupiter in Exaltation would be on the Ascendant, and the Sun trine Jupiter near the Midheaven. But for this Chart, in the IMF Treaty Converse Secondary the Sun-Moon opposition fell in the Twelfth House, so I moved the birth time two hours back to place them in the First-Seventh Houses, and found a Gemini Ascendant. I tested the Leo-rising Chart, but none fitted as well. Later I read the book of Joan Quigley - Reagan's astrologer - and she had rectified his Chart to have Gemini rising, but she didn't give the degree. In my Chart for Gorbachev, 9°44' Gemini rising puts Aldebaran and Antares across the Ascendant-Descendant. Aldebaran is supposed to be fortunate, but in the end the native will fall. Antares, the Rival of Mars, promises strife with open enemies.

I did lots of Direct and Converse Secondaries, and then decided to try Ronald Davison's and Alexander Marr's method of precession-corrected Ascendant-Lunar Charts. I used quite a collection of events, and I think that my Chart is pretty close. As 9°-10° Gemini is in the Term and Face of Jupiter, I have found the Jupiterian influence. Gorbachev does seem very Jupiterian to me. (Can his birth mark be the thunderbolt of Jove?

I finished fine-tuning my rectification with Topocentric Primary Directions. So here it is: 2nd March 1931, 10:32:20am, 45°55'N, 41°19'E.

MIKHAIL GORBACHEV

2nd March 1931, Privolyne, near Stavropol
45N55, 41E19; 10:32:20am. Placidian Cusps.
(Margaret Millard's Rectification).

Do Progressions Always Act?

by Leslie Black

The subject of Progressions/Directions has always been an enigma to a large section of professional astrologers and students alike.

especially when they look for benefits from a good aspect by Progression when it does not exist in the horoscope. It must be remembered that it is no use looking to a benefic Progression between the Moon and Jupiter when these two planets are in adverse aspect at birth. So the question must be, "Does a good Progression/Direction overcome a Radical evil position?" In my estimation it cannot do so. So why look to an aspect that does not exist in a horoscope?

For instance, say the Sun or Moon are in square aspect to Jupiter at birth. What we should look for are the various periods in life when that Radical aspect will operate. Similarly, if the Sun is in benefic aspect with Saturn, we should look for the various periods in the life when that Radical aspect will take effect. After all, the horoscope governs the whole life, and nothing can happen to a person but what is shown in that Radical chart. The supposition is that if the Sun is in square to Saturn at birth a benefic Direction between the Sun and Saturn will produce important [benefic] results. My opinion is that it does not, there being plenty of evidence on record to confirm this view.

Suppose a horoscope contains a close benefic aspect between the Moon and Uranus. The main question is, when will this aspect operate in life? The answer is quite simple that is, when one of the Significators - MC, Ascendant, Sun or Moon - forms benefic Directions to the two - sextile to one and trine to the other. It may be that one of these Significators is in adverse aspect at birth to either the Moon or Uranus. That may be so, but the birth aspect between these two planets is brought into action by the Progression of the Significators.

I have a case in mind for an example A person born on 12th March 1949, 23:15 GMT, at latitude 53°24'N, longitude 2°50'W. The Moon is in 26° of Leo, Uranus in 26° of Gemini, and the Sun in 22° of Pisces. The Sun is applying to the square of Uranus, but is not in aspect to the Moon. When, however, the Sun Progressed to Aries 26° it was sextile to Uranus and trine to the Moon, and the benefic effects of the Moon sextile Uranus were brought into action by the Progressed Sun.

I cannot understand why so little attention is paid in text books to the influence of Radical aspects and when they will act in the life, and so much attention is paid to aspects by Progression that are contrary to those in the horoscope.

(Further observations and comments on this subject are invited. Please cite experience, not theory or speculation - Ed.)

HOSPITAL LATITUDES/LONGITUDES

The following list of Major Hospitals is published by courtesy of Gwen Stoney (NSW) who researched the information.

SYDNEY	LAT.	LONG.
Auburn	33S 51'43"	151E 01'55"
Ashfield	33S 53 30"	151E 07'30"
Balmain	33S 51'40"	151E 10'50"
Bankstown	33S 56'06"	151E 01'10"
Bethesda, Mrckvl.	33S 54'24"	151E 10'04"
Blacktown	33S 46'20"	150E 55'
Crown St. Sydney	33S 53'10"	151E 12'45"
Canterbury	33S 55'20"	151E 05'52"
Camperdown	33S 53	151E 10'27"
Castlecrag	33S 48'11"	151E 13'
Concord	33S 50'30"	151E 05'30"
Fairfield	33S 52'47"	150E 57'55"
Hornsby	33S 42'11"	151E 06'40"
King George V	33S 53'30"	151E 10'50"
Liverpool	33S 55'22"	150E 55'45"
Manly	33S 48'30"	151E 17'30"
Mater, N.Sydney	33S 49'57"	151E 12'04"
Mona Vale	33S 41'15"	151E 18'26"
North Shore Clinic	33S 50'10"	151E 12'45"
Paddington	33S 53'05"	151E 13'30"
Parramatta	33S 48'48"	150E 00'03"
Penrith	33S 45'	150E 42'
Randwick	33S 55'13"	151E 14'30"
Royal North Shore	33S 49'22"	151E 11'26"
Ryde	33S 47'58"	151E 05'34"
Sanitarium, Whrnga.	33S 44'07"	151E 05'54"
St.George, Kogarah	33S 58'10"	151E 08'04"
St.Lukes, Potts Pt.	33S 52'35"	151E 13'30"
St.Margarets, D'hst.	33S 53'02"	151E 12'51"
War Memorial	33S 53'57"	151E 15'10"
Westmead	33S 48'15"	150E 59'08"
NEWCASTLE	32S 55'53"	151E 46'46"
Adamstown	32S 55'52"	151E 44'
MELBOURNE
Mercy	37S 48'50"	144E 59'
Pr.Alfred, Prahan	37S 50'51"	144E 57'10"
Queen Victoria	37S 48'45"	144E 57'55"
Royal Womens	37S 48'07"	144E 57'11"
CANBERRA
Old Canberra	35S 17'19"	149E 06'52"
Parliament House	35S 18'12"	149E 07'43"
Royal Canberra	35S 17'38"	149E 07'10"
Calvary	35S 15'16"	149E 05'20"
Woden Valley	35S 20'49"	149E 06'
Queanbeyan	35S 21'34"	149E 13'50"
BRISBANE
Royal Brisbane	27S 26'56"	153E 01'39"
Mater	27S 29'17"	153E 01'35"

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock,
4th November 1991.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath NSW, Australia 2785.
Annual Subscription Australia $15, Overseas $A20.
Issue 122 September 1991

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

The astonishing changes in what was until now the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics are without parallel in modern history, and it is a struggle to keep up with them. Here, Allan Johnson gives an astrological view:

The Russian Scene
by Allan Johnson.

At the beginning of 1990 I wrote a couple of articles on the future of Mikhail Gorbachev and the Soviet Union. Now the excitement of the recent Coup has subsided it is time for some more comments. Actually, next to an assassination, a coup is the most drastic life and death situation any leader can be involved in. It is usually a competition with no consolation prizes - either you win and you keep your head, or you don't! Those who were the losers have found this out. So it is interesting to see how this correlates with Gorbachev's Chart. Actually, his Progressed Sun squaring Progressed Mars was spot on. Of course, that type of aspect can spread over several years, as Mars moves at a slightly slower rate than the Sun, but there has to be a "flash point", and that is what has just taken place. This was backed up by transits of Neptune/Uranus to his T-Square pattern involving Uranus, Jupiter, Saturn and Pluto. The Neptune transit was highly important here, being within 1° orb of the square to Natal Uranus. Neptune is not usually associated with violence, but is associated with treachery and intrigue, which must necessarily always be involved in a coup. A lot of the people in whom he placed considerable trust were part of the plot. Neptune squared the Node, too, which added to the fuel, while Uranus was within a 3°-orb of the square to its own Natal position. I have always found that 3° are quite valid for Transits. But, of course, the whole configuration would have been highly activated.

I previously predicted that Gorbachev would survive these dangerous years, and I think now that the really high point of his danger has passed. But he still has quite a few dangerous years ahead, particularly through 1992/3, when Neptune and Uranus will be in tandem and linking with his Natal Pluto/

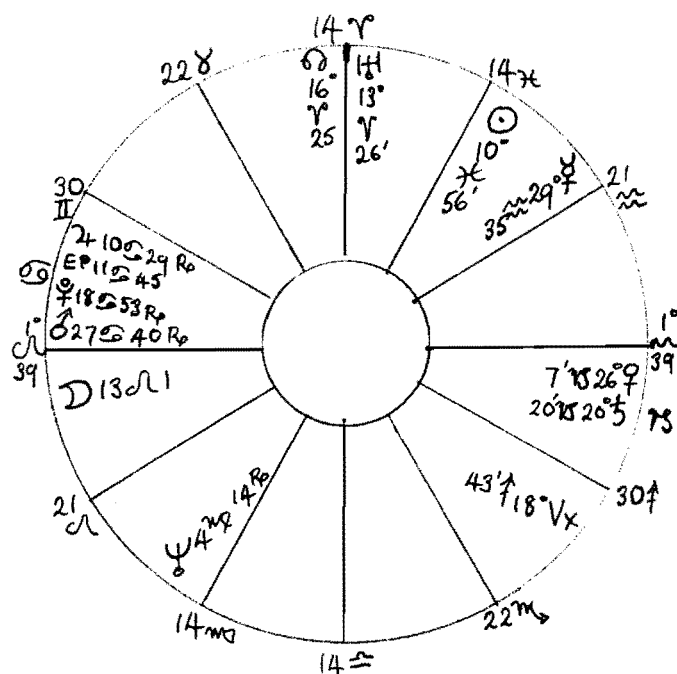

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The Russian Scene	1
Boris Yeltsin	2
A New Technique in Synastry	2
Extension of the Life-Span Revolution	4

[Editor's note: Here is Gorbachev's Horoscope for the speculative time of 2:26pm, which I based on the abortive Coup of 20th August.]

MIKHAIL GORBACHEV

2nd March 1931. Stavropol, USSR.
45°2'N, 41°59'E. Speculative time 2:26pm.
Placidean Cusps.

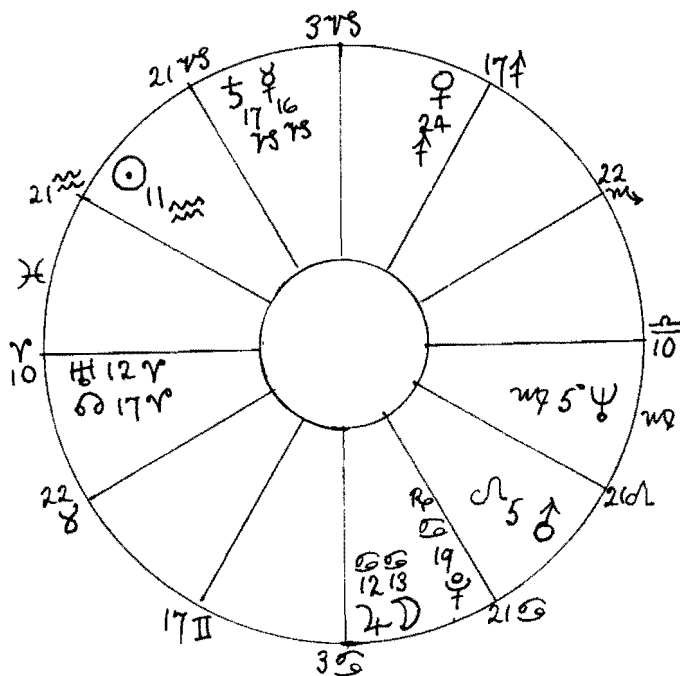

Saturn opposition. I did mention these as "The Years of Living Dangerously", which is the title of a book by Christopher Koch, written around another coup in Indonesia in the 1960's. His successful survival of the Coup could diminish the dangers of 1992/3.

When I wrote the articles at the beginning of 1990 there were no rivals in sight, but this is no longer the case now that Boris Yeltsin has entered the picture. Yeltsin was born about a month before Gorbachev (1st Feb. 1931, in Siberia) so the same configuration involving the four outer planets in the Cardinal Signs is also present in his Chart, which is why destiny has brought him to the fore at the same time as Gorbachev. Of course we have to work without a time of birth, but to me his appearance suggests an Aquarian Ascendant. But a Chart erected for that Ascendant won't give the planetary layout in the Houses appropriate to what we know of his life story. So an alternative possibility is to put Uranus on the Ascendant, giving Aries as the Rising Sign. This does seem to figure. It puts all the Cardinal planets in the Angular Houses, making for a highly dramatic destiny pattern. He is regarded as a maverick, which fits a person with Uranus in Aries rising. He has a taste for raw political combat, very outspoken in a country where few people risk it. This Chart also puts Saturn in the 10th House, appropriate for a power-seeking person. He has been called a "mercurial politician" and Mercury is also in his 10th. He enjoys the limelight, yet is said to live a reclusive home life and values his privacy - which could be signified by a strong 4th House and 4th/10th-opposition planets. So I think this Chart has its logic.

BORIS YELTSIN

1st February 1931, Sverd Lovsk, Siberia
56°50' N, 60°30' E. Speculative Time. Koch.

Where Yeltsin gets an edge on Gorbachev is that he is an Aquarian with the Sun opposite Mars, whereas Gorbachev is a Piscean with the Sun opposite Neptune. So Yeltsin is bound to be the more forceful and decisive, yet at the beginning of the reform movement Gorbachev could have been the right person. His ambivalence enabled him to get support from both sides of the spectrum, which was essential at that time, but this became his drawback in the long run, which he himself has admitted. With the developing disintegration of the Soviet Union, Russia, with its 150-million population, must emerge as the most powerful force, and with it Yeltsin as its elected leader.

Yeltsin's Transits in 1992/3 give a similar picture to Gorbachev, with Neptune/Uranus linking with the Natal Pluto/Saturn opposition. So it is not going to be easy for either of them, and there will be the danger of intrigues and treachery. So there is the potential for conflict between them. I don't see Gorbachev dropping out of the race and leaving the stage to Yeltsin. At the time of writing (16th September) he seems to be bouncing back to popularity.

Yeltsin's Progressions show his Progressed Sun coming to the conjunction of Natal Uranus and square to Jupiter, which figures very much for what has been happening. His T-Square configuration is being activated by the Progressed Sun as well as the Uranus/Neptune Transits. All this suggests that neither man has really got his act together, and there could be further surprise developments, but the whole thing should be looked at with the widespread economic upheavals across the country as a backdrop. Both Charts show unmistakable stress, but this may be due to the convulsions of the country itself, rather than a conflict between each other. They may see their individual salvations in working in cooperation. But 1992/3 are still to be key years.

A NEW TECHNIQUE IN SYNASTRY

by Ross Harvey.

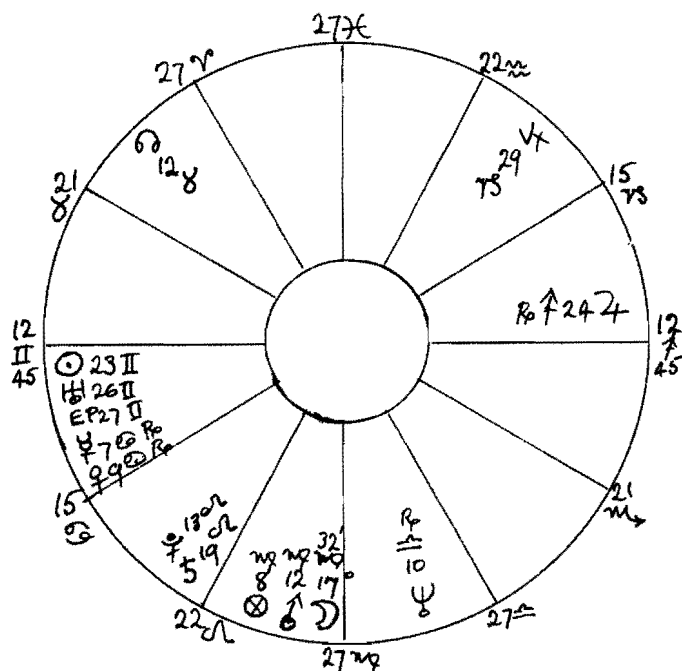

I have noticed that conventional synastry does not always explain why two people are attracted - or why they cannot stand each other! Others have had the same experience; hence the various relationship charts that have been proposed, none of which I find totally satisfactory. In conventional synastry the two charts are effectively superimposed with the degrees of longitude aligned, but it occurred to me that 0° Aries is not the centre of the chart, but rather the Sun and Moon are. So I propose that 360° dials be made of the two charts and one cut out so that it can be superimposed on the other and rotated, and that first the Sun of one chart should be put on top of the Sun in the other, then the Moons aligned, and the Sun of one be put on the Moon of the others, and then vice-versa. Two people (or any entities for which charts can be erected) will be attracted to each other if the distances between important points of one chart equal the distances between important points of the other. Either the Sun or the Moon must be one of the points, hence one aligns them. The more such correspondences can be found the greater the attraction, while the total absence of correspondence suggests that the two people have nothing in common.

Here are the charts of a married couple whom I have called John and Kate. Apart from his Moon opposite her Sun, his MC conjunct her Mercury and his Ascendant trine her Saturn, the normal inter-chart aspects are not striking. Would anyone have picked these two as husband and wife?

"JOHN"

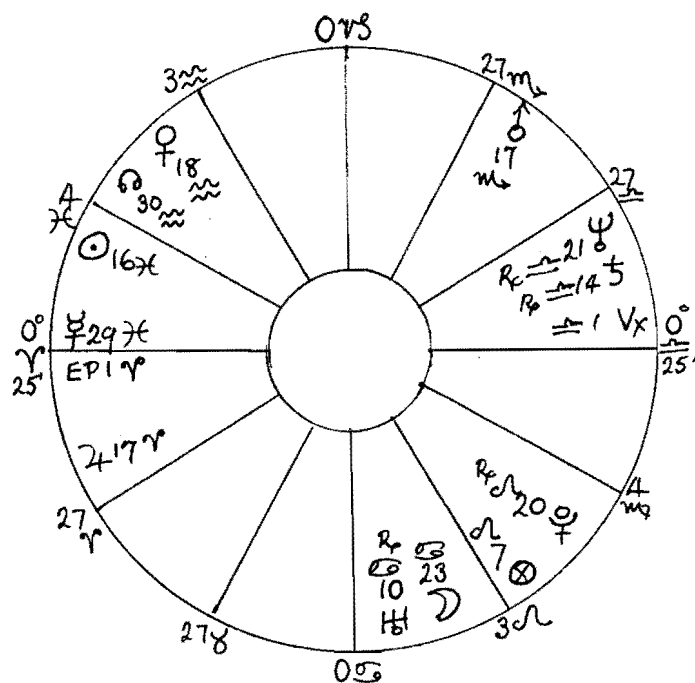

14th June 1948, 6:16am, Castlecrag, NSW.
33°48' S, 151°13' E. Placidian Cusps.

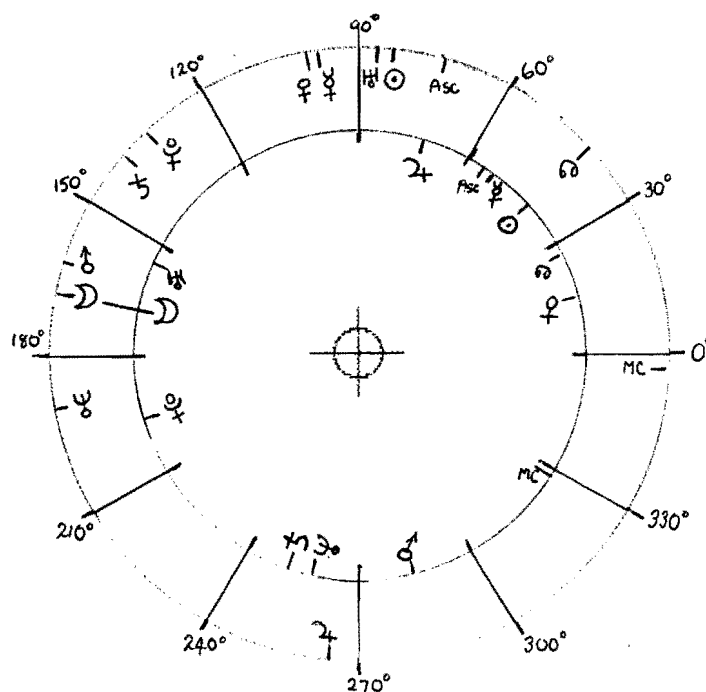

Now turn to the 360° dials and superimpose Kate's Chart on John's. Firstly, align the Suns: Then her Ascendant/Mercury conjunction becomes conjunct his Mercury/Venus conjunction, and her Jupiter is trine his MC. Then align the Moons: In the present case this is the most important comparison, for now her Jupiter is conjunct his Ascendant, her Sun conjunct his Node, her Mars opposes his Venus (Venus/Mars contacts are usual for sexual

"KATE"

7th March 1952, 7:24am, Melbourne
37°49' S, 144°58' E. Placidian Cusps.

"Kate's" Chart superimposed on "John's" ("John" outer circle, "Kate" inner circle) attraction), her Saturn and Neptune opposite his Ascendant, her Pluto trine his Ascendant and her MC trine his Sun. The crucial contact between the two Charts is revealed here: Her Moon-Jupiter distance (95°6') is the same as his Moon-Ascendant distance (94°47'), and her Sun-Moon angle (126°18') the same as his Moon-Node angle (125°26'). I suspect that the Sun-Moon angle may be of special importance, and is usually involved when two people are close to each other. Note, too, that the Node is especially important in relationships. When several inter-planet distances in one chart are the same as distances in the other, the two charts "lock together", and so do the people. Note, too, that Saturn in a favourable comparison indicates permanence, while in an unfavourable one it suggests alienation.

Other alignments are possible: Her Sun on his Moon, her Moon on his Sun, and then the Ascendants can be aligned and so can the MC'S. I suggest that readers make such 360° dials for themselves, either using these two Charts, or their own and their partner's, or of any obviously compatible couples known to them, and see for themselves how the two charts can be aligned to find similar inter-planet distances in the two charts.

This technique need not be restricted to inter-personal relationships. I recently had occasion to look at the chart of a person who is considering moving to the UK to further his career. In the alignment of his Sun with the Sun in the 1922 UK Chart (see Mundane Astrology by Baigent, Campion and Harvey, p.434) there were no less than six other conjunctions produced, including the UK-Moon on his Jupiter, the UK-Jupiter on his MC and the UK MC on his Pluto. Obviously emigration is a good idea for him! In another case of a person who recently spent a year in London and did not like it at all, when the Sun's were aligned there was not one other conjunction to be found.

EXTENSION OF THE LIFE-SPAN REVOLUTION by Ross Harvey.

I have further developed the Life-Span Revolution. What appears to be the final form is that the birth chart as a whole does one complete revolution both forwards and backwards, and that these revolutions correspond to the life span. Converse motion works as well as direct, and is usually needed to account for all major events. Curiously, in most cases the rate for converse motion will differ very slightly from that for direct motion. As an example take my own Chart again: The Ascendant by converse motion has to come to a conjunction with Mars (and consequently a square to Saturn) some time in my 'teens. The only dramatic events were my father's death and my going to university (which I hated), both within a few weeks of each other, and if the Ascendant comes to Mars for my father's death at age 16.6 years the rate is 3.38° degrees a year. The converse MC comes to Jupiter in my twenties, and must correspond to my first trip to the UK at age 28.5 years, for a rate of 3.33° a year. The average converse rate is 3.33° a year.

A further extension of the method is to direct the planets both forwards and backwards at the rates for the Angles. I use the PEA approach, that is, ignore celestial latitude and use the Placidus equations. When this is done Mars direct comes to the MC at age 21.9 (going to art school), and Jupiter comes to the Ascendant in May '92 (the probable date of my London exhibition (which has been delayed by the recession)). Mars is by far the most common planet to be associated with the death of parent in fairly early life. Note that I admit only conjunctions of the planets to the Angles, and conjunctions and oppositions of the Sun. In Queen Victoria's case (see last Issue), for the death of Prince Albert, both the Sun and Moon by direct motion were opposite Radical Mars.

Yet another extension of this method is that Progressions at the life-span rates also work well, that is, one whole year both after and before birth correspond to the total life span. In my own case, Progressed Sun becomes conjunct Progressed Pluto in my teens, and once again this has to be my father's death. This gives a rate of 3.6° a year for direct Progressions. Progressed Sun was trine Prog.Uranus at age 38.8 years (gave up teaching); Regressed Sun, Regr.Venus and Regr.Mercury were square the Ascendant at age 18.6 (gave up science); Prog.Mars was conjunct the Ascendant at age 21 (art school), and Progr.Sun was sextile Radical Venus and Progr.Uranus for the same event; and Regr.Venus was sextile the MC, Regr.Sun was square Radical Moon, and Regr.Mars was trine the Ascendant at age 28.5 (trip to the U.K.). The near future looks good, with the Progressed Ascendant conjunct Prog.Jupiter at age 44, and Regr.Sun conjunct Rad.Jupiter at age 43, among other positive indications. Provided one has a sufficiently extensive biography these Progressions (of the Sun) can be useful in enabling one to estimate the life span in cases where the birth time is uncertain, and it is possible that the rates obtained from Progressions may be more accurate than those from the Revolution.

My kind regards to all, Dymock,
30th September, 1991.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath NSW, Australia 2785.
Annual Subscription Australia $15, Overseas $A20.

Issue 121

August 1991

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

Ross Harvey's article is continued from last month. For Ross Harvey's Horoscope see Astrologers' Forum No.83/84.

THE LIFE-SPAN REVOLUTION

This, incidentally gives a likely life span of 99 years! ($360 \div 3.625$). Jupiter anti-culminates at age 23 (first serious romance); Mars sets at age 26.2 (left art school); Pluto culminates at age 27.2 (job at the Tech.); Mercury sets at age 28.5 (first trip to UK); Sun sets at age 31.3 (first exhibition); Saturn culminates at age 31.6 - the promise of my first show was not followed up, and this baleful influence has lasted until the present, when Neptune culminates at the time of writing. Venus sets at age 35.7 (third European trip). Jupiter rises at age 44 - it obviously has still to rise, as nothing out of the ordinary has happened in the last couple of years, though there are many indications that the next two years will change all that. Note that the timing is not as precise as one would expect from Progressions - to the nearest year is often all one can expect.

J.F.Kennedy's Chart (see A.F. No.81) is interesting, as apart from one planet in the Fourth, the first planets to rise are in the Eighth, and these should correlate with the significant events during and after the War. Mars rising is likely for joining the Navy at age 24, and if so, Pluto rises for his first Election to Congress at age 29.5, and culminates for his becoming President at age 43.5. The rate is 7.6 Degrees/Year, and this gives a likely life span of 47 years. He was assassinated at 46.

I haven't looked at the Charts of anyone who died in childhood (I don't have any with a biography), and don't know if intermediate Cusps are significant, but at this stage I suggest that they be ignored. The four Angles are quite enough.

The Queen's Chart is another good example, and works well for the recorded time (see Astrologers' Forum No.82). If the average rate is used the Sun rises for age 11, so one may expect that it did rise between ages 9 and 12. The events of overwhelming significance in her childhood were her

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The Life-Span Revolution (Contd.)	1
When a Conjunction is not a Conjunction.	2
Celestial Latitude and Aspect Orbs	2
Vale Michel Gauquelin	3

father's accession (age 10.7y) and his Coronation (age 11.1). These changed her own life irrevocably. So it appears that the average rate is at least close to the correct one. The next significant event in her life is her marriage (age 21.6). For this, Mars and Jupiter culminate (for an annual rate of 4.2 Degrees/Year): They can relate only to this, or to her accession and coronation, but to relate them to the later events seems to make the rate too slow. In any event their culmination at age 21 inaugurates a most auspicious and significant period in her life, especially if one bears in mind the circumstances of this particular person. Venus culminates and Pluto rises for the death of George VI and her consequent accession (age 25.8). As Pluto is comparatively isolated in this Chart its rise can hardly relate to anything else, especially as Pluto's rise follows Jupiter's culmination by four years, and nothing of particular significance happened four years after her accession. Pluto culminated at age 54.3 - Prince Charles's marriage. Saturn rises at age 69.6, and this corresponds with a station of Neptune conjunct her Ascendant in October 1975. Her suggested life span is approximately 86 years.

The method is really a sort of accelerated Primary Directions. What sets it apart from other methods of prediction is that it can predict whole periods rather than single events, and that there is a different time measure for every person. This is quite logical, as people age at different rates. I have had a number of new ideas of late, but this seems to be the best. It has worked impeccably for every chart I have so far looked at. Some people might take exception to my attempting to predict people's life spans, but that is their problem.

What I'm doing in fact is directing the Angles in direct motion with a time measure that varies from person to person, but which on average is 4° to 6° a year. It occurred to me that converse motion of the Angles might work too, and in several charts I have looked at the results are promising, though I'm not yet certain that converse motion should be used as well (naturally one would use the same time measure as for the direct Angles). In George Bush's Chart Jupiter culminated when he was elected to Congress, Venus rose when he became President, and Neptune will rise when he must stand down as President (age 72.4 years), but there are no indications for marriage. However, the converse MC is conjunct Mars, and the converse Ascendant conjunct Sun for marriage. I've also noticed that it is the Zodiacal position of the planets that gives the correct results, and not the positions with latitude - exactly the opposite of what I had expected.

From LESLIE BLACK (U.K.):

When a Conjunction is not a Conjunction

It is a fact that many astrologers still hold to the belief that two planets are in exact conjunction when each has the same longitude. The Oxford Dictionary defines conjunction, as used in astrology and astronomy, as the "apparent proximity of two heavenly bodies", and that means that the two bodies must be seen close to each other in the sky, and not many degrees apart!

In astrology, "orbs" are allowed to a conjunction, but the distance must be relatively small, 3° being the maximum. Only in the case of a New Moon is an orb of 7° allowable. For the more distant planets the orbs must be very much less for the planetary influence to be in the slightest degree effective.

When the two planets have identical longitudes and latitudes, the nearer of the two planets will "occult" the other, and thereby execute an exact conjunction, because it will mean that any radiation from the more distant planet of the pair (the one that is being occulted) will be suppressed and unable to reach the Earth.

Raphael's Ephemeris shows a conjunction of the Sun and Pluto on the 13th November 1991. The Sun will be at 21° of Scorpio, and Pluto at 20° Scorpio. This will be envisaged by quite a number of astrologers as a conjunction, even though Pluto is in 14°28' North latitude, that is, 14½° away from the Ecliptic. Such a separation of Pluto from the Sun in space does not warrant regarding their relationship as a conjunction.

Celestial Latitude and Aspect Orbs

Leslie has drawn attention again to the matter of celestial latitude, which has been mentioned on several occasions in the pages of this Journal. It is true that planets in the same degree of Ecliptical longitude can still be separated in space through differing latitudes North or South of the Sun's path (Pluto producing the most extreme case) and can we then treat them as being in conjunction? My answer is yes. I have been considerably exercised by this question, but experience and observation have convinced me that what matters most from the astrological point of view is closeness on the Ecliptic line, irrespective of distance North or South of it.

It is probable that if the two planets are close to the same latitude then the effect of the conjunction would be enhanced. On the other hand, what is the effect of one body physically "occluding" the other, through having an identical longitude and latitude? It may be that the planet furthest from the Earth would have its influence totally, or almost totally, nullified. It's an interesting question, that practice (not theory) will have to decide.

Leslie touches also on the matter of how far orbs should extend. This is still to some extent controversial but there is general agreement on a few matters: (1) The closer the orb the more powerful the aspect. (2) The Sun and Moon have a wider orb of influence than the planets. (3) Conjunctions have a wider orb than oppositions, squares, trines, etc. (4) Orbs (and planetary influence) do not suddenly cut off at a definite distance, they fade gradually until at some point there is no apparent effect.

To the above I would add that wider orbs are appropriate when a body has great mundane strength, as being on the Horizon or the Meridian. This still leaves open the question of just how many degrees of orb should be allowed for a conjunction, opposition, square, trine, etc. Such information is usually sought by students. Some rule of thumb is useful until the astrologer is able to vary the orb according to the nature of the Significator and its relative strength in the particular horoscope. The 3° declared by Leslie is to my mind much too rigorous, and not justified in practice.

For conjunctions in birth charts I suggest 8° each side for the Sun and Moon, 6° for Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn, 5° for Uranus, Neptune and Pluto. The orbs of the two bodies concerned are added together and the result halved. Thus the Sun and Venus would be reckoned as still in conjunction (a relatively weak one) if they were 7° degrees apart in the Zodiac ($8 + 6 \div 2 = 7$). A wide conjunction like this I would consider as having about one-fifth the power of 3° conjunction, as it seems the effects drop off sharply with increasing distance.

Where the connection is with a Zodiacal point (Ascendant, Meridian, Intermediate Cusp, East Point, Vertex, Fortuna) I allow 4° for a conjunction, and less for the aspects - 3½° for an opposition, 2½° for a square or trine, 1° for a sextile, irrespective of the planet involved.

Orbs for the less powerful aspects have to be scaled down considerably. For a sextile I consider 4° as the maximum, even for the Sun and Moon, and less for the planets. Astrologers who use the minor aspects (quintile, novile, decile, etc) need to reduce the orbs much more or there will be overlapping and a state of confusion. It is impossible to give strict, unvarying rules. Each practitioner has to be guided by his own knowledge and experience.

The above applies to Birth Charts. The orbs allowed for Cyclic Charts (Solar and Lunar Returns, etc.) and for inter-chart aspects in Synastry or elsewhere should be reduced. Powerful effects are noticed only when the orb is really small - not more than 2°. There is a big field for research here, and with the wide-spread use now of sophisticated computers we should be getting some results soon.

- Dymock.

Vale Michel Gauquelin

Astrologers world-wide have been saddened by the news of the sudden death of that dedicated astrological researcher Michel Gauquelin. Afflicted by personal troubles and the unrelenting attacks of the scientific Philistines, he took his own life on the 20th of May last. I shall not here attempt an appreciation of his work, which will be done by better pens than mine, other than to mention he made a name for himself by his extraordinarily painstaking and rigorous investigation into the effects of certain planets (particularly Mars, Jupiter and Saturn) on people's vocations and natures. This work, undertaken in company with his first wife, Francoise, was a milestone in the history and progress of astrology, something that had never been achieved before. Without doubt it established the scientific validity of at least certain branches of astrology. The failure of some conventional scientists to acknowledge this in spite of the overwhelming evidence was a source of bitterness for Gauquelin.

Among Gauquelin's published works translated into English are Written in the Stars, The Truth about Astrology, and Cosmic Influences on Human Behaviour.

Here is Gauquelin's Birth Chart, taken from the Dutch publication, Cirkels - 800 Horoscopen van Bekende Mensen, by Jan Kampherbeek.

MICHEL GAUQUELIN

13 November 1928, 22:15 UT, Paris, France
48N52, 2E20. Placidian Cusps.

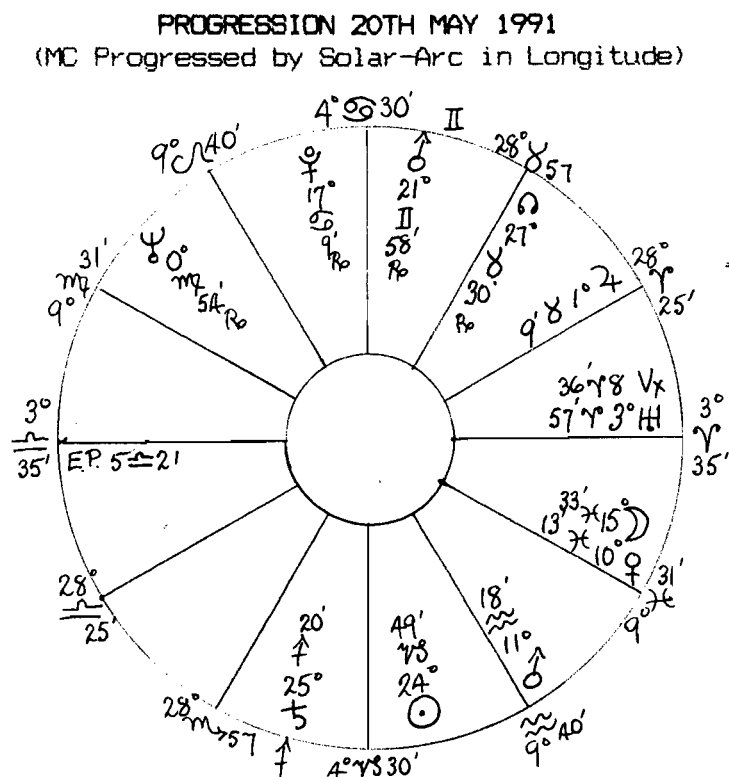

The Chart is not such that one would immediately conclude the subject might die by his own hand. In hindsight one can see an element of instability from rising Neptune square the Node. (As reported in an earlier Issue, I have found that the Node accentuates the nature of any planet that it contacts.)

Additionally, Pluto, the dispositor of the Sun, is in the House of Self-Undoing and is in close contra-parallel to Saturn (Pluto's Declination 21°31' North, Saturn's 21°42' South). Ebertin (The Combination of Stellar Influences) says of an adverse Saturn-Pluto combination, "a person who is prevented by others from reaping the success due to him as the result of hard work". I think this was undoubtedly a factor in Gauquelin's suicide. It was not that he was unclaimed in the astrological world, but that he did not receive the recognition he craved from many in scientific circles.

The Progressed Chart for the date of his death sheds further light:

Uranus, planet of sudden and unexpected happenings, is directly opposite the Rising Degree and square the Midheaven. Pluto and Mars are dominant, and what is more striking, their Midpoint 4Can33 conjuncts the Midheaven at 4Can30. As the Midheaven is intimately connected with a native's emotional and psychic state, there is little doubt that this configuration had a marked effect on Gauquelin, predisposing him to violence and injury, especially in view of his basic nature - strongly Scorpionic/Plutonian, which tends to extremes.

The Vertex, Directed by Naibod Arc (59' 8.33" a year) to 7°49' Pisces was square the Natal Moon at 7°49' Sagittarius on 18th May 1991 (the death occurred on 20th May). The Moon rules the Natal 12th House, so this was fateful as regards Gauquelin's destiny, tempting him to self-destruction.

By Converse motion, Mercury, directed by Solar-Arc in longitude, was conjunct Natal Neptune on 28th May, introducing a degree of mental instability.

On 18th May, the Vertex/E.P. Midpoint was conjunct Natal Saturn by Naibod-Arc Direction, suggesting a state of severe depression.

Of the Cyclic Charts (Solar Return, Phase Return and Age Harmonic) the most indicative of the tragedy is the Age Harmonic:

AGE HARMONIC 62

(Equal Dusps, from the Harmonic Ascendant)

The important factors are the planets Uranus and Pluto in the terminal 4th House at 22Sco2 and 26Sco57 respectively, conjunct the Natal Sun at 21Sco18, signifying strong emotional tensions, and a possible breakdown or catastrophe. The Harmonic Ascendant is 15°21' of Leo, almost exactly conjunct the Natal Ascendant at 15Leo44. When the Angles of a Cyclic Chart and the Radix correspond it signals an unusually significant year. The Sun, ruling the Ascendant, is square violent Mars, dominant in the Chart; Saturn is on the death axis (2nd-8th); Neptune is elevated and closely square Venus (orb 4'), which tends to emotional instability.

The annual Phase Return or Synodic Chart for age 62 (Ephemeris date: 18 November 1933, 20:37:26 GMT) also has Leo rising (1°20'), and there are two powerful indications: (1) Pluto just above the Ascendant, retrograde at 24°39' Cancer, is square to Uranus retrograde at 24°15' Aries in the Midheaven, and conjunct the Natal East Point (which acts like a second Ascendant). (2) The Vertex at 18°26' of Sagittarius is conjunct Radical Saturn at 18°8' of Sagittarius.

The 62nd Solar Return has 23°21' of Leo Rising, and its Ruler, the Sun, in the terminal 4th House conjunct Pluto. I do not see any other strong indications of the event.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock,
2nd September 1991.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath NSW, Australia 2785.
Annual Subscription Australia $15, Overseas $A20.

Issue 120 July 1991

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

ALLAN JOHNSON (Tas.) writes a postscript to last Issue's discussion on the assassination of Rajiv Gandhi:

THE ASSASSINATION IN RETROSPECT

I think in looking at Gandhi's Chart that we have to separate the type of person he was from how his fate worked out. A heavy concentration of planets in Virgo nearly always points to a retiring personality, one who eschews the limelight. But on the other hand the lay-out of the Houses gives an account of what destiny has to say. A heavy emphasis of planets right on the Ascendant and the First House can mean a public "personality". Basically he was a retiring person. These days air pilots are not the public figures they once were. But he did become a public figure on the world stage. Had he been born at a different time he could have had a quite different destiny. The ascending planets would not have forced the issue.

Taking on the leadership of a political party is not a hereditary thing—quite the reverse, it so seldom happens. So he was not compelled to take on the mantle of his mother, as the son of a reigning queen might. However, another facet of Virgo gives a strong sense of duty, so Virgoans will take on jobs they secretly hate—it is the self-sacrificing thing. But with all those planets on the Ascendant, plus the Sun in Leo, there was that other side to his nature—a desire to be a somebody. So I feel there were strong drives to do what he did. All the same, there is little in this Chart to indicate a death by assassination; nothing at all in the 8th House.

This Chart is in striking contrast with the classic example of an assassination Figure—that of President John F. Kennedy, who had five planets in the 8th, with Mars and Mercury there square to Uranus, as well as the Sun in the 8th. So Kennedy is chiefly remembered because of that assassination, which was not the case with Abraham Lincoln. In Kennedy's case, too, there were powerful transits to the 8th at the time of the assassination: Pluto conjunct the Moon square

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The Assassination in Retrospect	1
Horse Racing - Koch Cusps?	2
The Life-Span Revolution	4

Venus in the 8th; Uranus square the Sun in the 8th; and in addition to that Saturn square to Mars/Mercury in the 8th; Neptune also in opposition to Mars. So there were a whole battery of Transits to the 8th-House planets. Also, quite a few astrologers were able to predict the possibility of assassination. The White House was warned by people who had personal contacts with the Kennedy family. But the tragedy was not prevented.

However, the situation seems to have been quite a bit different in the case of Rajiv Gandhi. I doubt if anybody could have predicted assassination in this case. The basic Chart does not suggest it, neither do the Transits for the period in question. Why the distinction? I think the answer to this could be that in Kennedy's case it was very much a personal thing. It was an attack on Kennedy himself, not an attack on the Party in Government. But in Rajiv's case it would have been more in the nature of hatred for the Congress Party, or the racial or religious setup. As I mentioned in my last article, the Transits to the Chart of India itself were very impressive for the event, with Pluto right on Natal Jupiter, stirring up the powerful configuration which is the core of the whole Chart, as well as Transits of Neptune/Uranus and Mars. I think there is logic in this point. The hatred might not have been directed to Gandhi personally. But there is one point that should not be overlooked: At the time of the assassination Uranus was closely quincunx to its own Natal Position in the 10th House—less than a degree orb. I think the quincunx often gets overlooked with Transits, but it could be a fatalistic aspect, a death aspect, and Uranus is in a dominating position in the Chart, ruling destiny. It was not only the ending of a chapter for his career, but his life as well.

It is interesting to compare the assassination Transits with the two other deaths that were to figure very powerfully in his own life. The first was the death of his elder brother, Sanjay, in a plane accident on 23rd June 1980. Sanjay was the natural political heir to Indira Gandhi, and really wanted a political career. At the time of his death, Mars and Saturn in exact conjunction were right on Rajiv's Mercury in the First House, and Neptune was square Mercury/Mars. So the Transits for the event activated the First-House planets, which I have mentioned as being the key to his getting into politics in his turn.

Finally, if we look at the date for Indira Gandhi's assassination (31st October 1984) we also get some impressive Transits to Rajiv's Chart. Uranus is right on the I.C. opposite Uranus in the 10th, and square to Moon/Venus/Ascendant, again activating the 1st-House planets, the key to his destiny, and confirming the emphasis on bringing Rajiv before the public as a politician. So it is interesting to note that the Transits for the death of his brother and mother were more impressive than that for his own death, but those two events were crucial to what finally happened.

Horse Racing—Koch Cusps?

[This is an edited reprint, by request, from the April 1985 Issue of Astrologers' Forum]

For some years I have been convinced of the inadequacy of the Koch method of House Division, and have abandoned it for the Placidian system. Horoscopes for horse races appear to be an infallible means of determining the power centres in each House of the chart, and these power centres are emphatically not the Koch Cusps. They are the Placidian Cusps.

This was demonstrated forcibly to me through a series of essays into the gambling arena, utilizing the race charts to pick winners by symbology of the planets conjunct House Cusps—any House Cusp, not just the Angles. Relying on Koch brought me failures without exception, but the Placidian Cusps brought me winners.

I had considered the matter settled, and had bidden a permanent goodbye to Koch, until a few months ago when an astrologer friend sent me a recording of one Jane Wehrmann, who apparently uses her astrology for little else than horse-racing. She lectures widely on the subject, and enthusiastically advocates the use of Koch Cusps. This gave me pause. Had I, after all, been mistaken? I decided to try the Koch Cusps again—and they failed again. Here is the race, and the Chart.

Festival of Sydney Handicap, 1985
12th January 1985, Rosehill, NSW, 3:25pm.
151°0" East, 33°50' South. Placidian Cusps.

The Festival of Sydney Handicap, over 2000 metres, was run at Rosehill, N.S.W., on Saturday, January the 12th 1985, at 3:25 pm Summer Time (2:25 E.S.T.). The starters, in Race Book order, were:

1. Bungarby
2. Tulsa Knight
3. Temerity
4. Claim the Quest
5. Essential
6. Reuter's News
7. The Cob
8. Galanal
9. Harvey's Joy
10. Exparte
11. Star Kerry

The only planets that I consider sufficiently strong in a race chart to denote winners are those within three degrees of a Cusp applying, or one degree separating. By applying, I mean approaching the Cusp by virtue of the Earth's rotation on its axis, not applying in the Zodiacal sense in the order of the Signs. Thus in the Race Map (Placidus) the Sun is separating by two minutes of arc from the 9th Cusp; Jupiter is applying to the same Cusp by 2°7'; the Moon is separating from the 5th Cusp by 32'.

The Chief Significator in this Chart is obviously the Sun, in the House of Travel and Law. The Sign holding the Sun, Capricorn, is more indicative of law than of travel, and the diagnosis, LAW, is confirmed by the close conjunction of the planet Jupiter (law and authority). As if to emphasize the point, the Part of Fortune is conjunct Jupiter.

Now, looking down the list of runners, one stands out as symbolized by the Sun conjunct Jupiter in the 9th House - EXPARTE - a well-known legal term. On the strength of this I backed Exparte, which duly won, and I received a dividend of $96 for my investment of $8.

The 9th Cusp for this race by the Koch System was 17°12' Capricorn, which put the Sun 4°43' away, and outside the permissible range.

Over the past 40 years I have made intermittent forays into the field of gambling on horse races, guided by astrology, my first success being with the Melbourne Cup winner, Rainbird, in 1945. It was a thrill to have this horse come from behind and romp in at odds of 12 to 1. The Significator, I remember, was Mercury on the 9th Cusp. Since then astrology has led me to other Melbourne Cup winners, as well as winners in many minor races. Just prior to last year's Melbourne Cup (for the benefit of overseas readers, this is a National event, the horse race with the biggest prize money in Australia) I demonstrated to a class of astrology students how the selection is made, put the Chart for the race on the blackboard, and proceeded to pick the horse Chagemar. Chagemar ran second, which was a near miss.

I used also Topocentric Cusps--the system devised by Polich and Page in Argentina in the 1960's--which are almost identical with Placidian Cusps in moderate latitudes--but later adhered exclusively to Placidian, which gave better results in other fields than horse-racing. The Koch Cusps were given a trial, but I found that whenever they differed significantly from the Placidian they were a failure.

The propaganda effort behind the promotion of the Koch system is no doubt responsible for the following it still has. Apparently it remains in favour with some astrologers for no better reason than that others use it, and the relevant Tables of Houses are readily available. In my experience it continually fails in practice.

Gambling by astrology on horse-racing is not recommended as a money-making proposition--unless you have an extra-lucky nativity you will probably lose as much as you win--but it is splendid as a means of widening one's knowledge of planetary symbolism.

Here are a few hints, based on practical experience, for those who would like to try this method of self-education:

1. Try to get the exact geographic coordinates of the race course where the meeting is being held, and in casting the chart for a particular race time be precise with the Cuspal positions (Placidian). If you are not sure of your mathematics get a computer-calculated chart. My practice is to estimate the finishing time of the race (for example, allowing about three minutes for the running of the two-mile Melbourne Cup), but some others work on the starting time.
2. Look for the planet (the Chief Significator) that is closest to a Cusp, within 3° applying or 1° separating, by diurnal rotation of the Earth - not by the planet's orbital movement.
3. Remember that if the start of a race is delayed the position of the Cusps may alter appreciably, so it is better to have the Significator applying to a Cusp rather than separating. A short delay will then bring the Significator closer to the Cusp and more powerful.
4. Don't try for every race on the programme. Pick out the two or three main races of the day, and preferably those with not more than ten or twelve starters. This makes the task of selection easier. I suggest the main races with big prize money as they are probably less susceptible to fraudulent practice, which can falsify results.
5. Consider every horse in the race, and judge which name is the closest match to the symbolism of the Chief Significator. This is where you LEARN about planetary symbolism.
6. Having made your selection, check by reference to the tipping polls or form guides that the horse is capable of winning. However strong and clear the astrological indications, a horse that is outclassed is no sort of betting proposition.
7. Back your selection by a dollar or two, however hesitant you feel. Not only will this sharpen your judgement wonderfully, as your money is at stake, but if the horse wins you get an incomparable thrill and don't suffer from the regret of what might have been. If the horse loses it's not going to lower your living standards, and it's no more than paying a small fee for a good astrology lesson. If you don't back your selection you will suffer the remorse of a missed opportunity when the horse wins and your careful work has gone for nothing. I know.
8. Conduct a post-mortem analysis on all races where you lost, learning more about symbolism by hind-sight. This way your monetary losses will be astrologically productive.

I'll be pleased to hear about the experiences of readers who try this or any other astrological system. If of sufficient general interest they will be considered for publication. Submissions should particularize place, date and time of the race, and list all the runners and the place-getters - these last with the TAB or starting prices.

- Dymock.

THE LIFE-SPAN REVOLUTION by Ross Harvey.

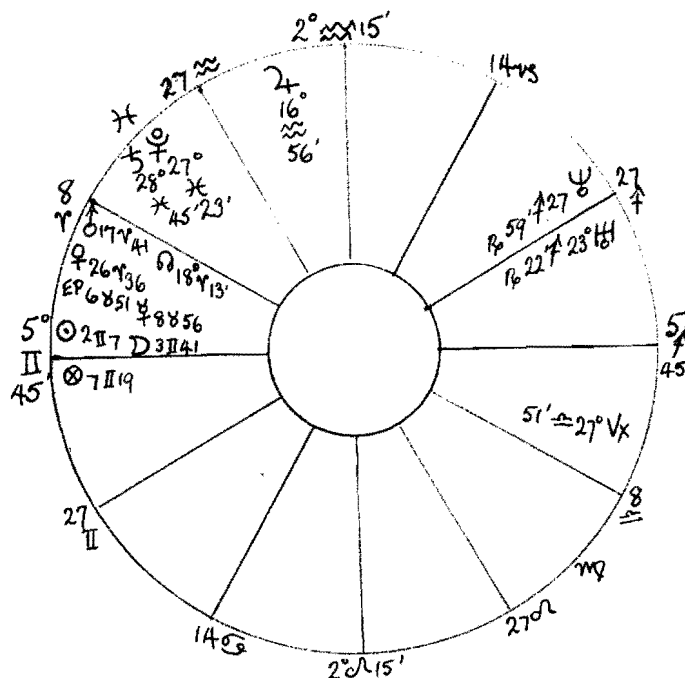

I have for ages been trying to find a way of explaining how a person's life unfolds. Progressions don't do it satisfactorily—they don't explain why whole periods may be either favourable or unfavourable, and the same applies to Primary Directions, even assuming they are of significance. Then it occurred to me that it is most likely something that happens on the day of birth. It isn't the motion of the Moon—it doesn't move enough. My idea is that the whole horoscope does one complete revolution as the planets rise after birth, and that, when the planets return to their radical positions, life ends. The rate at which this happens differs from one person to another, and one has to "set the clock", as it were, by correlating major events with the rising or culminating of appropriate planets.

I have assumed for ease of calculation that the average life span is eighty years, so, for example, a planet on the Descendant will rise at age forty - in practice roughly between the ages of thirty and forty-five for people who do not die noticeably young, and a planet in the Third or Fourth House will rise roughly in the teens or twenties. To find which planets will culminate or rise at a specific age, multiply that age by 4.5 (i.e., $360/80$) and add this to the RAMC, and then find the MC and Ascendant from this. [The Birth-Chart planets will be re-located by the new Angles.] The average degree/year rate will need to be adjusted so that the best fit will be obtained.

Queen Victoria's Chart is a good example to start with. She died at age 81.7 years: $360/81.7$ gives 4.4° a year; multiply this by 18.1 (her age when she acceded to the throne), add this to the RAMC and find the new MC and Ascendant. The MC is conjunct Venus, that is, Venus culminated when she became

QUEEN VICTORIA

24th May 1819, 4:15am GMT, Kensington Place,
51N30, 0W10. Placidian Cusps.

Queen, and two years later Jupiter was opposite the Ascendant, that is it set when she married. These two aspects would be most important in setting her Degree/Year rate if we did not know how old she was at death, because they cannot have happened at any other age except between ages 18 - 20, as nothing else as favourable as accession and marriage happened at any other time in her early maturity.

I think that a planet's passing every Angle will be significant, but rising and culminating are most important, and the influence of such planets will probably last until another planet rises, etc.

Take my own chart as an example: Mars culminates and Pluto rises at age 5.5 (going to school); Saturn rises at age 8.6 (changed school) - the first few years were acceptable, but most of secondary school was wasted as I was prevented from studying the subjects I was interested in. The Sun culminates at age 11 (dux of Prep. school). Neptune has to rise in my teens; nothing of significance happened before I left school at age 16.5. My father died at 16.6, and I finally escaped from the dreaded Science at age 18.5. Neptune must relate to one of these, and my father's death seems most likely. This can be used to set the Degree/Year rate, which seems to be 3.625° a year. (To be continued next Issue)

My kind regards to all. - Dymock, 20/8/1991.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath NSW, Australia 2785.

Annual Subscription Australia $15, Overseas $A20.

Issue 118/9

May/June 1991

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

ASSASSINATION OF RAJIV GANDHI

"Some men are born great, some achieve greatness, and some have greatness thrust upon them". Rajiv Gandhi comes into the last category. An airline pilot by profession and choice, he was reluctant to accept the high office that fell to him following the assassination of his mother, Indira Gandhi, not because he anticipated a similar fate for himself but because he was by nature a private and retiring person. His Horoscope of Birth shows this. I am fortunate to have precise birth data of Rajiv, obtained from an unimpeachable source - Rajiv's grandfather, the late President Nehru - through the good offices of NSW astrologer Keven Barrett.

In one of his several trips to India, Keven had access to the printed Journals of Nehru, and in one of them, Volume 13, Nehru recorded that he was present at Rajiv's birth, waiting outside the room, and was informed immediately after the delivery that the birth occurred at 8:11 am, Indian War Time. Note that "Indian War Time", equivalent to one hour Daylight Saving Time, and not mentioned in any of the usual books of reference, puts the time 6½-hours ahead of GMT instead of only 5½-hours.

That the pomp, ceremony and display of public life was foreign to Rajiv Gandhi's nature is evident from the cluster of five planets (Moon, Venus, Mercury, Mars and Jupiter) and the Ascendant in the Sign Virgo. True, the Sun occupies the flamboyant Sign Leo, and Leo native's are not generally averse to being on show, but here the Sun is placed in the 12th House (privacy and concealment) and it is apparent that the powerful Virgo contingent was the dominant factor. Virgo natives prefer to work quietly and unobserved, and are primarily concerned with doing a first-class job.

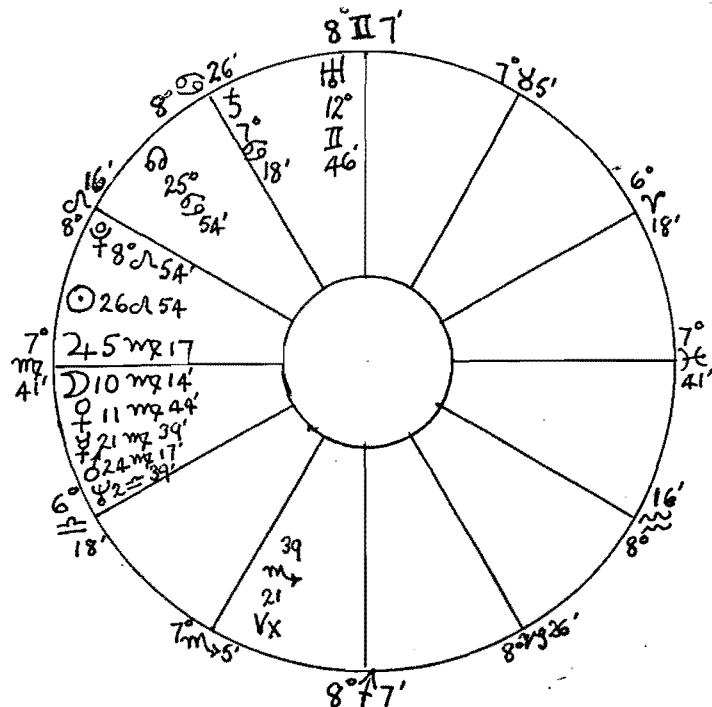

So, the ill-starred Mahatma Gandhi, Indira Gandhi, and now Rajiv Gandhi, all met a premature end at the hands of an assassin. Is there something in the name that attracts violence? Did any of the Indian astrologers warn their Prime Minister of imminent danger? One would think that in a land where astrology is countenanced and freely practised there would be many devotees concentrating on

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Assassination of Rajiv Gandhi	1
Solar Return	2
Phase Return	2
Age Harmonic	3
Events in India	4
The USA Chart	6
Ebenezer Sibley's Comments on the American Revolution	6
Sibley's Chart for the USA	7
Aries Ingress March 1776	7
Birth Data: General Norman Schwartzkopf, Neil Kinnock, Bob Carr, Prmr. Nick Greiner	8

RAJIV GANDHI

20th August 1944, 8:11am IWT (GMT 7:41am)
Bombay, 18°58', 72°50'. Placidian Cusps.

the life and safety of their leader.

As a Western observer I note that Rajiv Gandhi's Nativity holds two very dangerous aspects for a political leader subject to the enmity of fanatics. They are Mars conjunct Mercury (orb 2°39'), in the first House - the person - and Mars semisquare Pluto in the 12th House, the orb being only 23'! The combined effect of Mercury, Mars, Pluto and the 12th House is physical injury from hidden assailants. Saturn square to Neptune (orb 4°40') was a further indication of undercover plotting against him. As Mars rules the 8th House of Gandhi's Chart, death at the hands of his enemies was a real probability. Perhaps Gandhi knew this but the nature of his office precluded his taking the precautions open to an ordinary member of the public.

The danger period was signalled by two prominent Progressed Aspects: Mars parallel the Progressed Ascendant at the end of February, and Pluto directed by Solar-Arc to the conjunction of Mars at the end of March. Gandhi died on the 21st of May through a bomb attack from a hidden assailant treacherously disguised as a worshipping follower.

The three Annual Charts (Solar Return, Phase Return and Age Harmonic) covering the period of Gandhi's death are instructive. Each one has relevance to the event but they show it in different ways. They all activate the malefics in the Radix, but it is a question whether an astrologer from these Charts alone could confidently predict death by assassination.

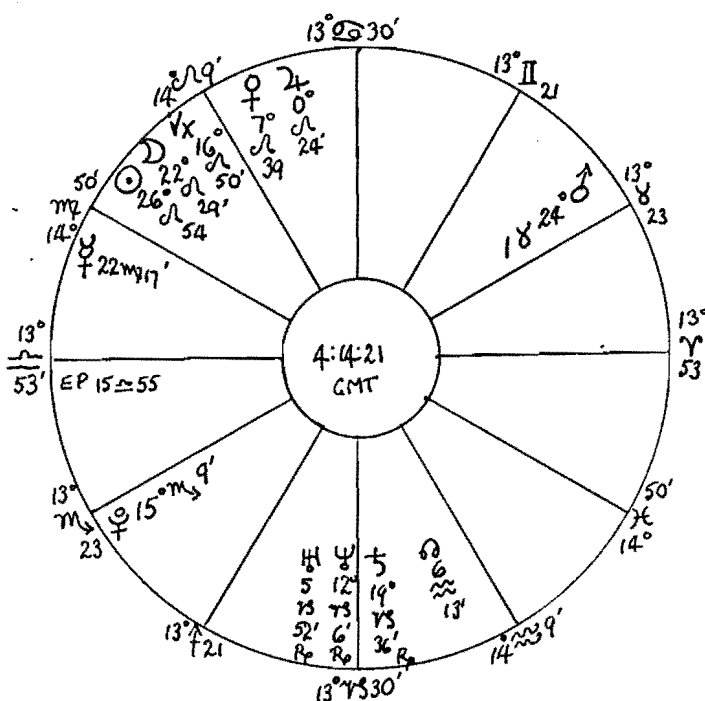

The STANDARD SOLAR RETURN has Libra (allies and adversaries) rising, and the Ruler, Venus, at 7°39', of Leo conjoins Pluto at 8°55' of Leo in the 12th House of the Natus. In view of the foregoing analysis relating to danger from hidden enemies, this should certainly have been enough to put the Prime Minister on his guard. Aside from that, however, there are other potent indications of impending doom:

1. The Sun and Moon are conjoined in Leo, and both square to Mars in the House of Death.
2. Pluto, at 15°9' of Scorpio is placed on the 2nd-8th (death) axis and is square to the Vertex at 16°50' of Leo, and, sextile both Saturn and Neptune, and their Midpoint at 15Cap51.
3. Mercury is located in the 12th House conjunct Radical Mercury and Mars in the 1st.

The PHASE RETURN or SYNODIC CHART is cast for the time the Sun and Moon return to the same angle (Moon phase) that they held at the subject's birth, using the time measure of each monthly return (occurring about every 29 days) as equivalent to one year of the subject's life. So the 46th Phase Return after the birth would relate to the 46th-47th year of life. This is not to be confused with the current monthly Phase return, which relates to the current month's activities, like a Lunar Return.

SOLAR RETURN 20TH AUGUST 1990 (Set for the Place of Birth)

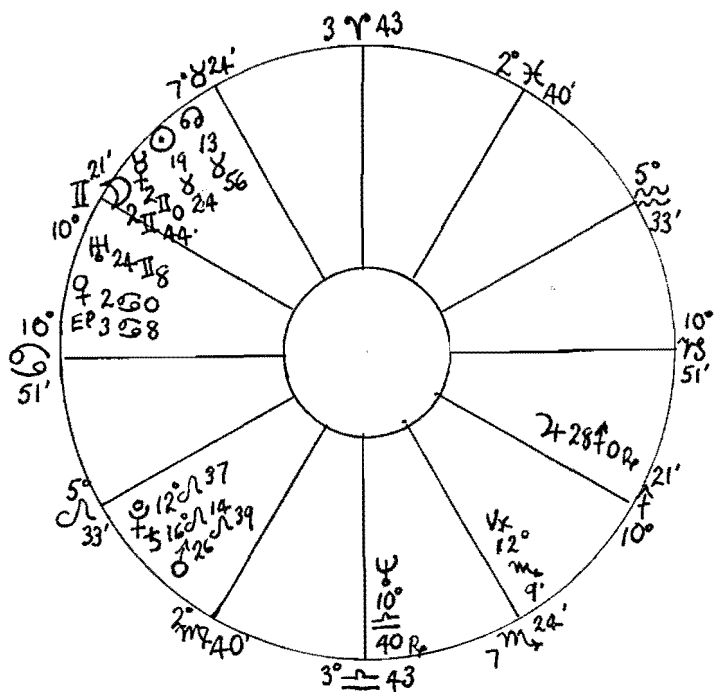

Rajiv Gandhi's Phase Return for age 46 has has 10°51' of Cancer rising, which is conjunct Natal Saturn, one of the villain's in the piece, as it is out of Dignities and square to Neptune, ruling the House of Adversaries. The Ascendant, relating to the native himself, his physical body and health, is afflicted by Neptune in square (orb only 11') and Mars in semisquare (orb 48'). Mars, the planet of violence and injuries, plays a vital role. To start with it is almost exactly conjunct the Natal Sun (orb only 15') in the 12th House - a dire portent, indeed. Apart from that, it squares the Sun, Moon and Mercury, semisquares Neptune and sextiles Uranus in the 12th House - another aspect of potential violence. The sextile does not change the nature of Mars/Uranus.

The AGE HARMONIC for the 47th Year, 20th August 1990 - 20th August 1991, is arrived at by multiplying all Natal positions by 46. This is a vibrational Chart that shows how the harmonics of the Natal planets and Zodiacal points interact with each other and with the Natal Significators in any particular year. The harmonic positions could be likened to the overtones of a musical note which are multiples of the fundamental tone, supplying richness and distinguishing timbre. In much the same way, astrological harmonics add distinguishing features and interpretive factors to the Radix. The Age Harmonic, in other two Annual Charts, and perhaps even more forcefully. The Sun, at 7°36' of Capricorn is exactly opposite Mars at 7°36' of Cancer, and Mars conjoins Natal Saturn at 7°18' of Cancer, thus combining the malefic energies of Mars and Saturn against the Sun - the life and vitality. The second most important Significator, the Moon, at 20°46' of Virgo, is closely conjunct Pluto, planet of death and destruction, at 19°49' of Virgo - a remarkably close conjunction for a Harmonic Chart where orbs of 5½° are found to be effective. The strength of the Moon/Pluto conjunction is increased by it's Angular position and by its conjunction with Mars and Mercury in the Radix. So here we have a similar situation to that of the Sun - the Moon subjected to the combined forces of Pluto, Mars and Mercury. Even now the evils are not fully catalogued, as Saturn at 6°13' of Virgo closely opposes Mercury across the Horizon at 6°16' of Pisces, and also conjuncts the Natal Ascendant, at 7°41' of Virgo, and Natal Jupiter at 5°18' of Virgo. Saturn conjunct the Ascendant reacts adversely on the physical body of the native, while the conjunction of Saturn with Jupiter signifies the native's "luck" had run out.

In view of the differing opinions regarding the relative efficacy of Placidian as against Koch Cusps, it is noteworthy that the 8th Koch Cusp for Rajiv Gandhi's Phase Return is 7°43' Aquarius, further removed from the stationary position of Saturn. With increasing geographic latitude the difference between Placidian and Koch becomes more and more marked, and in my experience the Koch Cusps become less and less pertinent. Many years ago the late eminent English astrologer, Vivian Robson, referring to the different systems of domification, wrote that only Placidian Cusps responded to Transits, which settled the matter as to what was the best system. I agree with him.

(Ephemeris Date 10th May 1948, 4:10:49 UT)

The Age Harmonic of Rajiv Gandhi, now under consideration carries the same message as the

In the matter of the timing of events the standard Solar Return Chart also gives indications through Transits. Uranus was retrograde conjunct the Lower Meridian on 16th May, just five days before the fatal bombing, and Saturn's Station at 6°51' Aquarius on 17th May was conjunct the (Mean) North Node of the Moon at 6°13' Aquarius. This is an appropriate Transit, as I have discovered that the Moon's Node, aside from having implications regarding the native's personal associations, as stated by Reinhold Ebertin (The Combination of Stellar Influences) also puts an accent, or emphasis, on the points it contacts and the Mundane House it occupies. So Saturn stationary on the Node brings out the nature of Saturn, which in the present instance is malefic as it forms part of the configuration Saturn/Neptune - Pluto, previously mentioned.

This Transit is interesting from another point of view - the controversy whether to use the Mean Node or the so-called "True" Node. The Mean Node in this Solar Return was at 6°13' of Aquarius, as in the Chart, while the "True" Node was located at 7°16' of Aquarius. Saturn's Station was at 6°50' of Aquarius, so clearly it was closer to the True Node. I have in the past favoured the Mean Node, as have a good many other astrologers whose opinions I respect, but is this cause to re-consider? The difference is not so important with Transits over the Node, but it becomes a major factor with Transits of the Node over other Significators, and with Progressions involving the Node, where it can alter the date of operation by years. Astrologers who have researched the matter and acquired any evidence are invited to submit their findings to Astrologers' Forum. For the present I am keeping to the Mean Node, which has served me well in the past, its Progressions both to simple factors and to Midpoints operating true to date.

I have been to some pains with the above analysis, not because I specially value a retrospective look at things (too late to alter the course of events) but because the present instance gives a notable opportunity to assess the relative value of predictive methods. It is sad indeed that the occasion should have been the brutal murder of a kind and good man imbued with the spirit of service. It is my hope that by studying the astrological factors involved in life's dramas we may in the future be able to avert such tragedies.

Here, perhaps, I should state my creed that these blows of fate are not necessarily, or ever, predestined. People of intelligence, spirit and initiative can take control of their lives, within the limits of their karma, and direct them into fruitful channels. To think otherwise, to take the view that "whatever will be, will be" is to adopt a supine attitude that renders futile all efforts of men and women to improve their lot.

From practical experience, I am convinced that the incidence of "bad" aspects can be reduced and their effects greatly modified or even deflected altogether by an intelligent appraisal of the relevant astrological factors. The secret is to deny the planetary energies involved scope to work. Thus, if you have a Progressed Aspect of, say, Mars square Uranus, a linking much associated with violence and accidents, you will make a point during the currency of the Aspect of keeping away from, or at least treating with great caution, the things and conditions that are associated with it. These include machinery, motor-cars, electrical appliances, power-tools, firearms and hazardous sports and occupations generally. True, the conditions or obligations of your life may demand your presence in some such activity or environment, but at least you are forearmed against impulsive, careless and hasty actions in a dangerous setting. We often have to put duty higher than personal safety, but observation of life reveals that a great many accidents could be avoided by the exercise of normal, simple precautions.

A prime factor is also human temperament. A person with an impetuous nature or an explosive temper obviously runs far greater risk of involvement in injury than someone of mild disposition. His over-quick reactions lead him into it. In this case it comes down to self-control and the refusal to be dominated by one's less admirable characteristics. Cultivating calmness and forethought has personal as well as social benefits.

With Rajiv Gandhi, it was not a defect of temperament that led him to destruction but the combination of malefic influences, both stellar and human, for which he was not adequately prepared and protected. Perhaps Indian astrologers did warn him and advise him - we do not know - but that other less sagacious counsels prevailed. My belief is that this calamity, both personal and national in its implications, could well have been avoided.

- Dymock.

EVENTS IN INDIA

by Allan Johnson

The big event right now, of course, is the assassination of Rajiv Gandhi, so this is a good time to look at the basic Indian Charts. Actually, The Book of World Horoscopes gives two Charts for India. The first is for 1947 when India achieved its independence from British Rule and became a completely independent Nation constitutionally, and such charts are usually set for zero hours. The second Chart is for India's proclamation as a Republic on 26th January 1950, and the time for this of 10:15am is quite likely to have been chosen astrologically - very much an Indian custom for such events. The first Chart may therefore be considered more of a "spontaneous" Chart produced by the force of circumstances, whereas the second is more of an "elective" Chart, although it would also be dictated by the current of the events of that time.

In circumstances like that I am inclined to give precedence to a spontaneous chart, as it is more a direct result of what is actually happening and therefore more of a part of destiny. I would say so in this case, as Jawaharlal Nehru became Prime Minister on the 15th of August 1947, and he was still in power for the Proclamation of the Republic, and remained in power right up until the time of his death in 1964. So the Proclamation did not change anything in any fundamental way. The real beginning of India as an independent Nation began in 1947. But it is worth looking at both Charts when lining up events in modern India. Nehru was really the architect of modern India, so the beginning of his reign was very basic.

The main feature of the 1947 Chart is the stellium of five planets on the I.C. This is the midnight point, the beginning of the new day. Highly appropriate for a chart of this nature; and what is even more important is an exact conjunction of Saturn/Pluto right on the I.C. itself. It seems to suggest that the fate of India is destined to be much influenced by circumstances outside its control, that past traditions would weigh very heavily on any plans for the future. Of course this is exactly what has been happening.

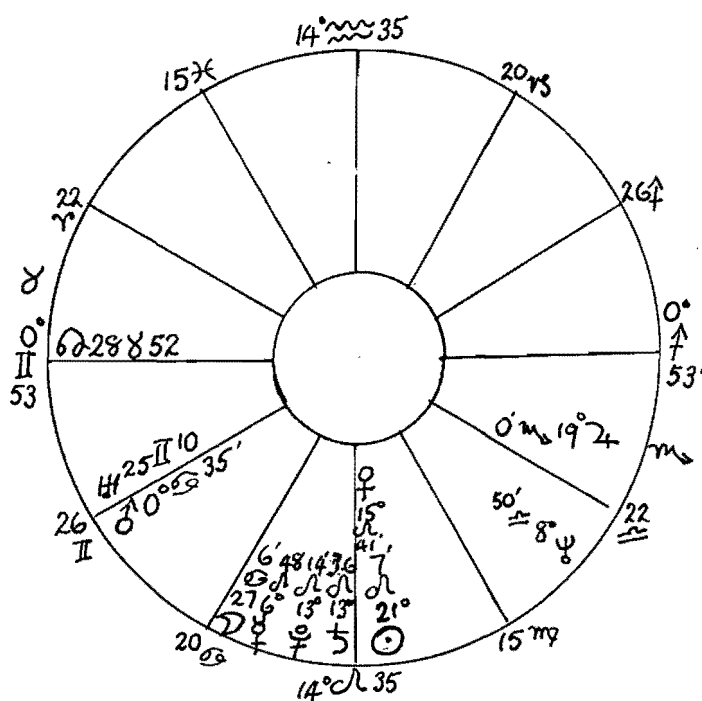

The powerful stellium makes a square to Jupiter in Scorpio. Jupiter in Scorpio can emphasize the obsessional side of religion. Cast and race and religion do play an overwhelming part in Indian life, and passions lead to assassination for revenge, which has just happened. So this multiple square, involving Pluto, Saturn and Jupiter right on the I.C., and linking with the M.C. is very revealing for this type of obsessive setup. It makes an incredibly difficult setup for any Indian Government. We should not be surprised, therefore, that this multiple square would be activated when any big drama hits India. So, for this current assassination, Pluto was in $18^{\circ}40'$ of Scorpio - exactly on Natal Jupiter of the 1947 Chart, and stirring up the whole configuration.

INDIA, INDEPENDENCE, 1947

August 15, 1947, 0-hours IST.

Delhi, $28^{\circ}40'$, $77^{\circ}13'$. Placidian Cusps.

The Chart for the Proclamation is not so intensified, but at the same time it does have Venus/Jupiter again in strong aspect to Pluto, this time an opposition. So religious obsessionalism is common to both Charts. But the 1950 Chart has Uranus on the I.C. and the Sun in Aquarius, signifying the desire to break with a lot of hidebound traditionalism. India is in the grip of this conflict, and its history since Independence has been a pretty chequered one. It is interesting to see how both Charts have responded to a few major events in recent history. The assassination of the original Mahatma Gandhi occurred in January 1948, which was too soon after Independence to show in the Chart.

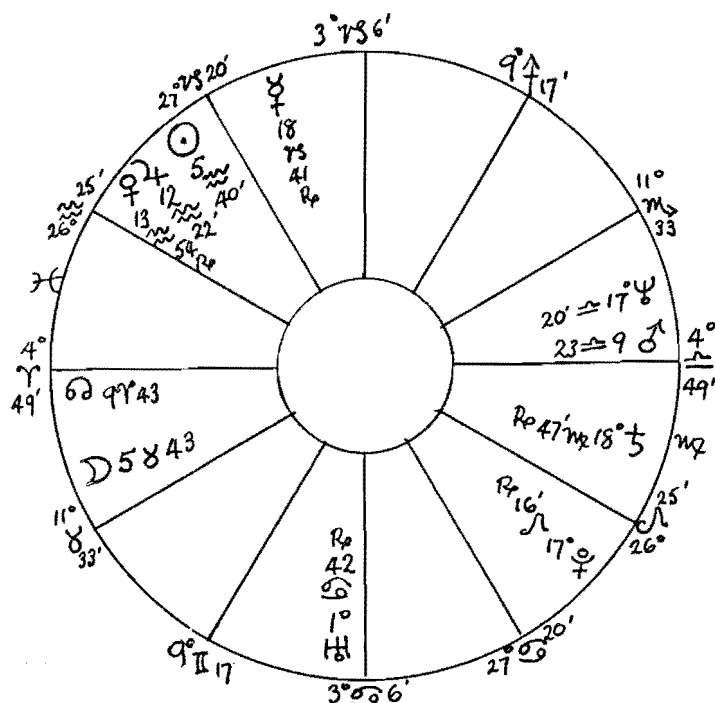

The short war between China and India began on the 26th of October 1962. This time Neptune was in Scorpio and making the square to Pluto/Saturn/Neptune. Neptune does not have much link with war, but it can be involved in the intrigues and behind-the-scenes activities that often lead to war.

Linking the War with the 1950 Chart, we get Uranus quincunx Sun, Saturn conjunct Sun, and Mars opposite Sun, which all seem pretty appropriate.

INDIA, REPUBLIC, PROCLAMATION, 1950

January 26, 1950, 10:15am IST.

Delhi, 28N40, 77E13. Placidian Cusps.

The death of Jawaharlal Nehru on 28th May 1964 was a pretty important event as he had guided the Nation since Independence. Pluto transits were not of any importance at this time, but Neptune was closely squaring Pluto, Saturn and Venus as was Mars (being in Taurus). In the 1950 Chart Uranus was quincunx the Sun. So both Charts have been working in response to events. Going from there we get to the assassination of Indira Gandhi, mother of Rajiv. This time we get Neptune opposite Mars in the 1947 Chart, which was highly appropriate because of the very sinister intrigue and treachery involved - she was shot by her own bodyguard, the very person being paid to protect her. But in addition to that, transitting Saturn was right on Natal Jupiter, again stirring up the powerful square involving all the planets on the Natal I.C. In the 1950 Chart Pluto was squaring the Sun, allowing for a small orb, and Saturn squaring Natal Pluto. Both Charts were responsive to events, but I think the 1947 Chart was more so.

In the current assassination, as well as Pluto conjunct Natal Jupiter, there is Neptune/Uranus quincunx Pluto/Saturn and Venus, and Mars right on the Natal Moon. In the 1950 Chart we get Pluto squaring its own Natal place, and thus bringing in the opposition to Venus/Jupiter. Neptune was right on Natal Mercury and square Natal Neptune. Note how Neptune figures in these assassination events. They bring out the dark side of Neptune. Finally, a stationary Saturn was right on Natal Sun. So both Charts figure.

But so much for past events; now for the future. Pluto and Uranus are always major signifiers for dramatic events. Over the next 18 months Pluto will be moving out of its linkup with the major configuration in the 1947 Chart, being pretty well squaring Natal Sun all through 1992. This could mean some further deaths of important people. It doesn't make for immediate stability with a new leader. Pluto reaches the 7th Cusp in the mid-1990's, and after that has a benign influence on this Chart, making the trine to all the stellium planets in turn. The Neptune/Uranus conjunction in 1992/3/4 will quincunx Natal Pluto/Saturn/Venus/Sun, which is not conducive to calm and peacefulness. From the middle '90's on to the end of the Century, Uranus will be in Aquarius and in opposition to the stellium planets. This seems to suggest some very radical changes in India's political setup. Uranus will be squarely on the M.C. in 1999. It all suggests some big reforms could be under way and some of the 'hidebound' traditions destroyed or modified, all of which will contribute to making India a much more stable country in the new Century. But this might only happen if there are separations of some smaller States from the Indian Central State. I think it has been best to concentrate on the basic Independence Chart in looking at long-range prospects. Using both Charts makes for too much confusion.

THE USA CHART

From Ken Gillman (USA):

Jennifer Pommerin may be correct that Ebenezer Sibly at one time used a 2nd August Chart for the USA, but if he did so he failed to keep to it.

I enclose a Xerox of the relevant pages from his book, An Illustration of the Celestial Science of Astrology, Part the Third, printed in 1804, in which he discusses and reproduces a chart for "The Commencement of the American Revolution" which he gives as 4th July 1776 at 10pm, with 19°46' of Aquarius rising and 13°12' of Sagittarius on the MC. This Chart is set for London, however, not Philadelphia, as an examination of Sibley's tables of Houses for London that Sibley used makes clear. In fact, at Westminster (51N32, 0W07) these Angles occurred at 21:53:46 LMT. At the stated time of 10pm 23°2' of Aquarius rises and 14°46' of Sagittarius is at the MC, again at Westminster. Sibley's method for calculating the Angles is somewhat different from the method we use nowadays, and is less accurate, so this slight difference can be expected.

Besides being the leading astrologer in the English-speaking world at the time, Sibley was also a Freemason, as were many of the leading figures at Philadelphia. It is to be expected that if anyone could obtain a correct time for the Congressional Declaration then he would.

Correcting Sibley's London time of 10pm to Philadelphia (Independence Hall is 39°N56.9', 75°W9') we come to 5pm, a much more civilized time than the early morning Chart that has some advocates. At 5pm, 10°10' of Sagittarius was rising, and 28°10' of Virgo was at the MC. Uranus at 8°55' of Gemini had just set.

This time may well be close to the correct one. The Chart reacts appropriately to Transits and Directions, just as one would expect, given Sibley as its source.

Sibley's piece on the American Revolution is not long, and it has added interest by the way he relates it to the Sun's Ingress into Aries and Cancer. I hope Dymock can find the space to print it (there are no copyright restrictions).

There have been many advocates of different times for the USA's Declaration of Independence. There's no general agreement. The recent, very successful series of Rectification Exercises held by the Astrologers' Forum may have been just the right training arena for tackling this big one. There are certainly plenty of dates available.

Note, however, that Julian Armistead has put forward very strong arguments for 12:04:13pm on July 2nd, 1776, 75N9°2', 39W56°55", which is when the Resolution for Independence was voted on and passed. Congress approved the language of the Declaration by vote on the 4th. The text was published in The Pennsylvania Evening Post on the 6th. It was publicly proclaimed from the balcony of the State House in Philadelphia on the 8th. However, as Jenifer says, it was not signed until August 2nd.

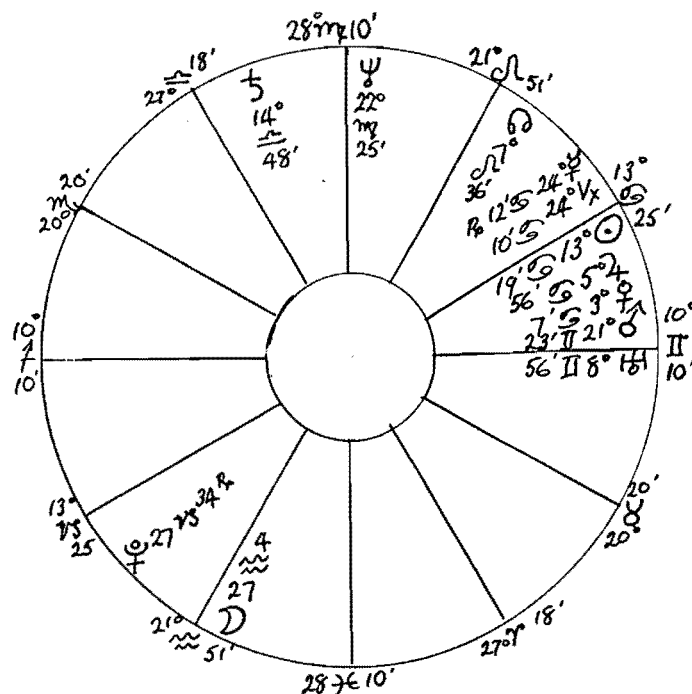

Ebenezer Sibley's comments on the American Revolution:

I...call the attention of my reader to that remarkable era in the British History, which gave independence to America, and ~~it~~ ^{it} set up a new empire, that shall soon or late give laws to the whole world. The revolution carries with it something so remarkable, and the event is so important in this country, that I shall make no apology for introducing the scheme of the heavens for the Spring...of the year 1776, when this revolution happened, and for examining and explaining the same, according to the rules I have so amply laid down for that purpose. ...

THE COMMENCEMENT OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION
according to Ebenezer Sibley 4th July 1776.

Re-set for Philadelphia, 39N56.9, 75W9,
5pm LT. Placidian Dusps.

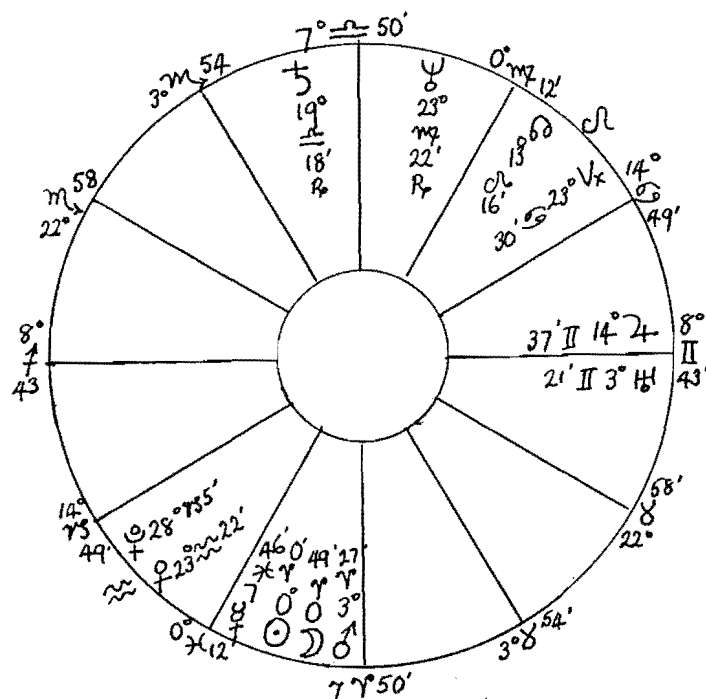

In the Vernal Equinox, we find Jupiter is Lord of the Ascendant, and in his detriment. Mars we find in Aries, which is the Ascendant of England, strong and powerful in his own House, but under the Earth. The Moon, who represents the common people, we find under affliction, being combust of the Sun; and Mars, being combust also, foreshows that poor England, though her internal strength is great and permanent, yet she will this year be accidentally afflicted and depressed; more especially as we find Mars going to an opposition of Saturn, and Saturn uncommonly strong in the Midheaven, in his Exaltation, and beheld by the two fortunes, Jupiter and Venus; and consequently superior to Mars in power and dignity, who is under the Earth, and combust of the Sun, though located in his own House; which in this case serves however to show the permanency and stability of Great Britain during the whole of this trying conflict. In this Figure the planet Saturn is the Significator of America, and Mars represents the people of Britain ...

That Saturn hath the superiority of power, and that Mars and Saturn are inimical in their nature to each other, are facts too evident to be denied; and, as the aspect which is about to be formed between them is a malevolent one, namely, a partile opposition, it declares the event shall be such as to cause a total and eternal separation of the two countries from each other; and the Congress, which is represented by Saturn, will establish an independent and complete revolution, which shall be built upon a firm and durable foundation; and the increasing strength and durability of the new State is represented by Saturn in his Exaltation, supported by the benefic rays of the two Fortunes. And since there is a remarkable Reception between the two planets Saturn and Venus, i.e., Venus in the House [Sign] of Saturn, and Saturn in the House [Sign] of Venus, supported by a propitious trine aspect of Venus and Jupiter, ... it is hence declared that whatever is effected under this Revolution of the Sun's Ingress into Aries by the Americans shall not only be permanent and durable, but shall be supported by those three grand pillars of State, wisdom strength, and unanimity; which are pointed out by those three planets, agreeable to their tendency and nature, viz., Saturn, strength and durability; Jupiter, wisdom and justice; and Venus, unanimity and perseverance[?]; and their mutual trine aspect to each other, is expressive of future perfection and harmony; so [the planets] show their natural tendency towards the good fortune and success of the Americans; and consequently the disappointment and prejudice of the British arms and administration.

ARIES INGRESS MARCH 1776

March 20, 1776 0:36:49 GMT Set for Westminster, 51n32, 0W7. Placidian Cusps.

We shall now take notice of the time in which this extraordinary Revolution should come to its crisis, or completely take place, as pointed out by the several Significators in the Figure. To do this, we must equate the distance of Mars from Saturn, they being the two principal actors in the Revolution. Their distance is taken by Right Ascension, according to their latitude; because Mars, which is the Significator of Great Britain, is within three degrees of the Cusp of the Fourth House.

The Right Ascension of Saturn is 18°52'

The Right Ascension of Mars is 2°30'

Subtract, and the remainder is distance of Mars from Saturn 16°22', which Arc of Direction must be converted into time, by adding to it the Right Ascension of the Sun... We are to examine how many days the Sun takes in going that space in the Ecliptic; and this being an Annual Revolution, with the two Significators in Common [Cardinal] Signs, which denote weeks, we must therefore allow for each day's motion of the Sun one week, by which it will appear that the crisis or effect of the opposition of Mars and Saturn came up in fifteen weeks and two days from the time the Sun came into...the equinoctial Sign Aries; at which time to a day the Americans declared themselves independent of the British Government, and became a free State.

Sundry Birth Data

I am indebted to various correspondents for the following data relating to prominent people in the news at present:

General Norman Schwartzkopf born at Trenton, New Jersey, USA, (40N14, 74W46) on 22nd August 1934.

Neil Kinnock, Leader of the British Labour Opposition, born at Tredegar, Wales (3W16, 51N46), on 28th March 1942 at 2pm BST.

Bob Carr, Leader of the NSW Labour Opposition, born at Maroubra, NSW (33S57, 151E16), on 28th September 1934, at 12:50am.

Nick Greiner, NSW Premier, born at Budapest, Hungary, (47N30, 19E5), on 27th April 1947, at 4pm; believed to be Daylight Saving Time

- can anyone confirm?

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock,
22nd June 1991.

Astrologers' Forum

A MONTHLY PUBLICATION DEVOTED TO THE IMPROVEMENT OF ASTROLOGICAL PRACTICE THROUGH THE SHARING OF KNOWLEDGE, EXPERIENCE AND TECHNIQUES. EDITED AND PUBLISHED BY DYMCK BROSE, 86 CLARENCE ROAD, BLACKHEATH, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785.

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION AUSTRALIA $15, OVERSEAS $A20.

ISSUE 117

APRIL 1991

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

Premier Greiner has just announced that the date of the next NSW State Election will be Saturday, May 25th. I hope many of you will be attempting an astrological prediction of the result. Elections are an opportunity to test and develop predictive skills.

While on this subject, I congratulate ROD and COLLEEN BRANDT (Qld.) on their successful prediction of a win for the Labour candidate in the Brisbane City Council Elections on 23rd March. They used the method they detailed in Issue 113/114, and their success was particularly noteworthy as it was widely expected (on non-astrological grounds) that the Liberal candidate would win. Another successful prediction, was that of LESLIE BLACK (England) who wrote to me on the 10th of January regarding the end of the Gulf War, "According to my deductions the month of March 1991 looks like a decisive month in this respect, either between the 1st and 5th, or around the 20th. If it carries on longer, then my choice would be around the 20th May, 1991." President Bush announced the Provisional Cease-Fire on February 28, to take effect at midnight of that day, (presumably, 24-hours on 28th February, which would be 0-hours of 1st March).

Leslie based his prediction on transitting Mars in the Solar Eclipse of 15th January 1991 (see Chart). On 1st to 5th March Mars, Ruling the Ascendant, moved in Gemini from the trine of Venus to the trine of the Rising Degree, linking the 1st and 7th Houses. It was a logical and successful use of the Eclipse Chart.

Margaret Millard (Eng.) informs me that in January ALEXANDER MARR (Germany) wrote to her that the War would be over in March, but as no data were given we cannot assess the astrological value of the prediction.

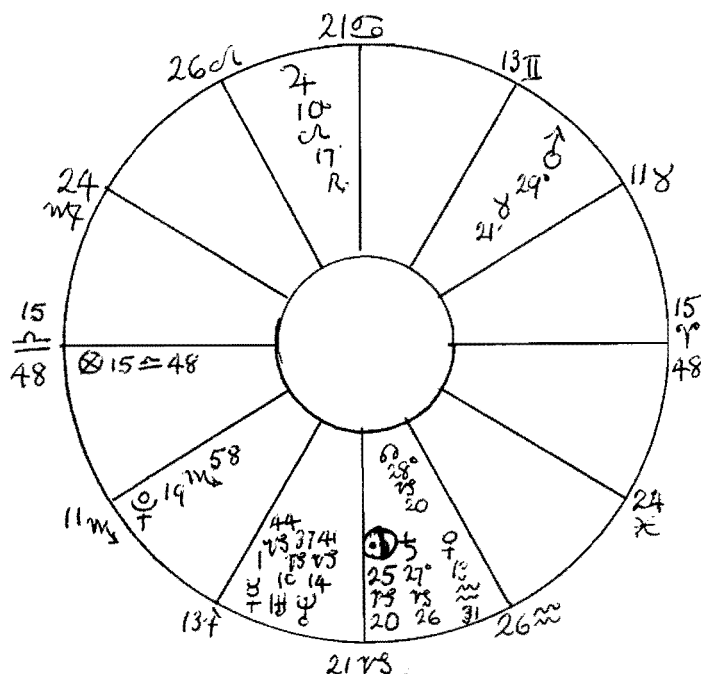

Margaret writes, also, "It looks as though the cease-fire does not equate with peace in the area!" Readers are invited to attempt further prediction along these lines.

From Nareme Collins (Vic.), birth data of JOHN HEWSON, Leader of the Federal Opposition: 28th October 1946, at Sydney. (Time unknown).

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Solar Eclipse Chart 15/1/91	1
The USA - New Chart	1
Prime Minister John Major - The Rectification	3

ECLIPSE OF THE SUN 15TH JANUARY 1991
GMT 23:50. Set for 51N28, OEO.

NEW CHART FOR THE USA

From JENIFER POMMERIN (W.A.):

Last week I came across the enclosed Natal Chart for the USA, set for 10:00pm on 2nd August 1776 (Philadelphia) taken from a book published in 1790 by Ebenezer Sibly. It comes, in turn, from a library book, Zodiac Signs, by Frederick Goodman (published 1990). As you can see, this Independence Chart was in use less than 15 years after the event. One would presume that there would be firm grounds for the time chosen since, whoever erected the Chart was, if not on the spot at least living among those that were. Every keen astrologer pounces on the time of a contemporary event, especially one that is historically important. So this Chart time stands a good chance of being "hot off the press".

The National Wax Museum's portrayal of the signing of the Declaration shows a candle and drawn curtains, and another artist's impression also has drawn curtains and internal lighting. So a horoscope with a night time, or possibly the very early hours of morning would seem to be accurate (if one accepts the signing of the document as signifying the birth of the American Nation).

July the 4th is apparently not the correct date for the USA National Horoscope I quote from Collier's Encyclopedia (American production). (Italics are mine.):

"On July 1 the matter [Independence and Articles of Confederation] was again debated, and on July 2 Lee's motion was passed by Congress. The notion that July 4 was the date arose from a mistake in the first printed version of the Journals of the Congress. All the Congress did on July 4 was to order the Declaration printed, so that members could have copies. Congress did not order the document written up in the form we see it today until July 19, and it was not until August 2 that it was ready for signing by the members of the Congress."

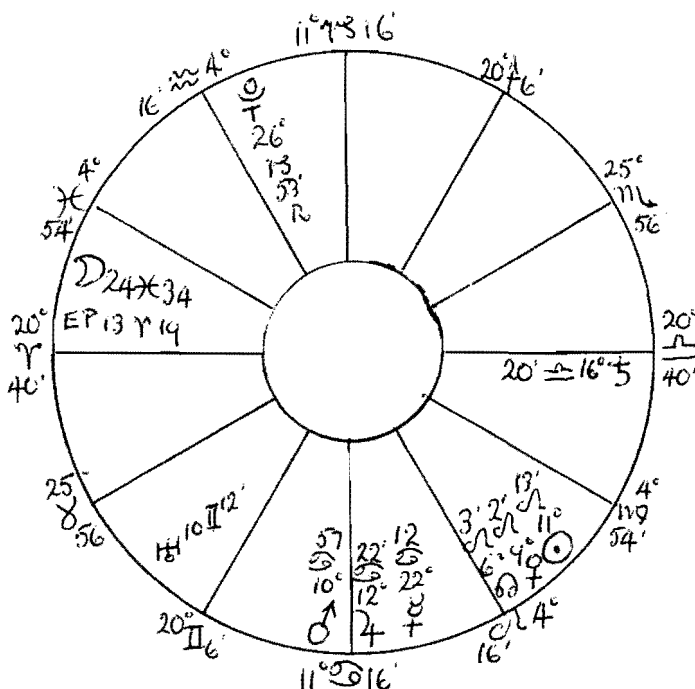

So it seems that July 4 headed a document that was actually signed on August 2. My hypothesis is July 4 was when the transcribing of the Declaration ready for signing was first begun, only to be interrupted soon after for further discussion of the finer points. Written work might have resumed on the document on July 19 - but the date was not altered. Nor was it on August 2 when all gathered together for the signing.

I did a horoscope for August 2, 10pm. This must have been the time bandied about, regardless of the wrong date being used. Then I checked to see if it responded to both the American character and events in recent history. What came out was both startling and fascinating.

Dymock, I know that you have done extensive and painstaking work on this subject, and to consider another date would be very hard. [Not at all, Jenifer. - DB.] But with every respect for your impartiality in judging the American Nation, I can't accept that it is primarily motivated by humanitarian principles. There are sporadic attempts, yes. But America, to me, comes across as ruthless and expedient, both to its

USA INDEPENDENCE: 2ND AUGUST 1776

10:00pm LMT, Philadelphia. 39N57, 75W10.
Placidian Cusps.

its own people and on a worldwide scale.

Anyway, with the August 2 Map, Aries for leadership is on the Ascendant, Pluto for transformation is in the 10th House, pragmatic, ambitious Capricorn on the MC - a very entrepreneurial Chart, especially with a Leo Sun in the 5th House. There are six Cardinal planets and the axis is Cardinal. Mars, the Ruler of the Ascendant, is in Cancer and conjunct Jupiter. To me this would indicate an almost irresistible urge to meddle in the affairs of others. The dominant Pluto demonstrates well the profound influence of the American Stock Market. The value of the American dollar rules the economies of many countries, of which Australia is one. The United Nations is controlled through checks and balances by loans or arms deals, the granting of Foreign Aid, and so on. The 10th-House Pluto is conducive to crime as a profession (the Mafia and Truckers' Union), and blackmail or power manipulation of those in bureaucratic or governmental positions.

The Piscean Moon in the 12th House would account for much going on behind the scenes (e.g., the CIA) that we wouldn't know about, plus America's undoubted artistic talents, especially in film and music. The Sign's charity, empathy and caring is overshadowed, perhaps because it conflicts with the national ethos of independence, so prominent in the Chart. (One just has to look at the enormous discrepancy between the haves and have-nots, and the appalling lack of hospital care for the under-privileged to realize how unbalanced is the expression of this Moon.)

But the Pisces influence on the drug scene is awesome.

With this Chart America now has the vital Leonic Sun instead of the quieter Cancer. Both the Sun and Uranus are in quincunx with the MC, and Mars/Jupiter at their Midpoint - a Nation destined to deal with changing situations, mostly of their own making. Perhaps rigid social structures are torn apart--certainly the birth of new ideas. This pattern (the 5th-House Sun, Uranus, Mars/Jupiter, and the Capricorn aims of the 10th House) appears to fit that keystone of American government as set out in the Declaration of Independence: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness...That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or abolish it. ... Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long-established should not be changed for light and transient causes ... But when [Government becomes] absolute Despotism it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government ..."

Mars in Cancer is sensitized. Self-protection is instinctive. The waging of war is more likely with this Sign position I think, rather than if it was resident in Gemini. Mars' new position conjunct Jupiter and the 4th House Cusp, and with both planets in square to Saturn is a very powerful combination. It is very indicative of the internal domestic strife that periodically erupts throughout the land. This is well borne out by the "gun in every home" mentality, gang warfare, race riots, violence and beatings on the streets, etc. On the international front, a nation very protective of its own interests, e.g., unimpeded supply of cheap oil from the Middle East, plus Kuwait billions invested in America = Gulf War. (President Bush must share responsibility for the incalculable environmental damage, oil resources going up in smoke, loss of life and limb suffered by innocent people--all being the end result of his decision to fight the Iraqis, despite several other options available. In so doing, he did as American Presidents have done in the past--fought wars in other lands for business and financial reasons.)

In one way, fiery and impulsive Mars powered up by fiery and impulsive Jupiter in the emotional Sign of Cancer, and opposing the respectable, thoughtful, God-fearing aspirations of Capricorn, sort of sums up America's dilemma, particularly as this is a 4th/10th-House situation - the private face versus the public. Unfortunately, what America brews up in its 4th House is exported to the rest of the world via the connection of Jupiter and the 9th (overseas) House - anything from muggings to lifestyles.

A quick check, using only the USA Natal Ascendant, Midheaven, Sun, Mars and Saturn, shows these contacts for the following events:

Chart for the atomic bomb on Hiroshima (Issue No.50)

USA Aries-Asc square to Hiroshima's Moon and Saturn.

USA Capricorn-MC quincunx to Hiroshima's Mars.

USA Leo Sun conjunct Hiroshima's Pluto.

USA Mars semisextile Hiroshima's Mars.

USA Saturn square to Hiroshima's Moon and Saturn.

Chart for Pres. Hussein (Issue No.108/9).

USA Aries Asc conjunct Hussein's Venus.

USA Capricorn MC trine Hussein's Uranus.

USA Mars sextile Hussein's Uranus, and possibly Sun.

USA Saturn in opposition to Hussein's Venus.

Chart for Iraq Republic (Issue No. 108/9)

USA Aries Asc square to Iraq's Asc and Sun, trine to Saturn, sextile to Moon and Venus, trine Mercury.

USA Capricorn MC quincunx Iraq's Uranus.

USA Leo Sun conjunct Iraq's Uranus, Transpluto and Mercury,

USA Mars semisextile Iraq's Uranus and Transpluto.

USA Saturn square Iraq's Sun, trine Moon and Venus.

Chart for President Bush (Issue No.91/2)

USA Aries Asc opposite Bush's Moon, square Venus.

USA Capricorn MC opposite Bush's Pluto.

USA Leo Sun semisextile Bush's Pluto, trine Jupiter.

USA Mars and Jupiter conjunct Bush's Pluto.

USA Saturn conjunct Bush's Moon, square Venus.

Chart for Declaration of War against Iraq

USA Aries-Asc trine War Chart's Asc and Trans-pluto, quincunx Pluto.

USA Capricorn-MC conjunct War Chart's Uranus.

USA Leo-Sun square War Chart's Midheaven, conjunct Jupiter, opposite Moon, opposite Venus, quincunx Uranus.

USA Mars square War Chart's Uranus and Neptune, trine Jupiter, sextile Midheaven.

A curious "coincidence" is that August the 2nd, the date Jennifer quotes for the above Chart of the USA Independence, is the same as the date of Iraq's invasion of Kuwait.

PRIME MINISTER JOHN MAJOR'S CHART

From LESLIE BLACK (Eng.): In reply to Ross Harvey in the March issue of A.F., I was not surprised to learn of his unbelief in the Hyleg, this ancient Ptolemaic canon that all the greatest astrologers held in high esteem and demonstrated at great length, and that "it does not work" for him!; also his unbecoming snide remarks about the method of rectification I use being unworkable. But it is the final paragraph of his article that causes umbrage and to which I take exception.

It may interest others to know that Ross had previously rectified the birth time of John Major before my version was published, and came to within one minute (9:00:59 GMT) of my time, which he claimed was accurate, and that John Major would do well. This came about through my correspondence with Dr. J. Nicholls, who passed the data on to Ross to do a rectification of the time. Subsequently, Dr. Nicholls passed his result on to me, as follows: "The given time appears to be accurate--an average of 18 MC-positions resulting from Progressed and Regressed Secondaries gives an MC of 18Aqu29 for a time of 9:00:59-hours GMT. Most telling is Progressed MC trine Pluto for becoming P.M., Regressed Ascendant trine Pluto for becoming Chancellor, and Regressed Ascendant trine Pluto for becoming Foreign Secretary. Age Harmonics show h.22 for the road accident with h.Saturn at 23Tau50 and h.Pluto at 20Scor11; the rectified h.Asc is 21Tau18 - all most satisfactory. Even the Prenatal Epoch is good (17:17:06-hours GMT on 27/6/42) with Ep.Moon 23Vir43 conjunct Neptune 27Vir11 and Asc 29Scor18 opposite Venus 29Tau45 and Uranus 26Gem27. Major should do well."

I concede to Ross that I listed only one Major Direction for between March and November of last year, but there were more. Here are the remainder: p.Mars trine p.Jupiter (exact); p.Asc trine r.Mercury (within 2'); p.Asc sextile r.Uranus (exact); MC conjunct r.Sun (within 2'); MC Sextile r.Saturn (within 3').

The Moon technically Hyleg in Major's figure may have cost him his life in the motor accident; if not, certainly his leg. Ross says that he finds it odd that a Chart which has Jupiter conjunct the Descendant and an Angular Pluto trine the Sun should be described as that of a supine and under-ambitious person. How, then, does he assess Jupiter's opposition to the Ascendant, with its dispositor, the Moon, posited there forming a lethal T-Square to the Sun, Mercury and Neptune? Also, the so-called trine, Pluto to the Sun, is ineffectual as Pluto has no "applying rights" to any body in the scheme of the Ecliptic.

It is a pity that Ross has gone to such lengths in desperation just to score points, and to gain some credence for himself, by inventing an earlier time than the one he already agreed upon as being correct, after it was made public that the British Astrological Association had invented one. Or was it the case he did not want any credit going to anyone else but himself?

From ROSS HARVEY (NSW): Leslie's latest emotional reaction is based, like his previous one, on a misconception. He is mistaken when he says that I had previously rectified John Major's Chart to 0900-hours UT. It is, however, quite true that Jack Nicholls had sent me an excerpt of a letter to him from Leslie, containing data from John Major's life, so that I might look at Major's Chart myself. The first paragraph reads as follows: "Here are the birth particulars: Born Monday, 9:00am UT, 29th March, 1943, at Merton, Surrey; Lat. 51N25, Long. 0W13; S.T. 21:22:42; MC Aquarius 18°44', Ascendant Gemini 23°54'."

Readers will notice that no mention is made of the time's being a rectification. I assumed from this that 0900-hours UT was within a few minutes of it. Anyone who has tried a rectification exercise will know that it is only too easy to "validate" almost any time if one confines oneself to a handful of Progressions, so my remarks in the paragraph of my letter to Jack that Leslie quotes are only significant if 0900-hours is indeed the given time, but it is not - it is Leslie's rectification (or "invention" in his own words).

The paragraph that Leslie quotes bears me out: I wrote "The GIVEN time ...", but I subsequently discovered from our Editor's introduction to Leslie's article in Forum 112/113 that it was merely a rectification. Consequently I looked more closely, and the result of my investigation was published in Forum 114/115.

I am as sure as I can be from the data about Major's life at my disposal that he was born between 0100 and 0700-hours UT. The time of 0245-hours UT seems to me to be the best possibility within this range. However, no one should ever make the mistake of confusing a rectification with fact, and it is still possible that my suggestion is incorrect; and I would of course be only too willing to consider any other suggestion accompanied by a reasoned argument. Hysteria is no substitute for reasoned argument.

Leslie still has not responded to my point that his rectification method has not been successful in any Rectification Exercise so far. If there is evidence that his technique works in blind tests that I am unaware of, I should be grateful to have it brought to my attention. It is curious that Leslie quotes from my letter to Jack in his defence, because the principal points that inclined me to accept the 0900-hours time at first glance (on the assumption that it was the recorded time) were Progressions of the Angles to aspects of Pluto, yet in his third paragraph Leslie denies the possibility of just such aspects. He can't have it both ways.

It is a pity that Leslie takes my criticism of his methods as a personal attack. Such was never my intention. My having "gone to such lengths in desperation just to score points", etc., exists only in Leslie's super-heated imagination. We should all be prepared to examine any suggestion as critically as possible, and to have our own suggestions so examined by others, and only suggestions that stand up to a rigorous examination should be accepted. This is how progress is made. If we cannot do this, we will never get anywhere.

My kind regards to all,

- Dymock, 6th May 1991.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., Australia, 2785.

Annual Subscription Australia $15, Overseas $A20.

Issue 116 March 1991

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

VICTORY IN THE GULF

Now that the Gulf War has finished, more quickly than almost anyone anticipated, we have an opportunity to adjust the Chart of President George Bush in the light of his resounding victory. His triumph abroad and unparalleled popularity at home must surely be reflected in his Geniture or its derivatives - the Cyclic Charts and Directions.

George Bush's mother gave the time of birth as between 11am and 12 noon, and a Figure for the speculative time of 11:25am EDT was published in the February/March 1989 Issue of Astrologers' Forum.

Ross Harvey (NSW) writes that he thinks the birth may have been at 11:32 am, which gives Regressed Ascendant trine Radical Uranus on the 28th December 1988 - Bush became President on 8th November 1988 - and Progressed Ascendant trine Progressed Mars on the 1st of February 1991. This could account for the speedy and favourable end to the War.

My own investigations suggest a time close to 11:27 am. This gives a very favourable current Solar Return with Venus conjunct the Midheaven, and the current Age Harmonic with Jupiter in the same exalted position. These Charts and others may be presented in the April Issue.

Though the military action has officially ended, the matter is not yet finalized. We now have a report of an Iraqi war plane being shot down by the US air force for violating the terms of the Provisional Cease-Fire, and there is widespread rebellion in Iraq against Saddam Hussein. Aside from that, a hundred burning oil wells have to be extinguished. It is a question just when peace and productivity will be restored. Next August the Progressed Moon conjoins Venus in the Inceptional Chart for the Gulf War, which is hopeful, but it is still a long way off.

- Dymock.

CIVIL STRIFE IN YUGOSLAVIA

Attention is now focussed on the unrest in Yugoslavia, involving the peoples of Serbia, Croatia, Montenegro and Slovenia. Latest reports suggest that Civil War is about to

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Victory in the Gulf	1
Civil Strife in Yugoslavia	1
Chart: Communist Regime	2
P.M. John Major's Horoscope	2
Result of Rectification
Exercise No. 7	4

erupt.

Here is a Chart for the commencement of the Communist Regime in Yugoslavia. It is based on information given in that most useful volume, Nicolas Campion's The Book of World Horoscopes. The date is fairly certain, but the time is speculative. At least it gives astrological researchers something to work on.

YUGOSLAVIA: COMMUNIST REGIME

31 January 1946, Belgrade, 44N50, 20E30
Speculative time 10pm L.T. (UT 9pm)

Yugoslavia will be affected soon by the powerful stationary Transits of URANUS and NEPTUNE. On 17th April Uranus will be stationary at 13Cap49, within orbs of an opposition to Mars at 16Can58, and at the same time Neptune, stationary at 16Cap46, will be even closer to the opposition - dangerously so oppositions would not be affected if the speculative time for the Chart were wrong, but if the time is correct the situation becomes much worse as Uranus will then be closely opposed to the Midheaven as well.

The release of the combined planetary energies of Mars, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune is a dire portent for Yugoslavia. One may expect widespread unrest, challenge to the Government's authority, military action and violence.

- Dymock.

P.M. JOHN MAJOR'S HOROSCOPE

From GWYN STONEY (N.S.W): I was interested in Ross Harvey's rectification of Prime Minister John Major's Birth Chart. Using Cosmobiology, I came up with a birth time of 3:46am B.S.T. - just one minute later than Ross - Ascendant 14Cap8, MC 19Sco29.

I have from two different sources that he was born at BRIXTON, LONDON, 51NB, OW6. The two sources are Editor Bill Henry of Planetary Pictures, and Lois Rodden, Data News, USA.

From LESLIE BLACK (Eng.): My main objection to Ross Harvey's Rectification and his very complicated calculations is the Directive system of Age Harmonics. It must be apparent to most astrologers that the arithmetical and astronomical aspects of this system lack credibility. About 80% of these charts that have appeared in the Astrologers' Forum and elsewhere are abortive when referred to places within the North Polar regions by virtue of the M.C. falling at or below the horizon. After substituting the Harmonic Ascendant for the corresponding one for the Pole of the Earth at location, the astrologer then is confronted with having to cope with two Ascendants in one Chart. This is a most fallacious approach, and shows astrology at its very worst.

Further, the orbs given to the aspects are over-generous, when it is a long-established fact, agreed to by astrologers of high standing, that they must not exceed one degree of arc, more or less, for any major event. In the three examples Ross gives to discredit the 9am U.T. birth time the orbs exceed 1°: becoming M.P., Sun conjunct Saturn, orb 4°; marriage, Sun opposite Saturn, orb 3°; becoming Secretary and Chancellor, the triple conjunction in Pisces of the Sun, Venus and Pluto, the orbs range from 4° to 9°.

In the twelve events chosen for my rectification by Secondary Arcs, of which there were more than one in each case, the Directions were accurate to within a few minutes of arc, and every Direction was from the Progressed to the Radical positions. Progressed-to-Progressed Aspects, of which there were many, were not included.

The reading of John Major's Map in Ross's terms shows him to be a very inhibited, weak-kneed, under-ambitious person with no hope ever of success in early life. The debilitated Moon rising in Capricorn, now having taken over the position of "hyleg" from the ever robust, exalted Sun in Aries, is also afflicted by Jupiter, the Moon's Node, Neptune and the parallels of both Saturn and Uranus. Such an orientation does not fit this pencil-sharp politician with the majority of the planets under the horizon denoting the later years to be more successful than the earlier ones, and letting others take responsibility. Five planets occidental, including nebulous Neptune, the most elevated and afflicted planet in the scheme, indicates less opportunity to govern circumstances, and brings him more under the influence of Fate, when he must accept choices and issues of life as they are placed before him.

This is unlike the Map for 9am UT which has the majority of the planets rising from the Ascendant East to the Meridian, and calls upon him to make his own choice in every issue, and to create that issue at will. He rose in life through his own power and enterprise, attaining a good position in eight years of Government service. At the tender age of 47 years he has become the youngest and most talented Prime Minister this Century. All this could not be possible other than with the 9am Chart.

From ROSS HARVEY (NSW): Leslie seems not to have appreciated that the principal ground for my saying that John Major's birth has to be in the early morning is the result from the Progressed Solar Method (my "very complicated calculations"). Harmonics do not really come into this at all. In recent tests that I and Jack Nicholls have conducted (he providing data, and I trying to get the right times) the Solar Method has enabled me every time to specify correctly a range of six hours or less (depending on the amount of information available) that contained the given birth time. These results are not theoretical pronouncements, but results from blind tests. At the very least they corroborate the claim I made when I presented the method that it can be relied upon to give one the correct part of the day in any rectification. One can still make mistakes within that range, as I have done, but one will not be many hours from the correct time. My first average time was 0549-hours UT. This suggests that the time is early morning, so I then corrected all the planetary positions for a birth of 0600-hrs. I then recalculated all the aspect times, and rejected those that could not possibly be relevant for an early morning birth, and got a corrected mean of 0353-hours. At the very outside this suggests to me that the time is within the range 0100 to 0700-hours (i.e., ± 3 hours) in round figures - already noticeably before 0900-hours.

When the times were again recalculated for this earlier mean the resulting mean was 0228-hours. This suggests that the time has to lie between 0100 and 0400-hours at the outside ($\pm 1\frac{1}{2}$ hours, because this new mean should be more accurate than the preceding one) - nowhere near 0900-hours.

From these results I would say that it is highly unlikely that the time is outside this last range, and that it is practically impossible that it is later than 0700-hours UT.

Harmonics provided a quick way to refute the 0900-hours UT time that Leslie suggests. Harmonic Sun conjunct Harmonic Saturn for becoming an MP is, in my experience of using Harmonics, impossible, although it may relate to some negative influence felt by Major in his 36th year. As I do not know of any such influence, it seems likely to me that the 0900-hours time is wrong. Leslie does not seem to appreciate that Harmonic Charts are not maps of the heavens as are Birth and Return Charts of all sorts. There is no horizon in a Harmonic Chart as he mistakenly assumes. The wheel format is merely a useful way of enabling one to see planetary relationships. Moreover such a format is regularly used in all literature on Harmonics, and is an option in the comprehensive computer programs that most people use these days, so I am not the only renegade to use them. Indeed, I am quite surprised that anyone should challenge their use. Leslie's claim that "it must be apparent to most astrologers that the arithmetical and astronomical aspects of this system lack credibility" is based on a complete misunderstanding of the method.

Leslie further does not appreciate that Harmonic Charts are a static method (like Return Charts) and not a dynamic method (such as Progressions and Primary Directions). It is standard practice to use orbs of five degrees for conjunctions of the Sun in Birth and Return Charts, and orbs of three to five degrees for conjunctions with the Angles in such Charts. So I make no apologies for using five-degree orbs in Harmonic Charts. Anyway, extensive use of Harmonic Charts has convinced me that such orbs work. On the other hand an orb of one degree in dynamic techniques such as Progressions or Primary Directions is hopelessly too wide: A range of \pm one degree is on average equivalent to a time range of two years (!!) during which the aspect under consideration may work. With orbs like that any method will seem to work. I would not countenance time orbs greater than \pm three months (on average, $0^{\circ}15''$), and would prefer to see them smaller still. In his own rectification of John Major's Chart, Leslie has related all events between March and November of last year to one Progression (in his Chart p.MC conjunct Sun). I think this is unacceptable - one Progression could not cover eight months. In my experience most aspects of the Progressed Angles work within a range of \pm six weeks. If many do not, I would begin to suspect that the chart was inaccurate, or simply wrong.

Leslie and I have crossed swords over Harmonics before (see A.F.'s 28 - 32), so I would not expect him to accept any of this, but others should not allow his misconceived objections to put them off experimenting with a valuable technique.

I have noticed since I wrote before that in John Major's Solar Return for 1965 (accident) Neptune was at $19^{\circ}\text{Sc}39$, and it transitted again over 19°Sc in October of that year. So far as I know the accident was late in 1965, but unfortunately I do not know exactly when. When Major was elected to Parliament on the 3rd of May 1979, Uranus was at $19^{\circ}\text{Sc}17$, while Pluto was at $18^{\circ}\text{Sc}26$ on the 28th of November last when he became Prime Minister; quite a coincidence, unless 19°Sc (or, less likely, 19°Tau) is an Angle. If, as I think, the time has to be early morning, then a time of approximately 0245-hours is by far the most likely possibility.

I do not take much notice of the old rules about the Hyleg, mainly because they do not work. I find it odd that a chart which has Jupiter conjunct the Descendant and an Angular Pluto trine the Sun should be described as that of a supine and under-ambitious person! A quick look through The American Book of Charts turned up the following charts, all of which have no more than two planets above the horizon: Jean Anouilh (Saturn rising), Sir Richard Burton, Prince Charles, Maurice Chevalier (Saturn rising), Jean Cocteau, Josef Goebbels, Rex Harrison, J. Edgar Hoover, Martin Luther, Dean Martin, Jack Paar (Saturn conjunct the Descendant, Neptune in the 7th), Billy Rose (Neptune conjunct the Ascendant), William Saroyan, Shelley (Saturn conjunct the Ascendant), Ringo Starr and Leopold Stokowski. In quite a few cases the two planets above the horizon were malefics. I would not have thought that many of these were "weak-kneed, under-ambitious" people. The old rules are very neat, but they don't work very well.

Finally I was quite surprised that Leslie published a rectification that used a method which has never worked in any of the rectification tests published in the A.F. There may always be a first time, but one shouldn't have too much confidence that this is it.

Result of Rectification Exercise No. 7

The given time of birth for the woman the subject of our latest Rectification Exercise was 12-noon. Here is the Chart.

Female born 11th November 1936, 12 Noon
(GMT 2am) Charleville, Queensland, Australia.
146E14, 26S25

In a very creditable effort, JACK NICHOLLS (Vic.) succeeded in arriving at a time of 1204 pm. This may, indeed, be even more accurate than the given time. Jack describes his method as follows. (Readers should refer to the detailed personal history of the subject in the last issue):

1. Decided that the birth was diurnal, that is, between 0505 and 1820-hours local time, using Event 2 - birth of son.
2. Listed the Sun and Moon Signs of the parents and the children.
3. Because of the appalling medical history, considered that Saturn was posited in the 1st House. This could involve an Aquarius Ascendant, which would be in keeping with the list of family Sun and Moon Signs, and be in the time range 1025 - 1240-hours L.T.

4. Using the Nicholls Solar Return Method described in Astrologers' Forum No. 103, I first generated a pair of Solar Returns for the year beginning November 1989, which involved items 29 - 33. The group of planets Uranus, Venus Saturn and Neptune would "cross" the Ascendant for the above time range and would be very apt for these events. Eight times were obtained with a mean of 1209-hours, L.T. The Solar Returns used the coordinates of the birth place, and both Solar Return and Natal planets were involved.

5. Three other pairs of Solar Returns were examined for the years beginning November 1955, 1984 and 1987 (items 2, 18-22, 24 and 25), and a total of 17 times obtained which gave an average of 1205-hours L.T., taking into account times within 30 minutes of the average.

6. Checking with several events and Secondaries Progressed and Regressed by Solar-Arc in longitude suggested that the time might be circa one minute earlier, that is 1204-hours AEST.

The modus operandi has much in common with my Rectification submitted for Rectification Exercise No. 5.

Congratulations, Jack. Congratulations also to the others for at least attempting the Exercise, some, indeed, coming close. These other estimates were:

1. 1304-hours, based on relationships between the mother's Venus, Saturn and Mars, and the Subject's Mars and Saturn.
2. 1238-hours, using the method described in Astrologers' Forum No.110.
3. 1818-hours, calculated by the Prenatal Ovulation Cycle and the Diurnal Horoscope, and checked by Secondary Directions.

"The astrological characteristics of the planets only come through strongly for rather special groups such as those investigated by Gauquelin. If collections of ordinary people were used for the base data then the apparent effects are so weak that any searcher without foreknowledge would come up with all sorts of spurious correlations and fail to assemble anything like the corpus of traditional astrology." (The Message of Astrology, by Peter Roberts.)

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock,
22nd March 1991.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 26 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., Australia, 2785.

Annual Subscription Australia $15, Overseas $A20.

Issue 114/115

January/February 1991

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

China has to a large extent dropped out of the news lately because of the Gulf War, but now Allan Johnson takes up the story again:

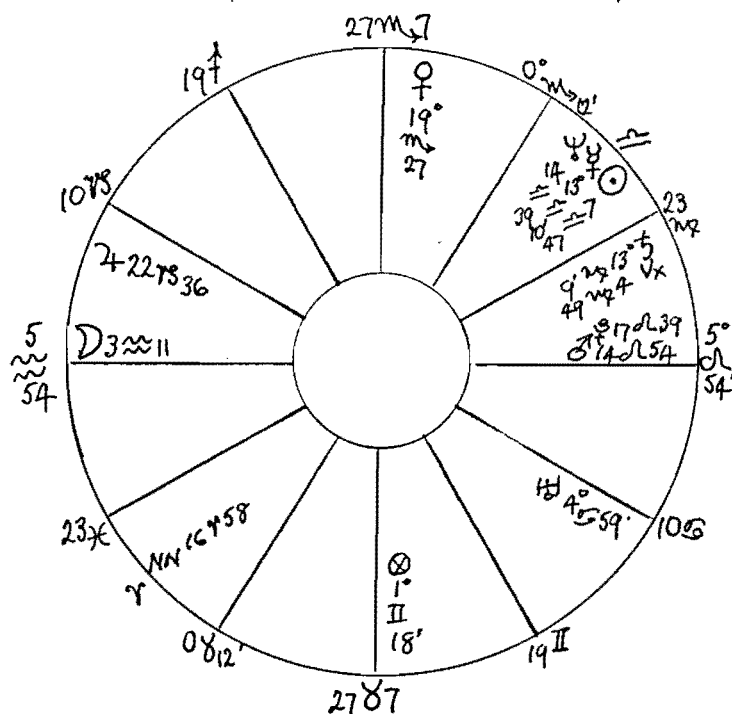

CHINA STORY

by Allan Johnson

Just 18 months ago I made some comments on the Chinese Chart relative to the Tiananmen Square horror, so now it is worthwhile having a further look at that Chart, since there has been an apparent calm after the storm. We don't get a lot of news from China these days, and the Government has clamped the lid on things and held it there. But there could be a lot of things happening beneath the surface. Transits and Progressions show that this whole situation is extremely deceptive, and where we get deception we usually get the influence of Neptune, which we do get here.

REPUBLIC OF CHINA

1st October 1949, 3:15pm, Peking (Beijing)
39N55, 116E23. Placidian Cusps.

Progressing the MC by the Solar Arc in Longitude we now get the Progressed Ascendant 14Ari47, bringing it into close opposition to Neptune in the 8th House, and this will continue on to oppose the Progressed Neptune

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The China Story	1
Predicting Elections	2
Prime Minister John Major
- a different Chart	4
Rectification Exercise No.7	5
Book Extract	6

over the next couple of years as well. This does not point to sound judgement by the Chinese Government, and as those at the top are all in a pretty advanced age, there could be a lot of self deception there. The Progressed Sun is still at a very close square to Progressed Pluto, so their whole position could be very fragile. So both Progressions and Transits are still highly critical in this Chart, which indicates that the drama has by no means been played out.

As I mentioned previously, The Chinese Chart is running into the "mid-life crisis" situation where both Pluto and Neptune are squaring their own Natal positions, and in addition Uranus has been opposing its own Natal position. So anyone who was born at the end of the 1940's is striking the same sort of situation. In the case of China, of course, all three of these are stirring up the two basic Natal configurations - Venus square Mars/Pluto and Uranus square Sun/Mercury/-Neptune. And most significantly, the 8th House is involved, endings and new beginnings, death and rebirth. Throughout 1991 we could say the Chart is right in the middle of the action. But there are so many interlocking complexities involved it is not easy to pinpoint exact dates for further dramatic developments, especially as Neptune is so much at the centre of things.

But one date that is worth watching is around the 17th May next when Saturn is stationary on the Ascendant. I think key planets on an Angle can often bring something decisive. Pluto won't hit the M.C. until 1994, but we are more likely to see some action before that time. Uranus is a good planet for dramatic events, and will be stationary and squaring the 8th House conjunction round April/May next, and also around September 1992. So these could be key periods in the drama. We may not see another uprising similar to the one of mid-1989, but perhaps a big change at the top due to a death or several deaths. The next two years could be quite decisive.

PREDICTING ELECTIONS

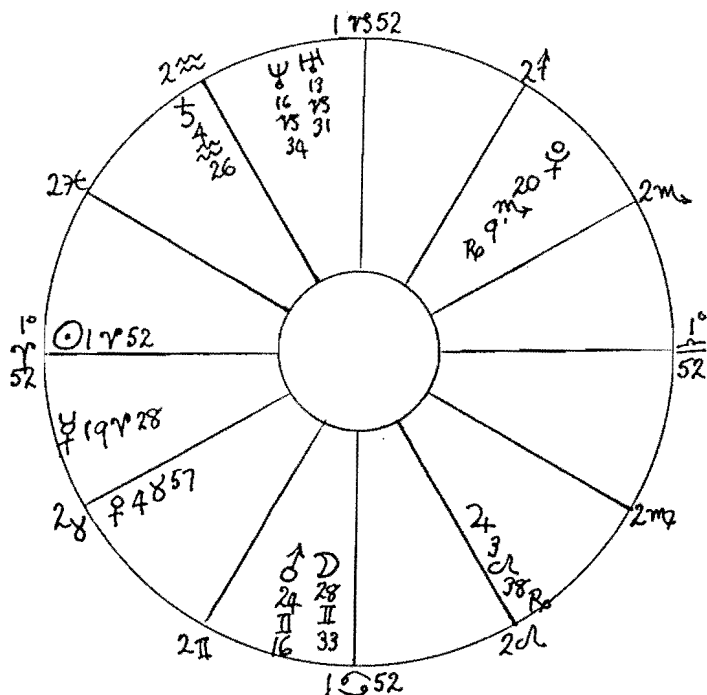

by Rod and Colleen Brandt

After our success in predicting the outcome of the Queensland State Elections and the Federal Elections, we decided to have a look at the forthcoming Local Government Elections - the Brisbane City Council Elections - set for 23rd March, using the same principles and guidelines that we used for the previous Elections.

CHART 1: This is a rather simple and quite accurate way of predicting electoral outcomes. It is a Solar Chart for the day in question, placing the Sun on the Ascendant and using equal Houses. The planets are placed in the Chart straight from the Ephemeris. However, the only planets considered are Saturn and Jupiter and their relative strengths and weaknesses, along with their position in the Chart. Aspects and other planets are not used. In our system of parties Saturn rules Labour and Jupiter rules the Liberals.

Chart No.1: SOLAR CHART

23rd March 1991. Brisbane. 27S28, 153E2

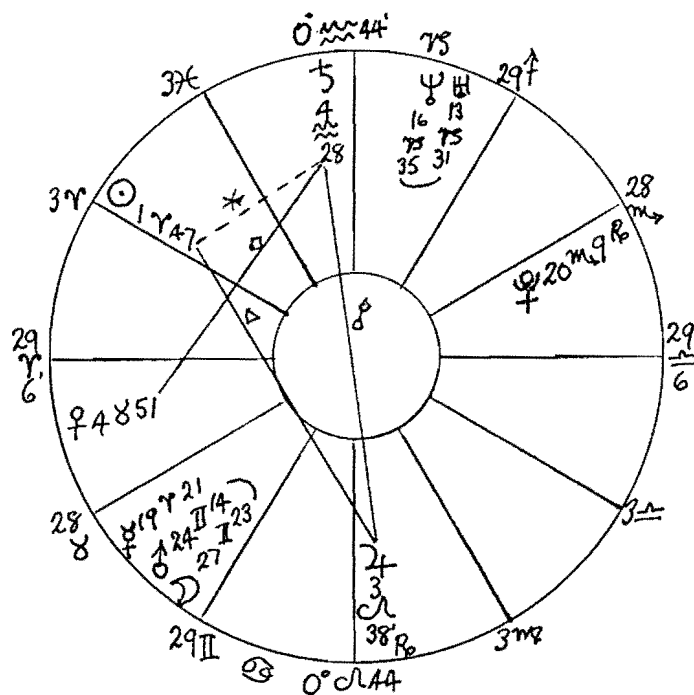

The main point to consider is the planet that is more highly elevated will usually be the victor, especially if it is in the 9th, 10th or 11th House. This is so also if the planet is in its own Sign or in Exaltation, as it gains power. Its own Sign is the strongest dignity. Mutual reception can also help. (Mutual Reception means the two planets are in each other's Signs.)

As we consider this Chart we note that first of all there are no mutual receptions for Jupiter, but Saturn is in its co-rulership Sign of Aquarius, and Uranus is in Saturn's Sign of Capricorn - a definite mutual reception. This pulls Saturn's power even higher in the Chart. Saturn is the most elevated of the two and in its own Sign. Jupiter is in the 5th, retrograde. Saturn is the most strongly placed of the planets, and suggests a win for Labour.

CHART 2: This is set for the 8am start for the Election on 23rd March this year at Brisbane. In this Chart the Eastern or left-hand side of the Chart represents the Party in power (Liberals), while the Western side represents the Opposition. Refining it still further, the 10th House represents the Liberals and the 4th House, Labour. So if the ruler of the 10th is stronger than that of the 4th, the incumbent Party will retain office. Conversely, the opposing Party will win if the ruler of the 4th is the stronger. Therefore, the 1st and 7th Houses represent the Party itself, the 10th and 4th represent its position and power.

Chart No. 2: 8am Election Start, 23 March 1991. Brisbane

The 10th House Cusp is 0Aqu44. The Cusp has just entered Aquarius, which is a new Sign on the 10th, indicating change. Uranus, co-ruler of Aquarius is in Capricorn in the 9th or the Western or Labour side of the Chart - points to Labour. Saturn, Co-ruler of Aquarius is in Aquarius in the 10th (the Liberal's House of at 29Can04, conjuncting her Sun and opposing her Ascendant, and the third Solar Eclipse prior to the event was at 6Aqu35, opposing her Pluto but also making wide dissociate conjunctions and oppositions to her Sun and Ascendant, setting the stage, so to speak. We have found that by checking the degrees and Signs of the three Solar Eclipses prior to an event in a person's life, to the significant planets and points in their Chart, changes most often occur, sometimes good sometimes drastic. If the eclipses do not coincide there is no change or, if there is, it is insignifickant. It will be interesting to see just how these Eclipses bring about the changes in Sallyanne's life.

PRIME MINISTER JOHN MAJOR

ROSS HARVEY (NSW) has independently rectified the Chart for the present British Prime Minister, and considers that the British Astrological Association is on the right track with their estimate of a birth between 3am and 4:30am British Summer Time. Ross arrives at a time of 2:45am GMT (3:45am BST), and writes as follows:

I first calculated the Harmonics for the 9:00am UT for several important years. In Harmonic 36 (John Major became a Member of Parliament) h.Sun, 10Cap48, conjoins h.Saturn, 14Cap24. The Sun conjunct Saturn for the beginning of his highly successful parliamentary career seems most unlikely, and for the Sun not to be conjunct Saturn in this Harmonic, the time has to be before 0800-hours UT. (Henceforth all times are UT.)

In Harmonic 27 (married) for the 0900 time the Sun is 00Sco36, and Saturn is 3Tau21. H.Sun opposite h.Saturn is not appropriate for marriage - especially as I read somewhere that he said that deciding to marry was the best decision he ever made. To avoid this inappropriate aspect the time has to be before 0700-hours.

I then turned to the Solar Method I presented in Astrologers' Forum No. 110. In John Major's case there is the disadvantage of no firmly dated events before age 34, and only sixteen dates in all. Nevertheless, results from tests I have attempted recently lead me to consider this method the best chance of finding an unknown time. There are seven times from major aspects, whose mean is 0535-hours, and there are twelve conventional aspects altogether, the mean of whose times is 0506-hours. At least from this it is clear that the time is early morning, probably between 0200 and 0700-hours (the latter limit derived from harmonics).

The MC for an 0200 time is 7Sco45, and for an 0700 time, 19Cap1. Neptune was at 15Sag33 on 6th May 1977, and was at 12Cap55 on 28th November 1990, while between February 1988 and February 1991, Saturn transitted through Capricorn. Transitting Neptune conjunct the MC does not seem appropriate for any stage of Major's remarkably successful career, nor does Saturn conjunct the MC for the last two eventful years, so the MC seems likely to be before 15^o Sagittarius. This limits the birth time to before 0430-hours.

I then returned to the Solar Method and added all minor aspects previously omitted. I have been experimenting with semi-octile aspects (all multiples of 22.5^o - semi-semi-squares), and non-conventional multiples of 10^o, first suggested by C.E.O. Carter in the introduction to his Astrological Aspects. I have good evidence to suppose that all multiples of 10^o between 30^o and 150^o are aspects. Both these series of minor aspects are useful for the Solar Method, as they enable one to find vastly more aspect times than one could by using conventional aspects alone. I also at this stage corrected the planetary positions for an early morning birth. There were 43 aspects altogether, whose mean was 0549-hours. However, as the time is early morning, I then rejected all times after 1700-hours to get a mean of 0353-hours. If I then reject times after 1500-hours, I get a mean of 0228-hours. Both these results lie within the range suggested before (0200 to 0430-hours UT), and it seems likely that the last figure obtained from the Solar Method is within an hour of the true time.

I then turned to the Solar Returns, calculating the Angles for an 0200-hours birth time, and for an 0430 birth time, and looked for the most likely fit with appropriate Solar Return and Radical planets. 0245-hours seems to be the best time within this range. In the Solar Return for 1979 (MP) the MC is conjunct Jupiter, while the Ascendant is conjunct Pluto. In the Solar Return for 1990 (Prime Minister) the MC is conjunct the Sun, while the Ascendant is conjunct Radical Pluto.

A Chart for 0245-hours UT (3:45am BST) - within the range proposed by the British Astrological Association) has an MC of 19Sco8, and an Ascendant of 13Cap48. Pluto transitted over the MC, and Neptune over the Ascendant, just after he became Prime Minister. The contacts with Margaret Thatcher's Chart are significant: She has a Scorpio Ascendant, he a Scorpio Midheaven; his Ascendant is conjunct her Jupiter and opposite her Pluto. It is said that he was her preferred successor. In this Chart Jupiter is conjunct the Descendant, most appropriate for someone who values his marriage as much as he does. Furthermore, an early morning time makes the Moon/Venus trine closer, which also seems appropriate for his character. In Harmonic 22 (accident) Pluto is at 20Scol1 and Saturn at 23Tau50, conjunct and Government - gives some points to the Liberals). The 4th House (Labour's 10th, counting from the 7th as the 1st) shows 0Leo44 on the Cusp. Again change, as a new Sign, Leo, has just entered the 4th - Labour's 10th. It's ruler, the Sun, has just entered Aries at 1°47' in the 11th - Labour's 5th, and is Exalted, giving it a very powerful position. Aspect-wise, the Sun is better off. It trines Jupiter, sextiles Saturn, and semi-sextiles Venus. Uranus is conjunct Neptune within a 3° orb - confusion - and sesqui-square Mars and the Moon. Saturn, although conjunct the Midheaven and sextile the Sun, is in a dissociate square to the Ascendant, square Venus, opposite Jupiter. All this means that there will be confusion caused possibly to the public, and there will be agitation to do with the public, and possibly agitation around the initiatives taken by Party members of either side. Both the 10th House Rulers are somewhat restricted. Labour's 1st-House Ruler, Venus, is well placed in Taurus, and rising on the Ascendant of the Chart. Also the Ascendant/-Descendant axis of the Chart is 29Ari6/29Lib6 - the ends of the Signs, with new Signs about to rise. Change of local government, maybe? Don't forget, also, the principles of Saturn and Jupiter, only as they appear in this Chart: Saturn, Labour, is again at the very top of the Chart in its own Sign, Jupiter is down in the 4th.

The main contenders for the Lord Mayoral position are the incumbent Lord Mayor, Sallyanne Atkinson, for the Liberals, and Jim Soorley for Labour. Unfortunately, we do not have any details for Mr. Soorley, but we do have Sallyanne's data (see Chart 3). The data are taken from a biography, which gave the birth time as 4:45pm, 23rd July 1942, at Sydney.

With all the planets but the Moon in Scorpio on the Western side of the Chart, it seems that it is not the Chart of the leader and initiator. However, the ambitious Sign Capricorn is rising, 25°47', and the Sun is at 29Can47 in the 7th House, opposite. The Sun is within a 6° orb of conjunction with Pluto, which would suggest the lady's power. The Ascendant ruler, Saturn, in the 5th conjunct Uranus, can add an erratic tendency to her nature at times. The ruler of the Midheaven, Venus has just entered Cancer in the 6th and is semi-sextile her Natal Sun. This, with the Moon in Scorpio in the 11th - groups and organizations - trine her Sun, plus Jupiter and Mercury in the 6th linked to Neptune in Virgo sextile both Sun and Moon, gives her the charismatic power of leadership that Brisbaneites either love or hate.

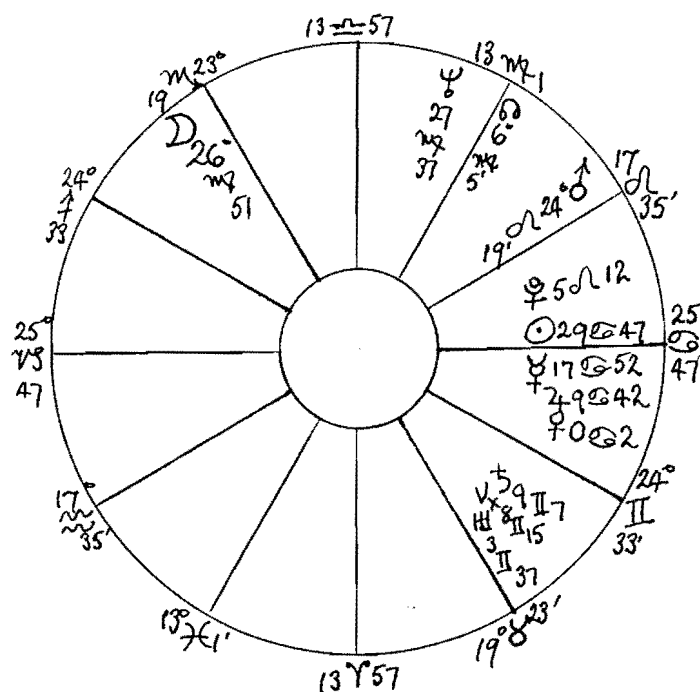

Sallyanne's Progressions for 23rd March show her Progressed Ascendant square Uranus. This aspect, coupled with the change of Sign to Sagittarius on the Progressed Midheaven, suggests that she may sever her ties with the Brisbane City Council and move into either State or Federal politics. The Progressed Midheaven quincunx Venus shows a change of direction in her work. The Progressed Moon the month after the Election will square Uranus and sextile Jupiter, and this could be a good time for commencing any new undertaking, provided it has been well planned or well thought out. Any rash or sudden impulsive moves may later be regretted.

Progressed Mercury is approaching a conjunction with the Midheaven, and although it won't occur for about a year, the Lord Mayor will be starting to feel this influence from March onwards. She may look to increase communications in speaking as a politician or as a writer.

The Transits on the day of the Election also show changes in her career. The Sun at 1° Aries has just squared Venus and is approaching a conjunction with Pluto, and sextile to Uranus. Saturn has just trined Uranus and is within 1° of opposing Pluto. Saturn has also and completed a twenty-nine year cycle. Neptune is squaring Mercury. This shows some tension around her career as Lord Mayor, also new directions and changes for her. It appears she could lose the Election, which is shown by the squares and oppositions. However, there is expansion there, and we feel that Sallyanne will go on to bigger and better things on a State or Federal level.

Chart No.3: SALLYANNE ATKINSON
23 July 1942, Sydney.

As if to confirm the changes coming up for her around the time of the Elections, the Solar Eclipse of the 16th January 1991 is exactly on her Ascendant and opposing her Sun. The prior Solar Eclipse on 22nd July 1990 was opposite the Radical MC, while Mars is at 9Can29 opposite the Radical Ascendant. In Harmonic 46 (became Foreign Secretary and then Chancellor of the Exchequer) h.Sun is at 16Pis52, h.Venus at 11Pis44, and h.Pluto at 20Pis23. This triple conjunction would not appear if the time were later. In Harmonic 47 (PM) h.Jupiter is at 15Cap28 conjunct the Radical Ascendant.

For those people interested in the Prenatal Epoch, the date is the 29th June 1942, and the Chart has the Moon conjunct the Midheaven. I think that Angular planets in the Prenatal Epoch Chart offer the best chance of distinguishing outstandingly successful people from more ordinary mortals.

PRIME MINISTER JOHN MAJOR

29th March 1943, 2:45am GMT, Merton, Surrey.
51N25, 0W13. Placidian Cusps.
(Ross Harvey's Rectification)

Rectification Exercise No.7

Here is another Rectification Exercise for readers to try their skill and improve their Astrology. Please send your entries to Dr. Jack Nicholls, 107 Highfield Road, CAMBERWELL, VIC. 3124, not later than 13th March. Names will be omitted from any published results except for those who get within 15 minutes of the given birth time.

Female born 11th November 1936 at Charleville Queensland, Australia, 26S24, 146E15.

Father born 9 May 1916. Died 1 August 1963.
Mother born 31 July 1917. Died 18 March 1989.

Life Events

1. Married at Kingaroy, Qld., 29 Oct 1955.

Husband born 31 March 1937, Kingaroy.
Husband was a panel beater.

2. Son born 2 May 1956.
3. Separated, February 1958.
4. Re-united about May 1958.
5. Daughter born 7 September 1958.
6. Major surgery - toxic thyroid gland removed.
7. Son born 19 May 1963.
8. Father ("Totally and Permanently Incapacitated" for 12 years) died 1 August 1963, aged 47 years.
9. Almost electrocuted, October 1964.
10. Separated - left the home and took the children 27 May 1972.
11. Filed for divorce, June 1972.
12. Obtained custody of children 13 February 1973.
13. Diagnosed diabetic and put on Insulin 22 June 1972 (possibly a wrong diagnosis).
14. Semogyi Effect established in hospital (reaction by the body to low blood sugar - beneficial - may have saved her life many times), early August 1980.
15. Diagnosed as having polysthemia (too many red blood cells, making the blood too thick) 18 Jun 1982. (Possibly wrong diagnosis and wrong treatment.)
16. Son dragged from car and bashed in broad daylight in the street, 3pm EST, May 1984.
17. Divorced 11 October 1984.
18. Went to Canberra to live 1 January 1985.
19. Fell down steps and broke ribs, Canberra, about 9:15pm 10 April 1985.
20. Serious accident to son - washed off bridge in car - 9 March 1985.
21. Sons went bankrupt in their jewellery business 25 September 1985.
22. Heart attack 22 October 1985. Through this it was discovered that the native had had a coronary occlusion a number of years before (perhaps 10 years) and that the native had one too many ribs.

23. Daughter married 31 January 1987.
24. In hospital for two weeks from 14 November 1988. Stomach ulcer and infection.
25. Bladder operation, 14 July 1988.
26. Went to Tasmania to live, mid-May 1989.
27. Operation on right eye 27 July 1989.
28. Operation on left eye 13 September 1989.
29. Critical condition, in a coma, and taken to Hobart Hospital 28 February 1990.
30. Happy re-union with old boy-friend for two weeks, 31 March 1990.
31. Fell and broke coccyx bone, 30 April 1990.
32. Intraocular lens surgery (successful) 1 August 1990.
33. Collapsed, due to low blood pressure, 13 August 1990.

The native has had a great deal of sickness, as outlined above, plus a lot of trouble with swollen ankles and circulation problems. At this date (February 1991) she is awaiting further specialized blood and gland tests. Height 5 feet 2 1/2 inches, weight 38-kgs., colouring fair, with blue-grey eyes. Complexion has darkened over the years due to ill-health.

THE GULF WAR

Few readers seem willing to risk a prediction for the end of the War. Unless you work on these problems you will not improve your forecasting skill. As astrologers we should not be content merely to look at events retrospectively. Post-event analysis is useful in the learning process, but then we should try to apply the knowledge gained for assessing the shape of things to come. Attempting predictive work will teach you more than you can learn from texts.

ROSS HARVEY (NSW) writes that he can't attempt a forecast for the end of the Gulf War without an undoubtedly accurate Chart for Hussein. Without a stated source, the latest suggestion [see Issue 112/113] may only be another guess. Nevertheless, [using this Chart] Saturn is stationary square Hussein's Sun in May, and if PEA Directions are timed with the Naibod-Arc (another experiment) Saturn is opposite the Ascendant in Iraq's Chart also in May. If the latest Chart is indeed right, the current Solar Return has Neptune conjunct the MC, and Saturn in the 10th House square the Ascendant. In Harmonic 53 the h.Ascendant is conjunct Radical Saturn.

I urge other readers to "have a go", for the sake of better Astrology. - Dymock.

A further extract from The Message of Astrology by Peter Roberts:

There is a current revolt starting against "high-tech" births. Mothers-to-be are taking more and more interest in "natural" childbirth. Instead of allowing control of the timing to be in the hands of (usually male) medical experts, pregnant women are asserting their right to choose the manner and timing of their parturition. In the Netherlands, the number of home births is rising vigorously. Pregnant women are objecting to being labelled as patients, i.e. as people who are ill and therefore have forfeited their rights to decide treatment in favour of the experts. This is in many ways a welcome sign. Experts in the fields of technology and medicine have committed follies on the grand scale, and there is plenty of evidence to suggest that instinct is a good guide to the breeding and rearing of the young - as it clearly is in the case of the animal kingdom. The New Vitalism suggests a further reason for the reintroduction of natural childbirth. Souls attempt to achieve particular timings for the births of their earthly shells. There is no way in which we can yet measure the value derived from a well-timed birth. However, it would seem wise to be cautious in this matter, and proceed on the assumption that the time of birth occurring without any outside interference (through drugs or surgery) is one that is beneficial, in the sense of being appropriate to the new born.

The New Vitalism suggests that souls seek available vehicles for their incarnation, and furthermore that the total union of body and soul is not achieved until birth occurs. It follows that the abortion of a foetus represents a thwarting of the plans made by a soul seeking incarnation. This is hardly a sin on the grand scale and certainly does not justify the intense campaigns mounted by anti-abortion lobbyists. None the less the abortion of a healthy foetus is "unnatural" and can cause trauma and guilt feelings in the mother (or even injury if it is botched). In addition, there may be excellent reasons for the selection and timing of the soul attempting incarnation. For these reasons abortion is not to be undertaken lightly.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock,
13th February 1991.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., Australia, 2785.

Annual Subscription Australia $15, Overseas $A20.

Issue 112/113 November/December 1990

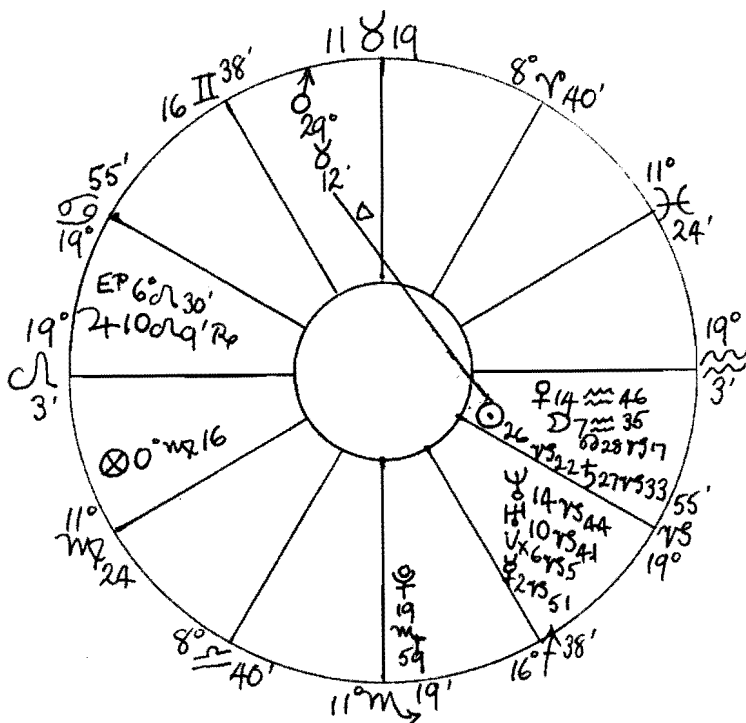

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

This Issue having been unavoidably delayed, to the end of January, the war to oust Iraq from Kuwait has now started (16th January in the USA, 17th January in Australia). So all the conjecturings and weighing of possibilities/probabilities are now put at rest so far as whether or not military action would commence. It has commenced, and we are left to determine what in fact were the deciding astrological factors, and what lies ahead.

The information from Washington is that at 7pm on Wednesday, 16th January, President Bush gave the order for the opening of hostilities against Iraq. This was 11 am Thursday, 17th January, Australian Eastern Daylight Time, and 3am in Iraq. A Chart for this time is given below. It is possible that other times could be taken, for example 1:26am in the Middle East, the reported time of the warplanes leaving on their first mission (ahead of the President's public announcement), or the time (2:40am?) when the bombs were dropped on Bagh-

PRESIDENT BUSH ORDERS WAR AGAINST IRAQ

16 January 1991, 7 pm US EST, 24 hrs UT
(3 am at Iraq, 17 Jan., 11 am Australia)

dad. These latter times would not significantly alter the position of the planets but would change the Angles and intermediate Cusps.

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
War against Iraq	1
Saddam Hussein: Birth Chart (from Zip Dobyns)	2
Solar Eclipse 15/1/91 on Saddam's Chart	3
Margaret Thatcher: Birth Chart	3
The British Conservative Party	3
German Reunification - Revised Chart	4
John Major - new British P.M	4
Astrology and Scientists - Book excerpt	6

It is noteworthy that the position of the War Planet, Mars (29Tau12), in this Chart is at the midpoint of Sun/MC (28Tau45) and MC/Asc (28Tau1) in the National Chart for Iraq. When the inceptional Chart is set for Baghdad instead of Washington, Mars is almost exactly opposite the Ascendant (28Sco47). Interestingly, also, Mars conjuncts the Ascendant (28Tau32) of the Speculative Chart for Saddam Hussein given in Astrologers' Forum 108/109.

As regards the Chart for Saddam Hussein, however, I have now received from Ken Gillman (USA) a birth time of 08:55 am, originating from the American Astrologer, Zip Dobyns. Though the source of Zip Dobyns' information is unknown, the Chart may be authentic, and is reproduced below.

The Chart for the opening of hostilities can be read as a contest between the opposing forces. The 1st House and the 10th represent the Coalition, while the 7th and 4th stand for Iraq.

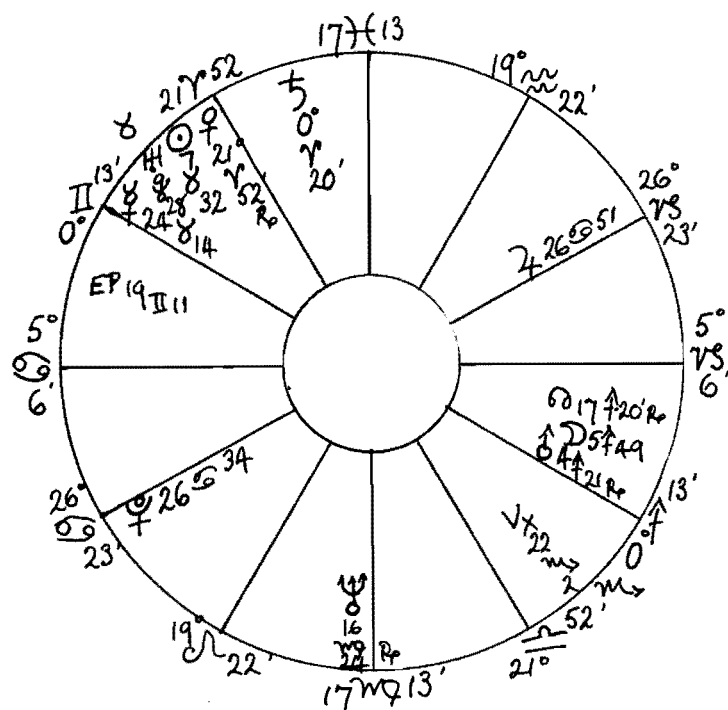

The Sun ruling the Ascendant, and therefore Significator of the United States, is trine Mars in the Midheaven, signifying martial victory for the Coalition. The Sun is conjunct Saturn and the Node, so it will be a rigorous time, with the need for careful planning of logistics, strategy and tactics. Venus ruling the 10th is opposite Jupiter, so victory will be expensive.

The Moon at 7Aqu35 is applying to Venus, Ruler of the Midheaven, and this is a further indication of victory for the coalition. Venus is the Peace Maker, and the Moon applying to it by 7° 11' suggests that it will be about seven months (August, 1991) before victory is achieved.

Readers are invited to send their own (astrological) estimates of the outcome of the war and the date for the end of the conflict. It is worth while making the attempt as a means to gaining experience and precision in Astrology. I shall be happy to publish any such reasoned submissions.

Reverting to the inceptional Chart, Aquarius on the 7th gives Uranus as the Ruler for Iraq. It is badly placed conjunct Neptune, signifying loss. Pluto ruling the 4th House (the 10th for Iraq) is square to the 7th Cusp (the Ascendant for Iraq), and its square from Venus is another bad omen, signifying mass destruction.

SADDAM HUSSEIN: 28 April 1937, 8:55am
Tikrit, Iraq. 34N36, 43E42. (UT 5:55am)
(Chart from Zip Dobzyns). Placidian Cusps.

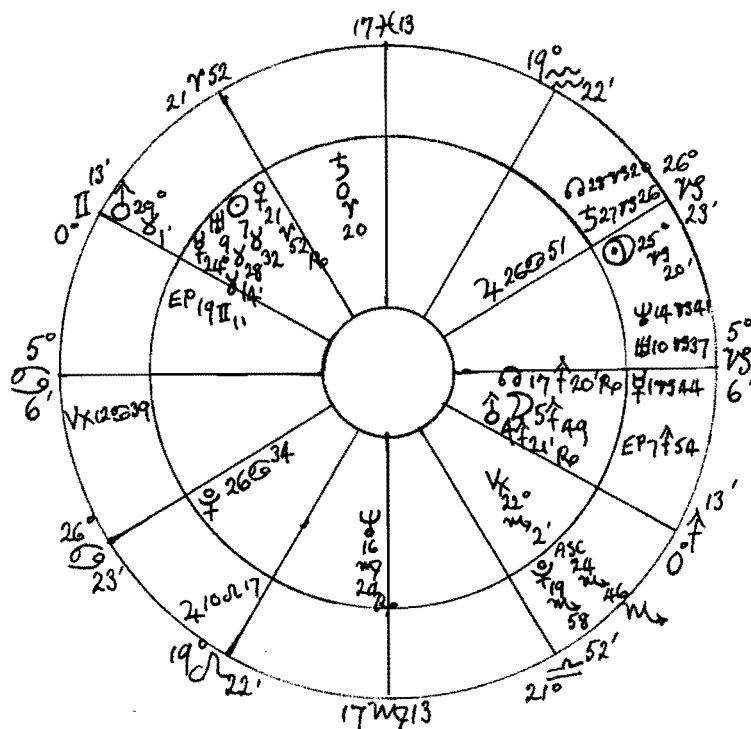

This Chart differs little from the Speculative Chart previously given, except as regards the Cusps. Cancer is rising instead of Taurus, and Pisces appears at the Midheaven instead of Aquarius. The degree at the Midheaven is now directly opposed to Neptune, planet of loss and misfortune in a worldly sense - a bad omen for Saddam. Even worse, the Jupiter/Pluto opposition is now brought into prominence through lying on the 8th/2nd axis. This opposition is characterized by Ebertin (The Combination of Stellar Influences) as the desire for power, the pursuit of fanatical aims, the desire to exploit the masses, wastefulness, and total loss.

The midpoint conjunctions for Saddam listed in the July/August Issue - Saturn conjunct Mars/Pluto and Moon/Pluto, and the Node conjunct Sun/Pluto are still present with their dire implications. In addition we now have Pluto conjunct Moon/Midheaven and Mars/

Midheaven. As the Midheaven is associated with a person's emotional and psychic make-up, I interpret this as a mixture of violence and cruelty in Saddam's nature. Also present is Uranus conjunct Saturn/East Point, which I associate with toughness and obstinacy and the determination to pursue one's own course irrespective of consequences. A fortunate thing for Saddam (and unfortunate for the rest of the world) is the Midheaven conjunct Sun/Jupiter, which has maintained him in his despotic leadership of Iraq despite his tyranny and his enemies.

The precipitating factor for the opening bombardment of Iraq in the early hours of the morning on 17th January was probably the Solar Eclipse of 15th January. It is further evidence of the power of a Solar Eclipse. When the Chart was set for Baghdad it brought Mars (29Tauri) to the 7th Cusp (open enemies) and Pluto just above the Ascendant. At the time I did not think this sufficient to start a war of the projected dimensions. Now that we have Hussein's Horoscope it is evident that additional factors were at work:

SOLAR ECLIPSE OF 15TH JANUARY 1991
ON SADDAM HUSSEIN'S CHART
(Inner circle, Hussein; outer circle, Eclipse)

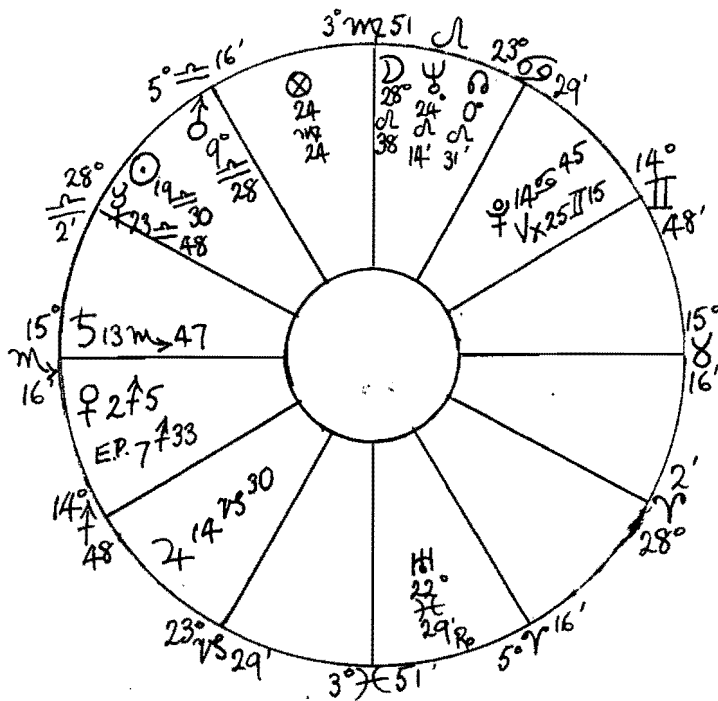

When the Eclipse Chart is applied to the new Chart for Saddam Hussein, the result is particularly disastrous for him and his country. The Eclipse Sun, conjunct Saturn, falls right on his 8th Cusp, opposite to Natal Pluto on the 2nd. This alignment on the 2nd/8th axis promises widespread destruction and death. Mars in the Eclipse Chart falls on the 12th Cusp of Saddam's Chart, another indication of suffering - self-caused by this ruthless megalomaniac who is prepared to risk devastation of his country with pain and death to untold numbers of his people in order to satisfy his ambitions. — Dymock.

EX-PRIME MINISTER MARGARET THATCHER

13 October 1925, 9am UT, Grantham, England.
52N55, 0W39. Placidian Cusps.

Ex-Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's Birth Horoscope was inadvertently omitted from the last Issue but is included here. The qualities of character that took her to the highest position in the land are evident from her geniture. In brief, the Sun in T-Square with Jupiter and Pluto indicates the qualities of leadership, the quest for power and authority, and the urge to lead the masses. The elevated Moon in Leo conjunct Neptune shows imaginative perception, organizing ability and the feeling of command. Scorpio rising shows an iron will, strength, fortitude, concentration and thoroughness. Saturn rising trine Pluto indicates toughness and endurance. Venus rising in Sagittarius with the Sun in Libra conjunct Mercury gives personal attractiveness as well as intellectual ability. Margaret Thatcher fitted in well with the Geniture of the The British Conservative Party (see p.4 of Issue 111). Her Rising Sign is Scorpio, and her Ruling Planet, Saturn. Both Sign and planet connect up with the Midheaven Sign and the Sun in the Conservative Party's Chart. The former Prime Minister was very much at home in the corridors of power.

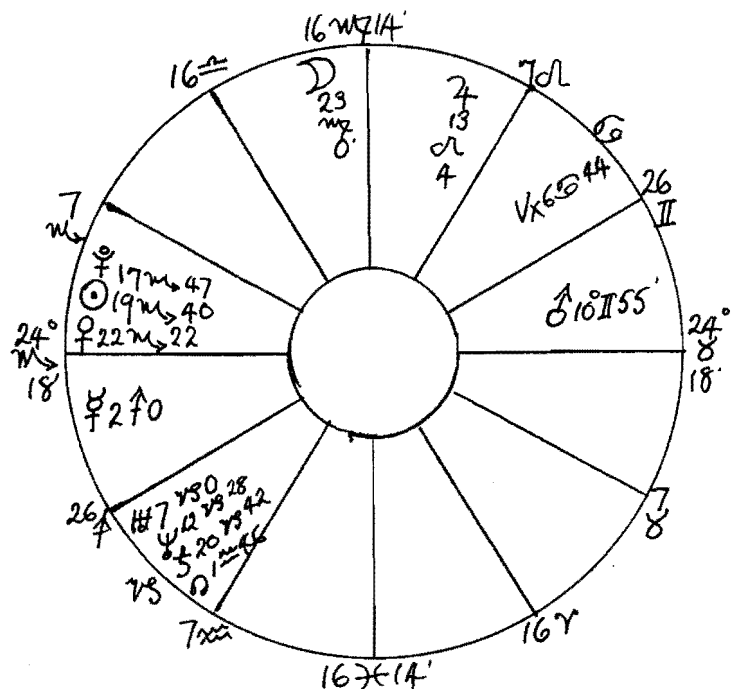

The Progressed Aspects are also appropriate: In the period leading up to the change of leadership, the Progressed Moon was conjunct Progressed Saturn at 5Sag42, portraying the lack of popular support for the Party, and the difficult period it was going through in general. Progressed Mercury parallel Progressed Jupiter in mid-November no doubt induced a good deal of more liberal thinking and discussion than had previously prevailed, leading to a change of ideas on some matters. On November 18 Progressed Mercury trined Natal Uranus, suggesting Party unrest, and that new ideas were being promulgated in the Party conferences. On the 21st of November the Moon had progressed to 5Sag56, where it was sesquare the Progressed Ascendant at 20 Cancer 56. The following day Mrs. Thatcher announced her intention to step down from Office. On that same day, November 22, the Regressed Moon conjuncted Natal Venus in the 10th House — the policy of the Party — indicating a favourable change that will do much to restore the popularity (Moon/Venus) of the Conservatives.

Looking ahead, we see more difficulties in May 1991, when the Regressed Moon conjuncts Natal Saturn, but a happier turn in September, when Jupiter trines the Ascendant in the Progressed Chart, and the Regressed Moon conjuncts Venus.

The major planetary influence at the end of 1991 is Neptune squaring Pluto by Naibod Direction. This is indicative of turmoil in the Party rooms. As Pluto rules the Radical Midheaven it signifies that policy will be in a state of flux. Internal forces will surface hostile to the prevailing direction of the Party, and changes will result.

British Conservative Party: SOLAR RETURN 12 November 1990, 7:45:17 UT. Placidus.

The Solar Return Chart for the current year has the Sun conjunct Pluto, and the Moon in the 10th House, showing the change of leadership. The events of the year so far are spelled out when we apply this Chart to the Radix. Saturn is then only two degrees below the Ascendant, highlighting the Party's difficulties, and a group of powerful Significators - Ascendant, Sun, Pluto and Venus - right at the Radical Midheaven emphasize this area as the scene of action, resulting in the important changes in leadership and policy. - Dymock.

is still just below the Ascendant, with its fortunate implications. The squares from Uranus and Neptune in the 6th House to the Sun have not changed, and my previous remarks still apply. - Dymock.

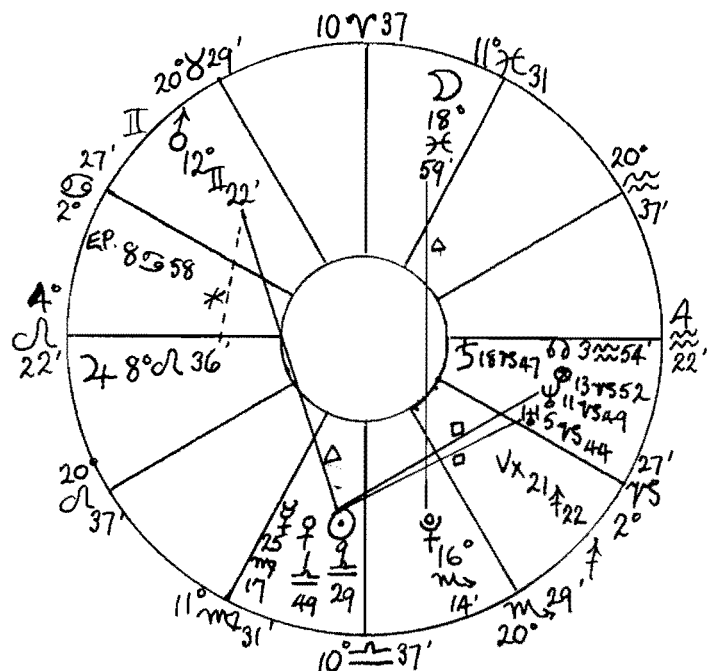

JOHN MAJOR, BRITISH PRIME MINISTER

GERMAN REUNIFICATION

LESLIE BLACK (U.K.) has pointed out that the Chart for the above event should have been drawn for 24-hours on 2nd October 1990, or 0-hours on 3rd October instead of 24-hours on 3rd October (Issue 110). This error arises from the ambiguity of the news item that the reunification would occur at "midnight" on 3rd October. "Midnight" can be either 0-hours or 24-hours, so the term should be avoided unless it is made abundantly clear which end of the day is intended. Leslie was monitoring the situation from England and got the facts straight.

It has been suggested also that the Chart should be drawn for Bonn, the seat of the West German Government, but I disagree. I prefer the Chart for the actual place of the occurrence.

GERMAN REUNIFICATION, 3RD OCTOBER 1990
0-Hours CET, UT 23-Hrs on 2nd Oct. 1990
Berlin 52n30, 13e22. Placidian Cusps.

The principal difference between this Chart and the one discussed in Issue 110 is the position of the Moon. The Rising Sign is still Leo, the 5th degree instead of the 6th. The Moon, now at 19 Pisces instead of 3 Aries improves the Chart for Germany because it is now sextile, instead of square, to Saturn, and trine, instead of sesquare, to Pluto. Jupiter

LESLIE BLACK (U.K.) writes that John Roy Major was born on Monday, 29th March 1943, at Merton, Surrey, Latitude 51N25, Longitude 0W13. Leslie believes The British Astrological Association has registered a birth time between 3am and 4:30am, British Summer Time, which must be hypothetical as, according to information received directly from him, the Prime Minister has no idea of his birth time. But an a.m. time is perhaps something that can be worked upon.

The following information has been drawn by Leslie from the latest book on John Major, published through the Press Association of Great Britain. Readers might care to attempt a rectification. Leslie's own rectification is for 9am UT (10am BST), with an MC 18Aqu14 and Ascendant 23Gem54, based on Secondary Progressions to Radical positions. In the list of events that follows, the Progressions and remarks are direct from Leslie:

1965. Age 22. Nearly lost a leg in a car accident in Nigeria (lost left knee-cap): Mercury square Mars; Mars square Uranus.

1970. Age 27. Married. MC trine Jupiter (Lord of 7th); Moon trine Venus (ideal aspect for marriage).

May 6, 1977. Age 34. Elected to Greater London Council. Wins seat. Sun trine Moon, Moon sextile Mars. Mercury trine Neptune.

May 3, 1979. Age 36. Thatcher sweeps to power. Wins seat and becomes M.P. Moon trine Moon, Venus conjunct N.Node, Mars sextile Venus.

Jan. 26, 1981. Age 38. Made Parliamentary Private Secretary to Home Office. Sun sextile Jupiter, Moon sextile Sun, Moon conjunct Saturn, Venus conjunct Ascendant, Venus sextile True Node.

Jan. 14, 1983. Age 40. Became Junior Chief Whip. June 9, wins seat in Thatcher's second term. Mars trine Jupiter.

Oct. 3, 1984. Age 41. Made Senior in Whip's Office. Moon conjunct Jupiter, Mars trine Jupiter, MC conjunct Mercury, MC Sextile Uranus.

Sept. 2, 1985. Age 42. Made Junior Minister at Department of Health and Social Security.

MC conjunct Mercury sextile Uranus.

September 10, 1986. Promoted to Minister of Social Security. Moon trine Sun trine Saturn, Mercury parallel Jupiter.

January 11, 1987. Age 44. Wins seat in Thatcher's third term. June 1, enters Cabinet, Chief Secretary to the Treasury. Ascendant sextile Uranus sextile Neptune.

July 24, 1989. Age 46. Replaces G.Howe as Foreign Secretary. Ascendant trine Mercury sextile Uranus sextile Neptune.

March 20, 1990. Age 47. First Budget.

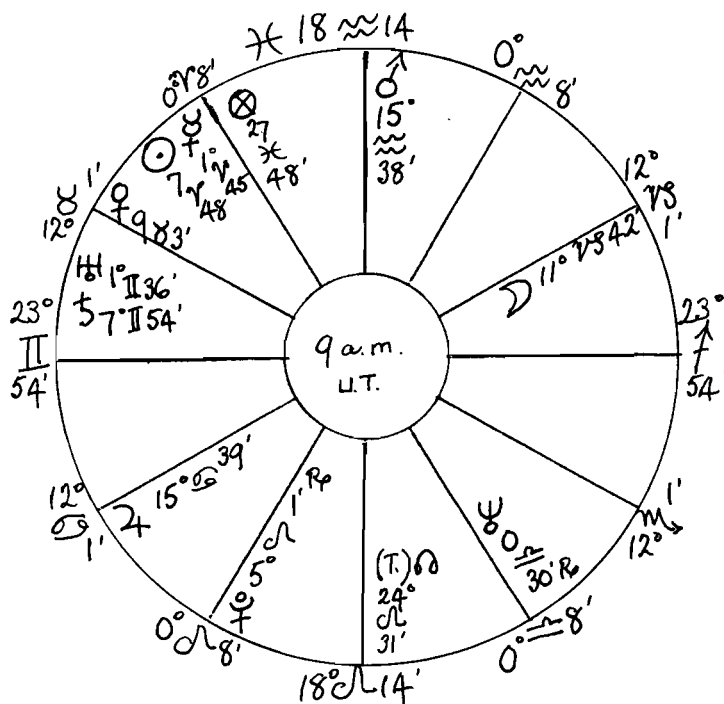

June 20, launches innovative plan for the EEC. Oct. 5, springs coup on Parliament and City by Britain's Exchange Rate mechanism, and cuts interest rate by one point.

Nov. 28, becomes Prime Minister.

All the above under MC conjunct Sun sextile Saturn, Ascendant trine Mercury trine Uranus.

Proposed Chart for JOHN MAJOR (Rectification by Leslie Black)

29 March 1943, Merton, Surrey, England.
51N25, 0W13. Porphyry Cusps.

John Major is the youngest of four children. It is believed he did not like school, and left Grammar School at 16. He was unemployed for nine months and worked as a labourer, and then found a career in banking, joining Standard Chartered in 1965, and was posted to Nigeria at the time of the Biafran War. It was here that he met with a motoring accident that nearly cost him his left leg, suffering the loss of a knee cap, and was hospitalized for about a year. So after very humble beginnings he then suddenly took on managing to get into the political scene, first joining the Young Conservatives in 1960, and ultimately becoming the youngest Prime Minister in this Century.

The accident to his leg can be attributed to the Moon's detriment in Capricorn, afflicted by the Sun, Ruler of the 3rd (travel), with its dispositor Saturn conjoined with and parallel to Uranus, midway between the 1st and 12th Houses (Porphyry), a health area. The Sun is exalted, or he might have lost his leg. Another pointer is that both Saturn and Uranus are in the third Sign, Gemini, (travel).

I have some correlation in my own map. During the thirties when competing in a cycle time trial race of 50 miles I, too, met with an accident to my right knee, damaging my right patella, which still bears a nasty scar below the knee. It happened on a lonely stretch of country road when suddenly a horse-drawn milk float pulled out of a farm gate on my right. The horse reared away, but my right knee came into contact with the elongated step attached to the float for mounting and dismounting. In my Map the Moon is also in Capricorn conjunct Uranus, with Saturn and Mars in the 3rd House. Mars is in Gemini opposite the Sun, centreing on accident during travel of a short distance nature, as with John Major.

The Prime Minister is a person with much refinement, charm and good manners, honest and honourable, courteous and polite. He is capable and diligent, with oratorical ability, and comes to the point quickly. The Polarity Sun/Aries, Moon/Capricorn, a mixture of Fire and Earth, enhances his ambitions through the merger of ambitious Capricorn with the leadership qualities of Aries. His very remarkable memory and comprehension of figures, and a talent for bringing others round to his point of view, are all contributing factors in his rise to become England's youngest Prime Minister this Century.

- Leslie Black.

Astrology and Scientists

The following is the Foreword by Brian Inglis from The Message of Astrology by Peter Roberts:

The other day, throwing out some letters my parents had kept, I came across one written to them when I was in my early twenties, dismissing astrology as rubbish. This view remained unchanged even when in the 1960's I became interested in psychical research; parapsychologists looked on astrology with disfavour. From time to time my disbelief would be a little shaken: once by a BBC television programme which had tested an astrologer "blind", and found that three out of four horoscope personalities had proved to be remarkably close to the actuality; occasionally by finding that otherwise eminently sensible people took the subject seriously - in one case, to the point of checking every applicant for a job astrologically. But I did not begin to sit up and take notice until, in 1975, I read that nearly two hundred eminent scientists, including no less than eighteen Nobel prize-winners, had put their names to a manifesto denouncing astrology.

It is fairly safe rule of thumb that when orthodox scientists join a campaign of this kind, it is because they feel threatened; and if they feel threatened, it is usually because some evidence has been emerging that upsets orthodox assumptions. So it turned out to be in this case: Research conducted by Michel Gauquelin and his wife in Europe, along impeccably scientific lines, appeared to have established that there is some basis for the link between the time of birth and the state of the heavens - where the planets are - in relation to the newly born.

There followed one of the more discreditable episodes in the history of science. Charitably, Peter Roberts does not relate it; but I shall, as it helps to explain why it has been so difficult to get the facts across to the public. The American Committee for the Scientific Investigation of Claims of the Paranormal, "CSICOP", set up what purported to be a scientific enquiry, but was in reality a hatchet job - CSICOP being a gathering of sceptics. So scrupulously objective had the Gauquelins' work been - as Peter Roberts shows - that it was possible to repeat it in the United States in exactly the same form; and in 1977 the Humanist reported that the results revealed that there was no further need to take the Gauquelins seriously. Only gradually did it begin to emerge that, in fact, the American results confirmed the Gauquelins', as six years later Kurtz and his fellow workers in CSICOP had to confess. Among those who had participated in the deception were distinguished American scientists such as George Abell, Professor of Astronomy at the University of California; the well-known science writer Martin Gardner; the magician Randi; and others. Yet in their embarrassment at finding their preconceptions upset they had permitted what in effect was a smear on the Gauquelins, by pretending their work had been discredited.

They were not the only scientists to react in this way. Investigators in Belgium were caught out in a similar project, and when it, too, confirmed the Gauquelins' findings, behaved in the same disgraceful fashion. The first lesson from the affair has been that orthodox scientists can become so faithful to the creed which they have embraced that they look upon it as a faith, to be protected at all costs, even to the point of behaving unscientifically; the second, that the Gauquelins' methods and their findings have survived close and hostile scientific scrutiny. As Peter Roberts is careful to stress, their work does not lend support to a great deal which passes for astrology; but it does confirm that there are influences which are sufficiently pervasive and consistent to justify the development of the beliefs, all those millennia ago, even if some of the accretions to them lack confirmation. But The Message of Astrology does much more than set out the findings of the Gauquelins and others. It manages to present them in a form that allows them to be fitted into science, as science is now itself developing, moving away from materialism towards a new form of vitalism.

The Message of Astrology, in other words, performs a dual function. It provides an introduction to astrology, with particular emphasis on recent findings and how they qualify old beliefs; and it sets the evidence in its scientific context, relating it to the theories of, for example, the biologist Rupert Sheldrake and the physicist David Bohm. Some of it will not be easy reading for anybody who, like myself, becomes glassy-eyed when required to absorb technicalities; but I have no doubt that Peter Roberts was justified in confronting us with them, and in general his commentary is admirably readable. Diffidently, I would like to make one small point on behalf of those who, like me, read newspaper and magazine horoscopes if they happen to catch our eye. Agreed, this is not astrology; in so far as it pretends to be, it could be brought up on a charge of misrepresentation. But, just occasionally, I find it works on the same principle that some Christians accept: When uncertain what course to follow, they open their Bibles at random and stick a forefinger on a paragraph, to see if the words bring guidance. It's not whether the guidance is correct that matters, but whether it rings a bell! - Brian Inglis.

The Message of Astrology, published by the Aquarian Press in January 1990, is subtitled The New Vitalism and What It Means for Our Future. The Press release states that Peter Roberts is an accomplished research scientist, currently visiting professor in the Department of Systems Science at City University, London. He has had a lifelong interest in astrological research, and worked closely with John Addey for many years.

The book will appeal to many readers, especially those of a scientific bent of mind.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock,

29th January 1991.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., Australia, 2785.

Annual Subscription Australia $15, Overseas $A20.

Issue 111 October 1990

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

THE MIDDLE EAST SITUATION

Attention is still focussed on the Middle East where President Saddam Hussein has responded to his favourable November Aspects (See Astrologers' Forum 108/109, page 6) by simply offering freedom to a large number of hostages, instead of attempting a compromise solution to the whole situation. So the threat of a shooting war still remains.

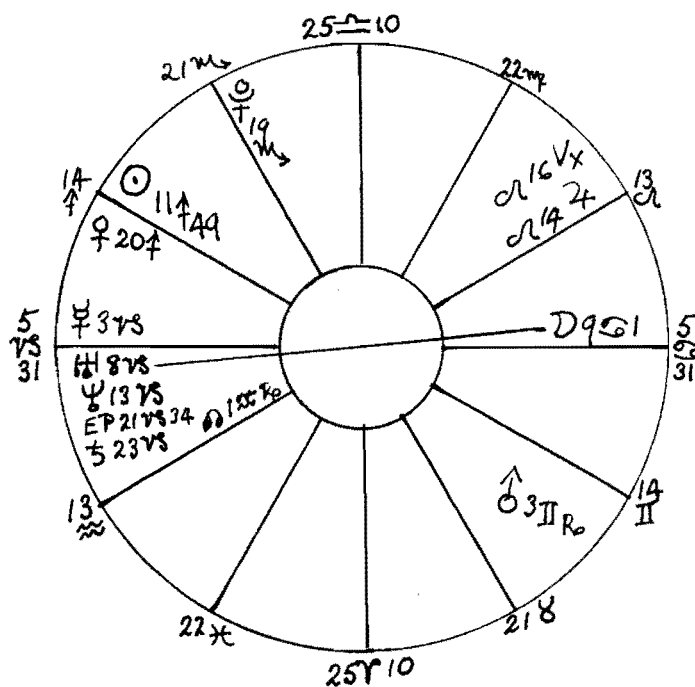

What are the probabilities in the near future? In spite of the fulminations by President Bush and Prime Minister Thatcher the Iraqi Chart does not give positive indications of open hostilities within the next few months. True, there are some relatively dangerous Progressions, but none that appears to warrant a prediction of war. Surely we should have to see a powerful configuration involving MARS. When Saddam invaded Kuwait on the 2nd of August this year the Moon and Mars were conjoined in his Progressed Chart, the conjunction being accurately timed to 1st August. This was open warfare, with shooting and killing, but on a miniscule scale compared with what we could expect in the event of a conflict between Iraq and the Allied Powers. So my reasoning is that for such a holocaust we should see in the Progressions or Cyclic Charts MARS (war) configured with, probably, PLUTO (mass effects), and SATURN (misery and hardship).

A sensitive period in the near future is mid-December, when the Progressed Moon/Mars Midpoint conjuncts Mars in Saddam's Chart, stimulating the martial element in his consciousness. This aspect stands even without an accurate birth time for Saddam, and it will surely be an edgy period. But is it enough to provoke a large-scale conflict? I think not. Saddam's Monthly Synodic Chart operating from 4th December to 2nd January 1991, has Uranus, Neptune and Saturn rising, the first two bodies being opposed to the Moon just above the 7th Cusp. This strongly suggests that Hussein is in a phase of mental and emotional instability, uncertain what to do. Left to himself, he could quite easily go off at a tangent, but the Sun in the 12th House trine to Jupiter gives him the benefit

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The Middle East Situation	1
Saddam: Monthly Synodic Chart for December 1990	1
for January 1991	2
Iraq: Monthly Synodic Chart	2
Solar Eclipse 15 January 1991	3
P.M. Thatcher Resigns	3
Thatcher's Synodic Return	3
Use of the Minor Aspects	4
The British Conservative Party	4

SADDAM HUSSEIN: MONTH SYNODIC RETURN
Operating 4 Dec.1990 to 2 Jan.1991
UT 5:47:19, 4 Dec.1990, 34N36, 43E42.
Placidian Cusps.

of good advisers, who no doubt see that war could result in the virtual destruction of Iraq. Mars in this Chart falls just below the Ascendant of his Birth Horoscope, in opposition to Natal Moon and Mars. This will no doubt coincide with military manoeuvres and a threatening stance, but it does not look sufficiently violent to mark the opening of hostilities.

SOLAR ECLIPSE 15 JAN. 1991, 23:50 UT.
Set for Baghdad, 33N21, 44E25. Placidus.

arise from the blockade of the allied Powers.

The Eclipse falls in the 7th House of Iraq's National Horoscope (see Astrologers' Forum, July/August Issue) in almost exact square to Natal Mars (orb only 3'). This points up the continuing influence of the War-God, Mars. The Natal Moon's Node and Jupiter form the third apex of a T-Square, the whole configuration depicting the powerful hostile forces arrayed against Iraq. Again, however, the configurations do not seem sufficient to start a major war.

PRIME MINISTER THATCHER RESIGNS

The big news of the week is the resignation of Margaret Thatcher from the leadership of the Conservative Party, after directing the affairs of the Nation for more than eleven years. Mrs Thatcher remains in office until a successor is elected during the present week (last week of November). Margaret Thatcher was generally recognized as a truly remarkable woman, whether or not one agreed with her politics. Her Natal Horoscope is reproduced below.

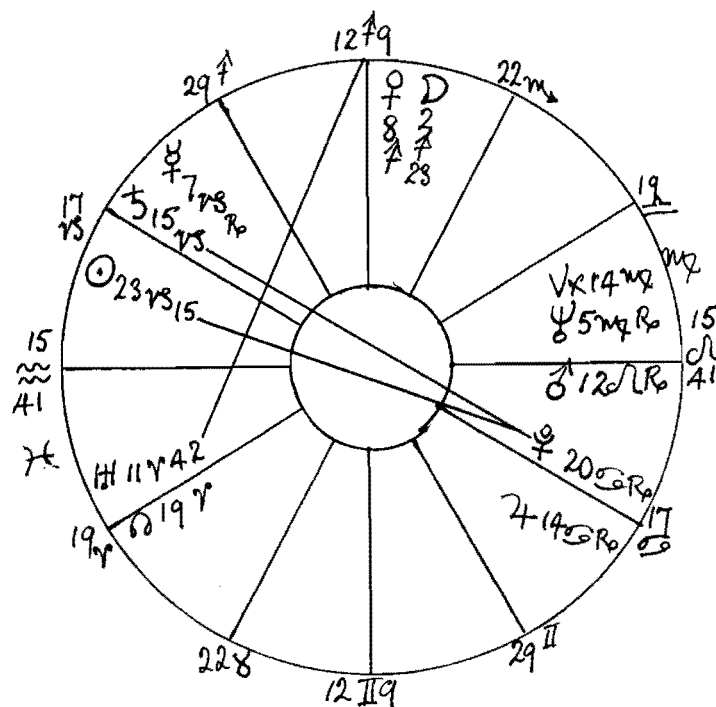

Study of this Chart should reassure anybody who still labours under the delusion that Oppositions and Squares are a bar to progress and achievement. Scorpio rises (strength and fortitude) with Saturn just above the Horizon (ambition, industry and perseverance). Saturn is further strengthened by the close trine from the Planet of Power and Drama, Pluto. The Sun in Libra is the apex of a T-Square with Pluto and Jupiter, and herein lies one of those apparent paradoxes that frequently occur in astrology. Libra is the Sign above all that signifies the native's ability to compromise, while Scorpio and Pluto are the direct antithesis in this respect. This particular "paradox" is relatively easy to resolve, as the abundant Scorpio-Plutonian influence here far outweighs the mild and yielding quality of Libra. Of course, the Libran characteristics were present in other respects - impartiality, strict sense of honour, good taste, love of beauty, order and harmony, etc.

Margaret Thatcher's lack of compromise was her undoing. It is reported that even her close colleagues finally turned against her on this issue. Mrs. Thatcher must have felt it as a betrayal, for earlier they had warmly applauded her in Parliament. Astrologically, the event was signalled on the exact day - 22nd November - by the Progressed MC at 12° 52' 23" ^{Scorpio} ~~Scorpio~~ ^{conjunction} the Midpoint Neptune/Node, 12° 52' 23". In Rules for Planetary-Pictures, The Astrology of Tomorrow, Witte and Lefeldt say of this, To see oneself disappointed and deceived in one's connections. To feel deserted by all - a remarkably accurate reading.

Here is Margaret Thatcher's Synodic Return Chart for the year covering her resignation.

Margaret Thatcher: SYNODIC RETURN 65
Operative 13 Oct. 1990 to 13 Oct. 1991
Ephemeris 14 Jan. 1931, UT 9:13:45 am
Grantham, England. 52N55, 0W39. Placidus

The Sun, ruling the House of Partners and Adversaries is located in the House of Self-Undoing and Suffering, and is opposed by Pluto. Mars, retrograde in the 7th and opposite the Ascendant tells of the opposition the Prime Minister encountered from her own Party. Mars and Pluto both ruling the 9th House show that the opposition arose from disagreement with her foreign policy. Astrologers who still cling to the belief that the Cusps of the Houses indicate their boundaries would here mistakenly put Mars in the 6th House. The Cusps are not the boundaries but the strongest position in the House. The boundaries are located away from the Cusps, one House merging into another in a sort of wave motion, as the late John Addey maintained.

When we refer the Synodic Chart to the Natus we find Synodic Neptune, 5Vir25, retrograde (therefore more powerful), conjunct the Midheaven. This is typical of resigning one's position or job, particularly as Neptune is here square to the Moon and Venus at 2Sag23 and 7Sag58 respectively. Sic transit gloria mundi. - Dymock.

From ELVA HOWSON (Vic.):

In regard to the Rectification Method using the Secondary Progressed Moon, the question has been raised on the utilization of the minor aspects, 72°, 108°, 40° and 51°26'.

These were included in the method solely because observation showed they were essential in finding applicable planetary contacts, not because we wanted to complicate the method by their inclusion.

Our basis of investigation into a valid rectification method was to find what worked or contributed to produce a close-to-correct birth time regardless of how simple or complex it may be and, as any astrologer who has been prepared to seriously devote a great deal of time and effort into any project will know, we often find what we don't expect or, conversely, do not find what we do expect, and it is from such in-depth investigations that we learn to sift the theoretical from facts.

Astrology as is practised to date still has many flaws and misconceptions in both standard techniques and their application.

The following topical example illustrates our findings: PRINCE CHARLES broke his arm in a fall on 29th June this year. A surgical bone graft followed, hip to arm, on 1ST SEPTEMBER, both requiring hospitalization and anaesthetics. The Secondary Progressions operative during the second half of 1990 were: Mercury tredecile r.Moon 18 June 1990, Ascendant novile r.Neptune, 28 June 1990, Venus semisquare p.Mars 20 August 1990, Mars semisextile r.Vertex 29 Aug 1990, Vertex quincunx r.Saturn 1 October 1990, Vertex opposite r.Ascendant 11 November 1990.

The Progressed Moon for the months June to October formed the following aspects: Moon quintile p.Ascendant, square r. and p.Pluto, semisextile r.Venus, quintile r. and p. Saturn, septile p.Jupiter, novile r.Jupiter, semisquare p.Sun. The partile times of these Moon contacts would be used in the rectification method, and it can readily be seen that without the inclusion of the minor aspects the correct and suitable symbolism would not have been sufficiently in evidence.

A new copy of Recent Advances is available from Elva Howson at the bargain price of $25. Send to 54 Belar Avenue, Frankston. Vic. 3199.

The British Conservative Party

Thanks to the research and industry of historian Nick Campion (The Book of World Horoscopes) we are able to reproduce here a Chart for the inception in 1867 of the British Conservative Party. Judging by the nature of the Conservative Party and of recent events the Chart does seem to be valid.

THE BRITISH CONSERVATIVE PARTY

12 November 1867, 12 noon, Local Mean Time.
London, 51N30, 0W10. Placidian Cusps.

One could not imagine a more appropriate Rising Sign than CAPRICORN for a Party dedicated to upholding traditional values. The Ruler, Saturn, conjunct the Midheaven and the Sun, accords with its powerful and lasting influence in the United Kingdom.

The Progressions are interesting in the light of recent events. I propose to analyse them in the next Issue, which should follow this one very soon.

My kind regards to all. Dymock,
5 December 1990.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $15, Australia; $A20, Overseas.

Issue 110 September 1990.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

The main event on the world scene this month is the re-unification of East and West Germany at midnight on the 3rd of October. This may be considered the re-birth of the German Nation, and a Chart for its inception should give us true indications of things to come.

GERMAN RE-UNIFICATION

3rd October 1990 at midnight. UT 2300-hrs.
Berlin 52N30, 13E22. Placidian Cusps.

Jupiter just below the Ascendant, trine to the Moon and sextile to the Sun, is a happy augury for the health, development and expansion of the new Germany. It should also hearten those who fear that a united and resurgent Germany will once again embark on a career of conquest, as did the Third Reich under Adolf Hitler. This is a Chart of peaceful growth and prosperity, not only because of beneficent Jupiter rising in aspect to both the Moon and the Sun, but also because of the gentle influence of the Sun conjunct Venus in its home Sign, Libra.

However, the reborn Nation is not without domestic difficulties: Neptune, Saturn and Uranus in the 6th Sector show dissatisfaction, indigence and strikes among the

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
German Re-unification	1
The Third Reich	1
Using Progressed Solar Aspects to Find an Unknown Birth Time	2

workforce, made the more prominent through the squares of Neptune and Uranus to the Sun. Dissension among the populace is shown by the Moon square to Uranus and opposite Venus. Nevertheless, growth and prosperity will be achieved through energy and enterprise, Mars ruling the 10th House being in close trine to the Sun ruling the 2nd (the Nation's income).

The contrast of this Chart with that of the Third Reich founded by Adolf Hitler in 1933 is quite striking. Nicholas Campion gives the data for the Third Reich in his The Book of World Horoscopes, though the Chart has been erroneously printed for the 30th January 1933. Berlin, 52N30, 13E22.

GERMANY: THIRD REICH

Placidian Cusps.

31st January 1933 instead of the 30th January.

Without analysing the Chart in detail we see, instead of the peaceful influences of the Reunification Figure, the interconnection of the planets Mars, Pluto and Uranus, spelling ruthless violence and cruelty. Pluto at the direct Midpoint of Mars and the Ascendant also signifies violence and the will to dominate, while the Sun conjunct Saturn Ruling the 10th House typifies worldly ambition.

The Third Reich lasted for only 12 years instead of the 1000 years that Hitler had predicted. The seeds of its disintegration can be seen in the opposition of Pluto to Venus, Ruler of the Ascendant, the opposition lying alongside the Meridian. Germany was defeated on the 23rd of May 1945, and in the Age Harmonic Chart for that year (No. 12) we see this Natal opposition again featured, being alongside the Meridian of the Age Harmonic Chart, and even closer than before.

What of the future for the new Germany? There are a number of important Progressions and Directions coming up within the next six years: In February 1992 the Progressed Sun squares Neptune, which will heighten the dissatisfaction of the labour force. In November of the same year the Sun progresses to the exact trine of Mars, so we can expect a major effort and a great step forward at this time. Germany will increase its trade, income and prestige in the world. The Ascendant progresses to a parallel of Jupiter in March 1994, and conjoins that planet in July 1996. This will coincide with an era of unprecedented growth and prosperity.

A Method for Finding an Unknown Birth Time by Ross Harvey

This method is based on Secondary Progressions and Regressions of the Sun, whereas the method by Jack Nicholls and others published in Astrologers' Forum 108/9 used the Moon. In many respects, however, this method resembles its predecessor, except that I do not advocate using running totals as in that method. I should acknowledge that the idea for this method was given to me by a remark of Ken Gillman's in a letter to Jack Nicholls concerning a chart on which we had all worked. This method seems to be the simplest, quickest and most reliable yet. In particular, it practically guarantees that the first average time will enable one on every occasion to find the correct part of the day for the birth to within a couple of hours, something that neither my Solar Return Method nor the Progressed Lunar Method can be relied on to do, while the corrected mean will usually be within half an hour or less of the birth time. The great advantage over my Solar Return technique is that one does not need to know everything of importance that happened in every year under consideration. If in my technique one is not told of an event that may be different in nature from the event mentioned, one could reject indications that may be appropriate after all, for example, if only a death is mentioned, and a concurrent love affair is not, one would wrongly reject a Moon/Venus conjunction.

The advantage over the Progressed Lunar Technique is that one is not overwhelmed by the great number of minor progressed aspects, nor does one have any difficulty in deciding in which part of the day the time lies.

METHOD

1. Calculate the positions of the Radical planets, but not the Moon, as if the birth were at noon, local time.
2. See if the Sun makes any aspects to Progressed/Regressed or Radical planets on the Progressed and Regressed dates corresponding to the native's age when given events happened. Use all traditional major and minor aspects, though I do not advocate using Quintiles or Septiles. Ignore only those aspects that are obviously symbolically inappropriate, for example, p.Sun conjunct Jupiter is inappropriate for a death under normal circumstances, p.Sun conjunct Saturn for a career advancement, though they could be appropriate for some event that may not have been mentioned for some reason, but one cannot know this, so simply leave them out.
3. For an age when the Progressed/Regressed Sun makes such an aspect, calculate the Progressed/Regressed position of the Sun for a birth time of 00-hours local time, and add the Sun's daily travel on the Progressed date to this position to find the Sun's Progressed/Regressed position for a 24-hour birth time. As one will be using a calculator it is easier to keep all positions in decimals to five decimal places, rather than to convert to degrees, minutes and seconds. Find the positions of all Progressed/Regressed planets as if the birth time were noon local time.
4. Calculate the fraction of the Sun's daily travel that corresponds to the time after the birthday when the event took place, for example, if the birthday is the 10th of April, and the event took place on the 23rd of September, that is, 166 days after the birthday, the fraction is $166/365$, or 0.45479 of the Sun's daily travel. Suppose the Progressed Sun's daily travel is 0.96944° (on the 2nd of May), multiply this by 0.45479 to get 0.44089° , and add this to both the 00-hours and the 24-hours positions of the Progressed Sun on the date of the event. Remember to subtract this increment from both the 00-hours and 24-hours positions of the Sun when dealing with Regressions.

5. Suppose that the Progressed Sun's positions are 11.70089° Taurus and 12.67033° Taurus, and a Radical planet were at 12.2° Virgo. The Progressed Sun would have been exactly trine this for a birth time of $[(12.2 - 11.70089)/0.96944] \times 24$

that is, 12.21-hours local time.

6. Do this for every event for which aspects of the Progressed or Regressed Sun can be found. Count all times in a range from -6-hours to +30-hours.

7. Average all the times obtained to find the first mean. This will be the birth time to within a couple of hours.

8. Use this approximate birth time to re-calculate the positions of all Radical and Progressed/Regressed planets that have been used in finding aspect times, as obviously the birth time will most likely not have been noon, as one had been forced to assume at first.

9. Re-calculate all the times using the more accurate positions of the planets and average them again.

10. See if any times vary extremely from the mean, say fourteen or fifteen hours; delete them and average those that remain. This corrected mean will be the approximate birth time, usually to within half an hour.

11. One can then use the Nicholls Solar Return technique on a range of $1\frac{1}{2}$ hours to find the time to a couple of minutes.

A worked example of the method is given below. One should pay particular attention to the time of appropriate major Progressed and Regressed aspects. If more than one of these have times that fall within a range of two to three hours, it is very likely that the birth time can be found within that range. This will give a clue to the time, and will save a lot of work. One should also be very careful about similar events that are timed to within a couple of months, especially if there are several within a year, and none is obviously more important than the others. In such a case a Progressed aspect falling at about that time could relate to any of them, and if one were to include all the resulting times, several spurious times would be introduced into the total to be averaged, and consequently make the first mean much less accurate. If one such event cannot be singled out as being the most important by far it is better to ignore the lot.

Finally, I hardly need to point out that, but for the prior example of Jack Nicholls' technique, this method would not have seen the light of day.

EXAMPLE: Male born 14th June 1948
at 33848, 151E13

AEST is GMT + 10 hours, so 0000 to 2400-hours AEST on the 14th is equivalent to 1400-hours GMT on the 13th to 1400-hours GMT on the 14th.

The first event available is the death of the native's father on the 21st July 1966. I shall work through this fully so that there may be no doubt about the procedure. The native was eighteen years old, so count forward 18 days from the 13th June 1948 to arrive at 1st July 1948. Find the Sun's position at 14-hours GMT on this day, which is 9.60683° Cancer, and then the daily travel, which is 0.95361° . The event took place 37 days after the birthday, so multiply the Sun's daily travel by $37/365$, that is $(.95361 \times 37)/365$, to get 0.09666° , and add this to the Sun's position at 0000-hours on the birthday (9.60683° Cancer) to get 9.70350° Cancer. This is the Progressed Sun's position on the day of the native's father's death for a birth time of 0000-hours. Add the Sun's daily travel to this to get the 2400-hours position, which 10.65711° Cancer. Regressed Neptune is at $10Lib13.6$ (10.22667°), and p.Neptune is at $10Lib14.6$. (Remember to calculate the Radical and Progressed positions of the planets as if the birth had been 1200-hours AEST.) p.Sun is square r.Neptune for a birth time of which is 13.10-hours. When dealing with Regressions remember to SUBTRACT the increment that corresponds to the number of days the date of the event is after the birthday. This is how to obtain the following times.

$[(10.22667 - 9.70350)/.95361] \times 24$

(NOTE: In what follows, r.= Radical, p.= Progressed, re.= Regressed)

p.Sun 21/7/66 (father's death)
9.70350Cn to 10.65711Cn	Time
Square r.Neptune 10Lib13.6	1310
Square p.Neptune 10Lib14.6	1335

p.Sun Feb.'70 (began professional training)
13.10347Cn to 14.05736Cn
Semisextile r.Pluto 13Le6.3 0002
Semisextile p.Pluto 13Le37.1 1257

re.Sun Feb.'70
1.683296e to 2.643846e
Square re.Mars 01Vi53.6 0514
(01Vi47.2)* (0234)

*See below.

re.Sun Nov.'74 (end training; won prize)
27.11569Ta to 28.07819Ta
Quincunx re.Jupiter 27Sg16.8 0406
(27Sg18.2) (0441)

p.Sun July '75 (first career success)
18.26963Cn to 19.22324Cn
Semisextile r.Saturn 18Le32.9 0700
(18Le31.6) (0620)

re.Sun July '75
26.47389Ta to 27.43667Ta
Semisextile r.Uranus 26Se06.0 -0919
Quincunx re.Jupiter 27Sg20.6 2140
(27Sg22.0) (2215)

p.Sun Jan.'76 (first professional employment)
18.74644Cn to 19.70005Cn
Semisextile r.Saturn 18Le32.9 -0502
(18Le31.6) (-0540)

re.Sun Jan.'76
25.99250Ta to 26.95528Ta
Semisextile r.Uranus 26Se06.0 0241

*At this stage I averaged all these times to get an idea of where the birth time might be, and got 0600-hours. I then re-calculated the positions of the Radical and Progressed planets for a 0600-hours birth time. The times resulting from these corrected positions are the figures in brackets. The corrected positions will be used henceforth.

p.Sun Jan.'79 (left on European trip)
21.60755Cn to 22.56116Cn
Semisextile p.Saturn 21Le42.6 0235
Semisextile r.Sun 22Se7'9" 1252

p.Sun July '84 (met future wife)
26.85389Cn to 27.80806Cn
Semisquare r.Mars 11Vi52.5 0024

re.Sun July '84
17.78750Ta to 18.75472Ta
Square r.Saturn 18Le31.3 1813

p.Sun April '86 bought flat with fiancée
28.52368Cn to 29.47785Cn
Semisextile p.Uranus 28Se16.2 -0622

re.Sun April '86
16.09451Ta to 17.06201Ta
Square re.Saturn 16Le6.4 0018

re.Sun 16/4/88 (married)
14.14963Ta to 15.11824Ta
Conjunct re.Node 14Ta12.0 0115

re.Sun Feb.'91 (baby due)
11.41134Ta to 12.38086Ta
Trine r.Mars 11Vi52.5 1129

The above aspects were ALL that could be found for the dates given. Now review the times obtained: -0919-hours is too early to be relevant, so reject it. (It is better to be too inclusive at first when compiling the list of times. One can always reject inappropriate times afterwards). re.Sun square r.Saturn for the native's meeting his wife is inappropriate, so reject that time too. re.Sun square re.Saturn for buying the flat might be doubtful, but as the native had to take out a considerable mortgage (a burden), it may be allowed. Average the times remaining to get 0612-hours. This should be within half an hour or better of the birth time, which was given as "approximately 0615-hours AEST".

While it is encouraging to see that the final mean was so close to the true time, this cannot unfortunately always be relied on. One is always at the mercy of the quality of information provided. Twelve events may give one a fighting chance, if Progressed/Regressed Solar Aspects can be found for all of them, but one may not be so lucky. More than twenty events are really always needed, dated to at least the correct month, to give a reasonable chance. A further possible source of error that I did not mention before is when times are derived from aspects to both the Radical and Progressed positions of an outer planet for the same event. These times can be up to 24 hours or so apart, and obviously they cannot both be right. If there are several such pairs of times, one should try to decide which - the earlier or the later in every case - is appropriate, and reject the other time in each pair; otherwise spurious times that differ by very many hours from the true time will be introduced into the total to be averaged, with consequent inaccuracy of the final mean.

The time limits I gave in the description of the method should be regarded as a suggestion rather than a rigid prescription. One should always try to assess the applicability of a particular aspect to the event to which it is likely to be timed, remembering, too, that major events in a person's life rarely happen out of the blue, but may take months to plan or develop. Even if an event were sudden and unexpected, its effects may last for months afterwards, hence my suggestion that only times that differ markedly from the mean should be regarded as suspect. Time orbs for Progressed Solar aspects are naturally much wider than those for Progressed Lunar aspects because the Moon moves so much faster than the Sun, hence the different approach from the Lunar Rectification technique.

The next Astrology Workshop will deal with Midpoint Progressions, A Fatality Chart and Monthly Synodic Charts.

Date: Sunday, 21st October, 10am - 1pm.

Venue: 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath (off Govetts Leap Road).

Tel: (0471) 87 8874.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock,
9th October 1990.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $15, Australia; $A20, Overseas.

Issues 108/109

July/August 1990.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

The Middle East Crisis

The momentous events in the Middle East claim our attention above all else at the moment. President Saddam Hussein of Iraq has set the world on edge by his invasion and annexation of the tiny State of Kuwait, and the threatened invasion of Saudi Arabia, notwithstanding that he disclaims any such intention. We are closer now to World War 3 than we have ever been since the end of World War 2 in 1945.

For an appropriate astrological commentary we should ideally have the Horoscope of Saddam Hussein himself. Such information is not available to me at the time of writing, so I must rely on the Chart for the Iraq Republic, 1958, as given in Campion's, The Book of World Horoscopes. This Chart appears on the next page.

A nation attracts as head of State the type of person represented by the planetary configurations in the national chart. From the Chart for the Iraq Republic we can deduce some of the characteristics of Saddam Hussein. The Sun on the Ascendant square to both Mars and Jupiter gives pride, dignity, authority, a sense of power, arrogance, self-confidence, boldness and enterprise. Mars elevated and opposite Jupiter typifies reckless daring and a disregard of consequences.

The parallels of Declination also are quite striking: The Sun parallel Pluto and contra-parallel Saturn bespeaks power, ruthlessness and cruelty. The Sun parallel Venus ensures the leader's popularity with his own people, and Venus parallel Pluto his ability to arouse their emotional fervour.

The midpoints in the Chart are still further enlightening. Those with very small orbs are violent ones:

Saturn/Pluto conjunct Mars (orb 9'!): Ruthless brutality and violence. (This was horrifyingly demonstrated by Hussein's use of poison gas against a section of his own people - the Kurdish minority - two years ago.)

Mars/Uranus conjunct the Moon (orb 4'):

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The Middle East Crisis	1
Chart for the Iraq Republic	2
Iraq's Synodic, Age Harmonic and Solar Return Charts	3
Kuwait Independence Chart	4
Kuwait's Progressed Chart	5
President Saddam Hussein	4
Rectification Exercise No. 6	6
Method to Find an Unknown Birth Time	7

Habituated to sudden acts of violence.

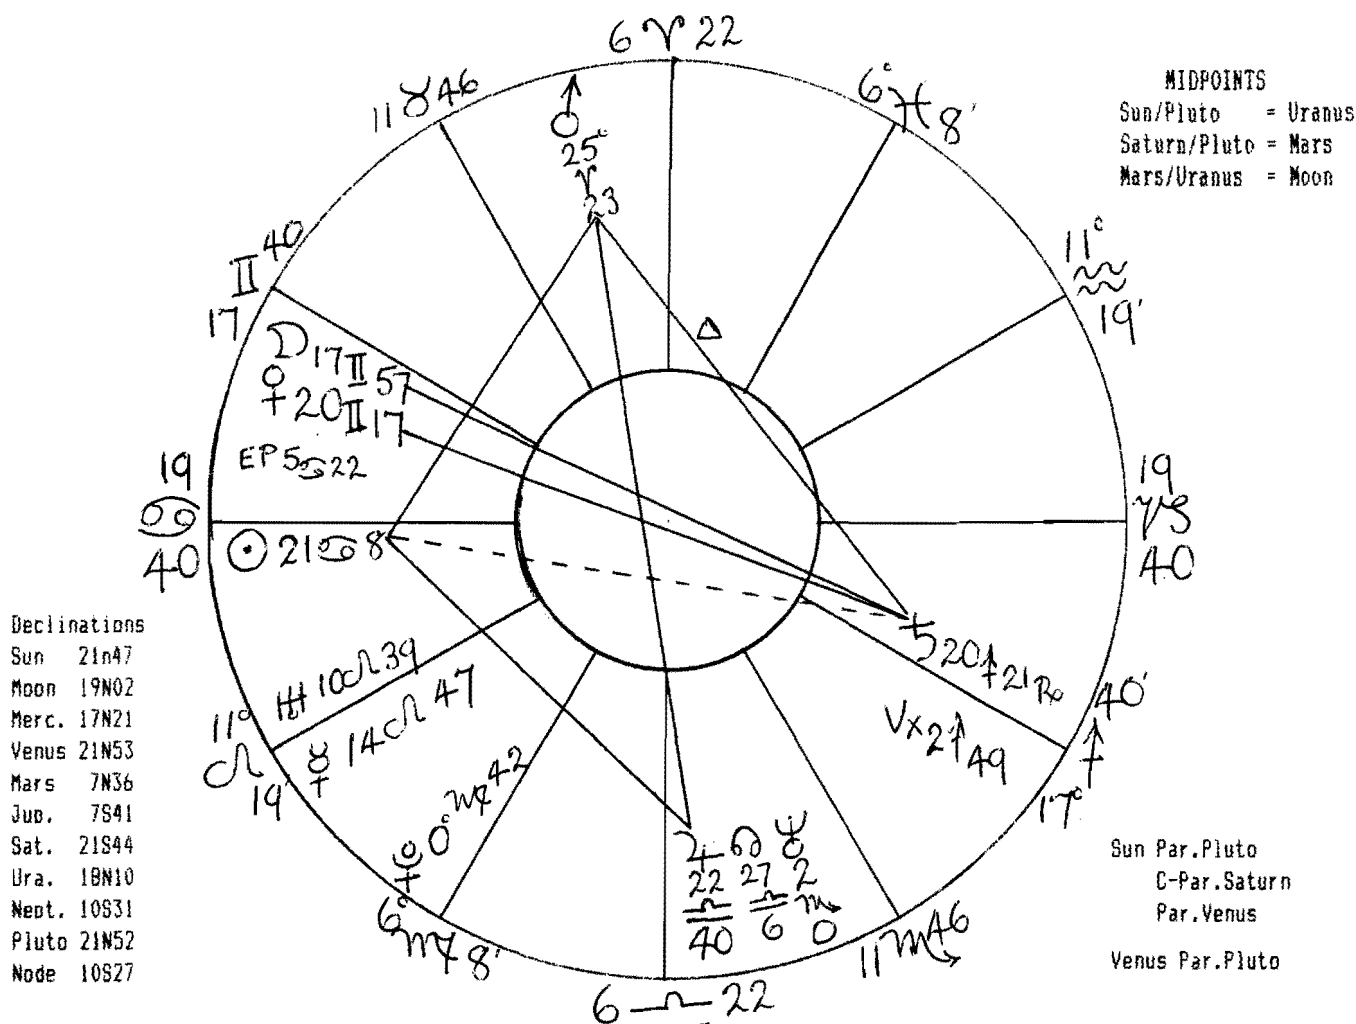

Sun/Pluto conjunct Uranus (orb 16') despotism, coercion and power-seeking.

Saddam Hussein is indeed a dangerous enemy. The elevated Mars in the T-Square that appears in the Iraqi Chart indicates a propensity to impulsive and reckless acts. Exactly on 2nd August, the date when Hussein invaded Kuwait, the Progressed Moon at 21Le40 was square the Moon/Mars midpoint at 21Ta40. This is equivalent to the Moon squaring Mars, the dominant planet in the Iraqi Chart. On 6th August the Moon and Sun were in conjunction in the Progressed Chart, indicating the commencement of a new cycle of events.

The Cyclic Charts - Synodic Return, Age Harmonic and Solar Return - are also instructive. In Synodic Return No. 32, applying to the year from 14th July 1990 to 14th July 1991, Uranus directly opposes the Sun (orb only 17') along the 9th/3rd Axis which refers to neighbouring foreign countries. The Moon, Jupiter and Saturn are clustered together in the 2nd House, showing Iraq's gain of Kuwait's wealth.

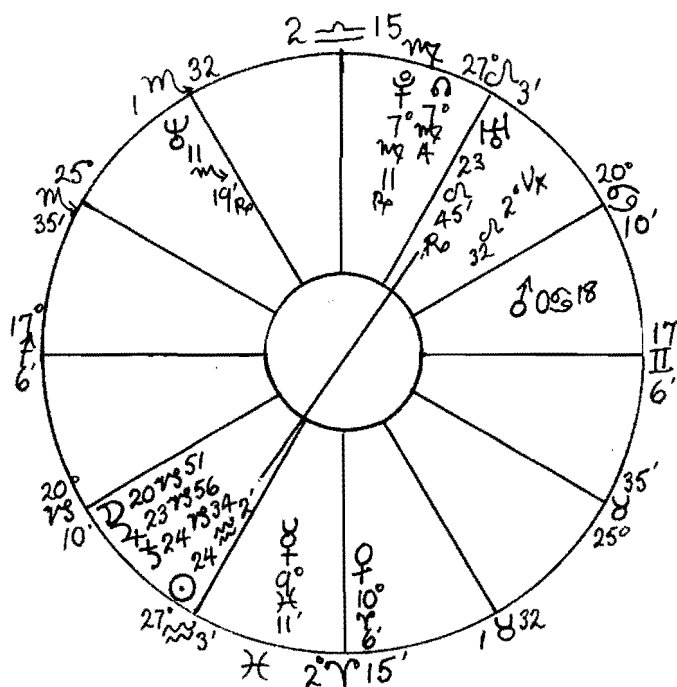

The Age Harmonic Chart for the same year has Mars opposite the Harmonic Ascendant and square Jupiter, releasing the Mars/Jupiter/-Sun energy of the Natal Chart. When the Harmonic Chart is superimposed on the Radix we see a striking reciprocal action between 14th July 1958, Baghdad, Iraq. 5 am (UT 2 am). 33N21,44E25. Placidus.

The Progressed Chart clearly shows Kuwait's loss of sovereignty (Saturn at the Midheaven opposite the Sun). The murderous

IRAQ: SYNODIC RETURN NO. 32
Operative 14/7/1990 - 14/7/1991
Ephemeris Date 12th Feb., 1961.
23:39:28 GMT. Placidian Cusps.

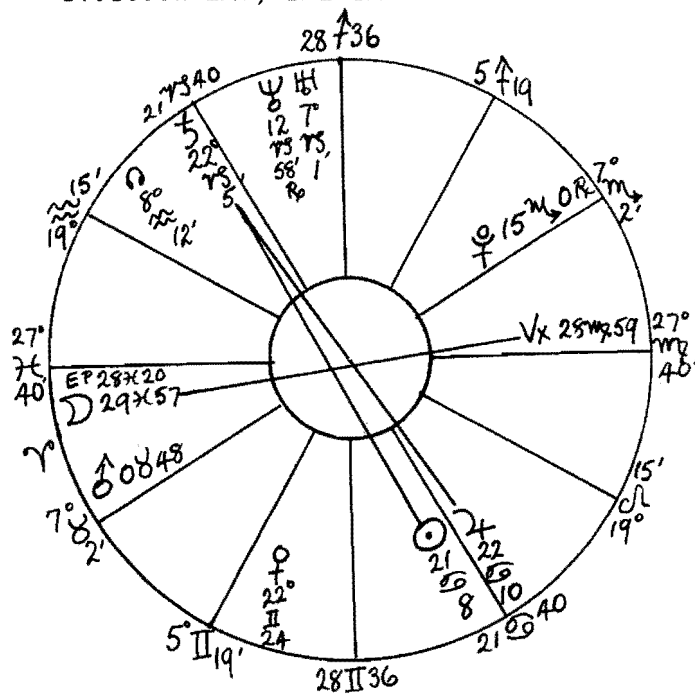

IRAQ: AGE HARMONIC 32
Operative 14/7/1990 - 14/7/1991

violation that Kuwait suffered on 2nd August at the hands of its neighbour might have been foreseen from the conjunction of Progressed Uranus with Radical Mars, an aspect notorious for its association with injuries and physical violence of all kinds. The

IRAQ: SOLAR RETURN 32, 13TH July 1990,
19:30:32 GMT, BAGHDAD. Placidus.

The conjunction was within orbs in the Radix, and became exact at the end of October 1988. It seems Kuwait was always sitting on a powder keg, just waiting for it to explode. The slow-moving Uranus will keep the influence operative over a long period of years.

The Annual Charts for the current year (Synodic, Age Harmonic and Solar Return) all reflect the armed invasion and the parlous situation of the Emirate. These are not printed here for reasons of space, but the Monthly Synodic Chart covering the date of the invasion is particularly apposite, and is shown combined with the Radix. Note the Radical conjunction of Mars and Uranus straddling the Midheaven, signifying violent overthrow of the Kingdom. Supporting factors are Pluto just above the Horizon, opposed by Mars and Venus: Pluto, The Destroyer, destroys peace (Venus) and wages war (Mars). Mars is also in a close T-Square with Radical Jupiter and Neptune.

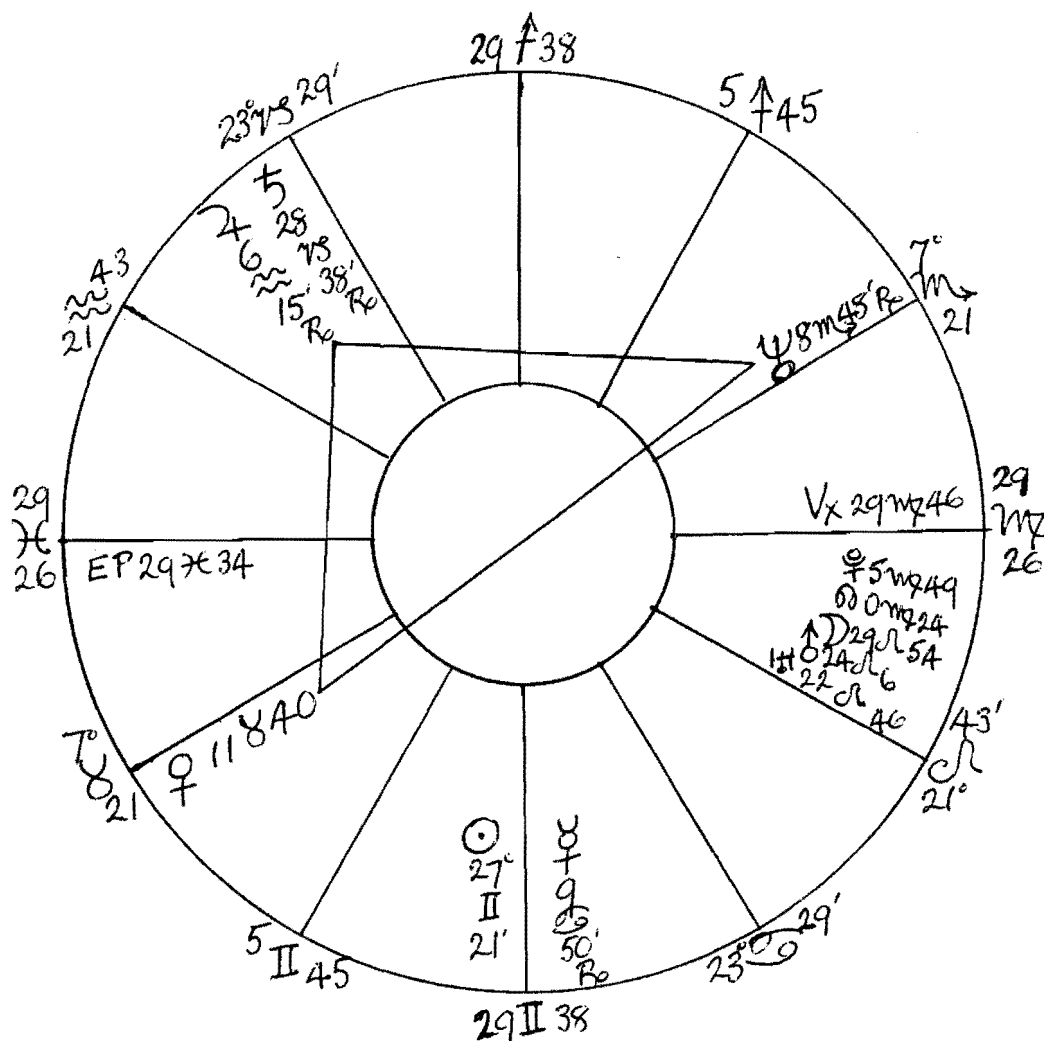

From the astrological angle, the outlook for Kuwait is not good. Major Secondary Progressions and Naibod-Arc Directions for the next two years are the following:

1990 November: MC conjunct Saturn
December: Saturn conjunct MC

1991 January: Ascendant square Saturn

KUWAIT INDEPENDENCE 1961

19th June 1961, Kuwait. 29N30, 47E45
12 am Local Time (GMT 9pm on 18th June). Placidian Cusps.

February: Pluto contra-parallel p.MC
April: Sun contra-parallel p.Saturn
June: Jupiter opposite Pluto
November: MC (by Solar-Arc) conjunct Saturn

1992 January: Sun opposite p.Saturn
June: Sun parallel p.Pluto
MC parallel Saturn

None of the above promises any joy to the deposed Emir, rather the reverse.

it is wrong it will not invalidate the inter-planetary aspects, only those involving the Angles. As it happens, even these are highly pertinent to the timing of recent events.

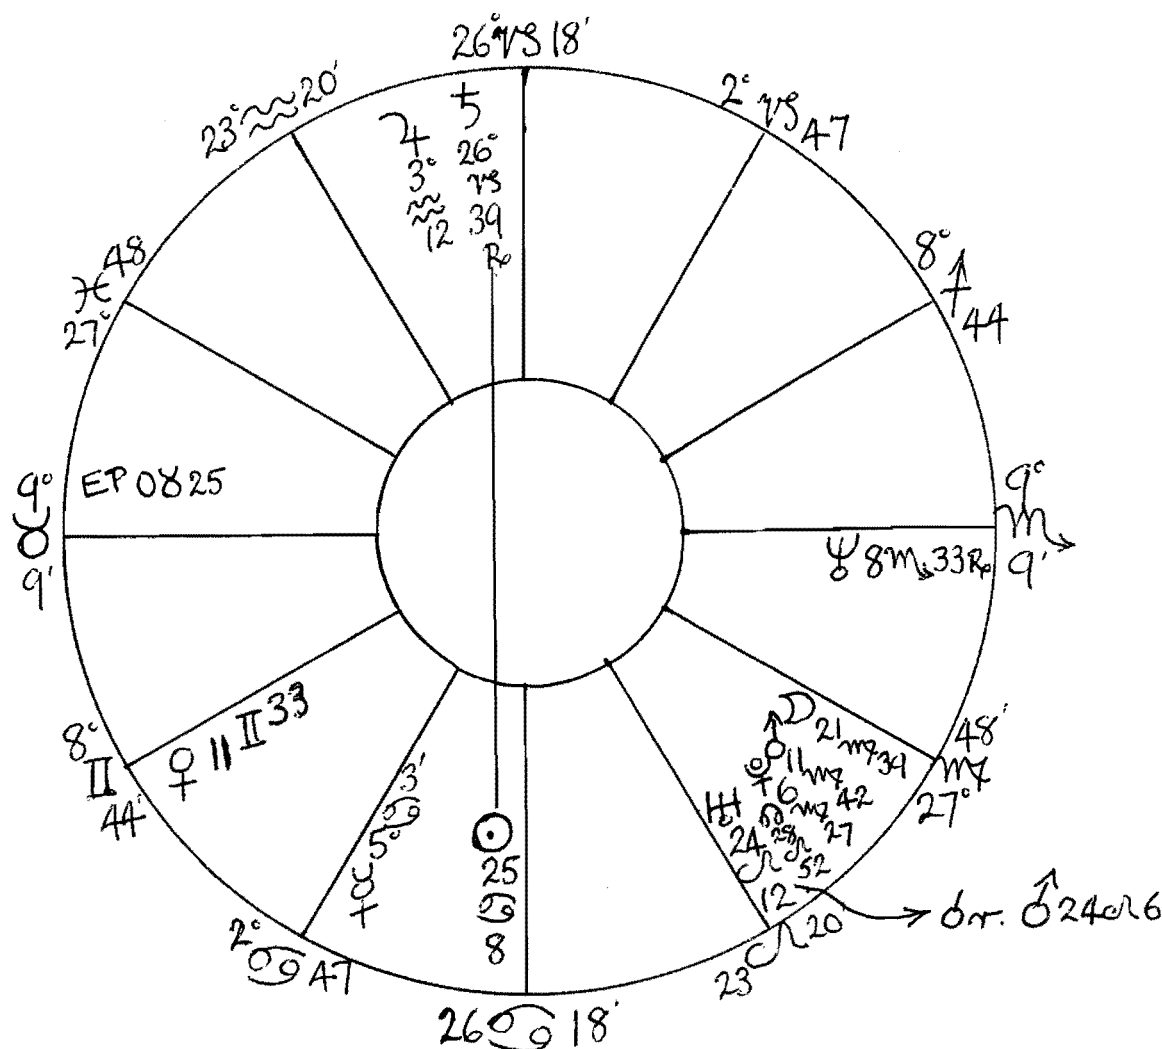

In Hussein's Chart, one's attention is drawn immediately to the two powerful conjunctions - Uranus with the Sun and the Moon with Mars. The Sun/Uranus conjunction is reinforced by the two bodies being in parallel of Declination (orb 15'). The Moon/Mars conjunction has an orb of only 16', though it would not be so close if the birth time was widely different from 6:30 am. These two conjunctions bespeak a man of revolutionary spirit, self-will and unpredictable actions, a creature of impulse and belligerence. Jupiter elevated in Capricorn trine Mercury on the Ascendant reveals diplomatic skill, while Jupiter's close opposition to Pluto shows big ideas,

SADDAM HUSSEIN

NAREME COLLINS (VIC.) has now supplied me with the birth date and place for President Saddam Hussein, data that Nareme obtained through her own efforts. The hour, unfortunately, is not known, but I have set the Horoscope for 6:30 am, having regard to Hussein's current Progressions and Cyclic Charts. Though the time is speculative, if the fanatical pursuit of aims, and exploitation of the masses.

KUWAIT: PROGRESSED CHART 2ND AUG. 1990

Ephemeris Date 17th July 1961, at 23:52:10 GMT

The Midpoint aspects in Hussein's Chart are consistent with those discussed in relation to the National Chart of Iraq. Disregarding those involving the Midheaven and Ascendant, which cannot be relied on due to the uncertain birth time, we have:

Saturn conjunct Mars/Pluto (orb 9'), and Moon/Pluto (orb 17'): Toughness, coercion, brutality. A forceful and determined character capable of cruelty.

North Node conjunct Sun/Pluto: The craving for rulership, fanatical aspirations, the power of attainment and the attainment of power.

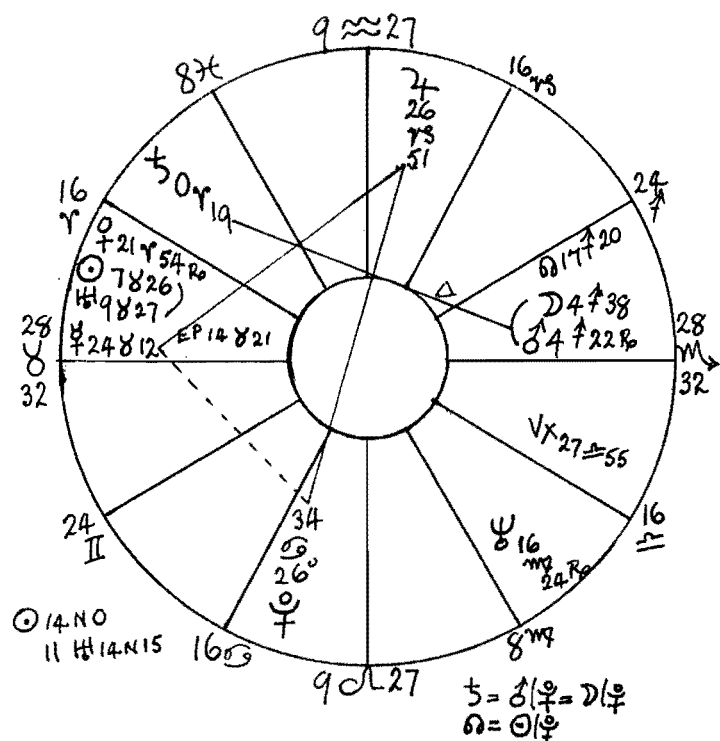

If 6:30am is somewhere near to the correct birth time we have also the Ascendant conjunct Saturn/Pluto and the Midheaven conjunct Saturn/Node and square Sun/Uranus, all of which reinforce the foregoing.

The Moon and Mars that are so prominent in Hussein's Horoscope demonstrated their power on August 1st, when they came to an exact conjunction in his Progressed Chart. The very next day he invaded Kuwait. In Hussein's Synodic Chart for the current year, the Natal Moon/Mars conjunction in the 5th degree of Sagittarius is exactly on the Synodic Ascendant, also in the 5th Degree of Sagittarius, and is opposed by Uranus in the 1st degree of Gemini. In the last few days of July and early August, Mars conjoined Natal Jupiter by Naibod Direction. This conjunction is associated with successful enterprise so, if Hussein is getting astrological advice, it is no coincidence that he chose this time for his conquest of Kuwait.

In Hussein's Harmonic Chart for his current age of 53, Harmonic Pluto is at 28Tau2, conjunct his Natal Ascendant in the Speculative Radix. Pluto also conjoins Natal Mercury and trines Natal Jupiter in the 9th House.

PRESIDENT SADDAM HUSSEIN OF IRAQ
28th April 1937, Tikrit, Iraq 34N36, 43E42.
Speculative time 6:30am. Placidian Cusps.

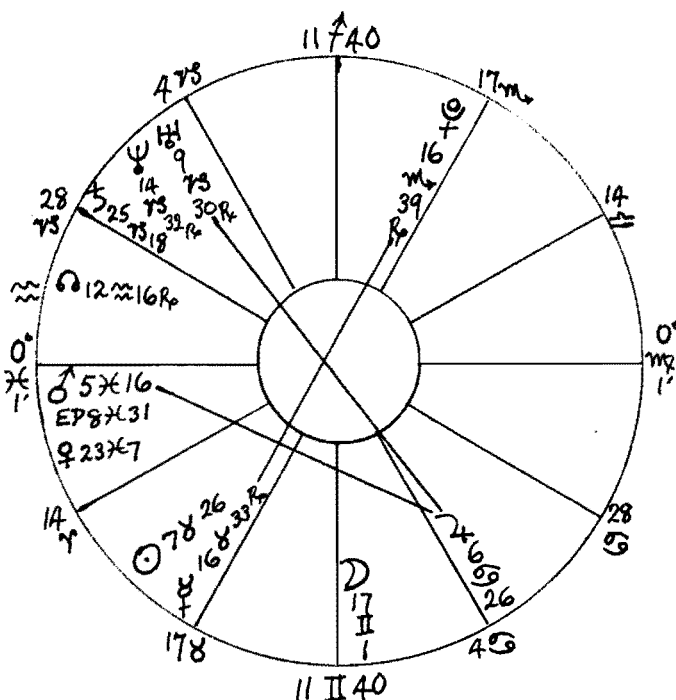

This trio of Pluto, Mercury and Jupiter is indicative of the propaganda and war of nerves Hussein levelled against Kuwait in the months prior to the invasion.

Hussein's current Solar Return (see Chart) is also indicative of the series of events: Mars on the Ascendant, trine to Jupiter in the 5th, signifies a bold stroke that succeeds. Pluto opposite Mercury almost exactly on the 9th/3rd Axis is again indicative of the psychological pressure exerted against the neighbouring country of Kuwait. It is notable that the Midheaven of this Solar Return, 11 Sag 40, conjoins Natal Jupiter at 12 Sag 57, in the House of Adversaries, again indicative of Hussein's successful coup - Kuwait was overrun and occupied within a day, and "annexed" a very short time later.

So what of the future? Will there be peace or an unthinkable third world war? Hussein has made a monumental miscalculation in assessing the probable reaction of the rest of the world to his Kuwait adventure. He is probably appalled at the forces now arrayed against him, yet he has got himself into a position where he cannot easily back down without serious loss of face. Hussein is no fool, and realizes that any shooting war would be disastrous for him and for Iraq, whatever retaliatory damage he could inflict on the enemy. The mass of his people, not yet recovered from 8 years of exhausting and traumatic struggle against Iran, must shrink with horror and revulsion from the prospect of further military involvement in a war they cannot possibly win.

SADDAM HUSSEIN: SOLAR RETURN 53
at Birth Place, Tikrit. Placidian Cusps.

Hussein's problem, therefore, is to hold on to the territory he has gained while retaining his popularity with his people and not provoking a shooting war. The nearest point in the immediate future that holds some chance of this is in November when Hussein's monthly Synodic Chart has Jupiter rising at 12 Le 34 in close square to the Sun at 12 Sc 8 and Venus at 12 Sc 57, the square being less important than the bodies involved. I interpret this as an opportunity for Hussein to reach a compromise settlement not unfavourable to himself, and without loss of prestige among his own people. Assisting factors are Regressed Jupiter trine Regressed Vertex, and Progressed Venus trine the Node/MC Midpoint around November 12. - Dymock.

Rectification Exercise No. 6

JACK NICHOLLS reports that there were four entries to the above Exercise:

1. An overseas entrant interested in Medical Astrology, who was attracted by the health synopsis for the subject, estimated the birth time as 0010 hrs UT. There were no details of the method used.
2. An estimate of 2316 hrs UT. The health profile was the basis of a choice of Saturn on the 6th Cusp, or Saturn in Scorpio in the 6th House. Physical appearance suggested a Leo Ascendant. Transits were also used.
3. The rising Sign was calculated using the Diurnal Horoscope for selected events in conjunction with aspects formed on a day related to conception. Final corrections by Naibod-Arc Directions, yielding a time of 2310 hrs UT.

4. Ross Harvey estimated 0604 hrs, "probably recorded as 0600 hrs UT" using his published Solar Return method. Times that were considered to be inappropriate for the events were rejected. The Angular Solar Return method was used to confirm and to establish the estimate, which was also confirmed using Age Harmonics.

The correct birth time was given as 0600 hrs UT, so Ross is to be congratulated. Patient and proper application of his method does result in success.

These Rectification Exercises are suspended for the time being, but will be resumed when more suitable data is available. Meantime, here is something you can test and try out on horoscopes where the birth time is known. Jack Nicholls would greatly appreciate receiving constructive criticism and news of researchers' experience with the method. He writes that it is the easiest and most consistent technique that he has used to date:

A Method to Find an Unknown Birth Time by Jack Nicholls, Elva Howson and
Ross Harvey

Kinetic Solar Returns have been used in a Rectification Technique (astrologers' Forum No. 105). To sharpen the distribution of times resulting from this method it was decided to work directly with the Secondary Progressions from which the KSR's derive. After several tests had already been carried out it was found that a technique using the Secondary progressed Moon had been published by Dr. Zip Dobyns in Progressions, Directions and Rectification, T.I.A. Publications 1975. However, our procedure differs significantly from that in the publication, and whereas Dr. Dobyns claimed to get within a few hours of the birth time, we expect this to be reduced considerably, often to a few minutes.

1. Obtain the Noon (Local Time) position of the Sun and planets on the birthday.

2. List at least 10, but preferably more major events, together with the subject's reaction to them. These reactions will vary. For example, the death of a family member may be a time of great sorrow, a happy release from a debilitating disease, or even a time for rejoicing at the passing of a hated tyrant.

List also a choice of planets in each case that will satisfy the correct symbolism for these reactions.

3. For each event determine the Secondary Progressed date.

4. For each event obtain the position of the Progressed bodies as though the birth occurred at 0000-hours Local Time. (A computer is a help with steps 1 and 4.)

5. From an Ephemeris obtain the daily travel of the Moon on each Progressed date. This, added to the Moon's position at 0000 hours gives the Moon's position for a 2400-hours birth time.

6. For each event determine the Secondary Moon's position as it forms aspects to Secondary or Natal planets within its range. The meaning of the aspect is not important, only the contact. The aspects used are both Traditional and "Minor" ones: Conjunction, Opposition, Square, Trine, Sextile, Quincunx (150°), Semisquare, Sesquare (135°), Quintile (72°), Septile (51°25'43") and Tredecile (108°). Since Addey's introduction of Harmonic Theory, are there any differences in dividing a circle by three to obtain a Trine, or dividing by seven to obtain a Septile? Rudolf Smit emphasised the importance of the Tredecile in his report on Prime Event Analysis. [The Novile, 40°, might also be included.—Ed.]. Allow a 1° overlap (Traditional orb for Secondaries) at each end of the Moon's Range, which translates to the day extending from -2 to 26 hours.

7. Calculate the time that each aspect between the Secondary Moon and the planets selected in Step 2 is exact. This is a simple proportion calculation best illustrated in the example below. A hand-held calculator with a sexagesimal facility is of great help with these calculations. These times are entered on a ruled sheet which has each line assigned to an hour from -2 to 26, and provides a visual display of the distribution of the times. Note the number of steps on each line.

8. Determine which 3-hour interval (three adjacent lines) has the greatest aggregate of times. The average of these times is the required estimate of the birth time.

An example will serve to clarify these steps. The subject is a male born on 14th June 1948 in Melbourne.

1. Noon positions: Sun 22Ge55, Mercury 7Cn1, Venus 8Cn46, Mars 12Vi0, Jupiter 24Sg13, Saturn 18Le33, Uranus 26Ge6, Neptune

10Li14, Pluto 13Le6, North Node 12Ta5.

2. 23/12/72. Married; attracted, but not real love: N.Node, Mars, Mercury, Venus.

14/11/75. overseas for $5\frac{1}{2}$ months; pleasure: Venus, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus.

20/10/77. Mental breakdown; moral conflict: Saturn.

08/09/78. Separated from wife; strain and relief. Mars, Saturn, Pluto.

24/06/79. Second mental breakdown: Mars, Pluto Mercury, Uranus.

12/12/79. Divorce nisi; relieved, but religious conflict: Mars, Jupiter, Uranus.

27/07/82. Appendicectomy; sudden onset: Mars, Saturn, Neptune, Uranus.

27/07/85. Moved interstate; job promotion: Sun, Mercury, Saturn.

28/03/88. Resumed career after a 5-month drop-out; new job: Sun, Venus, Jupiter.

08/02/89. Second marriage; coerced, not happy: Mercury, Neptune, Pluto.

It is not practicable to give procedural details for all 10 events, so steps 3 - 7 will be illustrated by the first event only.

3. 8th July 1948 is the Progressed date for marriage.

4. Position of the Progressed bodies for 0-hours birth: Moon 2Le58, Sun 15Cn50, Mercury 28Ge34, Venus 25Ge56, Mars 24Vi48, Jupiter 21Sg19, Saturn 20Le59, Uranus 27Ge31, Neptune 10Li17, Pluto 13Le41, N.Node 10Ta48.

5. The Moon's travel on 8th July 1948 is $14^{\circ}59'$. Moon from 0000 - 2400 birth time is from 2Le58 to 17Le57.

6. Conjunct p.Pluto 13Le41, square p.N.Node 10Le48, semisextile p.Sun 15Le50, sesquare p.Mars 9Le48, sesquare p.Mercury 13Le34, sesquare p.Jupiter 6Le19, septile p.Mars 3Le22, septile p.Neptune 18Le51, septile p.Venus 17Le22, conjunct r.Saturn 18Le33, conjunct r.Pluto 13Le06, square r.N.Node 12Le5, semisextile r.Mercury 7Le1, semisextile r.Venus 8Le46, semisextile r.Mars 12Le0, sesquare r.Jupiter 9Le13, septile r.Uranus 17Le32, septile r.Sun 14Le21, sextile p.Neptune 10Le17, sextile r.Neptune 10Le14, square r.N.Node 12Le5.

7. The difference between the position of the exact aspect for the selected planets and the Moon's 0-hours position is shown for each of the planets chosen to symbolize marriage. For example, sesquare p.Mars = $9Le48 - 2Le58 = 6^{\circ}50'$. This difference is divided by the Moon's travel on the Progressed date and multiplied by 24 to obtain the time that the aspect is exact. Thus for the example, $6^{\circ}50'$ divided by $14^{\circ}59'$ (step 5) and multiplied by 24 = 1057 hours. The times are in brackets and in 24-hour notation. The list for marriage follows:

Ssq. p.Mars $6^{\circ}50'$ (1057), Sept.p.Mars $0^{\circ}24'$ (0038), Ssxt. r.Mars $9^{\circ}2'$ (1428), Sept. p.Venus $14^{\circ}24'$ (2304), Ssxt. r.Venus $5^{\circ}48'$ (0917), Sesq. p.Mercury $10^{\circ}36'$ (1700), Ssxt. r.Mercury $4^{\circ}3'$ (0629), Sq. r.N.Node $9^{\circ}7'$ (1436).

The times for all events follow, listed in order, but should be copied onto a ruled sheet to appreciate the aggregation. The first time is a minus time, that is, before midnight. The rest are all plus:

0051, 0022, 0038, 0050, 0124, 0240, 0424, 0424, 0434, 0629, 0759, 0806, 0831, 0853, 0856, 0901, 0912, 0917, 0944, 1004, 1057, 1114, 1129, 1148, 1314, 1316, 1351, 1355, 1358, 1403, 1410, 1411, 1424, 1428, 1436, 1458, 1503, 1528, 1700, 1700, 1708, 1856, 1913, 1938, 2132, 2151, 2227, 2241, 2258, 2304, 2414, 2436, 2500, 2506.

The most intense aggregate is that extending from 1314 - 1528 hours, there being 14 times in the space of 3 hours. The average of these 14 times 1415 hours. The given time is 1416 hours.

Interested researchers should work through this example carefully to become familiar with the procedure and then complete a further example with a known time such as their own or a friend's.

The aspects that contributed to the final aggregate in the present case consisted of semisextiles, squares, sextiles, quintiles, septiles and trines.

The estimate provided by this method may be confirmed and a more precise time be obtained by use of the SR method described in Astrologers' Forum No. 103.

Production of this Issue has been a lengthy, and at times difficult process because of the nature of the material and the special type-setting requirements, which is part of the reason that "Astrologers' Forum" is now a month behind. To catch up, I have made this Issue a double one, covering the months of July and August. Occasionally it is not possible for me to meet the monthly deadline, though that is still my aim, to keep the publication as topical and informative as possible. I trust to the forbearance of subscribers.

I have started giving monthly Astrological Workshops in my home at Blackheath. The next one is on Sunday, 16th September. Anyone interested is invited to 'phone (0471) 87 8874 for further particulars.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock, 3rd September 1990.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $15, Australia; $A20, Overseas.

Issue 107

June 1990.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

THE IRANIAN EARTHQUAKE

The calamitous earthquake that shook Iran on the 20th of June last has left an estimated 140,000 dead, many of them still buried in the ruins of their homes and villages. It is a continuing challenge to Astrology to predict the date and place of such horrific disasters, and to give warning that may save many lives and much suffering. A post-mortem analysis of a chart for the time of the earthquake has no value from the predictive point of view. What we need is a reliable technique to identify the date and location of potential disasters before they happen.

A possibility in this regard is afforded by the major planetary conjunctions, particularly those of Uranus and Saturn. I drew attention to the role of this conjunction in the Armenian earthquake of 8th December 1988 (Astrologers' Forum No. 90). The conjunction occurred on 18th October 1988, and it appears to be still exerting its power nearly two years later. Here it is re-cast for the Iranian Capital City, Tehran, instead of the Armenian town of Spitak.

The change of location from Spitak to Tehran has brought Neptune to the Meridian. Here it can transmit its treacherous power along the axis, affecting land, homes and buildings. The Declination of Neptune is $22^{\circ}17'$ South, and that of Saturn is $22^{\circ}35'$ South, so the two planets are in parallel, adding to the destructive potential of each.

At the time of the earthquake on 20th June, Uranus was at $7^{\circ}\text{Cap}59'$, retrograding over Neptune. The transit became exact only 8 days later. Thus both the planets of the conjunction, Saturn and Uranus, were coupled with Neptune in its dominating position on the Meridian, and chaos (Neptune) resulted.

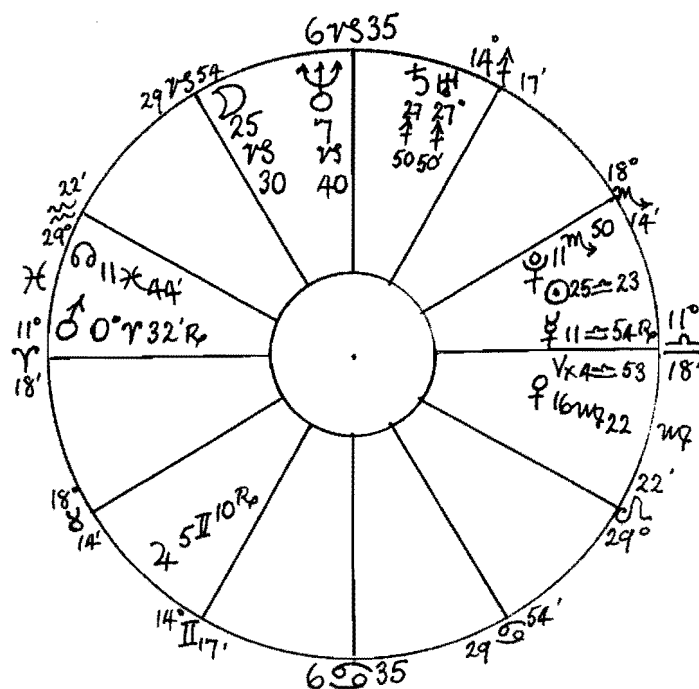

The lesson we can draw from this is that countries in known areas of seismic activity should closely monitor the Great Conjunctions - not only Uranus/Saturn, but also probably Pluto/Uranus and Neptune/Uranus.

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The Iranian Earthquake	1
Castro and the Future of Cuba	2
Comment on the Rectification Exercises	3
Horary Chart Warns of Loss	4

URANUS/SATURN CONJUNCTION

18th October 1988, 13:13 UT. Tehran, Iran.
 $35^{\circ}\text{N}40'$, $51^{\circ}\text{E}26'$. Placidian Cusps.

When these Conjunctions are powerful in the local charts, either through mundane position or malefic aspects (including parallels of Declination) all possible precautions should be taken to limit the destruction of life and property. A careful study of the Transits and Progressions in the charts may very well reveal when the blow will fall. - Dymock.

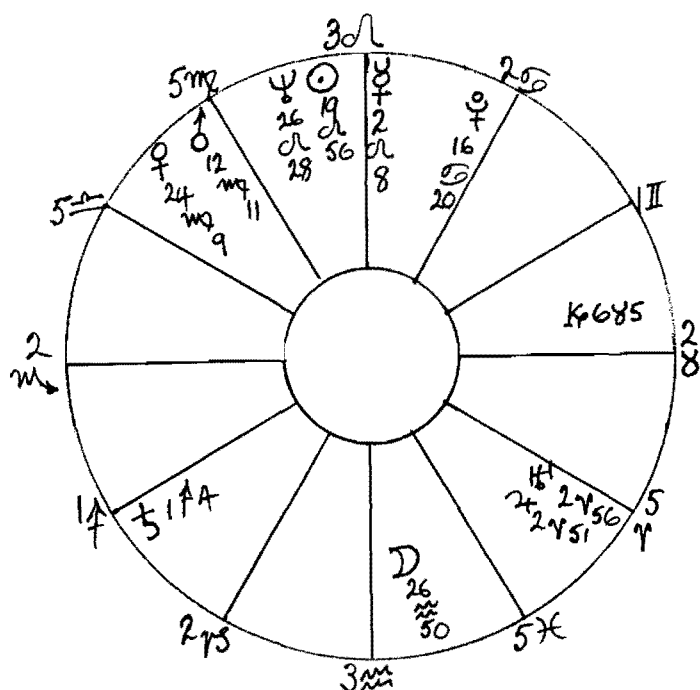

CASTRO AND THE FUTURE OF CUBA

by Allan Johnson

Cuba has not been very much in the news lately, but the events of the past twelve months in Russia and Eastern Europe are of necessity starting to have repercussions on Cuba, which is one of the more recent Communist States. It is only 31 years old. Cuba's economic future is at the cross roads because it has been heavily dependent on trade and economic assistance from the Eastern Bloc and the Soviet Union. Now this whole situation is falling apart as all these countries are now much more preoccupied with their own futures rather than that of Cuba.

FIDEL CASTRO

13th August 1927, 10:30 am EST. GMT 3:30pm.
Havana, Cuba. 23NB, 82W22. Placidus.

So Fidel Castro, after 31 years in power, is peering into a bleak future and making some bombastic speeches to bolster up his own confidence. Bombastic speeches are quite appropriate for anyone with Sun in Leo in the 10th House. The Chart I am presenting here cannot be totally guaranteed as to timing, and is taken from An Astrological Who's Who by Marc Penfield, and he does not give any sources.

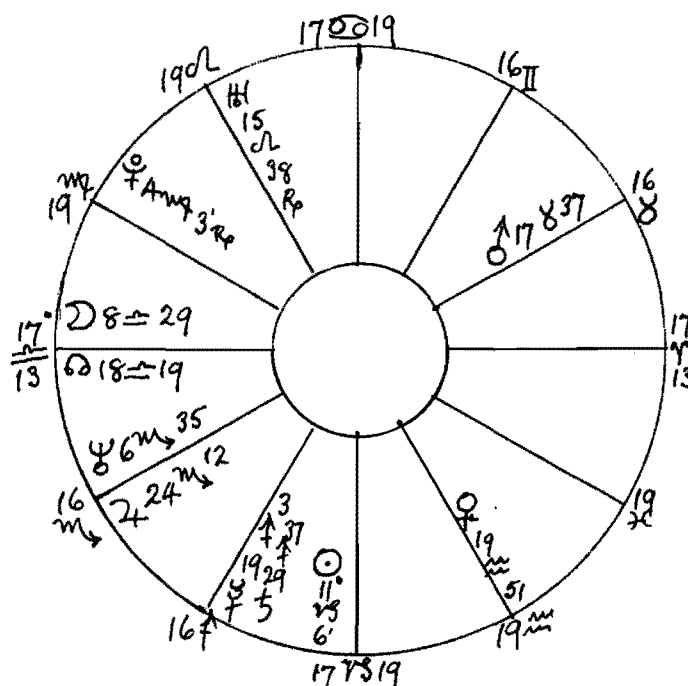

The Chart for the Cuban Communist State seems more reliable as it is taken from The Book of World Horoscopes by Nick Campion. This is now the most up to date book for Mundane astrologers. Taken together, both Charts should throw some light on Castro's future. The Cuban Revolution is Fidel Castro, so if one flounders, so does the other. His Chart is a fairly simplistic one but the Chart for the Revolution is much more complex. The interesting point about Castro is that despite the economic woes his country has been going through, he still seems to retain great popularity personally. I think the Sun conjunct Neptune in the 10th could explain this charisma. Scorpio rising also helps, and is typical for the charts of revolutionaries who need to be ruthless to survive. The Grand Trine linking up with his M.C. is one reason why his luck has held for so long - but will it in the future?

Secondary Progressions don't throw much light on this Chart, but the transits are more useful, even though there are no personal planets in Cardinal Signs. Here the emphasis is on Fixed Signs, and this brings in Pluto, planet for high drama, new beginnings and endings - and also happenings that can operate totally outside the person's control, but have a powerful influence.

COMMUNIST CUBA

2nd January 1959, 1am EST. GMT 6am.
Havana, Cuba. 23NB, 82W22. Placidus.

This is exactly what is happening right now in the Communist world, and there is no way Cuba can escape it. Castro already feels the effects of these events, and Pluto comes to the square of his Sun by transit next January, and will be within a close orb for the whole of 1991. So it is bound to be a year of destiny. Saturn moves to the I.C. in early 1991, when it moves into Aquarius, and will affect all the Angles. In 1992 the powerful Neptune/Uranus conjunction opposes his Natal Pluto. Even though Pluto is not part of any major configuration, I have found that powerful squares or oppositions to its natal position can bring shocks and dramatic revelations. Here there will be some surprise elements. Things will come to light!

Of course, the Chart for the Cuban Revolution in 1959 is of major importance to Castro's destiny. In this case the Secondary Progressions are more illuminating, with the Progressed Sun moving towards the opposition of Progressed Uranus. It will make the exact contact in October 1991, and then to Natal Uranus 15 months later. This speaks for itself in this situation. There is strong emphasis on the Fixed Signs in this Chart, as in Castro's, and if we include Chiron we get a Fixed Grand Cross. Castro's Sun does make the conjunction with Uranus in the Cross, and is square to Mars. So this is a violent link-up, and transiting Pluto is exactly squaring Uranus and opposing Mars this year and into 1991.

Apart from Pluto transits, the Cuban Chart has Natal Sun in 11° Capricorn and Moon in 8° Libra - very sensitive degrees right now. They are being activated by Uranus this year, and it will be in close conjunction with Natal Sun throughout 1991. I have always found Pluto and Uranus to be the two planets most linked with dramatic and traumatic events. There are certainly a lot of correlations! So it looks as if time will be running out for Fidel Castro in 1991 and the spirit of reform will have caught up with the Island in 1991 and the succeeding years.

From Elva Howson (Vic.): Congratulations to Jack and Ross for their achievements in rectifying charts from unstated birth times.

The Nicholls S.R. Method would appear to hold far-reaching implications, for if it proves to be valid over a large number of cases then does it imply that the Tropical Solar Return is the superior technique? And would it finally solve the locality versus the birth place problem? The method's value appears to lie in the confirmation or tightening-up of a given time rather than finding an unknown birth time.

I would urge all readers to at least apply the Nicholls' Method to their own Charts or those of family members to enable us to gauge the accuracy or otherwise of what at this stage appears to be an exciting new tool for validating not only "flexible" given times but other astrological techniques. Feedback from many astrologers will be needed as the successful application to a handful of cases is not sufficient for scientific proof.

I agree with Jack that natal planets crossing the S.R. Angles should be used as well as S.R. planets, and I personally feel that the Vertex (being the third Angle) should also be used.

Testing this method against known birth times on cases we are familiar with may give us extra information. For example, does it work better with self-initiated experiences as opposed to "accidental" experiences?

Come on, subscribers, let's pull together on this and devote even a couple of hours to testing a few cases each and letting Dymock know our results and any comments. On the face of it so far this method has a great potential.

Horary Chart Warns of Loss

In June last I had a request from a long-term client for a Horary Chart to decide whether it was a good thing for her to embark on a particular business enterprise. The facts were that she and a friend had been offered a picture-framing business (at a very high price) which they would operate in partnership. According to his own story, the proprietor had been operating it for a number of years, and was now tired of it. My client had no knowledge of picture-framing, though her friend had had limited experience. The proprietor said it was easy, and they would not have any trouble - they could learn it out of a book. All necessary tools and machines would change hands with the business.

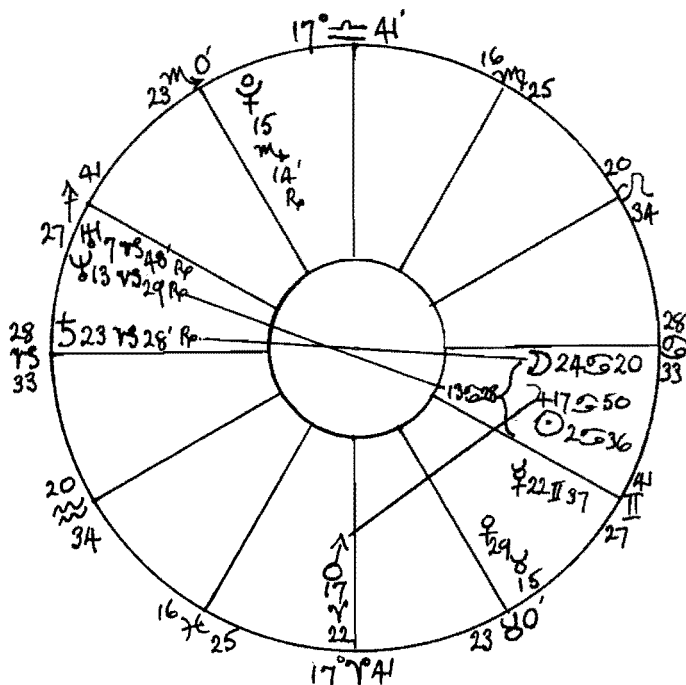

This in itself awoke my suspicions, as any one who has had anything to do with the framing of paintings knows that it is a highly-skilled process involving not only carpentry up to cabinet-making standard, but also the precise cutting of mounts and often delicate handling of water-colours on rice paper to affix a backing. It entails a very wide and expensive stock of different-coloured mounting boards, aside from the colour-sense to choose the right one for any particular painting. The picture-framer has to handle the prized works of artists who examine the final result with loving attention. Professionals may have worked for ten years or more in various factories and shops before getting to the standard to embark on their own businesses. The prices they charge is a reflection of the high degree of knowledge and skill necessary. It is not a business for amateurs.

I pointed this out to my client at the time, but as she still wanted a Horary Chart on the question I drew one up for the date and time she contacted me, and for my location. Here it is:

Buy into Picture-Framing Business?

24th June 1990, 6:55 pm AEST, Blackheath.
33S38, 150E18. Placidian Cusps.

The Chart shows many adverse features: To begin with, the second-last degree of Capricorn on the Ascendant indicates that no action should be taken to implement the idea. This in itself is sufficient, but looking further we see the Moon directly opposite Saturn - an extremely negative indication - and the midpoint of the Moon and the Sun, 13Cap28, almost precisely opposite Neptune at 13Cap29. This points to both deception or misrepresentation and business failure. The Sun in the 6th House is indicative of a picture-framing business where special skills, tools and materials are needed. Jupiter in the 6th closely square to Mars indicates that a large expenditure of money would be called for. As the Moon rules the Partnership House (7th) it was apparent that the business partnership of my client and her friend would fail.

In view of all this I told my client that she should not have anything to do with the business. If she did, it would lose all her savings and probably her home, as that would be needed for security for the bank that advanced her the balance of the purchase price. The business would undoubtedly fail, she would lose her money, her friend, her peace of mind and reduce herself to a miserable financial position indeed.

I think this came as some little surprise to my client, but she said she would take my advice as I had done many Horaries for her and had been right in the past.

On the 10th of July I received a letter from her in which she said, "Thank you for your advice concerning my proposed venture into the picture-framing business. Have since found out that they are going broke, so had a lucky escape." (The italics are mine).

Horary astrology performs a valuable service if it simply confirms in the mind of the client what to an objective observer should be obvious anyway.

Readers are invited to submit examples of their own work with Horary Astrology, which is one of the most useful and practical branches of our art, and should be practised much more widely. Every astrologer can easily acquire experience in this field, for specific questions calling for a specific answer are continually arising. Normally, Horary Astrology dispenses with the need to look into Progressions, Regressions, Directions, Transits and Cyclic Charts. If the question is a significant one, of real concern to the querent, and clear in his/her mind, a Horary Chart will give a clear answer.

Keep in mind the "strictures against judgement". Don't proceed if:

1. Less than 3° or more than 27° appear on the Ascendant. (Either it is too early to judge, or nothing can or should be done.)
2. The Moon is "void-of-course" (not forming an aspect to any planet before leaving the Sign it occupies).
3. The Moon is in Via Combusta (15 Libra - 15 Scorpio).

The astrologer should also be cautious if Saturn is in the 7th House, especially if close to the Cusp. This can indicate that an error has been made in the calculation of the Chart, or that the astrologer is misinterpreting it.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock, 14/7/1990.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $15, Australia; $A20, Overseas.

Issue 106

May 1990.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

The very close result in Rectification Exercise No.5 was achieved by Dr. Jack Nicholls not, as mistakenly reported in the last Issue, by Ross Harvey. Ross, however, detailed the method in the last Issue and has used it to obtain a precise result in the Rectification Exercise No.6 being printed in this Issue (see later).

Here is Jack Nicholls' expanded explanation of how he arrived at his correct estimate of the birth time in the 5th Rectification Exercise:

"I decided that the birth was diurnal (using a method given in confidence) based on the subject's marriage as a most important turning point in her life. My attention was taken by the series of house moves between 1968 and 1976 which clearly were business ventures and not simply changes of home. I applied the Septenary, a method rediscovered by Ken Gillman and reported in the magazine Considerations in a series of articles beginning in 1983. The original method utilized the sequence of successive risings of the seven personal planets that will occur following the birth. Ken has since modified the technique to include the crossing of the four Angles following the birth. Viewing the above changes of residence as a 10th rather than a 4th House matter I positioned the Moon as the Septenary Ruler for the period in question.

"The first of the classical seven planets to culminate in the appropriate sequence is the Sun, yielding a range of times where this could be so, from 1017 - 1159 hours AEST, allowing an orb of 5 degrees. This is where inspiration took over and I discovered the SR method reported in Astrologers' Forum 103.

The events and times are as follows:

EVENT	SIGNIFICATOR	ANGLE	TIME
		CROSSED
Son born	Mercury	MC	1111
Husband died	Pluto	Desc	1119
Married	N.Node	Asc	1118

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Rectification Exercise No.5 - Detail of successful entry	1
New Rectification Exercise (6)	2
The Question of Longevity	3
Romania - Synodic Chart	4

Lost money	Mercury	MC	1100
Sister died	Saturn	MC	1117
Business	Chiron	IC	1107
Surgery	Mars	IC	1135
Surgery	Uranus	Desc	1059
		Average	1113

"This was the first example using this method and I used Transits to check it. These suggested a time slightly earlier but I did not alter the entry. The given time was 1111 hrs. AEST.

"Since the Solar Return Method appeared in Astrologers' Forum Ross Harvey has proposed another method based on Solar Returns. To distinguish the two methods Ross and I suggest that they be referred to as the Nicholls SR Method and the Harvey SR Method. This will avoid confusion, especially as the Harvey SR Method terminates in the use of the Nicholls Method (see A.F. 105 p.2).

"Further work with the Nicholls SR Method by myself and others suggests a few extensions to the technique. Originally only SR planets gave times as they "crossed" the Angles. However, Natal planets also may be considered and provide extra data. In addition I have found the Natal Solstice points (Antiscia of the natal planets) to be useful in providing times. For a year in my life when I came close to death and also commenced very long-term relationship the application of the method using all three types of contacts resulted in 15 times! I consider it important to use appropriate symbolism in considering contact between the Angles and the planets but it is necessary to know all the events in a year if times are to be rejected because of inappropriate symbolism. Ross Harvey has suggested the use of Precession SR's for the Nicholls Method (A.F. 105. p.2). I do not endorse this as I have not found the times so obtained to be accurate and I consider it unnecessary to generate more sets of Solar Returns.

"For readers who received Astrologers' Forum in 1983 it will be remembered that Geoffrey Dean posed the question to Ralph Holden "How do you know that Astrology works?" If the question were asked of me today I would quote not only my successful rectification of Exercise No. 5 but also Ross Harvey's similar success with two lists of data which I set him privately. The implications of these results (and there is no reason why they should not be extended in the future) are important to astrology and to one's view of fundamental philosophical questions. My own, for what it is worth, is that our free will is not in respect of what events will occur in our life (see above) but the way in which we will respond to these events." [Yes, indeed! - Ed.]

It is evident from the communications I receive from readers that these Rectification Exercises have stirred up a lot of interest, and I am being urged to continue them. The Exercises are also making a significant advance towards the scientific proof of Astrology. The sceptics will be confounded!

Here is a further Exercise on which to develop your skills, using the Solar Return Method outlined in the last Issue, or any other astrological method of your choice.

Rectification Exercise No. 6

Events in the life of a female born on 17th October 1926 at London (OW10, 51N30)

Physical appearance: 5'2" tall and average build, blue eyes and fair skin. Thick golden curly hair up to middle age.

Health information:

1968 Misaligned neck vertebrae which was the start of some years of severe physical trauma as migraines and leg pains. 115E38, 32S15.

1974 Slipped disks in lower back. 115E38, 32S15.

August 1981 Broke wrist in a fall. 115E38, 32S15.

Spring 1984 Broke ankle crossing street. Wollongong, NSW. Developed allergy to vitamin A tablets.

29 July 1988 Injured hip in fall, which is still painful from time to time. 115E38, 32S15.

1. 23rd Feb. 1928. Brother born.
2. October 1929. Started school, S.W. London (date is correct).
3. Oct. 1929. Traumatic experience with a dentist, S.W. London: Went to dentist to have one tooth extracted and woke from anaesthetic to find that 13 teeth had been removed.
4. Nov. 1935. Had tonsils and adenoids out, S.E. London. Very nasty and unsettling experience.
5. 14 Nov. 1935. Birth of sister. S.W. London. Jealous of sister; not pleased about her birth.
6. Aug/Sep 1940. Evacuated to Devon as War evacuee.
7. Jan 1941. Returned to London.
8. Aged 14 Started night school, typing and shorthand. Feb. 1941 started work at London County Council, sorting and classifying books. Loved it.
9. Oct 1942. Mail Order file clerk for about 6 months, then various jobs - shop assistant, canteen assistant, typist to Navy, Army Air Force Institute. All at London.
10. 1 Jul. 1942. Buzz-bomb (V1) demolished home burying parents under rubble. S.W. London.
11. 2 Jul 1944. Father died of injuries, mother sent to County Hospital, S.W. London.
12. 1944 - 1945. Changed residence three times, London and Kent.
13. 1945. Called up to work at Air Ministry as duplicating machine operator. Not allowed to leave, and worked 60-hour week. S.W. London.
14. Oct. 1947. Met future husband, a Scorpio. Surrey - London.
15. 7 Oct. 1950. Married. S.W. London. Same church as parents.
16. Aug. 1951. Left Air Ministry. Employed at NATO for 6 months. S.W. London.
17. Feb. 1952. To Portugal as duplicating machine operator for NATO Conference. First flight and first trip abroad.
18. 1952 - 1953. Moved to Sussex. Stock clerk at Home County Dairies for 6 months.
19. 19 Feb. 1954. Gave birth to twin daughters. Surrey.
20. 12 Sep. 1957. Arrived in Fremantle as migrants.
21. Feb. 1964. Moved into own home. 115E38, 32S15.
22. 2 Dec. 1972. Unmarried elder twin daughter gave birth to a daughter. 115E49, 31S57. Happiest day of subject's life.
23. 15 Oct. 1974. Second grand-daughter born to younger twin daughter. 115E48, 32S14.
24. 10 Nov. 1976. Third grand-daughter born to younger twin daughter. 115E48, 32S14.

25. 2 Aug. 1989. Much loved pet dog put to sleep. 115E38, 32S15.

As before, send your entries to Dr. Jack
Nicholls, 109 Highfield Road, Camberwell,
Vic., Australia 3124, by 20th July.

The Question of Longevity

by Allan Johnson

I did give a bit of attention to this subject years ago, but in more recent times have neglected it. My interest is revived by a newspaper report of a lady reaching 100 today (25th May) so I thought it a good idea to look up her Solar Chart. The recurring factor I found previously in very aged people was the Sun in strong aspect to Saturn. Even the squares seem to be quite valid, and in this present case the Sun is squared by Saturn. But this lady has a unique Chart which nobody born in this century could have, and that is a very close conjunction of Sun/Neptune/Pluto. The Neptune/Pluto conjunction is the rarest there is, only occurring every 492 years. But it did occur round 100 years ago, so a few unique people were born at that time with it in their charts.

Jeanie Jaap
Born 25th May 1890
Solar Chart

The noted astrologer, Vivian Robson, was born on 26th May 1890. So he had the Sun within a 1° orb of both Neptune and Pluto, but I know little about his personal life.

Norman Vincent Peale, famous for his writings on "Positive Thinking", was born with the Sun/Pluto/Neptune conjunction. It does suggest that such people would make their mark in some quite creative way. The lady who has got her photo on the front page for reaching 100 is not particularly noted for creative work of any sort - but reaching her century is extraordinary enough in itself.

The big thing that stands out in the Chart is the powerfully aspected Sun, being not only conjunct Pluto/Neptune, but closely opposed to Mars as well as square Saturn. This shows a very distinctive and determined personality, despite the absence of planets in Cardinal Signs. There are no planets at all in either Earth or Water Signs. So she is a very positive type. Sun conjunct Pluto opposite Mars is outspoken, a lot more decisive than Gemini usually is. But the five planets in Gemini give her plenty of interests. She doesn't find life boring. Emphasis on Mutable Signs is also adaptable to circumstances. She came to Tasmania from Scotland 55 years ago, so in the main her life would have been a quiet one.

I think these all add up when it comes to longevity. I don't think there is just one aspect to signify a long life, but the Sun in aspect to Saturn is appropriate.

MORE TURMOIL IN ROMANIA

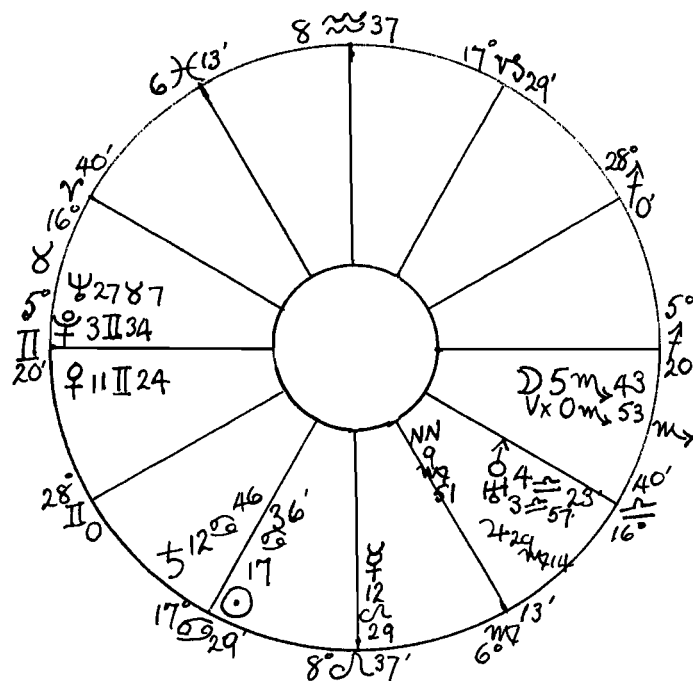

Unhappy Romania is again gripped by violence as students and others protest against the Election on May 20. They believe that too many of the old-guard Communists are back in power in the new governing National Salvation Front led by Mr. Iliescu. At this date (15 June 1990) the reports are of five killed and hundreds injured as riot police and miners called in by the Government to suppress the riots do so with brutal force. Romania is indeed living up to its Chart given in Issue 101 (December 1989) and reproduced below.

In Issue 101 attention was drawn to the strong element of violence in this Chart (Mars, Uranus, Pluto in T-Square) and we see this linking of planets repeated, with slight modification, in the current Synodic Return. The Synodic Return is an Annual Chart that I find has greater significance than the more commonly used Solar Return. It is based on the angular separation of the Sun and Moon in the Radix, each month that this recurs after the Radical date being equated to a year of life.

The current Synodic Return (the 113th) came into operation on May 21, and is

There will be some relief and benefits for the people in February 1991 when the Progressed Moon parallels Jupiter, and Jupiter progresses to a conjunction with Fortuna in Sagittarius, but further unrest in May and June when the Moon opposes Pluto and squares Uranus in the Progressed Chart. An additional factor responsible for many injuries will be the opposition of Regressed Mars to Mercury in early May.

Sun - Moon Angle $108^{\circ}6'15''$

My kind regards to all. - Dymock,
15th June 1990.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $15, Australia; $A20, Overseas.

Issue 105

April 1990.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

Result of Rectification Exercise No.5 (Birth 11th November 1911)

The correct (given) time of birth for this Exercise is 11:10 am, AEST, Ascendant 16Aq20, Midheaven 10Sc8. Dr. Jack Nicholls sends the following summary of the attempts to find the birth time:

1. Sign and degree rising estimated from an examination of aspects formed on a day related to conception; corrected by Solar-Arc Directions and Transits. Estimated time 0248 hrs, Asc 1Li50; 2nd attempt, estimated time 0415 hrs, Asc 3Sc42.

2. Rising Sign chosen that was thought to most closely represent the Subject's inclinations and reactions to events. Solar-Arc Progression of Natal MC and Asc; converse Solar-Arc to Natal planets. Checked for major aspect from mother's Natal Sun, Mars or Jupiter. Estimated time 1942 hrs, Asc 3Ge17; 2nd attempt, estimated time 1505 hrs, Asc 6Cp5. A new approach was made based on relationship between mother's Venus, Saturn and Mars, and Subject's Mars and Saturn. A choice of possible Angles was given by this method. The one chosen was essentially opposite the correct one, yielding a time of 11:04 pm!

3. Rising Sign decided on using Naibod-Arc Directions in longitude. Refined with Age Harmonics. Estimated time 0647 hrs AEST, Asc 19Sg22.

4. Decided that birth was diurnal and then which bodies next crossed each of the four Angles following the birth. (This gave a possible range of 12° on the MC for the birth.) Final timing based on Secondary Progressions, direct and converse, using Naibod-Arc. Estimated time 1300 hrs, Ascendant 9 Pisces. 2nd attempt - same procedure up to point of decision about which bodies crossed MC; revised choice gave time of 1137 hrs. Used Nicholls' SR method to refine time to 1122 hrs!

5. Decided that the birth was diurnal. Noted the series of house moves between 1968 and 1976. Decided these were business matters and not home changes and used the

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Result of Rectification Exercise No.5	1
New Method for Finding an Unknown Birth Time	1
Comments on R.E. 5	3
Predicting Election Results	4

information to determine the sequence of classical planets crossing the MC (10th House). This yielded a time range of 1017 - 1159 hrs. The SR Method [see below] was applied to reduce this to a time of 1112 hrs, Asc 16Aq45!

The above remarkably close result was achieved by Ross Harvey, using the method he details below.

A Method for Finding the Birth Time When only the Date of Birth is Known by Ross Harvey

1. Calculate the position of the Sun at 0:00 hours local time on the day of birth.
2. Calculate the Transit [Standard] Solar Return (SR), the Precessed Solar Return (PSR), and the Progressed Birthday or Kinetic Solar Return (KSR) for each year for which significant events are known, using the Sun's position from step 1. One actually needs only the times of the various Returns so that the position of the Moon in each map can be found.
3. Add the Moon's daily travel to its position in each Return, thus getting its position for a 24:00 hours birth time. This is near enough for the purpose of this technique, and saves having to calculate two sets of Solar Returns. One now has the range of possible Lunar positions in each Solar Return.
4. Next see if the Moon becomes conjunct any SR-planet or any Radical planet as it passes from its 0 hours position to its 24 hours position. Allow five degrees overlap at each end of the Moon's range. For example, if in a particular Return the Moon goes from 8° Gemini for the 0 hours birth time to 21° Gemini for the 24 hours birth time, one should look for conjunctions of the Moon between 3° Gemini and 26° Gemini. This is to allow for aspects which, although exact outside the possible time range, will nevertheless be within orbs in the hours at either end of it.

5. Calculate the times of exactitude of each conjunction. In our example, if Jupiter is at 11° Gemini, the time at which this conjunction is exact is $[(11-8)/(21-8)] \times 24$, equivalent to a birth time of 5:32 hours.

6. Find, at the very least, twelve such Lunar conjunctions. Fifteen or more are to be preferred - the more the better. Pay particular attention to conjunctions that are contrary in nature to the known event: For example, if our Moon/Jupiter conjunction had occurred in a year in which the only significant event had been a tragic one, such as the death of a close family member, it would obviously have been conspicuously inappropriate. Hence it is unlikely that the Moon would have been within five degrees of Jupiter - it would have been at 16° Gemini or later, and so the birth time can be limited. The Moon is at 16° Gemini at a birth time of 14:46 hours, so the birth time is most probably after this.

7. When you have enough Lunar conjunctions, reject those that fall outside the permissible range, for example, we now know that the time is after 14:46 hours so, allowing a seven hour time orb, do not consider any aspect time before 7:46 hours. This allows for conjunctions that may be exact outside the allowable time range but which are within orbs during part of it.

8. Average the remaining times. This will give the approximate time of birth. While the average may be within minutes of the correct time, depending on how much information is available, it would be unwise to assume that it is closer than an hour or so. So then use Solar Returns in the manner described by Jack Nicholls, taking a range, say, of $1\frac{1}{2}$ hours on either side of the average time just obtained. However, note that I then recommend a different approach: Use PSR's as well as SR's, and take particular note of planet/Angle conjunctions that are obviously inappropriate to the known event. So, for instance, Jupiter can hardly be conjunct the Ascendant or Midheaven if the event was markedly unfortunate. So Jupiter in such a case is not within five degrees of the Angle, and one can thus reject the forty minutes or so during which it would be conjunct the Angle. Reject all inappropriate time ranges, note which planet/Angle conjunctions in the time left are appropriate to the known event, and average their times.

Rectification Exercise No. 5 is a good example:

The 0 hours position of the Sun is 17Sc3'37" (14 hours GMT on the 10th November 1911).

KSR 1918 (family moved house)

Moon, 0 hours, 9Ta31; 24 hours, 24Ta32
Moon is conjunct r.Saturn, 16Ta40, at a birth time of 11:26 hrs.

SR 1920 (brother born)

Moon, 6Sc35 to 19Sc9
Moon conjunct Node, 5Sc45 at -1:35 hrs.
Moon conjunct r.Sun, 17Sc31 20:53 hrs.

KSR 1920

Moon 25Aq14 to 7Pi27
Moon conjunct Uranus, 1Pi46, at 12:50 hrs.

KSR 1932 (married)

Moon 15Cp21 to 29Cp39
Moon conjunct r.Uranus, 25Cp57, at 17:47 hrs.
Moon conjunct Saturn, 0Aq52, at 26:03 hrs.
Moon conjunct Saturn for marriage is highly unlikely. The Moon is five degrees from Saturn at 17:39 hours, so the time must be before this. When averaging ignore all times after 24:39 hrs.

KSR 1939 (returned to Australia)

Moon 13Sc54 to 27Sc31
Moon conjunct r.Sun, 17Sc31, at 6:22 hrs.
Moon conjunct r.Jupiter, 23Sc30, at 16:55 hrs.
Moon conjunct r.Mercury, 28Sc15, at 25:18 hrs.

KSR 1952 (sister died)

Moon 15Aq00 to 29Aq26
Moon conjunct Mars, 22Aq26, at 12:22 hrs.

KSR 1956 (father died)

Moon 3Li44 to 17Li18
Moon conjunct r.Venus, 1Li43, at -3:34 hrs.
Moon conjunct Venus for a father's death is inappropriate, so the Moon cannot be within five degrees of Venus. The Moon is five degrees from Venus at 5:17 hours, so the time has to be after this. Reject all times earlier than -1.43 hours when averaging.

KSR 1957 (mother died)

Moon, 20Ge27 to 30Ca42

Moon conjunct r.Pluto, 28Ge42, at 14:57 hrs.

KSR 1956 (husband died)

Moon, 12Ta27 to 25Ta50

Moon conjunct r.Saturn, 16Ta40, at 7:34 hrs.

KSR 1975 (long-distance move)

Moon, 1Ge50 to 14Ge34

Moon conjunct r.Mars, 6Ge56, at 9:37 hrs.

SR 1981 (brother died)

Moon, 13Ar41 to 28Ar33

Moon conjunct Saturn, 16Ar59, at 5:20 hrs.

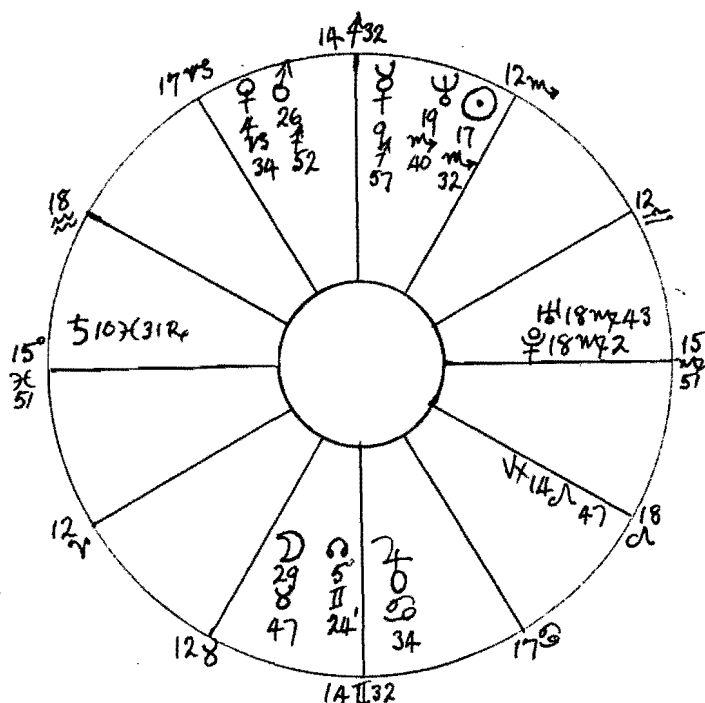

Reject the -3:34, 25:18, and 26:03 times, and average the remaining ones. The average is 11:12 hours. The given birth time is 11:10 hours.

Comments on R.E. 5

The number 11 is strikingly obvious in the birth date - 11, 11, [19]11 - and the 11th Sign, Aquarius, is rising in the Natus. We might perhaps have taken a hint from this, and investigated an Aquarian Ascendant first.

Now that the correct birth time is known, readers may wish to test their predictive techniques in hindsight, with a view to deciding what are the most rewarding procedures. Here is the Solar Return Chart for the husband's death on 22nd January 1966.

Solar Return 54: 11/11/1965 - 11/11/1966

The chief indicators are the conjunction of Uranus and Pluto on the 7th Cusp (husband) and Neptune conjunct the Sun in Scorpio.

Annual Charts are informative, and usually more so when combined with the Birth Horoscope, using the Cusps of the Birth Chart for both Figures. Here, for instance, is the Subject's 54th Synodic Chart (covering the period when her husband died) combined with the Birth Horoscope. A Synodic Chart is a Chart for each succeeding month after birth that the Sun and Moon return to the exact phase angle they had in the Natus. The number of months correspond to the same number of years of life. Thus, for age 54 we take the Synodic Return in the 54th month after birth.

Female born 11th November 1911

Inner Circle: Natal Chart

Outer Circle: Synodic Return 54

Cusps as in the Natal Chart.

There are several powerful indicators relevant to the husband's sudden death: The Sun ruling the House of the marriage partner is square to Mars near the 7th Cusp, directly opposite Saturn (death) and square to Uranus (suddenness). The combination of the two Charts highlights the significant aspects.

Rectification Exercise No. 6 will be presented in the next Astrologers' Forum. At the moment this is the last set of data that we have. Any reader able to help with suitable material for more of these valuable exercises is earnestly requested to send it to Dr. Jack Nicholls, 109 Highfield Road, Camberwell, Vic. 3124.

Predicting Election Results

Following my invitation in the last Issue for practitioners to submit their methods of forecasting political events, ROD and COLLEEN BRANDT who run the Crystal Lighthouse Bookshop in Brisbane have sent the Charts by which they successfully predicted the results of the last Federal Election and the previous Queensland State Election.

They employed:

(1) A Solar Chart set for the Election day. [A Chart with the Sun on the Ascendant.] The only points considered in this Chart are the positions of Jupiter and Saturn, their elevation and relative strengths and weaknesses, Jupiter being taken to represent the Liberals/Nationals, and Saturn the Labour Party.

(2) An Event Chart set for the 8 am start of the polling on the Election day. Here, the challenger (the Party in Opposition) is represented by the Eastern half of the Map, and the defender (the Party holding office) by the Western half of the Map.

(3) A Horary Chart, set for the time the question was keenly being debated in the minds of Rod and Colleen. The Eastern half of the Map is allocated to the Party that came first in the minds of the Querent, or was first in the order of mention. Here, the question was, "Will the National Party win the December 2 [Queensland State] Election?", so the Eastern half of the Map represented the Nationals, and the challenger (Labour) was represented by the Western half.

(4) Further checking was done by relating the individual Charts of the chief protagonists (noon positions only) to the Inceptional Chart of Brisbane itself, which the Brandts give as 7th September 1859, 12:01 am LMT, Brisbane, Ascendant 6Gem9, Midheaven 14Pis48.

(5) The three Solar Eclipses prior to the Queensland Election were compared with the Natal Charts (noon positions) of the Party Leaders. A heavy bias was found for Wayne Goss (Labour Leader), the first Eclipse point being conjunct his Natal Venus, the second conjunct his Jupiter (in the 10th House of the Brisbane Chart).

(6) The Queensland Chart progressed to the date of the Election (2nd December, 1989), and compared with the Leaders' Nativities showed best connections with Wayne Goss's Chart.

From all the above data the Brandts published their forecast of a Labour victory in Queensland which, of course, was correct.

For the Federal Election on 24th March 1990 the Brandts adopted the same methods, and again came up with the correct result. It was published in their Newsletter of 10th March 1990. They found important connections between the Progressed Charts of the Australian Federation and of Bob Hawke. The Chart for Australia that the Brandts use is 12:01 am, 1st January 1901, Sydney, instead of the one for 1:35:42 pm, researched by Gwen Stoney. They regard the latter (for the Proclamation time) as subsidiary only to the real start of the Commonwealth at the beginning of the day. They have found the morning Chart more responsive. This is an interesting thought, and will bear researching.

Regarding the Progressed Charts above-mentioned, the Brandts wrote in their Newsletter: "The connections between Bob's and Australia's Progressed Charts are many. Both have Libra on the Progressed Midheaven and Capricorn on the Progressed Ascendants. Australia's Progressed Ascendant is 20° Capricorn and Bob's 22° Capricorn. Bob's Progressed Mercury is 23° Capricorn, and on the day of the Election transiting Saturn will be 23° Capricorn, activating Bob's Progressed Mercury and Ascendant, and Australia's Progressed Ascendant. Bob's Progressed Uranus in Aries is influencing Australia's Progressed Sun which is also in Aries. Sudden or unexpected changes by the leader on Australia's economic and other problems, or New-Age ideas and thinking to sort out those problems. The astrological indications are there, however, for victory and return to office for the ALP."

Well done, Rod and Colleen!

A further note from the writings of the late C.E.O. Carter: "It is considered that one body (Sun, Moon or planet) stands in a special sense in the nativity for the native....while the rest of the figure represent aspects of his life which are, relatively speaking, external to him, as for example, his friends, occupation, wife, children, and so on.

This body is called the Ruler or Lord of the Horoscope, and it is to it that astrologers refer when they call a person a "Martian" or "Uranian", or otherwise as the case may be. When we speak of a person by the name of a Sign, as an Arien person, a Leo, and so on, we refer (or ought to refer) to the Rising Sign."

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock.
7th May 1990.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $15, Australia; $A20, Overseas.

Issue 104

March 1990.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

HAWKE WINS

The forecast in our last Issue was correct, and Robert Hawke is back for a fourth term as Labour Prime Minister, a remarkable achievement considering the natural tendency of the Electorate to vote for a change of government after one or two terms.

From the astrological point of view, it is a matter for enquiry that not all those astrologers who ventured to predict the result came to the same conclusion. Some forecast a Liberal victory. This is a matter that concerns us because, if Astrology is a science as well as an art, the same astrological data should lead to identical results. Why is this not so? There could be a number of reasons for the discrepancies:

1. Incorrect or unknown birth times of the protagonists.
2. The wrong Significators being taken, or the right ones incorrectly interpreted.
3. A prediction based on minor influences, for example weak Transits rather than the more significant Progressions. Transits are as strong as Progressions if the transiting body is stationary on a Significator, but weak if it is travelling at its normal speed, and a little stronger if it is travelling slowly just before or after its Stations.
4. Cyclic Charts (Synodic Charts, Age Harmonics, Solar Returns, Lunar Returns) not consulted or not given proper weight.
5. A partial view - undue importance being attached to single factors instead of considering them as one item in the whole picture.
6. Using the best Chart or Charts but misjudging the relative power of Significators or aspects.

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Hawke Wins the Election: An Investigation	1
Gorbachev and Raisa	2
Which Chart for Noriega?	4
Extension of Rectification Exercise No. 5	4

7. Astrologers allowing their judgement to be influenced by their own political bias - in other words, wishful thinking.

There may be other factors that could come to light in the future. For the present we have enough to consider in the above.

How should an astrologer proceed in attempting to make a reasoned forecast? (As against a whimsical guess, which has no value).

In submitting my own ideas on this subject I do not want it to be thought that I am attempting to expound the definitive method. The experience and ideas of other readers are invited. From a careful enquiry into all available or recommended procedures we may finally arrive at a consensus that will ensure practically uniform results in future political forecasts.

The first indicators to look at, in my opinion, are Cyclic Horoscopes of the chief actors in the drama, so it is a great help if their individual birth details are available. I regard the Annual Synodic Chart, as of first importance, then the Age Harmonic, and lastly the Solar Return. For the Age Harmonic it is essential to have an accurate birth time, otherwise the Cusps and House placements will be wrong, though planetary positions will not be much affected. Bob Hawke's Synodic Return No. 60, covering the period of the Election, was given in last month's Issue. In addition to the favourable aspects mentioned, relating both to Hawke's Geniture and the Synodic

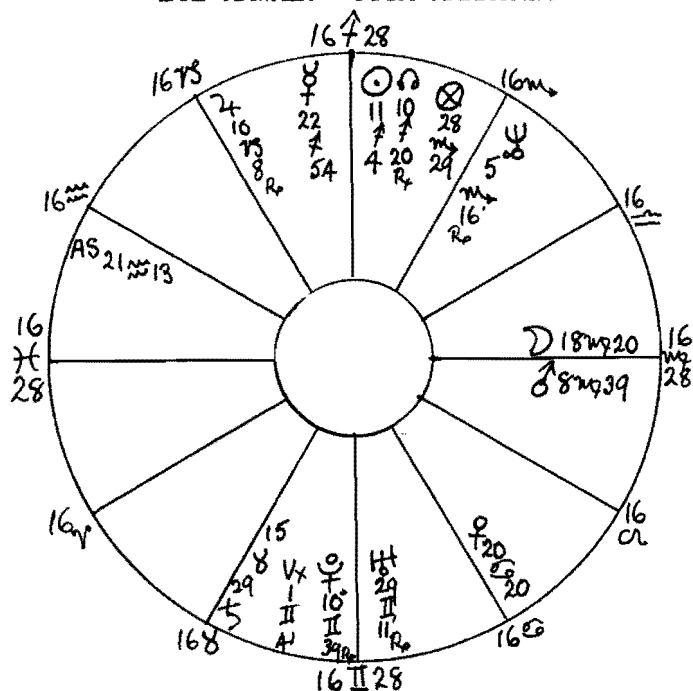

Chart itself. two Midpoint configurations were of major importance. They were:

(1) Jupiter/Pluto at 13Vir28 exactly square the Midheaven at 13Sag28 - a prime indication of fortunate development and victory.

(2) Venus/Jupiter at 21Lib38 conjunct the Sun at 21Li12. In the absence of any powerful contrary influences, the two "Fortunes" attending the Sun would guarantee success.

The Age Harmonic Chart was referred to as equally favourable for Hawke. the chief indicators being the conjunction of the Sun/Mercury Midpoint with the Midheaven, and the Moon's North Node conjunct the Sun. The Chart was not printed for lack of space, but here it is:

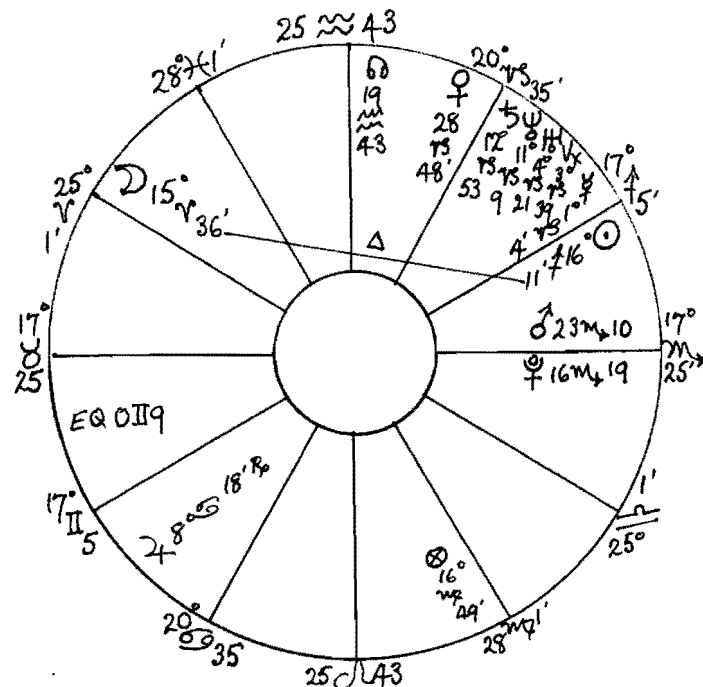

BOB HAWKE: 60TH HARMONIC

Note that the Harmonic Midheaven at 16Sag28 conjoins Hawke's Natal Sun at 16Sag11, and the Harmonic Sun at 11Sag4 is closely opposed by Natal Jupiter at 10Gem40. Both these contacts are pointers to victory. The "opposition" of Jupiter to the Sun is not detrimental, as it would be in a Birth Horoscope. In a Harmonic Chart it simply imports the nature of Jupiter (luck, fulfilment, etc.) into the signification of the Sun (success/failure).

The Solar Return Map, reproduced below, was of minor importance, and would not on its own justify a prediction of victory for Hawke.

BOB HAWKE: SOLAR RETURN 60, 8 Dec. 1989
7:20:52 GMT. Birth Place. Placidean Cusps.

The most positive indications are SR Mars at 23Sc010 conjunct Hawke's Natal Ascendant at 23Sc029, giving the vigour and will-to-win necessary in contesting the Election, and the Moon trine the Sun - a general help, but not pointing specifically to the Election, except that the Moon ruling the 3rd House shows much gain from postal votes. On the other hand, Pluto on the 7th Cusp shows powerful opponents. One would not feel confident in basing a forecast of Electoral success on this Chart, as distinct from the preceding two.

With the other chief contestant, Andrew Peacock, we strike the difficulty of a doubtful birth time. The date was 13th February 1939, Melbourne, and a Chart generally used was for 7 am, giving an Ascendant of 7°14' Pisces. Synodic Return Chart 51, embracing the period of the Election on 24th March, shows Neptune in the 10th House opposing both the Sun and the Ruler of the 10th House, Mercury, while the MC itself conjuncts Natal Neptune. These, of course, are distinctly adverse.

In the Age Harmonic Chart (51) Saturn at 9Ar31 squares the Ascendant at 8Cap36 and the Moon at 12Cap33; Pluto at 24 Pisces squares Venus, Uranus and Mars (23Gem19 - 26Gem41), and opposes Natal Neptune (Peacock's Ruler) at 22Vir43, all of which add to the adverse indications of the Synodic Chart.

The Solar Return Chart is also adverse, with the Sun square Pluto, and the Moon at 22Vir11 conjunct Natal Neptune at 22Vir43. Jupiter rises in this Chart but is sesquare Pluto and opposite Uranus.

The most disastrous factor for Peacock, however, was the Progression of the Sun to Natal Saturn on the very day of the Election! This would apply whatever Peacock's correct time of birth, and it surely spelled the defeat of his hopes, even without the Cyclic Charts.

Further support for the conclusion that Labour would win can be found in the Monthly Phase Return Charts, the Lunar Returns and the Quarta-Lunar Returns, as also from Primary Directions, though these last are not so easily accessed by astrologers without computers.

In view of the above analysis it is difficult to see how an impartial enquirer could arrive at a contrary opinion. This is the aspect of the whole matter that we should be at pains to rectify for the sake of future political forecasts when we would hope to present a united front to the non-astrological sceptics. I invite contributions along these lines from any reader whose experiences or investigations can shed more light on the subject.

- Dymock.

ALLAN JOHNSON (Tas.) writes further on Gorbachev and the USSR:

THE FUTURE FOR GORBACHEV

by Allan Johnson

This is a follow up to my article in the January Issue. Mikhail Gorbachev has a Pisces Sun, and it is also opposite Neptune, so despite the strong Cardinal T-Square I think he would still be subject to inner uncertainty and insecurity. Therefore he would need the support of a very strong marriage partner. So, in looking ahead at his future we do also have to look at the Chart of his wife, Raisa, as she could be a strong influence. What he will need to survive in the future is a certain toughness to stick things out despite all the opposition and cross currents that will inevitably arise. But is Pisces such a tough Sign? So, just how helpful would his wife be in this regard?

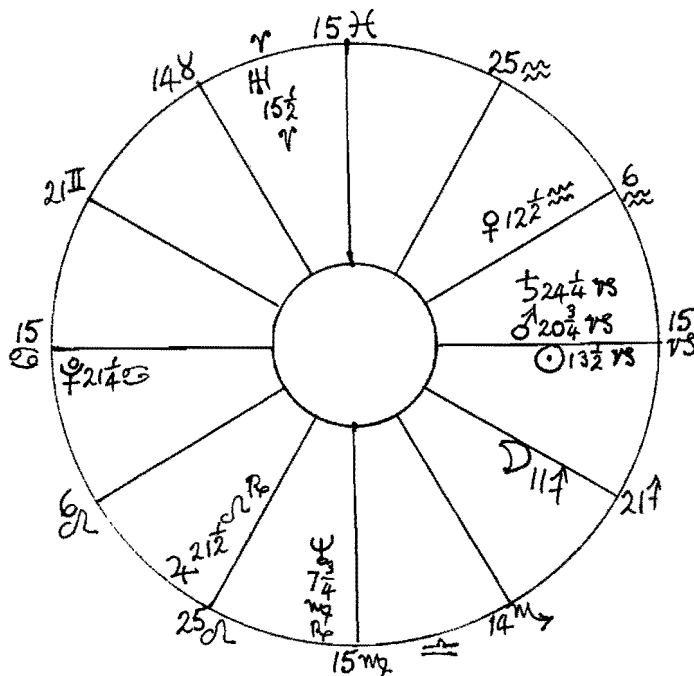

The date and birthplace of his wife are supplied in the Time Magazine Biography, but of course not the time. Her published photographs are strongly suggestive of Cancer, and giving her a 15° Cancer Ascendant, we find the Sun almost on the Descendant. This could be quite revealing, for with the Sun in Capricorn conjunct Mars/Saturn, square Uranus, opposite Pluto, we get a very strong character indeed, and one who could make her own way in politics in her own right. Yet she has not done so, and her claim to fame is through her marriage to Gorbachev. This does suggest the powerful Sun conjunction on the 7th Cusp is well placed. So, given this Angular T-Square, there would be no question about her strong support for Gorbachev in his demanding job.

This couple were born less than a year apart, so the main ingredients of the T-Square are the same in both cases and will be subject to the same Transits close to the same time. Raisa Gorbachev was said to be a much more dogmatic Marxist than her husband in her earlier years (Sun/Mars opposite Pluto), but Capricorns are nothing if not realists, so she could be equally committed to reform at the present time. In normal circumstances we might expect that such transits to the 7th House might work through marriage problems, but seeing that they are both highly committed to political survival at the present time, the 10th House is the most likely to be involved.

RAISA GORBACHEV

5th Jan., 1932, Rubtsovsk, Siberia. 51N30, 80E50. Speculative Ascendant 15 Cancer. Koch Cusps.

In looking ahead over the next few years the dominating factors are the transiting planets in Capricorn, which are correlating with the Cardinal configurations in both Charts. These overshadow any other planetary factors. The main item for 1990 is that both Charts are having the "Saturn Return", which is repeated three times during the year. I think the essence of a Saturn Return is that you are thrust into a situation where you have to come to terms with the realities around you. It means a hard look at what has been happening and where you are. And I think this is what Gorbachev is doing right now. He is going to make some very hard decisions concerning the Russian economy. In one sense it is a "make or break" situation, with the whole T-Square containing all the more dramatic planets involved. But Saturn will not be so strongly in the picture after the beginning of 1991 when it moves into Aquarius.

From then on we have to watch the transiting Uranus, which will square its own Natal position in Gorbachev's Chart in 1991, moving up to oppose Pluto in 1992. Of course, in 1992/1993 we have the great Uranus/Neptune conjunction linking with Gorbachev's Pluto-opposition-Saturn axis, and with Raisa's Mars/Pluto opposition. These early years of the 1990's could very aptly be designated as the "Years of Living Dangerously", and one could not predict with absolute certainty that they would survive and hold on to their prominent positions in the Russian hierarchy. Gorbachev also has Progressed Sun squaring Progressed Mars in 1991. I think one thing we could say is that Gorbachev won't be evading the decision-making and the challenges. People with Cardinal T-Squares usually love a real challenge.

My prediction is that they will survive these dangerous years, and there are several factors working in Gorbachev's favour. One is that he has already survived five years in office. Another is the strong correlation between the turbulences in his own Chart and that of the Soviet Union itself (though in the latter case it is Pluto transits) right through till the mid 1990's, and he appears to be adapting his own ideas to the need for popular reform. This means he is moving with the tide rather than seeking to obstruct it. Also there are no strong rivals on the horizon.

GENERAL NORIEGA - WHICH CHART?

Following the article in the January Issue using the birth date 11th February 1938 (The Hobart Mercury), two alternative birth years have come to light for the abovenamed - 1935 quoted in Gemini Rising, published by Dennis Sutton of the Sydney Astrological Research Society, and 1934 given in The World Book Encyclopaedia. Can anyone elucidate? This is still of topical interest as Noriega has yet to stand trial in the United States on charges of drug trafficking.

EXTENSION OF RECTIFICATION EXERCISE NO.5

Further information is available for the woman born 11th November 1911.

Jack Nicholls writes. "The subject is 5'1" tall, was thin but isn't any longer, had brown wavy hair, grey eyes and a fair complexion. She is stubborn, inflexible, unimaginative, high-principled and very fond of getting her own way. She is also pessimistic and rather materialistic. Although in the list of events there are episodes of surgery I do not know the reason for the operations. Clearly from the list she is a business woman."

You now have a further period of weeks to estimate the birth time. Send your answers to Dr. Jack Nicholls, 109 Highfield Road, Camberwell, Vic. 3124, by 20th April.

With regard to these Rectification Exercises, which have now been proceeding for some months, it is worth noting how much fruitful effort they have inspired. Aside from what those who have attempted the Exercises have learned from their own individual efforts, both Jack Nicholls and Ross Harvey have invented new methods of Rectification. Jack's was published in the last Issue, and Ross's will probably be presented soon.

A note from the writings of the late Charles E.O. Carter:

"Beginners should beware of an automatic classification of aspects into "good" and "bad" without due reference to the more general features of each figure and, in particular, to the Signs and Houses occupied by the contacting bodies. This error is common even among comparatively experienced students. The so-called bad aspects are stronger than the good ones, and therefore are potentially more difficult, especially if the more vigorous planets are involved. But, on the other hand, it is quite arguable that in the case of the less energetic bodies a square is better than a trine, even if it may not be so "lucky".

"A careful tabulation of many cases of good aspects on the one hand and bad aspects on the other, between the same bodies, has convinced the present writer that there is not always much to choose between them, heretical though this statement unquestionably is. Undoubtedly the trine and sextile are harmonious contacts. But the maintenance of harmony is not the supreme end of human life, even though without some measure of harmonious adaptation life would be impossible."

My kind regards to all. - Dymock. 3rd April 1990.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $15, Australia; $A20, Overseas.

Issue 103 February 1990.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

24th March - Who Wins?

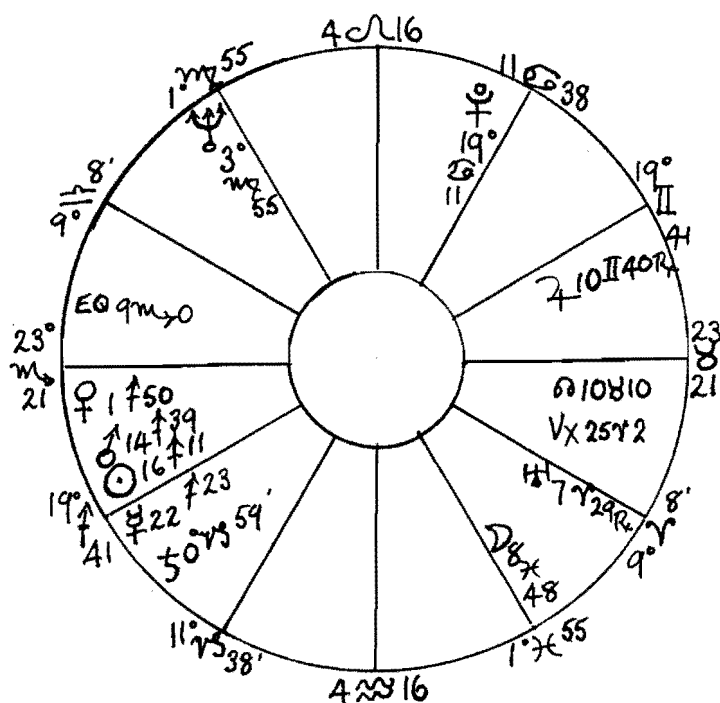

The topic of most interest to Australians at the moment is the forthcoming Federal Election on 24th March. As astrologers, we should not shirk the responsibility of forecasting the result, based on astrological reasoning. We must put our science on the line occasionally, notwithstanding the risks, or lose credibility and self-respect.

Here, then, is my forecast - Hawke will win! I base this principally on two Charts - his Synodic Return and his Age Harmonic.

Bob Hawke was born at Bordertown, South Australia, on 9th December 1929, the time being given as between 3:15 and 3:30 am. I am using Ross Harvey's Rectification to 3:25:29 am, which I think is as near correct as we can get it. Here is the Radix:

BOB HAWKE

9th December 1929, Bordertown, S.Aust.
36S21, 140E44. Rectified Time 3:25:29 am.
Placidian Cusps.

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Federal Election 24 March 1990	1
Rectification Exercises 4, 4A	2
New Technique for Rectifying	3
Rectification Exercise No. 5	3

BOB HAWKE: SYNODIC RETURN 60

Operative 9/12/1989 - 9/12/1990

Ephemeris Date 15th Oct. 1934,

Border Town. 5:53:4 am GMT. Placidus.

The most notable feature of the Synodic Return is the Midheaven at 13Sag28 conjunct the powerful combination in the First House of the Radix - Mars at 14Sag39 and the Sun at 16Sag11. This strongly favours success for Hawke.

In the Synodic Chart itself Jupiter, traditional Ruler of the Ascendant also rules the 10th House and is in close trine to Mars - a good indicator of victory. The Sun at 21Lib12 applies to a close trine to Saturn, tending to make Hawke's present position as Prime Minister solid and enduring.

Another Chart, equally favourable for Hawke, is the 60th Age Harmonic. There is not sufficient space to reproduce it here, but the favourable indications are the Sun and Mercury close to the Midheaven and their Midpoint, at 16Sag59, conjuncting the Midheaven at 16Sag28. The Moon's Node is less than one degree from the Sun, emphasizing its potential for success.

The other chief protagonist, Andrew Peacock, Leader of the Opposition, has poor Cyclic Charts for Electoral victory, and a disastrous Progression, the Sun conjunct Saturn, on the very day of the Election.

Rectification Exercises

From JACK NICHOLLS (Vic): The given birth time for Rectification Exercise No. 4 was 4:15 am - Ascendant 6Sco47, MC 21Leo 36.

Three entrants obtained the correct Rising Sign for this Exercise. Methods adopted were:

1. Calculate the Moon range, and narrow the Moon position by seeking major aspects by the Progressed Sun. For likely Moon positions erect charts and test by delineation to arrive at a narrowed range for the birth time. Erect Eclipse Charts prior to important events to confirm House placements. Check with Secondary Progressions, P.E.A. Primaries and Age Harmonics. (This entry closest to the Ascendant degree.)

2. Choose 10th House Cusp to agree with vocation and life-experiences. Position the Sun, Saturn, Ruler of the 10th and the Sun-Sign, etc. by House according to influence. Progress the MC and derived Ascendant by time measure of $1^\circ = 1$ year for major events. Use also Age Harmonics and Transits for major events.

3. Estimate the Sign and rising degree from an examination of aspects formed on a day related to conception, and adjust by Solar Arc Directions.

There were four entries for Exercise, No. 4A (Scorpio known to be rising). Methods essayed were:

1. The Sun, Moon and Saturn positioned according to assumed major influence in House terms. Progressed Natal MC and derived Ascendant related to major events. Check by Transits. Estimated time 0340 hours.

2. Cosmobiology, Solar-Arc and 90-degree Wheel. Estimated time 0508 hours.

3. Direction of Mars to the Ascendant by Naibod-Arc in longitude to correlate with entry into the Army. Check with Age Harmonics. Estimated time 0516 hours.

4. Decide Degree rising from an examination of aspects formed on a day related to conception. Correct by Solar-Arc Directions. Estimated time 0602 hours.

Note that only one of the four obtained the correct decanate.

Congratulations and thanks to these researchers who have taken the trouble and given their time to a most important department of Astrology.

Item 22 was incorrectly printed as 27th August - 26th September 1970, instead of 1979. [Apologies. - Ed.]

Special mention for Ken Gillman in connection with Rectification Exercise No. 3. Ken submitted an entry within 15 minutes of the correct time. His technique was: Decide that the birth was nocturnal, that Saturn was the first of the seven classical bodies to rise, that Uranus rose before Saturn, and that Jupiter was the first body to set after birth. This sequence of decisions gave a possible 15° arc for the Ascendant, the specific degree being found using the movement of the Progressed Moon and Angles (using the Naibod Arc).

It has been left to but four people to provide data for this series of Exercises. Please, if anyone can help, their contribution will be most gratefully received. Anonymity of contributions will be respected. Once more, many thanks to those who have provided data so far.

From a study of the Exercises so far, JACK NICHOLLS has devised his own method for rectification, using Solar Return Charts, where the birth time is known to lie within a period of about 100 minutes. On first results his method appears very promising. Jack used it successfully to obtain the birth time for Rectification Exercise No. 5 (see below) to within three minutes - an outstanding result.

A Proposed Rectification Technique

by Dr. Jack Nicholls

The method to be described is suitable for cases where the birth time is known to lie within a range of about 100 minutes or less.

1. Generate a pair of Standard Solar Returns for each of a number of major events in the life, using the time at each end of the range as the birth times for each pair.
2. Observe for each pair whether there is a Significator (or more than one) that transits any of the four Angles in the time interval, that is, in proceeding from the earlier to the later Chart.
3. The difference in longitude between the Significator and the earlier Angle is divided by the difference in longitude between the earlier and the later Angle, and multiplied by the time interval.
4. The result is added to the beginning of the time range.
5. The mean of such results for the series of events gives the required birth time.

It has been found that Demi-Solar Returns may be used as alternatives or supplements, where applicable. The position of the correct birth time within the interval is not important.

In calculating the Solar Returns, the geographic coordinates of the place of residence are used rather than those for the place of birth.

Once the mean has been calculated, those values lying more than 20 minutes away from it should be discarded and a new mean calculated. The value of 20 minutes is 1.5 standard deviation based on observations to date.

Rectification Exercise No. 4 serves as a good example, the given time being 4:15 am. Assuming the birth time was known to lie with the range 3:36am and 4:48am, an interval of 1h 12 minutes, Solar Returns for dated items yield the following :

[Refer to tabulated results on next page]

The method may also be used as a validation technique. If an interval is investigated around a proposed birth time and few, if any, contacts are obtained from a number of major events (deaths; operations; births - especially for female subjects; important employment beginnings or changes, life-threatening accidents, etc.) then this would throw serious doubts on the authenticity of that time.

An alternative to the proposed procedure would be to average the times in the case where several bodies cross the Angles for a given Solar Return pair, and then not exclude outrider values. For Item 16 of the above example this would record a mean time of 0427, which then results in an overall mean time for the subject of 0417 hours. Not a lot in it for the example, but more data may indicate which is the preferred procedure.

The method fills a large gap in our bag of tools. Age Harmonics can be used to place a time precisely, and if the above is only exact to a minute or so Age Harmonics can take over. I do not see anything to be gained by questioning the symbolism too closely. It works! Of course those astrologers with computers will be at a distinct advantage compared to the manual workers, as it would be tiresome to have to do several pairs of Solar Returns by hand.

It is hoped that serious astrologers will trial this method and provide constructive criticism to establish its worth or bring about improvements.

Addendum: Since the above article was written, Jack has added the following:

I have continued investigating further examples. In one, several events provided six contacts to confirm the given time to within seconds. However, for another three very important happenings no contacts could be found. The woman in question was born far from the place of residence appropriate to these latter events. Proper contacts were obtained when the Solar Return Charts were set for the place of birth for these recalcitrant incidents. This procedure is supplementary to what has been described in the method description and does not alter the statement about validation.

Rectification Exercise No. 5

Events in the life of a woman born at Marrickville, NSW, 3355, 151E09, on the 11th November 1911. All events took place in Sydney unless otherwise stated.

- | | | |
|----|-------------|---------------|
| 1. | 14 Mar 1883 | Father born. |
| 2. | 17 Apr 1886 | Mother born. |
| 3. | 9 Feb 1907 | Husband born. |
| 4. | 17 Mar 1916 | Sister born. |

Item No	Event and date	Significator and Angle	Resultant Time
3	To Nigeria, 18/12/1947	Uranus crosses Desc.	0417
7	Joined Army, 18/2/1954	Moon crosses MC.	0401
9	First child, 8/6/1959	Venus crosses IC.	0420
12	Promoted Sergeant, 2/2/1962	Moon crosses MC	0408
13	Aircraft emergency, 5/6/1962	Saturn crosses Desc.	0435
16	Dental problems, 4/2/1966	Saturn crosses MC	0405
		Pluto crosses IC	0431
		Moon crosses IC	0414
		Uranus crosses IC	0435
		Mars crosses Desc	0448
24	Father died, 2/2/1982	Uranus crosses Desc	0405

Mean 0422. Discard 0448 Hours reading: Mean 0417. Given time 0415 hours (Asc 6Sco47, MC 21Leo 36).

It is instructive to look also at the interval from 0448 (30 Leo MC) to 0631
(30 Scorpio Asc) equal to 103 minutes.

3	To Nigeria, 18/12/1947	N.Node crosses IC	0529
		Venus crosses Asc	0538
		Moon crosses Asc	0558
7	Joined Army, 18/2/1947	Pluto crosses	0601
		Neptune crosses IC	0502
		Mars crosses IC	0506
		Saturn crosses IC	0543
9	First child, 8/6/1959	N.Node crosses Asc	0607
12	Promoted Sergeant, 2/2/1962	Jupiter crosses Desc	0527
16	Dental problems, 24/2/1966	Venus crosses Desc	0555
24	Father died, 2/2/1982	Mercury crosses Desc	0539
		Neptune crosses Desc	0521

Mean 0537. Discard 5 values less or greater than the mean by 20 minutes:

Mean 0536

A time of 0536 hours has an Ascendant 20Sc36 square MC for the previous interval.

5. Mid-1919	Family moved house to 33S52, 151E06.	20. July 1957 Father died.	21. Jul/Aug 1958 Mother died.
6. 24 May 1921	Brother born.	22. May 1960 Surgery.	23. May 1964 Surgery.
7. April 1926	Scarlet fever.	24. 22 Jan 1966 Husband died suddenly.	33S27, 151E27.
8. 22 Jul 1926	Brother born	25. July 1968 Sold business after months of negotiations.
9. 4 Oct 1929	Met future husband.	26. 29 Dec 1968 Moved house, within same suburb.
10. 15 Jul 1933	Married.	27. Aug 1969 Moved house to 33S49, 151E10.
11. 7 May 1937	Moved with husband to Wellington, NZ, 41S18 174E47.	28. Apr 1970 Moved house to 33S46, 151E09.
12. 1 Jul 1940	Returned to Australia	29. Dec1970/Jan 1971 Moved house to 33S43, 151E07.
13. During 1941	First house built, 33S49, 151E10.	30. Mar 1973 Moved house to 33S37, 151E19.
14. 1942	Started business with husband.	31. Aug 1973 Moved house to 33S43, 151E08.
15. 1945	Husband and subject bought factory.	32. Oct. 1974 Big loss in collapse of public company.
16. 1947	Husband and subject bought larger factory.	33. 28 Jun 1976 Moved house to 33S27, 151E27.
17. 11 Jun 1949	Son born, 33S50, 151E12	34. 24 Apr 1979 Moved house to 33S43, 151E08.
18. 5 Jun 1953	Sister died.	35. 1 Sep 1979 Four-months' world trip. Ill during trip.
19. 19 Dec 1953	Moved house to 33S43, 151E07.	36. 28 Oct 1982. Elder brother died.
		37. 12 Oct 1988. Surgery.

Please send your estimates of the birth time to Dr. Jack Nicholls, 109 Highfield Road, Camberwell, Vic. 3124 by the 20th of March so that a report on the Exercise can be included in the next Astrologers' Forum. Have a go! It is educative.
My kind regards to all. - Dynock, 27th February 1990.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $15, Australia; $A20, Overseas.

Issue 102 January 1990.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

This is indeed a remarkable era! The turmoil and changes in Eastern Europe and Russia since early November last are not merely astonishing for the present generation but will be a source of wonder to future historians. The big question now is - can Mikhail Gorbachev, the most liberal-minded and statesmanlike leader that Russia has seen since the 1917 Revolution, survive the tumult and ferment in his own country? It is a question that concerns us all, not only the Russians. Here is an article from ALLAN JOHNSON (Tas.) touching on the matter.

THE GORBACHEV PHENOMENON by Allan Johnson

When George Orwell wrote his famous book 1984 as a horrific look at the future, he selected the year 1984 at random as being sufficiently far into the future from his standpoint at that time. All he did was simply to reverse the two last digits of the year in which he was writing the book, so 1948 became 1984. This was publicly seized on as highly significant, and in the years leading up to it people were constantly asking, "What will happen in 1984?". It was a random choice, yet according to Jung's theory of "Synchronicity", or "meaningful coincidences" - an apparently random choice is not necessarily so. This is the case with Horary Astrology. So we might ask what did happen in 1984? Was it really a significant year? Was it more significant than most people realized at the time? For that was the very year in which Mikhail Gorbachev rose to power in Russia. Actually, there was a slight overlap into 1985, as the dying Chernenko lingered on till the beginning of March '85, when Gorbachev took over, but his real rise to power was in the key year 1984.

Now, in hindsight, we can say that that rise to power was the trigger that set in motion a whole chain of events from the Russian withdrawal in Afghanistan to the Berlin Wall and the collapse of Communism in almost the whole of Eastern Europe.

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The Gorbachev Phenomenon	1
General Manuel Noriega	2
Celestial Latitude May be Vital!	3
Rectification Exercise No. 4	4

Gorbachev was the pivotal figure. So this makes Gorbachev's Chart highly significant if we are looking at the future for events over the next decade. His date and place of birth are pretty much beyond doubt, but his time is not known. I think his published photographs and his known sociability and genial personality are strongly suggestive of Leo rising, and if we take the beginning of Leo we get Mars conjunct the Ascendant and Uranus right on the M.C., a fact that correlates with his sudden and unexpected rise to power. But Gorbachev's Chart is not an easy one to rectify by events. The Editors of Time Magazine have put together a paperback biography, but it lacks a lot of the personal details which are always so necessary. Basically, he has not had such an eventful life in itself. He married at 23 and is still with the same wife. His life has not had a lot of upheavals and highs and lows, often common in the lives of political figures, but rather it has been one steady rise through the ranks as a Party official and administrator in the Soviet bureaucracy. He was always a convinced Marxist but also the type of person to adapt to his surroundings, to have firm opinions when these were necessary, but never to stick his neck out too far.

His life story is divided into a number of distinctive phases. His early life was spent growing up in the Stavropol area, which is about 1,000 miles from Moscow, and which included a period under German occupation in the early '40's. At 19 he moved to Moscow to commence his five-year University course. This was his first really big event. Progressing this speculative Chart by 1° to the M.C., we get Progressed M.C. at 2° Taurus and Progressed Asc. at 14° Leo, conjunct the Moon and trine the M.C., Moon's Node and Uranus. It was the first big step up the ladder. At age 24 when he completed his university term and graduated in law (which he was never to practise) he returned to his former provincial locations, and for the next 23 years he led a life of steady promotion in the provincial administration and through his Party activities.

So the really big milestone in his life didn't come till his move to Moscow in 1978 at the Age of 47, progressing the M.C. to this event we take it right to the Cusp of Taurus and Gemini, and also square to Mercury in the 8th House (the end of that whole phase of his life). The Cusp of Taurus/Gemini is highly appropriate as representing the major change from the rural scene to the big city, the very centre of any action. The Progressed Ascendant was conjunct Neptune, apt for the expectations and uncertainties. At the same time transiting Pluto was right on the I.C., highly appropriate for such a major change of residence and career at the same time. In addition to all this the Progressed New Moon Eclipse occurred in 1978 at 27° Aries, exactly square to Natal Mars, and very symbolic of what was to lie ahead.

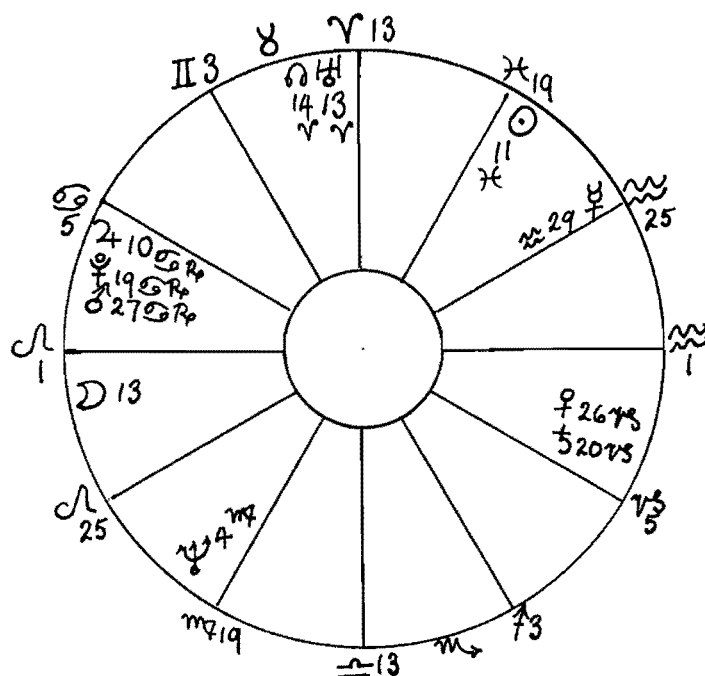

The next really big event was the fateful year 1984, when he rode to the top position, the Progressed M.C. goes to 6° Gemini, which does not link up, but the Ascendant came to the opposition of the Sun and sextile to Jupiter. These link with the new prestige, and also his trip to Britain brought him world television exposure for the first time, right in December, 1984. Transiting Pluto was just entering Scorpio, and squaring his Ascendant at the same time, indicating the pressures which must accompany a person in the hot seat. But of course all this is very far from being a really adequate rectification. The great difficulty with Progressing the Angles in this Chart is that all the really dramatic planets (Uranus, Pluto, Saturn, Mars) are in the Cardinal Signs, and neither the M.C. nor the Ascendant pass through Cardinal Signs in any of his adult years. But at the same time it is a confirmation that the greater part of his life did not have so much heavy drama.

The big question a lot of people are asking about Gorbachev is, Can he last? Or will the hardliners get back into control in Russia? The reformation that is taking place in Eastern Europe has gone so far that there seems small prospect of its being stopped, but the situation is much more complex in Russia itself, for the area occupied by the Soviet Union is really a hangover from the old Nineteenth Century Russian Empire, and is composed of about 400 diverse nationalities, stretching from Europe to the Pacific Ocean. So this could present an enormous number of problems if they become much more nationalistic. We are seeing this already. So what does the future portend for Gorbachev? This is really the subject for another article.

MIKHAIL GORBACHEV

2nd March 1931, Stavropol, USSR.
45N2, 41E59. Specul. time 2:30 pm. Koch.

GENERAL MANUEL NORIEGA

JILLIAN NORRIS-HUME (Tas.) has sent the following comments on the Horoscope of General Noriega, whose corrupt reign in Panama was ended following the invasion of US troops on 20th December last. Unfortunately Noriega's time of birth is unknown, but I think it likely he has the Moon in Cancer on the Ascendant, in view of his continual posturing and bravado. Accordingly I have reproduced this Chart rather than the Solar Chart that Jillian submitted. The annotations, however, are Jillian's:

The stellium in Aquarius is partially squared by Uranus in Taurus and, as Mercury and Jupiter are involved, extremist opinions or radical philosophies (Fixed Signs) may be rigidly adhered to.

GENERAL MANUEL NORIEGA

11th February 1938, Panama City,

8N58, 79W32.

Speculative Time 3:43 pm. Placidian Cusps.

Saturn conjunct Mars in Aries would suggest the courage, ambition, ruthlessness and daring expected of a military leader. He is an enterprising and motivated dynamo, but as the Saturn/Mars conjunction squares the Moon (assuming the selected birth time is approximately correct) his actions would bring him into the public eye but certainly not popularity with the people.

His Sun/Venus conjunction in Aquarius, however, would help to moderate this as he could exude charm and grace when he wanted to. As this Sun/Venus conjunction is quincunx to Neptune, he may be a past master at deceiving others with the "pretty pictures he paints".

His Aquarius stellium can indicate an aloofness that puts others at arms length - being friendly to all but close to few, and this may account for the quote that he was "the coldest man I ever met". Indifference is a keyword of Aquarius.

On December 22nd, when Noriega fled from the invading U.S. troops, the following Transits were operative:

Sun, 28° Sagittarius, exact quincunx Pluto: Confrontation or power struggles with those who would enforce their dominance.

Mars, 2° Sagittarius, conjunct the Moon's

Node: Encounters with aggressive or military people.

Transiting Uranus and retrograding Jupiter, at 5° Capricorn and 6° Cancer respectively are both close (and applying) to the square of the Mars/Saturn midpoint (5Cap52), indicating strife and stress. [Noriega sought refuge in the Vatican Embassy, and surrendered to US troops on 4th January 1990. - Ed.]

CELESTIAL LATITUDE MAY BE VITAL!

In last month's Issue attention was drawn to the fact that a planet's true position can differ widely from the Zodiacal position given in the Ephemeris when its Celestial Latitude is taken into account. Celestial Latitude is distance North or South of the Ecliptic, which is the Sun's apparent path in the sky. The effect is most noticeable with the planet Pluto, which ranges well away from the Ecliptic, and it is enhanced by high geographic latitude.

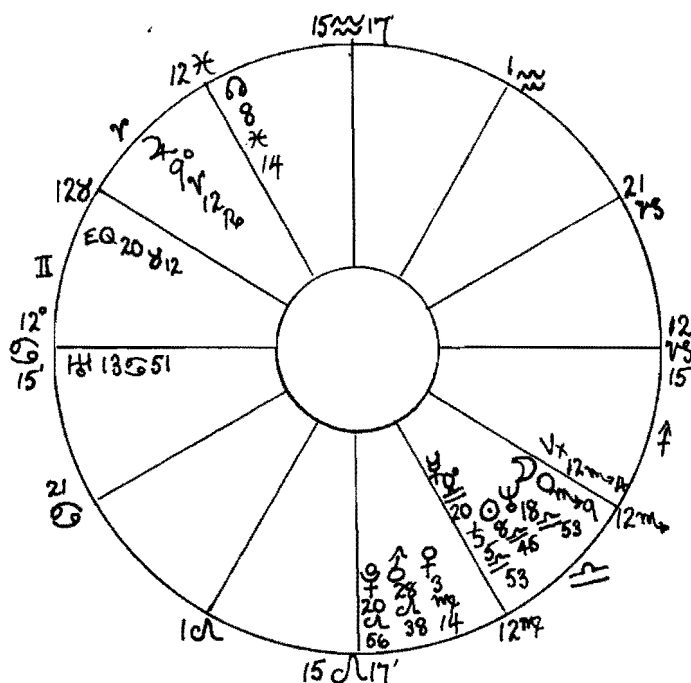

A case in point - a remarkable one - has been submitted by ROSS HARVEY (NSW), and concerns the Solar Return Chart of a woman born in Finland. This Chart, and its Radix, are given below.

The SR Chart covers the period from 2nd October 1959 to 2nd October 1960 when, at the age of 8, the native emigrated from Finland to Australia. This emigration from her homeland would have been of singular importance to the young girl yet, on the surface of things, there is little or nothing to correlate with it in the Annual Chart. True, if you superimpose the Annual Chart on the Birth Chart (which should always be done) there is the striking conjunction of SR-Uranus (19Leo44) with Natal Pluto (20Leo56) in the House of the Home and Fatherland, and the SR-9th Cusp (Long Journeys) at 13Cap22 conjunct the Natal Descendant at 12Cap15 and opposite Natal Uranus at 13Can51 - all powerfully indicative of the emigration.

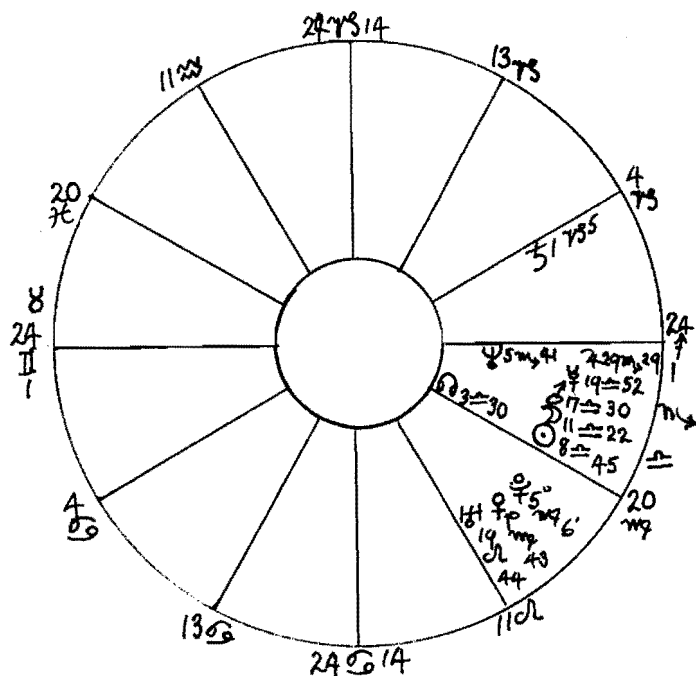

But there is nothing strikingly apposite in the Annual Chart, until we take into account Pluto's Celestial Latitude, which was 11°53' North of the Ecliptic, thus giving a clue that its true position may differ widely from its Ecliptic Longitude (5Vir6). To find where it should actually be placed in the Chart we have to calculate its Semi-arc and its Meridian Distance.

A planet's Diurnal Semi-arc is half the length of time (measured in degrees) that it remains above the horizon or, put another way, the distance the planet travels in passing from the Horizon to the Upper

RADIX: 2ND OCTOBER 1951, 18:38 UT
Kuopio, Finland, 62N54, 27E35. Placidus.

SOLAR RETURN, 2ND OCTOBER 1959, 5:11:32 pm,
UT. Kuopio, Finland. Placidus.

Meridian. Its Upper Meridian Distance is its distance in Right Ascension from the M.C. I had intended including the equations for calculating the above, but they may not be of general interest. If I receive sufficient enquiries I shall publish them in a forthcoming Issue.

In the Chart we are discussing, Pluto's distance from the Upper Meridian is 134°35' and its Diurnal Semi-arc (the total distance it travels from the Horizon to the MC) is 137°28', so it is clear that Pluto is actually just above the Descendant! From this position it dominates the Solar Return Chart, changing its import altogether in that it is powerfully indicative of a radical and irreversible change of environment.

In terms of its Semi-arc, Pluto is 2°53' above the 7th Cusp.

There is some debate as to what constitutes the best method for equating this Semi-arc distance to an equivalent point of Zodiacal Longitude, so that we can specify Pluto's true position in relation to the other factors of the Chart. Different methods have been proposed, giving slightly different results.

The method I now suggest, after some experiment, is to take the proportion of the Zodiacal distance from the Descendant to the Midheaven, 30°13', (24Cap14-24Sag11) that corresponds to the proportion Semi-arc distance above the Descendant to Diurnal Semi-arc, and add this to the Descendant:

$$(2^{\circ}53' / 137^{\circ}28' = .021).$$

The increment, then, .021 of 30°13', 38' in Zodiacal Longitude, places Pluto at 24Sag1 + 0°38', that is, 24Sag39'.

There is no doubt about the efficacy of this location of Pluto, as compared with its Ecliptic projection without Latitude (5Vir6) and its unspectacular mundane position in the 5th House.

The moral of all this is to be watchful of any Ephemeris position where the body concerned has some degrees of Celestial Latitude, and particularly so when the Geographic Latitude is relatively high, whether North or South of the Equator. The true position of the body, when translated into its Zodiacal Longitude Equivalent, may cast an entirely different light on the chart you are investigating. Pluto is the planet principally to watch, (its Celestial Latitude at 1st February 1990 is 15°30' North) but the Moon, Venus and Mercury can also have enough Latitude to alter their positions considerably from the Zodiacal Longitude given in the Ephemeris.

Unfortunately, the Ephemeris that many astrologers and students use, The American Ephemeris for the 20th Century, does not give Celestial Latitude, and it is necessary to use the decade books of The American Ephemeris, or equivalent publication, if you do not want to be occasionally misled by the Zodiacal Longitude positions of the planets. - Dymock.

RECTIFICATION EXERCISE NO. 4

This Exercise is still in progress, but JACK NICHOLLS reports that three readers so far have discovered the correct Rising Sign, and it is now proposed to reveal this Sign - Scorpio - and invite everyone to attempt from there to find the Rising Degree (and consequently the birth time).

Accordingly, all those who have already sent a reply, as well as those who have not, are asked to attempt this easier Exercise, knowing that the Ascendant Sign is Scorpio.

Please send your entries to Jack Nicholls, by February 20, so that the results can be incorporated in the next Issue. See last month's Astrologers' Forum for full details.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock,
5th February 1990.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $15, Australia and Overseas.

Issue 101 December 1989.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

AND NOW ROMANIA!

The astonishing speed of the changes in Eastern Europe are almost too fast for the astrologer to cope with. Country after country has been liberated from the yoke of totalitarianism, and oppressed peoples are once again breathing the air of freedom. Only Romania is obdurate, and we have just heard of the appalling massacre of demonstrators in the city of Timisoara, a massacre by Government troops and police that rivals the iniquity of the carnage in Beijing on the 4th of June last. As I write, news has arrived of another equally horrifying massacre in Romania's capital city, Bucharest. Deepest sympathy is being felt for the victims the world over. When will this brutal regime, headed by Prime Minister Ceausescu, be overthrown?

What are the astrological connotations? The Chart for Romania's becoming independent of Russia in 1877 is given below (data from Campion's The Book of World Horoscopes). May 21st was the day Romania declared its independence, but the time is speculative, noon Local Mean Time being selected as probably closer to the mark than a Sunrise Horoscope.

The Chart is indeed a violent one. What immediately draws attention is the close opposition of Mars and Uranus (orb only 4'!) and the T-Square with Pluto. These three planets acting in concert spell extreme violence, and the conjunction of Pluto with the Sun at the Midheaven indicates tyrannical and oppressive leadership. A further very unhappy feature is the opposition of Saturn to the Moon, signifying oppression of the common people.

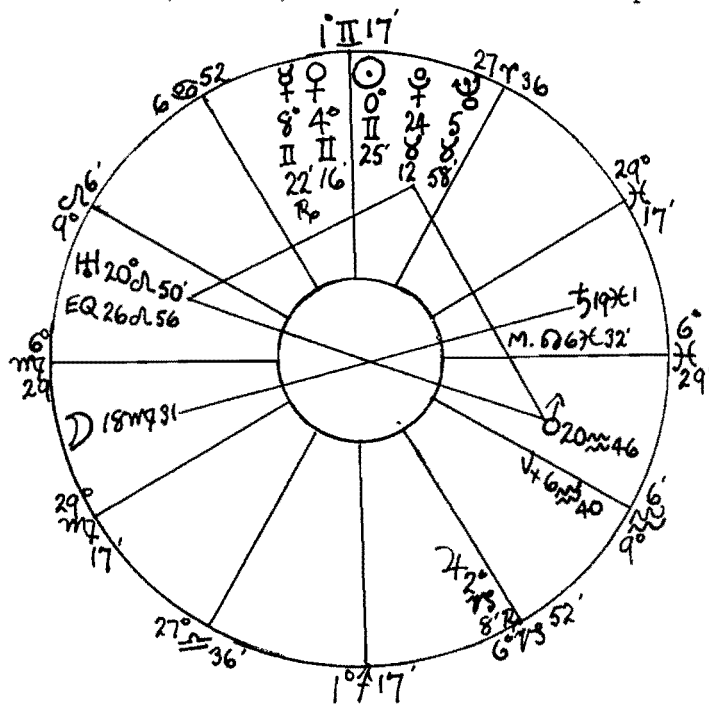

The Chart may, indeed, be very nearly correct as to time, because in the Converse Progressed Map Saturn came square to the Ascendant exactly on 19th December, and the Timisoara massacre took place on the 17th December! The accuracy of aspects involving the Angles and intermediate Cusps is very dependent on accurate timing of the Radix. The timing is much less critical for aspects involving the planets.

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Romania in Turmoil	1
Chart for Romania's Independence	1
Horoscope of the German Democratic Republic	2
More on Astrology and Racing	2
An Easy Win	2
Result of Rectification Exercise No. 3	3
Rectification Exercise No. 4	3
Watch Celestial Latitude!	4

ROMANIAN INDEPENDENCE

May 21, 1877, 12 Noon Local Mean Time, Bucharest, 44N26, 26E6. Placidian Cusps.

In the (Direct) Progressed Chart the Moon reached the Declination of Natal Mars (16°47' South), signifying bloodshed, precisely on 19th December.

This very apposite Parallel is another indication that the Chart is somewhere near correct. Though Parallels tend to spread their effect over a period, any connection of Mars with the Moon will precipitate its effects sharply on time.

The Horoscope of Romania is desperately unfortunate. Nothing short of a different Chart altogether, established by a new, liberal regime, will solve Romania's troubles and end its centuries of tormented history.

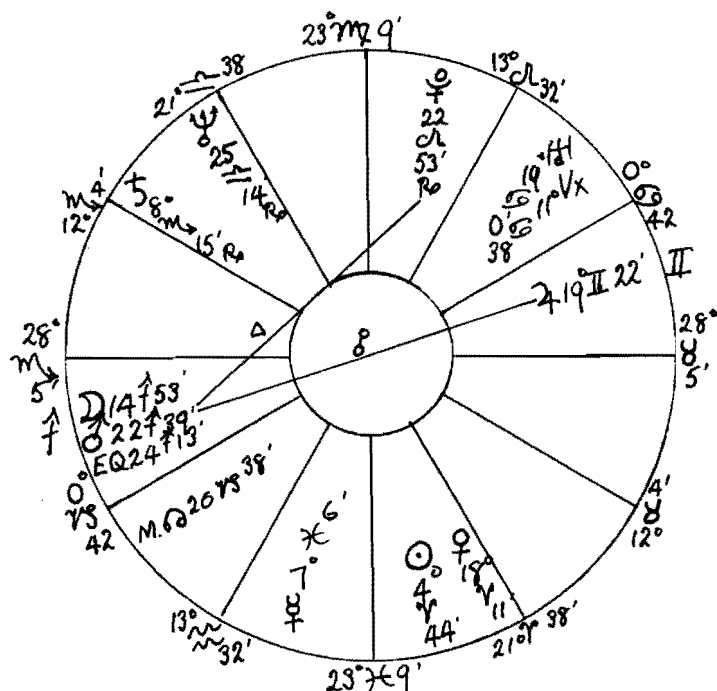

- Dymock.

THE PEOPLE TRIUMPH! News has just been received (23rd December) that the iron-fisted Dictator, Nicolai Ceausescu has been overthrown and is a fugitive. Fighting is going on between the Romanian Army and elements of the former Dictator's Security Police, but it does appear that the old regime is ended!

In the last issue of Astrologers' Forum the Chart for the German Democratic Republic (East Germany) was referred to but inadvertently omitted. Here it is.

GERMAN DEMOCRATIC REPUBLIC

March 25, 1954, 10:30 pm GMT, Berlin.
Placidian Cusps.

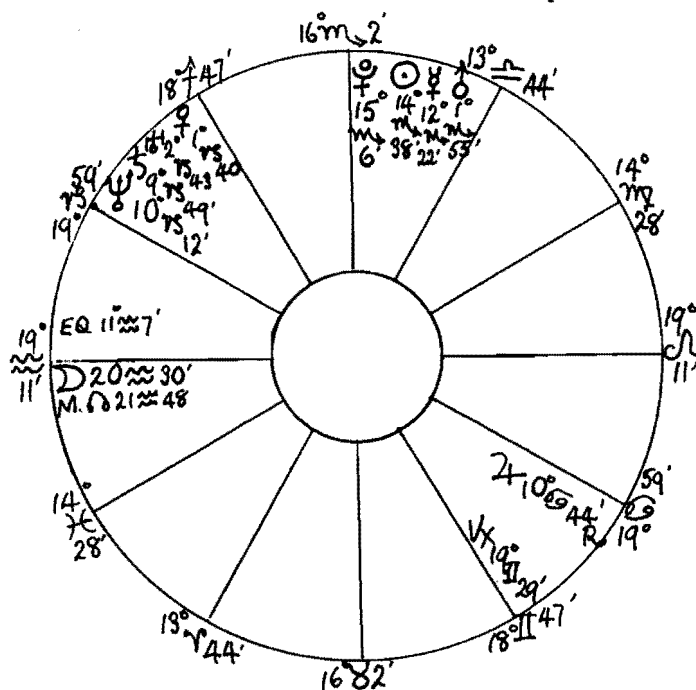

The predictions made about this Chart in the last Issue have been borne out: "Looking ahead, we see further fundamental change coming as Pluto sextiles the Ascendant, Uranus trines the Equatorial Ascendant [EP] and Mercury trines Pluto, all in December 1989."

- Dymock.

ASTROLOGY AND HORSE-RACING

The Race Chart below was sent to me by RICKY and VIRGIN CORCILIOUS (NSW). It refers to a race in Brisbane on 7th November last, and provided a very easy clue to the winner.

RACE 2, BRISBANE, QLD., 7th November 1989
12:37 pm AEDT (Speculative finishing time).
27S25, 153E5. Placidian Cusps.

No need for a list of the starters here. Pluto in Scorpio just past the Midheaven and conjunct the Sun, with Mercury and Mars also in Scorpio, pointed unerringly to SCORPIO SHORE, which duly won, returning a gratifying dividend to the above astrologers and your Editor.

THE LONG SHOT

by Jenifer Pommerin (WA)

The exploitation of the horse as a thing to make money is bad enough, but to physically, and often very painfully, interfere with its well-being is a shameful indictment of our humaneness. The cruel and horrible use of the ultrasonic gun is the latest criminal method. Like all animals, the horse is defenceless against our greed. Concerned punters can join an Animal Protection Group. An honest race obviously goes a long way to reduce ill-treatment.

There would be no racing industry without the punter. Profit or pleasure, or the gaining of astrological knowledge are possibilities for us, but the horse pays (one way or another) for it. For those interested in seeing the hidden influences at work in the racing industry, the following is offered.

In order of strength:

1. Neptune. The aspect needs to be a square, quincunx or conjunction with the Ascendant or Midheaven, exact or within 30", or an exact conjunction with a minor Cusp. Indicative of drugs - hormonal, anti-inflammatory, stimulating, or sedating.
2. Mercury. An opposition, conjunction or quincunx to the Ascendant or Midheaven. Indicative of dishonesty - accepting bribes, misleading reports about the true chances of the horse, or fickle performance of the the jockey or horse on the day. A trine or the aspecting presence of any other planets (except Neptune or Jupiter) nullifies the influence.
3. Moon. Usually an opposition, quincunx or trine to the Ascendant or Midheaven. Indicative of mistaken hunches of the tipsters and punters, or a sort of mass "wish", perhaps a sentimental fondness for a horse influencing the betting. The aspect that the Moon forms with Arkahdia (Transpluto) is an area worth investigating. Arkahdia is the Ruler of Taurus. At the time of the last Melbourne Cup the Moon was in an applying and close opposition to Arkahdia.
4. Mars, plus any of the above planets or alone, forming an exact square to the Midheaven, or conjunct a minor Cusp. Indicative of interference from a jockey in the running of his own or another's mount; or fever, inflamed joints, no energy, etc.
5. Jupiter or the Sun in close trine to the Ascendant, or Jupiter in a close conjunction with the Ascendant, or either body conjunct the Midheaven, but only if Uranus or Venus is not in any aspect with any of the House Cusps. Indicative that the bookmakers, and not the public, have the favour of these gambling planets.
6. Saturn with Mercury or alone in quincunx to the Midheaven or Ascendant. Indicative of dishonesty.

RECTIFICATION EXERCISES

Result of Exercise No. 3

Only five entries were received for the restricted range Rectification Exercise No. 3, but Jack Nicholls thinks that something is being achieved in demonstrating which techniques are not suitable and which show real promise. The actual time of the birth of the female born at Sydney on 26th September 1946 was 8 pm AEST (10 am UT), with an Ascendant 0°4' Taurus. Jack remarks that the precise time might differ slightly from 8 pm but he is sure that Taurus was rising.

The entries in order of closeness to 8 pm, and the methods used, were

1. 7:28 pm, by Age Harmonics.
2. 6:50 pm, using the 90° dial, planets directed by Solar Arc (in Zodiacal longitude), "hard" aspects only considered, and great importance placed on midpoints.
3. 9:22 pm. Sign and degree rising estimated from an examination of aspects formed on a day related to conception, and corrected using the Radix System Directions and Secondary Progressions.
4. 9:35 pm. Possible Sign and degree for one of the Angles arrived at from consideration of post and prenatal stationary transits. Age Harmonics, Solar Returns and Secondary Progressions used to arrive at final estimate.
5. 9:50 pm. Attempt to identify Sign of Ascendant and Midheaven according to the surmised character, primary motivation, etc., of subject. Angles progressed (1° = 1 year) according to major changes in life, and aspects with Natal planets checked.

NEW RECTIFICATION EXERCISE - NO. 4

Male born on 15th December 1938 at Lytham, England. 53°44' North, 2°56' West.

1. Father born 7th June 1913.
2. Mother born 2nd January 1907.
3. Complete change of environment on 18th December 1947: By 'plane (for first time) to Nigeria with Mother to join Father.
4. Christmas 1948, very unusual, exciting and strange adventure in wild and remote part of Nigeria. Danger from animals and natives. Treated as an oddity.
5. 25th February 1952, observed total eclipse of the Sun. Very impressed.
6. 2nd February 1953, arrived U.K. by ship from Nigeria. Very uncomfortable, strange and cold conditions in U.K.
7. 18th February 1954, joined Army as a boy soldier. Very harsh conditions. Applied to be trained as a draughtsman but was refused, and became a Radar Technician.
8. 8th June 1957, married girl next door - a Capricorn.
9. 8th June 1959, first child born, a girl, while he was absent on military duties.
10. 13th September 1960, 2nd child born, a boy, at home. Father present.
11. 30th December 1961, 3rd child born, a girl, at home. Father present.
12. 2nd February, 1962, promoted to Sergeant.
13. 5th June 1962, Emergency landing in aircraft with engine on fire. Outer Hebrides, Scotland.

14. 7th June, 1963, started work on digital computers which have been of central interest to date.
15. 6th December 1965, moved into first house after leaving Army. Began first civilian employment for Police.
16. 24th February 1966, severe dental problems.
17. 21st June 1966, 4th child born, a boy, at home. Father present.
18. 10th September 1967, 5th child born, a girl.
19. 17th July 1967, realized lifetime ambition to become a draughtsman.
20. 6th December 1968, moved into large new home in rural surroundings. Expansion of interests - horticulture, animal breeding, self-sufficiency, etc.
21. 10th January 1975, sudden "enlightenment" into Astrology, which changed future life.
22. 27th August - 26th September 1970, disruption of home and family. Son had motor accident. Wife in severe depression for next two years. Home sold.
23. 2nd February 1982, father died.
24. 27th July 1985, dispute with Mother over property.
25. 6th July 1986, grand-daughter born to unmarried 2nd daughter. Much interest and support for child.

All readers are urged to attempt the rectification. You don't know how much you'll learn about astrology until you apply yourself to problems like this. Those who have tried before and been unsuccessful should not be put off. Disregard any previous failures, and try again!

Send your entries to Dr. Jack Nicholls, 109 Highfield Road, CAMBERWELL, VIC. 3124, by the 7th of February 1990.

Individual astrologers may obtain correct results by guess-work, intuition or psychic faculty. This does not advance Astrology. Demonstrated methods must be accessible to all, and the astrological data such that any competent astrologer could reasonably be expected to reach similar conclusions.

IGNORANCE IS SLAVERY! Knowledge liberates us from slavery, and is the first step to wisdom.

WATCH CELESTIAL LATITUDE!

As most astrologers know, the mundane position of a planet is an important factor in determining the power of that planet in a horoscope. By mundane position I mean the proximity of a planet to an Angle, or to an intermediate Cusp, or its "elevation" (closeness to the Midheaven) in the Chart.

In our normal work, we take the positions of the planets in Zodiacal Longitude that is, the projection of their positions onto the Ecliptic, the apparent path of the Sun.

These are the positions we read in the Ephemeris on pages or in the column headed "Longitude", and for the most part they serve pretty well. Usually we can judge from them whether a planet is close to an Angle or an intermediate Cusp, above or below it. The closer it is the more power that planet has both generally and in the affairs of the House of which the Cusp is the strongest point.

(N.B. Don't make the common error of accepting the Cusps as being the boundaries of the Houses, which they are not. A House extends both above and below its Cusp.)

The Ecliptic projections, as in the Ephemeris, are close enough to the true positions of the planets most of the time, but occasionally they are way out! Those occasions are when the planet has Celestial latitude of more than about two degrees.

The actual position of the planet may differ markedly from its Zodiacal longitude as shown in the Ephemeris. Celestial latitude is distance North or South of the Ecliptic (longitude being distance along it), and is analogous to a planet's Declination, which is distance above or below the Celestial Equator (the Earth's Equator, projected into space).

Some planets never have much Celestial Latitude, and so do not pose a problem in this respect, but the difficulty does sometimes arise with the Moon, Mercury, Venus, and particularly Pluto.

The extraordinary difference that Celestial Latitude can make will be illustrated graphically in next month's Astrologers' Forum. In a particular Solar Return Pluto, apparently unspectacularly placed in the 5th House, was actually the dominant factor, effecting a complete change of environment, because its real position was right on the Descendant!

How to determine the true position of a planet will be one of the topics in the January Issue.

My kind regards and Seasonal Greetings to all.
- Dymock, 24th December 1989.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $15, Australia and Overseas.

Issue 100 November 1989.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

CHANGE IN EASTERN EUROPE

The revolutionary changes that are sweeping bloodlessly across Eastern Europe and the Soviet Socialist Republics are a long-awaited and joyful occasion for millions of the citizens of those oppressed countries. Dare we hope that this is the beginning of the end of the Cold War between East and West? Think of the general raising of living standards if the stupendous amounts of money that are now spent on armaments could be diverted into social channels!

The opening of the Berlin Wall is the most outstanding of the recent changes, and ALLAN JOHNSON (Tas.) has submitted the following article on this amazing development.

THE BERLIN WALL

The ending of the Berlin Wall is one of the most dramatic events in recent times. This is something that has taken everybody by surprise, not least the East Germans themselves. There have been a number of alternative charts for the East German Republic, one for 7th October 1949, and another for 25th March 1954, Berlin, but the real centre of power for East Germany has never been anywhere else but Moscow, due to Germany's role in the War. Up till now nothing could happen in East Germany that did not have the tacit sanction of Moscow, and the Berlin Wall has always been a tremendous symbol for the Great Schism, or the division of the world into two distinctive camps. Consequently what has happened now could never take place without Soviet approval. This is a major milestone in the whole history of Communism. So in this case the chart we have to look at is the Chart for the Soviet Union itself. We have to take the Chart for the Soviet Union as a "seed" chart for world-wide Communism.

As always, there are controversies about which is the true Chart for Russia. The one I take is the one given by Liz Greene in her book The Outer Planets and Their Cycles, and this has a lot going for it due to the fact

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The Berlin Wall	1
East Germany and the Jupiter/Saturn Conjunction	2
Chart for East Berlin	2
The Berlin Wall and the Saturn Cycle	3
An Astrological Win on the Melbourne Cup	3
Astrological Prediction of Earthquakes	6

that at Stalin's death Pluto was right on its Ascendant. The Chart is for 7th November 1917, 10:52 pm, Leningrad. It does indeed show remarkable correlation with what has been happening.

The key to the Chart is the powerful T-Square configuration, creating a "chain linkage" type of pattern from the M.C. to the Moon. The centre of this configuration is the exact Sun/Saturn square. So it is interesting to note that on 9th November, the start of the Great Wall drama, Pluto was in 15° Scorpio - exactly on the Sun's position and exactly squaring Saturn, a spot-on indication for what was happening. Pluto does mean endings and new beginnings, transformation, regenerations, etc. and, of course, heady drama. Certain astronomers have been recently down-grading Pluto, claiming it is much smaller and less significant than was earlier thought, but from an astrological point of view it seems to be maintaining its vital power and importance.

Looking to the future we should get some highly significant developments when Pluto squares Natal Uranus in 1991 and 1992. It seems plain that the Communist world is going through a massive restructuring. The U.S.S.R. 7th November 1917, 10:52 pm.

Leningrad, 59N55, 30E15. Koch Cusps.
(Chart from Liz Greene)

Berlin Wall is a powerful symbol of all this. There are a few other things worth noting in the Russian Chart. Progressed Mercury is now opposite Natal Pluto, which is a supporting factor, and the Progressed Sun is in the last two degrees of Capricorn, so it is due to enter Aquarius at the end of 1991. Traditionally, Russia has always been said to be ruled by Aquarius, and it will complete the circle and return to Aquarius in 1996. It is in the very year 2000 that Uranus reaches its own Natal position in the Soviet Chart. This completes the cycle. Russia took a large part of the world into Communism - and it may yet be destined to take it out again. This shows a lot about the nature both of Aquarius and its Ruler, Uranus.

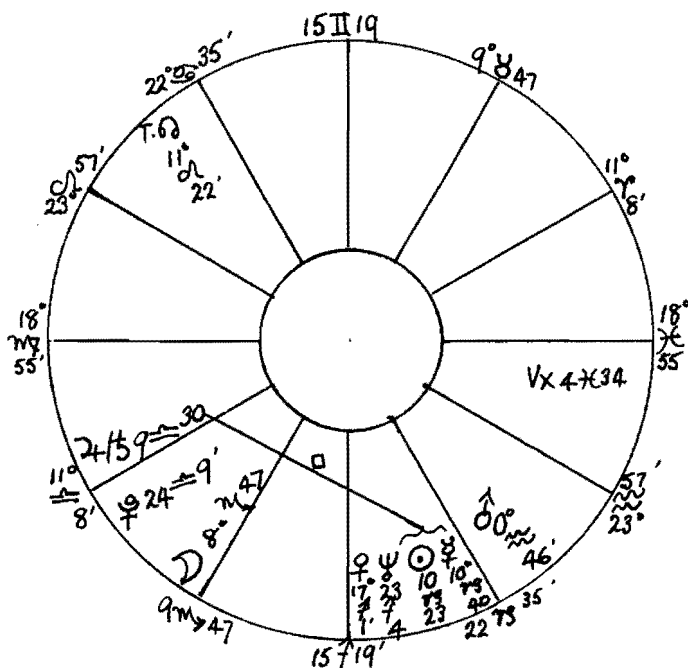

An alternative Chart for the USSR that readers might like to examine was that published in a 1933 Issue of The British Journal of Astrology by the late eminent astrologer Vivian E. Robson. It was reproduced in Astrologers' Forum No. 58, May 1986, in connection with the Chernobyl disaster. The Chart is for 15th September 1917, noon, Leningrad: Ascendant 21Sc043, Midheaven 23Vir21.

Apart from the Map for the USSR, examined above by Allan Johnson, there are at least two other Charts that have a bearing on the current events in East Germany. One is the National Chart of the Communist German Democratic Republic, founded in 1954, and the other is the great conjunction of the planets Jupiter and Saturn in 1980. The relationship of these two major bodies of our Solar System indicates the balance of forces between stability (Saturn) and expansion (Jupiter), so this is one of the dominant factors in the political, social and economic state of the world.

Jupiter and Saturn formed three conjunctions within the period 31st December 1980 to 24th July 1981. The first of these is the most important of the series, and it is reproduced below, set for Berlin.

JUPITER/SATURN CONJUNCTION 31ST DEC. 1980
21:21 GMT, Berlin, 52N30, 13E22. Placidus.

It is noteworthy that the Conjunction is especially strong, being placed on a Cusp, and is closely square to the Sun and Mercury in conjunction in the 4th House - the House in a National Chart that signifies the mass of the people. Neptune, the planet of popular unrest, is also there, conjoining Venus almost on the 4th Cusp and signifying a favourable outcome.

On 10th November, Mars by Naibod Progression in Right Ascension came to the exact trine of Jupiter/Saturn. This powerful and very appropriately-timed Direction is indicative of release (Jupiter) from bondage (Saturn). Two further powerful Directions in the immediate future are:

(1) Neptune Opposite the Midheaven on December 1st, signifying continued popular discontent and revolt against the Government, and

(2) The Midheaven trine to Pluto on 17th December, showing fundamental change in the Government.

The Chart of the German Democratic Republic, given below, is taken from The Book of World Horoscopes, an extensive and remarkable source book by Nicolas Campion, President of the Astrological Lodge of London. It has Scorpio rising with Pluto, the Ruler, trine Mars, which is typical of the iron rule in East Germany - a coercive and repressive regime maintained by force. Two significant Directions here in Right Ascension are the Midheaven sextile Pluto and the Progressed Moon conjunct the Sun, both occurring in the first days of November. Pluto has changed the Government, and the Moon/Sun conjunction commences a new phase in the country's history.

Looking ahead, we see further fundamental change coming as Pluto sextiles the Ascendant, Uranus trines the Equatorial Ascendant [EP] and Mercury trines Pluto, all in December 1989. - Dymock.

THE BERLIN WALL AND THE SATURN CYCLE

From JENIFER POMMERIN (WA): A note about Saturn, its 30-year Cycle, and the Berlin Wall.

To quote from the Encyclopaedia of Astrology by Nicholas De Vore, page 303. "The ancients presumed the planets to have definite periods of rulership, at the end of which changes of constitution or environment might be expected to occur to persons or places ruled by them."

Saturn was retrograde at 25° of Capricorn in August 1961, when the physical separation of East Germany from West Germany was effected by the Berlin Wall. I don't know how long it took to build this wall - perhaps the first plans came into existence in January of 1960 when Saturn was at 10° Capricorn. If so, it took Saturn 29 years and 10 months (November 1989) to pass over the same degree, this time in direct motion, at which date the Berlin Wall barrier was lawfully breached. It does seem that Saturn was the force that literally separated a nation. The month when Saturn completes the Cycle begun in 1961 is December 1990. I wonder will this bring a re-unification of the two German nations or will it signify an end to the present fragile climate of togetherness?

From JENIFER POMMERIN (WA):

An Astrological Win on the Melbourne Cup

As Dymock says, the forecast or observation of a horse race by astrological means increases one's knowledge of the planets. Some years ago I did some intensive research along those lines. This year I was lucky enough to pick the winner and one placegetter in the Melbourne Cup. (Luck does play a part, as will be explained later.) My method differs slightly from Dymock's, but it has the same basis in identifying the names of the winning horses from planets that aspect House Cusps.

METHOD

1. Using the Placidian or Topocentric House System, erect a chart for the probable finishing time of the race plus one minute, in case the starting time is delayed.

2. Look for a planet that is conjunct, in trine, opposition, or in quincunx to the Ascendant or Midheaven. The first three horses will have names symbolic of that planet. Do not use a planet that is square to the Asc. or MC. (The square aspect seems to indicate a possible "fixed" race, rarely a name.) If there are no such major aspects, look for a planet conjunct a minor House Cusp and use it to pick the horse. The orb should be within 3° for the aspects to the Asc or MC, and within 2° for the minor cusps. In Dymock's words, "Look for the planet that ... is APPLYING ... to the Cusp by rotation of the Earth - not by movement in the Zodiac". I think this such an important point that I disregard any separating planets. What is past is past.

3. Use the planet with the closest aspect as the significator for the first three placegetters. Obviously an exact aspect will be more powerful than a planet 2° away. However, the next closest aspecting planet has a secondary influence on the names.

4. Match the names of three horses (or one or two) to the planet chosen as the Chief Significator. Remember to "add" some influence from the second planet in aspect strength. As well as the planetary symbolism I use myths - the stories of ancient gods and their lives - for these, too, are symbolic of planetary forces. Have a dictionary handy to look up the definition and etymology of the names you fancy. The definition can help confirm or dismiss your choice. The root of a word, its first beginning or "sound", is extremely powerful.

5. If available, study the names of the dams and sires of the runners. A horse whose parent has a name associated with either of the signifying planets is worth a second look. For instance a horse with "Father Christmas" for the sire, or whose dam is "Miss Venus", stands a good chance if the chart should have Saturn or Venus as the Chief Significator. A useful tip for a Mercury horse is when the runner's name is a composite of both parent's names, e.g., Pardella = Par Avion + Delarra. It can be seen that the sire also bears a Mercury name. A trainer, jockey, or owner with an obvious planetary name is likewise a consideration. But these are all side influences, and they should never take precedence over the names of the horses listed to run in the race. The planetary symbolism of the horses' names pre-empt all else.

6. I differ radically from Dymock in the use of form guides to ascertain the horse "capable of winning". While the form guides and tipping polls are perused, it is more to see if the tipsters agree with me (or rather with the astrological indicators for that race). If they do, I feel somewhat reassured. If they don't, I feel somewhat out on a limb. But form guides, odds, probable prices, etc., are given no influence over my choice. Admittedly, this policy could be why I've come a cropper more than once!

7. Luck. Here are some ways that luck plays a part:

(a) The starting time is delayed by several minutes,

(b) The winner or placegetters have a name that is well-nigh impossible to define using the above method.

(c) The horse you pick is scratched just before the start.

(d) The horse you pick runs last. I see this as demonstrating the fact that a complete circle will start and end at the same place. While there is a semantic difference, perhaps there is no real difference. In any case, I receive many unsolicited proofs of this hypothesis by picking on the last runner.

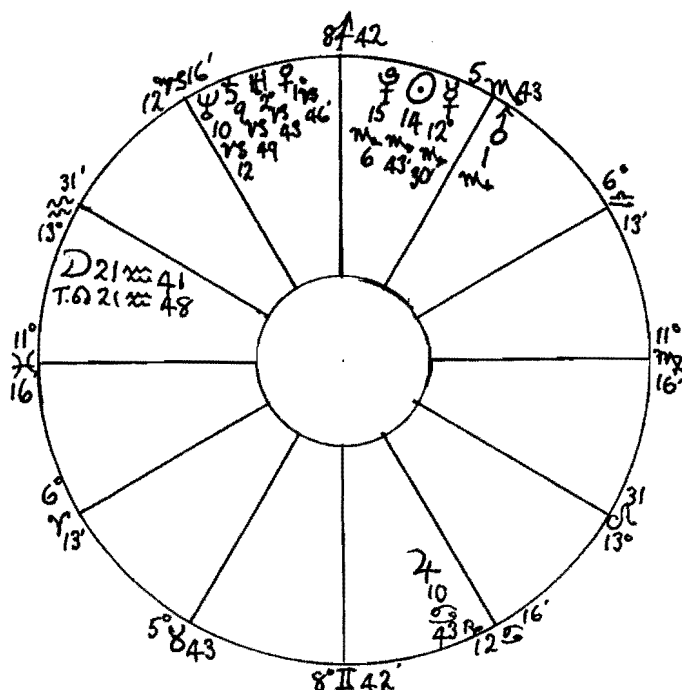

8. Keep a record of the matching names and planets, and other relevant names. This is truly a very good way to learn the basic symbolism of planets. A bonus is the seeing of the mysterious order of our world at work in such a little thing as a horse race.

A real-life example follows in which the winner and a placegetter were successfully deduced for the Melbourne Cup. One placegetter was wrongly chosen.

THE MELBOURNE CUP, 1989

Estimated finishing time, + 1m = 1:44 pm
37S47, 144E54. Placidian Cusps.

- | | |
|----------------------|---------------------|
| 1. EMPIRE ROSE | 2. SUPER IMPOSE |
| 3. LORD HYBROW | 4. NABOTTO |
| 5. CUSHKING | 6. TAWRRIFIC |
| 7. IDEAL CENTREMAN | 8. COLE DIESEL |
| 9. KUDZ | 10. RESEARCH |
| 11. SARATOV | 12. FLEETWARD LAD |
| 13. HIDDEN RHYTHM | 14. PALACE REVOLT |
| 15. THE PHANTOM | 16. PACIFIC MIRAGE |
| 17. POWER OF DESTINY | 18. CATE'S MILL |
| 19. PLUME D'OR VILLE | 20. SEA LEGEND |
| 21. GOPAK | 22. SYDESTON |
| 23. SALISOPRA | 24. STYLISH CENTURY |

And the result:

First, TAWRRIFIC. Second, SUPERIMPOSE.
Third, KUDZ.

In this Chart Jupiter is the dominant planet by virtue of its nearly exact trine to the Ascendant. Mercury is next in strength with another trine, orb about 2°, APPLYING to the Ascendant. Mercury will be the secondary influence.

A sample of some Jupiter and Mercury keywords confirmed or discovered through race-forecasting follows. For reasons of space, only the ones associated with the eventual placegetters are given:

Jupiter: Over the top, being "high", superior, larger than life. Admired or glorified, sometimes self-glorification. Freedom, expansion, and the idea of it - to add, again, gain, etc. The oak, juniper, gin, leather, paper, the horse, foreign people/countries, religion, publicity. healing power, life-preserving/sustaining. A Don Juan, a hypocrite, a "con" man. Confident, lucky, wealthy, vindictive, hot-tempered; over-indulgence.

In mythology, Jupiter was the most powerful god, the Ruler of Olympus. He held supremacy over all. Nevertheless, he had many not so godlike qualities. Zeus (Jupiter) could be easily angered, he was revengeful, cruel at times and proud. He was sometimes cuckolded ... but he himself was a past master of that sport. But at all times his word was law.

The oak tree was sacred to him. This tree, or at least its bark is used in the tanning of leather, and "tan" is a very strong Jupiter word - as is leather which used to be a measure of wealth in early Egyptian and Roman times.

Mercury: Statements, spelling, play on words, paper. Measurements and measuring devices (one of the most ancient being string), marks, signs. Joy. Games, particularly ball games that require accuracy and quickness (neg. football). The trickster, the thief.

TAWRRIFIC is a Mercury-like play on the word "Terrific". Mercury enjoys ball games. The dictionary definition of "taw" gave: A game of marbles ... the line from which to shoot ... string. So this is the secondary influence of Mercury.

For the primary Significator, Jupiter, the expression "Terrific" aptly demonstrates the Jupiterian positivity. Otherwise "terrific" can describe Jupiter's more terrifying self. The dictionary definitions of "taw" are: To convert into leather by some other means other than tanning ... to torture ... to prepare/harass. Tawney - tan-coloured. Tawpie - a foolish young woman [?sexually gullible]. Tawie - docile, as of a horse.

Other Jupiterian, but more minor influences, were the trainer's name "Freedman", the jockey name "Dye" (sort of like the tanning process), and Tawrrific's sire, "Tawfiq". It could be argued that a jump from "Tawrrific" to "Terrific!" is not on. It would not have been done except that the whole concept so strongly expressed the Jupiter/Mercury influences.

KUDZ is a puzzle word where the luck and inspiration of Jupiter itself was needed for a successful judgement. What made it an attractive proposition were the sire and dam's names, Master Willee and Lucky Ole Me. For the life of me, I couldn't get the recent T.V. appearance of Michael Willesee out of my mind - an episode of truly Jupiterian dimensions in its publicity and style - and probably due to an unwise ingestion of a Jupiterian substance. So that was "Master Willee". "Lucky Ole Me" is self-explanatory with the traditional association of luck with Jupiter.

The closest dictionary word was "Kudos". The pronunciation is very similar. The definition gave me a picture of the god Jupiter surrounded by admiring shining faces. "Glory, credit, praise".

The owner is from overseas with a very foreign name, a slight but extra Jupiter tie-in.

The secondary influence of Mercury could be that this is a name composed of initials.

SUPER IMPOSE was a "wise-after-the-event" omission. "Super" was recognized as a Jupiter trait, and this horse was given a passing look. But the complete title misled me into categorizing it as a primary Mercury (as in the super-imposing of pictures or written words), whereas the meaning for this particular race would have been a "super (adjective) imposition", with the Mercury definition being the secondary influence. More weight should have been given to the other minor influences - the sire of this horse, Imposing - and the trainer's name, Freedman, and a thorough, as opposed to a brief dictionary examination of the word "impose" would have borne fruit.

The horse chosen instead was GOPAK. Pak means "father, guru, pact" in Indonesian, and is normally a powerful Jupiter work. "Go" is suitable for both Jupiter and Mercury - and the two words joined is a typical Mercury name.

Horses quickly rejected although favoured by the tipping polls were STYLISH CENTURY (no Jupiter, although some Mercury); COLE DIESEL (a Pluto horse. Diesel oil for heavy machinery. Heavy machinery - Pluto. Oil comes from the home of Pluto - the god of the underworld. "Old King Cole, a merry old soul" could be a Jovian concept. But not with diesel. Nothing there for Mercury, apart from Diesel being the surname of the inventor of the diesel engine).

Other horses considered but not chosen after investigation were EMPIRE ROSE ("rose" and "the rose" are under the rulership of Jupiter, but there were no Mercury ties, and "empire" is a lesser Jupiter word than those above), COSHKING (a couple of the dictionary meanings related to Jupiter but the overall meaning was perhaps more Pluto, Neptune or Mars), and SYDESTON (perhaps more Neptune/Moon).

[More comments by Jenifer Pommerin on astrology and horse racing in next month's Astrologers' Forum. - Ed.]

PREDICTING EARTHQUAKES

From LESLIE BLACK (Eng.): With reference to Dymock's article, "Can Earthquakes be Predicted?", the answer must certainly be in the affirmative, as it has been done scores of times around and before the turn of this century. Zadkiel's Almanac and Planetary Ephemeris which was published for nearly a hundred years, is credited with many predictions of earthquakes and seismic disturbances over a long period. In a 1907 Issue, the following article appeared.

The Earthquakes and Destruction of San Francisco and Valparaiso, 1906

"In our article on the Great Earthquake in India of the 4th April 1905 (vide p.75 of Zadkiel's Almanac for 1906), we claimed for Natural Astrology that it was incontestably proved and demonstrated to be a Science by our prediction of that terrible earthquake, as to time and place, nine months beforehand. But that prediction did not stand alone, for we showed that we also predicted, quite as accurately, the earthquake that destroyed Charleston on the 31st of August 1886; also the fearful earthquakes beginning on the 17th November 1893 at Kuchan, Persia, which destroyed 12,000 lives out of a population of 20,000. In addition, we cited the great Cumana Earthquake of the 15th July 1853, predicted by our talented predecessor, Zadkiel I, as to time and place. To the above proofs may now be added the great earthquake that destroyed San Francisco, predicted for 1906, although not exactly to time ..."

Dymock is quite right in his comment in a previous article on the Armenian Earthquake that "contact with the Angles is the effective factor". In the Armenian Earthquake on 7th December 1988, Mars at 9° Aries and Neptune at 9° Capricorn were in square to each other, acting on the Earth's centre from a right angle. In the latest San Francisco Earthquake on 18th October 1989 there was a similar pattern with Mercury at the apex of a T-Square with Jupiter and Neptune, also acting at right-angles on the Earth's centre from 10° of their respective Signs. It is generally observed that few earthquakes of any severity take place without the involvement of Neptune. In the 1906 San Francisco Earthquake Neptune was in close opposition to Uranus, square to Mercury, and semisquare to Mars.

All earthquakes and seismic disturbances that have been predicted have been through the study of the four Solar Ingresses, Eclipses, Major Conjunctions, and Lunations. The recent San Francisco Earthquake was preceded by a Lunar Eclipse four days earlier, on 14th October, when the Moon was sesquare Venus, opposite Mars, and square to both Jupiter and Neptune.

[Leslie suggests that readers investigate earthquakes using the methods (or any others) mentioned in the last paragraph of his article - Solar Ingresses, Eclipses, Major Conjunctions and Lunations. I certainly support this. Forecasting is the most difficult skill in astrology, and we should keep alive all methods whose efficacy can be demonstrated. - Ed.]

This being the 100TH ISSUE of Astrologers' Forum, I have enlarged it somewhat to mark the occasion. My thanks to those contributors who have sent articles for incorporation. Some are still waiting to be printed, and will probably appear in the December Issue. Events are moving fast in the world, giving rise to much astrological activity and comment.

Remember that you still have until 7th December to send in your attempts at Rectification Exercise No. 3 (details in the two previous issues). Post them to Dr. Jack Nicholls, 109 Highfield Road, Camberwell, Vic. Australia 3124. We hope to make these exercises an on-going thing if enough data is received from readers.

Have a happy and safe Christmas! My kind regards to all.

- Dymock, 28th November 1989.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $15. Australia and Overseas. Issue 99. October 1989.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

Can Earthquakes be Predicted?

The San Francisco Earthquake of 17th October and the Chinese Earthquake a little later again draw attention to whether this type of earthly disaster can be foreseen - not as regards its probability, which is already well-established, but as to the time of its occurrence. Seismologists cannot do this. They know a geophysical fault exists, and that there is a likelihood of repeated earthquakes over an indefinite period, but they cannot foretell when a 'quake will occur.

It seems that only Astrology offers hope in this direction, but we have not succeeded yet. We know the area where the 'quake is likely to happen, but in order to foretell the date (as against a chart after the occurrence, which is too late) we need to have some basis on which to work, so that Progressions, Directions, Annual Horoscopes, etc., can be calculated. With San Francisco, for instance, if we had a date for the foundation of the modern city it is likely that we could discover the danger periods by normal astrological techniques. But who can supply this desirable information? Encyclopaedias, etc., mostly give only the year of foundation, let alone month, day and time.

In searching for a solution to the problem I settled on another starting point - the latest conjunction of the planets Saturn and Uranus. These two bodies must surely play a dominant part in events of this nature, as they represent two opposite principles - Saturn holding and binding, Uranus disrupting and freeing. Consequently when they come together a state of enormous tension exists, ready to be triggered by various lesser astrological factors. Conjunctions are well known to provide the starting point of a cycle, whether in personal or mundane affairs (remember the Jupiter/Neptune conjunction prior to the October 1987 share-market crash?).

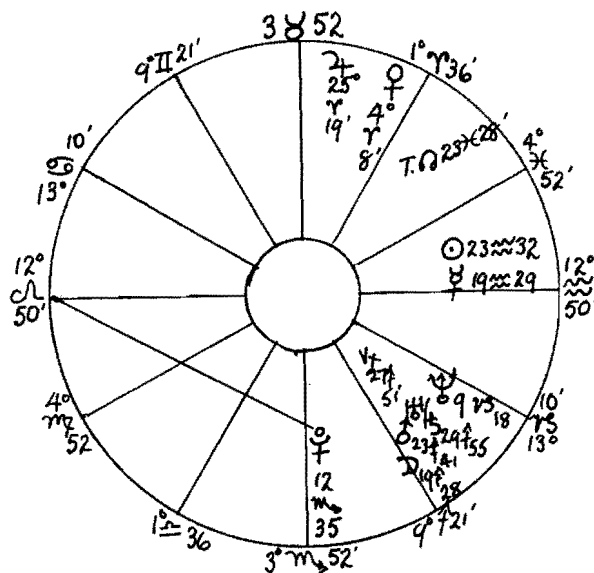

An examination of the Ephemeris shows that

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The San Francisco Earthquake	1
Prix De L'Arc de Triomphe	2
Rectification Exercise No.3	4
The Pilots' Strike	3
Unaspected planets	4

until recently Saturn and Uranus had not been together since 1942, but in 1988 no less than three conjunctions of these major bodies occurred - in February, June and October. This in itself adds to the importance of the occasion - the more rare the phenomenon the greater its significance. I take the February 1988 conjunction, the initiator of the series, as the most important. Here is the Chart, set for San Francisco.

SATURN/URANUS CONJUNCTION, 13TH FEB. 1988
0:47 am UT, San Francisco, 37N47, 122W25.
Placidian Cusps.

The striking features of the Chart are

- (1) Pluto Angular in the 4th House and almost exactly square the Rising Degree.
- (2) Mars conjunct the Moon and Square to the N.Node in the 8th House.
- (3) The Saturn/Uranus Conjunction only two degrees from the Vertex, giving it added significance.

Given the circumstance of San Francisco being in a known earthquake zone, this Chart warns of imminent danger. Though the same planetary positions would apply all over the world, the Plutonian square to the Ascendant, and the position of the Vertex, both points that change rapidly with change of location, are the ones that localize the peril to San Francisco.

It is still a problem to time the event. One method is by checking the Solar Returns of the basic Chart. In the Solar Return of 12th February 1989, the Moon is conjunct Mars near the 8th Cusp, and almost exactly opposite Pluto rising. Quotidian Progression of this Solar Return offers a means of refining the date still further: On 17th October 1989, the Earthquake day, Uranus (the prime villain!) by daily Progression was at the Midheaven (orb $1^{\circ} 6'$), while Pluto was within 2° of the 8th Cusp, and closely opposite Mars. These positions are strong enough to trigger the earthquake.

This, then, is a method that offers some hope of being a warning system, in the absence of precise data relating to the foundation dates of cities at risk. A comprehensive warning system would require astrological work relating to known earthquake zones for a period of some years subsequent to all conjunctions of Saturn and Uranus.

Readers who pursue this, or other lines of enquiry, are invited to submit their findings for possible publication.

- Dymock.

Following the article on Horse Racing by Astrology in last month's Issue, ROZ PARK (UK) has sent the Chart for the French "Arc de Triomphe" race.

The field comprised 19 horses, as follows:

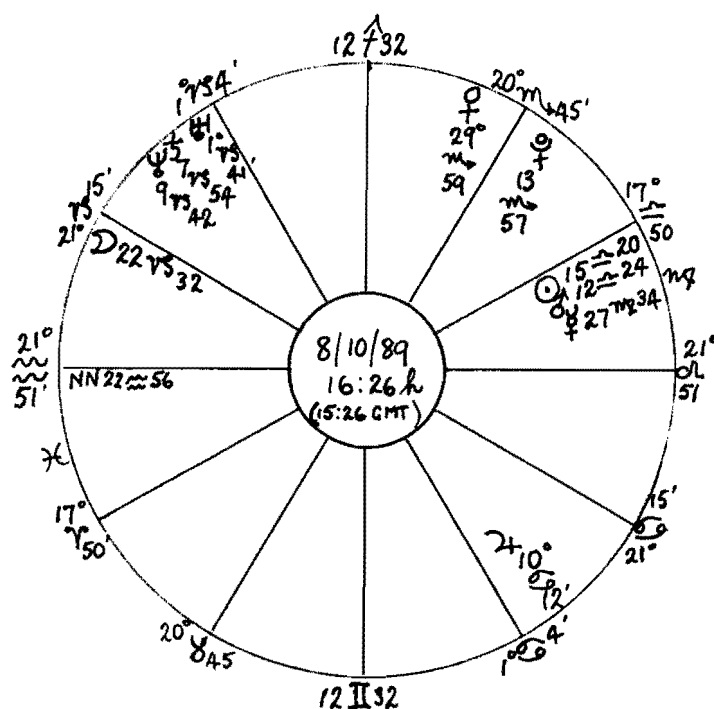

- 1 Carroll House
- 2 Mansonnien
- 3 Robore
- 4 Top Class
- 5 Saint Andrews
- 6 Petrullo
- 7 Star Lift
- 8 Britannia
- 9 French Glory
- 10 In The Wings
- 11 Cacoethes

- 12 Golden Pheasant
- 13 Harvest Time
- 14 Norberto
- 15 Legal Case
- 16 Aliysa
- 17 Behera
- 18 Young Mother
- 19 Sierra Roberta

The place-getters were:

- 1st: Carroll House
- 2nd: Saint Andrews
- 3rd: Behera
- 4th: Young Mother

PRIX DE L'ARC DE TRIOMPHE
IN PARIS. Placidean Cusps

Reviewing the result in the light of the system suggested in last month's Issue, the Significators in order of power are

1. The Moon, applying by a little over 1° to the 12th Cusp.
2. Uranus, within 1° of the 11th Cusp.
3. The Sun $2\frac{1}{2}^{\circ}$ from the 8th Cusp, separating.

Though Uranus is closer to the Placidean Cusp than the Moon, I give the Moon first place as it is the more powerful Significator.

The winner, Carroll House, certainly answers to the Moon (the home, etc.), and the same may be said of the 4th place-getter, Young Mother, the Moon being the planetary representative of the mother. Before the race, the difficulty would be in deciding which of these two runners should be given priority. In such circumstances a modest investment on each would be appropriate.

As regards the 2nd place-getter, Saint Andrew is the Patron Saint of Scotland, which is dominated by the Sign Cancer, and the Ruler of Cancer is the Moon, so this placing also conforms.

Uranus is associated with names that are unusual or extraordinary, and the 3rd place-getter, Behera, comes into this category. There are a number of other runners that might also be considered as Uranian (Aliysa, Cacoethes, Mansonnien, Norberto), so it would hardly be worthwhile to risk an investment on the Significator Uranus in this race.

The whole project becomes as interesting as a crossword puzzle, and the more you know about the origin or derivation of the horses' names the better chance you have of assigning them to the correct Significator.

Roz Park writes, "Has anyone comments on identifying the Houses? For example, 12th House emphasis - a photo finish, or a stewards' enquiry; the possibility of the 3rd House belonging to the bookies, and favourably aspected = an outsider winning; which House for the horse, owner, trainer, jockey, punter, and the track itself?"

I'll be pleased to hear from any other "astrological" punters. - Dymock.

The Pilots' Strike

As I write this (27th October) news has just come over the air that the pilots have offered to return to work immediately on the old terms! After many weeks of their intransigence over a 30% increase in salary this is indeed a radical turn-around for the pilots. It is no doubt prompted by the progressive weakening of their position through the success of the Airlines in re-building operations. The Airlines have initially rejected the offer, which is in line with the effect of Jupiter's Station opposite the Sun on 28th October, adverted to in last month's Astrologers' Forum.

The question is whether the Jupiter aspect is sufficient to resolve the matter. Upon hearing the news I erected a Horary Chart to see what light it could throw on the course of events.

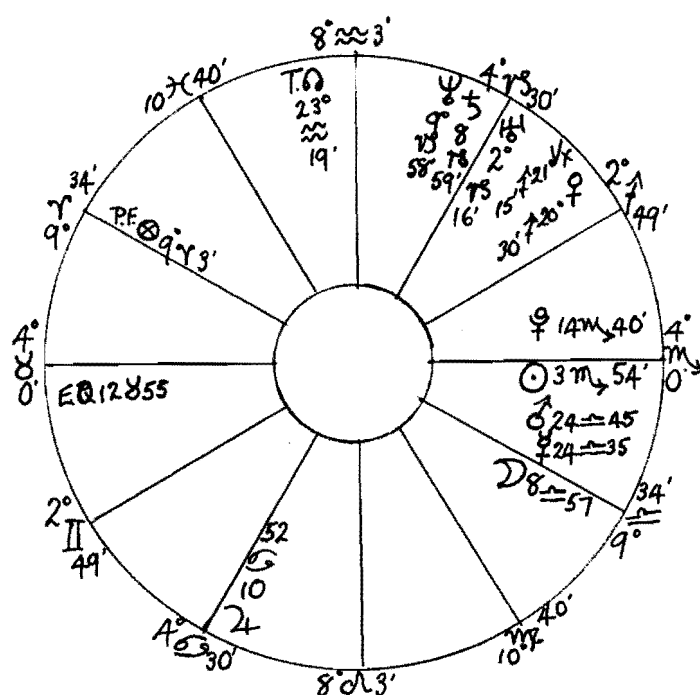

A Horary Chart on a matter of public interest is slightly different from the normal Horary. The Querent stands aside and is not represented in the Chart. The protagonists are signified by the 1st and the 7th Houses. In the present instance, the Pilots who took the initiative and made the offer are represented by the 1st House and its Ruler. The Airlines, the respondent, are signified by the 7th House, planets therein, and the Ruler of the Sign on the Cusp.

HORARY CHART: Offer by the Pilots'

Federation to Resume Work

27th October 1989, 6:57 pm AEST, Blackheath, NSW, 33S38, 150E18. Placidian Cusps.

Taurus rises, and the traditional Ruler, Venus, is the chief Significator of the Pilots. It is appropriately placed in Sagittarius, the Sign associated with long-distance travel, and its conjunction with the Vertex shows that this is a critical juncture for the Pilots.

The Airlines are in a much more favoured position: The powerful Sun is on the Cusp of the 7th House, applying to a trine of Jupiter. Pluto, occupying the House, is also trine to Jupiter. The traditional Ruler of Scorpio, Mars, is receiving the applying sextile of Venus, Significator of the pilots, so it appears that the Pilots will make a further offer to the Airlines, probably about the 6th of November when the sextile is on the point of becoming exact.

As regards the ultimate success of either party, victory or defeat is signified by the 10th House for the Pilots, and the 4th House for the Airlines. It is clear the Airlines are going to win: The Sun rules the 4th House (their Derived 10th), is strong on the Cusp of the 7th (the Ascendant for the Airlines) and is trine to Jupiter.

On the other hand, the Ruler of the 10th House for the Pilots is afflicted by the conjunction of Neptune (loss and sacrifice), and the opposition to Jupiter (law and authority). It makes no difference whether you take the traditional Ruler, Saturn, or the modern Ruler, Uranus. The Moon, moreover, is applying to the square of Saturn. The affair certainly looks gloomy for the Pilots, but they have only themselves to blame. - Dymock.

Rectification Exercise No. 3

(Female born 26th September 1946)

Jack Nicholls, who is collating the entries for the present series of Rectification Exercises, reports that there were five entries for the present Exercise. A variety of techniques was used by those essaying the task, but no one found the correct birth time. In line with our policy, announced in the last Issue, names of entrants are not being published, the aim being to find the best technique, irrespective of who finds it.

So now, the range is being restricted to the five hours from 6 pm to 11 pm on the 26th of September, the times between which the birth occurred. This makes the job considerably easier, and all readers are urged to try again. I assure you your astrological skill and understanding will be much increased if you make a genuine effort. Send your entries to Dr. Jack Nicholls, 109 Highfield Road, CAMBERWELL, VIC. AUSTRALIA 3124, by the 7th of December.

Jack reports that several readers have provided more data on which to base further rectification exercises. This is a gratifying response to our call. Many more are still wanted, so please do what you can, in the interests of Astrology. - Dymock.

From GISELA ROSMANN (Vic.): Picking up a good astrological book is no easy task. It would be nice if you could now and then let us know in Astrologers' Forum of any new or outstanding astrological books. Nicolas De Vore's Encyclopaedia is still not available. What would be the best substitute?

Dr. Geoffrey Dean's Recent Advances in Natal Astrology is not merely a good substitute but a superior reference book as regards many topics. Just don't let yourself get discouraged by the apparently negative results to many of the enquiries initiated by Dr. Dean. A second edition of the work is in preparation, but the first is well worth having.

Here is a sample - an excerpt only - from the section on Unaspected Planets:

1. An unaspected planet is usually (but not always) anything but weak. The effect is one of distinctive flavour and is quite different from the strength conferred, e.g., by proximity to the Angles.
2. Expression is by no means denied but the principle tends to be hard to control and thus lacks integration with the rest of the chart. In other words, "acts by itself" is a fair, general description. This is not necessarily bad, and in fact can often be the source of much ability.
3. The principle of an unaspected planet tends to be either switched on or off with no halfway measures allowed, and the native oscillates between on and off. Hence "all or nothing" is another fair general description.
4. Strength is almost impossible to predict owing to the on/off oscillation.

The whole section occupies 13½ pages, plus references. A few pages further on, interpretations of individual unaspected planets are given, of which the following is a representative sample:

Mars Unaspected. Anrias says "lack of initiative". Heindel says "Listless, vapid, will never amount to anything". Hone says "Temper like a flash of lightning and uncontrollable as if apart from him".

Effects were the most outwardly marked and distinctive of all unaspected planets. Energy (not necessarily strong physical effort but in the sense of being occupied doing something, i.e., being busy) was usually conspicuously present. There was invariably a tendency to be always starting new things before others were finished. If Saturn was strong this tendency was undiminished but there was an additional and equally strong urge to finish anything started. Hone's "flashes of temper" were absent in only 4 cases in 27; all were female. Mars was the most common unaspected planet in the test group (frequency 1½/2x average). Suggested interpretation: Generates endless work for self, always busy, probably moments of explosive impatience that seem apart from self. A useful confirmation of these traits is provided indirectly by the work of Dobyns and Roof: 6 of their 13 charts and psychological assessments are described as "busy", and all 6 have Mars unaspected either by itself or in a duet. Moor suggests: Always busy, scatters energies, quick temper, mechanical ingenuity, sporadic sex life, females tend to have unusual love relationships and relate poorly to the opposite sex. [The agreement on "always busy" is remarkable, for this is neither a traditional Martian quality nor is it mentioned by others, e.g., Hone.]

My kind regards to all. - Dymock,
31st October 1989.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $15, Australia and Overseas. Issue 98. September 1989.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

From ALLAN JOHNSON (Tas.) we have

SPOTLIGHT ON POLAND

Right now the spotlight is on Poland, what with the commemoration of the beginning of the Second World War and the coincidental election of the first non-communist Prime Minister since that War. Poland is once again making history. Poland as a national entity has had a very chequered history, due to being surrounded by such powerful and aggressive neighbours. In 1918 Polish independence was declared from Austria, Prussia and Russia, among whom Poland had been partitioned several times. This was the date for the inception of Poland as a modern sovereign State. It is given by Fowler's Compendium of Nativities as 9:30 am, 14th November 1918, Warsaw, and is considered a relevant Chart for the present time. Poland has continued to have a chequered history due to German and Russian dominance. It is interesting to check this Chart for correlation of events hapening at the present time, and also for the events being commemorated coincidentally - the German invasion of Poland and the beginning of World War II.

The Chart has two powerful configurations: Mars right on the Ascendant opposite Pluto, and the T-Square, Sun/Venus square Uranus and Saturn. So these are likely to be triggered off for fateful and dramatic events. On 1st September 1939 the transiting Uranus was at 21Tau57, in exact opposition to the Natal Sun of the Inception Chart, closely squaring Natal Uranus, and triggering off the whole T-Square Pattern. In addition, transiting Pluto was at 2Leo5, making the exact quincunx to the fateful opposition. This confirms the validity of the Chart in a quite remarkable way. What then for present-day events?

Poland is again making history. The new Government was put together at the beginning of September, and in the same period Uranus was stationary on the 2nd degree of Capricorn, exactly conjunct Mars and the

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Spotlight on Poland	1
The Royal Marriage Break-Up	2
Treatment of AIDS	2
The Pilots' Strike	3
Astrology and Horse-Racing	3
Rectification Exercise No.3	4

Ascendant. And Pluto is transiting the 10th House, only a few degrees from the Midheaven. Also Progressed Mars is within orb of the conjunction with Progressed Uranus, opposite Saturn. There cannot be a better significator than Uranus conjunct Ascendant for the radical and surprising turn of events. The world has been a bit stunned by what has been happening. And it all goes a long way to confirm this Chart as a valid one for modern Poland.

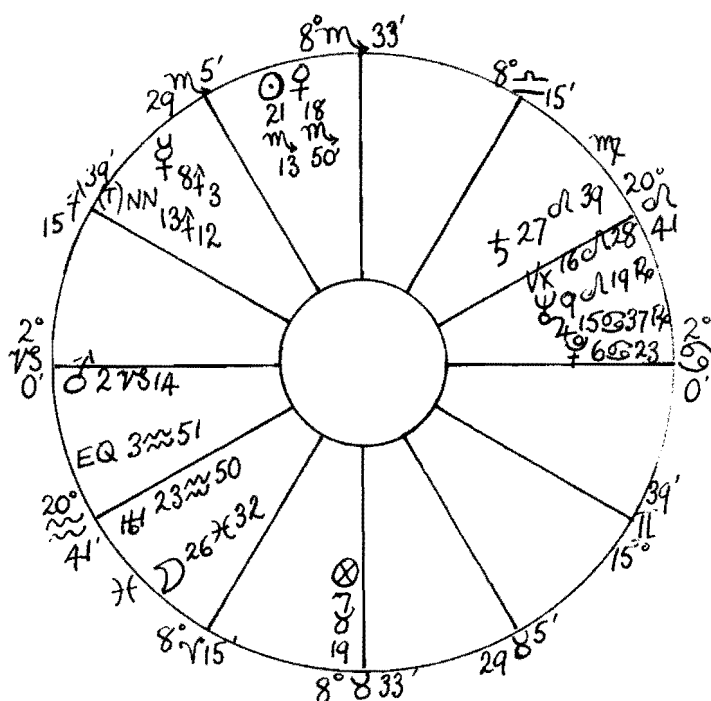

So it is worthwhile looking ahead to what the future presages. This will be mainly concerned with the Transits of Pluto as it continues to move through the 10th House and links up with the powerful T-Square configuration. Pluto moves to a close orb with Venus in 1990, and then will progressively make the conjunction with the Sun, square Uranus, and then Saturn, right through till the mid '90's. So we get a five years' period of continuing turbulences before the whole situation can resolved. What the new Government is trying to do is to achieve a balancing situation between warring forces, only working together because of the compulsive economic circumstances. So there is no way it could be an easy situation. Of course, the outcome of it all cannot be viewed in isolation, as most of the Eastern Block, including the Soviet Union, are going through similar turbulences. Russia will also be going through powerful Pluto Transits over the same identical period to the mid '90's. The Moon in the Russian Chart is in 27° Leo, the identical position of Saturn in the Polish Chart.

So it looks as if Poland will be going through a powerful regenerative process, a re-structuring of the economy, and it is hard to see that happening without a lot of upheavals. One important point to note in the Polish Chart is that the Sun and Venus are also making a rather wide Grand Trine with the Moon and Jupiter, which could be a good augury for a final happy outcome.

POLISH INDEPENDENCE

14th November 1918, Warsaw, 9:30 am GMT
52 N 13, 21 E 00. Placidian Cusps.

The Royal Marriage Break-Up

From LESLIE BLACK (Eng.): On the 31st August 1989 Buckingham Palace announced the separation of the Princess Royal and Captain Mark Phillips, after 15 years of marriage. The timing of the announcement was not without astrological influences that indicated the event, as an eclipse of the Sun took place a few hours earlier in the 8th degree of Virgo, falling in the 11th House of the Princess's Chart.

A Solar Eclipse falling in the 11th House, especially if its aspects are favourable, usually achieves a desired goal or realizes an aspiration, and can spur one to further achievement. The Eclipse occurring at the Princess's Progressed Midheaven indicates that a crisis had been reached in her life affect her prestige and worldly status. The exact sextile it makes to Uranus in the House of Foreign Travel reflects the timing of the Palace announcement - while Princess Anne was travelling abroad - and also implies sudden and dramatic changes over the next few months.

The opposition of the Eclipse to royal Jupiter indicates difficulties and anxieties in royal circles, though with subsequent benefit to Anne.

The difficulties arising in the marriage could have stemmed from the square of Mars to Venus (Ruling the Ascendant) and the semisquare to Saturn, plus the semisquare of Uranus to the Sun (estrangement and separation). As this last aspect is not an especially strong affliction, and the marriage Significator, Mars, is strongly placed, there is the possibility of a re-union.

PRINCESS ANNE of England

15th August 1950, 11:50 am BST
London, 51N31, 0W06. Porphyrian Cusps.

Treatment of AIDS

"A United States Government study has shown an Anti-Aids drug [AZT], produced in Britain, can delay the onset of the disease in its early stages. Officials estimate that in America alone, more than 400,000 people could benefit from the new findings on 'AZT.'" (Liverpool Echo, Liverpool, England, 18th August, 1989). Jupiter was at 4° Cancer at the time. LESLIE BLACK predicted in Issue 71 of Astrologers' Forum (June 1987), that when Jupiter transited the Signs of the Water Triplicity a cure for AIDS might be found.

Any news of relief is heartening, but in my opinion the best hope of cure of AIDS, along with all other serious, deep-seated human diseases is through Homoeopathy - the only scientific law of cure: Similia similibus curantur (likes by likes are cured), as propounded and developed by Samuel Hahnemann in Leipzig over a century ago.
- Dymock.

The Pilots' Strike

On 24th August last all the Australian domestic pilots' resigned en masse, in support of their claim for a 30% salary increase, a claim that most people consider exorbitant, and which would take them out of the National Wage Fixing Guide Lines that apply to all other workers. A tense situation thereupon developed between the Pilots' Federation and the Air Line companies whose planes were thus grounded until replacement pilots could be found. Some have been found, the Air Lines apparently operating to about one-third of their capacity at this date. Meanwhile the pilots remain intransigent, deadlocked with the Air Lines and the Government, which will not give in to their demands.

What are the astrological connotations? In the Chart for the Federation of Australia (as researched by Gwen Stoney - see Astrologers' Forum No. 70, May 1987) the Sun at 10Cap4 is conjoined with Saturn at 7Cap43, in the 9th House (air travel). At the time of the mass resignation Saturn was retrograde at 7Cap34, almost exactly conjunct its Radical position. Since then, on 21st September, Neptune came to its 2nd Station at 9Cap37, conjunct both Radical Sun and Saturn, thus maintaining the strike situation. Neptune and Saturn do not move clear of the Sun until mid-November. Prior to that, however, Jupiter comes to its first Station opposite the Sun on 28th October. Despite the opposition aspect it is probable that this position of Jupiter will resolve the situation.

Astrology and Horse-Racing

As the Spring Racing Season in Australia is now with us, many new readers will be interested in the substance of an article on the subject that I wrote for Astrologers' Forum in April 1985. Though this outlines a method of selecting winners in horse races,

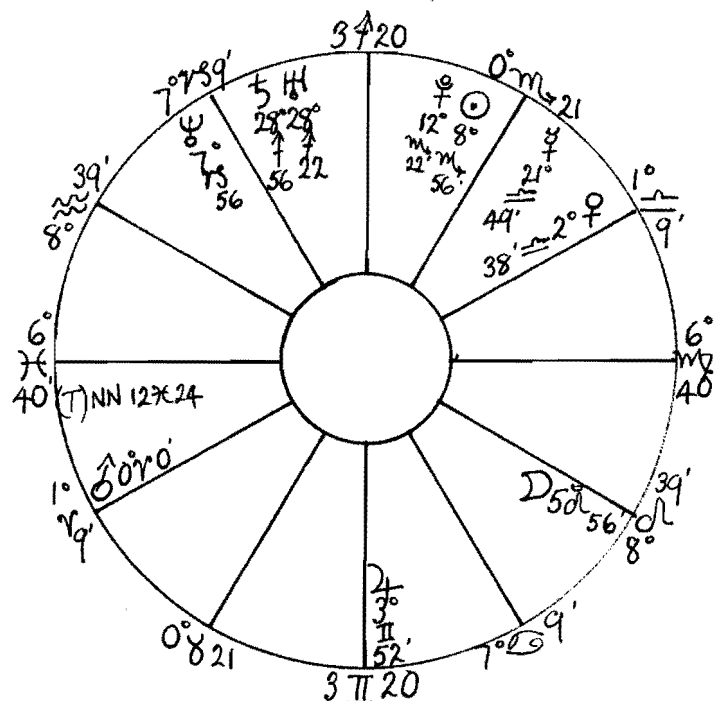

I do not advocate gambling by astrology on horse-racing as a money-making proposition, but as a means of increasing astrological expertise through improving one's understanding of planetary symbolism.

The essence of the System is to pick winners through the symbology of the planets that conjoin House Cusps at the finishing time of the race. The only House Cusp systems that I have found to be effective in this regard are the Placidian and Topo-centric ones. These two are practically identical at average latitudes, but choose the Placidian system for preference. The Koch system has been an abject failure in my experience, despite its advocacy by Joyce Wehrmann in a monograph on horse-racing.

The winner of last year's Melbourne Cup (Empire Rose) was easily selected by this method (before the race!). Here is the Chart:

MELBOURNE CUP 1988

1st November 1988, 2:43 pm Daylight S. Time
Flemington, Melbourne, 37S47, 144E54.
Placidian Cusps.

Looking round the Chart one sees that Jupiter is the closest planet to a Cusp, and is in a near-perfect trine to Venus, also very close to a Cusp. These two planets together made the choice of EMPIRE ROSE easy - Jupiter, the planet of largeness (empire), and Venus for all beautiful things, including roses.

The only other bodies to consider were Mars, conjunct the 2nd Cusp, and Neptune conjunct the 11th. Mars is separating from the Cusp (see below), and is therefore not such a good choice. Neptune, though applying to the Cusp, is a weaker planet for mundane matters than either Jupiter or Venus. Neither of these bodies had the powerful linking of Jupiter and Venus.

A few things to note are:

1. The Chart is drawn for three minutes past the advertised starting time, to portray the position at the finish as far as can be gauged. (This two-mile event takes approximately three minutes to run.)
2. Planets applying to a Cusp are to be preferred to those separating. This means applying by the Earth's diurnal rotation - not by the movement of the planets in their orbits. So in the present instance, both Jupiter and Venus (and Neptune) are applying to the Cusps, or to be more accurate, the Cusps are applying to the conjunction of these planets, while Mars is separating from the 2nd Cusp.

Here are a few hints, based on practical experience, for those who would like to try this method of self-education:

1. Try to get the exact geographic coordinates of the race course where the meeting is being held, and in casting the chart for a particular race time be precise with the cuspal positions (Placidian or Topocentric - nothing else!). If you are not sure of your mathematics get a computer-calculated chart.
2. Look for the planet (the chief significator) that is closest to a cusp, within three degrees applying or one degree separating by rotation of the Earth - not by movement through the Zodiac.
3. Remember that if the start of a race is delayed the position of the cusps may alter appreciably, so it is better to have the significator applying to a cusp rather than separating. Each few seconds of time bring an applying planet closer to the cusp, and hence makes it more powerful.
4. Don't try for every race on the programme. Pick out the two or three main races of the day, and preferably those with not more than ten or twelve starters, which makes the task of selection easier.
5. Consider every horse in the race and judge which name is the closest match to the symbolism of the chief significator.
6. Having made your selection, check by reference to the tipping polls or form guides that the horse is capable of winning. However strong and clear the astrological indications, a horse that is outclasseed is no sort of betting proposition.

7. Back your selection by a dollar or two, however hesitant you feel. Not only will this sharpen your judgement wonderfully, as your money is at stake, but if the horse wins you get an incomparable thrill. If it loses, it's not going to lower your living standard, and it's no more than paying a small fee for a good astrology lesson. If you don't back your selection you will occasionally suffer the chagrin of a missed opportunity when the horse wins and your intense mental effort has gone for nothing. I know.

8. Conduct a post-mortem on all races where you lost, learning more about symbolism by hindsight. This way your monetary losses will be astrologically productive.

As mentioned earlier, you should look on this exercise as a considerable help to your astrology, not as a way of amassing money. You need special configurations in your Natal Horoscope to acquire large sums without proportionate effort. But almost any astrologer can make minor gains by careful selections along astrological lines.

Some of the big Spring races will be coming up soon in Melbourne and Sydney. These are the one's on which to try your skill. I'll be pleased to hear of readers' experiences, and perhaps publish them if of general interest. Submissions should particularize place, date and time of the race, and list all the runners and the place-getters with the TAB or starting prices. If your communications are not for publication, please mark them accordingly.

Rectification Exercise No. 3

(Female born at Sydney on 26th Sep. 1946)

There is still time to send in an entry. They close on 7th October. See the last issue of Astrologers' Forum for details. We want data for more Exercises. Please make an effort to supply some, and send it to Jack Nicholls, 107 Highfield Road, Camberwell, Vic. 3124.

JENIFER POMNERIN (WA) writes, "...a series of these Exercises in which all readers can participate...would be a really PRACTICAL way to find out the most consistently successful method of rectifying a chart. Perhaps some astrologers could be a bit reluctant to enter (for various reasons), but would more readily do so if names were withheld from the published results. After all, it isn't important WHO is right or wrong, but how the methods work."

A good suggestion, Jenifer. Names will be omitted in future.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock, 28th September 1989.

Astrologers' Forum

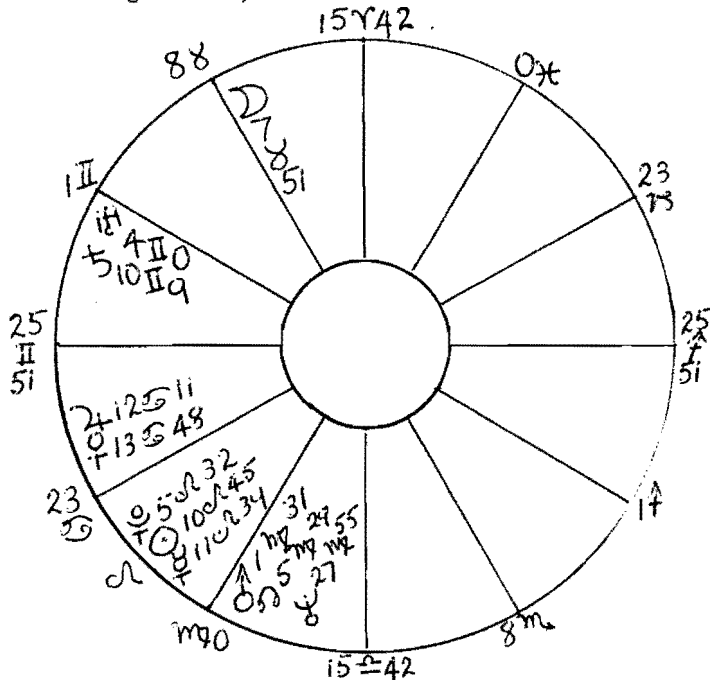

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $15, Australia and Overseas. Issue 97. August 1989.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

ALLAN JOHNSON (Tas.) writes on the sudden Resignation of New Zealand's Prime Minister

David Lange resigned on 7th August. So his Transits and Secondary Progressions are worth looking at. His birthday is the 4th August 1942, and the time I was given by a N.Z. astrologer is 4:30 am, Auckland, but of course, like all such public figures there are said to be a few doubts about its exactitude.

DAVID LANGE, EX-PRIME MINISTER OF N.Z.
4th Aug. 1942, 4:30 am Auckland. Koch.

A noteworthy factor in the Chart is the powerful conjunction of Pluto, the Sun and Mercury square to the Moon, and it is precisely this pattern that is being squared by transiting Pluto at the present time. I have always found the Stationary points of any transit to be most effective in pinpointing significant events. In this case, Pluto had its Station in late July, so it was only a matter of days after that point when his resignation came. Pluto is unquestionably a potent factor in dramatic endings of chapters, and such endings are

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
P.M. David Lange Resigns	1
Russian Siamese Twins	2
Results of Rectification Exercise No. 2	3 usually pretty final. So it seems he is unlikely to seek to return to the Prime Ministership despite his relatively early age.
New Rectification Exercise	4

There is no great emphasis on the Cardinals in Lange's Chart, so he would not be much affected by the current transits of Capricorn. Another interesting point is that Mars had reached its own Natal position at the beginning of Virgo, touching off the Natal Mars square Uranus pattern. Of course, transiting Mars is not normally so important in predictive work due to its frequency through the Zodiac, but here is a case where it acts as a trigger for the more potent Pluto action.

Now to look at the Secondaries, we find the Progressed Sun within orb of a conjunction with Natal Neptune. What emphasizes the importance of this is that the Sun is semi-square Neptune at birth. This could certainly link up with the health angle given as a major reason for the retirement. Afflictions to the Sun in Leo - heart troubles. The other reason was internal conflict with colleagues, and this can certainly often involve Neptune. From another point of view, Neptune can mean a relaxation of pressures that retirement can bring.

Using the Solar Arc to the M.C. (15 Ar 42) we get the Progressed MC square to Mars, again highly appropriate, and could be a good rectification factor. One particularly interesting point about this Natal Chart is that all the planets are in the Eastern half. This can frequently be a strong is correct. As Lange will now drop out of the public eye it is probably not worth while to pursue a rectification further.

- Dymock.

Jack Nicholls (Vic.) reports on an article that appeared in the week-end Magazine of The Australian: Female Siamese twins were born in Moscow in 1950, appearing as two people from the waist up, and as one from the waist down. A third leg was amputated at age sixteen. The ladies are called Masha and Dasha. Dasha has an oval face, is short-sighted, prone to colds, right-handed, is a chatterbox and keen to study. Masha has a small face, smokes occasionally, has a healthier constitution but higher blood pressure, good eyesight, is left-handed, is quieter and more emotional, short-tempered, and plays truant from study. They have two livers, two intestines and one bowel. There have been operations for appendicitis and twisted intestines.

The correct time for the woman born 5th August 1950 [see June/July Issue] is 6:30 am AEST, Ascendant 25Can59. [The correct Chart is printed below. Readers may wish to compare its features with the list of data supplied on page 8 of the May/June Issue. - Ed.] In all, six entries were received, the closest being 5:50 am and 5:18 am. Entries (in alphabetical order) were as follows:

4. Ken Gillman (USA). Estimated time 1:23 am. Ascendant 17 Taurus. Ken used his standard procedure of Septenary and Decennium to decide the first body to rise, then listed Primary Directions within the range indicated by the above. The time suggested was confirmed by Naibod Angles progressed in Right Ascension, and the conjunctions and oppositions of the Secondary Moon. In recent correspondence Ken agrees that the Septenary and Decennium is not suited by the data. It may be noted that he picked up the Moon in Taurus. For his Primary Progressions, see Considerations Volume V, No. 3, 1988.

5. Ian Goldsmith (NSW). Estimated time 11:50 am, Ascendant 23Sc041. Ian did not specify his method, thinking it not required, but rectified principally on the marriage data.

6. Ross Harvey (NSW). Ross's first attempt on a 24-hour basis (before having the additional information - subject's occupation and appearance) was way out but he agreed to another try with a range of four hours, and arrived at an estimate of 6:37 am. His method was to use post and prenatal Stationary Transits to establish the Angles, and Solar Returns to correct the approximate positions. These were checked with Progressed and Regressed Angles and Age Harmonics.

The purpose of these Exercises is not to see who "wins", but to ascertain what methods are reliable for this important phase of astrology. Progress will be quicker if many people participate.

Thanks to Dr. Jack Nicholls for his Report, and for providing the data in the first place. He furnishes another set of data for Rectification Exercise No. 3 in the current Issue (see back page), but has no more. Jack makes a plea for help in this direction, and has kindly offered to undertake the work involved in running further Exercises.

Can some readers please send to Jack a list of dates and events for a person with a known birth time, so that this very useful research can be continued? Jack writes that the information can be kept to a reasonable degree of anonymity without detracting from its intended use. The more "hard" events - those over which we have no control - the better.

Ross Harvey suggests that the reaction of the subject to the event would be a help. For example, a death in a family might be a shattering event or might come as a relief that a patient's suffering was over.

Further information that should be provided where possible (because it would normally be available in a real-life situation) is

- (1) the type of work the subject performs,
- (2) his/her appearance and build,
- (3) proclivity for any particular types of illness (lung, heart, kidney, liver disorders, etc.),
- (4) birth dates of parents and other members of the family, and
- (5) birth dates of any persons with whom the subject has had an intimate relationship.

Trying to find a birth time within a range of 24 hours is a very difficult task, especially with only a list of dated events to work on. In future Exercises the range will be progressively reduced if no one succeeds in estimating the birth time accurately when having to work on the whole 24-hour period. The birth time will not be disclosed until a participant has correctly estimated it (within reasonable limits, say, about 10 minutes). If this is not done in the first round, on a 24-hour basis, the time range will be reduced to, say, six, four and two hours, until the correct birth time is discovered.

Well what about some help in this matter? There must surely be a number of readers who could provide data for a rectification exercise - some relative, friend, partner, spouse, etc., whose birth time is known, together with eight or ten significant events with their dates, and such ancillary information as mentioned above. No names, of course, (unless the subject does not object to having the Christian or most-used name published, as desired by Leslie Black) but state whether male or female.

This is a practical and immediate way in which you can further the progress of your favourite study - Astrology - (and also probably provide scientific evidence to convince the sceptics!)

Do please take the trouble to gather the necessary data and send it to Dr. Jack Nicholls, 107 Highfield Road, CAMBERWELL, VIC. 3124.

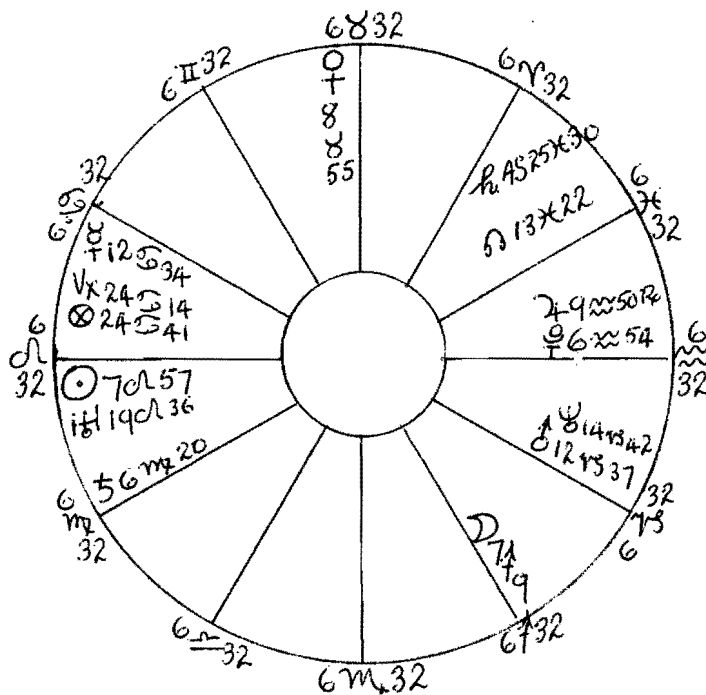

Participants should detail the methods by which they reached their conclusions, as this is a vital part of deciding finally the best procedures or techniques in this area of astrology. The effort to participate is very well worthwhile, and those taking part (I hope there will be more and more!) should realize they are helping themselves even more than astrology, however wide of the mark their results may be. In the short or the long run some positive results and progress will be achieved, which is one of the principal reasons for the existence of Astrologers' Forum.

As a matter of interest I include one of the significant Age Harmonics relating to Rectification Exercise No. 2. It illustrates the value of these Charts.

Female born 5th August, 1950

6 30 am EST. Equal House.

AGE HARMONIC 31, relating to Second Marriage; Change of Residence; Birth of Son

For the marriage: Venus conjunct the Midheaven, the Sun conjunct the Ascendant opposite Jupiter and Pluto on the 7th Cusp.

For the change of residence: Uranus rising conjunct Radical Pluto in the Natal 1st House.

For the birth of a son: Moon conjunct the 5th Cusp trine to the Sun.

If the Ascendant at the latitude of Melbourne is derived from the Harmonic Midheaven there is the further marriage indicator of Ascendant conjunct Radical Venus, and for the removal, Mercury conjunct the Ascendant opposite Mars and Neptune.

RECTIFICATION EXERCISE NO. 3

Female born at Sydney on 26th Sep. 1946.

(To obtain uniformity, let us take the coordinates as being 33°52' and 151°12'.)

Life Events:

1. 3 Nov 1950 Sister born, Sydney.
2. 13 Mar 1954 Moved to Melbourne.
3. May 1954 Changed residence in Melbourne.

4. June 1955 Changed residence in Melbourne.
5. August 1956 Changed residence in Melbourne.
6. 28 May 1968 Married, in Melbourne. Husband born 7th Nov 1944.
7. 31 Dec 1968 Daughter born, Melbourne.
8. 27 Feb 1970 Separation from husband.
9. 16 Apr 1975 Moved to California.
10. 22 Aug 1975 Divorce absolute.
11. 23 Aug 1975 Second marriage. California. Husband born 21 Oct 1946.
12. Jan 1977 Moved to Michigan, beginning of month.
13. 14 Apr 1977 Son born, Michigan.
14. 1 Nov 1978 Son born, Michigan.
15. 26 Nov 1978 Returned to California.
16. May 1979 Thyroid radiotherapy, California.
17. 15 Sep 1979 Changed residence to Colorado.
18. Dec 1980 Returned to Melbourne
19. Mar 1981 Changed residence to Perth, West Australia.
20. 13 Apr 1984 Separation from husband.
21. 28 May 1985 Changed residence in Perth.
22. 25 Aug 1985 Divorce absolute.
23. 18 Jan 1986 Changed residence in Perth.
24. 16 Dec 1987 Parents and sister moved to Perth.

The subject is of medium height and build, has light brown hair and blue eyes. She has been employed as a draughting assistant and in related applied arts. Thyroid problems necessitated radiotherapy in 1979. Eye difficulties probably related to that treatment.

Entries (including method) should be sent to Dr. Jack Nicholls, 107 Highfield Road, CAMBERWELL, VIC. 3124, not later than 7th October 1989. This should give all participants, both Australian and overseas, about a month in which to work on the rectification.

The result will then be announced in the October Issue. If no one rectifies correctly, the birth time will not be disclosed but the range restricted to a matter of hours, making the Exercise easier. If there is still no correct entry, the range will be further restricted until finally the birth time is correctly estimated.

I hope to run a series of these Exercises, which is necessary before any conclusions can be drawn as to the best methods to adopt.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock, 26th August 1989.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $15, Australia and Overseas. Issue 96. July 1989.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

In view of the current exercise in rectifying a chart (with more to follow) the following contribution from Ross Harvey will be of interest to many.

From ROSS HARVEY (NSW):

Observations on Rectification Technique

The most important point to remember in rectification is that indications that are in accordance with events do not prove anything, regardless of the predictive technique being used, as they may be no more than coincidences, no matter how numerous or appropriate or accurately-timed they may be. Only indications that are clearly contrary in nature to known events are significant, and then only for enabling one to rule out the time of the chart that gave the wrong indications. This point cannot be emphasized enough. For example, if in a year of unrelieved tragedy, Harmonic Saturn is conjunct the Radical Ascendant or Harmonic Ascendant, or the Ascendant is progressed to a hard aspect of Saturn, or in a Cyclical Chart, such as a Solar Return, Saturn is conjunct the Ascendant, nothing has been PROVED, as these indications could be no more than coincidence. If, however, the planet conjunct the Ascendant were a benefic, then the chart would be unequivocally wrong.

Step one in rectifying a chart where the birth time is unknown, or is known only to lie within a range of several hours: Calculate the charts for the earlier and later of the times given, (if the time is unknown, for 0-hours and 24-hours local time) and print out the Harmonics for all the years for which events have been given.

Step two: Ignore the Angles and the lunar positions in the Harmonics, and pay particular attention to the range of positions of the Sun in the same Harmonic in the earlier and later charts. See if the Harmonic Sun makes conjunctions or oppositions to Radical or Harmonic planets that are inappropriate for known events,

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Observations on Rectification Technique	1
Cyclic Charts - Birth Place or Re-located?	2
Correspondents	3

always allowing an orb of five degrees. For example, if for a year of unalloyed happiness and success, the Sun in the appropriate Harmonic of the 0-hours chart is 0-Gemini, and in the same Harmonic in the 24-hour chart is 0-Cancer, and Radical Saturn is 5 Gemini, the Harmonic Sun cannot be conjunct Radical Saturn, so the Harmonic Sun cannot be any earlier than 10 Gemini. Consequently the first third of the harmonic range of the Sun can be excluded, and likewise the first third of the 24-hour period can also be excluded - that is, the birth time must be after 8.00 a.m. If Radical Jupiter were at 17 Gemini it would be quite appropriate for the Harmonic Sun to be conjunct Radical Jupiter, but it doesn't have to be there; the favourable indications could be something else as yet unknown. Such favourable indications should be ignored when making a rectification. A chart I recently rectified had, in the Harmonic for the year in which the native's father died, Harmonic Sun conjunct Harmonic Venus for all times after 8.00 a.m. At one stroke I could exclude two-thirds of the day. If sufficient information is available (at least twenty events if the time is unknown - in this respect the Dean test was quite inadequate), and with a bit of luck, one should be able to exclude a large part of the 24-hour period. If I could not reduce the range of uncertainty to say, four hours or less, I would have no confidence in being able to rectify the chart. Note that I do not say that it is impossible, just that at the present state of my knowledge I cannot do it.

It also helps, too, to have some indication of how the native experienced the events given at the time they happened. So, for instance, "moving house" is not much help unless one knows whether the move was seen as favourable, unfavourable, or neutral; for without such information one does not know what indications to look for. The Dean test was inadequate in this regard also.

Step three: When (with luck) the range of time has been reduced to a couple of hours or so, calculate the Angles for the earlier and later times, and then go through the Harmonics of the known events and look for Harmonic planets conjunct or opposite positions within the ranges of the Ascendant and Midheaven that are contrary in nature to the events, just as one did earlier with the Sun. So if the range of the Radical MC were 10 Leo to 25 Virgo, and in a year of good fortune Harmonic Saturn were at 20 Virgo, the Radical MC would have to be before 15 Virgo. Again, with bit of luck, one should be able to exclude quite a bit of the ranges of the Ascendant and MC. One then looks at what has not been excluded.

Step four: At this stage it helps to list all pre- and post-natal Stationary Transits within six weeks of events known. Bear in mind the nature of the events in question, as some things may have been planned for several months before they actually took place, and Transits during the first few months of a pregnancy are often as useful as those at the time of birth. Bear in mind, too, the speed at which the planets move: A Station of Venus would need to be within a couple of weeks of the event, while a Station of Pluto could be up to six weeks from it. If the range of the Angles is known to within a Sign or two, often recurring Transit positions may give a clue to the position of the unknown Angles. Remember, however, that such recurring positions may nevertheless be only coincidences. In a recent rectification test I found a couple of dozen appropriate and adequately-timed Transits and Stations that turned out not to be in aspect to anything in the true chart - a frustrating red herring.

Step five: When the birth time has been reduced to within a quarter of an hour or so, one can begin to calculate the Progressed and Regressed Angles. Solar Returns and Annual Synodic Returns are also important, and probably even if the time range is known only to within an hour.

Precessed and Prenatal Precessed Solar Returns are a good indication, as in a correct chart a large proportion of these will have appropriate planets on the Angles. Indeed if any postulated Chart does not have such indications, it is probably wrong. Progressed Angles are not of much help if the time range is more than 15 minutes or so, as the chances of getting plausible, though wrong, indications increases dramatically with an increasing time range. If this is so when only the Angles are being moved, how much more is it true of Primary Directions, regardless of the system being used, when so many more points are involved. For this reason Primary Directions should not be used to effect a rectification, though they may be used to check one (PEA Directions, at any rate; Topocentric ones are too inaccurate to be used at all to confirm the accuracy of a chart). In short, traditional predictive techniques are not of much use in rectification if the time is not known to within ten minutes or so, as the possibility of getting plausible, but incorrect, results is too great when the time range increases beyond a limit of ten to fifteen minutes.

Step 6: When approximate Angles have been found, re-calculate the chart for the postulated time and print out the Harmonics for all years for which there are events. This time examine the positions of the Harmonic Angles in relation to Harmonic and Radical planets, looking for both inappropriate and appropriate conjunctions and oppositions (only) with an orb of five degrees. Other major aspects may be significant in prediction, but in rectification too many aspects only increases the possibility of one's getting wrong results. Precessed Ascendant-Lunar Charts are also useful for getting the Angles more exactly, but only if the Angles are already known to within half a degree. Otherwise the possibility of plausible but wrong results is too great. With sufficient care it should be possible to find an exact time.

Finally, remember that the greater the range of uncertainty in the time, the greater the possibility of error. I would say that if the time were known to within an hour, and sufficient information were provided, a correct rectification should be a matter of course. If the range is up to four hours, or the 24-hour range can be reduced to four hours or less as in Step two, there is a good chance. But if the range is much greater the chances decrease alarmingly. If the 24-hour range cannot be reduced, there is not much hope.

Cyclic Charts - Birth Place or Re-located?

ROSS HARVEY (NSW) has sent me the Birth Chart and Synodic Returns for a woman seriously injured when hit by a car on 21st December 1988 while on a visit to Melbourne. The woman was born in Finland but has lived in Sydney from the age of eight. Ross points out that in this case the Synodic Returns (both Postnatal and Prenatal) for the place of birth gave much the more positive indication of the accident and injury, though this is not necessarily always the case. Ross comments also that he finds the Prenatal Synodic Returns as useful as the Postnatal ones.

The question of whether to erect a Cyclic Chart for the place of birth, the place of residence, the place of the centre of operations or anywhere else is one that has exercised my mind for years, still without my coming to any definite conclusion. The only tentative inference I have drawn is that the more serious or important events of a person's life are shown more clearly in the Birth-Place Charts, so I look at these first. If nothing of much impact is shown, I then examine the same Chart set for the chief centre of operations of the person concerned. This may be the place of residence or the place of business, etc. The planetary positions of course remain the same, only the Cusps and House locations of the planets being different. (We are fortunate when the birth place and residence, etc., are identical.)

There is not space here to reproduce the Charts submitted by Ross, but the operative aspects were the following:

In the Postnatal Synodic Return

Asc conjunct r.Pluto, semisq. r.Saturn.
The Sun in the 3rd House conjunct r.Saturn.
The Moon (Ruling 12th) conjunct Neptune at the Lower Meridian.

In the Prenatal Synodic Return

Mars at 20Sc055 conjunct the Asc at 19Sc014, and both Significators square to Pluto.
The Sun closely conjunct Neptune.
Mercury, Ruling the 8th House, conjunct the Moon at the 12th House Cusp.

Of the two, the Prenatal Synodic Chart might be considered the more impressive.

Ross makes the further comment that the Harmonic Chart for the year of the accident had Harmonic Mars conjunct the Radical Ascendant; Harmonic Pluto conjunct the Harmonic Ascendant; the Harmonic Sun conjunct the Harmonic Midheaven, and both these Significators conjunct Radical Pluto!

The Solar Return Charts (postnatal and prenatal) for the birth place were relevant but not as clear as the Synodic Returns. On the other hand, the Solar Return Charts for Sydney, the subject's place of residence, did not give any indication of anything unfavourable. Indeed, the Transit (postnatal) Solar Return has Venus conjunct the Ascendant, and Jupiter conjunct the Midheaven! While these favourable positions may indicate something still to come (the Charts are operative until October), the year so far has been wholly negative.

Correspondents

From GISELA ROSMANN (SA): I am puzzled why you don't use Chiron. I really do think it has a lot to say in China's Chart. Nicolas Campion lists Chiron in his book of World Horoscopes. In the two Charts he gives for China it is at 4Sag50 and 5Sag38 respectively.

It would be nice to get Astrologers' Forum every month, but the 30 days of a month seem to fly if someone is under work pressure. To have a bi-monthly Circular would save postage, too, But I think the easiest way out would be to scrap the rigid publication date and just send out the twelve Issues whenever you find the time or have sufficient material. Even if that means three issues in one week, and none for three or four months, then so be it. You provide a unique service, and look at issues from every angle, without restricting yourself. You always try to be fair and down to earth. The world could do with a few more people like you! The trouble with a lot of astrologers these days seems to be - what they are screams so loudly that one can hardly hear what they are saying.

Editor: The use of Chiron is a debatable point. Perhaps in another ten years sufficient research will have been done on this planetoid to justify either its inclusion or exclusion in astrological delineation. At present I am not impressed with its significance, though I do not decry the efforts of those who are trying to attach meaning to it. I prefer to work on the principle of Occam's Razor, making the fewest assumptions necessary to read a chart. Up to the present the standard ten planets, with their multitude of combinations, has served me quite adequately in this respect.

From ROSS HARVEY (NSW): It really doesn't matter much whether the Forum is monthly or bi-monthly, so long as it continues! Monthly issues make it quicker to get answers to correspondence, but an issue every two months would make life easier for you.

From LESLIE BLACK (Eng.): Thank you for another edition of Astrologers' Forum, which makes very good reading. I am sure that no one would object to your suggestion of a bi-monthly owing to your pressure of work, and meeting such a tight deadline. After all, a bi-monthly is better than nothing if at any time you felt that you could not carry on at the same pace.

As there was no mention in the Forum of Dr. Dean's decision re divulging the birth time of the last Rectification Exercise, are we to assume that the matter is now closed? If so, it is discreditable, and will not enhance his reputation.

I think the new Rectification Exercise is very good, and applicable to the objectives of the Forum. I hope these exercises will become a regular feature.

Editor: As Dr. Dean has not responded to my request to disclose the birth time in question, it must be assumed that he does not intend to do so. With the current and future Rectification Exercises no such difficulty should arise.

From CLAIR BUNNETT (VIC): I found the analysis of the Chinese situation very interesting. Also, at this time, it is interesting to note the shifts in the USSR-Sun in Scorpio this year and also in 1990 (USSR born 7th November 1917).

I think a double issue of Astrologers' Forum every month would be all right. It might sometimes allow you to develop a theme that cannot be explored adequately in the short space of four weeks. The Chinese situation is a case in point, as the crisis there appears to be an on-going one.

From ROZ PARK (Eng.): Re ideas and suggestions for Astrologers' Forum - I can't think of anything. I'm happy to read what's printed. A double issue every second month is O.K. by me.

From RUDOLF SMIT (Netherlands): It would not be wise to change the Astrologers' Forum into a double issue each second month. One of the good qualities of the Forum is its regularity. One is looking forward to it! At the end of each month it should be there - when it is not there it causes a strange feeling, the feeling that things are not complete without the Forum. So whatever your workload, try to keep things the way they are - the Forum must remain a monthly.

Regarding rectification exercises, there is one very big problem: When no indication whatsoever is given for the birth time, that is, within a few hours at the least, one can produce a beautiful score for all given events, but the result can be way out nonetheless. I remember how, about five years ago, I attempted a rectification which seemed to turn out all right on all points - everything seemed to fit exceedingly well. Later on I saw the real birth time - I was several hours out!

Let me illustrate with one simple example: Everyone agrees when I state that a very heavy accident correlates pretty well with Progressed Ascendant in aspect with Mars? (Now I ignore other options, such as contacts of Progressed Ascendant with Uranus and Pluto). Well then, that aspect can be a conjunction, an opposition, a square (either way) or even, under some circumstances, a trine. There we are - we have already five possibilities for Natal MC's which could match these five different Progressed Ascendants. Consequently, these five different Natal MC's can be placed anywhere in the Zodiac, hence there are five birth times placed widely apart over a time span of 24 hours.

It is also well possible that a test of other events might seem to yield good correlations with almost any of these five birth times. So which one is right?

Therefore, if there is not any indication as to the birth time (born in the evening, born in the early morning, somewhere between 1 and 4 pm, to name a few), as is the case with Mr. Jack Nicholls' subject, then the chances for a successful rectification of this Chart will be very low. A reason why I always refused to attempt rectifications if no time indications were given. I considered them a waste of time.

Editor: I am glad to have readers' comments. My intention is to maintain monthly publication of Astrologers' Forum, though I may occasionally have to deviate from this policy. The present Issue has been produced under difficulty, your Editor during the last three weeks having been afflicted by recurrent malaria and a series of other inconvenient maladies. The astrological connotations in my Chart are p.Mars opposite Pluto, p.Moon square the Ascendant, and (the trigger) Sun/Moon conjunct Saturn. While being semi-hors de combat I had time to make plans for the future, with a view to the best use of my remaining years. Changes to reduce pressure are being made, but they do not, and will not, involve relinquishing this publication. I am persuaded, by the feedback I receive, that it is serving a useful purpose in the field of current astrological literature.

I thank those kind friends who learned of my physical trials and have expressed their sympathy and good wishes.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock, 25th July 1989.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $15, Australia and Overseas. Issues 94/95. May/June 1989.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

THE CHINESE HORROR

Dominant in the world news over the last weeks has been the horror and tragedy that has overtaken China. The ruthless massacre of students and workers in Beijing on Saturday the 3rd of June has appalled the world. This enormous country, with its centuries of civilization and culture, has descended, temporarily we hope, into barbarism. The latest dire news is that mass arrests are being made of the leaders and activists, and that many are already reported to have "disappeared". Friends of China watch in sorrow as the tragedy unfolds.

Astrology reveals that the full story is not yet told. I am glad to have the following communication from that experienced and respected astrologer, Allan Johnson, formerly of Sydney and now resident in Tasmania.

From ALLAN JOHNSON (Tas.): Events in China are very much in the news. The Chart I use for China is from Fowler's Compendium of Nativities and is for 3:15 pm, 1st October 1949, Beijing. This puts the Sun in the 8th House square Uranus, and Mars/Pluto conjunct square Venus. Both of these patterns are being activated right now by heavy Transits and Progressions. It is a good case for Secondaries. The Progressed Sun squares Pluto, and of course this activates the whole Mars/Pluto conjunction - much related to ruthless violence. At the same time transiting Pluto is within orb of the square to Mars, and will make the exact square in October, and to its own Natal position at the end of the year. In so doing it will be exactly conjunct the Progressed Sun. So we are getting a remarkable dovetailing. There is a lot of potential here for massive violence continuing throughout the rest of the year and into 1990.

But this is only part of the picture. The Progressed Venus is exactly on 4° Capricorn, opposite Natal Uranus and activating

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The Chinese Horror	1
Birth Chart of the Chinese Republic	2
Progressions, etc. for China	2
Secondary Quotidian for the Massacre on June 3, 1989	3
Synodic Return No.39 (China)	4
New Rectification Exercise	8

the drastic Sun square Uranus from the 8th House (death). At the end of the year Uranus will be exactly opposite its own Natal position, and in 1990 go on to square Natal Sun. The Progressed Moon is also conjunct Uranus in July, sparking the whole thing off. To add to the confusion and instability the transiting Saturn/Neptune conjunction will be within orb of the square to the 8th-House Mercury/Neptune. This is an incredible synchronization of factors. Secondary Progressions and Transits are dovetailing together in a most dramatic way. So all this suggests that the current revolts (writing this on 7th June) won't easily be curbed, but could be confronted with a major revolutionary situation that could change the whole future of China. It all lines up.

There is an interesting parallel with the life of a human being. The present regime in China comes to its 40th birthday later this year. So the crisis that has hit it parallels the "mid-life crisis" of a person. This suggests that the whole upheaval could extend over several years. And another parallel: The Progressed Sun is going through the second decanate of Scorpio - the Pisces decanate. In human terms, I have found this a most vulnerable and unstable period, probably the worst one can have.

PEOPLE'S REPUBLIC OF CHINA

1st October 1949, 3:15 pm (UT 7:15)

Peking (now Beijing), 39N55, 116E23. Placidian Cusps.

This Chart of the People's Republic of China is drawn from Mundane Astrology by Baigent, Campion and Harvey, and agrees with the source quoted above by Allan Johnson. For the interest of readers, and to assist them in following future events with their astrological correlations I have appended a list of Progressed Aspects, both direct and converse, together with brief suggested interpretations.

PROGRESSED AND REGRESSED ASPECTS
STATIONARY TRANSITS & MAJOR TRANSITING CONJUNCTIONS/OPOSITIONS PARALLELS & CONTRA-PARALLELS OF DECLINATION

"p." = Progressed, "re." = Regressed (Converse). "PAR." = Parallel, "C/PAR" = Contra-parallel. A Midpoint between two Significators is shown in the usual way with a stroke (/).

re.Moon conj. Sa/Ur May 15, 1989: Moon 9Le04 Sa/Ur 9Le04.
Strain and tension among the populace.

MOON SEMISQUARE PLUTO May 22, 1989 Moon 2Cn39 Pl 17Le39.
Mass demonstrations of students (Pluto ruling the Natal 9th House).

[Continued on page 5]

In Tiananmen Square, Peking (now Beijing), 39N55, 116E23.
Placidean Cusps.

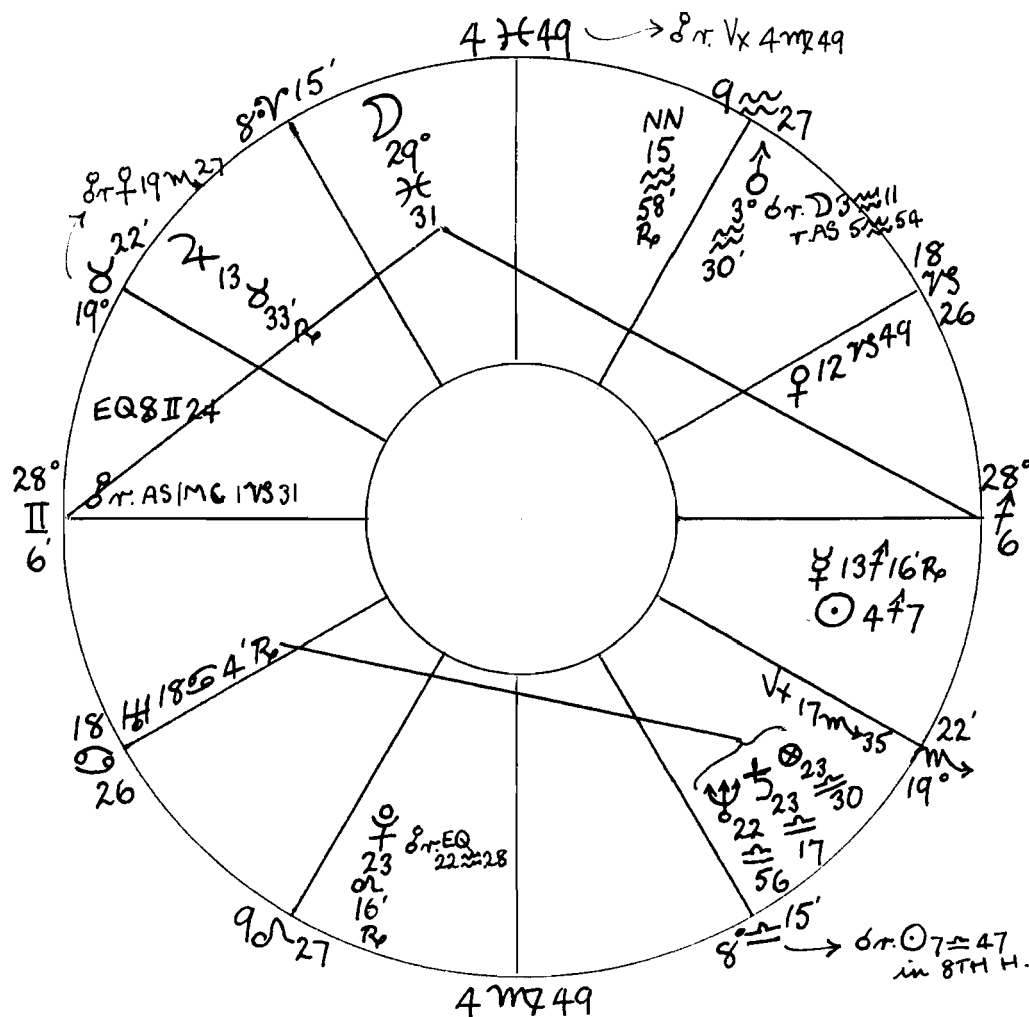

It will take China many years to rehabilitate her image in the eyes of the rest of the world.

CHINESE REPUBLIC - SYNODIC RETURN NO.39

PERIOD 1ST OCTOBER 1988 - 1ST OCTOBER 1989

Synodic Date 26 Nov 1952, 10:19:59 GMT, Beijing. Placidian Cusps.

There are several striking features about this Chart:

1. The MC at 4Pi49 is exactly opposite the Radical Vertex at 4Vi49, showing that China has reached a critical and fateful point in its history.
2. The Ascendant at 28Ge6 is opposite another fateful point - the MC/ASC Midpoint at 1Cp31.
3. Other significant Inter-Chart Cuspal indicators are the 12th Cusp (imprisonment, etc.) at 19Ta22 opposite Radical Venus (19Sc27), which is square Pluto and Mars, and rules the "House of Death"; the 5th Cusp (students, etc.) at 8Li15 conjoins the Radical Sun at 7Li47 in the "Death House" squared by Uranus and conjunct Neptune.
4. In the Synodic Chart itself, the Moon, representing the people, at 29Pi31 squares the Asc-Des axis, 28Ge6-28Sg6. (The people's struggle).
5. Mars in the "Death House" at 3Aq30 conjoins the Radical Moon at 3Aq11 (lethal military action against the people). This effect of this conjunction is enhanced because it falls on the Radical Ascendant.
6. Uranus (tanks and military machines in general) retrograde at 18Cn4 is on the 2nd Cusp, opposite the "Death Cusp" at 18Cp26, and squared by Saturn and Neptune conjoined in the 5th House (students).

Two other Cyclic Charts, though not reproduced here are also of interest: The SOLAR RETURN Ascendant at 14Le59 conjoins Radical Mars and Pluto, and there is a T-Square involving the Sun, Mars and Neptune.

In the AGE HARMONIC CHART the h.Sun closely opposes the Radical Moon and Ascendant and the h.Moon; the h.8th Cusp is almost exactly conjunct the Radical Sun; h.Mars squares r.Mars and Pluto and h.Venus, ruling the 8th House; and the h.Vertex falls on the Radical 12th Cusp.

All the Cyclic Charts, as well as the Progressed Quotidian Chart, have relevant positions and aspects. I think perhaps the Synodic Return is the most apposite. I have found this Chart to be singularly useful in personal applications also.

[Continued from page 2]

Su/Pl square p.Moon May 24, 1989: Su/Pl 2Li42 Mo 2Cn42.
Threats of suppression of the people by the authorities.

re.Mo/No square Saturn May 28, 1989: Mo/No 13Ge09 Sa 13Vi09.
Restrictive measures (martial law) against gatherings of the populace.

Ve/Ma square Ascendant June 1, 1989: Ve/Ma 58c54 Asc 5Aq54.
The people express the intensity of their feelings.

SUN SEXTILE p.SATURN June 2, 1989: Sun.. 17Sc15 Sa 17Vi15.
The Government of elderly men decides on firm action.

re.MOON PAR. re.MARS June 2, 1989: Mo... +22 43 Ma + 22 43.
The Army is ordered to put down the demonstrations by force.

MERCURY STAT. 28Ta10 CONJUNCT 4TH CUSP 27Ta7 June 5, 1989.
Tiananmen Square becomes a scene of carnage in the massacre of students on June 3. (Natal Mercury in 8th House: Mercury, students and young people generally; 8th House, death; 4th House, graveyard).

MOON SEMISQ. p.PLUTO June 7, 1989: Mo... 3Cn11 Pl 18Le11.
Ruthless measures against the people.

re.Mo/MC conjunct Sat. June 16, 1989: Mo/MC 13Vi09 Sa 13Vi09.
Mourning of the people. The grief of bereavement.

Moon square Ve/Pl June 18, 1989: Mo... 3Cn33 Ve/Pl 3Li33.
Intense emotions of the people.

Mo/Ur Opp. p.Venus June 18, 1989: Mo/Ur 4Cn06 Ve... 4Cp06.
Anxiety among academics, and fears for their safety (Natal Venus in 9th House).

re.MOON PARALLEL PLUTO June 23, 1989: Mo.. +22 56 Pl.. +22 56.
Purges and ruthless measures against the people (Natal Pluto conjunct Mars square Venus, co-ruler of 8th).

TRANSITING [SA CONJUNCT NE] 11Cp14 CONJUNCT 12TH CUSP June 24, 1989.
Suffering of the people.

MOON OPPOSITE p.VENUS July 5, 1989: Mo... 4Cn09 Ve... 4Cp09.
Loss of academics by death and flight (Venus in 9th, ruling 3rd House and co-ruling 8th. 9th House, academics; Opposition aspect, separation, loss; 3rd House, flight; 8th = death).

Ascendant square Su/No July 6, 1989: Asc.. 12Ar22 Su/No 12Cn22.
Action against leaders of dissident groups.

NEPTUNE C/PAR. p.ASC July 10, 1989: Ne... -4 54 Asc +4 54.
Death and disappearance of intellectuals (Natal Neptune conjunct Mercury in 8th House; Contra-parallel = loss, separation).
re.MOON PAR. re.PLUTO July 15, 1989: Moon +23 9 Pl +23 9.
Purges, executions, ruthless vengeance (see June 23).

MOON CONJUNCT p.URANUS July 19, 1989: Moon 4Cn38 Uranus 4Cn38.
Strain and tension among the populace, in state of suppressed rebellion.

re.Su/Mo conjunct Pluto July 20, 1989: Su/Mo 17Le39 Pluto 17Le39.
Repressive and ruthless measures by the authorities.

re.MOON SEMISQ.re.MERC. July 22, 1989: Moon 6Le26 Merc. 21Vi26.
The media used for propaganda.

PLUTO STAT. 12Sc22 SQUARE MARS 14Le54 , July 23, 1989.
Violence and cruelty by the authorities on a large scale.

MOON CONJUNCT URANUS, July 29, 1989: Moon 4Cn59, Uranus 4Cn59.
Sudden new developments; shock; movement of tanks.

re.Sun conjunct Ma/Sa, Aug. 1, 1989: Sun 29Le01, Ma/Sa 29Le01.
Death of a prominent leader. General unrest.

re.Mo/Ur conj. re.Mars, Aug. 3, 1989: Mo/Ur 19Cn58, Ma 19Cn58.
More violence and many injuries.

re.MOON OPPOSITE ASC, Aug. 4, 1989: Moon 5L54, Asc 5Aq54.
Criticism by China of foreign powers. A divided people.

TRANS. [JU.OPP.UR.] 1Cn47/1Cp47, OPP/CONJ AS/MC 1Cp31, Aug. 8 1989.
The Midpoint of the MC and ASC has been found to be significant in precipitating events. This Jupiter/Uranus Opposition contacting it will heighten tension between the authorities and dissident elements.

re.MOON C/PAR. re.ASC, Aug. 28, 1989: Moon +23 23, Asc -23 23.
re.MOON PAR.re.URANUS, Aug. 29, 1989: Moon +23 37, Uranus +23 37.
Both the above suggest a restless and unsettled populace.

re.Ve/Ne conjunct Sun, Aug. 30, 1989: Ve/Ne 7Li47, Sun 7Li47.
Occurring in the 8th House, this points to the death of a prominent figure.

URANUS STAT. 1Cp20 CONJUNCT AS/MC 1Cp31 Sep. 10, 1989.
A startling development involving revolutionary change.

re.Su/Mo conj. re.Pluto, Sep. 15, 1989: Su/Mo 16Le36, Pluto 16Le36.
A critical phase, the Nation being torn by inner conflict.

re.Venus conjunct Ve/Ma, Sep. 20, 1989: Venus 2Li11, Ve/Ma 2Li11.
Passionate outbursts among "anti-social elements".

MOON OPPOSITE p.MC, Sep. 22, 1989: Moon 6Cn54, MC 6Cp54.
Resurgence of popular feeling antagonistic to the Government.

TRANSITING [JU.Conj.NE] 9Cp38 CONJUNCT 12TH CUSP 10Cp2, Oct. 1 1989.
re.Mo/As conjunct Nep, Oct. 8, 1989: Mo/As 14Li39, Nep 14Li39
re.Mo/Ne conjunct re.Sat, Oct. 10, 1989: Mo/Ne 8Vi10, Sat 8Vi10 Subversive schemes being plotted in secret.

re.MOON OPPOSITE MOON Oct. 13. 1989: p.Moon 3Le11, r.Moon 3Aq11.
A people divided against itself.

MOON SQUARE SUN, Oct. 18, 1989: Moon 7Cn47, Sun. 7Li47.
Internal resistance to authority, and external disharmony with foreign countries.
re.Su/Ne conjunct re.Mer, Oct. 22, 1989: Su/Ne 21Vi03, Mer 21Vi03.
Death sentences and executions (8th House).

MOON SEXTILE p.MARS, Oct. 23, 1989: Moon 7Cn58, Mars 7Vi58.
Anger of the people.

SUN SQUARE PLUTO, Oct. 27, 1989: Sun 17Sc39, Pluto 17Le39.
Exercise of tyrannical power by the authorities.

JUPITER STATIONARY 10Cn52 CONJUNCT CUSP 12, 29 Oct. 29, 1989.
Growth of secret anti-government groups.
re.MOON C/PAR. Moon, Nov. 12, 1989: re.Moon +24 23, r.Moon -24 23.
TRAN. [SAT CONJ.NEP] 10Cp21 CONJUNCT CUSP 12, Nov. 13, 1989.
TRAN. [JUP OPP.NEP] 10Cn23/10Cp23 ON 6TH-12TH AXIS, 10Cn2/10Cp2, Nov. 14, 1989.
Great increase in the number of those imprisoned, and in secret "trials" and persecutions.

re.Ma/Pl opposite Moon, Nov. 23, 1989: Ma/Pl 3Le11 Mo 3Aq11.
Violence against many members of the public.

re.MERCURY SESQ. ASC, Nov. 28, 1989: Mercury 20Vi54, Asc 5Aq54.
re.Su/Ur conjunct re.Mo, Nov. 29, 1989: Su/Ur 1Le20, Moon 1Le20.
Much agitation and disturbance.

re.Ma/As conjunct Sun, Dec. 5, 1989: Ma/As 7Li47, Sun 7Li47.
re.Su/Mo conjunct Mars, Dec. 5, 1989: Su/Mo 14Le54, Mars 14Le54.
Many public executions.

ASC QUINCUNX SATURN, Dec. 8, 1989: Asc 13Ar09, Saturn 13Vi09.
ASC OPPOSITE MERCURY, Dec. 10, 1989: Asc 13Ar10, Mercury 13Li10.
Harsh repressive measures, accompanied by Government propaganda.

VENUS OPPOSITE p.URANUS Dec. 13, 1989: Venus 4Cp37, Uranus 4Cn37.
Sudden action against cultural groups and societies.

SATURN PARALLEL NODE, Dec. 18, 1989: Saturn + 6 40, Node + 6 40.
Harsh restrictions on gatherings.

MOON CONJUNCT 6TH CUSP, Dec. 22, 1989.
Emphasis on work and productivity.

- Dymock.

NEW RECTIFICATION EXERCISE

JACK NICHOLLS (Vic.) has submitted the following data for readers to essay a Chart Rectification. Jack has guaranteed disclosure of the correct time after the entries are in. The closing date is 10th August 1989, which will give readers about six weeks to make their attempts. Send your entries to Jack Nicholls at 109 Highfield Road, Camberwell, Victoria, Australia, 3124.

Female born at Melbourne (144E58,37S49) on 5th August 1950

Life Events:

1. 16 Feb 1922 Father born.
2. 22 Dec 1923 Mother born.
3. 1 Feb 1956 Moved to Tasmania (147E9, 41S27).
4. 1 Jan 1961 Returned to Melbourne.
5. 1 Jul 1966 Godmother moved in with family. Close relationship with subject, and exercised big influence on her.
6. 9 Aug 1970 Met future husband (born 20th March 1956).
7. 14 May 1971 Married.
8. 9 Sep 1974 Daughter born.
9. 10 Sep 1974 Fall in hospital; broke front tooth, obtained financial compensation from hospital.
10. 14 Oct 1975 Mother required emergency operation to have gall bladder removed.
11. 12 Jan 1976 Elective surgery to have nose remodelled.
12. 1 Feb 1976 Husband involved in major car accident; passenger killed husband injured.
13. 1 Aug 1977 Broke leg in skiing accident; compound fracture; flown to hospital by helicopter. Well-loved brother had mental breakdown.
14. 17 Oct 1977 Marriage separation.
15. 27 Oct 1978 Brother had second mental breakdown.
16. 24 Jun 1979 Went to Divorce Court for first time; handled her own case.
17. 27 Mar 1980 Elective surgery for breast reduction.
18. 7 Apr 1981 Second marriage - husband born 5th October 1947.
19. 6 Sep 1981 Change of residence, which was very important to subject.
20. 30 Mar 1982 Son born.
21. 4 Jun 1982 Daughter born.
22. 17 Oct 1984 Handled her own case re maintenance for daughter from first marriage, and won.
23. 12 Dec 1986 Well-loved godmother referred to in item 5 died.
24. 26 Feb 1988

All events occurred in Melbourne, other than items 3 and 13. The Skiing accident was at Mt. Hotham (147E15, 36S58) at about 10 am. The subject is presently a housewife but was previously engaged as a receptionist in a variety of fields. Her height is 5'7", heavily built, pale complexion with medium blonde hair. She is very healthy.

Pressure of work has forced me again to combine two Issues of Astrologers' Forum in one. I should like to hear from readers whether they prefer an Issue each month, or a double Issue each second month, and also how they think this publication could be improved. Ideas and suggestions will be welcomed.

- Dymock, 25th June 1989.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $15, Australia and Overseas. Issue 93. April 1989.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

THE SALMON RUSHDIE AFFAIR

One of the most extraordinary events of our time occurred on 15th February when the Iranian Leader, the Ayatollah Khomeini, passed sentence of death on the novelist Salmon Rushdie, for blasphemy against the Islamic religion. I doubt whether there is any parallel in modern history for an act of this nature - a Head of State commanding the execution of a foreign national. Not only that, but the Ayatollah has offered a reward of $2,600,000 to any Iranian who carries out the sentence. The amount of the reward was immediately doubled by patriotic Iranians. A lesser sum, but still huge ($1,000,000) is to be the reward to any Non-Iranian who performs the execution.

Rushdie is resident in Britain and, his apology not having been accepted, has been forced to go into hiding. The international repercussions have been momentous: Apart from the USA condemning the action of the Ayatollah, Britain and a dozen other European countries have cut diplomatic ties with Iran.

The main interest from the astrological point of view is the Horoscope of Salmon Rushdie, and the planetary factors related to his incurring the wrath of Islam.

According to Rushdie's own account, given in a television programme, he was born at Bombay on the 15th of August 1947 at 12 midnight, coincident with India's gain of Independence. His Birth Chart appears on Page 2. A striking feature is the stellium of six planets in the Sign Leo at the lower Angle of the Chart. But what would cause him to bring down on his head the murderous rage of a nation?

We see the answer in the 4th House of the Chart: The Moon applies to the conjunction of Pluto and Saturn in close order, all three being conjunct the 4th Cusp/opposite the MC. Pluto conjunct Saturn is a prime Significator of international terrorism - which is what the Ayatollah's edict amounts to - and the occupancy of the Sign Leo gives weight and authority to the conjunction. Pluto rules the 7th House (open enemies),

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The Salmon Rushdie Affair	1
Rushdie's Birth Horoscope	2
Age Harmonic 41	3
Synodic Return 41	3
The Saturn/Neptune Conjunction: National Effects	4
The Rectification Exercise	4

and Saturn's rulership of the 9th House shows that the threat comes from a foreign country. Pluto and Saturn also afflict Venus, which is Rushdie's planetary Ruler, as it governs the Sign Taurus on the Ascendant. This gives the affliction a still more personal and dangerous note.

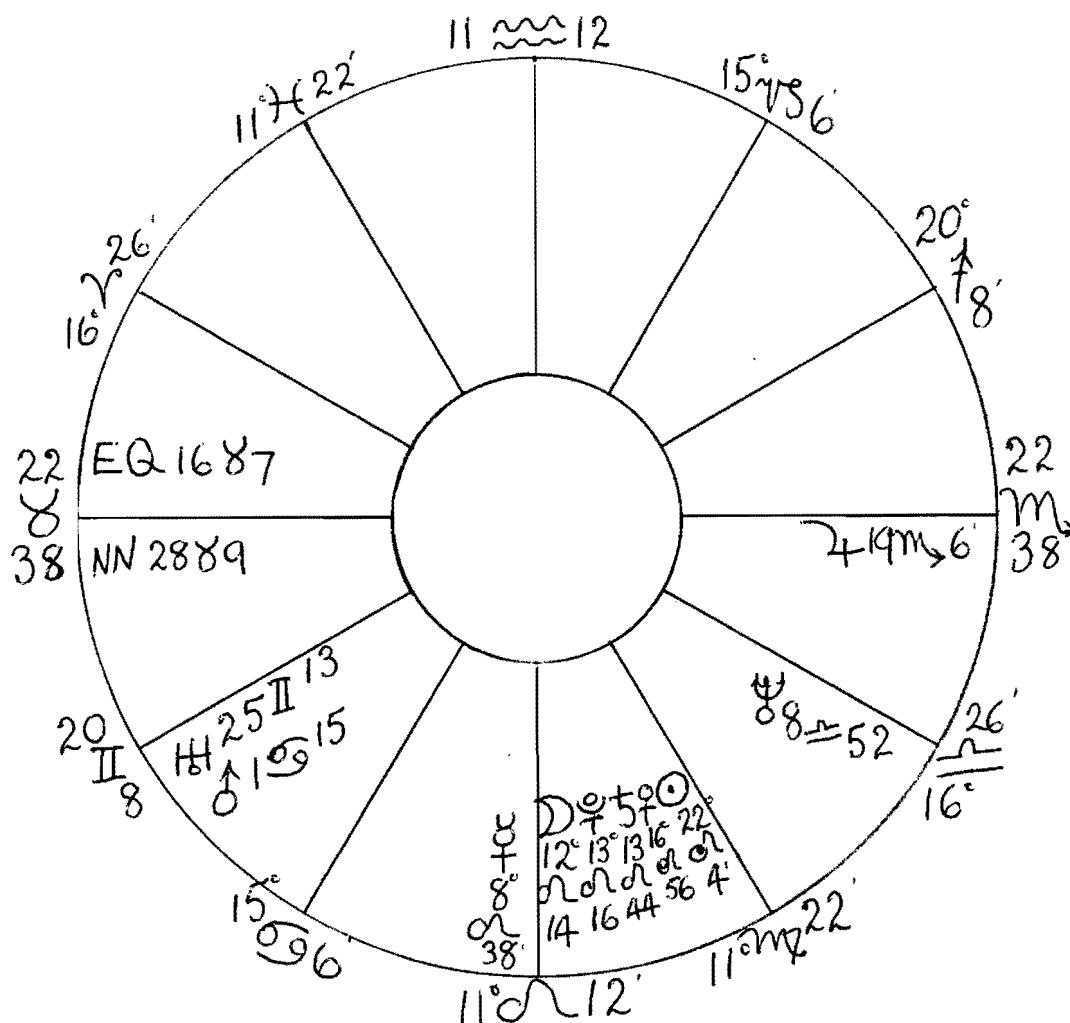

The close sextile (orb 14') between Mercury and Neptune typifies Rushdie's profession of novelist. Using the Horary-Astrology technique of "translation of light", we see that the Moon applies from the conjunction of Mercury to the conjunction of Pluto and Saturn, that is Rushdie's writings bring him terror (if not destruction) and restriction. (He is currently in hiding, under police protection, somewhere in the U.K., and consequently limited in his movements.)

Rushdie is 41, and it is revealing to examine the Cyclic Charts and Progressions for the current perilous period of his life. The Harmonic Chart for his 41st year is on page 3. The Ascendant and Intermediate Cusps are derived from the Harmonic Midheaven and set for the latitude of Bombay.

The Chart demonstrates the effectiveness of Age Harmonics. What stands out immediately is the conjunction of the Sun and Pluto at 4Gem56 and 4Gem8 respectively, both closely opposed to the Ascendant degree at 4Sag52. This is remarkably pertinent to the situation - the threat to Rushdie's life. It could hardly be more apt: The Sun and Pluto are, above all, descriptive of the Ayatollah and dictatorial power, and Pluto, as we have seen, is a planet of peril in

SALMON RUSHDIE

15TH AUGUST 1947, BOMBAY. 12 PM IST (UT 18:30). Placidian Cusps.

Jupiter square the Sun = trouble with the authorities.

The Moon separating from Mercury and applying to the close conjunction of Pluto and Saturn subjects Rushdie to coercion and limitation, even terrorism.

Mercury conjunct the Moon and close sextile Neptune = imaginative writing.

Mars semisquare Venus = danger of physical injury, since Venus rules the Ascendant.

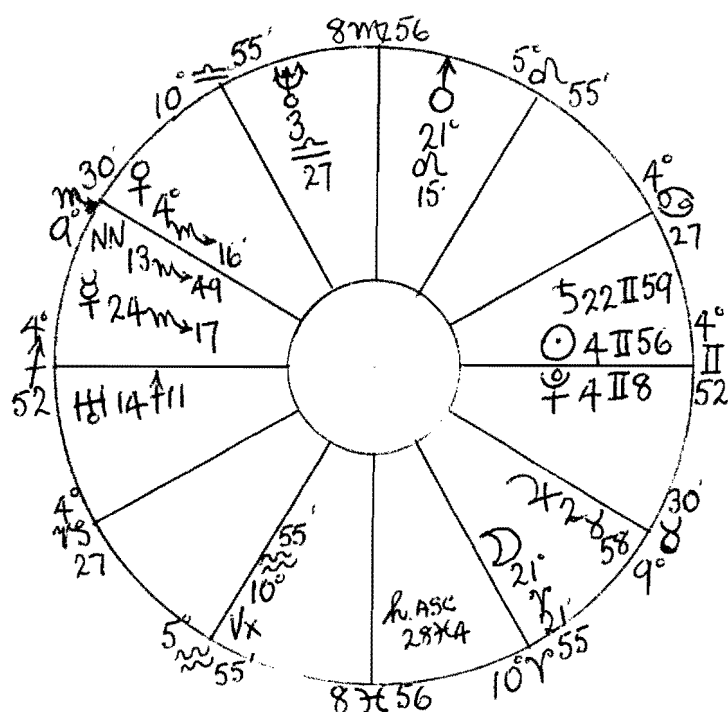

SIGNIFICANT MIDPOINTS:

Mars conjunct Mercury/Ascendant (orb 37') = Disputes, quarrelling. Risk of injury.

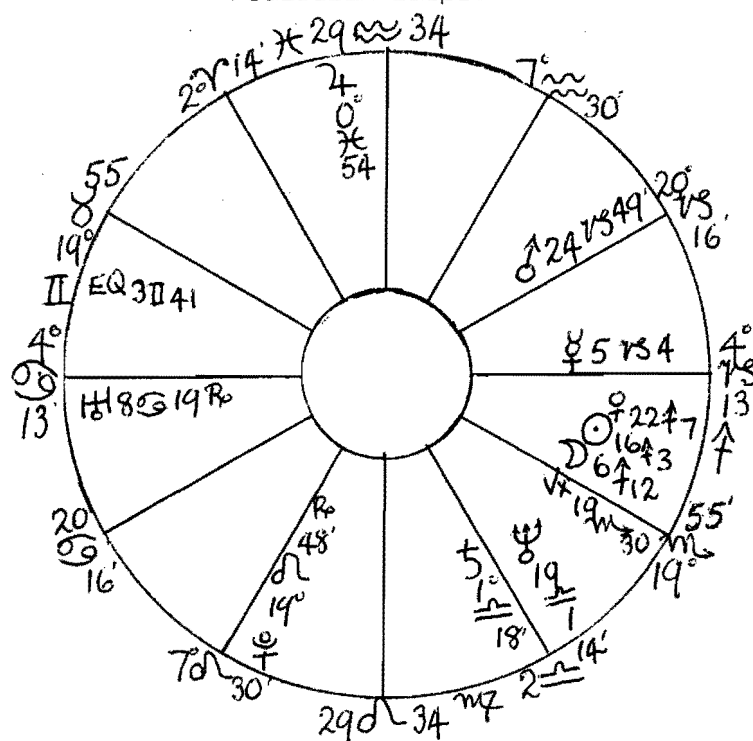

Mars conjunct Moon/Ascendant (orb 1° 11') = Conflicts; possible injury.

Rushdie's predicament is the more unfortunate as the stellium in Leo with Taurus on the Ascendant betokens a general kindness of nature and no deliberate intention to offend.

SALMON RUSHDIE: AGE HARMONIC 41
Operative 15th Aug 1988 - 15th Aug 1989
Ascendant and Placidian Cusps derived from Harmonic Midheaven. Set for Bombay.

SALMON RUSHDIE: Synodic Return Chart 8th
Dec 1950, 16:59:51 UT. London.
Operating 15th Aug 1988 to 15 Aug 1989.
Placidian Cusps.

Rushdie's Nativity. Reinhold Ebertin describes the combination of Sun/Pluto/-Ascendant as, "Experiencing the ruthlessness of others, the crisis of self-preservation". Ebertin certainly hits the nail on the head here.

The Synodic Return corresponding to Rushdie's year from August 1988 to August 1989 (Ephemeris date 8th December 1950) is also given on page 3. For lack of better information regarding Rushdie's exact whereabouts when the furore was on, the Chart is set for the latitude of London. Significant features here, reflecting the events of February, are Uranus rising opposite Mercury (mental shock), and Saturn at 1Lib18 square Natal Mars at 1Can15 (violence). The precision of this aspect makes it very powerful. The Ascendant at 4Can13 is conjunct Natal Mars, and might have been closer if the Chart had been cast for the precise location of Rushdie. Jupiter conjunct the Midheaven is indicative of the fame achieved through his book, Satanic Verses, that caused all the threats and controversy. Jupiter's close quincunx to Saturn shows that much of this publicity was of an unwelcome nature.

The Solar Return Chart for the same period, August 1988 - August 1989, (not illustrated) is also indicative, though less striking: Saturn, Uranus and Neptune rising in a group just below the Ascendant, Pluto closely square Natal Mercury (death threats), and SR-Jupiter square SR-Mercury (orb 6').

Other than in the Cyclic Charts, what were the portents of this dramatic turn of events in Rushdie's life? The events were, in fact, foreshadowed by a series of powerful Primary Directions (Topocentric System), as listed below. The mathematically-exact dates are given, but it must be remembered that Primary Directions have an orb of influence running into months:

MARS SQUARE THE SUN, 25th Oct. 1988

NEPTUNE CONJUNCT THE SUN, 19th Jan. 1989

VENUS (RULER) SQUARE MARS, 1st Mar. 1989

In the Secondary System there was only the Moon progressed to the sesquare (135°) of Mars on 9th February, 1989.

Transits, which are useful for timing, were the Moon sesquare Mars on 9th February, and Uranus semisquare Jupiter on 14th February.

What of the future? Will the Ayatollah's hit-men find and destroy their quarry? Primary and Secondary Directions show a dangerous period at the end of this year.

By Primary Direction (Topocentric) Uranus squares Saturn, and by Secondary Progression the Ascendant conjoins Mars, both aspects occurring at the end of December this year. In view of the different ways of Progressing the Ascendant, I should explain that here the Natal Midheaven is Progressed by the Zodiacal Solar-Arc and the Progressed Ascendant is derived from the Progressed Midheaven so found and calculated for the Birth latitude.

The Quarterly Synodic Chart for the quarter 14th November 1989 - 14th February 1990 has Uranus opposing Mars across the Chart, and Pluto square to the Sun and opposed to the Moon in the House of Death and Danger.

The Solar Return of 15th August 1989 (at London) has Uranus on the 9th Cusp, opposite Natal Mars and opposite SR-Jupiter. Pluto is close to the Descendant in Scorpio and squares Natal Saturn and Pluto.

The Quarter 14th November to 14 February is certainly a time when Rushdie needs to be particularly on his guard.

SATURN/NEPTUNE CONJUNCTION: PART 2

Continuing the analysis of the Saturn/-Neptune Conjunction from last month's Astrologers' Forum, here is a resume of what might be expected in the national field.

Saturn conjunct Neptune results in air travel disasters, of which there have been several tragic examples recently. In its technological aspect, the aircraft industry is associated with Uranus, but Neptune is linked to aviation through its association with infinite space. Saturn is operative in falls, crushing and mechanical defects.

Other occurrences that coincide with a Saturn/Neptune conjunction are the collapse of buildings and the undermining of foundations, cave-ins in coal mines and subterranean passages, falls from buildings, deaths through the non-opening of parachutes and injuries from elevators falling out of control.

Oil spills (for example, the huge Alaskan catastrophe) and illegal dumping of poisonous waste is another outcome of the Saturn/-Neptune conjunction. Sydney, has suffered much in this respect of recent weeks. Dumping of poisons in waterways has killed off thousands of fish (Neptune - Pisces).

In political life, Saturn/Neptune is associated with shady and corrupt practices, intrigue and behind the scenes manoeuvring, as well as secrecy and the cover-up of unpleasant facts deemed to be damaging to the government.

A reflection of the Saturn/Neptune penchant for covert operations is the current spy scare in Australia, the Australian Security Intelligence Organization warning of a big spy build-up in this country and increased under-cover activity.

Affecting the 5th House of a National Horoscope it is likely to be associated with monstrous births (Siamese twins).

Finally, the freak weather much of the world has been experiencing for months may be attributed to the three conjunctions of Saturn and Neptune this year.

The above list is not exhaustive, and readers are invited to contribute their own experiences in relation to the Saturn/-Neptune conjunction. If publication is not desired, please say so. The extension of astrological knowledge and the advancement of individual skill is greatly helped by the recording of life experiences in relation to astrological factors. - Dymock.

THE RECTIFICATION EXERCISE

GEOFFREY DEAN reports that ten astrologers participated but none came within an hour of the correct time. Geoffrey has not disclosed the actual time of birth, as he wants to use the same data again. I have asked him to let us know the birth time in this particular case in order to keep faith with the astrologers who essayed the Exercise, and also to help them improve their rectification techniques.

I think the failure of any of the contestants to find the time of birth is due to the lack of information that would normally be available in practice, e.g.:

- (1) The type of work the native performs.
- (2) His/her physical appearance - tall or short, heavily or lightly built, complexion, colour of hair, and maybe a specimen of handwriting.
- (3) Predisposition to ailments of any organ or part of the body - lungs, heart, stomach, kidneys, liver, bones, head, feet, etc.
- (4) The dates of birth of any person with whom the native has had a sexual relationship lasting a year or more.

The above ancillary information helps to find the Sign on the Ascendant, which makes the rest of the job, using the list of dates and events, very much easier.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock.

30th April 1989.

Astrologers Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $15. Australia and Overseas. Issue 91/92 February/March 1989.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

THE WEST AUSTRALIAN ELECTION, 4TH FEBRUARY 1989

The astrological forecasting of elections is always of interest, and in the past I have mentioned several ways in which this might be attempted. One can use the preceding Eclipse Chart, a chart for the closing of the polls, a Horary Chart and, of course, the Cyclic Charts, Progressions and Directions drawn from the Natal Horoscopes of the protagonists. Unfortunately these last are not always available. The preceding Solar Ingress Chart can also be referred to but I personally have not found it to be of much use. The preceding Solar Eclipse Chart is a powerful indicator provided it is close to the election date. The Lunar Eclipse is less valuable. The horoscope for the closing of the polls appears to be a good indicator all the time. Transits are useful, but unless they are very strong and definite it is unwise to rely on them alone. The Horary Chart is also reliable if it is cast by or on behalf of a person who has a real interest in the result, and is not just making an idle enquiry.

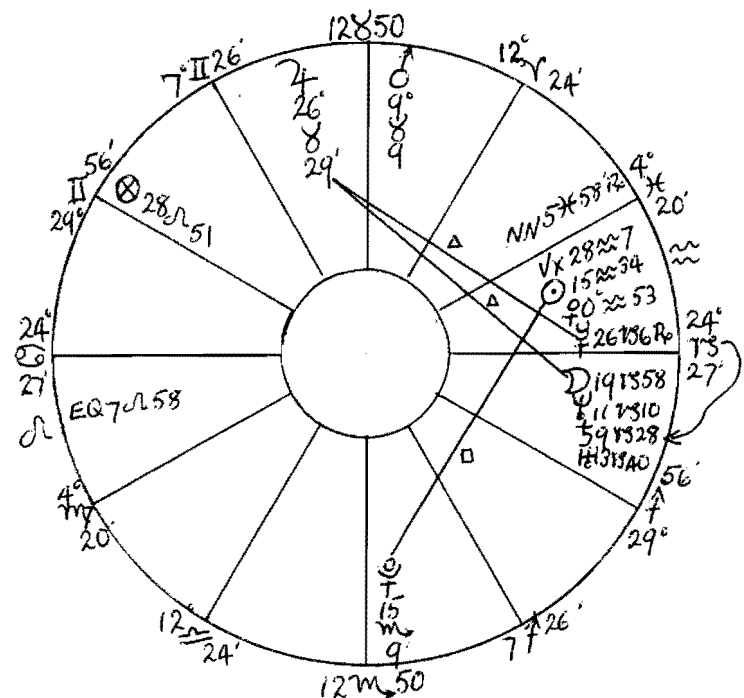

It is now too late for forecasting the West Australian Election, which was held on the 4th of February, other matters having occupied our attention at the time, but it is still instructive to look at the relevant astrological factors. The preceding Solar Eclipse fell on the 11th of September 1988 - about five months before the Election, too far away to be applicable. An inspection of the Chart does not yield any valuable pointers.

The Closing of the Polls Chart, however, does show the course of the events (see Map 1). We take the 1st and 10th Houses for the Government (Labour) in power prior to the Election, and the 7th and 10th Houses for the Liberal Opposition. Victory for the Government is shown by Jupiter in the 10th House trine to the Moon ruling the Ascendant, and trine to Mercury. Pluto conjunct the 4th Cusp (the Opposition's 10th) closely squared by the Sun, is on the contrary indicative of defeat for the

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The West Australian Election	1
How to Calculate the Synodic Return	2
President George Bush: Birth Chart	3
Synodic Return 64	4
President Bush and the USA Independence Chart	5
An Analysis of the Neptune/Saturn Conjunction	6

Map 1. THE WEST AUSTRALIAN ELECTION
4TH FEBRUARY 1989
CLOSING OF THE POLLS, 6 PM AWST. PERTH, WA,
31 S 56, 115 E 50. Placidian Cusps.

Opposition. The chief Significator of the Opposition is Saturn. Lord of the Sign Capricorn on the 7th Cusp, and Saturn is very adversely placed, being "besieged" by Uranus and Neptune.

The close proximity of Mars to the Midheaven, opposed by Pluto, denoted a dangerous situation for the Government, and the Election was, in fact, a very close-fought contest. Victory finally went to the Government through the preferences and postal votes (Mercury trine Jupiter).

HOW TO CALCULATE THE SYNODIC RETURN

I have been asked to describe the process of calculating the Synodic Return, which is one of the most valuable of the Annual Charts. Usually, in my predictive work for clients, apart from Secondary Progressions and Regressions, I use three Annual Charts - the Age Harmonic, the Synodic Return and the Solar Return. I rate their relative value in that order (Age Harmonic first), provided the birth time is accurate, otherwise the Harmonic Chart will give wrong House positions, though the Zodiacal positions of the planets will normally be sufficiently accurate. The point about using three Annual Charts instead of one is that though the Charts are in general agreement one of them will often highlight an area, circumstances or events that are obscure or not clearly defined in the other two. So one's understanding of the current situation and things to come is rounded out.

The Synodic Return Chart is relatively tedious to calculate, as compared with the Solar Return, for instance, but it is well worth the trouble. The ideal tool for the purpose is, of course, a suitably programmed computer, but a low-cost hand-held calculator will serve.

The Synodic Chart is based on the phase-angle of the Sun and Moon at the birth of the native, that is the Zodiacal distance of the Moon from the Sun in the order of the Signs. This phase angle is repeated every month after birth, and for the purpose of Annual Charts, each month after birth is taken to correspond to the same number of years after birth. Counting the Radical Phase Angle as 1, the Birth Chart in this respect referring specifically to the first year of life, the 10th recurrence of the Phase Angle will refer to the 11th year of life, that is, from age 10 to age 11, and the 35th recurrence will refer to the 36th year of life, from age 35 to age 36, and so on.

The procedure is to

- (1) calculate the Phase Angle of the Sun and Moon at birth,
- (2) find the Ephemeris date corresponding to the Synodic Return required, and
- (3) calculate the time on that date when the Phase Angle is the same as at birth. This will give the Universal Time of the Synodic Return, and a Chart can be erected for this time in the usual way, set for either the place of birth, the place of residence, or elsewhere. It is still to be determined which of these places is the most indicative, and though I have calculated scores of Synodic Charts I confess I swing from one location to the other. The positions of the planets are, of course, the same in all the Charts, only the Cusps, the Vertex, the Equatorial Ascendant and the Part of Fortune being different. In a great many cases the place of birth and the place of residence, or the scene of the main action, are not very far removed from one another, so there is little difference to the House Cusps. The Synodic Charts of immigrants from overseas offer the best field for research in this respect.

METHOD

1. Calculate the exact Zodiacal longitude (down to seconds of arc) of the Sun and the Moon in the Radix, and the distance from the Sun to the Moon in the order of the Signs. As an example we will calculate the current Synodic Return for President George Bush, from the provisionally rectified Chart on page 8 of Astrologers' Forum, Issue 89, and reproduced here.

Longitude of the Sun, 21Ge20'58", = 81°20'58" (in absolute degrees from 0° Aries):

Longitude of the Moon, 17Li43'59", = 197°43'59".

The angular distance from the Sun to the Moon in the order of the Signs is therefore 116°23'1" (197°43'59" - 81°20'58").

2. George Bush turned 64 on the 12th of June 1989. So for the current year, the year in which he was elected President of the USA, we want the Synodic Return No 64.

There are 12.3682676 Synodic Returns in a year. If we use the calculator to divide the age, 64 years, by 12.3682676 we get the answer 5.174532284 years.

This figure has to be added to Bush's birth date to get the approximate date of his 64th Harmonic Return.

3. Here it is convenient to decimalize the birth date, as follows:

(a) Take the number of days first and subtract 1. (12 - 1 = 11). Divide this by 30.4 (the average number of days in a calendar month) to get a fraction of a month: $11/30.4 = .361842105$ months.

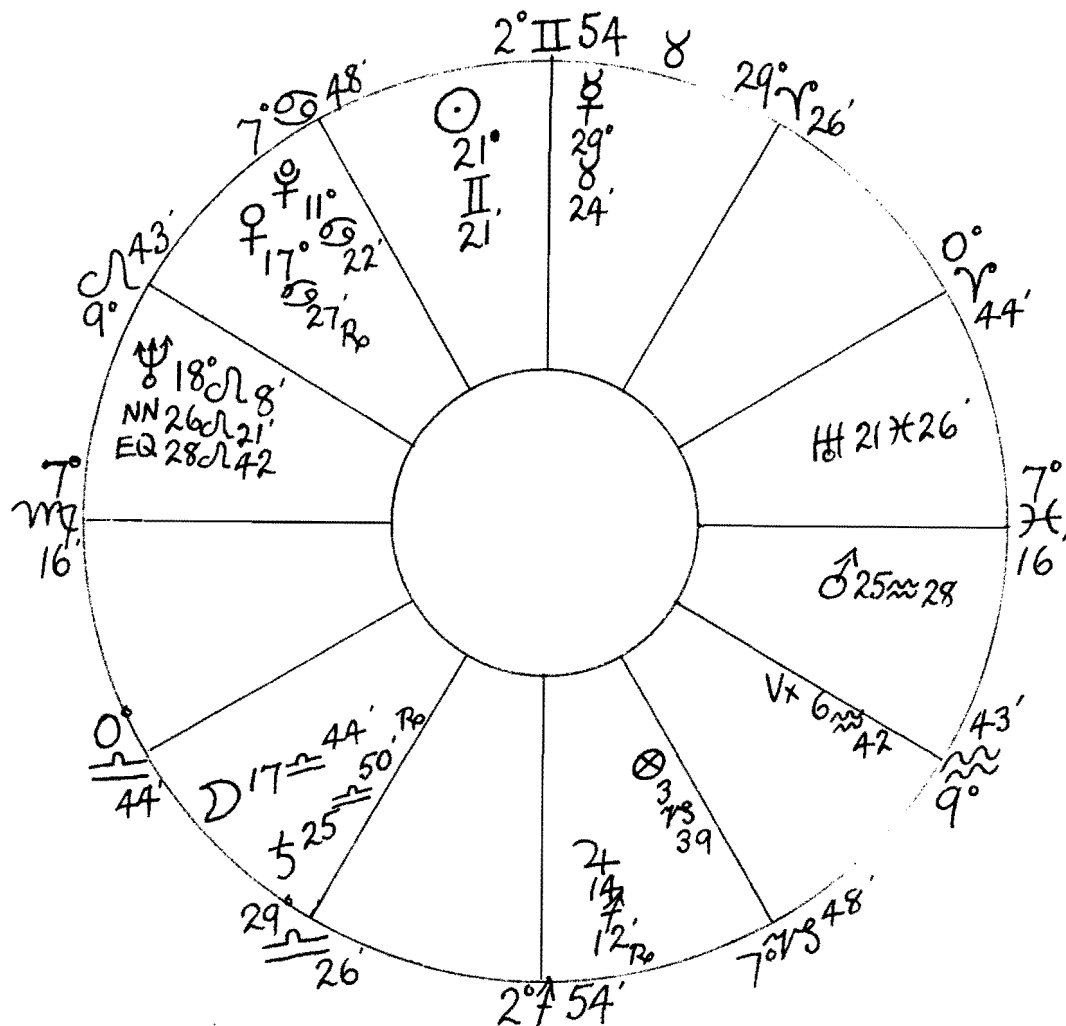

(b) Take the number of months (6 for June), subtract 1 and add the fraction just calculated: $6 - 1 + .361842105 = 5.361842105$ months.

(c) Divide the months by 12 to get a fraction of a year, and add the result to the birth year: $5.361842105/12 + 1924 =$

PRESIDENT GEORGE BUSH

Provisional Rectification

12th June 1924, at Milton, Massachusetts. 42N15, 71W05
This Chart for 11:25 am EDT (UT 15:25). Placidian Cusps.

1924.44682.

(3) To the decimalized date of birth add the number of years for 64 Synodic Returns (5.1745322284) above: $1924.44682 + 5.1745322284 = 1929.621352$. This is the approximate date of Bush's 64th Synodic Return. As it is only an approximate date it is not necessary to include the birth time in the calculation.

4. To convert the decimalized part of the date back to months and days, Multiply the fraction by 12 and add 1. The integer then gives the calendar month: $.621352 \times 12 + 1 = 8.456224$ (August). Take the fractional part of the months, multiply by 30.4 and add 1 to get the calendar day: $.456224 \times 30.4 + 1 = 14.8692096$, or 15th August.

So we look for Bush's 64th Synodic Return about the 15th August 1929. We may find it within two days either side of the calculated date.

5. TEST the calculated date by adding the Radical Phase Angle to the position of the Sun at 0-hours UT on 15th August 1929: $21\text{Le}40'23''$ ($141^{\circ}40'23''$) + $116^{\circ}23'1'' = 2583'24''$, or $186^{\circ}3'24''$. We see from the Ephemeris that the Moon reaches this position in the afternoon of the previous day, 14th August 1929, which, therefore, is the correct Synodic Return Date.

6. To find the exact time of the Synodic Return calculate the speed of the Sun and the speed of the Moon in the afternoon of 14th August 1929:

Sun at 24-hrs - Sun at 0-hrs. $21\text{Le}40'23'' - 20\text{Le}42'45'' = 0^{\circ}57'38''$.

Moon at 24-hrs - Moon at 12-noon gives the 12-hour rate of travel in the afternoon. Multiply this by 2 to obtain the comparable speed over 24-hours, so that it can be compared directly with the Sun's speed:

PRESIDENT GEORGE BUSH: SYNODIC CHART 64

For the year 12th June 1988 - 12 June 1989
14th August 1929, 15h24m46s UT, Milton, Massachusetts.

$(218^{\circ}56'57'' - 168^{\circ}1'46'') \times 2 = 11^{\circ}50'22''$.

7. From the above figures calculate the acceleration of the Moon over the Sun: $11^{\circ}50'22'' - 0^{\circ}57'38'' = 10^{\circ}52'44''$ (Moon's acceleration).

8. Take an arbitrary time on 14th August 1929 in the afternoon (the segment of the day when the Synodic Return occurs). say 6 pm UT, calculate the longitude of the Sun and the Moon for that time, and the phase angle between them:
Sun at 6 pm, $21^{\circ}25'58''$; Moon at 6 pm, $188^{\circ}59'21''$; phase angle (distance, Sun - Moon) = $117^{\circ}33'22''$. The difference between this adventitious phase angle and the Radical Phase Angle is $117^{\circ}33'22'' - 116^{\circ}23'1'' = 1^{\circ}10'22''$ too much. So our arbitrary time has to be reduced by the time it takes the Moon, at its acceleration speed, to travel $1^{\circ}10'22''$:

$1^{\circ}10'22'' / 10^{\circ}52'44'' \times 24 \text{ hours} = 2\text{h}35\text{m}14\text{s}$ (by calculator, of course).

9. Reducing the arbitrary time of 6 pm UT by 2h35m14s, we get 15h24m46s, which is the exact time of George Bush's 64th Synodic Return on the 14th of August 1929.

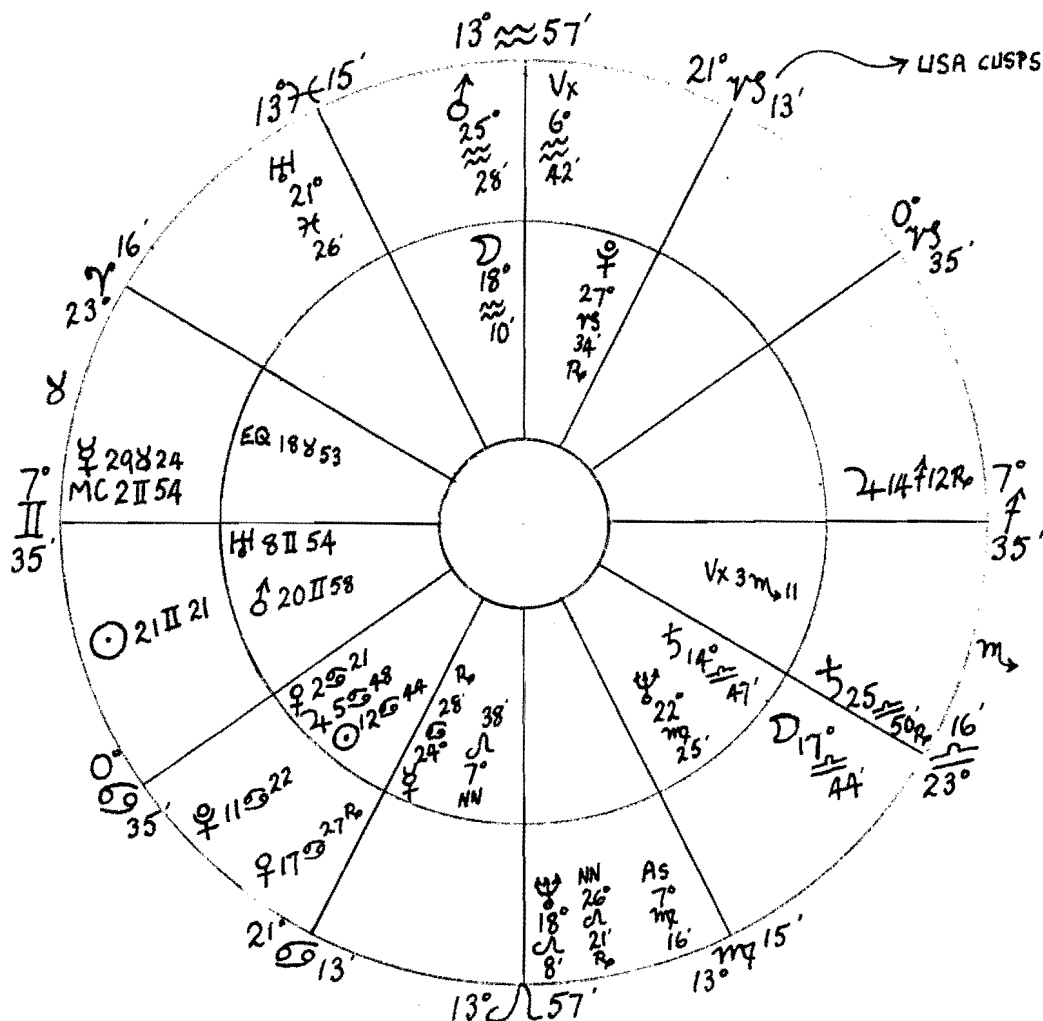

The Chart, calculated for the birth place, is reproduced here. A few comments are in order relative to its significance in this year of George Bush's acquisition of the Presidency: The Rising Degree, $25^{\circ}\text{Li}28$, is closely conjunct the President's Natal Saturn at $25^{\circ}\text{Li}50$, which itself forms a Grand Trine with the Sun and Mars in the Birth Chart, the Sun occupying the House of Status and Prestige. This elegantly portrays George Bush's acquisition of high office with its attendant responsibilities and duties (Saturn). The first degree of Leo

PRESIDENT GEORGE BUSH AND THE USA INDEPENDENCE CHART

Inner Circle: The USA Chart for 4th July, 1776

at 2:14:14 am LMT, Philadelphia .

Outer Circle: President George Bush, Natal Chart.

being at the Midheaven is symbolic of a man just entering upon a term of office. Further points of interest are:

- (1) The Synodic Moon conjunct Synodic Saturn and Radical Jupiter - again typical of elevation and responsibility.
- (2) Synodic Mercury (Ruler of the Natal 1st and 10th Houses) conjunct the Radical Ascendant.
- (3) the Synodic Vertex conjunct Radical Mercury. The Vertex here connotes a significant development in the native's career.

PRESIDENT BUSH AND THE USA CHART

The USA Chart is the one given (with reasons) in Astrologers' Forum Issues 57 (April 1986) and 65 (December 1986). There are several noteworthy inter-Chart aspects:

1. The President's Sun, and Moon form a Grand Trine with the Moon in the USA Map.
2. Pluto in the President's Map conjoins the USA Sun.
3. The President's Sun conjoins the USA Mars.
4. The President's Moon conjoins the USA Saturn.
5. The President's Jupiter closely sextiles the USA Saturn.

Readers are invited to submit their own ideas regarding the significance of these contacts, and of any other features they deem worthy of comment. The analysis can be bi-directional - the President's effect on the USA, and the effect of USA Chart on the President.

Please indicate if your remarks are not for publication.

THE SATURN/NEPTUNE CONJUNCTION

Saturn and Neptune joined forces in the 12th degree of Capricorn on the 3rd of March this year. In November 1952 they were conjoined in the 23rd degree of Libra, and in July of the following year they both occupied the 22nd degree of the same Sign. They will be together again in the 11th degree of the Sign Capricorn on the 13th of November next. People born around the two former dates will certainly be experiencing their effects, more especially if the two bodies were Angular on an intermediate (Placidian) Cusp of the Birth Horoscope.

Hereunder, for easy reference, I summarize some of the effects of the conjunction under the heads Psychological, Physical, Occupational, Social, Circumstances and Events. The external effects in the mundane world are also particularly noticeable at present, as was to be expected, and these will be referred to also.

1. PSYCHOLOGICAL: If the conjunction is prominent in the Chart through being on an Angle, particularly if close to the Ascendant (whether above or below), it leads to an introspective frame of mind with much self-questioning and uncertainty. The native is often depressed, inhibited, anxious, worried in vague ways, lacking in self-confidence and subject to other negative moods - uncertainty, insecurity and dissatisfaction. He/she is interested in the occult side of life, and may experience a conflict between the spiritual/idealistic and materialistic nature.

The conjunction in the 12th House, favourably aspected by the Sun, Jupiter, Venus or Mercury, can indicate beneficial retirement or seclusion for thought and meditation, religious "retreats" and the like. It helps towards steadiness and powers of concentration in meditative practices, and tends to self-discipline through ascetic practices.

Those with the Saturn/Neptune conjunction in the Ascendant should avoid drugs, keep their thinking down to earth, and concentrate on the positive and practical aspects of life.

2. PHYSICAL: The most pronounced physical effect, particularly if the conjunction occurs in the 6th House, is chronic ill-health. It is likely to be obscure in origin, difficult to diagnose and treat. The native suffers from a general feeling of weakness and lack of stamina, with susceptibility to infection. Danger from toxic substances. Affections of the teeth and gums, or of the bone structure. Skeletal deficiencies. Indulgence in alcohol, smoking or drug is harmful. Mercury in adverse aspect indicates neurosis.

3. OCCUPATIONAL: Difficult problems. Undercover activities, covert operations. Secrecy and subterfuge. In the 10th, ambitious projects that may finally come to nothing.

4. SOCIAL: The conjunction in the 1st or 7th House will bring a type of person into the life who is in general detrimental to the well-being of the native. In the 7th House it produces entangling alliances, or a mate or partner who is unsatisfying and unfulfilling - unreliable or deceitful, afflicted in some way, drink or drug-addicted, or simply absent most of the time (especially if the conjunction is opposed to Venus). In general, the type of person indicated is a strange character, not conforming to the usual standards, disorganized, ineffectual, lazy and probably neurotic, sick, or in poor circumstances. The conjunction in Pisces would produce the least desirable types unless, indeed, it is harmoniously aspected by Jupiter and Venus, which would greatly ameliorate any adverse effects and even indicate an elevated spirituality of nature. In the 1st House, this applies to the native himself and/or people met in the course of daily life; in the 3rd House, brothers and sister, neighbours and others in the immediate environment; in the 5th, lovers; in the 11th friends, acquaintances, well-wishers, and (for a professional man) clients. In the 12th House, secret enemies.

5. CIRCUMSTANCES: In the 1st House, depressed circumstances in early life. Insecurity. In the 12th, sacrifice called for, or voluntary renunciation.

6. EVENTS: Happenings such as separations and broken unions that cause emotional suffering. Undermining of relationships. If the conjunction is afflicted, danger from insecure buildings, subsidence of foundations, falls from heights, etc., air travel. At any time the conjunction is prominent in a Cyclic Chart, or is activated by Transit or Progression, the native would be well-advised to take precautions.

7. THINGS: In the domestic sphere, refrigerators and washing machines. Poisonous chemicals for cleaning or pest control. Noxious fumes. Hallucinogenic drugs.

EFFECT BY TRANSIT: In general, the transiting Saturn/Neptune conjunction in the personal chart means denial and frustration when it afflicts a Radical Significator by conjunction, opposition or square. For example, afflicting the Sun it brings loss of business and professional troubles; afflicting the Moon, marital disharmony and separateness; afflicting Jupiter obstruction by authorities and/or financial disappointments; afflicting Venus, unrequited love.

The effect of the House position of the Radical Significator must be taken into account. The Saturn/Neptune conjunction afflicting a planet in the 11th House will signify loss of a friendship and/or denial of a hope or wish.

The influence of the Saturn/Neptune conjunction in the national sphere will be presented next month. - Dymock.

The RECTIFICATION TEST

There is still time to attempt the Rectification test announced in the preceding Issues. Admittedly this is a difficult one, but the value lies in attempting it.

ROSS HARVEY has this to say about it: "I thought that twelve events were insufficient considering that the time was completely unknown, and...a time range of a couple of hours would be more appropriate if more information could not be provided. As it is, the rectification exercise is not really a fair test of any method, though still very much worth while anyone's participating in. If any one of us gets it right that will certainly suggest that the methods used may be valid. But if we all fail to get it right that will not necessarily mean our methods are worthless."

This Issue of Astrologers' Forum has been delayed through pressure of work. As it is late in appearing I have enlarged it to cover both January and February. I hope to produce the next Issue on time in March.

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock, 16th March 1989.

Astrologers Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques.
Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $15, Australia and Overseas. Issue 90 January 1989.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

THE ARMENIAN EARTHQUAKE

The latest horror to be visited on this Earth and its hapless peoples, was the disaster that overtook the cities of Spitak and Leninaken and adjacent districts of the Soviet Socialist Republics at 11 51 am on 8th December last. No doubt this calamity has engaged the attention of astrologers the world over, but the probability is that many of them would be tackling the subject from the wrong end - calculating a horoscope for the epicentre (Spitak) on the date and precise time of the quake, instead of looking for the antecedent warnings. As I have previously observed in these pages, there is little profit in analysing the Chart of the event. What the world needs are the Charts prior to the event that give warning of its imminence.

One such Chart - possibly the most important one - is that for the URANUS/SATURN CONJUNCTION of 18th October 1988 (see page 2). Uranus and Saturn are particularly associated with earthquakes, as they represent opposite forces, one pulling against the other and causing disruption and break-ups. The Chart is calculated for Spitak, though it would not vary much if set for any of the other major centres involved. It shows that, in this area of the Earth, at the time of the Conjunction Mars was half a degree below the Ascendant, square to the Conjunction itself only 2°11' from the Midheaven, and the Sun was square the Moon (orb 7'). Though the Zodiacal locations of the planets would be the same in any part of the globe, their mundane positions would not. The contact with the Angles is the effective factor, but hardly less so is a planet on an Intermediate Cusp (preferably Placidian, but Topocentric are only minutes further

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The Armenian Earthquake	1
Correspondents:
Alexander Marr	2
Ross Harvey	2
Ken Gillman	5
George Bush - Harmonic 64	6
Rectification Exercise - further extension	6 away). It does not escape notice that Pluto, the body associated with death and destruction on a grand scale, is conjunct the death Cusp and quincunx the Moon's North Node. Reinhold Ebertin's annotation for this link is "A tragic and common destiny shared with other persons" (The Combination of Stellar Influences). A further highly adverse feature of the Chart is the T-Square formed by the Saturn/Uranus Conjunction with Mars and the Vertex. The Vertex is a point particularly associated with fateful events. Here, its position right on the Descendant and linked with the Angular malefics is of special significance.

What remains when we find a Chart such as this for a particular area is to decide when the blow will fall. Probably, the Horoscopes for the foundations of the cities concerned would be the most useful indicators, progressed to the current date, but these Foundation Charts are not easily come by.

A natural method is to monitor the passage of the chief villains in the piece, Saturn and Uranus. As these bodies were so powerfully placed conjunct the Upper Meridian one might assume that their effects would be precipitated quickly. The earthquake actually occurred 51 days later, when transiting Uranus had reached 0°20' of Capricorn, just 19' past the exact square to the Ascendant, Saturn having passed the square 26 days earlier - one blow after the other, producing a cumulative effect. Much work remains to be done in the prediction of earthquakes, nothing very definite or reliable having emerged so far. This should be a fruitful field for the dedicated researcher.

URANUS/SATURN CONJUNCTION

18th October 1988, 13:14:0 UT
Spitak, Armenia. 40N51, 44E16.
Placidus.

[As I write news comes to hand of a further devastating earthquake in Tajikistan, a part of the Soviet Union adjoining Afghanistan. This is the second big earthquake within two months. First reports are that two villages have been buried in mudslides and about 1400 people are dead.]

- Dymock.

From ALEXANDER MARR (W. Germany):

Re Ross Harvey's Transit Analysis (Astrologers' Forum Issues 88/89) of his own Radix rectification, evaluated here according to confirmed traditional and advanced astrological rules.

1. 1966 Jan 18, Leaving Certificate. Mars tr. 20Aqu17 quincunx (not trine) Asc: Neither Neptune in trine to the Ascendant nor Mars is psychologically suitable for this event. Pluto 23Can27 conjunct the Ascendant is also not necessarily characteristic for a Leaving Certificate if not supported by suitable planets (here erroneously supported by Mars and Neptune).

2. 1977, Jan. Without a precise day Transit analyses are not usual.

3. 1977, Dec. 12. Trip (1): Harvey suggests here the Transit Mars square MC, trying to justify this with Mars' rulership of the 9th House. This is psychologically as well as in view of the event absolutely impossible. Neither in Transits, Cycles or Directions can Mars - moreover in a square to MC - produce a normal or even happy voyage. The rulership, especially in Transits, has been found to be irrelevant.

4. 1978, Nov. 27. Trip (2): Here Neptune appears in a square and Saturn in a trine to Angles. No comment necessary (the trip was supposed to be a happy one!)

5. 1979, Aug. 18. Visit by woman friend: Venus s'sext. Asc is weak but appropriate. Mars sq. Asc and Saturn S'sext. Asc are not suitable for the event.

6. 1980, Sept. 13. Successful Exhibition: Venus 12Aqu44 is stationary for some days for the prenatal date (Mar. 7, 1918). However, there is an error - Venus has no aspect to the Asc 21Can44, but a contestable square to the MC. I myself have in my Natal Chart a splendidly situated Venus in Taurus in the 10th House. However squares of Venus to Angles have never produced events of full satisfaction. On the contrary, in connection with other aspects, they could produce failures.

7. 1982, Oct. 2. Successful Exhibition: Jupiter Opp. MC with a small orb is very characteristic and good.

8. 1983, Jan. 25. Portrait acclaimed. Mars Sq. 5th Cusp, Mars Sq. MC (prenatal), Uranus Sq. MC. Examples which because of their absolutely contradictory aspects and symbolism are irrelevant.

9. 1984, August. Unsuccessful Exhibition: Irrelevant because no precise date is available.

10. 1984, Dec. 22. Trip to Europe: A conjunction of the Sun with the 5th Cusp. It should be at least the 3rd or 9th Cusp. My Prenatal Jupiter Conj. Desc. (orb 11') in my rectification is here very appropriate.

11. 1985. Loss of teaching hours: Saturn trine Asc is to a certain extent acceptable (psychologically). The criticized Jupiter aspect of mine may have resulted in another event on some other day (I did not demonstrate this event).

12. 1988, Mar. 28. Last day of teaching: Here a few of the published prenatal aspects are suitable for the event, such as Mars trine MC and Uranus Conj. Desc.

Harvey's Transits for the happy events: Mars (in the Radix with an almost exact square to r.Saturn) five times.

Saturn twice. Neptune twice. Pluto twice.

(1) A great number of contradictory aspects and planets have been used for the events.

(2) An impossible aspect (square) to the East Point had been suggested. The latter is a stereometric point that has no connection with the Ecliptic either in conjunctions or in other aspects. Besides this the EP is a very doubtful astrological tool.

(3) Events given to the months have been suggested.

However, all this the experienced astrologer would find out through analysis by himself, without my comment.

Comparison with my Transit test of my refined Radix rectification (A.F. 88/89, page 2)

For all 9 events, favourable, supposed to be happy and successful in general.

The appearance of suitable planets:

Sun, 3 times (3 harmonious major aspects)

Mercury, 3 times (3 harmonious major aspects)

Venus, 6 times (4 major aspects)

Jupiter, 8 times (7 major aspects)

Uranus, 3 times (3 harmonious major aspects)

A total of 23 probably effective aspects for 9 events, with 20 major aspects.

Saturn (1, harmonious). Neptune (1, harmonious)

No Mars. The four malefics are perhaps not all relevant for the events analyzed.

All aspects considered to the MC/IC and the ASC/DESC only. All this with suitable aspects and, in most cases, small orbs. Orbs of six close Jupiter aspects (50', 10', 9', 11', 36', 2').

In the mean time, most neutral, serious astrologers will have realized why I broke up the useless discussions with R. Harvey about his wrong rectification. This without taking into account his later published Transit test which, most readers will agree, speaks lack of experience and skill.

[Alexander agrees that his previously published Prenatal Transits for the date April 4, 1917, were wrong. (A.F. 88/89, P.2). Regarding the EP, this is better termed the Equatorial Ascendant, or EQ. It is the point that would appear on the Ascendant if the native were born on the Equator. Technically, it is the intersection of the horizon and the Prime Vertical in the East. Alexander's use of the term "stereometric" in this connection is obscure. If readers care to test the EQ in Progressions of their own charts and those of their friends or clients they will find, as I have, that it is certainly effective, operating like a second Ascendant. The EQ can be found quite simply and quickly from a Table of Houses, using 0-latitude instead of the birth latitude. - Ed.]

From ROSS HARVEY (N.S.W.): Just as someone caught in quicksand is said to sink in further the more he struggles, the more Marr protests the more he emphasizes his lack of understanding of Astrology and, further, of basic investigative procedures. He is quite incapable of appreciating that, until he can convincingly demonstrate, using a variety of accepted astrological techniques, that the Chart for the given birth time is inadequate, he has no case at all for proposing any other time. In no field of investigation, be it History, Law, Science - or Astrology, is one entitled to simply ignore recorded evidence. One MUST first be able to demonstrate that that evidence is unsound. Marr still, despite my repeated protests, does not even acknowledge that this problem exists for him, let alone make any attempt to deal with it, and until he does, he is wasting everyone's time and further emphasizing his ignorance. Imagine a case where the principal suspect for a serious crime can produce written evidence that he was out of the country when that crime was committed. The police cannot ignore that documentation and say "We know he's guilty, therefore he is." They must be able to show that that evidence is fraudulent before they can hope to convince a jury that the suspect did commit the crime - and when in some countries police do behave in that way, what they do is universally condemned in the free world as a monstrous perversion of justice.

Before Alexander can ever hope to be taken seriously again, he must be able to satisfactorily answer all the criticisms I have made of his methods - which he STILL fails to acknowledge - and also be able to demonstrate that my Chart for the given time does not work. If he wishes to introduce new techniques, such as his use of "MDO congruences", he must first be able to demonstrate that they occur in the way he expects in accurately-timed, UNRECTIFIED charts, not, as is his usual practice, in charts he has previously "rectified" with Topocentric P.D.'s, a method he has convincingly (to me, at least) shown to be outstandingly unreliable.

Marr's revised Transit list still proves nothing. He ignores the list of Stations I provided in the Last Forum that were without effect, even though they were in close aspect to his proposed Angles, and shrugs off the prenatal Station of Jupiter in July 1985, which was completely contrary to the events of the period, by saying that it "may have resulted in another event on some other day". REALLY!!! That way one can justify anything. As most readers would be aware, Transits, Stations excepted, are usually mainly of importance in timing, the principal nature of the period in question being given by Progressions, Cyclical Charts, Primary Directions and Harmonics.

The transits of Mars, for instance, which Alexander criticises, are perfectly appropriate if one remembers that, ON THEIR OWN, they indicate nothing more than excitement, stress and agitation. Mars quincunx Asc. on the 18th January 1966 (I'm not sure whether the slip - "trine" - was my mistake, or an editorial typing error) [my mistake - apologies. Ed.] is quite appropriate for the excitement of my receiving the unexpected good news.

Prenatal Pluto Stationary conjunct the Asc. is perfectly appropriate for my father's death, which occurred only four days later. (I think that the omission of the date - 22nd Jan. 1966 - may have been a typing error). [Yes. Again, apologies. - Ed.]

For the Transits for January 1977, Marr

complains about the lack of a precise date - I can't remember when I was notified of the job - but such precision is not needed for STATIONARY Transits, which can be effective up to a month from their date of exactitude if the planet is particularly slow-moving. In this case they are within ten days of the respective events. The Station of Mars in Dec. 1977 indicates the stress and excitement of my first long-distance flight, and of the first time I had left the country.

The Prenatal Station of Neptune in Jan. 1979 was perfectly appropriate for my meeting the lady in question - I can assure readers of that! Once again the Prenatal Transits of Mars and Saturn in Aug. 1979 were quite appropriate for the events in question - I experienced them, Alexander did not.

It should have been obvious that the Prenatal Station of Venus "to the Asc." was a misprint, as its position of 12Aqu44 was given (square MC). For the reception of the portrait on the 25th Jan. 1983 Mars square the Fifth Cusp once again indicated my apprehension of how the work would be received. Jupiter was conjunct the Fifth Cusp three days later (its omission seems to have been a typing error) [Yes, again. - Ed.], quite close enough for a comparatively slow-moving planet to have been effective.

The Transit of Saturn Opp. the MC during the last week of my Exhibition in August 1984 cannot be dismissed because of the lack of a precise date. Such a slow-moving Transit could have been effective for up to a couple of weeks from its date of exactitude, as indeed it was. The lack of major Transits for my last trip to Europe in Dec. 1984 should not surprise anyone - Transits simply aren't all that reliable. The PEA Primary Directions said it all - Neptune trine Asc. on the 6th Dec. 1984, Venus trine the Ninth Placidus Cusp on the 28th Jan. 1985, while I was away (one could scarcely do better than that!), and Converse Moon trine Asc on the 6th Jan. 1985. There were no Topocentric PD's for this event. Incidentally, I PREDICT that my next overseas trip will be in October/November of this year - PEA Uranus trine Ninth Cusp on the 28th Oct. 1989, and transitting Jupiter Stationary square Third/Ninth Axis on the 29th October 1989.

I think it worth pointing out that the best way to validate a chart is to try to DISprove it. If, using reliable methods, one cannot find any indications that are obviously wrong, the chart has a chance of being right. As soon as one has found wrong indications, such as the Stationary Transits I listed for Marr's proposed Chart for myself, then that's that - it's wrong.

In his latest reply Marr proceeds as he is wont to do: He interprets data to suit himself, and ignores points that tell against his case, and which he presumably can't answer. This only serves to emphasize his lack of understanding of Astrology and of basic research procedures. He can have no hope of persuading anyone to take him seriously again unless and until he can satisfactorily answer the criticisms I first made six months ago, and have repeated, to no avail, on several subsequent occasions. His continuing protestations do him no service at all. They merely reveal his inability to follow a logical argument, and further, to see that his own methods are fallacious.

From KEN GILLMAN (New York): Ross Harvey is correct. In my rush to defend Alexander Marr against Harvey's shocking personal attack I did commit some errors of detail. This was inexcusable. I had interrupted other work to quickly write the letter, and made my calculations mentally without later checking them. My deepest apologies to the readers for this oversight.

By rights I should now shut myself away in a closet, my head hung in shame, never again to darken the pages of the Astrologers' Forum, but I'm shameless when the good name of a dedicated research astrologer, Alexander Marr, is mocked.

Ross Harvey is also correct when he suggests that I have an innate bias against Age Harmonics on theoretical grounds. Yes, I do. On empirical grounds also. Age Harmonics often appear to generate close conjunctions, oppositions, trines and squares for years when these seem to be appropriate. But similar exact aspects also seem to show up - at least in the charts I've examined - in years when they are obviously quite inappropriate. Observing this, I am biased.

Ross asks that Age Harmonics be disproved. Looking at the 64th Harmonic for George Bush's election to President of the United States, illustrated at the back of Issues 88/89 of astrologers' Forum, I wonder if it is so easy to disprove the concept.

We have for Harmonic 64 a close trine between Mars and Jupiter which, as every beginning student of astrology knows, signals victory, or at least the optimism and enthusiasm that invariably precedes a victory. Had Bush lost we could observe that Jupiter is weak by Sign; but he didn't, so we don't. (Do we know what happened to Bush in 1956, the year my suspect mental-calculation says Age Harmonics generated an even tighter Mars-Jupiter trine, when the two bodies were also in mutual reception?)

We should similarly ignore Mercury, the Ruler of both the Midheaven and the Ascendant, being conjunct Neptune and as distant as possible from any Angle. That might suggest the enthusiastic pursuit of a delusion, which doesn't too frequently coincide with a victory; but it could also relate to the excitement Bush felt in attaining a life's ambition, to the low level of the campaign in general, to some undisclosed financial dealings, perhaps even to the laying of the new trans-Atlantic telecommunications cable.

The Sun/Uranus conjunction, close to the Ascendant that is generated from the Harmonic-Midheaven, opposite the Harmonic Ascendant, is probably a key aspect, but I suspect that I would have similarly misinterpreted it before the event. Even now I'm unsure if it is a Seventh or First House placement - obviously it has to refer to the dash and dazzle of George Bush if in the First House, or to an innovative refurbishing of the White House by the new First Lady, if in the Seventh; not, as I might have supposed, to a progressive, reforming opponent who would vitalize the Election (Seventh).

The interpretation of any astrological chart can be such a problem. One astrologer can argue this 64th Harmonic depicts a success, another that it illustrates failure. That here was a success does not necessarily mean this Harmonic showed it or that the Chart has any relationship whatsoever to events in this 64th year of the President-Elect.

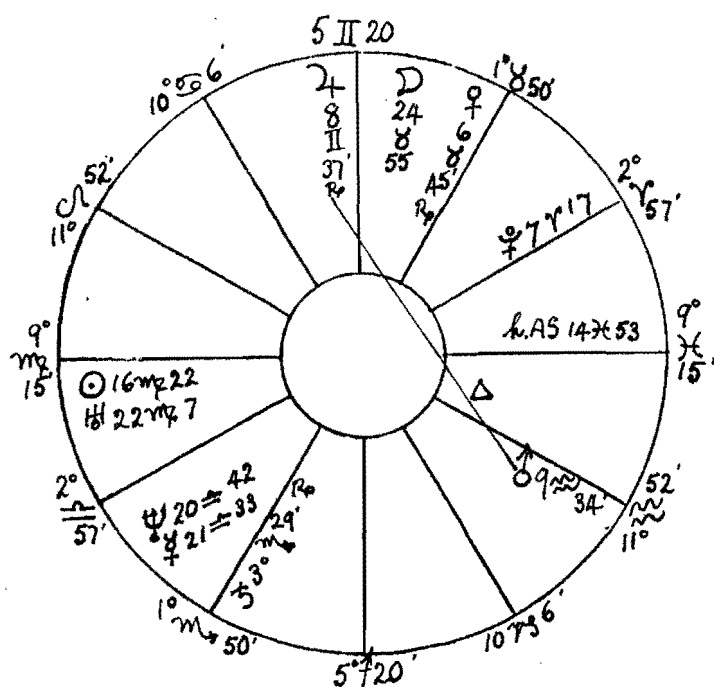

Ross says "Demonstrations from practice are always of more use than vague theoretical objections ..." That's reasonable. And the same surely applies to claims for the validity of any technique.

Dr. Geoffrey Dean's series of Rectification Exercises can be put to good use here. They should be an excellent arena in which Ross can demonstrate the efficacy of what I believe to be his weird mixing of astrology and numerology.

I presume that your system does enable you to work with charts other than your own, Ross? I will be interested to see how well Age Harmonics can cope with these practical examples.

I've sent in my own suggested birth time for the first Exercise, the male born on 15th June 1931. Naturally I made no use of Age Harmonics, but I did try to apply some of the Marr-techniques that you ridicule. Did you tackle the Exercise? [Yes, Ross did. - Ed.]

GEORGE BUSH: 64TH HARMONIC

For a man who admits his bias against Age Harmonics, Ken has done a pretty good job of vindicating them. His uncertainties are easily resolved:

(1) Jupiter in the Midheaven trine Mars is the dominant feature of George Bush's 64th Harmonic Chart, and far outweighs any consideration of the Sign Jupiter occupies.

(2) In 1956 when Mars and Jupiter did indeed form a close trine in the Age Harmonic Chart George Bush was 32 years old. Jupiter being again conjunct the Midheaven would have accorded him a similar victory in a lesser sphere, political or otherwise, in accordance with his then aspirations. It could have been an Office within the Republican Party - or, on the other hand, President of the local bowls club. With Age Harmonics, as with the other systems of prognostication, the planetary indications have to be related to the native's circumstances at the time.

(3) The conjunction (5°45') of the Sun and Uranus opposite the Harmonic Ascendant is on the outer fringe of the allowable orb for Harmonic Charts. 5.5° is about the limit, and the really important aspects have close orbs - within 2.5°. The Sun and Uranus in the 1st House of the Chart typify the changed life style implicit in the victory announced by the Midheaven-Jupiter.

(4) No need to ignore the Neptune/Mercury conjunction. Occurring in the 2nd House of the Chart it has subsidiary importance, as also do the Houses involved by Rulership. Neptune being the planet of confusion and uncertainty, and Mercury relating to the intellect and expression, a simple and logical interpretation is that George Bush would be liable to confused thinking and verbal gaffes during the political campaign on which he was then engaged.

Adverting now to the attack on Alexander Marr, rather inappropriately termed "shocking" by Ken, if one makes pronouncements of a dogmatic kind that run counter to the experience or research of other "serious" astrologers, then one must accept criticism or at least counter-proposals. Declining to answer these on the grounds of their being the product of lack of knowledge, skill, experience, or whatever, invites the conclusion that the criticisms are valid and cannot be rebutted. Surely, if they are so weak as to be deemed unworthy of a reply, then it should take very little effort to disprove them. Astrology would then be advanced to that extent, to the benefit of all.

There was a time when access to computers and electronic aids was available only to a privileged few, who thereby had an enormous advantage in the scope of their research work - the number and variety of charts, Progressions, Directions, etc., that could be calculated and compared. That era has been over for some time, and many astrologers with first-class intellectual capacity have been using computers, etc., for years and applying themselves to astrological investigation in an earnest search for what is true and what is false in our age-old art, as well as bringing it into line with the needs of modern life.

One of the main ideas of Astrologers' Forum is to share knowledge, experience and techniques. Contributors can expect that ideas put forward will sometimes be subject to criticism or counter-proposals, but the truth may happily emerge from such conflict, and Astrology be proportionately advanced.

The Ross/Marr debate would have been less acerbic if Marr had not persisted in his perverse defence of an untenable position. Certainly, Alexander has done excellent work in various astrological fields, and I have paid due tribute to him on several occasions. It is no disgrace to admit one is mistaken in particular methods. Clearly, Topocentric Primary Directions, though a valuable part of the astrologer's armamentarium, are incapable of precise chart rectification. We can utilize them to advantage while recognizing their limitations. - Ed.

RECTIFICATION EXERCISE

Geoffrey Dean is at present in the U.K., and writes that he will not be returning to Australia until the end of March. As his mail is not being forwarded on to him in the interim he cannot reply at present to those readers who have attempted the Rectification Exercise announced in Issue 87. Geoffrey wants me to emphasize that the lack of replies to those who have written to him is not due to his indifference but simply to the fact that he is in the U.K. and not W.A. He will send answers to all as soon as possible.

This means that the time for sending in answers to the Rectification Exercise can be extended further to the end of March. If you have never attempted a rectification this is an opportunity to "have a go". You will learn a lot in the process. The value of the exercise lies in making the attempt, not necessarily in getting the correct answer.

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock, 25th January 1989.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $15, Australia and Overseas. Issues 88/89 November/December 1988.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

RECTIFICATION EXERCISE - Extension of Time

Dr. Geoffrey Dean (WA) has let me know that the exercise in Chart Rectification offered to readers in the last issue of Astrologers' Forum has so far attracted only one entry. It appears that "rectifiers" need a longer time to give proper consideration to their efforts. In view of this, and the approach of the Festive Season, when everybody seems to be busy, I am extending the time for receipt of entries for this first Exercise to the 10th of February 1989. Thereafter more of the same will be offered, probably in batches of four or five. The prize of $20 still holds for the closest entry coming within ten minutes of the actual time of birth (which is known only to Dr. Dean).

This is a rare opportunity to test and/or develop astrological skills, and I urge readers to make the attempt. It is not easy to find sufficient data for exercises such as these. Accurately-timed births of unknown people with a number of events and dates suitable for attempting a rectification are quite difficult to obtain. The whole exercise is made possible through the courtesy of Geoffrey Dean, and all entries should be sent to him at

Recent Advances
PO Box 466
SUBIACO W.A. 6008

Please send your entries to Geoffrey by the 10th of February, so that the actual time of birth can be disclosed in the next Issue of Astrologers' Forum, and new Exercises introduced. The data available to attempt the rectification is repeated here for your convenience:

Reference No. 03:

Male born in Australia at 31S35, 116E42.

Birth date: 15th June 1931.

Noon at birth place = 04:00 GMT.

4th Jan 1884	Father born
8th May 1889	Mother born
25th Jun 1935	Wife born
6th Feb 1954	Married
17th Aug 1957	Son born
5th May 1958	Father died

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Time Extension on Rectification Exercise	1
Correspondents:
Alexander Marr	1
Ross Harvey	2
Ken Gillman	4
Ross Harvey	5
George Bush Wins	7
George Bush - Provisional Rectification	8

1st Aug 1959	Daughter born
19th May 1964	Daughter born
1st Oct 1962	Began own business
31st Dec 1971	Sold business
27th Mar 1976	Mother died
18th Nov 1976	Opened own art gallery
21st May 1978	Sister died
21st Dec 1982	Moved into new house
3rd Mar 1984	Boating accident. Three weeks in hospital.

From ALEXANDER MARR (West Germany): I decided to terminate the discussion with Ross Harvey over his astrological analysis and his considerations about my rectification.

It is a fact that my rectification is correct and his is wrong, as most serious astrologers have confirmed, and will confirm. I am adding Post and Prenatal Transits as some more proofs for my results. In contrast to the claim of Dymock, I do not find it necessary to explain in detail the meanings and the symbolism of the unusual amount of Angular transiting planets in all events demonstrated here because:

A transiting planet in a close aspect to an Angle may reflect dozens of different events, merely because it expresses in the first place the psychological experience of the native. For instance, when R. Harvey made his second trip to Europe we had a transiting Venus (stationary, orb 5' of arc) sextile to the Radical MC, together with close aspects of Venus and Jupiter to the Radical Ascendant in Prenatal Transits. This expressed the happy feeling, and even perhaps predicted a happy start of the journey. The trip itself is symbolized by transiting Uranus in trine to the Radical Ascendant with a small orb (6' of arc) no matter at what time of the day the trip started. The reader will agree that the other transit examples as a proof of my rectification speak for themselves and, as the example above shows, actually don't need any explanations either.

As regards birth times and the astrologically confirmed moment of birth, stop-watched birth times that later appeared to be simultaneous with a solid rectification are indicated by the first cry or breath of the baby. In Harvey's case the birth time seems to be rounded off to a quarter of an hour. Experience shows that birth times are in most cases recorded in the journal some time later, with the time that the nurse just saw on her watch.

This is the only reply that seems to me to be necessary. The scientific value of my rectification, which has mathematical proofs against coincidence greater than required, for me makes discussions of Harvey's results and considerations irrelevant. On the other hand, there is a considerable number of serious astrologers, also among Astrologers' Forum readers, who have had the same experience as I have with non-astronomical systems like the use of Harmonics.

TRANSIT TEST: Ross Harvey, 10th June 1948, 22h 59m 48s UT

The same events have been used (only) as in the Radix Rectification. Analysis applies to the Radical Angles: MC 7 Tau 28, ASC 17 Can 42. The Transits are for 2 am UT. "St." = Stationary Transit:

POSTNATAL TRANSITS	PRENATAL TRANSITS
1966, Jan 18. Leaving Certificate: Mercury 15 Cap 30 Plu 18 Vir 15	Prenatal Date 1932, Nov 1. Jupiter 16 Vir 52. SUN 9 Sco
1977, Dec 12. Trip (1) Mercury St.7 Cap 27	Prenatal Date 1920, Dec 8. Jupiter 17 Vir 52
1977, Feb. 18. Job.	Prenatal Date 1921, Oct.1. Venus 7 Virgo Uranus 6 Pis 29
1978, Nov 27. Trip Europe (2) Venus St.7 Sco 23 Uranus 17 Sco 48	Prenatal Date 1919, Dec 24 Venus 17 Sco 42 Jupiter 17 Leo 33
1979, Aug 18. Met lady. Uranus 17 Sco 8	Prenatal Date 1917, Apr 4 Moon's Node 8 Cap 57 Venus 9 Virgo
1983, Jan 25. Portrait Commission. Mercury St.16 Cap 56	Prenatal Date 1915, Oct 26 16 Cap 45: Midpt. Venus 14Sco15 and Jupiter 19 Pis 15

1984, Dec 22. Trip Europe (3)
Jupiter 19 Can 12

Prenatal Date 1913, Nov 28
Jupiter 17 Cap 53
Venus 18 Sco 2

1987, May 14. Visit dealer.
Jupiter 17 Ar 6
Neptune 7 Cap 42

Prenatal Date 1911, July 9
Saturn 17 Tau 42
Sun 16 Can 27

1988, Mar 7. Resignation (favourable).
Sun 16 Pis 45

Prenatal Date 1910, Sep 14
Jupiter 17 Lib 40

From ROSS HARVEY (NSW): Alexander's present communication is both offensively arrogant and patently absurd. No sensible person would be so rash as to claim, as Alexander does, that it was a fact that one of his rectifications was correct. All rectifications are expressions of more or less educated opinion, and should always be subject to emendation if either new information or new insights come to light. The only fact in the present case is that my birth time was recorded as 9:15 am local time. Everything else is supposition, plausible or otherwise. Then, despite my repeated complaints, we have the usual nonsense about "serious" astrologers, meaning anyone who can be found to agree with Alexander. Most of us have spent years of our lives studying this subject in great depth. According to my understanding of the word that makes us all serious astrologers, and to suggest otherwise for the purpose of personal polemics is as offensive as it is inaccurate and intentionally misleading.

Alexander still does not appreciate that, before his rectification of my Chart can be considered, let alone be considered to be correct, he must first be able to show to the satisfaction of a critical and disinterested reader that the Chart for the given time is inadequate, and he must be able to do so using a variety of methods in case any one method is inadequate, as I contend Topocentric PD's are for the purpose of rectification. He still has made absolutely no attempt to do this. A sceptical reader would be justified in rejecting his case out of hand on this ground alone. Until he is able to disprove the Chart for the given time, he is wasting his own time and everyone else's, and making himself look more and more ridiculous into the bargain.

His "statistical" and "scientific" proofs do not impress me in the least, as his charts have been expressly designed to contain the PD's, and probably the MDO congruences too, to which he refers. Chance has not come into it at all, hence his statistics are meaningless. I am staggered that he seems to be quite incapable of seeing this very elementary point. In the less likely case that the MDO congruences have not been deliberately created, I still say "So what?", as nowhere to my knowledge has Alexander demonstrated that accurately-timed UNRECTIFIED charts do not contain these indications, and hence he has not demonstrated that they are of any significance when they do occur. All his published charts have previously been "rectified" by Topocentric PD's - in other words, in every case he has adjusted the evidence to fit the conclusions he wished to draw from it, and to my mind he has conclusively demonstrated the utter worthlessness of this rectification technique in the present case.

As he still makes no attempt to answer any of my criticisms (it would be tedious to repeat them again: I refer interested readers - if there are any left! - to my previous contributions), Alexander's case may be summed up as "I am right because I say I am, and I refuse to consider any argument to the contrary". His continuing protestations only emphasize the appalling predicament he has got himself into. That he ignores criticisms he cannot answer reflects upon his integrity; that he may be incapable of appreciating their point and the necessity of his satisfactorily answering them reflects upon his intelligence.

I condemn Alexander not because I am sure he is wrong, but because he obviously cannot admit, even to himself, the possibility of his being mistaken. Had I been half so malevolent as he probably supposes I am, I could not have wished for better proof than his last communication that he is hopelessly illogical and beyond the reach of reasoned argument.

All that the Transits listed by Alexander prove is that with a little careful editing one can "prove" practically anything, and furthermore Alexander's "Transit Test" shows that he has no notion of what constitutes scientific method. A true Transit Test would list all Transits to Angles for every dated event for (a) the Chart for the given time, (b) Alexander's Chart, and (c), as a control, a chart chosen at random, and hence known to be wrong. It would moreover list all Station Transits to major aspects of Angles, especially conjunctions within one degree, irrespective of whether they corresponded with known events or not. Stationary conjunctions almost always have a marked effect, and hence if, for any of the Charts, Stations were found that did not correspond with an event, that would be a good indication that that Chart was wrong.

Such a true test would, I am sure, establish the superiority of the Chart for the given time (my rectified time does not sufficiently differ from the given time to allow of Transits distinguishing between the two).

A few examples: Pluto was stationary at 7Sco22 on the 8th February 1986, and at 7Sco09 on the 18th July 1987, opposite the MC (7Tau28) proposed by Alexander. Nothing happened on either occasion. On the 16th July 1977 Uranus was stationary at 7Sco41 - again nothing happened. On the 5th Mar 1971 Neptune was stationary at 3Sag4, sesquare the Ascendant proposed by Alexander (17Can42) - nothing happened. On the 23rd January 1972 Uranus was stationary at 18Lib19, square the Ascendant - again nothing happened. And so on. Some of the orbs Alexander quotes are ridiculous. For example, he claims Pluto at 18Vir15 on the 18th January 1966 is in aspect to his postulated Ascendant. In fact it was at 17Vir42 on the 28th October 1965, and again on the 15th February 1966 - nowhere near the date in question. This is presumably an example of his "scientific" accuracy.

Here are the Transits relating to my rectification (MC 11Tau32, ASC 21Can54) for the dates Alexander uses to "prove" his "rectification". I have included Transits for several other recent important events, for which there are no Transits for Alexander's "rectification". I have also given Prenatal Transits for all the events where they occur, even though I am not altogether convinced of their efficacy, though Stations are important.

POSTNATAL TRANSITS

1966, Jan 18. Leaving Certificate:
Mars 20Aqu17 trine ASC, 20 Jan '66

Neptune 21Sco54 trine Asc, 22 Jan '66

1977, Jan. Notified of Job
Uranus St. 11Sco47 Squ. MC, 14 Feb '77
Jupiter St. 21Tau10, 15 Jan 1977.

1977, Dec 12. Trip (1)
Mars St. 11Leo33 Squ. MC (Mars Rules r.9th House)

(1978, Nov 27. Trip (2)

1979, Aug 18. Visit by woman-friend.
Venus 22Leo24 S'sext. Asc wrong by two years - probably a slip, hence his Transits are wrong too)

PRENATAL TRANSITS

Prenatal Date 1932, Nov 1.
Jupiter 16Vir56 Conj. Asc/IC
16Vir43
Mars 21Leo53 S'sext. Asc
Pluto St. 23Can27 Conj. Asc.

Prenatal Date 1921, Oct 11.
Pluto St. 2nd Oct 1921 10Can4
Square 3/9 Cusps, 11 Oct 1921.

Prenatal Date Dec 25 1919
Saturn St. 11Vir41 Trine MC
Neptune St. 11Leo33 Squ. MC
(14 Nov 1919 - appropriate for January 1979

Prenatal Date, 5 Apr 1917.
(Alexander has got this date wrong by two years - probably a slip, hence his Transits are wrong too)

POSTNATAL TRANSITSPRENATAL TRANSITS

Mars 22Ari21 Squ. Asc Apr.6
Saturn St. 21Leo21 S'sext. Asc, Apr.23 1919

Successful Exhibition Sep 13 1980 Prenatal date Mar 7 1918
Venus St. 12AQU44, Squ. Asc, 2nd Mar 1918

1982, Oct 2. Successful Exhibition.
Jupiter 11 Sco 46 Opp. MC 1st Oct 1982

1983, Jan 25. Portrait acclaimed. Prenatal Date 1915, Oct 27.
Mars 5 Pis 51 Square Cusp 5 Mars 10Leo3 Squ.MC, 22 Oct 1915
(and trine Venus) Jan 28 1983
Uranus St. 11AQU45 Squ. MC, 22 Oct 1915
1984, August. Unsuccessful Exhibition
Saturn 11 Sco 33 Opp. MC, 31 Aug 1984

1984, Dec 22. Trip Europe. Prenatal date 1913, Nov 28.
Sun 6 Sag 11 Conj. 5th Cusp.

1985, Jul 9. Loss of teaching hours.

Saturn St. 21 Sco 28 trine Asc Jul 25.

(Jupiter St. 17 Cap 50, Opp. Marr's proposed Asc 17 Can 42 shows it is QUITE WRONG!)

1988, Mars 28. Last day of teaching: Prenatal date 1910 Aug 24
Mars 12Vir1 trine MC 25 Aug 1910
Uranus 21Cap50 Opp. Asc 26 Aug 1910
Saturn 6 Tau 33 Squ. EP
Venus 7 Leo 0 sesquare MC
Mercury 27 Vir 23 sesquare MC

Though there are a few instances where there are no transits, and that shouldn't surprise anyone, these Transits to my rectified Chart (45 seconds later than the given time) are far more convincing than those Alexander claims "prove" his chart. Furthermore, there are many events, some of which I have listed, for which there are appropriate Transits for my Chart and none for Alexander's, while for his chart there are several Stationary Transits that were either contrary to the nature of the period when they occurred, or were without effect. In particular, the two Stations of Pluto opposite his suggested MC would have been enough to make me seriously doubt his Angles, even if there were no other evidence against him. I am more convinced than ever that Alexander's rectification is wrong, and hence that his absurd claims and his rectification techniques can be dismissed completely. I leave readers to decide for themselves who is right.

From KEN GILLMAN (New York): From reading recent issues of Astrologers' Forum it would seem that a chart related to the appropriate birthday anniversary is the preferred method for predicting events in the coming year. Attempts at more exact timing are rejected.

First, part 3 of Rudolf Smit's description of Prime Event Analysis.

He compares alternative Midheavens and Ascendants generated by seven different time keys to identify a car accident occurring to a man born 01:47 UT, 15th August 1938, Amsterdam. All of the Angles are calculated for the 43rd birthday, not for the date of the car accident.

Smit rationalizes his preference for his PEA-Ascendant by noting that the Secondary Solar Arc in longitude (to the birthday) gives an Ascendant of 14°55' Leo, just 4' of arc away from Natal Mars at 14°38' Leo. He rejects the Secondary Solar Arc in Right Ascension which gives an Ascendant (again to the birthday) of 14°38' Leo. Did the accident actually occur on the man's 1971 birthday?

Smit does not mention that the Converse Secondary Moon was conjunct Converse Secondary Mars close to the Natal Ascendant around the time of the accident. Given this appropriate Converse aspect, there's no rhyme or reason for the Progressed Ascendant to be smack on Natal Mars; within a 1° orb is more than sufficient for such an outcome.

The PEA-approach is interesting, and we will test it, however this treatment of Progressed Angles as if they were simply Solar-Return characteristics, and the refusal to examine Converse Secondaries is disappointing.

My second comment concerns Issues No's 83/84, pages 7 and 8, in which Ross Harvey rejects Alexander Marr's rectification of his (Harvey's) Chart, and at the same time vilifies Marr's complete methodology. On page 8 the Editor adds his support to this attack. Again birthday anniversary charts are advocated.

Harvey, of course, has the right to disagree with the rectification. I do, however, question his manner of doing so, especially the needless attack on Alexander Marr himself. It is my understanding that Age Harmonics, the method Harvey uses to evaluate Marr's rectification may seem to indicate the nature of the coming year but they are totally ineffective when related to specific dates within the year. The subject is not entirely new to me: In the 1960's I spent much time with John Addey, assisting him both as an astrologer and as a statistician.

Harvey's evaluation of Marr's rectification is hard to accept. Yes, I can see that were Harmonic Age Charts valid they would be an excellent test of a rectification - a 3° difference between alternative Midheavens will have expanded to one of 66° at the time of the 22nd birthday. But how can one justify a natal body in 2° Aries being moved just 2° yearly, one in 12° Libra advanced 192° annually, and a third in Aquarius going more than 300° each year? There's no rationale for this. If such a purely numerological approach were truly effective John Addey would have settled the Tropical-Sidereal controversy in a minute.

Harvey really only provides a single valid comparison (his statements concerning the inappropriateness of certain Primary Direction may be a rejection of Marr's proposed time but they do not advance the time he advocates himself): the alternative Solar Returns for 1978, the year he met a girl friend. Here the two times (the one Harvey accepts and that proposed by Marr) are compared on an apples-to-apples basis using a generally accepted astrological approach. Harvey's time corresponds to a Solar Return with an Ascendant just 42' beyond Venus; Marr's time has the Ascendant 3°2' behind the same body. Harvey states that this difference "confirms the superiority of the given time." Does it? The respective Midheavens (not given by Harvey) oppose Natal Neptune (Marr) and square Natal Pluto (Harvey). Does this confirm Harvey's statement? Was it a Venus-Neptune relationship or a Venus-Pluto one? More important, assuming the girl was not met immediately on the birthday, the Solar Returns both have Venus-conjunct-Ascendant well within orbs and both, by interpolation to the following year's Return, will have the Ascendant crossing (Progressing, if you will) over the Natal Venus/Uranus conjunction. Possibly Harvey is correct, the time he is using may be the correct one, but I fail to see from the evidence presented that there's any justification here for utterly damning Alexander Marr's work. There's a muddling of numerology and astrology but little else.

The brief glimpse I've had of Astrologer's Forum indicates that it's a lively journal. By contrast to the dull magazines put out by some groups, that's refreshing. But please, as an outsider, can I suggest that statements such as those by the Editor in the final two paragraphs of Page 8 of the same Issue (No's 83/84) be tempered with specific evidence. Astrological literature is rife with statements like "experience led me to discard this." Beginning students should not be faced with such opinions that lack accompanying evidence. If the evidence is like that given by Smit, to which I referred earlier, one can at least evaluate it. A previous issue of your Forum had the Editor lauding Marr in excess, now the same hand is damning all he's ever done. It certainly does not sound like it's anything "worth mentioning for the sake of other earnest searchers after astrological truth".

[I thank Ken for his compliment to Astrologers' Forum. I, too, like to see statements supported, but it is obviously not practicable within the limits of these pages to produce evidence for every generality when such is not the particular matter being canvassed; yet "beginning students", and others, may find the information both interesting and useful in making their own assessments. I do not consider that I "lauded Marr in excess", and as for "damning all he's ever done", if Ken looks at page 8 of Astrologers' Forum No. 83/84 he will find evidence to the contrary. - Editor.]

Reply by ROSS HARVEY: By going into bat for Alexander, and by not reading my previous comments carefully enough or by failing to comprehend them, Ken Gillman has got himself into very serious trouble. As he himself admits, he fails to see that there is any justification for utterly damning Alexander's work. That speaks for itself. He obviously has not comprehended my principal reason for damning Alexander's work, as indeed I do, for a reason I had thought I had made abundantly clear. The present case is not one where the birth time is uncertain and two hypothetical charts are being compared to see which fits with known events better: That the birth time is recorded as 9:15 am is an incontrovertible fact - Alexander's chart is merely a hypothesis. Anyone proposing an alternative to the recorded time must first show that the chart for the recorded time is inadequate. This is an ABSOLUTE NECESSITY, yet Alexander persistently ignores it despite my repeated protests, and Ken cannot comprehend this point either, or ignores it in his wish to defend Alexander. The implications of this I leave to other Forum readers to determine for themselves. I condemn Alexander not because I disagree about one particular rectification, but because the current exercise has revealed his methodology to be fallacious and because his persistent refusal to answer pertinent criticisms leads to the inescapable conclusion that he cannot answer them. An illogical, indefensible and hopelessly inaccurate method is not worth anyone's wasting time on.

Ken wrongly assumes that I have relied principally on Age Harmonics to distinguish between the two Charts. He clearly has not attentively read my contribution in No's 83/84. If he had done so he would have seen that I list four different, unrelated methods of comparison, namely Progressions and Regressions of the Angles (which he does not mention at all), Age Harmonics, Solar Returns (two, not one as he says), and Saturn's presence on the Second Cusp in the Radix for the given time. This last point seems to me to be vital, as it clearly accounts for some of my most dominant character traits, yet neither Alexander nor Ken deems it worthy of mention. Perhaps they find it inconvenient, that is, unanswerable. That there were not many more Solar Returns is simply due to lack of space. I chose two clear charts as examples. It is true that in this instance I do not directly compare one chart with the other, but to complain about that misses the point: It is enough for me to show that the given time works well enough; it is up to anyone who proposes a noticeably different time to show that it is superior, and that has not been done at all. I could have provided dozens of Solar Returns, all of which would have shown the superiority of the given birth time, but that would have required a small book. If Ken requires more direct comparisons between the two Charts, I invite his attention to the Transit List in this Issue.

Ken criticizes the method of Age Harmonics, notwithstanding that their use (in the way I use them) was suggested by John Addey himself (Harmonics In Astrology, pages 161 - 164). Ken claims that there is no rationale for moving planets at different rates per year. Here he himself does exactly what he complains of in his last paragraph - he makes a sweeping statement without providing any evidence to back it up. I could just as well say that there is no rationale for not doing so. Where would that get us? Ken's objection is based on theory - something is impossible because a particular pre-existing conception of how things ought to work does not allow of it. Yet it is essential in any discipline not to confuse theory with reality. A theory is an intellectual model of how something is thought to work, and is valid only as long as it continues to bear a usefully approximate relation to actuality. In every discipline theories are constantly being found wanting and are replaced with new ones that more closely resemble what actually does happen, until they in their turn are rejected for still newer and more accurate theories. If Age harmonics really are invalid, it should be easy for Ken to show me that they don't work, using known events and accurately timed charts. I once before made this challenge to someone else who declared, without any evidence, that Age Harmonics couldn't work. That challenge went unanswered. Demonstrations from practice are always of more use than vague theoretical objections which usually are never substantiated by examples. So I say to Ken, if I am mistaken, SHOW ME. Don't say "It doesn't work because I say it can't" - there's far too much of that sort of thing.

In Forum 83/84 I mentioned two Solar Returns, not one as Ken mistakenly says: In the Transit Solar Return for the given birth time the MC is 13Tau56, square Radical Pluto at 14Leo37, and opposite Solar-Return Uranus at 12Sco59 - all very appropriate. Ken claims that the MC for Alexander's time, 10Tau2 is opposite Radical Neptune at 12Lib26. Any comment would be superfluous! Alexander's MC is in fact not in major aspect to anything in the Radix, which seems to me to further support the given birth time.

I have not before seen challenged the use of Solar Returns to indicate a whole year's events, but that does not mean that Ken may not have a point, much as I think it is unlikely. Do the often striking indications in Solar Returns always happen on the birthday? That certainly is not my experience. Once again Ken provides no evidence to support his suggestion. Then we come to the problem of how to Progress the Solar Return. I can think off-hand of five or six methods of doing so, with at least five different ways of timing each method of Progression. Most if not all of these methods have been defended in print. Ken does not suggest a solution to this problem, and as he is the one who proposes Progressing the Solar Return, he should. I hardly need point out that getting on for thirty different ways of Progressing the Solar Return is utter chaos, so, in the absence of any evidence to support any other procedure, I unrepentantly stick to the Solar Return for the birthday. If Ken had bothered to look at page 2 of Forum 83/84, he would have found the date of the meeting to which he refers, and then might have been able to provide what his letter conspicuously lacks - AN EXAMPLE. He then would not have been able to take cover behind such statements as "assuming the girl was not met on the birthday", and would have had to demonstrate what, if any, Progressions of the Solar Return did correspond to the dated event. I might point out that if he adopts a method of Progressing the Return that moves the Angles completely around the chart during the year - as I assume he must, as the Ascendant of the Chart to which he refers is 24Can27 and Radical Venus is 4Can20, and to come to a conjunction of Venus the Ascendant must go nearly completely around the Chart - the Solar Return Ascendant would come to a conjunction of Radical Venus sometime during every year. Does such an event happen every year? Furthermore in the Return for 1978, the Progressed Return Ascendant would have come to a conjunction of Radical Venus in May 1979, months away from the meeting in January. Examples can be very awkward, can't they? I suspect Ken is happier in not providing any examples. That makes his conspicuous and lamentable lack of accuracy a little less obvious.

That Ken has obviously not carefully read my previous Forum contributions on this subject, or cannot understand them, that he makes assumptions he does not justify, that he, like Alexander, ignores points he presumably cannot answer, that he fails completely to appreciate my fundamental criticisms of Alexander's methods - which have been repeated ad nauseam - and that he makes egregious blunders, does not inspire any confidence at all in his criticisms. By his careless and slipshod work, Ken has advanced Alexander's case not one inch, and has only succeeded in calling his own competence and credibility into question. This is the first opportunity I have had to critically examine anything of his; if it is a fair sample of his astrological work, I haven't missed much.

GEORGE BUSH WINS

George Bush's win of the Presidency, forecast from his 64th Harmonic Chart in the last Issue of A.F., was reflected also in his Cyclic Horoscopes. Among these, perhaps the clearest indication came from his Quarterly Solar Return on 13th September 1988, calculated for the place of birth, and covering the following three months. This Q. Solar Return is reproduced here. It is probable that Primary Directions would also be significant, but in the absence of a precise birth time they are unreliable. This is one of the great advantages of Cyclic Charts - they are far less dependant on accurate timing and can be usefully employed when the given time is only approximate, as here. Secondary Progressions are also less sensitive in this respect, and it is interesting that for the speculative birth time selected for George Bush - 11:30 am EDT (15:30 UT) - the Secondary Progressed MOON conjoined the JUPITER/MIDHEAVEN midpoint on 24th November - a good indication of victory, and a suggestion also that the time of the Radix should be taken back about 4 or 5 minutes, which would bring the aspect to within a day or two of November 8. The Progressed Moon at 9Pis9, was conjunct the Descendant of the speculative Chart, its Angular position thus making its influence more powerful.

The outstanding features of the S.R. are Saturn and Uranus conjunct the Midheaven, implying achievement of administrative power and responsibility (Saturn) and depicting the unique nature of the Office (Uranus). Supporting indications are the Angular Sun (Success) and the close sextiles from Venus and Mars to Jupiter, Ruler of the Midheaven (Career).

The Speculative Chart was apparently quite close to the mark, and on the next page is a Provisional Rectification of the President's Radix which readers might like to check in the light of future events. It differs by only six minutes from the Speculative Horoscope in the last Issue, but now the Progressed Moon conjoins the Jupiter/Midheaven midpoint on the 9th of November (just a day outside Bush's sweeping victory), the 64th Harmonic Chart has Jupiter conjunct the Midheaven and trine Mars, the Harmonic of the Radical Ascendant falls in the 7th House (adversaries), and the Lunar Return of 7th November has Jupiter at 3Gem9, conjunct the Radical Midheaven.

The previous remarks regarding the Quarterly Solar Return apply equally well to the Provisional Radix. Conclusions are still only tentative but this is an interesting Radix to work with and test.

This has been a double Issue in order to accommodate all the topical correspondence. Astrologers' Forum will appear again in January. I hope all those travelling in the holiday season will be especially careful if they have any configurations of Mars, Saturn and Uranus by Progression or Transit.

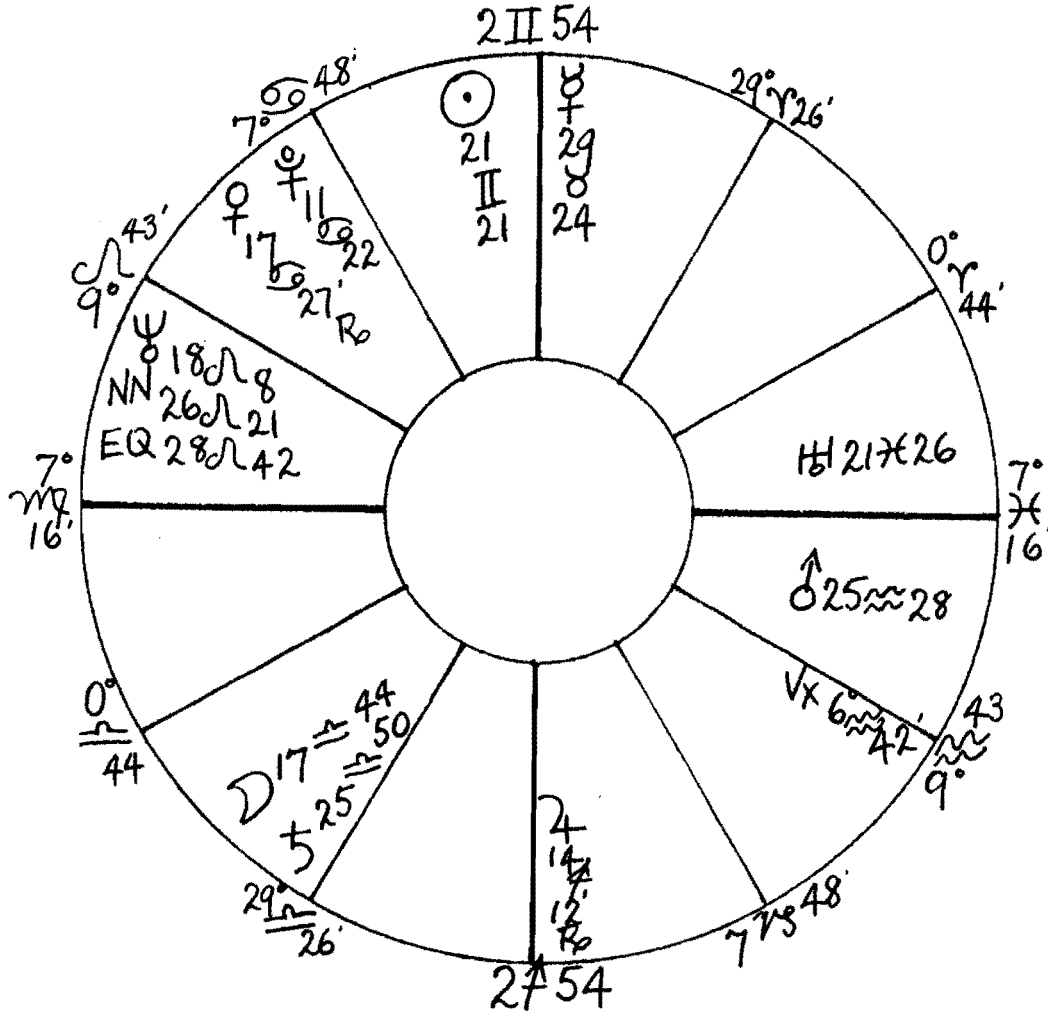

Greetings and best wishes to all.

- Dymock, 6th December 1988.

PRESIDENT GEORGE BUSH

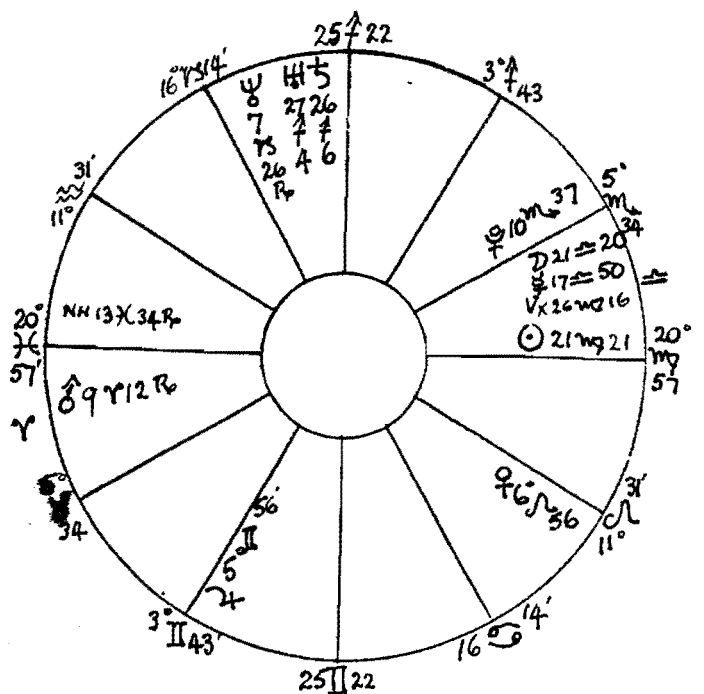

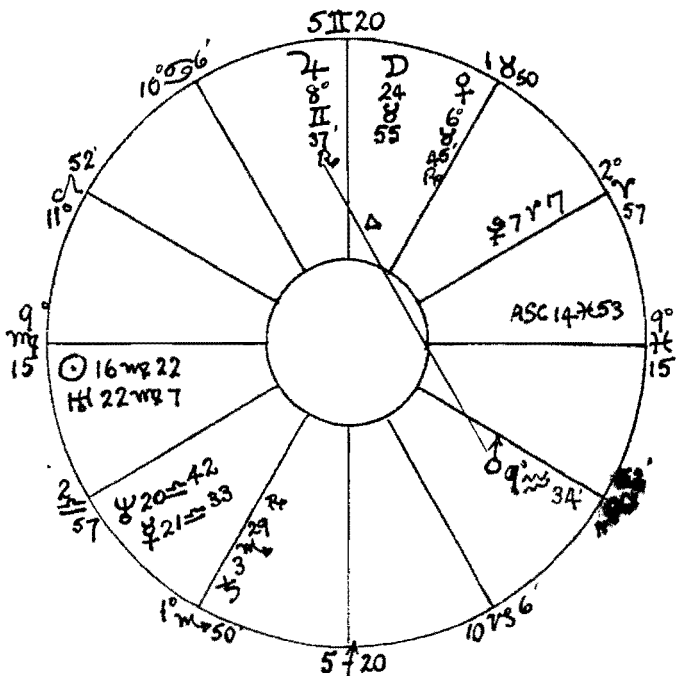

Provisional Rectification

12th June 1924, at Milton, Massachusetts, 42N15, 71W05
This Chart provisionally timed for 11:25 am EDT (UT 15:25).
Placidian Cusps.

HARMONIC 64. (GEORGE BUSH). The Derived Ascendant is for the place of birth.

QUARTERLY SOLAR RETURN, 13 Sep. 1988
Set for the Birth Place. Placidian Cusps.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $15, Australia and Overseas. Issue 87 October 1988.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

I have received a number of enquiries regarding the calculation of Harmonic Charts. These are undoubtedly a major advance in the astrological field, and readers are becoming aware of their utility and value. Accordingly, I give hereunder the procedure, step by step. To lighten the tedium of the process it is highly desirable to use an electronic calculator.

We will take as an example the Natal Horoscope of George Bush current USA Presidential Candidate. calculating the Harmonic Chart for his present age, 64. The Birth data are taken from The American Book of Charts by Lois M. Rodden. The time is uncertain, (from his mother's recollection it was between 11 am and 12 noon) but this is immaterial for our present purpose.

HOW TO CALCULATE A HARMONIC CHART

The general procedure is to convert each Significator to its position in ABSOLUTE DEGREES, that is, degrees from 0° Aries. The resulting figures are then multiplied by 64, and the answer reduced again to Sign and degree notation.

So far as the Cusps are concerned, the method I recommend is first to find the Harmonic MC, then take out the corresponding Ascendant (the DERIVED Ascendant) and intermediate Cusps from a Placidian Table of Houses. The Harmonic Ascendant (an important reference point) is separately calculated, and inserted wherever it falls in the final chart. If you have an accurate birth time it is interesting also to calculate the Harmonic of each Radical Cusp.

The final chart will bear no relation at all to a normal horoscope. Don't be put off by that. Experience with Harmonics will soon establish their validity for you.

1. The CUSPS: The Radical Midheaven is 4Gem5 which, in ABSOLUTE DEGREES from 0° Aries, is 64° 5'. This multiplied by 64 = 4101.333333. Now we have to cast out the whole circles of 360° and re-convert the remainder to Sign Notation, giving us the Harmonic MC. First divide 4101.333333 by 360. Answer, 11.39259259. Subtract the integer 11, which represents whole circles, and multiply the remaining fraction of a

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
How to Calculate a Harmonic Chart	1
George Bush, Presidential Candidate	2
Book Review: "Solar and Lunar Returns" (John Filbey)	3
Rectification Exercise	3
Premier Nick Greiner's Chart	4

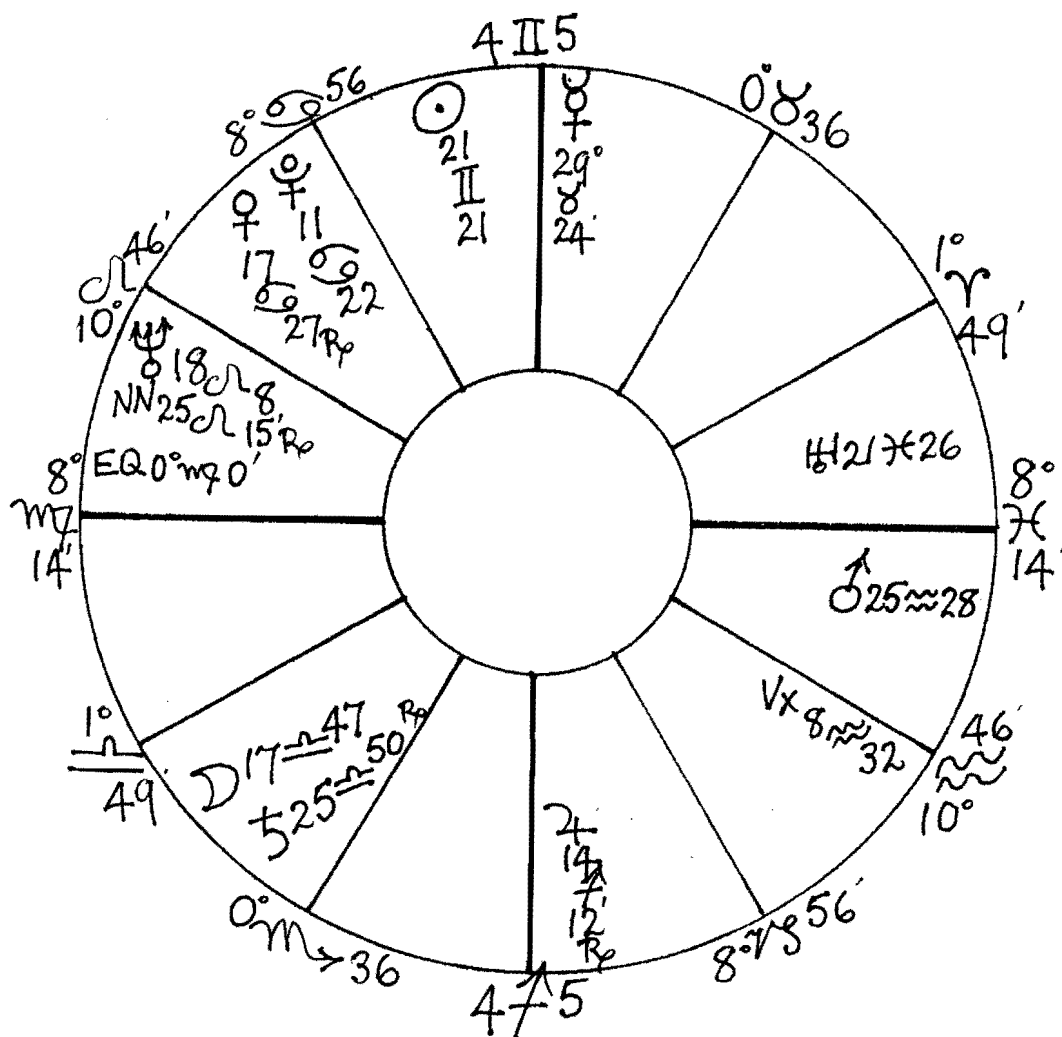

circle by 360, which will re-convert it to Absolute Degrees. 0.39259259 multiplied by 360 = 141.333333, or 141° 20'. In Sign Notation this is 21 Leo 20'. An easy way to figure the Sign position is to divide the first two figures (14) by 3. This goes four times, plus a remainder, which means that we are into the Fifth Sign, Leo. Subtract 4 x 30 (120°) from 141° 20' and we are left with 21Leo20. If you use a calculator this is all child's play and can be done in less than half a minute.

2. To find the DERIVED ASCENDANT refer to a Table of Houses for whatever latitude you select. (I prefer the place of residence or of principal action). If it is a SOUTHERN latitude, and you are using a Table of Houses for NORTHERN latitudes, you must look up an MC of 21Aqu20 instead of 21Leo20. Then take the same degrees but opposite Signs for the Ascendant and intermediate Cusps. With George Bush's Harmonic Chart I am using the latitude of Washington, D.C., so no such adjustment is necessary.

3. The normal HARMONIC ASCENDANT is found in the same way as the Harmonic MC: Radical Ascendant 8Vir14 = 158° 14'. Multiplied by 64 = 10126.93333; divided by 360 = 28.1303704. Subtracting the 28 and multiplying the remainder by 360 we get 46.933333, or 16Tau56'.

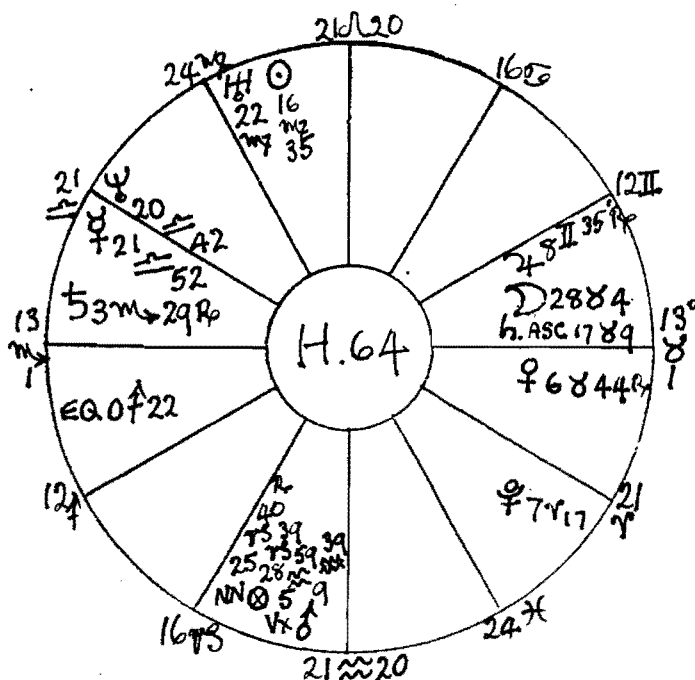

4. The Harmonic positions of the other Significators, Luminaries, planets, Moon's Node, Vertex, etc. are calculated in exactly the same way. You can check your results with the Harmonic Chart on page 2.

This Chart is for 11:30 am Eastern Daylight Time (UT 15:30), which is speculative, having been given by his mother as between 11 and 12 am.

2. For forecasting, the aspects between the Harmonic planets, and between the Harmonics and the natal planets, plus the placing of the Harmonics in the Natal Chart, seemed to give the most accurate picture.

AGE HARMONIC 64 for GEORGE BUSH
The Placidian Cusps are derived from the Harmonic MC (21Leo20) and the latitude of WASHINGTON, D.C. (38 N 54)

3. The Harmonic Chart using the h.Midhaven at the present location to get the other Cusps, and with the Harmonic planets placed therein, signifies the circumstances, the environment, the situation, the Destiny if you like, for that year.

4. The empty Birth Chart (that is, only the Cusp signs and degrees giving the Houses) with the Harmonic planets for the particular year placed therein, signifies the way the situations are dealt with and, above all, the inner feelings about the major events of that year. Sometimes when the Harmonic Chart is is not so easy to decipher the Birth Chart spells it out.

5. Matching the Harmonic planets and points with the natal planet and points (or vice versa) can show the actual happenings for that year, plus the emotional or mental reactions. But the charts could be clearer.

Harking back to George Bush's 64th Harmonic Chart, though the Harmonic Cusps are not accurate, I think the Natal Horoscope and the Harmonic planets are sufficiently so for me to venture the forecast that George Bush will win the Presidential Election. I base this on:

(1) h.Jupiter 8 Gem 35 conjunct the r.Midheaven (believed to be close to 4 Gemini).

(2) h.Moon 28 Tau 4 conjunct r.Mercury 29 Tau 24, ruling the r.Midheaven.

(3) h.Neptune 20 Lib 42 trine r.Sun in the 10th House (realization of his cherished dream).

(4) h.Venus 6 Tau 44 trine r.Ascendant (about 8 Virgo).

(5) The h.Ascendant 17 Tau 9 trine h.Sun in and ruling the h.10th House.

The Election will be held on November 8. As I have previously mentioned in this publication, we should not baulk at using our science for prediction, especially of political matters. We are in a better position here than the other pundits, and our proportion of successes is at least as good as theirs. We should not be deterred by our mistakes. Events and circumstances to come are not something that can be read from a horoscope like reading a book. They have to be DEDUCED, which requires not just astrological know-how, but much experience as well as familiarity with the elements of the situation. With practice and experience we will get better, but not if we don't even attempt the exercise through fear of failure.

- Dymock.

RECTIFICATION EXERCISE

Cash Prize

For some time your Editor has been seeking suitable data on which to base an exercise that will test and develop skills in the rectification of horoscopes where the birth time is unknown. Appropriate information has now been kindly furnished by GEOFFREY DEAN of West Australia, well-known astrologer/scientist, and author of Recent Advances in Natal Astrology.

The information on which to base your attempt at rectification is given here in full, as supplied by Geoffrey:

Reference No. 03:

Male born in Australia at 31835,

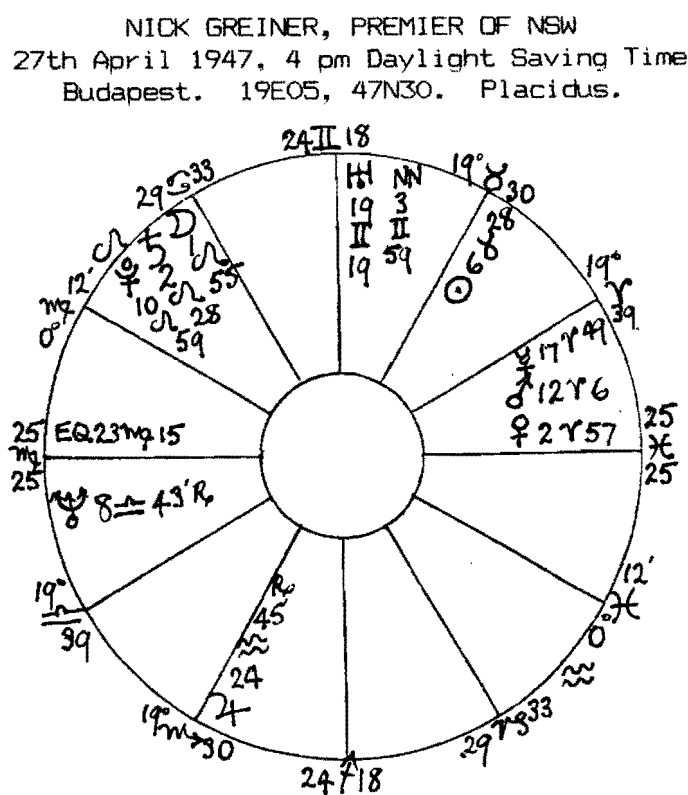

116E42. Birth date: 15th June 1931. Noon at birth place = 04:00 GMT.

4th Jan 1884	Father born
8th May 1889	Mother born
25th Jun 1935	Wife born
6th Feb 1954	Married
17th Aug 1957	Son born
5th May 1958	Father died
1st Aug 1959	Daughter born

I should have liked a clearer linking between text and the charts being discussed, but that is a minor quibble. It is a "meaty" book, and will repay detailed study. An Index is provided. The book is a paperback from The Aquarian Press, and should sell in Australia for around $20.

Please send your entries to Geoffrey by the 10th of November, so that the actual time of birth can be disclosed in the next Issue of Astrologers' Forum, and a new Rectification Exercise started.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock,
28th October 1988

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $15, Australia and Overseas (Surface Air Lifted). Issue 86 September 1988.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

The series of major disasters that has overtaken the world during the last few weeks coincides with the stationary positions of Mars, Saturn and Uranus. The latter two planets hardly move from mid-August to mid-October, and so the full story is not yet told. Mars stationary in the second half of August, and Neptune in the second half of September add their quota to the sum of human misery. The stationary planets would affect particularly those in whose Birth Charts they contact some vulnerable point - Angles, Luminaries, Ruling Planet, etc., - but would also have some effect on anyone who has them "afflicted" in the Birth Chart. The same applies to National Charts, of course, and it is regrettable that time does not permit a thorough investigation of these. What we are looking for is not an exhaustive analysis of the chart for the actual time of any disaster - which can always be relied on to give ample indications of what has happened - but analysis of charts looking forward into the future of any particular enterprise, organization, city, nation, etc., that will give warning of impending catastrophes.

That is what I should like readers of Astrologers' Forum to undertake: Look ahead, not backwards, and thus exploit the potential of astrology to give prior knowledge of future probabilities. Of course, post-event analysis has its value - it teaches us what to look for - and is a necessary step in the education of the astrologer. But it is only a step. What we learn in this way has to be translated into forecasts, based on sound astrological reasoning, of things to come. It is sad, indeed, if, as astrologers, we are reduced to saying, "This is the horoscope of the disaster, and see how it is entirely in accordance with the cosmic indications!" Once the event has occurred, astrological analysis is purely academic and futile, even slightly exasperating so far as the rest of the world is concerned, and of limited interest only to astrologers. Is this our function - to stand by and comment wisely on the world's calamities? My view of astro-

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Post-Mortem Analysis, or Reasoned Prediction?	1
North Sea Oil-Rig Explosion	1
Chiron Aspects	3
Fixed Stars in Lady Diana's Chart	4

logy is radically different: I regard it as an eminently practical science, capable of guiding men and women to better lives.

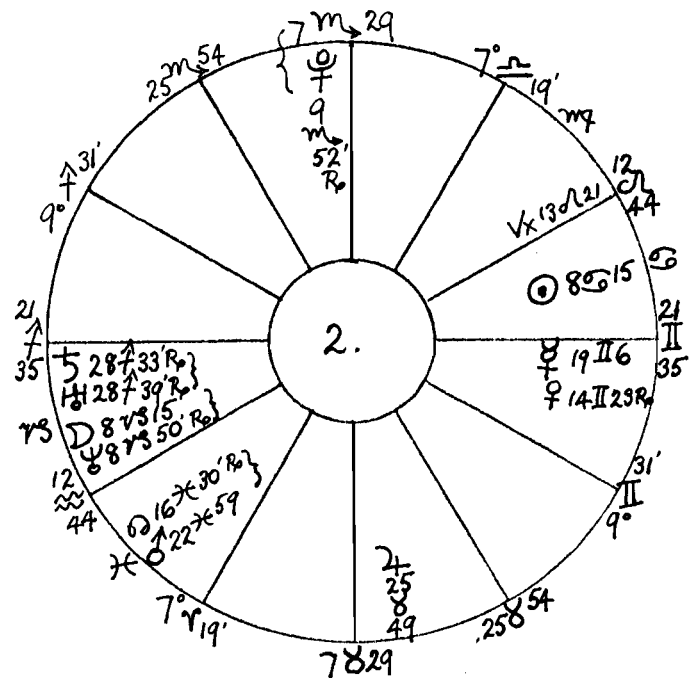

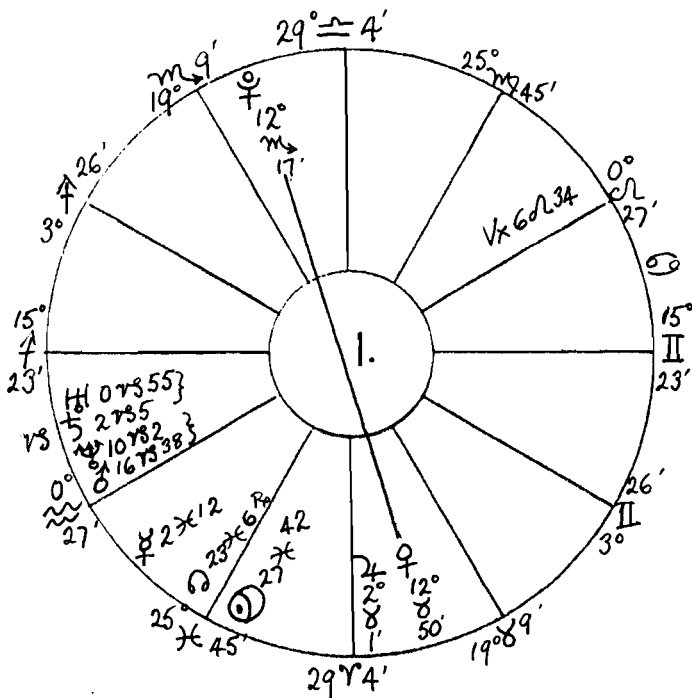

These remarks are prompted in part by some charts sent to me by SUE WARD (England), relating to the Oil Rig Explosion in the North Sea on 6th July last. In this catastrophe 166 men died, and the event made headline news all over the world. Sue very competently analyses the Chart for the time of the event, but in line with what I have said above, the chief interest really lies in her charts of the preceding Lunations.

One of the chief difficulties in forecasting dangerous conditions that may lead to calamities in the absence of any preventive action, is that we rarely know the inceptional data of the enterprise or organization that claims our particular interest. Instead, therefore, of being able to observe the effect on the Radix of Transits, Cyclic Charts, Harmonics, Secondary Progressions and Primary Directions, we are left with little more than Eclipses and Lunations. Of course, it should be possible to establish the time of commencement of operations, or other valid inceptional date, of an enterprise such as the Piper Alpha Oil Rig in the North Sea. In a more enlightened age it will no doubt be the duty and care of a special officer to establish the Radix of the enterprise, and carefully monitor astrological influences affecting it. The cost would be a bagatelle compared with the overall cost of the project, and the possible savings would be incalculably great.

The only data available to Sue Ward was the location of the Oil Rig, which she quotes as 58° 30' North and 0° 35' East.

SOLAR ECLIPSE, 18th March 1988, 2:2:20 GMT
North Sea. 58 N 30, 0 E 35. Placidus.

FULL MOON. 29th June 1988, 19:45:48 GMT.
North Sea. 58 N 30, 0 E 35. Placidus.

Well, what warnings were there in the Lunations prior to 6th July 1988? Sue Ward gives two relevant Charts: The Solar Eclipse on 18th March 1988, and the Syzygy (Full Moon) on 29th June.

The significant things about the ECLIPSE (Chart 1) are (1) Pluto, elevated above all the other planets and closely opposing Venus, (2) the conjunction of Saturn with Uranus in the 1st House, and (3) the conjunction of Mars and Neptune, also in the first House.

The 1st Sector of a Chart is associated with the life and health of enterprises, and the four "malefics" situated here in a chart cast for the location of the oil rig are a distinct warning of danger. Striking confirmation of this is provided by the closeness of the Declinations of the planets. Here they are: Neptune 22 S 6, Saturn 22 S 18, Mars 22 S 59 and Uranus 23 S 37! As astrologers know, parallels of Declination operate like Zodiacal conjunctions. What is also portentous is the close contra-parallel (roughly equivalent to a Zodiacal opposition) between Pluto, the Sun and the Moon: Pluto 0 N 13, the Moon 0 S 32, the Sun 0 S 55.

Here then, was sufficient warning of disaster, but when would it strike? Answer (observed by Sue Ward): When Mars transitted the position of the Sun/Moon! At the precise time of the tragedy Mars had orbited from 16° 38' of Capricorn to 26° 38' of Pisces - applying within one degree of an exact conjunction with the Eclipse position. Transits of Mars nearly always operate one or two days before the transit is exact. Mars is associated with fire, and the fiery explosion on the oil rig is a typical manifestation.

Here then, the warning and the timing were both available for those who had eyes to see but, sadly, no one was attending to this vital monitoring.

A further clue was provided by the second Chart sent by Sue Ward - the Full Moon just seven days prior to the event. Here we again see appropriate afflictions: In the 1st House, Saturn conjunct Uranus, Neptune conjunct the Moon and opposite the Sun, Pluto conjunct the Meridian, Mars conjunct the Node. If we don't pay attention to all these warnings, where is the point of our Astrology?

Here we continue JENIFFER POMMERIN'S observations on the

Aspects of CHIRON

the orbs used are 5° to the inner planets, 2° to Jupiter and Saturn, 1° to Uranus, Neptune and Pluto, 3° to the MC and ASC. The SIGN position of Chiron specifies the quality most likely to have the greatest SUN, MOON or VENUS often signifies a marriage late in life (after 40), or not at all. There is a definite "coolness" with Chiron, and also one's "work" can be of greater importance. In other circumstances, the suitor is very shy or unsure, or leaves doubts in the other person's mind as to his/her suitability as a marriage partner. When marriage does take place at the normal time of life there can be physical separations or a serious differing of interests or a divorce.

Chiron in the CARDINAL HOUSES also seems to have a separating influence, except that here the marriage is more likely to take place at the usual time.

Chiron in adverse aspect to the MOON or MERCURY brings in varying degrees of unreliability and/or problems relating to medication or drug dependency, emotional needs, the domestic situation. The spouse may not be very supportive, and there can be much mental stress. Health matters are often a factor in the life, either as hypochondria, symptomatic illnesses or digestive/intestinal problems; or the person may be deeply interested in health care (physical or mental), or nutrition.

Sun conjunct Chiron: A hard worker - a wide range of occupations are experienced. The life is very busy. There is a natural skill in nearly all useful handicrafts - cooking, gardening, needlework, home renovations, for example. Can be a fervent animal-lover. Farming is a possible occupation, as is a 5th House employment such as entertainment. Romances and pleasure-seeking can have a big effect upon the life-course. Often helps out, especially in situations where there is illness or depression. Can be a natural healer. May be licentious and be heavily involved in the drug scene, at some period. Is likely to experience serious illnesses. May not have children.

Sun Trine Chiron: General good health. Commonsense (either acquired or natural). Conscientious. Desire to be of service. Strong sense of duty. Interest in mental health, hygiene, etc. Good relationship with fellow-workers. Business ability. Attunement to nature.

Sun Square Chiron: May be very attracted to medical sciences. Mine engineer, teacher, etc. Can be lazy.

Moon trine Chiron: This is an interesting aspect as I've noticed these people rarely worry! Good rapport with employers and workmates. No difficulty in finding employment. Interested in food and cooking. There are more or less regular visits to the doctor or doctors for chronic but mild health problems. There is a liking for taking medication, vitamins, and so on.

Moon Square Chiron: In contrast to the above, these people do worry! With both the trine and the square the emotional life can be full of upsets and worries, but the trine does not take them to heart, whereas the person with the square is deeply affected by an unfavourable home atmosphere or arguments. There can be strife or antagonism experienced in the workplace, despite the person's best efforts. This is especially so if the employer or supervisor is a woman. The health can be directly affected by constant worry. In general there can be a lack of emotional support from the spouse.

Moon Opposite Chiron: May lead a life of celibacy. Can be a de facto relationship, with marriage much later. May not have children or have them late in life. Will work hard to help those in need, especially where conditions are unsanitary or there is poor nutrition.

Mercury Trine Chiron: Excellent head for figures, and successful in business or office-type employment. Can be highly critical but often with justification.

Mercury Square Chiron: Extremely critical and rarely satisfied. Likely to overlook the forest for the trees. Can have or set high standards.

Mercury Opposite Chiron: Lack of self-confidence, or may find it very difficult to come to a decision. Can be devious or non-communicative on important issues.

Venus Conjunct, Trine, Opposite, Chiron: Personal charm helps considerably in business affairs, employment, or receiving further training or extra unpaid personal service. A kindly person. Self-confident about own work aptitudes. Likes to work closely and harmoniously with marriage partner, but there is often a difficulty in getting down to work. This person can go through slack periods.

Venus Square Chiron: The spouse is of vital importance in helping with business matters. There is good cooperation. However, unwanted separations can occur through travelling on business or for other work reasons. Where there is a reliance upon personal (expert) advice about work machinery, buying into farms, etc., or there is a personal reliance upon an employee or employer, the outcome can be a trail of disappointments. In general, there is a conflict between work and pleasure (taking it easy). If the work is uncongenial, insufficient care may be taken of important details. There is a reluctance to work for long hours or to seek further training, unless there is a strong need for cash. With this aspect, the occupation needs to be interesting for the person to be fully productive in the workforce.

Mars Conjoint Chiron: A person who is prepared to work hard - but the presence of Venus in this aspect will weaken the drive to work.

Mars Square Chiron: An active and practical fighter on behalf of animals, persons who are temporarily incapacitated, and so on. Prefers personal action to group efforts.

Chiron Conjoint Jupiter: Very generous and idealistic. Strong desire to "spread the Good Word", and teach others in this respect. A tendency to go to extremes in religious life. The path in life can go through the extremes of wild behaviour and "Born-Again" Christian-type behaviour.

Chiron Conjoint Saturn: Capable of sustained physical effort. My be self-taught in practical skills and has a gift for constructive crafts. Excellent standards of workmanship in this respect - builds to last.

Chiron Square Saturn: Career or job responsibilities are taken seriously. Does not enjoy being in charge of worrying situations (at work). Can experience hassles from employers or supervisors. Is a worrier.

Chiron Square Neptune: Sensitive to world suffering. A social conscience. Can over-do it when giving a service or aid, or ignore the question of whether it is wanted.

Chiron Square Ascendant: Very critical of others, especially in matters to do with standards of workmanship, or in the handling of practical affairs. Reluctant to help others, but nevertheless may be often in the position of having to comply with a request for a practical service. may have digestive upsets if under a lot of stress.

The Quincunx of Chiron to the Inner Planets, Ascendant or Midheaven: Generally manifests in lengthy crisis-type situations. Conditions in the life are a worry, and stressful. There is usually no aid or personal support present (unless Chiron's House position, and the rest of the chart signify some form of help). Sometimes there is little return for the amount of effort put forth - it is usually work for work's sake. The occupation or work environment may be uncongenial, or there is an overload of work, responsibility, etc. The health can be a cause for concern, with periods of pain and suffering. On the bright side, the very personal knowledge gained through the experience does give a better understanding of others in similar circumstances.

Jenifer writes, "Not every aspect has been covered, as I have not come across the whole range, as yet".

From GISELA ROSMANN (VIC): I wonder if Alexander Marr is aware that Chiron is at the moment conjoint his Natal Pluto?

(Chiron right now is at 6 Cn 52, and Pluto in Marr's Natal Chart is at 4 Cn 39. - Ed.)

In Issue 74 you mentioned that Lady Diana's (exalted) position is not easily seen from her Chart. Don't you think that the fixed stars Spica and Arcturus on the MC are fortunate?

A good point, Gisela, that might indeed account for Lady Diana's rise to eminence. The Midheaven of her Horoscope is 23 Lib 3, and at the time of her birth the fixed stars Spica and Arcturus were respectively at 23 Lib 18 and 23 Lib 42. Spica has only 2° 3' of South Latitude, so it is well within the Zodiac, and its influence is undoubted. That of Arcturus is less certain as it is 30° 46' North of the Ecliptic. This does not necessarily rule it out as a formative factor on destiny. I used to think Celestial Latitude to be more significant than I do now. Experience seems to indicate that the most important factor in a body's position is its projection on the Ecliptic (that is, measured in Zodiacal Longitude) and that its North or South distance from the Zodiac is unimportant. This view is strengthened by the planet Pluto, whose current influence on people and affairs is as strong as ever, despite its present high latitude (close to 16° North of the Ecliptic).

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock, 25th September 1988.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $15, Australia and Overseas (Surface Air Lifted). Issue 85 August 1988.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

CHIRON

The planetoid CHIRON, orbiting between Saturn and Uranus, was discovered in November 1978. Since then astrologers have been trying to determine its place and meaning in the Astrological scheme of things. Several books on the subject have appeared, with what must necessarily be regarded at this stage as rather speculative conclusions. They are, nevertheless, of considerable interest.

JENIFER POMMERIN of West Australia has been making a study of Chiron for several years, and has kindly furnished a full account of her researches and conclusions so far. Jenifer's contribution was sparked by the mention in Astrologers' Forum last month of the planetary rulers of the Signs Taurus and Virgo still to be discovered or determined. Jenifer writes, "For over three years I've been including CHIRON as the Ruler of VIRGO, and TRANSPLUTO as the Ruler of TAURUS in natal horoscopes and with Solar Returns and Transits. My experience has been that Chiron and Transpluto definitely have their place in the planetary family, and especially as Rulers of the above-mentioned Signs. Many times their presence has explained a marked Taurus or Virgo bias, whereas their exclusion would have left me ignorant of that person's potential or attitude in that respect."

Here follows Jenifer's submission:

Chiron is the Ruler of Virgo

The nature of Chiron is Earthy, cool, and moist. Symbols are the Centaur and Demeter, the seasons, plant life, the link.

Chiron symbolises these functions:

1. Readiness and ability to be of service.
2. Teaching.
3. Moral ethics, or proper conduct; moderation - the Golden Mean.
4. The collaboration of mind and hand.
5. Work ethics and aptitudes (work perfection) and natural skills.
6. Health and healing: Knowing pain, illness and sorrow.
7. Nutrition and assimilation in literal and abstract terms.
8. Barren and fertile cycles.
9. Observation of details.

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The Planetoid Chiron	1
Correspondence: A. Marr	3
R. Harvey	4

10. Practical reasoning.
11. Survival training (self-interest as a spin-off from this).

"Survival" training can be self-taught, or be an apprentice situation or on-the-job training, etc. It can range from learning basic hygiene and nutrition facts, to bushcraft, to combat situations. It can mean learning prudence, and fitting in with the life of the community in which you currently live. In basic terms it means maintaining mental and physical health, learning or using a skill to earn money ("bread"), learning the art of discrimination, and judging priorities. The latter sometimes confronts us with a choice between practical self-interest and following one's conscience.

Basic Qualities:

Service ideals. Synergism. A bridge or link. Teacher. Healer. Awareness of nature. Psychological wholeness. Survival awareness. Discretion and moderation. Man with nature.

Positive Qualities:

Wise restraint. Unselfish aid. Trustworthiness. Integration of emotions with intellect. Paractical and careful use of Earth's resources. Thriftiness. Attention to details. High standards. Coping with pain and suffering. Discretion. Sense of duty. Power of observation.

Negative Qualities:

Too detached. Untrustworthy. Devious or secretive. Ignores own needs, or self-interest is paramount. Hypochondria. Drug reliance. Debauchery. Over-critical. Chemical pollution.

Rules:

Synergy. Educators. Survival skills. Holistic health. Symptomatic illness. "Nervous" diseases. Treatment of illness.

Medical personnel. Hygiene. Pharmacology. Plant life. Plant-eating animals. Handicrafts - "do-it-yourself". Business skills. Chemistry. Computer programming. Mining Industry. Agriculture. Training situations. Owner-managers. Servants.

The HOUSE POSITION of Chiron shows the area of life where one will be most aware of a demand for one's services (paid or unpaid), or where one will call on others for a service. If it is a training situation, the demand will be for the trainee to perform according to set standards. Other areas such as health, teaching or employment may also be of significance. Quite often, one's place of employment is indicated by Chiron. Pain or mental stress are other factors.

The SIGN PLACEMENT has a marked influence, and frequently will indicate the native's likes or dislikes about "work"; and the natural Chiron outlet.

CHIRON'S RELATIONSHIPS TO OTHER PLANETS OR POINTS can specify just how much and what type of influence Chiron will have in the life.

1st House: Workaholic. Very conscious of duty towards others but will quietly avoid binding situations, mostly by procrastinating. Can be very secretive or reserved about business affairs. Excellent ability to cope with complicated technical data - rapid learner. Prone to worry, and finds it difficult to delegate work to others. Often has to cope with a serious illness or disability within the family.

2nd House: Often in the financial position to pay for the services of others; or will do this, anyhow. Earns well by working in service areas, hospitals, etc. Because quality is important, expenditure can be high in all areas.

3rd House: Often involves vehicle driving. A desk job can be disliked. Is a persuasive talker with an impressive grasp of facts and figures. Has a fluid tongue and a sharp mind. This can produce a constant flow of criticism, hidden or otherwise. Communications, verbal or written, can be important in life. There can be worrying or distressing news, or perhaps the necessity to learn a foreign language. This is one of the most factual of House positions of Chiron.

4th House: The education of one's children can be a major influence in decision-making. Education is regarded as being vital for a good future. There is often the urge to educate the general public about a specific subject. This is one of the most self-sacrificing, or genuinely helpful, of positions for Chiron. Responsibility for a family member, or for a family tradition or business, is often present. Work is periodically a cause of physical separation from offspring. Can have close contact with members of the public, for example, in the retail trade, as representative or communicator, or the work can bring the person into the homes of others. Homemaking, do-it-yourself skills.

5th House: Excels in creative work that requires a critical, observant eye and skillful fingers. This can range from factory work, for example, carpet weaving, to the recording arts such as drawing, painting, sculpture. Works with children or as a child-carer. Teaching, entertainment or hospitality are other areas of work. Work-mates or romances can influence work prospects - is often lucky in this respect. Can find it difficult to take orders. Creativity can go through barren periods. There may be childlessness, or the child comes late in life. There can be a serious conflict between duty and pleasure.

6th House: Employment or apprenticeships often involve hard physical effort, worry, or "compulsory" service. Good powers of observation. Appears to have to "learn from scratch", or be self-taught, or go through an apprenticeship. Can receive unselfish aid, but not in school or employer situations. Illness or personal morals can have a strong influence over work matters. Interested in ecology, gardening, holistic health. Likes to teach and/or help others.

7th House: Employment in the legal or health fields. Business partnerships or working closely with another is very likely - but co-operation can be regarded as a duty and require some effort. There is sometimes a difficulty in eliciting any sort of co-operation or reasonableness from a partner, or in a joint working arrangement. There may be periods of absence from close friends or loved ones because of working or health matters. Requests by others for advice or information (paid or unpaid), can be a feature of this House position. In other circumstances, this can denote one who has much contact with hospital or education people - and there will be a giving or receiving of service (paid or unpaid). Can 8th House: This is a payback (Destiny) position. Much aid is either given freely, or received without effort; or there are many demands made for the person's skills or aid. This can vary from financial loans/gifts to health-care and teaching help. There is sometimes a difficulty in obtaining a loan or in obtaining recompense for work, especially craftwork. This can be one of the most testing positions for Chiron, as there can be a pull between "proper conduct" and easy money. Business affairs can be complicated with several arrangements going on at the same time, and perhaps with some clever dealing. There is an aptitude to learn thoroughly all there is to know about a pet subject, and to retain that knowledge. There can be an obsessive attention to detail, which can result in an exceptionally high standard of production. This characteristic can result in the person being very successful in a chosen field, or undertaking. There is often the ability to restore the health of others, and this can be a deeply caring person.

9th House: May have an early acquaintance with a church religion through family involvement. This may or may not "take". In adult life, has close contacts with spiritually-minded people keen to give their philosophical ideas. There is the ability to successfully educate the population at large through books or public speeches. Spiritual teachings are well received, too. Business (can be "big" business), imports/exports, mining, overseas interests, can be a key factor in the life. Apprenticeships, further training, employment or schooling, can take place in a foreign country; possibly with hard work or much effort being needed. May often live or settle overseas.

10th House: Aptitude for handling complex details. Good teacher. Very versatile and hard-working. Is favoured by employers. Quick promotions, sometimes without any personal effort. Help from authorities. Adult Education courses likely. Can be well-known.

11th House: Master tactician. Well able to negotiate on behalf of self or for large organizations. Can be a long-term recipient of Social Welfare, and this is accepted and even expected. Very quick grasp of possibilities, but can often overlook the human factor. Success in all forms of mass communication - films, T.V. A natural flair for talking or working easily with people from all social levels.

12th House: Self-sacrificing - often not given due credit. The least personally ambitious of House positions for Chiron. May work in very uncongenial jobs but remain there for long periods, particularly if the position was specially given to them as a kindness. Sensitive to unclean air. Interested in alternative medicine, nutrition. Skills in bushcraft, fishing, etc. Can come into contact with people from all walks of life who need a sympathetic ear, or their confidence boosted.

[Jenifer writes, "There is still far more to be learned about Chiron, and what I've deduced so far is open to further investigation anyway, but this represents my present understanding". Her article will be continued in the next issue of Astrologers' Forum, dealing with ASPECTS to Chiron.

- Ed.]

Correspondence

From ALEXANDER MARR (West Germany): I don't think that the experienced astrologer, having a clear look without prejudice, will accept such a non-astronomical system as Age Harmonics in the rigorous form in which Harvey claims it to be valuable. The same applies to the non-astronomical Ecliptic Solar-Arc. The orbs of this Arc, in all the examples that have been published in textbooks and journals are beyond any reasonable consideration. As Ross Harvey has not given any orbs here, his presentation is not relevant so far as I am concerned. Experience shows that orbs over 5' of arc in many cases are fictions (factor of coincidence).

On the other hand, as some thousands of events have proved, true symbolism of the planets takes precedence over the unreliable rulership method. Therefore, in my system the death of a father mostly appears with MC and Cusp 8 Directions with Saturn or the Sun. I have clearly demonstrated this in one of the preceding Astrologers' Forum's with the death of the father in Juan Peron's Radix.

The two systems preferably used by Harvey with no provable orbs - and therefore mathematically and scientifically insignificant - cannot match a rectificational and predictional method that has made an acid test ("Dual Test") with over 60 birth charts and Prenatal Epochs.

I invite the reader to go carefully through my rectification, which may be regarded as going beyond the mathematical and astrological proofs (orbs, symbolism) needed for a rectification.

Ross Harvey's objections as regards the events I did not deal with are not relevant because all the demonstrated events, and I used them nearly all, show Directions with major aspects. The experienced astrologer will know that the accumulations of major, in many cases Angular and Cusp Directions, with small orbs and a satisfactory symbolism could never be a mere matter of chance.

The ring for my scientifically provable method is closed by two more conditions that multiply the factor against coincidence in a second and third dimensional form: (1) With a few exceptions (two out of sixty) the ASC or DESC of the Radix will always be almost identical with the MOON of the Prenatal Epoch (in the present case, r.ASC 17 Can 41.6, Ep.MOON 17 Cap 45.2). (2) There are an overwhelming number of cases of MDO congruences between the Radix and the Epoch. I invite the reader to analyse carefully these MDO congruences for Harvey's Charts - page 5 (top, right) of the last issue:

Chart	Planet	MDO	Quadrant
Radix	Sun	53° 32'	1st, Conjunction
Epoch	Uranus	53° 33'	1st
Radix	Node	14° 54.8	4th, Opposition
Epoch	Mars	14° 54.6	2nd

How often do such "coincidences" occur if you compare a natal chart with transits for events? - 1:100, 1:500?? An experienced statistician would give an answer that certainly would be a positive surprise.

I have to emphasize here that I do not intend to take part in any more discussions in this regard. However, I invite advanced astrologers to analyse and examine the validity and truthfulness of my method.

From Ross Harvey (NSW): Alexander Marr's emotional reply still makes no attempt to answer my criticisms. This means either that he cannot answer them, or cannot see that he must answer them if he is to retain any credibility. They are that he has ignored what is for him inconvenient evidence (the given birth time), that he has made no attempt to justify his rejection of that evidence, and that he has in effect merely invented a chart to support his methods. He then makes no attempt to justify his "rectification" by any methods other than his own. In any scientific discipline such a procedure would amount to fraud (a point already cogently made by Rudolf Smit in reply to a previous intemperate response by Alexander to criticism of his methods). An investigation of transits of the outer planets in major aspects to the Angles of my Chart over the last fifteen years should convince anyone that the Angles for the given time are right to within approximately one degree. This is to say nothing of the many Solar Returns, and fractional Solar Returns with appropriate planets on angles for the Chart for the given time, and not for Marr's "rectification".

As our Editor has pointed out, it is much less helpful to quote orbs of Directions in minutes of arc of longitude rather than in time, as Primary-Directed planets can move at very different rates, and quoting the orb in longitude obscures this important point. A date of exactitude of a Primary Direction or Progression is much more useful in prediction, and then it can be seen that Primary Directions do not always fall within a desirable time range for the event to which they probably relate.

I should emphasize that I was not talking about Solar-Arc Directions of planets, which I, too, reject, but about the Secondary Progression of the Midheaven by the Solar-Arc in longitude, with the other Angles calculated from this Progressed MC. In my opinion, this is the only reliable method of Progressing the Angles. As for "astronomical" and "non-astronomical" systems, ALL astrology is symbolic. There is no inherent reason why the apparent movement of the planets on the day of birth should be any more pertinent to results in prediction than such an obviously symbolic method as Harmonics. All that should concern us is what works and what does not.

Alexander seems to think that the comparatively close conjunction between the Radical Descendant and the Moon in the Prenatal Epoch Chart for his "rectification" supports his case. Unfortunately for him, with my rectification the orb for this conjunction is even less. (My rectification: r.Desc. 21 Cap 53' 31'', Epoch Moon 21 Cap 53' 58''. His Chart: Desc 21 Cap 41' 36'', Epoch Moon, 21 Cap 45' 12''). In any case, for those who reject any idea of a Prenatal Epoch Chart, both Marr's Epoch Chart and mine may only show how easy it is to arrive at a fictional chart that appears to work, and for that reason I would not be inclined to rely on the Epoch Chart to defend a rectification.

Alexander still fails to see the point of objection to his use of the words "experienced" and "advanced" when applied to astrologers (translation - those who agree with Marr). This is a cheap trick which does him no credit at all. He may intend that such language should bolster his case and give it a specious respectability that it does not deserve. However for those who see through it, it has precisely the opposite effect.

One should not be surprised at the "MDO congruences" and frequencies of Topocentric Primary Directions that Marr quotes in support of his case, because he has specifically designed his charts to give precisely these indications. It is hardly to be wondered at that they do just that. But at the risk of explaining the blindingly obvious, that is all they do do. All he has done is to show that he can produce charts that contain the indications he designed them to have. This in no way means that they are correct. He has used Topocentric P.D.'s to produce a chart which he then uses to demonstrate the effectiveness of Topocentric P.D.'s. I am astounded that he cannot see the fallacy of this argument. He then persists in ignoring that his "rectified" charts do not give results by methods other than his own, and then cannot see, or will not admit, that his charts have no chance of being considered to be correct unless they do give reliable indications by other methods, such as Transits to Angles, Progressions of and to Angles, Angular planets in Cyclic Charts of all sorts, and, yes, Age Harmonics.

In every "rectification" of his I have seen, Marr has invented a fictional chart to conform to the results he expects from his methods. He ignores the given birth time, and has no compunction in moving the birth time about by up to an hour, or even more, if it suits his purposes, and then never once makes any attempt to show that the given birth time is wrong. He then declares that his "rectification" is the chart beyond all doubt. Most damning of all is that he does not seem to see any difficulty with this procedure. His Chart for Peron is a perfect example of all that I find most objectionable about his procedures. He does not quote the recorded birth time (in fact his "rectification" is 48 minutes later than the later of the two times given by The American Book of Charts, which should immediately arouse suspicions. I think his Chart is roughly an hour too late.), nor does he make any attempt to justify his rejection of whatever recorded time he started from. He further makes no attempt to show that his Chart should be preferred to any other suggested Chart. Finally, his Chart does not give pertinent results for any of the major events he quotes in Age Harmonics, Progressions of the Angles or Solar Returns of all sorts. (The times quoted in The American Book of Charts are 6:30 am or 7:00 am, local time. My rectification is for 6:53:36am local time, RAMC 125.80993, MC 3 Leo 30, conjunct Jupiter 5 Leo 39; Asc 21 Sco 37, for those readers who might like to compare the two charts.)

Marr's heated reply shows only that he is emotionally committed to his work on TPD's and his "rectification" techniques, and that no amount of reasoning will induce him to consider for one moment that they may not be as reliable as he assumes. Sadly, there is nothing remotely scientific about this attitude; rather it only tends to confirm my opinion that all Marr's work on "rectification" may be dismissed without regret as the product of an illogical mind.

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock, 25th August 1988

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $15, Australia and Overseas (Surface Air Lifted). Issues 83 & 84 June/July 1988.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

In a move to upgrade the printing quality of Astrologers' Forum your editor has just impoverished himself with the purchase of a Star NX-1000 printer, and a new computer system - the Turbo XT with Hard Disk, and Thomson "White Page" monitor. These items came from Sancom Computers, Pyrmont, NSW, where Ms Susan Alexander, herself an astrologer, gives special attention to the needs of those who follow our age-old science.

I hope the improved quality of the printing, as a result of these acquisitions, is apparent to all. My struggle to master the new equipment, together with the elaborate "Astrolabe" Program Nova marketed by astrologer Keven Barrett (NSW), is one reason why this issue of Astrologers' Forum is later than usual. Another reason is that the material being published this month - mainly two different rectifications of the same chart - is considerable, and needs to be presented in the one issue. So the next number will see the light of day in August, not July.

Chart Rectification

Readers will recall that in the May Issue Alexander Marr of West Germany invited Ross Harvey (our NSW contributor) to submit a list of dates and events in his life, from which Alexander undertook to rectify Ross's Birth Chart precisely, using Topocentric Primary Directions. Ross immediately sent the required list which, with his permission, is reproduced here together with Marr's rectification. Ross's own rectification of his Birth Horoscope, and the reasons he claims it is accurate and Alexander's is not, are also given so that readers can benefit from the demonstration of the two techniques, and make their own assessment.

To begin with, here is the full list of events and dates supplied by Ross, who was born on the 11th of June 1949, at Crows Nest, NSW, Australia (33S50, 151E12). The time recorded at the hospital was 9:15 am (UT 23:15 on 10th June 1949):

Dec 1953: Parents moved to the house I was to live in until Dec 1968.

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Chart Rectification	1
Rectification by Primary Directions	3
Further Analysis using the Prenatal Epoch	4
Comparison with Rectification by Angular Progression, Age Harmonics, etc.	5

Jan 1958: Started at a new school.

Dec 1960 Dux of Primary School (I was first in the class for every year of primary school, so it might be possible to find indications for every December from 1955 onwards).

Jan 1961: Started at high school.

Dec 1961: Dux of First Year.

Dec 1965: End of Leaving Certificate Examinations, and end of high school.

Jan 1966: Leaving Certificate results - third in State of NSW in French Honours (notified about the 18th of January). Won scholarship.

22nd Jan 1966: My father died suddenly in the early morning at my parents' seaside cottage.

Feb-Mar 1966: Started studying Science at my parents' behest (I was expected to take over my parents' chemical factory, even though my own interest have always been very different).

Jan 1967: Failed First Year university. I hated it and didn't do any work.

Dec 1967-Jan 1968: Abandoned Science for Classics.

Mar 1968: Start of academic year in which I studied Ancient History, Archaeology and Greek. To this point, the most enjoyable year of my life.

Jan 1969: Results for previous year: I was in the first three of every subject.

June 1969: My Honours-Course supervisor left for six months vacation, leaving me in the lurch.

End of 1970: Decided to begin studying at Art School part-time the next year.

Feb 1971: Began study at Art School. At last I was doing what I wanted to.

Aug 1971: Left University to study Art full-time.

27th May 1972: University Graduation Ceremony.

May 1973: Began work as Assistant teacher at Art School.

End 1974: End of formal study. Diploma of Art with high distinction.

Dec 1975: Left part-time teaching job at the art school where I trained.

Jan 1976: Taught at Summer Art School. Met a friend who has subsequently been important to me at several periods of my life. It was she who was indirectly responsible for my meeting my London agent.

Apr/May 1976: Applied for teaching job without success (fortunately, as it turned out).

Jul/Aug 1976: Applied for teaching job. Selected from a hundred applicants.

Jan 1977: Informed of success in above-mentioned job application.

18th Feb 1977: Began work at the job I was to hold until the end of March, 1988.

Sep 1977: Decided to spend summer holidays in the U.K.

12th Dec 1977: Left for London. Arrived on the 14th. The next six weeks were the most exciting of my life to date.

27th Nov 1978: Left for trip to the U.K., Holland and Spain; arrived Amsterdam 1st Dec, Madrid 28th Dec.

5th Jan 1979: Met young lady in Madrid who was to play an important part in my life for the next ten months. Decided on the course my painting would henceforth take.

Aug 1979: Visit of abovementioned person to me in Sydney. Arrived 18th August, left 1st September.

Sep/Oct 1979: Arranged my first Exhibition.

13th Sep 1980: First Exhibition opened. Official opening on the 16th. Great success - sell-out.

2nd Oct 1982: Second Exhibition opened. Good result in difficult times - all but two paintings sold by Christmas.

November 1982: First important portrait commission.

25th Jan 1983: Portrait delivered to great acclaim.

Aug 1983: Second important portrait commission; delivered by October.

Jul 1984: Important commission, consisting of five portraits for the same organization.

Aug 1984: Third Exhibition. Commercial failure, due to inadequate promotion.

Nov 1984: Portraits delivered.

22nd Dec 1984: Left for trip to London, Paris, Munich and Vienna.

9th Feb 1985: Returned to Australia.

June 1985: Fourth Exhibition in Adelaide, South Australia. Failure.

Jul 1985: Lost part of my teaching job because of Government economising.

May/Jun 1986: Fifth Exhibition. Adequate commercial success, though not as great as I had hoped. I was disappointed with the result.

Jun 1986: Managed to save enough to buy my first motorcar. Took delivery on the 25th.

July 1986: Commission for portrait of Archbishop of Sydney.

11th Nov 1986: Trouble at the Art School where I taught. I was caught between two scheming factions.

7th Feb 1987: Met the London-based art dealer who has become my agent.

14th May 1987: Visit from London dealer. He examined my work, suggested exhibitions in London and New York, and predicted a great future for me in Europe and the USA.

16th Sep 1987: Call from dealer to confirm London Exhibition.

15th Feb 1988: Resumed teaching for the year. Decided in the next two weeks that I was wasting my time and that I should be devoting all my energies to my London Exhibition.

7th Mar 1988: Announced my resignation; left on the 28th.

Here are over fifty events in my life, everything of any consequence that has ever happened to me and which I can time to within a month or two. [See Ross's further comments later. - Ed.]

A Rectification of Ross Harvey's Birth Chart, with Advanced Scientifically-Approved Methods
by Alexander Marr

Radix according to hospital records:

11th June 1949, 9:15 am local time,
23h 15m UT on 10th June 1949; at Crow's Nest, NSW, Australia.

Chart rectified to 22h 59m 48s UT, 10th June 1949, with a maximum error of ± 6 seconds (1.5' of arc) in Right Ascension of the MC, using the Topocentric Domification system.

From 17 events given to the day 12 main ones have been used for the analysis.

Primaries: d = direct; c = converse.

Naibod time key - 59' 8.33" per year.

Secondaries: r = Radical, p = Progressed; re = Regressed, d = Direct, c = Converse. Angles and intermediate Cusps Directed with the Solar Arc in Right Ascension.

1. Leaving Certificate prize, scholarship, 1966, January 18: MC c trine MOON r, orb 4'; MC re sextile SUN, 5'

2. Death of father, 1966, January 22: URANUS d semisq. SATURN, 4'; CUSP VIII p square SUN, exact. Jupiter p quincunx Uranus, 1'; Cusp 12 re Conj. Mercury, 6'.

3. Permanent job as a teacher, 1977, February 18: ASC d sextile SUN, 1'; MC d 30° VENUS, 4'; MOON d Conj. DESC, 3'

4. Trip to London (1), 1977, December 12: JUPITER d sextile MC; MERCURY d conjunct VENUS, 8'; Moon d conjunct P/Fortune, 4'; Jupiter d. sextile MC, 1'; Mercury d conjunct Venus, 8'; Mars c Sext. Venus, 1'.

5. Trip to Europe (2). 1978, November 27: DESC c conjunct MOON, 3'; SUN p. conjunct ASC, 6'; ASC re conjunct SUN, 5'.

6. Met young lady, 1979 January 5: DESC c conjunct MOON, 9'; H1 p conjunct URANUS 3'; H1 c 30° JUPITER 7' (orb would presumably fit for the travel home).

7. Met the lady again, 1979, August 18: ASC c conjunct SUN, exact (or, DESC opposite SUN); P/Fortune conjunct MOON, 6'.

As can be seen, the first meeting was reflected by an ASC-MOON, the second one by an ASC-SUN conjunction. This underlines the great receptiveness of the birth chart for partnership with the typical partner combination of a full moon in the Houses 5 to 11.

8. Portrait commission, 1983, January 25: VENUS d sextile MERCURY, 2'; MC re sextile SUN, 6'.

9. Trip to Europe (3), 1984, December 22: MC c square URANUS, 3' (there could have been at least one negative event on the journey if this Direction had been activated by Lunar Return Charts and Transits). H1 d conjunct VENUS, 5'; ASC re sextile PLUTO, 2'; VENUS p 30° ASC, 2'.

10. Visit from a dealer (art, success), 1987, March 14: VENUS d conjunct PLUTO 5'; VENUS re trine DESC 1'; MOON re 30° SUN, 3'.

11. Resignation (positive), 1988, March 7: MC d sextile PLUTO, exact (end of the teacher career, new start in arts); ASC c trine NEPTUNE, exact; DESC.NODE c square MERCURY, 1'.

12. Left the job, 1988, March 28: (As for No. 10; orbs + 4' of arc).

The analysis was performed in the following order:

1. Authentication of the birth time with precessed postnatal and prenatal Lunar Returns, with the result that the birth time could be somewhat earlier than the given one.
2. Rectification with Primary Directions in the Topocentric System.
3. Verification with Secondary Directions and Precessed Ascendant/Lunar Charts.

Directions in UPPER CASE should be characteristic of the 12 events reflected by 8 conjunctions and oppositions, 9 Directions with main aspects (square, trine, sextile).

Alexander Marr follows the above rectification with the following analysis, employing the Prenatal Epoch, in what he has termed the "Dual Test". Though the Prenatal Epoch (moment of conception) is of doubtful authenticity, Alexander considers it an essential element of his rectification, and it is included here in accordance with his wishes. R = Radix, E = Epoch. - Ed.]

An Analysis of Ross Harvey's Rectified Birth Chart with the DUAL-TEST by Alexander Marr

Radix as in the Rectification: 22h 59m 48s UT, June 10, 1949.

Prenatal Epoch, rectified: Sep 12, 1948, 17h 36m 42s UT.

So far in this test only Primary Directions have been used. I leave it to Ross Harvey to analyze the corresponding Secondary Directions, Directing the Angles and Intermediate Cusps with the Solar-Arc in Right Ascension.

- 1a. Leaving Certificate, prize, scholarship, 1966, January 18.
- 1b. Death of father, 1966, January 21.

(a) MC c trine MOON, 5', R-R; MC c trine JUPITER, 1', R - E.

(b) URANUS d Semisq. SATURN, 4', R-R; SUN d conj. NEPTUNE, exact, E-R; S.Node c Semisq. MC, 3', R-E; XII square SUN, 3', E-E; SATURN c semisq. XII, exact, E-R; XII c. conj. SUN, 5', E-R; Desc c Sq. NEPTUNE, 5', E-R.

2. Job as a teacher, 1977, February 18: MOON d Conj. DESC, 3', R-R; ASC d Sext. SUN, 1', R-R; ASC d trine NODE, 2', E-E; NODE c Opp. III, 4', E-R.

3. Trip to Europe (1), 1977, December 1

MOON d Conj. P/Fort, 4' R-R; JUPITER d Sext. MC, 1' R-R; MERCURY d conj. VENUS 8', R-R; MC c Sext. SUN, 3', E-R.

4. Trip to Europe (2), 1978, November 27: DESC c. Conj. MOON, 3', R-R; DESC c. Conj. JUPITER, 3', R-E; MOON d trine MC, 2', R-E; IC d Semisext. MOON, 3', E-E; NODE c trine VENUS, 1', E-E; ASC c Conj. URANUS, 4' E-E; MOON c Conj. VI, 1', E-R.

5. Met a lady in Madrid, 1979, January 5: DESC c conj. MOON, 8', R-R; MOON d trine MC, 3', R-E; DESC c Conj. JUPITER, 3', E-E.

6. Portrait delivered to great acclaim, 1983, January 25: VENUS d Sext. MERCURY, 2', R-R; VENUS d trine MOON, exact, E-R; Venus d Sext. ASC, 3', E-R; JUPITER Sext. SUN, 57, E-E.

7. Trip to Europe (3), 1984, December 22: H1 d Conj. VENUS, 5', R-R; MC c Sq. URANUS, 3', R-R; ASC c Sext URANUS, 17, R-E; NODE c. Conj. H1, 3', E-E; MERCURY c Conj. NODE, 9', R-E; URANUS c Opp. P/Fort., 5', E-E.

8. Visited by a dealer (beneficial), 1987, May 14; VENUS d Conj. PLUTO, 5', R-R; ASC c Conj. H1, 1', R-E; ASC c trine MERCURY, 5', R-E; MC c Sext. MERCURY, 4', E-R.

9. Resigned as a teacher to work in art, 1988, March 7; MC d Sext. PLUTO, exact, R-R; VENUS d conj. PLUTO, 3', R-E; PLUTO d Conj. MERCURY, 3', R-E; III d Sext. SUN (H1 d trine SUN), exact, R-E; P/Fort. Opp. VENUS, 10', E-R; ASC d trine NEPTUNE, exact, R-R; MARS d Semisq. MERCURY, 2', R-R; P/Fort. Opp. H1, 7', R-E; MOON c trine PLUTO, 2', E-E; XI c conj. NODE, 4', E-E; VI c Opp. MARS 2', E-R; Vi c Sq. SATURN, 2'. ("left job" March 28, where a many of the Directions above are appropriate for the character of the event.)

There follow events that have been recorded only to the month. Here the allowance in the orbs should be extended by 2' of arc.

10. Successful exam, 1969, January (15); SUN d Sext. MC, 6', R-R; ASC d Sext. MERCURY, 4', R-R; H1 d Conj. SUN, 10', R-R; JUPITER Opp. V, 7', E-R.

11. Graduated, 1972, May (15): P/Fort. conj. JUPITER, 6', E-E; MOON d trine SUN, 6', E-R; P/Fort d Conj. MOON, 11', E-R; SUN c Trine MOON, 5', E-R; URANUS c conj

MERCURY, 2', E-R.

12. Great success (Exhibition of paintings, sell-out), 1980, Sep 13: SUN d Opp. P/Fort, 6', R-R; H1 d conj. URANUS, exact, R-E; ASC d. Conj II, exact E-E (sales); URANUS Opp. JUPITER, 1', E-R.

13. Commercial failure, 1984, August (15); P/FORT d Opp. SATURN, 2', R-R; II d Conj. MERCURY, 2', R-E; PLUTO d Conj. MERCURY, 4', E-E, II c Opp. P/FORT, 2', R-R; MERCURY c Conj. MC, R-R, 1'; PLUTO c Semisq. SATURN, exact.

14. Exhibition in Adelaide (failure), 1985, June (15): URANUS d Sq. MARS, exact, R-E; SATURN d Conj. III, 5', E-E; II c Conj. ASC, 6', R-R; II c Opp. MOON, 10', R-E; URANUS c Sesquisq. MERCURY, exact, E-E; PLUTO c Sq. MERCURY, 4', E-E; ASC c Conj. HII, 4', E-R.

14 events are reflected by 81 Directions, while Secondaries have been analyzed and demonstrated only in the first 10 events. Conjunctions and Oppositions dominate. They have an allowable orb of 10' of arc.. We get 32 conjunctions, 11 oppositions, 33 main aspects (square, trine, sextile) and 7 minor aspect (semisextile, quincunx, semisquare, sesquiquadrate). These proportions, in view of the small orbs and the appropriate symbolism, should be taken as a guide for astrologers who are trying the difficult art of rectification. Only the secure rectification of a birth chart allows consideration of the Prenatal Epoch (described in Prediction III).

The Part of Fortune works only in conjunctions and oppositions. Angles Directed to House cusps and vice-versa are valid only in conjunctions. They are very helpful for forecasting, as Angles and Houses are true Significators. Rectifications like the demonstrated one give true birth times. This can be statistically proved, and they are astrologically obvious and true. However, there are two other revolutionary proofs of a scientific-mathematical nature. In most cases, with few exceptions (only 2 in 60 so far) the ASC or DESC of the Radix has to be almost Zodiacally identical with the Moon of the Prenatal Epoch. This makes the rectification of the Prenatal Epoch easy provided the Radix has been carefully rectified. In the present case the Radical ASC is 17 Can 41.6'. The Moon of the Prenatal Epoch is 17 Cap 45.2'. However, the most evident proofs of the scientific value of the demonstrated DUAL TEST are MDO congruences (Meridian distances in oblique ascension) between the Radix and the Epoch. Here the following two congruences within 1' of arc supply this evidence: MDO Radical SUN: 53° 32.1'; MDO Epoch URANUS 53° 33'. (A conjunction in the First Quadrant). MDO Radix MEAN NODE: 14° 54.8', MDO Epoch MARS: 14° 54.6. (An opposition in the Second Quadrant).

I invite the reader to remember how often for one analyzed event the coincidence occurs that there is one Transit in exact conjunction and another simultaneously in an opposition to Radical factors. However this last proof, although very frequent at least with one MDO congruence, is not a presupposition as there are still two planets to discover - one for Virgo and another for Libra.

That concludes the full exposition of Marr's rectification, and here follows Ross's contribution.

Rectification and Comments by Ross Harvey

I have used all the listed events in my rectification of my own Chart, and have appropriate and accurately-timed indications for everything, the timing usually being within six weeks, and for several of the most important events, to within a few days. While I do not by any means deny the general usefulness of Topocentric Primary Directions, several major Directions in my Chart (planets to conjunction and aspects of Angles, and to major aspects to the Sun and Moon) have either been without effect at all or have been mistimed by many months. Consequently I do not regard Topocentric Primary Directions on their own as being sufficiently reliable to be used as the principal means of rectifying a chart.

Angles for the given birth time (9:15 am EST): MC 11 Tau 21, ASC 21 Can 42.

Angles for my own rectification (9h 15m 45s): MC 11 Tau 32, ASC 21 Can 54.

Angles for Marr's proposed rectification (8h 59m 48s): MC 7 Tau 28, ASC 17 Can 42.

There are three serious flaws in Alexander's proposed rectification of my Chart:

Firstly, it is incumbent upon anyone who attempts to rectify a chart to demonstrate clearly that the chart for the given time does not work. In none of his published rectifications does Alexander make any attempt to do this, and the present case is no exception. This is the cardinal sin of rectification. After all, if the chart works well enough for the given time there is no need to change anything.

Secondly he ignores the probable margin of error in the recording of the birth time. Assuming that the nurse present at my birth, who recorded the time, was neither stupid nor incompetent, it is reasonable to suppose that the time was rounded off to the nearest quarter of an hour (in fact, my experience with hospital recorded times in Sydney of the period suggests it is more likely to be rounded off to the nearest five minutes), and while this alone does not make a time of 9:00 am impossible, it does make it inherently more improbable than a time nearer 9:15 am, and thus it is even more incumbent upon anyone proposing such a time to demonstrate clearly that a chart for the given time will not work, and that the proposed emendation is the only possible alternative. No attempt has been made to do this. Marr simply assumes his rectification must be right, as he always does. This is a most unsafe assumption.

Thirdly, the resulting chart should give consistently reliable results using several different methods of prediction, and this should be demonstrated by the person making the rectification. In fact, Marr's chart only works using his own highly idiosyncratic method of Primary Direction. The methods that work for me, namely Secondary Progressions and Regressions of the Angles by the appropriate Zodiacal Solar-Arcs, Age Harmonics, and Angular planets in the various Solar Returns, when applied to Marr's "rectified" time all give negative results, and show that the given time is essentially correct.

A few examples:

1. p.MC sesquare p.Neptune: March 1966, for the given time; 30th January for my rectification (my father died on 22nd January 1986; Neptune rules the 8th House).
2. re.Asc Conj. r.Venus: April 1968, for the given time: In March 1968 I began studying Classics at University - the happiest and most productive year of my life until then.
3. re.MC trine r.Moon (in 5th House - art): March 1971, for the given time, January 1971 for the rectified time: First year at Art School.

4. re.Asc Conj. r.Uranus, May 1973: First teaching job, May 1973. Also p.Asc sextile r.Sun, August 1973 for the given time, June for my rectified time.

5. re.MC (regressed into the 9th House) trine re.Pluto, September 1977: Decided to go to the U.K. in September; left in December (my rectification brings this aspect to early December).

6. p.MC Conj. r.Mercury, January 1979 (for given time): In January 1979 I decided the course my painting would take from there on.

7. re.Asc Conj. r.Sun May 1986: Reasonably successful Exhibition May/June 1986; bought a motorcar with the proceeds (aspect moved to June 1986 with my rectification).

A further striking feature of my Chart for the given time, and for my rectification, is Saturn conjunct the 2nd Placidian Cusp. One of my most obvious characteristics, remarked on by everyone who knows me, is my love of order and precision, and my painting is noted for its great care of execution and precision of detail - all of which can be accounted for by Saturn in Virgo, strong on a Cusp (in Mundane Trine to the MC). For the given time, Saturn is $0^{\circ} 16'$ below the 2nd Placidian Cusp in oblique ascension; for my rectification, only $0^{\circ} 6'$ below, but for Marr's proposed rectification, $3^{\circ} 44'$ below - too far to have any noticeable effect. I would allow an orb of 3° in oblique ascension at the most, and to have such a strong effect as Saturn does in my Chart, I would expect it to be much closer to the Cusp than 3° . This strongly suggests yet again that Marr is wrong.

Age Harmonics further confirm the essential accuracy of the given time: In a number of important years there are Harmonic planets in the range 7-15 Taurus/Scorpio, and 18-25 Cancer/Capricorn, that is, conjunct or opposite Radical Angles. Furthermore, in several years there are appropriate planets at 21-22 Aries, Libra and Scorpio, square and trine the r.Ascendant for the given time. In Age Harmonics the orb is 5° approximately. If Marr's Angles are used many important indications are missed, as the appropriate Harmonic planets are past 12° Taurus/Scorpio and 22° Cancer/Capricorn. All this suggests that the given time is at least approximately right and that Marr's suggestions are wrong.

Conclusive proof comes from considering the Harmonic Angles: For several important years the Harmonic Angles for the given time, or preferably those for my rectification, which are very slightly later, are obviously right, while those for Marr's suggested time are as obviously wrong:

Harmonic 7 (measles): h.Asc Conj. h.Mars (given time. No negative indications for the Angles derived from Marr's proposed rectification.

Harmonic 11 (Dux of school): h.MC Conj. r.Venus; h.Asc Conj. h.Sun (given time). No positive indications for Marr's Angles.

Harmonic 16 (third place in State in French in the Leaving Certificate; won scholarship): h.MC Conj. r.Jupiter. Nothing for Marr's Angles. (Father died): h.Asc (my rectification) Conj. h.Pluto. Again nothing significant for Marr's Angles.

Harmonic 17 (first year studying Science at University, the most miserable of my life): h.MC derived from Marr's proposed Chart Conj. h.Sun (!). This could not be more contrary to the nature of the period, and is absurd.

Harmonic 22 (first year full-time at Art School): h.Asc Conj. r.Jupiter (from given time). Nothing for Marr's Angles.

Harmonic 34 (second important portrait commission - a year of reasonable success): Marr's h.Asc conj. h.Neptune, Marr's h.MC Conj. r.Neptune - both negative, both wrong. For the given time, h.MC Conj. h.Venus.

Harmonic 37 (trouble at work): h.Asc Conj. h.Saturn (given time). No negative indications for Marr's angles.

Solar Returns for a single year should suffice to confirm the superiority of the given time. For 1978, the year I met my then girl friend, the Solar Return for the given time has Asc 24 Can 27 conjunct Venus at 23 Can 45, while the Progressive Solar Return has Asc 27 Leo 40 conjunct Venus at 27 Leo 34. The Ascendant of the Solar Return is also conjunct the Radical Venus/-Pluto midpoint, with an orb of only 7' of arc. The Solar Return for Marr's Solar position has an Ascendant at 20Can25. Strictly speaking, this put Venus 4° 8'0 in oblique ascension below the Ascendant, a little too far to have a great effect.

A quick look at some of Marr's Primary Directions: Uranus d semisquare Saturn for my father's death is so unimportant I would ignore it. p.MC sesquare Neptune r and p is much more significant, all the more so as Neptune rules the Eighth House for the given time. There were no negative events on my third trip to Europe in December 1984, as Marr suggested; on the contrary, it was a most positive period.

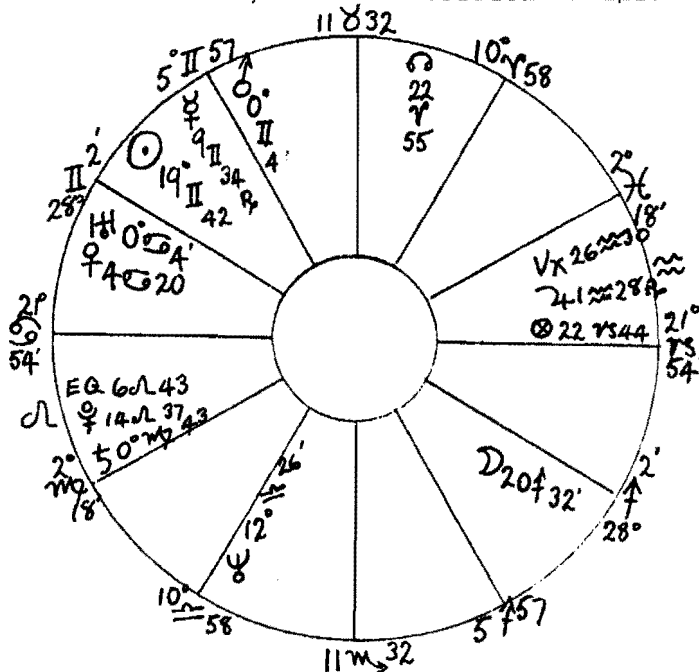

I am most reassured by the "great receptiveness of the Birth Chart for partnership" (Marr), but as I am practically 39 and still unmarried, he's not doing too well here either.

I totally reject Marr's idea of Directing a planet in either the Radix or Epoch Chart to an aspect of one in the other chart. This gives so many points to be Directed (especially as Marr also uses House Cusps in both charts) that it should be possible to find Directions for any period one wishes, and very surprising indeed if one could not. I am interested to see that Marr has not followed his own "rule" in drawing up an Epoch Chart for my Radix, that is, that the Moon should be waxing in both Charts, or waning in both (Prediction III, page 65). I do not agree with this rule in any case. My own Epoch Chart has the Moon at 21Cap54 conjunct the r.Descendant (almost exactly, with an orb of less than a second of arc), and seems to give convincing and reliable indications for Progressions of the Angles, Age Harmonics, Primary Directions (both Topocentric and PEA), and Solar Returns. But I still regard the use of the Epoch Chart as experimental, and would not be inclined to place much reliance on it in rectifications, unless supported by evidence in the Radix.

I am continually amused by Alexander's reiteration of his "advanced, scientifically-approved" methods. Art critics (especially American ones) are very fond of talking about "Advanced Art", by which they mean what they approve of, so they can sneer at what they don't like as "backward"; but one doesn't need to be a genius to see who decides what is "advanced". I suspect that Alexander is using the same ploy. And why should Topocentric Primary Directions be any more advanced than say PEA PD's, or Harmonics? That is conveniently never explained. As for "scientific" - any method that can only be made to give pertinent results by falsifying the given data is none too scientific. And then, who does the

Well, it is not absolutely new, though very recent, and Ross must be congratulated on recognizing its value and bringing it to the notice of us all. I consider it a very important advance in the astrological field. Alexander Marr has done valuable work in extending the frontiers of Astrology and introducing to the great body of astrologers new concepts such as the Ascendant-Lunar Return Chart, the Prenatal Relationship Chart (designated by him "The New Partner-Horoscope"), and the Seven-Year Lunar Cycle

11th June 1949, 9:15:45 am, his own rectification from 9:15 am. Crows Nest,
NSW. 151E12, 33S50. Placidean Cusps.

- Dymock, 10th July 1988.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $15 (Australia and Overseas - Surface Air Lifted). Issue 82 19th May 1988.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

Rectification by Harmonics

Uncertain birth times are a constant stumbling block in the delineation of horoscopes. All practising astrologers have to face this problem, and many and various are the ways of coping with it. Over the years I have tested all methods of chart rectification that came to my notice, including Primary and Secondary Directions, the "Prenatal Epoch", Transits over Angles, Cyclic Charts, Naibod Arc ("The Radix System") and a few others, some of which proved to be worthless. As a result of my trials and investigations, there is now no doubt in my mind that rectification by Age Harmonics is far and away the best system, and capable of absolute accuracy when applied with painstaking care. I still use most of the above-listed techniques, but only to confirm results obtained through Age Harmonics.

I am glad to acknowledge the part played by ROSS HARVEY of NSW in my enlightenment; without it, I might still be struggling with inferior methods. Ross directed my attention to Age Harmonics at a time when I was giving Astrological Harmonics in general very little thought, and none at all to Age Harmonics. Ross's advocacy of the method, following his own private researches, induced me to investigate them, and I am most thankful that I did. Initial scepticism soon gave way to joyful surprise and finally enthusiasm, as I realized the value and potency of this new tool.

It may be that Ross can claim a world-first with this rectification technique. Certainly, I have not met up with it elsewhere as a method of rectification, though of course Harmonics applied to the delineation of Radices has been widely canvassed since the pioneer work of the late John Addey. Addey was principally responsible for the reintroduction of Harmonics into modern Astrology. I say modern astrology, because Harmonics were known and used by the ancient Greek astrologers.

Well, Ross has now given us the following example of this method, applied to the Birth Horoscope of Queen Elizabeth II, for whom there is more than one Radix extant. The article will, I hope, be

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Rectification by Harmonics	1
Rectified Birth Chart of Queen Elizabeth II	2
Queen Elizabeth II:
Harmonic Chart 21	2
Harmonic Chart 25	2
Harmonic Chart 27	3
Progressive Solar Return 21	3
The Houses in Ancient Times	4

instructive and helpful to other serious astrologers as yet uninformed or sceptical of the procedure. The following abbreviations are used: h. = Harmonic; r. = Radical; p. = Progressed; Re. = Regressed (equivalent to "Converse Progressions", that is, Significators moving backwards against the order of the Signs in the "day for a year" system). I have provided foot notes for some points that may need a little explanation. - Dymock.

Birth Chart of Queen Elizabeth II

Rectified by Age Harmonics by Ross Harvey

When one begins to consider rectifying a chart it is first necessary to assess the quality of the birth data provided, to judge the likelihood of their being wrong and, if so, the likely margin of error. Absurd rectifications are continually being made because some practitioners fail to take this elementary precaution. In the case of Queen Elizabeth II, the source of the birth time was a palace announcement on the day of her birth (by Caesarian section). While the time could well have been rounded off to the nearest five minutes, it is simply inconceivable that some of the leading gynaecologists of the day could have made a serious error in timing the birth of the eldest child of the heir presumptive to the throne.

The most important events in the life of the Queen are her marriage (20th November 1948), the death of her father, George VI, and her consequent accession to the throne

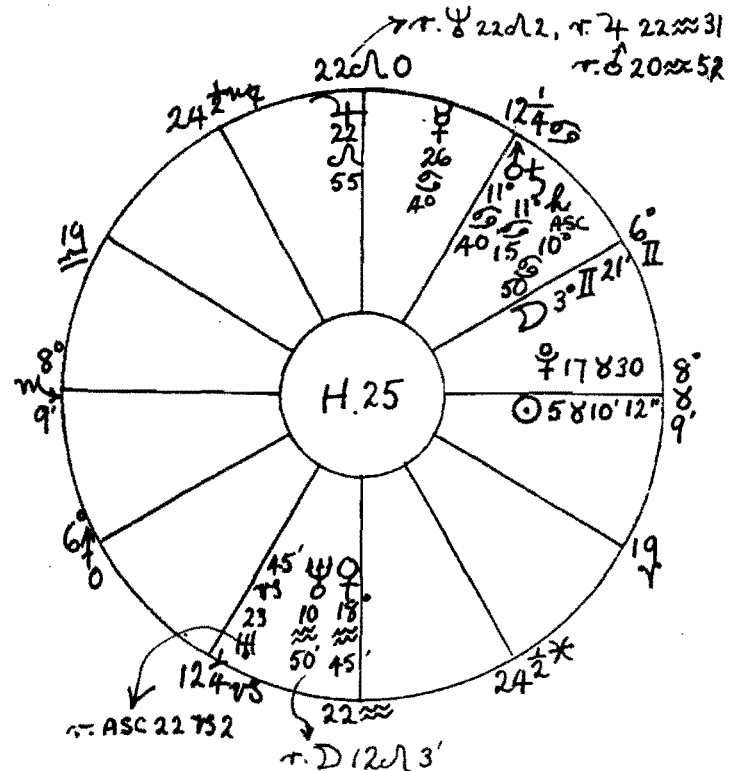

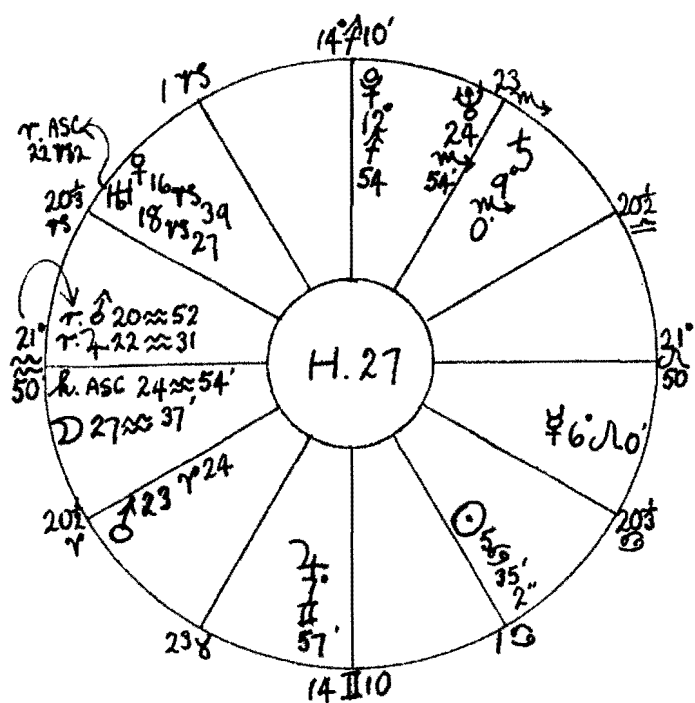

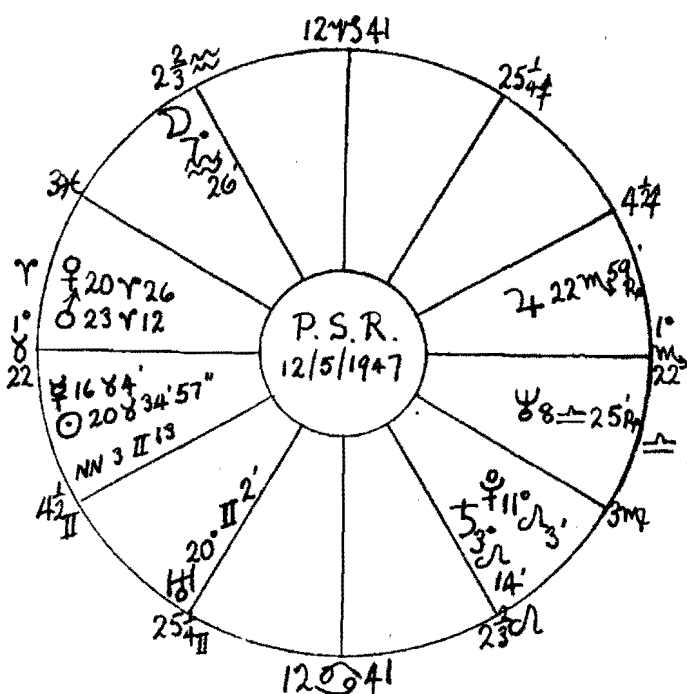

Chart 4. HARMONIC 27. London. Placidus.

For the given time the Harmonic Angles would be MC 1 Sg 39, ASC 29 Cp 47, Derived ASC 8 Aq 42.

Chart 5. PROGRESSIVE SOLAR RETURN

(Rectified). 12th May 1947, 3:39:13 am GMT. London. Placidus.

(6th February 1952), and her Coronation (2nd June 1953).

I have found Age Harmonics to be the clearest and most reliable means of effecting rectifications, provided that the resulting chart is confirmed by other methods, such as Secondary Progression and Regression of the Angles (by the Zodiacal Solar-Arc method) and Solar Return Charts.

I therefore drew up the 21st, 25th and 27th Harmonics, and noticed at once that the positions of the Angles in these Harmonic Charts were by and large not significant, but that all three had appropriate planets conjunct the Radical Ascendant. This suggested that the given birth time was approximately correct, but not exactly so. I noticed also that if the Harmonic MC's were moved forward by about ten degrees¹ important and appropriate indications appeared in all three Harmonics (and in all the other Harmonics I subsequently calculated).

In Harmonic 21, Chart 2, (marriage) h.Jupiter is conjunct the Radical Ascendant (Jupiter is often strong in Harmonics for marriage, or for establishing close personal relationships) but with the Angles for the given birth time the only indication is h.Asc conjunct h.Pluto. However, when the Angles are moved forward slightly² h.MC becomes conjunct h.Sun, and the Asc calculated from the MC becomes conjunct Venus, all very appropriate for marriage.

It should be noted that for the purpose of rectification only conjunctions and oppositions to the Angles either within the Harmonic Chart or between the Harmonic and the Radix should be considered³.

In the 25th Harmonic, Chart 3, (death of George VI, and Elizabeth's accession to the throne), h.Uranus is conjunct the Radical Ascendant, but for the given birth time there are no other indications. When the Angles are moved forward, however, h.Jupiter becomes conjunct the h.MC, and both are conjunct r.Neptune. (Saturn and Neptune are usually seen in Harmonics for the death of either the native or of close family members.) Harmonic Mars and Saturn are conjunct the h.Ascendant and all are conjunct the 9th Cusp. (The then Princess Elizabeth was in Africa when her father died.) The h.Sun conjoins the h.Descendant. Additionally, the h.Moon is opposite r.Neptune. Interestingly, if the Ascendant of the Harmonic Chart is calculated for the latitude of Sagana, Kenya (37 E 10, 0 S 36), where Princess Elizabeth was staying when she received news of her father's death, the Ascendant of the Harmonic Chart is conjunct r.Saturn (h.Asc 26 Sco 52).

With the 27th Harmonic, Chart 4, (the Coronation) h.Venus (widely) and Uranus are conjunct the r.Ascendant, but there are no indications so far as the Angles for the given birth time are concerned. When the Natal Angles are moved forward slightly we get the following Harmonic aspects:

Pluto conjoins the h.MC,

The Ascendant conjoins r.Jupiter and Mars, opposes r.Neptune, and conjoins the h.Moon.

When I had adjusted the Birth Chart in accordance with the indications in these Harmonics, I calculated the 22nd Harmonic (birth of Prince Charles) and found the h.Sun (4 Aq 31) conjunct h.Uranus (1 Aq 42), and both conjunct the h.Ascendant (4 Aq 28). For the given birth-time Angles the h.MC (23 Le 24) was conjunct r.Neptune - most inappropriate. The 55th Harmonic (marriage of Prince Charles) has the h.Sun conjunct the h. Ascendant (11 Sc 22 and 11 Sc 50) respectively for the rectified time, while the Angles for the given birth time are of no significance.

Secondary Progressions and Regressions of the Angles are a useful way of confirming a rectification. In the present case, two of the most telling are re.Ascendant square re.Uranus on the 9th March 1952 for the rectified time (George VI died on the 6th February 1952). For the given birth time this aspect would be timed to 18th October 1951. Again, for the rectified time, the p.Ascendant conjoined p.Mars on the 31st of May 1953 (Coronation, 2nd June 1953)⁴, whereas for the given birth time this aspect would not have fallen due until the middle of the following year.

Chart No. 5, the Progressive Solar Return for 1947 (the period that included the Queen's marriage) is yet another indication of the essential accuracy of the birth time. Note Jupiter conjunct the r.MC (Jupiter in the 7th House), the Ascendant conjunct r.Sun, and, most importantly, Venus, Ruler of the Ascendant, conjunct Mars (Co-Ruler of the 7th) symbolizing the union of the native and her partner. Connections between the Rulers of the 1st and 7th Houses, and less often between the Rulers of the 10th and the 7th Houses, are quite frequently seen in Solar Return Charts for marriage. Here, Saturn, Ruler of the 10th House, is widely conjunct Pluto, principal Ruler of the 7th.

I am quite confident of my suggested emendation to Queen Elizabeth's official Chart, especially as Age Harmonics for all important years - not only those three that I used to make the rectification - give convincing indications involving the Harmonic Angles. Indeed, so confident am I of the value of Age Harmonics that I would not accept any proposed rectification that did not give consistent and appropriate indications in the Harmonics.

Editor's Notes:

¹This, of course, implies a very much smaller movement of the Natal Angles.

²Implying an adjustment to the given birth time of less than two minutes.

³Because a small adjustment to the birth time has no effect, or a minute effect, on planetary positions but makes a significant difference to the Angles.

⁴One might query the aspect Ascendant conjunct Mars for the Coronation, except that in the Queen's Natus Mars is conjunct Jupiter and Co-Ruler of the Midheaven.

An excellent piece of work by Ross Harvey.

The Houses in Ancient Astrology

(from a talk by Olivia Barclay)

On a visit to New York in October 1986 Olivia gave a talk in which she expressed her convictions and astrological credo, taking issue with some modern trends. Olivia strongly advocates the separation of astrology from psychology [which has introduced a lot of imaginative nonsense into our art - Ed.]. Her search for accurate techniques has taken her back in time to old books and scholars, among them Manilius, who lived in the time of Christ, and William Lilly, famous astrologer of the 17th Century. Referring to those old scholars as a source of very important knowledge, especially in Horary and Electional Astrology, Olivia spoke of the necessity to preserve the uniqueness of the astrological art.

Olivia said that the writing of Manilius is like poetry. He knew that the Earth was round. To him, the planets were gods and the Houses were their temples. The 1st House belonged to MERCURY, who ruled the tongue and the brain. The 2nd House was the Portal of PLUTO (Ptolemy called it The gate of Hades). The 3rd House belonged to Dea, the Goddess, the MOON and mothers. The 4th House belonged to SATURN - the House of fathers, ancestors, family and all spirits and demons. (It was so for 2000 years until moderns changed it to the House of mothers because Cancer is the 4th Sign.) The 5th House belonged to VENUS - good fortune. The 6th House was MARS, and meant hard work. The 7th House meant partnership, marriage and death. (Ptolemy moved death to the 8th.) The 8th House was warfare and trouble. The 9th House belonged to the SUN - Theos, God. It meant dreams, visions and religion. The 10th House belonged to VENUS - Fortuna - and meant glory and authority. The 11th House was JUPITER's, and was considered most fortunate because one could still go up to the 10th, whereas in the 10th you could not go any further. The 12th House belonged to SATURN, and was called the Gate of Labour.

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock, 28th May 1988.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $15, Australia and Overseas (Surface Air Lifted). Issue 81 19th April 1988.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

President John F. Kennedy

A recent article about the late U.S.A. President John F. Kennedy in Good Weekend (April 9th, 1988), published by The Sydney Morning Herald, contains some interesting revelations, and has drawn attention once again to the life of this ill-fated leader. The President's death nearly 25 years ago shocked and horrified the world. One of the most popular inhabitants ever of the White House, Kennedy, only 46, was shot in the head on the 22nd of November 1963 by a rifleman using a telescopic sight. He was sitting in an open car with his wife Jacqueline beside him, during a meet-the-people tour of Dallas, Texas. Some doubt still exists concerning the actual perpetrator of the crime, as his supposed assassin was himself shot by another man as he was being taken away by the police.

The article in Good Weekend describes hitherto undisclosed incidents in the President's life. It is fairly well-known that the Kennedy had a number of sweethearts and extra-marital love affairs, including one with the famous screen star, Marilyn Monroe. The author of the article, Judith Exner, writes of her own liaison with him. Not so well-known is that the President maintained covert connections with the Mafia, and at one stage used their services to ensure political victory. Judith Exner worked as a courier for him, carrying messages to top Mafia members.

John F. Kennedy was born in Brookline, Massachusetts on 29th May 1917. The time was given as 3:15 pm (The Circle Book of Charts, compiled by Stephen Erlewine, and Circles - 800 Horoscopes van Bekende Mensen by Jan Kampherbeek). Harmonic analysis suggests that the correct time was close to one minute earlier. Accordingly, I have drawn the Horoscope for 3:14:1 pm EST, which time is supported by relevant Cyclic Charts.

Harmonious Libra rises, and its Ruler, Venus occupies the "charm" Sign, Gemini, together with the Sun. This attests to Kennedy's winning personality and his attraction for women. Uranus is trine to Venus, showing a romantic disposition and

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
President John F. Kennedy	1
Birth Chart of J.F. Kennedy	2
Cyclic Charts for Kennedy: Solar Return, Precessed Solar Return, and Prenatal Solar Return	3
NSW Government: Two Charts	4
Correspondence (A. Marr)	4

proneness to amorous adventures. The effect is increased by the square of the Moon to Venus, the Moon acting as a multiplier.

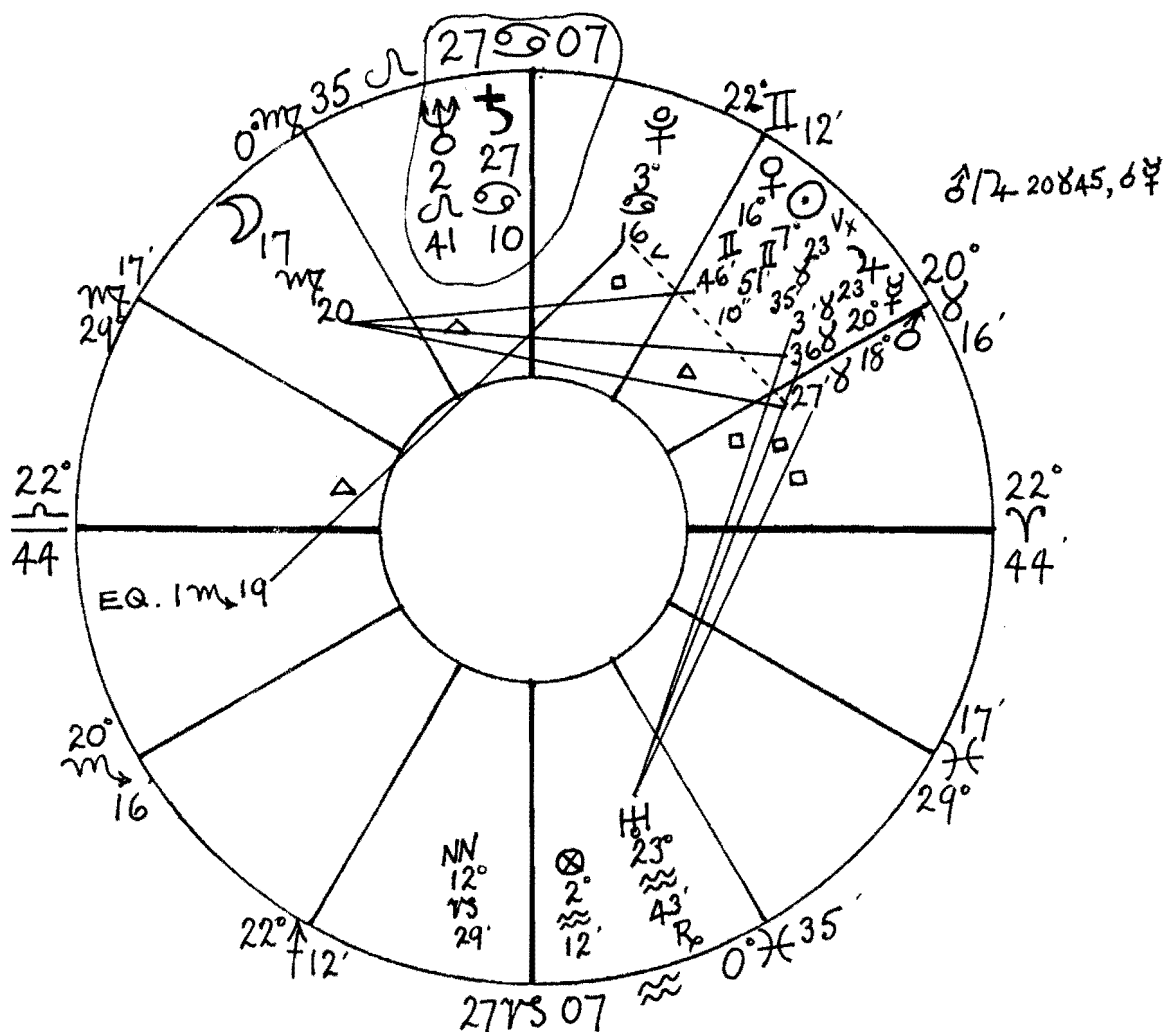

The fateful area of Kennedy's Chart is the presence of Saturn and Neptune in the Midheaven. This is traditionally associated with the realization of ambitions and the gain of high office (relative to the native's sphere of operations), followed by a subsequent fall. The presence of Mars on the Cusp of the House of Death, square to Uranus and closely semisquare to Pluto (orb only 10') suggests the possibility of a violent end. The conjunction of Mars with Mercury points to a human agent.

Mercury is at the midpoint of Mars and Jupiter, which latter planets thus imported their joint natures into Kennedy's mental equipment. According to Ebertin, (The Combination of Stellar Influences) this gives "a wealth of plans, organizing talent, prudence and circumspection, far-sightedness, the ability to make fortunate arrangements, the capability both to think and to act successfully, and the realization of plans. Witte (Rules for Planetary Pictures) adds "successful orator".

When we examine the astrological connotations of his death, the first indication of a hazardous period is the conjunction of Progressed Saturn with Neptune, the fateful combination already within orbs at Kennedy's birth, and powerfully placed at the Midheaven (Natal Saturn, in fact only 3' of arc distant from the Meridian!) The Progression was mathematically exact in February 1964, and the assassination occurred near the end of the previous November, which is close timing for a Progression of a major, slow-moving planet.

PRESIDENT JOHN F. KENNEDY

29th May 1917, Brookline, Mass., 71 W 07, 42 N 20. 3:14:01 pm, Rectified from 3:15 pm. UT 20:14:01 on 29/5/1917. Placidian Cusps.

Though the Progression sets the scene, we have to look at the Cyclic Charts for further information. It might have meant only political overthrow. But both Standard and Precessed Solar Returns covering the period from Kennedy's 46th to his 47th birthday (29th May 1963 to 29th May 1964) have powerful adverse aspects involving Mars (gunshot wounds), the more dangerous because of the position of Natal Mars on the "death" Cusp, aspecting both Uranus and Pluto. It was indeed tempting Fate for Kennedy to go touring in an open car at this critical time of his life. Both the Annual Charts referred to are reproduced below with notes on their effects. Reader can judge the consequences for themselves.

Also of interest is the Prenatal Solar

Return corresponding to the final year of Kennedy's life. Astrologers generally could pay more attention to the indications given by Prenatal Charts and Transits. It is useful to have a number of techniques available when investigating any particular period. Circumstances, feelings and events can be determined more definitely by consulting a variety of Charts than by relying simply on one Progressed or Annual Horoscope. So far as the Progressed Horoscope goes, its indications are generally meagre, and they need to be rounded out by examination of several more specialized techniques.

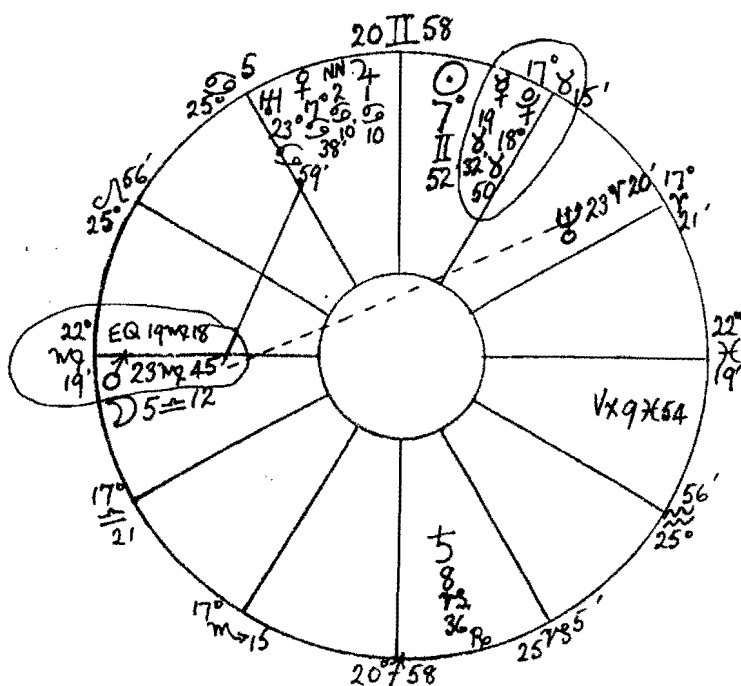

A striking feature of Kennedy's Prenatal Chart (also reproduced) is that MARS is again the dominant afflicting planet, right on the Ascendant. Mars is quincunx Neptune and sextile Uranus, all in the same degree. This closeness of the orb is a potent and highly energizing factor. The three Charts are an instructive study.

JOHN F. KENNEDY: STANDARD SOLAR RETURN 46
(29/5/1963 - 29/5/1964). Natal Sun 7 Ge 51'
10". Set for Birthplace. Placidian Cusps.

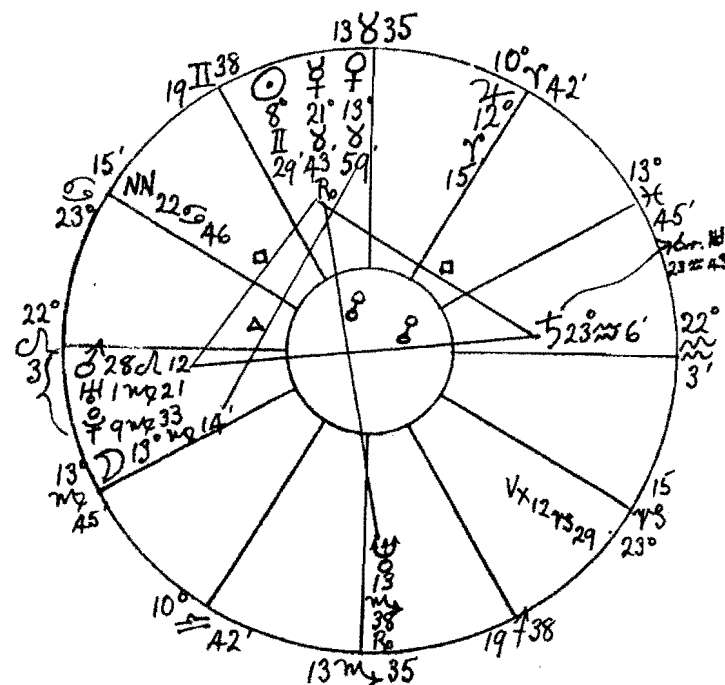

The possibility of assassination is plain to see: Mars square the Ascendant, opposite Saturn, conjunct Uranus and the Moon; Pluto (Ruler, and dominant in the Chart) conjunct the Midheaven and the Moon, and square the Sun. In view of the corresponding afflictions in Kennedy's Radix this is a disastrous scenario. One notes also that Natal Uranus is conjunct S.R. Saturn and opposite S.R. Mars.

JOHN F. KENNEDY: PRENATAL SOLAR RETURN 46
(29/5/1963 - 29/5/1964). Placidian Cusps.
Ephemeris Date 29th May 1871. Birthplace.

Again, the principal villain is Mars - conjunct the Ascendant, quincunx Neptune and sextile Uranus. S.R. Pluto is conjunct Natal Mars, S.R. Uranus conjunct Natal Saturn and the MC.

JOHN F. KENNEDY: PRECESSED SOLAR RETURN 46
(29/5/1963 - 29/5/1964). Prec. Sun 86° 29' 9".
At Birthplace. Placidian Cusps.

The principal indications are the rising of Mars, Uranus and Pluto in close formation, Saturn opposite Mars across the Chart and square to Mercury at the Midheaven. S.R. Saturn conjuncts Natal Uranus. Venus conjunct the Midheaven, trine the Moon is evidence of Kennedy's great popularity. Neptune opposing Venus, as also Saturn in the 7th House with its attendant aspects, points to the undermining of his marriage with Jacqueline and the emotional separation then existing between them. Judith Exner's article reveals that the two had been planning a divorce.

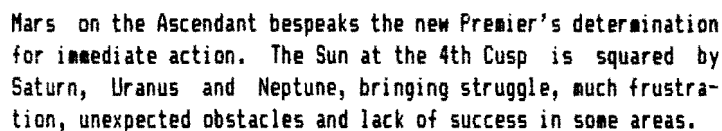

The NSW Liberal Government

For those interested in following the fortunes of the the newly-elected Liberal Government in NSW, led by Nick Greiner, I have drawn up two Charts, one for the moment (0-hours on Friday, 24th March) when Greiner took over from Unsworth, and the other for the time of the swearing-in of the new Government. This latter time is only approximate, exact data not being available to me. The ceremony was to start at 11 am EST, but may have been delayed a few minutes.

Working with these Charts by any astrological techniques - Transits (both current and "Prenatal"), Progressions and Regressions, Symbolic Directions, Cyclic Charts, Lunations, Age Harmonics, etc., will certainly develop your skill in handling them. Mundane Astrology is an important branch of our art and should not be neglected. Whereas personal horoscopes have significance for one or a few people at most, Mundane Horoscopes potentially have an impact on large bodies of people.

Rectification and Prediction

From ALEXANDER MARR (W.GERMANY): A reply to Ross Harvey's criticism of the Topocentric System and my methods in rectification and prediction (Astrologers' Forum No. 71);

A circular diagram with a central circle and 12 radial lines. Each segment contains handwritten text, including numbers, symbols, and names. The text is arranged in a circular pattern around the center.

Top segment: 17 H 54

Top-right segment: 12° 27' 27

Right segment: 7° 4' 4

Bottom-right segment: 56' 130

Bottom segment: 18° 41'

Bottom-left segment: 12° 27'

Left segment: 5° 39'

Top-left segment: 18° 41'

Text in segments:

- Top: NN 22 43
- Top-right: 12° 27' 27
- Right: 7° 4' 4
- Bottom-right: 56' 130
- Bottom: 18° 41'
- Bottom-left: 12° 27'
- Left: 5° 39'
- Top-left: 18° 41'

The Topocentric House System in connection with Primary and Secondary Directions is reliable, and since its final development it has reached a scientific standard. I invite readers of Astrologers' Forum to examine without any prejudice my examples given in Prediction II and especially in Prediction III, taking note especially of the numerous House Cusp Directions with a correct symbolism. In all the demonstrated horoscopes almost all the main events in the lives of the natives have been used.

EXAMPLE. In Prediction III, page 101, (Juan G. Peron) we get the following Directions for Death of Father, 10th Nov. 1928:

Primary Directions (Naibod Time Measure, 59' 08" per year), MC c square SUN (2' orb), Radix to Radix; MC d square SUN (4' orb), Epoch to Epoch; SUN d conjunct IC (2' orb), Epoch to Radix; Cusp VIII c sesquisquare SATURN (7' orb), Epoch to Epoch.

Secondary Directions, Cusps Directed with the Solar Arc in Right Ascension,
SUN Regressed square PLUTO (5' orb) Radix to Radix; MARS Progr.
conjunct PART OF FORTUNE (8' orb) Epoch to Epoch; URANUS Progr.
opposite PART OF FORTUNE (8' orb) Epoch to Epoch; Cusp VIII Regr. semisquare MARS (4' orb), Epoch to Epoch; SUN Progr.
quincunx Cusp VIII (4' orb), Epoch to Epoch; and others.

All the other events demonstrated in Prediction III have in many cases astrological proofs (symbolism) as well as scientific proofs (orbs, quantity of Directions), which could hardly be coincidences.

I invite Ross Harvey to send me his Horoscope with main events he has available, and I will give the final proofs that the methods I am using are true and effective. There may be other logical reasons why this System did not produce enough evidence in his analyses. I expect a fair treatment of this, my suggestion, (true dates and all main events available). On the other hand, we can regard Ross Harvey's objections as irrelevant if he does not take this challenge.

A recently made statistical test with 45 events in Hitler's Horoscope gave a factor against coincidence of 254 to 1. As regards factors against coincidence we should not expect too much, because even the accumulations of Directions in main events cannot exceed a certain factor as, for all so-called coincidences (factor against coincidence) there is a limit factor. However, when considering the symbolism of the planets and the significance of the Houses, we have an overwhelming number of proofs for this Topocentric System founded by Nelson Page and Vendel Polich via events and narrowly-timed births.

Editor's Note: Ross Harvey (N.S.W.), who has immediately accepted Alexander's invitation, claims that the best method for rectifying Charts is by Age Harmonics, with checks by subsidiary methods (see Astrologers' Forum Issue 71). I fully endorse his remarks, which accord with my own experience.

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock, 29th April 1988.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $15, Australia and Overseas (Surface Air Lifted). Issue 80 19th March 1988.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

PRINCE CHARLES AND THE AVALANCHE

On the 10th of this month (March 1988) the heir to the British throne had a narrow escape from death in an avalanche while on a skiing holiday in the Swiss Alps. As it was, a close friend of his was killed, a former equerry to Queen Elizabeth, and a woman member of the party, had both legs broken and had to be lifted out by helicopter. Princess Diana and the Duchess of York luckily had not joined the group that day.

News like this directs the astrologer immediately to the Prince's Birth Chart and current planetary aspects to find the astrological influences coincident with the event. The present occasion confirms what I have written before in these columns - that we must go beyond the standard Progressions and Transits to find a satisfactory correlation from the astrological point of view.

The Birth Chart of Prince Charles is reproduced on page 2. Appropriately, the Prince was born under the royal Sign, Leo, with the Sun in Scorpio and the Moon in Taurus. The Scorpio strength is there, but the hardness or callousness with which it is often associated is negated by the conjunction of the planets Venus and Neptune in Libra at the lower Meridian. This shows a gentle, sensitive and feeling nature, with an appreciation of beauty and the finer things of life. The Moon in Taurus trine to Saturn denotes a serious mind, attention to duties, self-discipline and thriftiness.

Where was the Taurean caution on this occasion? It is reported that the Prince actually led his party away from the safe ground to a dangerous area, apparently following his philosophy that "if you occasionally live dangerously it helps you appreciate life". This philosophy accords with the close opposition of Uranus to Jupiter in his Horoscope, an opposition made weightier by the elevation of Uranus above Jupiter. It indicates original and independent views, strongly held, perhaps occasionally maintained more for the sake of opposition and independence than from ingrained belief in them.

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Prince Charles and the Avalanche	1
Prince Charles: Natal Chart, Synodic Return 39, and Precessed Chart 39	2
Harmonic Chart 39	3
Liberals Win: NSW Election 19th March 1988	4

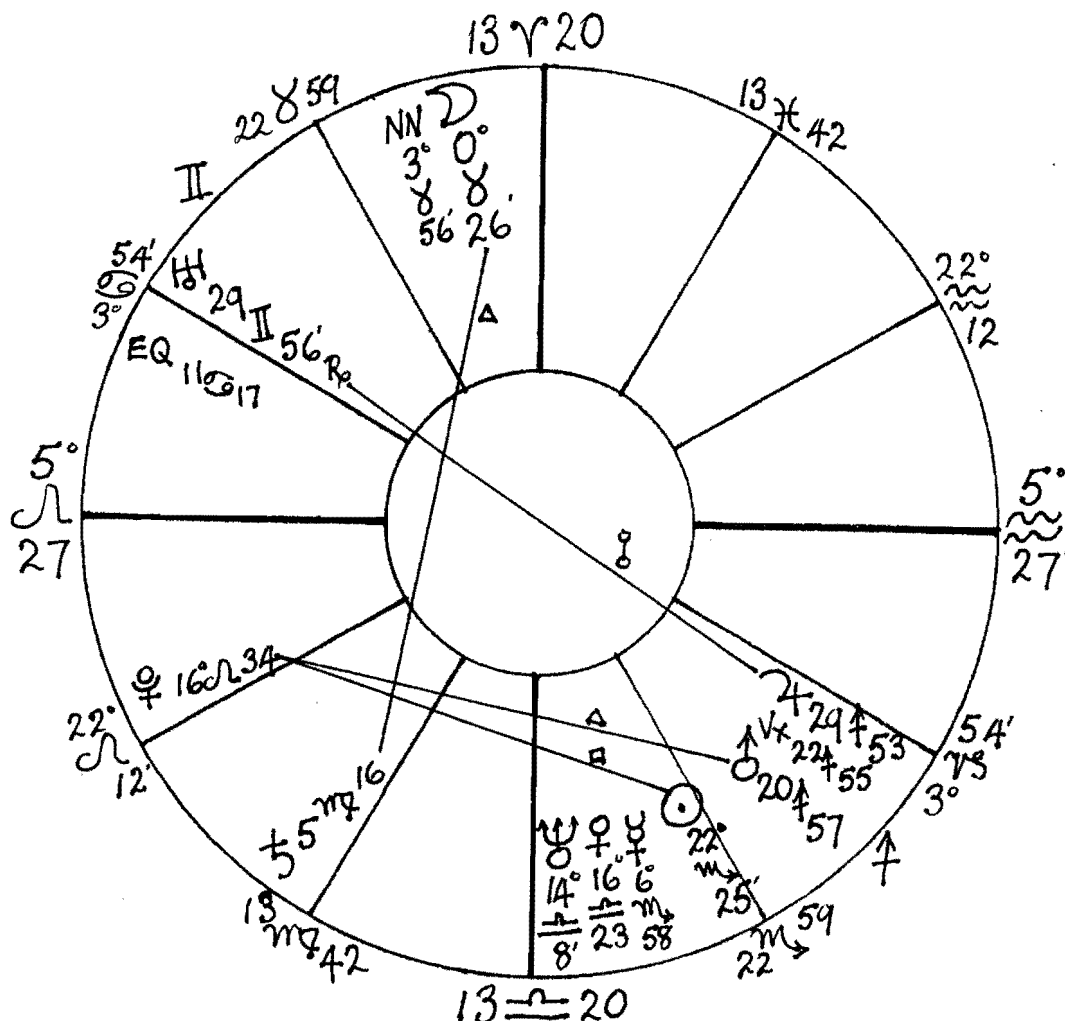

The Prince apparently acted on impulse and as a demonstration of his proclaimed ideas on living. In the astrological investigation, we look in vain for current transits and standard Progressions to account for this whim, that is, unless we investigate Regressions or "Converse Progressions", which are ignored by many astrologers. Standard, Direct, Progressions near the time of the accident were conspicuous by their absence. In the Progressed Chart itself the Moon came to a conjunction with Progressed Neptune on the 8th of March, which might be regarded as having some minimal relevance by causing confusion of mind, and Neptune being logically associated with snow (a soft, yielding and treacherous substance). But the aspect certainly does not reflect the nature or gravity of the event.

Converse Progressions, more properly called Secondary Regressions, on the other hand give Regressed Mars conjunct the Sun, mathematically exact on 17th March - within one week of the accident. There is no doubting the relevance of this aspect, and it should give pause to those practitioners who neglect to use Regressions. Mars, the planet of impulse and injury, conjunct the Sun on the 5th Cusp threatens danger to life and limb while on holiday. The Sun transiting the 9th House in Pisces timed the accident by its square to Natal Mars on the 11th of March.

The regressed aspect, then, gave a general warning of danger, but for more information and detail we must look to the Cyclic Charts.

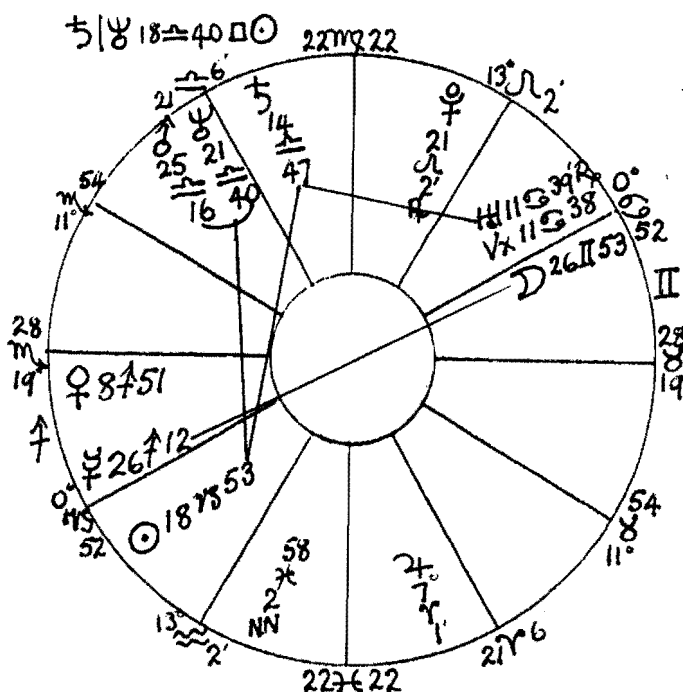

PRINCE CHARLES

14th November 1948, London, 9:14 pm GMT (Official Time).
 London O W 6, 51 N 31. Placidian Cusps.

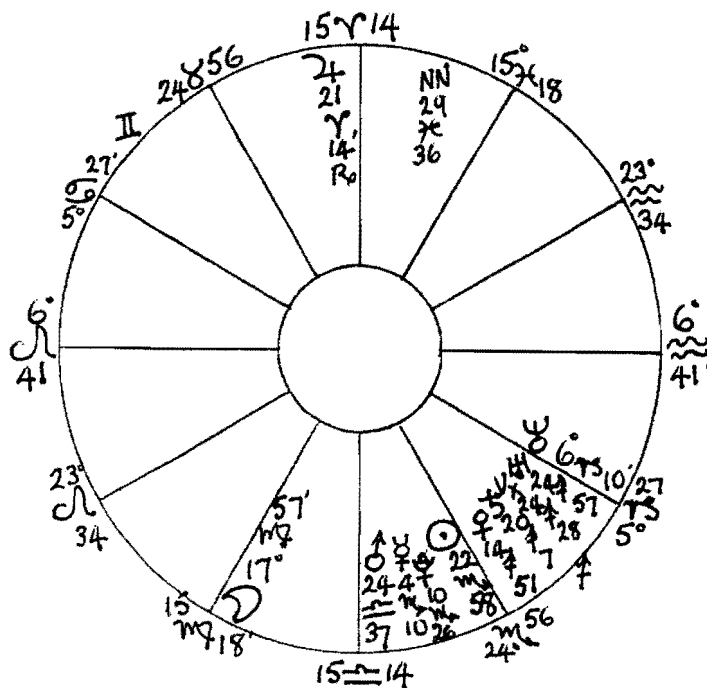

SYNODIC RETURN 39

(Operative 14/11/1987 - 14/11/1988)
 Date for Chart: 10th Jan 1952, London.
 Sun - Moon 158° 0' 52". Placidus.

PRECESSED SOLAR RETURN 39

(Operative 14/11/1987 - 14/11/1988)
 London O W 6, 51 N 31. Placidus.

The first of these is the 39th Synodic Chart, operative during the year 14th November 1987 to 14th November 1988. This Chart is timed for the 39th time after birth (including the birth position itself as the first time) that the Sun and Moon held the exact angular distance ($158^{\circ} 0' 52''$) that separated them in the Radix.

What is often overlooked is that Cyclic Charts have to be superimposed on the Radix, as well as being read independently. As Alexandre Volquine pointed out in his The Technique of Solar Returns, superimposition of the Houses - and more especially, the Ascendant and Midheaven - are important factors in determining the focus of the year. Here, the 29th degree of Scorpio rises, which falls in the Radical 5th House - pleasures and holidays, among other things. Synodic Venus also falling in this House looks to be a happy omen until we see that it is square to Radical Saturn, which changes the picture completely. Similarly, Synodic Mercury is conjunct Radical Jupiter, but stimulates the Natal opposition of Jupiter to Uranus - the impulsive move on the snow fields already mentioned.

The Synodic Midheaven is almost exactly square the Radical Vertex, which suggests some adverse stroke of destiny, particularly as the Vertex is conjunct Natal Mars.

Looking further, we see Synodic Moon conjunct Natal Uranus (sudden upset), the Moon ruling the 8th House (death) and opposite Mercury (nervous distress). Synodic Saturn at 14 Li 47 is conjunct Radical Neptune at 14 Li 8, both planets being closely opposed to the Radical Midheaven. This is a potent indication of loss and suffering. Finally, Synodic Pluto, planet of destruction, in the 9th House (distant places) is on the Radical 2nd/8th Axis, thereby being directly opposed to the degree on the Natal 8th Cusp (death).

Inspection of the Synodic Chart itself confirms suspected impending tragedy: Mars and Neptune are conjunct in the 11th House - Neptune being right on the Cusp - and their midpoint at 18 Li 40 is square to the Sun at 18 Cp 53. This is clearly the loss of a male friend. Saturn, the most elevated planet in the Chart, forms a T-Square with The Sun and Uranus.

Less specific but still indicative of the turn of events is the Precessed Solar Return No. 39. The first factor of importance is the coincidence of the Angles with those of the Natal Chart. This heralds a more than usually significant year. We see an accumulation of planets in the 5th House, the Sun being almost on the Cusp. These planets, moreover, seriously afflict the Natal Significators: Saturn and Uranus conjoin Radical Mars, and the Solar-Return Moon is square Radical Mars as well as being square to Venus. Saturn and Uranus in the Return Chart. All this certainly points to a serious accident while on holiday. Mercury ruling the 11th House conjunct Pluto suggests danger to a friend. The indications are more general than those in the Synodic Chart, but still sufficiently alarming. A prominent aspect is the opposition of Jupiter and Mars along the Meridian - impulsive conduct.

This last aspect appears to relate to something more than the accident being analysed: Jupiter occupies the 10th House, and is opposed by Mars which rules the 10th. So the emphasis falls on matters of status and career. Is there going to be a significant development in the Prince's life this year? As a matter of interest I drew up also the Progressive Solar Return No. 39 for Prince Charles, which would operate from 24th December 1987 to 24th December 1988. This Chart is not reproduced here, but for those who are energetic enough to investigate it, the Sidereal Time is 14h 34m 59s, MC 11 Sc 10, Asc 5 Cp 24. Mars in this Chart at 19 Sc 52 is conjunct the Radical Sun, and is square the Solar-Return Moon at 21 Aq 40. But the most interesting thing about the Chart is the presence of Pluto (11 Sc 48) right on the Midheaven and Neptune (7 Cp 24) right on the Ascendant! This effectively puts them in square, notwithstanding the Zodiacal trine.

The question arises - does this configuration apply solely to the accident in Switzerland, or is there some further connection with the Prince's life and fortunes? The most significant event that could occur in the Prince's life is accession to the throne.

When we calculate the Harmonics for age 39, we find the Midheaven reduces to 10 Vi 21. Natal Saturn is at 5 Vi 16. This indicates to me that the precise birth time of Prince Charles was a few seconds earlier than the official time of 9:14 pm. The Harmonic Midheaven would then have formed a closer conjunction with Radical Saturn, a very typical configuration for the type of experiences that awaited the Prince in the current year. Even without the adjustment, the Harmonic Midheaven is close enough ($5^{\circ} 5'$) to Natal Saturn to be a significant factor. Such a small time adjustment would not affect the planets or their Harmonics, only the position of the Cusps, to a small extent. Nevertheless I have left the Radix unchanged.

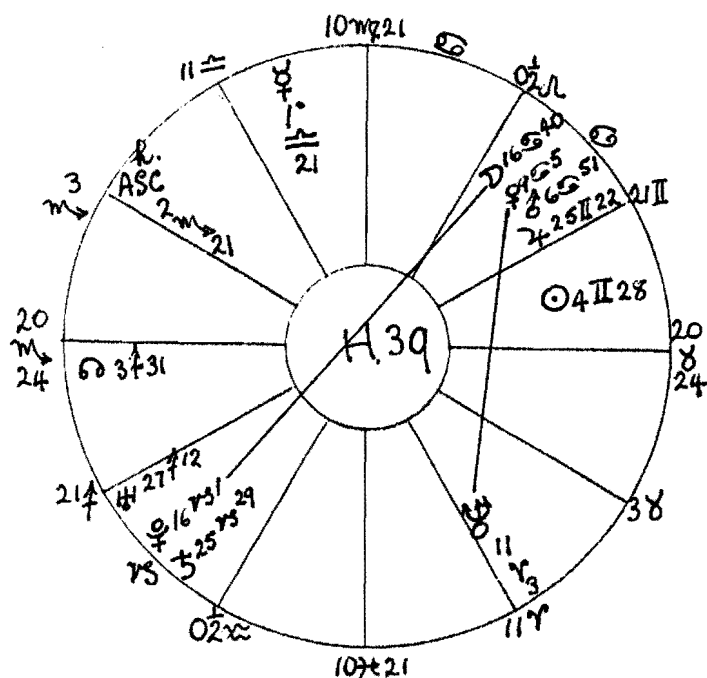

The 39th Harmonic of the Radical Ascendant brings it to 2 Sc 21. Here it is in opposition to the Natal position of the Moon, which in the Prince's Chart rules the House of "Sorrows, Suffering and Self-Undoing". Terribly unfortunate - but how appropriate for the distress and anguish the Prince suffered after the event of the 10th March!

When we put the Harmonic positions into Chart form, using the Harmonic Midheaven as the basis for the Cusps, as I have previously advocated, we find the Derived Ascendant is 20 Sc 24, which is conjunct the Radical Sun in the 5th House, and the original Harmonic Ascendant is conjunct the Cusp of the 12th, emphasizing the remarks above.

PRINCE CHARLES: HARMONIC 39

(Operative 14/11/1987 - 14/11/1988)

At London, 0 W 6, 51 N 31. Placidus.

It is arguable that this Harmonic Chart has greater relevance than either of the two Cyclic Charts already discussed. Harmonic Neptune now conjoins the Natal MC, to which it was in opposition at the birth. The Midheaven being much related to the psychic and emotional condition of the native, this surely denotes a deeply-felt loss, the impact of which will have a pronounced effect on the Prince's outlook and the conduct of his life. Neptune conjunct the 5th Cusp square to Venus refers the emotional pain to a holiday occasion.

The Harmonic Sun at 4 Ge 28 is square to Radical Saturn at 5 Vi 16 - again grief and suffering. Harmonic Moon at 16 Cn 40 is directly opposite Radical Venus and Neptune - loss of a loved one. Harmonic Mercury at 1 Li 21 squares Radical Uranus at 29 Ge 56 - mental shock (also typical of impulsive, abrupt actions without proper consideration of the consequences).

Harmonic Uranus at 27 Sg 12 activates the Radical Uranus/Jupiter opposition - a sudden major loss through bad luck or eccentricity. Harmonic Pluto at 16 Cp 1 squares Natal Venus at 16 Li 23 and Natal Neptune at 14 Li 8. Neptune spells loss, Pluto by death, and Venus of someone closely attached.

The Harmonic Chart itself merely confirms all the above: The 8th House (death and near death experiences) is heavily tenanted, with the Moon therein almost exactly opposite Pluto. Venus and Mars are in conjunction in this House and square to Neptune, again spelling the loss of a loved one.

LIBERALS WIN NSW ELECTION

News has just come of the win by the Liberal Party in the State Election. Obviously, my interpretation of the March 18 Eclipse Chart was wrong.

SOLAR ECLIPSE, 18TH MARCH 1988, 2:03 AM UT
SYDNEY, 151 E 10, 33 S 52. Placidus.

It is apparent that the dominant factor in this Chart, indicating the defeat of the Labour Government, was the Eclipse itself on the Upper Meridian, symbolically eclipsing the Government. A useful lesson.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock,

20th March 1988.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $15, Australia and Overseas (Surface Air Lifted). Issue 79 19th February 1988.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

HOROSCOPE OF THE NATIVITY

This month we give space to a remarkable piece of research by the Dutch astrologer, RUDOLF SMIT, who until recently was resident in Australia but has now returned to his home country. Rudolf was well known here both for his astrological work and for the excellent Computer Programs that he marketed. An article of his on suicides was printed in Issue No. 68 (March 1987) of Astrologers' Forum.

The present article is a brilliant piece of work. It is Rudolf's attempt, over a long period and at considerable expense, to find the correct Horoscope for the birth of Jesus. Rudolf does not claim that he has, in fact, done so, but few who follow his painstaking method and comprehensive investigation will doubt that we are not likely ever to arrive at a Chart with greater claims to authenticity.

Rudolf's complete article is a fascinating one, as much for the human interest of his progress towards his self-appointed goal as for the painstaking methods he adopted. In the course of his research Rudolf spent over a hundred dollars on a large number of charts from Astro Computing Services in the USA, one of the relatively few outlets capable of supplying accurate figures and ephemerides for 2000 years ago. The whole article is too lengthy to reproduce here in full, but after much consideration I have selected the most important parts and captured, I hope, the essential spirit of the enquiry. The final Horoscope is given, the Solar Return Chart relating to The Crucifixion, and the process described by which Rudolf came to his conclusions.

A number of previous "Horoscopes of Jesus" have been published, including those by Ralph Holden of South Australia, the late British astrologer, John Addey, the 16th Century astrologer, Cardanus, and a contemporary American, Frank Jakubowsky. Rudolf sorted through all of them, as well as the scholarly material of the British astronomer and historian, David Hughes, who investigated relevant historical, astronomical, archeological and religious data. David Hughes' material was of particular

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Horoscope of The Nativity	1
Rudolf Smit's Proposed Chart of The Nativity	2
Solar Return for The Crucifixion	3
NSH Parliamentary Election 19th March 1988	4 assistance to Rudolf who, after much patient labour, arrived at his final Chart of the Nativity, which is reproduced here on Page 2. It is no surprise to find Pisces on the Ascendant, the Sign preeminently associated, in its highest manifestation, with a life of self-sacrifice, spiritual awareness and all-embracing love.

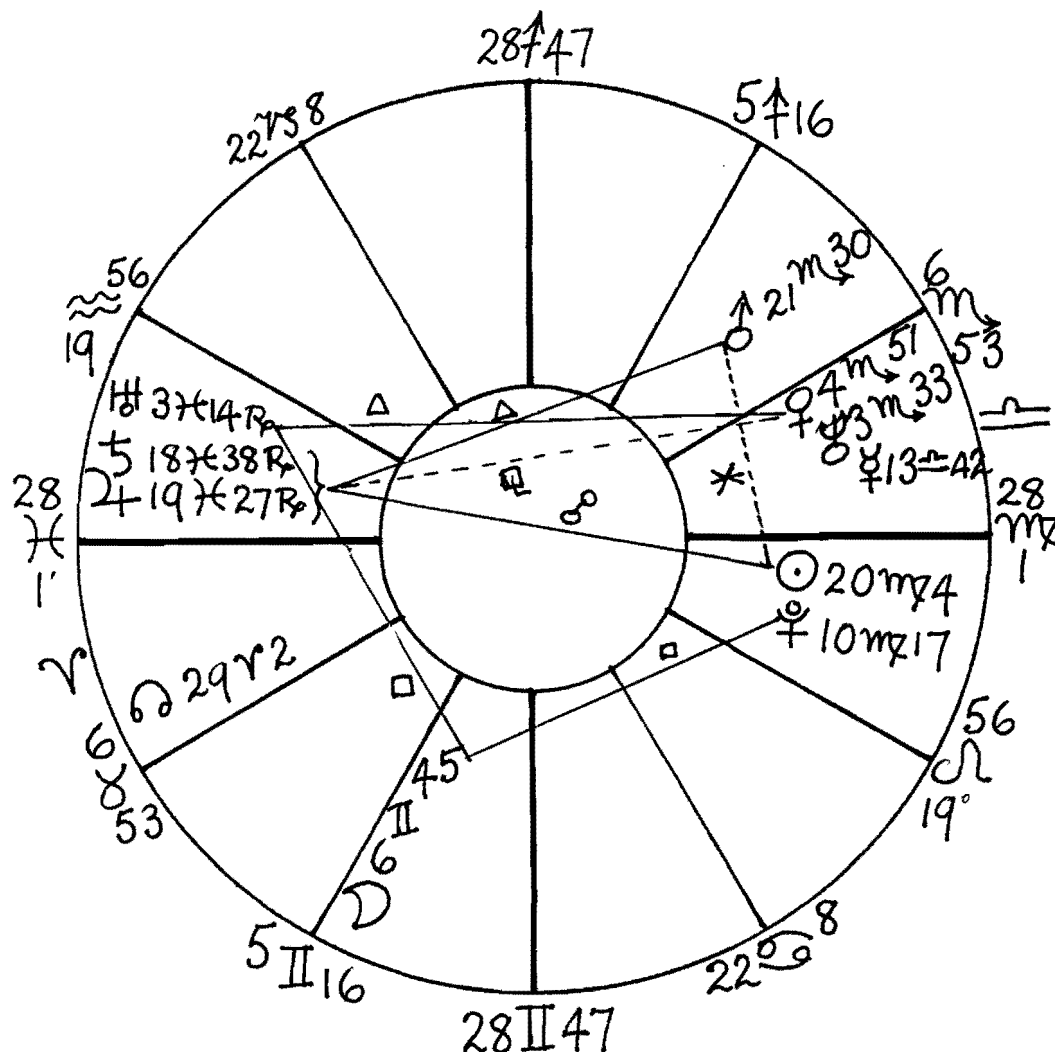

Rudolf starts with the well-founded assumption that the "Star of Bethlehem" was the conjunction of the great planets Jupiter and Saturn, which occurred three times in the year BC 7. For very good reasons, detailed in his article, he selected the conjunction on 15th September 7 BC, which coincides with the date selected by David Hughes on other than astrological grounds. Here is part of the story, in Rudolf's own words:

During the day of the 15th [September] the Sun had been in exact opposition to the "King Star", Jupiter, so at nightfall the perfect moment would be there: just after sunset both Saturn and Jupiter would rise almost simultaneously in the East, that is, on the Ascendant. This celestial phenomenon was therefore of greater astrological significance than the close conjunction of Jupiter and Saturn on 6th October, especially as both planets had taken up positions almost in the centre of the constellation Pisces, that is, in the second Decanate. This second Decanate was specifically associated with Palestine. Moreover, the two planets became stationary in this area, as if to impress the Magi that "here in Palestine your World Ruler has been born".

THE NATAL CHART OF JESUS CHRIST

15TH SEPTEMBER 7 BC, 6:26 PM L.M.T. UT 16:06
BETHLEHEM, 31N43, 35E12. Placidian Cusps.

The Horoscope proposed by Rudolf Smit as a result of his researches and calculations.

Rudolf now called upon specific astrological techniques - Primary Directions, Secondary Progressions, and the Solar Return Chart - to confirm his choice of the birth date, and to establish a time of day for the Event. Quoting Rudolf again:

Progressions, Directions and so on only make sense if there are events available. Well, plenty of events in the life of Jesus, but no dates - with one important exception, though, the day of His Crucifixion. David Hughes' book also provides a clear answer to this burning question, that is, he gives two possible dates for The Crucifixion ... Therefore, I reasoned, if the 15th September 7 BC Chart is indeed Jesus' Chart, and if there is at least some truth in astrological techniques of prediction, then Progressed Charts related to one of the two death dates should unambiguously indicate the most important event in the life of this Man (and in the history of mankind) ...

First of all, I had to establish the Natal Chart, which seemed easy enough, were it not for the fact that the time indication was a bit too flexible - "in the evening" could mean anything between 6 pm and 12 midnight... Although very probably it was the acronychal rising [rising in opposition to the Sun] the Magi were after, which narrowed down the time slot to between 6 and 7 pm, from a research-procedural point of view I felt it necessary to consider a whole range of charts for that evening.

The next problem was the calculation of the charts (and all other charts to follow). Although I had my computer systems at the time, I had not a program available that could calculate highly accurate planetary positions in ancient times. ... It was Neil Michelsen's Astro Computing Services in California that came to the rescue - at a price, of course. Neil Michelsen had added new features to his range of programs, which served my purpose very well. Now his powerful computer could calculate highly accurate charts for ancient times, and moreover, it could also produce Ephemeris sheets for almost any year before Christ.

So I was now able to plan a procedure:

1. Order ten charts for 15th September 7 BC, with a time interval of 30 minutes from 5 pm onwards, for a male born in Bethlehem, Palestine.
2. Determine the one that seems the best fit, and use the others as controls.
3. Order Ephemeris sheets for the months of September and October, to be used for the calculations of Secondary Progressions for the testing of the probable dates of crucifixion.
4. Calculate, with my own computer programs, Primary Directions for these dates.
5. If there is a close fit, then adjust the Natal Chart for a better fit.
6. Order calculations of Solar Returns, based on the natal charts for the birth dates prior to the probable date of crucifixion.
7. Order Ephemeris sheets for the months around the probable death dates, to establish transits and eclipses.
8. If they fit, then make final adjustments.
9. Test other charts that have been proposed, in particular one based on the Urantia book, a very big book of obscure origin, which claims that Jesus was born at noon, 21st August 7 BC.

I could hardly wait for the first charts to arrive. But as usual Astro Computer Services were very prompt, and within a fortnight after sending off data plus cheque to California I had my charts.

The 6:30 pm chart seemed to be the best one to start with. It gave a Pisces Ascendant, with the Jupiter/Saturn conjunction just above the horizon, that is about 10 degrees in Zodiacal longitude. The other charts up until the 10 pm one were less satisfactory. We know of the strong association between Pisces and Christianity, so what could be nicer than that the Founder of Christendom had a Pisces Ascendant?

In the knowledge that the Magi probably saw this constellation as astrologically the most powerful, the 6 pm chart was not suitable, as Saturn and Jupiter were still below the horizon. In the 7 pm chart they had moved up too high in the sky. So the 6:30 pm chart became the basis for further experiments.

Rudolf then lists the following strong features of this 6:30 pm chart, which was subsequently adopted, with only slight modification of the Cusps, as the probable authentic Horoscope of The Nativity:

1. The close conjunction of Jupiter and Saturn, just above the Ascendant.
2. The narrow opposition of this pair to the Sun.
3. The close trine of Mars to Jupiter/Saturn, and the close sextile of Mars to the Sun, Mars "bridging" the opposition between the Sun and Jupiter/Saturn, thus adding positive energy to it. It releases the tension of the opposition in House VIII.

4. Mars in its own Sign, Scorpio, and in its own House (VIII). (Scorpio is ruled by two planets, Pluto and Mars. The latter was the Ruler since ancient times, but has now been replaced by Pluto. Today Pluto is considered the first Ruler, and Mars the Co-Ruler, hence my observation.)

5. The Moon in Gemini, on Cusp III, and in T-Square with Uranus and Pluto.

6. Particularly interesting is the close conjunction of Venus (in detriment in Scorpio) and Neptune on Cusp VIII and in trine aspect to Uranus in XII.

7. The Pisces Ascendant.

"No doubt we can find more interesting positions - notably the totally unsuspected Mercury in Libra - but let us limit ourselves to the seven above."

At this point in his narrative, to give an objective view of the chief features of the Chart, Rudolf does not give his own interpretations but draws them from several standard astrological texts (Charles Carter, Sakoian and Acker, Ebertin and the Netherlands Astrologer, Chandu). It will be readily accepted, without quoting them, that these support the character and life of Jesus as it is known through historical and biblical evidence. But this is insufficient on its own, and Rudolf sought confirmation in other (astrological) ways. The first of these was the momentous discovery of a Solar Eclipse, which accorded with biblical evidence, on March 19th, AD 33, "an exact fortnight away from the supposed date of crucifixion!"

Further, a partial Lunar Eclipse occurred on 3rd April, the presumed date of crucifixion. Moreover, the Solar Eclipse had occurred at 26° 51' of Pisces, which was almost identical with the Ascendant of the 15th-September Chart.

Following this discovery, Rudolf adjusted the Ascendant to 28 Pisces, which meant a birth time of 6:26 pm local mean time, a Universal Time of 18:06.

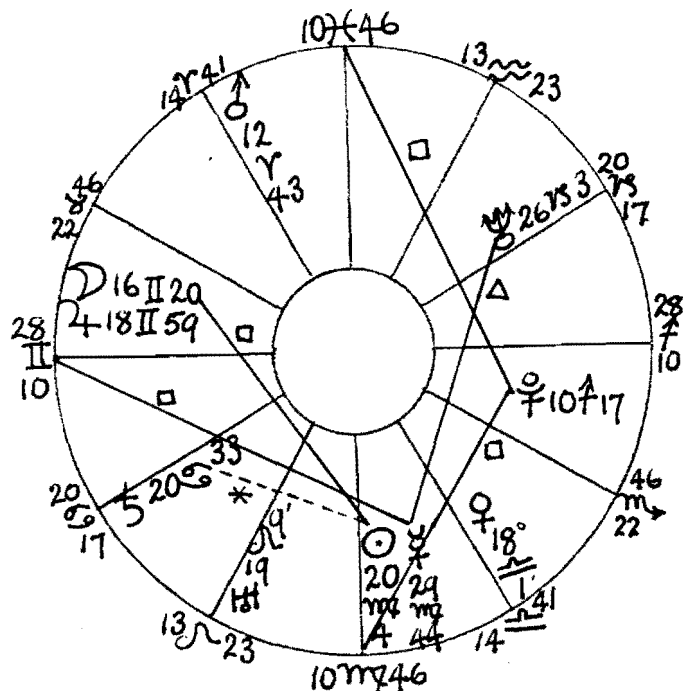

Then followed Diurnal Charts for 19th March AD 33 (the date of the Solar Eclipse) and 3rd April AD 33 (the presumed date of the crucifixion). In the first instance the Diurnal Ascendant fell on the Solar Eclipse position, 28 Pisces, and in the second the Diurnal Descendant occurred at 11 Libra, the approximate position of the partial Lunar Eclipse.

[A Diurnal Chart can be calculated for any significant day, using the birth time of the Radix. - Ed.]

Encouraged by these additional supports for the basic Chart, Rudolf now calculated Secondary Progressions, Solar-Arc Directions, and Primary Directions (on the P.E.A. system). Only the Solar-Arc Directions failed to produce further supporting evidence.

In the Primary system, Venus and Neptune formed a strong T-Square with the principal configuration in the Radix - the opposition of the Sun to the "Bethlehem's Star" - the conjunction of Jupiter and Saturn. Again, the "Death-Planet", Pluto, ruling the Death House (8th) of the Radix, fell on (Placidian) 8th Cusp. Rudolf makes the point that in the many years that he has been working with Primaries he has found that Placidian Cusps and House Rulerships are very valid indeed.

LABOUR OR LIBERAL?
NSW STATE ELECTION, 19TH MARCH 1988

Whether or not any subsequent investigators confirm his findings, there is no doubt Rudolf Smit has accomplished a remarkable and distinguished piece of astrological research.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock, 21st February 1988.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $15, Australia and Overseas (Surface Air Lifted). Issue 78 19th January 1988.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

STOCK MARKET WARNING

In last month's Issue, the connection was shown between the Jupiter/Neptune Conjunction of 1984 and the October 1987 debacle in the stock and share markets of the Western World. The Third Harmonic and Third Synodic Charts drawn from this Map indicated 1987 as the year when the inflationary bubble would burst, as indeed it did.

The 4th Harmonic, applying to the current year, contains a warning of further difficulties to come. Another stock market collapse is threatened. This is significant for everyone, and particularly for prospective investors.

Map 2, the 4th Harmonic Chart of the Radix, applies to the period from 19th January 1988 to 19th January 1989. It is again set for New York, where the original slide began, but we can be sure that any decline there will be paralleled by stock markets and economic conditions in Australia and elsewhere throughout the world. The Radical Figure (Map 1) is reproduced again for the convenience of readers.

The dangerous connections between the Radix and the 4th Harmonic are:

- (1) h.Pluto at 8 Le 17 opposite r.MC at 7 Aq 57, and
- (2) h.Mars at 17 Le 24 conjunct r.Moon at 15 Le 0.

The Chart itself puts the Jupiter/Neptune conjunction on the Cusp of the 5th House, directly opposed by the Moon and Saturn. This again gives warning that, so far as stocks and shares are concerned, speculation, exaggerated expectations and inflated prices will again meet with disaster. As the Moon in this Chart rules the 9th House, it may well be that either adverse balance of trade figures or the action of overseas investors in selling their holdings en masse will precipitate the market collapse. Uranus square to Mercury in the 5th House indicates a sudden shock in stock exchange operations.

What is the probable date? Harmonic monthly analysis points to early September this year, with further untoward developments in October and November.

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Stock Market Warning	1
Australia 1988	1
Jupiter/Neptune Conjunction and 4th Harmonic	2
Australia Federation Chart and 87th Harmonic	3
Information wanted - Data re child abuse	4

AUSTRALIA 1988

With the above situation in mind, it is time to look also at the prospects for Australia in this our Bicentennial Year. For this purpose I am using the Chart for the Federation of the Australian States on 1st January 1901 at 1:35:42 pm Eastern Standard Time in Centennial Park, Sydney. This is the Chart established by Gwen Stoney from lengthy private research into the historical details (see Astrologers' Forum Issues 70 and 72). It is reproduced on the adjoining page. Another Federation Chart that is often used is the one set for Melbourne at 0-hours EST on 1st January 1901, Asc 7Lib23, MC 4Cn08. In my experience this Figure is less indicative of National events, and I prefer Gwen's Chart.

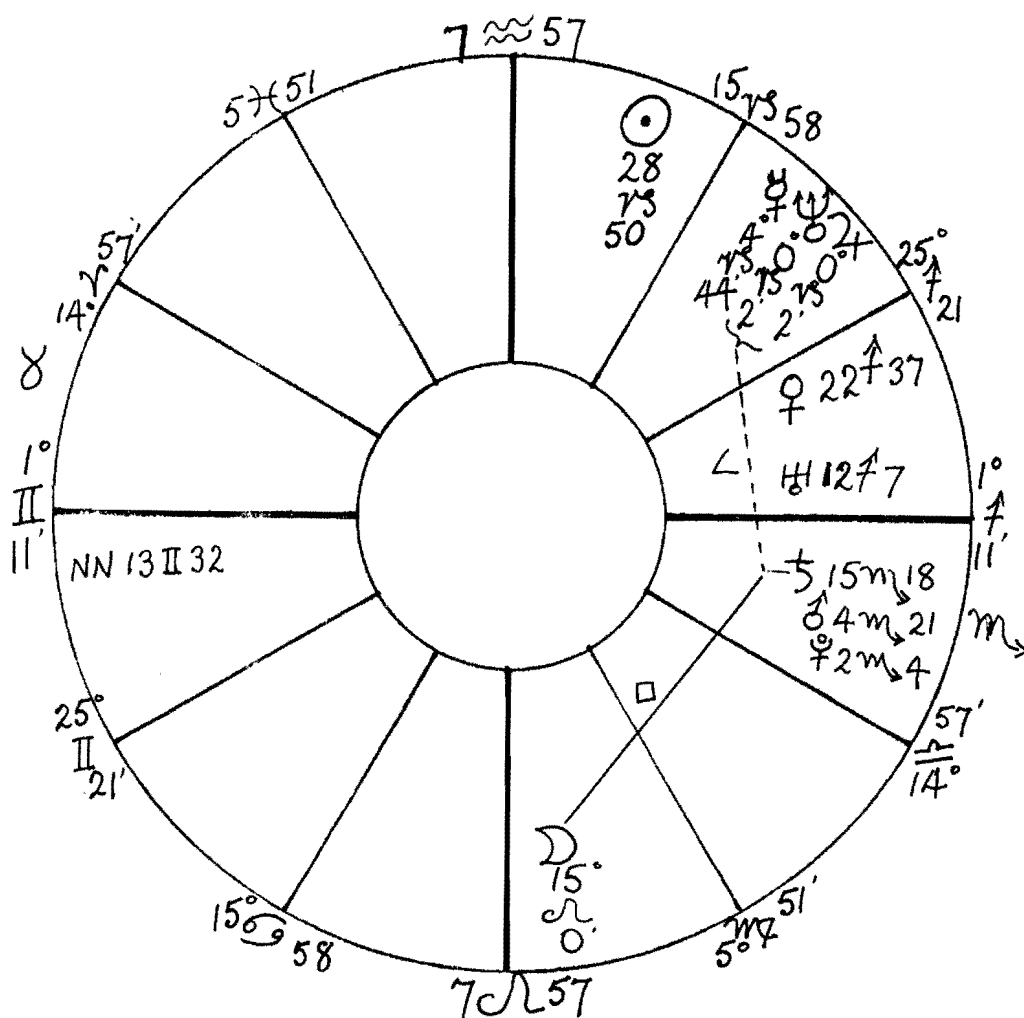

Also displayed is the 87th Harmonic Chart, which applies from 1st January 1988 to 1st January 1989. It is set for Canberra, the centre of operations of the Federal Government, and it gives indications of the main events and circumstances affecting the Nation during the present year. There are a number of important conjunctions, with small orbs, between Significators in this Chart and in the Radix. ("h" = "Harmonic", "r" = Radical):

- 1. h.MC 17Ge48 conjunct r. Pluto 16Ge15: A fundamental shift in Government policy, due to financial pressures (r.Pluto occupies the Money House).

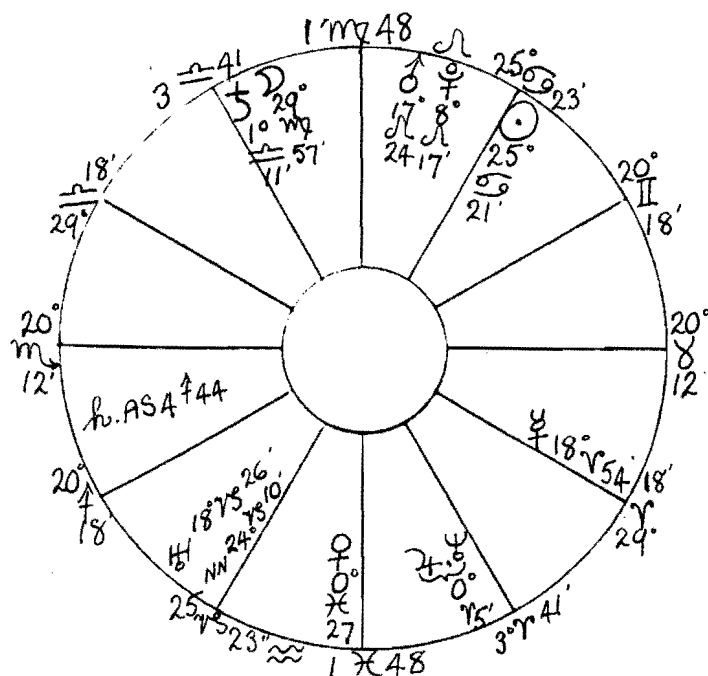

JUPITER/NEPTUNE CONJUNCTION

19TH JAN 1984 AT NEW YORK

73 W 57, 40 N 45. Placidian Cusps.

HARMONIC 4 OF JUPITER/NEPTUNE CHART
Set for NEW YORK from Harmonic MC

2. h.Pluto, 4Vir17, conjunct r.5th Cusp, 5Vir36: Upheaval and uncertainty in the Stock Market, and in speculative ventures generally; no stability. Opposing groups applying pressure in relation to the Education system. Pluto in the Harmonic Figure forms a T-Square with the Sun and the Moon, so its effect is going to be far-reaching and deep-going. Prime Minister Hawke (whose Ruling Planet is Pluto) will find himself in a critical situation, at odds with his own Party as well as contending with powerful political antagonists.

3. h.Uranus, 15Vir38, conjunct r.Mars, 11Vir40, in r.5th House: Militant teachers, sudden strikes of teachers; many accidents at sporting fixtures; more fires in schools.

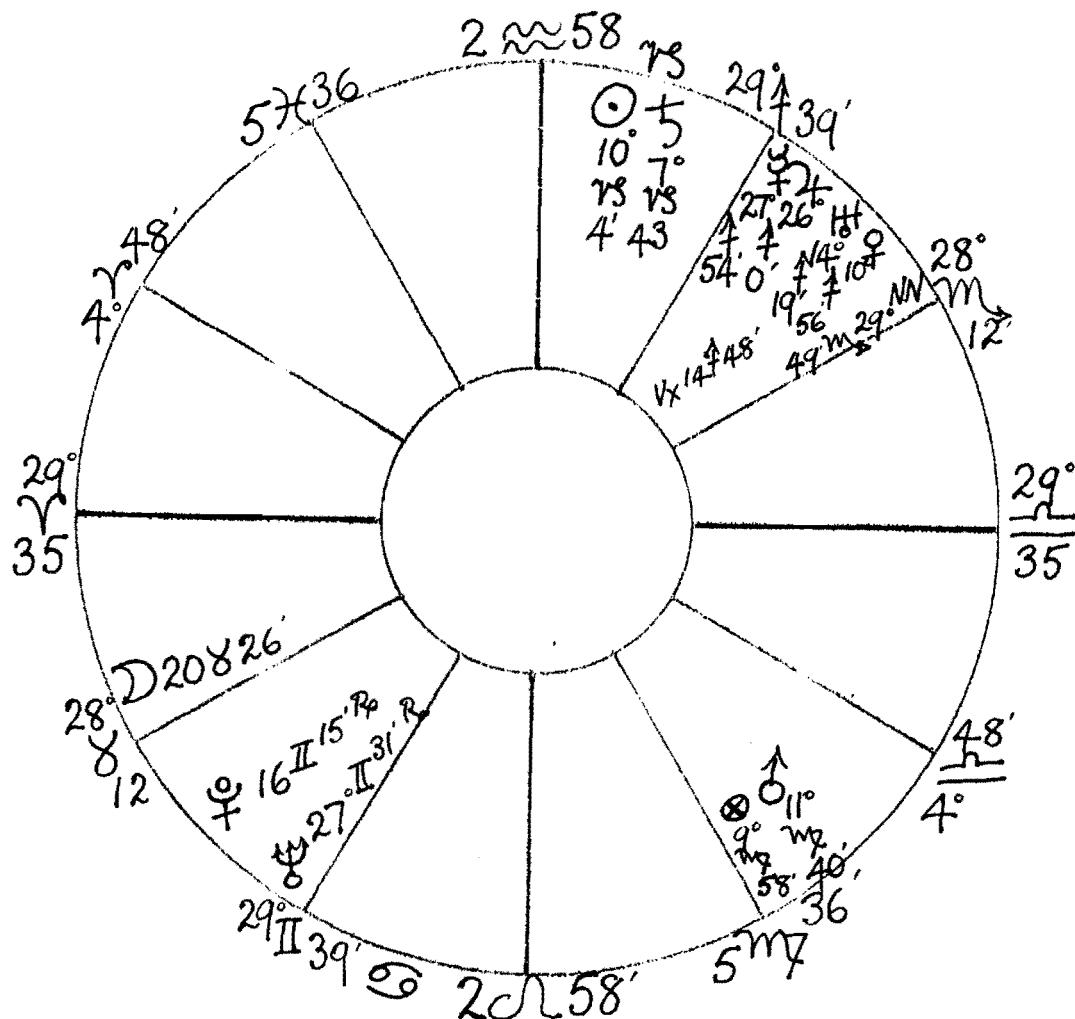

4. h.Mercury, 27Sag47, conjunct r.Mercury, 27Sag54, and Jupiter, 26Sag00, opposite r.Neptune, 27Gem31: This conjunction triggers the Radical opposition of Jupiter and Neptune (in which Mercury already has a part) giving rise to unrealistic and fanci-

AUSTRALIAN FEDERATION

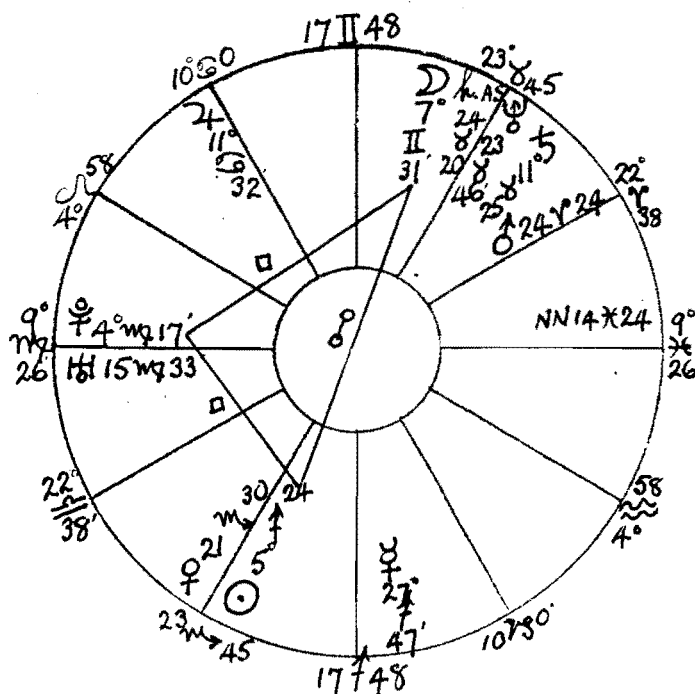

1ST JANUARY 1901

CENTENNIAL PARK, SYDNEY, 151 E 14' 18"

1:35:42 pm EST (UT 3:35:42 am). Placidian Cusps

HARMONIC 87 OF FEDERATION CHART
Set for CANBERRA from Harmonic MC
149 E 13, 33 S 18. Placidian Cusps.

ful expectations. It applies not only to over-sanguine investors in the Stock Market (Mercury rules the r.5th House) but also to the propaganda (Mercury/Jupiter/ Neptune) of politicians and other public figures who will be apt to paint a false picture of burgeoning prosperity for the Nation. We can expect that unrealistic hopes will arise regarding large-scale projects that will never be developed. The activation of Jupiter/Neptune will also inspire huge take-over bids by top financiers. For a time there will be much euphoric enthusiasm regarding "blue-water" sailing (Jupiter/ Neptune), sparked by the passage of the "tall ships" to Australia. An unprecedented number of people will be attracted to lotteries (Jupiter/Neptune) in the vain hope (for most of them) of lifting themselves out of their economic troubles.

5. h.Jupiter, 11Can32, opposite r.Sun, 10Cap04: This indicates a major Government crisis during the year, following over-spending and an adverse trade balance.

The Sun and Jupiter being principally concerned with the Radical 9th House, junketings abroad by politicians will be common - and expensive. Some costly litigation will be handled by the High Court - probably on Constitutional matters.

Pluto and Uranus rising in the Harmonic Chart are indicative of very disturbed conditions generally, with pressure groups and radical elements making a dramatic impact on our society. We can expect wide-spread, determined activity by anti-nuclear groups. Organized crime will be prominent, and under attack, with further graft and corruption being uncovered. For many people there will be changes and transformations in the pattern of living, and the old order of things will be in danger of collapse. Rebellious activities and acts of violence will be common. On the positive side, we can expect great technological development during the year, especially in the application of computers to industry.

The Radical Chart itself is subject to some powerful transits during the year. In mid-February, Saturn and Uranus conjoin at 29Sag55, which is almost exactly on the 9th Cusp and stirring up the Neptune/Jupiter/Mercury opposition. This indicates much dissatisfaction and agitation among the professional classes (doctors, lawyers, academics, etc.), and a breakdown of established forms and procedures. Our international commerce will also be subject to disturbance, and some overseas countries could renege on agreements. At home, we may expect revelations regarding large-scale frauds. The Radical Jupiter/Neptune opposition is indicative of financial swindles, and is consonant with Australia's reputation for having the world's most successful confidence tricksters.

Similar configurations appear again in the last week of June and the third week of October, which will see a resurgence of the same sorts of trouble and difficulty.

In September Uranus will be stationary at 27° 3' of Sagittarius, where it is directly opposed to Radical Neptune on the 3rd Cusp. This points to a chaotic condition in the postal and transport industries, including air transport. We may expect strikes and upheaval, with widespread but irrational discontent. There will also be an increase in the mentally ill, with an outcry regarding lack of adequate care for them.

In mid-September Neptune is stationary at 7Cap25, which is within 18' of an exact conjunction with Radical Saturn. This seems to indicate a phase of dissolution of old ideas and standards, together with a chaotic situation in our tertiary institutions and a drift to socialistic ideals. A public scandal concerning members of the professional classes is probable.

The above represents an attempt to interpret the planetary energies operating on Australia during 1988. Prophecy in any field is a risky business, and there is a low success rate in all areas where it is regularly undertaken - economic, medical, social, sporting, etc. - but I believe astrologers should make the attempt to foresee events, and improve their techniques through experience. Astrology is capable of great development in the field of mundane forecasting. Changes and upsets in the economic and social life of the nation affect us all to a greater or less extent. As astrologers, it behoves us to apply ourselves to the task of foreseeing coming conditions and preparing for them. As has been said, "People without vision perish!"

- Dymock.

DATA WANTED - CHILD ABUSE

In view of the increasing number of child abuse cases being reported, astrologers should become aware of the likely indications in the Charts of both perpetrator and victim. It is true that child abuse of a violent, sexual or emotional nature is far more common than many of us previously realized. With astrological knowledge one has a chance to forestall the bad consequences, or at least recognize the existence of the problem and alert the appropriate persons.

I have the data of a number of horrific sexual abuse cases and am looking to identify the relevant astrological factors. Much more information is needed before conclusions can be drawn.

If you are, or have been, personally involved, or have the birth details of any other persons involved in child abuse, whether in the active or passive role, please send the data to me with a short history of the case. Material will be treated as confidential. An analysis of the relevant astrological factors will be a valuable piece of research.

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock, 19th January 1988.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $15, Australia and Overseas (Surface Air Lifted). Issue 77 19th December 1987.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

THE STOCK MARKET CRASH

On Friday, 16th October, there began a slide on the New York Stock Market that soon developed into a rout, unprecedented since the great crash of 1929. Share prices had been rising over a long period to an unreal level, and finally the bubble burst, with drastic results. Some investors incurred paper losses of over 60%. The prices collapse in New York was repeated immediately in share markets throughout the Western world.

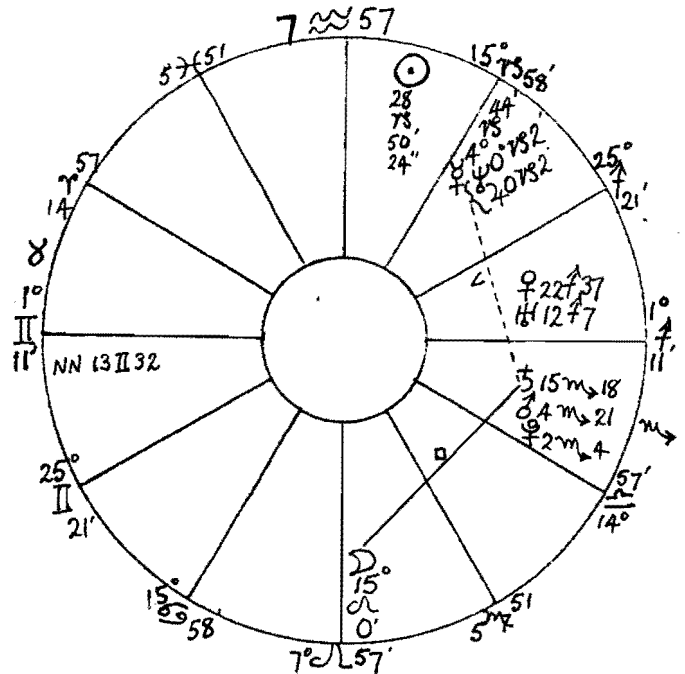

The astrological context of this debacle is a challenging study for the astrologer. It is apparent that a fall of such magnitude cannot be attributed solely, or even mainly, to the vagaries of the Quarterly Solar Ingresses, though these might well provide the trigger that set the slide in motion. A far more potent factor is the combination of the planets Jupiter and Neptune, which last joined forces on the 19th of January 1984, in the 1st degree of Capricorn. Jupiter and Neptune meet every thirteen years, their conjunctions having a far greater impact in relation to the matters they rule than the Solar Ingresses, not only because of the combined power of the two bodies, but also because of the relative infrequency of their meeting. Jupiter is associated with high finance, and with inflationary effects generally, while, in combination with the fantasy and limitlessness of Neptune, share prices reach heights beyond anything produced by the other celestial bodies. The volatile rise in the stock markets over the past few years is typical. The same thing happened with the absurdly inflated and subsequent collapse of the Poseidon Shares in Australia in the 1970's, just after the 1971 conjunction of Jupiter and Neptune in the first degree of Sagittarius. Such unrealistic price levels are bound to suffer a severe reverse in due course as they are not founded on anything solid and durable, but are a product merely of investors' fanciful and over-optimistic thinking - again the outcome of a Jupiter/Neptune combination.

Map 1 is the Chart for the 1984 Conjunction, set for New York, where the

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The Stock Market Crash	1
Exit Sir Joh	3
Astrologers' Forum
Subscription Change	4

Map 1: THE JUPITER/NEPTUNE CONJUNCTION 19TH JANUARY 1984, 17h 44m UT.
New York, 73W57, 40N45. Placidus.

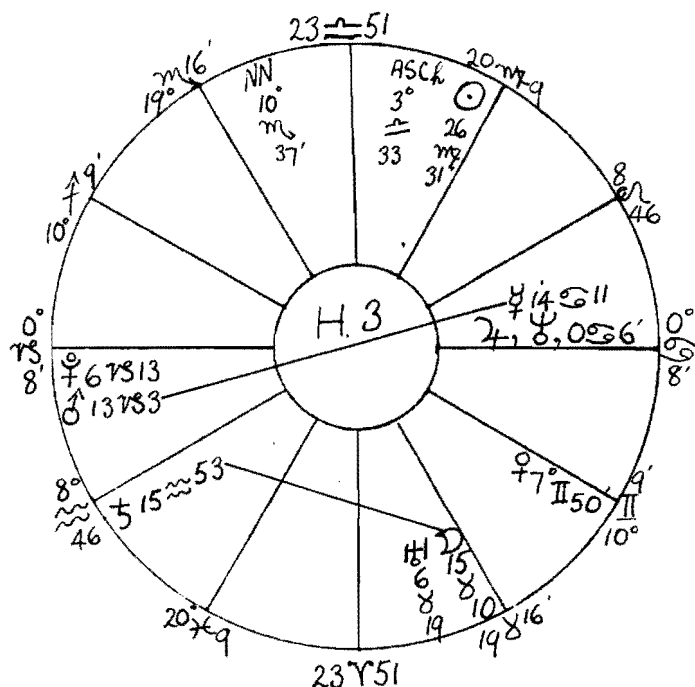

market collapse started. This Chart sets the scene: Neptune and Jupiter are here combined with Mercury (scrip and share certificates) ruling the 5th House (speculation) and the 2nd House (money). We can see that this particular epoch foreshadows a collapse of the things governed or influenced by Jupiter/Neptune, not merely because the place of their conjunction is closely semisquare Saturn, but principally because the Moon, whose applications portend things to come, is at 15° Leo applying closely to the square of Saturn at 15Sc18 - Saturn, the planet of downturns and disaster, in a worldly sense.

The year of the collapse, in the interval before the next Jupiter/Neptune Conjunction in January 1997, is shown by Map 2, which is the "Age" Harmonic No. 3 of the 1984 Jupiter/Neptune Conjunction Chart. It relates to the year from 19th January 1987 - 19th January 1988.

Map 2: 1984 JUPITER/NEPTUNE CONJUNCTION HARMONIC 3

Applicable to the year 19/1/1987-19/1/1988.
Placidian Cusps from Harmonic MC.

To arrive at this Figure, all the Radical factors are converted into absolute degrees from 0° Aries, multiplied by three, and reconverted back to a Zodiacal Sign position. As an example, Jupiter and Neptune in the Radix are at 0 Cp 2, which is 270° 2' in absolute degrees. This multiplied by three gives 810° 6'. We cast out all whole circles (360°) - two, 720° in this case - leaving 90° 6', which reconverts to 0 Cn 6. The whole process is quick and easy with a calculator.

To obtain the House Cusps, multiply the Radical Midheaven, 7 Aq 57 (307° 57') by three and reduce it to a Zodiacal position in the same way. We arrive at 23 Li 51 for the Harmonic MC. From a Table of Houses, or by trigonometry with a calculator, find the Ascendant and intermediate House Cusps relevant to this MC and the latitude of New York. Note that the Harmonic Ascendant (derived from the multiplication of the Radical Ascendant) can appear anywhere in the Chart. It has no essential relation to the Harmonic MC. Its position in the Harmonic Chart is often a useful guide to the circumstances and events foreshadowed.

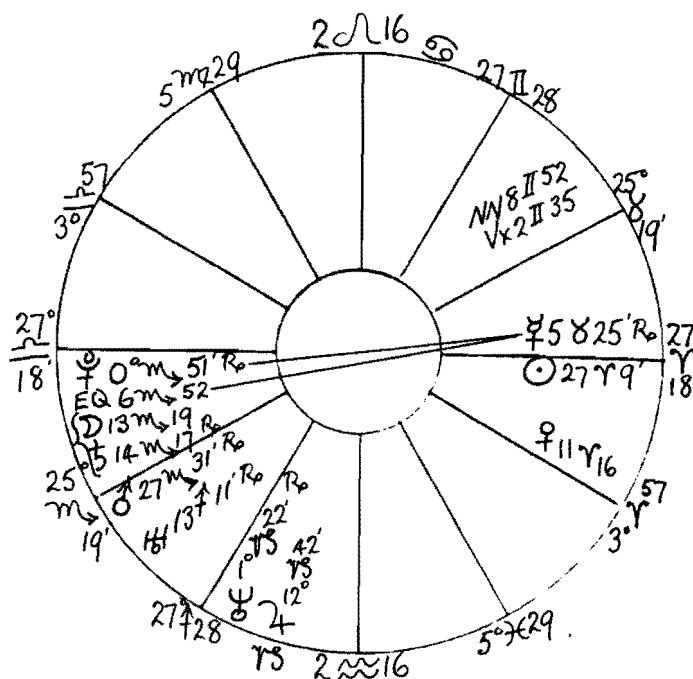

From Map 2 we see immediately that a critical situation has developed with Pluto and Mars rising, the latter opposed to Mercury, and the two principals, Jupiter and Neptune, directly opposed to the Ascendant (orb 2'). The Radical Moon square Saturn is here repeated, with the Moon in the House of Speculation and Saturn in the Money House, precipitating financial collapse. There are correlations also between the Harmonic and the Radical Charts, which will be apparent to readers.

The critical year is shown also by the third Synodic Return (Map 3) derived from the Radix, and applying similarly to the period from 19th Jan 1987 to 19th Jan 1988.

Map 3: 1984 JUPITER/NEPTUNE CONJUNCTION
SYNODIC RETURN NO. 3

(Operates from 19/1/1987 - 19/1/1988)

Ephemeris: 16th April 1984. 23h 32m 48s UT.
New York. Placidus.

The Synodic Return is based on the angle, or Zodiacal distance, between the Sun and the Moon in the Radix, which angle is naturally repeated each month. Each monthly repetition of the angle foreshadows the circumstances of a year, the chart for the third repetition corresponding to the period from the third to the fourth anniversary of the inceptional date. Finding the precise time for the recurrence of the Synodic Angle is a rather tedious process without a programmed calculator or computer.

In our Jupiter/Neptune Radix the angular distance between the Sun and Moon is 196° 9' 35", and in the third month after the inceptional date this angle occurred again at precisely 23h 32m 48s UT. The Chart shows Pluto (upheaval, turmoil, dramatic change) just under the Ascendant in opposition to Mercury (share scrip). Pluto rules the Money House, and Mercury the 9th House (share prices). The Moon is rising in close conjunction with a retrograde Saturn, the two speeding towards one another by mutual application. It is significant that the Moon is separating from the sextile of Jupiter (buoyancy, inflation), representing things past, and applying to the much stronger link of a conjunction with the depressive Saturn. The Moon is Co-Ruler of the 9th House (share prices) through its intercepted Sign Cancer, and its conjunction with Saturn vividly depicts the downturn.

- Dymock.

EXIT SIR JOH

An era of Australian history came to an end when on the 1st of December the Premier of Queensland, Sir Johannes Bjelke-Petersen, resigned his Office, though in fact he was deposed. The most controversial and dynamic of all Australian Premiers, Sir Joh's career was marked by many confrontations and contentious issues. In his 19 years as Premier he became famous - or notorious, depending on one's political point of view - for his toughness and determination, as well as for his unrelenting stance and radical measures against opposition.

Sir Joh assumed Office on the 8th of August 1968. In the course of his Premiership, he aroused much criticism and made many enemies through his numerous controversial decisions, which he implemented nevertheless with uncompromising firmness. In July 1971, he declared a state of emergency to protect the touring South African Springbok rugby team. A mass of protesters were violently handled by the 700 police called out to enforce law and order. When a Labour Senator died in 1975 Sir Joh flagrantly breached convention by refusing to accept the ALP's nominee to fill the vacancy. This helped to bring down the Whitlam Labour Government the same year. In 1977, Sir Joh banned street marches, and hundreds of protesters were arrested. He disregarded the claims of aborigines and the requests of environmentalists, and refused to liberalize the Queensland laws on homosexuality, abortion, prostitution, and poker machines. To particular friends and supporters he dispensed numerous favours of an economic or status nature. He continued to keep in place the worst gerrymander in the Australian political system, by means of which he prolonged his stay in Office.

Possibly the action that aroused most bitterness was Sir Joh's sacking in 1985 of 900 striking electricians, though a large proportion of the electorate supported him in thus refusing to have a public utility sabotaged in the interests of a minority.

SIR JOH BJELKE-PETERSEN, 13th January 1911.

Dannevirke, NZ. 176E07, 40S12.

Given Time 8 am, Rectified time 7:56:55 am.

UT 20h 26m 55s on 12th Jan 1911. Placidus.

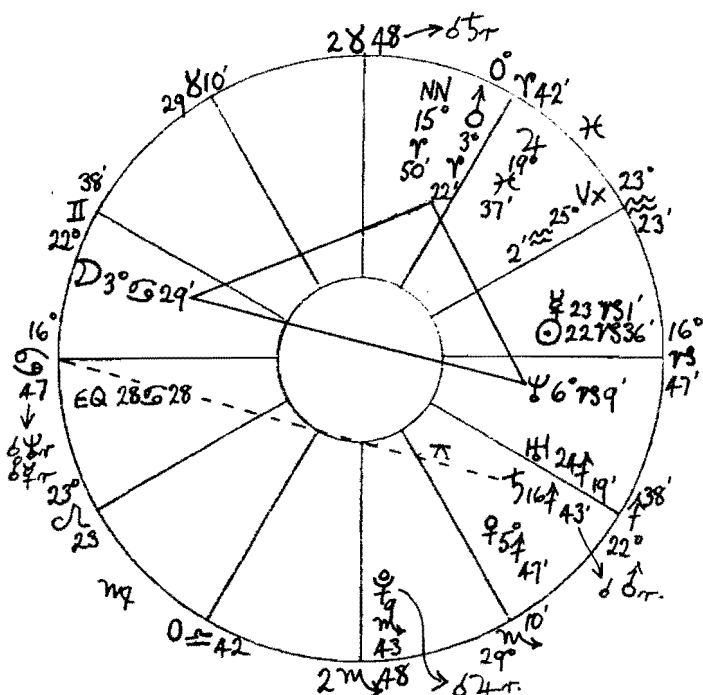

The Horoscope of such a radical is naturally of great interest to astrologers, and it was first published in Issue No. 64 (19th Nov 1986) of this Journal. Here it is again, for the convenience of readers, but what is of primary interest at the moment is the astrological context of Sir Joh's departure from the political scene. The Precessed Solar Return No. 76 has pertinent indications. Firstly, relating the Return Chart to the Radix, we have:

- (1) The Midheaven conj. Natal Saturn (difficulties in career, struggle against odds).
- (2) The Ascendant conj. Natal Neptune and opp. Natal Mercury (self-deception, faulty judgement, prevarication, disappointment).
- (3) Pluto conjunct Natal Jupiter (loss of position and standing).
- (4) Saturn conjunct Natal Mars in the 10th House (difficulties and antagonisms; reversal in career).

The Return Chart itself has Cancer rising, so is ruled by the Moon. The Moon is in the 12th House (misfortunes, self-undoing) in T-Square with Mars and Neptune (strife and disappointment). Saturn is close quincunx

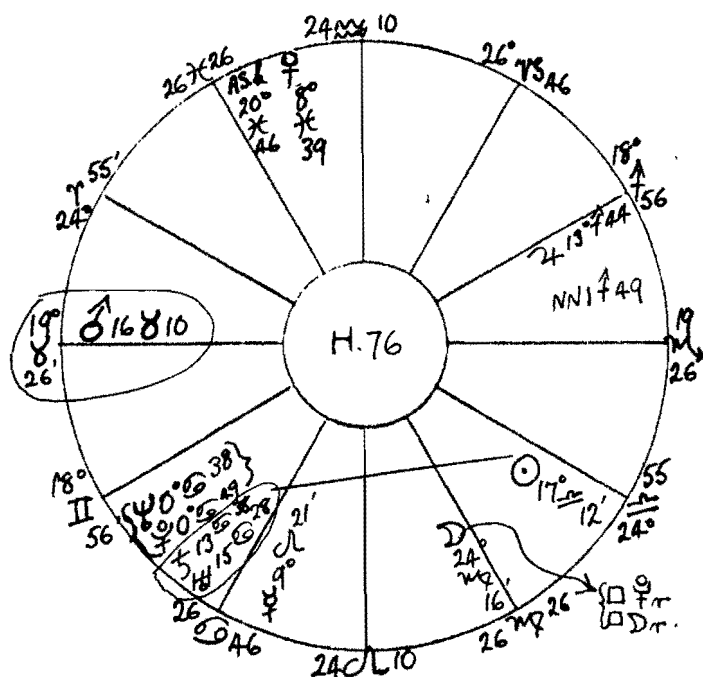

SIR JOH: PRECESSED SOLAR RETURN 76
(13th Jan 1987 - 13th Jan 1988). Brisbane
Precessed Sun 22 Cp 36' 19". Placidus.

the Ascendant (difficulties to surmount).

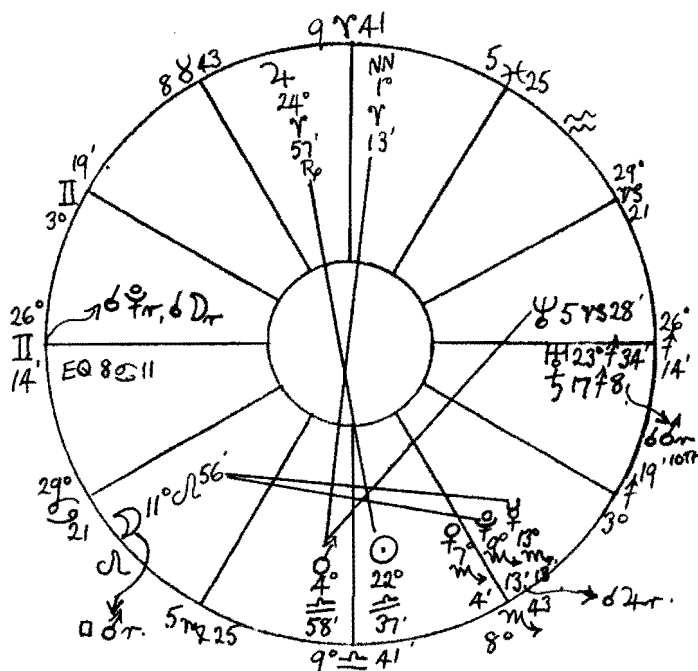

Age Harmonic 76 tells a similar story: Mars on the Ascendant, strife and trouble; the Sun square Saturn and Uranus (sudden, severe reversal); the Moon opposite Harmonic Ascendant (many antagonists).

SIR JOH: AGE HARMONIC 76.
(Applies 13/1/1987-13/1/1988). Brisbane.
Placidian Cusps derived from Harmonic MC.

The Quarterly Solar Return, applying to the period from 16th October 1987 to 13th

SIR JOH: PRECESSED QUARTERLY SOL. RET.
(16/10/1987 - 13/1/1988). Brisbane.
Precessed Sun 22 Cp 37' 00". Placidus.

January 1988, shows this to be a stressful three months. It did, in fact, signal Sir Joh's downfall. The aspects from this Chart to the Radix (as distinct from those of the Annual, 12-months', Chart to the Radix) are the Ascendant in close conjunction with Natal Pluto and quincunx the Midheaven (professional crisis, "fall from the top"), and the Moon square Jupiter in the 9th House (legal conflicts). In the Quarterly Chart itself, the Ruler of the Midheaven, Mars, is squared by an Angular Neptune (loss of position), the Sun opposes Jupiter in the 10th (conflicts and differences related to career), Mars opposes the Moon's North Node (disputation within a group), and the Moon squares Pluto and Venus (disharmony, emotional outbursts, shocks).

Price Change for Astrologers' Forum

After six years of operation at the old price level, some revision has been found necessary to keep this publication on an economic basis, albeit still non-profit. The increase to Australian subscribers is minimal, while those overseas will actually benefit through the adoption of a uniform rate - $15 for everyone. The only disadvantage to overseas readers is that their copy will now be sent "Surface Air Lifted" instead of "Airmail", and may take three weeks to arrive instead of one. The cost saving, relative to the price of Astrologers' Forum is considerable - postage to Europe, for example will be 70c instead of $1. Readers abroad will not suffer through the later arrival of their copy. Contributions from them on matters currently being discussed will still be considered for publication even if they miss the immediately following issue.

Christmas greetings and best wishes to all.

- Dymock, 19th December, 1987.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $12 Australia, $14 New Zealand, $16 Elsewhere (Airmail). Issues 75 & 76 27th October 1987.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

Hindu Astrology

KEVEN BARRETT (NSW), long time student and exponent of Hindu Astrology, has sent a Horary Chart, using the Arabian Parts on the Hindu system. His article, complete with Tables and Charts, is necessarily a long one and, at the same time, other additional material is on hand for publication. All of this could not be accommodated in a single issue of Astrologers' Forum, so I have decided on this occasion to combine two Issues in one, appearing a little later in the month than usual, and covering the two months October and November. The next Issue will be in December.

Keven's Horary Chart is interesting in itself, and also illustrates his methods and gives an insight into the little-explored area (by Western astrologers) of Hindu Astrology. Keven works with the Sidereal Zodiac, but for those who wish to compare it with the more usual Tropical Zodiac the Chart is reproduced here in this format also (without the Arabian Parts). The Zodiacal aspects are the same in both Maps - the planets maintain the same angular distances from one another - but the Signs occupied by the Significators and the House Cusps are different in most cases, and of course that alters the rulerships of the Houses.

HINDU SAHAMAS or ARABIAN PARTS By Keven Barrett

Arabian Parts were not designed to be used in the Natal Chart for delineation - even the "Part of Fortune" - only in Horary work. This statement is true from Hindu and Persian books that quote back to Chaldean times. Many ancient and modern astrologers who have examined Ptolemy's astrological writings against his sources have found errors in the work he copied. Therefore I have not taken any notice of his writings where he mentions Arabian Parts (not to be confused with the Arabians who really only started to gain astronomical and astrological knowledge from around 600 AD).

Remember, these Parts calculated from Natal Charts are useless unless you have an

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Hindu Sahamas (Arabian Parts)	1
Tables of Arabian Parts	3,4
Horary Chart on the Hindu System	4
Charles and Diana's Prenatal Relationship Chart	8

accurate birth time.

It is interesting to note that these old astrologers each compare the other's astrological work, and note where they agree or disagree, even mentioning visiting astrologers or at least their books or verbal communications. In studying the ancient works I found it was hard to tell where the author finished and the translator started. In English translations from the various languages over the past centuries the translator's biased opinions often seemed to be quotations from the author. Translations from the same source often differ, due no doubt to the misunderstanding of the variations of the particular ancient language. The poor reader then starts using wrong techniques, or supposes that the Tropical Zodiac was always used because the translator understood only the Tropical. This occurs even in some Hindu translations.

The old subject of which Zodiac to use will always be debated until astrologers have an extensive data bank of correct observed birth times, and not the usual hospital times, which have been proved to be as much as half an hour out.

Never mind, it seems that every few centuries astrology goes through a dark age but still survives with competent researchers. Unfortunately, some do not understand the old rules, and thus more systems are invented that do not work when tested against correct birth times. Again, some researchers fail to validate astrology because of the technique they use. They expect to find in a natal chart a particular trait (such as "introvert" or "extrovert") as determined by a psychological profile, without taking into consideration the chart's behaviour pattern in different life cycles. Most of us have been both types some time in our lives.

The Charts in this article are Hindu Sidereal because I find that the Hindu system is better for major characteristics and destiny cycles, also the old Sign Rulers work much better in the Sidereal Zodiac system for Arabian Parts. I use the Hindu Zodiac with Lahiri's Ayanamsa for the precession of the Equinox.

Even if you use the Tropical system, these Parts are designed for the Sun-to-Saturn rulership of the Houses. In the ancient House system a House extends from 0° to 30° of a Sign - thus our Equal House system. The First House is the Ascendant Sign, and the sensitive point (or House Cusp) in each House is the same as the Ascendant degree. Then, when you calculate Arabian Parts that use House Cusps, you take that degree in the House concerned. The Placidus, Koch and medieval House systems will give you a different result.

No wonder the Tropical astrologers fall by the wayside in Arabian Parts Astrology. The Tropical Zodiac calculation of Arabian Parts will be the same as in the Sidereal Zodiac except where the House Rulership planets are involved - this will change some formulas - and different Tropical House systems will give different results also. What chance has the Western Astrologer of using the Arabian Parts correctly?

Basic Rules

It seems that way back some time BC the Hindus used these Parts, and they were called SAHAMAS. They were used for Horary Charts, Solar and Lunar Returns, World and Nation Ingress Charts and agriculture markets or harvest forecasting. They were never used in natal delineation. The Parts (sensitive points), once calculated, were then assessed whether they would be effective by the strength or weakness of the planets involved in the formula, by their placement and rulership in the chart. Most of the Parts had night and day formulas, and very few astrologers today are aware of this. If the Sun is positioned above the Ascendant/D descendant axis you use the day-birth formula, and if the Sun is below, the night-birth formula. With some Parts the formula is the same for both night and day (shown as D/N in my Table of Parts).

Some Parts are for day or night only (shown as D or N). The other Parts in the Table that do not mention anything have the formula reversed for a night birth and left as is for a day birth, that is, the Table formula $A + B - C$ is the day formula, and $A + C - B$ is the night birth formula for that particular Part.

I am sure the reason why most books today do not mention this fact is that the author has not really studied the subject. Also, only in the Hindu system do you find a further rule from the ancients, and that is, if the Ascendant of the chart is positioned in a Sign between the shortest distance of the degree and Sign of the planet that is added, and the degree and Sign of the one that is subtracted ($B - C$) or ($C - B$) then the sum of the formula remains in that degree and Sign. If the Ascendant is not within the shortest arc then you add 30° to the sum. This may not seem to be important but the Parts are used in aspect to the Natal Chart from Horary/Solar Charts, etc., and I have found that the 30° will result in an aspect more fitting for the event. The orb of aspects to Parts is one degree.

In Event Charts the planets in Houses 1, 4, 7 and 10 aspecting Natal or Horary Parts and planets are more important than the planets aspecting from the other Houses and, naturally, the Event Ascendant, Sun, Moon and Nodes are important no matter where they are positioned.

Generally, when the Parts are calculated for the Horary event or Solar Chart, and they are not aspected by this Chart's planets or especially the Ascendant, then the event will not come to pass. You have to judge the Part's House Sign Ruler and its House position together with the Parts placement in the Hindu Navamsa Chart (9th Harmonic) to forecast whether they will bring good or bad results. Remember all marriages are not made in Heaven, and all debts do not make you poor. The Natal Chart will tell you if such events can be handled by the client in a positive way.

The Rules laid down are many and varied. It is no wonder that today the Parts are not widely used, because very few astrologers have had this information passed on to them. Most of those that have do not share the knowledge because they have had too many failures through not understanding the Rules, so find it best to keep it to themselves and be thought of as an expert.

Table of Parts

The Parts are listed in four columns with the year given for you to see how some Parts changed meaning or lost day and night classification. Blank spaces do not mean that the Part was not used in that era. The translator or the author may have left them out, because all my sources do not give any one nation as the principle source of these Parts - only that they were once widely used.

Sources quoted are the Chaldean, Egyptian, Hindu and Persian, from Neelakantha, Venkatesa, Kesava, Yavana, Ptolemy, Albumassar, Hermes, Alberuni and Bonatti. Most of these authors quote each other, whilst translators misquote them.

The Table lists the Parts in planetary order so, if you have a night-birth formula you can look down the first column, reversing B and C, to see the meaning of that part for a day birth. All these parts are not used at the same time, only those with the meaning pertaining to a question asked.

One Rule not shown on the Table for the Part of Parents or Father, that is, Ascendant + Saturn - Sun, states if "Saturn is under the Sun's ray" Saturn is replaced by Jupiter. Similarly, for the Part of Children, Ascendant + Saturn - Jupiter, Saturn if under the Sun's ray is replaced by Venus.

After six years I still have not proved all the Parts mentioned in the Table to be correct. However the ones in the Hindu Column, and those that remain the same in the several columns, I always use with excellent results.

In my main work I use the sensitive Parts to check birth times (orb 1°) with Solar/Lunar Returns in relation to previous marriages and overseas travel (other than a pleasant holiday), having the Event Chart planets activate the Natal planets and Natal Arabian Parts, then the Event Chart Arabian Parts activated by their own planets. To do this you need the given birth time to be reasonably close, because for every four minutes of birth time the Parts move one degree, and sometimes two degrees, while the Solar Chart hardly moves at all. If any event is shown in a Solar Return then the Lunar Return will show which month the event takes place.

Already most astrologers will have given up, this being too much work, just as they never challenge the given time of birth of their clients but rather waffle on a one-to-one basis, proving the Chart as they go along with the interview, maybe realizing the time is wrong. Much better for our profession if they charged more and spent more time in getting to a correct birth time.

HORARY CHART USING ARABIAN PARTS

Mr A rang me on the 17th March 1987. He asked me could I advise him if a business he was buying would be a safe investment (time, 8:32 pm). I pressed a "hot" key on the computer, and the Chart instantly came up on the screen. I asked Mr. A if he had a partner. He replied, "Yes, my new wife. We both have been married before, and we both were in the same type of business before we met". He went on to say that the type of business caused both of the marriages to break up, and he felt with this wife they would both be happy in partnership in the same type of business.

Remember, he has not asked if the marriage will work, only if the business will be safe. In the Horary Chart you must not look for answers to questions that have not been asked. Neither had he told me the type of business. As he wanted to sign a contract of intent the next day, and was in a hurry for an answer, I asked him to ring back in the morning.

My answer next morning was "Yes, you are not only buying a business but property also, and the business will involve liquids - either a petrol service station, a hotel or similar involvement" (he was buying a hotel) "and you will have to go into debt" (great thinking, KB, anyone can see that without a chart) "and will have to sell your home, or your partner's home, to make up the difference between the bank loan and the purchase price, but there will be no problems with repayments."

I also warned Mr. A that there was some problem with a woman in the business, maybe an existing staff member who would not like the way he runs the business. It turned out to be a woman who probably died in the hotel a long time ago. Mr A saw her many times wandering around when he locked up at night. A television crew went there to do a story, and they ended up getting an unexplained image of a woman on the film - ghost, or a light reflection?

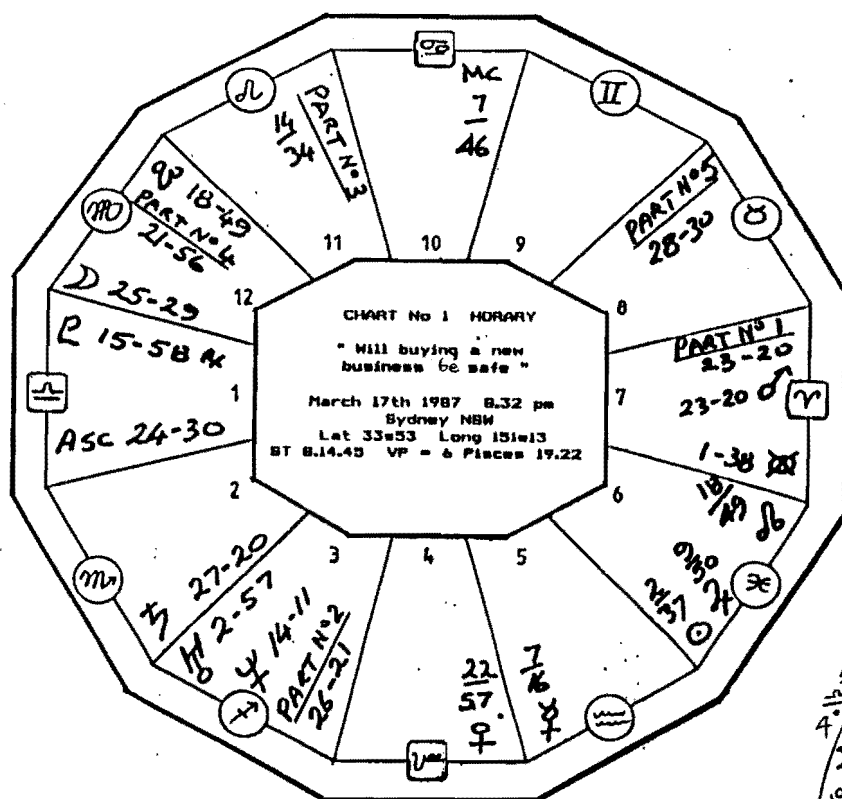

The Charts of Mr. and Mrs. A (No.'s 2 and 3) both have significant planets in Houses 1, 2, 7 and 10, together with House Ruler placement to show they both are going to do well in life, and both have Neptune, the ruler of liquids, in the 7th House

FORMULA	HINDU SAHAMAS	ALBERUNI	GUIDO BONATTI	MODERN BOOKS LISTING
A + B - C	BC to 400 AD	BC to 1000 AD	BC to 1300 AD	of PARTS 1987 AD
Asc + Sun - Moon	Learning	Daemon & Religion	Things to come	Spirit
Asc + Sun - Saturn		Wisdom		Father D/N
Asc + Sun - Neptune				Imprisonment D/N
Asc + Sun - 12th ruler	Prison
Asc + Sun - Fortune				Honorable Acquaintance D
Asc + Sun - Sun ruler			Conquered Captive D
Asc + Moon - Sun	Fortune	Fortune	Fortune	Fortune
Asc + Moon - Venus	Mother	Mother		Mother D/N
Asc + Moon - Mercury	Trade	Slaves	Servants	Servants D/N
Asc + Moon - Mars			King
Asc + Moon - Saturn	Possessions Property	Real Estate	PossessionsKing D/N	InheritProfession D/N
Asc + Moon - Uranus				Friends D/N
Asc + Moon - Moon ruler			Conquered Captive N
Asc + Moon - Moon ruler			Male Children
Asc + Moon - Asc ruler			Killing
Asc + Mercury - Sun				Commerce D/N
Asc + Mercury - Moon	Relatives	Timidity	Religion	Faith D/N
Asc + Mercury - Saturn	Debt Danger	Debt Danger	Money Lenders D/N
Asc + Mercury - Saturn			Occupation Severity
Asc + Venus - Sun	Adultery	Marriage Deception D/N	Marriage of Men D/N	Love D/N
Asc + Venus - Moon		Females D/N	Daughters D/N	Daughters D/N
Asc + Venus - Mercury		Treasure Trove D/N	Collection
Asc + Venus - Mars	Devotion			Plays D/N
Asc + Venus - Saturn		Marriage of Men D/N	Marriage of Men D/N
Asc + Mars - Asc ruler	Ability
Asc + Jupiter - Asc ruler	Ability if Scorpio Asc
Asc + Mars - Sun			Marriage of Women D/N	Passion D/N
Asc + Mars - Moon		Marriage of Women D/N

FORMULA	HINDU SAHAMAS	ALBERUNI	GUIDO BONATTI	MODERN BOOKS LISTING
A + B - C	BC to 400 AD	BC to 1000 AD	BC to 1300 AD	of PARTS 1987 AD
Asc + Mars - Mercury	Action D/N	Reasoning	Imagination Speech	Understanding D/N
Asc + Mars - Mercury		Disease	Infirmities D/N
Asc + Mars - Saturn		Disease & Defects	Accidents Defects	Sickness D/N
Asc + Mars - Saturn	Business
Asc + Jupiter - Fortune	Fame
Asc + Jupiter - Saturn	Brothers D/N	Breth-Death Parents D/N	Breth-Death Parents D/N	Brethren
Asc + Jupiter - Sun				Increase
Asc + Jupiter - Moon	Children		Male Children D/N	Sons D/N
Asc + Jupiter - Mercury	Property	Real Estate	Inheritance
Asc + Jupiter - Mars	Strife	Lawsuits	Contentious	Discord D/N
Asc + Jupiter - Mars		Males D/N	Children
Asc + Jupiter - Fortune	Friends	Success	Happiness Success
Asc + Saturn - Mars	Desire		Soldiers Ministers
Asc + Saturn - Sun	Father/King	Parents	Fathers	Fatality D/N
Asc + Saturn - Venus	Desire	Marriage of Women D/N	CultivationMarriageD/N	Husbandry
Asc + Saturn - Jupiter	Life	Life Children	Life Children
Asc + Uranus - Sun				Catastrophe D/N
Asc + Neptune - Sun				Treachery D/N
Asc + Pluto - Sun				Organization D/N
Asc + Asc - Moon	Disease
Asc + Asc ruler - Moon			Death D/N
Asc + 7th cusp - Venus		Marriage D/N	Marriage	Marriage D/N
Asc + 8th cusp - Moon	Death			Death D/N
Asc + 8th cusp - Mars	Accidental Death
Asc + 8th ruler - Saturn				Peril D/N

: FORMULA	: HINDU SAHMAS	: ALBERUNI	: GUIDO BONATTI	: MODERN BOOK LISTING
: A + B - C	: BC to 400 AD	: BC to 1000 AD	: BC to 1300 AD	: of PARTS 1987 AD
: Asc + 9th cusp - 9th ruler: Foreign Travel	: Journeys	: Long Travel	D/N	: Land Journey D/N
: Asc + 12th cusp - 12th ruler:				: Private Enemies D/N
: Asc + 19 Aries - Sun				: Nobility Honour D
: Asc + 3 Taurus - Moon				: Nobility Honour N
: Asc + 15 Cancer - Saturn: Voyage	: By Water	: By Water		: By Water D/N
: Asc + 10 of 3rd sign - Sun:	: Death of Brother/Sis
: Asc + 2nd cusp - 2nd ruler: Finance	: Property	: Substance	D/N	: Goods D/N
: Asc + Fortune - Sun				: Honorable Acquaintance N
: Asc + Fortune - Saturn	: Imprisonment Restrict	: Prison & Escape		: Losses
: Asc + Fortune - Saturn	: Sudden Advancement			: Sudden Advancement D/N
: Asc + Fortune - Mars	: Greatness	: Daring
: Asc + Fortune - Learning		: Fraud	: Poverty	: Merchandise D/N
: Asc + Fortune - Mars		: Valour & Bravery	: Assistance
: Asc + Learning - Fortune	: Friendship	: Love Stability
: Asc + Learning - Jupiter	: Victory & Aid	: Assistance
: Asc + MC - Sun		: Cause Broth/Sis Death
: Sun + Jupiter - Moon	: Respect Honour
: Mercury + Jupiter - Saturn: Science
: Sun ruler + Saturn - Sun: Success (Day only)
: Moon ruler + Saturn - Moon: Success (Night only)
: 6th cusp + Saturn - Moon: Sorrow
: Mercury + Mars - Saturn: Chronic Disease
: Venus + Jupiter - Fortune: Friend
: Saturn + 8th cusp - Moon: Death	: Death	D/N	: Death

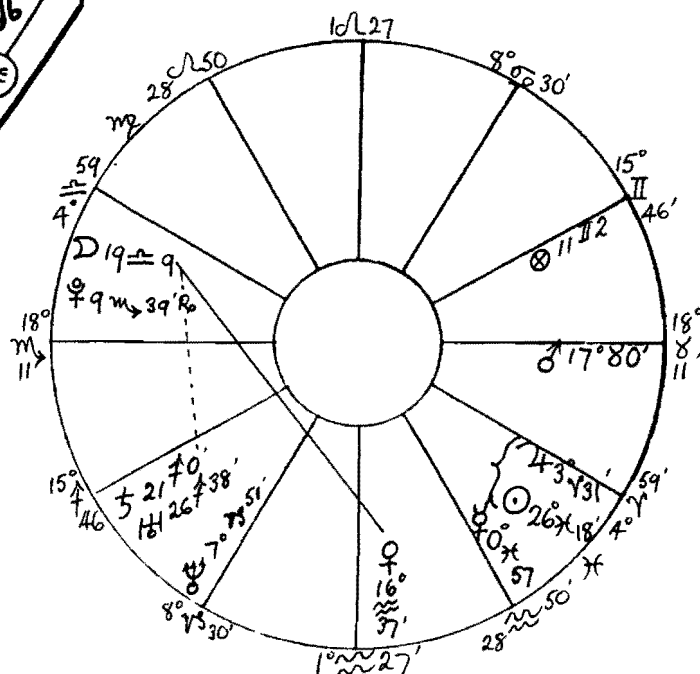

Day birth = Sun position over Asc/Dec. Night birth is Sun below the Asc/Dec. At end of PART description D = day. N = night.
D/N = Formula A + B C is same for day or night birth. All other PARTS the Day birth is A + B - C. Night birth is A + C - B.

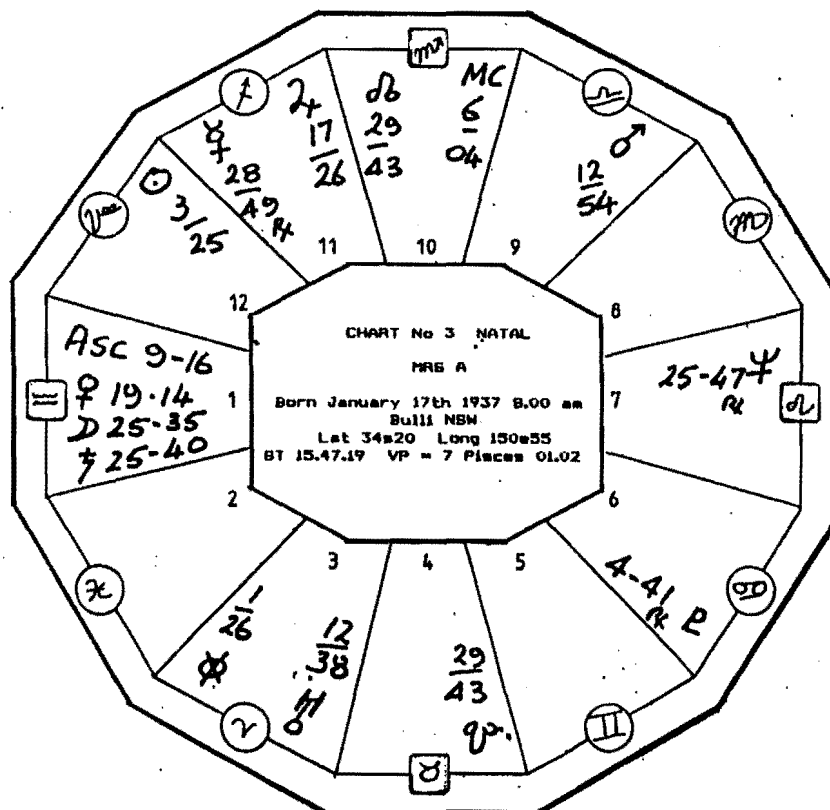

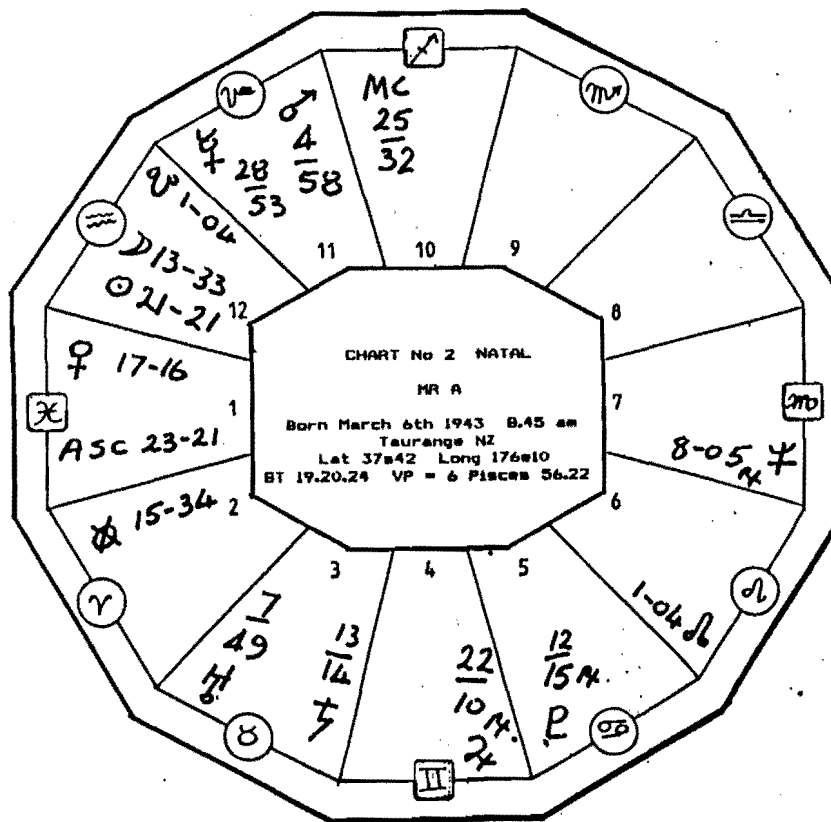

HORARY QN: Will buying a new business be safe? 17th March 1987, 8:32 pm, Sydney, 151 E 13, 33 S 53.

← Hindu Chart (Sidereal)

Tropical Zodiac
(Placidian Cusps)

(Partnership). Also their Hindu Progressed Cycle shows change in direction at this time. Natal Charts of the clients are useful in getting an insight into the people involved with the question.

You can also have fun with the Horary Chart planets aspecting these Natal Charts, and possibly come up with the right answer if you are proficient in Horary Rules. However, you are asking for trouble, as this is not the way to use Horary Charts. It is permissible only in Solar/Lunar Charts and, as said before, only if also these chart Parts are activated by their own planets, before you refer back to the Natal Chart.

In the Horary Chart (No. 1) the Parts that were activated to answer the question were: (1) Finance and Property, (2) Possessions and Property, (3) Debt and Danger, (4) Property, and (5) Business.

Part No. 1, Finance and Property, = Asc + 2nd Cusp - Ruler of 2nd Cusp. This is a night Chart, therefore you have to reverse the formula to Asc + 2nd Cusp Ruler - 2nd Cusp, and the sum is $353^{\circ} 20'$. Then because the 2nd Cusp and Ruler Mars do not have the Ascendant between them in the shortest distance round the Zodiac you add 30° , that is, $383^{\circ} 20'$, or 23 Aries 20.

With the other Parts I will not go through the same procedure. The formulas for these Parts from the Horary night Chart, and their resultant degrees are:

Part No. 2, Possessions and Property, = Asc + Saturn - Moon (26 Sag 21).

Part No. 3, Debt and Danger, = Asc + Saturn - Mercury (14 Leo 34).

Part No. 4, Property = Asc + Mercury - Jupiter (21 Vir 56).

Part No. 5, Business, = Asc + Saturn - Mars (28 Tau 30).

An orb of 1° is used for the Parts in Horary Chart aspects, and with the other Charts as well. Where planets from one chart aspect another chart's planets and Parts, a 1° orb is also used. For doubtful birth times allow maybe a 2° orb, but be careful.

The Horary Chart No. 1 has only the following close aspects: Sun square Uranus, Venus square Mars, and Mars opposite the Ascendant. Over all it is not so negative as to answer "No" to the question. This Chart is about a partnership, whereby the 7th House becomes the 1st House, and the 4th House is now the derived 10th House. The Chart is read as if the 7th Cusp (Aries) is the Ascendant.

First of all, one Part pertaining to the question must be activated by the Ascendant or, if not, then by one of the planets.

This means then that the question is a little more difficult to answer. Part No. 1 (Finance and Property) conjuncts the new Ascendant and its House Ruler, Mars, (it would not have done so if the 30° were not added) and the Part of Fortune is here also, giving the Chart more power.

Already it seems OK, even with Venus in the 10th, Ruler of the derived 2nd and 7th Houses, squaring Part No. 1 - nothing is ever easy in life - and here we have planets and Parts activating the essential Houses. I will not go into great detail with the delineation as I expect those reading this to be proficient in astrological basic interpretation.

Next is the 2nd-House Taurus for their own finances. Its Ruler is in the derived 10th (the business) and also rules the derived 7th House. Part No. 5 (Business) is placed here, and is in opposition to Saturn (the bank) in the derived 8th (money from others - debt), and Part No. 3 (Debt and Danger) is in the derived 5th House (a loan is needed and granted). Neptune trines this Part from the derived 9th House, and there is nothing wrong with that aspect. Saturn also has a 30° aspect to Part No. 2 which, in turn, is square the Moon in the derived 6th House (someone else's property is involved, probably the wife's). If you must use Pluto, then it sextiles from the derived 7th to the derived 9th to Part No. 2 also. Outer planets were known by the ancients, and even their approximate position, but are not necessary in Horary Charts, and I have found they can confuse the issue. Personal planets for personal questions.

As property is involved - will they need their own home for collateral? - look to the derived 4th House. Its Ruler, the Moon, is placed in the derived 6th with Part No. 4 (Property). The Moon squares Part No. 2 (Possessions and Property) in the derived 9th, and so this formula's planets, Mercury and Jupiter, are involved with the derived 9th, 6th/12th and 11th Houses in rulership or placement. This means that their property could be sold or have restrictions placed upon it, like a mortgage, and as Mercury is in the derived 11th House (gains) either way it will not be a disadvantage to the question, or indeed the new business. (The wife's property was sold, and Mr. A's used for collateral.)

The Moon in the derived 6th House with the South Node gave the statement that a woman from the past, or in the existing business could cause some problems (Moon sextile Saturn).

What I have tried to do with the above is to show you a section, if only a small one, of the Arabian Parts technique, and what I have found in researching them - especially the day and night rules - that may help you in your own work. Start with the Part of Fortune in your own Chart as it may change in degree and House placement, then see if in your work you get more consistent results with the new position.

CHARLES AND DIANA

Readers who have purchased Alexander Marr's book, PREDICTION III will recall his "New Partner-Horoscope" - a technique Marr advocated for assessing the compatibility and potentials of any partnership including, of course, a marriage. Marr wrote the following in his book, "This method has been tested by the writer with more than 200 examples. It may be regarded as an adequate complement to the traditional comparison of two Radix horoscopes...As distinct from the usual Radix - Radix interpretation, where the mutual aspects have to be analyzed, the Partner-Horoscope not only allows an evaluation of mutual aspects but also has to be regarded as an independent self-contained Horoscope. Charts of this kind permit the astrologer to evaluate the output of the partnership. The Partner-Horoscope is the product of both participants and it always has a lot to show as regards good or poor chances for the future."

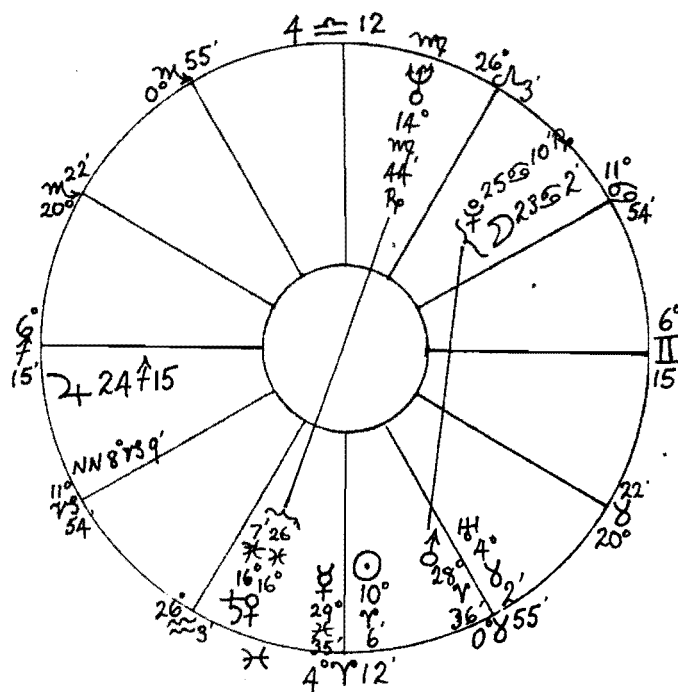

Briefly, the method is to erect a chart for the older partner's birth date and time reduced by the difference in age of the two people concerned. The difference must be worked out precisely to minutes and seconds. The time calculation (birth time of the older partner deducted from the birth time of the younger) can be handled simply, but the dates have to be converted into day-numbers and reconverted at the conclusion of the operation to year, month and day. For this purpose one can make use of the Julian Day Numbers given in Marr's PREDICTION I, or in THE AMERICAN EPHEMERIS for the 20th CENTURY. When you are subtracting the hours, minutes and seconds of the earlier birth day from the later birth day (to find the period to be deducted in turn from the earlier birthday) you will sometimes need to "borrow" 24 hours, and then you must reduce the later birth day by one day before continuing the operation.

The above leads up to a "New Partner-Horoscope" Chart of Prince Charles and Lady Diana, which I have received from ROSS HARVEY (NSW). I prefer to designate this type of figure a PRENATAL RELATIONSHIP CHART, as being more truly descriptive of its nature. It is given below, and here are Ross's comments:

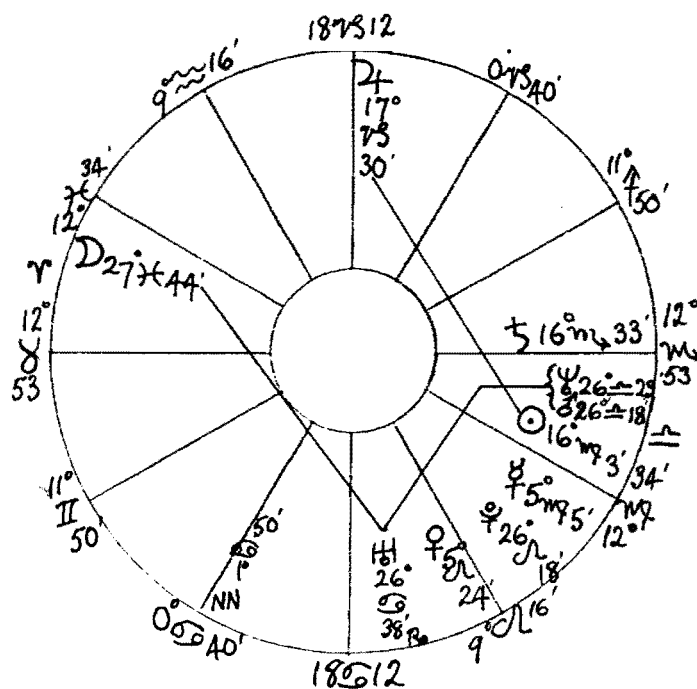

"This Chart seems to me to be considerably more relevant than either conventional synastry or the Composite Chart. Indeed it says it all, if one considers that there is a considerable difference in their ages (nearly twelve years) and in their interests - his are artistic and intellectual, her's seem to be limited to pop music and dancing - a recipe for disaster. The Partner Chart has Venus conjunct Saturn and opposite Neptune, and the Moon conjunct Pluto and square Mars. These two should never have married."

My experience with Prenatal Relationship Charts agrees with that of Ross. As a matter of interest I append also the more generally known Composite Chart of Charles and Diana. This Chart is indeed more favourable to the union, Jupiter being dominant, conjunct the Midheaven, trine the Sun and sextile

PRINCE CHARLES/PRINCESS DIANA PRENATAL RELATIONSHIP CHART 30th March 1936, UT 23h43m07s, London 00 W 6, 51 N 31. Placidian Cusps.

COMPOSITE CHART

Saturn in the Marriage House. This indicates a good public image and prestige for the royal couple but for the situation on the domestic front we look more to the Moon's aspects and the 4th House. Here, the Moon rules the 4th Sector, and its quincunx to Pluto is disquieting. Uranus is in the 4th, and major differences are indicated by its very close squares to Mars and Neptune. The Moon's trine to Uranus does not increase domestic harmony. It is probable that for the sake of their public image the union will be maintained but domestic differences, tension and private emotional outbursts will increase with the years.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock, 23rd October 1987.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $12 Australia, $14 New Zealand, $16 Elsewhere (Airmail). Issue 74 19th September 1987.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

THOSE ANNUAL CHARTS

One of the many perplexities that beset the keen astrological student is which of the many varieties of Annual Horoscopes should be given precedence. That is, which is the most indicative of the feelings, mentality, activities, circumstances, events and people affecting the native during the twelve months of the Chart's operation. Just think of all the possibilities: We have -

(1) The STANDARD SOLAR RETURN CHART, which is calculated for the moment the Sun returns to the Zodiacal degree, minute and second shown in the Radix. This Chart can be set for either

(a) the place of birth, as favoured by many,

(b) the place of residence, which I personally have found very effective,

(c) the place where the native happens to be at the time of the Return, as advocated by Alexandre Volguine in his book, The Technique of Solar Returns,

(d) the place of the native's main centre of operation (which could be far distant from the place of residence, as with politicians who live in different towns but work in the Capital City). This is a logical choice, akin to Relocation of the Birth Horoscope.

(e) the place to which the native removes during the year (if he/she does). A logical extension of (d).

That makes a total of five separate charts. In all of them the planets would hold identical positions in the Zodiac but could occupy radically different Houses and have different Mundane strengths. The difference is most noticeable between the chart for the residence and the chart for the birth place of people who come from abroad.

(2) THE PRECESSED SOLAR RETURN CHART, which is calculated the same way as the Standard Return except that the amount of the precession of the Vernal Point since the native's birth is added to the Zodiacal position of the Radical Sun, and this increased Zodiacal reading is treated then as the Radical position of the Sun. The

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Those Annual Charts	1
Princess Diana: Birth Chart	2
Diana's Standard S.R. and Harmonic Chart for Age 20	3
Progressive Precessed SR 20	4

theory behind the use of Precession in this way is that the Precessed Sun is actually the true position of the Luminary considered in relation to the backdrop of the fixed stars. On the other hand, the Standard Solar Returns place the Sun always at exactly the same distance from the (moving) Vernal Point. So there is a raison d'être for both systems and no convincing argument to positively establish one over the other. We have to rely on practical testing. Here, again, there can be five different Charts, as in (1). The possible total is now ten Charts.

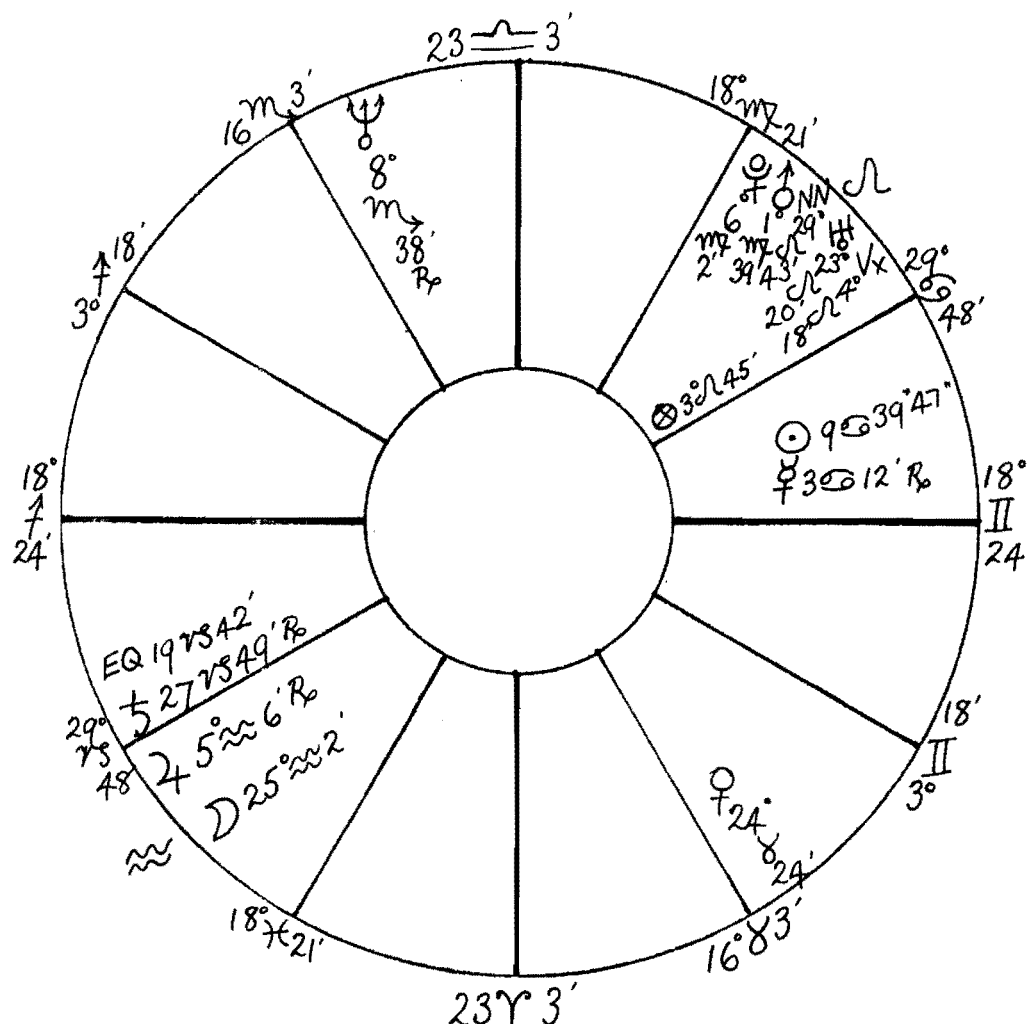

(3) THE PROGRESSIVE SOLAR RETURN, set for the time in the current year when the Sun transits its PROGRESSED position. Again it might be set for five different locations. This Chart, with the geographic coordinates of the place of RESIDENCE, I found singularly clear and definite in one of the critical incidents of my own life. The possible total now is fifteen charts.

(4) THE PRECESSED PROGRESSIVE SOLAR RETURN. Logic suggests that if precession is valid for the normal Solar Return, then it is also valid for the Progressive variety. The Precession in this case would be taken from some days after birth when, on the day-for-a-year system, the Sun reaches its Progressed position corresponding to the age of the native. Here are another five possible charts, raising the running total to twenty.

(5) THE PRENATAL SOLAR RETURN: Instead of
(continued on page 4)

LADY DIANA, PRINCESS OF WALES

1ST JULY 1961, 7:45 PM SUMMER TIME, SANDRINGHAM, ENGLAND
 UT 18:45 on 1/7/1961. Placidian Cusps

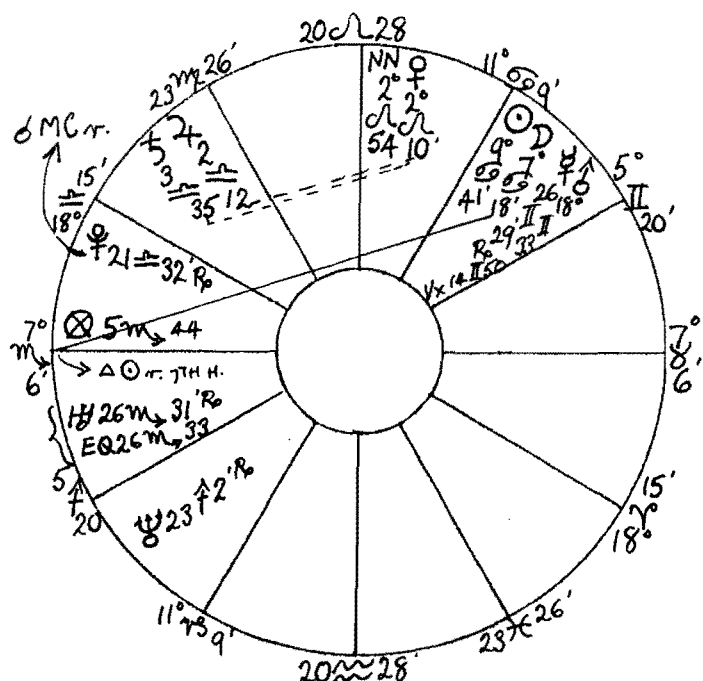

Lady Diana's elevation to her present position (with the likelihood of going still further) is not easily seen from the Chart. Certainly Sagittarius is a "lucky" Sign but not to this extent without something more precise and definite. That "something" comes to light when we examine the Midpoints: The midpoint of SUN/JUPITER at 22° 23' of Aries/Libra, closely conjunct the MIDHEAVEN, explains the mystery.

At the time of her marriage to Prince Charles on 29th July 1981 Pluto was practically stationary at 21 Li 45, and therefore conjunct both the Natal Midheaven and the Sun/Jupiter midpoint.

In the Secondary System, the Moon progressed to a trine of the Sun on the 5th of August, which tallies with the event, but would it be sufficient (on its own) to forecast marriage? By Converse Direction (disregarded by some astrologers) Regressed Venus squared Jupiter (Diana's Natal Ruler) on the 17th of July. This adds weight to the Moon/Sun trine. The square is not necessarily disadvantageous but indicates a much increased feeling of love and happiness.

PRINCESS DIANA: STANDARD SOLAR RETURN 20,
14h 53m 36s on 1/7/1981.
Natal Sun 9 Cn 39' 47".
London, 00 W 06, 51 N 31. Placidus.
Current from 1/7/1981-1/7/1982.

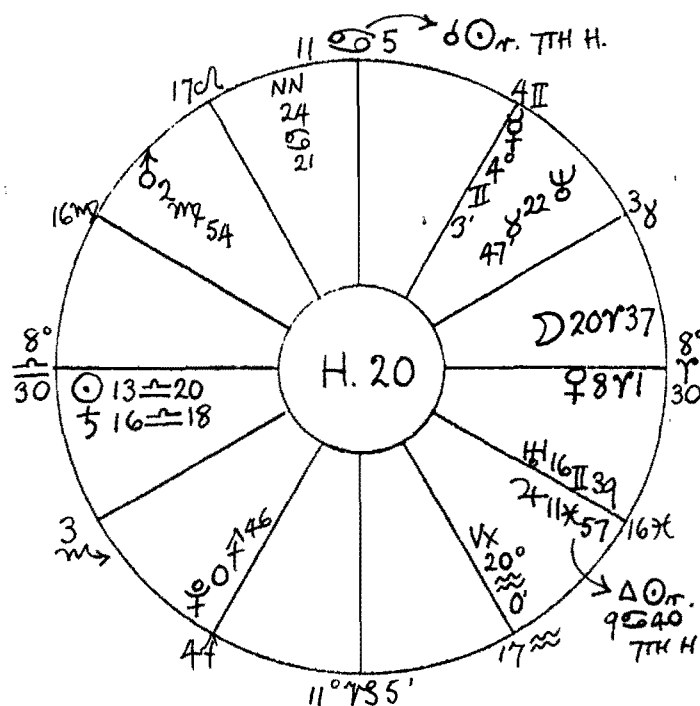

The Ascendant at 7 Sc 6 is conjunct Natal Neptune, and trines the Natal Sun at 9 Cn 40. Neptune sensitizes Diana's feelings, and the Sun directs them towards a husband. Uranus rising conjunct the EQ (Equatorial Ascendant) is indicative of a change in circumstances, particularly as in the Radix Uranus is powerfully configured with both the Moon and Venus. In addition, the S.R. Midheaven falls on Natal Uranus, indicating a turning point in Diana's life.

Pluto falls on the Natal Midheaven, indicating a radical change in worldly position and status. The conjunction of the Sun and Moon falls in the Natal House of Marriage and trines the S.R. Ascendant. Venus, elevated and ruling the S.R. Marriage House, is in a close sextile with Jupiter (Diana's Ruler) and Saturn, indicating both aroused and stabilized affections.

Prince William's birth could be deduced from the sextile of Venus to Jupiter, traditional Ruler of the 5th House (Pisces on the Cusp), Venus occupying the Natal House of Children.

The Standard Solar Return in this instance is a more potent indicator of the events than the Precessed Return (not reproduced).

PRINCESS DIANA: AGE HARMONIC 20
London, 00 W 06, 51 N 31. Placidus.
Current from 1/7/1981-1/7/1982.

This Chart, which bears no relation to either current or progressed Zodiacal positions, but is simply the result of multiplying the original significators by 20, is yet surprising in its aptness. Libra rises, and Venus, its Ruler, is closely conjunct the Cusp of Marriage. Venus is also square the Natal Sun. The square in these Age Harmonic Charts does not connote difficulty or obstacles, but merely connection, unless the Significators involved are by nature themselves obstructive, etc.

The Midheaven at 11Cn5 conjoins the Natal Sun (in the Marriage House) at 9Cn40. The Sun, from the Natal Marriage House is rising, conjunct Saturn, indicative of the increased responsibility of Diana's new status. Jupiter, at 11Pi51, trines the Natal Sun (9Cn40). Mercury in the 9th (Legalities) trines the Natal Ruler, Jupiter. Neptune, at 22Ta47 is conjunct Natal Venus (orb less than 2°). These orbs are remarkably close when you consider the multiplication factor (20) applied to each Natal position.

The Cusps in this Chart are derived by using the Harmonic MC and deriving the Ascendant and Intermediate Cusps from it. Other practitioners may use other methods, but this has been the best in my experience.

going forwards from birth we go backwards as many years as the native is old. This technique is not accepted by all astrologers but considered valid by others. Again, another five possible locations, giving a total of twenty-five charts. These Charts also can be precessed, though now the Precession must be deducted from, not added to, the Natal Sun. With Precession the total rises to thirty possible charts.

Fortunately, in practice the choice of possible locations is often reduced to two only - the place of birth, or the place of residence. Or it may even be reduced to one, the native having not moved from the birth place, and pursuing there all the essential features of his/her life. This lightens the astrologer's task, but does not resolve the problem. Even if we omit the controversial PRENATAL RETURN, it still leaves a choice of STANDARD, PRECESSED or PROGRESSIVE CHARTS. Classifying the several figures in order of their relative power represents a research project of considerable proportions, even with the use of computer or calculator. These indispensable electronic aids greatly reduce the mechanical work, but the reading and interpretation has to be done by the astrologer, and is the most time-consuming part of the process.

Is the Annual Chart worth all this trouble? Yes, indeed. The astrologer finds in due course that Transits and Secondary Progressions alone are insufficient for prognostic work with any degree of detail. While Progressions and Transits often (though not always) indicate major events, the particular flavour and circumstances of a year are better depicted by the Annual Charts.

The above list of Annual Charts has made no mention of yet another contender for the title of most powerful and indicative horoscope - the ANNUAL SYNODIC RETURN. Each month after birth the Sun and Moon return to the exact angular distance they held in the Natal Chart, and each succeeding month refers to the corresponding year of life, as the 30th month after birth is indicative of the 30th year of life, and so on. Without a calculator or computer it is a tedious process to establish the exact time of the Synodic Return, which is probably the reason for its almost universal neglect.

Still another Annual Chart, a valuable addition to the astrologer's armamentarium, is the AGE HARMONIC. Reference has been made to this technique in a number of previous Issues and, in particular, last

PRINCESS DIANA: PRECESSED PROGRESSIVE SOLAR RETURN 20. 21h 59m 43s UT on 21/7/1981.
London, 00 W 06, 51 N 31. Placidus.
Precessed Progressed Sun, 29 Cn 1' 8".
Current from 21/7/1981-21/7/1982.

The chief feature in this Chart that is both Progressive and Precessed is the Grand Trine of the Moon, Sun and Uranus, indicating major changes. Jupiter, Saturn and Pluto put an emphasis on the Marriage House. Venus conjunct Natal Uranus equates with romance. Jupiter ruling the 10th, closely conjunct Saturn, refers to the enhanced status and responsibility following on marriage to the heir to the Throne. The Sun in the 5th trine to both the Moon and Uranus defines the birth of a son.

last month's Issue which dealt with the murder of Anita Cobby.

My investigations, still continuing, point to the Synodic Return as being one of the best of the Annual Charts, but that is another story for a future edition of Astrologers' Forum.

Over the years I have calculated and studied many scores of Annual Charts in an effort to resolve the problem of which one gives the best results.

My findings? - All of them have some validity and the question is by no means easily answered. At present I favour the PRECESSED RETURN FOR THE PLACE OF RESIDENCE or CENTRE OF OPERATIONS, but when the Chart does not give a clear message I resort to some of the other alternatives for additional information.

The thought has occurred to me that some at present unknown factor decides which of the different techniques is most applicable in a particular instance. Perhaps this will come to light one day.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock, 19/9/1987

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $12 Australia, $14 New Zealand, $16 Elsewhere (Airmail). Issue No. 73 19th August 1987.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

Anita Cobby, 26-year-old nurse and former beauty queen, was gang-raped and murdered in a suburb of Sydney on the 2nd of February 1986. The callous brutality of the attack shocked and horrified all Australia. Anita was subjected to two hours of violence and sexual degradation before her throat was cut by one of her assailants. The five men involved have since been sentenced to life imprisonment.

By courtesy of her parents I have the birth data of Anita, given as 11:50 pm, Crown Street Hospital, Sydney, on 2nd November 1959. This Chart was published in last month's Astrologers' Forum. GWYN STONEY, NSW, has since written to me that she spent many weeks rectifying the Chart by Solar-Arc or the 90°-Wheel, working only from the birth date, which was given to her just after the murder. The time Gwyn arrived at was 11:38:30 pm Eastern Standard Time. Harmonic analysis however supports the time given by the parents. The Chart for Age Harmonic 26 (MAF 2), with the Harmonic MC in its correct position at the Midheaven, shows Pluto conjunct the Ascendant, opposed by Mars, and forming a T-Square with Venus and the Moon, a configuration that tells the story: Pluto/Mars/Venus is specifically associated with brutal assault, rape and murder. Additionally, the Harmonic Sun at 4 Aq 12 falls in the sexual 8th House, trine to the Moon and trine Uranus ruling the 8th.

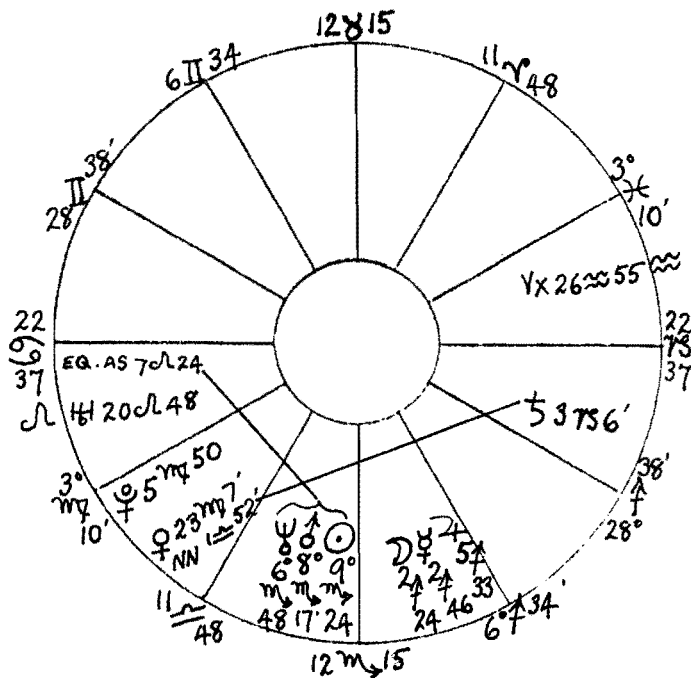

As against this, Harmonic 26 for the birth time proposed by Gwyn gives a Midheaven of 2 Aq 14 and an Ascendant of 28 Ar 59. The MC and Ascendant together with the intermediate Cusps are, of course, the only points that differ materially in the two Harmonic Charts but they alter the House positions altogether: Pluto is no longer conjunct the Ascendant but opposes Mars from the 3rd to the 9th House, which must be considered a much less telling position. However, it is a considerable feat for Gwyn to have come so close to the birth time with only the birth date and the event to work on. The matter is still open, and other readers may care to pursue their own investigations with the two times. In support of her rectified time, Gwyn points out that Venus, directed by Zodiacal Solar-Arc, comes exactly to the

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The Anita Cobby Murder	1
Prince Charles and Lady Diana	3
Request for data on Cot Deaths	4

MAP 1: ANITA COBBY

Born 2nd November 1959, 11:50 pm EST,
Crown Street Hospital, Sydney.
151 E 12' 45", 33 S 53' 10". Placidus.

The Neptune/Mars/Sun conjunction, square to the Equatorial Ascendant threatens life.

square of the Ascendant at the date of the event. Even so, this is more indicative of an inauspicious love than rape and murder.

The Charts reproduced here are derived from the given birth time of 11:50 pm. The Radix is MAP 1. The close conjunction at the terminal 4th Cusp of Neptune, Mars and Sun in the sex Sign Scorpio highlights the danger of the life being terminated by sexual attack. The three bodies are all square to the Equatorial Ascendant (East Point). Confirmation is found among the midpoints of the Significators, notably Pluto square Sun/Saturn 6 Sg 15 (orb 35'), square Venus/Uranus 6 Vi 57 (orb 1° 7'), square Mars/Saturn (orb 9') and square Saturn/Neptune 4 Sg 57 (orb 53').

The first and easily seen warning of danger was the transit of Pluto opposite Neptune and Mars and square to the Equatorial Ascendant - forming a T-Square, and stirring up the potential of the Natal malefics.

A more powerful indication of the danger was the Progressed Sun square Pluto, exact on 28th January 1986, just 5 days before the attack. This was a distinct threat to life - the Sun, the Life Force, afflicted by Pluto, the Destroyer! This Progression of the Sun is, by definition, the same in the Secondary Directional System and the system of Direction by Zodiacal Solar-Arc. In a more enlightened society we can expect that such a potent danger signal will be heeded, and all precautions taken to protect the person concerned from situations that give scope for the malefic action of planets. Astrology does not preach fatalism - it points out dangers in the road-map of life against which we must pit our intelligence, initiative and will. We would not, for instance, allow a woman with this Natal Chart and this Progression to walk unescorted home, whether by day or by night. Hazards are indicated by the planetary configurations, but the outcome is not fated. Dire results can be obviated or minimized by proper counter-measures.

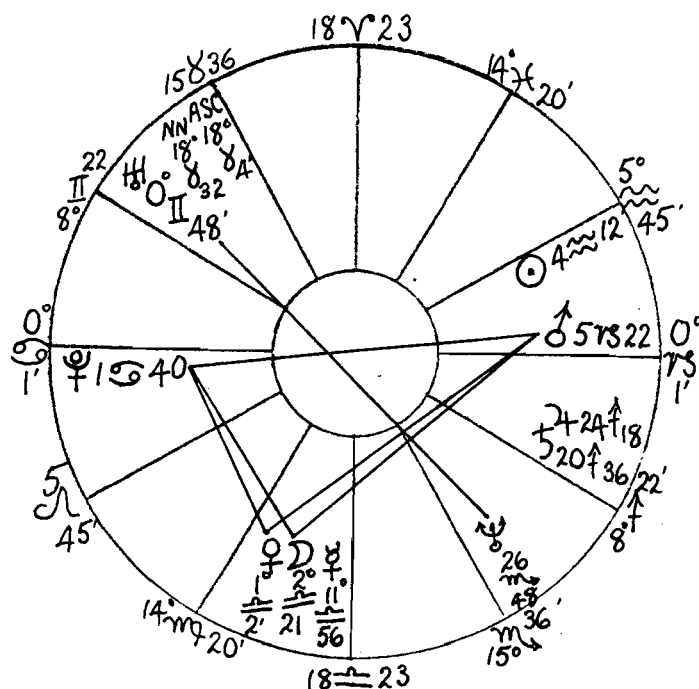

Similar warning was given by Primary Directions, though perhaps less striking in this instance: In the Topocentric System, Moon conjunct Mars (orb 5'), Mercury conjunct Mars (orb 8'), Pluto sextile Uranus (orb 2'). In the Wim van Dam (P.E.A.) system, Uranus came sesquare the Midheaven (semisquare the IC) on 28th January 1986, and Mars square Pluto in August of the same year. This last aspect occurred some six months after the event, but it showed the malefic forces developing.

Various subsidiary Charts also depicted the situation: MAP 2 is the Harmonic Chart for age 26 previously referred to. Its indications are definite and striking, showing that this technique should by no means be neglected.

MAP 3 is the Synodic Return for Age 26 - the 26th time after Anita's birth that the Sun and Moon came to the exact angle that separated them at birth. I have found this type of Chart to be rather more powerful than the Solar Return Charts, which are

MAP 2: AGE HARMONIC 26

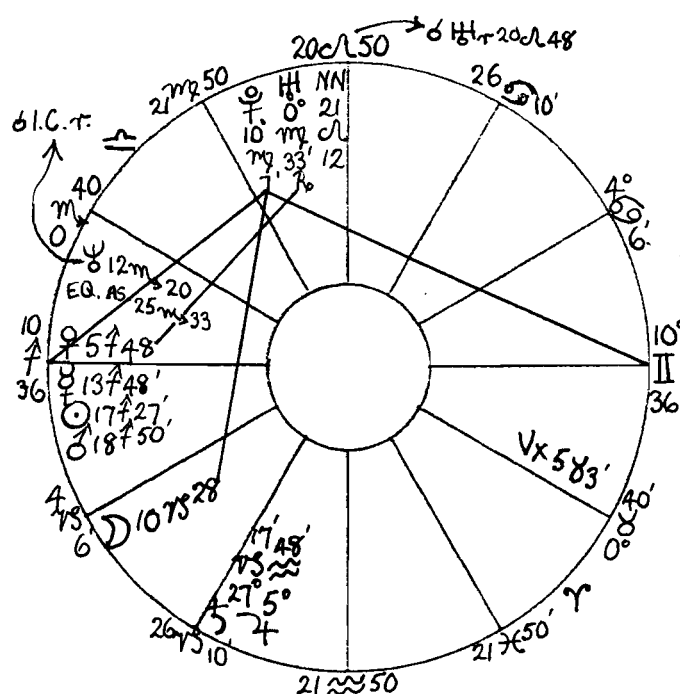

Placidian Cusps, Taken from the Harmonic Midheaven. Place of the death, 150E53'30", 33S48'30".

Pluto conjunct the Ascendant and forming a T-Square with Venus and the Moon = brutal force and sexual attack. Significantly, the Harmonic Sun falls in the House of Death.

MAP 3: SYNODIC RETURN 26

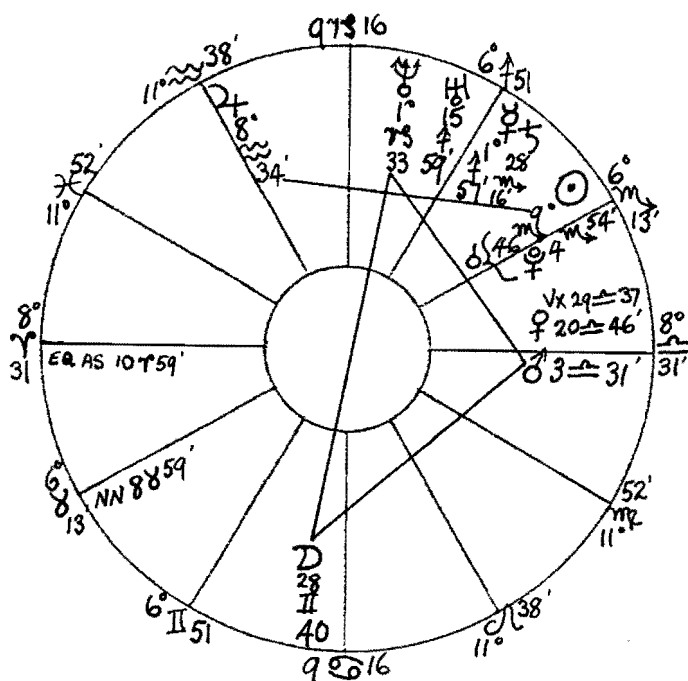

Ephemeris Date 9th December 1961, corresponding to Anita's 26th Year from 2/11/1985-2/11/1986. Natal Sun-Moon angle 23° 0' 20". At Birth Place. Placidus.

Pluto is almost exactly square the East and West points of the Horizon. Mars afflicts the Sun and Mercury, rising. The MC conjunct Natal Uranus (orb 2') and Neptune conjunct the Natal IC (orb 5').

MAP 4: PRECESSED SOLAR RETURN 26
(2/11/1985-2/11/1986). At residence,
150 E 55', 33 S 46'. Placidian Cusps.

MAP 5: MONTHLY PRECESSED SOLAR RETURN

29/1/1986, 23:08:23 UT
Precessed Natal Sun 9 Sc 45' 24"
150 E 55, 33 S 46. Placidian Cusps.

Neptune/Uranus (27Sg50) = MC = square Moon. This Chart pin-points the month.
- Dymock.

themselves very significant. Here Mars is rising, conjunct the Sun and Mercury, though an even more significant factor is the close T-Square of Pluto with both points of the Horizon. Synodic Charts respond to current transits, and to a greater extent than do Solar Return Charts.

MAP 4 is the Precessed Solar return Chart for the final year of Anita's life: Again a significant configuration - a Neptune/Mars/Moon T-Square.

MAP 5 relates to the actual month of Anita's murder - the time in the month when the Sun returned to the degree, minute and second of its precessed position, whatever the Sign. The malefics Uranus and Neptune are elevated and dominant, their midpoint (27 Sg 50) being conjunct the Midheaven and square to the Moon.

STOP PRESS: Mrs Lynch, Anita's mother, has just telephoned me and confirms the birth time at 11:50 pm. This was recorded at the time on Anita's Baby Card. - Dymock.

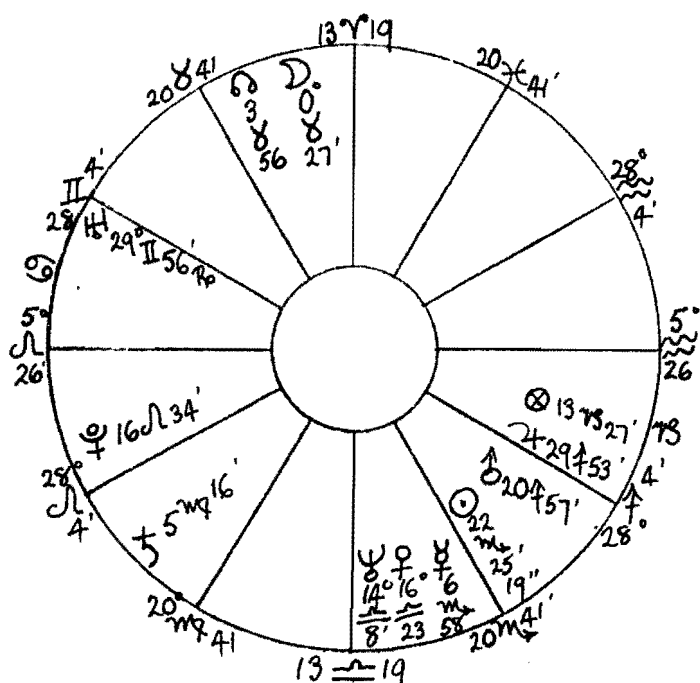

PRINCE CHARLES AND LADY DIANA

From LESLIE BLACK (ENG.): There are reports and rumours that the marriage of Charles and Diana is not working out, and that they are slowly drifting apart. In comparing their Horoscopes, what stand out are the Grand Crosses completed in each Chart by a planet in the other: Charles's Sun at 22 Sc 25 forms a Grand Cross with Diana's Moon, Venus and Uranus, while Diana's Jupiter at 5 Aq 6 completes a Grand Cross with Charles's Moon, Ascendant and Mercury. Diana's Mercury opposes Charles's Jupiter as well. These are serious impediments, and may well cause a "rift in the lute".

Looking at Princess Diana's Chart, it is doubtful whether it indicates future elevation to so high a dignity as Queen of England. The Luminaries do not receive any favourable aspects from the Benefics, Jupiter and Venus. Only Saturn and Venus are essentially Dignified, being in their own Signs, but Venus is afflicted by the Moon and Uranus. Jupiter is retrograde, and remains so throughout Diana's life. The Sun is "weak" in Cancer, and its dispositor, the Moon, is opposed by Uranus as well as being square to Venus. Venus, ruling the Midheaven (worldly status and position) forms a T-Square with the Moon and Uranus, though its favourable applying trine to Saturn helps to keep things in check. The royal planet, Jupiter, is retrograde and square to a dominant Neptune. The royal Sign, Leo, stressed through the occupancy of the South Node and Uranus opposite the Moon, does not suggest any long-term popularity within royal circles. The whole Chart gives the impression of a very ordinary run-of-the-mill horoscope that one comes across often in every-day practice. It does not appear to be that of a person supposedly destined for higher things, the only notable feature being the power to achieve wealth through charm, as indicated by the trine of Venus to Saturn on the 2nd Cusp.

PRINCE CHARLES

14/11/1948, 9:14 pm UT, London, 00W06, 51N31. Porphyryan Cusps.

The majority of planets in Fixed and Earth Signs indicates a nature materialistic and reserved, unduly obstinate and persistent in having her own way. Pride, self-esteem and a somewhat uncompromising nature limit the fate and restrict achievement. Princess Diana's shyness and inferiority complex can be attributed to the Sun and Mercury in Cancer, the Sign most responsible for this, together with the majority of planets being in negative Signs, which gives too much consciousness of self. The Ascendant, which is technically "Hyleg" in the figure, is devoid of any benefic rays, indicating that health must be an important factor to watch during life.

On the birth of Prince Charles some astrologers (including myself) questioned his prospects of becoming King, on the grounds that the Chart did not have an appropriately placed Jupiter to qualify him for succession to the throne. Since the reign of Queen Victoria all succeeding Monarchs (and herself) have had Jupiter placed in either the 10th or the 1st House of their Maps. The only exception was King Edward VIII (the Duke of Windsor), who abdicated after being King for less than a year. In Edward's Chart Jupiter, one of the lowest setting planets, was in Gemini, the Sign of its debility, and conjoined with Neptune. On his abdication, his brother George VI who became King, had Jupiter conjunct the Midheaven, in trine to Mars and in mutual reception with the Sun. Prince William, who succeeds Charles, has a very similar position with Jupiter conjunct the Midheaven and in trine to the Sun and Moon.

In Prince Charles's Horoscope a similar pattern to that of King Edward VIII emerges: Jupiter is cadent in the 6th House in exact opposition to Uranus, and is further impeded by its parallel with Uranus and Pluto. Most astrologers have assessed the Moon in the 10th House as the pointer to Kingship through its benefic configuration with Jupiter, Uranus and Saturn, and its conjunction with the Queen's Sun and Part of Fortune. This does not take account of the key point - the T-Square that the Ascendant forms with the Moon and Mercury, both these bodies being connected (through Sign rulership) with the 12th House - limitation, private troubles and self-undoing.

PRINCESS DIANA

1/7/1961, 7:45 pm BST (6:45 pm UT)
Sandringham, 00E30, 52N50. Porphyry.

Using the Radix System Time Measure (59°8.33" of Zodiacal Longitude = one year) the following Directions to Radical Significators are operative for Charles this year and next:

Neptune conjunct the Sun (September 1987)

MC opposite the Sun (July 1988),

Mars square the Moon (December 1988)

Additionally to these adverse Directions, the major malefic conjunction of Saturn and Uranus in the late degrees of Sagittarius falls three times during 1988 (February, June and October) on the position of Radical Jupiter. The Periodic conjunction of Mars and Saturn at 0 Cp 43 falls also on the same position in February.

ELVA HOWSON, 54 Belar Avenue, Frankston, Vic. 3199, appeals for data on cases of Cot Death. Elva writes, "To date I have 28 cases with hospital-recorded birth times, and am finding several interesting areas worthy of further investigation. More cases would be extremely useful in deciding whether or not such areas are outstandingly important or due solely to chance.

"It appears to me (at this stage) that the natal Sun/Moon angle may be at least one contributing factor in the short life of S.I.D.S. babies...I am looking into likely effects from pre- and post-natal eclipses and lunations as well as the natal charts themselves."

If any reader can assist Elva with data please write to her direct at the address given.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock, 19/8/1987.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $12 Australia, $14 New Zealand, $16 Elsewhere (Airmail). Issue No. 72 19th July 1987.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

Astrology Again Predicts Election Result

The Federal Election on 11th July resulted in a win, with an increased majority, for the Australian Labour Party. This was the result forecast in the last Issue of Astrologers' Forum, from a Chart set for the closing of the polls at the Federal Capital, and again demonstrates the efficacy of astrological forecasting on the political front. Previous successes (with no failures) in the recent past have been the forecasting of Corry Aquino's win in the Philippines, and Jo Bjelke-Petersen's win in the Queensland Elections.

Of course it is a risky business forecasting, and astrologers are just as liable to make mistakes as the experts in other fields, who make plenty. One could cite many instances of their errors in politics, economics, business, medicine, meteorology, sport, etc.

Nevertheless, it behoves serious astrologers to attempt reasoned astrological forecasts. This makes astrology a practical, useful discipline, instead of merely a lot of vague or fanciful talk, into which it often degenerates. Astrologers as a body are strong on quoting all manner of aspects, Zodiacal positions, etc., but weak on a plain statement of what they mean. This is evading the real issue, and does no good for astrology.

A branch of the art which is strictly practical, and which now, fortunately, is coming into wider practice, is Horary Astrology. I have been advocating this in publications for the last eight or ten years, and have been using it myself for more than forty five years. It has been absolutely invaluable for myself, family, friends and clients. My recommendation to all serious students is, study and use Horary Astrology. You will be well-rewarded, and will know what little weight to attach to the objections of ill-informed critics.

Books on Horary Astrology appear and disappear. All are useful. The classic work is Christian Astrology by William Lilly. It was recently reprinted from manuscripts held by Olivier Barclay (England) who conducts a comprehensive course in the subject. (Her address is

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Federal Election Result	1
The Progressed Midheaven	1
Computer Bargain!	34
Gwen Stoney's Research	4
Anita Cobby, Murder Victim	4

Monegham Lodge Cottage, Great Monegham, Deal, Kent CT14 0HD.) - Dymock.

THE PROGRESSED MIDHEAVEN

by Thomas Zimmer (Qld)

Explained below is what I believe could be the correct method for progressing the Midheaven when working with the Secondary Progressed Chart (and hence with rectification as well).

Up till now there have been three main choices for the rate of progression of the MC. One is the "Classic Method" (essentially a Primary Progression) whereby the RAMC is advanced 3' 56" (which is 1/365th of a Sidereal Day) per year of the person's life. This gives a Progressed RAMC which then corresponds to a Zodiacal degree that becomes the person's Progressed Midheaven. This method simply borrows a means of progressing the Angles from the Primary Progression System.

The second choice is the "One Degree" method - 1° of Zodiacal Longitude added to the MC for every year of life. This is an approximate, symbolic or intellectual system which is unsatisfying on that account.

The third widely recognized method is to find the (Zodiacal) Solar-Arc, which is the arc between the Natal Sun and the Secondary Progressed Sun, and simply add that Arc to the Natal Midheaven to get the Progressed (Secondary) Midheaven. This has been defended (in Astrologers' Forum) on the basis of its empirical accuracy. It was originally proposed, I think, by R.C. Davison (who is no dummy) but it lacks a literal correspondence to the actual motion of the Midheaven, being a sort of hybrid calculation.

The system I am now using is closely related to this Solar-Arc method, yet it is mathematically more satisfying in that it is based on a real and relevant daily motion. Basically it is to say that since Secondary Progressions use a-day-for-a-year as its philosophical basis, let us assume that that day refers to the True Solar Day, which is determined by the Sun's passage over the Meridian. This derives from what we already know - that the Sun is the essential reference point for our whole Western Astrology. A True Solar Day is the time it takes for the Sun to return to the Meridian.

In the course of a day the Sun has moved through a complete circle but when it returns to the Meridian it is roughly one degree past its Zodiacal position of the day before. Sometimes this increment is more or less than one degree, due to the elliptical shape of the Earth's orbit. But whatever the exact increment, we can say there is a basis for progressing the Midheaven (along the scale of Right Ascension) at a rate corresponding to the Sun's movement along the Zodiac - but it is the Sun's movement projected onto the scale of Right Ascension that gives the absolute angular rotation corresponding to a given Solar-Arc.

Another way of saying this would be as follows: Every day at noon (mean noon or true noon, it doesn't matter) the Sun's Zodiacal position projects a point onto the Sidereal scale, and this becomes the "RAMC for the day". On the following day at noon the Sun's advanced position projects a new point onto the Sidereal scale. The movement of this daily Midheaven on the Sidereal clock then becomes the rate of progress of the Midheaven for that particular time of year. (This is not identical with the Zodiacal Solar-Arc because of the obliquity of the Ecliptic from the Celestial Equator). This rate of progress of the Sun's Right Ascension at noon is what we apply to the person's Midheaven degree. This rate of progress is applied because the person was born at that time of year, not because his Sun was on the Midheaven (which it probably was not).

So the method is: Start by finding the Secondary Progressed Sun (which determines the Zodiacal Solar-Arc) and, proceeding for purposes of calculation as if the Sun were on the Midheaven, find the Sidereal Time that corresponds to this Zodiacal degree, as well as the Sidereal Time that corresponds to the Natal Sun's degree. In practice, simply locate the Progressed Sun's position for the date in question (which you have found in the ordinary way by counting down in the Ephemeris), locate that in the Table of Houses (10th-House column), and then determine (by interpolation) the exact Sidereal Time that corresponds to that Zodiacal degree. Then take the Natal Sun position and locate that degree in the 10th-House column of the Table of Houses, and determine the corresponding Sidereal Time. The difference between the two Sidereal times will be the arc of progression of the RAMC (the "Celestial Arc") in hours, minutes and seconds. Add that figure to the Local Sidereal Time of birth (the Natal RAMC) and you will get a Progressed RAMC, and hence a Progressed Midheaven, and a Progressed Ascendant from the Table of Houses for the latitude of birth.

By this method you will see that you get a Progressed Midheaven (degree of the Zodiac) that is slightly different from what you would get if you just took the Solar-Arc (in Zodiacal degrees) and crudely added this to the Natal Midheaven degree. Although the result of this refined method can differ a little from the Solar-Arc method, it seems to me that this is the conceptual basis that Davison (if indeed he was the originator) was trying to get at, only what he defined is more of a short cut and not a real geometric model of what is actually happening.

Knowing this, we can now continue to use that Solar-Arc method knowing it is an approximation (which admittedly seems more accurate in some cases than the other two methods - the Classic or the One Degree method). Or we can experiment with progressing the MC at the actual rate of the daily angular advance of the Sidereal Clock (using the True Solar Day-for-a-year as I've just outlined) which should give greater accuracy in a greater number of cases.

In practice, this would be as follows: Let's say, for extreme ease of illustration, a person was born at such and such a time that put 0° on the Midheaven. Let us also say that this person's Sun was at 0° Aries. In this case the progressed Sun will also be the time marker for the True Solar Day, and the Solar-Arc will be identical with the arc of the Progressed Midheaven. So Davison's approximation will be exact - the Progressed Sun will always be on the Progressed Midheaven.

But now let's say the person's Natal Sun was 0° Capricorn (the Natal MC being still 0° Aries). At age 50 the Secondary Progressed Sun is at 20Aqu52' (that is, the Solar-Arc is 50°52'). Look up 20Aqu52 in the 10th-House column of the Table of Houses and see that it corresponds to 21h 33m 4s. Then look up the original Natal Sun position, 0° Capricorn, and see that it corresponds to 18h 0m 0s. The difference is 3h 33m 4s. Thus 3h 33m 4s is the "Celestial Arc" corresponding to the Progressed Solar-Arc. This Celestial Arc, added to the Natal RAMC, which was 0h 0m 0s, is 3h 33m 4s, which becomes the Progressed MC for age 50. This corresponds to 25 Tau 35' on the Midheaven (read simply from the Table of Houses). So the Progressed (Secondary) Midheaven is 25Tau35 according to the proposed Celestial-Arc method, whereas if we had added crudely the Secondary Solar-Arc (50°52' to the Zodiacal degree of the Natal Midheaven (0° Aries) we would get 20Tau52 as the Progressed MC. The Classic method would have given us 21Tau42, and the One Degree method would have given us 20Tau00.

This is a substantially different value for the Progressed MC. I took the extreme case where the Natal Sun was not on the Meridian but rather as far as possible away from it. Usually the variance between this method and the three established methods is not so great.

What remains is to check this in practice and see if it works to show the timing of significant changes or events in a person's life. This I am doing, and it looks pretty interesting. It would seem to resolve certain riddles in my own life, and in the lives of a few "guinea pigs" whom I know, and whose birth times are quite certain. As yet I haven't got a case history at my fingertips that would give conclusive evidence for this method. Meanwhile I am choosing to present the method to anyone who could test it and/or criticise it on the basis of any disqualifying errors that I've overlooked. Any feedback would be welcome.

I might add some impressions that I have derived from my observation of these Progressed Angles. The case studies I have done seem to point to the existence of two Progressed Angle effects. In other words, the Primary Progressed Angles (the Classic method) yields a sequence of predicted events when the Midheaven or Ascendant conjoin, or oppose, planets and cusps. But there is also a pattern of events or changes of developments in the person's life, the timing of which seems better to fit the Progression of the Angles at the rate of the Solar-Arc. I noticed this in the past when experimenting to try to decide whether the Classic method or the Solar-Arc method was the "right" one. The Solar-Arc method seemed occasionally very accurate, and the classic method seemed relevant too, but operating on a different level somehow. Now with this refined definition of the Solar-Arc method explained above, the operation of two Progressed Midheavens seems even clearer. The Classic (Primary) Progressed Angles seem to me to depict more the working of unconscious (external) Fate, and the Secondary Progressed Angles seem to depict the adoption of different attitudes and intentions. Both can correspond to objective events, but the Primaries are more "automatic" so to speak. The Secondary Progressed Angles, as with Secondary Progressions generally, are harder for the person himself to see in operation because it is he/she who is doing it. An experienced astrological counsellor will know what I mean by this.

So, in looking for events corresponding to aspects of the Secondary Progressed Angles, look for important internal changes, possibly accompanied by outward events. The Progressed Midheaven would be changes in goals or self-image. The Progressed Ascendant would be changes in personality, style or attitude. Obviously, if you know the person well you will have a much better chance of seeing how the Secondary Progressed aspects are working.

Given this understanding, I consider that mathematically what we are looking for is the optimum rate of method of calculation for the Angles that belongs to the Secondary System of Progressions. If this is different from the one that belongs to the Primary System, as indeed my observations seem to indicate, then so be it. And so far, the definition of the Secondary Progressed Angles proposed above (the "Celestial Arc of the Sun" method, to replace the Solar-Arc method or the One Degree method) appears to be a very attractive candidate for the job.

It is not too difficult to compute. I don't use a computer or such. It just takes a bit of skill to quickly calculate what, say, 20Aqu52' in the 10th House column of the Table of Houses corresponds to (exactly) in Sidereal Time. Other than that it is a completely trivial calculation.

Anyway, these last observations are included to help clarify just what you are looking for if it so happens you wish to test out the proposed "Celestial-Arc" method when working with the Secondary Progressed Chart.

[Thomas is describing the method of progressing the Angles by the Solar-Arc in Right Ascension. For those readers who possess an electronic pocket calculator an easy and quicker way is to use the trigonometrical formulae. Alternatively, I can supply a quick reference brochure relating each minute of Sidereal Time to the corresponding Zodiacal degree, minute and second. - Dymock.]

COMPUTER BARGAIN!

Due to departure from Australia, FOR SALE:

Commodore-64 Computer
Commodore 4040 Dual Disk Drive
Commodore 1701 Colour Video Monitor
Gemini 10X dot-matrix Printer
Buscard-II Interface (connects computer to disk drive and printer)

Whole set, in excellent condition, for bargain price of $1500 (excl. freight).

The new price of the 4040 Dual Disk Drive alone was approximately $2000. The 4040 is the best disk drive ever made for the Commodore - extremely reliable and about 7 times faster than the 1541 Disk Drive. With this particular Disk Drive I prepared all the C-64 MATRIX Software I have sold in Australia.

As an extra bonus buy, for only $500 extra, all important MATRIX Software (total value approximately $4000!) such as -

M-65 System (A,B,C);
Blue Star Programs 2, 3, 6, 7 and 64;
Report Writers;
M-90 (Natal Chart Program);
M-91 (Transit Report - up to 40 pages);
M-92 (Biorhythm Report);
M-93 (Numerology Report);

M-30 Series Programs (30, 31, 32, 34, etc);
M-14 Transit Search Program.

Plus extra software such as Easy Script word processor, Easy Spell spelling checker, Colossus 4 chess game, and several other extras.

Hurry - must be sold in August.

Rudolf Smit, 100 Shillington Way, Thornlie WA 6108. Tel: (09) 459-8770.

GWEN STONEY'S RESEARCH

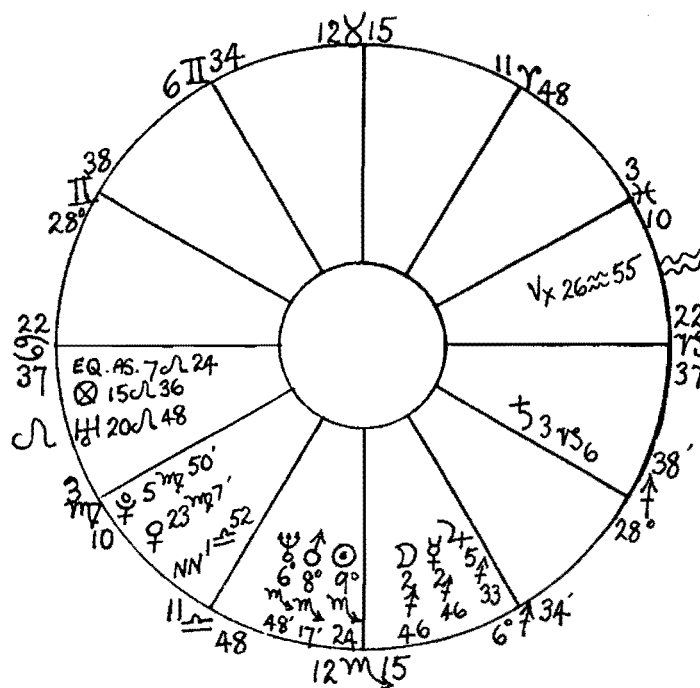

GWEN STONEY (NSW) writes interestingly of her researches into the Chart for the Federation of Australia in 1901 (Astrologers' Forum No. 70). It took her 18 months of hard work at the Public Library, reading Captain Cook's and Governor Phillip's Log books. She says that there were two different days for the landing at Botany Bay because Captain Cook used noon as the start of the day and Banks used 6 am. A lot of time was spent working out from Captain Cook's Logs which day the events occurred. With a friend she spent a whole weekend timing the whole Programme at Centennial Park between 1 pm and 2 pm - timing the singing, prayers, etc., and going to Centennial Park to walk to the Pavilion and working out by photographs and what trees (smaller than) were in what position, and if the Pavilion was where the monument now stands. What started her was the sacking of the Whitlam Government at 1:03 pm on 11th November 1975. Saturn was at 2Le58, exactly opposing the 10th Cusp - the Prime Minister. Again, on 15th October 1975 Mr Fraser blocked the budget - Mars was at 29Ge22, sextile the Ascendant at 29Ar35.

Gwen spent $100 having charts calculated by Neil Michelson, and couldn't reconcile them with Cook's Log. Then Gwen discovered that the Charts were Old System (Calendar) instead of New System, 10 days later, so had to have all the Charts re-done.

There is more, including photocopies of pages from the 1901 daily press. It is quite a fascinating story. Gwen's indefatigable zeal in pursuing the truth of the Federation data is a model for all would-be researchers.

ANITA COBBY, RAPE/MURDER VICTIM
2nd November 1959, 11:50 pm Crown Street Hospital, Sydney. 151E12'45'', 33S53'10''.
Placidian Cusps.

This is the Birth Chart of former beauty queen Anita Cobby whose rape/murder on 2nd November 1959 in a Sydney suburb horrified Australia. The birth data is direct from her mother. The Chart and Progressions, etc., will be analysed in the next issue of Astrologers' Forum, but meantime the Chart is presented for the independent research of readers.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock,
19th July 1987.

Astrologers Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $12 Australia, $14 New Zealand, $16 Elsewhere (Airmail). Issue No. 71 19th June 1987.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

We continue with further comment on the 62 suicide cases introduced in Issue No. 68, in March.

From RUDOLF SMIT (WA): After I had published my preliminary findings in regard to Topocentric Primary Directions on a sample of 62 people who had committed suicide, I had some high hopes that this would start an intellectually stimulating debate which would be beneficial for the advancement of our beloved art, astrology. But, one of the two comments in AF 70 I found very disappointing.

I begin with the other, the comment by Jenifer Pommerin (also from WA). Her comment had a pleasant flavour, as comments should in any type of debate. Her idea is that in principle suicides can't be delineated from a chart, be it natal or progressed, because a suicide doesn't comply with the plan of life as determined by the native prior to reincarnation. This idea certainly has merit from a purely philosophical point of view. However, at the same time it is only an expression of personal faith. I can't do anything with this proposition because it can't be proved! However, the sentence "And that is the explanation for its non-appearance in an astrological sense, statistically" (see page 3, second column) betrays that she misinterpreted the results of my statistical study.

First of all, I did not set out to "prove the truth of astrology". Trying to prove or disprove astrology is a far more complicated matter than investigating a relatively small sample of 62 suicides. Secondly, my prime aim was to test a series of major systems of prediction against the many "rules" which, over the decades, have been postulated by many, we may assume, highly experienced astrologers, in textbooks, during conferences, lectures, articles, etc.

As for PEA and Topocentric Primary Directions the results were far from encouraging, in the sense that there was no outstanding factor.

But that does not mean that there was total "non-appearance"! On the contrary, in about 50% of all Primarily Progressed charts

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The Suicides: Rudolf Smit	1
Elva Howson	3
Ross Harvey	3
Australian Federal Election	4
Acquired Immune Deficiency Syn.	4

there were "fitting" aspects - some even extremely fitting. One such chart I sent to Dymock and you have seen what he came up with. So for half of the charts we could say that suicide WAS (or rather, seemed) clearly indicated. This fact alone seems to contradict Jenifer's postulation that suicide can't be indicated astrologically. Thus, on an individual level a certain percentage of this sample seems to support to some extent the astrological hypothesis.

Well, 50% looks very impressive. But it isn't because there was no consistency whatsoever. I pointed out that it could be any aspect, and as there are so many negative and even violent indicators, it becomes rather easy to find an "appropriate" aspect. They were all there: For example, Sun negative to Mars, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune, Pluto; Asc negative to Mars, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune, Pluto; and so on, and so on - the end is not in sight! Plenty of candidates for death, violent or otherwise! So what is the problem?

There seems only reason for cheers and a self-complacent certainty that "the system works". It is here that chance calculation knocks us from the clouds and throws us back to hard reality. Most astrologers detest chance calculation and once I was one of them. However, after reading some good books on statistics I learned that this science is a real bread and butter issue, i.e., something society as a whole relies on whether we realise this or not, and not designed with the sole purpose of being nasty to astrologers. Statistics, and in particular chance calculation, is there to help us distinguish between facts and fog, or between real and what looks real but isn't. As for astrology, it helps us find out whether the number of "appropriate" aspects either betrays a real effect, or is just a grandiose illusion. That is where the table of results came in plus a simple chance calculation, which demonstrated that as a whole the results were in accordance with chance. This means that, when I take a similarly-sized sample of fictitious people with fictitious dates of suicidal death, I would very probably get a table of results looking virtually the same!

On the other hand, if a supposed effect IS real, then something is bound to stand out, and therefore such results distinguish themselves from results which are based on fictitious data.

In the present situation the results as shown in the table ("A.F." 68) will hardly be different from a table which is based solely on chance. Therefore, although there are many charts with seemingly appropriate aspects, we cannot conclude that they represent a real effect, yes or no. In other words, the results are inconclusive for Topocentric Directions on these 62 cases of Suicide. Clearly, further tests are required.

As regards Alexander Marr's letter, I am very disappointed. It is all right for him to reject my findings, but then of course the onus is on Mr Marr to prove his point, but apparently he doesn't. His remark that a statistician came up with a significance level of somewhere between 10000 and 99999 - he talks about a five digit figure - for a chart (rectified, I assume) with 40 events, doesn't tell me a thing. Why? I already pointed out that it is not difficult at all to get a very high score when one starts rectifying, because then one is working towards the desired result!

I repeat that this is highly objectionable in any form of enquiry, a fact that is totally ignored by Mr Marr.

We know what happens in the world of science when it is found out that a scientist has "rigged" the results of his research only to "prove" his theory. He will be thrown out of the scientific community, lose his titles, his job, etc. On a different level, it would not be hard to imagine how a judge and/or jury will respond when during a court case it is discovered that the prosecution fabricated "proof" only to make sure that the defendant will be convicted! One should not trifle with the truth! It is as simple as that.

As for astrology, in principle it is just as objectionable to rectify charts, with the purpose to "prove" a predictive system - it is working towards a desired result, i.e. justify the system. Apparently Mr Marr works along that line: He clearly states that "it is a waste of time to experiment with so-called exactly recorded birth times unless they are approximately or exactly rectified" ("A.F." 70, page 4, column 1). For this reason alone I will never accept any of his findings based on rectified charts, however supportive of his theories they may look.

As for his remark about "so-called" exact birth times, I pointed out that of course we can never be sure that times recorded on the minute are truly exact. But if there are enough charts with precisely recorded times, then we can be reasonably sure that a large percentage of them are accurate enough. Surely, if we have a large number of precisely recorded birth times then by chance alone we will have enough times which are spot on! Additionally, if astrological predictive techniques work, then they should "shine" through, thanks to those charts whose times, in accordance with the laws of chance, ARE accurate!

A final word on his remark about "experience". Apart from the fact that I have already given twenty years of my life to astrology, and for long periods even dedicated my heart and soul to it, whilst having a thorough knowledge and practical experience of astrological mathematics, cosmography, and counselling (including psychology and predictive work), it may be of interest to know the following hard fact: A recently concluded study which involved 45 astrologers, ranging from beginners to internationally recognised experts showed that highly experienced astrologers did not judge a number of charts (240 in total) any better than beginners. On the contrary, it appeared that the more experience, the more the tendency to be wrong! Interestingly, the same study also revealed that simple guessing gave slightly better results than thorough analysis of the charts. So much for "experience". Geoffrey Dean can tell you more about it - see his articles in "The Skeptical Enquirer", winter 1986-1987, and Spring 1987. These very well-written and well-balanced articles explode a few myths - very unpleasant for astrologers and astrology, but a mandatory read, whether you like it or not.

Next time, please, in place of derogatory remarks let me have suggestions to extend my research, which it is to be hoped will lead to positive results.

From ELVA HOWSON (Vic.): I think it possible that Rudolf's motive in his laborious work on 62 suicides has been misinterpreted. I'm sure he would dearly have loved to prove that there ARE indeed repeatable signifiers for such action being taken by individuals. My understanding of his motive and results is that he endeavours to show us that preconceived ideas or theories are not necessarily correct and do not stand up to statistical analysis, at least within the parameters of the techniques and aspects with which he worked.

I applaud his tenacity in searching for scientifically acceptable proof of astrology. When/if it is found our work will not only be easier but more accurate and thereby more helpful to those who seek our assistance. Surely as serious dedicated astrologers we are not out to beat our own drum or glorify our own "pet" technique. We must realize there is just as much fallacy as fact abounding in the available publications, and even in some teaching schools.

Astrology needs people like Rudolf Smit and Geoffrey Dean who set out to find what repeatable facts exist. We can all benefit from their work if we keep open minds. Possibly what they don't find will stimulate some of us to seek alternative techniques that may ultimately prove more valuable and reliable.

One thing we must realize with suicide is that there are a multitude of background reasons that motivate an individual toward that final act. These can range through emotional or financial problems, ill-health, mental instability, loss of self-worth, fear of imprisonment, etc. Some suicides may even be accidental, where the native was merely attention-seeking but went too far. Therefore, the only common denominator is the result - death. Maybe this is why Rudolf felt that Pluto would be expected to be prominent, which it was not.

Personally, I have found Uranus is generally, though of course not always, strongly active in suicide cases. I interpret this as the dramatic need for freedom felt by the native. They use the act of suicide to free themselves from conditions they can no longer face, or maybe are not prepared to face. Uranus is a planet that seems to offer or bring alternatives, for better or worse, to existing conditions.

Unless the 62 cases were grouped into "like motives" I would not expect a common signifier, and even then we would be dealing with different Natal House placements, aspects and House Rulerships. The complexities pile up, and therefore statistical weight would be difficult to find.

I cannot agree with Alexander Marr that it is "wasted time to experiment with so-called exactly-recorded birth times". Often that is the only data available, and without a previous history of life events, which is frequently not forthcoming, there is no alternative.

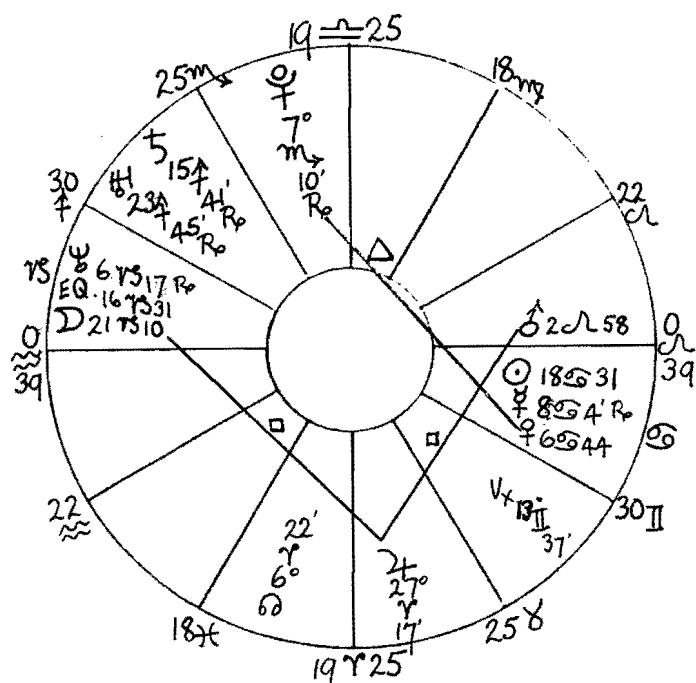

Rectification is one of the trickiest areas of astrology. To be fair to Mr. Marr, I admit I have not as yet read his Prediction series of publications, therefore I cannot judge for myself his rectification technique, but to date I have applied many rectification theories to a number of cases I know well, and none has given perfectly satisfactory birth times in all cases.

From ROSS HARVEY (NSW): I must disagree with Alexander Marr about the consistent reliability and accuracy in timing he claims for Topocentric Primary Directions (Astrologers' Forum No. 70, and in his books). My experience with my own Chart (whose time I have been able to establish with a considerable degree of accuracy) does not support his claims in relation to the last twenty years: Several major events have passed by with no Topocentric Primary Directions to correspond to them, and many Directions of lesser importance (that is, those not involving the Sun, Moon and Angles) have had little or no effect. So I must agree with Rudolf Smit's criticisms (A.F. 68) of Alexander's claims. Indeed, in his remarks in A.F. Alexander is beginning to sound like an art critic in his justification of his own case and dismissal of Rudolf's objections. Art critics are past masters at using pretentious and convoluted language to conceal from the reader that the case they are defending with arrogant confidence is untenable.

I am fairly confident that the rectification methods I use are as reliable as is so far possible to get, provided enough information is given about the subject's life, and the methods are pursued with sufficient diligence. The methods in rough order of importance are Age Harmonics, Secondary Progressions and Regressions of Angles by the (Zodiacal) Solar-Arc method, Solar Returns of various sorts (Standard, Progressed and Precessed), Ascendant Lunar Charts (once an approximate Ascendant has been established, Primary Directions, and, finally, Precessed Lunar Returns. I usually manage to arrive at a chart that gives reliable indications in prediction if I am given enough information, and the birth time is known to within half an hour. If the uncertainty about the time is up to an hour I am still reasonably confident, but as the uncertainty increases so do my chances of arriving at a useful result decrease. Where only the birth date is known there is usually nothing I can do, as often several possible solutions present themselves, and there is no way I can tell which, if any, is likely to be correct.

Australian Federal Election 11th July 1987
Canberra, 149 E 13, 35 S 18. 6 pm EST.
Placidian Cusps.

Here is the Chart for the closing of the polls on 11th July. It clearly favours the return of the Hawke Labour Government.

The Eastern side of the Chart, and particularly the 10th and 1st Houses, represent the Party in power, the 7th and 4th Houses (the latter being the 10th to the 7th) represent the Opposition.

At first sight, Jupiter in the 4th seems to favour the Opposition, while Pluto appears negative for the Government. But then we notice that Jupiter is squared by malefic Mars on the Opposition's Ascendant, and Mars rules the 4th House (the Opposition's 10th), signifying defeat. Jupiter is also squared by the Moon, Co-Ruler of the 4th, which is the Opposition's 12th (sorrows and misfortunes). As the Moon represents the mass of the voters it indicates that the Opposition has not found favour with the general public.

On the other hand, Pluto in the Government's 10th is trine to Venus, Ruler of the 10th (Libra being on the Cusp).

Furthermore, Pluto is the Natal Ruler of Prime Minister Bob Hawke, and it is certainly a favourable omen for him that his Ruling Planet is here in the House of Victory.

I expect the Government to be returned with a good majority.

My apologies to readers for giving the wrong Progressive Solar Return in the Suicide case dealt with in last month's A.F.. The correct one for the 30th year has 28 Lib 4 on the Ascendant, which is conjunct natal Mars at 27 Li 30. S.R. Mars at 4 Sc 9 is just under the Ascendant, and square to Mercury (2 Aq 38) on the Cusp of the 4th House (terminations). The Sun at 15 Cp 46 squares Saturn at 18 Cp 56. Venus, ruling the Ascendant is squared by the Vertex in the House of Death (orb 2° 23'), and the Vertex is also semisquare Saturn. Altogether a disastrous Map.

From LESLIE BLACK (ENG): AIDS

The seven-year cycle of Uranus in the sex-Sign Scorpio (1974-1981) ushered in ultra-permissiveness and rampant homosexuality, bringing in its wake the so-far incurable diseases, Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome, and Genital Herpes. Uranus, The Awakener, truly demonstrated his nature as the breaker of the fixed order of things, the revolutionary who injects new forms, thoughts and actions, operating in this instance in the sexual sphere.

The harvest was reaped during the following transit of Saturn through Scorpio (1982-1985). This acted as the "trigger", for it was in 1982 that the first cases of AIDS came to light, Saturn living up to its reputation as The Grim Reaper. The prolonged suffering, slow emaciation, fear, pain and anguish are all characteristic of Saturn when his call for self-discipline and restraint is ignored.

When can we expect a cure? I envisage three possible periods - first when Jupiter, the Great Benefic, transits Cancer, the Sign of its Exaltation, in 1989-1990; again when Jupiter transits Scorpio itself (a fruitful period) in 1993-1994; and finally in 1998-1999, when Jupiter transits Pisces, the Sign it rules. This could be the last possible period this Century for an effective cure being found.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock,
19th June 1987.

Astrologers' Forum

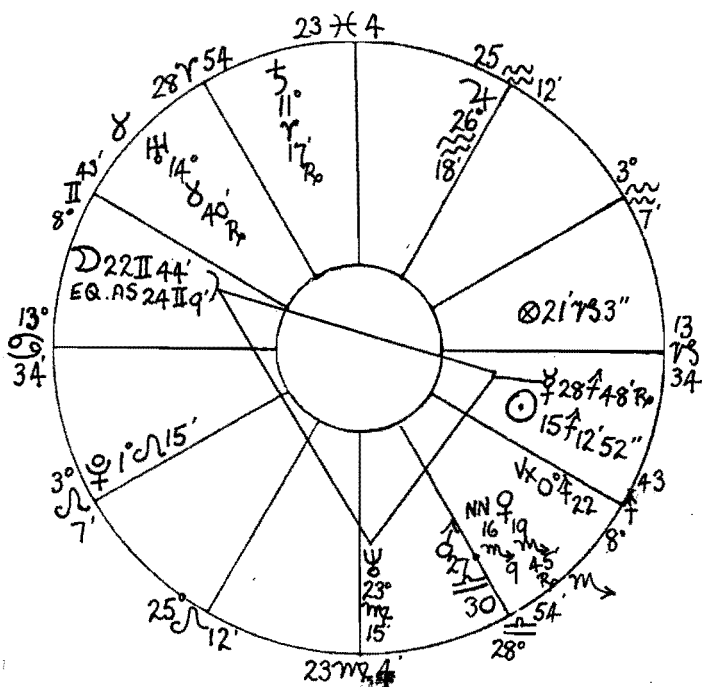

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.H., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas - Airmail). Issue No. 70 19th May 1987.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

In last month's Astrologers' Forum we brought to light the indications in a man's horoscope of possible suicide. Once self-destruction is seen to be a possibility, the next practical step is to determine the danger period, or periods, so that practical measures may be taken to forestall the tragedy of a wasted life.

Major events are most likely to accompany a series of adverse planetary influences, each one building on the potential of its predecessor. So it is with the Chart under review - the male born 7th December 1938, who died by his own hand on the 11th of March 1969: Primary Directions, Progressions, Regressions, Current and Prenatal Transits all added their quota of planetary energy to the mental and emotional suffering of the unfortunate victim, who apparently decided finally that the burden was too much to bear. Some of the aspects precede the suicide, and some follow it, the energy accumulating and having its effect even before it reached a maximum. Cyclic Charts (Synodic Return, Solar Return and Progressive Solar Return) also reflect the danger period.

MALE SUICIDE, BORN 7TH DECEMBER 1938
Hanged himself 11th March 1969
New York, 6:26 pm EST (UT 11:26 pm).
73 W 56, 40 N 38. Placidian cusps.

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The Suicide - Directions, Progressions, etc.	1
Comment (J. Pommerin)	2
Cyclic Charts re Suicide	2,3
Australian Federation Chart	4

The suicide occurred on 11th March 1969. Primary Directions (Topocentric) to Natal positions, in order of date, were: URANUS SEMISQUARE PLUTO, 24/12/1968. SUN QUINCUNX SATURN, 13/3/1969 (closely timed to the event - two days!) MARS TRINE PLUTO, 15/4/1969.

In the P.E.A. system the Primary Directions were: THE SUN SQUARE SATURN, 30/9/1969. URANUS OPPOSITE THE SUN, 19/6/1969.

Secondary Progressions were: MERCURY SQUARE NEPTUNE, 18/11/1968. THE MOON OPPOSITE PLUTO, 8/12/1968.

Secondary Regressions ("Converse Progressions") were: THE SUN OPPOSITE URANUS, 1/3/1969. (This is close timing for the major factor of a Secondary Solar aspect.) In addition, the following aspects in the Regressed Chart itself were appropriate: THE MOON CONJUNCT URANUS, 27/11/1968. THE MOON OPPOSITE THE SUN, 23/12/1968. THE MOON PARALLEL URANUS, 3/2/1969. THE SUN CONTRA-PARALLEL URANUS, 24/3/1969.

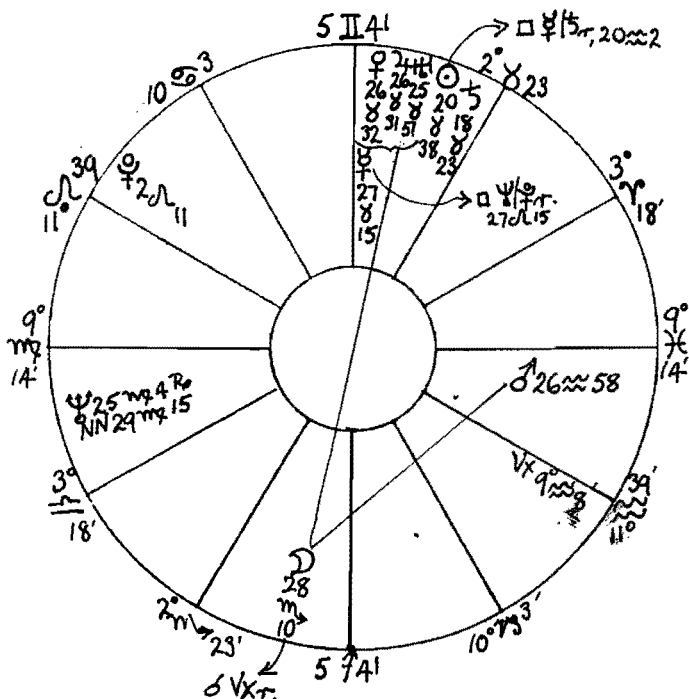

Significant Transits were: PLUTO, RETROGRADE, CONJ. NEPTUNE, 4/4/1969. SATURN OPPOSITE MARS, 10/4/1969. MARS CONJUNCT THE SUN, 11/4/1969

Prenatal Transits were: URANUS CONJUNCT THE ASCENDANT, 3/8/1908, corresponding to 1/4/1969. PLUTO, STATIONARY, at 25 GE 51, on 25/9/1908 (corresponding to 17/2/1969) CONJUNCT THE EQUATORIAL ASCENDANT (E.P.) 24 GE 9, and SQUARE NEPTUNE 23 VI 15.

The aspects tell their own story.

As a matter of interest, the three Cyclic Charts referred to above are also reproduced here. - Dymock.

Male born 7/12/1938
 SYNODIC RETURN FOR THE SUICIDE YEAR
 (7/12/1968-7/12/1969. Age 30)
 Natal Sun-Moon angle = 187° 31' 12".
 At Birth Place. Placidian Cusps.

The Sun, ruling the 12th House (suffering) conjoins Saturn ruling the 4th (terminations), and both are square to the midpoint Mercury/Saturn, 20° AQ 2, (worry, depression) in the Natal Chart. The Moon squares Mars (violence), ruling the death Sector, and is conjunct the Natal Vertex (fateful events). The Moon's opposition to the conjunction of Venus, Jupiter and Uranus, which are all trine to Neptune (disappointment) suggests that the suicide was the result of unrequited love. Neptune - the predisposing factor (see last Issue) - is rising.

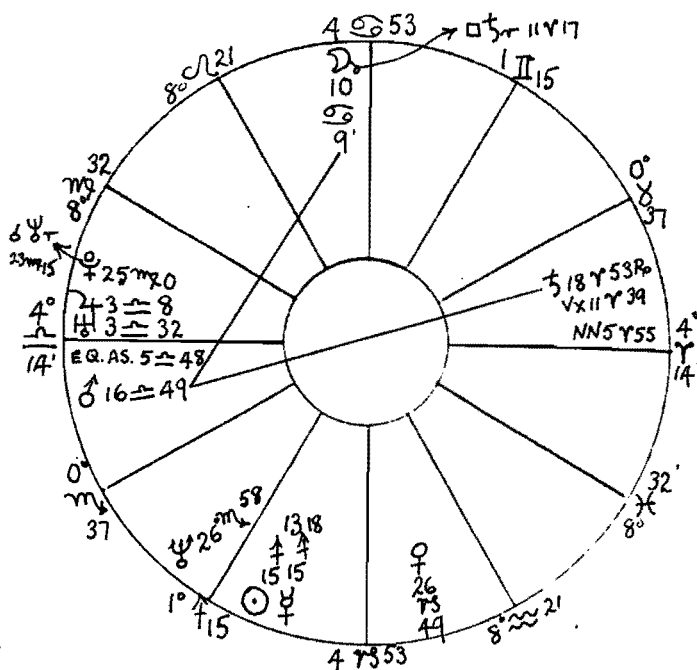

From JENNIFER POMMERIN (WA):

Further Comment on the Suicide Cases

What Rudolf found, or actually didn't find, really went to prove the truth of astrology. When his research didn't come up with an answer, then one conclusion must be that he was searching for something that didn't exist.

I think it is incorrect to assume that the SOLAR RETURN 30 (7/12/1968-7/12/1969) At Birth Place. Placidian Cusps.

The most striking feature is the opposition of Mars to Saturn across the Chart. The Moon is in wide square to them both, but more significantly is closely square to Natal Saturn at 11° Ar 17. Pluto in the 12th House is conjunct Natal Neptune (only 1-3/4 dg. orb). Jupiter on the Ascendant was evidently not sufficient to turn his thoughts from self-destruction, perhaps because vitiated by the conjunction with Uranus and square to a series of Natal Midpoints: Moon/Asc (3° Cn 9), Saturn/Neptune (2° Cn 16), and Saturn/Midheaven 2° Ar 10). The violent Mars, rising at 16° Libra, is conjunct Natal Mercury/Pluto at 15° Li 2.

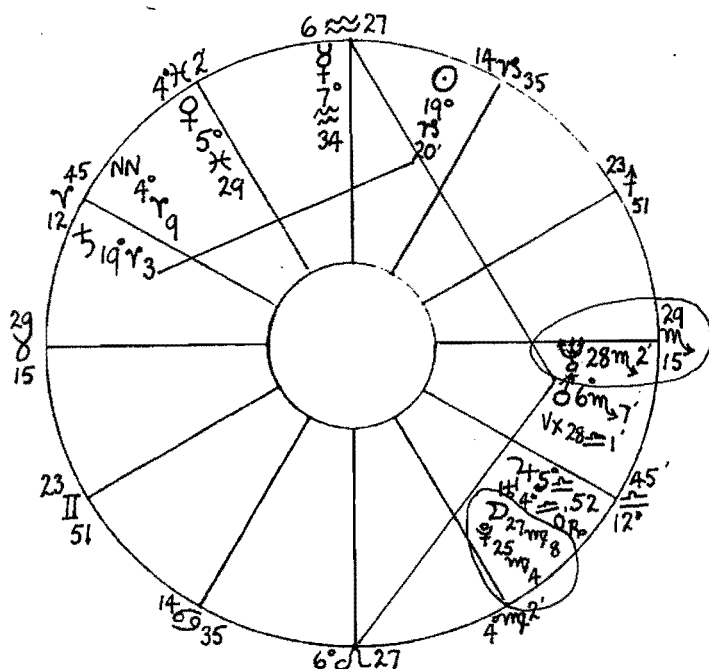

act of suicide, real or potential, should have a signifier, or signifiers. It is my belief that suicide, because of its complete negation of life, does not exist as an astrological proposition. There can be tremendously stressed charts which can show as a "giving up" on life, e.g., excessive risk-taking, a retreat into mental illness or aberrations, drug dependency, etc. If the native dies through an "accident", then a suicide has occurred. But the hairline trigger for this would not be found in the chart or Progressions, for it wasn't meant to happen. That it did happen is due to a mistake in freewill choice prior to reincarnation. The native over-estimated his strength to handle the trials and temptations of earthly life.

If one accepts that we are born for

THE PROGRESSIVE SOLAR RETURN

(9/1/1969-9/1/1970)

(For the Return of the Sun to its Progressed Position, 19 Cp 19' 43", at Age 30.)
Birth Place. Placidian Cusps.

The prime villain, Neptune, is here directly opposed to the Ascendant, which itself is directly opposite the Natal Vertex at 0 Sg 22. The Moon in the 5th House is conjunct Pluto, and both are on the place of Natal Neptune - again the disappointed-love motif. The Midheaven, on the Natal 8th Cusp is almost exactly square Mars in Scorpio, and the Sun is square Saturn, again in the House of suffering. The Native died by hanging, and the Ascendant, ruling the throat, is closely opposed to Natal Mercury/Mars at 28 Sc 9 - violence by his own hands. Which of these Cyclic Charts is the most significant? All are indicative. My vote goes to the Synodic Return. - Dymock.

a purpose, and the natal chart can reveal the particular work to be done, then, logically, suicide can't be part of that plan (even in the form of voluntary euthanasia). The cutting short of a life immediately prevents the "work" from being completed, or at least attempted.

Killing oneself can't be part of one's life purpose. The exceptions to this would be acts of self-sacrifice, or a life given to uphold a personal principle. In these cases, the charts might show a particular trait of character, and there might be a common significator at the time of death. A suicide can have a profound or far-reaching effect upon the lives of family or friends, or it can effect changes in community mores or the laws of the land. If this is the result, and if we could see all the past, present and future ramifications, the real purpose of that person's life could have been that of a self-sacrifice for a noble cause. This sort of suicide can be the conclusion of a life that was sordid and apparently wasted.

The experiences of life range from joyous to good; hard/nearly unbearable to indifferent or boring. There is pain, physical, mental, emotional. We act or don't act, react or don't react, etc. But suicide is one action or reaction that is absolutely sterile. It is not possible for the self to learn from that experience, at least on the earthly plane. It is ultimately a purposeless act for that reason. And that is the explanation for its non-appearance in an astrological sense, statistically.

I was very impressed by your analysis of the suicide Chart. But could this have been one of those cases where it was self-sacrifice, and not suicide? One doesn't know - even the victim may not have conscious knowledge of his role on Earth. It would take the strength of ten saints to live with the knowledge of a self-inflicted death.

I believe that self-sacrifice can be demonstrated by astrological analysis (statistically and otherwise), for it serves a purpose.

In practice, the judging of whether a death was suicidal, or whether it was "planned" for a reason, would be extremely difficult. But I await further research with much interest. However, would you agree that the science of astrology tends to be resistant to statistical slotting in event analysis, since a chart represents the whole person or event, and unless all astrological factors are "fed in" results will remain unsatisfactory? [Yes, I do agree, Jennifer. - Ed.] As you wrote, "...there is no standard factor - the indications vary from chart to chart..."

The various points raised re the Terry Waite Horary Chart were very interesting. It is delightful when the experts disagree! Of course the non-experts benefit by having so many extra ideas presented for consideration.

From ALEXANDER MARR (F.R.G.): A reply to R. Smit's criticism of my predictive techniques: My publications in this field for a secure authentication of a birth time have been successfully analysed and verified by talented and experienced astrologers. (Prediction I, approximately; Prediction II and III, rectification within seconds of time.)

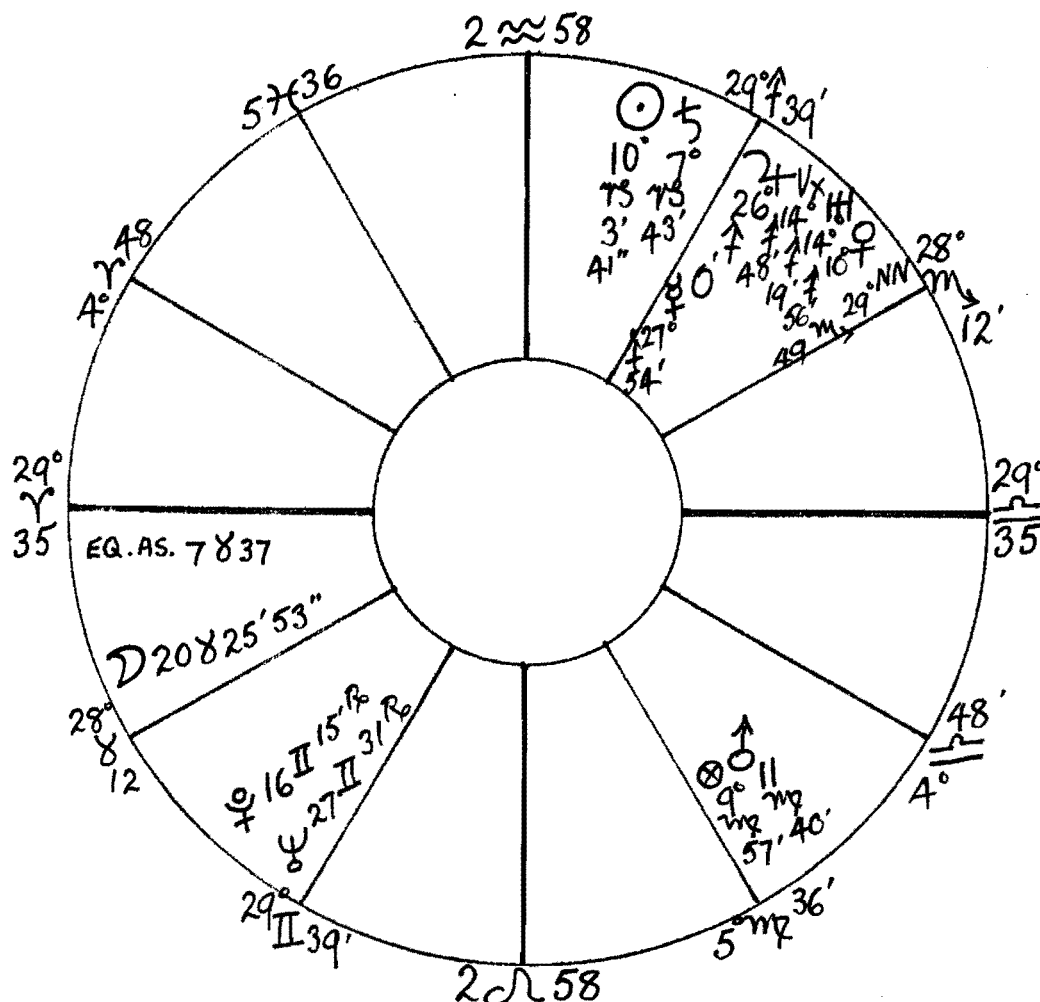

An analysis over four years of my DUAL-TEST (Prediction III) undoubtedly showed that main events are always reflected by accumulations of Directions with small orbs, and a significant symbolism. A preliminary study made by a statistician for one chart with 40 events showed a five-digit figure against one

AUSTRALIAN FEDERATION

1ST JANUARY 1901

CENTENNIAL PARK SYDNEY, 151 E 14' 18", 33 S 53' 47".

1:35:42 pm EST (UT 3:35:42 am). Placidian Cusps.

that the results are not coincidences. Main events, besides others, in the average are reflected by three conjunctions (Directions). Unimportant periods of life in general show gaps or dispersed, meaningless Directions. Factors of the Transit and Prenatal Transit System activate these accumulations during their operational time.

For this reason we cannot approve of R. Smit's Directional technique. He is taking so-called exact birth times for granted.

As already stated, astrology has made an immense step forward, and it is really wasted time to experiment with so-called exactly-recorded birth times unless they are approximately or exactly rectified.

It would take too much space to analyse and eventually reject the criticisms Mr. Smit has published in the A.F.. I leave that to experienced astrologers.

newspaper reports of the time. She found that the event occurred in Centennial Park, Sydney, and deduced the precise time for the operative words that brought the Federation into being. The Chart has been published, but I believe has not been given the attention it deserves. It is published again here, and I hope that astrologers will use it in their researches.

One check as to its authenticity, which I regard as reliable, is that of the Age Harmonics as applied to the Angles of the Chart, and the Harmonic Angles themselves applied to the Radical Significators. For instance, Harmonic 74, for the year 1/1/1975 to 1/1/1976, covers the Constitutional crisis on 11th November 1975, when Governor-General Kerr dismissed the Whitlam Government. The "Age" Harmonics are strikingly apt: HARMONIC SATURN, 1 Ta 13, CONJUNCT THE RADICAL ASC, 29 Ar 36. HARMONIC MC, 9 Cn 32, CONJUNCT HARMONIC URANUS 9 Cn 48, OPPOSITE RADICAL SUN, 10 Cp 4, and RADICAL SATURN, 7 Cp 43, in the 9TH HOUSE.

What could be more appropriate to a Constitutional crisis? - MC, the Government; 9th House, the Constitution! The smallness of the orbs is remarkable when you consider that these Harmonic positions involve multiplying the Radical positions by 74!

I pay a tribute to Gwen Stoney for her painstaking work.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock, 19th May 1987.

AUSTRALIAN FEDERATION, 1ST JANUARY 1901

GWEN STONEY (NSW) has done some valuable astrological work in researching the Horoscope for the Federation of the Australian States on New Year's Day 1901. Gwen delved into Library archives to obtain and carefully peruse all the

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas - Airmail). Issue No. 69 19th April 1987.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

Firstly this month we conclude RUDOLF SMIT'S analysis of the Charts of people who committed suicide. Reference should be made to the Table published on page 3 of the last Issue.

62 CASES OF SUICIDE (Continued)

Take, for example, Primary Uranus in hard aspect to Neptune. It scores 12, which is more than twice the expected average, while the soft aspects numbered only 2. Given the nature of the two planets, this aspect is perhaps a good candidate, reflecting a tendency towards suicide. So do these twelve "hits" represent a genuine astrological effect? Let us not praise the day before nightfall! Because we must realise that both Uranus and Neptune are very slow planets. When they form a normal Zodiacal aspect it will last for years. This implies that everyone born in those years will experience sooner or later in his Chart the same Primary aspects.

Most subjects of the sample were born in the years between 1935 and 1945. Almost right in the middle of this period Uranus formed a long-lasting trine with Neptune. Given a first fact, namely that the average age of these 62 was around 30 years when they died, and also given a second fact, namely that on the latitude of New York (where all 62 were born) the average Primary Arc will be around 30 degrees, then it becomes obvious that a relatively great number of them will have experienced either a quincunx (120+30) or a square (120-30) in Primary Direction between Uranus and Neptune. And that is exactly what happened: I haven't counted 150dg. aspects as they were excluded from the Program, but of the twelve "hard" aspects between Primary Uranus and Neptune the great majority were squares.

Astronomical Artefact

As this demonstrates the "effect" of an astronomical artefact, these twelve hard aspects can be eliminated from the candidacy for a genuine astrological effect - unless someone proposes the hypothesis that a natal trine between Uranus and Neptune denotes a disposition to suicide. But then I have to point out that this hypothesis was already

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
62 Cases of Suicide (Contd.)	1
Comment on above	3
Analysis of a Male Suicide	3 implicitly tested by Nona Press and others who demonstrated that not one single factor in the natal charts of the 311 related to a disposition to suicide.

Another Approach

So what looked promising was not relevant at all. This leaves us a few more, but smaller peaks. For example, nine "soft" Primary aspects between Neptune and Mars. Unfortunately, the number nine is not removed far enough from the average of 5.5 to have any meaning. It is time for a different approach: Most astrologers will agree that a progressed aspect from planet A to natal planet B should produce essentially the same effect as progressed planet B to natal planet A. I decided to combine the two pairs and count the results. For example, add both soft and hard hits of the pair Sun-Moon together, and add that to the addition of soft Moon-Sun to hard Moon-Sun. Sun-Moon equals 5 (4+1), and Moon-Sun equals 6 (4+2), giving 11. Note, by the way, that this is twice the earlier given expectancy of the average.

Thus, adding up of all data again reveals that, on the whole, nothing special is emerging. There are in total 130 combinations (leaving out the contacts between the Angles, such as Asc to Asc, or Asc to MC, and vice versa, and the contacts between a Primary planet and its own natal position - note the n/a designation in the Table). The number of each of them hovers mostly around 11. But there are interesting exceptions!

Noteworthy Exceptions

There is again the dual combination of Uranus and Neptune. UR/NE + NE/UR = 20. Looks good, but must be eliminated as it is based on the astronomical artefact we have already discussed.

There is also a high number of the Saturn/Uranus combination. SA/UR + UR/SA = 19. Unfortunately, again very suspect as they are very slow-moving planets, too. Every astrologer knows that in the years we have examined, Saturn and Uranus stayed close together for quite a few years. So the above discussed astronomical artefact applies for them as well.

Very interesting though is the dual combination of Venus-Pluto. The total number is very small: VE/PL + PL/VE = 3. Statistical analysis of this combination reveals that this conspicuously low occurrence is significant. $P = .0138$, or the odds against chance are 1 in 72. Does this mean anything? At this stage we will not know, as only further tests on other samples must bear this out. There is one thing certain though - no astronomical artefact is involved, as Venus is a fast-moving planet. Therefore it is far less likely that an entire generation experiences a natal aspect between Venus and Pluto.

MA/SA + SA/MA = 24!

Finally, the most interesting dual combination, Mars-Saturn and Saturn-Mars. This is more than twice the expected average. This is all the more interesting because the Mars/Saturn combination is by many astrologers, notably the Ebertin School, associated with death! Note, too, that while Mars is a fast-moving planet, the aforementioned astronomical artefact is far less likely to apply than between the slow planets.

So do we have, at last, empirical proof? It looks like it when we see the probability of the result: $P > .00004$, i.e., odds against chance are 1 in 25000. A nice and very promising figure indeed. But again, it will only be of some value if it can be replicated in a few other tests. If it does not replicate, then we can forget about it. If it does, no conclusion may be drawn - it only warrants further investigation. Besides, even though it may seem to be a real effect, it is still far too weak to base any kind of forecast upon. In other words, Topocentric Primary Mars to Natal Saturn, or Topocentric Primary Saturn to Natal Mars, be it conjunction, square, opposition, sextile or trine, does not in any way necessarily dispose to suicidal behaviour!

A Rigorous Test

Besides there is another very rigorous statistical test that will determine whether the one outstanding result truly is significant, yes or no. After all, when such a high number of contacts is involved, a single high peak may well fall within the range of expectation. And, alas, the so-called chi-square (one of the most widely used and rigorous statistical tests) told us precisely that... Thus, although there is a seemingly very significant peak, it is probably without much relevance after all. Nevertheless, that one single factor (MA/SA + SA/MA), warrants further investigation. So I hope to get other samples together in the not too distant future.

Other Findings and Conclusions

I do not want to go into more detail now, so let me summarize the above and a few other findings in this sample of 62:

1. The Table clearly shows that, on the whole, there is no special preference for specific Primary Directions occurring around the date of suicide. Any Primary Direction can occur, which is in accordance with expectation. The small and seemingly relevant peak does not necessarily represent a genuine astrological effect.
2. There is no preference for hard aspects. Soft and hard aspects are evenly distributed.
3. Closer examination of the 26 Charts whose birth times had an accuracy better than one minute, revealed that the "very small orb" rule of the Topocentrists does not hold good. It is rather rare that orbs smaller than 5 minutes of arc occur, and if it occurs it is certainly not always with a "fitting" aspect.
4. The "rule" propagated by many astrologers that with major events in life, the Ascendant and/or the MC is "always" involved, does not hold good either. The score of Primary Ascendant to any planet or fitting planets, or any Primary planet to the Angles, was far from impressive not only in the entire sample but also in the 26 with the highly accurate birth times. The number of "hits" was well within the range of expectancy.
5. Another interesting finding was that the type of aspect and the nature of involved planets, on the whole, hardly reflected the nature of the suicide. Suicide by drugs (sleeping) could coincide with Primary Ascendant/Mars, while with violent suicides (jumping, shooting, throwing oneself from the train, etc.) there was virtually no coincidence with hard Mars aspects, or only with soft ones.

What Now?

What I have tested so far are hypotheses relating to Primary aspects to and from the planets and Angles. As far as Topocentric Primaries in the charts of people who died a suicidal death are concerned, I could not confirm any of them. Yet again, this does not rule out the possibility that in one way or another the Topocentric Primaries do relate to important events. But perhaps we should not solely look at the astrological nature of the planets, but House rulerships should be taken into account as well?

That, then, will be the subject of a later study.

COMMENT ON THE ABOVE

Rudolf Smit's investigation of the suicides has been directed to establishing (a) whether there is a common "suicidal" factor among them, and (b) what indications, if any, are given by the astrological techniques most commonly used for prognosis - Primary Directions, Secondary Progressions, Zodiacal Solar-Arc Directions, and Transits.

His investigation has, at this stage, necessarily been limited because of the immense amount of work entailed, so it is understandable that he has not dealt with a number of other important factors, among them Synodic Returns, Solar Returns, Midpoints and Harmonics, nor taken account of certain Natal factors deemed to be important - the Vertex (the so-called "Third Angle", where the Ecliptic crosses the Prime Vertical in the West), the Equatorial Ascendant (usually referred to as the "East Point"), and the Moon's Nodes.

What Rudolf's investigations appear to show, with the factors and procedures he used, is not that there aren't any pointers to suicide, but, firstly, that there is no standard factor - the indications vary from chart to chart - and, secondly, that the suicide itself is not closely timed. In some cases this could be attributed to small errors in the birth time - with Primary Directions, for instance, an error of one minute in the birth time displaces the dating of the events by approximately three months. In cases not covered by this possibility we must look further for the apposite Natal factors and their date of operation.

For most astrologers the chief interest will lie in identifying the Natal factors that suggest a propensity to suicide, with the connotation that, once warning is given, measures may be found to reduce the tendency.

Here, for instance, is one of the Charts Rudolf has been working on and which he sent to me. It is the Horoscope of a male born on the 7th of December 1938, who hanged himself on the 11th of March 1969, at the age of 30 years 3 months. The birth time, given as 6:26 pm, purports to be accurate within less than a minute.

MALE SUICIDE, BORN 7TH DECEMBER 1938

Hanged himself 11th March 1969

New York, 6:26 pm EST (UT 11:26 pm).

73 W 56, 40 N 38. Placidian Cusps.

We would not normally approach a chart with the attitude, "Is this person a potential suicide?", but certain pointers might well give rise to that suspicion. In the Chart we are dealing with (illustrated) the Sign Cancer rises, and its Ruler, the Moon, is in close square to Neptune and opposite Mercury. Mercury and Neptune square one another. The Moon and Mercury are closely associated with the mental processes, while Neptune in adverse aspect suggests unreal conceptions - and sometimes a lack of the will to live. This is not alone sufficient to justify a verdict of "a potential suicide", but at least it prompts us to look further. The position of Neptune in the "End of Life" House, square to the Ruler of that House is another indication that our fears may be well founded.

It is significant that the birth occurred on the very day of a Lunar Eclipse (7th December 1938) and was followed a fortnight later by a Solar Eclipse (22nd December 1938)! Throughout history eclipses have been associated with disaster and tragedy. The 17th Century John Milton, in his famous poem Lycidas, mourns the drowning of a dear friend - "It was that fatal and perfidious barque, Built in the eclipse and rigged with curses dark, That sunk so low that sacred head of thine".

One of the first procedures we might adopt could be examination of the Midpoints, or half-sums, of all Significators. Now that we suspect some propensity to self-destruction we would naturally look first to the Midpoints involving the so-called "malefics" - Pluto, Neptune, Saturn and Mars. Significant supporting factors then soon come to light:

MOON/PLUTO, 11Cn59, SQUARE SATURN at 11Ar17: Depressed moods, emotional suffering.

URANUS/PLUTO, 226e58, SQUARE NEPTUNE at 23Vi15: Neurotic disability, and "the step into the unknown"! (Witte-Lefeldt).

SATURN/URANUS, 27Ar58, OPPOSITE MARS at 27Li30: "Violent release from tensions or strains" (R. Ebertin).

It will be noted that all the above Midpoint aspects have small orbs, adding to their effectiveness. Things are now looking serious indeed, but if further confirmation is needed, we find it in the Harmonic Charts. Some four years ago Ross Harvey of NSW drew particular attention to the value of Harmonics, and my experience with them bears out what he said.

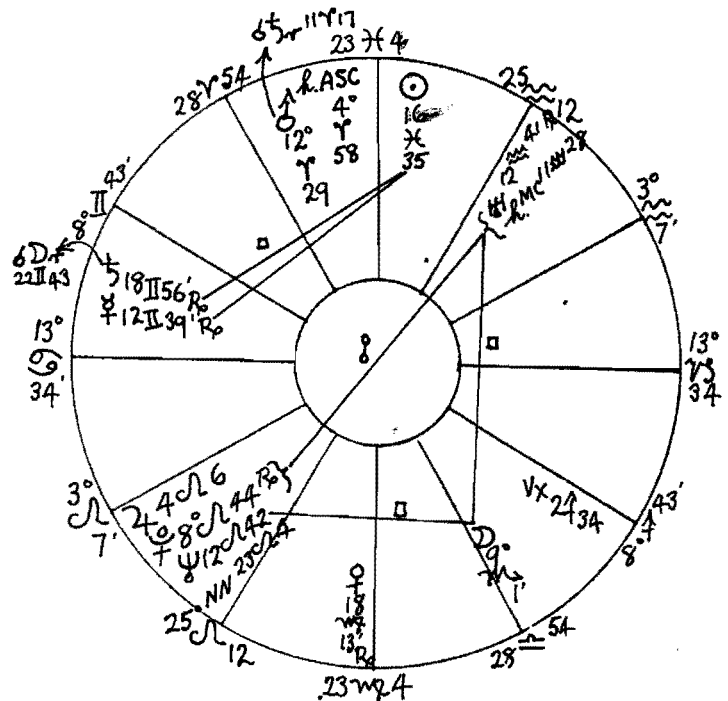

In the present instance, it would be natural to examine first the Harmonic Charts 7 and 16, both of which numbers are associated with the planet Neptune, Neptune being the chief danger in the life under discussion because of its Natal aspects detailed above. These Harmonics do, indeed, strongly reinforce our conclusions.

The Seventh Harmonic is reproduced here, superimposed on the Birth Chart Houses (Placidian). In general, I have found this a more satisfactory way of depicting Harmonics than by using either the Harmonic Midheaven or Ascendant as the basis for the Chart, though the latter is the method David Hamblin favours in his book, Harmonic Charts (The Aquarian Press, 1983). It is true, as Charles Harvey says in his Foreword to that book, that Harmonics "will transform your Astrology".

The Harmonic Ascendant and Midheaven are shown where they would fall within the Birth Chart. Those who have not as yet investigated Harmonics may be astonished or confused by the appearance of spatial relationships that cannot occur in a normal Radix. The Midheaven may appear below the Ascendant, Mercury or Venus opposite the Sun, etc. These phenomena are quite usual in a Harmonic Chart though impossible in a Birth Horoscope, and they may reveal characteristics not easily discerned otherwise.

In the delineation process, one looks for aspects between the Harmonic and the Radical Significators, as well as aspects within the Harmonic Chart itself.

MALE SUICIDE: SEVENTH HARMONIC ON BIRTH CHART HOUSES. Placidian Cusps

The 7th Harmonic here depicted shows Neptune conjunct Pluto and opposite both Uranus and the Harmonic MC in the terminal 8th House, with the Moon forming a T-Square! Furthermore, Saturn is square the Sun, Mars is conjunct Radical Saturn, Saturn is conjunct Mercury, Saturn and Mercury are both conjunct the Radical Moon on the Equatorial Ascendant.

The 16th Harmonic shows Mars square Uranus at the Midheaven, and conjunct the Radical Moon. Uranus is closely opposed to Radical Neptune on the Fourth Angle.

All these hard aspects of malefic planets add up to a situation of disaster. Those who care to investigate them will find further indications, almost as striking, in the 13th and 9th Harmonic Charts. (In the 13th, Mars opposite the Moon and conjunct Radical Neptune, Neptune opposite the Midheaven. In the 9th, Saturn conjunct the Ascendant, Neptune opposite the Midheaven.)

In next month's Issue I shall pursue the matter of pinpointing the date of the suicide. One point worth noting now is that the Topocentric Primary Direction SUN QUINCUNX SATURN occurred on 13th March 1969 - that is, within two days of the actual event! - Dymock.

In the March Astrologers' Forum I introduced readers to two excellent Computer Programs marketed by Rudolf Smit. The price was not given of "Virgo-0", the exceptionally easy Program for astrologers. It is only $25 on cassette, $30 on disk. At present the "Comprehensive Astrology" Program ($90 on cassette, $95 on disk) is available only for the Commodore 64 Computer, though it may shortly be available for the IBM PC. Both these low-cost Programs are highly recommended.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock, 19th April 1987.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques.
Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas - Airmail). Issue No. 68 19th March 1987.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

PREDICTIVE TECHNIQUE

From RUDOLF SMIT (WA): Astrologers' Forum No. 66 compelled me to write because in particular Alexander Marr's "Notes on Predictive Technique" contained a few conclusions and statements that are totally contrary to the most recent results from my large-scale experiments with Topocentric Primary Directions.

Realizing that space is limited, I will refrain from a long-winded comment on Mr. Marr's contentions; rather I wish to let my results speak for themselves. However, a short comment regarding Mr. Marr's Note "D" is in order. He says, "As a logical result of this, main events are produced always in connection with Primary Directions. These have small orbs and thus allow for the timing of events". Firstly, I do not see the logic of "as a logical result", but I am less surprised by this than (secondly) by the statement that there are ALWAYS (my capital letters - RS.) Primary Directions relevant to an important event. Perhaps Mr. Marr meant to say, "appropriate" P.D.'s? If that is what he meant, then my research showed that, though there are, indeed, virtually "always" Primary Directions in operation around almost any given date, the assumption that they are "always" appropriate, i.e., fitting the event, does not hold good - far from it, as I will demonstrate in due course.

I have the strong feeling that, given his statement under note "E", namely that his "best proof" is his research in 230 rectified charts, Alexander Marr will now protest and say, "Hold it! Did you research on rectified charts!? If not, then no wonder that the results are contrary to mine!"

My answer is that working with a sample of rectified charts, in the sense that they are used to test astrological theories other than rectification methods, is highly objectionable, because, apart from the fact that no rectification method is 100% reliable, working with rectified charts means working towards a result; in other words, making sure that the result will fit the expectations. In any type of enquiry such a procedure would be unequivocally rejected! There is absolutely no reason to

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Predictive Technique	1
Analysis of 62 Suicides	1
Economical Computer Programs	4
The Terry Haite Horary Chart	4
English Channel Ferry disaster	4 assume that procedures in astrological research should be viewed differently.

Therefore, any research into astrological assumptions should be conducted on samples of charts whose birth times are, on the one hand, not rectified, but, on the other hand, have not only been recorded on a birth certificate, but also as accurately timed as possible. I consider as reasonably reliable, times given with a precision of five minutes, and as very reliable times given with a precision of two minutes. Examples of the first category are 5:05, 11:50, 21:55, 7:10, etc. Examples of the second category are 9:01, 17:59, 10:23, 3:42, etc. (Naturally, birth times presumably rounded to the full or half hour are suspect.) Of course, I am well aware that even the seemingly high accuracy of such birth times is not a guarantee that they truly are precise! But it is the best that we can get.

62 CASES OF SUICIDE

My most recent research topic is a test of some major systems of Progressions and Directions on a sample of 62 people who died a suicidal death. The sample was supplied by New York astrologer, Mrs. Nona Press, who, in the early seventies, conducted a comprehensive, fully computerised study on 311 charts of people who took their own lives. The results of this study were summarised in Geoffrey Dean's RECENT ADVANCES IN NATAL ASTROLOGY (ps. 558-560). They showed that although about 100,000 different factors were examined in these Charts, not one of them correlated significantly with suicide - hence no factor indicating proneness to suicide in these Charts could be isolated. Manual analysis of factors that were not included in the computer program did not fare any better.

This is a good sample for research because (a) Press and others did not put the 311 through all sorts of Progressions and Directions, and (b), above all, the enquiry on the Natal Charts did not yield any results supporting astrological theory. This makes the sample of 311 an unbiased one for further research.

Mrs Press obtained the data of 2250 people who had committed suicide, but the birth time, as recorded on a birth certificate, could be ascertained for only 311. 62 of these included the date and approximate time of the suicide, 26 having birth times with an accuracy better than one minute, another 26 with an accuracy better than five minutes, and the remaining 10 having the usual suspect accuracy of the full or half-hour.

This was, then, a beautiful sample for research purposes because (1) 84% of the Charts had a birth time accuracy better than five minutes or less, (2) the Charts were about the most important event in someone's life - his/her departure from this world. Moreover it was self-inflicted. If there was any truth in the theory of the diverse predictive systems, then it would show up. (3) The sample was large enough to show a common factor, if any. (4) The sample was large enough for thorough analysis of the results, and thus representative for the group.

The Procedure

My intention was to put the sample to the test with (a) Primary Directions, system Placidus/van Dam, (b) Primary Directions, Topocentric system, (c) Secondary Progressions, (d) Solar-Arc Directions, (e) Transits.

Project (a), Primary Directions according to the system Placidus/van Dam (in this country better known as "Prime Event Analysis") has been completed. The results were discouraging - not one single factor, or combination of factors stood out. Projects (c), (d), and (e) are on their way, and project (b) testing Topocentric Primary Directions on the 62 was completed a few months ago. For this project I used the MATRIX M-113 Computer Program (for Commodore Computers PET and C-64, which, incidentally, had been largely designed by Alexander Marr!). I bought this Program from MATRIX some years ago and was able to modify it here and there. One of the drawbacks is its very slow operation. However, this has been overcome since I managed to "compile" it, i.e., transform it into a much faster running program. I now have two versions of the Program, one which calculates and prints the major Primary aspects only, and one which calculates and prints all major and minor aspects.

In this project I used the major aspects version only, for two reasons:

(1) If there is any truth in astrological postulations, then the most important event in someone's life should coincide with major aspects only, preferably the "hard" ones (conjunction, opposition, square).

(2) Inclusion of all minor aspects would only make detection of any effect a lot harder. The more types of aspects, the greater the possibility that any significant effect "drowns" in the multitude of data. (It should be mentioned that the Topocentrists use both "direct" and "converse" Primaries, which doubles the number of contacts. This produces the effect of not seeing the wood for the trees!

The next step was the entry of the birth data and the date of death into the Program, and running the Charts off one by one. Although in the compiled version the Program was considerably faster than it was initially, processing of 62 Charts took several days, spread out over several weeks.

It is important to know that the Program allows the orbs of the Primary aspects to be preset. The Topocentrists contend that accurately timed charts always produce fitting Primary aspects within an orb of 5 minutes of arc, at the most. If the orb is too large, then the chart should be rectified. As I have already said, for research-procedural reasons rectified charts may not be used in research projects. However, possible small errors in the birth time can be catered for by adjusting the preset orb. If this is one degree, then any aspect within that orb, whether it is fitting or not, will be printed. For this reason all Charts were run with the preset orb of one degree.

Reading the Table

This should not present much difficulty. Primary Planets and Angles are set out in the lefthand column, the Natal Planets and Angles in the top row. Two types of aspects are indicated: "+" for the soft aspects, trine and sextile, "-" for the hard aspects, square, opposition and conjunction.

EXAMPLES: (1) Aspects of Primary Sun to Natal Mars. Look in the first row under Mars. It shows that the Primary Sun made four "soft" aspects with Natal Mars, and three "hard" aspects, within the preset orb

PRIMARY CONTACTS (TOPOCENTRIC SYSTEM) AT DATES OF DEATH OF 62 SUICIDE VICTIMS

RADIX POSITIONS ----->

Aspects		SUN		MOON		MERCURY		VENUS		MARS		JUPITER		SATURN		URANUS		NEPTUNE		PLUTO		ASCEND.		MIDHEVN		TOTALS
		+	-	+	-	+	-	+	-	+	-	+	-	+	-	+	-	+	-	+	-	+	-	+	-
P	SU	n/a		4	1	3	3	2	3	4	3	5	3	2	3	1	4	3	4	3	1	4	3	2	2	63
R	MO	4	2	n/a		6	2	8	5	2	0	4	5	3	3	5	4	1	1	4	4	2	3	2	3	73
I	ME	1	1	1	1	n/a		1	3	2	3	2	4	3	2	3	6	3	1	4	2	1	3	2	0	49
M	VE	3	4	2	1	2	6	n/a		3	4	2	0	3	3	0	0	1	3	0	0	3	5	3	3	51
A	MA	3	1	2	3	3	1	2	0	n/a		1	2	8	4	7	1	2	2	2	1	2	1	2	4	54
R	JU	2	1	2	2	3	1	3	0	2	1	n/a		2	2	7	2	2	1	2	2	2	2	2	4	47
Y	SA	1	3	4	2	2	3	3	3	5	7	2	0	n/a		4	5	4	2	3	2	3	0	5	1	64
P	UR	1	4	4	2	4	2	1	3	4	0	3	2	4	6	n/a		2	12	4	1	2	2	1	2	66
S	NE	3	1	5	4	1	1	1	4	9	2	3	1	3	2	0	6	n/a		0	7	1	2	1	3	60
I	PL	4	1	1	3	2	3	1	2	1	1	2	8	3	3	3	1	0	0	n/a		4	3	5	5	56
O	AS	1	5	3	5	5	6	0	2	3	2	3	4	2	3	1	2	3	3	3	4	NOT APPLICABLE				60(72)
N	MC	2	2	2	1	2	2	1	0	1	0	1	3	0	2	4	2	4	3	4	1	NOT APPLICABLE				37(44)
S	TOTALS	25	25	30	25	34	30	23	25	36	23	28	32	33	33	35	33	25	32	29	25	24	24	25	27	680

CONTACTS BY PRIMARILY DIRECTED POINTS (TOPOCENTRIC SYSTEM), MEASURED IN CHARTS OF 62 NATIVES WHO COMMITTED SUICIDE.

PRIMARY POSITIONS CALCULATED FOR DATE OF DEATH. ALL CONTACTS WITHIN ORB OF 1 DEGREE.

SAMPLE SUPPLIED BY MRS NONA PRESS, OF NEW YORK.

OF 62 CHARTS 26 HAD EXTREMELY ACCURATE BIRTH TIMES (WITHIN 1 MINUTE);

26 HAD ACCURACY OF BETTER THAN 5 MINUTES; REMAINDER HAD NORMAL ACCURACY, I.E. TIMES RECORDED ON FULL OR HALF HOUR.

ASPECTS: + STANDS FOR SEXTILE AND TRINE; - FOR SQUARE AND OPPOSITION; C FOR CONJUNCTION.

NOTE THAT CONTACT BETWEEN THE ANGLES HAVE NOT BEEN TAKEN INTO ACCOUNT. THEREFORE, THEIR TOTALS HAVE BEEN MODIFIED (IN BRACKETS).

of one degree. (2) Primary Pluto to the Natal Ascendant. Under Natal Ascendant (third column from the right) go down to Primary Pluto (third row from the bottom). The Table shows that Primary Pluto made four, "soft" and three "hard" aspects with the Natal Ascendant. (This, by the way, is hardly impressive, considering that for many astrologers Pluto is the suicide planet!)

The two figures in each square normally add up to around 5 or 6, with a few notable, but not particularly strong, exceptions. A not so complex calculation produced as the expected average the number 5.5! This implies that most of the results are exactly in accordance with what could be expected, meaning that not much relevance can be attached to these results.

The Table tells us that almost any aspect between any pair of planets or planets/-Angles will occur in virtually equal numbers in this sample of 62 people who committed suicide. Does this explain, therefore, that any Primary aspect between any two planets can be (astrologically) responsible for a suicide? Isn't that a bit far-fetched? I is far safer to say that nothing has been explained at all, because the contacts are spread all over the place - none of them are truly standing out, in large peaks, that is. Thus a tentative conclusion could be that on the whole Topocentric Primary Directions fail to indicate suicide, not even in precisely timed charts. However, closer analysis of the Table reveals that there are a few "peaks", after all, (the "exceptions" I mentioned earlier).

[Rudolf Smit's analysis of the 62 suicide Charts will be concluded in the next Astrologers' Forum. - Ed.]

This is a suitable point to draw attention to two Computer Programs marketed by Rudolf. They are very suitable for astrologers, and very reasonably priced indeed. The first one is COMPREHENSIVE ASTROLOGY, and gives, in the one Program, all the Natal positions (Cusps, planets and the planetoid, Chiron), the Natal aspects, the Progressed positions and Progressed aspects for any number of years, the Primary Directions (Placidus/van Dam System), the Zodiacal Solar-Arc Directions, Transits for any date, all the Midpoints in the Natal Chart, and Harmonics of the Natal Chart. It is indeed a comprehensive Program. I have used it myself with great satisfaction for the past four years. And the price? - $90 on cassette, or $95 on disk! Astrologers who are familiar with the usual cost of astrological software will recognize this as being phenomenally low. The Program suits the Commodore C-64 and a number of other computers (details from Rudolf Smit, 100 Shillington Way, Thornlie WA 6108).

The second Program referred to is called VIRGO-0, developed by Rudolf especially for beginners in astrology using the C-64. It is a Radix Program only, enormous pains being taken with the entry procedure, so that it is hardly possible for anyone to go wrong, even the veriest tyro. Astrologers with no experience or knowledge of computers and computing will find this Program will ease them into the electronic age with a minimum of discomfort. - Dymock.

THE HORARY CHART RE TERRY WAITE

(see last Issue)

From OLIVIA BARCLAY (Eng.): Because this is a Journal for discussion I am sure my good friend Dymock will not mind if I state my reasons for entirely disagreeing with his analysis of the Terry Waite Chart. If the Chart had been for an event, for the time of the initial action by the Church, then indeed the First House might represent the Church. But this is a Horary Chart, and one characteristic of a Horary is that the First House represents the questioner, the home team, the country, we ourselves. Here it represents us, those of us who ask where Terry Waite is, the British public, Aries... It may not strongly represent the querent except in a general way because of the nature of the question, but, as a matter of fact, the question was from Sue Ward's sister, who has an Aries Ascendant.

The Church is always the 9th House, as those with Christian Astrology can see from the Chart on page 419 where Lilly asked what manner of death the Archbishop would die. The 9th is the Church, as it is in this question about the Envoy of the Church. Waite is the 5th from the 9th for he is the Envoy of the Church, and not of the Nation. Aries is on the Cusp of the 5th from the 9th, and Mars is the symbol of him. Mars is in the 12th of captivity. Uranus on the 9th shows the shock to the Church.

When Zain states the querent is not represented in a question of such general interest he means that Mars may not particularly describe the querent, he does not mean that the 1st House is not the House of those who question. Nor do I see how Dymock can tell us on page 1 that Jupiter rules Pisces and on page 3 that Neptune does. Outer planets rule things but not Signs in Horary. If they ruled Signs they would make a nonsense of Ptolemy's "Table of Fortitudes", which we rely on in our judgements.

I do agree with him that the final application of the Moon to Jupiter is heartening, since the Moon is Co-Significator of Waite and Jupiter the natural Significator of the Church, and hope this shows eventual release, though it must be remembered that Sue Ward did not ask that question in the first place, but within the bounds of her question gave a correct forecast, using the correct Houses.

This is an interesting point regarding the Terry Waite Horary Chart, but Olivia does not persuade me: Lilly himself used the Houses in the same way as I did in this instance. On page 401 of Christian Astrology is a Chart Lilly drew on 17th April 1643 to answer the question "If his Excellency, Robert Earl of Essex, should take Reading [an English Town, besieged during the Civil War], having then surrounded it with his Army". On page 403 we read that "a person of honour demanded this Question", nevertheless Lilly ascribes the First House not to the Querent but to General Essex, who was besieging Reading. Lilly also notes (p. 403) that "had this Question been of a Law Suit" [that is, not a matter of general public interest, but of immediate personal interest to a querent] "Who should overcome?", the Ascendant, its Ruler and the Moon would have represented the querent.

A further demonstration of a public-interest question is on p. 383 - whether two armies shall fight. Here, again, the First and Seventh Houses signify the protagonists, the two armies, and the querent is not represented.

A more recent example of a public-interest question decided in the same way is given in Alan Leo's Horary Astrology, page 71. The astrologer, "Henry", received this question from one Thomas Pemberton of Texas: "Would like advice on the coming National Election. Who shall I bet on, Harrison or Cleveland?". Harrison, being the first named, was taken as signified by the Ascendant, and Cleveland as denoted by the Descendant. Neither Querent nor Astrologer were represented by the First House. The Astrologer judged correctly that Cleveland would win, which is a matter of USA history.

In the light of these examples, and my own confirmatory experience, I feel justified in adhering to my original interpretation of the Terry Waite Chart. Notwithstanding that the Querent's Sun-Sign corresponded with the Ascendant, the First House represented the initiator of the mission, the Querent having no direct, personal interest in the matter but sharing the general public concern. The Ninth House for the Church would be appropriate only if the Church played a secondary role, but here it played the primary role.

I referred to Neptune as being the Co-Ruler of Pisces, with Jupiter the Ruler in a Horary Chart, but I concede that the outer planets are more representative of things than Signs. Olivia is well-versed in the Horary Art. - Dymock.

A brief note regarding the English Channel Ferry disaster: The Solar Eclipse of 3rd October 1986, set for Zeebrugge, gave warning of the tragedy, Mars being conjunct the Midheaven (orb 7'!). It occurred on the very day, Friday, the 6th of March, that Mars was exactly opposite Pluto, across the Angular 1st and 7th Houses at Zeebrugge. Pluto's oblique ascension shows it was less than four degrees below the Ascendant.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock.

19th March 1987.

Astrologers Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas - Airmail). Issue No. 67 19th February 1987.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

The Real Business of Astrology

I have long advocated the use of Horary Charts as one means of making Astrology useful and practical in our lives. I do not decry the work of those astrologers who specialize in finding precise data on which to base a horoscope. This is often necessary and sometimes indispensable. At other times approximate birth or inceptual data will serve just as well, if Primary Directions are not required in the particular case.

Nor do I discount the attempts of astrologers to delve deeply into the psyche, through the medium of the horoscope, in order to give the native a fuller understanding and acceptance of him/herself. The fact that these attempts sometimes degenerate into fantasy is irrelevant.

But when all this psychological or precision mathematical work is done, the real business of Astrology starts - using the horoscope to make the life of the native more fulfilling. Desirable as it is to have precise data, that is only the beginning, and having attained it we should do something meaningful with it.

For this reason I encourage students to look forward (as well as back) into the lives and circumstances of their subjects. By uncovering future trends the astrologer can help the subject to develop, conquer fears, start to accept varying circumstances and enjoy life.

The means for doing this, for the great majority of astrologers, lies in observation of Transits, and the Secondary Progressions. For those who have taken the trouble to acquire the mathematics involved (or who use a computer program), Primary Directions add a further dimension. Still more can be gleaned from Cyclic Charts (Solar, Lunar and Synodic Returns) and Age Harmonics.

This is a considerable armamentarium, but still it does not suffice in all the eventualities of life. There are many problems and questions to which it seems no satisfactory or clear answer can be obtained from any of the above techniques. That is where the Horary Chart comes into its own. If the question is answerable, if it is clear and definite in the mind of the querent, the Horary Chart will answer it.

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The Real Business of Astrology	1
Terry Waite, Envoy	1
A Fourth-House Question	3
The B.O.H. (Koch "Birthplace") Domification System	4

Certainly mistakes are made, in this as in other branches of our art. Mistakes are not the monopoly of the rest of humanity - our political leaders, economists, investors, scientists, doctors, architects, engineers, lawyers, theologians, military generals, etc. Astrologers do make them, too; even horary astrologers. But their record, I venture to say, is at least as good as that of other specialists.

The above is a preamble to two Horary Charts from England that I am introducing into the present Issue: One concerning the disappearance in Lebanon of Terry Waite, the special Church Envoy sent to negotiate the release of hostages held by terrorists, and the other relating to the sale of a house. They are good illustrations of the horary method, as also of the room there is for different opinions on some matters.

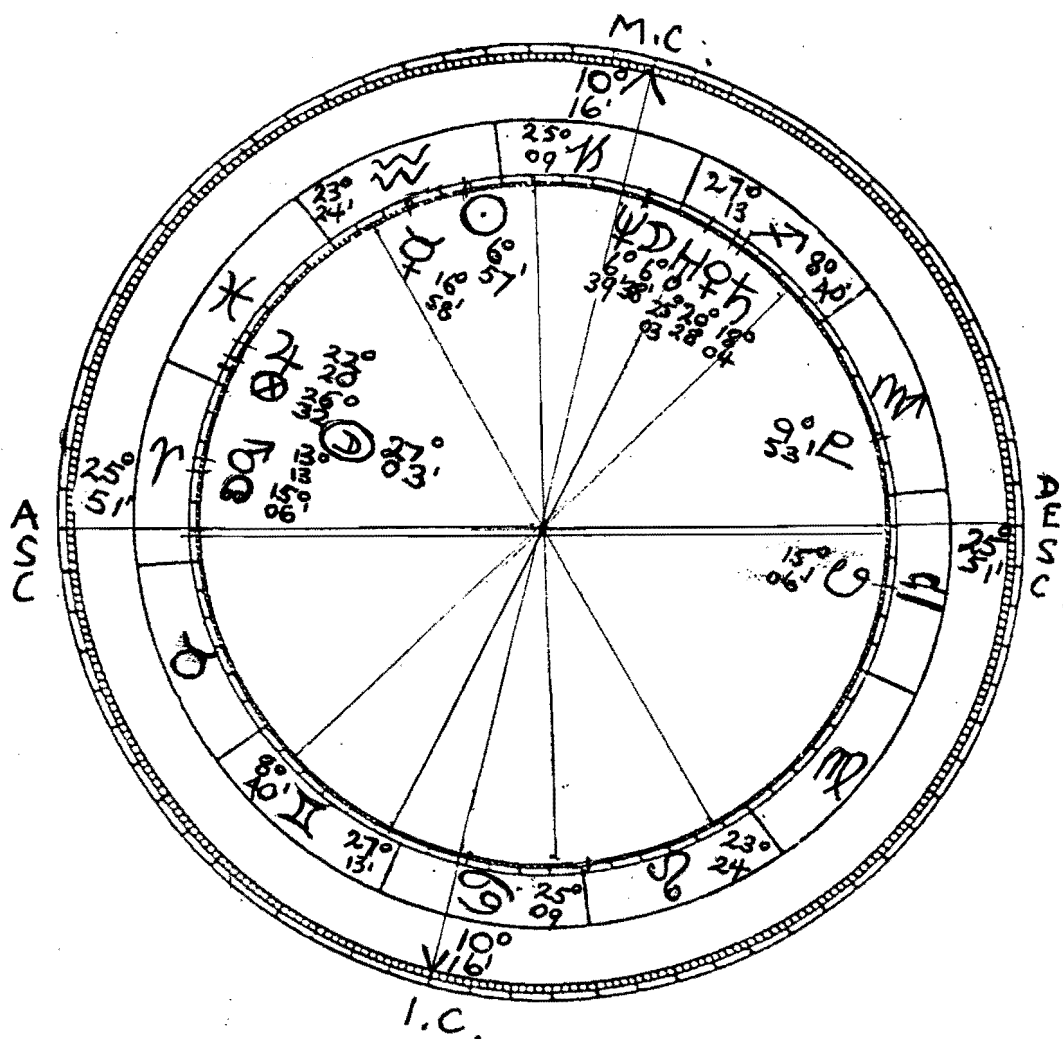

It may be necessary first to explain one or two points applying to these Charts: In Horary Astrology Saturn is taken as the Ruler of Aquarius, Jupiter as the Ruler of Pisces, and Mars as the Ruler of Scorpio. "Derived", or "Judgement" Houses in a Horary Chart are those found by re-numbering the Houses starting with the one that is the Ascendant for the particular person or matter being considered. The House Division system used here is that of Regiomontanus, which was the one favoured by the great 17th Century English Astrologer, William Lilly. It does seem to be remarkably apposite in Horary Astrology. - Dymock.

TERRY WAITE, ENVOY

SUE WARD (Eng.), who is responsible for the first Horary Chart, wrote the following on the 27th of January 1987:

IS TERRY WAITE BEING HELD CAPTIVE?. IS HE WELL? WHEN WILL NEWS OF HIM BE RECEIVED?

27th January 1987, 10:17 am UT. 00 E 45, 51 N 32. Regiomontanus Cusps.

"Terry Waite, as a Church Envoy is signified by the 5th House from the 9th, i.e., Aries, the Radical Ascendant. His Significators are Aries and its Ruler, Mars, and the Moon. The Church is shown by Sagittarius on the 9th Cusp, and its Ruler Jupiter, the senders of the Envoy. The message [mission] itself is the Moon. It is intended for Mercury, Ruler of the 7th House from the 9th [Derived Ascendant] which has Gemini on its Cusp, with Waite as carrier of that message.

"Mars, the principal Significator of Waite is in the 12th House (captivity). This position can also indicate his having undertaken a very long journey.

"Mars is Cadent, and does not aspect the Ascendant, showing he cannot come home, although the applying trine of Mars to Saturn, Ruler of the 12th, shows he could negotiate with his captors, or, as Saturn rules the 4th House from the 9th, that he will return.

"The Moon, Ruler of the original 4th House, is square Mars, showing him detained.

"Mercury, natural significator of news, applies to the dexter sextile of Saturn, Ruler of the original 10th House, the world. In the Ephemeris this sextile is perfected on the morning of 28th January 1987, when news will be made public."

[OLIVIER BARCLAY (Eng.) here interpolates a note: "Sure enough, on the morning of the 28th news was made public that Terry Waite was held captive, although the details of this Horary Chart and interpretation had been telephoned to me on the 27th."]

Sue Ward, again: "Mars is strong in Aries, and the Ascendant not afflicted, so he is well.

"In the Ephemeris, Mars conjuncts the Radical Ascendant on February 14th, which could bring him back home; but it seems rather a long time." [This did not eventuate, but when the full story is known, this date may coincide with some other significant incident. - Ed.]

The Moon conjunct Neptune shows confusion with regard to the message he carried [or his mission]. Mercury signifies the person the message is sent to and is in Waite's House of Friends and Objectives. But Mercury is disposed by Saturn, Ruler of the 12th, and is in mutual reception with Saturn [by "Term". See Lilly's Christian Astrology, page 104. - Ed.] Could it be that the people the message was for are holding him? The good aspects involving Mars suggest that he may have gone to his captivity willingly."

A further note from OLIVIA BARCLAY, written on 5th February, 1987: "Mars in Aries in the 12th House signifies a long journey to the East - East of Bierut; strong Mars and strong Jupiter by Signs, in health and great faith. In my opinion, Venus shows the obvious enemy, 7th House from the 1st, whereas Waite is in the hands of his unknown or unsuspected enemy, Saturn (being Ruler of the 12th) - his captors are the less obvious ones."

"The Moon with Neptune so evident shows duplicity, and one of which Terry Waite may be aware since the Moon is his Co-Significator."

"I do not like the violent final Mars/Uranus aspect (the trine merely makes it easier). Venus, the obvious opponent, has been with the captors; Venus departs from Saturn, and it is Venus that activates the Mars/Uranus contact. Maybe, Venus seeks the ransom, its antiscion [9 Cap 32] falling on the 2nd House of the Church."

"Further comments from Dymock would, I am sure, be very welcome."

Perhaps the chief difficulty in Horary Astrology is determining the correct House to signify the person or matter concerned. C.C. Zain, (Horary Astrology, p. 140) says, "In a question which is of interest to the general public, rather than of special importance to the individual who asks it...the querent is not represented in the chart. Instead, each House takes on its common significance...and the question belongs to, and should be answered from, the Houses and their rulers thus commonly significant of the affairs chiefly involved."

I venture to think, therefore, that this Chart should be read as is. The Querent (Sue Ward) is not represented, but the prime mover, the Church of England, is indicated by the Ascendant in Aries (initiative and enterprise). The terrorists are shown by the Seventh; the Envoy, Terry Waite, by the Fifth (the House of Ambassadors); and the imprisoned hostages by the Twelfth.

The Moon, Ruler of the 5th, now becomes Terry Waite's Significator, and is appropriately placed in Capricorn, the Sign of the Ambassador. The terrorists are also very appropriately signified by Pluto in the 7th, and the hostages (four university lecturers) by Jupiter in the 12th.

According to Lilly, the cause of the mission is shown by the planet to which the ambassador's significator applies. In this instance it is Neptune, Co-Ruler of the 12th House, the hostages, in exact conjunction with the Moon. Waite's mission was to negotiate their release. The Moon's application to the sextile of Pluto shows he made contact with the terrorists. In my view, the exact Neptune conjunction, together with the square of Mars, also means that the mission will be unsuccessful, and that Terry Waite himself will be taken prisoner, as has occurred. The square from Mars looks dangerous for Waite - gunshot wounds? But the Moon's final application to the sextile of Jupiter is reassuring, and I take it to indicate Waite's eventual release - perhaps at the end of June, when Jupiter transits the Radical Ascendant. - Dymock.

From ROGER PEARSON (ENG):

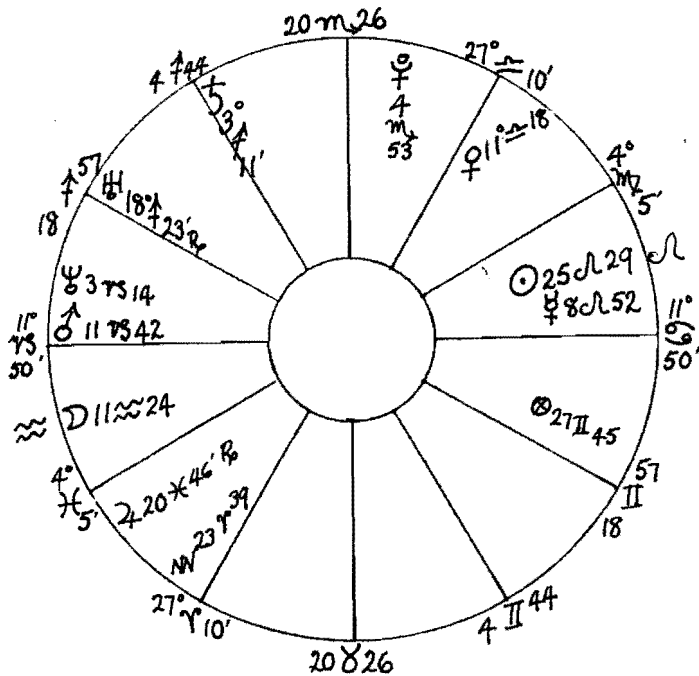

A Fourth House Question

A good friend of mine asked me the following question, understanding that I would cast a Horary Chart and judge it: "Will I sell my house to Mr. G.?" This was in August, at which time my friend was being pressed hard by his creditors. They held the deeds of his house by which he had secured a loan, but he had now fallen behind in the repayments. They could repossess his house if he defaulted on his repayments, and sell it to make good his debt. Therefore, his idea was to sell his house and clear his debts before the default date was due. This was his situation.

So I cast the Chart, and following the time-honoured method of judging horary charts, gave the Ascendant and the Ruler, Saturn, to signify my friend, the Moon being Co-Significator. Saturn in the 11th House clearly shows his keen hopes, along with Mars, conjunct the Ascendant and ruling the 10th, showing his ardent wish and need to succeed. In any question involving the selling of property the 4th House is given to the property under consideration. Here, Taurus is unoccupied, but Venus is in Libra, a fine testimony to the good condition of the house. Unfortunately, its position and placing in the village is obscure and in little demand, which is reflected by the

WILL I SELL MY HOUSE TO MR. G.?

18th August 1986. 2 W 33, 53 N 42. Regio. Cusps

8th-House position of Venus. This also shows the prevailing financial situation all too clearly.

The 7th House and its Ruler signifies the prospective buyer of the property. Mr. G. had inspected the house and was well pleased with it, and expressed a sincere and keen desire to purchase as soon as possible; so he contacted his solicitor immediately. Everything looked very promising for my friend. He then asked me the question we are studying.

The Moon rules the 7th, with the occupants Mercury and the Sun as Co-Significators. Do any of these apply by any aspect to 1st House Significators? Can they meet? The answer is No. The Moon applies most unfortunately by opposition to the Sun, her very next aspect. There are no receptions by triplicity, term, face or dignity which could alter the judgement significantly, as the Moon-Sun application is in Angular Houses. This indicates very definitely that the prospective purchaser will not be able to fulfill his promise.

Thus the answer to the question is No. Mr. G. will not purchase the house. However, my friend was optimistic (the Moon had only just passed a very fine trine to Venus!) and thought the deal would go through, and wasn't convinced by my interpretation at all. Things did indeed look rosy, despite the Horary Chart.

However I received a letter from him about three months later in which he informed me that Mr. G. had been unable, through lack of funds, to go through with the deal, and that his house has now been repossessed by his creditors.

This example shows the usefulness of horary methods in determining whether a particular event will come to pass. However, let no one think that Horary Astrology is easy or simple to practise. There are many pitfalls for the unsuspecting student. I hope though that astrologers throughout the world will lend their expertise in restoring Horary Astrology to its rightful place in the astrology of today.

ORIGIN AND STRUCTURE OF THE G.O.H. ("BIRTHPLACE HOUSES")

DOMIFICATION SYSTEM

by Alexander Marr

The construction of these House Cusps was created and compiled by SPECHT and ZANZINGER in the late 1950's. As Dr KOCH published the Tables in his own name there was long-lasting litigation with Dr. Koch's heirs. There is no doubt that Specht and Zanzinger can claim to be the true originators of this domification system, a fact of which I have first-hand knowledge.

I must admit that the formulae of the G.O.H. (Birthplace Houses) show much skill and a good knowledge of the celestial mechanics. This is evident mainly in the quite long-winded formulas for transpositions and reductions. The principle of this domification system is that the Poles of all twelve House Cusps are based on the Tangent of the Latitude, which in all traditional spherical systems is used only for the Ascendant.

However, as can be seen in the following analysis, there is a decisive error in logic and structure which shows that the attempt to force all Cusps into the Ascendant's Pole offends the laws of time (Right Ascension, Equator) and naturally also the principles of Poles (Horizon System).

The partition of an artificially constructed distance in oblique ascension between the RAMC and the RAIC suddenly changes over to a linear division of the OAMC-ODIC distance into six equal parts. In other words, the distance between the the pseudo-OAMC and ODIC is the division of a straight line, and ignores any spherical-trigonometrical principles (declination, obliquity, right ascension, poles). After this non-admissible division the originators of the system return to a very skilful transposition into longitude on, as it seems, admissible mathematical grounds.

EXAMPLE:

RAMC 31 00' Obliquity 23 27'; Pole (N.Lat.) Tan 47 23'

RAMC transposed into OAMC = 16 57'

RAIC transposed into ODIC = 225 03'

DIFFERENCE 208 06'

This pseudo OA-OD distance of 208 06' is finally divided into 6 equal parts on a linear one-dimension base (208 06'/6 = 34 41'). In our Example we get the following comparisons between the usual OA-distances of 30 degrees (Regiomontanus, Campanus, Topocentric) and those in the G.O.H. system.

CORRECT DIVISION

RAMC = 31 00'

OA XI = 61 00'

OA XII = 91 00'

OA ASC = 121 00'

OA II = 151 00'

OA III = 181 00'

RAIC = 211 00'

GOH DIVISION

OAMC = 16 57'

OA XI = 51 38'

OA XII = 86 19'

OA ASC = 121 00'

OA II = 155 41'

OA III = 190 22'

ODIC = 225 03'

It is quite natural that the OA's of the Ascendants are identical in both systems, because the G.O.H. domification is based on the uniform Pole of the Ascendant.

In our practical astrological work it becomes obvious that the Cusps in Longitude cannot be Directed or Progressed without being re-transposed to the standard time or arc measurements (RA, OA). In other words, they remain static.

Needless to say the G.O.H. system does not give any true results in Transit and Directional techniques either, although the Cusps in longitude on the Ecliptic (Zodiac) look much more even and harmonious than in other domification systems.

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock, 19th February 1987.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas - Airmail). Issue No. 66. 19th January 1987.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

ALEXANDER MARR (West German Fed.Republic) is known internationally as one of the most advanced astrologers in the world. He has to his credit numerous publications which go well beyond the usual rather elementary astrological works we see in the shops. They include a series of three recent works - PREDICTION, Using Common and Prenatal Cycles, PREDICTION II, and PREDICTION III. In the article below he discusses some of the techniques whose value he has established over a long period of years.

Notes on Predictive Technique in the Transit and Prenatal Transit System by Alexander Marr

A. No matter what system is used, the Converses (Prenatal Charts) should never be omitted.

B. The very number of highly effective Cyclics means that any particular Cyclic Chart cannot be analysed in detail. This accords both with logic and experience.

C. The factors that are important and workable in Cyclic Charts are the following:

1. Planets on Angles for the place of residence at the operational date, except that for Eclipses and Prenatal Eclipses the birth place seems to operate better. Much more useful than the common Solar Eclipses are those computed in the prenatal mode (Prenatal Transit System). These are much more individual and effective than the Transit-Eclipses [post-natal], which always have the same planetary positions for all people in the world. It has been found that only those Eclipses are noticeably effective where the Sun/Moon are conjunct a Radical factor. The conjunctions with Angles play the main role. (The effectiveness of a Solar Eclipse is up to one year.)

2. Aspects of planets to Radical factors should be evaluated only in long-lasting Cycles, like Solar Returns, Solar Eclipses and Synodic Returns, but not in the different types of Precessed Lunar Returns, which operate with an Overlap Method (Prediction I, page 90) and where only the transits and prenatal transits for the day should be observed for possible events.

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Notes on Predictive Technique	1
Harmonics in Astrology	2
Correspondents	4

D. As a logical result of this, main events are produced always in connection with Primary Directions. These have small orbs, and thus allow the timing of events.

E. The statement that Cycles and (especially) Transits may produce main events without the concurrence of Primary Directions (in the Radix or Epoch Chart, or from one to the other) is false. My research into 230 rectified Radices, including about 60 with the Prenatal Epoch, is the best proof of that.

F. All astronomically-correct astrological systems in application to the Natal Chart give results with small orbs only if the Tropical measurement is applied. This is very natural, as our Solar System plays the dominating role in our lives, while the Fixed Heaven is of the 2nd order. For this reason I cannot understand Sidereal astrologers, who deny this provable fact, which is known to all experienced astrologers. This, of course, does not solve the problem of the two Zodiacs (where mathematical proofs are very problematic). So far, I prefer an evaluation of Natal Charts with characteristic Ascendant positions in the Tropical measurement, although the Radix alone does not always give the characteristics of the native one would expect. Here a rectified Prenatal Epoch is filling much of the gap.

Another error, which mainly concerns Sidereal astrologers, is the opinion that only Sidereal (Precessed) Cycles are workable, but not the Tropical traditional ones. I have to emphasize here that Tropical Solar Returns (and the corresponding Prenatal Charts) are much more useful for main events during a Solar Year than Sidereal Solar Returns, which reflect more the psychological condition of the native.

Here, especially for the psychological condition, Demi- and Quarti- Solar Returns are very useful too. Tropical Lunar Returns are effective only if main events occur during their operational period. They can be neglected in preference to the Precressed Lunar Returns, which always give the psychological condition of the native during that short period. Their effectiveness depends on the nature and number of Angular planets and their distance in *mund*o (in Right Ascension from the Meridian, and in Oblique Ascension/Descension from the Ascendant/Descendant axis. Planets at a relatively large distance from the Angles are [still] very effective if they are in mundane opposition or square to each other. EXAMPLE: RAMC 15 dgs, Planet A, RA 25 dgs, DA 30 dgs; Planet B, DA 120 dgs (30+90) (a square in Oblique Ascension).

HARMONICS IN ASTROLOGY by Ross Harvey

I was going to summarise my ideas of the significance of the Harmonics that I usually use in chart analysis, but as much of what I would have said would have repeated what has already appeared in early Astrologers' Forums, I thought it would be more useful to give a specific example. So I have chosen the Chart of a friend of mine to show how Harmonics make important character traits immediately obvious, whereas they may have been hard to find in the Birth Chart, if they could have been found at all.

The Chart I have chosen is a rectified chart, but as the resulting Angles give consistently reliable results using all methods of prediction (progressions of the Angles, Primary Directions, Age Harmonics and Return Charts), I am confident I have got it right. I shall proceed straight to the consideration of the Chart, and make further observations about the significance of the Harmonics afterwards.

The Native is an artist (a painter) and teacher. She is outgoing, strongly emotional and volatile, forceful and rather bossy, passionate and demonstrative, erratic, independent, prone to sudden attractions, but has so far been unable to sustain a long-term relationship; she has a pleasant personality, has intellectual interests, a rather poor memory, and is not a good judge of character. She has always lived in modest, not to say straitened, circumstances.

Her strongly emotional nature suggests a Moon/Mars affliction, and the Radix does have a Moon/Mars opposition, but the orb is nearly seven degrees, which does not suggest the intensity with which this combination is felt in the Native's character. Her history of sudden attractions and short-lived affairs suggests a Venus/Uranus affliction, but there is none; while her confusion in matters of the heart, and consistent poor choice of partners suggest a Neptune affliction, which is hardly obvious. Her artistic and intellectual interests could perhaps be inferred from the Birth Chart, but again are hardly obvious.

The Thirteenth and Sixteenth Harmonics have a general significance, and aspects that occur here, either within the Harmonic or between the Harmonic and the Radix, may be interpreted as if they occurred in the Radix. The Harmonics of the Angles are most important, but obviously can only be used if the Radix is accurate, so charts must be either accurately timed or carefully rectified. Indeed, the significance of the Angles in the Harmonics first led me to use Age Harmonics as a means of rectification.

In the Thirteenth Harmonic of the Chart under consideration, the Sun is closely square Uranus (erratic and self-willed), and square Saturn (straitened circumstances). The Moon is conjunct the Radical Sun and square Mars (emotionally forceful and volatile), and Mars is square the Radical Sun (impulsive). Pluto is conjunct the Radical Moon (strong emotions, and "bossy" - Pluto in the Harmonics usually indicates a love of authority, whether merely domestically or more generally). Venus is trine Pluto (passionate), the North Node is opposite Radical Neptune (confusion in relationships), and Uranus is conjunct the Midheaven (independent, erratic; emotional tensions).

In the Sixteenth Harmonic the Sun is opposite Pluto (forceful), Mercury is conjunct the Radical Ascendant (verbal skills - she is a teacher), Venus is conjunct the Radical Sun (pleasant disposition, artistic), square Uranus (sudden attractions, sudden break-ups, emotional tensions), and trine Jupiter (honest, generous and affectionate - one interpretation even speaks of a melodious voice - also true), the Ascendant is conjunct Radical Venus (artistic) and opposite Mars (intense emotions, problems with emotions and in relationships), and the Midheaven is opposite the Radical Moon (close to her mother. The Moon prominent in the Harmonics, and unafflicted, usually also indicates someone popular with others, because of a sympathetic nature).

The Fifth Harmonic above all indicates

Birth 21/3/1956, "between 4 pm and 4:30 pm", rectified to 4h 4m 10s. UT 6h 4m 10s.
Sydney, 151 E 12, 33 S 52. Placidian Cusps.

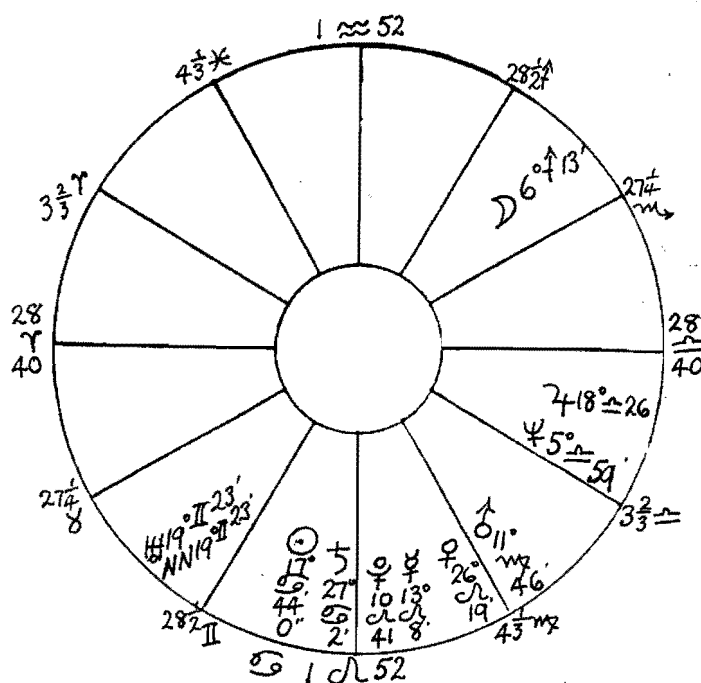

the way the native copes with close personal relationships such as marriage. In this case, the Moon is opposite Pluto (emotionally forceful); Venus is conjunct Uranus, though the orb is rather wide, (sudden attractions, etc.); Saturn is conjunct the Radical Ascendant (a generally negative indication, though it may also have something of the significance of Saturn in the Seventh House of a birth chart - late marriage); and Neptune is conjunct the Ascendant (confusion in emotional relationships - in this case an unfailing knack of picking unsuitable partners).

The Ninth Harmonic, as in Hindu Astrology, shows the partner. I have consistently found that planets accented in the Ninth Harmonic are strong in the chart of the person the native ultimately picks as a partner. The subject's Ninth Harmonic has a Sun/Moon square, a Jupiter/Saturn opposition, Pluto opposite the Radical Midheaven, and the Midheaven conjunct radical Neptune. I give here for comparison the Chart of her current boy-friend. This person is unknown to me, and I have little information about his life, so I cannot attempt a rectification, but what little I do know suggests that the Chart is roughly accurate, if not precisely so.

A quick inspection of both Charts suggests that once again she has picked the wrong person - his Ascendant opposite her Neptune and square her Uranus to begin with, and I have already predicted that they will split up in early 1988, from indications in both Boyfriend, 1 am, 11/7/1946. UT 15 h.

Sydney. Placidian Cusps.

Charts. Nevertheless his Chart indicates that he is the sort of person she is instinctively attracted to - Sun sesquare Moon (they are conjunct in the Thirteenth Harmonic), Sun square Jupiter, Saturn opposite the Midheaven and square the Ascendant, Pluto opposite the Sun in the Sixteenth Harmonic, and the Sun conjunct the Neptune/Ascendant midpoint. In her Ninth Harmonic she also has the Moon trine Mars, while he has them in wide square in the Radix, Mars conjunct the Radical Midheaven in the Thirteenth Harmonic, and the Moon opposite Radical Mars and Mars opposite the Radical Moon in the Sixteenth Harmonic.

It will be noticed that the Thirteenth and Sixteenth Harmonics often focus more clearly aspects that in the birth chart would have been thought too weak to have been given much emphasis, as in this case the wide Radical Moon/Mars opposition becomes a close square in the Thirteenth, and the Radical Venus/Uranus quintile becomes a square in the Sixteenth, while other aspects are re-stated in a different way: The Radical Sun/Uranus trine becomes an opposition in the Sixteenth, and the Radical Sun/Venus semisquare becomes a conjunction in the Sixteenth. Other indications not at all obvious in the Birth Chart become clear in the Harmonics, such as the Moon/Pluto conjunction and the Venus/Pluto trine in the Thirteenth, and the Sun/Pluto opposition and Venus/Jupiter trine in the Sixteenth.

I first noticed the significance of the Thirteenth and Sixteenth Harmonics when I drew up the first forty Harmonics for my own Chart, and noticed that certain Harmonics (13th and 16th) gave clear indications of important character traits of mine which were not at all clear in the Radix, while other Harmonics did not. I have since repeated this with other charts, and have always got the same results, i.e., that the Thirteenth and Sixteenth Harmonics are particularly significant. I subsequently found out that the Greeks had regularly used the 13th Harmonic in the same way, though without using the Harmonic positions of the Angles, presumably because their charts were not accurate enough (see Robert Hand, Essays on Astrology, p. 115, and Recent Advances, note 196, p. 354). I have not noticed that anyone has previously commented on the significance of the Sixteenth Harmonic.

The use I make of the Fifth and Ninth Harmonics is not original - see the relevant chapters of John Addey's Harmonics in Astrology. I think that the Seventh and Eleventh Harmonics may be of some significance, but of what significance I do not yet know. The other Harmonics do not seem to be of any particular relevance so far, though it is always possible that I have overlooked something. I should have mentioned earlier that I normally allow an orb of five degrees in the Harmonics, whether within the Harmonic, or between the Harmonic and the Birth Chart.

I have noticed, too, that some planets in the Thirteenth and Sixteenth Harmonics may have a more direct relationship to a person's circumstances in life than they would in the birth chart. Thus Jupiter prominent in these Harmonics usually relates to some degree of material prosperity, as well as giving Jovian character traits. (It is true that I do have some charts with Jupiter so prominent, where the natives are not well-off, but the charts are either not accurate or the natives are still quite young, so it is impossible to say if the indications will prove to be correct. Would anyone else care to examine the Harmonics of charts of people who are rich and successful?) Mars and Saturn particularly seem to indicate accidents, and even violent death (see Astrologers' Forum No. 44 for the case of a friend of mine who was killed in a car crash - Saturn in the Sixteenth Harmonic conjunct the Radical Sun). Pluto indicates the love of power (e.g., Margaret Thatcher has Pluto in the Sixteenth conjunct the Radical Ascendant), whether on a domestic or a wider stage. The Sun is a very favourable indication, which at its best indicates fame and success; and the Moon, a sympathetic character that leads to popularity. Venus is usually strong in the charts of artists - indeed all my painter friends have Venus accented in these two Harmonics. Mercury indicates communicative skills, and is often found in the charts of writers and teachers. Another point worth noticing is that indications in the Thirteenth Harmonic are often repeated, albeit in a slightly different way, in the Sixteenth.

It should be noted that in using these Harmonics for chart analysis I consider all major aspects both within the Harmonics and between the Harmonics and the birth chart, whereas in using Age Harmonics for prediction and rectification I restrict consideration to conjunctions and oppositions involving the Sun, Moon and Angles, again within the Harmonic and between the Harmonic and the birth chart. Occasionally, and principally in the absence of more important indications, I consider close squares, too.

I hope that this example shows the usefulness of, particularly, the Thirteenth and Sixteenth Harmonics in making chart analysis both more comprehensive and more accurate. All the characteristics indicated in these two Harmonics are true of the person under consideration, and many could not have been adequately gleaned from other astrological factors.

CORRESPONDENTS

From GEOFFREY DEAN (WA): Good news re the comments on Recent Advances and Recent Advances 2 (Astrologers' Forum November 1986, p.4):

(1) RA is not out of print. The 1987 posted price is £14 surface mail (about $A30), or £21 air mail, from Recent Advances, 2 Waltham Close, West Bridgford, Notts NG2 6LE, England. An easy way to send Sterling is by International Money Order from your post office.

(2) RA 2 is not a new edition of RA but an update (of roughly similar size) containing new material. None of RA will be duplicated in RA2, so RA will not become redundant when RA2 appears, hopefully in two years' time.

From GISELA ROSMANN (Vic): Obviously, I did not explain myself clearly enough to Jeanette Simpson. With "older", I had in mind the Uranus transit opposite its Natal place. The 12th House is a psychic House, and I would look there more for the inner dimension than for outer manifestations, which are there, nonetheless. But you realize you feel more comfortable (at home) behind the scenes.

How other people see us and how they judge our worldly success has to include other chart factors, apart from the Sun.

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock, 19th January 1987.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas - Airmail). Issue No. 65. 31st December 1986.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

EYES ON THE USA

In the past month a curious situation has developed in the United States. The sale of arms to Iran, against declared Government policy, and the illegal syphoning of the profits to the Contra Guerillas in Nicaragua, has left the world wondering about the integrity of the Government, and just who is wielding the real power.

The troubled state of the Nation is reflected in the Directions and Progressions of the National Horoscope. This Chart was published here last April (Issue No. 57), and is reproduced for the convenience of readers.

In the 210 years since the founding of the USA, Pluto in this Radix has arrived at 22 GE 25, by Direction along its diurnal circle at the rate of 59' 8.33" a year, and here it squares Radical Neptune. Similarly, Neptune has come to 29 AQ 47, where it is sesquare to Saturn, and the Sun has arrived at 20 CP 57 where it is quincunx Mars. The current Primary Directions (in the Topocentric System) are therefore:

PLUTO SQUARE NEPTUNE, and SUN QUINCUNX MARS, both in the fourth week of December 1986, NEPTUNE SESQUARE SATURN in late November 1986.

Pluto and Saturn, in particular, point a finger directly at the source of the present political turmoil in the USA, as both planets are connected with the House of Foreign Affairs - Pluto by occupancy and Saturn by House Rulership - while Saturn also governs the 8th House (spending of public monies).

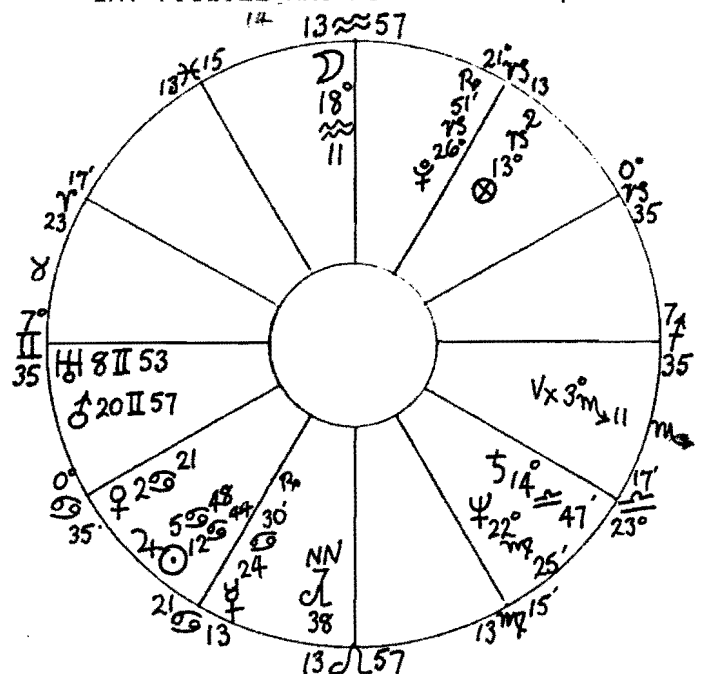

Nothing could be more indicative of secret dealings and covert operations than Pluto square Neptune. Neptune sesquare Saturn is also typical of secrecy and concealment. The Sun/Mars quincunx shows the trouble engendered on the home front by the Opposition Democrats (the Sun ruling the 4th House - the political opposition).

It is noteworthy that in the USA Progressed Chart for 210 years (4th July 1986, corresponding to Ephemeris date 30th January 1777) the Sun has progressed to 10 AQ 50, where it will be squared by a stationary

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Eyes on the USA	1
USA National Horoscope	1
Which Chart for Ronald Reagan?	1
Rectified Chart	3
Correspondents	4

NATIONAL HOROSCOPE OF THE USA
4th July 1776, 2:14:42 AM LMT 2:14:14
PHILADELPHIA PA, 75 W 10, 39 N 57
GMT 7:15:22 AM. Placidian Cusps.

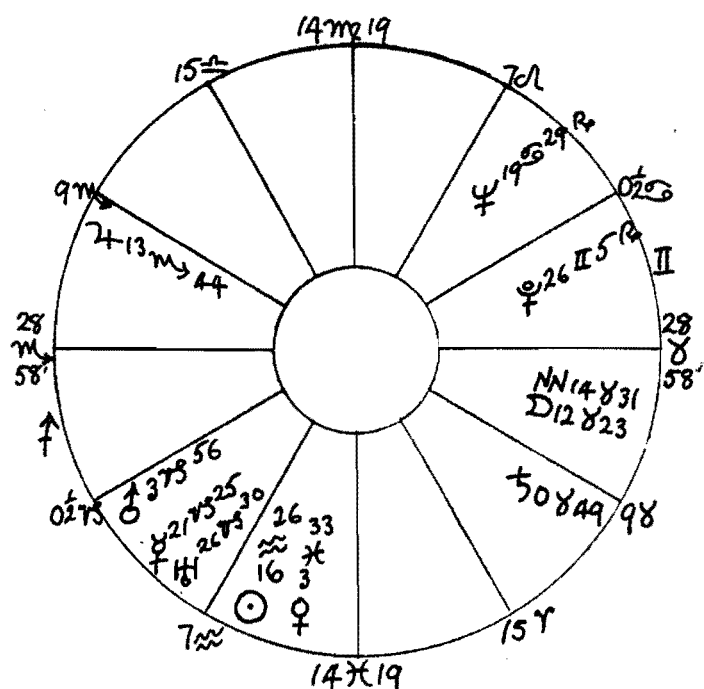

Pluto in February 1987. The Sun occupies the 3rd House of the Progressed Chart (not shown), so it appears that further unsavoury facts will be uncovered in the early part of the year.

WHICH CHART FOR RONALD REAGAN?

But what of the principal figure in these events - the President himself? Unfortunately, his birth time is uncertain. Lois M. Rodden (The American Book of Charts) quotes several CST times: 1:20 am (from "a close friend of the family"); "early morning", in a questionnaire returned from

2 AM, 6TH FEBRUARY 1911

Is this the Chart of a President?

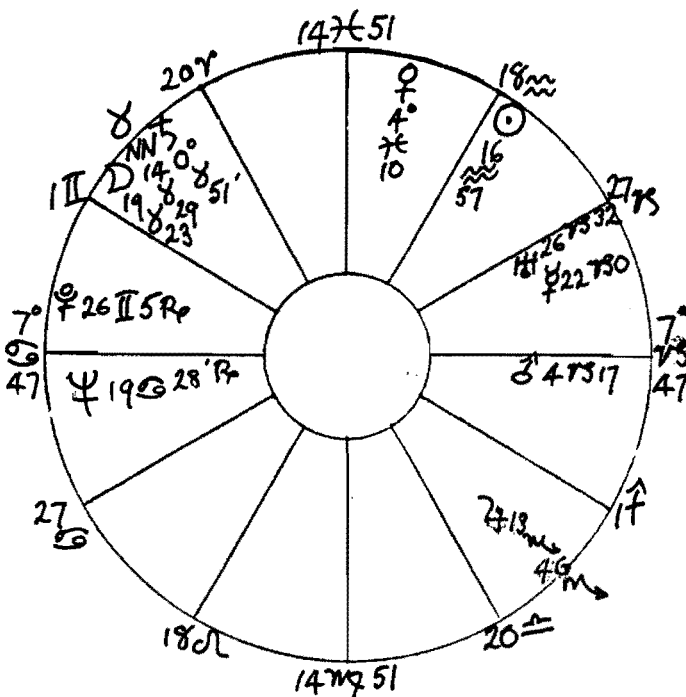

Reagan; 2:00 am (from D.C. Doane); 2:00 pm (Carrol Righter); 1:53 pm (Jeff Mayo); "pre-dawn" in a letter from Reagan's office.

I am told that there are about 27 "rectified Birth Charts" for the President. Those I have seen are anything but convincing. Two typical ones are reproduced here - one for 2 am and one for 2 pm. Is either one representative of a man occupying the highest temporal office in the free world? Where are the Angular planets? The indications of fame? The pointers to a radio and film career? The two marriages? The serious accidents and illnesses? The several bouts of major surgery? The answer is - they are conspicuously absent.

I decided that a radical new approach was required. The Chart must not only reflect the man but also give appropriate Directions and/or Stationary Transits to accord with the principal life events. The Age Harmonics should also agree.

I started with an Ascendant in Capricorn - the Sign of political ambition, choosing the second (Chaldean) decanate, ruled by Mars. After a good deal of experimentation I arrived at the 17th degree, (but changed it later to the 19th, to correlate with the progressive factors). This immediately puts Jupiter in a likely position for a popular President - conjunct the Midheaven - and is certainly indicative of his great rise in life. The Chart now starts to look like that of a President of the USA. Furthermore, the local time (CST) corresponding to this Ascendant is 5:44 am, which is in line with "pre-dawn" and "early morning" for the given times.

2 PM, 6TH FEBRUARY 1911

Or This?

Neptune now is Angular, most appropriate for a film actor. Furthermore, its position in the 7th House, signifies not only marriage to a film star (Jane Wyman), but the subsequent dissolution of the union, Neptune being retrograde. Reagan's marital troubles are shown by the the Moon's square to the Sun and opposition to Jupiter.

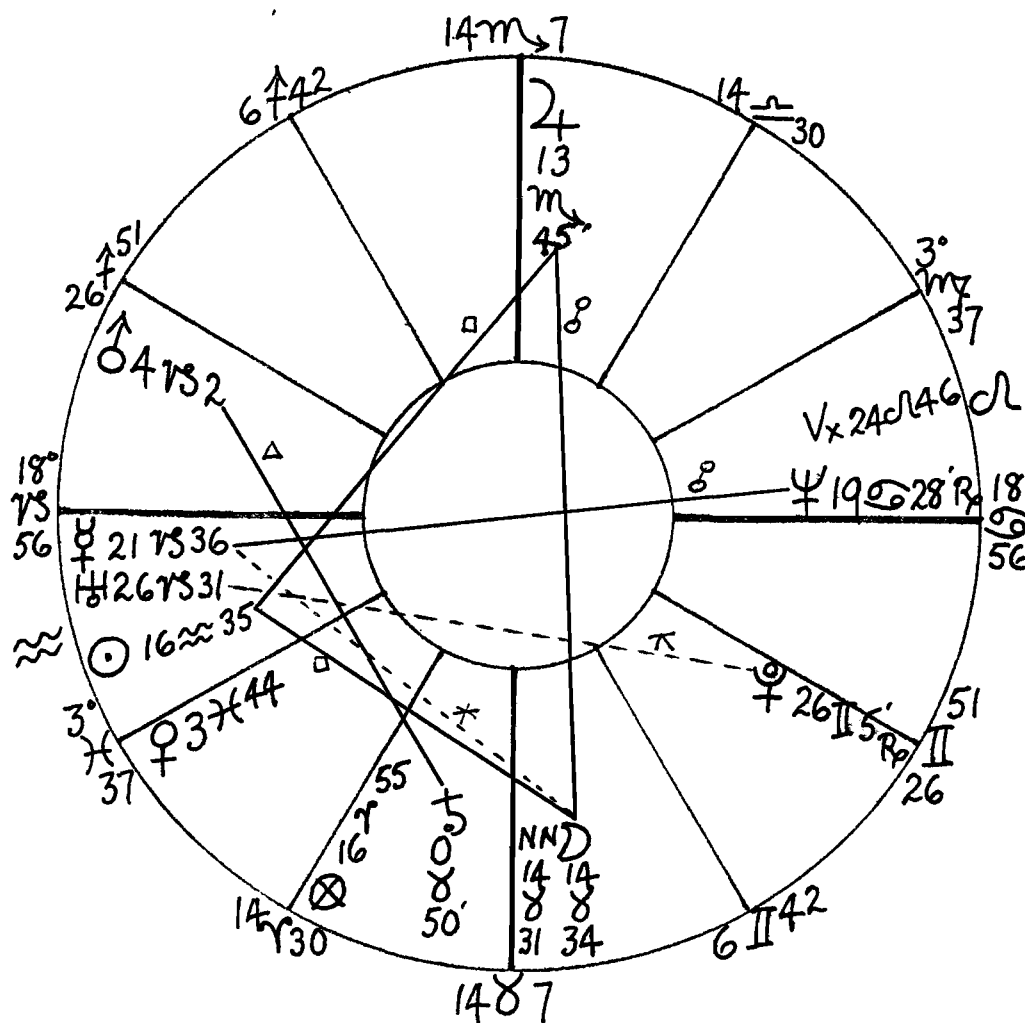

In line with traditional teaching, The President's two marriages are portrayed by the applications of the Moon, which now also rules the House of Marriage. The first application by sextile to retrograde Neptune is followed by a trine to Mercury - very appropriate as the President's wife, Nancy, is born with the Sun in Mercury's Sign, Gemini.

Another important placement in the reconstructed Chart is Pluto on the 6th Cusp (quincunx Uranus), identifying with Reagan's surgery and illnesses (prostate, and colonic cancer). The Moon opposing Jupiter on the Meridian correlates with Reagan's gall-bladder troubles (Jupiter).

Mercury conjunct both the Ascendant and Uranus relates, among other things, to Reagan's career as a radio sportscaster, commencing in January 1933. It will be noted that Mercury rules the Sector concerned with sporting activities (5th). When he was five years old young Ronald was able to read newspapers aloud - another indication of a prominent Mercury. His film career started in May 1937.

PRESIDENT RONALD REAGAN - RECTIFIED CHART

6th February 1911, Tampico, Illinois. 89 W 49, 41 N 36.
Rectified time 5:43:54 am. UT 11:43:54 am. Placidian Cusps.

Reagan became the 40th President of the USA on the 4th of November 1980, and the very appropriate Primary Directions were Jupiter conjunct the Ascendant (18 CP 56) on the 5th of December, followed by the Midheaven conjunct the Ascendant a week later. Very fittingly, the Age Harmonic (No. 69) brings the MC to 13 PI 57, which is closely trine to Jupiter at 13 SC 45, and brings Jupiter to 18 AQ 31, where it conjoins the Sun.

Our subject was elected Governor of California on the 8th of November 1966. On the 14th of November the Regressed Sun in the 10th House at 19 SC 28 was exactly trine Angular Neptune at 19 CN 28. This was followed on the 27th May 1967 by the Regressed Sun sextile to the Ascendant. De Luce (Complete Method of Prediction) says of Sun trine Neptune, "A period of wonderful satisfaction and prosperity is at hand...". The appropriate Age Harmonic (No. 55) was MC at 26 GE 20 conjunct Pluto (Ruler of the MC) at 26 GE 05. There were other supporting factors which need not be itemized.

On the 30th of March 1981 a deranged gunman hidden in the crowd tried to assassinate the President. Neptune was stationary conjunct the 12 Cusp (26 SG 51) on the 27th of March. This is typical of an attack from ambush, and the Cuspal position of Neptune is a further argument that the Chart is correct or nearly so. The Age Harmonic (No. 70) brought Pluto to 26 SG 16 on the 12th Cusp where it is almost exactly opposite its Natal position of 26 GE 5, and brought Saturn to 27 PI 56 where it squares Natal Pluto. The Harmonic Sun at 20 LI 59 was square to Natal Mercury at 21 CP 36.

Reagan was shot in the lung (Mercury, Gemini and Pisces) and spent two weeks in hospital (12th House).

Reagan underwent surgery for bowel cancer on the 13th July 1985. The Primary Direction was Pluto (surgery) at 13 VI 45 exactly sextile to Jupiter, showing the success of the procedure. These two bodies were the same ones involved in the Age Harmonic (No. 74), Jupiter coming to 27 PI 15, square to Natal Pluto at 26 GE 05.

Reagan was hospitalized with virus pneumonia on 20th June 1947, a serious condition from which he nearly died. The Primary Direction involved was Mars (from the 12th House) at 13 AQ 45 square to Jupiter. Mars causes inflammation, and Jupiter is associated with the lungs, through its rulership of Pisces. In the Age Harmonic (No. 36), Jupiter at 14 LE 53 was square to its Natal position.

On the 19th of June 1949 Reagan suffered a comminuted fracture of the femur and was in traction for months. The appropriate Primary Direction was Mars conjunct the Sun on 5th October, somewhat later to be sure, but reflecting the long drawn-out remedial process.

The present disturbed state of the President's life is shown by his Progressed Chart: The Midheaven (progressed by Zodiacal Solar-Arc) is 28 CP 45, and progressed Uranus is at 29 CP 17, very close to the Midheaven and getting closer. Uranus is quincunx Pluto (in both Radical and Progressed Figures) and is semisquare to Mars, which augments the difficulties for the President. By Primary Direction, Neptune was opposing the Moon in mid-1986, showing deception or concealment on the part of those about him. The Ascendant opposes Jupiter at the Midheaven in February 1986, which must still further erode his prestige. In February, too, Pluto will be stationary at 10 degrees of Scorpio, conjunct Progressed Jupiter at 10 SC 40, which could very well disintegrate whatever is left of the President's credibility. His immense popularity - greater than that of any other President in the history of the Republic - has buoyed him up so far, but though a majority of the citizens will still like him, they will no longer believe him.

From the prominent opposition of the Moon to Jupiter in his Natal Chart I infer that the President has been negligent or heedless of what was going on around him, and/or Aquarian weakness and lack of backbone has prevented him from taking a stand against what was manifestly wrong. It seems obvious that the real power has resided in the Pentagon, and the President has been artfully manipulated, a process made relatively easy because of his general friendliness and goodwill.

- Dymock.

[The dates for the events in the President's life cited above come by courtesy of Gwen Stoney (NSW) who relayed them from an astrologer in California.]

CORRESPONDENTS

From JEANETTE SIMPSON (NSW):

[Response to Gisela Rosmann (SA)]

Thank you for your advice so kindly proffered, and the reminder of the Sun representing the father. However, I do not question the validity of planets in Houses, but rather with my article I was trying to stimulate some free discussion as to the different levels of House meanings and their application to a generally more consciously aware humanity of today. My article was not published in its original form. I do not take the Houses out of context when analysing a chart, as you imply. My article of necessity isolated the 12th House in order to throw it into relief for one particular purpose.

I cannot agree that it is only with age (presumably you mean old age - all examples were mature) that the Sun has an influence, but that the Sun's influence depends more on the evolutionary stage or maturity of the individual. This can surely be seen in the fact that some people display strong individual characteristics quite early in life (relatively). Not every one has to wait for old age to establish themselves as an integrated individual (the Sun), be it male or female.

I think it's quite a logical assumption that the Birth Chart can be thought of as a Solar Return, if one should wish to analyse from that point of view.

Due to the incidence of the Holiday season, this Issue of Astrologers' Forum has been delayed beyond its usual publication date, but the January Issue should appear on time.

As readers know, Astrologers' Forum is a non-profit publication - the low subscription introduced some years ago has never been increased. My object is to refine and improve the practice of Astrology, and I believe the publication is making a worthwhile contribution.

My kind regards to all, and best wishes for astrological progress in 1987.

- Dymock, 31st December 1986.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques.
Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas - Airmail). Issue No. 64. 19th November 1986.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

A WIN FOR ASTROLOGY

It is gratifying that the Solar Eclipse Chart of 3rd October 1986 (see Astrologers' Forum No. 63) foretold the re-election of Sir Joh Bjelke-Petersen in the Queensland State Election of 1st November. This must be accounted something of a triumph for Astrology, particularly as the political pundits and media representatives were freely predicting the opposite result. It echoes the astrological prediction of the overthrow of Ferdinand Marcos in the Philippines. This, too, was based on a Solar Eclipse (12th November 1985), and again it contradicted the general belief that Marcos would retain power by whatever means, legitimate or otherwise. (See Astrologers' Forum No. 54).

Since the last issue of this publication I have been given the birth data of Sir Joh, which will no doubt be of interest for all astrologers, particularly those in Australia. The information, which purports to come from the Premier himself, is that Sir Joh was born at 8 am on the 13th of January 1911, at Dannevirke in New Zealand. A birth time quoted as being right on the hour suggests that it has been "rounded off" somewhat, and checking with Age Harmonics and Primary Directions indicates that the birth was actually about three minutes earlier. The Chart is accordingly drawn for 7:56:55 am.

The Premier is a highly colourful, not to say controversial, personality, and this is reflected in his Radix, which appears on page 2. The Horoscope is replete with "hard" aspects, and should be a lesson to any astrologers in the habit of bemoaning their own squares and oppositions. It is a classic illustration of the benefits of hard aspects when appearing in the nativity of a bold, determined, and resourceful subject. The grouping of major Significators in the Quadrant from the Midheaven to the Ascendant, the "success" Quadrant, is one indication that we have here the Chart of an achiever. The Sign Capricorn - the Sign of

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
A Win For Astrology	1
Sir Joh Bjelke-Petersen	1
Sir Joh's Birth Chart and Cyclic Charts	2
Correspondents	4

the politician - is emphasized by the Sun, Mercury and Uranus in conjunction. The characteristics of Capricorn, which Sir Joh well exemplifies, are ambition and industry, ability in politics, determination to succeed, conservatism and the upholding of traditional values. It is also associated with rather narrow views, of which there has been evidence in the recent past (e.g., the action against abortion clinics in Brisbane).

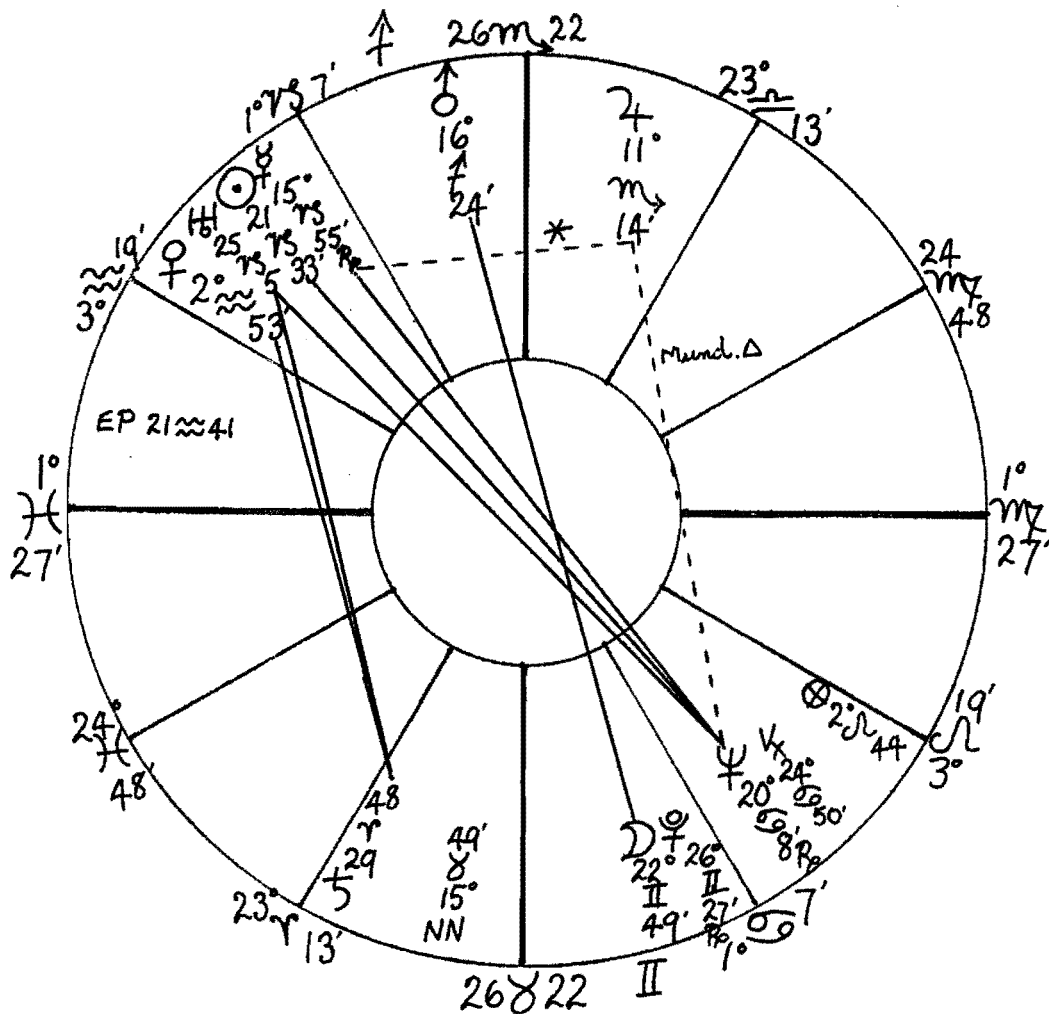

Scorpio at the Midheaven of the Chart goes with a desire for power, vigilance, forethought, and a nature always on guard.

The dominant position of Mars in the Fire Sign Sagittarius shows Sir Joh is strong-willed, energetic, a fighter and a doer. The opposition to the Moon adds impulsiveness, excitability, combativeness and readiness to accept a challenge. It is a provocative aspect, indicative of the many "run-ins" Sir Joh has had in the past with sections of the public, media representatives, and his own colleagues. The close link of Mars with the Moon's Nodes reinforces this facet of his life.

The Sun's conjunction with Uranus is a powerful factor indicative of his determination to go his own way, without too much regard for the wishes of those about him, and the many exciting incidents in his political and personal life. The opposition to Neptune at first sight seems out of character with the man, as does the Piscean Ascendant, but when it is read in relation to the dominant factors, it falls into its rightful place. In spite of his worldly activities and achievement, I judge Sir Joh

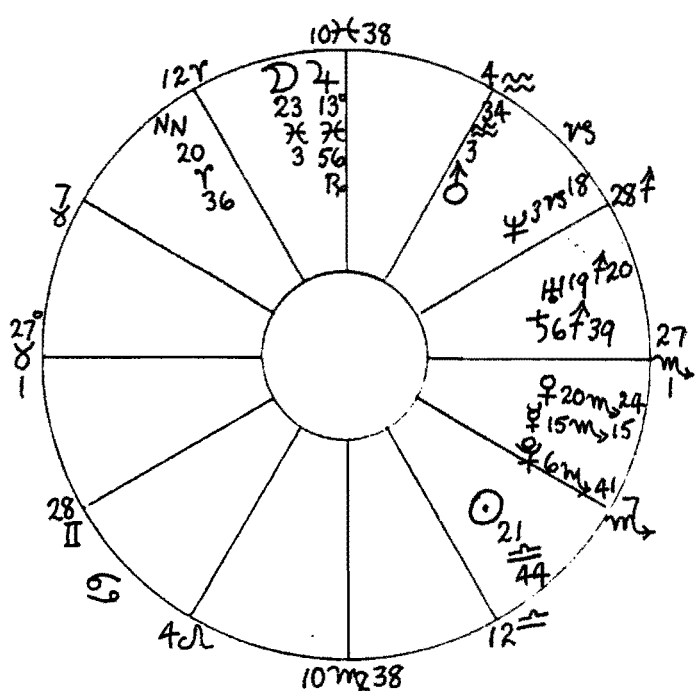

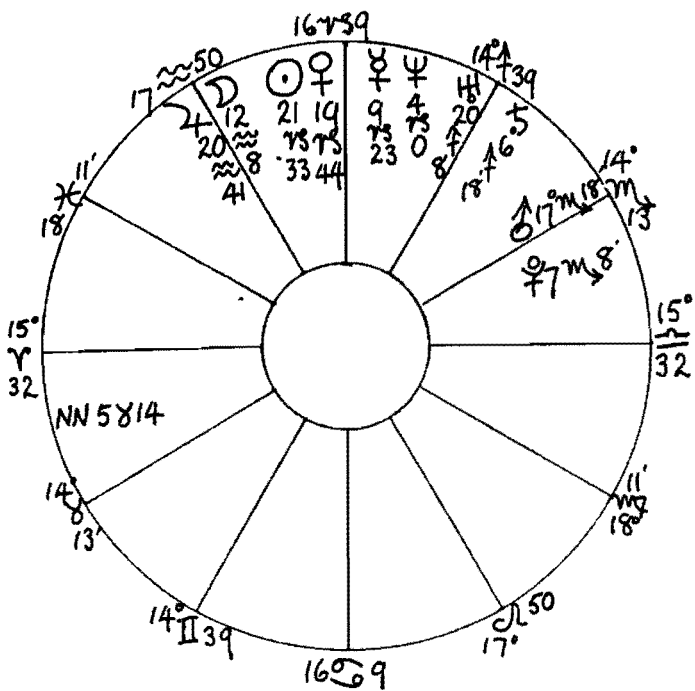

PREMIER SIR JOH BJELKE PETERSEN

13th January, 1911, Dannevirke, N.Z. 176 E 7, 40 S 12. Given time 8 am.
Rectified time 7:56:55 am. UT 20:26:55 on 12/1/1911. Placidian Cusps.

SIR JOH'S SOLAR RETURN AT AGE 75
(13/1/1986-13/1/1987). At Brisbane.
Placidian Cusps.

CURRENT SYNODIC RETURN 15/10/1986,
(15/10/1986-13/11/1986). At Birth Place.
Placidian Cusps.

to be deeply religious. Jupiter is powerful in the 9th Sector (Religion) and the inner, higher meaning of Capricorn is spiritual aspiration. This is certainly consonant with both Pisces and Neptune. Moreover, when we calculate the oblique descensions of Jupiter and Neptune under their own Poles, we find they are in mundane trine. The oblique descension of Jupiter is 220 57', and that of Neptune is 101 41', the difference being 119 16'. (Any astrologer interested in making these calculations can send $2 to the Editor for an explanatory leaflet.)

Jupiter trine Neptune is an aspect of fruitfulness, productivity and singular good fortune in that a lot of money comes easily. The Jupiterian influence will also moderate the adverse effects of Neptune on the Sun, which tends to weaken the character. No one in his right mind could accuse Sir Joh of being a weak character, and his forcefulness is due to the linking of the powerful Martian and Uranian energies.

Neptune does, however, add sensitivity to the nature, and Sir Joh has apparently used this to good effect in sensing the weaknesses in his adversaries and their plans to unseat him. On the other hand he was always supremely confident of his own powers and his ability to win - fully justified, as it turns out.

Pisces rising, with Neptune opposite Mercury is apt to result in some mental confusion, but a fertile imagination and a wealth of ideas. This comes out occasionally in Sir Joh's contacts with the media, when his thoughts tumble over one another so fast that sentences often remain unfinished, and the listener has to keep pace with Sir Joh's breathless speed in order to make sense of the interview. Neptune adverse Mercury also renders Sir Joh inclined to, or suffering from, misrepresentation and deception, or self-deception, at times. No doubt he is sometimes deceived by people about him.

One of the untoward effects of Neptune opposite the Sun is treachery or betrayal by colleagues. This happened just prior to the Election, when one or two members of his Party made damaging statements against him, albeit they thought they were serving truth and justice. Nevertheless the redoubtable Sir Joh prevailed against his detractors, and this is symbolized in the Horoscope by the elevation of the Sun over Neptune, instead of vice versa.

Turning now to the factors relevant to Sir Joh's Electoral victory on 1st November, by Topocentric Primary Direction Venus came to the sextile of the Sun on 20th October, and Uranus to the conjunction of Jupiter on 30th November. Both these aspects are close in time (for Primary Direction), and appropriate to the event: Venus to the Sun is obviously an aspect of career success, while Uranus/Jupiter is sudden victory (Jupiter being Co-Ruler of the Achievement House through the intercepted Sign, Sagittarius in the 10th).

The (Secondary) Progressed Chart shows two closely-timed aspects of significance relative to the Election: The Progressed Moon trine to the Natal Midheaven on the 30th October, and square Pluto on the 1st November. The first aspect obviously relates to Sir Joh's Electoral victory, and the second possibly to the complications arising from financial dealings with his son, as Natal Pluto is conjunct the Moon ruling the House of Children, and is itself on the Cusp of that House. It should be noted that one of the characteristics of Sir Joh's Sun-Sign, Capricorn, is a keen interest in the welfare of the family. This may cause him some bother at times.

The only Transit of much account was Jupiter stationary on 8th November at 13 degrees of Pisces, where it trined Natal Jupiter. This was another pointer to success, Jupiter ruling the Sign Sagittarius intercepted in the House of Career and Achievement.

With the Cyclic Charts Joh's success is spelled out: The 75th Solar Return, covering the twelve months from 13/1/1986 to 13/1/1987 shows Venus right at the Midheaven, closely conjunct the Sun (see Map). This Chart is set for Brisbane, the Queensland Capital, where Sir Joh operated. If set for his Birth Place in New Zealand, Jupiter and the Moon appear at the Midheaven, squared by Mars in the House of Opponents. Both Charts are significant, but in this instance the one for Sir Joh's actual location is the more truly representative of the situation, the Sun and Venus in the 10th being more directly related to professional triumph and success. In the past I have normally found the Birth-Place Chart to be the more useful, but it occurs to me that as the native grows older he detaches himself more and more from the Horoscope and circumstances of his birth. This would be a logical development. Sir Joh is a case in point, as he will turn 76 in January next.

A Cyclic Chart more immediate to the date of the Election is the Current Synodical Return of 15th October 1986 (see Map).

This Map is drawn for the time in the current month when the Sun and Moon return to the same phase they had at the native's birth. It has effect only for a month, and is thus distinguished from the Annual Synodic Return which rules for a year, each successive monthly Return after birth being related to successive years of life.

In Sir Joh Bjelke-Petersen's Nativity the Sun and Moon were 151 dgs. 18' 31'' apart, measured in the Zodiac, and this precise angular distance re-occurred on the 15th of October 1986, just 17 days before the Queensland Election. The same assurance of victory appears in this Map as in the Birth-Place Solar Return Chart - Jupiter conjunct the Moon in the 10th Sector. It is striking that these two Charts agree in this particular, as they are calculated for dates 10 months apart. The monthly Figure is even more specific in that the two Significators at the Midheaven are trined by Venus and Mercury. My experience with Current Synodic Returns leads me to suggest that astrologers should use this in preference, or in addition, to the better-known Lunar Return. An electronic calculator is an invaluable tool here.

I have left till last the Age Harmonics, though this was one of the first techniques used to check the time of birth. Harmonic 75, appropriate to Sir Joh's 75th year, yields the following positions: The Midheaven, 27 Gem 48, and the Sun 25 Sag 39. These two Significators are, of course, the ones primarily concerned with the achievement of success, and here both are linked to Natal Pluto (by conjunction and opposition) which governs the Midheaven in the Birth Chart. This is a typical result from the use of Age Harmonics, a technique that I hope more astrologers will employ and test for themselves. One of its main advocates, of course, is Ross Harvey (NSW) who, after some years of using and testing Age Harmonics, is more than ever convinced of their validity. - Dymock.

CORRESPONDENTS

From GISELA ROSMANN (S.A.): I felt immense joy and deep satisfaction as I heard the Queensland Election results. Congratulations! What other astrologer in Australia had not only the knowledge but the courage too, publishing his judgement. The outstanding fact with your predictions is that you honestly want to help others reach your level of understanding, by recommending valuable books and explaining how you arrived at your judgement - and even answering letters from beginners.

It is most frustrating if astrological authors start a subject and then go on "this is not the place to go deeper into it", without revealing any source for further study. It is sad that books like Horary Astrology by Marc Edmund Jones, The Degrees of the Zodiac Symbolized by Sepharial, and Recent Advances in Natal Astrology [Geoffrey Dean] are out of print. The older astrologers' understanding seems to be so much deeper and more to the point.

We have three shops in Adelaide selling astrological books, but none of the proprietors has a knowledge of astrology! So, in short, Astrologers' Forum is invaluable.

In the beginning of my studies I questioned the validity of the descriptions of planets in Houses a lot, too, simply because I took them on their own and out of context. I would advise Jeanette Simpson to study the influence of men (= Sun) on the lives of her Chart subjects - mainly the father - and to keep in mind that only as we get older do we become more "Solar". Before that we tend to feel more like our Moon. I am very much attracted to Cyril Fagan's view that our Birth Chart is a Solar Return Chart of the first year (Forum No. 51), or a description of the circumstances surrounding our birth, and I am sure Jeanette will find that the father's activities justify the 12th House placing of the Suns - and not all "behind the scenes" activities are negative, as you pointed out.

[Thank you, Gisela: Regarding Recent Advances, we are looking forward to the new edition of this monumental work, Recent Advances II, which will perhaps appear in 1988. - Ed.]

GWEN STONEY wrote to John Howard, Leader of the Federal Opposition, for his birth data. He wrote back personally and said none of his relatives knows the time (both his parents are deceased). Astrologer Milton Black rectified his time to 4 am, and now Mr Howard is giving this time to anyone who writes.

[John Howard, 26th July 1939, Earlwood, NSW 151 E 06, 33 S 56. Not, as previously printed, 27th July. Ross Harvey has also tentatively rectified this Chart to 2:52 pm local time: ASC 3 Cp 37, MC 16 Vir 8.]

My kind regards to all. - Dymock, 19th November 1986.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas - Airmail). Issue No. 63. 19th October 1986.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

THE QUEENSLAND ELECTION

On the 1st of November an Election will be held to decide the Government of the State of Queensland for the next three years. Three Parties are contesting the issue - The ruling National Party, the Australian Labour Party and the Liberals. Formerly the Liberals had coalesced with the Nationals, led by Sir Joh Bjelke-Petersen, in a Conservative Government that apparently nothing could shake over a long period of time. Now however, the National Party wants to win an outright majority and govern in its own right. The present Queensland Parliament is composed of 43 National members, 31 Labour representatives, 6 Liberals, and 2 Independents. The number of parliamentary seats was increased last year from 82 to 89, and electoral boundaries have been changed.

This all adds interest to the Election, and the question for the astrologer is, how to decide the outcome? The most likely indicator, astrologically, appears to me to be the Solar Eclipse of 3rd October, occurring just a month before the Election. This type of Chart has worked well in the past, the Solar Eclipse of 12th November 1985, for example, decisively indicating the win by Mrs. Corazon Aquino against Ferdinand Marcos in the Philippines Election of 7th February 1986 (See Astrologers' Forum No. 54).

Here, then, is the Eclipse Chart (adjoining column), set for the Queensland Capital, Brisbane. The present Government of Joh Bjelke-Petersen is represented by the 1st House, and the Opposition Parties by the 7th. Victory or defeat for the present Government would be shown by the 10th House, and for the Opposition by the 4th House, which is their Derived 10th.

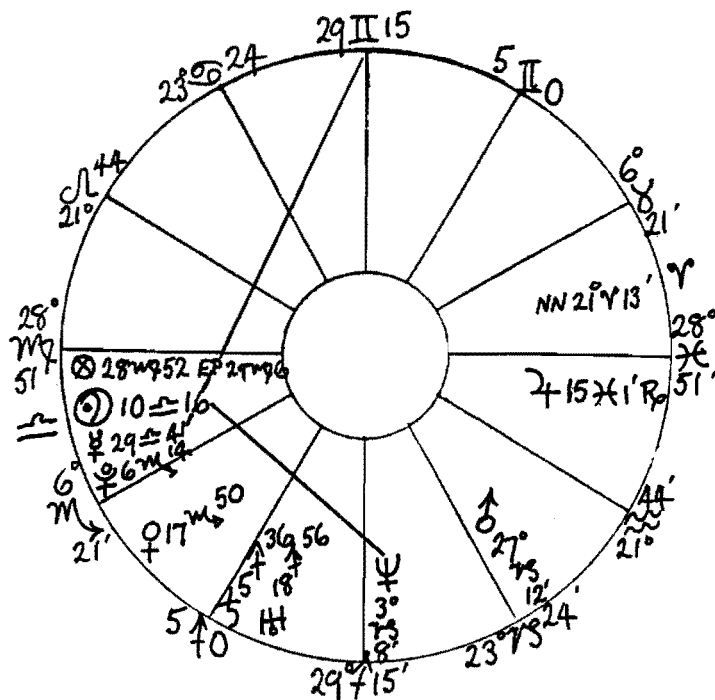

On these criteria, Joh is set to win: His unoccupied 10th House is ruled by Mercury which is in almost exact trine to the MC degree (orb 26' only). Moreover, at the date of the Election precisely, transiting Mercury is stationary at 29 Scorpio, sextile the Government's Ascendant. On the other hand, the Opposition's 10th is

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The Queensland Election	1
12th-House Planets	3
Age Harmonics in practice	4 occupied by Neptune which is squared by the Moon and Sun in eclipse. My interpretation of this is that their hopes will be disappointed. Again, the Ruler of the Derived 10th is Saturn, which is not happily placed in Sagittarius, and does not receive any help from the two Fortunes.

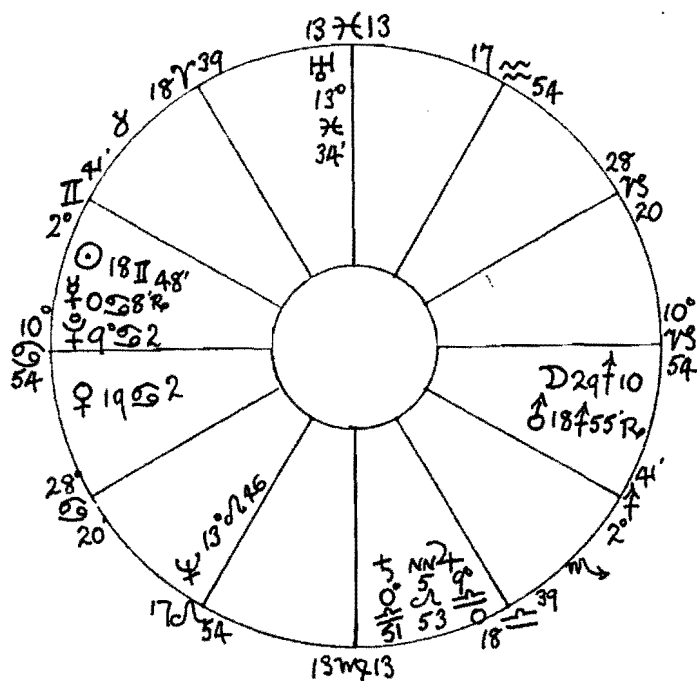

SOLAR ECLIPSE 3RD OCTOBER 1986 6:56 PM UT,
BRISBANE, QLD. 153 E 0, 27 S 30.
Placidian Cusps.

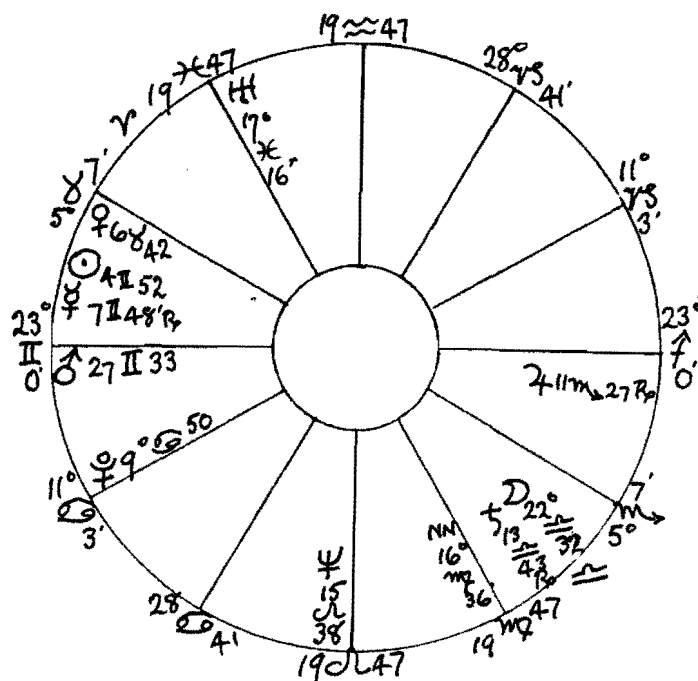

It would be useful to consult Joh Bjelke-Petersen's Birth Chart and Progressions, etc., for confirmation of the above, but unfortunately I do not have the data. If any reader can supply it I should be grateful. Similarly, I should be glad to receive information as to the time of

MAP A: JUDY GARLAND

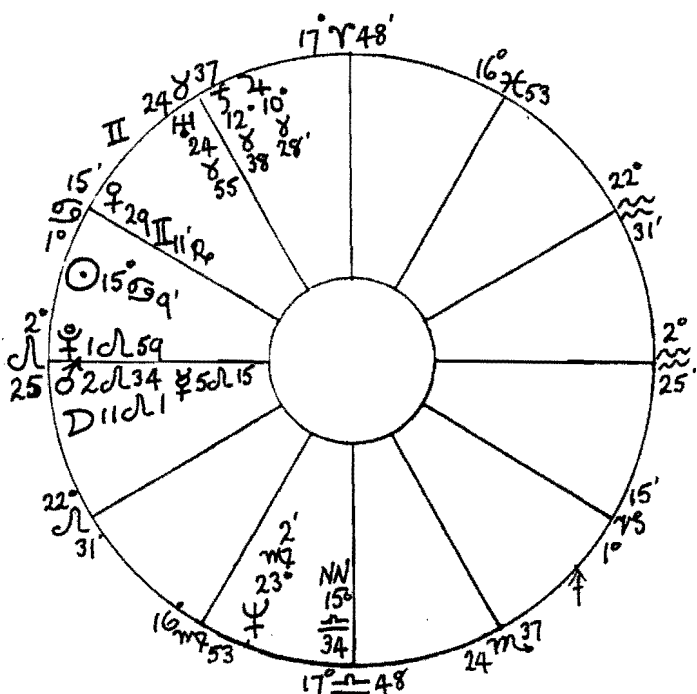

Singer, Actress, Film Star
10th June 1922, 6 am CST, Grand Rapids,
Minnesota. 93 W 31, 47 N 14.

MAP B: HENRY KISSINGER

Minister for Foreign Affairs, Adviser to President Nixon. 27/5/1923, 4:30 am UT, Furth, Germany. 10 E 59, 49 N 28.

MAP C: INSTITUTE WORKER

7th July 1940, 6:53 am,
41 N 21, 72 W 6

MAP D: PRIVATE "NANNY"

25th June 1956, 7:25 am
152 E 40, 30 S 31

birth of the present Leader of the NSW Opposition, John Howard. According to my information, Howard was born on the 27th of July 1939 at Earlwood NSW (151 E 6, 33 S 56), but the time is unknown. As Government leaders control our lives in greater or less degree, it behoves us to take an interest in their Nativities and try to gauge their impact on the Nation. Astrology has to extend its boundaries beyond purely personal work, useful though that is, and move into the wider political and mundane arena.

As I have previously mentioned in these columns, I should like to receive forecasts or predictions, astrologically-based, rather than only post-event analysis. The latter is instructive, but the real test of our art is how far we can foresee future events or trends, whether in mundane affairs or human nature. For this reason I encourage the study of Horary Astrology which is the most truly predictive side of Astrology, and whose validity has been established over the centuries. Attempts to belittle or deride it are based on ignorance or incapacity to apply it effectively.

In this connection, I am glad to note the appearance of a new astrological quarterly dealing exclusively with Horary Astrology: It is called The Horary Messenger, and is produced by Mr. Roger Pearson, c/o Westfield Flat, Mytholmroyd, Halifax, West Yorkshire, U.K. I hope it will not fail for lack of support. The subscription for overseas readers is £6 Sterling. - Dymock.

JEANETTE SIMPSON (NSW) writes that she has been studying charts with the Sun in the 12th House, and is querying the interpretation offered by some texts - "House of sorrow, enemies and misfortune", though these effects were regarded as limited to the physical plane and were not nearly so detrimental once the 12th-House energies were transmuted into "selfless service".

Jeanette sent six example Charts, of which four are reproduced here (page 2) with Placidian Cusps instead of, as originally submitted, with Equal-House division which puts some planets in the wrong Houses. It appears the natives of these Charts "have not suffered any more than the rest of humanity despite heavy 12th-House occupation and, in some of the examples, affliction".

Two of the Charts have the Sun in Gemini, and although "behind the scenes" in different ways, are still conspicuous by their need for daily communication/contact with people. Map A is the Chart of film-star Judy Garland. Map B is that of Henry Kissinger, "both a private and a public person with constant contact and communication with others as a diplomat".

"The other two Charts have the Sun in Cancer. They, too, work 'behind the scenes' but the Cancer influence brings more limited contact with others, and a more nurturing emphasis. The native of Map C works in an institute for handicapped children, while the subject of Map D has worked as a private 'Nanny', i.e., in a closed domestic environment."

Jeanette comments that these examples would demonstrate that interpreting the Sun in the 12th House as meaning "retiring, withdrawn; difficult expression" is modified by the Sign influence, particularly with the Sun in Gemini, an extrovert Sign. Jeanette writes that she doesn't think anyone could call any of these people failures, as one might be led to believe by some literature.

"With reference to career/occupation, 'institutes, retreats, service to others', this applied to all the examples in various ways. There is extra emphasis on the concept 'institutions' as five [of the original six] examples experienced this facet of the 12th House through educational institutes, four being university-educated, and one teachers'-college trained."

"Using the criterion that 12th-House energies need to be used in service to others, did the fact that Judy Garland used her 12th-House energies for ego promotion, i.e., public recognition through films, cause the undermining of her health? Any comments?."

It is perhaps unduly hard on Judy Garland to suggest that she wrongly used her energies mostly for "ego-promotion". Self-promotion was a necessary part of her business as an entertainer. One can make too much of House position. Aspects play a more important part, and in Judy's Chart the close opposition of Mars to the Sun, with Uranus forming a T-Square, was no doubt the most potent factor in her physical collapse, though there are other indications also. It seems that "self-undoing", a traditional meaning of the 12th House, is the one most appropriate in Judy's case.

Judy died at the age of 47 from an accidental overdose of sleeping pills, and an interesting sidelight on her Horoscope is that Age-Harmonic 47 shows Neptune (planet of sleeping pills) at 17 Vir 2, where it opposes the MC and Uranus. In line with Ross Harvey's researches this would be an indication that the Chart as given is probably correct. (A Horoscope for a birth time half an hour earlier has also been published.)

As regards Henry Kissinger's Chart, the presence of Mars in Gemini conjunct the Ascendant and trine to the Moon, together with the emphasis put on Gemini through its occupancy by the Sun and Mercury, immediately dispels any thought that he might be "retiring, withdrawn" with "difficult expression"! The Sun in a horoscope suggests the field in which the native can be successful, or at least the chief sphere of operation, whether particularly successful or not. The 12th House refers also to activities behind the scenes, and a 12th-House Sun was appropriate for Kissinger in view of his innumerable confidential missions and secret diplomacy.

In the other two Charts (that of the Institute worker and the private "Nanny") the Sun, representing the field of success is appropriately placed in the 12th House (work out of the public eye), but certainly does not necessarily mean that the natives were withdrawn by nature or could not readily express themselves. These things have to be judged from other factors. A degree of introspection and isolation is shown by Map C, through Pluto being conjunct the Ascendant, but Mars and Mercury in conjunction points to forceful and effective expression. Map D has Mercury, the planet of communication, in its own Sign Gemini and squared by the energizing planet Mars, so I judge there is no lack of expression here, either.

- Dymock.

ROSS HARVEY (NSW) has supplied full details of his rectification by Age Harmonics of Prime Minister Bob Hawke's Horoscope (Astrologers' Forum No. 62, p.3). As this technique is so promising, and is being applied by other astrologers, I reproduce it in full. The events quoted occurred in Hawke's life at the age given. The Harmonic used in each case is of course the same as the age when the particular event occurred. A lower-case "h" means an harmonic position, and a lower-case "r" stands for a Radical (natal) position. Harmonic aspects can be from Harmonic to Radical or Harmonic to Harmonic. The Harmonic positions can be easily checked by anyone with a calculator. It is simply a matter of multiplying the Radical position (in absolute degrees from 0 Aries) by the particular Harmonic, reducing the result to a figure within 360 (by casting out the integral number of whole circles), and translating the remainder from absolute degrees to Zodiacal Sign/degree:

Age 17, (17th Harmonic). Motorcycle accident:

Mars h 8 Ar 46 conjunct Uranus r, conjunct Asc h. 8 Ar 39.

Uranus h 7 Le 13 conjunct MC r.

Pluto h 25 Ta 50 opposite Asc r.

Age 21, rejected as Rhodes Scholar:

MC h 1 Cn 42 opposite Saturn r.

Mars h 7 Aq 18 opposite MC r.

(Jupiter h 14 Ta 0; Asc r cannot be 14 Sc or nearby.)

Age 22, chosen as Rhodes Scholar:

Sun h 26 Sc 3 conjunct Asc r.

Age 26, married.

Moon h 19 Vi 5 opposite MC h 23 Pi 32

conjunct Venus h 17 Vi 40.

Asc h 9 Aq 42 square Jupiter h 7 Ta 20.

Age 29, victory in Arbitration

Commission:

Sun h 19 Sc 21 conjunct Asc r.

Age 35, defeat in Arbitration Commn.:

Saturn h 3 Le 50 conjunct MC r.

Age 39, elected ACTU President:

Jupiter h 26 Sc 0 conjunct Asc r.

Asc h 14 Cn 33 conjunct Pluto r.

Age 50, elected to Parliament:

(Saturn h 18 Sc 20; Asc r can't be earlier than 23 Scorpio.)

Sun h 29 Li 13 conjunct Venus h 1 Sc 40.

Age 52, lost leadership challenge:

Saturn h 20 Ta 16 opposite Asc r.

Sun h 1 Ar 32 square Saturn r.

Age 53, elected Prime Minister:

Sun h 17 Sa 47 conjunct Sun r.

MC h 21 Cn 26 conjunct Pluto r.

Age 55, re-elected:

Asc h 29 Sc 56 conjunct Venus r, conjunct

Pluto h 4 Sa 10.

Ross considers Age Harmonics the simplest and most reliable method to rectify a chart, but mentions that, like other methods of rectification, it must be checked by other means such as Progressions of the Angles, Primary Directions (Topocentric and P.E.A.) and Return Charts of various sorts. The greater the uncertainty about the birth time the greater the scope for error.

A useful test Ross proposes is for someone who has an accurately-timed chart to withhold the birth time but supply the other data, indicating a period of one or two hours within which the birth occurred, and give also six to ten major life events, accurately dated. This would enable all readers to check the method for themselves. So, can anyone oblige? I would offer my own Chart, but it has already been published in these pages.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock, 19th October 1986.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas - Airmail). Issue No. 62. 19th September 1986.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

The Witherspoon/Bruno Chart

In the last issue of Astrologers' Forum I drew attention to a Chart for the Witherspoon/Bruno World Title Fight, and asked for comment from other practitioners. NICK CAMPION (Eng.), one of the Directors of the Bulletin of Mundane Astrology, writes as follows in support of Leslie's method of reading the Chart:

"Leslie Black is right to use the First House for the title holder and the Seventh for the challenger in the Contest Chart for the Witherspoon-Bruno World Boxing Championship Fight. I made a correct prediction for Today newspaper using this method.

"Witherspoon is signified by Venus, Ruler of the First, and Bruno by Mars, Ruler of the Seventh. The Moon applies immediately to a trine of Venus, signifying a win by Witherspoon.

"However, the Moon then applies to a conjunction with Mars. This shows Bruno in a strong position. Even though he was destined to lose I correctly forecast that he would give Witherspoon a very stiff fight.

"One could go on and examine dignities, exaltations and so on, but in a contest chart of this simplicity it is not necessary to do so. There can be no fairer test of a system than its ability to yield a correct prediction."

Nick is an able practitioner, but I believe that on this point both he and Leslie are mistaken. Their error is in confusing an INCEPTIONAL CHART (such as the one in question) with a HORARY Chart. In this matter, apart from my own experience, I can quote two notable authorities - Marc Edmund Jones and C.C. Zain. In his book Horary Astrology Jones writes (P. 207),

"In any contest, from common sports with a friendly background to the all-out effort necessary in war, and whether between individuals or groups, the Seventh House of the crisis chart always indicates the other party; or whoever is a threat to the rights,

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The Witherspoon/Bruno Chart	1
Prime Minister Bob Hawke - Rectified Chart and Synodic Returns	2
Horary - Disappearance of Samantha Knight	4
Rectification by Age Harmonics	4

standing or record of the individual or group in some particular respect. This is the normal horary point of view, and it must be distinguished carefully from the "inaugural" chart erected for the exact time of a challenge, or an event which can be taken as such. Thus in a horoscope for the moment the contender for a title challenges the champion, or a nation declares war, the First House rules the challenger, or the aggressor.

"Where a querent in straight horary art, however - when legitimately entitled to ask a question because of responsible concern in the chain of events, or the possession of real power to make a decision of importance in the situation - enquires about the probable outcome of a conflict, the First House remains the point of personal contact or interest, that is, the home team, local contender, or native country, irrespective of which took the initiative: and the Seventh rules the opponent."

Again, from C.C. Zain (Horary Astrology, P. 171), "The first thing, then, in deciding which side will triumph, is to determine which side is represented by the East side of the chart and which side by the West. Such a chart may be erected for the moment the contest begins, or it may be erected for the moment a horary question is asked. If the chart is set up for the moment the contest begins, because he takes the initiative, the challenger is represented by the East side of the chart and his opponent by the West side.

"When there is a champion, it is customary for him not to issue challenges, but to accept or reject them. But regardless of who is champion, the person who issues the challenge is represented by the East half of the chart and the one who receives the challenge is represented by the West half of the chart." [The italics are mine in both quotations.]

This is definite enough, and its correctness is borne out by experience. The Chart of the Witherspoon/Bruno Match is another example. It is shown again below, with Placidian Cusps. Leslie Black's original, with Porphyry Cusps, was given in Issue No. 61.

FRANK BRUNO V. TIM WITHERSPOON
World Boxing Championship Challenge
20/7/1986 1:8 am BST
Wembley Arena, London, 51 N 30, 0 W 6.
Placidian Cusps.

Reading the Chart with the First House for the Challenger (Bruno), and the Seventh for the reigning Champion (Witherspoon), still gives a win for Witherspoon, but on more substantial grounds than those on which Nick delivered his judgement.

Victory or defeat for either contestant is shown by their respective 10th Houses - for Bruno, the 10th as shown in the Chart, for Witherspoon the 4th, (which is the 10th derived from his Ascendant, the 7th). The issue is immediately clear: Bruno's 10th is ruled by Saturn, which is retrograde (indicating that on this occasion, at least, he does not reach his goal), and square to Mercury. On the other hand, Witherspoon's 10th has the Sun (Co-Ruler of his 10th, through Leo being intercepted there) in almost exact conjunction with the Cusp and trine to Jupiter!--an outstanding configuration for success. But there is still more in Witherspoon's favour - the Ruler of the derived 10th, the Moon, applies with small orb to a trine of Venus. Thus the Major and Minor Fortunes both predict triumph for the defending Champion.

It must be conceded that these indications have far more weight than any that can be adduced if the signification of the Angles is reversed.
- Dymock.

Prime Minister Hawke

From ROSS HARVEY (NSW): Since your recent mention in Astrologers' Forum I have been experimenting with Synodic Returns and, among other nativities, have applied them to my rectification (A.F. 27, 19th October 1983) of the Horoscope of Bob Hawke, who was born in South Australia on the 9th December 1929. Using Age Harmonics and Primary Directions I had rectified the time to 3:25:56 am, UT 17h 55m 56s on 8th December. [See Map]

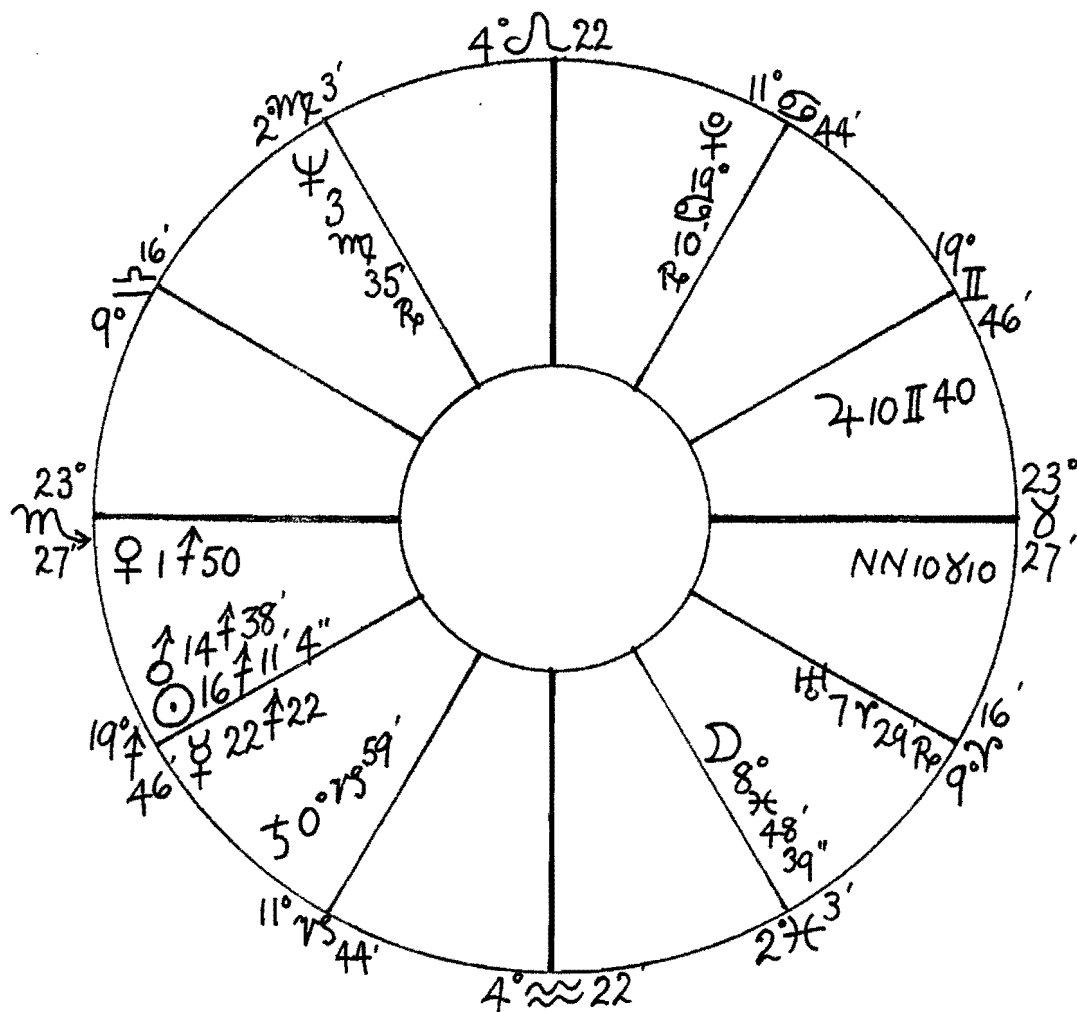

Hawke was elected Prime Minister at the age of 53 on the 5th of March 1983. The Synodic Return for this age [see Map] supports the general accuracy of the rectification (the Angles may be out by one or two minutes): Jupiter is conjunct the Ascendant, and is the focus of a Grand Trine of the Moon, the Moon's North Node, Venus and Saturn; Pluto is square the Ascendant, and Uranus is widely conjunct the Descendant. Admittedly, Saturn is square the Radical Ascendant, but I think its being part of the Grand Trine is more important.

The Synodic Return for age 58 covers the period when the next General Election is due in 1987. It conforms with the negative indications I mentioned last month and in A.F. 27. The most significant feature is Saturn, retrograde, elevated in the Tenth House and opposite the Sun in the Fourth. Saturn is also square the Radical Ascendant. Jupiter is conjunct the Sixth Cusp and trine the Midheaven, but I doubt whether this would outweigh the unfavourable opposition.

The Rectified Birth Chart is also supported by Secondary Progression of the Angles (MC progressed by Zodiacal Solar-Arc and the other Cusps derived from it): The

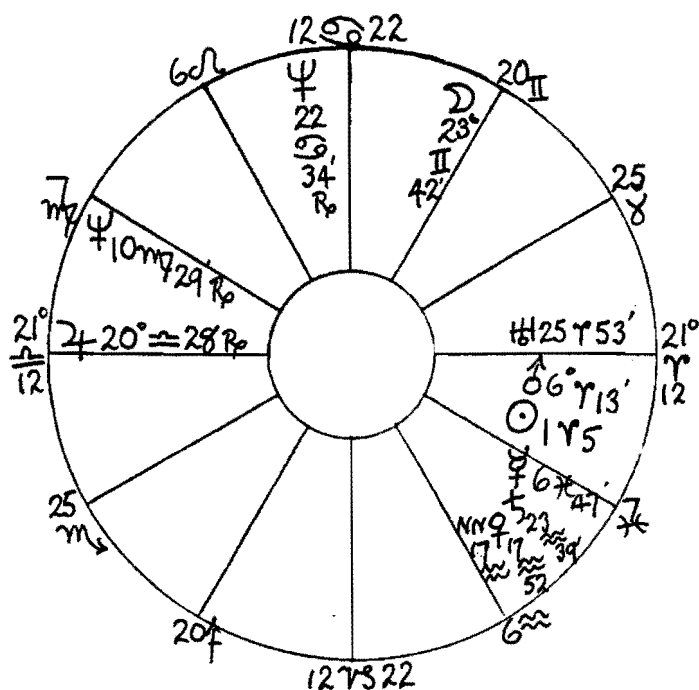

PRIME MINISTER BOB HAWKE

9th December 1929, Bordertown S.A. 140 E 47, 36 S 19. Rectified Chart
3:25:44 am. UT 17:55:44 on 8/12/1929. Placidian Cusps. Sun-Moon 82 37' 41".

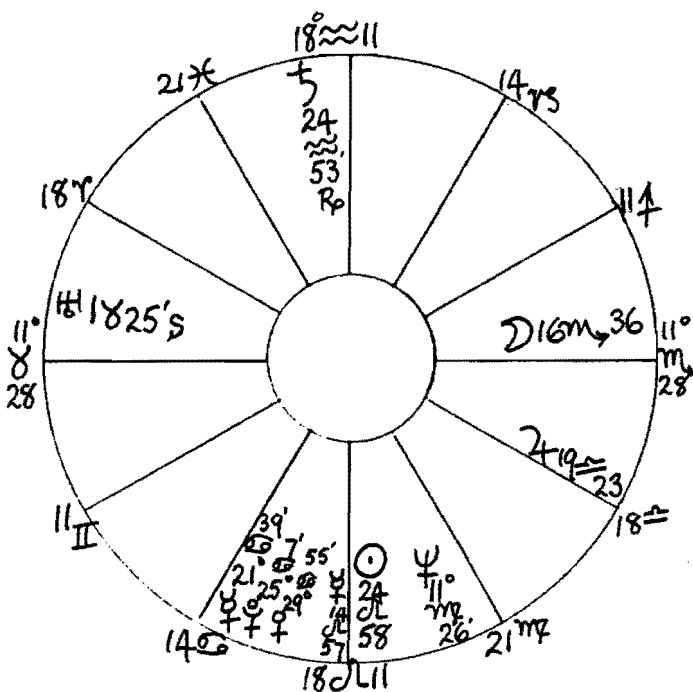

HAWKE'S SYNODIC RETURN AT AGE 53

29/12/1982-29/12/1983). Ephemeris Date
22/3/1934, UT 9h 34m 4s. Placidian Cusps.

HAWKE'S SYNODIC RETURN FOR AGE 58

(29/12/1987-29/12/1988). Ephemeris Date
17/8/1934, UT 14h 18m 30s. Placidian Cusps.

Regressed MC was conjunct Radical Jupiter on the 4th of May 1983 (elected Prime Minister 5/3/83), while the Progressed Ascendant will be opposite Radical Pluto on the 29th of February 1988.

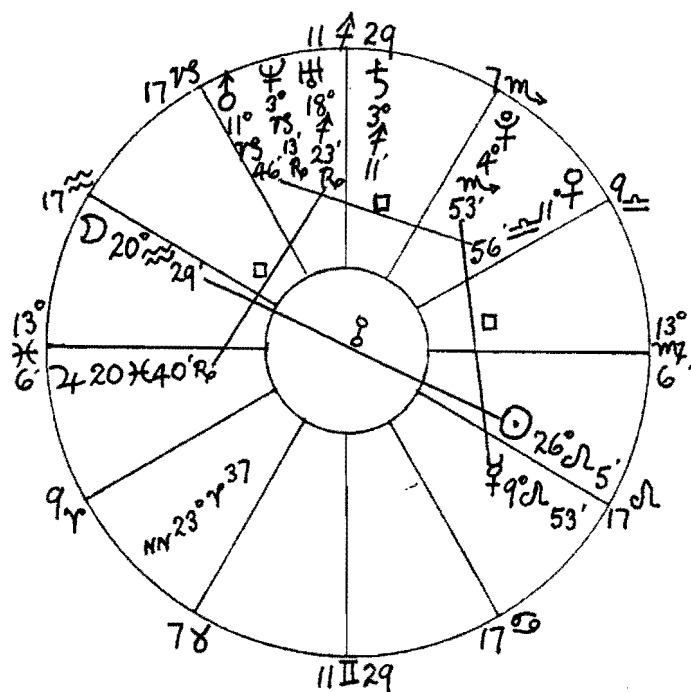

The Age Harmonic for age 58 holds no comfort for Hawke. The most significant aspect is Harmonic Saturn at 26 Sco 4 conjunct the Radical Ascendant, while Harmonic Uranus (14 Gem 2) is opposite the Radical Sun, and the Harmonic Moon at 1 Sco 22 is conjunct Harmonic Pluto at 1 Sco 40, both being square the Radical Midheaven.

DISAPPEARANCE OF SAMANTHA KNIGHT

Despite an intense combing of the Bondi district where little Samantha lived, no trace of her has been found in the weeks since she disappeared.

Samantha was last seen at 6:45 pm on the 19th of August, at Bondi. The Horary Chart, unfortunately, gives no cause for optimism.

19th August 1986, 6:45 pm EST, Bondi NSW
151 E 17, 33 S 53. Regiomontanus Cusps.

The two chief Significators are the Moon (for missing persons and things generally) and Venus (girls). Venus has added significance here through its connection with the Ascendant, Pisces being the Sign of its Exaltation. An immediate ominous note is sounded by the position of Venus in the House of Death, close square to Mars, the planet of violence.

The Moon, ruling the 5th House (children) is in the 12th, signifying the disappearance, and confinement or bondage. Its opposition to the Sun is another grim signification ("separation from life").

The Horary Ruler of the Ascendant, Jupiter, is retrograde and square Uranus. The secondary Ruler, Neptune, is also retrograde and conjunct Mars.

The Chart is dominated by the five Malefics--Mars, Neptune, Uranus, Saturn and Pluto, all elevated well above the rest.

One looks in vain for any signs of salvation, and is forced to the sad conclusion that little Samantha is now beyond help.

- Dymock.

Rectification by Age Harmonics

ROSS HARVEY (NSW) who, three years ago, introduced into these pages the technique of rectification of birth charts by Age Harmonics, considers this the most reliable and simplest method. He writes, "In rectifying Hawke's Chart I started with the assumption that the birth time lay between 2:30 and 3:30 am, which gave me a range of positions in which the Radical Angles must lie (MC between 21 Cancer and 5-1/2 Leo, and ASC between 5 and 25 of Scorpio). I then calculated the harmonic positions of all the Radical planets for every year in which I knew something of importance had happened...and soon noticed that appropriate planets in these years fell close to the Angles for the 3:30 time, and nowhere near those for the 2:30 time. In fact there were several contra-indications for the earlier time. I then calculated the harmonic positions for the 3:30 am Angles for these years, and soon saw that they were too late. After some trial and error I found that 4 Leo 22 seemed to be the best position for the MC, and this gave an Ascendant of 23 Sco 27. Progressions and Returns of different sorts confirmed the general accuracy of these Angles...I think it just possible that the Angles could be a little earlier, to give an MC of, say, 4 Leo 18, but not as early as 4 Leo 12. A single example of a Return used to confirm the Angles: The Precessed Ascendant-Lunar Chart for Canberra on the 4th March 1983 (20.22154 hours UT, RAMC 254.4747) has an MC of 15 Sag 42, conjunct the Radical Sun. This Return occurred the day before Hawke became Prime Minister."

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas - Airmail). Issue No. 61. 19th August 1986.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

Aspects and Events

It is a frequent cause of perplexity among astrologers that some of the most notable events in life do not appear to have any adequate correlation in planetary Transits or Secondary Progressions. I have adverted to this in several issues of Astrologers' Forum over the last five years. No less an astrologer than Robert Hand has himself remarked on the inadequacy of Transits in relation to a person's death (Essays on Astrology, p.67). Hand was discussing Parans (simultaneous transits of celestial bodies over the Angles at any particular location), and hoping that these might lead to "the first reasonably predictive tool (sic) that Astrology has...one that could actually be used to head off accidents, illness and other undesirable phenomena...[and] could also be used to take advantage of favourable times for maximum results".

I fully agree with Hand as to the deficiencies of both Transits and Secondary Progressions, but must dissent from the view he appears to hold that Astrology does not yet have any "reasonably predictive tool". Such a tool does exist in Primary Directions, but unfortunately their utility is much diminished by the need for an accurate birth time, without which the dating of the aspects can be out by many months, or even years. Unfortunately, too, Primary Directions are largely neglected by astrologers who are unwilling, or think themselves unable, to handle the minimal mathematics required. This last is an illusion for most, who would find the procedures well within their compass if they took advantage of the modern electronic aids now freely available.

Certainly there are difficulties in the hazardous business of forecasting - and this doesn't apply only to astrology: Professional men in the fields of economics, business trends, share prices, currency markets, politics, medicine, fashion-wear, meteorology, etc., all make plenty of mistakes. Very often, in astrology, the trends can be seen but not the particular manner in which the energies will work out. But, as I started off by saying, the most disconcerting thing for the astrologer is

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Aspects and Events	1
Boris Becker, Tennis Phenomenon	2
Synodic Return, Boris Becker	3
Correspondents	4
World Boxing Championship	4

not finding significant astrological factors correlating to major events in the person's life, as does happen when the astrologer confines him/herself to Transits and Secondary Progressions.

Fortunately, there is an astrological procedure that is almost totally reliable, and with which the accuracy of the birth time is not such a critical factor. I refer to Cyclic Horoscopes, in particular the Tropical Solar Return Chart and the Yearly Synodic Chart, the latter being even more significant than the former. In last month's Astrologers' Forum the Synodic Horoscope was dealt with in connection with the Republic of Argentina, and its method of calculation described. The Synodic Chart has been undeservedly neglected, and I suggest that serious astrologers should make it their business to investigate this Annual Horoscope, and judge for themselves of its efficacy. I shall be glad to hear, and possibly publish, any reports.

Meantime, here is a further example of the technique, applied to the Horoscope of Boris Becker, the youngest-ever tennis player to win Wimbledon, which he has done on two successive occasions - 1985 and 1986. The Horoscope data are from the AFA Journal, the time purporting to be from the Birth Registry. A birth time given exactly to the hour, the half-hour or the quarter-hour is suspect, but not necessarily wrong. In any event, it is sufficient for the Synodic Return. - Dymock.

22ND NOVEMBER 1967, 8:45 am MET, LEIMAN, GERMANY. Placidean Cusps.

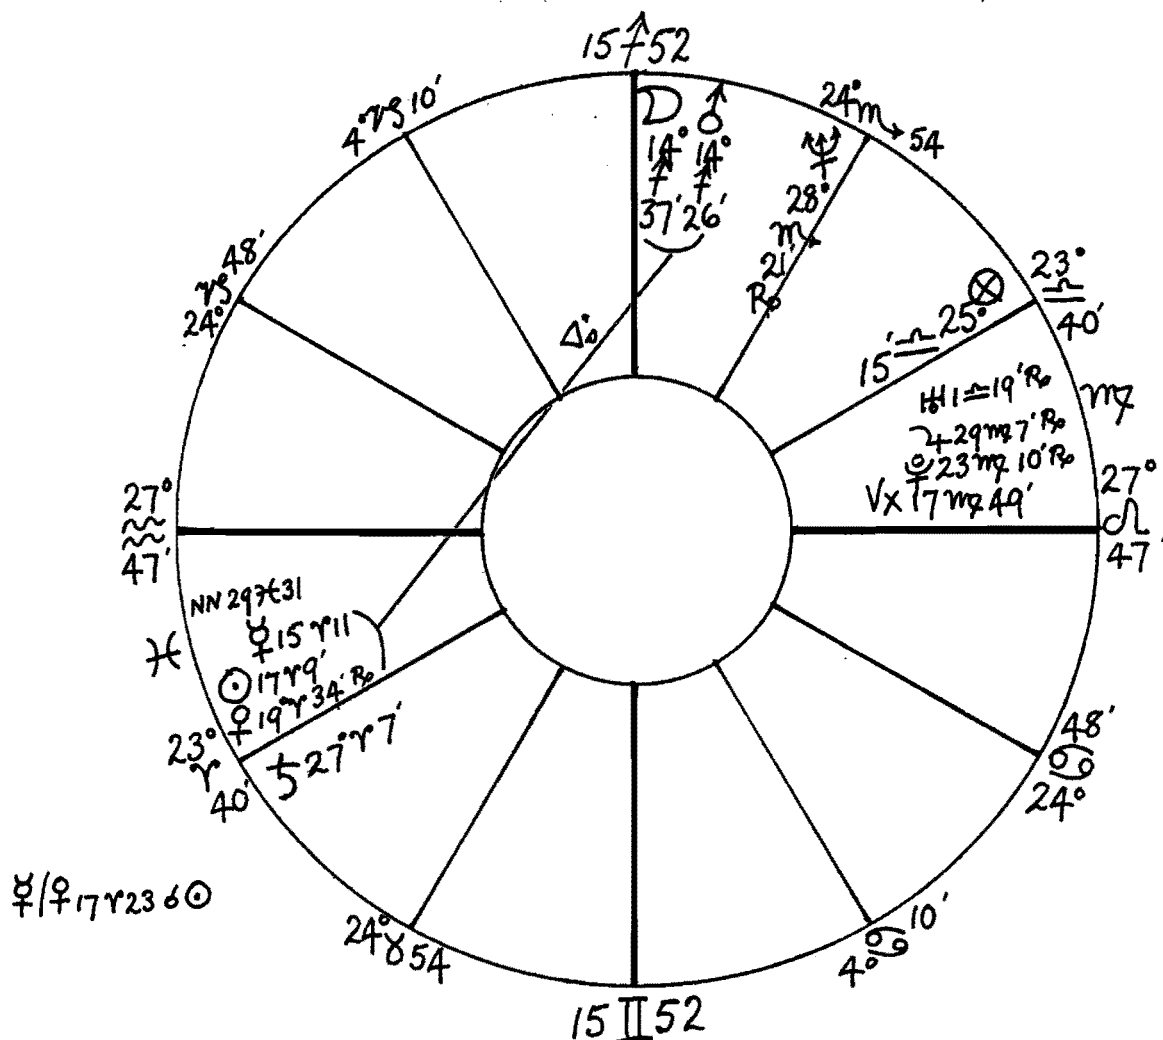

(An interesting point: The Sun and Neptune in the above Chart appear to be in conjunction, but their oblique ascensions show they are actually 10 dgs. 16' apart!)

BORIS BECKER (WIMBLEDON CHAMPION)

SYNODICAL RETURN FOR 17 YEARS (22/11/1984 - 22/11/1985)

Natal Sun-Moon 23° 29' 12". Placidian Cusps.

The above Chart covers the period of Becker's first Wimbledon win, at the age of 17, in June 1985. He has repeated the feat this year. 17 successive recurrences of the Natal Sun/Moon angle brings us to Ephemeris date 7th April 1969. The Chart is set for Becker's place of birth, Leiman in Germany, (where, naturally, he is a national hero).

The striking feature of this Chart is the very close conjunction of the Moon, Mars and the Midheaven, all trine to the Sun, Mercury and Venus rising. The Moon joined to Mars allowed full expression of Becker's native vigour.

Note that all planets except Neptune and Saturn are Angular.

The Sun at the midpoint of Mercury/Venus (17 Ar 23) accorded Becker due and happy recognition, comment, patrons, etc. (Natal Venus is in the House of Prestige, unafflicted, and Mercury in the Natal 11th - Friends and Patrons).

The Ascendant conjunct the Natal 3rd Cusp highlights the almost incessant travelling Becker has had to do during the year.

The Midheaven falling in the Natal House of Action and Enterprise signals achievement and furtherance of his career through his own activity.

The 7th Cusp (other people) conjunct the Natal 9th relates to the profitable contracts Becker (now a millionaire) has made on his travels, through his tennis successes. (Note Jupiter, his planetary Ruler, in the Natal 9th, at the midpoint, 5 Vir 1, of the Moon and Venus).

CORRESPONDENTS

"I love your Horary on Chambers and Barlow, [A.F. 60] and know you must have felt real concern for them from your Chart. Venus, Querent, in the 11th, hoping. But Dymock did you look at Regiomontanus Cusps? - 2 Gem 14 on the 8th, Mercury, Lord of death; Saturn, of hanging, on 2nd opposite 8th Cusp. (This 2nd- Cusp position seems as frequent as 8th-Cusp). Mercury moving to the trine of Saturn, retrograde, and, as you pointed out, square Pluto. Did you take Mercury in the 12th (prisoners) for Chambers and Barlow? [Yes] Also, as you say, Mercury Ruler of the 9th, the judgement (and by Regio. Cusps) the 8th, death.

"I see the Moon having come from aspecting the Sun, authority in judgement (Sun in 9th), which was against drugs - Sun opposite Neptune, T-squaring the Moon, as you say; Mercury, Ruler of 12th, 8th and 9th, peregrine.

"The Moon moving from the sinister trine of Venus (hopes) but on to the dexter trine of Uranus, and dexter square of Mars; Mars in mutual reception of Saturn on the 2nd opposite the 8th Cusp - as you say, violent and grim. Saturn, Lord of 4th, Moon's Nodes on the Horizon, the Part of Fortune disposed by misplaced Moon. And of course, as you say, Mercury square Pluto ascending.

"I took Venus for yourself, hopeful, trine Uranus, the good astrologer. Anyway, that's how I saw it with Regio.

"I was fascinated by ALEXANDER MARR'S Argentina Map, not for any of the hard reasons he gave but because Andrew Bevan (Norway) sent a Chart for "Who will win the World Cup", which kept me glued to my TV throughout the contest. The antiscion of Jupiter fell right on the Ascendant! Also, adding the dignities of the planets to see which was strongest, Jupiter came out on top. So we were looking for a Jupiter/Libra sort of Chart - and Alexander Marr has shown it to us." - Olivia Barclay (England).

"Australia's current economic problems coincide with a retrograde transit of Neptune opposite the MC in the National Chart (0 Hrs. local time, 1st January 1901, at Melbourne, the provisional Capital: MC 4 Can 8, ASC 7 Lib 24). Things will not improve much in the near future as Neptune is stationary square ASC in April next year, stationary opposite the MC again in September, stationary conjunct the Sun in April 1988, stationary square the ASC again in September 1988, and stationary conjunct the Sun once again in September 1989. Stations of Saturn and Uranus further complicate the picture in 1989 and 1990 - a good time to emigrate if it weren't already too late!

"Remember my prediction of Bob Hawke's political demise if the Election were held at the end of '87 or the beginning of '88? If he had consulted his astrologer he would have gone to the people before the middle of this year while the indications were still favourable. Now I think he is doomed, especially as at the end of 1987 in my rectification of his Chart his Progressed ASC opposes his Radical Pluto, in addition to the unencouraging mundane indications." - Ross Harvey (NSW).

WORLD BOXING CHAMPIONSHIP

LESLIE BLACK (Eng.) sends the following Chart of the Tim Witherspoon/Frank Bruno World Boxing Championship Fight on the 20th July 1986. The reigning Champion, Witherspoon won the bout. In his reading of the Chart, Leslie gives the 1st House (plus the Moon) to Witherspoon and the 7th to the Challenger. My opinion is that in this type of Chart, drawn up for the beginning of the contest the reverse should apply - the 1st House is the Challenger, the 10th his failure or success; the 7th is the person (the Champion) being challenged, and the 4th then becomes his derived 10th, signifying his fortunes in the matter.

TIM WITHERSPOON V. FRANK BRUNO

1:8 am BST 20th July 1986 at Wembley Arena, London. 31 N 30.
Porphyry Cusps.

Leslie writes that past famous astrologers used the 1st House and the Moon for the title-holder, home team, monarch, world leader, reigning government, republic, etc. This is what I use myself for Cyclic Charts, but not for Event and Horary Charts.

What do other practitioners use?

- Dymock, 19th August 1986.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas - Airmail). Issue No. 60. 19th July 1986.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

It is a matter of some satisfaction to your Editor that ASTROLOGERS' FORUM has now reached its 60th Issue, after five years of operation. This, of course, is due to the continually renewed subscriptions of thinking astrologers (most in Australia but some overseas) who are more interested in doing Astrology than simply offering their speculative theories about it. Generalized, abstract (and often idle) talk is the disease that afflicts much of the current astrological output. ASTROLOGERS' FORUM has attempted, with some success, to redress the balance. To be more than just an interesting theory, or a diverting subject for conversation at parties, Astrology has to be made to function in a practical manner in everyday life. To this end the best techniques must be propagated to all those capable of using them. As increasing numbers of serious astrologers are now buying computers and programmable calculators, with advanced astrological programs, the barrier of inadequate mathematical or scientific skills is overcome, and what appears is a whole new world of exciting investigation and application of real Astrology to the situations of life.

To the subscribers, health and life, and increasing numbers!
- Dymock.

From ALEXANDER MARR (F.R.G.): THE HOROSCOPE OF ARGENTINA A REFINED RECTIFICATION

For the following analysis the Chart of Argentina has been chosen, which represents the day of Independence, July 9, 1816. This Map has been impressively demonstrated by Eloy Dumon and Roberto Martori in connection with the Anglo-Argentinian War in 1982 (ASTROLOGIA 89, 1982, page 2, published in Buenos Aires).

There are difficulties in properly authenticating State horoscopes because (a) differences of opinion often exist as to which of the remarkable dates in the history of a country should be selected for the actual Birth Chart, and (b) in most cases only the day, but not the exact time of the happenings is available. The different Horoscopes for the United States of America are the best example of these controversies. The USA Map will be the subject of one of my next articles. It has also been found in practice that State horoscopes that are very far back from the present time are obviously losing their effectiveness, especially if other events which have happened in between may be a new starting point for the country involved. In fact, each change of the country's constitution, the overthrow of a government, etc., represents a new birth and consequently an additional map of more or less efficacy.

These circumstances affect a rectification in so far as quantity and quality of the Directions in the traditional astronomically-correct systems used are not as expressive as the indications found in charts for individuals.

In the case of Argentina's 1816 Chart, the number of important available events, as well as the corresponding Directional proofs, seemed to me to be sufficient for publishing the following refined rectification: July 9, 1816, 16h 26m 08s Universal Time (Delta t = 4 sec.), South latitude 26 49', West longitude 65 13' (See Figure).

AMENDED ADDRESS!

Marr's PREDICTION III may be purchased for $US10, from the publisher, Ediciones SIRIO, Pedro 1, Rivera 3916 4º E, 1430 BUENOS AIRES, ARGENTINA

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Republic of Argentina Rectification of Chart	1
Synodic Chart for the Falklands War	3
Solar Return Chart for the Falklands War	4
Chambers and Barlow	4

REPUBLIC OF ARGENTINA

9th July 1816, San Miguel De Tucuman,
Rectified to UT 16h 26m 8s.
26 S 49, 65 West 13. Topocentric Cusps.

Events and Primary Directions in the Topocentric System
Occasionally Supported by Secondary
Directions

(The Directions given in Events 1-10 below have not all necessarily been involved in the Events, the circumstances of which are not always known in detail.)

Secondary Directions, Angles and Cusps have been Progressed and Regressed by the Solar-Arc in Right Ascension.

1. 1852, February 3: Battle of Caseros putting an end to the first dictatorship.
MOON c quincunx MC, February 2
CUSP III c trine MOON, February 15
MC d semisquare MERCURY, March 2
URANUS c 75 ASC, March 2
SATURN c opposite MC, March 13
2. 1919, January 3: Strike.
NEPTUNE d conjunct MARS, Nov. 25 1918.
MC d 75 MARS, December 10
SATURN d trine MARS, December 13
MERCURY d square MC, January 16
CUSP III c sesquare MOON, December 28
3. 1930, September 6: Military Coup.
NEPTUNE c conjunct MARS, August 6
CUSP VII c quincunx MARS, August 16
MOON d square MARS, August 19
MC d quincunx NODE, August 19
SUN c quincunx ASC, September 6
MERCURY c sesquare ASC, September 6

4. 1946, June 4: Peron President.
ASC d trine JUPITER, April 28
VENUS c trine JUPITER, June 5
MERCURY c semisextile PLUTO, June 6
CUSP III c sesquare NEPTUNE, June 22
JUPITER c semisextile MERCURY, July 15
5. 1952, July 26: Death of Evita Peron.
SATURN d conjunct SUN, July 8
MOON d opposite URANUS, July 13
MARS opposite VENUS (orb 8')
CUSP XI d opposite MERCURY, August 26
IC prog. quincunx JUPITER, (orb 1')
MOON regr. square VENUS (orb 5')
MOON prog. quincunx NODE (orb 4')
6. 1955, September 16: Peron's fall.
MC d conjunct URANUS (orb 7')
MOON d sesquare ASC, July 2
MARS d quincunx NODE, September 4
MERCURY d quinc. CUSP IX, Sep. 10
NEPTUNE 105 MARS, September 17
ASC c sextile PLUTO, September 23
7. 1962, September 29: Military Coup.
NEPTUNE d sesquare CUSP III, August 29
VENUS c square NODE, September 6
CUSP III c square MOON, September 9
MARS d semisextile NEPTUNE, Sep. 12
8. 1976, March 24: Military Coup (3).
SATURN sesquare CUSP III, March 1
NODE c square PLUTO, March 10
URANUS c sextile MARS, April 5
ASC c sextile MERCURY, April 20
CUSP III c conjunct MERCURY, April 23
MARS c conj. CUSP VI, opp. CUSP XII, (orb 7')
9. 1982: The Anglo-Argentinian War.
April 2, Argentina occupies the Malvine Islands (Falklands).
May 1, War with England.
June 13, Argentina's surrender.
MC d sesquare MARS, March 13
CUSP II c quincunx JUPITER, April 2
ASC c sesquare MARS, April 3
MOON d 165 NEPTUNE, April 9
SUN d sesquare MARS, May 13
CUSP XII c 105 NEPTUNE, June 1
VENUS d quinc. PLUTO, June 24
JUPITER d square MERCURY, July 3
MC regr. sextile NEPTUNE (orb 2')
MARS regr. semisquare PLUTO (orb 2')

10. 1983, October 18: General Election.
 December 10: Alfonsín elected President.
 MERCURY d opposite MC, October 20
 CUSP III d semisquare SUN, November 24
 JUPITER d trine URANUS, Jan. 9, 1984.

THE SYNODIC RETURN

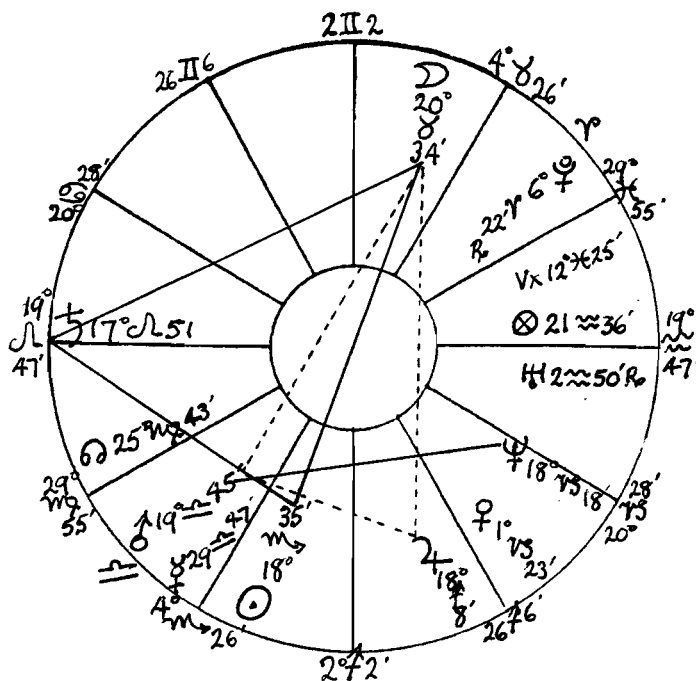

The Synodic Return Chart is a cyclic chart analogous to the Solar Return, but I have found it to be even more significant than the latter. Some explanation is necessary, as apparently very few practitioners or students use or even know about this Chart, which I touched on briefly in Astrologers' Forum No. 51 in connection with the assassination of President J.F. Kennedy.

The Synodic Return is the time when the Sun and Moon return to the exact angular distance from each other that they held at birth. This happens about every 29-1/2 days. Each successive return is equated to the corresponding successive year of life. Thus the 30th year of life would be represented by the 30th Synodic Return, which would occur about 2-1/2 years after birth. In this it differs from the other type of Annual Chart, the standard Solar Return, which would be drawn up for the time in the 30th year after birth that the Sun returned to its natal position.

Finding the date and exact time of any particular Synodic Return is a little bit tricky. In the absence of any Computer Program, I divide (on a calculator) the age for which the Return is required by 12.3682676, which is the number of Synodic Returns in a Tropical Year of 365.2422 days. The answer has to be added to the date of birth (decimalized). This gives the time of the Return within 24 hours as a rule - it is not precise because of the varying speed of the Moon as viewed from the Earth. Then the Moon's acceleration over the Sun has to be calculated and this rate of travel used to determine at what time of day the precise natal Sun - Moon angle is reached. Having found a Universal Time for the Chart, it is always desirable to check that the Sun and Moon at that time are in fact at the same angular distance as they were at birth. If they are not precisely so, the Cusps of the Chart will be wrong.

As an illustration of this type of horoscope, I take the rectified Chart of the Republic of Argentina which has been provided for us by Alexander Marr. The Synodic Return for the year of the Falklands War was number 165 after the inception of the Republic, and it occurred at UT 5h 0m 17s am on

REPUBLIC OF ARGENTINA: SYNODIC RETURN FOR 9/7/1981-9/7/1982. Sun-Moon 181° 59' 31".
 Topocentric Cusps.

the 11th of November 1829.

The first significant thing about this Synodic Chart is that the ASCENDANT falls on the place of MARS in the Radix - and Radical Mars opposes Saturn and trines Neptune. As Mars rules the 7th House of the Radix, hostile (and misguided) action against a foreign power could easily be inferred. The Synodic MIDHEAVEN falling in the 8TH HOUSE of the Radix points symbolically to the death of the current regime. The Junta, including General Galtieri, who took it on themselves to plunge their country into war are now doing penance in gaol.

NEPTUNE in the Synodic Chart is close square to Mars, and directly opposed to the SUN in the Radix. The Synodic SUN squares MARS (orb 1dg 35'). All the foregoing is highly unfavourable for any sort of martial enterprise, and the Synodic Chart considered alone fully bears this out: First there is the tight T-SQUARE of SUN, MOON and ASC - the principal Significators in any horoscope - and then the fateful and equally close YOD of MOON, MARS and JUPITER. The opposition of the Sun and Moon is a legacy from the inception of the Republic, and will of course appear in every Synodic Return, as this is the basis for the calculation of the Chart.

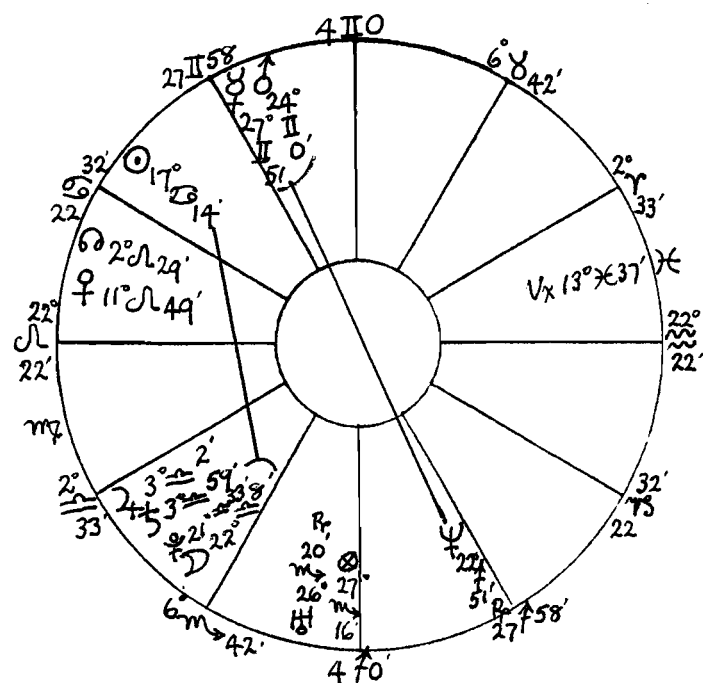

Jupiter (18 Sag 8) at the midpoint (18 Sag 23) of the Sun and Neptune is indicative of gains with little effort. Argentina's occupation of the Falkland Islands was easy and unopposed. Only later when Britain marshalled her military forces was the fool-hardiness of the operation brought home to the Argentinians.

Transits over Synodic Return Charts often turn out to be more useful and indicative than those over a Progressed Chart. At the time when Argentina occupied the Falklands (2nd April 1982) NEPTUNE was stationary on the 5TH CUSP of the Chart, which is concerned with speculative and hazardous ventures, as indeed this particular operation exemplified. Stationary transits have the power of a Primary Direction. PLUTO was retrograding over the Radical ASCENDANT (25 Lib 47). When Argentina surrendered (13th June 1982) Saturn was stationary at 15 Lib 30, conjunct Synodic MARS and square the Radical Sun.

A Solar Return Map for the same period is also included here for purposes of comparison. As would be expected, it too is symptomatic of the situation: The Ascending Degree is opposite Natal Saturn and conjunct Natal Mars, activating this important (and unfortunate) feature of the Radix. Radical Pluto completes a disastrous T-Square with Neptune/Mars opposition. The Moon conjoins Pluto, and both are square to the Sun. Jupiter and Saturn, closely joined on the 2nd Cusp suggest the contraction of the Nation's finances through the enormous cost of the war. The Midheaven falls again in the Radical 8th House.

REPUBLIC OF ARGENTINA: SOLAR RETURN FOR YEAR 9/7/1981-9/7/1982. Topocentric Cusps.

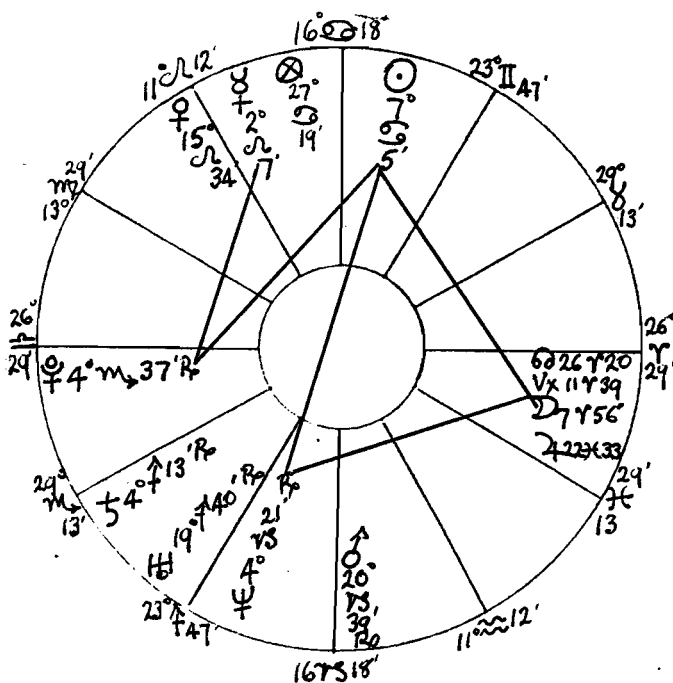

It is interesting that both the Synodic and Solar Return have very similar Cusps, though they are separated in time by 152 years. The same transits activate Synodic Return, Solar Return, and the Radix. In the Solar Return Map Neptune is stationary on the 5th Cusp, Mars is stationary on Jupiter and Saturn, and Pluto became stationary on the Moon on the 4th of July 1982. - Dymock.

THE HANGING OF CHAMBERS AND BARLOW

The two Australians, Chambers and Barlow, convicted for drug-trafficking, are the latest victims of Malaysia's savage laws. Hanging is an outrage against social conscience and common humanity. It was apparent to me their fate was sealed when I erected the accompanying Chart for the time of the news item that they were making a final appeal for clemency to the King of Malaysia.

CHAMBERS AND BARLOW: HORARY CHART
29/6/1986, 12:42 pm EST, BLACKHEATH NSW.
Placidian Cusps.

As "Yea" or "Nay" would in effect be a judicial decree, one must look principally to the 9th House. Here the SUN is opposed by NEPTUNE, and closely squared by the MOON, ruling the 10th (the King/Judiciary) - an unequivocally negative indication. The Sun's trine to PLUTO, the Destroyer, is also negative. Any doubts were settled by the Ruler of the 9th House, MERCURY, being square to PLUTO, rising. MARS in the 4th House (Endings) reflects the violent and grim end.

We have a long way to go to reach the state of the Brotherhood of Man.

- Dymock, 19th July 1986.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas - Airmail). Issue No. 59. 19th June 1986.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

A notable event on the astrological scene is the publication (in English) by ALEXANDER MARR (West Germany) of the third book of a trilogy, entitled PREDICTION, I, II and III. Alexander operates on the frontiers of astrological art, and his books are unique in that they cover aspects of the subject not to be found elsewhere in current or past astrological literature. The books have a particular appeal to seasoned astrologers, but even those just past the beginner's stage will profit by a close study of the text.

In PREDICTION III Marr distills the experience of several decades of assiduous application in his chosen field. These were years in which he employed the research capabilities of both main-frame and micro-computers. One of the entirely new concepts introduced by Marr is "The New Partner-Horoscope", which is not the Composite Chart, nor yet the "Relationship Chart" of Townley, but something quite different, based on prenatal dates. The author claims it is superior to either of the two latter synastry techniques, and he explores it in the relationships of some well-known public figures, as well as in his own association with three famous astrologers. Marr describes it as an "adequate complement to the traditional comparison of two Radix horoscopes", which traditional method is also covered in the book. Special mention is made of negative Partner-Horoscopes, as in the case of the notorious Charles Manson Gang, whose infamous members are now serving gaol terms for the murder of the actress Sharon Tate and others.

Other astrological discoveries of Marr (which he has tested over a long period) are the "Ascendant-Lunar Horoscope" (a chart for the time the Moon crosses the Radical Ascendant each month), and a "new, reliable way to trace the Conception-Horoscope".

The author deals extensively with fixed stars, and demonstrates their effectiveness in 20 Charts which he has precisely rectified.

Marr has done a great deal of research and analysis with Primary Directions, and he writes (P.90) that the Part of Fortune and

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Alexander Marr's PREDICTION III	1
Making Practical Use of Astrology	2
The South African Crisis	4

the Mean Lunar Node are both extremely important factors in the Radix and in Directions. He has found the Mean Node to be of greater effect than the so-called "True" Node.

For many years Mars has been concerned to establish Astrology on a firm scientific basis, and he writes, (P.94), "Advanced research in astrology demonstrated in Prediction II and in this book, has undoubtedly revealed that astrology practised in a serious and reasonable way is based on scientific grounds. Astrological efficacy, as appearing in Topocentric Primary Directions and in the Meridian Distances measured in Oblique Ascension and Descension (also used as Ascensional Transits), is apparent enough to be statistically evaluated."

Marr's style is pithy, much information being conveyed in sententious fashion, which contrasts with the verbosity and minimal content that characterizes much of today's astrological outpourings.

Several useful Tables form an Appendix to the book: 50 principal fixed stars with their Zodiacal longitudes, Right Ascensions and Declinations for 1920, 1950 and 1980, the times of the rising and setting (1950) of the most prominent stars at North latitudes 30, 40 and 50 degrees, a table of Precession for periods up to 100 years, and an extensive Table of Day-Numbers, from which pre-natal dates can be calculated without the help of a computer with a Julian Day Routine.

The book concludes with a glossary and an index, and a list of the writer's extensive publications relating to his findings and developments in astrology.

PREDICTION III is a compact book of handy size, 143 pages, with a soft cardboard cover. It can be purchased immediately by post from Buenos Aires. Write to the publisher, Editiones Sirio, Pedro 1 Rivera 40E, 1430 Buenos Aires, Argentina, enclosing the equivalent of $US10, which covers one copy and airmail postage. - Dymock.

MAKING PRACTICAL USE OF ASTROLOGY

Astrological Forecasts are of most use to the recipient when they indicate what planetary energies will be operating during the period of the Forecast, and at what time. It is not a case of "predicting what will happen", which gives the recipient the idea that self-directed action is unavailing, and he/she might just as well sit down and do nothing. We should adjust to the conditions that will be operating, and which, through astrology, we can know will obtain at a certain time. This is simply a parallel to ordinary living: If we know the weather is going to be fine, warm and summery, we might take the opportunity for a pleasure outing, whereas if we know it will be cold, wet and windy, we dress accordingly, and don't go for a day at the beach. Similarly, if a Direction, Progression or Transit of, for instance, Mars opposite Mercury is coming up, we know we will be mentally sharp, alert and prone to argument, so we use it for any necessary confrontation, but restrain the impulse towards unwarranted sarcasm or disputes. In other words, our conduct can be guided by the conditions of which we have foreknowledge.

I have long maintained that Astrology should be of practical use in our lives, and not merely a theoretical interest, or a diverting subject of conversation at parties. Apart from Primary Directions, Secondary Progressions, and ordinary Transits, the Annual Charts are of real value in showing the astrological "climate" in the following twelve months. I have spent a great many hours on producing and assessing Solar Return Charts of various kinds - Standard, Progressive, Precessed and Prenatal, and these for either the place of birth, the place of residence, or even the location of the native at the time of the Return. Such research is hardly practicable without a computer or at least a programmable calculator. One can end up with a dozen or more maps for the same native and largely the same period. It has been my self-imposed task to sort out these various Annual Charts, and try to establish their relative value.

The curious thing is that all of them appear to have a degree of validity, though some are more relevant than others. Different phases of life or feeling during the twelve months covered by the various charts are shown clearly in one map, and not so clearly, or at all, in others. However, the upshot so far of my investigations is, as I have noted in a previous issue of this publication, that the most generally useful and indicative of the Annual Charts is the Standard Solar Return using the precise position of the Natal Sun, and set for the place of birth. Next in order after that, I prefer the Progressive Solar Return, and then the Precessed Solar Return, both cast for the birth place.

I was hoping that other devotees of our art would also apply themselves to this research, and some have in fact done so, though not yet on the scale required for firm conclusions. As mentioned above, a programmed computer or calculator is practically indispensable in this connection.

As an illustration of the usefulness of Annual Charts I give here my wife's Solar Return for the period 17th June 1985 to 17th June 1986 (See Map 1). Jupiter rising in the 1st House portended a favourable year, with expansion of activities, and general well-being, and so it turned out. Marguerite, besides being an astrologer, is a teacher of Chinese-Brush Painting, and the Sun in the 5th House (creative output, schools and pupils) accurately foretold her success in this direction with enlarged classes and enthusiastic pupils.

In early 1986 consideration was being given to the holding of an exhibition of her work. This being a 5th House matter, the answer from the Annual Chart was clear and affirmative: Not only is the Sun in the 5th (success) but the Sun and the Moon are at equal distances from the 5th (Topocentric) Cusp. Their half-sum is 16 Gem 36, and the Cusp is 16 Gem 44. This very favourable influence of the two Luminaries is supplemented by an even more striking aspect from rising Jupiter - it is exactly trine to the Cusp, by degree and minute! The Exhibition was duly held and was most successful, over 80% of the paintings exhibited being sold. The period for holding the Exhibition (26th March to 7th April) was chosen by reference to the Birth

MARGUERITE

MC

285C18

[illegible]

28TA18

MAP 2

MARGUERITE

BIRTH CHART

23CN32

PL ME
23 19
CN CN
31 48

28LE34
MO
25
LE 29

156E41
SU
25 MA
6E 10
40 6E
31

26VI21
VI
48

VE
17
13TA25

10 09

24
TA

11

JUN 17, 1934
1 41 37 PM UT
ZONE= 0
ST 7:41:34
RANC=115 23 34

24TA09 VT
27TA00 UR

17
AR DSC
41

12

JU 13LI21

17
LI
41

ASC

01

EP 27LI21

06

AMSTERDAM
4E52 03
52N22 18
PLAC HOUSES
TROPICAL

02

03 04

05

13SC25

26PI21

30
SA
17
PF

155A41

42
AQ 12
NN

R
07
AQ
28
SA

28AQ34

JUN 17, 1934
1 41 37 PM UT
4E52 03
52N22 18
AMSTERDAM

23CP32

IC

Chart (Map 2): Primary Direction Moon trine the North Node on 6th April, and Secondary Progression Moon conjunct the Midheaven and Pluto on 5th April (the Moon rules the House of Profession).

Though the Topocentric and Placidian Cusps vary but little in the latitudes we commonly use, here is an instance where the former is the more accurate. The Placidian Cusp is 16 Gem 15 - not markedly wrong, but less accurate than the Topocentric. I have long since discarded other other systems for intermediate Cusps, in particular the Koch, which is invariably wrong, but continues to be followed by many students, and some practitioners, who have been misled by propaganda or are simply governed by habit.

The period of Marguerite's Annual Chart is just finished, and the events of the year were adequately portrayed: Capricorn Rising - concentration on and developments in profession; Annual ASC conjunct the Natal 4th Cusp - prominence of home matters (structural alterations); Jupiter rising - expansion of activities; Jupiter ruling 9th - many beneficial contacts; MC in Natal 2nd, and Rulers of SR 2nd and 10th in close sextile - increase in earned income; Venus in 3rd - pleasure in acquaintances and short trips; Moon in 4th - changes in the home; Sun in 5th - success in creative output and teaching (class work, Exhibition 26th March and Workshop 7th June); Mars conjunct Mercury in 6th, opposite Neptune - much voluntary work for Vipassana Meditation Centre, minor health upsets; Pluto on 9th Cusp - consideration of travel to China for advanced art tuition in Chungking; Saturn elevated and ruling Ascendant - urge to progress; Uranus conjunct 11th, sextile Jupiter - new and beneficial contacts; Neptune conjunct 12th, sextile Pluto, opposite Mars and Mercury - voluntary work on idealistic basis.

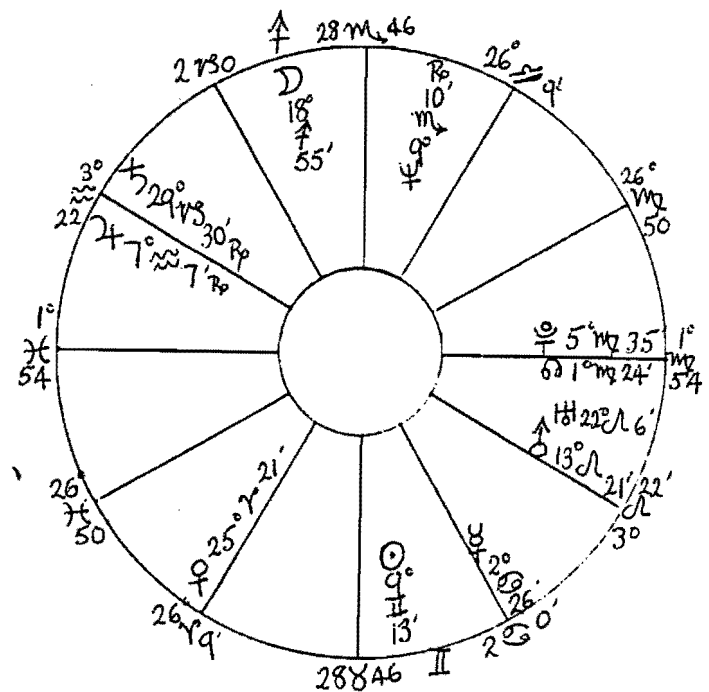

Regarding the final comment, it is interesting that in this instance the sextile is stronger than the oppositions (see WEIGHTING OF ASPECTS in last month's Astrologers' Forum). - Dymock.

CRISIS IN SOUTH AFRICA

On the 12th June the South Africa Government imposed a "State of Emergency", and is enacting legislation to still further oppress the black population. The astrological indications in the Map for the Republic are quite apposite, and point to a continuing struggle against the minority white regime.

Here is the Horoscope for the inception of the Republic in 1961. On 8th June this year Mars was stationary at 23 Cap 6, only one degree from the quincunx of Uranus in the 6th Sector and ruling the 12th. The Martian transit symbolizes the attack on the proletariat, which is symbolized by these two Houses together. As regards Secondary Direction, in this instance the Regressed positions are more indicative of the state of affairs than the Progressed ones. On the 2nd August 1986, Regressed Mars opposes Regressed Saturn in the Converse Chart, signifying violence and bloodshed. It is obvious there will not be any long-term let-up, as the influence is not only kept alive but increased by Regressed Mars opposing Radical Saturn in April 1987.

SOUTH AFRICAN REPUBLIC, 30TH MAY 1961
CAPETOWN, 24h00m LOCAL TIME, 22h00m GMT

The Midheaven of the Radical Chart, regressed by normal Sidereal Time decrement is 5 Sco 10 as at 30th May 1986. Regressed by Zodiacal Solar-Arc, the MC c. is 3 Sco 43. Both these points are subject to a stationary transit of Pluto at 4 Sco 33 on the 16th July next, though the Sidereally-calculated point is the closer. Pluto is powerfully placed in the Radical Chart on the Descendant Angle, so it can be expected to have a major influence, intensifying the struggle, the Government (represented by the 10th House) taking even tougher repressive and punitive measures.

A further indication of rebellion and unrest is Uranus retrograding over the Moon on the 22nd July.

As regards Primary Directions, it is apparent that 1987 will be a year of major crisis: Saturn directly opposes Uranus on the 10th of June 1987, and the Sun will be square to Mars in the following December. These being Primary Directions, their influence is powerful and will spread over several months. The 6th House is the one most involved - Mars and Uranus occupy the 6th, the Sun rules and 6th, and Saturn opposes its Cusp - showing again the anger, rebellion and violence of the masses in their urge for freedom.

- Dymock, 19th June 1986.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas - Airmail). Issue No. 58. 19th May 1986.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

One of the many omissions from astrological literature is a system of grading aspects, whether in Natal, Progressed, Cyclic, Composite or other Charts, according to their relative power. It cannot be that astrologers have never considered the problem, because it comes up with just about every horoscope one handles. What then is the reason for this strange neglect of a vitally important issue in the day-to-day practice of our art? It is true there have been various ways, recommended by a few writers, for determining the relative power of single planets - e.g. Elbert Benjamine's "Astrodynes" and Alexandre Volguine's "The Ruler of the Horoscope". But these, whether accurate or otherwise, still leave untouched the major issue of the aspects received by a planet, whether it is the "strongest" or not, and this, as every experienced astrologer knows, is really the determining factor in how the particular body will operate.

The only references to this problem that I have seen in astrological literature are those to the closeness of the aspect, and the relative importance of aspects inter se. It is true, these are major factors in assessing strength - the smaller the orb, the more powerful the aspect, and a square is intrinsically more potent than a sextile. But there are other considerations: What about the relative importance of the particular Significator involved, in the particular chart being examined? And is a conjunction of six degrees more powerful than a sextile with an orb of only 15'? Can we quantify the difference in power?

These are questions I have addressed over a period of years, as a consequence of which I have now arrived at a Weighting Table. It is reproduced on page 3.

Initially, the four factors that I saw as contributing to the final result were:

1. The nature of the aspect (square, trine, etc.)
2. The closeness of the orb.
3. The relative importance of the Significators involved.
4. Their mundane strength.

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The Weighting of Aspects	1
The Chernobyl Nuclear Accident	4
USSR: Tentative Horoscope	4
Different View of Planetary House Rulerships	4

In the Table each Significator is allocated a number of points in each classification, more or fewer according to its relative power in that particular group. At the end of the analysis the points for each are totalled to arrive at the importance of the aspect, both in an absolute sense and also in relation to the other aspects in the chart.

As regards classification No. 1, I am, of course, treating the conjunction as an "aspect", and it heads the list in potency. The others, following in order of diminishing power, are the square, trine, sextile, quincunx (150 dgs.), semisquare, sesquare (135 dgs.), and semisextile. I take no account of the quintile (72 dgs.) biquintile (144 dgs.), decile (36 dgs.), tredecile (108 dgs.), novile (40 dgs.), septile (51 dgs. 25' 42.86''), or any others that the restless and ingenious minds of astrologers have thought up. I regard them either as fictitious or of such little import that they only cloud the issue and distract attention from the real determining factors. I omit also, for the time being, the Parallel of Declination, whose reference point is the Celestial Equator not the Ecliptic. In my own work I have found the parallel to be unquestionably operative in the Progressed Chart, but it is hard to be definite about its effectiveness in a Radix, where it is usually an accompaniment of a Zodiacal aspect.

Item No. 2 (smallness of orb) does not need elaboration. All astrologers seem to be in agreement here.

No. 3 acknowledges that the Sun and Moon, for instance, are more important as Significators than the remaining planets. (I retain the convention of considering the two Luminaries to be planets.) The two Zodiacal points, the Ascendant and the Midheaven, are also given precedence over the planets. Another Ecliptic point, the Moon's North Node, is important, but it is not easy to decide just where to place it in the scale. For the time being I have ranked it with Mercury.

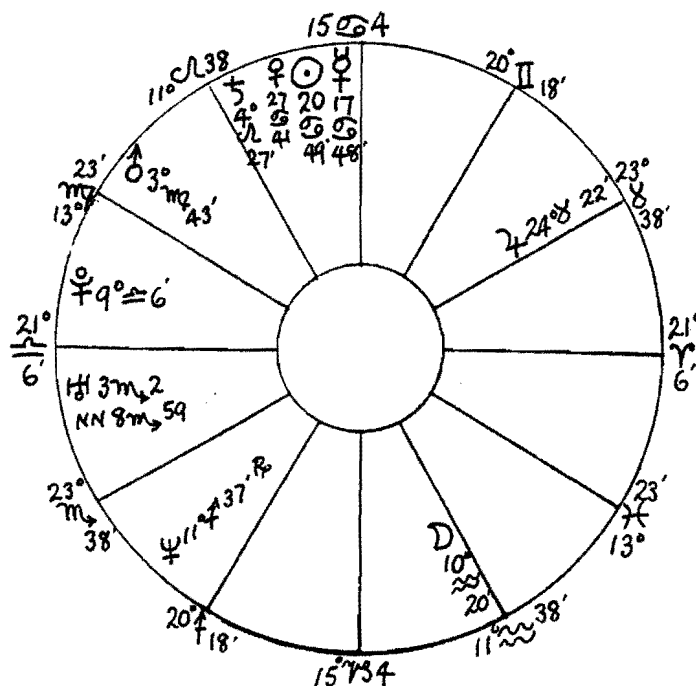

My original concept simply graded the planets irrespective of their Sign position or rulership, but on further consideration I gave extra points for a Significator disposing another, and double that for two Significators mutually disposing one another (mutual reception), for example the Moon in Aries square Mars in Cancer. Perhaps I have been a little generous in the allocation of points here, so a modification may follow.

No. 4 is probably the factor most susceptible of modification in the light of further investigation and experience. It attempts to assess the relative strength of each Significator according to the position it holds in the Mundane Sphere. What is really needed here is the assigning of a mathematical figure applicable to the Significator's oblique ascension (or descension) relative to that of the Angles and intermediate Cusps. This could certainly be done, and tentative conclusions arrived at, but astrologers who do not have the patience or know-how for the necessary calculations will ignore it anyway, and keep to the usual method of measuring aspects along the Ecliptic. I have therefore deemed it best, for the present, to consider only Zodiacal degrees.

So far as the intermediate Cusps are concerned, the ones to be used in this section are Placidian or Topocentric. They are practically the same up to about 50 degrees of North or South latitude. I do not exclude some others (Campanus, Regiomontanus, Porphyry, Koch), though in so far as these are to be considered power points in the Mundane Circle (and not simply House boundaries) I regard them either as inferior, or having no efficacy at all. Equal House Cusps are of course worthless in this connection as they are based on the Ecliptic and have nothing to do with the Mundane Sphere.

This is where the phenomenon of Celestial Latitude becomes important. An extreme case is that of Pluto, whose latitude takes it right outside the Zodiacal belt. In the

Male born 13th July 1976. 12:23 pm EST,
Mount Isa, Qld. 139 E 30, 20 S 44.
Placidian Cusps.

adjoining Chart, for instance, Pluto at 9 Lib 6 is Zodiacally quite removed from the Ascendant at 21 Lib 6, but reference to the Ephemeris shows that Pluto at this date had 16 dgs. 51' of North latitude. By calculation we find its oblique ascension was 199 dgs. 27'. The oblique ascension of the Rising Degree (RAMC + 90 dgs.) on the other hand was 196 dgs. 21', so that Pluto, instead of appearing in the 12th House as in the Chart, was actually only 3 degrees below the Ascendant! Pluto is being carried to the Ascendant by the diurnal revolution of the Earth and it made this conjunction just 12 1/2 minutes later. It is apparent that unless we take Celestial Latitude into account we will overlook some important factors in Chart delineation. Zodiacally, Pluto is trine to the Moon, but its bodily conjunction with the Ascendant is even more important. To see how planets stand in relation to the Cusps (and more particularly the Angles) it is worth while calculating the oblique ascension of all bodies that have more than two degrees of latitude. With the appropriate formulae and a hand-held calculator this is relatively easy.

See the Table on page 3. I do not consider this scale to be definitive, but it is a start, based on a good deal of thought and experience. Other astrologers who have gone into this matter are invited to comment.

- Dymock.

WEIGHTING OF ASPECTS (Their Relative Power)

1. TYPE OF ASPECT:	Points	2. SMALLNESS OF ORB:	Points
Conjunction	10	Within 15'	20
Opposition	9	" 30'	15
Square	8	" 1 deg.	10
Trine	7	" 2 deg.	8
Sextile	5	" 3 deg.	6
Quincunx	3	" 4 deg.	4
Semisquare	2	" 5 deg.	3
Sesquare	2	" 6 deg.	2
Semisextile	1	" 7 deg.	1

3. RELATIVE IMPORTANCE OF THE SIGNIFICATORS:

	Points
Sun or Moon	10)
ASC or MC or Ruler	8) Double the points if the Mercury or Moon's Node	7) Significators are in mutual
Venus, Mars	5) reception.
Jupiter, Saturn	3)
Uranus)) Add half the number of Neptune)	1) points if one Significator
Pluto)) disposes the other.

4. MUNDANE STRENGTH OF THE SIGNIFICATORS:

	Points
Within 1 degree of an Angle, applying	10
Within 3 degrees of an Angle, applying, or 1 degree separating	8
Within 5 degrees applying to an Angle, or 2 degrees separating	6
Within 8 degrees applying to an Angle, or 3 degrees separating	3
Within an Angular House, but not more than two thirds the distance from the Angle	2
Within 3 degrees of an Intermediate (Placidian) Cusp applying, or 1 degree separating	1

NOTE: "Applying" and "separating" to or from a Cusp refer to application and separation by reason of the rotation of the Earth, not the travel of the body in its orbit, which is in the opposite direction.

EXAMPLE: The Sun 8 degrees from an Angle, applying, opposite Jupiter, 5 degrees from an Angle, applying; orb of the opposition aspect, 3 degrees.

ASPECT	TYPE	ORB	SGR.A, SGR.B	PSN.A, PSN.B	TOTAL
Sun opp. Jup.	9 + 5 +	10 + 3 +	2 + 3	32

The Chernobyl Nuclear Accident

One disaster follows another in our accident-prone world, but few rouse the world's population to such a pitch of alarm and activity as the explosion on the 26th of April at the Russian Nuclear Power Plant at Chernobyl, near Kiev. I sympathize with the protests and denunciations of the anti-nuclear demonstrators, but it seems a forlorn hope to expect the nations of the world to give up this huge new source of power, however dangerous it may appear. Countries like Japan have little else to rely on, at least until solar power is developed to the point where it can be generated in the massive amounts wanted in today's cities.

From the purely astrological point of view, the chief interest lies in the preceding Solar Eclipse of the 9th April, and the relation of this Chart to the Map for the USSR. I say "the" Map, but there is no generally accepted Horoscope for the USSR at present. One of the contenders for the honour, the one I reproduce here, has certainly had its claims strengthened by the Chernobyl event.

This Map was originally published in a 1933 issue of The British Journal of Astrology by the late eminent astrologer Vivian E. Robson who obtained it from a Belgian, M. Brahy. It pre-dates the Bolshevik Revolution, which occurred on the 7th November 1917, by nearly two months. For this, or other reasons, this particular Map appears to have been discounted by Mundane astrologers. In my view the Map is not disqualified on this account. Its date, the 15th of September 1917, could very well have been the secret inception of the Bolshevik movement, and the plans then formulated were implemented on November the 7th.

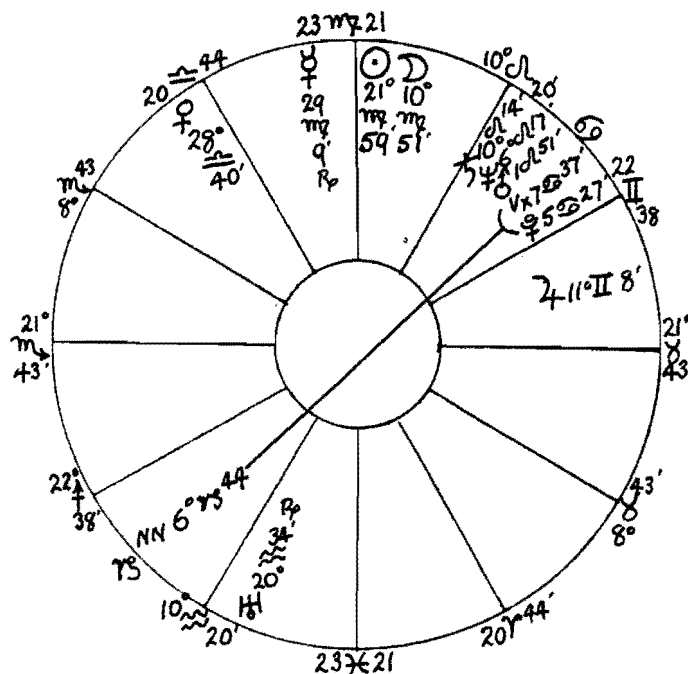

In any event, the Map has two major claims to acceptance, which distinguish it from all others in the field: The first is the affliction of its Meridian by the close conjunction of the MARS - NEPTUNE opposition that occurred at the time Russia was invaded by Nazi Germany on the 22nd of June 1941. The Meridian of the Map is 23 Virgo 21 - 23 Pisces 21, and the Mars - Neptune opposition, exact on the 23rd of June 1941 lay from 24 Pisces 59 to 24 Virgo 59. This is certainly striking, Mars/Neptune being very characteristic of an act of treachery, for Germany had just signed a peace pact with the USSR.

The second piece of evidence is furnished by the Chart for the Solar Eclipse on 9th April this year. - Here the same malefic combination, Mars and Neptune, in an identical degree of the Zodiac (6 Capricorn) falls almost exactly on the Moon's North Node in the USSR Map, and even more closely opposes Pluto at 5 Cancer 27 in the 8th House of the USSR Map! It should be noted that Pluto is also the Ruler of this Chart.

Could anything be more apposite and descriptive of the whole ghastly business than this? - Plutonian power released by Martian heat and resulting in nuclear fall-out (Neptune), with no one as yet knowing how many deaths (8th House) will result.

Much more could be said to establish or support the validity of this tentative Map. As space is short I have not presented the Eclipse Chart for Kiev which, apart from Mars conjunct Neptune (adjacent to the 8th Cusp), has a retrograde Uranus right on the Descendant. ALEXANDER MARR (W.Germany) has again pointed out the PARANS existing - Pluto culminating simultaneously with Mars rising, at 1:31 am. A Soviet official reported that the trouble started at 1:23 am. - Dymock.

USSR NATIONAL MAP (TENTATIVE) 15TH SEPTEMBER 1917, NOON,
LENINGRAD, 30 E 15, 59 N 55. Placidian Cusps.

A DIFFERENT VIEW OF HOUSE RULERSHIPS

In a letter to an English astrological journal, OLIVIA BARCLAY (Eng.) explains one of the puzzling findings of M. Gauquelin. Someone asked, "How do we account for the fact that athletes of prominence had Mars in the 9th House, which is not Angular but Cadent?". Olivia's reply:

From classical times, (and you can read this in Manilius' Astronomica, Book 2. 9.05, as well as in most other books written prior to this century), the Sun ruled the 9th House. Usually a planet is weak in a Cadent House, and here it may be that it is as if, as with combustion, it is weakened by the very strength of the Sun overcoming it. However, as you can read in de Vore's Encyclopaedia, the effect of combustion on Mars is the opposite, for Mars and the Sun are of similar natures. "Mars combust is always the man who fights for what he wants". I suggest therefore that Mars is strengthened in the 9th House.

There are moderns who believe that because Jupiter rules the 9th Sign it therefore rules the 9th House. This is a modern fallacy. Jupiter rules the 11th. It is extremely fortunate therein. Saturn rules the 12th House. This also accounts for the reason many doctors and scientists have the House accentuated, for they are helped in their careers by that planet.

These rulerships were called the Joys of the planets. Mercury rules the 1st, and if placed here makes good speakers. The Moon rules the 3rd, and if placed there its unsettled roaming qualities are accentuated. Mars rules the 6th, the House of hard work. Venus rules the 10th, the House of glory. The name of the 9th, which is ruled by the Sun, is the House of God or, for those who believed in many gods, the House of the Sun God.

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock, 19th May 1986.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas - Airmail). Issue No. 57. 19th April 1986.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

OLIVIA BARCLAY of England has recently returned from a visit to Norway, where she talked on Horary Astrology to English-speaking Norwegian astrologers. Olivia writes that the Norwegians could think only of the assassination of Olaf Palme, which we mentioned briefly in the last Astrologers' Forum in connection with the Solar Eclipse of 12th November 1985.

Olivia submits the Chart for the actual event, with her comments, and also her own interpretation of a Horary Chart from Andrew Bevan of Oslo:

Olaf Palme Assassination Event Chart

From Olivia: The first thing I notice in the Chart is the change of power and authority on the 10th Cusp. Authority is changing from Leo to Virgo, from the Sun to Mercury, from Olaf Palme to Death, since Mercury rules the 8th. You can no longer say Palme has authority because now Death has taken it from him, and rules Palme.

Therefore maybe the event was really a few minutes of a degree earlier. I identify Palme with the Sun, and Mercury with Death, and the Part of Death is on the 8th Cusp. The Moon, Ruler of the 12th from the 10th, shows the President's unknown enemy. In the original (unturned Chart) you can see him lurking in ambush near the Ascendant, together with Pluto retrograde.

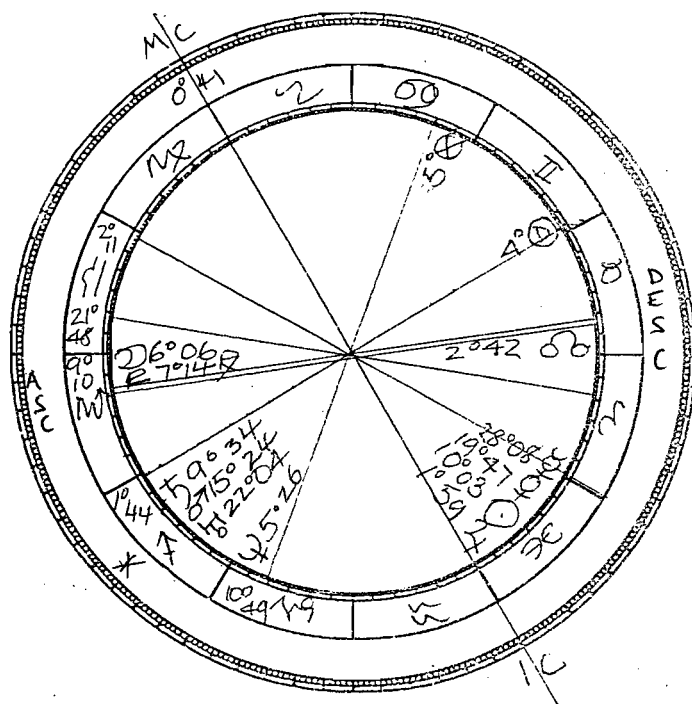

The Moon joins Pluto, planet of death, and carries its light to the Sun through the trine aspect, the Sun being peregrine. The Moon then passes to Venus, Mrs. Palme, who is saved, Venus being so well placed. Venus is in Pisces, exalted, and the Moon conveys its light to Mercury, Ruler of the Death House. Although she was not killed she saw death; death was with them. The Sun received the full impact from the Moon (Moon trine Sun).

In this Chart, Mars, natural ruler of violence and firearms is also met with the dexter square of the Sun, and Mars is conjunct Uranus. Venus meets only the dexter square of Uranus.

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Olaf Palme Assassination, Event Chart	1
Horary Chart	2
Air Strike on Libya USA National Chart	3
Solar Return	3
Solar Eclipse. 9/4/1986	4
Data on Victims of the Space-Shuttle Disaster	4

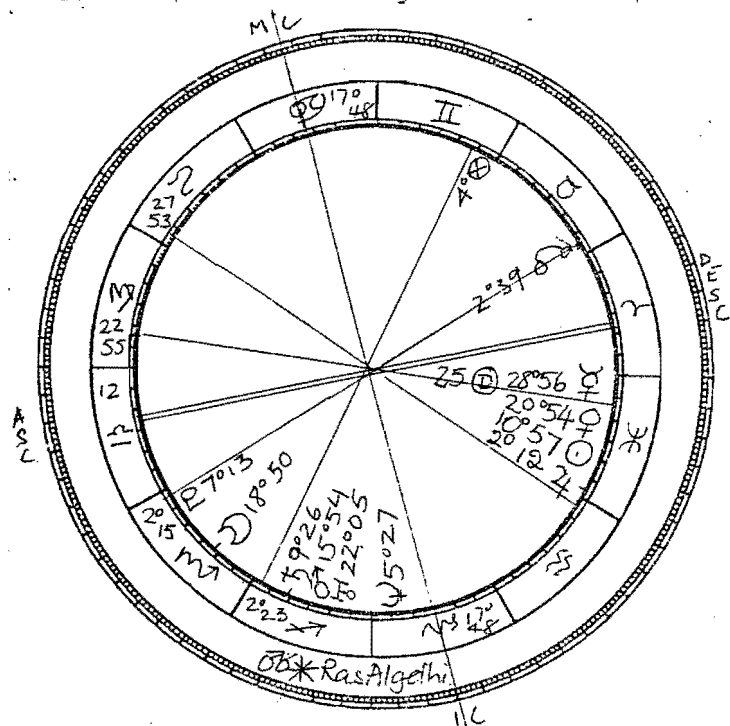

EVENT: THE ASSASSINATION. 28TH
FEBRUARY 1986, STOCKHOLM, 18 E 03,
59 N 20. 11:25 pm. 22h 25m GMT

the shock. Indeed. Uranus collects the lights of these planets in sudden shock.

Taking the 8th from the 10th. this shows Mars ruling death, as violent and sudden. Taking the 8th of the original Chart, Mercury, void of course, rules

HORARY: Who did it? Where did he go?
1st March 1986, 8:57 pm Oslo, 19h 57m UT.
10 E 43, 59 N 56. Regiomontanus Cusps.

death, pointless and void. (In CHRISTIAN ASTROLOGY Lilly shows that one should consider both Houses, page 197.)

It therefore looks as if the Moon and Mars are jointly the villain, and there is a minor mutual reception between them.

The assassin might therefore be big-boned, with sandy hair, long full face, active, middle to tallish, with the lower part of his body strong, and dwelling East North East.

There is no peregrine planet in an Angle, so I take the 7th Ruler, Mars, as the villain, together with Co-Ruler the Moon.

The fact that both Luminaries are below the Horizon shows that he will not be brought to light.

The Sun, natural ruler of important people goes to square dexter of Mars and on to impact with Uranus. He goes on to Venus, Ruler of death. (Venus now identifies his body, the Ascendant, with the 8th, death. The Part of Death is also here. The Moon will translate the Sun to Venus. The Part of Death is also here. The Moon will translate the Sun to Venus.)

Being in the 9th from his own Sign, Mars is a stranger or foreigner.

Mars is with Ras Alhague, a fixed star of the nature of Mars, giving boldness.

Lilly suggests the square of the Sun to Mars is associated with highway robbery, cruel wounds to the body, and life in danger from fire and iron. Mars at the midpoint of Saturn and Uranus indicates an act of violence, and wrong use of extraordinary energy, according to Ebertin.

Mars in Sagittarius shows large bones, sandy hair, strong body, active. The Moon and Mars in minor reception shows he is not peregrine and has somewhere to go. The Moon in Scorpio suggests accommodation low down, like a basement, a place with one outer door. Again, direction is East North East. The assassin was wearing brown. Mars in the terms of Mercury, tallish.

[The Part of Death is found by adding the Longitude of the Ascendant to the Longitude of the 8th Cusp and subtracting the Longitude of the Moon. Olivia uses the Regiomontanus House division, which was the system favoured by Lilly himself. - Ed.]

ROSS HARVEY (NSW) writes (regarding the assassination of Olaf Palme) that in the preceding New-Moon Chart, cast for Stockholm, the most striking indications were the positions of Pluto and Uranus on the 12th and 2nd Placidian Cusps, respectively, putting the Ascendant at their mundane midpoint. The Ascendant, 20 Sco 28, was also conjunct the Zodiacal midpoint of Mars and Pluto (20 Sco 41), which in turn was square to the Sun/Moon position (19 Aqu 59), which in its turn was semi-square to Neptune (4 Cap 56).

Because of Stockholm's high latitude, this Chart is also useful for showing the relative correctness of various cuspal systems: The Topocentric Cusps do not differ sufficiently from the Placidian ones to be considered wrong, though the 2nd Placidian Cusp is closer to Uranus (which has only 4' of South latitude). But both the Regiomontanus and Koch Cusps are conspicuously wrong [as also, Porphyry and Equal House. - Ed.].

AIR STRIKE ON LIBYA

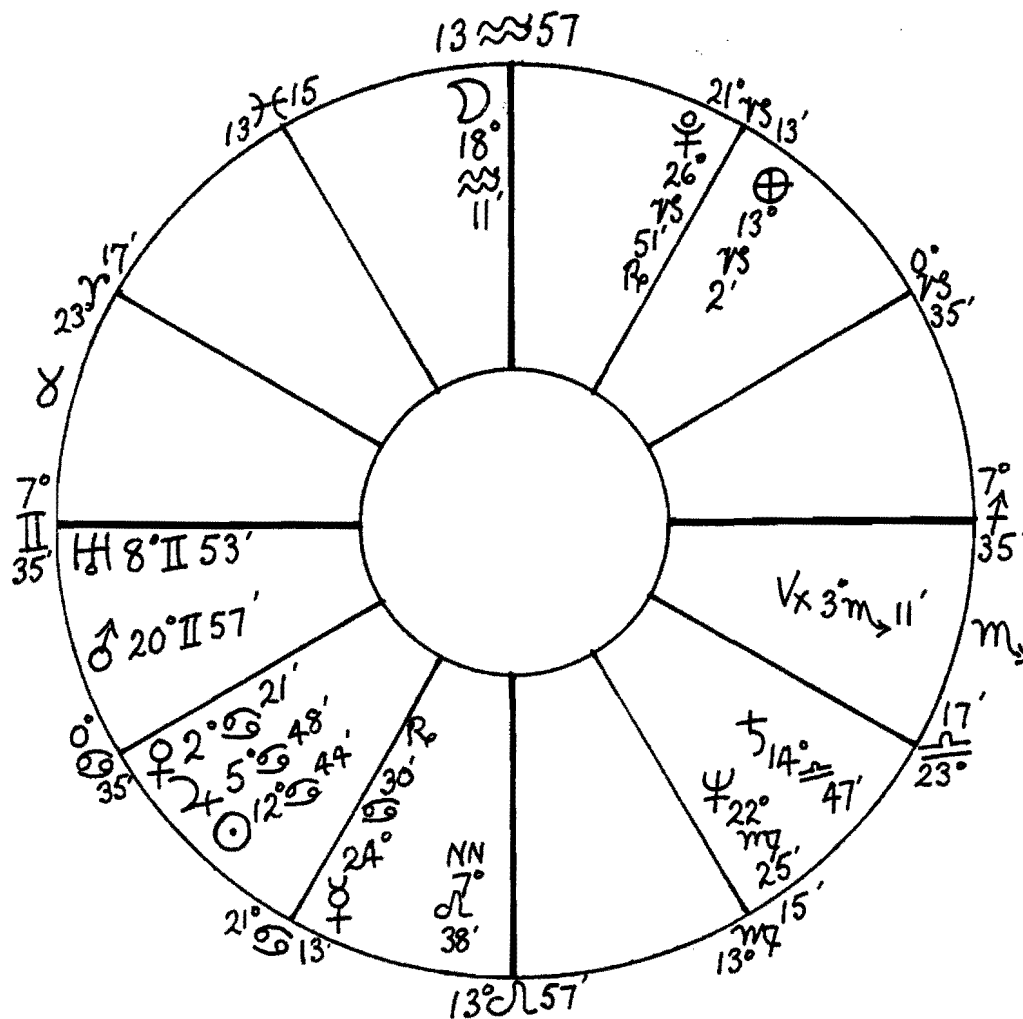

The dominant, and disquieting, news this month is the attack by the US Airforce on targets at Benghazi and Tripoli on the 14th of April. The operation apparently commenced at 7 pm Washington time, which was 0 hrs. UT on 15th April, and 10 am Eastern Standard Time in Australia, 15th April. This dangerous move prompted me to examine the US National Chart, of which there are several in existence, together with the associated current Cyclic Charts and Solar Eclipse.

The Radix for the USA that seems to me most entitled to credence is the one with

MAP 1

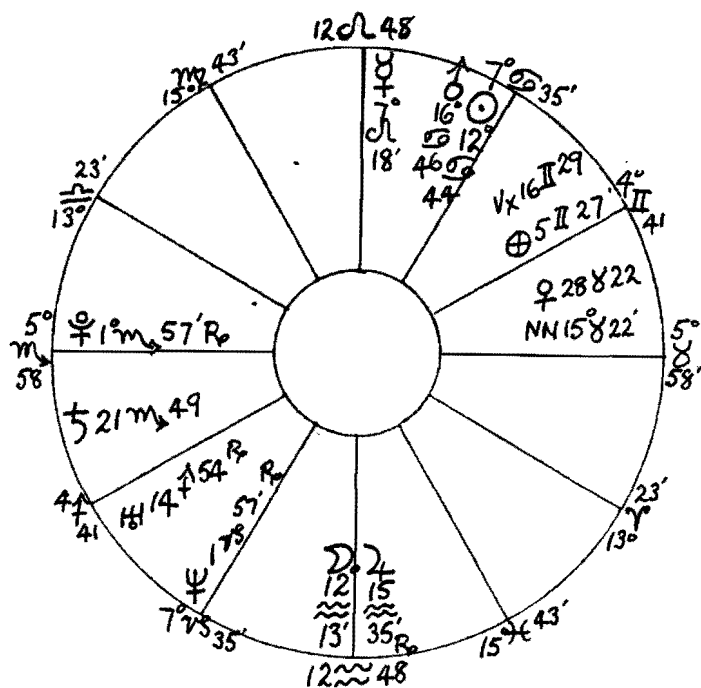

USA NATIONAL HOROSCOPE

4th July 1776, 2:14:42 am LMT Philadelphia, PA. GMT 7:15:22 am.
75 W 10, 39 N 57. Placidian Cusps.

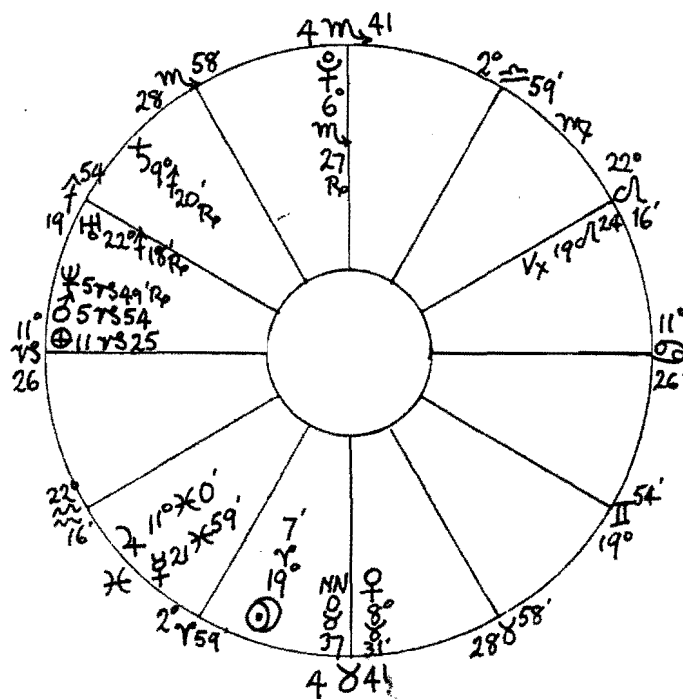

MAP 2

SOLAR RETURN, 4TH JULY 1985
Philadelphia. Rad. Sun 12CN43'50".
Placidian Cusps.

MAP 3

SOLAR ECLIPSE 9TH APRIL 1986, 6:09 AM UT
WASHINGTON, D.C. 77 W 2, 38 N 54.
Placidian Cusps.

7 Gem 35 on the Ascendant, and it is reproduced here (MAP 1). GEMINI rising is particularly appropriate for a nation with a strong intellectual bias, a demand for personal freedom, and many child-like qualities, reflected in their national character, life, and artistic output.

URANUS plays a dominant part in this Horoscope, testifying to the extraordinary inventiveness and technological expertise of the USA. The Moon in the Midheaven in Aquarius accounts for the world-wide humanitarian movements instigated and supported by the US.

PLUTO close to the 9th Cusp and opposite Mercury is indicative of the Nation's tendency to become embroiled in foreign conflicts and under-cover operations against politically hostile countries.

Finally, the conjunction of the two "Fortunes", JUPITER AND VENUS, with the SUN in the 2nd House, has made the USA the richest country in the world, and possibly, unfortunately, the most materialistic.

At the time of the raids on Libya, (about 2 am Libyan time on the 15th of April) the following were two significant Transits:

URANUS Retrograde at 22 Sag 14 OPPOSITE MARS r. Mars rules the Radical 12th House, so the combination is quite typical of a violent surprise attack.

SATURN retrograde OPPOSITE URANUS on 21st April.

The influence of both transiting bodies is strengthened by their slower, retrograde, motion.

The (Tropical) SOLAR RETURN for 4th July 1985 (MAP 2) shows the action clearly:

MARS CONJUNCT THE SUN in the 9th House in CANCER - Hostile action against a foreign power. (Libya is said to come under the Sign Cancer.)

PLUTO retrograde CONJUNCT THE ASCENDANT and exact sextile NEPTUNE - Violence and concealment.

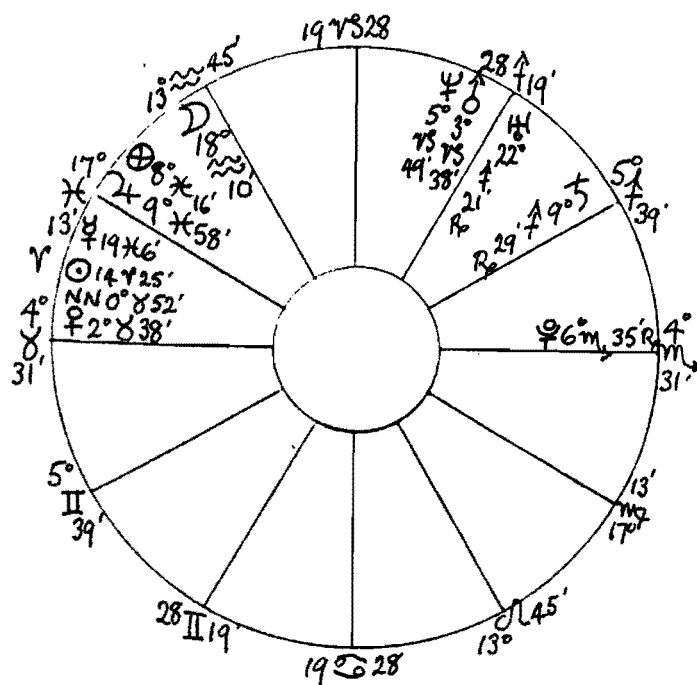

MOON CONJUNCT JUPITER in the 4th - popularity of the Government at Home, but not without criticism, as shown by MERCURY OPPOSITE THE MOON.

The Tropical LUNAR RETURN of 4th April, immediately prior to the air-strike, shows PLUTO OPPOSITE VENUS across the Horizon - violence against an enemy, shattering the relationship of peace - and MARS CONJUNCT NEPTUNE in the 9th House - long-range attack on a foreign country.

It is noteworthy, also, that the SOLAR ECLIPSE of 9th April, (MAP 3) just five days prior to the attack, when set for Washington, the American administrative Capital, has PLUTO OPPOSITE VENUS on the Meridian, showing the potential for violent action antagonistic to peace. MARS in this Eclipse Chart is closely opposed to JUPITER in the National Chart (orb 6' only), another indication of conflict - and enormous expense.

- Dymock.

LUNAR RETURN 4TH APRIL 1986 in USA CHART.
Philadelphia. Radical Moon 18AQ10°31'

SPACE-SHUTTLE PERSONNEL

The following birth-data of some of the personnel who died in the Space-Shuttle explosion on 28th January is by courtesy of Gwen Stoney, who obtained it from Edith Custer, Editor of Mercury Hour:

JUDY RESNIK, 5th April 1949, 6:52 am EST, Akron, Ohio, 81 W31, 41 N 5.

CHRISTA MCAULIFFE, 2nd September 1948, 10:13 pm Daylight Saving Time, Boston, 71 W 04, 42 N 22.

MICHAEL JOHN SMITH, 30th April 1945, 1:23 pm War Time, Moorehead City, North Carolina, 76 W 43, 34 N 34.

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock, 19th April 1986.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas - Airmail). Issue No. 56. 19th March 1986.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

I frequently bemoan the fact that it seems impossible to produce an issue of Astrologers' Forum entirely error-free. Despite much care and attention, misspellings, words joined together or omitted, and similar minor transgressions continue to disturb my editorial life. They make themselves obvious only after the Issue has been printed. Thus, in last month's Issue (No.55), the following lines were inadvertently omitted at the foot of the second column, page 2 (dealing with the Philippines Election): "definitely unfavourable to the Government, unless it indicates foul play. Ross concluded that the Opposition would do well in the Election but that Marcos would remain in power, irrespective of the voting."

[As it turns out, Ross's prediction was quite near the mark, as Marcos made every effort to hold on by fraudulent means, but was overthrown by "people power", thus vindicating the Solar Eclipse Chart of 12th November 1985.]

A printed slip containing the omitted lines is enclosed with each copy of this Issue, so that subscribers can paste it in where required.

Fortunately, very few errors occur in the published horoscopes, but in the same Issue (Page 3) the Capricorn Ingress for Perth inadvertently appeared in lieu of the Ingress for Manila. The positions of the planets are of course exactly the same but, Manila being about 5 degrees further East than Perth, the Cusps have to be altered slightly. The Midheaven should be 4 Lib 0, the Ascendant, 27 Sag 20. As Ross Harvey points out, this makes the Sun conjunct the Ascendant, (2 dgs. 33' below it in oblique ascension). The intermediate Cusps are: 11th, 4 Sco 47; 12th, 2 Sag 2; 2nd, 27 Cap 50; 3rd, 0 Pi 37.

MORE ON CHALLENGER

The drama of the Space Shuttle Challenger explosion has naturally excited the interest of a great many astrologers. In the last Issue I gave the Chart for the actual lift-off, and judged it from the point of view of any journey being commenced. In my

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
More on CHALLENGER	1
The Quarterly Precessed Solar Return	3
Sweden and Singapore, and the Solar Eclipse of 12/11/1985	4

opinion this is the best way to approach these matters if we are to have any prospect at all of forestalling evil consequences. The Chart (reproduced below) was clearly an appalling one, with Pluto, "The Destroyer", playing a dominant part. The explosion that destroyed Challenger came 1 minute 13 seconds after lift-off, so the two Charts are almost identical.

OLIVIA BARCLAY (England), who specializes in Horary work, has sent some further comments:

"Mankind ignores astrology at his peril. Had the astronauts understood the implications of the planetary positions they would never have taken off. The Moon was approaching a square of Uranus, Later a quincunx of Jupiter and then a sextile of Mars. Every sort of Moon/Mars contact would be dangerous. Need we be reminded that Mars rules fire, and is strong here in Scorpio? In fact the Moon translates the light from Saturn on the 8th Cusp to Uranus, and on to Mars.

"The Shuttle can be identified by the Ascendant and its Ruler, Venus. Venus is unfortunately combust. Had this been a horary question I would assume there was something hidden and untold (or the questioner in some great fear), warning the astrologer to leave the question unjudged. In the context of this event the Chart shows, too, that there was something hidden that should have been known (a hidden defect) which had not been brought to light.

"Mercury is Ruler of the Second House, all the objects belonging to the Shuttle; and it is also combust.

"The Ascendant itself is near a fixed star, El Nath, or Hamal, which is of the nature of Mars and Saturn. Ebertin says it is as if these two malefics are fighting for domination, and that life is endangered if the native undertakes climbing, up or down, by leap or dive, into an abyss. Elspeth Ebertin adds an anecdote of a hospital patient who leapt from the window, and others who dived from heights. (See Fixed Stars and their Interpretation by Ebertin-Hoffman.)

"Pluto, the Natural Ruler of Ejection, opposes the Ascendant, which is the House of Life. Saturn, Natural Ruler of Falling and Drowning is on the 8th Cusp, in mutual reception with Jupiter, Ruler of the 8th. [This effectively brings them into conjunction. - Ed.] The position of Saturn alone, without any further investigation, would deter any astrologer from the choice of such a moment.

"Pars Fortuna is conjunct Saturn. William Lilly says of this, "the consumption of movable and immovable goods, waste of his fortune, and yet he knows not how". Lilly's comments are always apt.

"Neptune, which has been called the Natural Ruler of Boundless Space, is in the degree of the Moon's Nodes, described by Watters as a degree of fatality. [Barbara Watters' book, Horary Astrology and the Judgement of Events should be in the library of every astrologer. - Ed.]

"The evidence of the midpoints is also interesting. (See Ebertin's Combination of Stellar Influences.):

URANUS is midpoint Saturn/Neptune, showing weakness, manifesting suddenly.

PLUTO is midpoint Moon/Neptune, showing emotional shock and upheaval.

URANUS is approximately midpoint Jupiter/Pluto, showing wastefulness and loss of one's whole property. The antiscion of JUPITER-PLUTO also stresses this. [Jupiter and Pluto being equal Zodiacal distances from the 9th Cusp. - Ed.]

FORTUNA is midpoint Mars/Uranus, showing violent intervention; Higher Power.

The square of JUPITER to midpoint Sun/Moon shows the urge to build together. Birth.

The square of URANUS to midpoint Ascendant/Mercury shows an urge to become heated about other people, and frank talk suddenly.

The SUN is midpoint Mercury/Venus, showing sympathy, also a sense of physical form.

"Of Course the MOST important study when such a catastrophe occurs is the comparison of the Event Chart with that of the previous Eclipses. Mars, the planet to which the Moon (indicator of events) eventually makes its aspect, is in the degree occupied by Saturn at the time of the Lunar Eclipse of October 28th 1985. The Moon was approximately on the Ascendant here with, of course, the Sun opposite. Consider this: The Lunar Eclipse falls across the horizon at the time and location of the Launch. The Ascendant then is almost conjunct the Launch M.C.

"Uranus is exactly opposite Mars on the USA Foundation Chart, and Saturn on the 8th Cusp of the Launch Chart is opposite the USA Ascendant (8 Gem 47).

"There must be many more comparisons those with computers can find, but the obvious ones are those of the Angles and the Luminaries.

"Here, then, we find the position of the Luminaries at the Lunar Eclipse reflected, whereas at the Bradford fire it was the opposition of Mars and Uranus at the time of the Eclipse reflected."

ROGER PEARSON (England) adds that Mars at 20 Gem 59 in the USA Chart is exactly opposite Uranus in the Launch Chart. He writes further, "...this disaster is almost 19 years to the day of the Apollo flash fire [27/1/1967] in which three astronauts died of asphyxiation". Roger notes that the two Charts have remarkable similarities in the degree positions. He has gone into the detail of considering the Launch Chart as a transit over the Apollo Flash Fire Chart, and even treated the latter as a Radix to give Progressed aspects at the time of the Launch Chart. It is doubtful, however, if this is a legitimate operation - that is, whether one disaster can be treated as a Radix for a subsequent one. The Progressed aspects he found were:

Sun p. conjunct Venus r. (orb 5')

MC p. square Moon r. (orb 2')

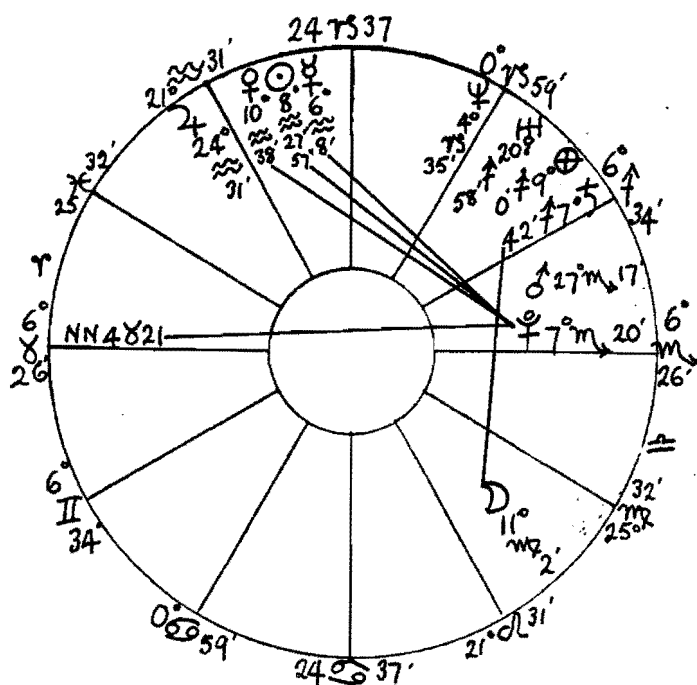

Mars p. square Moon r. (orb 16')

Venus p. opposite Pluto r. (orb 9')

ALEXANDER MARR (German Fed. Republic) draws attention to the PARANS existing near the time of the explosion (11:38 am local time) at the locality of Cape Canaveral.

[Parans are pairs of planets that simultaneously rise, culminate, set, or cross the Lower Meridian, through diurnal rotation of the Earth. The two bodies do not have to be at the same Cardinal Point, they can be traversing different Angles, so long as they are doing it at the same time,

SPACE SHUTTLE LIFT-OFF 28TH JAN. 1986
11:38 am EST. 4:38 pm UT. Cape Canaveral
80 W 36, 29 N 24. Placidian Cusps.

or nearly so. They obviously then are in mundane conjunction, square or opposition. The only practicable way to find Parans is by using a suitable program in a computer. - Ed.]

Alexander reports the following significant Parans on 28th January, with the local clock time of their occurrence:

The South Node and Pluto rising at 0:9:7 am and 0:9:34 am respectively.
Mercury rising at 6:54:28 am, and the Sun rising at 6:55:24 am.
Uranus culminating at 8:51:19 am, and the Moon setting at 8:51:22 am.
The Sun culminating at 0:13:42 pm, and Pluto setting at 0:15:13 pm.

Alexander writes that Parans are the dominating, the most significant and effective factors in any mundane event, and that this is so even if the planets are not [Zodiacally] near the Angles of the chart.

JENIFER POMMERIN (WA) suggests that TRANSPUTO and CHIRON in the Space Shuttle Chart can add to the overall picture. She writes, "Remember that the dreadful explosion was seen on T.V. by children in the American schools? Well, Transpluto is in Leo and in the 5th House (schools, children). It forms a close trine to Uranus (space flight, explosion, death; telecommunication, instant knowledge) in the 8th House. It was a publicly-viewed explosion that had a poignant meaning for the schoolchildren. Furthermore, Transpluto, the Ruler of the 1st House, demonstrates the link (perhaps the gamble - 5th House) of the craft's life and its death.

"Chiron has a quincunx to Pluto (the quincunx is often present as a precipitator for eventful happenings); there is a square to the Moon Ruling the 4th (end of job); and an opposition to Saturn, Ruler of the Midheaven (the Government/responsible bodies). The 6th House (workmanship) is under Chiron's rule. The aspects of this planetoid could be pointing to a literally deathly structural fault. The contact with Saturn also emphasises the cold temperature - crystallisation of material, that has been suggested as the cause for the leak of rocket fuel. Chiron's trine to the Sun and Venus appears to indicate that the Captain and crew performed their tasks properly. The Chart could actually be used to show that there was no human error on the part of the flight crew, and that the fault seems to lie with the builders and those who gave the authority for the launch."

Thanks to the contributors who have sent their analyses of the Space Shuttle disaster. These dissections teach us what to look for in forecasting events, and also continually illustrate the relationship existing between things celestial and things terrestrial.

But what I should now like to see more of is astrological prediction of coming events, rather than post-event analysis. This will be much more valuable, and a real test of expertise. Also, though it may not be imperative for astrologers to convince the sceptics that astrology is valid, accurate forecasting is one of the ways in which this can be done.

I suggest readers should interest themselves in National and Cyclic Horoscopes, and Eclipse and Ingress Charts set for various capitals or other parts of the world, and try to fathom out what they mean for the country, city, political leaders or notable personages concerned. This way we may eventually achieve reliable forecasts.

All the post-event analysis we have done provides useful clues as to what will happen, but the acid test is - can we forecast it? - Dymock.

The Quarterly Precessed Solar Return

LESLIE BLACK (Eng.) writes approvingly of Cheng-yi Huang's article on the "Sidereal" Quarterly Solar Return and its application to President Kennedy at the time of his assassination (Astrologers' Forum No. 51). Cheng-yi adverted also to the death of Queen Elizabeth's father on 6th February 1952, and her accession to the throne of England. Her worldly elevation was shown in the "SSR" but not in the Tropical SR. However Cheng-yi also stated that the SSR works only for the first quarter of the Return Year, though in Queen Elizabeth's case her accession in the last quarter was apparent in the SSR for the beginning of her year. Cheng-yi averred that for the parts remaining it is necessary to cast Quarterly SSR Charts for when the Sun moves to 90, 180 and 270 degrees from its Radical position.

I should point out here that "Sidereal" in this application is a misnomer, as the Charts are not calculated in the Sidereal Zodiac, but in the Tropical one, and are simply precessed for the time elapsing from birth to the date of the Return Chart. Hence I prefer to call these Charts "Precessed" rather than "Sidereal".

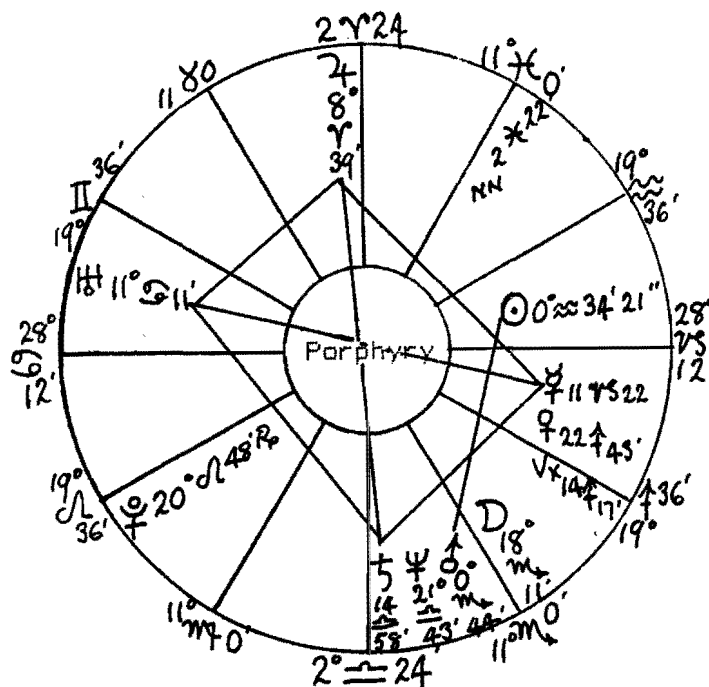

Leslie Black has implemented Cheng-yi's ideas by erecting the Quarterly Precessed Chart of Queen Elizabeth. He writes about it as follows:

"The Chart is undoubtedly an impressive one for such an important event as the death of a King, when the heir apparent is out of the country. The sudden unexpected unfavourable news of the death of her father, and a hasty return home, is typical of the Mercury opposition Uranus (11' orb). The death of her father is denoted by the near-exact square of the Sun to Mars in the death Sign, Scorpio, (orb 10') which is accentuated by Saturn's position in the fourth Angle. For accession and queenship, there is no finer position than that of Jupiter in the 10th House in the Ruling Sign of England, Aries, and conjunct Mercury in the Radix. Five major planets are Angular, and four complete a Grand Cross," [the Grand Cross being associated with crisis. - Ed.]

Solar Eclipse: Sweden and Singapore

The Solar Eclipse of 12th November 1985 appears to have precipitated tragedies around the world. At Stockholm, where Prime Minister Olaf Palme was assassinated, the

QUARTERLY PRECESSED SOLAR RETURN 21ST
JANUARY 1952 FOR QN. ELIZABETH II
Preces. Sun 0 Tau 34' 21" (Rad. Sun
0 Tau 12' 20"). London, 0 W 0, 51 N 31

Eclipse occurred exactly on the 7th Angle (20 Sco 9), and Saturn, ruling the 10th House (the Prime Minister) was conjunct the Sun and Moon and also in parallel declination with them. Venus ruled the Ascendant, and was in Scorpio conjunct Pluto (orb less than two degrees).

With the Eclipse Chart set for Singapore (where a tourist hotel collapsed just before noon on the 16th of March), the 4th Sign, Cancer, rises, drawing attention to the 4th House, where Mars is in close conjunction with the Cusp, and in even closer square to the Ascendant. At the latest count, eleven bodies have been recovered from the ruins of the building, seventeen people have been rescued alive, and about fifty are still missing. It seems incredible that anyone could have escaped death or serious injury in the pile of rubble that was once the hotel. The fact that a few did so escape may be attributed to the trine of Jupiter to Mars from the 8th House.

Through lack of time, I have not examined the Ingress Charts for Sweden and Singapore, but anyone who has done so might care to report the findings.

Can anyone supply the birth data of the present Australian Federal Treasurer, Paul Keating?

My kind regards to all. - Dymock,
19th March 1986.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas - Airmail). Issue No. 55. 19th February 1986.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

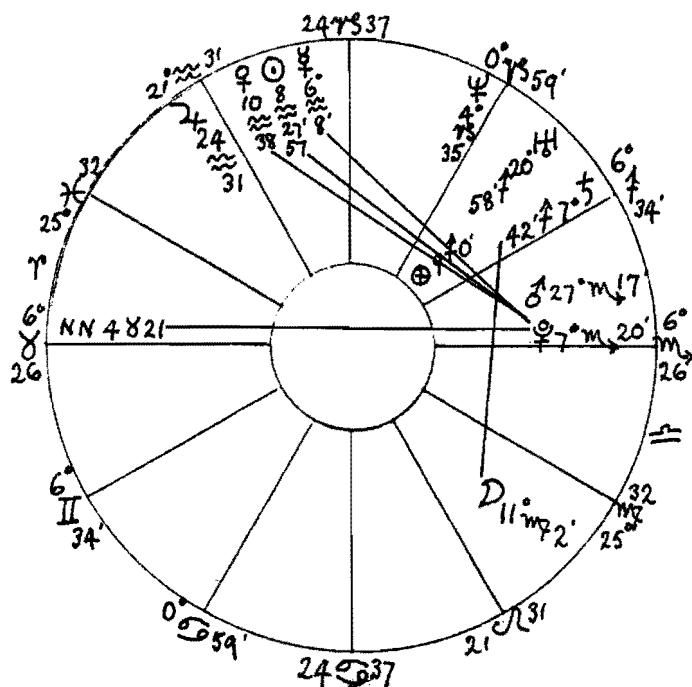

SPACE SHUTTLE EXPLODES

The fiery destruction of the Space Shuttle Challenger at Cape Canaveral on the 28th of January is another tragic testimony to the wilful blindness of man. The portents of catastrophe were there in the heavens for all to read, but because Astrology is still seen by many as "superstitious nonsense" the danger signals so generously provided by the celestial bodies remained outside the ken of those responsible for the launch. It is a safe bet that any astrologer who ventured to draw attention to the dangerous disposition of the planets at the proposed time of departure for "Challenger", would have been regarded as weak-minded, and totally ignored.

The accompanying Horoscope is set for the precise time of lift-off of the space craft, and can be assessed like any other Chart for the beginning of a journey. The explosion that destroyed "Challenger" occurred just one and a quarter minutes later.

SPACE SHUTTLE LIFT-OFF 28TH JAN. 1986

11:38 am CST. 4:38 pm UT. Cape Canaveral
80 W 36, 28 N 24. Placidian Cusps.

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Space Shuttle Explodes	1
The Philippines Election	2
"Frank's" Release	3
The 1983 Vernon Clark Experiment	4

One does not have to be deeply versed in astrology to see the dreadful implications of this Figure:

1. The Ascendant represents the life and health of the venture, and here Pluto (The Destroyer), in Scorpio, directly opposes the Rising Degree, with an orb of only 54'.
2. Pluto closely squares the Sun (the Captain) and Mercury, Ruler of the 6th House (the crew) and Venus, Co-Ruler of the 6th through Libra being intercepted. The square of Pluto to the Significators shows that the crew were overwhelmed by superior force, unable to do anything.
3. The Moon, Ruler of the 4th House (Terminations) is squared by Saturn in the House of Death.

ELVA HOWSON (Vic.) sent the Chart for the previous Lunar Eclipse (28th of October 1985) reproduced below. Here again we see Pluto afflicting the Sun, Moon, North Node and Jupiter in a T-Square. Reinhold Ebertin, in The Combination of Stellar Influences, says Pluto afflicting the North Node of the Moon signifies "A common and tragic destiny shared with other persons".

Elva commented also on the picture of the actual explosion, captured by cameras, as being a dramatically Scorpionic formation (see reproduction).

(from a sequence of pictures)

A circular diagram with a central circle and 12 radial segments. Each segment contains handwritten text, including numbers, symbols, and some underlined or circled elements. The text is written in a cursive, handwritten style. The segments are separated by radial lines, and the entire diagram is enclosed in a circular border.

Starting from the top and moving clockwise, the segments contain the following text:

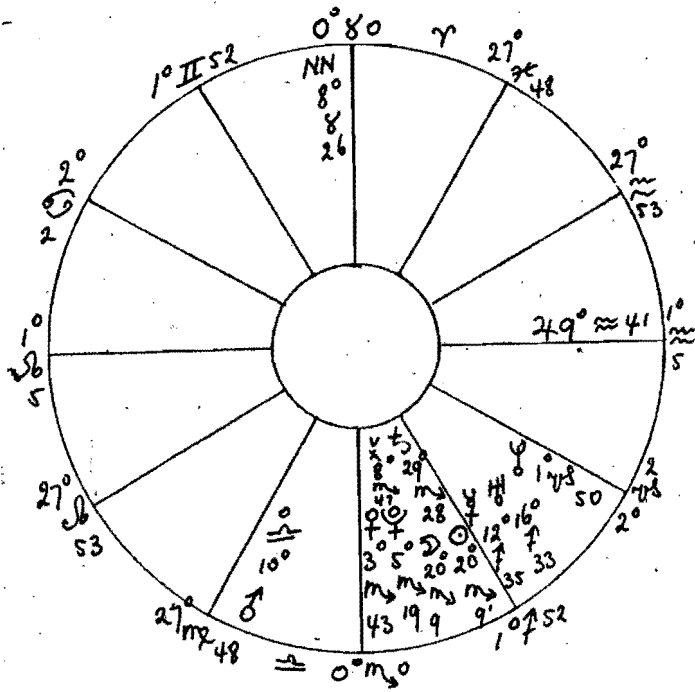

- Segment 1: $13^{\circ} m \rightarrow 22$
- Segment 2: $12^{\circ} \underline{m} \rightarrow 51$
- Segment 3: $5^{\circ} m \rightarrow 40$
- Segment 4: $27^{\circ} \underline{m} \rightarrow 2$
- Segment 5: $4^{\circ} II \rightarrow 30$
- Segment 6: $13^{\circ} 8 \rightarrow 22$
- Segment 7: $12^{\circ} \gamma \rightarrow 51$
- Segment 8: $5^{\circ} \gamma \rightarrow 40$
- Segment 9: $27^{\circ} \gamma \rightarrow 2$
- Segment 10: $4^{\circ} \gamma \rightarrow 30$
- Segment 11: $13^{\circ} m \rightarrow 22$
- Segment 12: $12^{\circ} \underline{m} \rightarrow 51$

square to the MC/IC axis means trickery, etc. In his experience so far with Mundane Charts to predict election results, he has found Ingress Charts to be more useful than Eclipse Charts. He takes note only of conjunctions with the Angles and Cusps, and Zodiacal aspects to the Angles. That the Lights may be afflicted he considers is not always relevant, as here the Moon is opposite Mars and Pluto. In the Swedish Election last year, the Sun was opposite Neptune, but the critical indication was Sun Conjunct MC - and the Government won.

Ross also submits the New Moon Chart for the 9th of February (that is, two days after the Election). In this Map, Jupiter is 1d.55' above the 12th Cusp in oblique ascension, therefore in mundane trine to the IC, favouring the Opposition. Pluto is conjunct the 8th Cusp in zodiacal longitude, and therefore above the IC, but because of its latit^{ude} 8th C^{usp} 80°

Ross speculates also that Neptune being

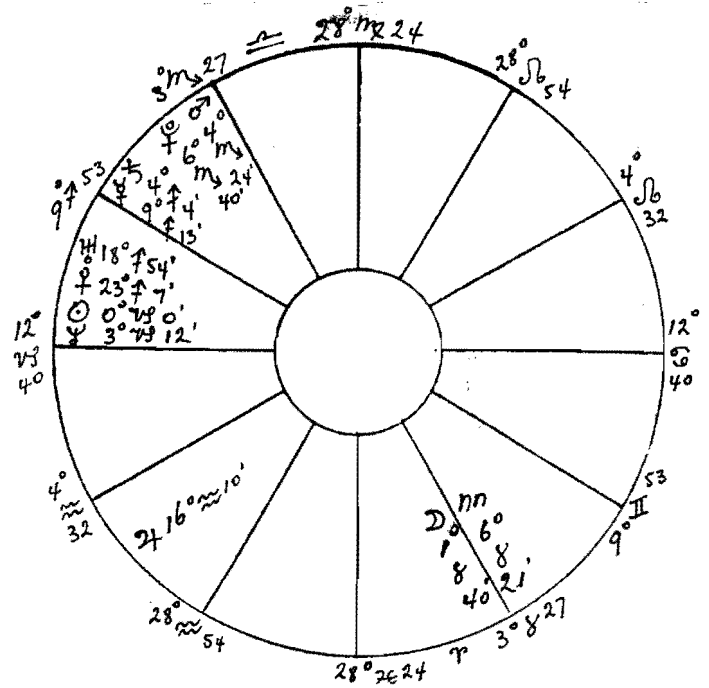

SOLAR ECLIPSE 12TH NOV. 1985, MANILA
121 E 00, 14 N 35, 2:21 pm UT.

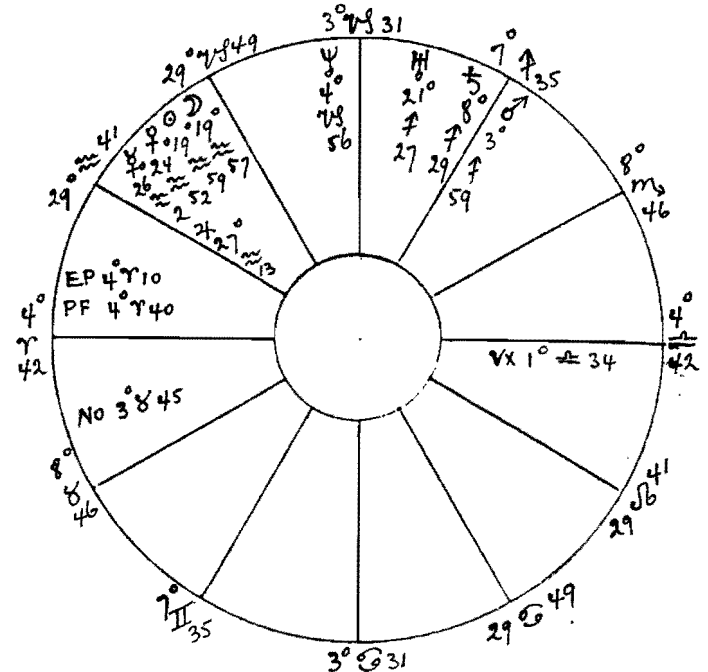

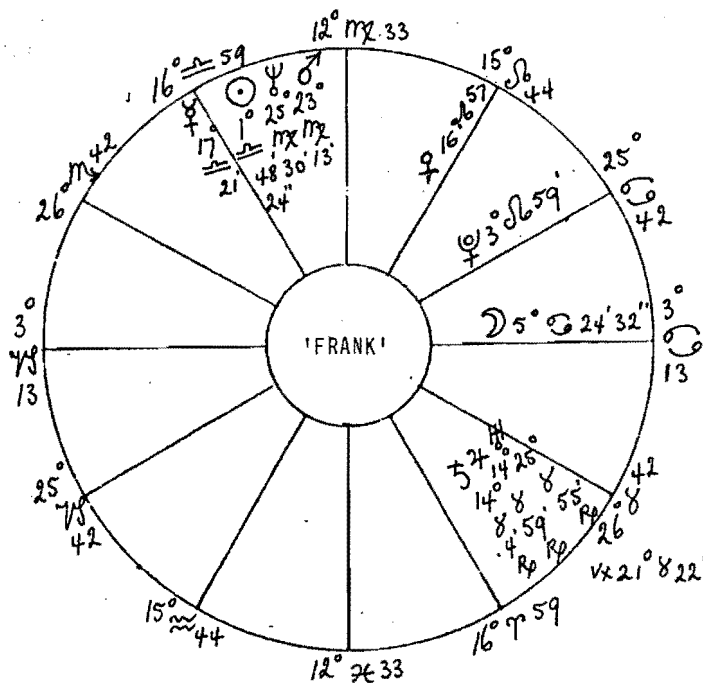

(1st and 10th Houses for the Marcos Government, 7th and 4th for the Opposition. See previous Issue.)

Cusps in the Charts are Placidian unless otherwise stated.

CAPRICORN INGRESS, MANILA, 21ST DEC. 1985

NEW MOON, 9TH FEB. 1986, MANILA

"Frank's" Release

Those of you who were receiving Astrologers' Forum two years ago will recall that in Issue No. 26 (19th September 1983) readers were invited to predict the date of release of a man, whom we called "Frank", who was arrested and sentenced in 1978 for armed robbery. The release date is now known, as I have received the following communication from "Frank": "Today [3rd February 1986] at approximately 1:10 pm I was informed that I would be released on the 26th February 1986 to an Attendance Centre. That means I will be "free", but I have to report two nights a week for "lectures", and have to work for the community all day Saturdays.

At the present time I don't know how long that will be for."

Only one person managed to predict correctly the date of release - my wife, Marguerite. Following her independent researches, here is what Marguerite wrote in Astrologers' Forum No. 27 of 19th October 1983:

"Apart from the indications mentioned by Elva, there is the favourable Angular Jupiter/Moon conjunction in the 4th House (end of matters), whereas the 1983 and 1984 Charts have the planets in the western Hemisphere (1983) and the lower Hemisphere (1984), which indicates less control of his destiny.

"In the 1985 Solar Return Chart, the majority of planets are rising, showing a greater measure of control over his life and less dependence on circumstances and other people.

"The transits revealed a stationary Jupiter conjunct S.R. Jupiter in October, 1985. This may be indicative of the favourable outcome of a judicial hearing, Jupiter indicating legal matters and the Moon ruling the 9th House, which is also judicial decrees. As the Moon/Jupiter conjunction occurs in the 4th House (the home), it is appropriate to a favourable ruling by the Parole Board in the gaol (Frank's 'home').

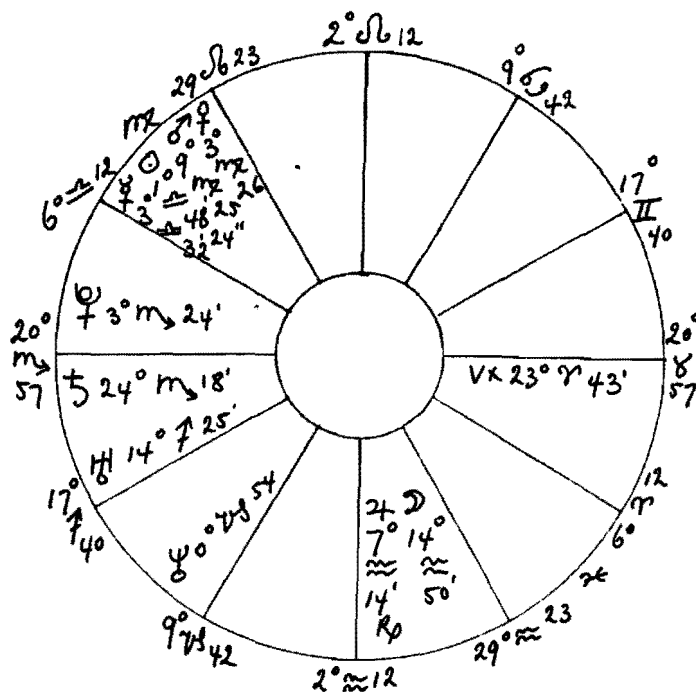

"Four months later, in February 1986, stationary Pluto squares S.R. Jupiter. As Frank was originally arrested under a Pluto aspect (Primary Direction Neptune square Pluto), it may well be the end of a cycle and that the same planet (Pluto) releases him.

"A Sun square Venus Secondary Progression occurs in early March 1986, the nature of the planets involved in this aspect probably being more important than the type of aspect.

"I have looked hard for earlier releasing indications, but I can't see positive signs to tell Frank to start packing earlier than February 1986."

Congratulations to Marguerite. Another reader (Elva Howson, Vic.) was hot on the scent. In the same Issue she wrote: "...The Solar Return Chart 25/9/1985 and Eclipse contacts do not necessarily indicate February 1986 as release month, but it certainly shows an important change in the lifestyle between the 45th and the 46th birthdays." Congratulations to you too, Elva.

FRANK'S SOLAR RETURN 24th SEP.1985
Bendigo 144 E 21, 36 S 48. UT 22h25m40s
Topocentric Cusps

Exercises like the above are practical tests of the validity of Astrology, and help its devotees to improve their skills. One should not shy away from them (for fear of being wrong) but make a serious attempt to apply one's astrological knowledge to the situations of life. This is of far greater value than the endless abstract dissertations to which we are treated in most astrological publications.

THE 1983 VERNON CLARK EXPERIMENT

The results of the above Experiment, conducted by Dr. Geoffrey Dean are now available. A number of Astrologers' Forum readers took part, and each will have received individual results.

The Experiment was, in effect, to determine, whether extraversion and emotional stability can be read successfully from the Birth Chart.

It has to be admitted, unfortunately, that despite the depth of thought that went into the judging process, the results achieved by the astrologers were no better than chance.

This suggests to me, not that extraversion and emotional stability cannot be read from the horoscope, but that we are working on the wrong criteria. I had hoped that participation in the Experiment would enlighten us in this respect.

My kind regards to all. -Dymock.

19th February 1986.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas - Airmail). Issue No. 54 19th January 1986.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

One of the things that astrological periodicals should provide is shared experience. It doesn't take long to realize what the books don't tell us. It takes somewhat longer to realize that much of what they do tell us is wrong. We have a lot to learn in Astrology, mostly by slow, sometimes painful, experience. If we can learn vicariously, not only through our own experience, but by profiting from the experience of others, the process of acquiring expertise can be greatly shortened.

The deliberate aim of Astrologers' Forum is to foster this sharing process. If practising astrologers or serious students publish what they have learned, it is a contribution to the advancement of Astrology, and may also prevent the unnecessary duplication of research.

We are all dependent to some extent on one another. We all want to be good astrologers; so let us be generous and giving in the matter of sharing our individual knowledge and expertise for the common cause.

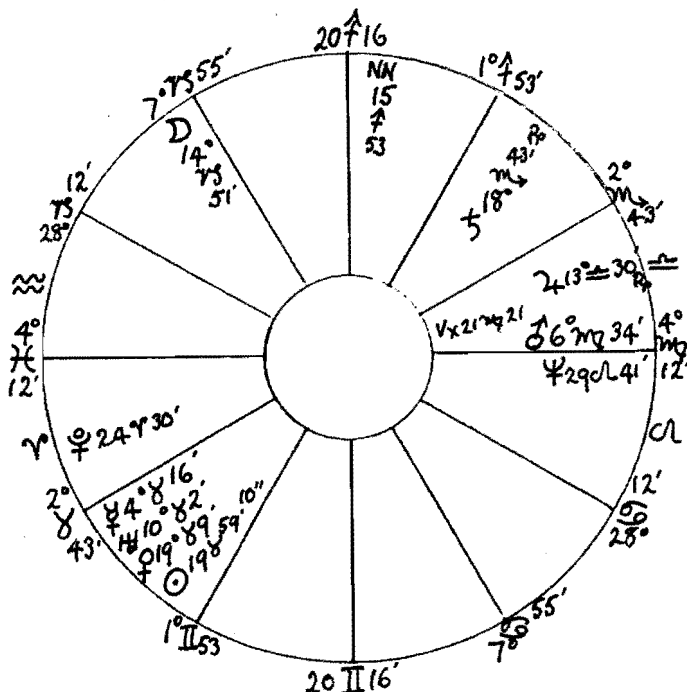

The lengthy treatment of William Lilly and his CHRISTIAN ASTROLOGY in the November issue of this publication attracted favourable comment, as well as the wish that this outstanding work were lower-priced, to put it within the reach of more astrologers. A paperback edition would certainly help, but the book is so massive it would need to be published in two parts, at least. I hope it will eventually be available more cheaply. It's down-to-earth, very practical teaching is a healthy antidote to the fanciful dissertations that today are so freely purveyed as "Astrology".

In the analysis of the astrological indications of William Lilly's death on the 9th of June 1681 (Gregorian Calendar), I was unable to present the relevant P.E.A. Directions. This deficiency has now been made good by RUDOLF SMIT (W.A.), who sends the following information (refer to Lilly's Birth Chart, reproduced below):

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
P.E.A. Directions for William Lilly's Death	1
Horary Chart for Air Travel	2
The 1985 Melbourne Cup	2
Super Reference Book - "The International Atlas"	4
Election in the Philippines - Solar Eclipse 12/11/85	4

WILLIAM LILLY, 30/4/1602 (Julian),
11th May 1602 (Gregorian) 2:08 am GMT
1 w 10, 52 N 36. Topocentric.

P.E.A. (Prime Event Analysis) Primary Mundane Directions in William Lilly's Nativity at his Death
MC OPPOSITE MARS (orb 5')
SATURN SQUARE CUSP 8 (orb 2')
CUSP 8 SQUARE PLUTO (orb 7')

The above aspects are most appropriate, and provide fairly accurate timing for the death. As a rough gauge, 5' of orb in Primary Directions can be taken as one month in time.

In addition to the above, Rudolf also mentions a series of P.E.A. Directions with wider orbs but which he considers relevant. He writes "Events normally do not take place all at once, but develop slowly. They have a prelude and an epilogue! Death of old age usually is a slow process. In the case of Lilly, the Rulers of Houses 1, 4 and 8 were all heavily involved."

The supplementary P.E.A. Directions quoted by Rudolf are the following:

- Midheaven tredecile Saturn (orb 15')
- Sun square Cusp 8 (orb 45')
- Mercury square Pluto (orb 31')
- Saturn square Mercury (orb 28')
- Uranus opposite Cusp 12 (orb 37')
- Neptune tredecile Pluto (orb 22')
- Cusp 12 square Neptune (orb 15')
- Vertex sesquare Neptune (orb 28')
- Node opposite Neptune (orb 33')

The above aspects should be read in relation to their House rulership as well as to their natural symbology. Rudolf points out in relation to the last two Directions that though weak they are meaningful as the Vertex and the Node are both significant points.

- Dymock.

From OLIVIA BARCLAY (Eng.):

I liked your final advice in the December Astrologers' Forum: "Use the Celestial Road Maps that are available to you, and make practical use of your astrology".

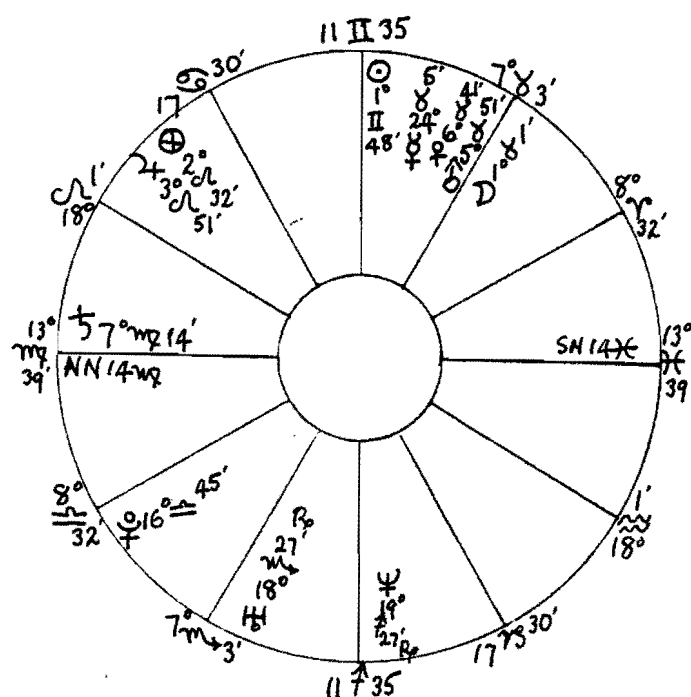

Apart from Mundane Investigations, which could well require large computers, one can make one's personal enquiry with Horary Astrology. The following little story is relevant to your advice:

I usually do a horary chart before I travel by air, and here is one I drew when I was away in Portugal and was offered a flight home. You can see the Querent (myself), the Ruler of the Sign on the Ascendant, in the 9th House, - away from home. I did not like Moon with Mars on the 9th Cusp, although the aspect from Jupiter - even the square - would have saved it from being dangerous, I expect. However I declined the offer, and stayed on to enjoy myself a bit longer. I once had a Chart with Moon and Mars in Gemini when I made such an enquiry, and again declined. On that occasion there was a big air crash in HORARY CHART: Shall I Accept this Flight Home?

Regiomontanus Cusps.

23rd May 1979, 7 W 59, 37 N 2, 1:10 pm GMT.

America, a 747, which would not have endangered me, but which held up air travel world-wide on the very day I would have travelled.

THE 1985 MELBOURNE CUP

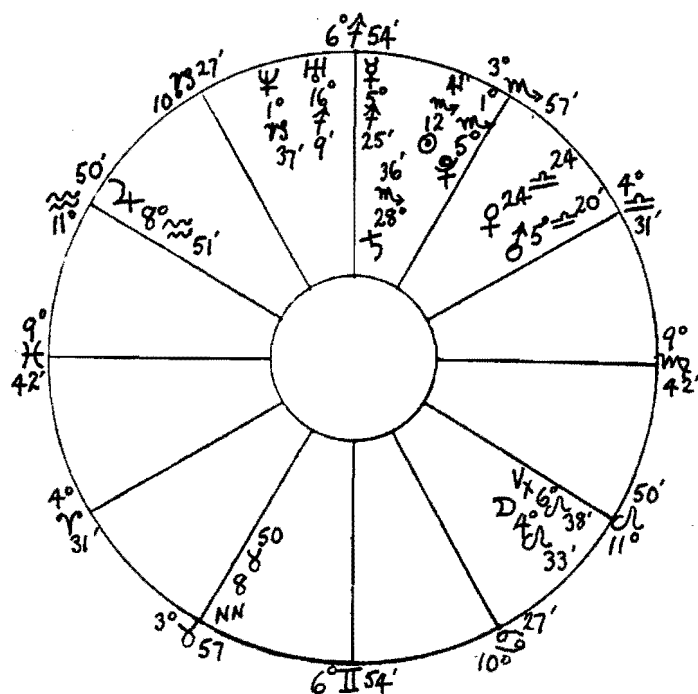

Readers who take an interest in horse racing, and the simple but effective system I described in ASTROLOGERS' FORUM Issue 45, may have tried to apply it to the last Melbourne Cup on the 5th of November. This race turned out to be a more than usually interesting astrological exercise.

The Chart is for the approximate finishing time of the race, and the first step is to pick the planetary Significator of the winner. There are only three bodies to be considered - Mercury, Pluto and Mars - as these three are the only ones in close contact with a Cusp (Placidian or Topocentric). Of these, Pluto must be given precedence over Mercury because it is applying to the Cusp (by the Earth's rotation, not by progress through the Zodiac) while Mercury is separating, and precedence over Mars, not merely because it is slightly closer to the Cusp, but also because the 9th Cusp has more power than the 8th in these matters. This is probably because the 9th forms a mundane trine to the Ascendant while the 8th is only a quincunx.

The question now is, which of the starters is symbolized by Pluto? In this case the winner was not disclosed by a simple list of the names of the runners. One had to delve

THE 1985 MELBOURNE CUP: 5/11/1985,
2:43 pm Summer Time, 145 E 0, 37 S 45.

THE INTERNATIONAL ATLAS

behind the scenes. In doing so one would learn that the horse What A Nuisance and its jockey, Pat Hyland, admirably exemplified the action of Pluto in that the horse had broken down badly while preparing for the previous year's Melbourne Cup, and the jockey had suffered a fall and a broken shoulder in the previous May. It was thought unlikely that either horse or jockey would ever race again. But they did race, and win, exemplifying the well-known action of Pluto - regeneration and renewal after destruction (the "phoenix rising from the ashes").

The Moon ruling the 5th House (field sports, gambles and hazards) is in close (applying) square to Pluto (orb 28'). This is like a finger pointing to the important Significator of the Chart. (Applying aspects = things to come; separating = things past.) Here is a typical example of how astrology applied to horse-racing can extend our knowledge and understanding of the planetary energies. I never recommend it simply as a means of trying to make money - the outcome of that sort of venture, money-for-nothing, depends mainly on the person's Natal Chart; but as a means of enlarging one's knowledge and understanding of astrology it is indeed valuable.

- Dymock.

There are two difficulties facing astrologers at the outset of any practical work: One is the need to obtain accurate geographic coordinates for all manner of large and small towns in various parts of the world. The other, often the major difficulty of the two, is to ascertain the correct Universal Time corresponding to a given time for a birth or other event. Many an hour I have spent referring to atlases and reference books, and even poring over locality maps, trying to get precise latitudes and longitudes, and accurate information on time, for little-known places abroad as well as in Australia.

It is therefore with positive joy that I hail the advent of The International Atlas, a monumental work, computer-printed, compiled and programmed by Thomas G. Shanks. It is a partner volume to The American Atlas, an equally staggering and meritorious work by Neil F. Michelsen. Both are published by Astro Computing Services of San Diego, California.

These books are of incalculable value. Far more comprehensive than anything hitherto published, together they give precise latitudes, longitudes and time zones - including daylight saving times - for every city and town on earth! The magnitude of this undertaking would be enough to daunt the stoutest of hearts and the most dedicated of astrologers. To their great credit, and the enormous benefit of the rest of us, the two authors carried their project through to a magnificent conclusion.

To quote from the dust-cover of The International Atlas, "This incredible volume contains latitudes, longitudes, time change and time zone information for the entire world, excepting the United States [which is provided in The American Atlas]. No longer will researchers have to comb maps, seeking the exact latitude and longitude of some foreign location...Time changes have been a major headache...Too often, the question, 'What kind of time was it then?' [had] no good answer. Extensive research for this work has contributed to accurate information about time changes. Thomas Shanks has spent numerous hours in the library, looking at maps and corresponding with people around the world to update and verify current information about times utilized in various countries. Among the many painstaking labours that went into this volume, Mr. Shanks traced the time changes imposed - sometimes town by town - during World War II.

"This kind of careful, detailed, conscientious work makes this volume the most complete, accurate statement on the subject to date...Time changes and time zones from 1850 to 2000". And finally, "This encyclopaedic work is an essential reference for every astrologer's bookshelf!", with which I emphatically agree. The book is worth every cent of its Australian price, $49.95

ASTROLOGICAL SOFTWARE

An item of interest to all computer-minded astrologers, is the availability now in Australia of AGS Software, re-named "Robert Hand's Astrolab". The Australian distributor is Keven Barrett, National President of the Federation of Australian Astrologers, from whom a catalogue, price list, options, etc., are available.

There is a choice of six Programs, suiting various types of computer, including Commodore 64, MS-DOS, CP/M, Macintosh, Apple II and TRS-80. Beside the Natal Chart, the Programs give Progressions (by various major systems), Solar and Lunar Return Charts in the Tropical or Sidereal Zodiacs, geocentric or heliocentric positions, aspectarians with the orbs selected by the individual astrologer, and all the midpoints, sorted in a choice of ways or in "tree" shapes. The output is in the normal wheel form, with either glyphs or two-letter abbreviations for the planets and Zodiacal points. A disk-drive is necessary - the programs are not available on cassette tape.

I don't have firm figures on the Program prices, but I understand they will range from about $200 to $500 each. Full details are available from Keven, whose address is 41 Argyle Street, Bilgola Plateau, 2107. Phone [02] 918 9413.

ELECTION IN THE PHILIPINES

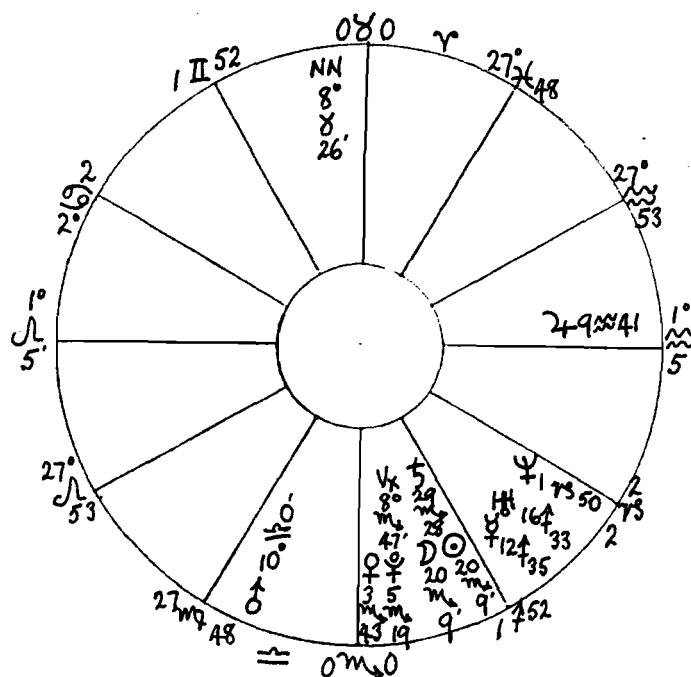

A General Election of uncommon interest and importance is the one to be held in the Philippines on 7th February next. Will the 20-year supreme ruler (and many would say, dictator) Ferdinand Marcos be deposed by the democratic candidate Mrs. Corazon Aquino? Mrs. Aquino will have a tough job unseating him. Marcos is obviously addicted to power, and uses every political ploy to remain in office. Two opposition candidates have been shot dead, and the general feeling is that the killings are politically motivated. If Marcos feels that things are going against him, he could declare martial law and abort the whole democratic process.

Let's hope that an assassin's bullet does not find Mrs. Aquino (as it did her husband in 1983) before the Election now only three weeks off.

Unfortunately, we have no information as to the birth data of the protagonists in this political arena, and no Chart relevant to the Philippines or its government. Even the latest and best book, Mundane Astrology, by Baigent, Campion and Harvey, has nothing to offer in this regard.

In the circumstances, I have nothing better on which to base a prediction than the last Solar Eclipse (12th November 1985). Here it is, set for the Philippines capital, Manila:

SOLAR ECLIPSE 12TH NOV 1985, MANILA
121 E 00, 14 N 35. 2:21 pm UT. Placidus for the present Government, the 7th and the 4th for the Opposition. If this Chart is a valid basis, it predicts a clear win for the Opposition: The Sun rules the 1st House (the Marcos Government), and it is eclipsed! But the 7th House (the Ascendant for Mrs Aquino's Opposition) holds Jupiter, which is trine to Mars, Co-Ruler of the 4th (the Opposition's 10th)! Further, this derived 10th House has Venus conjunct the Cusp and conjunct Pluto, Ruler of the House, signalling victory. Marcos, on the other hand, has the Node in the 10th, opposed by Venus, Pluto and the Vertex - the masses are against him. I hope we shall soon be celebrating a change of government in the Philippines.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock,
19th January 1986.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas - Airmail). Issue No. 53. 19th December 1985.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

THE GANDER AIR DISASTER

It is sad indeed that the Christmas holiday period has been ushered in with another major air crash: 256 people, the total complement of passengers and crew, died at Gander Airport, Newfoundland, on the 12th of December when a DC 8 crashed just after becoming air-borne. The passengers were military personnel returning for Christmas at home after peace-keeping operations in Lebanon. 1985 will probably go down in history as the worst period ever for air disasters; outside of the War years.

As astrologers we should be concerned to learn the astrological pointers to these calamities and be in a position to know when disaster is threatened. As I have previously mentioned (ASTROLOGERS' FORUM No.49), it would be a great help to have available the "birth horoscope" of each air-liner, but even without this it seems that sufficient warning is given by

- (a) the Chart for the take-off time,
- (b) the Chart for the previous Solar or Lunar Eclipse, and possibly
- (c) the Chart for the previous Cardinal Ingress.

All Charts would of course be set for the geographic coordinates of each major airport - hundreds of horoscopes, no doubt, but well within the capacity of modern technology and astrologers who could be appointed to the salaried staff of air-line companies.

The Gander crash occurred at 6:50 am local time, 10:20 am GMT, just after the plane left the ground, so the take-off time (when everything was closed up and the DC 8 started taxiing) might have been only a minute or two before. I do not have any information as to any lengthy delay after taxiing commenced, so assume that a starting time of 6:48 am would be close to exact. See MAP 1. A discrepancy of five or ten minutes would not alter the Cusps to any appreciable extent.

There are three very disturbing elements in this Chart:

1. PLUTO in close opposition to (and in the same degree as) the North Node of the Moon.

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The Gander Air Disaster	1
Event Chart, Solar Eclipse and Libran Ingress for above	2
The Manchester Air Crash	3
Event Chart, Solar Eclipse and Cancer Ingress for above	4
Peter's Fate (Horary, Issue 51)	4

2. SATURN conjunct the Rising Degree.
3. URANUS rising, conjunct both Sun and Moon.

To these might possibly be added a fourth element - Neptune conjunct the Equatorial Ascendant (East Point). It seems that little research has been done on the E.P. but here it is certainly consistent with asphyxiation, which would have occurred in the fire that destroyed both aircraft and passengers.

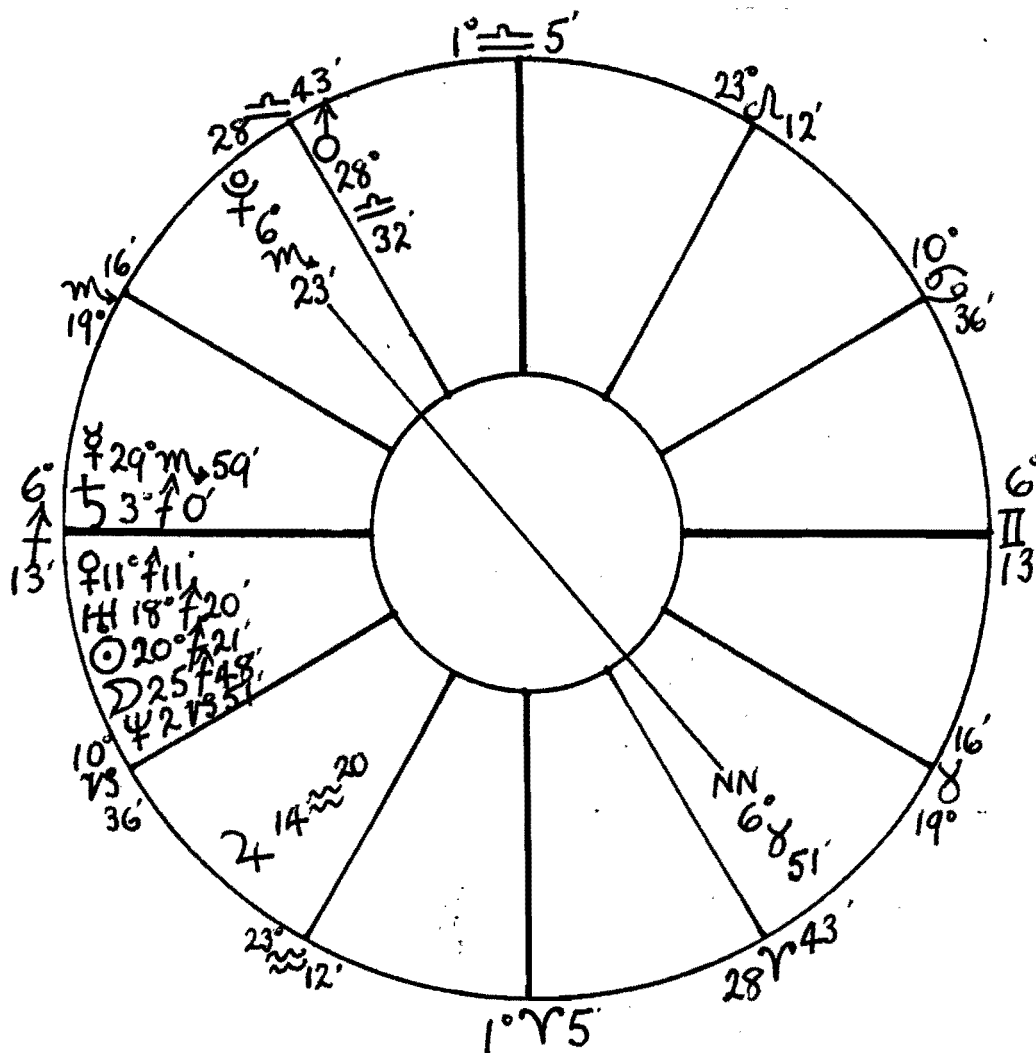

Pluto in the same degree as the Node is recognized by Horary astrologers as a portent of great danger. Pluto opposite the Node means a tragic destiny shared in common with others (Ebertin).

The Node (the Mean Node - traditionally used, and generally favoured over the so-called "True" Node) entered the same degree as Pluto on the 10th of December and left it on the 29th - a period of 19 days, but its effects were no doubt precipitated on the 12th December through the concurrence of the other factors. It is unnecessary to comment on the malefic effect of Saturn and Uranus which are widely recognized as accident producers.

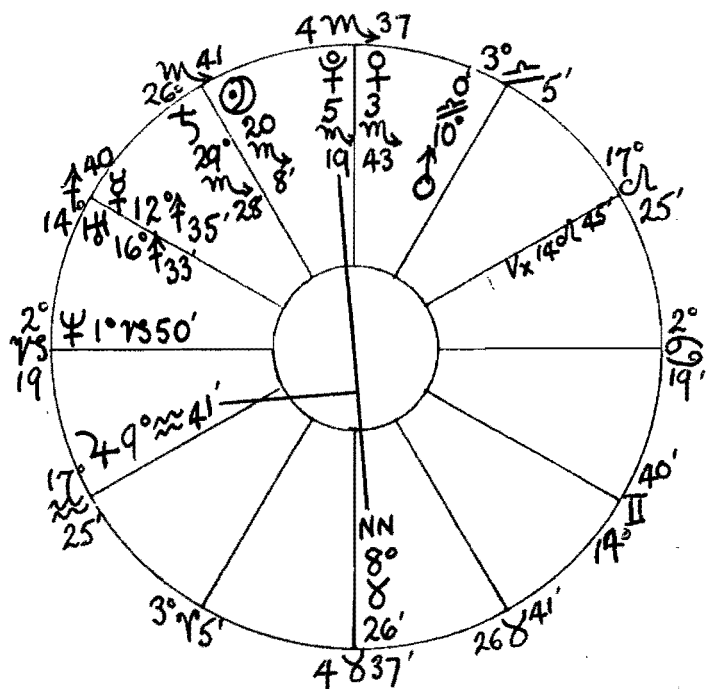

MAP 2 is the Solar Eclipse of 12th November - just a month before the crash - set for Gander Airport. Here the PLUTO - NODE OPPOSITION is much more prominent, and forms a T-Square with Jupiter. This configuration would, of course, be the same

MAP 1GANDER AIR DISASTER

12th December 1985, Gander Airport, Newfoundland, 6:48 am (UT 10:18 am).
54 W 34 48 N 56. Placidian Cusps.

MAP 2

SOLAR ECLIPSE, 12TH NOVEMBER 1985
GANDER, Newfoundland. Placidian Cusps.

MAP 3

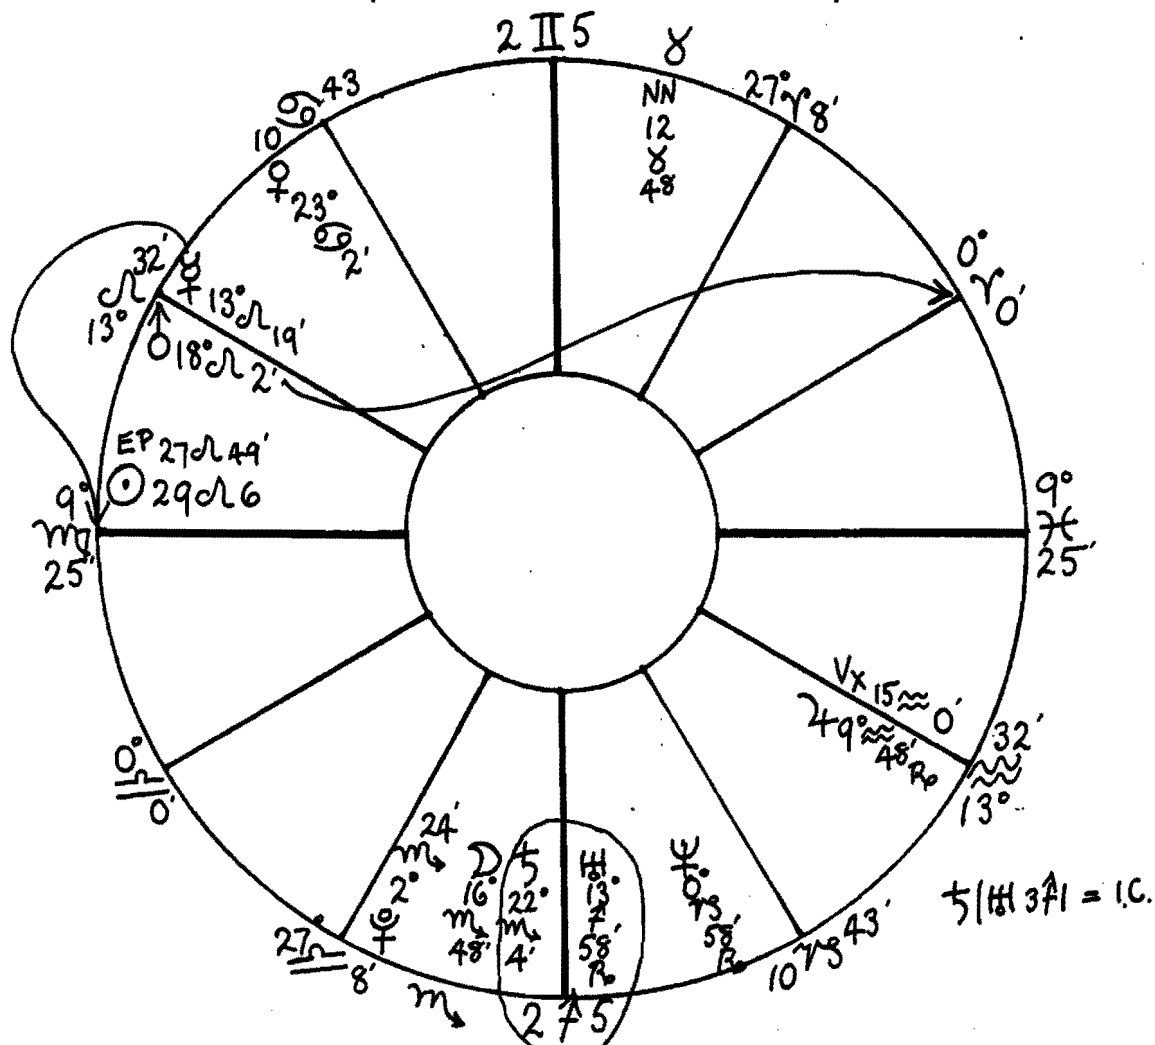

LIBRA INGRESS 23RD SEPTEMBER 1985
GANDER, Newfoundland. Placidian Cusps.

MAP 4

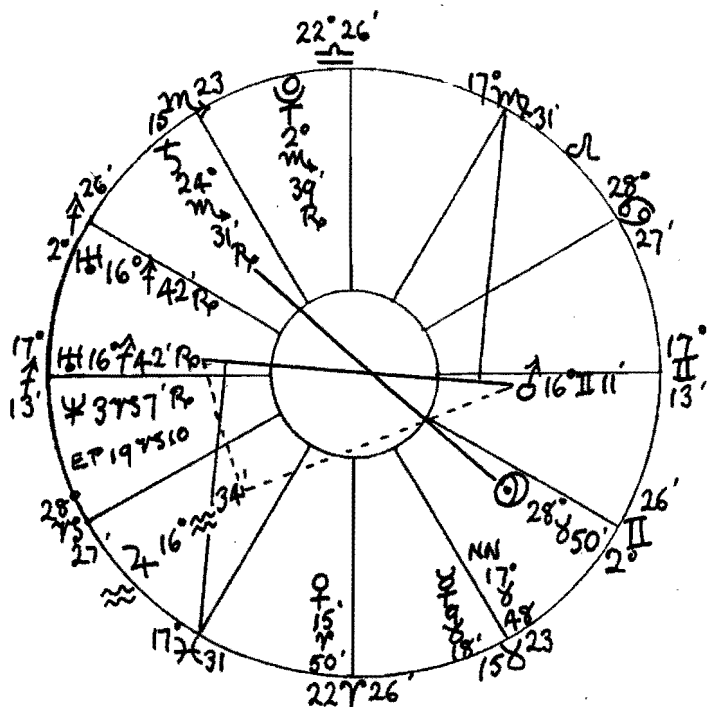

MANCHESTER AIR CRASH

22nd August 1985, Manchester, ENGLAND. 7:07 am (UT 6:07 am).
2 W 15, 53 N 29. Placidian Cusps.

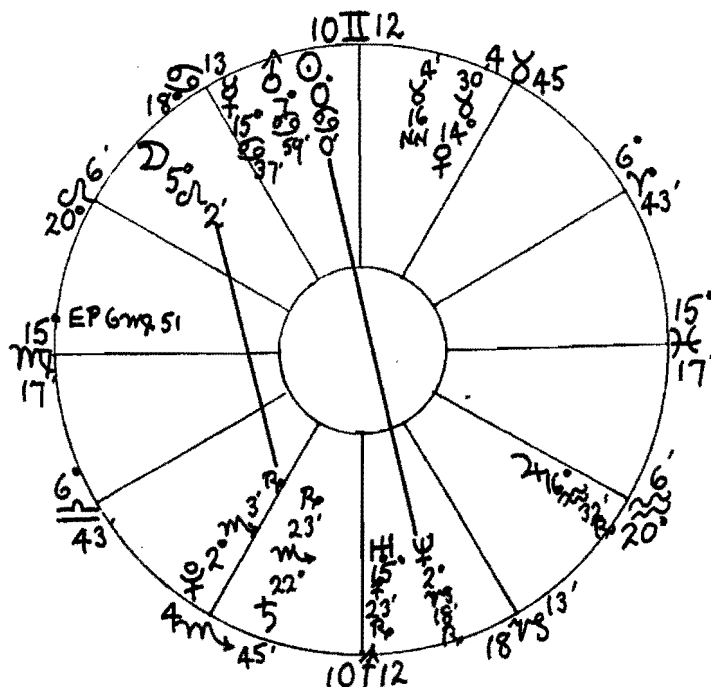

MAP 5

SOLAR ECLIPSE, 19TH MAY 1985
MANCHESTER, ENGLAND. Placidian Cusps.

MAP 6

CANCER INGRESS 21ST JUNE 1985
MANCHESTER, ENGLAND. Placidian Cusps.

for all parts of the world, but it was brought into prominence at Gander through being aligned with the Meridian.

Three malefics are accented: PLUTO Conjunct the Midheaven, NEPTUNE Conjunct the Ascendant, and SATURN conjunct the 11th Cusp. Conjunction with any Placidian/-Topocentric Cusp brings the conjuncting body into prominence, as we have learned by observing charts of horse races.

MAP 3 is the Ingress of the Sun into Libra on 23rd September, calculated for the same geographic location. The principal feature here is the prominence of the MARS - URANUS SQUARE (typical of aircraft accidents). Mars is on the 4th Cusp (endings) and Uranus opposes the Equatorial Ascendant. Ruler of the Chart, the Moon, is dangerously close to the 8th Cusp (deaths). Another significant feature of the Chart that might be overlooked is that Saturn and Pluto, though well separated in the Zodiac, were effectively in mundane conjunction through having nearly identical Oblique Descensions - Saturn 218dg. 58', and Pluto 218 dg. 32'. This arises through the current high latitude of Pluto (over 16 degrees).

THE MANCHESTER AIR DISASTER

A similar type of tragedy occurred at Manchester airport on the 22nd of August 1985, when a 737 jet crashed on take-off, and 54 passengers were killed, though many others survived. MAP 4 is erected for the actual time of the crash (7:07 BST, 6:07 GMT) which I assume was practically equivalent to the time of starting the flight.

The adverse indications here are the Ruler, Mercury, on the 12th CUSP CONJUNCT MARS, ruling the 8TH HOUSE, the MOON CONJUNCT SATURN, and the midpoint SATURN/URANUS (3 Sag 1) conjunct the NADIR.

The previous Solar Eclipse on the 19th of May, MAP 5, again shows the disastrous MARS - URANUS combination, this time a close opposition, right across the Horizon. In addition, this opposition forms a T-Square with the 9th and 3rd Cusps (travel). SATURN opposes, and is elevated above, the Sun/Moon conjunction, PLUTO is the highest planet in the sky, and NEPTUNE is rising. The prominence of the malefics is quite remarkable.

The fact that there were many survivors may be attributed to the preserving influence of JUPITER, which to some extent alleviated the Mars - Uranus opposition by being trine to the one planet and sextile to the other.

It is noteworthy that the Manchester crash occurred when the transiting Sun came to 29 Leo, where it occupied the 8th House of the Solar Eclipse, and formed a T-Square with Saturn and the Sun in that Eclipse Chart.

The previous Cancer Ingress at Manchester, MAP 6, is also highly adverse -

(1) The SUN, Angular, conjunct MARS and opposite NEPTUNE.

(2) The MOON square PLUTO.

(3) URANUS at the 4TH ANGLE - sudden endings.

The above two instances follow much the same pattern as the other major aircraft crashes we have examined in recent issues of this publication. In all cases there have been distinct, even overwhelming, warnings of danger. The implication is that aircraft disasters can be avoided. It is time the authorities forgot their prejudices and took note of what astrology has to offer in the way of forestalling these large-scale human calamities.

PETER'S FATE: The sequel to the Horary Chart presented by ROGER PEARSON (Eng.) in last month's ASTROLOGERS' FORUM is that Peter, as Roger predicted, received a gaol sentence on the drugs charge. This was reported in the Lancashire Evening Telegraph of November 22nd.

I hope those of you who are travelling during the present Holiday season will use your astrology to help make the occasion a safe as well as a happy one. If you have adverse transits, Progressions or Directions, postpone matters until the planetary energies are favourable, or at least neutral. The planets particularly associated with accidents are MARS, SATURN and URANUS in combination with each other or with the Luminaries, the Ascendant, or its Ruler.

Much better to postpone a holiday than run the risk of its ending in tragedy.

The sea-side can be hazardous for children whose horoscopes have a "hard" aspect involving Mars, Neptune and the Moon. Configurations of Mars, Pluto and a principal Significator (as above) can bring bites and stings from poisonous creatures and insects.

Use the Celestial Road Maps that are available to you, and so make practical use of your astrology.

Christmas Greetings to all. - Dymock,
19th December 1985.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas - Airmail). Issue No. 52. 19th November 1985.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

The postal service through Sydney has been in a parlous state lately. Due to industrial trouble some letters are reaching me about a month late. Consequently if you have sent any material for publication, and it has not yet appeared, it is probably because I have not as yet received it. I look forward to perusing any articles or comments sent to me, and I thank you all for your continued support. Astrologers' Forum was never intended to supplant existing astrological periodicals, but to supply material conspicuously lacking in them. It is evidently filling a need among thoughtful astrologers, for it now has over 70 paying subscribers, after starting with only a limited free circulation four years ago.

THE ASTROLOGY OF WILLIAM LILLY

An event of singular importance to astrologers is the recent re-publication of William Lilly's CHRISTIAN ASTROLOGY. According to the fly-leaf, this monumental work was first published by the renowned Lilly in 1647, and had a second edition in 1659. The present 1985 Edition (complete and unexpurgated) is only the third, and was made possible because Olivia Barclay, the well-known English expert on Horary Astrology, made her own rare copy of the book available to the Regulus Publishing Company Limited of London.

We owe a great debt to both Olivia and the Publisher for giving us access again to Lilly's authoritative and illuminating treatise. Its totally practical and down-to-earth interpretations are a refreshing counter to the incredible waffle that today often passes for astrology and is foisted as such onto an unsuspecting public. Under the illusion that they are providing something "esoteric" or "spiritual", some of our most public practitioners are purveying a brand of vague "astrology" that has nothing whatever to do with the everyday problems and needs of humanity. In fact it has nothing to do with their spiritual needs either.

Lilly's CHRISTIAN ASTROLOGY provides a

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The Astrology of William Lilly	1
William Lilly's Birth Chart	2
Lilly's Normal and Precessed Solar Returns, at Death	2
Lilly's Prenatal, Progressive, and Synodic Returns, at Death	3
Prison for Peter?	6

very healthy antidote to this unfortunate modern trend. Here is no vague speculation, mental fantasy or abstract theorizing. In page after page Lilly deals with the hard facts and practical details of living, with clear and precise reference to the planetary correlations from which he draws his conclusions.

The greater part of the book's 832 pages is devoted to The Resolution of All manner of Questions, and it does just that: Questions on length of life, health, accidents, material welfare, gains and losses, relatives, property, short and long trips, friends, enemies, love, marriage, pregnancy, children, thefts, messages, imprisonment, etc., are dealt with specifically and in detail. There is no waffling here, no vagueness, no abstractions, or dragging in of myths and theories to obscure the issue.

I have long maintained that Horary Astrology is one of the most useful branches of the Art, providing us, as it does, with a safe and sure guide through most of the complexities and problems that beset every human being. It is safe to say that the great Lilly was the foremost exponent of Horary Astrology in his day, and it is good fortune indeed to have his Magnum Opus reappear on the astrological scene. The old-English spelling of a few words at first sight looks difficult, but one finds it to be quite a minor impediment that soon ceases

WILLIAM LILLY

30th April 1602 (Julian), 11th May 1602 (Gregorian). GMT 2:8 am.
Diseworth, Leicestershire, 1 W 10, 52 N 36. Topocentric Cusps.

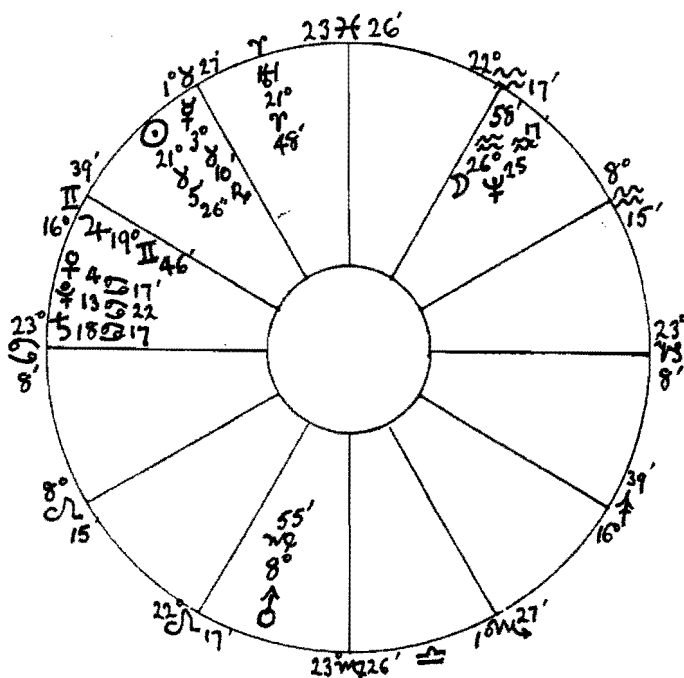

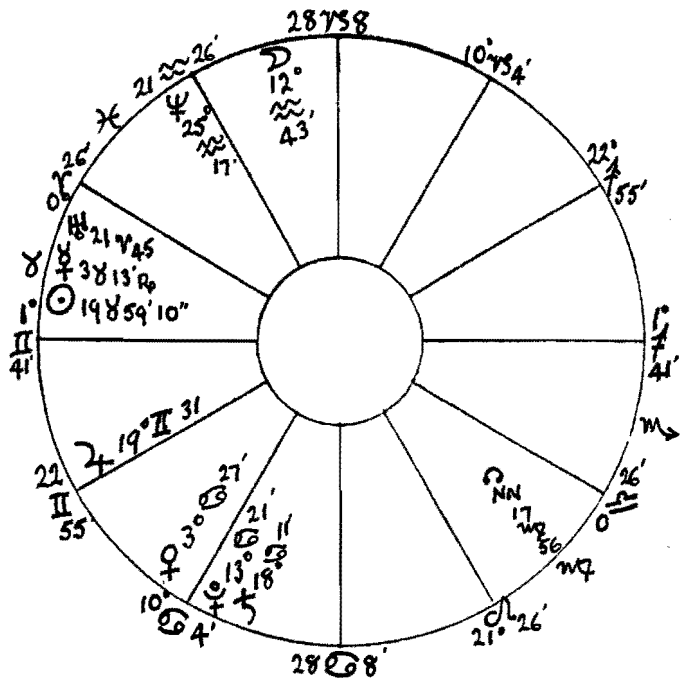

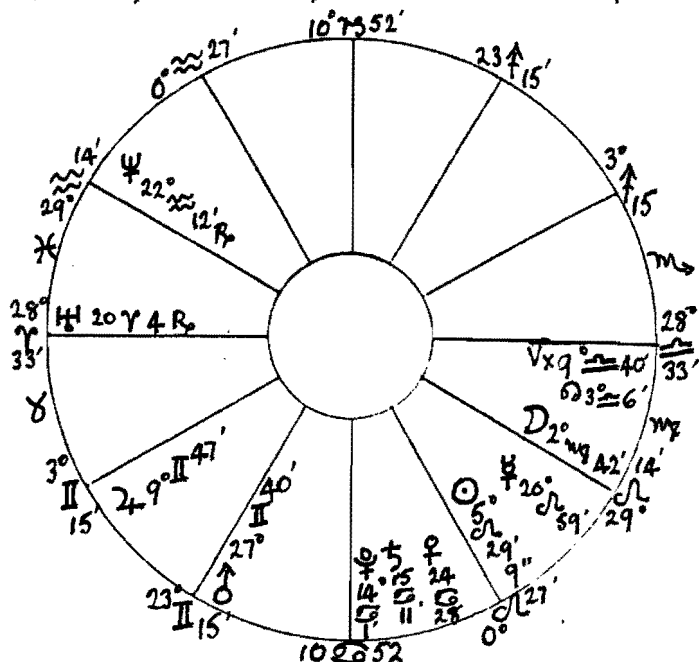

MAP 2

W. LILLY: SOLAR RETURN, 10/5/1681,
GMT 4:51:24. Diseworth. Topocentric Cusps.

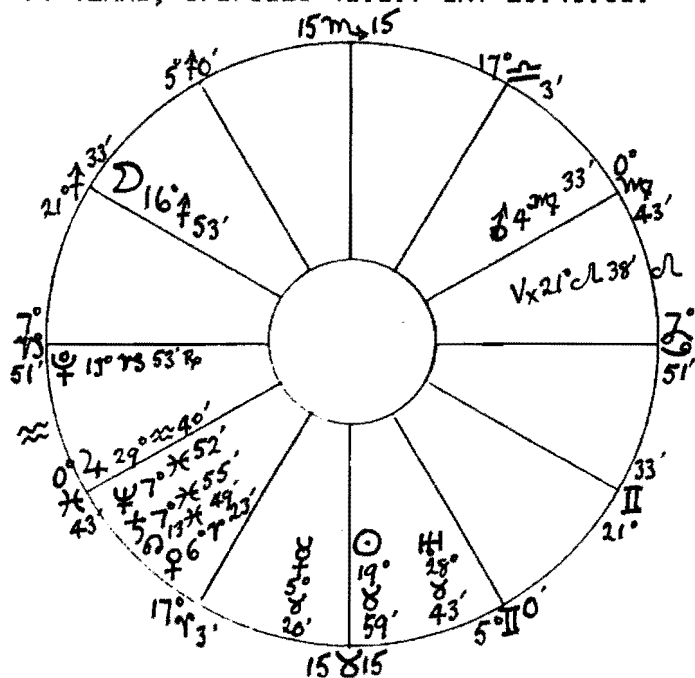

MAP3

W. LILLY: PRECESSED SOLAR RETURN, 10/5/1681
GMT 8:21:50 am. Diseworth. Topoc. Cusps.

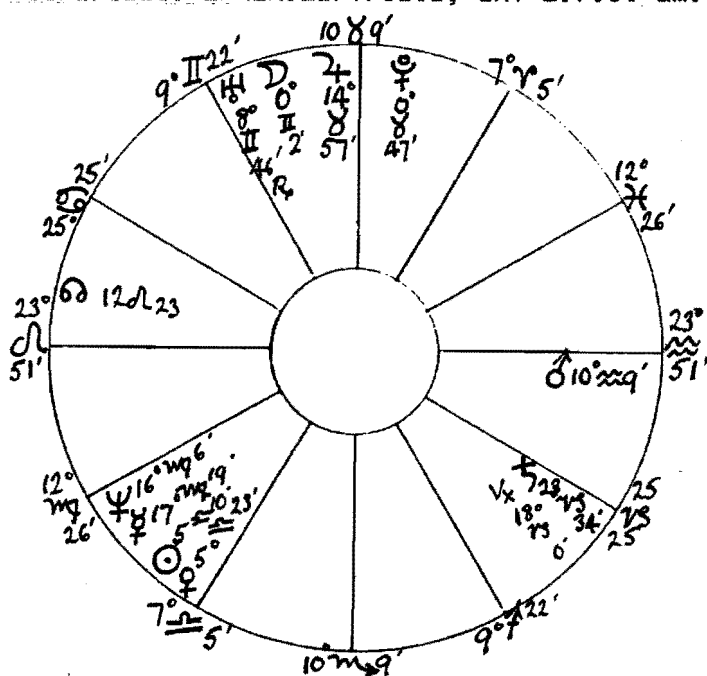

MAP 5: W. LILLY: PRENATAL SOLAR RETURN,
79 YEARS, 1/5/1523 (O.S.) GMT 23:41:18.

MAP 6: W. LILLY: SYNODIC RETURN
11/5/1681. EPHEM. 28/9/1608, GMT 2:7:10 am.

to trouble the reader. English astrologer, Geoffrey Cornelius, writes in the Afterword, "Lilly's use of English is so often perfect, his judgments eloquent yet pithy, that he achieves an unrivalled communication of astrology, capable of inspiring and delighting the modern student just as he inspired his contemporaries".

To give some idea of the extent of Lilly's work I cannot do better than quote again from the Afterword written in June this year by Geoffrey Cornelius: "There are many routes through Lilly's voluminous and rich text, depending on the particular requirements of the reader. It is a comprehensive reference work of the interpretation of Planets, Signs, Houses, Horary perfections and frustrations, medical aphorisms, timing and rectification, fixed stars, and so on. It is also a casebook, since it gives actual judgments on 36 horaries. It is these living cases that offer the immediate possibility of watching Lilly's art in motion."

It is indeed both fascinating and instructive to follow Lilly's thought through the unravelling of the horoscopes, whether horary or natal that he delineates. I might add to the above that there is an extensive section on Primary Directions and the Effects of Directions, including Profec-tions. The last-named technique has fallen into disuse in modern times, but would certainly bear re-investigation, especially now that such research is immeasurably speeded-up through the use of computers and electronic calculators.

I cannot forbear to quote in full the original Title on the fly-leaf of the book. It exudes an old-world charm that enchants me. Here it is (with spelling up-dated):

CHRISTIAN ASTROLOGY

MODESTLY

TREATED OF IN THREE BOOKS.

The First containing the use of an Ephemeris, the erecting of a Scheme of Heaven; nature of the twelve Signs of the Zodiac, of the Planets; with a most easy Introduction to the whole ART OF ASTROLOGY.

The Second, by a most Methodical way, Instructeth the Student how to Judge or Resolve all manner of Questions contingent unto Man, viz. of Health, Sickness, Riches, Marriage, Preferment, Journeys, &c.

Several Questions inserted and Judged.

The Third, contains an exact Method, whereby to Judge upon Nativities; several ways how to rectify them; How to judge the general fate of the Native by the twelve Houses of Heaven, according to the natural influence of the STARS; His particular and Annual Accidents, by the Art of Direction, and its exact measure of Time by Profections, Revolutions, Transits. A Nativity Judged by the Method preceding. By WILLIAM LILLY, Student in Astrology.

All-in-all, Lilly's CHRISTIAN ASTROLOGY is a book that should be acquired and read by any astrologer who takes his art seriously. It is not cheap - about $A85 - but is such a fund of information (apart from its historical value) that it is well worth the price.

The book is very attractively bound in a hard cover, with gold lettering and gilded top edges of the pages - 872 in all. There is a comprehensive Table of Contents, an extensive Index, and an amazing list of astrological authors that Lilly consulted. In those days erudite works were written in Latin, which is the language in which Lilly studied them. This book of Lilly's was one of the first (perhaps the first) to be written in English, and the author felt obliged to defend his writing in his mother-tongue.

CHRISTIAN ASTROLOGY is published by the Regulus Publishing Company Limited of 9b Ashbourne Parade, Hanger Lane, Ealing, London W5 3QS.

William Lilly was born on the 30th of April 1602 (Old System Calendar) which equates to the 11th of May 1602 on the Gregorian Calendar. MAP 1 is his Birth Chart. I have inserted the positions of Uranus, Neptune and Pluto, which of course were unknown to Lilly.

Lilly died on the 9th of June 1681 (Gregorian Calendar), and I was interested to see what were the astrological indications of his death. For this purpose I investigated -

- (1) Primary Directions (Topocentric).
- (2) The Secondary Progressions.
- (3) The Secondary Regressions ("Converse" Progressions).
- (4) The Solar-Arc Directions, measured both in the Zodiac, to the Zodiacal positions of the planets and Angles, and in Right Ascension, to the Natal Right Ascensions of the same Significators.

(5) Transits at 9th June 1681, the date of death.

(6) Prenatal transits (1/4/1523, O.S., the prenatal date corresponding to 9/6/1681).

(7) The Normal Solar Return (Map 2)

(8) The Precessed Solar Return (Map 3).

(9) The Progressive Solar Return (Map 4).

(10) The Prenatal Solar Return (Map 5).

(11) The Synodic Return for the year of death (Map 6).

(12) The Harmonics for age 79 (Lilly being 79 when he died).

All the Return Charts were set for the place of birth, Diseworth. Alternative charts for the place of residence would only have affected the Cusps - and those to a minor extent. As I mentioned in Astrologers' Forum No. 51, I have so far found the place of birth to be the most useful and indicative for Return Charts, and this applies to Lunar Return Charts as well.

The only investigative method I was not on this occasion able to use (as the relevant Computer Program is not at present geared for the 17th Century) was P.E.A. (Prime Event Analysis), which is regrettable, as this Dutch system of Primary Mundane Directions is a valuable addition to our armamentarium.

The nett results of the analysis? In summary,

A. Unmistakeable indications from the Primary Directions.

B. Of the Annual Charts, judged as separate figures, only the Prenatal Solar Return gives a clear warning of approaching death. When the Maps are superimposed on the Natal Horoscope they are all variously effective with inter-chart aspects. For the most obvious (and apposite) indications they rank as follows:

1. The Prenatal Solar Return (6 positive indications).
2. The Progressive Solar Return (6).
3. The Synodic Return (5).
4. The Precessed Solar Return (4).
5. The Normal Solar Return (3).

This one example does not necessarily establish a regular hierarchy of relative effectiveness among Annual Horoscopes, but it is a pointer for further research.

C. The Age Harmonic (No.79) was specifically indicative of death. A series of "hard" aspects between Harmonic positions and the Radix for age 79 highlighted the approaching event:

PLUTO, at 16 Leo 7, SQUARE SUN AND SATURN (19 Tau 59 and 18 Sco 43).

MIDHEAVEN, 11 Tau 36, CONJUNCT URANUS (10 Tau 2).

SATURN, 8 Gem 8, SQUARE MARS (6 Vir 34).

MARS, 8 Leo 22, SQUARE URANUS (10 Tau 2).

We are indebted to ROSS HARVEY (NSW) for drawing attention to this little-used but valuable astrological technique.

D. The Progressed and Regressed planets were quite inadequate to account for the event (See below).

E. The Solar-Arc Directions in Right Ascension were more effective: The SUN SQUARED URANUS on 24/3/1681, and SATURN SQUARED URANUS on 26/10/1681 (Lilly died on 9/6/1681). In the Radix, Saturn is a prime indicator of death, being placed in the 8th House closely opposing the Sun. By the "normal" Zodiacal measurement, the only appropriate Direction was ASC OPPOSITE SATURN on 22/4/1680 (mistiming the death by well over a year).

F. The Transits gave broad indications but covered too wide a period to be much use. As is common, the transits of Mars (both current and prenatal) were useful timers.

Current Transiting positions on 9/6/1681 were:

Sun	19 Gem 16	Jupiter	26 Gem 18
Moon	23 Pis 49	Saturn	21 Can 21
Mercury	00 Gem 47	Uranus	23 Ari 08
Venus	15 Can 05R	Neptune	25 Aqu 19R
Mars	19 Vir 32	Pluto	13 Can 59

Pluto was applying to the opposition of the Moon, Saturn applying to the Square of Pluto, and Uranus to the conjunction of Pluto, but the orbs (in time) were much too wide. MARS, however, was almost exactly square the MC/IC axis.

Prenatal Transiting positions (1/4/1523, O.S., corresponding by Julian Day calculation to 9/6/1681, Gregorian) were:

Sun	19 Ari 57	Jupiter	24 Aqu 53
Moon	29 Lib 14	Saturn	05 Pis 23
Mercury	09 Tau 36	Uranus	27 Tau 01
Venus	25 Pis 10R	Neptune	07 Pis 08
Mars	29 Leo 35R	Pluto	14 Cap 02

Here, MARS was transiting the Natal Ruler Neptune (orb 5') giving a fairly close timing. PLUTO was separating (by reverse motion) from the conjunction of the Moon, and NEPTUNE was applying to the opposition of Mars.

The TOPOCENTRIC PRIMARY DIRECTIONS in force were:

SATURN SESQUARE/SEMISQUARE THE IC/MC (orb 2'). Note that in the Radix Saturn is prominently placed in the House of Death, closely opposing the Sun.

PLUTO d. SQUARE 8TH CUSP (orb 7')

PLUTO c. CONJUNCT 12TH CUSP (orb 3 1/2')

MARS SQUARE NATAL MARS (orb 7').

Aspects to the Cusps might have been closer if the Chart had been rectified.

The SECONDARY PROGRESSIONS at the date of death, 9th June 1681, were:

DIRECT

Sun	05 Leo 29	Jupiter	15 Lib 43
Moon	11 Sag 38	Saturn	15 Sco 31
Mercury	01 Vir 03	Uranus	13 Tau 20
Venus	26 Leo 07	Neptune	01 Vir 12
Mars	13 Lib 51	Pluto	25 Ari 25 R.

Comparison with the Natal Chart reveals nothing exciting.

CONVERSE

Sun	02 Pis 19	Jupiter	21 Lib 48
Moon	20 Aqu 58	Saturn	22 Sco 01
Mercury	15 Aqu 13	Uranus	06 Tau 03
Venus	11 Aqu 27	Neptune	01 Vir 04
Mars	16 Vir 16	Pluto	22 Ari 49

Again, nothing.

The PRENATAL SOLAR RETURN, MAP 5 (79 years before birth!) shows -

PLUTO rising, CONJUNCT the NATAL MOON
SATURN AND NEPTUNE, both CONJUNCT the NATAL ASC, and OPPOSITE MARS in the terminal 8TH H.

MARS in close OPPOSITION to the NATAL ASC
JUPITER exactly OPPOSITE NATAL NEPTUNE, Ruler of the Birth Chart.

The striking indications in the SYNODIC RETURN, MAP 6, are -

The MC/IC AXIS CONJUNCT NATAL URANUS, and both points EXACTLY SQUARE MARS

The ASC in the Natal 6th House, SQUARE THE NATAL SUN/SATURN OPPOSITION

PLUTO on the 2ND/8TH AXIS, CONJUNCT NATAL MERCURY

SATURN in the 6TH, SQUARE NATAL PLUTO, rising

IC OPPOSITE NATAL URANUS

URANUS SQUARE NATAL MARS

The PROGRESSIVE SOLAR RETURN, MAP 4, has -
URANUS rising, CONJUNCT NATAL PLUTO, and SQUARE SATURN AND PLUTO in the terminal 4th

House, SATURN AND PLUTO CLOSELY OPPOSING NATAL MOON.

The MOON, ruling the 4TH, SQUARE JUPITER, ruling the 8TH.

The PRECESSED SOLAR RETURN, MAP 3, has - SATURN, rising, CONJUNCT PLUTO, and both OPPOSITE the NATAL MOON.

MOON CONJUNCT NEPTUNE, both SQUARE THE SUN. (The Sun opposite Natal Saturn as in the Radix)

The NORMAL SOLAR RETURN, MAP 2, has - PLUTO AND SATURN OPPOSING the NATAL MOON. The MOON SQUARE NATAL URANUS.

The 12TH HOUSE occupied by the SUN, MERCURY (Ruler) and URANUS, URANUS being CONJUNCT NATAL PLUTO.

Life has many odd facets. In the course of this analysis it occurred to me that Lilly, modestly describing himself as "Student of Astrology", when writing his great work did not know he was producing a classic that would be wanted and read centuries later. Nor could he have imagined that someone would be looking into the astrological connotations of his death, three hundred years after the event. He would have thought it strange indeed.

- Dymock.

From R. PEARSON (ENG.):

Prison for Peter?

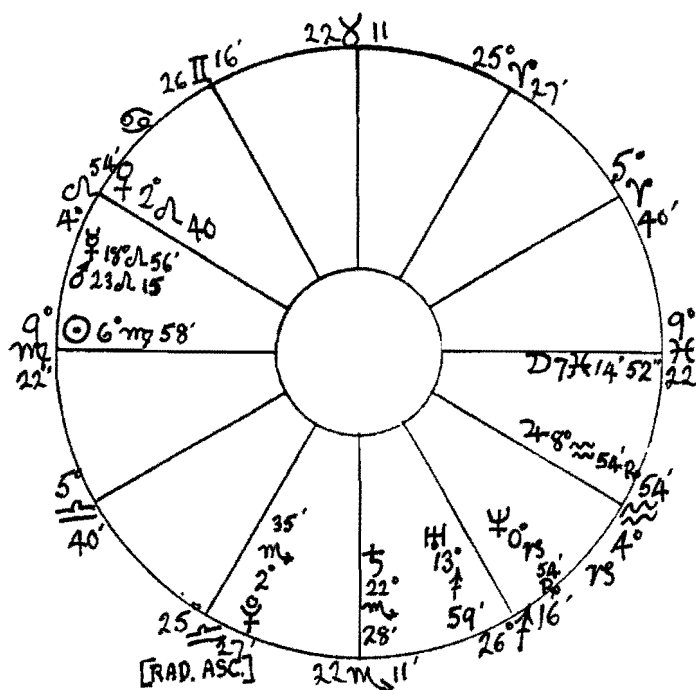

Peter, a friend, has recently been "busted" for possession of cannabis (on the 25th August 1985) and has been charged with "supplying". He was taken to the local police cells and interrogated as to whom he supplied. He didn't reveal anything. He was beaten-up and a lower-front tooth was knocked out - he showed me the gap. He was remanded in the cells for five days.

I do not condone the taking/supplying of any type of drug, and do not indulge myself, but due to a musical connection I know Peter well. The police action was taken as normal by Peter, and he shrugged-off the whole affair.

A deal with the police was made and he admitted to supplying a restricted drug to a few selected friends, and will eventually be tried at a Crown Court.

The Horary Chart gives Libra rising for the time of the question (which I asked). Please note that it is turned to give the 11th House as the 1st House Cusp. This puts Venus in Peter's 11th House of friends.

HORARY: WILL PETER GO TO PRISON?
30th August 1985, 10 05 am, 2 W 33,53 N 42.
Topocentric Cusps.

Immediately we are struck by the concentration of bodies in the 12th House (self-undoing, prisons, secret enemies, etc.). Peter's Ruler, Mercury, is in the 12th; the 12th-House Ruler, the Sun, is in the 12th; Mars, Ruler of the 4th (and 8th and 9th), the end of the matter, is in the 12th. Mercury is applying to the square of Saturn and to a conjunction with Mars, and Mars has just passed a square to Saturn (indicative of the violence?). The Moon in the House of Open Enemies has just passed the opposition to the Sun - very indicative of the event.

As a positive answer to the question posed, Mercury and the Sun are in mutual reception, and are thus inextricably linked. Mutual reception is considered a powerful aid to perfection of the matter. The Moon applies by square to Uranus, but by trine to Saturn. The trine to Saturn (conjunct the 4th House Cusp) could hardly be considered propitious. So I therefore judge that he will go to prison.

I have spoken to Peter recently, and he will be appearing in court after the 18th November 1985. I await the result with interest, and will advise our esteemed Editor of the outcome.

[Written 7th November 1985.]

My kind regards to all, - Dymock,
19th November 1985.

Astrologers Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785.
Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas - Airmail). Issue No. 51.

19th October 1985

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

Further to our discussion of Solar Returns, Cheng-Yi Huang of the U.S.A. adverts to the Precessed Solar Return of former President John F. Kennedy, prior to his assassination. This type of Chart is often referred to as a Sidereal Solar Return, but it should be noted that the one Cheng-Yi uses is not calculated in the Sidereal Zodiac. It is calculated in the Tropical Zodiac, allowance being made for Precession at the rate of approximately 50.25" of arc for each year of the native's life up to the date of the Return. This amount is added to the Radical position of the Sun.

From CHENGI-YI HUANG (USA):

The Solar Return Horoscope, in addition to Primary and Secondary Directions, is an important predictive tool of astrology. In the same way that trees each year initiate the renewal of their lives with a new ring that is incorporated into the trunk, so a human being receives and incorporates a new annual impulse of life at his birthday.

Astrologers have different opinions about the practice of the Solar Return. Cyril Fagan, the great astrologer who discovered the Sidereal SR, went so far as to state that the birth chart is nothing but a SR Chart of the first year. A.P. Nelson Page and W. Polich held the idea that in the Tropical SR the mundane positions or Houses are of no value for the native. They pointed out in the case of Queen Elizabeth II the Tropical SR of 1951 contained no indication referring to the death of her King-father, and her accession to the Throne, while the Sidereal SR Chart showed the Sun exactly on the Midheaven - a clear sign of her Queenship.

Alexander Marr, in Issue No. 34 of Astrologers' Forum, also discussed SR Charts. He used the example of President John F. Kennedy (born 19h 51m 25s rectified UT, May 29, 1917, at 71 W 08, 42 N 20) and mentioned that his fatal 1963 Sidereal SR mainly showed his immense success during that year, but there were no obvious indications for his assassination.

There is no question but that the Sidereal

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The Quarterly Sidereal Solar Return	1
President John F. Kennedy - Horoscope of Birth	3
John F. Kennedy - Tropical Solar Return 29/5/1963	3
John F. Kennedy - Precessed Solar Return 30/5/1963	3
Synodic Return for Pres. Kennedy's 46th Year	4

SR is a more reliable and less ambiguous predictive tool than the Tropical SR. Its method of interpretation is simple and straightforward: Planets on Angles exercise their maximum power for weal or woe. No House rulerships are needed. As demonstrated in the case of Kennedy, the Sidereal SR sometimes fails completely. Why? Based on my study, I have come to the conclusion that the Sidereal SR works only for the first quarter of the Return year. For the part remaining we need to cast quarti-Sidereal SR Charts for when the Sun moves to 90, 180 and 270 degrees in relation to its Radical position.

There are numerous examples to demonstrate the efficacy of Quarti-SSR's. Let's take the case of Kennedy as an example. The Sidereal SR shows Venus, Mercury and Jupiter culminating (Map not reproduced), which did not point to danger. However, if we go a little further and cast the Quarti-SSR that covered the period from 1st September to 1st December 1963, the truth of the matter emerges.

MAP 1 is the QSSR of Kennedy, computed for Dallas, Texas, where he was assassinated: MARS CONJOINS THE ASCENDANT, with an orb of only 10', clearly indicating he was shot to death. His Natal Saturn conjoins the

MAP 1: QUARTERLY PRECESSED SOLAR RETURN
FOR PRESIDENT KENNEDY, 1/9/1963, AT DALLAS

Midheaven, signalling his end.

For astrological prediction, I found that the combination of Topocentric Primary Directions with the Quarti-SSR provides the most effective tool for forecasting. While the Primary Direction provides the mature nature and location of the event within a period of three months, by casting the Quarti-SSR for any geographic location we may be able to avoid disaster such as Kennedy encountered.

EDITOR'S NOTE:

The Precessed Solar Return (as I prefer to call it) is often remarkably apposite, but in my rather extensive investigations of Annual Charts, I have found the precessed variety to be on the whole less indicative of events and circumstances than the Tropical Solar Return set for the place of Birth - not the place of residence, or the place of temporary location on the Return date, as is advocated by Volguine in his excellent book, The Technique of Solar Returns.

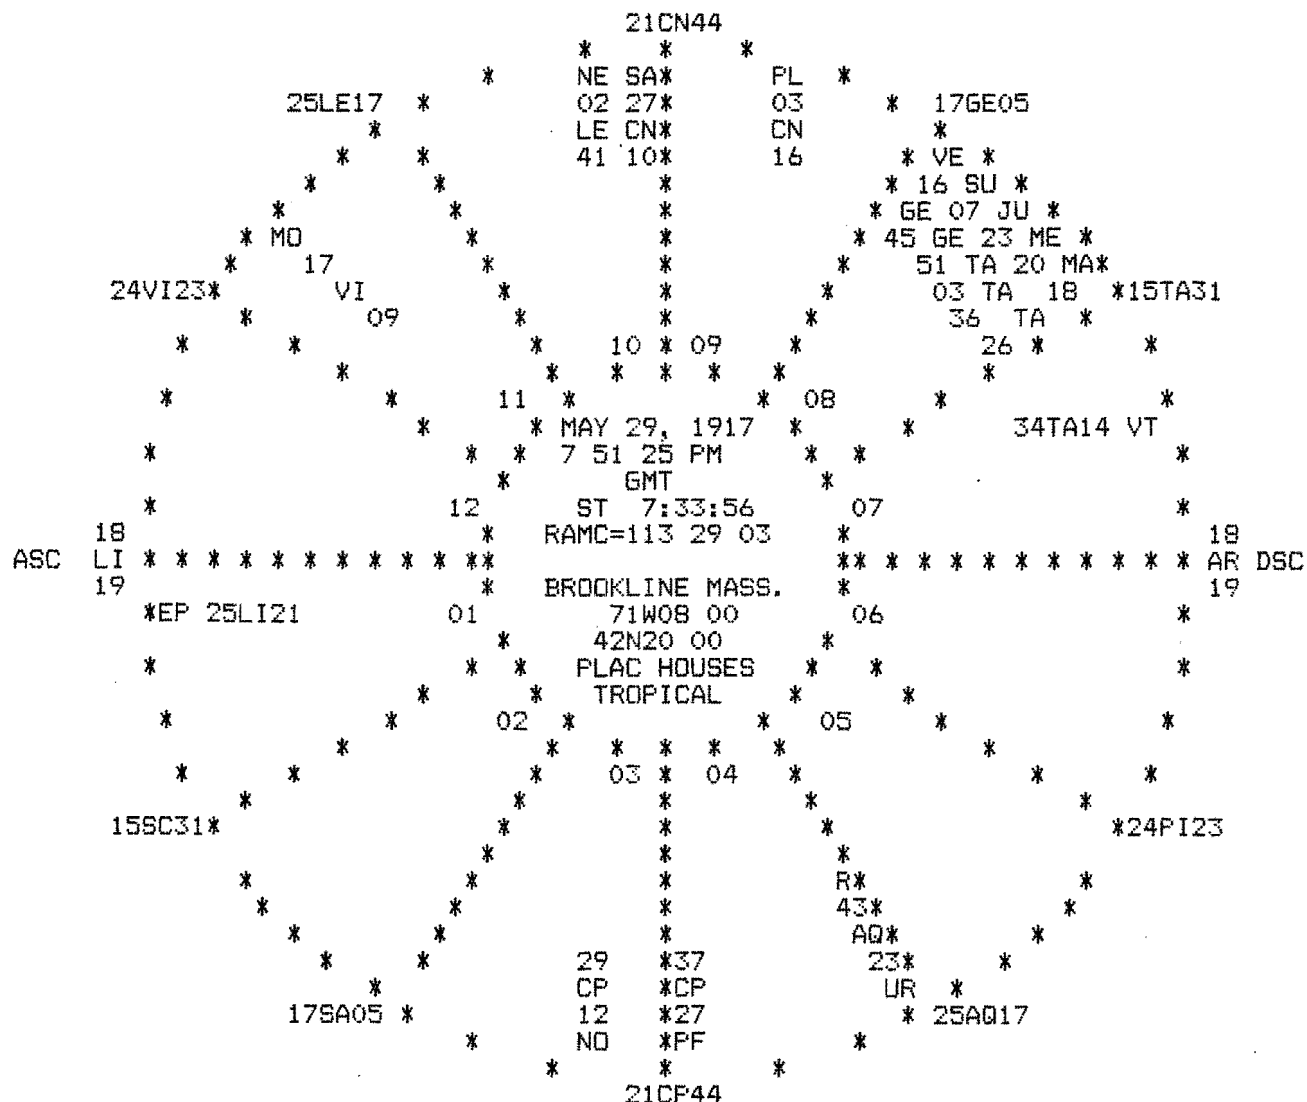

MAP 2 is the Natal Chart of President Kennedy, for the time quoted by Cheng-Yi, and MAP 3 is the normal Tropical Solar Return on 29th May 1963. The President was shot and killed on the 22nd of November 1963.

It can be seen that Map 3 is clearly indicative of the President's fate:

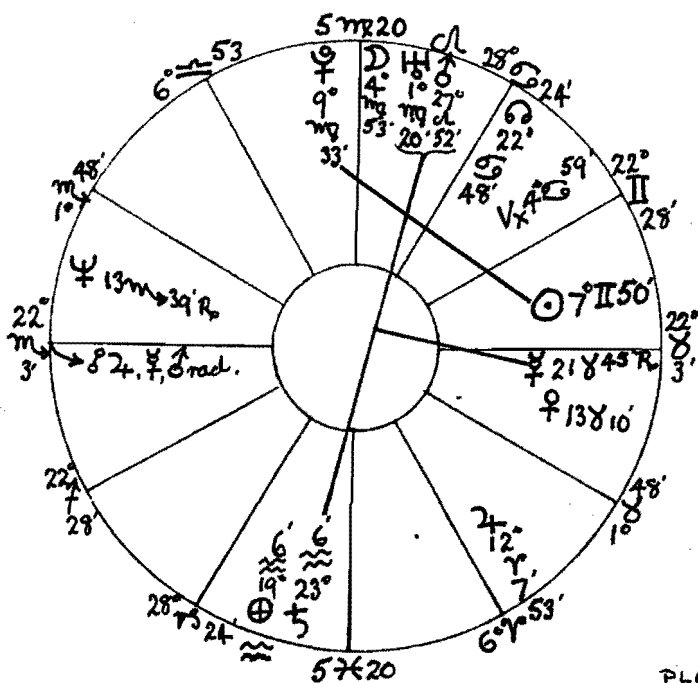

(1) 22 degrees of Scorpio rises, opposing the Natal positions of Mars, Mercury and Jupiter in the 8th House (death by firearms).

(2) There is a powerful conjunction of the Moon, Mars and Uranus, with Uranus almost precisely at the focal point of the Moon and Mars (violence from a disaffected member of the public).

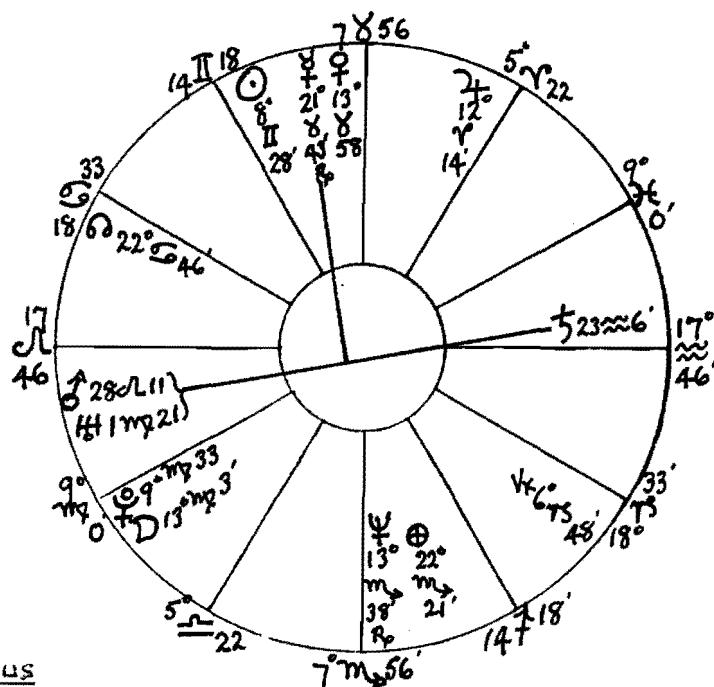

MAP 2: PRESIDENT JOHN F. KENNEDY 29/5/1917
UT 19h 51m 25s (Marr's Rect.), 71 W B, 42 N 20.

MAP 3: J.F. KENNEDY: TROPICAL SOLAR RETURN
29/5/1963. Birth Place. Sun 76°50'15".

MAP 4: J.F. KENNEDY: PRECESSED SOLAR RETURN
30/5/1963. Birth Place. Preces. Sun 76^h50'15"

PLACIDUS

- Dymock.

MAP 5

Astrologers' Forum

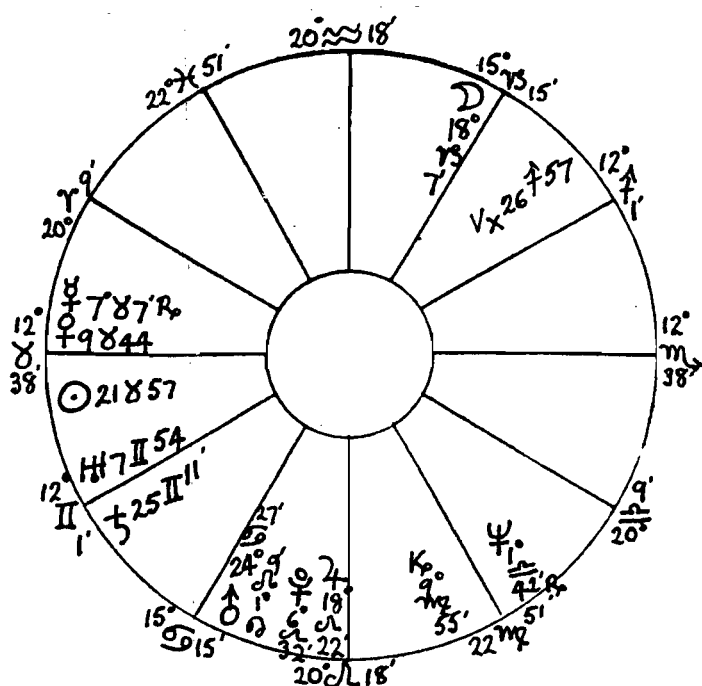

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785.
Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas - Airmail). Issue No. 50.

19th September 1985

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

We continue with the second part of Jenifer Pommerin's article comparing four different types of Solar Return - the Normal Return set for both the place of birth and the place of residence, and the Precessed Return for the same two locations. The Birth Chart and the other four Maps are reproduced below.

BIRTH CHART, 13th May 1944, 6:29 am
(Rectified) Melbourne. 114 E 58, 37 S 45.
Topocentric Cusps

The Precessed Solar Return for the Place of Birth.

This is an interesting Chart, for the House positions are nearly the same as the Natal House positions. Maybe this is indicative of a "fateful" year. Volguine stated, "The Ascendant in the First Natal House always indicates a very great freedom of choice during the coming year, which enables the native to fulfill many of the potentials indicated in the Natal Chart...Planets in the First House seem to decrease freedom of action...". It seems the Native had experiences in line with the

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Comparison of Solar Returns (concluding part)	1
Finding the best Solar Return by the Solar Eclipse	2
Using the Transiting Nodes for the same purpose	3
The Vertex, likewise	3
Hiroshima Remembered	3
Republic of South Africa - Inceptional Chart	5
Solar Return Chart, 1985, for South African Republic	6

promises of the Natal Chart. Apart from that, and Uranus (Ruler of the 10th) and its aspects, there is little correlation with actual events. The significance of Venus has been covered earlier. Transpluto is conjunct both the 4th House and Natal Jupiter, and in square to the Sun and Mercury. It is Ruler of the Ascendant and disposes four Taurus planets. Unfortunately, my experience of Transpluto is still scant. Basically, the picture is probably that many important matters will come to a conclusion in this Solar year. Neptune is fairly well-placed in the 8th House, symbolising both the dissipation of money belonging to others, and the failure to negotiate further loans.

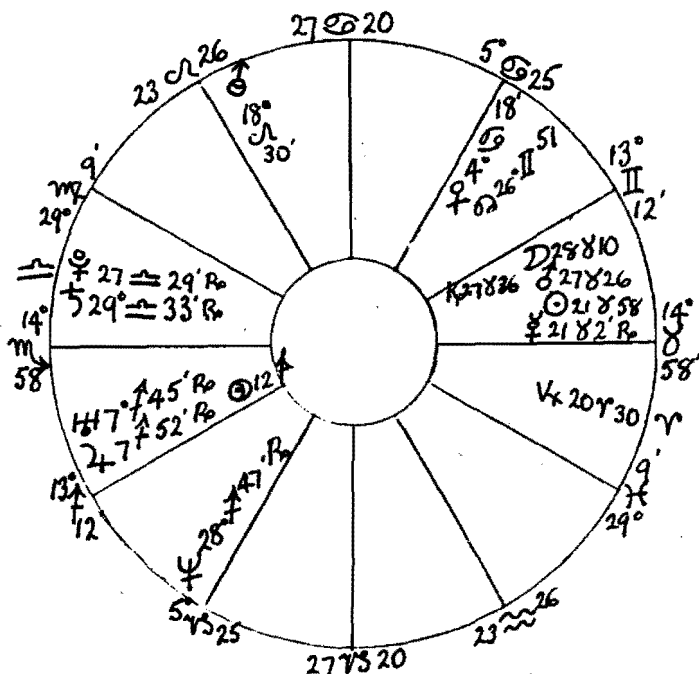

Map 4: The Normal Solar Return for the Present Location

The stellium in the 8th is more indicative than the other Maps of the influence of intimate or sexual relationships in the coming year. The change of partner and the dissolution of home ties is shown by the conjunction of the Moon, Mars and Chiron (Ruler of Natal 4th) in quincunx to Pluto (Ruler of the Natal 7th), and in quincunx to MAP 1: Precessed Solar Return for Present Location. Precessed Sun 22 Tau 30' 11". 13/5/1983, GMT 8:24:35 pm. Perth, WA. 115 E 51, 31 S 57. Placidian Cusps.

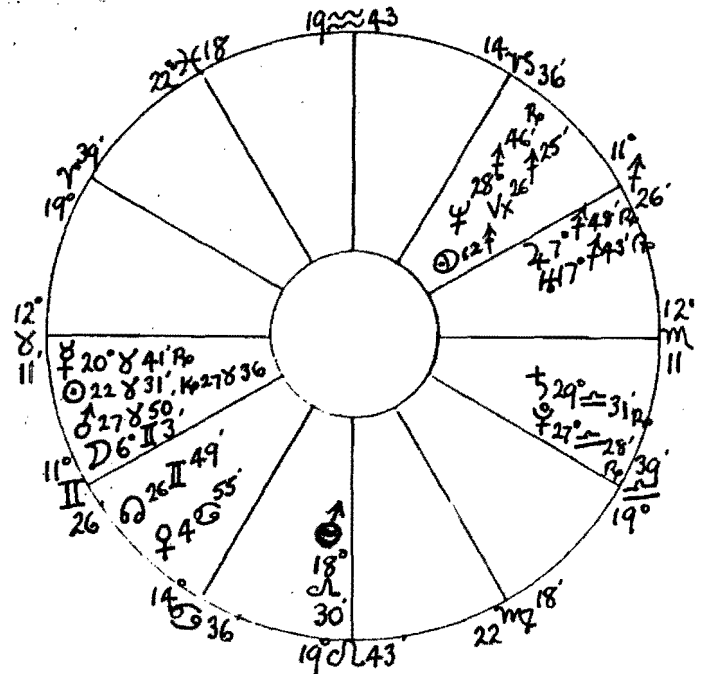

MAP 2: Normal Solar Return for the Place of Birth. Natal Sun 21 Tau 57' 33". 13/5/1983, 6:55:50 am GMT, at Melbourne. 144 E 58, 37 S 45. Placidian Cusps.

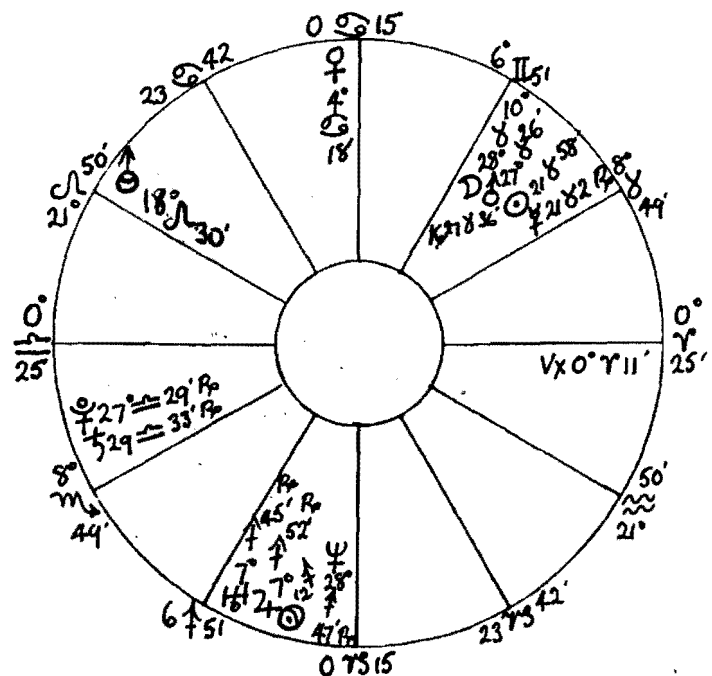

Neptune in the SR-4th House. The weak points about this Chart have already been mentioned. There is one strong lead though: Natal Saturn is conjunct the SR Midheaven. It is Ruler of the Natal 2nd and Co-Ruler of the Natal 9th House. One could correctly MAP 3: Precessed Solar Return for Place of Birth. Precessed Sun 22 Tau 30' 11". 13/5/1983, 8:24:35 pm GMT, Melbourne.

MAP 4: Normal Solar Return for Present Location. Natal Sun 21 Tau 57' 31". 13/5/1983, GMT 6:55:50 am, Perth, WA. 115 E 51, 31 S 57. Placidian Cusps.

forecast a concern over material possessions, income, and overseas factors, with possible losses in these areas. However, Saturn is also Ruler of the SR-5th, and 5th-House activities were more a source of enjoyment than not. The trine of SR

Pluto and Saturn to the MC and Natal Saturn would be difficult to interpret, even with hindsight. A hidden source of income (Pluto Ruler of the SR 2nd House) might be acceptable, but it would be misleading to assume that partnerships, etc. (Pluto Ruler of Natal 7th) underwent Plutonian changes without much trouble. The transiting Node is also conjunct the MC, and more of that below.

The Use of Solar Eclipses and transiting Nodes to ascertain the "best" Solar Return, or Forecast.

A fellow astrologer recently drew my attention to the vital influence of Solar Eclipses and Nodes, particularly the Prenatal Eclipse and transiting Nodes. Robert Jansky, in his excellent book, Interpreting the Eclipses, gives two keywords for Eclipse delineation - "emphasis" and "crisis" (crisis in the sense that events cause a focussing of attention and, consequently, energy, upon that particular matter). He states that the House where the Eclipse falls represents the sphere where the native will feel most personally affected.

In the year of the Solar Return, the Solar Eclipse occurred at 12 Sagittarius, on the 4th December, 1983. It occupied the 8th House in Map 1, the Cusp of the 2nd House in Map 2, the Cusp of the 8th House in Map 3, and the 3rd House in Map 4. So Maps 1, 2 and 3 all indicated the financial crisis or theme for the year. Map 4 did not. Maps 1 and 3 also signified changes in emotional relationships.

The Nodes

Briefly, my understanding of the Nodes is that the North Node signifies the area in which the individual is required to develop, or function properly, before he is able to fully utilise the South Node's qualities. The transiting Node, therefore, will stimulate conditions to further self-development. In the Solar Returns, the Node is conjunct Natal Saturn (Ruler of the Natal 2nd), trine to the SR Pluto, and opposite the SR Neptune. So material issues, the need to be responsible and maintain ethical standards (Saturn Co-Ruler of the 9th) are highlighted for the year.

In Map 1, the Node is in the 3rd House which, frankly, means little in reference to known events. In Map 2 the Node is in the 8th House, which is self-explanatory. In Map 3 the Node is in the 2nd House and conjunct the Natal House position of Saturn. Map 4 has the Node in the most powerful position of all, at the MC. My personal preference for the most telling House position of the Node would be for the 8th House of Map 2.

The Vertex as an Aid in Defining the Better Solar Return.

Elva Howson, long ago, pointed out the important role of the Vertex in any type of chart - and has provided convincing proof in various articles. Up to date, my experiences have shown that it is strongly linked to karmic encounters, while Elva gives less credence to the karmic factor. When using the Vertex to further define the most helpful Map, the question of whether it was a "fateful" year or not is important. My impressions were that the events were not karmic to the extent that the individual had little or no choice in coming to a decision, or in taking one path in preference to another. For this reason, the Vertex in these particular Maps may be less useful as a guide in picking the most informative Solar Return.

Nevertheless, a comparison should be made. To quote Elva, "...the Vertex almost unfailingly contacts the planets that are the essence of the major event of the year". So contacts with Transpluto, Pluto, Venus, natal planets Saturn and Jupiter, or Solar Return Houses 2, 7, 8 are required: Map 1 - 8th House. Map 2 - 6th House; a trine to the SR-Transpluto, a trine to Natal Jupiter and a square to the Natal Moon. Map 3 - 8th House: conjunct the Natal Vertex, opposite Natal Saturn and the transiting Node. Map 4 - conjunct the 7th House ("appears to bring an extremely strong personal crisis" - Elva Howson); quincunx Pluto/Saturn. Map 4 wins this round.

From C.Y. HUANG (USA):

Hiroshima Remembered

The 6th of August this year marks the 40th anniversary of the Hiroshima atomic bombing. The explosion of atomic bombs in Hiroshima and Nagasaki of Japan ended World War II yet ushered in the beginning of the nuclear arms race, in which human beings have ever since lived in constant anxiety over the total destruction and annihilation of civilization.

The moment the bomb was dropped, according to Associated Press, was 8:15:17 am. It exploded over the sky of Hiroshima at 8:16:08 am. The Chart calculated for this historic moment, as Cyril Fagan mentioned in E4American Astrology, is truly amazing. No language better depicts this moment than that of the stars! Here in the Map, Uranus at 16 Gem 29 is conjunct the Midheaven at 16 Gem 47, which literally means that a Uranium-made atomic bomb was falling from the sky. The conjunction of the Moon and Saturn in opposition to the Cusp of the Fifth House symbolizes the collapse of masses.

While the Zodiacal aspects point only to the causes of the event, it is the Mundane aspects of the Topocentric system that show the physical results of this event. In the Mundane Radix, all the malefics are linked in aspects within one degree of orb. Neptune is in mundane square with the Moon's Node, and also sextile to Pluto. The Moon is in mundane conjunction with Saturn. Mars is in mundane sextile to the Sun.

It is worth pondering over this incident: Did everyone who perished on that fateful day have a bad transit or Direction maturing at the time?

(Editor's Note: The Mundane aspects referred to by Cheng-Yi cannot be seen from the Chart, but only when the Oblique Ascensions/Descensions are calculated. I append here a list of the OA's/OD's, in which the angles referred to by Cheng-Yi can be seen.)

SUN	128 35'	JUPITER	175 30'
MOON	104 19'	SATURN	104 36'
MERCURY	151 36'	URANUS	75 22'
VENUS	89 27'	NEPTUNE	184 47'
MARS	68 46'	PLUTO	124 49'
MEAN NODE		94 27'

The equations for calculating the OA's/OD's will be posted to any interested reader who sends a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

CAPETOWN, 24:00 LOCAL TIME, 22:00 GMT

These two Charts are computer print-outs from a Matrix Program supplied by Rudolf Smit. - Dymock.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785.

Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas - Airmail).

Issue No. 49.

19th August 1985

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

YET ANOTHER AIR DISASTER

Jumbo Jet Flight 123 from Tokyo on the 12th of August ended in the loss of 520 lives, barely forty minutes after take-off. This is the third major air tragedy within two months, and the worst ever involving a single plane. In my opinion all these could have been foreseen and prevented by proper astrological monitoring of the take-off times. Modern computer technology makes this entirely feasible. The expense of maintaining one or two competent astrologers with adequate equipment at the major air ports would be negligible compared with the astronomical costs involved in the loss of a single jumbo jet. Insurance companies are now said to be facing their biggest pay-out in history. Quite apart from all the public and private monetary losses involved, of course the major factor is the heavy toll of life, with the resultant grief and suffering caused to family members, relatives and friends.

In previous issues of this publication I have dealt with the shooting down of the Korean Jumbo Jet in 1983 and the disappearance into the sea off the Irish Coast of the Jumbo Jet flight from Montreal on 22nd June this year. In both cases I have tried to show how the tragedies could have been prevented with the astrological skills we now possess, and which would certainly be refined and sharpened by any astrologers able to specialize in the prevention of air tragedies.

It is useless simply to cast a chart for the actual time of any disaster, however pointed this may be. We have to be able to foresee and forestall danger. This can be done in at least two ways: (1) With an Inceptional Chart for the time of the particular aircraft being commissioned or going into service, and (2) with a Chart for the take-off time of the flight. Both methods should be used wherever the appropriate data is available. The Inceptional Chart would be extremely valuable, both as regards the Radical positions, showing the potential for trouble, and the Transits, Progressions and Directions (particularly Primary Directions)

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Another Jumbo Jet Tragedy	1
Comparison of Solar Return Charts	2
Finding a Lost Cat	5
Superpower Summit - a Failure?	6

locating the danger periods.

As Inceptional data is not readily accessible, we have to rely at present on take-off times, but an astrologer officially employed by an airlines company would surely have access to all relevant information.

According to The Sydney Morning Herald of August 14th, 1985, the ill-fated Flight 123 from Tokyo to Osaka in western Japan commenced at 6:15 pm local time (9:15 am UT). Trouble was reported just 12 minutes later, and within a minute of the first emergency alert the Captain radioed that he was unable to control the airliner. He was greatly agitated.

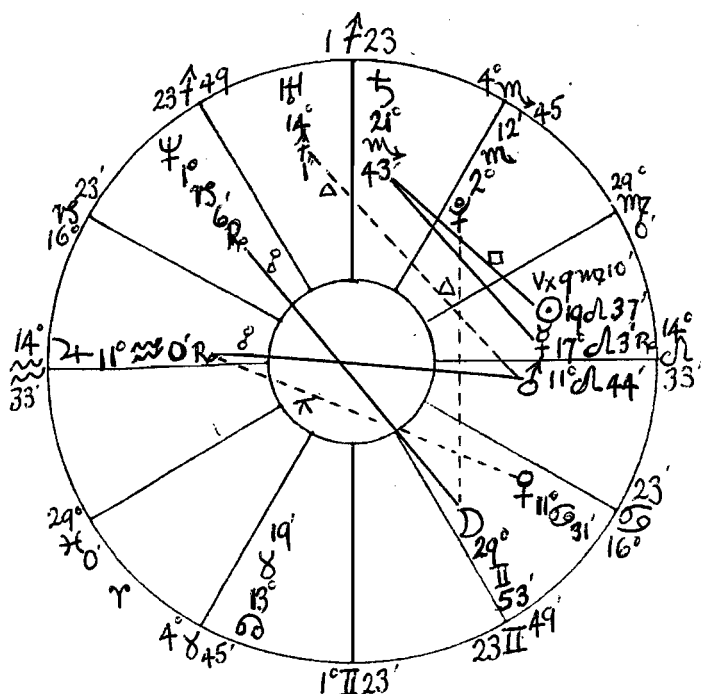

A last message was received at 6:54 pm, when the airliner was well below its assigned altitude. The final act in the drama was the search party's grim discovery of the remains of the Jet where it had crashed into the side of Mount Ogura. Miraculously, 4 passengers of the 524 people on board survived, though badly injured, in the tail section of the aircraft.

The Horoscope for the reported time of take-off appears on page 2. In a Chart of this nature the First House represents the aircraft, the Moon is symbolic of the passengers, and the Sun of the captain.

As was to be expected, the Chart is full of dire warnings: Aquarius rises, and Jupiter, just above the Horizon is closely opposed by Mars (44'), ruling the 9th House (mountains), where Pluto, The Destroyer, sits on the Cusp (Placidian/Topocentric).

The planet of "bigness", Jupiter, is very appropriate for a Jumbo Jet.

Flight 123 from Tokyo, 12th August 1985
6:15 pm Local Time, 9:15 am UT.
139 E 45, 35 N 40. Placidian Cusps.

A dire portent for the passengers was the application of the Moon to the close opposition of Neptune (13'). Their fate was sealed by the further application of the Moon to the trine of Pluto in the 9th. (They died on a mountainside.) Mercury disposes the Moon, so has a major influence on the final outcome. It rules the House of Death, and is retrograde, square to Saturn. Saturn also squares the Sun (the Captain). Its quadratures to Mercury and the Sun have added force by virtue of its elevation above both these bodies.

Uranus, Ruler of the Chart, and Co-Significator of the airliner, is linked to Saturn by antiscion - the Meridian is at the midpoint between them (2 Sag 52). The orb of 1 dg.29' could be less if the given take-off time was not precise. The combination of these two planets is symptomatic of accidents and falls. The Yod ("Finger of Fate") that Uranus forms with Jupiter and Venus could also be significant.

Jupiter, though opposed by the violent Mars, and quincunx to Venus, exercised its traditional role as Preserver, and saved the lives of two women and two girls (Venus), a most remarkable eventuality in the circumstances.

Finally, it is an inauspicious start to any sort of travel if the rulers of the 1st and 10th Houses are retrograde, as both are here (Uranus and Jupiter).

There were more than enough powerfully adverse indications in this Chart to justify the grounding of the flight until a more propitious moment. If we continue to ignore clear warnings we must accept the consequences. How long must it be before airport authorities start to heed the advice of astrologers? - Dymock.

COMPARISON OF SOLAR RETURN CHARTS

From JENIFER POMMERIN (W.A.):

In the past I have not used the Solar Returns as an aid in forecasting. This was mainly due to the somewhat cumbersome practice of House superimposition as advocated by Volguine. Moreover, my experiences had shown that the Normal Solar Return based on the place of location worked well if the astrologer was using hindsight, but was not very giving of foresight in actual practice.

After experimenting with four different types of Solar Returns - the Normal and the Precessed based on the native's present location and on the place of birth, I now give preference to the Normal Solar Return based on the place of birth and the Precessed Return based on the present location. The Normal SR based on the present location was the least informative. This might be because Volguine's House superimposition was disregarded to a certain extent. The Charts were largely delineated as they stood, with a comparison of the ASC and MC and the planets to the natal chart, and vice versa.

The idea was to find the SR Chart that gave the most easily defined and clear picture of the year ahead. Naturally, hindsight had to be used on past events for this exercise. However, once the astrologer does establish which type of Solar Return is the most positive, then perhaps some articles might be forthcoming giving accounts of successful predictions that were done before the event and based on the Solar Return.

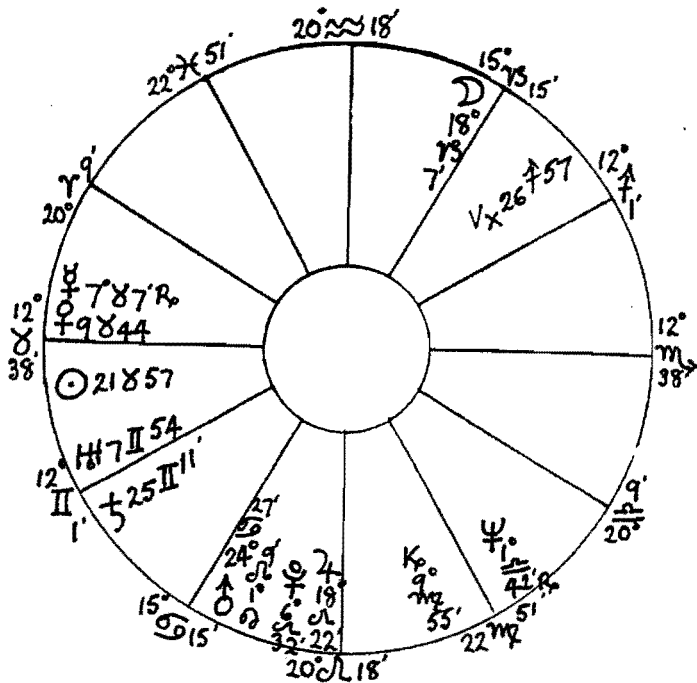

For the purposes of comparison, the Natal Chart published in Issue No.37 was taken. (Reproduced below. - Ed.)

The year under study is 1983. The main events were:

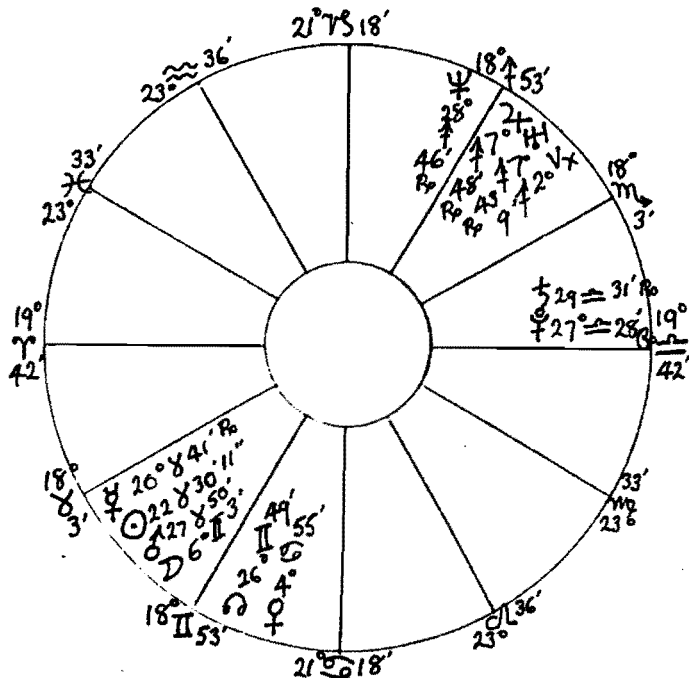

- The collapse of a retail business (dealing with imported goods).
- The break-up of a marriage.
- A relationship with another woman (continuing to the present date).

The main concerns during the year, apart from the emotional relationships, were his income and debts.

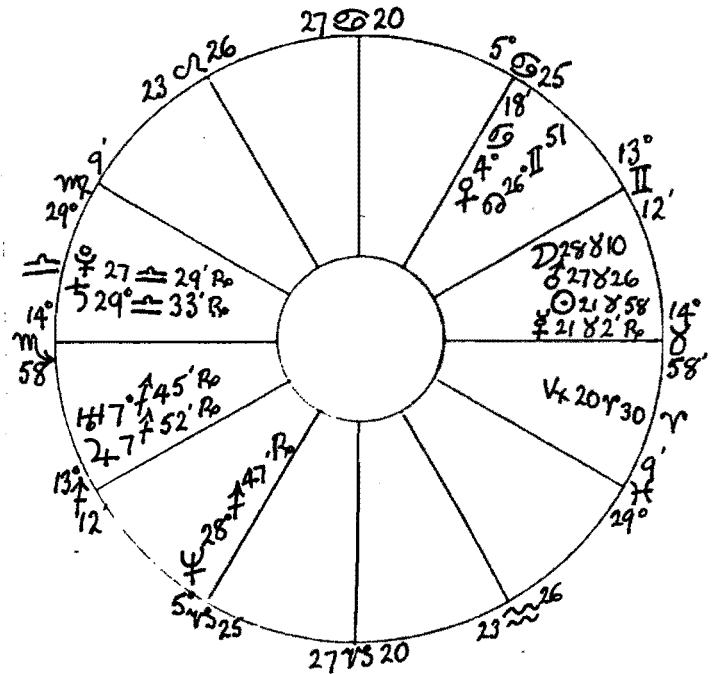

BIRTH CHART, 13th May 1944, 6:29 am
(Rectified) Melbourne. 114 E 58, 37 S 45.
Topocentric Cusps

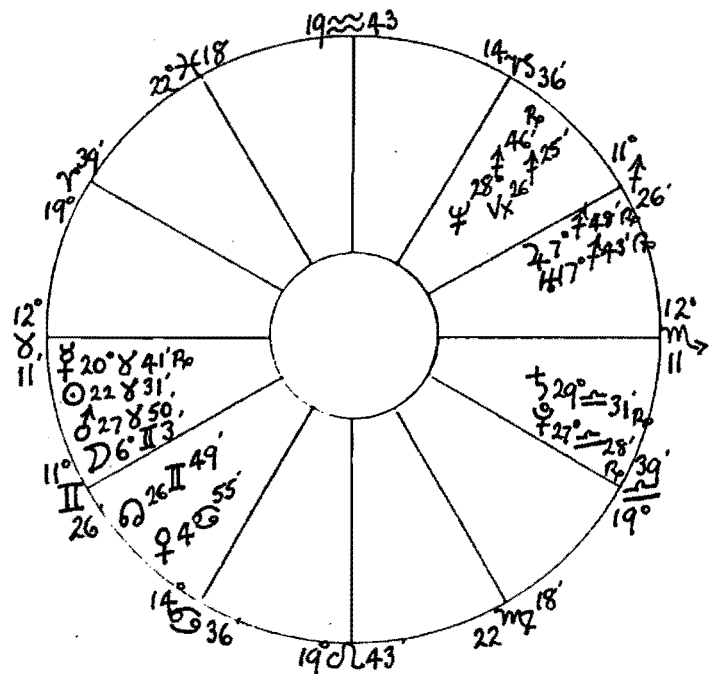

MAP 1: Precessed Solar Return for Present Location. Precessed Sun 22 Tau 30' 11"
13/5/1983, GMT 8:24:35 pm. Perth, WA.
115 E 51, 31 S 57. Topocentric Cusps.

MAP 2: Normal Solar Return for the Place of Birth. Natal Sun 21 Tau 57' 33"
13/5/1983, 6:55:50 am GMT, at Melbourne.
144 E 58, 37 S 45. Topocentric Cusps.

MAP 3: Precessed Solar Return for Place of Birth. Precessed Sun 22 Tau 30' 11" 13/5/1983, 8:24:35 pm GMT, Melbourne.

Aries, (on the Cusp of the Natal 12 House) is on the Ascendant, indicating that matters previously hidden are now in the open, and will require personal attention. Transpluto, the Ruler of the Sun Sign, is close to the 5th House (romances) and trine the Ascendant. The Natal 9th-House-Moon is conjunct the MC. Legal matters, foreign interests, women/emotions/the home, will figure largely in coming events. As Capricorn denotes business and responsibility, these would also be issues.

The emphasis on finances and material concerns is depicted by the loaded 2nd and 8th Houses. The Moon is one of the four planets in the 2nd House. Its opposition to the conjunction of Uranus and Jupiter would signify emotional stress as well. The breaking up of the home might be anticipated as, natively, Jupiter is Ruler of the 4th House. This particular emphasis has a double impact due to the SR Moon being conjunct Natal Uranus, Ruler of the Natal 10th House and part Ruler of the 2nd; with the SR-Jupiter and Uranus opposing the Natal Uranus also.

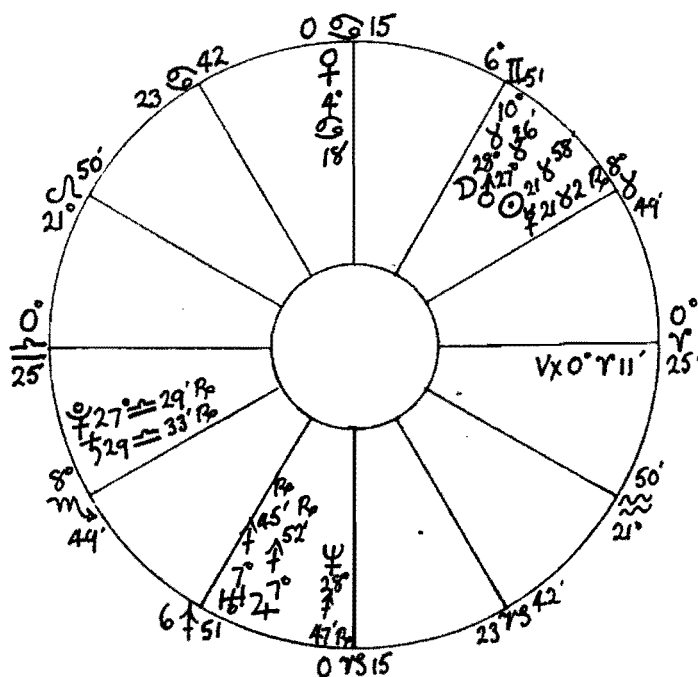

Map No.3, the Precessed SR for the place of birth, likewise shows the breaking up of conditions for the coming year. The main difference is that in Map 1 the SR-Moon rules the 4th House, so helping to give a clearer picture, as does the presence of Transpluto linked to the 5th.

Mercury in the 2nd House (Map 1) is retrograde, square to Transpluto (Ruler of the Sun-Sign) and square to Natal Jupiter, both near the Cusp of the SR-5th House. Personal extravagances might be expected in the pursuit of pleasure. At the same time it is wholly possible to anticipate a successful trading year because of the conjunction of the Sun and Mercury in a harmonious trine in Earth Signs to the MC. However, the activity of Mars, the Ruler of the Ascendant, portrays another facet. It is quincunx Neptune, The Dissolver, in the 9th House (the export Co.), quincunx Saturn, Ruler of the SR-10th, quincunx Pluto, Ruler of the Natal 7th - these latter two planets posited in the SR-7th House. Mars is also conjunct Chiron, a planetoid I associate with business acumen, especially in its ability to survive financial crises.

This is a complicated pattern to test the skills of most astrologers. It is present in all four Maps, so its House position is going to be a vital aid for a true delineation. Maps 3 and 4 were the weakest in that the powerful conjunction was posited in the 6th and 1st House respectively. Map 2 is not so illuminating with the conjunction in the 12th, either. The occupancy might indicate that some of the events were "fated". Still, Pluto does rule the SR-Ascendant, so they were not beyond his control. In actual fact, readers will have to accept (without specific explanations) that Map 2, in general, denotes how the Native handled his problems. Map 2 is, nevertheless, clearly informative re partnerships (business and marriage), through the stellium of planets in the 7th

House. On the other hand, it would be necessary to backtrack via the rulership of House Cusps to decipher the meaning of the Saturn/Pluto conjunction in Maps 3 and 4.

MAP 4: Normal Solar Return for Present Location. Natal Sun 21 Tau 57' 31" 13/5/1983, GMT 6:55:50 am, Perth, WA. 115 E51, 31 S 57.

The outcome of this Mars configuration was:

- A dissolution of the "personal" trade with the exporter that then directly affected his financial affairs.
- The business partnership ended, and there was a final severing of close ties with his wife.
- There was some protection from financial disaster. This was indicated by the Sun/Mercury trine to the MC in Map 1. The influence of Chiron helped, too. The other aid was that, natively, the Moon is trine the Sun. This re-occurs in the Solar Return of Map 1 with the conjunction of the natal Moon with the MC.

Venus has an interesting role in the comparison of these Solar Returns. In the Precessed Charts it forms a quincunx to retrograde Jupiter and Uranus. In Map 3 and natively, Uranus is Ruler of the 10th House (Destiny). Natively, Jupiter is Ruler of the 4th House, "the end of the matter". Map 1 has this conjunction of Jupiter/Uranus in the 8th House, and Map 3 has Venus in the 2nd House. One could expect an end to a chapter, or a period of instability, in personal relationships, shared resources, money matters, etc. Venus in the Normal Returns is just out of orb for a quincunx, so this extra information is not available. Its presence in the 10th House (Destiny) of Map 4 might, indeed, be misleading. There could be the correct forecast of love, contracts, personal relationships, etc., playing a major part during the year. However, the lack of disruptive aspects might also encourage the forecast of a harmonious year, especially in 10th House affairs.

MAP 2: The Normal Solar Return for the Place of Birth.

It can be seen that partnerships, open conflict, legal matters, will be of importance because of the Natal 7th-House Sign superimposed upon the Solar-Return 1st House. Natal Mars is conjunct the Midheaven. An active year could be foretold with perhaps some emotional stress as Mars is in the Water Sign of Cancer.

Natal Venus is close to the 7th House Cusp and this House is heavily tenanted already. Cooperation (or its lack), legal agreements and so on, would be an issue; and love is emphasised through the contact with Natal Venus.

Without precession, the Moon is conjunct Chiron, Mars, Sun and Mercury, and in quincunx to Saturn, Pluto and Neptune. As stated before, this Map is significant in displaying the native's responses - for instance, his social life continued unabated. Nevertheless, the full meaning of the above pattern would really take up too much space. It is sufficient to say that the Moon's quincunx to Pluto and Neptune would portend an ending to a partnership, or emotional instability. As the Moon is aspected favourably in the Natal Chart he would probably be able to handle these emotional complexities fairly well. Map 4 has this pattern giving its emphasis more to shared resources, "money belonging to others", the home, and personal attitudes. The 8th House stellium is actually excellent in indicating the profound changes ahead. Yet it would be a little difficult to define the specific areas of those changes with the exception of the Moon symbolising the home, etc.

Map 2 has the 2nd and 8th House in reverse position to those of the Natal Chart. When there is a malefic present in the 2nd, "the closing of a business" is possible (Volguine). The SR-Uranus is in its Natal House position, which would help to fulfil its potential for drastic changes in income. Natal Uranus is close to the 8th House and is opposing the conjunction of Uranus and Jupiter, again emphasising financial changes. In Map 34 this planetary pattern has very little significance.

[This article by Jenifer Pommerin will be concluded in the next issue. The book referred to is The Technique of Solar Returns, by Alexandre Volguine, translated from the French by John Broglio. - Ed.]

A MISSING CAT: HORARY ASTROLOGY by Olivia Barclay (Eng.)

Max had been missing for ten days. He is a glossy black cat who lives in a third floor flat in Clapham South. His territory includes roof tops and ledges and chimney pots and drain pipes. Once he had managed to reach ground level but he hurt his legs in the achievement. It must have been a difficult journey.

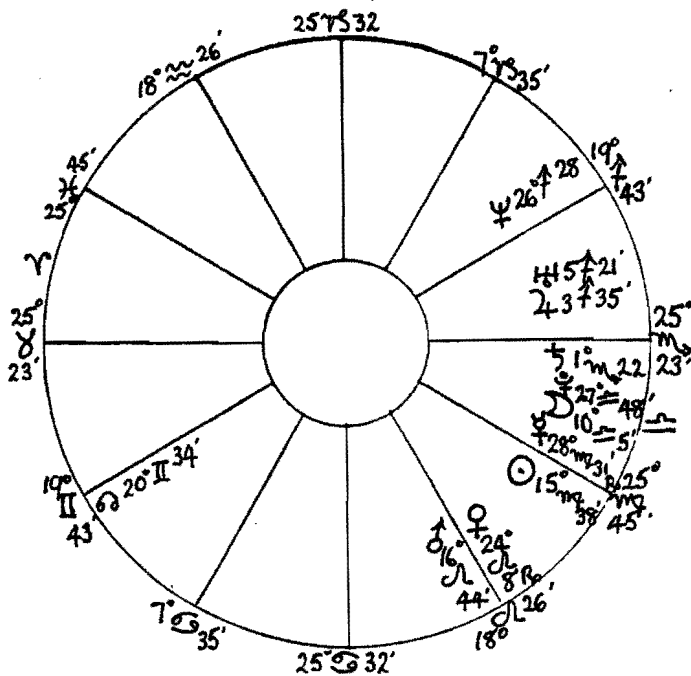

His distraught owner, Jeremy, wondered now if he had done this again and perhaps become victim to the traffic of the South Circular, or discovered some new home. Jeremy and his brother William had climbed about on precarious ledges but had been unable to find Max on the roofs. Despair set in.

When I heard of his long disappearance I was extremely upset, he is such a charming cat.

Suddenly I knew it was the moment for a horary chart (8th September 1983, 8:35 pm GMT, 1 E 25, 51 N 13). Nobody had asked me the question, so I simply took the 6th House for small animals and used that as his Ascendant. Virgo therefore ascended, and Mercury, its Ruler, was there in the First House. I knew then that Max was on his home ground, that he had not fallen. The Sun, Ruler of the derived 12th House was in the 12th. He was a prisoner. Mercury, the Ruler, at 28 1/2 degs. of Virgo, a southern Sign, was Angular in the Derived Chart, and important, therefore I decided SOUTH, and at 28 degrees, near the edge of his territory. The Moon, always important in the charts of fugitives was in Libra, high up, such a place as a garret or flat; in a "human" Sign, where humans inhabit (not down a chimney). It was clear he was imprisoned because the Sun, Ruler of the 12th (imprisonment) was in the 12th. Libra, too indicated near windows.

It was late at night but I telephoned Jeremy in London: "He has not fallen, he is not far from where you are now, but in a southerly direction, dry, in a location used by humans, near windows; a room, perhaps a

HORARY CHART FOR THE LOST CAT
8th September 1983, 8:35 pm GMT.
1 E 25, 51 N 13.

garret, or an attic, because the ground is level like a floor. (The place can be judged from the Sign occupied by the Significator.) He is imprisoned. If you don't go and look for him he will die (the Moon moves eventually to 8th House Ruler), but you have a good chance of finding him (Mercury retrograde).

"Good Lord," said Jeremy, "I can't go climbing over the roof past people's windows at this time of night, but thank you very much...etc."

Jeremy climbed out over the ledges in the morning, he climbed southward towards Balham, and at the very end of the block was a room with three fastened windows. Two windows he couldn't budge, but the third he forced open. It was a disused attic, a garret, and in the corner lay Max, very thin. There was a joyous reunion. Of course, Max was very thirsty, he had drunk nothing for ten days. Algol on the Ascendant before I turned the Chart for judgement had made me suspect he was injured in the neck, and I expect his throat hurt. He drank a whole bowl of milk.

The Heavens Declare the Glory of God.

From C.Y. HUANG (USA):

Superpower Summit - A Failure?

In Issue 44 of Astrologers' Forum I successfully forecast the outcome of President Ronald Reagan's trip to West Germany. In May, Reagan ignited the firestorm over the trip by visiting the Bitburg Cemetery which contains graves of Nazi SS troops. His Progressed Sun conjoining Saturn is very suitable for this event. This also demonstrates that astrological forecasting is far superior to any prediction made by political think-tanks or pundits.

In the same article I also foresaw an event indicated by the Topocentric Primary Directions that will occur in mid-November. Following the news-release on July 2, it became clear that Reagan will hold a Summit with Soviet leader, Mikhail Gorbachev, on November 19 and 20 at Geneva.

The Primary Directions for Reagan that mature in mid-November are MC d. quincunx NODE (establishing relationship), and SATURN d. sesquare IX (failed trip, diplomacy).

The preceding Solar Eclipse (12th November 1985) which opposes Reagan's Natal Moon is ominous enough both for the Chart cast for Geneva and for Washington, D.C. In the Geneva Map Neptune is conjunct the MC, Mars in near the Descendant, and the Eclipse point is near the Cusp of the 8th House. The Washington Map shows Mars conjunct the MC and Uranus near the Ascendant.

It is also interesting to note that in the speculative Chart of Mikhail Gorbachev which I presented in Astrologers' Forum No. 45 and 46, transiting Saturn will move across the Midheaven of Gorbachev during the period of the Summit, which also points to disappointment.

Based on these astrological indicators I predict that the Superpower Summit in the coming November will be a disappointment and fail to reach an agreement on nuclear-arms reduction.

LESLIE BLACK (Eng.) writes that it is fallacious to assume that the Cancer Ingress Chart of 21st June could predict the result of the Greek Election 18 days earlier (see Issue 48, page 4). Postulating that Ingress Charts or any other important configurations come into effect weeks before their actual manifestation puts the whole method of predictive astrology into dispute. He has always understood and believed that the fundamental principle governing astrology is the law of cause and effect, and how can an actual effect pre-date the cause?

My kind regards to all. - Dymock, 19th August 1985.

Continuation 70

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785.
Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas - Airmail). Issue No. 48.

19th July 1985

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

Since our last Issue we have had the appalling tragedy of the Air India Jumbo Jet crashing into the Irish Sea, with the loss of all 329 people on board. Though the cause of the crash has not yet been definitely established, there seems little doubt that it was the result of a bomb exploding in the baggage compartment under the cockpit.

In September 1983 when a Soviet warplane shot down a Korean Jumbo Jet, again with total loss of life, I pointed out that astrological monitoring could have forestalled the disaster (See Astrologers' Forum No.26). In the following Issue, Allan Johnson suggested that this was not possible in view of the enormous number of flights daily and the difficulty of identifying the particular flights that would be disastrous. He suggested that many flights would be started under bad auspices but be perfectly normal, and that it would be an "astrologers' nightmare" trying to pick out the one isolated flight that would result in disaster.

This may well be so, but nevertheless the effort should be made. One or more competent astrologers equipped with computers at major airports would learn how to distinguish the likely fatal flights from those that are judged safe enough, if not ideal.

A case in point is the distinction between the Jumbo Jet flight from Montreal on the 22nd of June (the one mentioned above that killed 329 people) and the Jumbo Jet flight from Vancouver on the same day, which narrowly escaped disaster - a bomb on board exploded after the Jet landed, killing two employees at Narita airport in Japan.

The Charts for both flights appear on page 2. They are computer-calculated from a Program supplied by Matrix Australia (Rudolf H. Smit, 12 Rockcliffe Street, Eltham, Vic. 3095). A comparison of the two Charts is illuminating: Map 1, for the flight which ended in tragedy, holds two obvious portents of disaster:

IN THIS ISSUE

Page

Two Jumbo Jet Flights - Disaster and Near-Disaster	1
Ingress Charts	2
More on Horse-Racing Charts	3
Israel Radix	4

(1) NEPTUNE CONJUNCT THE ASCENDANT (the aircraft) OPPOSITE THE SUN, ruling the "House of Death", and

(2) THE MOON (the passengers), in the House of Death, SQUARE SATURN, ruling the Ascendant (the aircraft).

Additionally, Pluto, the Destroyer, is Angular conjunct the Meridian; the Sun is conjunct Mars, Angular, and Uranus in the "House of Sorrows" occupies a similar degree to the Moon's Nodes. In Horary Astrology this is regarded as an indication of fatality.

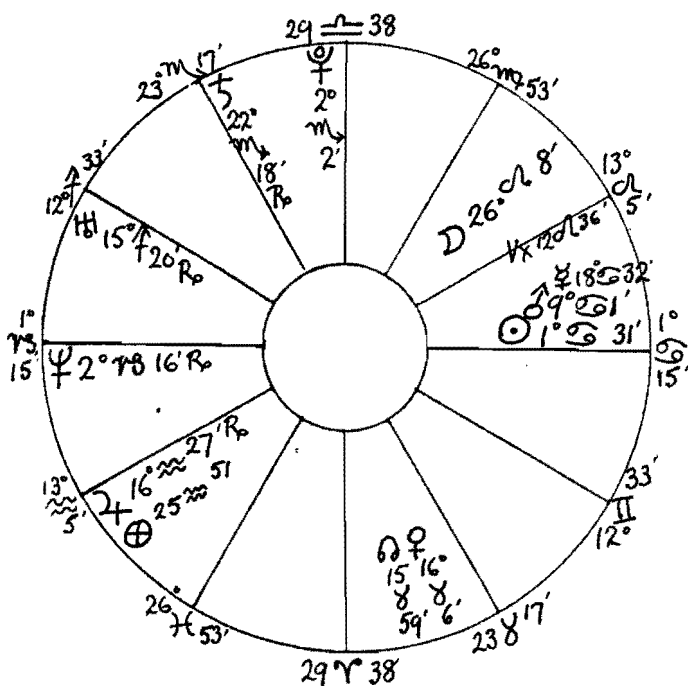

All this was a plain enough warning of a watery grave for the aircraft and its human complement.

Map 2, on the other hand is comparatively innocuous. The same aspects are present, but the Ascendant (vital indicator of the aircraft itself) is not implicated. In fact, the Ruler of the Ascendant is Venus, the "Minor Fortune", so-called. The Sun/Neptune opposition is separating from the Meridian (by the Earth's rotation), instead of applying to the Ascendant, as in Map 1. Moreover, Uranus does not now hold a similar degree to the fateful Nodes.

Apparently, these sorts of distinctions are going to be important in separating the highly dangerous from the less dangerous flight commencement times.

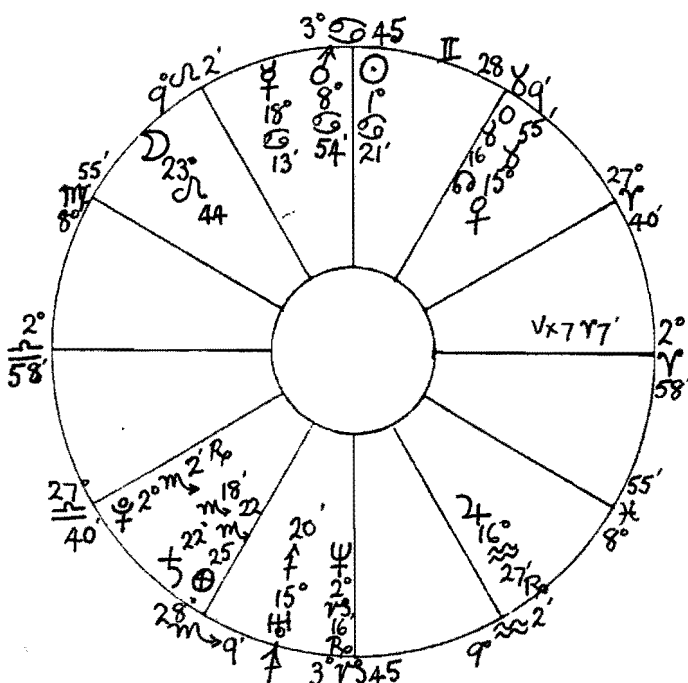

One must bear in mind that total destruction of the aircraft is not the only danger to be guarded against. Considering

JUMBO JET FLIGHT FROM MONTREAL ON 22ND JUNE
1985: DESTROYED 23RD JUNE AT UT 7H 15M AM

UT 0h 40m am, Montreal, Canada, 75 W 34, 45
N 32. Tropical Zodiac, Placidian Cusps.

JUMBO JET FLIGHT FROM VANCOUVER 22ND JUNE 1985

UT 20h 25m, Vancouver, 123 W 7, 49 N 14

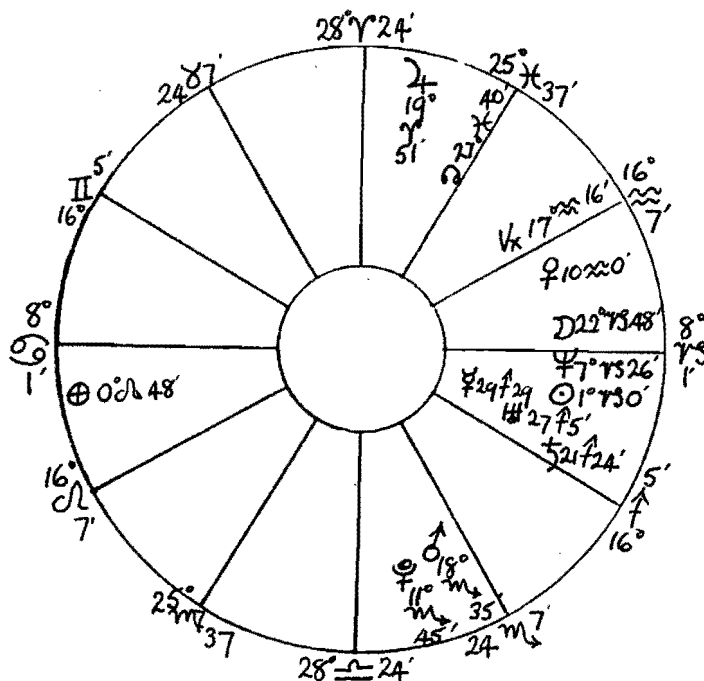

the prevalence of hi-jackings, mechanical failures, engine malfunctions, weather and topographical hazards, etc., the cost of maintaining computers manned by astrologers would be of little importance. No doubt, much public or private antipathy towards astrology would first have to be overcome but this could be achieved with sufficient positive evidence. - Dymock.

From ROSS HARVEY (NSW): I correctly forecast the result of the recent Greek Election. Though the result was known on the 3rd June the Cancer Ingress Chart was the relevant astrological indication. Baigent, Campion and Charles Harvey remark in their Mundane Astrology, page 251, that Ingress Charts seem to come into effect two or three weeks before the date of the Ingress, and that was certainly the case here (10h 45m UT, 21st June 1985, Athens, 23 E 46, 37 N 58. RAMC 94.592.) In this Chart, Pluto was conjunct the 2nd (Placidian) Cusp (0 dgs.56' above it in oblique ascension, calculated by the Placidus formulae given by De Luce), thus being in mundane trine to the MC. (The Government won.)

I have also calculated the Capricorn Ingress for Canberra for 1987 (9h 47m UT, 22/12/1987 - RAMC 26.306) which will be relevant for the next Federal Election provided it is held when it is due in early December.

CAPRICORN INGRESS, 22/12/1987, CANBERRA

Tropical Zodiac, Placidian Cusps

The only mundane feature in this Chart is Neptune, 7 Cap 26, opposite the Ascendant, 7 Can 42. (Neptune is 1 dg.26' below the Descendant in mundane distance.) From this and the preceding Libra Ingress Chart it seems that the Government will be soundly defeated in the next Election if it is held on time, which seems likely.

In the Aries Ingress for the Bradford tragedy (UT 16h 15m, 20/3/1985, RAMC 60.134 dgs.) the Sun is conjunct the 8th Placidus Cusp (29 Pis 57), and is square Neptune, 3 Cap 33, in the 4th. The 8th Koch Cusp was 7 Ari 8. This Chart is clearly relevant, but not dramatic enough to have enabled anyone to foretell the nature or extent of the disaster that occurred.

Following on our article on Charts for horse-racing (Astrologers' Forum No.45), LESLIE BLACK (Eng.) has submitted the following two Charts, (Tropical Zodiac, Placidus) illustrating again the power of Significators close to the cusps. Leslie's comments, and the names of all the starters, are appended:

THE EVER READY DERBY STAKES (THE BLUE RIBBON EVENT OF ENGLISH RACING)

Wednesday, 5th June 1985, 3:30 pm Summer Time, 2:30 pm GMT. Epsom, England, O W 16, 51 N 19.

The Starters, in Race Card Order

- 1 Damister
- 2 Lanfranco
- 3 Law Society
- 4 Main Reason
- 5 Petoski
- 6 Phardante
- 7 Reach
- 8 Royal Harmony
- 9 Seurat
- 10 Shadeed
- 11 Slip Anchor

- 12 Snow Plant
- 13 Supreme Leader
- 14 Theatrical

The first three placings were:

- 1-SLIP ANCHOR
- 2-LAW SOCIETY
- 3-DAMISTER

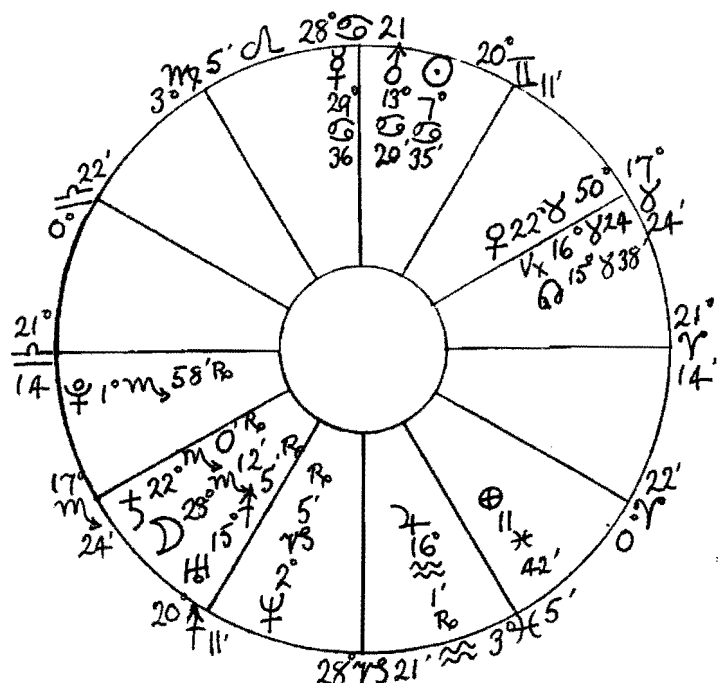

Leslie applied the rules I suggested in A.F. No. 45, and writes as follows: In this example the Chief Significator is MERCURY, which is applying by 23' to the Cusp of the 9th House, closely aided by the SUN, 2 dgs.32' from the Cusp.

As the 9th House governs travel, law and shipping, the most obvious choice would be SLIP ANCHOR, who duly won at a betting price of 5-2. Second was LAW SOCIETY at 7-1, and third, DAMISTER at 12-1.

Law could be eliminated [for first place] with the major emphasis on travel, due to Mercury, Gemini and Uranus in Sagittarius in the 3rd. SLIP ANCHOR is suggestive of motion and travel, like other maritime quotes "weigh anchor" and "anchor's away". The 9th House is the only one of the twelve that is related to shipping.

This example again endorses the superiority of Placidus with regard to cuspal measure.

THE VAN GEESE STAKES, 29TH JUNE, 1985, 2:30 PM B.S.T., NEWMARKET, ENGLAND

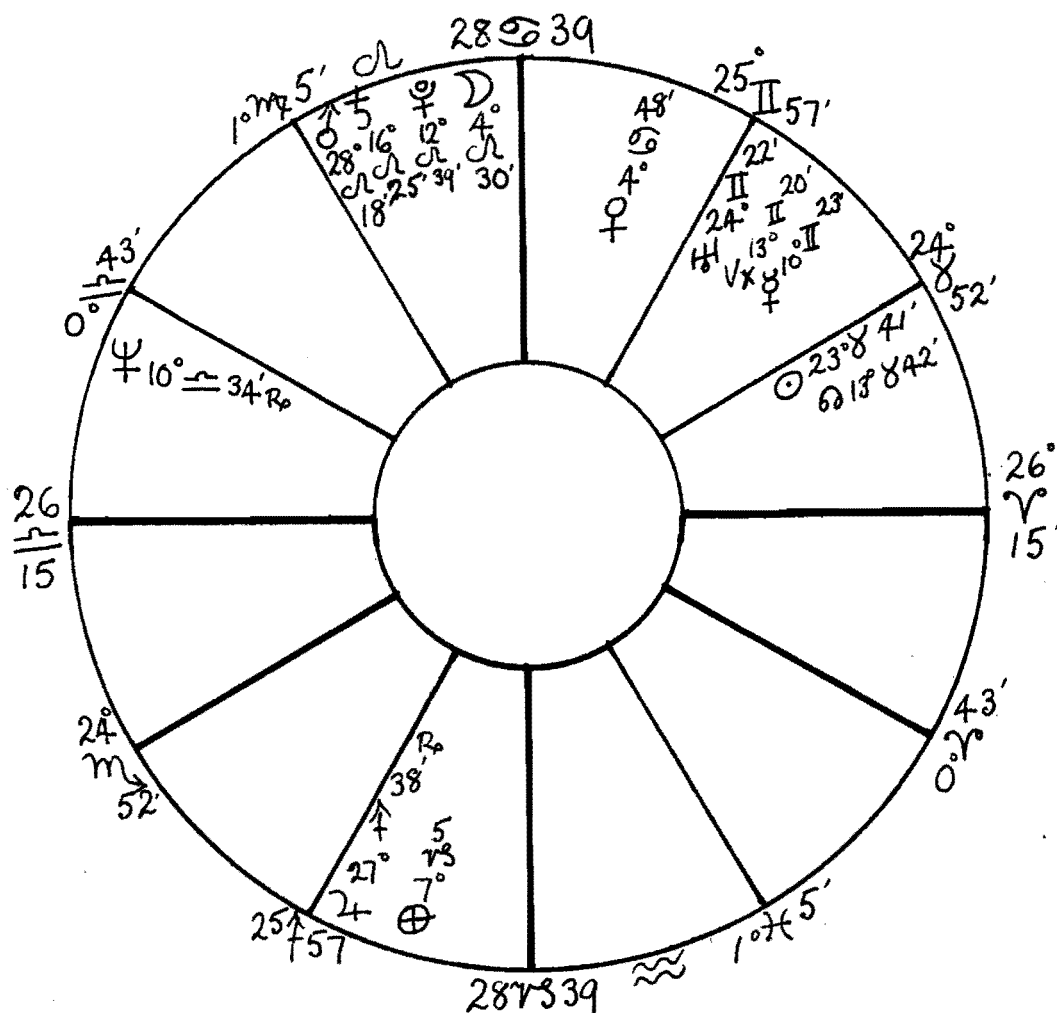

Starters:

- 1 Redmead
- 2 Capricorn Belle
- 3 Don Martino
- 4 Mahogany

RADIX OF ISRAEL

14th May 1948, UT 14H 15M 7S (TIME RECTIFIED BY ALEXANDER MARR)
TEL AVIV, 34 E 46, 32 N 4.

Tropical Zodiac, Topocentric Cusps

- 5 Minstrel Star
6 Swinging Rebel
7 Pennine Walk
8 Hadeer
9 Andrios
10 Field Hand
11 San Mercuriale
12 Lost Cause

The winner here was CAPRICORN BELLE, at 10-1, followed by REDMEAD (33-1) and PENNINE WALK (8-11, favourite).

Writes Leslie: Under the suggested rules, the Chief Significator is again MERCURY (in Cancer), applying by just over one degree to the 10th Cusp. But, surely, Capricorn could never really be a "belle" in her own right, as she is too plain, prim, proper and austere - but Mercury in CANCER in the home (10th House) of Capricorn can, as here we see the dominance of the Moon's influence - the young, elegant, handsome beauty (hence a "Belle").

Mercury being convertible also assumes the nature of the planets nearest to him - the Sun and Mars in Cancer, adding more Cancerian influence. Thus Mercury in Cancer is explicitly CAPRICORN BELLE, as with the Princess of Wales, born with the Sun and Mercury in Cancer.

Alexander rectified the above Chart of Israel with both Primary Directions and Secondary Progressions by reference to a series of important events in the history of Israel. The events and their dates are given below for the benefit of readers who may wish to do their own research:

- Attack on Egypt, 31st October 1956
The war criminal, Adolf Eichmann, caught, 29th May 1960
Eichmann executed, 31st May 1962
The Six Days Campaign, 5th June 1967
Terrorist slaughter of Israeli athletes at Munich, 5th
September 1972
Jom Kippur War, 6th October 1973
Death of President Ben Gurion, 1st December, 1973
Rescue of the hostages at Entebbe Airport, 4th July 1976
The Camp David Agreement (leading to peace with Egypt),
19th November 1977
Occupation of Lebanon, 15th March 1978

My kind regards to all. - Dymock, 19th July 1985.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785.
Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas - Airmail). Issue No. 47.

19th June 1985

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

The interesting astrological problem presented last month under the heading "ONE HOROSCOPE - TWO DESTINIES" has elicited two publishable responses, from different view points. They are both presented for the consideration of readers. The two Radical Charts in question appear on page 3 of last month's Astrologers' Forum.

From ELVA HOWSON (VIC.): The Astrological conundrum of twins has been debated time and time again, and while there seem to be many hypothetical explanations, the problem is far from solved. If we are to rely on karma, twin souls and split souls, likely as not it never will be. From the astrologer's view point, is not the natal chart a map of our POTENTIALS, the individual planetary contacts and placements being the framework within which we have some freedom of choice? None of us fully utilizes every potential to either the utmost positive or negative extreme; we tend to alternate or fluctuate between these potentials, mainly in response to experiences.

With 18 minutes between the births of Jan and Sue, there is quite an appreciable difference when cusps and their midpoints are considered. Above all there is 8 deg. 32' between the two girls' Vertex placements.

I have long waved the banner of the Vertex, hoping others would gain insight into what I have found to be a deeply interesting and highly significant placement, though not from the personality facet, because I sincerely believe the Vertex is experience, mainly in externalized manifestation.

If we accept (at least for the time being, until proven to be incorrect) that the Vertex is an avenue through which we experience and/or externalize our encounters with conditions, then Jan has many more natal planetary contacts through which to function (Vx sq. Moon, sext. Mercury, sq. Jupiter, sext. Saturn, semi-sext. Neptune, sq. Pluto). Sue has only one (Vx semisq. Mars, the Ascendant Ruler). Following this line of argument, we can see that for Jan there is wider planetary scope

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Responses to "One Horoscope - Two Destinies":
The Vertex as the Distinguishing Factor	1
Twins Distinguished by Harmonics	3
Cusps in High Latitudes	3
Ingress Charts and Political Elections	5
The Bradford and Brussels Football Tragedies	6

to externalize experiences that fall under the rulership or realms of the planets concerned.

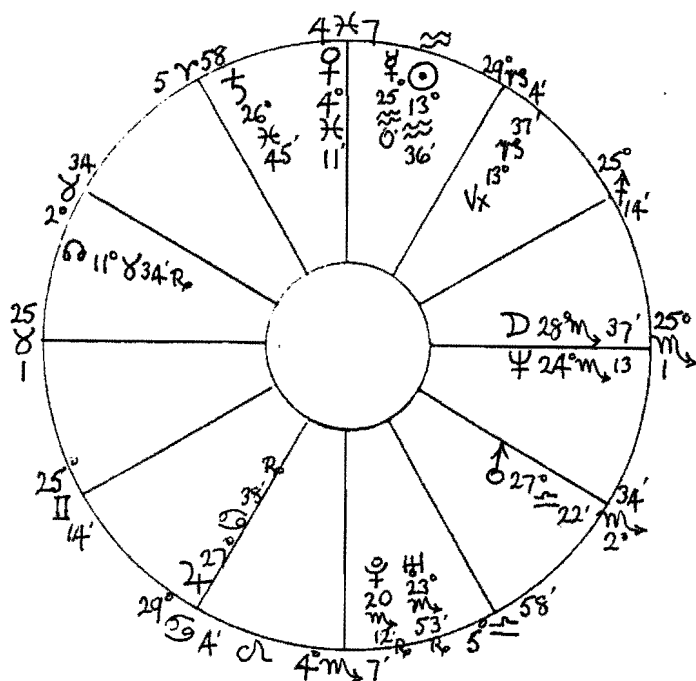

I have worked through all the years and their events in Jan's story. The Secondary Progressions, Solar-Arc, P.E.A. Directions, Solar Returns, Eclipse and Luration Charts - the methods I normally use - but it is the Vertex contacts that have the highest consistency in highlighting the events and individual reactions. It would take pages and pages to detail them all. Anyone sufficiently interested to try the exercise will soon see this makes a strong case for the Vertex point.

It is easily recognized that with 8 1/2 degrees variance in the Natal Vertex positions there is a much broader area for different transiting, progressed, Solar-Return planets, etc., to come into contact with each girl's Vertex. By the same token, their individual Solar Return Vertex will be in different degrees, therefore also making different contacts, and hence different reactions and personal experiences with what may be the same event.

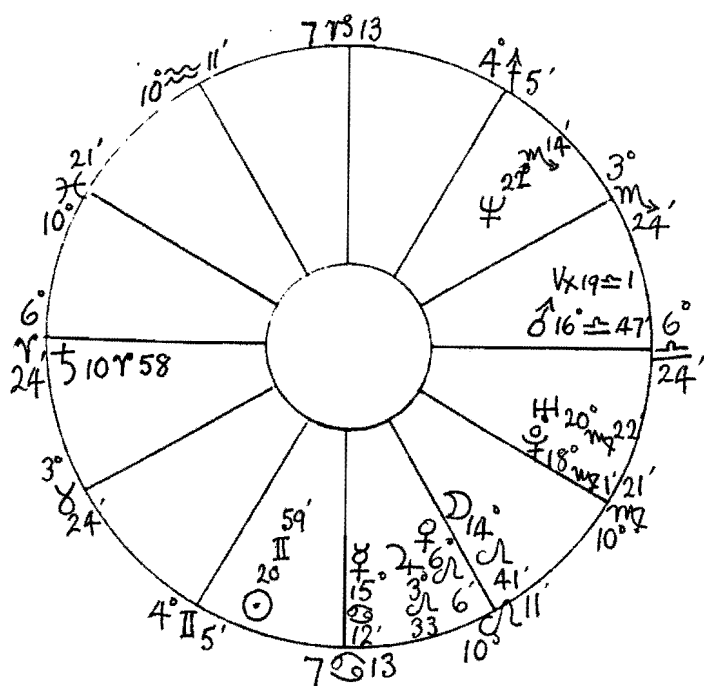

My enthusiasm for the Vertex is that it almost unfailingly contacts the planets that are the essence of the major event of the year, e.g., for Sue's suicide, death by poison, we need to see contacts with Neptune and Pluto. I find the superimposition of

JAN

SOLAR RETURN 3rd February 1967 at Chatswood,
NSW, 151 E 11, 33 S 48. UT 3h 28m 46s.
Placidus, Tropical Zodiac.

LUNAR RETURN 12th June 1967 at Melbourne, 145 E 00, 37 S 50. UT 15h 30m 21s.

the Solar Return over the Natal Chart is usually the most reliable source of indications for one's year, and in Sue's Solar Return for the year of her suicide, we see SR Vx quincunx Pluto, square Neptune, sextile 8th Natal Cusp, with Natal Vx conjunct SR Neptune, and Moon opposite ASC.

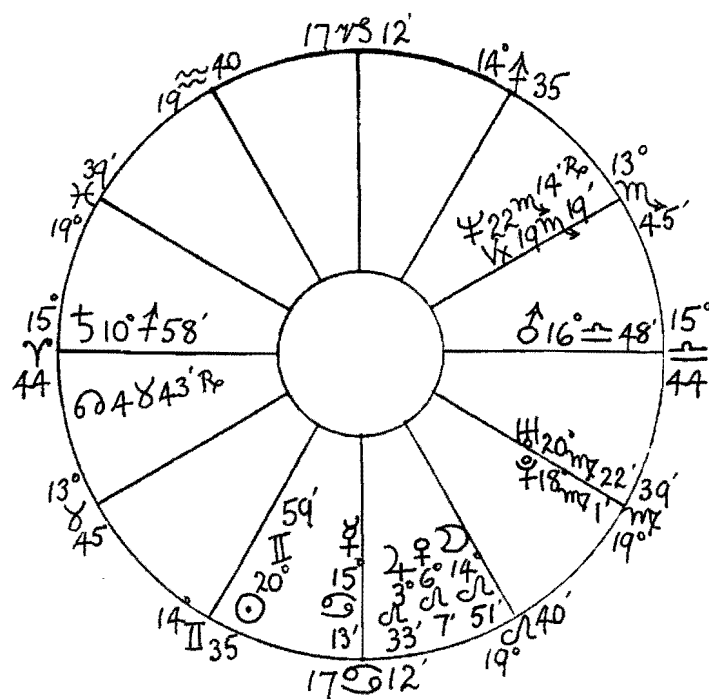

The Lunar Return for June shows LR Vx conjunct Natal 8th, square Pluto, quincunx Natal ASC, conjunct LR Neptune, sextile LR

SUE

SOLAR RETURN 3RD FEBRUARY 1967 at Chatswood.
UT 3h 46m 46s. Placidus, Tropical Zodiac.

LUNAR RETURN 12th June 1967 at Chatswood.
UT 15h 48m 44s.

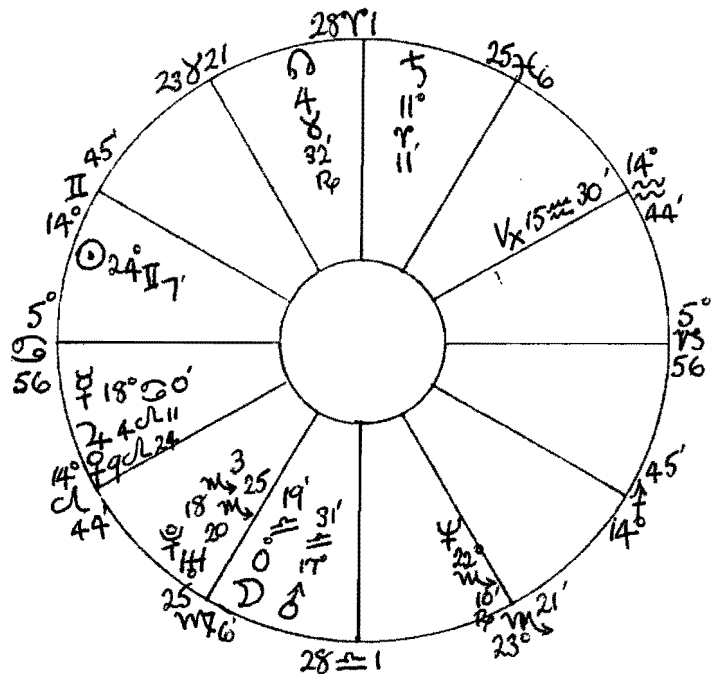

Pluto. On the Event Chart itself for 8:30 am, the Vx is square Neptune, with 10' orb. Naturally there are many other planetary contacts in the Charts showing the incidental background influences that provoked Sue to drink poison.

In Jan's Solar Return Chart, the SR Vx was quincunx Moon, quincunx 3RD, conjunct Natal MC, sextile Natal 8TH, and exactly semisquare SR Moon, with her N. Vx only sextile SR Pluto - an entirely different set of contacts, and yet in keeping with the unexpected death of her sister.

SUICIDE - EVENT CHART
16th June 1967 at Melbourne,
8:30 am local time.

Again erecting a chart for Melbourne for the time of Sue's death (Jan was resident in Melbourne) we find the Vx of that Chart opposite Natal Moon, sesquare Event Moon, and just sesquare Natal Uranus (orb 57' applying) - very possibly showing the shock soon to be suffered by her.

I hope I have shown in condensed form how important the Vertex can be in any chart, but also in differentiating between the experiences and reactions of twins.

From ROSS HARVEY (NSW): I have suggested before that the best way of distinguishing between closely timed births is in examining certain Harmonics, specifically the 13th, 16th, and perhaps also the 9th (See A.F. No. 31). By using these Harmonics one can differentiate between charts of people born only two minutes apart, so the Charts of Jan and Sue should present no problems. This indeed is the case.

As one would expect from their traumatic childhood, there are afflictions in both Charts in the 13th and 16th Harmonics, namely, 13th Harmonic: Mars, 16 Aqu 56, conjunct Sun r. and opposite Moon r.; Moon (11 Aqu 6 for Jan, and 13 Aqu 16 for Sue) square 13th H-Neptune (14 Tau 41).

16th Harmonic: Moon, 25 Pis 12

(for Jan, 27 Pis 52 for Sue) opposite 16th H-Saturn (23 Vir 52).

However Jan's Chart has two most important favourable indications in these Harmonics, specifically 13th H-Jupiter, 5 Leo 2, conjunct 13th H-MC, 5 Leo 35, and both opposite Venus r. (9 Aqu 10), appropriate both for her luck and her present prosperity. In the 16th Harmonic, Venus, 26 Sag 40, is conjunct the 16th H-MC (25 Sag 20), indicating her happier temperament.

Not only does Sue's Chart have no favourable indications in these Harmonics, but in the 13th Harmonic her Moon is within orbs of an opposition to Pluto r., which Jan's is not, and her 13th H-MC, 0 Lib 24, is square Uranus r. (1 Can 27) and conjunct the Radical Mars/Saturn midpoint (29 Vir 27). In the 16th Harmonic, the ASC, 3 Aqu 28, is square Pluto, 3 Tau 20, and the MC, 2 Pis 48, is opposite the Radical Saturn/Pluto midpoint (2 Vir 43), all appropriate for her more difficult nature and her tragic end.

I'm still not sure whether the Vertex is of any real significance, but for what it may be worth, in the 13th Harmonic Sue's Vertex, 17 Lib 32, is conjunct Neptune r. (17 Lib 17), and in the 16th Harmonic the Vertex, 7 Lib 44, is conjunct Mars r. (10 Lib 32).

It has only recently occurred to me to investigate the conjunctions and oppositions between Harmonic Angles and Radical Midpoints, but what I have seen so far is certainly encouraging, though of course one must be sure that the birth time is known with considerable accuracy, as it seems that an orb of little more than one degree should be used. A further example is in the 16th Harmonic of the Chart of my friend who was killed in a crash, where the MC, 28 Lib 48, is conjunct the Radical Saturn/Neptune midpoint (29 Lib 1).

For Jan and Sue, in the 9th Harmonic Jan has Moon, 12 Leo 18, conjunct ASC (16 Leo 39), both conjunct Moon r. and Pluto r., and opposite Sun r. and Jupiter r. Sue has ASC, 20 Vir 42, conjunct Saturn r. (18 Vir 22), and MC (7 Can 12) opposite Mars (4 Cap 48).

I have generally found the 9th Harmonic relevant, but less so than the 13th and 16th Harmonics, though in this case the distinction between the two Charts is quite clear.

Thus it can be seen from the Harmonics that the two Charts are far from being identical, despite the closeness of the birth times, and that their natives' different fates can be deduced from purely astrological methods, without our needing to have recourse to such dubious ideas as the Prenatal Epoch, or even more dubious occult explanations.

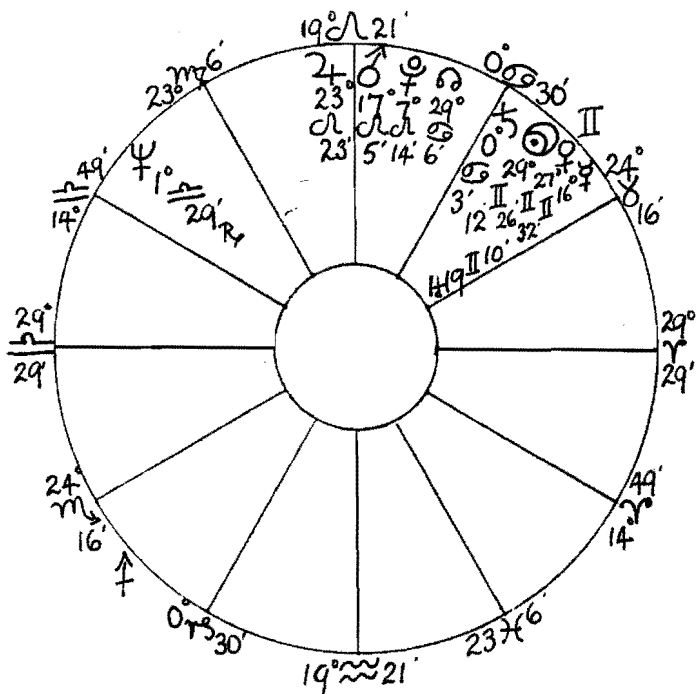

More From ROSS HARVEY:

CUSPS IN HIGH LATITUDES

I have drawn up a number of mundane charts for Iceland, which has the most northerly capital city of all, at 64 degs.10' North latitude. In charts drawn for this latitude, Topocentric cusps may differ from Placidus ones by several degrees, so Mundane charts for Iceland should give a good indication of the validity of Topocentric cusps.

The most significant political event in recent Icelandic history was the establishment of the Icelandic Parliament on 17th June 1944, thus marking the country's complete independence from Denmark. I give here the Chart for the New Moon that immediately followed. Its relevance is clear, with Mars and Jupiter conjunct the MC, and Venus, the Sun and Moon, and Saturn all conjunct the 9th Placidus Cusp (0 Can 30), in Zodiacal and mundane trine to the ASC. The 9th Topocentric Cusp (4 Can 5) was several degrees above this complex conjunction, to far to be relevant.

NEW MOON, REYKJAVIK, 20/6/1944, 17h 0m UT.
64 N 10, 22 W 0. Placidus, Tropical.

3rd Cusp, Topocentric: 4 Cap 5
Koch: 15 Sag 45
Regiomontanus 25 Sag 39

In mundane distance (i.e., with latitude considered) the orbs were as follows: Venus was 1 dg.46' below the 9th Placidus Cusp in proportional mundane distance (i.e., the 1/3 fraction of the S.A. converted to 30 degs. for the sake of comparison), but 5 degs.59' below the Topocentric 9th in oblique descension. Saturn was 1 dg.13' below the Placidus 9th Cusp in p.m.d., but 4 degs.24' below the Topocentric 9th in O.D. The Moon was 3 degs.21' below the Placidus 9th in p.m.d, but 5 degs.39' below the Topocentric 9th in O.D. The Sun was 0 degs.51' below the Placidus 9th in p.m.d. but 4 degs.46' below the Topocentric 9th in O.D.

The Placidus Cusp seems to me to be clearly superior. The Koch Cusp was, as is not infrequent, quite irrelevant. The Regiomontanus Cusp almost works, but I have quite a few cases where Regiomontanus cusps too are simply wrong.

In the Solar Eclipse preceding Independence (25th January 1944, 15h 25m GMT; RAMC 333.07087 degs.) the 2nd Placidus Cusp is 2 Leo 25 and the Eclipse at 4 Aqu 32°57", thus conjunct the Placidus 8th; the Topocentric 2nd Cusp is 0 Leo 53, thus no longer making the Eclipse conjunct the 8th Cusp.

Interestingly, Saturn at 20 Gem 18 is close to the 12th Regiomontanus Cusp at 24 Gem 2, and is, in fact, only 30' below it in proportional mundane distance. That Saturn on its own should be accented in a Chart for such an even seems wrong to me. I have now collected a number of such charts for high latitudes which suggest that Placidus cusps are superior to Topocentric. Indeed the only advantage of Topocentric may be its ease of calculation, though at modest latitudes the difference between the two is usually of little consequence except in Primary Directions to cusps in accurately-timed charts - and then one has to decide which system of Direction to use!

Ross is to be congratulated on his initiative and independent research into cusps at high latitudes. How much better to bring forward evidence like this than simply to state one's beliefs, based on personal prejudice. While at latitudes up to about 50 degs. North or South the difference between Topocentric and Placidus cusps is negligible for most purposes, the apparent superiority of Placidus Cusps at latitudes over 60 degs., as here demonstrated by Ross, does incline me to replace Topocentric with Placidus for use with Primary Directions. I shall await further evidence with great interest. The Koch method in my eyes is completely discredited - a delusive system that just doesn't stand up to investigation. It is unfortunate that so many astrologers have been misled by the propaganda for Koch, and invested their money in an inferior "Birthplace Tables of Houses", so-called.

I should like to draw attention here to another error perpetuated in many text books, whose authors apparently simply follow the mistakes of previous writers. I refer to the practice of accepting the cusps of the Houses as their boundaries, which they plainly are not: The cusps mark the positions of greatest potency in the House, but the boundaries lie elsewhere. The House limits are approximately one-third the mundane distance from a cusp to a previous one, and two-thirds the mundane distance to the following cusp. Calculation of this boundary (the weakest position for a planet, as regards that House) involves some trigonometry, but the same one-third and two-thirds proportions can be taken in Zodiacal longitude for an approximate result.

- Dymock.

Here are the two Ingress Charts referred to by Ross in last month's Astrologers' Forum:

INGRESS CHARTS AND POLITICAL ELECTIONS
LIBRA INGRESS, 22/9/1980, Washington,
77 W 1, 38 N 53. 21h 10m GMT.
 Topocentric Cusps

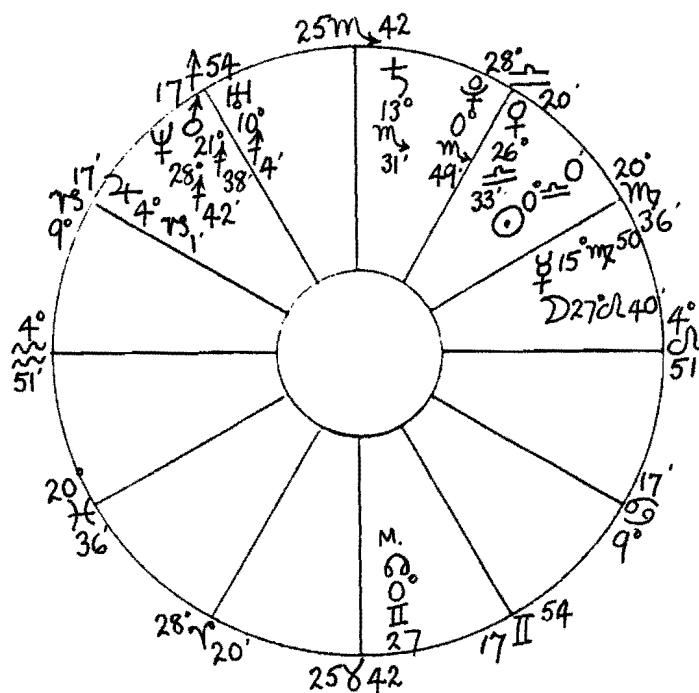

(Pluto is also square the Sun in the USA's National Chart.)

See Astrologers' Forum No. 46, page 4, for Ross's comments on these Charts. His further remarks are -

In the second Chart, the one preceding Reagan's landslide re-election, there are no indications with Koch cusps, but with Placidus/Topocentric the Venus/Pluto conjunction falls on the 9th Cusp (28 Lib 20), thus in mundane trine to the Ascendant (Koch 9th, 20 Lib 38). I've often noticed that it is the Zodiacal position of a planet which is important. In this Chart, Pluto is conjunct the 9th Cusp in longitude, but is 11 dgs.56' above it in mundane distance (i.e., if its latitude is taken into consideration).

LIBRA INGRESS, 22/9/1984, Washington, 20:34 UT.

If the appropriate Cardinal Ingresses for Canberra are examined, the Election results can be clearly seen: In the 1975 Libra Ingress (for the dismissal of the Whitlam Government), 15h 56m UT on 23/9/1975 at Canberra (149 E 8, 35 S 15), the MC, 2 Tau 11, is conjunct the Moon at 4 Tau 35, opposite Uranus at 0 Sco 49, and square Saturn at 0 Leo 35. Furthermore, Mars, 21 Gem 35, is conjunct the 12th Topocentric Cusp (19 Gem 24); i.e., Mars is in mundane trine to the 4th Cusp. It seems that the 1st and 10th Cusps may possibly relate to the government of the day, while the 4th and 7th cusps refer to the opposition. [This is standard textbook teaching. -Ed.]

In the Libra Ingress for 23rd September 1977, UT 3h 30m (when the Government was returned with a substantial majority), the Moon, 7 Aqu 42, is conjunct the ASC 5 Aqu 12, and Jupiter, 4 Can 35, is conjunct the 6th Placidus/Topocentric Cusp (Topoc. 4 Can 49), in mundane trine to the MC. The Koch 6th Cusp is 8 Can 5.

In the Cancer Ingress of 21/6/1980, UT 5h 48m, the MC, 23 Leo 23, is conjunct the mean North Node of the Moon (22 Leo 47) with no adverse indications, except Uranus, 22 Sco 8, square the MC.

In the Libra Ingress of the same year, just after the Election, the MC, 17 Can 5, is trine Mars (16 Sco 27), while the Sun Saturn conjunction, accented in the Chart for Washington on the 8th Cusp, is here cadent in the middle of the 12th House - a traditionally weak position. The Government was returned.

The Government was defeated in March 1983 by a large swing to the Labour Opposition. In the Capricorn Ingress of 22nd December 1982 (4h 39m UT), the MC 6 Aqu 54, was conjunct Mars (9 Aqu 19), and the ASC, 2 Tau 35, was opposite Saturn (2 Sco 9) and Pluto (29 Lib 3). Note that while Pluto is opposite the ASC in longitude its mundane position is 9 dgs.39' below the Descendant. Jupiter, 29 Sco 12, is here conjunct the 8th Cusp (1 Sag 19, Topoc.), a contradictory indication unless it is interpreted as favouring the Opposition (i.e., in mundane trine to the 4th Cusp).

In the Libra Ingress for 1987 (13h 46m UT on 23/9/1987), the ASC, 12 Gem 11, is opposite Saturn (15 Sag 31): the Moon, 5 Lib 7, Angular in the 4TH, is square Neptune (5 Cap 15) Angular in the 7TH, while Jupiter, 27 Ari 48, is conjunct the 11th Topoc. Cusp (26 Ari 58) which could be interpreted as favouring the Opposition. If the Federal Election is held on time, it will be in the last months of 1987, and in that period this Chart portends trouble for the Government, especially when it is noted that Saturn transits Bob Hawke's Sun in October.

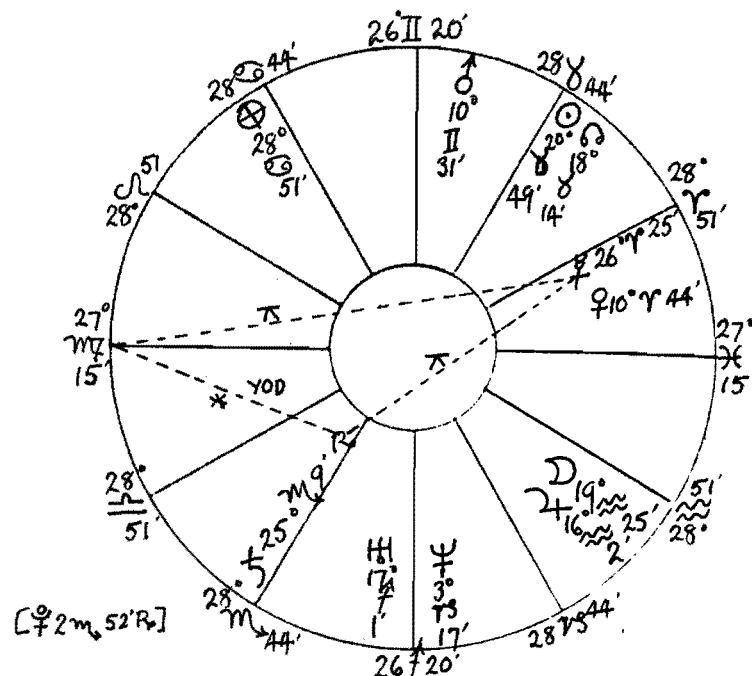

In these Charts I have used Topocentric Cusps for ease of calculation, and because at moderate latitudes the difference between Placidus and Topocentric is not significant except in Directions. However at high latitudes, those above 60 degrees, the difference may be a matter of several degrees. Unfortunately I have only one undoubtedly accurate chart for someone born at such a latitude, and in it, although Placidus is favoured, the results are inconclusive.

It seems to me that the only reliable way of deciding whether Placidus or Topocentric is superior would be to compare results in accurate Solar Returns and in Mundane Charts for high latitudes, e.g., in the Scandinavian countries. Perhaps in view of these Mundane Charts I shall try to find recent election results for Norway and Finland, and examine the relevant Ingress Charts. [Ross has already found one - for Iceland. See page 3. -Ed.]

From LESLIE BLACK (Eng.):

THE BRADFORD AND BRUSSELS FOOTBALL DISASTERS

BRADFORD, 11th May 1985, 3:44 pm
British Summer Time. 1 W 45, 53 N 47.
Porphyry Cusps, Tropical Zodiac.

The Quincunx aspect is a very potent influence in relation to fatality and death. The power of this aspect is demonstrated again in the Charts of the two recent British Football tragedies in which a total of 91 lives were lost. [Unfortunately we have to omit the Map for the European Cup Match (Liverpool v. Juventus), Brussels 29/5/1985, 6:32 pm local time, 5:32 pm UT; 4 E 21, 50 N 51. - Ed.]

In both Maps the Ruler is in the House of Death (8th), and quincunx to Saturn in the death Sign, Scorpio. In both Maps, too, there are double quincunx aspects from the Ascendant sectors.

The distinction between the two kinds of fatalities is clearly discernible in the Charts: The Fire Element in the Bradford Chart 8th House (deaths through burns), and the Air Element in the Brussels Chart 8th House (deaths through asphyxia, accelerated through crushing - Saturn).

[The double Quincunxes to which Leslie draws attention are perhaps better known as YODS, often referred to as fatalistic combinations. - Ed.]

Next month, more on horse-racing, including the 1985 English Derby.
My kind regards to all.

- Dymock,
19th June 1985.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785.

Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas - Airmail).

Issue No. 46.

19th May 1985

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

TWINS ONE HOROSCOPE - TWO DESTINIES

How do we differentiate astrologically between twins that are born at practically the same time but whose lives take a radically different course? What are the astrological explanations for the differences in their temperaments and fortunes? Here is something worthy of serious attention and investigation by astrologers, as it is not an infrequent phenomenon.

The following is a personal, first-hand account by a student-astrologer, whom we shall call "Jan", concerning herself and her twin sister who was born just 18 minutes after her. For the purposes of this article the twin sister is re-named "Sue".

Jan is happily married, reasonably affluent, and the mother of four fine healthy children. She is eagerly studying astrology with what spare time she has after looking after a husband, family and home. One could justly say that her life is happy and fulfilling.

Her twin sister, Sue, on the other hand, committed suicide at the age of 17.

The two Birth Charts, separated by only 18 minutes in time are reproduced on page 3. The planetary positions (taken to minutes of arc) are all the same with the exception of very small differences for the Moon and Venus. The greatest distinction is in the Cusps (Placidian) which show differences of about four degrees.

It follows also that the Midpoints will be identical, or nearly so, except for Midpoints involving the Angles.

Do we have to resort to fine differences in the Rising Degrees (down to minutes and seconds of arc) as some Indian astrologers are reputed to do? Do we have to look further back in time - to the date of conception, or even further back still?

These are questions I ask fellow astrological devotees to help resolve. Meantime, here is Jan's story, substantially in her own words:

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
One Horoscope - Two Destinies	1
Solar Returns and Natal Midpoints	64
Koch - Wrong Again	64
Amendment to Gorbachev's Chart	64

Sue and I were born on the 3rd of February 1950, at Wahroonga, N.S.W. Up to the age of six, when our father died, our lives were very happy. Our mother and father were always loving toward each other, and there was always harmony so far as I remember.

Our father died on the 17th of May 1956. Soon after, my sister and I were separated for the first time in our lives, after the death of our father's father. My brother and I stayed with family friends, who were wonderful to us, but my sister went to the place of a much older half-sister, who had two small children of her own.

Sue hated her stay there. She was put in a cot like a baby, which upset her terribly.

The following year our mother had to get a job, and although she finished earlier than most people she wasn't home until about 4:30 pm. I remember coming from school to an empty home, and I used to lie on my bed and cry and cry until mother came home. My brother and sister never seemed to mind so much. They would go down to the park and play or visit some friends.

My mother missed my father a great deal. She never seemed really happy after his death. Nobody actually told me that my father had died. I think I really wanted to hear it from my mother. So for some years I didn't want to believe what anybody else said, and I continued to look for him.

Once when I was about eight and our mother had taken us into the city to do some shopping I saw a man from the back who looked so much like my father that I followed him for some blocks. I remember feeling very excited that everyone else was wrong after all - that he was alive. Then the man turned enough for me to see all of his face. I just stood there very embarrassed, very sure that he must have known why I was following him. By this time I was totally lost and frightened. Eventually I found the rest of the family.

That night I told my mother what I had done. She told me that my father really was dead, and was so upset that she hadn't told me before.

After a few years life settled down more, but on the 27th of January 1960, when I was nearly ten, I was emotionally disturbed again when my grandmother died only a few hours after I saw her for the last time.

Mum wanted to move us to the lower North Shore. She had grown up on the North Shore and had more friends there. She also wanted us to have a home with a yard. So, on the 16th of December 1960, we moved into a sweet white house at Chatswood. Mum was offered a better job, which she liked.

We were all getting older, and my brother was getting too much for Mum. Sue and Mum started to fight a lot. I used to get very upset about this. Mum would sit up most of the night because she couldn't sleep. I often sat up with her to keep her company.

On 12th March 1962, when Sue and I were twelve, Mum died, at the age of 45 years, a month after her birthday. There had been an upset that Saturday morning: Mum needed help with the washing and lawns, etc., and asked us all to help. My brother had already made his own arrangements for the whole day, and wasn't about to change them. Sue and I were to go swimming at a local pool with some boys we knew, and she was determined that she was going anyway. In the end, seeing how upset Mum was, I said I would stay and help her, which I did.

Just after 9 o'clock in the morning I came into the house to ask a question about the washing that I was doing, when I found Mum on her bed not feeling well. She asked for a drink. By the time I got back to her room with some water she didn't know who I was. I was very frightened. I didn't know what to do, so I phoned my aunt, my mother's sister (the one I lived with later).

I told her that I thought Mum needed a doctor, as she seemed very sick. My aunt just told me that Mum would be all right, and that she would come over after she had done her shopping. Some time after 12:30 my aunt arrived. The time seemed an eternity. I so much wanted a doctor to come but I knew I would be in trouble, when my aunt had already told me it wasn't necessary.

By the time my aunt arrived Mum was having convulsions, and blood was coming out of her mouth. Although I had tried to look after Mum up till my aunt arrived I was then totally ignored and pushed into the background.

My aunt was annoyed that I hadn't finished doing the washing, and I was sent to do that while an ambulance came and took Mum to hospital. I never saw her again, and never slept in that house again.

My brother and Sue didn't seem very concerned about Mum being sick. When they got back she was in hospital. Once again we were not wanted around, so Sue and I stayed at a girl-friend's place, within walking distance of our home. Our brother (born on the 9th of July 1947) was taken up to Wahroonga to Mum's brother's place, and there he stayed until he was working.

Sue didn't seem very upset when Mum died, but I'm sure she was. She just couldn't show it; also I think she felt guilty for having gone out on the Saturday.

None of us children were allowed to go to Mum's funeral - we had to go to school the same day she died, as if nothing had happened. The funeral was held in the building opposite our school. I sat next to the window and saw the funeral procession go down the Highway at Chatswood. The teacher was cross at me for not paying attention in class. I just ran out and cried for the rest of the day.

In the afternoon I wanted to go back to our place, so Sue and I went back on our way to our girl friend's home. When we got there the house was full of people, friends and relatives, drinking, eating and laughing. I couldn't understand, and lost a lot of respect for adults after that.

Sue and I decided we would just stick together. We felt we weren't wanted there.

On the 11th of March, 1962, our brother was sent to Wahroonga to live with an aunt and uncle, while Sue and I had to live with our maiden aunt. Our aunt was not used to children, and there was a lot of inharmony.

Sue fought constantly with our aunt, physically as well as verbally. Once again I was trying to stop it. If sometimes I had done something that we knew I would get into trouble for Sue would want to take the blame. Even though I would say it was me, Sue wanted to be the one to stand up to our

To get away from things I applied for a nursing course in Boston USA, that had been advertised. I was accepted, and left by boat on the 20th of July 1968, going via Hong Kong, Vancouver, and San Francisco. I started the course on the 1st of September, and finished it two years later, when I returned to Sydney.

About the 8th of June 1968 I had met the man who later became my husband. On returning to Sydney I married him, on the 28th of November 1970. Our marriage has been a happy and fortunate one, despite my aunt's opposition, and we have four beautiful children.

Well, there you have it: Why, with almost identical Charts was Jan of happier temperament, and perhaps softer-natured, than Sue? Why was Jan luckier than Sue? Do we have to fall back on occult explanations (karma, and previous lives) and, if so, is there or isn't there a horoscopic correlation? Readers' comments are invited.

Apart from that, Jan's very human story is a fascinating one for any student of astrology. Whether professionals or not, genuine astrologers remain students of their subject all their days. What Jan writes about is reflected in her Birth Chart - the deaths of father, grandfather, mother and sister; the Virgoan aunt, who helped without love, the nursing course, the travel, the happy marriage, the (now) very fortunate circumstances, and the four beautiful children.

But why was it so different for Sue?

From ROSS HARVEY (NSW):

SOLAR RETURNS AND NATAL MIDPOINTS

Regarding my friend who was killed in an accident [see Astrologers' Forum No. 44 - Ed.] I've since noticed that the Ascendant of her Solar Return, 4 Can 44, was conjunct the Radical Mars/Pluto midpoint at 4 Can 18. I've also noticed that when the Angles of my own Solar Returns have been conjunct or opposite Radical midpoints the effects have often been very marked. Thus, in my 1965 Solar Return (covering the period in which my father died) the MC was 21 Pi 3, only 2' from an opposition to the Radical Saturn/Neptune midpoint. In the 1978 Solar Return the ASC at 24 Can 21 was 7' from a conjunction with the Radical Venus/Pluto midpoint - foreshadowing the romance that followed.

KOCH CUSPS - WRONG AGAIN!

I completely agree with you about the worthlessness of Koch Cusps. I've recently been investigating the use of Ingress Charts in Mundane Astrology, and in particular their relevance to election results. Several such Charts have demonstrated not only their usefulness but also the clear superiority of Placidus/Topocentric Cusps over Koch ones. My preliminary observations are that if the Cardinal Ingress Chart for the Ingress just before the election is severely afflicted, the government of the day loses, and if there are strong positive aspects, it wins.

Here are two such Charts - the Libra Ingresses for Washington D.C. for 1980 and 1984. The former precedes Reagan's convincing defeat of the then Government, and the latter his re-election by a landslide. In the 1980 Chart note the MEAN South Lunar Node conjunct the ASC (traditionally an evil indication), Mars square the ASC, and the Sun conjunct Saturn. Venus conjunct the DSC was not of much help. The Significance of this Chart is that Saturn is conjunct the 8th Placidus/Topocentric Cusp (0 dgs.23' below the Placidus 8th in mundane distance), whereas the 8th Koch Cusp is at 23 Vir 53, conjunct Jupiter!. This is clearly completely wrong.

Incidentally, I have found that it is the MEAN Node that is astrologically significant, not the so-called "true one". [This agrees with Alexander Marr's findings. - Ed.]

[Reproduction of the two Ingress Charts mentioned by Ross, and his further comments, are held over until the next Issue. - Ed.]

GORBACHEV'S CHART - AMENDMENT

CHENGI-YI HUANG (USA) writes that the March 12 issues of Pravda and Izvestia of the USSR give the geographic coordinates of Gorbachev's birth place as 41 E 31, 45 N 51. This necessitates a slight alteration (significant as regards the MC) to the Cusps of the Chart given in Astrologers' Forum No. 45: The MC becomes 0 Sag 19, in lieu of 29 Sco 45, and the ASC 4 Aqu 59 in lieu of 4 Aqu 45.

JENIFER POMMERIN (WA) thanks all those who responded to her request for information on Transpluto and Chiron.

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock, 19th May 1985.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785.
Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas - Airmail). Issue No. 45.

19th April 1985

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

HORSE RACING - KOCH CUSPS?

For some years I have been convinced of the inadequacy of the Koch method of House Division, and abandoned it for the Placidian and Topocentric systems (which are almost identical). Horoscopes for horse races appear to be an infallible means of determining the power centres in each House of the chart, and these power centres are emphatically not the Koch Cusps. They are the TOPOCENTRIC/PLACIDEAN Cusps.

This was demonstrated forcibly to me through a series of essays into the gambling arena, utilizing the race charts to pick winners by symbology of the planets conjunct House cusps - any House cusp, not just the Angles. Relying on Koch brought me failures without exception, but the Placidian and Topocentric Cusps brought me winners.

I had considered the matter settled, and had bidden a permanent goodbye to Koch, until a few months ago when an astrologer friend sent me a recording of one Jane Wehrmann, who apparently uses her astrology for little else than horse-racing. She lectures widely on the subject, and enthusiastically advocates the use of Koch Cusps. This gave me pause. Had I, after all, been mistaken? I decided to try the Koch Cusps again - and they failed again. Here is the race, and the Chart (Map 1).

The Festival of Sydney Handicap, over 2000 metres, was run at Rosehill, N.S.W., on Saturday, January the 12th, 1985, at 3:25 pm Summer Time (2:25 pm E.S.T). The starters, in Race Book order, were:

- 1 BUNGARBY
- 2 TULSA KNIGHT
- 3 TEMERITY
- 4 CLAIM THE QUEST
- 5 ESSENTIAL
- 6 REUTER'S NEWS
- 7 THE COB
- 8 GALANAL
- 9 HARVEY'S JOY
- 10 EXPARTE
- 11 STAR KERRY

IN THIS ISSUE

Page

Horse Racing - Koch Cusps? 1

Mikhail S. Gorbachev:
A Speculative Chart
and supporting Lunar Charts 3

The only planets that I consider sufficiently strong in a race chart to denote winners are those within three degrees of a cusp (applying) or one degree separating. By applying I mean approaching the cusp by virtue of the Earth's rotation on its axis, not applying in the Zodiacal sense, in the order of the Signs. Thus in Map 1 (Placidus) the Sun is separating by two minutes of arc from the 9th Cusp; Jupiter is applying to the same Cusp by 2 dgs. 7'; the Moon is separating from the 5th Cusp by 32'.

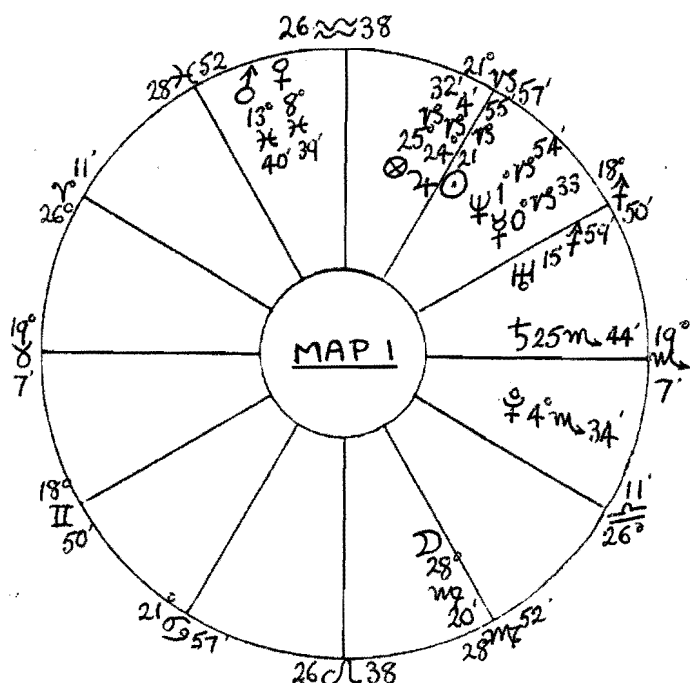

The Chief Significator in this Chart is obviously the Sun, in the House of Travel and Law. The Sign holding the Sun, Capricorn, is more indicative of law than of travel, and the diagnosis, LAW, is confirmed by the close conjunction of the planet Jupiter (law and authority). As if to emphasize the point, the Part of Fortune is conjunct Jupiter.

Now looking down the list of runners, one stands out as symbolised by the Sun conjunct Jupiter in the 9th House - EX PARTE - a well-known legal term. On the strength of this I backed Ex Parte, which duly won, and I received a dividend of $96 for my investment of $8.

The 9th Cusp for this race by the Koch system was 17 Cap 12, which put the Sun 4 dgs. 43' away, and outside the permissible range.

Over the past 40 years I have made intermittent forays into the field of gambling on horse races, guided by astrology, my first success being with the

Festival of Sydney Handicap, 1985

12th January 1985, 3:25pm, Rosehill NSW.

151° E 0, 33° S 50.

Melbourne Cup winner, Rainbird, in 1945. It was a thrill to have this horse come from behind and romp in at odds of 12 to 1. The Significator, I remember, was Mercury on the 9th Cusp. Since then, astrology has led me to other Melbourne Cup winners, as well as winners in many minor races. Just prior to last year's Melbourne Cup (for the benefit of overseas readers, this is a national event, the horse race with the biggest prize money in Australia) I demonstrated to a class of astrology students how the selection is made, put the Chart for the race on the blackboard, and proceeded to pick the horse, Chagemar. Chagemar ran second, which was a near miss.

I used Placidian Cusps, before I became acquainted with the Topocentric system devised by Wendel Polich and A.P. Nelson Page in the 1960's. The Koch cusps were given a trial, but I found that whenever they differed significantly from the Placidian they were a failure.

The propaganda effort behind the promotion of the Koch system is no doubt responsible for the following it still has. Apparently it remains in favour with some astrologers for no better reason than that others use it, and the relevant Tables of Houses are readily available. In my experience it continually fails in practice.

Gambling by astrology on horse-racing is not recommended as a money-making proposition - you will probably lose as much as you win - but it is splendid as a means of widening one's knowledge of planetary symbolism. A few hints, based on practical experience, for those who would like to try this method of self-education:

1. Try to get the exact geographic coordinates of the race course where the meeting is being held, and in casting the chart for a particular race time be precise with the cuspal positions (Placidian or Topocentric - nothing else). If you are not sure of your mathematics, get a computer-calculated chart.
2. Look for the planet (the Chief Significator) that is closest to a cusp, within three degrees applying or one degree separating, by diurnal rotation of the Earth - not by Zodiacal movement.
3. Remember that if the start of a race is delayed the position of the cusps may alter appreciably, so it is better to have the Significator applying to a cusp rather than separating.
4. Don't try for every race on the programme. Pick out the two or three main races of the day, and preferably those with not more than ten or twelve starters, which makes the task of selection easier.
5. Consider every horse in the race and judge which name is the closest match to the symbolism of the Chief Significator.
6. Having made your selection, check by reference to the tipping polls or form guides that the horse is capable of winning. However strong and clear the astrological indications a horse that is outclassed is no sort of betting proposition.
7. Back your selection by a dollar or two, however hesitant you feel. Not only will this sharpen your judgement wonderfully, as your money is at stake, but if the horse wins you get an incomparable thrill. If it loses, it's not going to lower your living standards, and it's no more than paying a small fee for a good astrology lesson. If you don't back your selection you will occasionally suffer the remorse of a missed opportunity when the horse wins and your careful work has gone for nothing. I know.
8. Conduct a post-mortem on all races where you lost, learning more about symbolism by hindsight. This way your monetary losses will be astrologically productive.

I'll be pleased to hear about the experiences of any readers who try this system. If of sufficient general interest they will be considered for publication. Submissions should particularize place, date and time of the race, and list all the runners and the place-getters with the TAB or starting prices.

- Dymock.

From C.Y. HUANG (USA):

MIKHAIL S. GORBACHEV
A Speculative Chart

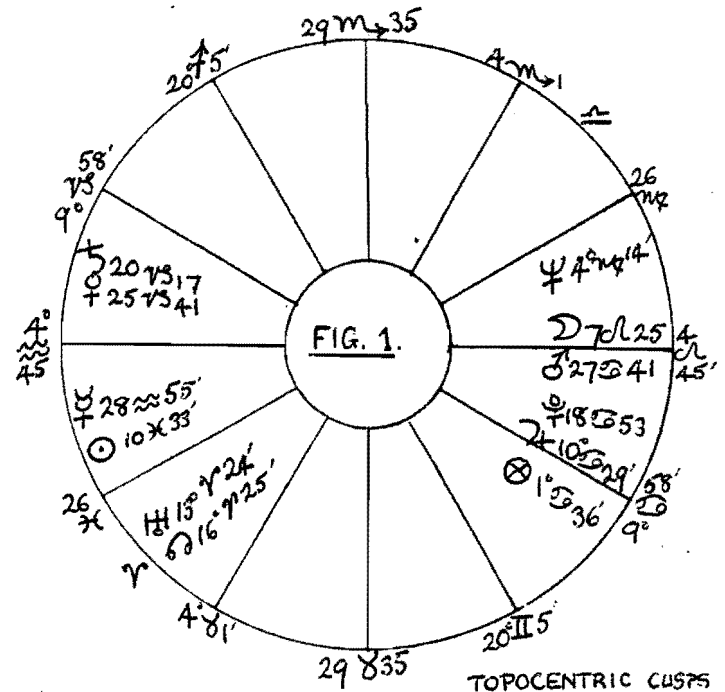

The Birth Chart of the new leader of the Soviet Union deserves the special attention of astrologers because Gorbachev, now in his fifties, has the opportunity to rule the Soviet Union through to the year 2000. According to news reports, Mikhail Sergeyevich Gorbachev was born on March 2, 1931, in the village of Privolnoye in Stavropol (41 E 59, 45 N 03) of the northern Caucasus. The birth time is unavailable. In this article I will attempt to rectify the Radix of Gorbachev without the information of the birth time by using all available astrological techniques.

My first step is to look for transits that can account for his ascent as the new Ruler. Certainly transiting benefics such as Jupiter and Venus in aspect to his Radix are possible indications. In mid-March, transiting Jupiter lingering at the seventh degree of Aquarius in opposition to his Radical Moon could be the answer. Checking the Ephemeris, his Natal Moon is in the range of 4 to 20 dgs. of Leo on March 2, 1931. Assuming his Natal Moon to be around the seventh degree of Leo, his calculated birth time would be around 2 am U.T. I then rectified the Radix of Gorbachev using 2 am as the starting point.

From several news reports I gathered the dates or the month of ten important events in his life for use in rectification. The results are very satisfactory, as we can see in the following list of Topocentric Primary Directions:

- (1) March 8, 1952, joined the Communist Party: ASC c. sextile Sun and opposite Jupiter; Venus semisextile Saturn.
- (2) October (15), 1980, became a full member of the Politburo: Jupiter c. sextile Mars; Mercury quincunx XI.
- (3) January 25, 1982, death of Mikhail Suslov: Saturn c. square Neptune.
- (4) November 10, 1982, death of Leonid Brezhnev: VIII sesquare Saturn: ASC c. trine Uranus
- (5) May (15), 1983, visited Canada: Jupiter c. trine Venus; Moon quincunx Uranus; Sun sextile Mars.
- (6) August (15), 1983, Yuri Andropov ill: Saturn quincunx Neptune.
- (7) February 9, 1984, death of Yuri Andropov: Uranus c. semisquare XI; Moon sesquare ASC.
- (8) April 11, 1984, delivered nominating speech for Chernenko as President. Part of

MIKHAIL S. GORBACHEV
March 2, 1931. 2h 25m 55s U.T., Stavropol,
41 E 59, 45 N 03

Fortune opposite Mercury; Jupiter c. semisquare VI.

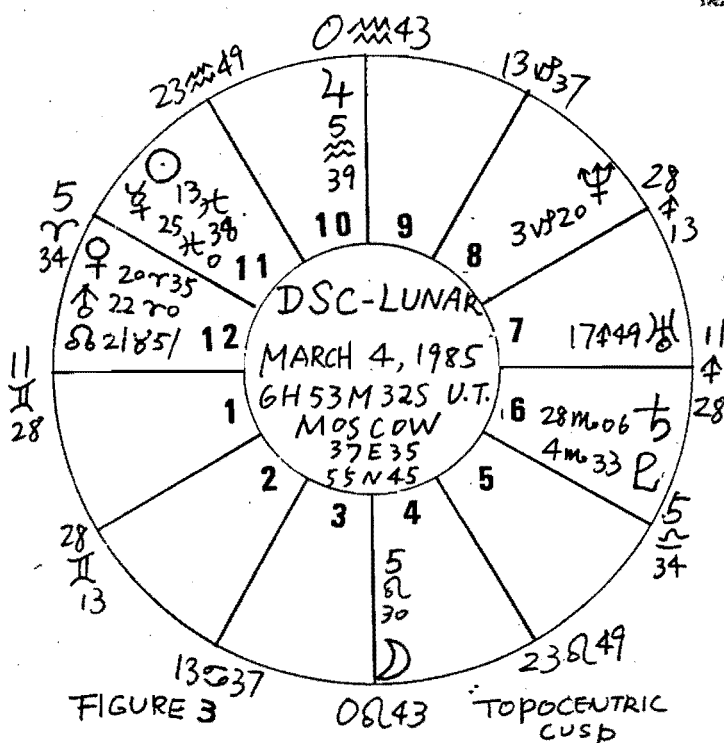

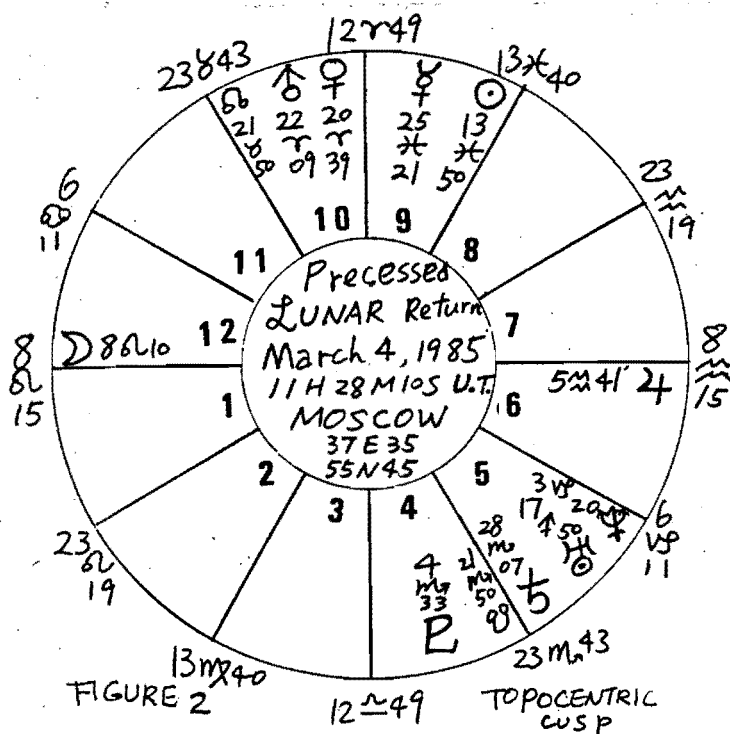

(9) December 20, 1984, visited England: death of Dmitry Ustinov. IX sextile Mercury: Mercury c. semisextile MC: Sun opposite MC; Mercury semisquare Jupiter: MC opposite Pluto: Mars square Moon: Uranus c. quincunx Neptune.

(10) March 11, 1985, elected General Secretary; death of Konstantin Chernenko: Venus sesquare MC; Sun semisextile ASC; ASC square Moon; Mercury trine Venus; Moon c. semisextile Pluto.

Particularly noteworthy are the events of his highly publicized trip to England and the funeral of Chernenko in the Red Square, which aroused world-wide attention. These two events are well-matched by several Primary Directions that mature simultaneously at the time. Based on the rectification, his birth time turns out to be 2:25:55 U.T. Figure 1 is the presumed Birth Chart of Mikhail Gorbachev.

My next step is to cast Cyclic Charts for the most important event - the death of Chernenko and his emergence as the new Leader on March 11, 1985. Cyclic Charts that do not display the character of the event should render the proposed Radix invalid.

Figure 2 is the precessed Lunar Return that occurred on March 4, 1985. Jupiter and the Moon straddle the Horizon and are in square to Pluto, symbolizing his succession as the Leader and the world spotlight focussing on him. The Midheaven at 12 Aries 49 is in conjunction with his Natal Uranus, 13 Aries 14. Figure 3 is the precessed Descendant-Lunar Return, calculated for the time the transiting Moon crossed the Descendant. The ASC-Lunar and DSC-Lunar Returns are a technique developed by Alexander Marr that is very useful for checking the correctness of rectified Angles. In this case the DSC-Lunar is cast because it is closer to the date of the event. In Figure 3, notice that Jupiter, Uranus and the Moon are close to the Angles, with Jupiter high near the Midheaven, which signals Gorbachev's rise to power.

The precessed Solar Return [not reproduced. - Ed.] is also indicative of the event: Saturn and the Descending Node are conjunct the Ascendant, which symbolizes the death of Chernenko and the funeral over which Gorbachev presided. The regressed Moon in the Chart in opposition to regressed Neptune matures on the day of the funeral (Moon 3 dgs. 32', Neptune 3 dgs. 17'). Solar Jupiter, 5 Aqu 09, and Pluto, 4 Sco 34, in aspect to his Radical Ascendant, 4 Aqu 45, characterize the succession and inheritance of leadership. Thus all the Cyclic Charts support the Radix I propose.

Finally, live television from Red Square in Moscow on the day of the funeral of Konstantin Chernenko offered us a rare opportunity for checking this Radix by Ascensional Transits. I was able to stopwatch the moment when Gorbachev delivered his eulogy for his deceased comrade at 10:02:15 U.T. on March 13, 1985. The Ascensional Transit: MDO TRANSITING

JUPITER, 73 dgs. 33' (Quadrant IV), ANTISCION RADICAL SATURN, 73 dgs. 37' (Quadrant I). The Radical Saturn symbolizing the mourning and eulogy is very suitable for the occasion. So the Ascensional Transit further supports the speculative Radix.

Little is known about Gorbachev the man. Examining Figure 11, Mercury in his First House semisquare Uranus may explain why he is a quick learner, bright and brisk-mannered. The Sun also in his First House semisquare Venus and trine Jupiter (orb only 4'!) explains the reports that he is a very fortunate man who ascends rapidly in the Party hierarchy through the help of powerful patrons and mentors. His Mars is equally impressive, being in mundane conjunction with the Descendant, with an orb of 15'. He is said to be a man of charisma, vigorous and tough.

I must emphasize the experimental nature of this Chart. Of course benefics aspecting one of the Angles may also account for the major event in mid-March, and serve as a starting point for rectification. A rectified Radix based on other assumptions is possible provided it can sustain the tests with Cyclic Charts and Ascensional Transits. The validity and reliability of the Radix of Gorbachev I proposed can be tested by the Solar Eclipse on May 19, 1985, at 28 Tau 50, which will fall on his I.C. Under the shadow of this Eclipse, Gorbachev may initiate some kind of campaign or reform, which will be difficult for him. Should this event really happen, this Natal Chart would be fully vindicated.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785.
Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas). Issue No. 44.

19th March 1985

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

RONALD REAGAN: AN ALTERNATIVE NATAL CHART

Mr. Cheng-yi Huang of California, USA, has been working since November 1984 on the rectification of President Ronald Reagan's Birth Chart. During this time he has had extensive correspondence on the matter with Alexander Marr of Germany, who has made helpful comments. The result of his investigations is presented below.

From C.Y. HUANG (USA): The Natal Chart of Mr. Ronald Reagan, the President of the United States of America, is of immense importance to all serious astrologers, not only because he is a celebrity, but also because of the Chart's practical interest. As President Reagan is a leader of the Western countries, his Chart may provide us with some clue to this political activities in the next four years - whether he will be successful in dealing with the nuclear disarmament talks with the Soviets, and whether he will be able to reduce the astronomical budget deficit at home. Astrologers who would not be satisfied with merely hindsight discussions should make predictions about Reagan and demonstrate to the sceptics that astrological prediction works.

Unfortunately, there is no consensus regarding Reagan's true birth time. Several times have been offered, mainly centring around 2:00 o'clock, both a.m. and p.m. (American Book of Charts by Lois Rodden, p.358). None can claim absolute infallibility. One a.m. version which was rectified by Mr. Alexander Marr, and offered with some predictions, was published in Astrologers' Forum No. 31. Upon Reagan's historic landslide victory in the U.S. Presidential Election in November 1984, I was disappointed to find that none of the cyclic charts such as Solar and Lunar Returns indicated such a phenomenon. Instead, they tended to point to the contrary. Therefore, I tried to find an alternative Natal Chart of Reagan using the 2 p.m. birth time as a starting point.

Using the Topocentric Primary Directions described in Mr. Marr's monumental book,

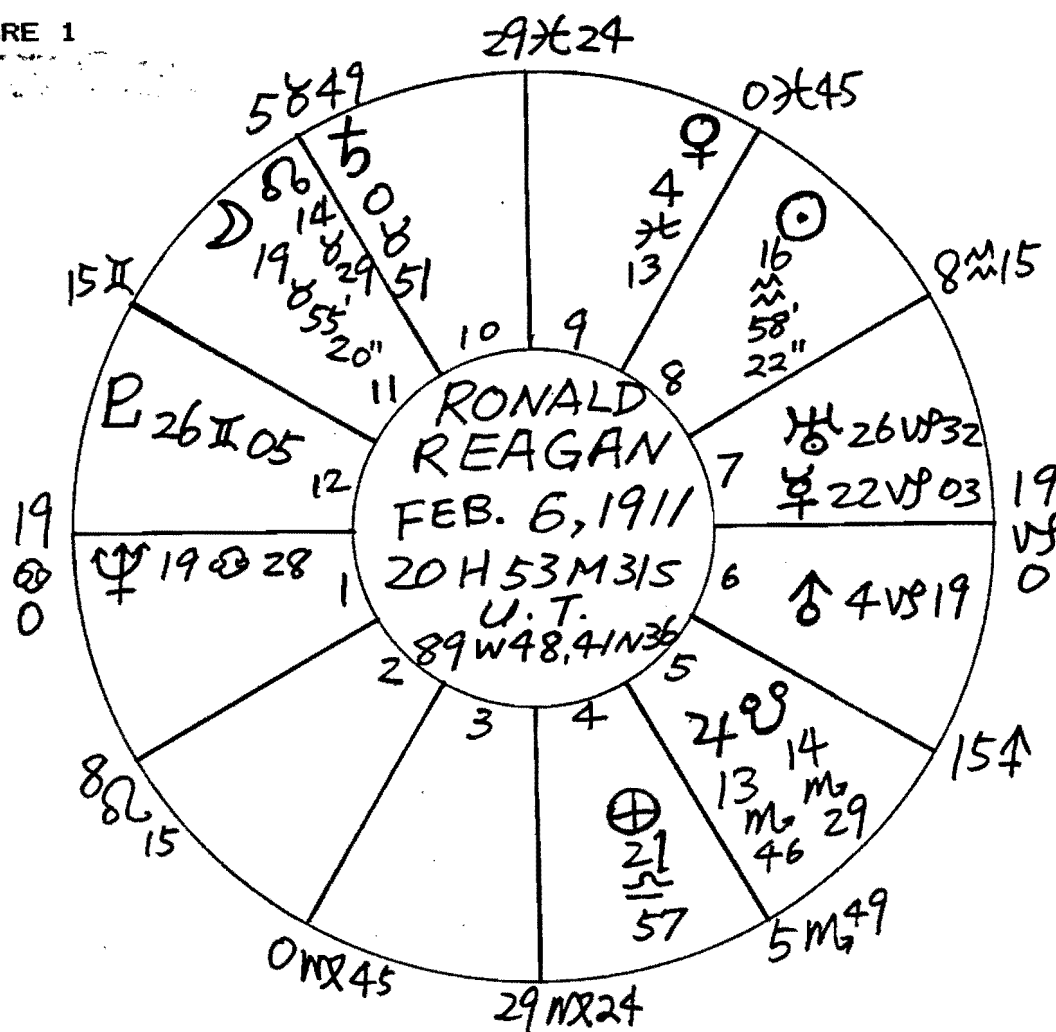

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Ronald Reagan: Alternative Natal Chart	1
NDO Equation	3
Car Crash Victim	5
Age Harmonics	7
New Predictions on Frank's Release	7,8
The Saturn Return	7
Transpluto and Chiron	8
Errata, Issue 43	7

Prediction II, I was able to rectify Reagan's Radix with over twenty events in his life. His rectified birth data is: February 6, 1911, 20:53:31 U.T. (2:55:31 p.m. CST) at 89 W 48, 41 N 36. Figure 1 is Reagan's rectified Natal Chart. I will not go into the detail of Radix interpretation. Suffice it to say that in this Chart Neptune, Mercury and Uranus near his ASC-DSC axis and in aspect to the Moon and Venus confirms his ability as a great communicator and popular actor who can mesmerize people through the mass-media. Jupiter, Saturn, the Moon's Node and Uranus in aspect to his Midheaven explains his changing career from a sportscaster to actor, television host, Governor, and finally the oldest President of the U.S.A.

In the following, I have listed some of the important events during Reagan's Presidency that are indicated by Primary Direction, and also used in rectification.

- (1) Nov. 5, 1980: Elected President. MC c. semisquare Venus; Jupiter c. semisext. Neptune.
- (2) March 30, 1981: Attempt on his life,

[illegible]

Born at Tampico, Illinois. Topocentric Cusps.

MC d. quincunx Jupiter; Mercury d. sextile Moon.

Firstly, by checking with lunation data.

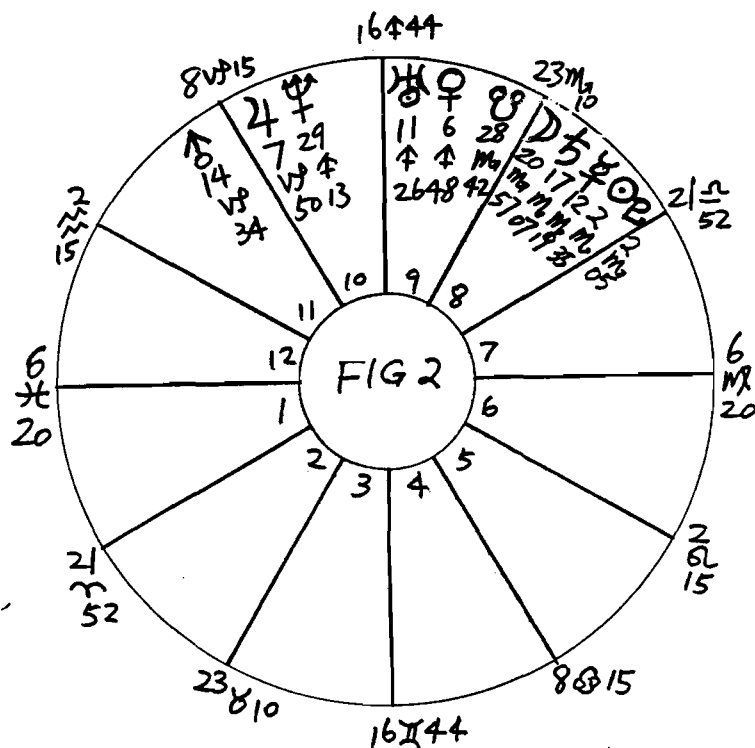

Thirdly, the most decisive test, by Ascensional Transit. The Ascensional Transit is a great discovery by A.P. Nelson-Page and V. Polich. They proved that for an event to happen, in addition to the

TABLE I. Some Lunations that Fall on Reagan's Angles and Moon

May 10, 1937	New Moon, 19 Tau 27, conjunct Moon r.
Event: Moved to California to start movie career at end of May 1937.
Jan 9, 1940	New Moon, 18 Cap 10, conjunct DSC.
Event: First marriage to Jane Wyman, on January 26, 1940.
Nov 12, 1947	Solar Eclipse, 19 Sco 36 opposite Moon r.
Event: Separated from wife for the first time on December 14, 1947.
May 9, 1948	Solar Eclipse, 18 Tau 22 conjunct Moon r.
Event: Wife sued in Court for divorce on June 28, 1948.
Sep 21, 1964	Full Moon, 28 Pis 45, conjunct MC
Event: Speeches and fund-raising for Goldwater, October 27, 1964.
Jan 10, 1967	New Moon, 19 Cap 49, conjunct DSC.
Event: Worked as Governor of California after Inauguration January 3, 1967.
Jan 11, 1971	Full Moon, 20 Can 40, conjunct ASC.
Event: Worked as Governor after Inauguration for second term.
Jul 11, 1976	Full Moon, 19 Cap 20, conjunct DSC.
Event: Defeated in Republican nomination, July 1976.
Jul 12, 1980	New Moon, 20 Can 04, conjunct ASC.
Event: Nominated as Presidential candidate, July 14, 1980.
Feb 4, 1981	Solar Eclipse, 16 Aqu 2, conjunct Sun r.
Mar 20, 1981	Full Moon, 29 Vir 56, conjunct IC.
Event: Assassination attempt on March 30, 1981.
Jan 9, 1982	Lunar Eclipse, 19 Can 14 conjunct ASC.
Event: Reagan released his Budget, February 6, 1982, which met strong opposition from Congress.
Sep 22, 1983	Full Moon, 28 Pis 42 conjunct MC.
Event: Started campaign for re-election, October 13, 1983.
Jul 13, 1984	Full Moon, 20 Cap 52, conjunct DSC.
Event: Nominated as Presidential candidate, August 20, 1984.

common Ecliptic transit, there must be an Ascensional Transit of a Radical factor by conjunction, opposition or antiscion. By timing several events of a native to the accuracy of a second, we can also rectify a Radix (see The Topocentric System by Polich, and Prediction II by Marr).

I have timed and obtained two such events of Reagan: On February 7, 1985, 2:06:06 U.T. at Washington D.C., Reagan delivered his annual speech to the Congress on the State of the Union. At this moment, Jupiter by Ascensional Transit was in antiscion relationship to Radical Venus:

Demi-Sidereal Lunar Return, October 25, 1984, UT 19h 52m 56s, at Washington D.C., 77 W 01, 38 N 53. Topocentric Cusps. Landslide victory in re-election, Nov 6, 1984.

MDO transiting Jupiter, 25dgs.42', Quadrant III, antiscion MDO Radical Venus, 25dgs.44', Quadrant IV.

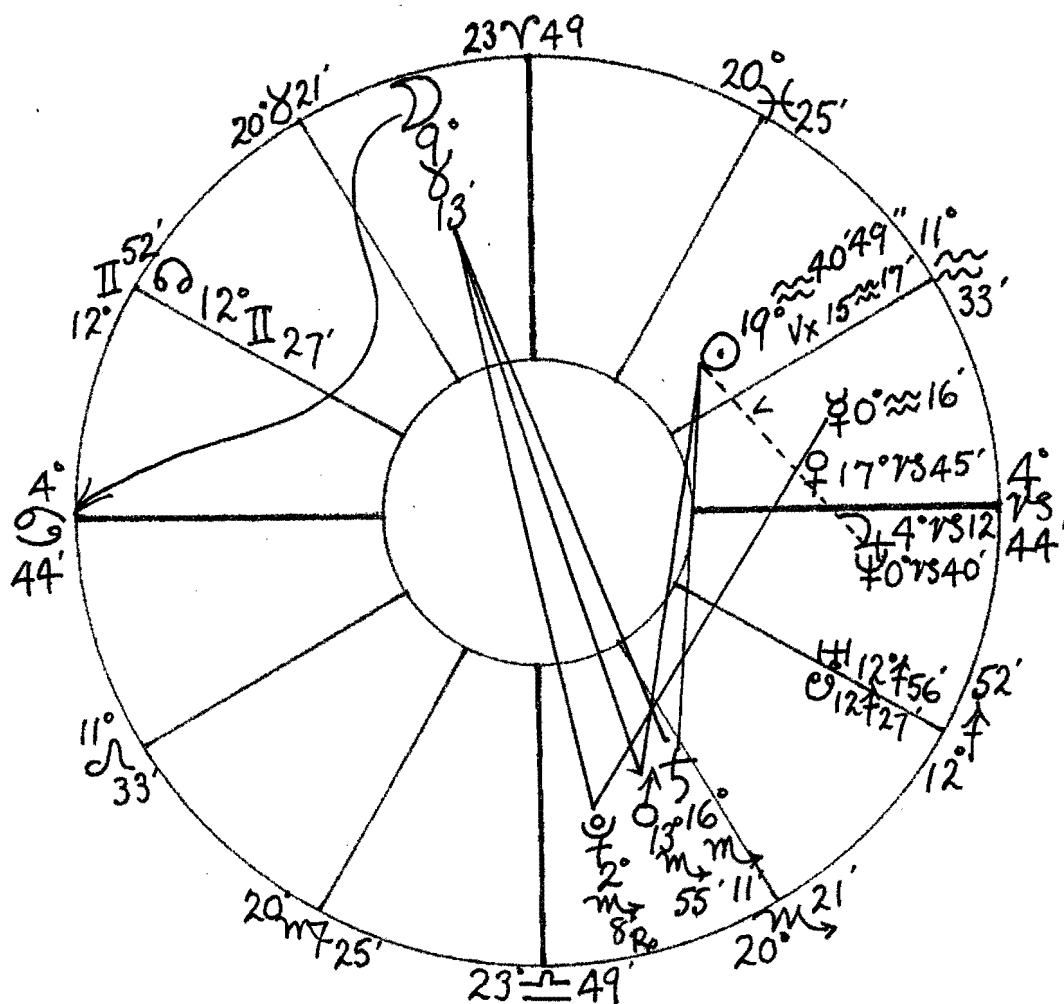

Another event occurred at 1:03:52 U.T., February 22, 1985, when Reagan held his press conference in the White House through live television. At the moment when the first question was asked by a reporter, the Ascensional Transit was MDO transiting Mars, 73dgs.48', Quadrant IV, antiscion MDO Radical Pluto 73dgs.50', Quadrant I.

Thus the final tests fully vindicated and consolidated this Natal Chart of Reagan which I present in Figure 1.

[Editor's Note: The formula for the MDO of a planet is 90dgs. multiplied by the planet's Meridian Distance divided by its Semiarc. $MDO = (MD/SA) \times 90$. The Quadrants mentioned here by Cheng-yi are those commonly used in Europe and the USA, starting with the quarter-circle from the MC to the ASC, and continuing counter-clockwise. The practice of astrologers in England has been to start with the quarter-circle from the ASC to the I.C. as Quadrant I, continuing also counter-clockwise. Thus, for example, Quadrant I of the European system is Quadrant IV of the English system.]

To exploit the usefulness of this Chart, I venture to make predictions on Reagan's life

MAP B

SOLAR RETURN, 9th February 1984, 4:9:23 pm Sydney. U.T. 6h 9m 23s am, 9th February. 151 E 10, 33 S 55. Topocentric Cusps dramatic. Cancer rises, and the Moon, as Ruler, is directly opposite the midpoint of Pluto and Saturn in the 4th House. Ebertin's interpretation for this configuration is "the tragic destiny of a woman". As though to emphasize the point, Mars also opposes the Moon from the same quarter. The Sun is in the House of Death, squared by both Saturn and Mars. Mercury, ruling the 3rd (roads, cars, etc.) is squared by Pluto from the 4th. Jupiter, though in its detriment, might have averted the worst outcome had it not been closely semisquare the Sun in the 8th House, and directly opposed to the Ascendant.

To the above catalogue of afflictions, Ross adds the following: "The Harmonic directions for the 56th year of life (she died only two weeks before her 56th birthday, and as I have mentioned before, there is not really a sharp cut-off between the Age Harmonic and the next - about a month's overlap seems to be valid) were most appropriate: Sun h. (22 Sag 16) was opposite Mars r. (21 Gem 54), and conjunct Venus, h. (26 Sag 24), and Saturn r. (27 Sag 24). The Moon h. was at 23 Gem 44, in aspect to the preceding positions, and Saturn h. at 23 Sco 4 was conjunct the Asc h. at 23 Sco 44. This last conjunction seems to confirm my earlier remark (I have referred to this Chart in an earlier Astrologers' Forum (No. 28) in connection with the Fifth Harmonic and its possible significance) that this Chart seems to be accurate for the given time."

Ross also examined the Prenatal and the Progressive Solar Returns. He judged the former the more relevant, having the Sun in the Fourth House closely square stationary Pluto in the Sixth, and the Moon, Ruler of the Ninth, in the Twelfth, square Uranus Ruler of Fourth, in the Ninth. The Progressive S.R. had the Sun, ruling the Ascendant, in the Eighth square Jupiter Ruler of Fourth, and stationary Mars, Ruler of Eighth square the Ascendant, though the orbs were wider than in the Prenatal Solar Return.

From ROSS HARVEY (NSW):

AGE HARMONICS

It seems to me that if Cheng-yi finds the Tropical Age Harmonics unsatisfactory, it is because he has neglected to calculate the harmonic positions of the Angles. That the Radical Angles may often be only approximately known, and thus be unsatisfactory for use in harmonics, should not preclude our using them when they are accurately known. In the example he quotes (John Addey's death), if we assume that the given Angles are correct, the 61st harmonic of the MC is at 8 Pis 27, close to a conjunction with Neptune h. and to an opposition of Saturn h.

Unfortunately I know nothing of John Addey's life, and so cannot check the harmonic positions of these Angles for other events, but the Saturn/Neptune/Angle combination is one I have seen several times in cases of death, and this leads me to suspect that the given time is correct.

I have not yet had time to conduct anything like an extensive investigation of Sidereal Age Harmonics, but when they were calculated for a number of significant years in my own life, the results in general were less impressive than the Tropical version, which I find quite satisfactory provided the Angles are calculated.

I was interested to see that Cheng-yi uses an orb of five degrees on either side of an Angle, the same as that I have arrived at for Tropical Age Harmonics.

FRANK'S RELEASE

It seems to me to be likely that Frank will be released in early 1986, when the Topocentric Primary Direction Jupiter d. square Sun will be exact on the 7th of February, and the 13th harmonic (5 Aqu 47) of stationary Pluto on the 8th of February will be conjunct both the Ascendant (rectified) h.13, and the MC (rectified) h.13. The Age Harmonic for 44 years has Jupiter at 29 Vir 16, conjunct Sun r., Sun 28 Sco 20 opposite Uranus r., and MC at 0 Leo 6 conjunct Pluto. There is also Neptune (12 Vir 0) conjunct MC r., of which I do not know the significance.

The possibility of his release in July 1985 seems unlikely, as the 13th harmonic of transiting stationary Saturn (9 Leo 5) is opposite the 13th harmonics of both his ASC and MC (rectified).

ERRATA (In the last Issue): Frank's Certification for Naturopathy is dated 17th July 1984, not November (p. 8).

In my analysis of Joanna Ashmun's Challenge (p. 8) the aspect Jupiter sesquare Rad. Saturn was a Topocentric Primary Direction (not a transit). - Dymock.

From LESLIE BLACK (ENG):

THE SATURN RETURN

Concerning the Saturn Return of Mrs. Thatcher (Astrologers' Forum No. 43, p. 5), Alexander Marr is incorrect in saying that the method applied is my invention, as many leading astrologers past and present have adopted the same technique. His remarks must not be taken too seriously, as there is nothing in the procedure that contravenes any astrological rules whatsoever, or would misguide any beginner or newcomer to the Science.

Planetary Cycle Charts, as well as Superimposed Return Charts, are identical so far as the planetary positions are concerned; only the Cyclic Chart takes into account newly-formed Angles and changes in House position of the appropriate Return body under review. But it is hopelessly inadequate on its own and complicates the whole interpretation needlessly.

A fundamental canon of astrological procedure is the consideration of the Natal Chart as basic, and the calculation and interpretation of future indications as subservient to its testimony. Although Mr. Marr may claim the validity of a Planetary Cycle Chart as consolidating the rectification of Ronald Reagan's Birth Chart, any future indications of Reagan's attaining the Presidency would not be valid if the Radical Chart did not testify to the possibility of such an event taking place.

From JENIFER POMMERIN (WA):

FRANK'S RELEASE

May and June, 1985 do appear important months for Frank. The Topocentric Primary Direction dates and planetary aspects (Birth Chart slightly rectified by T.P.D.'s) are as follows:

6th May, MC square Chiron (Ruler of Frank's 10th House)

14th May, Neptune opposite Jupiter (R. 4th, opp.R. 12th)

15th June, Vertex conjunct Moon (personal encounter)

18th June, ASC opp. Saturn (self-establishment in a project)

23rd June, ASC enters the Sign of Scorpio (planets or points entering a different Sign either by Converse or Direct motion are are sometimes a good indication of a change in direction, attitudes, etc.)

Transits for the two months are quite powerful as the outer planets are all in close aspect to Natal Venus (Jupiter and Uranus); or Uranus (Saturn); or the ASC (Neptune)...and the transits are all retrograde.

The prevailing retrograde influence might have a delaying effect in regard to the date set for release. Possibly the above indications refer more to consultations, plans, encounters or even a renewal of a close relationship.

Perhaps freedom could be expected on the 11th October 1985, when by TPD's the ASC is opposite Jupiter. On the 28th the Sun is opposite the Vertex. Neptune transits the ASC by the end of November. In the first two months of 1986 it squares the Natal Sun and opposes the Natal Moon. This major influence continues throughout 1986 - and uncertainty, confusion, even a "spaced-out" feeling would be normal for the first year of self-adjustment.

Frank anticipates some problems with the transition, and the Primary Directions of Saturn square Sun in December, Chiron square Saturn and Pluto square Mars in February, plus ASC opposite Saturn in June, could represent the challenges ahead. Yet Venus, his Sun-Sign Ruler, comes "home" (TPD) to Libra on 1/1/1986. Despite his forebodings, Frank will probably experience this sort of feeling in his new life.

My own prediction of Frank's release date is 22nd June 1986. I base this on

(1) Frank's Precessed Solar Return of 25th September 1985 - the most favourable Annual Chart of the near future.

(2) The Primary Direction Jupiter trine the ASC, 25/6/1986, in the said Chart.

(3) The Full Moon on 22nd June 1986, 0 Cap 27 - 0 Cap 27, which lies across the Horizon of Frank's Natal Chart.

It is noteworthy that when Frank was shot and arrested on 3rd February 1978, the previous Full Moon on 24th January 1978 at 3 Leo 59 coincided exactly with the position of his Natal Pluto in the 8th House, ruling the 12th. Further, Pluto is in sesquare aspect (135 dgs.) to the Rising Degree.

- Dymock.

TRANSPLUTO AND CHIRON

There have been several responses to Jenifer Pommerin's request for information about the above two bodies.

THOMAS ZIMMER (QLD) sends this information extracted from The Path that You Should Go

(Inspired Astrology) and Esoteric Astrology, both by Imre Vallyon, "an enlightened teacher who speaks from the level of Inspiration, not research in the ordinary sense of the word":

CHIRON - proper symbol, ♄. Rulership, Virgo, being a higher octave of Mercury. Detriment, Pisces. Exaltation, Sagittarius. Fall, Gemini. Associated body part, the brain. Essential quality, "the moment of Enlightenment", "I see!", "Zen Perception". "The Chiron Factor is the energy of the guru, the Buddha-field, whereby enlightenment becomes possible. Associated with spiritual healing, the guru's force teaching the dawning of a higher consciousness."

Thomas continues, "There are no practical examples given for using this planet in chart interpretation. I suspect a good starting point would be people with Virgo rising who were obviously vibrating on a higher octave than your average public servant. In such cases you might look at transits of, or transits, to, Chiron."

ROD and COLLEEN BRANDT (QLD), managers of Aquarian Book Distributors Pty. Ltd., Ulster Walk, Cnr. Elizabeth and Edward Sts., Brisbane (Tel. 221 1647), recommend the following titles:

TRANSPLUTO, or Should We Call Him Bacchus, the Ruler of Taurus by John Robert Hawkins ($11.95), containing a 200-year Ephemeris and listing the basic meanings and those of all the possible midpoints.

Chiron Ephemeris 1890 - 2000 ($10.95)

Chiron, The New Planet in Your Horoscope: The Key to Your Quest by Richard Nolle ($18.50), an informative book covering the history of the mythology of the Centaur Chief and the meanings in the Signs and Houses.

Interpreting Chiron by Zane Stein ($9.50) - just arrived, not checked out but looks good.

The Continuing Discovery of Chiron by Lantero is expected by the end of the month.

Subscribers to Astrologers' Forum may purchase from the Brisbane showroom at a 10% discount, plus postage.

STANLEY WALTERS (VIC) has lent Jenifer the first book listed above.

I ask the indulgence of any readers who have written to me and not yet received replies. Replies will be forthcoming, but pressure of work has prevented my being as prompt as I should like. My kind regards to all.

- Dymock,

19th March 1985.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785.
Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas). Issue No. 43.

19th February 1985

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

The controversy regarding the use of unconventional techniques in astrology, particularly prenatal techniques, has sparked a good deal of interest. At this date (14th February) I may not have received all the correspondence relating to it, due to further industrial trouble in Sydney mail-clearance depots, but opinion so far is divided between acceptance and non-acceptance. The view has also been presented that these techniques are already so well proven that it is a waste of time and space to continue discussing them. I think, however, that a majority of astrologers, including many readers of Astrologers' Forum, are either not aware of the techniques in question or, if they are, want to see the evidence and read the contrasting views so that they can make an informed decision.

The following letter deals with arguments contra.

From ALLAN JOHNSON (NSW): I would certainly add my voice to Rudolf Smit's in protesting against converse transits and converse Solar Returns. There are a number of good reasons for this. First, astrology already has a surfeit of this sort of research. We could have converse Solar-Arcs, and then someone could come up with the idea of multiplying the units. What is to stop us having two days for a year in Progressions? Then why not have five days for a year? And so on and so on. It gives endless scope for people with a lot of time on their hands, but in my opinion it is a dead-end street. Of course all these techniques can be made to "work" after the event because we are lining them up with a large number of sensitive points in a chart. If this were not the case and we used them on a more restricted level, we could then end up with repeat information we would get from normally established techniques. I think the major consideration in all this is the very great difference in lining things up after the event as against actual predictive work. The first is very easy, which is why a lot of people are attracted into doing it, but the second is not. You

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Contra Converse Techniques and Post-Event Analysis	1
Reply to the above	2
Planetary Cycles	3
More on the Bhopal Disaster	4
Age Harmonics: Tropical or Sidereal?	5
Joanna Ashmun's Challenge in Retrospect	8
News from "Frank"	8
Last Month's Rectification Exercise	8
Information wanted on Transpluto and Chiron	8

can't line things up very neatly after the event and then turn things round and use the same method for prediction. The reason for this is that in "after-the-event" astrology you can use as many factors in the chart as you like. In fact the more you use the easier it is to do. But the reverse situation obtains in predictive work. Here you have to narrow the field down. It is not possible to handle too many factors simultaneously and come up with any clear conclusions. So any astrologer who wants to be successful in prediction is forced to apply something of a "bare bones" approach. That is why in my previous article I suggested discarding minor aspects in transits. This does not mean to suggest they may not be valid, but that they simply give you too much to handle. And let it be said, even when you have gone right down to a bare-bones technique, you have still got something that is far too complex for the average student, hence the big turnover of students in astrology.

I quite agree with Dymock that such basic techniques will give you some "blind spots" at times. By that I mean events that don't match up with aspects, or aspects that don't match with events. This is to be expected in any workable system, as Rudolf mentions. You are never going to get a system that works 100%. Sensible clients never expect it from professionals; but they do expect an acceptable level of success. So the fact that the system we are using lets us down sometimes is not something to be embarrassed about at all. It simply proves we are using a legitimate system. On the other hand if an astrologer is using an "after-the-event" demonstration and lines everything up with perfection, we can be reasonably sure he is using so many points of reference in the chart that the law of averages has taken over.

What we have here is a very important point, not given enough attention by astrologers: There has to be a limit to the number of sensitive points in a chart. If you go beyond that the laws of chance take over. If you have five marksmen shooting at a target and they are very unskilled you may not get any bulls-eyes; but increase the number of men to thirty or forty and you will be sure to get some bulls-eyes even though these might be just as unskilled. It simply means if you have got the numbers, you get the result. And of course a lot of this sort of thing is happening in astrology. It is not so much a lack of integrity but rather that astrologers are not looking closely enough at what they are doing.

It should be possible to determine mathematically what is the outer limit of points in a chart before the laws of chance take over. Normally, if we take the full range of aspects commonly used and apply them to the ten planets as well as the Angles we are getting a total of sensitive points well above the 100 mark. That is without adding any additional factors at all. So if we do add to this we have to be careful that we don't get anywhere near the 360 mark or we will be way above the limit. This is where we get into trouble if we use two systems simultaneously. You can't simply extract one factor from another system without embracing the whole system. I have noticed that astrologers will frequently bring in midpoints if they find a gap in lining things up by the traditional methods. Say, for instance, we bring in a semisquare to a midpoint. If we do that we do have to look pretty closely at what we are doing. Everybody can work out how many midpoints there are, and if we are using a semisquare we are multiplying that by the eight-point system of aspects. So by using a semisquare to a midpoint we are adding over 500 additional sensitive points to the chart.

What all this means is that we can't use several systems at one time because they simply crowd each other out. In addition to midpoints we have asteroids, fixed stars, Arabian Points, etc. This is why lining up charts after the event can be very misleading and does not have much practical value. To be of real value we have to impose on ourselves the same set of restrictions we would impose if actually doing a job of prediction of the future. Then we could turn it around and benefit from the exercise. But often a lot of space that could be better used is taken up in magazines lining things up after some major event, and using a number of systems simultaneously.

I think when it comes to midpoints there is room for quite a lot of research in how midpoints can actually be used for ongoing prediction, not simply lining things up after the event. And if we do this we are going to have to get right down to basics and use only a very small number of midpoints. I have met astrologers who are doing this. I think the midpoint of a conjunction can be very potent, and the same would apply to the midpoint of powerful aspects. But at all times we have to beware of adding too many new points to a chart. Excessive numbers can be self-defeating.

Allan looks at the whole problem from the practical point of view of the busy professional, who must rely on proven techniques, even with their acknowledged shortcomings. Earning a living by astrology leaves very little time indeed for the investigation of new methods and interesting ideas that may or may not be fruitful. The astrologer who does have the time and opportunity for enquiry must take a different view, and is concerned to find how the present techniques can be improved, amplified or added to so that manifest defects can be rectified.

Looking at matters from this different angle, I find myself in agreement with some of Allan's assertions, though others are open to question. For instance, "an acceptable level of success" in predictive work is certainly to be aimed at, and with conventional procedures is all that can reasonably be anticipated. But what is the justification for assuming that we shall never achieve a system that works 100%? The reason for this assumption is simply that up to date we haven't done so. I might add that we never will if we leave matters in the hands of the professionals; such achievement depends on the exploration of new methods and ideas, for which the professional has no time.

"After the event" demonstrations are valuable because they are the only way in which we can observe how the planetary forces have operated in any given instance. Without this experience how can we hope to be successful in forecasting? We should have to proceed on a variety of assumptions, but only post-event analysis can determine whether these were valid or not.

The exercise also gives us the opportunity to compare different procedures, whereby we have a basis for deciding which are the most applicable in any given situation.

As to varying the time measure for Secondary Progressions (two days or five days, etc., for a year), if somebody thinks this might be a profitable field for research, by all means he/she should try it. A computer program will quickly settle the matter one way or the other. And this is something we are apt to forget - no longer is it necessary to do an infinitude of calculations by hand, at the cost of much time and effort. Modern computer technology has put all that in the past, and we can now sort things out very quickly.

There is no good reason for restricting oneself to one system for forecasting. Does anybody? Allan himself uses both transits and Secondary Progressions. Others use Solar-Arc Directions or Primary Directions as well. Converse Secondaries and Prenatal Transits fill in many of the gaps left by the other procedures, and it becomes obvious that, so far from being mutually exclusive, at least some of the techniques are complementary, one supplying what the other lacks. The wish for simplicity is understandable as it reduces the workload, but human life itself is complex, and it is only natural that it should be matched by complexity in prognostic indicators. It is open to anyone to decide how far he/she wants to go in the detail of forecasting, but it is no argument that students cannot handle a number of simultaneous factors. As against this, many of the factors are not simultaneous, but consecutive, and have to be assessed separately. Where we get similar information from different techniques, surely that is an advantage? The indication being repeated emphasizes its importance, just as in a natal horoscope a prominent feature is shown by more than one aspect or position.

The test of a system is how effective it is in delineating events before they occur. After we have learned from many after-the-event analyses we are in a position to attempt this, and I see no reason why the process should not be thus reversed. I do it myself. The only restriction is the time requirement. As Allan implies, the busy-practitioner has to compromise in this respect in order to keep the whole exercise within reasonable bounds.

I agree that research is needed to establish which are the worthwhile "promissors" among midpoints, aspects, etc. The number of them doesn't matter, it's their individual effectiveness that counts. I, too, have concluded that midpoints between planets in conjunction or strong aspect are potent factors. I use them with both Primary and Secondary Directions, and invite readers to confirm my findings by testing them out on their own charts.

- Dymock.

PLANETARY CYCLES

From ALEXANDER MARR (West Germany): Leslie Black's chart-invention which he calls "Saturn Revolution" (A.F. #40, p.5) is most misleading for beginners and meaningless for advanced astrologers. Return Charts of planets have to be computed to their exact Radical positions, that is to seconds of arc (see Prediction I, p.60); and factors of planetary Return Charts should not be inserted in a Radical chart.

This branch of astrology is very little in use, and is a very profitable field for serious investigators. It seems that the same rules may be applied as for Solar Returns. In the following examples I used planetary cycles in order to consolidate PRESIDENT RONALD REAGAN'S birth time (A.F. #31, p.4). In addition to my demonstrations in Prediction I I found that the Radical planets produce impressive charts which (A) have a dominant position in the birth chart analyzed, and (B) reflect by their nature, i.e. their pure symbolism, certain events happening during the time period covered.

Radix, Ronald Reagan: MC = 10 Virgo 01.
 Revolution of VENUS, 3 Pisces 31'25", 17th March 1984, 9h 07m U.T.
 JUPITER 10 Cap 09.
 Revolution of MERCURY, 21 Cap 24'38", 3rd February 1984, 0h 22m U.T.
 VENUS = 10 Cap 05'.

Demi-cycle of SATURN 0 Sco 48'54", 3rd September 1983, 2h 09m U.T.

SUN = 10 Vir 01'; MOON = 13 Can 46'.

trine JUPITER rad. 13 Sco 44'.

ASC 12 Tau 15' (best possible approximation for Washington as the slow motion of SATURN does not permit exact figures) conjunct the favourable Radical MOON - JUPITER opposition (12 Tau 15' - 13 Sco 44').

(The Radical MC has further support by the trine of Jupiter for the time when the election results became known, 7th November 1984, 4h U.T.: JUPITER trans. 9 Cap 54 trine MC rad. 10 Vir 01').

The above method with planetary cycles for (A) consolidating the rectification, and (B) forecasting the outcome of events, or general prospects for the time period covered, is only useful if the smallest orbs are taken. For further information see Prediction I, ps. 11 - 29, 59 and 60.

I can recommend this procedure in all those cases where the native's place of residence has not been located. Needless to say that analyses like these are useful only if the corresponding birth chart has been rectified.

From OLIVIA BARCLAY (Eng.): The account of the Mexican disaster was interesting - the Eclipse more powerful than the Transit Chart, with that exactly Angular Mars! It certainly demonstrates that the potential of an eclipse is there before it happens. One wonders why the Transit Chart set it off, and although, as Mr. Marr points out, the Sun is conjunct the Node descending, I noticed also that the Moon had just entered the Via Combusta and the antiscion of Mars falls on the Sun/Node. I wonder if the Ascendant could have been a minute or two nearer Algol. We seem to be coming nearer to being able to predict from the Eclipse positions - not that I am sure it is advisable.

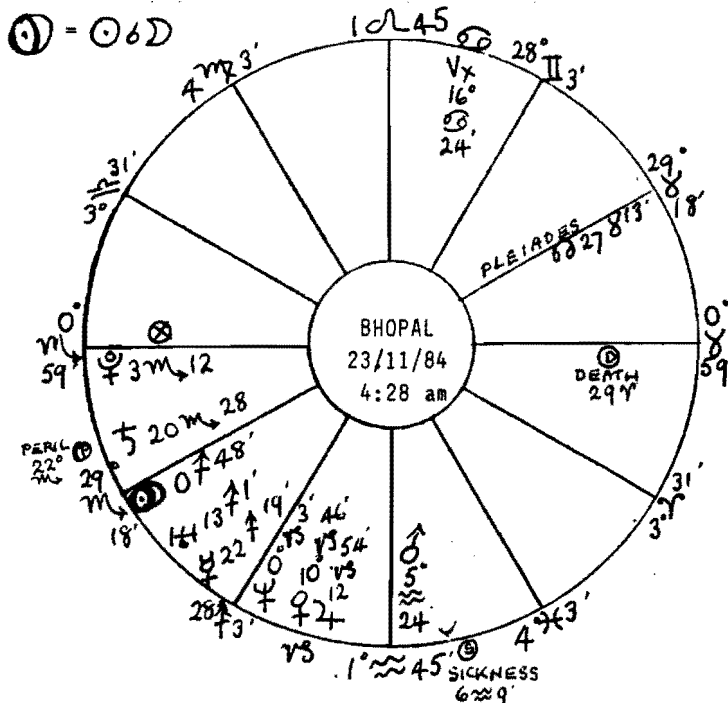

MORE ON THE BHOPAL DISASTER

In searching for an astrological explanation of the Bhopal tragedy, it seemed appropriate to find that it occurred as Neptune, Ruler of gas, entered Capricorn, the Sign ruling India. Saturn, which rules that Sign was at 21 Scorpio conjunct the Fixed Star Unuk, the Neck of the Serpent.

Despite many indications of misfortune in the Chart drawn up for the time of the tragedy, it does not by itself describe anything so horrific as occurred. To find out that we should heed the words of Ptolemy: "THE FIRST AND MOST POTENT CAUSE OF EVENTS LIES IN THE CONJUNCTION OF THE SUN AND MOON AT ECLIPSES AND THE MOVEMENT OF STARS AT THAT TIME."

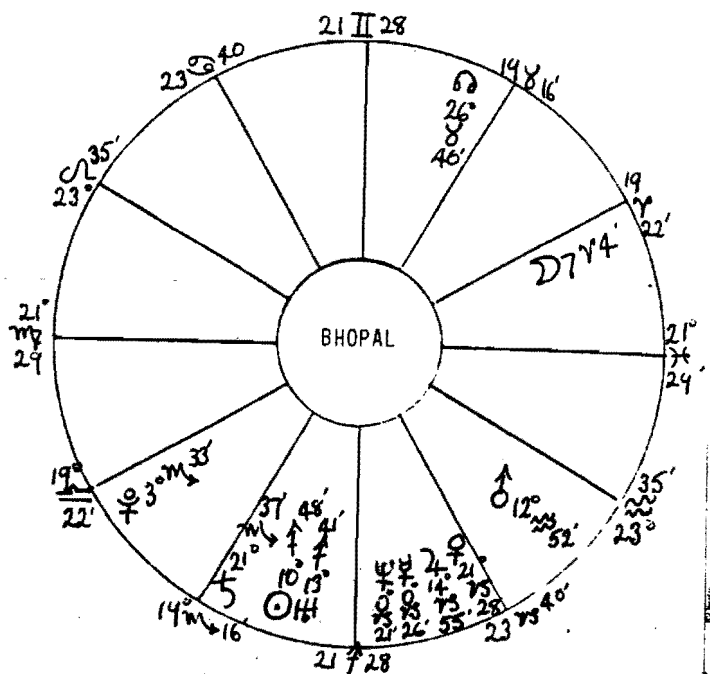

The Chart of the Eclipse preceding the Event as seen in Bhopal at 6:27 am on November 23rd 1984 should therefore be studied and compared with the Chart for the time of the disaster.

THE ECLIPSE PRECEDING THE EVENT

GMT 10:58 pm on 22/11/1984 Long 77E24 Lat 23N16
Regiomontanus House System

THE TRAGEDY AT BHOPAL

00:56 am Local Time, 3/12/1984. 77E24, 23N16

In the Eclipse Chart (Fig.1), 0 Sco 45' ascends, with Pluto and Saturn (ruling India) in the 1st House. The Eclipsing Luminaries stand at 0 Sag 47, at the mid-point between the Ascendant and Neptune, and oppose the 8th Cusp - Death (since death is the subject of our enquiry), which is at the degree of a Fixed Star cluster known as the Pleiades (about 26 Tau 48), noted since time immemorial for affliction to the eyes. De Vore in his Encyclopedia says the Pleiades can cause blindness, and that Elspeth Ebertin collected a great many examples of diseases of the eyes and blindness in connection with the Pleiades. Lilly mentions wounds to eyes and arms. Ivy Goldstein Jacobson calls them "The Weeping Sisters", for if they are prominent there is always something to weep about.

In this Chart the Part of Death is at 29 Aries, opposing the Ascendant (House of Life) and the Part of Fortune. Mars, Ruler of the Chart, is in mutual reception with Saturn, which it squares, and is conjunct the Part of Sickness. It is the only planet in Air. Saturn, Ruler of India, is only 2 degrees from the Part of Peril. Jupiter is Lord of the Eclipse but cadent and peregrine, disposed by Saturn.

The Moon, from which the sequence of events is learned, moves from the midpoint ASC/Neptune to the midpoint Neptune/Pluto, and goes on to aspect Mars. "Combination of Stellar Influences" describes ASC/Neptune as "disharmonious states of soul expression, illusion and deception of the senses, the act of running about like ants". Neptune/Pluto is "strange states of soul expression, a high degree of sensitiveness, response to every influence, treacherous (or deceptively painless) states of disease, disturbances or troubles of slow or lingering development; confusion and grievous loss." Mars is Ruler of the Ascendant and the 6th House (illness) and is conjunct the Part of Illness. Although the application of the Moon to Mars is by sextile, this contact can do no good.

Despite these configurations the event did not occur until 3rd December 1984. At Bhopal at that time Virgo ascended and its Ruler, Mercury, had come to the conjunction of Neptune in the 4th House (Home Territory). This is a symbolic picture of the people (Mercury) being gassed (Neptune) on their home territory or town (4th House) in India (Capricorn). But the full horror of the event and the attack on their eyes, can only be read when comparing both Charts. It may be significant that two days after the Eclipse, Mercury was eclipsed by the Moon.

In this 3rd December Chart (Fig.2) the Moon is at 7dgs. Aries (described by de Vore as a degree of life and death). It aspects the Sun, Ruler of the 12th House, and conjoins Rastoban, a Fixed Star indicating property loss. The Sun approaches Uranus at its South Node.

The Fixed Star Unuk that conjoins Saturn in this Chart is described by Ebertin as often dangerous and destructive, associated with chronic diseases which are not easily detected, resulting in a weakened state of health, and accidents. He mentions disease and poisoning. De Vore mentions bronchial tubes.

In comparing the two Charts it is interesting to see that the Sun on 3rd December reached the degree of Venus in the Eclipse where she was Ruler of the 8th Cusp (Death), and how Venus in Fig.1 reaches Saturn in Fig.2. There are other observations you may wish to note, such as the stress on the first degrees (0 - 1) of the Signs.

Although the Virgo Ascendant and consequent significance of Mercury with Neptune, located the disaster geographically, yet there must have been many surrounding places that shared the Virgo Ascendant. What may have singled out Bhopal, with 22 Virgo Ascending, could be that Saturn, dispositor of the Mercury/Neptune conjunction was exactly at the mid-point of the Ascendant and Venus (the Eclipse death indicator), standing only a degree from the position of Saturn on the Eclipse Chart. Of course there may also be factors in Bhopal's Founding Chart to contribute further reasons.

From CHENG-YI HUANG (USA):

AGE HARMONICS:

TROPICAL OR SIDEREAL VERSION?

Age Harmonics or the so-called Harmonic Direction has been introduced into astrology by John M. Addey since 1976. Its theory and practice are simple; e.g. the 40th harmonic chart applies to the fortieth year of life. So far, the reaction by most astrologers to this new technique has been mixed. Some claim that it works, while other notable astrologers such as Alexander Marr and David Hamblin think it is a doubtful and unreliable technique for various reasons.

My own research into this matter has reached an interesting result, which is that Age Harmonics, in the version of the Sidereal Zodiac, works successfully and consistently. In contrast, its Tropical counterpart only gets ambiguous results. To further illustrate this point let us study some examples in the following.

My first case is the death of John Addey in March, 1982. His birth data, which appeared in David Hamblin's Harmonic Charts (1983) is June 15, 1920, 8:15 am BST at 52 N 33, 1 W 29. Addey himself also gave the position of his Tropical Midheaven at 11 Ar 58 in his book, Harmonics in Astrology.

Figure 1 shows the Tropical Radix of John Addey in the inner circle, and the 61st harmonic position of planets in the outer circle. The 61st harmonic positions of the Angles were not calculated because of the uncertainty involved in the exact value of the Angles. What concerns us here is the aspects between the harmonic position of the planets and the Radical factors, which is similar to the working of transits.

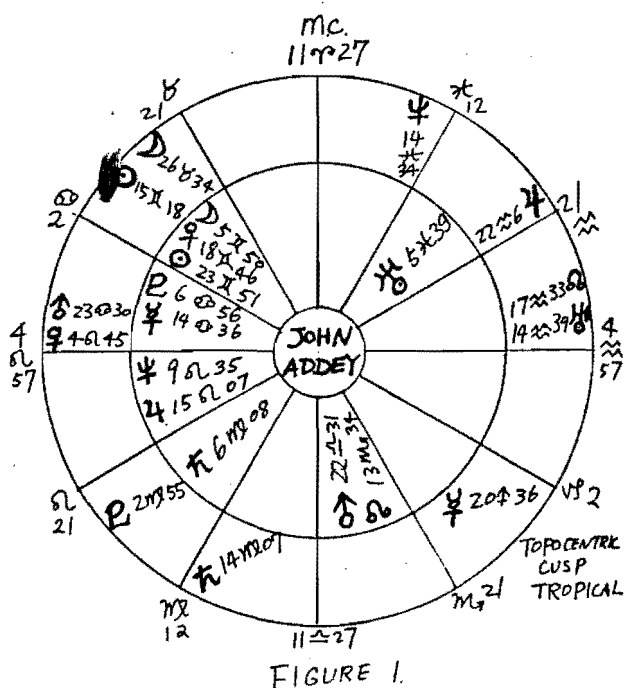

FIGURE 1.

We see that Venus h is conjunct the Tropical ASC; Sun h sextile Jupiter r in the First House; Jupiter h in the Eighth House trine Sun r. This can hardly convince us that the native was dying. Only the harmonic Mars in aspect to Radical Sun and Mars is ominous. Even so, judging from Fig.1, I can only forecast a minor misfortune for the year at best.

In order to convert the Tropical Radix to the Sidereal version, we must add the numerical value of the Sidereal Longitude of the Vernal Point (S.V.P.) and mentally deduct one Sign (30 dgs.). In the case of John Addey, the S.V.P. is at 6 Pis 22°02". The inner circle of Fig. 2 is the Sidereal version of the Radix. We then calculate the 61st harmonic positions by multiplying the values from the inner circle by 61. Looking at Figure 2, we notice that Neptune h and Saturn h straddle the MC-IC axis, and square Radical Pluto. The following aspects also add to the gravity of this Sidereal Harmonic Chart:

- (1) Uranus h 13 Aqu 02 conjunct Uranus r 12 Aqu 01 in the 8th House.
- (2) Sun h 13 Ge 42 in the 12th House conjunct Pluto r 13 Gem 18.
- (3) Mars h 21 Can 54 in the 1st House conjunct Jupiter r 21 Can 49.
- (4) Pluto h 1 Vir 19 semisquare Neptune r 15 Can 57 in the 1st House.
- (5) Node h 15 Aqu 57 quincunx Neptune 15 Can 57 in the 1st House.
- (6) Uranus h 13 Aqu 02 sesquare Mars r 28 Vir 53 in the 4th House
- (7) Saturn h 12 Vir 31; Saturn r 12 Leo 30; Moon r 12 Tau 12; Pluto r 13 Gem 18.
- (8) Neptune h 12 Pis 58; Moon r 12 Tau 12; Pluto r 13 Gem 18; Saturn r 12 Leo 30.

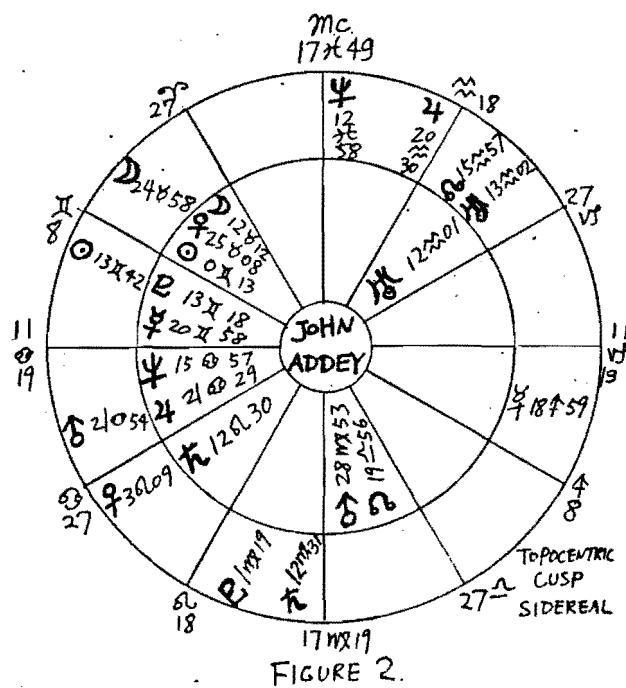

FIGURE 2.

With so many aspects between the malefics and the Radix within small orbs, we should now be convinced that indeed, John Addey, the founder of Harmonic Astrology, has finally, in his 61st year, come to the time of his demise.

To further illustrate the usefulness of Age Harmonics in the Sidereal Zodiac, and to persuade the reader that the example I have just demonstrated is not a mere coincidence, let us choose another event of public interest which happened recently, namely, the assassination of the Indian Prime Minister, Indira Gandhi, on October 31, 1984.

The birth data of Indira Gandhi, taken from Astrologer's Forum No.40, was November 19, 1917 18h 9m Universal Time at Allahabad (81 E 50, 25 N 27). Her Synetic Vernal Point was at 6 Pis 24'07". The inner circle of Figure 3 is the Radix of Indira Gandhi in the Sidereal Zodiac. The outer circle is her 66th Harmonic positions calculated from the Sidereal Radix.

Two major events happened in her 66th year of life: She quelled the Sikh riots in June 1984, and was assassinated on 31st October 1984.

Turn to Figure 3: Notice that Jupiter h is high up near the Midheaven, and is square to both Mars h and Uranus h. This clearly indicates her success as a Prime Minister by crushing the Sikh militants in the Golden Temple with a bloody assault by the Indian Army. Mars h, Saturn h, and Uranus h stretch across the Horizon, indicating the injuries to her body by the assassin's bullets. Pluto h in the 10th House conjunct her Natal Jupiter, square Natal Mars and opposite Natal Mercury symbolizes the shock and final removal from her job as a Prime Minister. Her death can be seen by the following aspects between the Harmonic planets and Radical factors:

(1) Mars h 3 Aqu 7 square Sun r 3 Sco 15 in the 4th House; Sun h 3 Tau 13 in the 10th House.

(2) Pluto h 13 Tau 31 conjunct Jupiter r14 Tau 07.

(3) Pluto h 13 Tau 31 sextile Neptune r 13 Can 29 in the 12th House.

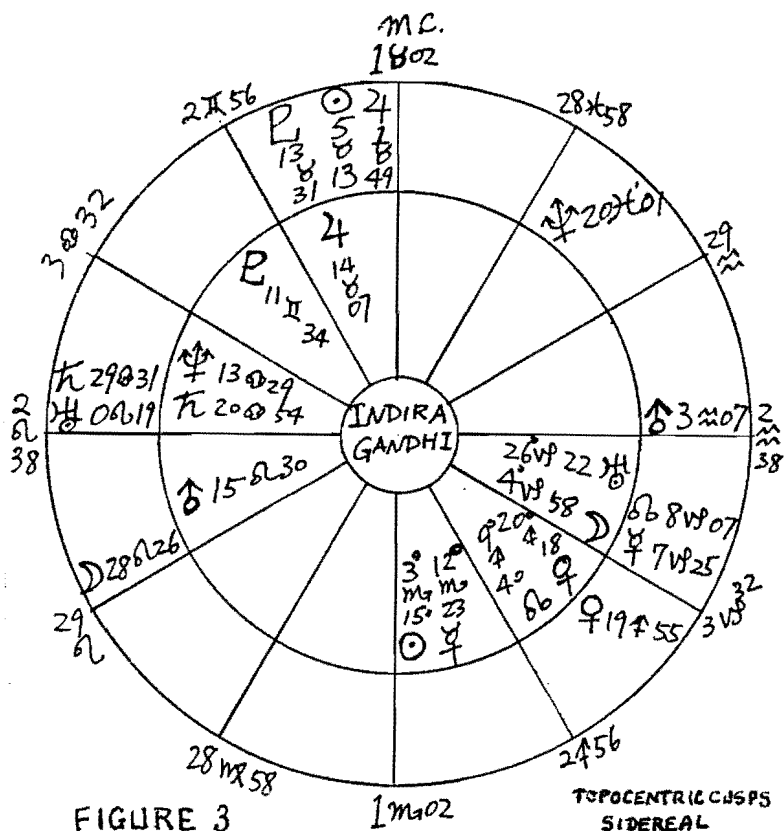

(4) Neptune h 20 Pis 01 in the 8th House trine Saturn r 20 Can 54 in the 12th House.

(5) Saturn h 29 Can 31; Uranus h 0 Leo 19; Mars h 3 Aqu 7; ASC r 2 Leo 38.

(6) Moon h 28 Leo 26 semisquare Neptune r 13 Can 29.

Mrs Gandhi was a follower of Astrology apparently. She once postponed her swearing-in ceremony as Prime Minister because the day was considered inauspicious by astrologers. (From Los Angeles Times, Nov. 1984, p. 19). But this time her astrologer had failed.

The Tropical version is not reproduced here (See Astrologers' Forum No. 40). In it, Sun h and Jupiter h are located in the 1st House of Mrs. Gandhi's Radix, which does not fit the character of the event for the Native. I think that a successful interpretation of the Tropical version of Age Harmonics probably relies heavily on the exact position of Harmonic Angles and the aspects to the Angles, which of course demands a very accurate rectification - no easy task. In the Sidereal version, the Natal Angles need not be multiplied and Directed. We are concerned only with the aspects between the Harmonic planets and the Radical Angles and planets; therefore rectification is not required.

We may now proceed to formulate some basic principles used to interpret Age Harmonics in the Sidereal Zodiac:

1. Harmonic planets in propinquity to the Radical Angles with orbs of five degrees on either side of the Angles are very effective, and should be given priority.
2. The most effective Harmonics are those aspecting Radical factors. Orbs of aspects under one degree, whether they are semisextile or semisquare, are effective and should be taken into consideration.
3. In the case of planetary conjunctions or oppositions, the orbs can be enlarged to three degrees.
4. Harmonic planets in the Radical House positions are significant.
5. Planetary symbolism is used to interpret the events; rulership of Sign and House does not apply here.

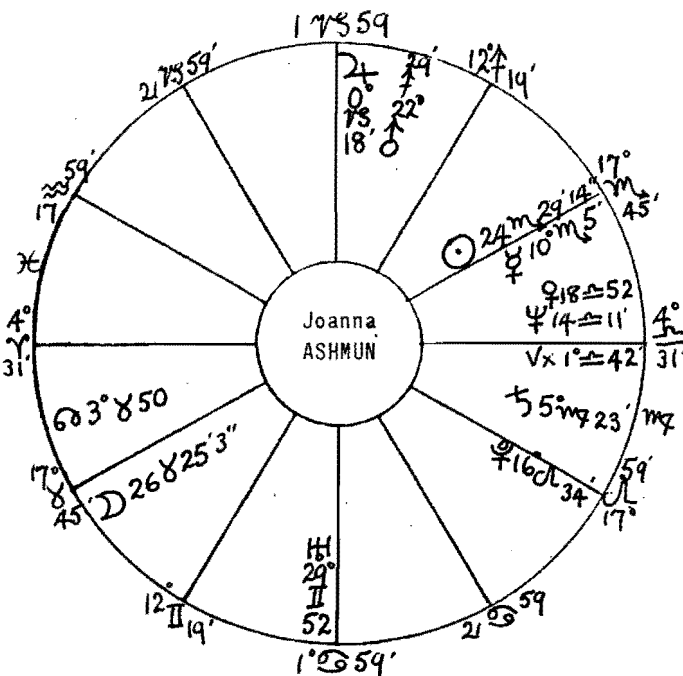

Age Harmonics in the Sidereal version prove to be a simple yet powerful predictive tool. The success of this technique also points up the fact that the astrological starting point - the zero degree of the constellation Aries, calibrated by Cyril Fagan and Donald Bradley from the position of fiducial fixed stars such as Spica, is extremely precise and effective. To make my point more obvious, suppose we were to change the starting point and therefore the S.V.P. by a quarter of a degree, the results in the two examples cited above would be dramatically different. The point chosen by Fagan and Bradley is capable of generating Harmonics which are far superior to the Tropical Harmonics generated by the moving Vernal Equinoctial Point.

Finally, I hope through the examples, I am able to convince the reader that there is some truth about the Sidereal Zodiac. Since the death of Fagan and Bradley, the voice of Sidereal Astrology has seldom been heard. The secrets of the Fixed Zodiac system, which Fagan so passionately advocated some forty years ago, remain to be investigated and explored by us.

JOANNA ASHMUN'S CHALLENGE

As before noted, a few readers attempted to match the three dates with the three events given by Joanna Ashmun (See A.F. No. 38) and though none was wholly successful, the effort could only have had beneficial results. As always, the exercise looks a lot easier in retrospect, and here are my suggestions as to how we could all have been successful:

Born 16/11/1948 2:25 pm P.S.T. Chelan, Washington,
U.S.A. 119W59, 47N 51

1. MUMPS, 23/12/1970: The Secondary Progressed MOON, from Pisces in the 12th Radical House, was SQUARE MARS r, Ruler of the Natal Ascendant, on 14/1/1971. The Moon rules glands (in this case the parotid gland), and Mars is associated with inflammation and fever.

A Topocentric Primary Direction was Jupiter at 20 cap 23, sesquare Rad. Saturn in the 6th House, exact on 23/12/1970.

Prenatal transits were:

Moon conjunct Mars on 12/10/1926 (corresponding to the postnatal date 23/12/1970).

Saturn conjunct the Sun on 16/10/1926, corresponding to the postnatal date 19/12/1970.

Prenatal Neptune at 26 Leo 25 square Moon r on 15/10/1926, corresponding to the postnatal date 19/12/1970.

2. FATHER DIED, 15/10/1972: The Primary Direction SUN CONJUNCT MARS by the P.E.A. System of Wim van Dam occurred on 28/10/1972. This was a clear indication, the Natal Sun being close to the Cusp of the 8th House, and the timing was accurate.

A powerful but not so closely timed influence was the stationary position of Pluto opposite the Rad. ASC some weeks later (6/1/1973). Pluto rules the Radical 8th House.

3. INHERITANCE ($2000) 18/4/1977: Two Topocentric Primary Directions signalled this event:

VENUS at 4 Sag 31 TRINE ASC on 11/3/1977 (Venus disposes the Moon in the 2nd House). The Natal Chart had not been rectified, so the exact position of the Angles is in doubt; 15 Seconds difference in the birth time could bring the Direction about a month closer to the given date.

JUPITER TRINE MOON on 27/6/1977. This occurred two and a half months after the given date, but we are not sure whether the money was actually received, or merely the notification made, on 18/4/1977. As Jupiter is the natural Ruler of legal affairs, and rules the 9th House in the Natal Chart, it probably referred to legal formalities.

Prenatal Jupiter transited Pluto on 23/6/1920, which corresponds to the postnatal date 12/4/1977. Jupiter + Pluto has special reference to inheritance.

The above correlations are the result of five distinct astrological techniques. What makes them valid is the timing and appropriateness of the planetary combinations. This exercise demonstrates the need for familiarity with more than one or two systems if we are to achieve a comprehensive coverage of events. There is not space here to reproduce the Solar Return Charts, which were also indicative.
- Dymock.

NEWS FROM "FRANK"

The following information from Frank is printed with his permission: His hopes of a release last year were dashed. The Parole Board considers the earliest probable date will be sometime early in 1986, but it could come in June/July this year. Those who attempted the prediction exercise might now like to have another look at the possibilities. Unhappily, Frank's fiancée, "Mary" broke off the engagement by letter dated 13/3/1984, received by Frank two days later. On a happier note, Frank passed an exam in naturopathy, November 1984.

See A.F. No. 26 for the Birth Chart. The MC is about 12 1/2 degrees of Virgo. Frank declares this point is sensitive to any transit between 12dgs.3' and 13dgs. approximately.

THE RECTIFICATION EXERCISE

One answer has been received for the Rectification exercise from the data given in last month's Astrologers' Forum. I reserve comment for the time being in the hope that more will make the attempt. Only those who do these things realize how much astrology they learn in the process.

Jenifer Pommerin (W.A.) asks readers to recommend a book on TRANSPLUTO and CHIRON, or send information, factual or astrological, about these bodies. Can someone oblige?

My kind regards to all,

- Dymock,
19th February 1985.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785.
Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas). Issues No's 41 & 42.

3rd January 1985

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

This issue of Astrologers' Forum is unavoidably late, due to your Editor's sojourn in hospital for surgical attention to a hernia. When that little matter was rectified things were further delayed by the Christmas Holiday break of the printers who handle the photocopying. This meant that by the time the December Issue could be published, the January Issue would be nearly due.

In the circumstances I felt the best course was to combine the December 1984 and the January 1985 Astrologers' Forum in one enlarged edition, so here you have it. I hope this meets with the approval of readers. The next publication will be on the 19th of February.

INDIA - FATE STRIKES AGAIN

Just seven weeks after the assassination of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, a second disaster has sent the nation reeling - the Bhopal Gas Poisoning. At last report, the number of dead, following the escape of poisonous gas from the Union Carbide factory in Bhopal, stood at 2,500, and thousands more have been badly injured, some blinded, and others suffering severe respiratory afflictions. It is anticipated that the death toll will rise still further. The incident has been described as the worst industrial accident in history.

Astrologically, the event is depicted in several Charts, a number of which are reproduced here. India gained its independence from Great Britain on the 15th of August 1947, at 0 hours local time. The Chart, set for the Capital, New Delhi, appears overleaf.

The first degree of Gemini rises, with the Ruler, Mercury conjunct Pluto in the 4th House, their midpoint (10 Leo 1) being semisquare to Uranus on the 2nd Cusp. This divisive combination bore its fruit in the partition of the country into India and Pakistan at the very moment of Independence. The close conjunction of Saturn and Pluto is an indication of mass murder, of which India has seen plenty, mostly through enmity between Sikhs and Hindus, as occurred after

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
The Bhopal Gas Tragedy	1, 12
Chart for India's Independence	2
More on Indira Gandhi	4
Indira Gandhi's Progressed Chart	4
Comments on I. Gandhi's Nativity	6
Zodiacal and Mundane. Prenatal Charts? Concept of Time	7
Another Viewpoint on the above	9
Solar and Lunar Eclipses	11
President Reagan: Inauguration Chart	11
Rectification Exercise	12

Indira Gandhi's death. The opposition of Pluto and Saturn to the Midheaven, representing the Nation's Rulers, points also to the danger of their falling victim to political assassins.

The square between Mars and Neptune, though wide (orb 8dgs.15') is significant as this combination is particularly indicative of poisoning by gas fumes, and the two planets were the principal activators at the time of the calamity. Quoting from Time Magazine, "the first sign that something was wrong came at 11 pm [on 2nd December 1984]. A worker at the Union Carbide pesticide plant on the outskirts of Bhopal (pop. 672,000), an industrial city 566 miles south of New Delhi, noticed that pressure was building up in a tank containing 45 tons of methyl isocyanate, a deadly chemical used to make pesticides. At 56 minutes past midnight [0:56 am local time on 3/12/1984] the substance began escaping into the air from a faulty valve. For almost an hour the gas formed a vast, dense fog of death that drifted toward Bhopal."

New Delhi

77 E 13

28 N 37

Topocentric
Cusps

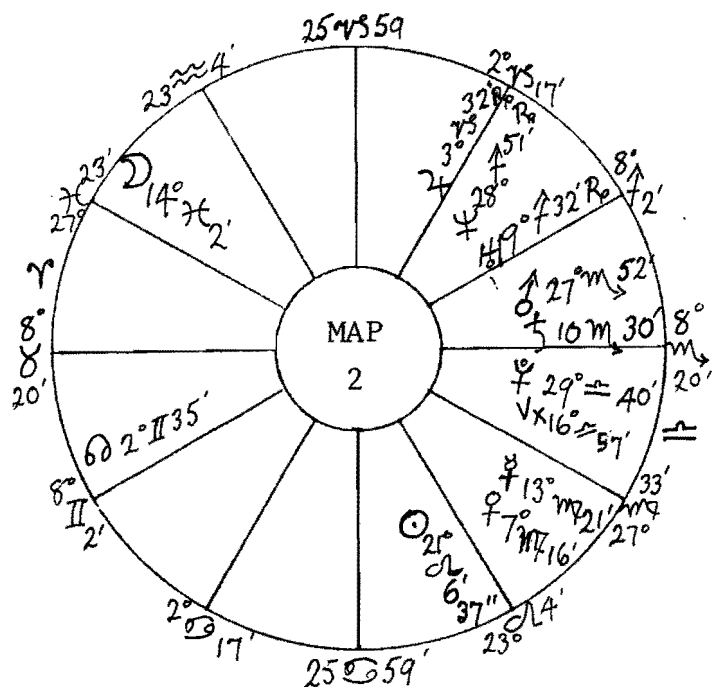

The principal indication in the Independence Map of 1947 was the Topocentric Primary Direction SATURN SQUARE NEPTUNE, exact on 12th November 1984. Significant transits were NEPTUNE STATIONARY OPPOSITE MARS on 9th September (orb 2.5 dgs.), giving force to the direct transit of Neptune opposite Mars on 8th December, MERCURY (Ruler of the Chart) STATIONARY OPPOSITE MARS (orb 9') on 4th December, and Mars transiting square to the Meridian on 8th December.

MAPS 2, 3 and 4 are various Annual Charts using the 1947 Independence Map as the Radix. They are the Normal Solar Return, the Precessed Solar Return, and the Progressive Precessed Solar Return. They all have some significant features, but by far the most striking is MAP 4, which is the PROGRESSIVE, PRECESSED SOLAR RETURN of 20th September 1984. This Map is cast for the position of the Progressed Sun after 37 years from the date of Independence (26 Vir 56°36"), with the addition of 31' Precession for the period from 20th September 1947 to 20th September 1984 (Stahl-Allen's Synetic Vernal Point Ephemeris).

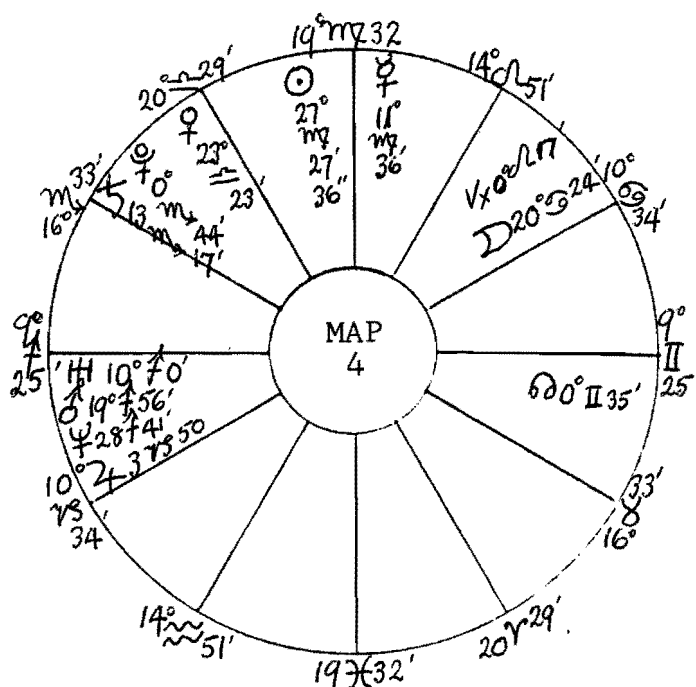

This Chart shows three malefics rising - Uranus, Mars and Neptune. Neptune is in close square to the Sun, Mars is closely quincunx the Moon in the House of Deaths, and Uranus is in close square to Mercury. So all three rising malefics are afflicted, Mars and Neptune signifying the poisonous gas, and Uranus indicating the sudden, unexpected nature of the event. The Moon occupying and ruling the 8th House is square to Venus, and signifies many deaths.

MAP 5 is submitted by ALEXANDER MARR (W. Germany) and is the Bhopal Chart for the SOLAR ECLIPSE which occurred a fortnight before the Bhopal Disaster. Marr points out that the most significant factor is the Angular square of MARS and PLUTO. It is also noteworthy the Eclipse point, 0 Sag 50, is in almost precise opposition to the Ascendant in the Independence Chart (orb 2' only!).

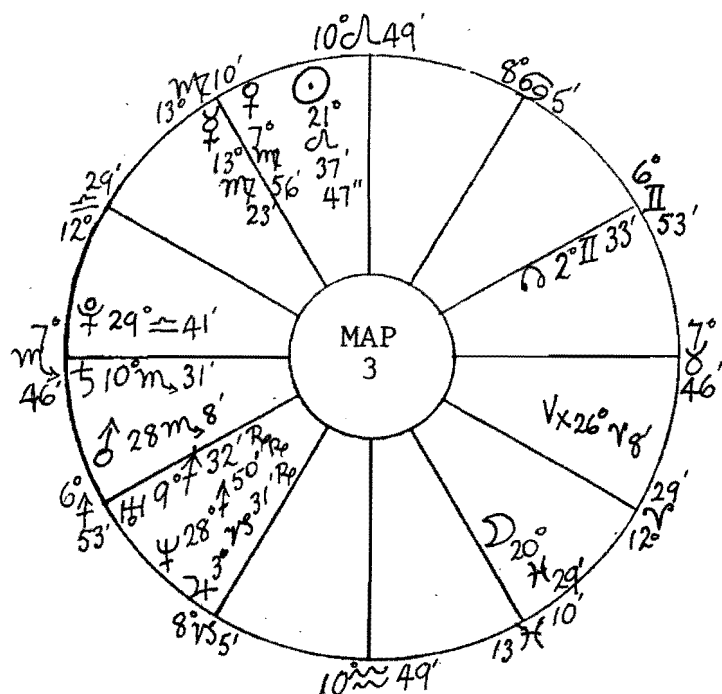

MAP 6 is the Chart for Bhopal at the time it was first noticed that pressure (leading later to the gas escape) was building up in

SOLAR RETURN 13/8/1984 UT 17h 13m 45s
New Delhi

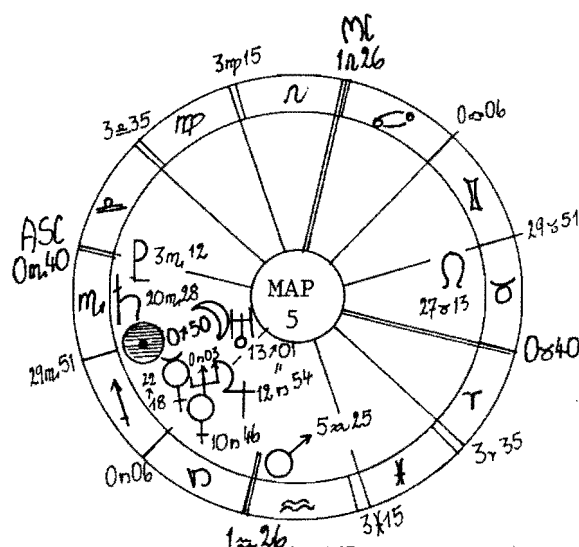

PROGRESSIVE, PRECESSED S.R. 20/9/1984
UT 6h 15m 23s New Delhi

PRECESSED S.R. 14/8/1984 UT 6h 12m 49s
New Delhi

(All Cusps Topocentric)

BHOPAL DISASTER (preceding Solar Eclipse)

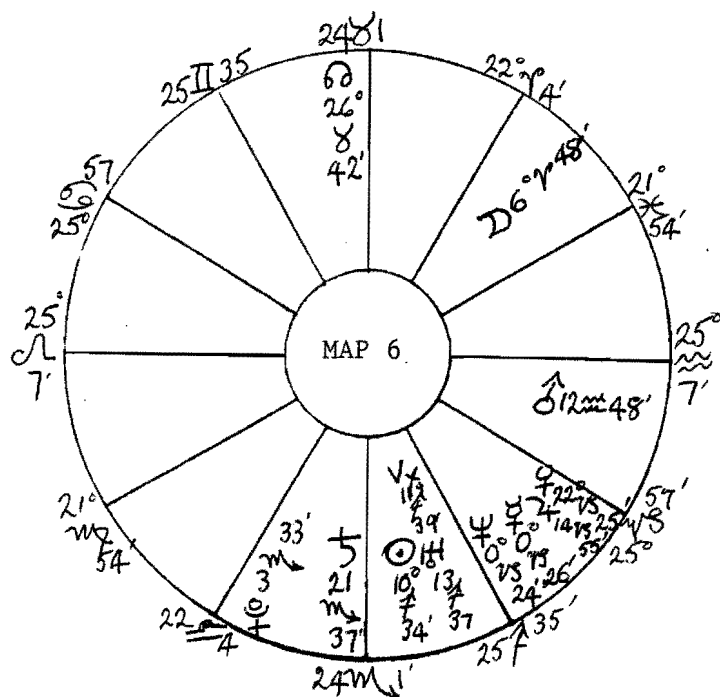

November 22, 1984 ; 22h 56m 40s U.T.

77 E 24 ; 23 N 16

Topocentric Cusps

a storage tank containing the deadly methyl isocyanate. The Moon (representing the populace) in this Chart is in the House of Deaths, in almost exact sesquare to Saturn (orb 11') on the 4th Cusp (terminations). Even more striking is the conjunction between Mercury and Neptune, signifying the poisonous gas, both planets being semisquare to Mars in the House of Health and Sickness. Mercury and Neptune are separated in the Zodiac by only two minutes of arc!

The fateful, sudden and totally unexpected nature of the event is aptly portrayed by the Angular conjunction of the Sun, the Vertex and Uranus, all within less than three degrees. The Moon in Aries in the House of Death, applying to the Square of Jupiter debilitated in Capricorn, and then by sextile to its dispositor, Mars, points to the subsequent heavy death roll, Jupiter's expansive nature having in this instance a disastrously unfortunate effect. - Dymock.

BHOPAL - GAS PRESSURE BUILDING UP
2/12/1984 ut 17h 30m 77E24 23N16

INDIRA GANDHI

From KEVEN BARRETT (NSW): You must be careful in stating what is a correct birth time from published birth charts or magazines. Lois Rodden's Profiles of Women gives the source of Mrs. Gandhi's birth time at 11:39 pm as from her private secretary. Rudolf Smit submitted 11:11 pm, and this time was also from Mrs. Gandhi's private secretary. Other publications from India give 11 mins. to 11 pm, 11:23 pm, etc., etc., all from private secretaries.

I was shown in India by one of her astrologers the birth time of 11:29 pm, given to him personally by Mrs. Gandhi. Who is right?

In Hindu Sidereal Astrology the M.C. is not used, and the Houses are by Sign, the Angles in Natal Charts, Solar and Lunar Returns (they were used long before so-called Western Astrology) are the 1st, 4th, 7th and 10th Houses, with the M.C. being in the 9th, 10th or 11th House.

This is why you could not find what you wanted in the Precessed Lunar Return. Here we have the Moon's Nodes in the 4th and 10th, Uranus and the Part of Fortune (Night formula) all connected by aspect and fixed star rulers to the Natal Chart and progressed dasas.

My recent trip to India was a lecture tour where I forecast that Mrs. Gandhi's year of 1984 would be politically troublesome, and that in October/November 1984, if the Elections were held, she would lose. I did not see death - only on reflection after the event.

To explain in charts and delineation would first need the reader's complete understanding of Hindu Astrology. However, for those who know a little about it the Runing Dasa Fixed Star Ruler's period for the death was Saturn main period, North Node - North Node - South Node sub-period. These activate the 2nd and 7th Houses (possession and partner loss), 4th and 10th Houses (end of life and prime activities), 8th and 12th Houses (death and hidden enemies). All this was activated by sidereal transits, solar and lunar returns to natal positions.

It is interesting to note that the 11:29 pm Sidereal Charts have four mutual receptions: Sun-Mars, Moon-Saturn, Mercury-Pluto, Venus-Jupiter. Also only one Indian Magazine, Your Astrologer, came close to the event. Karnad Rishi Bhatnagar M.A. stated that Mrs. Gandhi should be alert in regard to those persons around her and the security forces should take absolutely no risks.

For those interested, the new Prime Minister of India, Mrs. Gandhi's son Rajiv, was born on 20th August 1944 in Bombay at 9:45 am (War Time), 3:15 am U.T.; father died 8th September 1960; married 25th February 1968; brother died 23rd June 1980 (8:00am, Delhi).

Mrs. Gandhi's daughter-in-law, Maneka, (also in politics) was born at Delhi on 27th August 1956 at 4:10 am; married Sanjay on 29th September 1974; son born 13th March 1980, Delhi, at 10:02 pm; husband Sanjay killed in air crash on 23rd June 1980 (8:00 am Delhi).

Mrs. Indira Gandhi born 19th November 1917, Allahabad; mother died 28th February 1936 (Geneva, Switzerland); married 26th March 1942 Delhi; Rajiv born 20th August 1944; Sanjay born 14th December 1946, Delhi, 9:27 am; husband died 8th September 1960, 7:45 am; Prime Minister 25th January 1966 (official, 19th February 1966). Won Elections February 1967, 10th March 1971; expelled 12th November 1969; convicted of corruption June 1975; lost power 22nd March 1977 and resigned from Congress; won Election 6th January 1980; son killed 23rd June 1980; shot 31st October 1984, 9:40 am, and died hours later.

THOMAS ZIMMER (Qld.) writes that generally speaking he appreciates the "high level of accuracy and documentation" that I put into my analyses, but regarding the Indira Gandhi assassination he disputes my statement that "there were no transits or Secondary Progressions of any consequence".

Thomas explains that he uses the system of progressing the Midheaven by the value of the Solar-Arc (the Secondary Progressed Sun's arc), which is advocated by R.C. Davison and has been supported in this Astrologers' Forum. Thomas writes that from his experience to date, this is the correct method to use.

Applying this system, Mrs. Gandhi's Natal Sun would have progressed from 26 Sco 51 to 4 Aqu 57 at the date of death (31st October 1984), giving a Zodiacal Solar-Arc of 68dgs.6'. Adding this arc to the Natal Midheaven results in a Progressed MC of 2 Leo 44, from which follows a Progressed Ascendant (at the latitude of birth) of 1 Sco 24.

Thomas now points out that on the 31st of October transiting Pluto was at 2 Sco 17 (square to the MC), and transiting Saturn at 17 Sco 43. This latter position was close to the midpoint of Progressed Saturn and Progressed Uranus (17 Sco 7). Progressed Neptune at 5 Leo 44 was opposite the Progressed Sun at 4 Aqu 5 (see Diagram). Thomas notes that all relevant placements are Angular in the Progressed Chart, and he continues:

"Thus you have a situation where the Progressed Ascendant has just recently moved into Scorpio (ominous), with this point activated by transiting Pluto (also ominous) and squaring the Progressed MC. This sets up a dangerous background influence beginning in late 1983. Then you have Progressed Sun moving to within 1dg. orb of Progressed Neptune by opposition. Neptune rules the 8th House, and from its 12th-House position suggests death by deception, secret enemies, perhaps religious matters. Then you have Saturn coming to its first transit of the Saturn/Uranus opposition. The midpoint is 17 Sco 13, and the midpoint of Progressed Saturn opposite Progressed Uranus is 17 Sco 7. So the Saturn transit as a timer of this event was only four days past exact, and experience has shown me that most transits produce events in the degree following an exact aspect.

"In addition to this we see that Saturn will go on to Station on Mrs. Gandhi's Sun and square the Ascendant. This Station (also Angular) would be the most ominous indicator if one were looking at this from well before the event. And I suggest that this Station could "cast its shadow" forward and backward somewhat, so that it could be said to colour the significance of the transiting Saturn = Saturn/Uranus, which by itself would not predict an assassination. But in the light of Pluto transiting and the Ascendant progressed into Scorpio, Sun p. opposite Neptune p., and the impending Saturn Station, an astrologer just might see a very heavy possibility for that week of 26th October to 4th November 1984.

"I will go on to suggest something else from this analysis. The 4th-House Sun represents progeny, and Mrs. Gandhi has obviously shown her leaning towards establishing a family dynasty through her sons. Personally I do not like this as it is unlikely that a democracy can be turned into a "hereditary monarchy" without loss of integrity. (Her Leo Ascendant also shows family pride as a stronger motive than democratic idealism.) Therefore when Saturn reaches the IC, then the Natal Sun, the retrogrades over these points, all these represent a threat to her son Rajiv, because he fulfills that symbolism. This danger exists for Rajiv at least until transiting Saturn leaves Scorpio, and of course it is not secret that there are forces lined up against him. Let's see what happens.

"But the point remains, for our purposes, that a very "difficult" tale is told by using traditional Secondary Progressions and transits on what would appear to be an accurate Natal Chart. It also fulfils the condition stated by R.C. Davison that any major event will be accompanied by Progressions involving the MC and ASC (either Progressions of the Angles or Progressions to the Angles).

"So, for what it's worth, this is how I would analyse that event. May I also say that I am in agreement with Allan Johnson's approach as he describes it in Practical Prediction, also in the last issue of Astrologers' Forum. I have not invested the necessary effort in investigating the Primary Progressions and Solar Returns so I cannot comment on their value, but I'm far from ready to say that the traditional methods have failed me."

I appreciate Thomas's defence of Secondary Progressions with transits - I use them myself extensively - but in relation to Indira Gandhi's violent death Thomas rests his case on aspects within the Progressed Chart itself, plus transits over Progressed positions. It is generally agreed that these configurations are much weaker than aspects from the Progressed to the Natal Chart, and transits over Natal positions (of which there were none of any consequence). R.C. Davison himself states (The Technique of Prediction, page 23) "The progressed and converse horoscopes only gain their validity through their connection with the nativity, consequently when the student is attempting to assess the importance of the progressed and converse planetary positions, he should relate them to the framework of the natal chart and not to any position they may hold in relation to a new figure based on the progressed or converse Midheaven degree."

The transits that Thomas cites are all "simple" transits - the weakest kind - that is, they are progressing at their normal speed. To be effective signifiers for major events, transits must be stationary, or at least slow in motion, as when approaching or leaving their Stations. Otherwise they are simply "triggers" for the real signifiers, which are Progressions or Directions.

Among the planets to which Thomas has drawn attention in the Progressed Chart Mars is conspicuously absent - Mars, the signifier above all that is associated with violent death by gunshot wounds. The disposition of Pluto, Neptune and Saturn in the Progressed Chart is, at best, a background influence only, and useless for pinpointing the moment of danger. On the other hand this moment was identified within narrow bounds by the Primary Directions and Annual Charts given in the last issue of Astrologers' Forum. Though Thomas has not himself investigated these techniques, I should have thought their value would be apparent to any astrologer who has an open mind for the evidence I have presented here and elsewhere during the past few years.

Readers will no doubt make their own judgement as to the degree of importance to be attached to the indications within the Progressed Chart. I think the generally acknowledged weakness of any Progressed Chart considered per se and not in relation to the Natal Chart debars it as a significant factor. That Thomas could not adduce any compelling indications from Progressed to Natal, that is Progressions as generally practised, bears out my remark regarding the absence of effective Secondaries and transits in the present instance. - Dymock.

From LESLIE BLACK (Eng.): Thank you for another issue of Astrologers' Forum, and top marks to you for a very well-presented article on Indira Gandhi. I, too, used the earlier time from the same source but realised the time was not correct. Not to crowd matters on this issue I would like to add a few comments on the Map.

Everything points to your published Chart of Indira Gandhi being the correct one, as by the Radix System of Directing, with the arc for death being 65dgs.59', the Progressed MC is 0 Leo 37', with ASC 28 Lib 47', New Delhi (residence at death). It is very significant that this Progressed MC should be the Ascendant of the Progressed Solar Return (17'). The Progressed Ascendant being in square to the Natal Moon (10') bears out the Ascendant as the technical point "Hyleg", neither Luminary qualifying by mundane position. This indicates the life to be in great danger when the Moon is under affliction by Direction.

The sinister Eclipse of May this year is very much in evidence in this case, as not only was it square to Mrs. Gandhi's Radical Mars (20') but both Saturn and Mars in the Eclipse Map were on the upper Meridian in Central India at about 84 dgs. East Longitude, indicating grave danger to the Head of State there, accompanied by the widespread destruction and physical violence that has since been witnessed.

Indira Gandhi's Horoscope, judged from the standpoint of the Porphyry House division, is a very strong one indeed, which certainly identifies her as being the most powerful lady in the world in her time. In every sense she lived up to her reputation as "The Iron Lady of India". Her Horoscope seems a very difficult one to delineate owing to its complexity, as with Fixed Signs on all four Angles, the number of planets in Fixed Signs, and no fewer than six planets Angular, she was certainly a character to be reckoned with. She was extremely extrovert, which helped her to overcome obstacles, especially when others tried to block her path or progress. At the same time she displayed stability, self-confidence and determination, fuelled by a marked obstinacy and stubbornness.

Her Aries-Leo Decanate Ascendant created in her ambition, diplomacy and the pioneering instinct. She was equally possessed of a generous nature and sincerity in friendship, which were greatly accentuated by the fixed star Regulus in attendance. But the ominous affliction of both Rulers (Sun and Mars) indicated that the life would be a very "fateful" one, which was aggravated by the unpredictable nature of Uranus opposing the Saturn-Neptune conjunction.

Her mentality polarized by the rising Mars T-Square to Mercury and Jupiter presented a complex mentality indeed. While there were stimulation, inspiration and intuitiveness, a tendency to carelessness and imprudence was also in evidence. The T-Square caused her mental processes to clash discordantly with her physical energies, which added a certain combativeness and irritability to her nature. Contention seemed to dominate her life; she courted disagreements and rebuffs, making her path a most difficult one to tread.

Indira Gandhi was projected into politics through her father's influence, a hereditary one denoted by the Sun's Fourth-House position in sextile to the Moon in the political Sign Capricorn. Unfortunately, the Moon being weak by House and Sign made her too adventuresome, which attracted eventual unpopularity among her colleagues. At the same time, Saturn, the Ruler of Capricorn, in the Sign of its "fall" opposite Uranus is dangerous both from a personal and political standpoint. The late Carter referred to this aspect as a "distinctly violent combination on the external side, and [it] must be regarded as capable of endangering bodily safety, being significant of a certain amount of hard struggle, a strenuous worker, and one who enjoys 'laborious days'".

In conclusion, it may be appropriate to draw attention to "The Degrees of the Zodiac Symbolized" (translated from La Volasfera by Sepharial): Leo 27 Rising - A Dagger. This is an ominous sign; it may mean danger to the native at the hands of an enemy or, yet more unhappily, it may mean the reverse of this. The native will certainly be of a quarrelsome, argumentative nature, given to impulsive action. A restless and destructive mind, always on the alert to attack, to oppose, to argue. Very executive, but by no means constructive in disposition, and hence liable to go through life like a tornado, remarked but not esteemed. It is a degree of Destroying.

From RUDOLF SMIT (Vic): Apparently Dymock misunderstood me when I used the word "rectification" in regard to Joanna Ashmun's Challenge. Joanna wrote in Astrologers' Forum No. 38, page 4, "Two of these are classical rectification events..." What I wanted to make clear is that I do not regard a cash legacy of just $2000 as an event suitable for rectification, therefore not an event easily indicated in any progressed chart. Neither do I find an unpleasant physical condition as the mumps something that has to show up in any chart. It is a different matter with the death of a parent, and with an event such as "the one and only great love".

I would not have been surprised if almost nobody could match these events with the dates (which is how matters turned out).

Of course I know that the Topocentric Primary Directions are not Dymock's. But I used (within quotes) the term "his" Primaries, because that is what usually happens, when someone strongly advocates a certain system. Here in Melbourne, for example, the Primaries known as PEA, are also known as "Rudolf's Primaries" although I have made clear several times that they are not my invention.

The differences between PEA (Prime Event Analysis) and Topocentric Primary Directions are that PEA uses a different time key (based on the motion of the Secondary Sun) and works with the pure Zodiacal position - Celestial Latitude and Declination are not taken into account, as they are with Top.P.D.'s. But both systems project their motion onto the Zodiac, and in that sense both systems may be called Zodiacal. As for the term "mundane", ALL systems of Primary Directions are essentially mundane, because they pertain to the diurnal motion (i.e. based on the rotation of the Earth around its axis on the day of birth). What is actually happening in these systems is the apparent motion during the day of the heavenly bodies through the local sphere. It is this local sphere, divided into twelve sections, that we call "Astrological Houses". Hence, in Primary Directions the planets move along their individual diurnal paths through the Houses, which in any system form the Mundane part of the horoscope. For this reason all systems of Primary Directions are essentially Mundane and not Zodiacal. Pure Zodiacal progressions are the Secondaries, the Transits, and to a certain extent also the Solar-Arc Progressions.

As for Dymock's proposal to extend PEA to converse motion, the inventor of PEA, Wim van Dam, would certainly not agree as he has always had the strongest objection to this.

Regarding Indira Gandhi's Chart, it is by no means certain that the 11:39 pm time as given by Lois Rodden is the correct one. Other books quote the 11:11 pm time (Doris Greaves, Melbourne, told me that this is the first time ever given and it was provided to the Astrological Lodge in London), while an Indian astrologer, claiming to have been Indira's personal astrological counsellor, says that the correct time is 11:25. (It must be noted here that very probably more Indian astrologers claim to have been Indira's personal astrologer.) If this confusion exists I doubt very much that any of these times is reliable. There might even be a grain of truth in the allegation that Indira had issued a wrong birth time, just to "protect" herself from the tens of thousands of Indian astrologers, eager to predict every move she would make during her life.

As for the 11:39 time given by L. Rodden and worked out by Dymock, I find the Topocentric P.D.'s given by Dymock and seemingly pertaining to her sudden violent death hardly convincing. I have never accepted aspects to midpoints as major aspects, but only as "auxiliary" aspects - and then my preference goes to close conjunctions. I think that the most major event in someone's life (death) should be indicated by hard aspects to real celestial bodies and not to midpoints, or in-between House Cusps. If these aspects (to real celestial bodies) are not there, then we simply have to admit that astrology does not provide the answer in every case, instead of resorting to dozens and dozens of midpoints or any other of the many auxiliary techniques. All in all, the evidence for Indira's Chart is in my opinion far from conclusive.

This brings me to the proliferation of techniques. I can only agree with Allan Johnson when he says that "...the trend of continually introducing new factors into a chart could make it unworkable. We could get to the point where there are more sensitive degrees in a chart than there are degrees in a circle" (see Forum 40). As a matter of fact, there already are more sensitive points than degrees in a circle, when for example we take all midpoints and planetary pictures as postulated by the Hamburg School. The quantity of "sensitive points" then easily exceeds several hundreds!

Astrology should work with the major systems, even reduced to their bare bones.

If we constantly introduce more and more points and systems we do indeed enlarge the occurrence of "hits". But does that prove anything? Certainly not. It then becomes a matter of chance - it is like shooting at an enormous target. The larger it is the greater the chance that you'll get a hit, but then the chance that such a hit is due to chance alone is becoming greater and greater, and the chance that there is a genuine astrological effect is becoming smaller and smaller.

This brings me to the converse systems of progressions. Honestly, I am amazed that so far none of the readers have lodged a strong protest against the use of those converse transits and Solar Returns. I am not afraid to confess that I am one of those people who do not agree with the "rationale" of these systems. I once said in these columns that in principle I accept Converse Primary Directions (because they are a reflective motion of the "Direct" P.D.'s, in the sense that instead of A moving to B, it is B that seems to move to A), and the Converse Secondaries. The latter I am willing to investigate, mainly because the native is alive and well (in the mother's womb). But I cannot and do not accept those converse transits, converse Solar Returns, and what have you. Why? Quite simple: I was born early in 1942; at the moment it is 1984, almost 1985. Using converse transits for my present age (42/43) I should have to go back to the year 1899 - a period of time when my four grandparents did not even know each other! In other words, I was only existent in the genes of my grand- and great-grand-parents and all the other forebears. As a being of flesh and blood I was simply not there! (I may have been in another existence, but that is a different matter altogether). That is reason enough to reject these converse transits and converse Solar Returns!

The philosophical rationale as given by Dymock is acceptable to a certain point only. Modern physics does indeed support the idea that time is the fourth dimension. Parapsychological research also supports the idea that time has always been there, forwards and backwards - good clairvoyants can indeed look into the past, the present and the future. But that does not mean at all that the past reflects the present in astrological terms to the extent postulated by Alexander Marr and Dymock. Let me put it this way:

Time is like a thick book - with hundreds and hundreds of pages. The book is there from the first to the last page, but we can't read all the pages at the same time. In the book of life a living entity - a human being for example - can only exist on, say, 70 to 100 pages of the book. What comes after may be a consequence of his/her deeds, but what comes before has only the slightest relationship to these 70 to 100 pages. In astrological terms, planetary positions synchronising with these 70 to 100 pages may have some relationship with them, but this synchronisation, related to the entity in question, is not there before and after those 70 to 100 pages.

The argument that "it works" is hardly a valid argument: One can make any system work if one wants to. The early readers of these columns may recall my story about a Dutch astrologer who had invented the so-called "Minus-1" System of progressions. He started the progressions one year before the native was actually born, although he never had realized that it truly started even before the baby was conceived. When we told him about this strange feat, he became terribly embarrassed and aggressive about it. But he stuck to it, because "it worked" and apparently he had some nice results with it now and then. However, an astrological friend of mine then "invented" a minus-2, a minus-3 and a minus-4 system, and behold, these also gave nice scores as well...now and then. As for me, I remember that inadvertently I looked up transits in the wrong years, and had fantastic hits, truly pertaining to the events I was trying to match. However, they were in the wrong years...

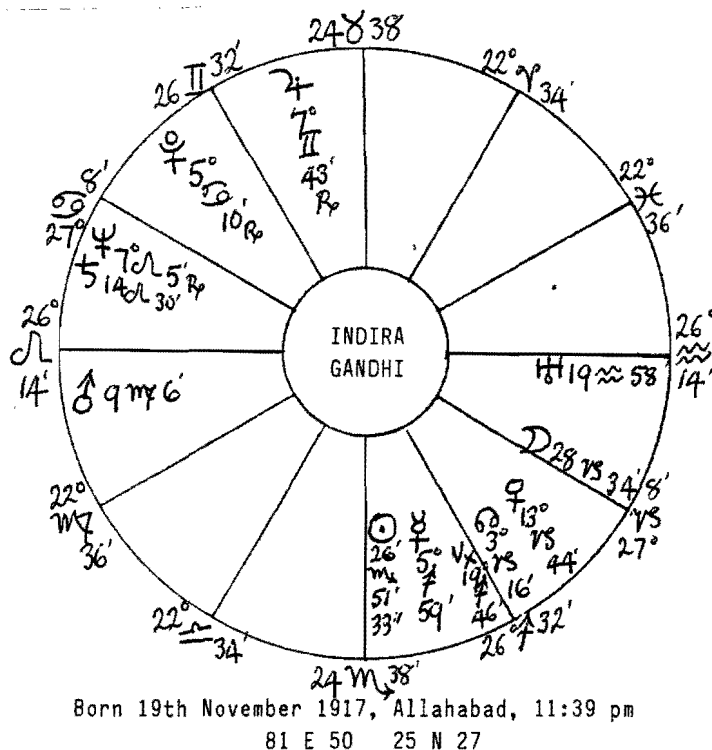

Again one can make any system work if one wants to. It is not only practice that counts, i.e. that it "works"; it must have a solid astronomical and mathematical basis. Before one knows it, one can chase a mighty illusion. There is another thing as well - we astrologers tend to forget that there is also another world than the astrological one. Not everything can be explained astrologically. Thus a seemingly astrological effect may have a perfectly non-astrological explanation instead. We do not have to be statisticians to understand that with the present multitude of astrological factors and their very rich symbology pure chance may indeed play a role after all.

Indeed astrology is about the interactions between the Heavens and the Earth. But I think it is about time that we come back to Earth and face reality, instead of going on chasing Neptunian illusions.

Rudolf's essay is an interesting example of the working of the rational mind, which is always to be respected, provided we do not lose sight of its limitations. These are most apparent in Rudolf's struggle to provide a logical explanation for converse motion, accepting some forms and rejecting others. His comments are indeed entertaining, and we should be grateful for any humorous interlude in this generally sober world. His effort to reconcile the question of Time with the beliefs of modern physics is also sincere, even if it strikes one as futile. More of these matters later.

As regards the Primary system, Zodiacal and Mundane Directions are distinguished by their method of calculation. Zodiacal Directions (the ones most usually computed) are concerned with distance in the Zodiac. Mundane Directions are calculated by House spaces and proportions thereof.

In Indira Gandhi's Chart (below) the Arc of Direction for the Mundane Aspect Pluto conjunct the Ascendant is equal to one House space of Pluto (that is, one-third of its Diurnal Semi-Arc) plus its Equatorial distance from the 12th Cusp. This mundane distance is the difference between two-thirds of the Semi-Arc and Pluto's distance in Right Ascension from the upper Meridian.

By calculation we find that Pluto's Diurnal Semi-Arc is 99dgs.18' (two-thirds of which is 66dgs.12'), and its distance from the Meridian is 43dgs.10'. The difference between 66dgs.12' and 43dgs.10' is 23dgs.2'.

Adding this to one-third of Pluto's D.S.A, 33dgs.6', we get 56dgs.8', the Mundane Arc of Direction of Pluto to the Ascendant. By the normal Topocentric Time Measure this Mundane Direction occurred on the First of November 1974.

On the other hand, the Zodiacal Arc of Direction of Pluto to the Ascendant (by the Topocentric method) is arrived at by calculating the distance between Pluto's Oblique Ascension (91dgs.25') under it's own Pole (11dgs.41'), and the Oblique Ascension of the Ascendant (145dgs.47') under Pluto's Pole. This Arc is 54dgs.22', and by the same Topocentric Time Measure, occurred on 19th January 1973.

As regards the correct Nativity for Indira Gandhi, neither Rudolf nor I were able to find any relevant Directions for the 11:29 pm birth time, so I think we may safely eliminate this. I did find relevant Directions for the 11:39pm time, as pointed out in the last Astrologers' Forum, and apparently so have others, so I still accept this Chart. It is legitimate to theorize that significant events must be shown by aspects to planets and not to midpoints, but when theory does not accord with the facts we must give priority to the latter.

The proliferation of techniques is not something to be deplored but to be welcomed, as giving scope for investigation. Dismissing suggested new techniques out of hand closes the door on astrological progress. It is not a matter of "accepting" or "not accepting" on theoretical grounds, but of testing and trying, putting new ideas to the practical test, and thus sorting the wheat from the chaff. We could go on debating the "rationale" of systems ad infinitum, without anyone being much wiser, when the matters under discussion could be settled by a combined research effort. This is longer and harder than just discussing possibilities, or impossibilities, which is no doubt why it is less popular. One must also remember that in the course of history many things have been deemed "impossible" that were later found to be entirely practical and feasible.

I see no justification for assuming that "astrology should work with the major systems, even reduced to their bare bones". Why should they? And, in fact, they often don't, as Rudolf himself has observed. What are we to do then - just accept this, or try to remedy the defects in our procedures? I agree that not everything can be explained astrologically, but I also believe that astrology is capable of providing much more information than we currently extract from it. We should bend our efforts towards unlocking the secrets of the Signs and planets, even if this means following many untrodden paths, including some that the "rational mind" might reject.

Rudolf has come to accept Converse Primaries and Converse Secondaries after arriving at what is to him a logical explanation. In my view the validity of these techniques has nothing whatever to do with the reasons he has advanced, but that is unimportant. He condemns converse transits, and Prenatal Solar Returns, because at the time they were operative he had no existence, and he writes amusingly about his four grandparents not even knowing each other. Here, I think, is one of the limitations of the rational mind: It prevents one from accepting the possibility of ideas having a basis of truth even if they are not susceptible of reason and logic. It is much the same with Rudolf's concept of Time - the simile of the thick book in which an entity exists only in a limited number of pages. This ignores the spiritual part of man, which could very well go back to the beginning of time, setting causes in motion long before physical birth. And is it not at least possible that these causes are recorded in prenatal positions of the planets?

One cannot "make any system work if one wants to" without a complete loss of integrity. That is, one has to keep bending the rules to make it work. Such practices are not what concerns us here. The little anecdote about the "Minus-1" System is funny, but has no bearing on responsible astrological enquiry.

Neither does the argument of the mistimed transits have any weight. The Cosmos is like a giant time-piece - positions repeat themselves at longer or shorter intervals, as they do on an every-day clock. But in Prenatal Transits and Solar Returns the only positions of any value are those occurring within a fixed, definite and narrow time span. All the others are irrelevant.

To conclude, the present "multitude of astrological factors" and proposed new techniques has to be reduced by testing and trying, and where necessary invoking the aid of statistics, but not by throwing them holus-bolus out of the window because they do not necessarily agree with present ideas of what is possible and what is not. It is true the busy practitioner may have to confine him/herself to a few proven methods as there is little time to pursue new ideas in the course of earning a living. But where the advancement of the art is concerned no such considerations should apply. The progress and rounding out of astrology depends on the creative thinking of the dedicated worker. - Dymock.

From ALEXANDER MARR (Fed.Rep.Germany): I would like to draw the reader's attention to the fact that Solar and Lunar Eclipses are already effective a few days before they come into operation.

The Solar Eclipse of 22nd November 1984, 22h 57m GMT, computed for Mexico City, 99 W 45, 19 N23, (Chart A) obviously shows traces of the fatal explosion which on 19th November 1984, 5h 40m local time (11h 40m GMT) killed over 300 people, injured about 2000 and destroyed an enormous number of houses.

MARS on the MC (fire) in Aquarius (gas explosion), orb in R.A. = 1dg.17', in a mundane sextile to URANUS (explosion) on Cusp VIII (orb in O.D. = 2dgs.).

PLUTO in Scorpio (VI) is squaring MARS on the Midheaven.

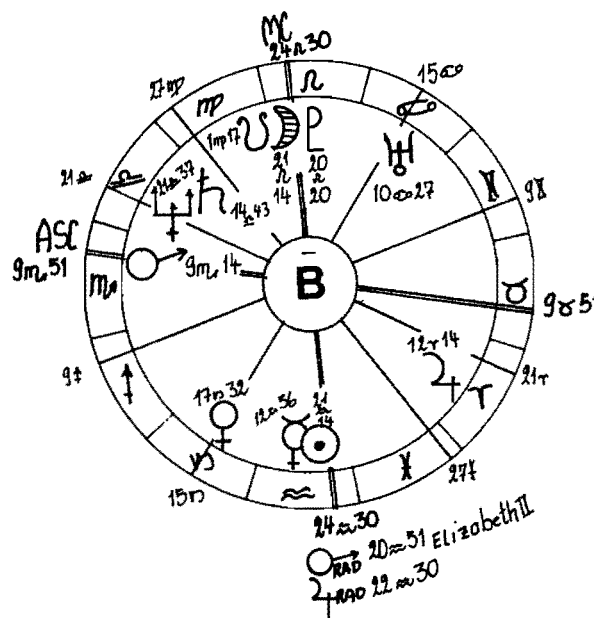

SOLAR ECLIPSE

22nd Nov. 1984 22h 57m GMT
Mexico City Topocentric Cusps

The Transit Chart for the event (not reproduced) shows a remarkably exact conjunction of the transiting Sun (27 Sco 20) to the Descending Node of the Eclipse (27 Sco 13; orb 7').

Another significant example for the premature efficacy of eclipses is the death of KING GEORGE VI, 6th February 1952. Here the LUNAR ECLIPSE of 11th February 1952, 0h 28m 3s E.T., computed for LONDON (Chart B) is obviously not only impressive as a chart itself, but also if applied to the Radix of

QUEEN ELIZABETH II.

LUNAR ECLIPSE

11th February 1952 0h 27m 33s GMT
London Topocentric Cusps

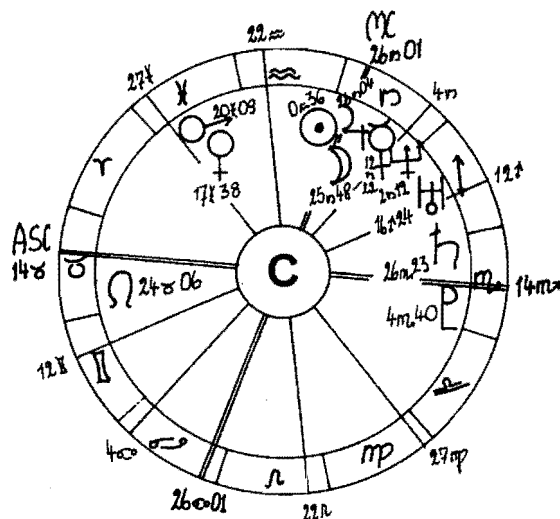

The SUN of the Eclipse is conjunct the MARS-JUPITER conjunction of her Radix (she became Queen). MOON conjunct PLUTO in opposition to this configuration is conjunct her Radical Neptune. As demonstrated in Prediction 1 and II, the Mars-Jupiter conjunction in the Queen's Chart plays an important role in connection with the death of her father, as well as in her succession (symbolism for succession = Jupiter/Pluto).

The Eclipse evaluated as a self-dependent mundane chart shows the Sun, on its weakest point, the IC, and in Aquarius, in opposition to the MOON-PLUTO conjunction on the MC, is characteristic for the death of a ruler of state, and the mourning of the country. MARS in Scorpio, in a mundane square to the MC (in the royal Sign Leo) and its surrounding planets reinforce the dynamics of this Chart.

Chart C shows the possible Inauguration of President Ronald Reagan. United State's Inaugurations, as experience shows, happen very punctually on the same day of the year, and to an exact time. I invite the reader to analyse this Chart in connection with the President's Radix (Astrologers' Forum No.38). Besides other things, the favourable MOON-JUPITER conjunction almost exact on the MC is conjunct Reagan's URANUS, and sextile to his Radical ASC. Saturn conjunct his Radical ASC should not produce much harm, as Jupiter is elevated over Saturn, and in a favourable sextile. As can be seen in Reagan's Prenatal Epoch (A.F. No.

38), the MC of Chart C, with its planets, has close, favourable connections to this Chart too.

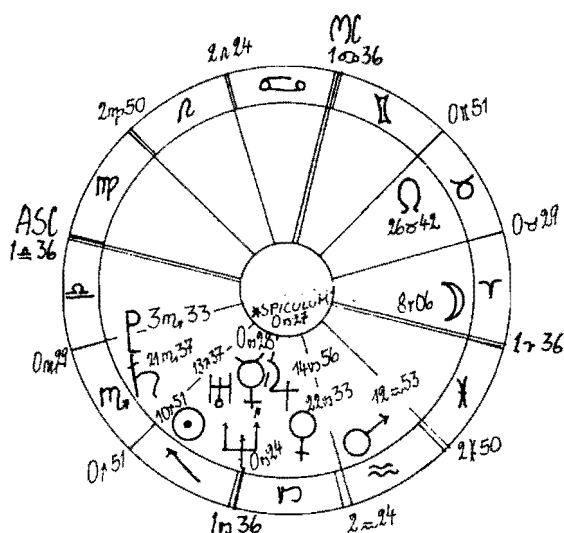

The ASC-DESC axis of the Inauguration Chart falls very accurately on the favourable MOON-JUPITER opposition of Reagan's Natal Chart.

INAUGURATION

20th Jan. 1985 17h 00m GMT
Washington D.C. Topoc. Cusps

[Alexander also submits the following Chart as a Transit Chart for the Bhopal Disaster, drawn for a time different to that given in Time Magazine.]

BHOPAL DISASTER (Transit Chart)

Dec. 3, 1984 ; 1h 40m L.T. 77 E 24
Dec. 2, 1984 ; 20h 10m U.T. 23 N 16
Topocentric Cusps

remarkable conjunction of planets and a cluster on the IC.

In my experience, main clusters like Praesaepe (7 Leo) have been associated with people having been gas-poisoned, sometimes causing blindness.

One of these cases was Adolf HITLER, who suffered a very dangerous gas-poisoning at the end of World War I. This caused temporary blindness, while the chief factors involved were The ASC, MARS, NEPTUNE and PRAESAEP. (For the Radix of Hitler and Directions, see Prediction II, page 96-101.)

Strangely enough, the gas of the Bhopal Disaster had the same mixture of chemicals as Phosgene, a very dangerous gas, much used at the end of World War I.

In our case the cluster SPICULUM, situated exactly on the Ecliptic (no latitude), is in 0 Cap 27', conjunct MERCURY 0 Cap 28' (air, lungs) and NEPTUNE 0 Cap 24' (gas, poison), the whole group being close to the IC and in Ecliptical and mundane square to the Ascendant.

It is also noticeable that here the Zero Degree of Capricorn plays the decisive role. Capricorn is a Cardinal Sign that is generally used for the computation of the main Sun Ingress, both Tropical and Sidereal.

Another noticeable Cluster near the Ecliptic is FACIES (1984, 8 Cap 5'). It is conjunct Hitler's Radical Moon (orb 13').

RECTIFICATION EXERCISE

Try your hand at this: Below is a list of important dates in the life of a person whose birth date and time are accurately known. Can you rectify the Chart? Entries received will be relayed to Dr. Geoffrey Dean (W.A) who has the solution. It is well worth attempting. Have a go!

CHART 05: Female born in Australia on 23/9/1933 at 35 S 15, 147 E 02

10 11 1902	Mother born
20 02 1903	Father born
20 05 1931	Sister born
23 11 1931	Husband born
17 03 1956	Married
25 02 1958	Father died
12 05 1960	Son born
11 04 1962	Son born
30 03 1965	Son born
03 09 1972	Mother died
24 01 1975	Operation in hospital
18 09 1979	Divorced
20 08 1981	Started own business
30 05 1983	Sold business

[Alexander's comments:] This Chart shows a

"FRANK" still incarcerated! More on this and the Challenge next month. A happy New Year to all. - Dymock, 3/1/1985.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785.
Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas). Issue No. 40.

19th November 1984

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

TRAGEDY IN INDIA

Since our last Issue, many astrologers have no doubt been investigating the astrological factors surrounding the violent death of Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi at the hands of political assassins. Mrs. Gandhi died in a fusillade of bullets on the 31st of October at her home in New Delhi about 9:40 am local time.

I present hereunder her Birth Chart, with the close timing of Topocentric Primary Directions, and the Annual Chart covering the date of her death, as well as the Quarterly Chart of 20th August 1984 (a little more than two months before her assassination). These Horoscopes are all highly indicative of Indira Gandhi's violent demise, of which she reportedly had some presentiment.

I should mention here that RUDOLF SMIT (VIC) also sent in an analysis, but unfortunately based it on the wrong Chart - one for 11:11 pm, instead of 11:39 pm, obtained in 1977 and given by Lois Rodden in Profiles of Women. Rudolf's investigations yielded nothing significant, which in the circumstance of wrong data was only to be expected.

The correct Radix, and its subsidiaries, tell the story.

In the Birth Chart we see the Sun in Scorpio at the Cusp of the terminal 4th House, in almost exact square to the Ascending Degree, and afflicted by the square of Uranus (a sudden end). Mercury, also in the "End of Life" House is afflicted by a powerful Mars in the Ascendant and an elevated Jupiter, forming a T-Square, Jupiter being Co-Ruler of the House of Death. The danger from Mars is accentuated by its co-rulership of the 4th House.

This is sufficient for political assassination, but in addition we have Pluto, the dispositor of the Sun and Mercury, elevated and opposing the North Node of the Moon (enmity of large groups), with Neptune and Saturn in the House of Secret Enemies and Plots, Saturn being itself in opposition to Uranus.

In This Issue

Assassination of Indira Gandhi

1

Practical Prediction

4

More on the British Eclipse Chart

4

Prime Minister Thatcher

5

Comment on the Challenge

5

PEA and Topocentric Primary Directions

6

Converse Motion

6

Solution to the Challenge

6

There was certainly a formidable array of squares and oppositions in this Chart, but that is how great characters are made, and Indira Gandhi was a great lady. It was a tremendous feat to become the democratic leader of seven hundred million people and retain that position (regaining it after severe reverses) through nearly two decades of political struggle.

Indira Gandhi died on 31/10/1984. The Topocentric Primary Directions were

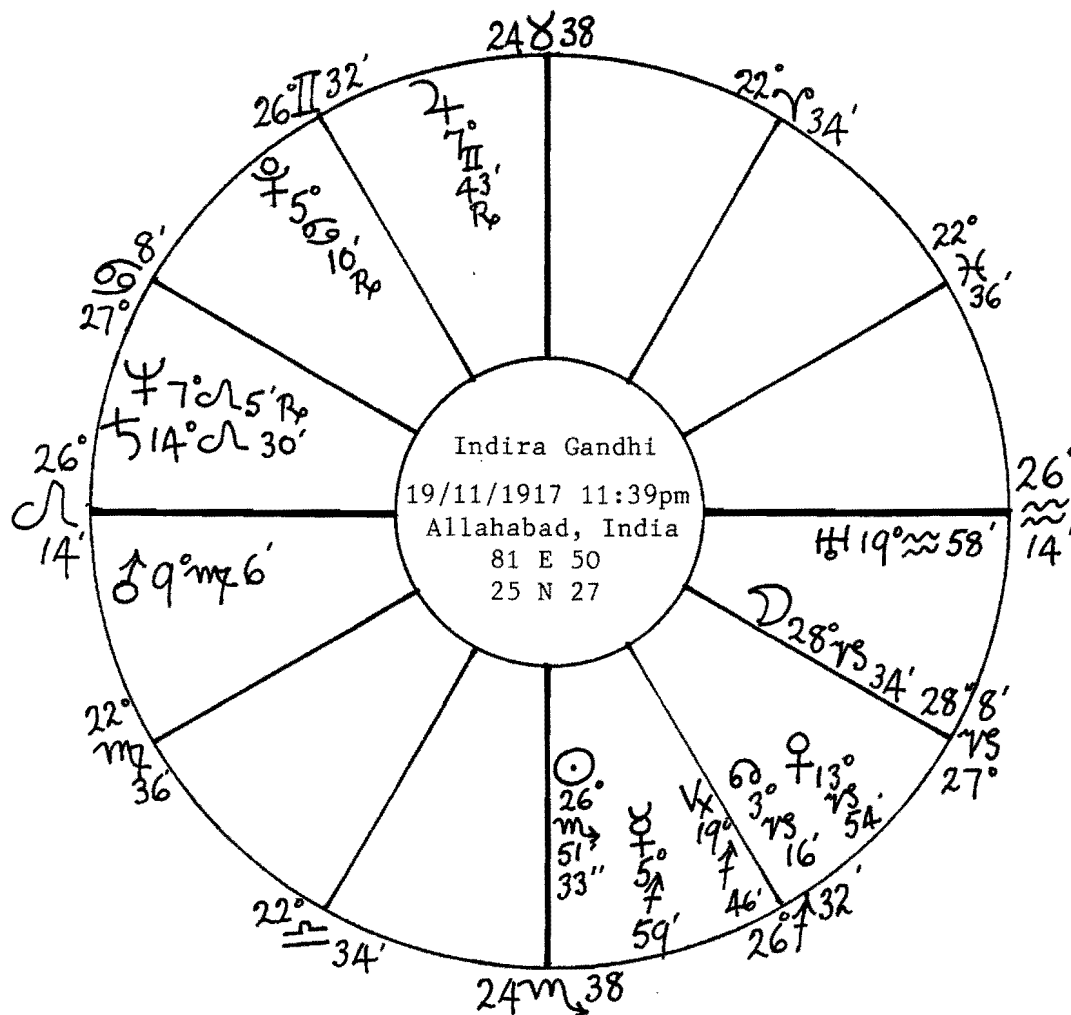

PLUTO (Ruling the Radical 4th H.)
OPPOSITE ASCENDANT/NODE (29 Lib 45) on 28/10/1984 (this activates the Natal Pluto/Node opposition), and

MARS SQUARE MERCURY/SATURN (10 Lib 14) on 1/11/1984.

This last Direction involves the 1st, 4th and 12th Houses - The physical body, the end of life, and secret enemies. (Mrs. Gandhi fell to the weapons of her own security guards.)

As can be seen, the second Direction occurred within one day of the death, and the first within three days.

In the "Age Harmonic" (66), Saturn at 26 Sco 54 and Uranus at 27 Sco 53 were both closely conjunct the Sun at 26 Sco 52.

Topocentric Cusps (identical with Placidian except for Cusps 11/5 and 12/6, which are 1' more).

There is no need to enlarge on the significance of this.

MAP 2 is the Annual Chart covering the time of the assassination. Due allowance has been made for Zodiacal precession to ensure that the calculation involves the Sun's true position in relation to the fixed stars and not the shifting Tropical Zodiac. The precession from 19/11/1917 to 31/10/1984 is 55'33" (taken from the Stahl-Allen Synetic Vernal Point Ephemeris), and this added to the Sun's Zodiacal Position at Mrs. Gandhi's birth (26 Sco 51'33") gives 27 Sco 47'6". The Sun returned to this point in the Zodiac at 16h21m24s U.T. on 20th November, 1983.

The Map is cast for Mrs. Gandhi's place of residence at the time, New Delhi. Its significance is immediately apparent: The Rising Degree falls in the 12th House (Secret Enemies) of the Natal Chart, and is in almost exact square to Pluto (orb 19'). Pluto and Saturn are together in the 4th House (End of Life). The Moon rules the 12th House and is in close opposition to the Sun ruling the Ascendant, but, even worse, it forms a malefic YOD with Pluto and Neptune. This "Finger of Fate" aspect certainly lived up to its name. The trine to the Moon and sextile to the Ascendant by Mars served only to accentuate the danger.

Topocentric Primary Directions in this Annual Chart (using twelve times the normal rate of progression) yield the following aspects:

SUN CONJUNCT URANUS on 24/10/1984, and URANUS CONJUNCT SUN on 20/10/1984.

It should be noted that the House of the Physical Body and the House of death are the two Sectors governed by these Significators. Though the timing is a little less precise than with the major Directions in the Birth Chart itself, these minor Directions are particularly symptomatic of sudden death.

MAP 3 is the QUARTERLY SOLAR RETURN, also precessed, erected for the 20th of August 1984, when the Sun formed the final square to its Natal position. Here again the dire portents are repeated: Mars, ruling the Ascendant, is located in the House of Death

Precessed Solar Return 20/11/1983 New Delhi
Topocentric Cusps

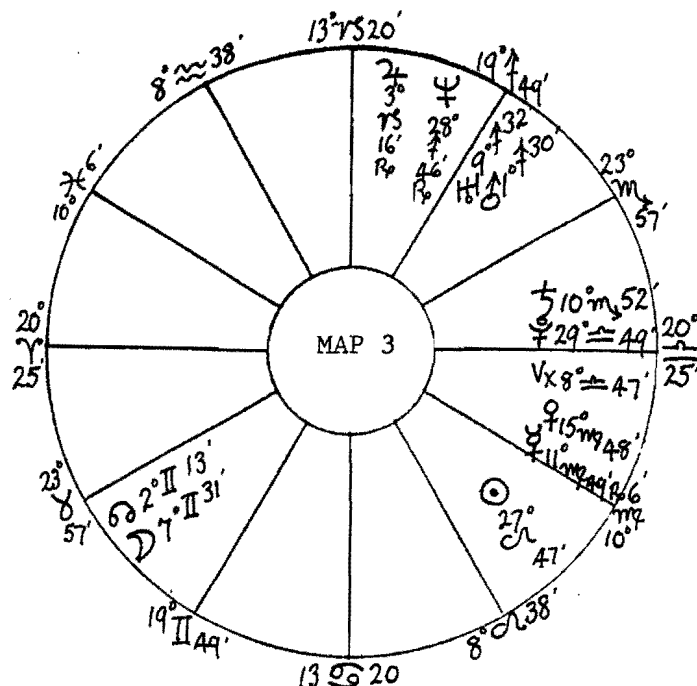

square to the Sun. Both Mars and Uranus from the House of Death oppose the Moon, ruling the End of Life House. Neptune ruling the 12th House is sextile to Pluto and trines the Sun, showing the secret machinations of enemies.

MAP 4 is the normal LUNAR RETURN preceding Mrs. Gandhi's death. The Moon returned to its Birth position (28 Cap 34'28") on the 30th October, less than 24 hours before the assassination. This Chart is not precessed, because though precessed Solar Returns have established their validity for me, such is not the case with Lunar Returns. I am aware that there are different opinions on this.

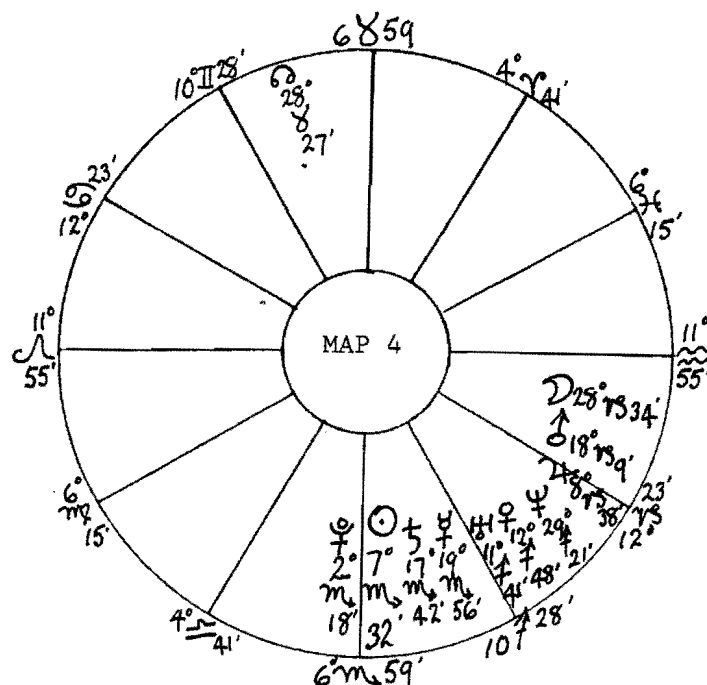

The evil omens in this Chart are the Ascendant conjunct Radical Saturn, the 8th Cusp opposite Radical Mars, the Sun and Pluto conjunct the 4th Angle, Saturn conjunct Mercury in the 4th Sector, the Moon in the same degree as the Nodes (a portent of calamity), and Uranus trine the Ascendant (for SUDDENNESS).

The picture is complete, despite the fact that there were no transits or Secondary Progressions of any consequence.

Farewell to one of the outstanding figures of our time. Could the tragedy have been averted? Even with foreknowledge it is hard to guard against treachery when it occurs among close, trusted associates. Jesus Christ was betrayed by a Disciple. In this case the Master knew, but events were allowed to take their course.

Quarterly Solar Return (Precessed) 20/8/84
Topocentric Cusps

Normal Lunar Return, 30/10/1984
Topocentric Cusps

Astrologically, what do we learn? This at least, that if we would know the planetary connotations of events we have to dig deeper than transits and Secondary Progressions.

- Dymock.

From ALLAN JOHNSON (NSW):

Practical Prediction

Re Joanna M. Ashmun's dilemma about judging what are significant transits, I agree with Dymock about keeping to close orbs for aspects. I find one degree is enough unless a planet is stationary. I have found repeatedly that a transit will work effectively with a two or three degree orb when stationary. I think we are pinpointing where the whole skill and art of predictive work lies when we consider selectivity when working with the available data.

The practice that a lot of textbooks give of listing every piece of possible data, including every Progressed Moon aspect, can result in such a long catalogue of material it becomes impossible to handle. So the answer is to simplify and ignore a lot of factors and get the thing back to more manageable proportions.

I do a tremendous amount of predictive work and have been consistently doing it for a sizeable number of years. So I have had to be practical and work out a system that helps me to come up with reasonably good results. We have to face the fact that it is not possible to handle everything in astrology. I think it is best to decide on one method of progressions and stick to that, not jumping back and forth from this system to that.

I use Secondaries, but how much I use the Progressed Moon depends on the individual chart; sometimes not at all. I think what we have got to aim at is to look for supportive factors, that is where we get a number of factors, whether Progressions or transits, pointing in the one direction. Isolated factors are usually not so important. And of course you can't use every transiting planet, nor every aspect. I just use the five outer planets and the four major aspects and keep to that. Transits of inner planets have very minor effect. But if we can get a major Progression lining up with a major transit of, say, Pluto or Uranus, the odds in favour of coming up with a really successful prediction are very high indeed.

I think the big thing is to look for the major configuration in the chart and see if you get any effective transits to that. In such a case they will nearly always work. For instance if there is a T-Square in the chart then watch the sensitive degrees of that, which are not great in number. Maybe just using one transiting planet will be enough to touch off the configuration and give you a clear picture of forthcoming events.

Stationary points are usually most effective. The thing is to clear the deck till you get a few major factors that stand out clearly. It is all a question of selectivity, of deciding which you want to use and which you don't. It is no good simply plodding through everything. Of course there are transits happening all the time, but these sorts of transits are not happening all the time.

But predictive work requires talent for it. It is an art, just as music or painting is an art. You get a feel for it, and intuition has a part to play as well as the mathematical side.

A lot of people would like it to be a straightforward mathematical science, but predicting the future can never be that. If it did we would be living in a quite different type of world. This is why prediction will never be successfully done with computers. Some people would like to merely press buttons and have your future mapped out for you. But there are too many complexities to life for that.

I think every astrologer will from time to time come upon a prediction that is uncannily accurate, that bowls the astrologer over just as much as the client. But it could create a wrong impression if the astrologer makes a lot of this to other clients. They could get the impression that this is how things always are, and all they have to do is to wait for things to happen. In a lot of cases a client has to go out and make things happen, even if they are predicted.

I think, finally, we can only establish the validity of astrology by using it in a practical way. If we get results we will continue to use it. The fact that statisticians throw up their hands is of little moment. If a doctor finds it helps him to pinpoint vulnerable areas, or a psychologist to diagnose a case, then that is the reason for its validity.

But I do think the trend of continually introducing new factors into a chart could make it unworkable. We could get to the point where there are more sensitive degrees in a chart than there are degrees in the circle.

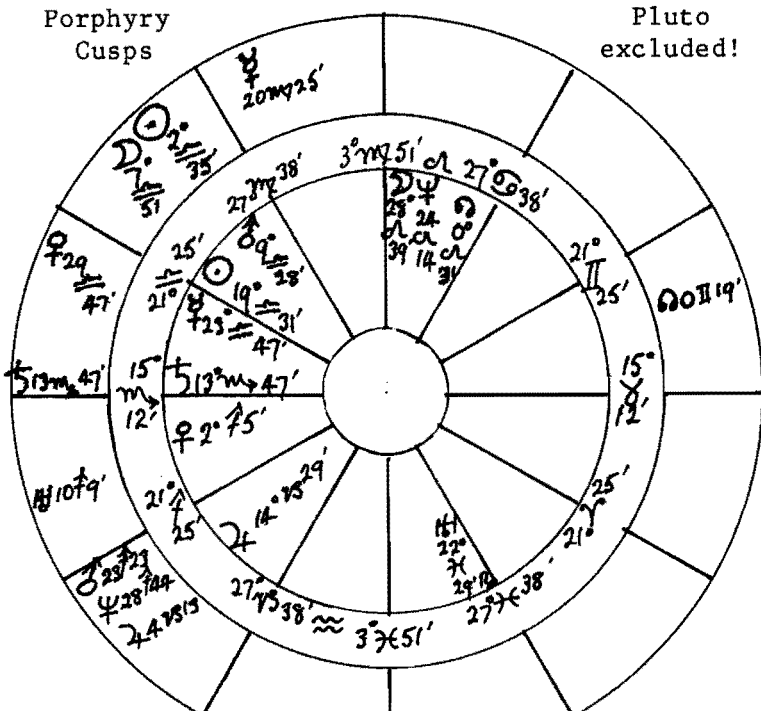

From LESLIE BLACK (England): I would like to add a footnote to the British Earthquake and Eclipse Chart. By applying the same measure for progression as stated, the Direction in force for this map for October was PROGRESSED SATURN OPPOSITE MERCURY. We had another train crash on the 11th, with three dead, and on the 12th the I.R.A. Brighton bomb outrage - four dead, and many seriously injured, including top politicians and their wives.

It is significant that Saturn rules both the Third and Fourth Houses of this Chart, i.e., railways and public buildings, and the Sign Aquarius on the Fourth Cusp rules BRIGHTON, mundanely!

Porphyry
Cusps

Pluto
excluded!

Born Tuesday, 9.00 am, 13th October 1925, at Grantham, 52 N 55 0 W 39

Saturn Revolution 25th Sept. 1984. Tues. Noon

Prime Minister Thatcher

The Brighton bomb incident was a planned attempt by terrorists to kill the Prime Minister and most of her Cabinet, housed in a public place, which was not surprising owing to the opposition Mrs. Thatcher draws to herself through her own Chart. Blessed with a somewhat "blighted Venus", she tries desperately to woo and charm the electorate and others on the one hand, while on the other she bows to her "taskmaster" Saturn, rising in Scorpio, to rule them like the "Iron Lady" she is dubbed.

While Venus is a strong influence in her physical make-up it is under affliction by the Luminaries and the Upper Meridian, and rules both Houses of Secret and Open Enemies (12th and 7th).

In the light of this recent event, it may be in order to draw attention to Mrs. Thatcher's second revolution of Saturn in her Chart. This occurred the previous month on the 25th of September, at noon precisely. The appended Chart shows the Saturn Revolution superimposed on the Radical, with the revolutionary Venus poised in the Twelfth House in square to the Moon's Nodes, while the evil South Node is on Radical Venus. But the most dangerous position is the conjunction of MARS AND NEPTUNE (an anarchical influence) in square to Radical URANUS. This shows danger through explosion in places used for conferences, or anywhere used for assembly, as denoted by Pisces' rulership over the Fourth and Fifth Houses.

Any cycle of Saturn (which occurs in the life a little before the 30th, 60th or 90th birthday) is a time marker of great importance, and indicates good or adverse fortune during the period the native is living through. In certain cases it can close a life cycle: in others it can be one of expansion.

Mrs. Thatcher was born on a Mars day, and her Ascendant Ruler is Mars, debilitated in her Birth Chart, and applying to the square of Jupiter's "fall". So the fact that Mrs. Thatcher's Saturn Revolution fell on a Mars day is but cold comfort.

The Saturn Revolution date being also the day of the New Moon, some protection may be offered by the beneficial sextile of the Luminaries to Venus. At the same time there is no denying that this second cycle of Saturn will be one that will require great vigilance and wise conduct in her affairs.

From RUDOLF SMIT (Vic.): Of course I was very pleased with Dymock's nice review of my book "Software Projects C64". This book is available in Australia, but I must say that Melbourne House Publishing Company produces mainly for the UK Market. It should be added that two other books with the same title, but for the BBC Microcomputer and ZX Spectrum, have been published as well.

Joanna Ashmun's Challenge

Re Joanna Ashmun's Chart and the events she mentions, two of them I would never use for a rectification. Receiving a sum of $2000 is not something that will change your life, and neither is an unpleasant physical condition called the mumps. I tried some systems on it, and could not really find a consistent result. A consistent result, by the way, is something one does not have to expect at all times. The astrological clock does certainly not behave as we want it to.

Somehow I had overlooked her great love ("the one and only") and thus it came as a pleasant surprise that Dymock had found a very appropriate aspect, not via "his" Topocentric Primaries, but via that system of Primary Directions developed by my former astrological friend Wim van Dam in the Netherlands. This is the system that I have advocated in Australia under the name of Prime Event Analysis (to distinguish it from other Primaries). The aspect in question is PEA-Venus square to Pluto, almost exactly on date. I find it somewhat funny that Dymock brings up PEA now that apparently the Topocentric P.D.'s have failed.

Re the above, Rudolf appears to have mistaken the purport of Joanna Ashmun's Challenge. Joanna was not asking for a rectification, but in essence simply challenging astrologers to match given dates correctly with three significant events in her life, using astrological methods.

As to the PEA and Topocentric Primaries, I regard the two methods as complementary, and use both. There is no sound reason for considering any one system exhaustive. And, of course, Topocentric P.D.'s are not "mine". I am simply applying the system developed in Argentina twenty years ago by A.P. Nelson Page and Wendel Polich.

In the instance quoted (spontaneous love on 6/11/1963) I found the PEA Direction more significant than the T.P.D.'s, which were MOON TRINE SATURN on 3/10/63 (the Moon ruling the Natal 5th House), URANUS TRINE MOON/JUPITER on 18/10/63, and JUPITER TRINE PLUTO on 26/12/63.

The PEA Direction was particularly appropriate, though generally I have had more success with T.P.D.'s. This is not to disparage the PEA system, which I consider well-founded and valid. It works on the mundane position of the planets in the Houses and in this way is complementary to the Topocentric System which is concerned with the Zodiacal positions. Both systems use only Primary and not Secondary motion, that is they work with the aspects generated by the rotation of the Earth on its axis, not the movement of the heavenly bodies in their orbits. In my opinion, however, the PEA system should be extended to include aspects by converse revolution of the Earth as well as the normal West to East rotation.

This brings me to the consideration of converse motion in general. I am aware that relatively few astrologers use, for instance, Converse Secondary Progressions, where the planets are taken as moving backwards in the Zodiac from the moment of birth, as well as forwards in the normal method of Secondary Progressions, counting a day as equivalent to a year of life.

I think the reason for this comparative neglect of a technique that is undoubtedly effective, and fills in many holes in what would otherwise be only a partial correlation of aspects with events, is that the Converse system is not generally taught in schools of astrology, and very little is written about it. One has only to practise the normal (Direct) Secondary system for a number of years to realize that it has serious shortcomings. The Progressions that do occur are valid, but by no means do they account for all, or even most, of life's occurrences.

This is so even if one adds Transits to the list. Some of the most important events of life are not indicated by either system. An instance is my analysis in this Issue of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's assassination. A practitioner relying purely on the astrology of Progressions and Transits would not be aware of her imminent danger. In this case even Converse Progressions (or Regressions) were no help, but the approaching tragedy was foreshadowed by Primary Directions, which employ both Direct and Converse motion, and was confirmed by the Cyclic Charts.

Another reason astrologers tend to neglect Converse Progressions (and Directions) is that they question the rationale of the system. Why should we take account of planets moving backwards, when life appears to be going always forwards? For the practical astrologer it is sufficient that the system works - he or she continually sees Converse motion relating specifically to circumstances, feelings and occurrences that are not accounted for by the normal forward movement of the Significators.

But those who need an explanation of why it should work must look for it in an understanding of the occult order of things. Time is a Unity, and stretches both forwards and backwards from this moment we call now. Our grasp of time is limited by our consciousness, and when we advance to a more elevated state, as I believe we will, we shall be the better able to perceive the Unity of all things, including past, present and future.

- Dymock.

The JOANNA ASHMUN CHALLENGE: The dates and events occurred in Joanna's life as follows -

Mumps, 23/12/1970

Father died 15/10/1972

Inheritance, 18/4/1977.

Four people sent in solutions, but none was correct. One entrant was right with one matching, the others were altogether wrong. Of nine solutions in the U.S.A., one made the correct match. But my congratulations to those who did attempt it. More about this next Issue.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock,

19th November 1984.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., Australia, 2785.
Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas). Issue No. 39.

19th October 1984

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

JOANNA ASHMUN'S CHALLENGE, as detailed in last month's issue of Astrologers' Forum has not so far met with a wide response, though the following comments have been received:

From ALEXANDER MARR (West German Fed. Republic): "For better Astrology" I recommend making a fresh start on serious, advanced astrology. Your JUPITER-URANUS opposition close to the MC-IC axis is wonderful. At first you should forget Transits and try to rectify your Chart with Primary Directions in the Topocentric System. I also recommend advanced, contemporary astrological books and precessional common and prenatal Lunar Return Charts.

I am not participating in your contest because my computer showed that your Chart is not rectified. The given birth time is out by at least one minute, maybe even more.

GREAT LOVE ('He is the one')

Prenatal Lunar 30/11/1933 ; 23h 12m 30s U.T.

For event: 6/11/1963 ; 119W59; 47N51

Reproduced here is the Prenatal Lunar Return for your first great love, which is the only substantial event with a given date ("HE IS THE ONE", November 6, 1963).

1. VENUS on the MC.

2. PLUTO on the IC.

These are without doubt the most characteristic planets for the event as, at

In This Issue

Replies re Challenge and Brainstorm

1

Comment on Transits

2

Joanna's "definite and memorable event"

2

Pluto and Marilyn Monroe's death

3

Earthquake and Eclipse Chart

4

The Prenatal Epoch

5

Computer Programmer's Guide

5

Australian Federal Election, 1/12/1984

6

least in your subconscious mind "he is the one" has absolutely a sexual character.

3. MOON ascending, -3 degrees in oblique ascension.

4. MERCURY descending, +3 degrees in oblique descension.

One or both factors 3 and 4 could be characteristic for the circumstances of the event. This is for you to decide.

The closeness to the Angles of the characteristic planets Venus and Pluto overcomes the (so often misused) coincidence factor. In charts where Angular planets are of importance this is about plus/minus 4 1/2 degrees for ONE planet to appear. In our Lunar Return Chart we have four planets on Angles with orbs under 4 degrees. The most characteristic planets Venus and Pluto have orbs not even exceeding one degree.

The PRENATAL TRANSIT DATE for November 6, 1963 ("He is the one") is November 27, 1933, probably p.m. in Universal Time. Here I suspect that MARS in 6 Capricorn and the SUN in 5 Sagittarius are aspecting your Radical Ascendant (A.F., Chart, page 5).

From OLIVIA BARCLAY (England): I would like to ask Joanna, if she is truly searching for "a reliable predictive method", if she has looked at Horary Astrology with a serious and unbiased approach. I assure her it really works "just like the books and teachers say it does". I would like to correspond with her and show her a simple horary chart about a cat.

(Joanna Ashmun's address is 9259 Sixth Avenue N.W., Seattle, WASHINGTON 98117, U.S.A. - Ed.)

The solution to Joanna's CHALLENGE will be published in the next Astrologers' Forum on 19th November. I urge as many readers as possible to attempt the CHALLENGE and send their results to me before that date. It is a highly educative exercise. As Joanna is at pains to point out, "It is not a test of astrological competence, and the accuracy (or inaccuracy) of the matches in no way reflects on anyone's ability to read horoscopes". Full details were given in last month's Forum.

It seems to me that Joanna's disenchantment with astrology arises principally through the undue confidence apparently reposed by her and others in transits. Never have I contemplated an orb of three degrees for a simple transit, nor have I ever heard of an experienced astrologer allowing such an extended one. The eminent German practitioner Reinhold Ebertin has researched this matter and states that a transit is operative only within one degree of perfect, whether applying or separating.

I personally allow about half a degree or less for any transiting celestial body other than the Sun or Moon. This, of course, does not apply to a stationary planet, which has a very much more powerful effect, perceptible up to three and a half degrees from partile.

But it appears Joanna, in her article of last month, is referring only to simple transits of planets at their normal daily speed, so if we curtail the unreal orbs she talks about we immediately reduce to a fraction the multitude of aspects that are apparently the main source of her doubt and dissatisfaction.

(I interpolate here the following comment in a recent letter from Joanna: "The five-degree orb for transiting planets in Brainstorm was hypothetical - What if?. It is, however, not unusual among American astrologers and no Americans have protested that, though I expected protest.")

The second point about simple transits is that, like the passage of the body itself, the effect is ephemeral, and unless particular pains are taken to observe what is happening psychologically as well as physically, may well pass unnoticed, or at best is quickly forgotten.

Leaving out of account the stationary position, or the slow movement of planets near their first or second stations, and in relation to the important events of life, I regard transits principally as triggers for more important indicators such as Secondary Progressions, Primary Directions and the indications furnished by the Solar Return charts.

Joanna refers to "supposedly significant transits" to which she could not ascribe any events. I suspect the explanation is threefold: (1) They were not really significant because they were the "simple" type of transit. (2) And/or the planets involved signified in her Birth Chart an influence contrary to that suggested by the transit considered alone. (3) The effect at the time was psychological only and did not stay in her memory.

Admittedly, accurate prediction is a most difficult art, whether by astrology or any other method. But this apparently is not really Joanna's dilemma: Joanna is concerned at the number of astrological factors, at least one of which appears to relate to anything happening at any time.

I believe this is a false inference because nearly all these factors are unimportant, quite incapable on their own of signifying anything more than the most trivial daily events. Considering that there are indeed a multitude of trivial daily events, it is not surprising that there are a multitude of planetary combinations correlating with them. But for events of some significance we must direct our attention to the more potent astrological indicators - Secondary Progressions and Regressions, Primary Directions, and planets at their stations. These are relatively few in number, matching the relatively few significant events each year in the lives of most people.

With regard to the "definite and memorable" event quoted by Joanna - her unequivocal falling in love on the 6th of November 1963 - firstly I applaud and congratulate her on her whole-hearted and single-minded devotion, and welcome her to the happy band of mortals who have experienced the unique state of soul exaltation produced by love. Secondly, I suggest that the transit of Saturn opposite her Natal Pluto (exact on 2nd November 1963) had little or nothing to do with this love experience but with her state of health, as Pluto is on the 6th Cusp of her Birth Chart and Saturn occupies the 6th House. This could very well be some health trouble about that time which Joanna has overlooked or forgotten.

The deep stirring of her love nature on or after the 6th November 1963 is clearly and unambiguously indicated by the Direction of VENUS SQUARE PLUTO, exact on 10th November 1963, according to the Primary (Mundane) system developed in Holland by Wim Van Dam. What could be more apposite than this, both as regards the planets involved and the date of their operation?

The Secondary Converse (or Regressed) Chart also produces some pertinent aspects for this time and for the period following, when no doubt Joanna's feelings were growing and flourishing:

VENUS TRINE URANUS conv. on 13th October 1963,

VENUS QUINCUNX PLUTO conv. on 18th November 1963, and

VENUS SQUARE JUPITER rad. on 12th April 1964.

The transits that helped precipitate the effect of these exciting "love" aspects were prenatal: Jupiter conjunct Venus/Neptune, and Venus sextile Venus/Neptune, both exact on 30th November 1933 (15 years before Joanna's birth) and corresponding to the postnatal date 4th November 1963. (These dates are ascertained by calculation with Julian Days.)

There are consonant indications also in the Solar Return Chart for 17th November 1963, and the Quarterly Chart of 17th August 1963, but there is no need to enlarge on the matter further.

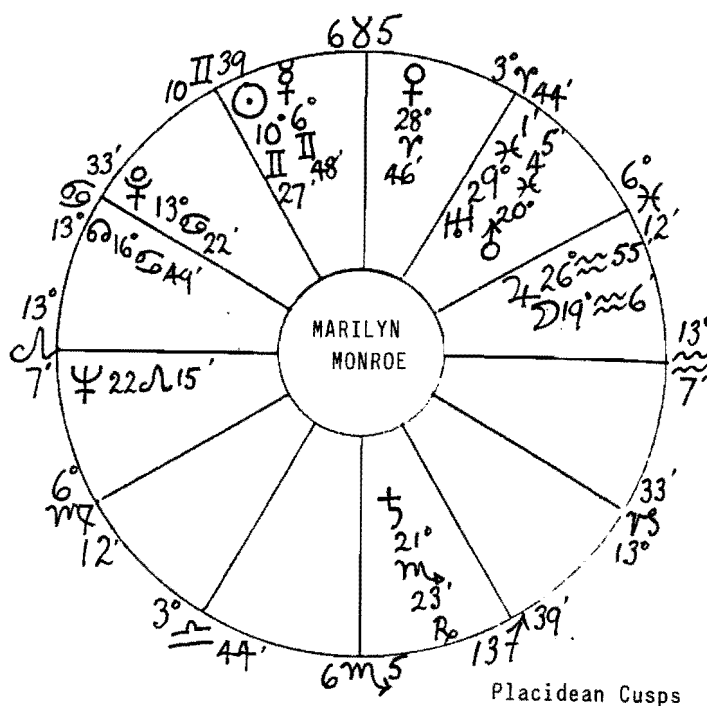

I hope the above helps at least in part to reestablish Joanna's faith and reclaim her to the cause of Astrology. I should be pleased to learn her reactions, and what further doubts remain.

Even if Joanna does not feel comfortable with the predictive side of the art she can still exercise her abilities in other branches of astrology - Horary, Electional, Mundane, Meteorological, Medical, Counselling, etc. - Dymock.

From CLAIR BUNNETT (Vic.): I have been following the information about Pluto in the Forum with great interest. The Secondary Progressed Horoscope of the late Marilyn Monroe shows a strong Pluto influence in the year that she died, 1962.

In the Progressed Horoscope for 1962-1963 the Progressed Sun applies to a square of the Progressed Mars and separates from a conjunction of the Progressed Pluto. The conjunction of the Progressed Sun with the Natal Pluto would have taken place a year earlier.

Born 1st June 1926 at Los Angeles, USA, 9:30 am
34 N 0 118 W 10

As regards the power of transits, the recent transit of the Sun in Virgo square Neptune in Sagittarius seemed to produce almost classic manifestations of Sun/Neptune matters.

On Thursday and Friday, the 20th and 21st September 1984, when this Sun square Neptune aspect was strong, we had the headline "Hawke weeps", with disclosures following about drug matters (Neptune). Bob Hawke has seven stellar bodies on the Mutable Cross and so was very susceptible to this Sun/Neptune square in the Mutable Signs Virgo and Sagittarius. His Natal Moon in Pisces inclines him to be sensitive, in spite of a tough outer shell.

The Sun/Neptune square on the 20th and 21st September 1984 also contacted the Mercury/Neptune opposition in Australia's National Chart, so disclosures about drugs were to be expected.

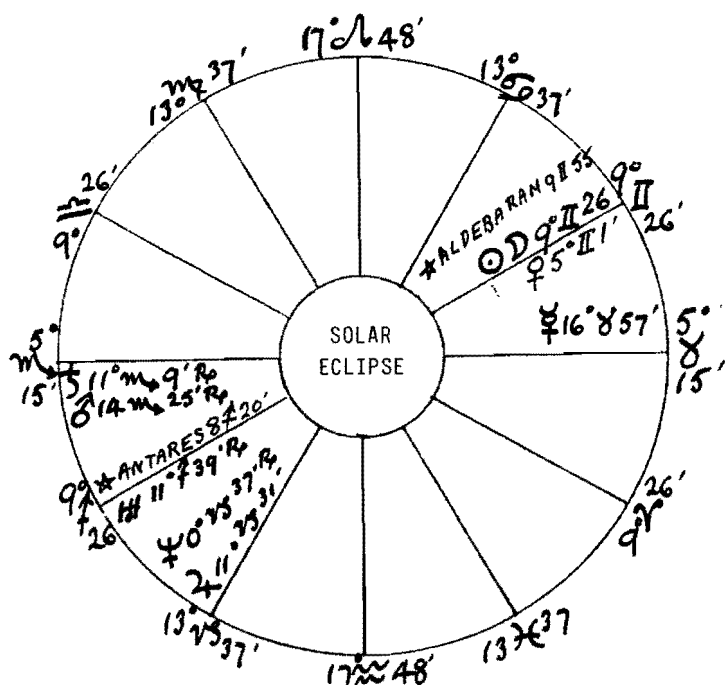

Under the influence of this same Sun/Neptune transit we also had the three men connected with the murder (1977) of anti-drugs campaigner Donald Mackay brought before the courts. (Dymock will remember his original Horary Chart on this subject). The influence of the Sun/Neptune square with Neptune now in direct motion, brought this out, with a confession from one of the criminals.

In regard to Astrologers' Forum, I like the inclusion of a contents list on the front page. It makes it easier to find past articles of interest.

From LESLIE BLACK (England):

Earthquake in England, 19th July 1984

I am sure Olivia Barclay is correct in assuming that the earthquake was the direct result of the Solar Eclipse of May 30th, on a day dominated by Mercury (Wednesday). In Mundane Astrology when an eclipse is visible over a country, it usually does not augur well for the country in more ways than one, and I agree with the late Vivian Robson that its effects can last for about three years nine months until it progresses to its own semi-square.

Solar Eclipse (Partial Visibility in Gt. Britain)
Wednesday (Mercury), 4:48 pm GMT, 30th May 1984
Porphyry Cusps

The Eclipse falls in the 8th House at Greenwich, conjoined with Venus and the fixed star Aldebaran, in opposition to Uranus and the fixed star Antares. Mars and Saturn are rising in Scorpio in sextile to Jupiter and in opposition to Mercury in Taurus setting in the 7th House. This was an important configuration of the Solar Eclipse, which seemed to gain significance from its close proximity to the longitudes of Aldebaran and Antares, both noted for their malefic nature.

It is also interesting to note that the Eclipse falls in the South-Western quadrant and in Gemini, the Sign that rules Wales and the West of England, thus pin-pointing the epicentre of the 'quake at Cardington Bay.

Afflictions of the malefics in Fixed Signs, especially Taurus and Scorpio are usually indicative of seismic or earthquake activity, and are usually triggered by a progressed Direction of some sort. In this case I judge it was a two-fold Direction of Uranus retrograding to the opposition of the Eclipse and Aldebaran, with MARS at the same time having progressed to the opposition of Mercury, key planet of the day and dispositor of the Eclipse itself, being the real pointer that triggered the 'quake.

Both configurations were violently centred upon the Earth's centre, causing the earthquake to occur at the time stated, 7:50 am, B.S.T., with the first reports on the 8 am News.

The fact that there was no loss of life or serious material damage can be due to the two benefics, Jupiter and Venus, Venus being conjunct the Eclipse and Jupiter harmoniously configured with the Fixed Sign positions of Saturn, Mars and Mercury.

From another standpoint, progressing the Eclipse to the planets in the Chart, and between the planets themselves as suggested by Robson by the measure of one degree = one month for the life of the Eclipse, some useful Directions can be derived:

July - MARS OPPOSITE MERCURY, kidnap of Nigerian diplomats. Earthquake.

ECLIPSE OPPOSITE URANUS, increase in bank base rate by 2%. Mortgage rate increase. E.E.C.'s refusal of back payment of £400,000,000. Two train crashes within a day of each other: thirteen dead.

August - SATURN OPPOSITE MERCURY, 13th Ulster riots on 15th (1 dead). Scotland v. Ireland football riots (Mercury in Taurus - Ireland).

Other aspects can be worked out similarly.

The Gemini-Sagittarius axis configuration shows the deterioration of the British fiscal position, and the fall of the pound against the dollar and other currencies, through America's high interest rates, and the very prolonged miners' strike and industrial troubles (Mars lord of the 6th House conjoined with Saturn opposite Mercury).

I was pleased you have given some cover to Horary Astrology. I think this should be an additional branch for the professional. It is very useful for answering difficult questions in conjunction with the Radical Figure. Also I have found planetary hours very useful too, as the planet ruling the hour when news in any form is received usually rules the question enquired about, or is the significator or in the House in question. As long as this branch of the science is used properly, and not applied to frivolous questions it is very accurate prediction-wise. Its essence is spontaneity, which represents the celestial phenomena in force at any given time that dictates the ambient for or against the matter enquired about.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Leslie also replies to his critics concerning his non-recognition of Pluto as an astrological force, but as nothing essentially new is introduced I think we may now consider this matter closed for the time being.

One point mentioned by Leslie that should have further attention is the question of celestial latitude as a factor in interplanetary aspects. How important is this, and should it be taken into account, or should we simply continue to calculate aspects between Zodiacal points, disregarding latitude, as is done by nearly all astrologers? This has relevance not only to natal charts but also to Directional systems.

For example, on the 25th of this month, October 1984, the Sun and Pluto will be in conjunction, reckoned only by their Zodiacal longitudes. But they will be actually separated by more than 16 degrees of latitude. Should this be taken into account, or should we rely solely on Zodiacal distance?

The formula for calculating aspects with latitude is Aspect in degrees = $\arccos(\cos A \cos D)$ where A = the difference in longitude and D = the difference in latitude between the two bodies. - Dymock.

From JENIFER POMMERIN (W.A.):

The Prenatal Epoch

The gestation period of 283 days is calculated from the first day of the last menstrual period. Ovulation generally occurs within a five-day interval. This means that conception is possible from day 13 to day 17 inclusive, if it is a 28-day cycle. Therefore, one should deduct 13 to 17 days from 283 to obtain a true gestation time. These times would then range from 270 days to 266 days, with 269 days corresponding to day 14, the most common ovulation day.

Perhaps E.H. Bailey deduced a 273 gestation standard from the rule of thumb method used to estimate the day of confinement: "Add 10 days to the first day of the last menstrual period and count back three months." If so, day 10 of the menstrual cycle has been mistakenly accepted as the most common time for ovulation/fertilization to take place.

The Index Date does really seem to be based on an unknown.

Out of curiosity, I tried the Prenatal Epoch upon a known birth time. Because the conception date was known, so was the gestation period.

Birth 7th May, 1967. Time 4:23 am.
Place 146 E 32, 38 S 12.

Conception 14th August, 1966. Time 9:26:8 am at Bargara, Qld. (The coordinates for Bundaberg were used - 152 E21, 24 S 50.

The Moon was WANING and BELOW the Horizon, therefore the Moon's birth position (14 Ari 20'37") defines the Descendant degree of the Epoch Chart. The gestation was 267 days.

Counting back from May 6th, 1967 (the U.T.-day of birth) 267 days are reached on the 13th of August 1966.

At 24dgs.50' North (following the procedure outlined in last month's Forum), the Ascendant = 14 Lib 20'37", the Descendant the opposite point in Aries, with the U.T. of 23h26m08s. The Midheaven is 14 Can 34'52".

The Epoch Moon is at 15 Can 45'19". Continuing on in the orthodox method (Epoch Moon = Descendant at birth) produces a completely inaccurate birth time. So, instead, the Epoch position of the Moon is used for the IMMUM COELUM degree of the Birth Chart. The MC will, therefore, be 15 Cap 45'19", which accords closely with the given birth time.

Coincidentally, ALEXANDER MARR, Issue 31, page 3, stated as a finding, "...Radical Midheaven position...proved to be the wanted Moon position for the conception..."

There is a discrepancy here on which I am at a loss to make a decision. Apparently Mr. Marr directly applied the concept of Radix MC = Epoch Moon = birth time, whereas I first worked from the Rule (waxing/waning Moon, above/below Horizon) to establish an Epoch Moon. This led to the original Radix MC, and the time of birth, being advanced (slightly). (The mother will accept either time.)

Anyway, the coincidence of the results when based upon known conception dates might lead to a modification of the Prenatal Epoch Rules:

a. The statistically average gestation period of 269 days could be the base for the Index Date.

b. The Moon's position at Epoch becomes the MC/IC at birth, in preference to the ASC/DSC at birth.

c. A new Rule to calculate the conception date, that is, the method whereby the gestation period is lengthened or shortened.

Even when the conception date is "known" it can still be open to question. For instance, ovulation with subsequent fertilization can occur up to two days afterwards, following coitus. When you consider the possibilities of non-identical twins originating from two ova - not necessarily released on the same day - things get really complicated.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The point that most intrigues me about the foregoing is the precise time given for conception - down to minutes and seconds. How was this determined? Surely not the time of coitus, which is not synonymous with conception, but with which it may have been confused. I admire the sang froid of anyone capable of making this exact observation at what can only be described as a singularly inopportune moment.

For Computer Users

RUDOLF SMIT (Vic.) is the author of a most useful little book for owners of the Commodore C64 Computer. It is entitled C64 Software, and has just been published by Melbourne House (Australia) Pty. Ltd.

Though the book is not specifically about astrological programming, it teaches how to program, and gives the beginner much-needed instruction and advice. Some of the headings are: The right way to good programming, The joy of programming, structured programming versus the trial-and-error approach, planning the mainline, errors you can make, etc.

The book includes also six useful computer programs - Birthday and Anniversary Calendar, Telephone Directory, Mortgage Repayments, A Word Guessing Game, and Rolling Three Dices.

There is a great deal of information packed into this little book, and all is explained with the utmost clarity. There are three Appendices, one answering questions raised in the text itself, one giving clues to the solution of programming problems, and the third specifying the routine for a "Screen Dump" when the C64 is used in conjunction with a printer.

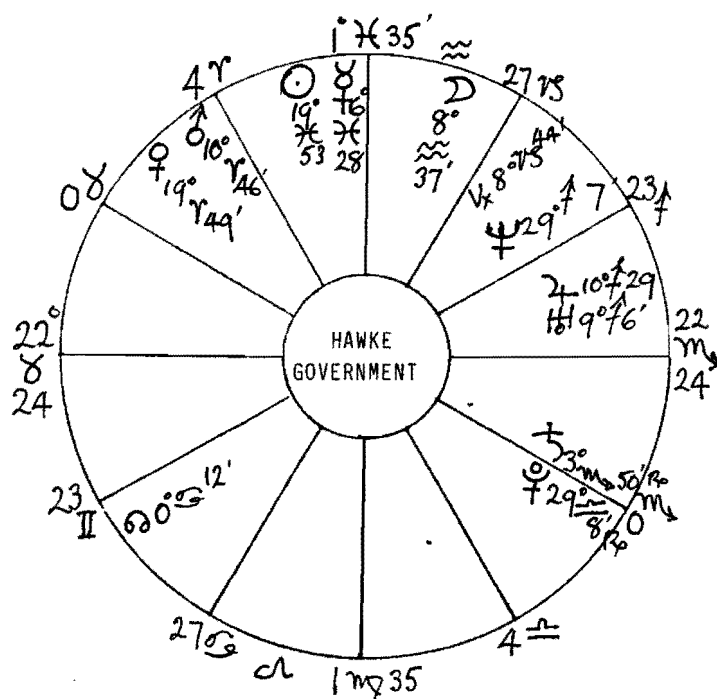

An Index is also provided. The print is extremely clear and easy to read, and extra blank pages are available for notes and additions you may wish to make. My review copy did not carry a price, but I imagine it would retail at about $12.

Karen Scoble's Birth Time

Karen Scoble was born on the 9th of June 1968 at 7:30 am, at Leongatha Victoria (145E58, 38S30). Now you can check your efforts. No rectification attempts were sent to me. Was it too hard?

Australian Federal Election, 1st December, 1984

The present Government of Bob Hawke was sworn in officially at 11 am on the 11th of March 1983. Allowing five minutes for the swearing-in process, the Chart below for 11:05 am, Eastern Standard Time, may be taken as the Birth Chart of the present Government.

Swearing-In of Bob Hawke's Labour Government, 11:5 am 11th March 1983 at Canberra, 149 E 13, 35 S 18.

Topocentric Cusps

Topocentric Primary Directions in this Chart around the time of the Election, and using the accelerated time scale (59'8.33"= one month), are as follows:

SUN CONJUNCT MARS, 27/11/1984

NEPTUNE CONJUNCT JUPITER, 27/11/1984

SUN TRINE PLUTO, 3/12/1984

From these I conclude that the Hawke Government will be returned to office with a large majority.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock, 19th October 1984.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., Australia, 2785.
Annual Subscription $12 (Australia), $16 (Overseas). Issue No. 38.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

Horary Astrology - New Course

Horary Astrology is a much neglected art, but has a unique value of its own. As a means of divination it is without peer, and it may be used with advantage by anyone who learns the technique, irrespective of whether or not he/she practises the other branches of astrology. Famed astrologer Robert DeLuce described it as "the most practical and useful branch of astrology. Moreover, it is the one most easily practised because the opportunities arise so frequently that the student need never want for material to employ his industry."

Marguerite and I use it constantly, and it has been invaluable. We deplore the fact that it is comparatively little understood or practised by astrologers, and we constantly advocate it. So I am very happy to notify readers of a new correspondence course being conducted by Olivia Barclay of England.

The Prospectus states that the Course consists of twelve main lessons, with tests, completed at the student's own pace. It includes historical and contemporary methods, and the study of William Lilly's 1647 publication, Christian Astrology, still probably the most valuable book on the subject. A photocopy of this out-of-print work is provided within the total cost of £60.

The Course is under the patronage of Charles Harvey, President of the Astrological Association of Great Britain.

For more information write to Olivia Barclay, Mongeham Lodge Cottage, Great Mongeham, Deal, Kent, England.

From OLIVIA BARCLAY (England): I was extremely interested in the Chart of the remarkable hailstorm in Munich on 12 July 1984, and thank Alexander Marr for his account. There are points of comparison between the Chart for that event and one for the earthquake in the British Isles on 19th July 1984, exactly a week later.

It was the strongest earthquake for over a hundred years here, although there were no casualties. It occurred at a minute or two after 7 am GMT, and was centred in North Wales, 53 N 4, 4 W 8.

I drew up a chart at once, (see next

In This Issue

	Page
New Course in Horary Astrology	1
Earthquake in Wales	1
More on Pluto	3
Seattle Astrologer's Challenge	4
Brainstorm	6
Walter Mondale's Prospects	7

page) and like Mr. Marr, I also compared it with the Eclipse Chart for May 30th. The time of the Eclipse for England was not identical with the one for Germany. Here the Ascendant was at 5 Sco 15 and the MC was 17 Leo 46. Therefore Saturn and Mars were in our First House. (See Mr. Marr's Chart A in Forum No.37, page 2.)

The May Eclipse, at 9 Gemini was conjunct Aldebaran mentioned in Ebertin-Hoffmann's book on the Fixed Stars as causing catastrophes by weather. I assumed that the application of the Moon by two degrees from a Succedent House to the opposition of Uranus, natural ruler of earthquakes, would signify the two months that elapsed before the earthquake. Mercury was ruler of the Eclipse (because the Eclipse was in Gemini) and at the time Mercury was at 16 Tau 57.

At the time of the 'quake Mars opposed that point, at 16 Sco 59. Saturn, as in the Munich Map, was Angular, but appropriately on the 4th Cusp (4th House - the soil, the ground), and it was the ground that shook. In fact Saturn, Mars and Uranus were all in the 4th House. The Moon approached the quincunx of Saturn and the trine of Uranus. Here our Charts contrast: In the Munich Chart Saturn is near the MC, and the event was from above; in ours, with the relevant planets in the 4th it was from beneath our feet. Mr. Marr mentions the 12th Cusp. In our Chart the Sun, Ruler of the Ascendant is here. Pluto, however, is not significantly placed. In considering why the effect took place here, it may be worth considering Earthquake in England.

8 a.m. Summer time
7 a.m. G. M. T.

19th July 1984

53° 4' N
4° 8' W.

that at the full Moon on November 20th 1983 Uranus was at 8 Sag 39 conjunct our MC at Westminster. The Eclipse of 4th December 1983 occurred only two degrees from Uranus, which had then moved to 9 Sag 30. Fortunately Jupiter was on the MC. There was not another eclipse until May 30th, and this opposed Uranus in the full Moon of June 13th 1984, so that there was series of syzygies involving Uranus, which I think, deserves attention.

Ptolemy remarks in the Tetrabiblos that the first and most potent cause of such events (mundane) lies in the conjunction of the Sun and Moon at eclipses, and the movement of stars at that time. I do agree with Mr. Marr, but I would like to find out more on the subject. Literature seems scarce.

That there were no casualties in either incident I attribute to the involvement of Jupiter, both as dispositor of Uranus, to its strength exactly on the MC in the December Eclipse, its exact semisextile with Uranus in the full Moon on 15th May.

I hope someone will throw further light on this subject. Did a similar event occur in our neighbouring countries? Why England and Germany? I could find little explanation in our 1066 Radix Chart.

From ALLAN JOHNSON (NSW):

The Role of Astrologers' Forum

Rudolf Smit raises a point about the purpose of Astrologer's Forum, but I don't think his idea of the Editor acting as an adjudicator is very useful. I think people will mostly stick to their own ideas, and that includes Rudolf himself. The value of a discussion is to ventilate a subject rather than to convert others. Is there really an absolute right or wrong in most of these issues? In most controversies there is a good deal of truth on both sides, and the readers can certainly form their own judgements. Astrology will always be a subject with parallel paths to the one goal. So I don't think there is much scope to change the basic form of the Forum. Readers could get a lot of useful ideas from it, without getting final answers.

More on Pluto

Leslie Black's quotation from the comment on Pluto by the astronomer Patrick Moore really confirms rather than confutes my viewpoint given in the July Issue. What I said was that "maybe" astronomers know a bit more than they did - but that the last word has most certainly not been said. When it comes to any of the planets I think there is quite a lot of difference between how an astronomer looks at them and how an astrologer does. The weight, size, distance and actual constituents of any of the planets may or may not have a direct bearing on its influence in astrological work. We can't prove much either way.

Astrologers are dealing more with symbolism than weights and measures. Astrologers are dealing with human affairs. So if astronomers have made no advances in the understanding of Pluto since 1930, that doesn't mean astrologers are in the same boat. They aren't. What an astrologer needs to know is its position in the Zodiac. If he knows it is there, regardless of all the other factors, he can come to conclusions by a process of trial and error, and these conclusions can be used as pretty good guidelines for the future. But personally I like to draw the line at working with "undiscovered" planets such as Transpluto. Here you get onto a much shakier level.

I will give another example of the action of Pluto: Lady born 21st July 1922, 11:47 pm, Sydney. (Chart below drawn up by the Editor.)

The lady and her husband had built their own retirement house, which was exactly what they wanted in an ideal location, and the husband was a retired accountant on superannuation and therefore knew his financial position very well. But in mid-1981 just after they had moved in the wife decided to get an astrological forecast done. As soon as I looked at her Chart I could see that Pluto was Angular in her 7th House by transit and was coming to the square of her Sun in the 4th in the next year or so. I did a written forecast, from my past experience with Pluto predicting that they would move out of that house to a totally different area due to circumstances outside their control. This prediction created a bit of a stir, seeing that it was contrary to everything they had planned. I timed the move for about two years from the time of writing.

I heard no more from that lady till the two years was almost up when she rang to say they had the house on the market. Even though it was an expensive house it sold pretty quickly just about right on the two-year mark. The time of the move coincided with Pluto exactly squaring her Natal Sun. The reason why they had to move to a cheaper house in a quite different area was due to their son getting into serious financial difficulties and had to be helped out. They could see then they had too much money tied up in such an expensive house.

But the main point about all this is that there was really nothing in the Chart, apart from the transit of Pluto, to point to a change of residence. But anyone doing that Chart and deciding that they would ignore Pluto could never have made that prediction.

Practitioners don't have the time to collect statistics but they can learn a lot about Pluto from such cases. This is not an isolated case. So it is not necessary for an astrologer to wait till all is known about Pluto to make use of it. There is usually an element of fate involved in such transits, as well as the end of a chapter, as in this case.

From ALEXANDER MARR (West Germany): A reply to Leslie Black's continuous theoretical and emotionally inspired statements: Besides other things, he maintains that Pluto could not possibly have an adequate efficacy in astrology because the various opinions of astronomers about Pluto as a celestial body are contradictory. (Astrologers' Forum No.37,

page 6.)

Those astrologers who practise astrology seriously and with a certain skill know to a greater or lesser extent Pluto's efficacy and symbolism, while for beginners and inexperienced astrologers Leslie Black's theories are most misleading. I recommend to Dymock that he should not publish any more theories that contradict fundamental, solid astrological knowledge, developed by pacemaking astrologers like Cyril Fagan, Nelson Page and others, particularly if they are not the result of serious research.

For example, my systematically performed research into the workings of the Vertex and Chiron revealed that, in contradistinction to Pluto, they do not show any efficacy in Primary and Secondary Directions. It is free to every skilful astrologer to express his research results in an objective and non-emotional manner. It is desirable that different opinions of other experienced astrologers about one or another matter should be published. However discussions mainly about false theories (as above) not backed up by serious research are useless talk, wasted space and time.

On the other hand the standard of the Astrologers' Forum would substantially increase if (A) We could get more "fresh blood", that is, new names into the contributions for the Journal, and (B) Dymock, undoubtedly one of our most skilful astrologers, would contribute more for the A.F., without being afraid to put himself too much into the foreground.

From ROSS HARVEY (N.S.W.): Leslie Black's rejection of Pluto, like his dismissal of harmonics, is an argument entirely from theory, and as theories are merely intellectual constructs made by men, who are not noted for infallibility, all such arguments must be treated with the greatest caution. Indeed I would go so far as to say that they should, in the absence of evidence, be rejected automatically. That was my complaint about his comments on harmonics (no evidence). It seems to me to be most unlikely that had Leslie ever experimented with Directions and transits of Pluto he could have reached such a curious conclusion. What Ptolemy may have said is, by itself, neither here nor there.

Erratum

In the last Issue of Astrologers' Forum, (No.37, p.5) the sesquare was wrongly given as 150 degrees. It is, of course, 135 degrees.

THE SEATTLE ASTROLOGER'S CHALLENGE

JOANNA M. ASHMUN, Editor and Publisher of The Seattle Astrologer (publication now ceased), has authorized reprinting of the following Challenge to astrologers:

In the interests of establishing the reliability of popular astrological predictive methods, the following opportunity is offered for astrologers to show their snuff. The challenge is simple and should present no technical difficulties to anyone with two or more years' study: Match the listed events and dates, and satisfy the listed conditions.

The rewards are: First, better astrology for everybody and, second, a set of all back issues of The Seattle Astrologer for everyone who makes a good-faith written effort to meet the challenge.

The Events

Two of these are classical rectification events, and having mumps as an adult is a big deal, too:

- (1) The death of my father.
- (2) I received an unanticipated cash legacy of approximately $2,000.
- (3) I came down with mumps.

The Dates

Accurate within one week

- (A) December 23, 1970.
- (B) October 15, 1972
- (C) April 18, 1977.

The Conditions

- (a) Correctly match the events and dates.
 - (b) Give astrological reasons for your choices.
 - (c) Give astrological reasons for determining that one of the dates is more likely than the other two for each event given.
- I reserve the right to require evidence such as text citations or documented research, to support the astrological reasoning.

Data

November 16, 1948, 2:25 pm PST, Chelan, WA 47N51, 119W59. I lived in Seattle at the time of all of these events, though my father died in Chelan and I was there at the time of his death.

Yours for better astrology,

(Signed) Joanna M. Ashmun
Editor and Publisher

Joanna has provided the following commentary on the above:

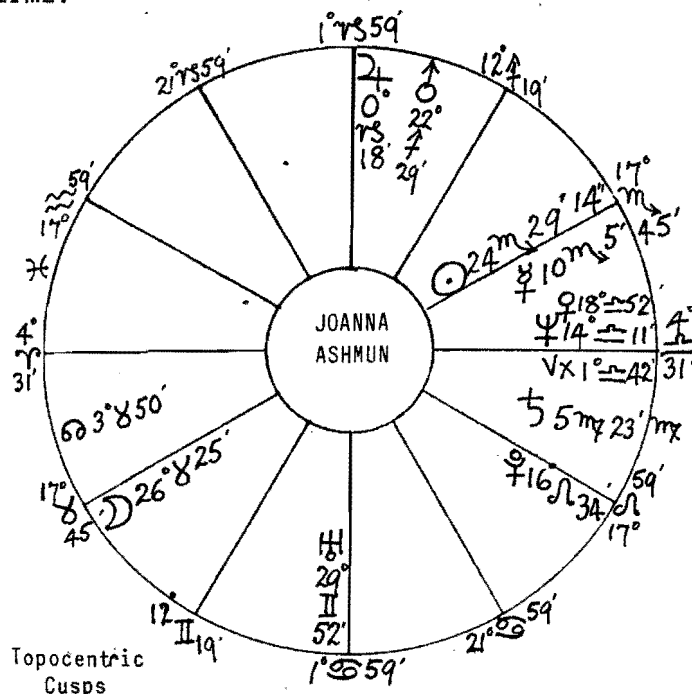

The Seattle Astrologer's Challenge was not posed as a test of astrological competence, and the accuracy (or inaccuracy) of the matches in no way reflects on anyone's ability to read horoscopes. The point of the Challenge is to illustrate the fundamental problem of astrological prediction: Unless one already knows when a specific event occurred, many (perhaps all) dates appear equally likely from astrological indications. That this is so is not immediately apparent, and the third condition was included to demonstrate that all possible matches can be justified astrologically, and that it is impossible to determine by astrological methods alone which dates go with which events.

The future hasn't happened yet, so astrologers learn predictive techniques by studying past events and demonstrate the efficacy of different factors and methods by using astrology to explain important life events. The general idea is that astrology explains events that have already happened and so astrology could have predicted those events beforehand and can predict similar events before they happen.

The evidence shows, however, that astrological methods employ enough factors to account for all possible times (and, thus, all possible events) whether or not anything has happened or will happen. Ordinarily, we have no reason to examine dates when nothing happened and so do not discover that eventful dates cannot be distinguished from eventless dates.

Now, it is obvious that if enough factors are employed astrology can "explain" everything. What is not obvious is how surprisingly few factors are enough. With the horoscope used in the Challenge, all ten transiting planets are always within five degrees of a 30-degree-multiple aspect (conjunction, semisextile, square, trine, quincunx, opposition) to a natal planet. That is, bare-bones astrology gives at least ten indicators of astrological significance for every moment of eternity, and there is no time when anything can happen without many transiting aspects to interpret. Geoffrey Dean has provided calculations (TSA 18:5-6) showing that this Chart (see Horoscope below. - Ed.) is not unusual in its propensity for transiting aspects and that, using ten natal planets and two Angles, there is a very high probability of finding a transiting major aspect (conjunct, sextile, square, trine, opposition) at any time.

This has nothing to do with interpretation - it is simply arithmetic. It is hard to imagine how predictive methods might be pruned further than to using only natal and transiting planets, but it is clear that adding anything more cannot fail to provide explanations of virtually all moments of time.

16th November 1948 2:25 pm PST
Chelan, Washington; 47N51, 119W59

It is not unusual to encounter the disclaimer that astrology always works and astrological "failures" are really astrologers' mistakes. Because of the constant availability of all astrological significators, astrology essentially predicts that anything can happen to anyone at any time. Taking a global view of human affairs, something is very likely happening to someone somewhere all the time, so astrology does always work. Astrologers undertake the heroic task of trying to figure out which something is going to happen to which someone at which time. Under the circumstances, it is no wonder that astrologers sometimes make mistakes.

Since astrology predicts anything at any time (or, alternately, everything all the time), astrological predictions are bound to be right every now and then by chance, and statistical investigations have shown that astrological predictions are accurate at chance frequencies. This does not mean that astrological predictions never work: It means only that there is no way of knowing when they will work. As a practical matter, when astrologers predict any possibility more specific than "something is going to happen", they are crossing their fingers and hoping that this someone whose chart is under consideration is the someone the something is going to happen to this time. While it is not possible to know when astrological predictions will prove accurate, it is possible to know how often - as often as random guessing results in predictive "hits".

These observations apply to all of astrology, for all of astrology is predictive. Even a basic natal reading is a prediction that the pattern of the sky at the time of a person's birth can be interpreted to describe that person in a useful way.

As to the specifics of the Challenge, it is a variation on the famous shell game, where the object is to determine which of three shells hides a pea. There are three "peas" in the Challenge and six possible combinations of three dates and three events. One possibility is entirely correct, three have one correct match each, and two are entirely incorrect. There is a 33% possibility of choosing entirely incorrectly, so the chances of being at least partly right by eeny-meeny-miny-mo are two in three. Pretty good odds.

It is possible to choose wrongly for the "right" astrological reasons because astrology can "explain" any match of date and event: therefore, all combinations can be justified astrologically. On the other hand, it is not possible to be right for the wrong astrological reasons, because all interpretive factors are always available and can be legitimately interpreted to confirm any intuition. In other words, there are no wrong reasons in astrology.

In an article in The Seattle Astrologer entitled Brainstorm Joanna explains that she was searching for a reliable predictive technique. She wanted astrology to work "just like the books and teachers say it does". Joanna's article continues:

In the course of my astrological education I have studied some but not all of the popular predictive methods. Secondary Progressions are a lot of work and never made sense to me, but I can do them. I worked a lot with Solar Returns in a number of variations, hoping that they would work out, because I like the idea, but I found them to be much more work and less fruitful than plain old transits. I studied transits from two approaches. One way was to list the dates of major transiting aspects and try to remember what was going on in my life at those times. The other way was writing a skeleton autobiography and checking the transits for important events.

What I found was that there were important transits for every recollected event, though they didn't always coincide with traditional symbolism. For instance, the first (and only) time I fell in love was a definite and memorable event - "HE IS THE ONE" - and it happened on November 6, 1963. On that date transiting Saturn was exactly opposite my Natal Pluto. This is a major transit involving the planetary heavyweights in a powerful aspect that occurs only once every 30 years. Though Pluto can be read as "the one and only" and Natal Pluto is in Leo in my 5th House in mutual reception with the 8th-House Scorpio Sun - all indicators of some kind of "love" - few astrologers would expect Saturn's opposing Pluto to be the indicator of falling love. Venus is supposed to be prominent in this experience.

Even though the major events of my life coincided with significant transits, there were many more supposedly significant transits for which I could dredge up no events. How could it be that, for instance, Saturn sometimes could be said to have restructured my life just like the books say and other times, when Saturn's aspect was just as strong, nothing memorable occurred? I began to suspect that there was something inherent in astrology's formal "holistic" system that arbitrarily accounted for every possibility, that everything could be shown to mean something, and, for good measure, nothing (as in no event) could be shown to mean something as well.

That concludes the excerpt from Brainstorm. In a recent letter to me Joanna emphasizes that performance on the Challenge has no bearing on astrological competence. I hope a fair proportion of readers will undertake the educative exercise of working on the Challenge, and send in their results to me. The solution will be published after 16th November this year, in accordance with the author's wishes.

Joanna further explains that she has stopped publishing The Seattle Astrologer because she has "managed to argue (herself) right out of astrology", while acknowledging that the reasons that convinced her do not convince most.

It is indeed sad that a competent astrologer should so bedevil herself with the difficulties of the subject that she decides to give it up all together. I feel it almost as a personal loss. Because I am so concerned I shall make it my business to try to reestablish Joanna's confidence in the validity of astrology and her faith in the value of her particular contribution to it. I have prepared a lengthy comment and analysis, but because of shortage of space in this Issue I must present it in the next (October).

- Dymock.

From ALEXANDER MARR (Federal Republic of West Germany):

Walter Mondale's prospects for the U.S. Presidential Elections, 6th November 1984

Birth data: 5th January 1928, 16h 30m U.T., Ceylon (Source: Arthur Blackwell (USA))

Rectified to 16h 30m 7s U.T. (Chart A)

WALTER MONDALE
Radix (rect.)

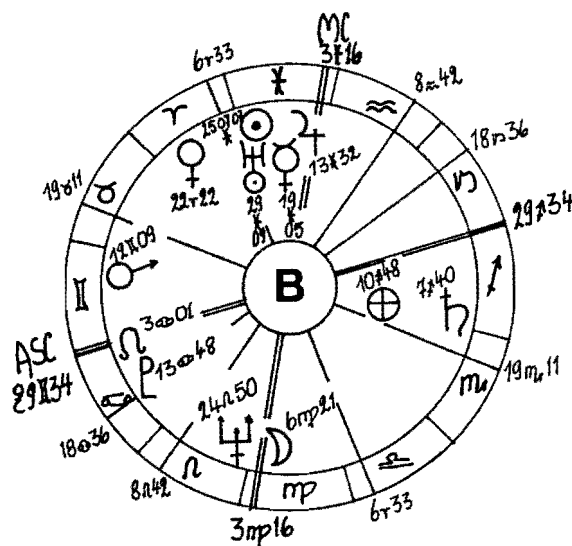

5/1/1928 16h 30m 07s GMT Ceylon
94 W 38 ; 43 N 32
Topocentric Cusps

The rectification with only five events available was facilitated by the closeness of the given time. With few exceptions in over forty Radices analysed the position of the Radical Ascendant or Descendant (here the Descendant) is almost identical with the Moon of the Prenatal Epoch. In our case the difference between the quick-moving Descendant and the Moon of the Epoch is 1.5' in the Ecliptic and 0.8' in Oblique Descension (OD). A recent additional finding resulted in the fact that in most cases analysed there are MDO identities between the Radix and the Epoch. (MDO = Meridian distance in Oblique Ascension.)

Venus Rad. MDO = 20 44.7'
Sun Epoch MDO = 20 45.2'
Saturn Rad. MDO = 5 20.9'
Moon Epoch MDO = 5 22.5'

This phenomenon is increasing the scientific character and the exactness of such Dual-Rectifications by many times.

In contradistinction to these Radix-Epoch similarities, close Ecliptical aspects between the Radix and the Epoch elements in general have to be regarded as purely coincidental.

WALTER MONDALE
Epoch (rect.)

16/3/1927 17h 06m 07s GMT Ceylon
94 W 38 ; 43 N 32
Topocentric Cusps

Events, Primary and Secondary Directions in the Life of W. Mondale

Dual-Test

Radix Directed to Radix = R-R
Epoch - Epoch = E-E
Epoch - Radix = E-R

Orb in brackets. "r." = Radical; "re." = Regressed; "c." = Converse; "d." = Direct; sesquare = 135 dgs.

(1) 27/6/1960 Appointed Attorney General Primary Drns.

JUPITERc. conjunct IX (1')R-E
JUPITERd. sextile MERCURY (2')E-E

Secondary Drns.

MCre. trine JUPITER (0)R-E
MOONre. sextile IX (6')(3 days)R-E

(2) 17/11/1964 Elected Senator.

Primary Drns.

URANUSd. conjunct III (2')R-R
SUND. trine MOON (3')R-R
URANUSd. sextile JUPITER (3')E-R
MERCURYd. semisext. JUPITER (3')E-E

(3) 6/11/1976 Elected Vice-President

Primary Drns.

ASCd. sextile JUPITER 20/12/76 (in between the Election and Inauguration) R-R.

JUPITERd. sextile III (5') R-E

MERCURYd. conjunct ASC (2') R-R

ASCc. semisext. URANUS (1') E-E

(4) 4/11/1980 Not elected Vice-President

Primary Drns.

IIIc. square MOON (1') R-R

SATURNc. opposite SUN (1') E-E

MARSc. conjunct SUN (1') E-E

URANUSd. square JUPITER (2') R-E

MARSc. quincunx URANUS (1') R-R

Secondary Drns.

SUNp. square SATURN (1') R-E

MOONp. square III (7') (3 days) E-R

IIIp. opposite SUN (1') E-E

PLUTOp. opposite SUN (0.5') E-R

MCp. sesquare MOON (4') R-R

MCre. semisquare MOON (5') R-E

(5) 6th November 1984 Presidential Elections (prospects)

Primary Drns.

MCc. semisq. SATURN 16/10/84 (3.4') R-E

SATURNd. semisext. ASC 26/10/84 (1.8') R-R

SATURNd. quincunx MOON 6/11/84 (0) R-E

MCR. semisext. SATURN 15/11/84 (1.4') E-E

MERCURYd. semisq. XII 16/11/84 (0.8') R-R

PLUTOc. square NEPTUNE 28/11/84 (3.5) R-E

Secondary Drns.

ASCra. sesquare NEPTUNE (1') R-R

PLUTOp. sesquare URANUS (1') R-E

MARSp. sesquare URANUS (7') R-R

Transits for Results 7/11/1984 4 am GMT

NEPTUNE (29Sag33) square URANUSr. (15')

URANUS (12Sag5) quincunx MERCURYr. (0)

MARS (23Cap25) quincunx MOONr. (4')

SUN (14Sco55) sesquare URANUSr. (7')

As the different places of residence could not be located, only speculative cycles for Washington have been analyzed. Independent of the residential location are planets of the Solar Return Charts applied to the Radix:

Tropical Prenatal SOLAR RETURN 1872(Corresponding to 1984)

PLUTO 18Tau2 quincunx MCR. (3')

NEPTUNE 21Ari36 semisq. ASCr. (17')

Real Significators (Directed) for Event 1:
IX, JUPITER (= court, judges); MC (ASC).
For Events 2-5: III, URANUS, JUPITER (= politics); MC (ASC), SUN, MOON, MERCURY, MARS, PLUTO.

The winner = Jupiter; Sun, Moon, ♂, ♀ in favourable aspects; Mercury, Venus.

The loser = Saturn; Sun, Moon in unfavourable aspects; malefics.

This Dual-Test is described in forthcoming Prediction III.

ORBS

(A) Theoretical Orb for Primary Directions - 15 days (= 2.5' of arc).

The practical orb depends on the accuracy of planets and coordinates. For conjunctions an orb of up to 10' of arc may be admitted. (However these Directions should not be considered for rectification.)

(B) The Orb of Secondary Directions should not be handled by a uniform time measure. Instead, orb for the Moon (progressed and regressed) - 5 days (= 10' of arc). Orb for the quick planets (Sun, Mercury, Venus and Mars) maximum 8' (= 6-8 weeks). Orb for stationary and slow planets (Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune, Pluto and the Mean Node - so far a speculative orb of 1' to 3' of arc has been used by myself. For technical reasons this has not been established yet.

(C) The orb of Directed Angles and Cusps - about 7' of arc (= 6 weeks).

In the Secondary Directional system Angles and House Cusps have to be Directed by the Solar-Arc in Right Ascension. The Solar-Arc in the Ecliptic (a symbolic arc) widely used in all parts of the world is purely fictional.

The Presidential Elections 1984 will be discussed in the next Astrologers' Forum, according to the demonstrated astrological conditions. Walter Mondale will not be elected.

Re Karen Scoble's Chart: This is left for another month so that more readers can attempt the rectification. Getting the correct answer (hardly to be expected with such scanty information) is less important than doing the exercise.

Stop Press!: A message from ALEXANDER MARR: It seems to me to be of importance to inform astrologers in the United States and elsewhere that in spite of a cable in which I was promised that sales of Prediction II would be stopped immediately, they went ahead on a big scale. I advise all astrologers not to buy these copies which are full of misleading errors brought in by the publishers. Those who have already bought an uncorrected copy should ask for replacement from The American Federation of Astrologers, P.O. Box 22040, Tempe, Arizona 85285. To recognize an uncorrected copy look at page 47: The last paragraph has been printed twice.

Kind regards to all. - Dymock, 19/9/1984.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., Australia, 2785. Tel: [047] 87 8874.

Issue No. 37, 19th August 1984

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

Responding to my request in the July "Astrologers' Forum" for feedback regarding its contents, I am glad to have received the following:

From RUDOLF SMIT (VIC.): In your latest "Astrologers' Forum" you ask for comments, criticisms, and so on. I have one, though to some extent it is an echo of what I have said on earlier occasions. What disturbs me about the "Forum" is that there isn't a real discussion going on. The overall tendency is that people stick to their opinion and are not willing to give an inch. Valid arguments are simply ignored or overridden by counter arguments which avoid the issue. The name "Forum" suggests that people give their opinions but are willing to re-linguish them for a better one. It is give and take, so to speak.

Also, what I would like to see is that you, Dymock, act more as a referee, as a discussion leader, and after some time finish a discussion with a conclusion that reflects a compromise. The approach of the "Forum" is too much "ad hoc" - that's the way I feel about it, anyhow.

Rudolf Smit is the Australian Agent for Matrix Software, which is a boon to Australian Astrologers in particular, as Matrix Programs are excellent and do not now have to be ordered from the USA. Of course it's the Programs that make any computer worthwhile.

But that is a digression. What Rudolf says about fixed opinions, does, unfortunately appear to be true in many cases. It is good to have a considered opinion on the many controversial matters in astrology, but one should also be ready to modify it in the light of additional evidence and wider experience. Ideas of personal prestige seem to get in the way. Evidently astrologers hate to admit that they are wrong about anything, as they feel themselves diminished in some way. In my view, and the view of many others, an astrologer who is prepared to acknowledge that he may be mistaken about some things has increased, not diminished his stature.

So far as refereeing is concerned, I think it is not up to me to announce a de-

IN THIS ISSUE

	Page
Readers' Comments	1
Mundane Astrology - Eclipses and Lunations	1
Application of Harmonics to Transits	3
Financial Crash - Topocentric Primary Directions	4
Heart Transplant - Karen Scoble	4
Cosmic Vibrations and the Olympic Marathon	6
Chest Infections	6
The Prenatal Epoch	7

cision. Readers can draw their own conclusions from the evidence presented, just as I can draw mine. They don't need me to point out the obvious, and if the conclusion isn't obvious it would be a presumption on my part to tell them what to think. - Dymock.

From ALEXANDER MARR (FED. REP. OF W.GERMANY):

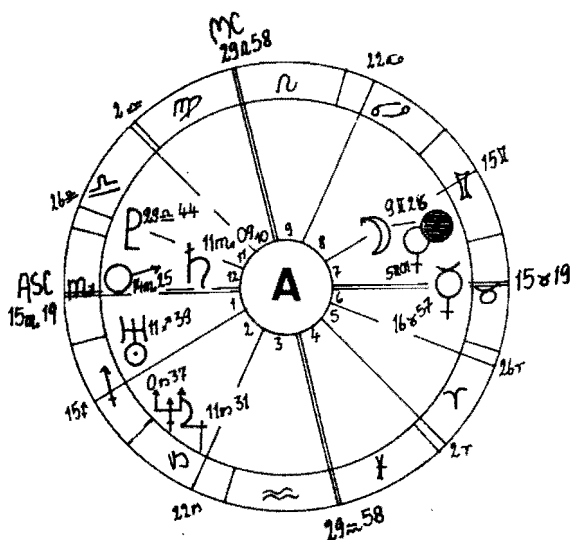

The Reflections of Eclipses and Lunations in Mundane Astrology

On 12th July 1984 the area around the airport of Munich was devastated by a hailstorm disaster on a scale beyond any in living memory. Fortunately there were no fatalities, but around 300 people were injured. Hailstones the size of tennis balls beat through the wings of aeroplanes, and a great number of houses were severely damaged.

As usual, Eclipses and Lunations are most informative when disasters of this kind threaten limited areas. This especially if, as is often the case in mundane astrology, no appropriate Radix is available. Experience shows that mundane conjunctions of planets with the Angles of the chart are the most effective and informative factors for the outcome and the character of an event. I found the best method for evaluating these charts in an analytical way is to take the major chart preceding the event as a sort of a Radix and relate the transit chart of the event to this horoscope.

In our case a Solar Eclipse preceding the event was found to be most characteristic of the event.

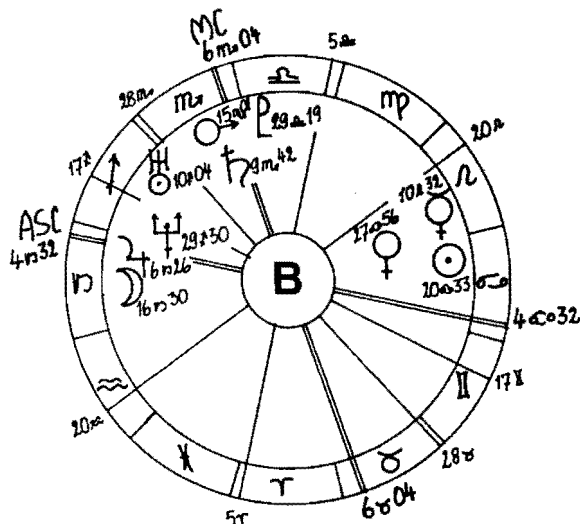

SOLAR ECLIPSE

30th May 1984 16h 48m GMT Munich-Riem
11 E 41; 48 N 08. Topocentric Cusps

CHART A: 30th May 1984; 16h48m GMT 11E41; 48N08

Here Mars is rising within 18' of arc. It is conjunct Saturn and in a close mundane (paran) and Ecliptical opposition to Mercury, the latter descending within 15' of arc. The Eclipse itself falls in the Cardinal VII House. Pluto has a close Ecliptical and mundane conjunction with the 12th House cusp (orb in OA = 2°01') Uranus is opposing the Eclipse from the 1st to the 7th House.

In the TRANSIT CHART B, without any doubt

HAILSTORM DISASTER (Transit Chart)

12 July 1984 18h 5m GMT Munich-Riem
11 E 41; 48 N 8, Topocentric Cusps

Pluto on the Midheaven is the most powerful and characteristic planet for the outcome of the event. It is in close mundane conjunction with the MC (orb in RA = 31' of arc). Characteristic of the nature of the event is the conjunction of Mars and Saturn near the MC. We observe that Mars by its temporary retrograde motion has again reached the most vulnerable point of the Eclipse Chart, (A), i.e. the Mars/ASC conjunction (within half a degree). Saturn, close to the MC, is stationary (no apparent motion for six days) and is affecting its Ecliptical position in the most powerful way.

I have to emphasize here that planets, if in an extremely slow apparent motion or even stationary, do have a greater power in their Ecliptical position than planets moving at a normal speed. However, these planets do not change their character, i.e. a benefic does not acquire evil characteristics.

Example: A retrograde transiting or progressed Mercury does not affect the delays of matters with which it can be associated, such as communication. Here, in most matters, Saturn is the planet of delays.

A further aspect that should not be overlooked is the close semi-square of Angular Neptune (Chart B) to Cardinal Mars (Chart A), while Jupiter (B) close to the ASC may have helped to avoid fatalities.

LUNATIONS are of major importance if no eclipses are in the range of the events (for eclipses and lunations see "Prediction Using Common and Prenatal Cycles" pages 52 and 53). In our case the presence of an Eclipse (Chart A) preceding the event by 43 days predominates over the Lunation, (29th June, 1984; 3h18m30s GMT, not reproduced). However, this Lunation is a further indication of an event to happen within its operational time. We have here a conjunction of the Lunation with the ASC.

From experience the most powerful and effective position of an eclipse or lunation is on one of the Angles of the chart. This also applies for individual astrology. Here a conjunction of the eclipse or lunation with an Angle of the Radix (orb about two degrees) has also its greatest effect. (See charts in "Prediction"). In our Lunation this conjunction is very close. SUN/MOON = 7Can34; ASC = 6Can46, indicating that an event is very likely to happen within the 28 days of its operational time.

Needless to say, results with small orbs like these can only be achieved if the data needed for the event are recorded with the greatest accuracy. On the other hand, it is recommended not to go too much into details, such as aspects with large orbs, midpoints of planets if not concerned with Angles, rulerships, etc.

From ROSS HARVEY (N.S.W.):

Application of Harmonics to Transits

Lately I have been working on applying Harmonics to Transits, a possibility suggested by David Hamblin in his Harmonic Charts (ch. 19). The results I have arrived at so far, however, are quite different from what he suggests, and are in line with what I have found to be the case when applying Harmonics to birth charts as a means of providing greater information about the native's destiny, i.e. that only the thirteenth and sixteenth Harmonics have any general relevance. (I should say that I experimented with the first twenty-one Harmonics, but quickly rejected all the others.)

The technique is very simple, and makes transits a much more useful method of prognostication than they normally are. After all, how often have we all seen major events come and go in a person's life without any transits whatsoever to account for them? As with transits as usually considered, stationary transits are by far the most important, and have the force of Primary Directions, the others being mainly useful for timing; while the transits in the harmonics of the faster-moving planets are of little or no significance.

Take the case of a stationary planet: To have an important effect in a person's life, it should be in major aspect to one of the personal points (Sun, Moon and Angles) with an orb of about one degree. In the Harmonics, an orb of about three degrees so far seems to be valid for conjunctions and oppositions, with one degree for squares (these are the only aspects which so far seem to have an effect).

Prenatal Transits are as important as ordinary ones. As with applying Harmonics to birth charts, the contacts can be between the transiting position of the planet and the 13th or 16th Harmonic of the Radix, between the 13th Harmonic of the transiting planet and the 13th Harmonic of the Radix, the 16th Harmonic of the transiting planet and the 16th Harmonic of the Radix, or between the 13th or 16th Harmonics of the transiting planet and the First Harmonic of the Radix (the birth chart as given).

A good example is the Chart of 'Henk', quoted by Rudolf Smit in "The Australian Astrologers' Journal" (Winter 1982, p.7), and those of his wife and daughter. On the 28th of May, 1971, his wife and daughter were killed in a motor car accident and he was severely injured. In the ordinary sense there were no important transits which would have indicated such a tragedy. At the time, Pluto was stationary at 26Vir59, 1°51' from an opposition to his MC, too wide, in my opinion, to be relevant, and not in any aspect to the other two Charts. However, the 13th Harmonic of transiting Pluto was 20Leo47, conjunct his Sun (21Leo35), opposite his wife's Sun (22Aqu29), and opposite the thirteenth Harmonic of his daughter's MC (20Aqu0).

Another example is the wedding of Prince Charles and Lady Diana Spencer. (29th July 1981). At the beginning of July, Pluto was stationary at 21Lib32.1, 1°29' from a conjunction with her MC, just possibly relevant, but not in any aspect with Prince Charles's Chart. The 13th Harmonic of Pluto, however, was 9Can57, conjunct her Sun at 9Can40, and square his ASC 13th Harmonic at 10Lib38.

The true significance of Pluto in Directions, Harmonic Directions and Transits, by the way, is TRANSFORMATION and not necessarily destruction, except in a metaphorical sense. Whether this be for good or ill has to be sought elsewhere (in Returns, for example).

A further example, from my own Chart, this time of a Prenatal Transit. (b. 23h15m, given time, rectified to 23h14m25s, G.M.T., 10.6.1949, Sydney, Australia). On the 21st January 1966 (GMT) my father died; there were no transits, either direct or prenatal, in the ordinary sense, though there were Primary Directions (MCd sesquisquare Neptune exact on the day, and Saturn c square MC, with latitude, two months earlier, which could not have applied to anything else), and in the Age Harmonic Sun (16th H) 15Lib17 conjunct Neptune h 18Lib56, and also conjunct Neptune r 12Lib26; and indications in the Solar Returns. At the equivalent prenatal time (28/10/1932) Pluto was stationary at 23Can27, in wide conjunction with my ASC at 21Can32 (too wide I should have thought); however, the Sixteenth Harmonic of Pluto was 15Ari12, 5' from an opposition to the Sun in the Sixteenth Harmonic.

In the case of Princess Grace, discussed before in the Forum, who died on the 14th September 1982, there were no significant transits in the usual sense at her death; however, Neptune was stationary at 24Sag16.5 on the 5th September conjunct the 13th Harmonic of her MC 25Sag36 (itself conjunct Saturnr 28Sag6). The 13th H of transiting Uranus was conjunct her Moon (13), 14Sag3 on the 13th, and opposite her Vx on the 14th (14Sag42), the day of her death.

My last example is the Chart of a man born in Sydney at 20h33m4s GMT (rectified; the given time was 'a little after half p past six', am on the 14th) on the 13th June 1948. His father died on the 21st July 1966. In this case, both Uranus and Pluto (both direct) had transited square his ASC in the preceding fortnight, though on the day there was no exact transit. On the 11th Saturn had been stationary at 29Pis41, two degrees from his MC; however, the 13th Harmonic of Saturn was 25Pis53, conjunct his Sun (13) at 25Pis4, and on the 21st, Mars T 13 was opposite his MC of 1Ari40. The latter was the only exact indication of the event.

I have many more examples of the usefulness of the 13th and 16th Harmonics when applied to transiting planets, but those I have given should show their importance.

From JENIFER POMMERIN (W.A.):

The Topocentric Primary Directions

To me, a student, this system is really satisfying to work with because it so often comes up with the 'right' planet for the event, or conditions. I enclose this short study which also shows the importance of the Nativity. The person concerned appears to adhere strongly to what is indicated there and the T.P.D.'s to reflect the ongoing circumstances, or outcome.

Birth Date: 13th May, 1944. Time given - 6.30 am. Rectified by T.P.D.'s to 6.29.00 am. Longitude 144E58 - Latitude 37S45 (Melbourne).

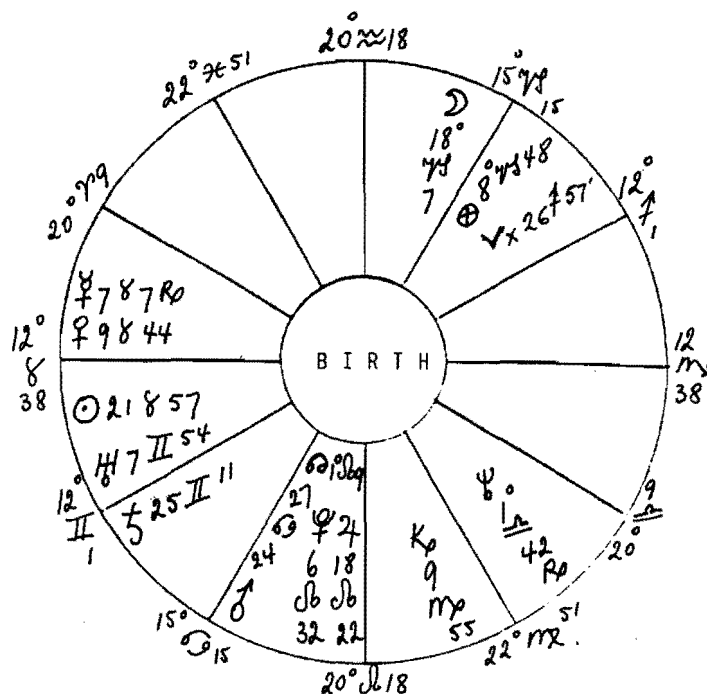

This man started business (imports) with a nominal partner towards the end of 1980. Trade was quite good and there was a very healthy profit margin. Primary Directions: MOON TRINE SATURN 1/10/1980, MERCURY TRINE PLUTO 26/12/1980, URANUS CONJUNCT MERCURY 30/12/1980.

All these planets are pertinent when one examines the Natal Chart and, of course, Mercury and Saturn are associated with commerce.

He had an increasingly active social life which entailed heavy spending. He could be extravagant also when it came to certain types of purchases. Nevertheless, work was not neglected. But a poor location plus a disinclination to curb expenses brought about financial problems. By the end of January, 1984, the shop was closed down. His wife and child left him. The home, car, cabin cruiser etc. all had to be sold. Thousands of dollars were owing to the overseas Company.

Primary Directions: MC OPPOSITE NEPTUNE 17th October, 1983, TRINE ASC 25/11/1983. SATURN SQUARE MIDHEAVEN 15/1/1984.

On a happier note, the man was offered two positions. A promotion to store manager took place recently. There is talk of re-

13th May 1944 6:29 am (Rectified) Melbourne
144 E 58; 37 S 45. Topocentric Cusps

conciliation with his wife - another boat is being bought etc. Primary Directions: MARS TRINE MERCURY 15/4/1984, SUN CONJUNCT SATURN 22/4/1984, MARS QUINCUNX MOON 9/7/1984, VENUS TRINE PLUTO 29/12/1984.

Up to date, I have found the natal Sign and House position of the aspecting planet to be of significance as well. For instance, the Primary Direction of SATURN CONJUNCT SUN mid-February, 1982, coincided with a big drop in sales (economic slump). There was worry over this - but there was actually very little of the personal hardships or constraints that might have been expected from a Saturn conjunction. I think the experience would have been harsher if, say, Saturn had been placed natively in a Water or a Fixed Sign.

From GWEN STONEY (N.S.W.):

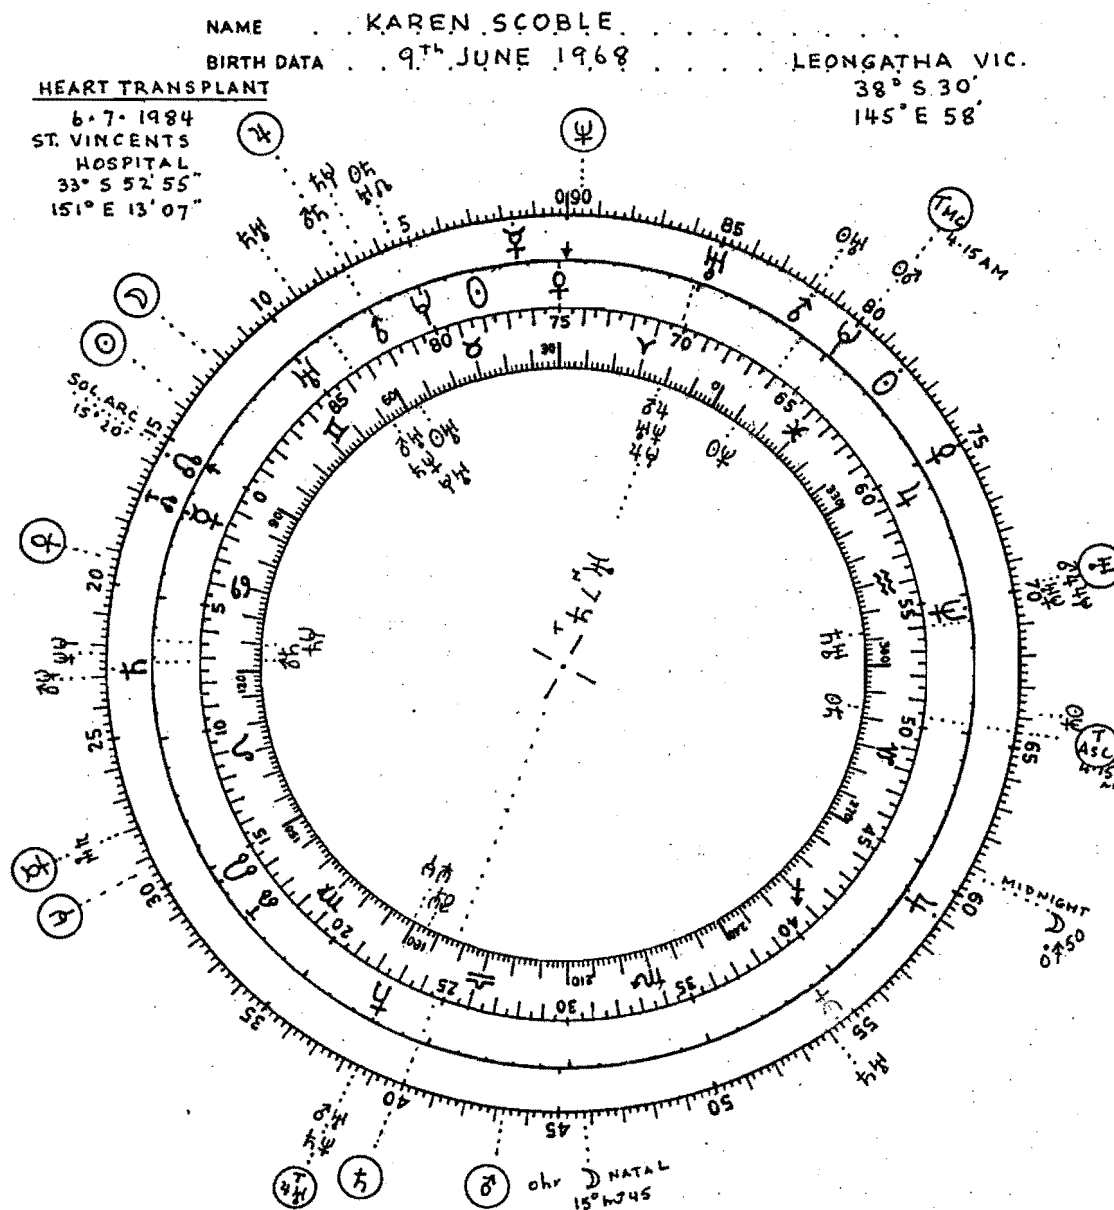

Heart Transplant - Karen Scoble

Karen Scoble, born at Leongatha, Victoria, on 9th June 1968, suffered a heart collapse (myocarditis) about midday on 11th June 1984. She arrived by air ambulance at St. Vincents, Hospital, Sydney, on 25th June for a heart transplant.

The operation was performed on 6th July 1984 between 4:15 am and 7:10 am. Her baby, Lisa Maree, had been born not two months previously on 18th May 1984.

Karen's 16-year old brother died of a similar heart ailment at the end of June 1983.

The Cosmogram for the heart transplant shows the following biological midpoints reflecting cardiac troubles (as defined in

On a 90-degree wheel: The exact opposite is a semi-square (45-degrees) or a sesquare (150 degrees); conjunctions and oppositions are together; 0-30 degrees show Cardinal Signs, 30-60 degrees Fixed Signs, 60-90 degrees Mutable Signs.

Ebertin's "The Combination of Stellar Influences") to be activated by Solar-Arc Progressions and Transits:

SUN/MARS	Cardiac troubles
SUN/URANUS	Cardiac embolism
MARS/JUPITER	Heart muscle
MARS/URANUS	Activity and work of the heart
MARS/SATURN	The death of an organ, particularly a paralysis of the muscles belonging to the breathing mechanism.
SATURN/URANUS	Heart block
URANUS/NEPTUNE	Heart failure

(S-A = position progressed by Solar-Arc; N = Natal; T = Transiting. The Solar-Arc to the date of the heart transplant is 15 20'.)

S-A Saturn, 8Tau4, sq. Mars/Ura, 8Leo23; sq. Sat/Nep 8Leo38.
 S-A Mars = S-A Sun/Ura = N Mars/Sat = T Jupiter
 S-A Neptune = S-A Sat/Ura = N Mars/Jup, Ura/Nep, T Ura
 S-A Mars/Jup, Ura/Nep, Jup/Plu = N Ura, T Sat
 S-A Mars/Sat, Sat/Plu = N Sat.

At the start of the operation at 4:15 am the MC aspected Sun/Mars (cardiac troubles, surgeon).

The transit of Jupiter at 7Cap17, aspecting S-A Mars and Sun/Ura = successful operation.

Ebertin named the midpoint Jup/Ura "thank the Lord", indicating release from tension or strain. This point is aspected by Mercury, and T Jup/Ura is aspecting the Mars/Ura and Sat/Nep midpoints.

I have found the midpoint Jup/Ura always activated in operations or accidents.

Gwen Stoney suggests that readers might like to attempt a rectification of Karen Scoble's Chart, based on the two events and other information given above. Since writing the article Gwen has received the birth time from Karen, and it will be published in the next "Astrologers' Forum".

- Dymock.

Cosmic Vibrations

The great Olympic Marathon run on the 12th August, which is a three-day, was won by Carlos Lopes, who had the number 723 which reduces to a three. Second place went to John Treacy carrying number 471, another three number and third place went to Charles Spedding carrying number 396, which reduces to nine (not the winning number, but in harmony with the three-day).

Our Robert de Castella carried number 25, totalling a seven - not in harmony with the three-day, but he did magnificently to come fifth.

- Marguerite.

From LESLIE BLACK (ENG.):

re Pluto

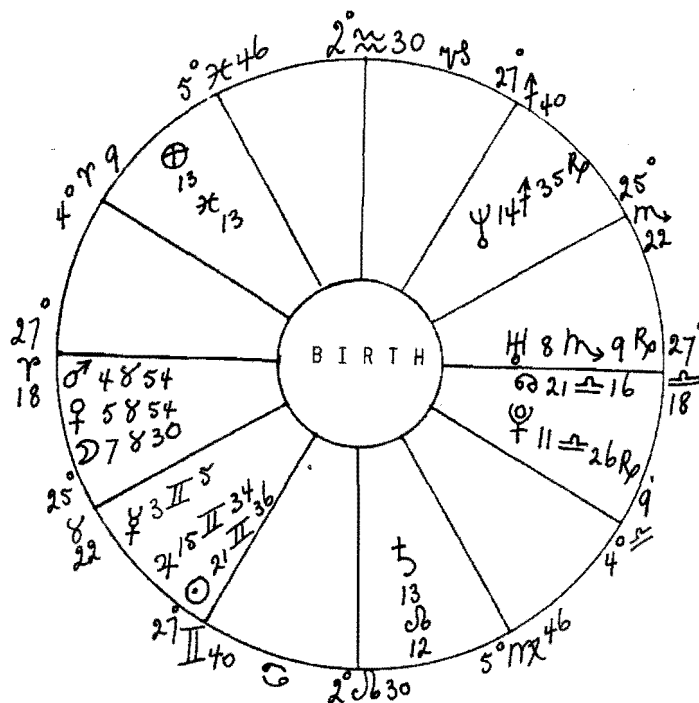

Allan Johnson's remark concerning Pluto that "astronomical knowledge about this planet is different now from what it was when Pluto was discovered" shows how little he has studied the progress of it and the very poor references made to it in modern astronomical journals. On March 23rd 1980 in an English television programme on Pluto given by that celebrated astronomer Patrick Moore he made the following comment.

"After fifty years studying Pluto we are as far away as ever in knowing what it really is, whether it be a satellite, asteroid, or spent force of a comet; and along with the newly-discovered Chiron will take many years, if ever, before we know the answer."

Allan's support for Pluto, quoting two incidents of Pluto beneficially aspecting the Sun in both cases, is hardly acceptable, on the grounds of insufficient data to back up his claims.

Alexander Marr's comment that "research with astronomically correct astrological systems have revealed that Pluto is an adequate planet in our astrological work", lacks corroboration. How can this be possible when it is known that even by allowing the most generous orbs of latitude Pluto transits only a third of its revolution within the Ecliptic, unless astrology has now reached a position where all boundaries are breached, and the mixing of geocentric and heliocentric co-ordinates has become the 'in thing'.

From ISOBEL BELL (TAS.):

30th June 1977 3:07 am Launceston Tas.
147 E 7; 41 S 25. Topocentric Cusps

This Horoscope is of a seven-year old girl who has suffered repeated chest infections since birth.

Dissatisfied with ineffectual medical treatment and repeated prescriptions for a variety of antibiotics, the child was taken to a paediatrician.

X-Rays showed that she'd suffered no permanent lung damage and blood tests revealed that she is asthmatic, her illness characterised by a wracking cough rather than the wheezing attacks more commonly associated with the illness.

It was also discovered that her asthma is due to allergic reaction to various factors - wheat, domestic pets and house dust being prime culprits. Since the child has been given a gluten-free diet her illness is controlled to the extent where medication (steroid-based inhalers and Intal) are no longer necessary.

In the 'Encyclopaedia of Medical Astrology', Dr. Cornell considers asthma,

"...a disease of the Moon, Mercury, and Gemini and also the common Signs. Important areas in the disease are 18° Gemini and Sagittarius; Mercury in Gemini; Uranus in Cancer conjunct the Moon, and also afflicted by Neptune or Mars; Saturn afflicted in the third House; Mars afflicted in Taurus or Scorpio; Venus in Taurus conjunct or ill-aspected Mars..."

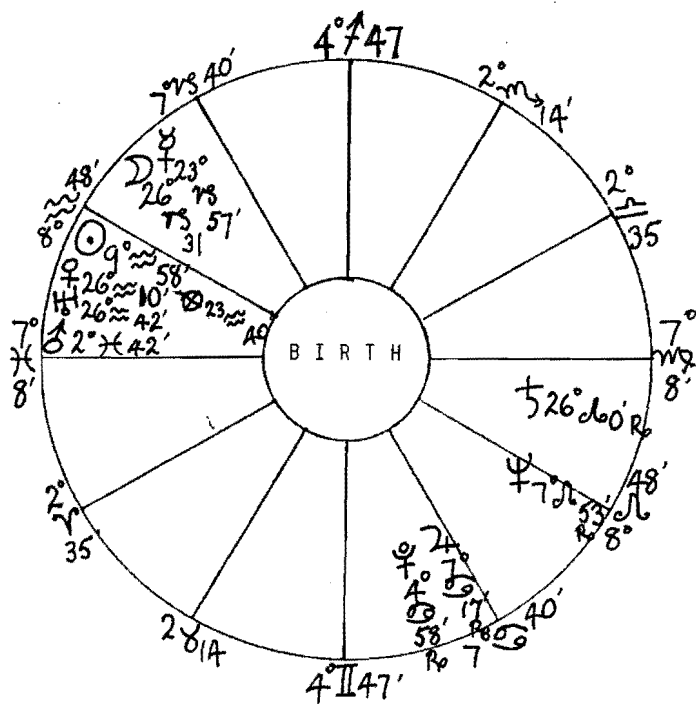

Several of these factors are readily seen from the Chart: Sun/Jupiter = 18Gem35; Neptune in Sagittarius opposite the Sun in Gemini; Uranus opposite the Moon and Mars, also Merc. in Gem., Ruling the 6th House (ill health of respiratory tract); Pluto in the 6th opposite Sun/MC (12Ari3).

THE PRENATAL EPOCH

GWEN STONEY (NSW) has been researching the 'Prenatal Epoch' (Conception Chart) and DENNIS SUTTON of The Sydney Astrological Research Society has suggested that Southern Hemisphere Charts should be worked first as if they were for the Northern Hemisphere, until the correct interchange (Moon to ASC or DESC) is found, and then translated into the Southern Hemisphere.

Gwen is enthusiastic about this mode of operation, is trying it out, and cites as examples her own and her daughter's Charts. Gwen's birth time was said to be between 7 and 8 am and the speculative Chart below is for 7:30 am.

31st January 1919 Vaucluse N.S.W. 7:30 am
151 E 16°23' 33 S 51°17' Topocentric Cusps

I will outline the procedure Gwen uses, but here first is a summary of the Prenatal Epoch Rules from the text by E.H. Bailey:

The standard gestation period (conception to birth) is 273 days. This period is lengthened or shortened by a number of days according as the Moon at birth is increasing in light (waxing, going from new to full) or decreasing in light (waning, going from full to new), and further whether the Moon is above or below the Horizon.

1. If the Moon at birth is WAXING and ABOVE the Horizon the Natal Moon's position becomes the Ascendant at the Epoch, and the Moon's position at the Epoch becomes the Ascendant at birth. The gestation period is SHORTENED.

2. If the Moon at birth is WAXING and BELOW the Horizon the same interchange of position occurs but the gestation period is LENGTHENED.

3. If the Moon at birth is WANING and ABOVE the Horizon the Moon's position at birth becomes the Descendant at the Epoch and the Moon's position at the Epoch becomes the Descendant at birth. The gestation period is LENGTHENED.

4. If the Moon at birth is WANING and BELOW the Horizon the same interchange of positions as in 3. occurs but the gestation period is SHORTENED.

The above Rules have been supplemented by ALEXANDER MARR (see 'Astrologers' Forum', No 31, 19th February 1984, pages 2 and 3). The Church of Light publications laid down that the Rules worked only for a full-term birth - not Caesarian or induced.

Using the Prenatal Epoch for rectification of her own Horoscope (given time 7am - 8 am) Gwen arrived at a time of 7:29:39 am.

In Gwen's Chart the Moon is waning and above the Horizon, so according to the above rules the Moon's Birth position will be the Descendant in the Epoch Chart, and the Moon's position in the Epoch Chart will be the Descendant in the Birth Chart. The period of gestation would be longer than the norm.

The Index Date (defined as 273 days before the birth) in Gwen's case would be 2nd May 1918. Gwen was born on the 31st of January 1919, at 151 degrees East Longitude so the Universal-Time-day of birth was the day before - 30th January 1919. As the Ephemeris is calculated for Universal Time we have to subtract 273 days from this date, giving 2nd May 1918.

Gwen was born at 33°51'17" South Latitude, but assuming this was North latitude, her birth Ascendant would have been about 17 degrees of Aquarius, and the Descendant 17 degrees of Leo. The moon at birth would still be in Capricorn, around 26°31'.

We know that the gestation period in Gwyn's case would be longer than the norm, but the question is, by how much? The rule given by Bailey is to calculate the distance from the Descendant (in this case) to the Moon, and divide it by 13, which is the Moon's approximate daily motion. The answer is then the number of days that have to be added (in this case) to the 273-day normal gestation period.

(Where the moon is waxing - going from the new Moon to the full - the count is made to or from the Ascendant.)

With Gwen's Horoscope (assuming birth in the Northern latitudes) the distance from the Descendant at 17 degrees of Leo to the Moon at 26 degrees of Capricorn is 159 degrees.

Dividing this by 13 we arrive at 12, in round figures. This means, then, that 12 days has to be added to the normal 273 days gestation, bringing the date of conception back from 2nd May 1918 to 20th April 1918.

If we look in the Ephemeris for the 20th April 1918 we see that the Moon was indeed in Capricorn on that day, and now we have to find the Universal Time (or GMT) when 26 Cap 25 was setting, that is when 26 Can 25' was rising. If you don't have the benefit of a calculator or computer program to handle this, here is the method:

From a Table of Houses for Northern Latitudes determine the Sidereal Time when 26 Can 31 rises at latitude 33 N 51'17".

Or, by trigonometry:

Sidereal Time = (Oblique Ascension of ASC - 90)/15.

Oblique Ascension of ASC = Right Ascension - Ascensional Difference

Right Ascension = $\arctan(\tan \text{Zod.Long.} \times \cos 23.45)$

Ascensional Difference = $\arcsin(\tan \text{Declination of } 26 \text{ Can } 31 \text{ (i.e. } 116^\circ 31') \times \tan 33^\circ 51'17'')$

Declination = $\arcsin(\sin 116^\circ 31' \times \sin 23.45)$

The answer either way is 0h54m55s.

Now to find what U.T. (GMT) this represents proceed as follows:

26Can31 on ASC when Sid.T. = 0h54m55s
The Sidereal Time equivalent for 151 16'23" (10h5m6s) has to be subtracted, so for ease of operation add 24 hours

$$\begin{array}{r} 24 \ 00 \ 00 \\ 24 \ 54 \ 55 \\ - \ 10 \ 5 \ 6 \\ \hline 14 \ 49 \ 49 \end{array}$$

Subtract Sidereal Time at 0h on 20/4/1918

$$\begin{array}{r} 13 \ 49 \ 03 \end{array}$$

Interval = 1 00 46

Subtract Sidereal/Solar time-correction for Interval, converting to Solar time U.T. of Birth

$$\begin{array}{r} 0 \ 0 \ 10 \\ \hline 1 \text{h } 0 \text{m } 36 \text{s} \end{array}$$

If now we erect a Chart for UT 1h0m36s on 20/4/1918 at 151 16'23" East Longitude and 33 51'17" North latitude we get an Ascendant of 26 Can 30'53", and consequently the Descendant - which gives the position of the Moon in the Birth Chart - is 26 Cap 30'53".

The Moon in this Chart is placed at 20Leo 8'37", which is therefore the position of the Descendant in Gwen's Birth Chart - Ascendant 20 Aquarius 9, in round figures.

Following the procedure outlined above we find that with this Ascendant the Local Sidereal Time was 16h10m59s, and the U.T. of Birth was 21h29m39s on 30th January 1919, or a local time (10 hours later, at the birthplace, Vaucluse, N.S.W.) of 7:29:39 am.

Using this time, and calculating the Horoscope for the correct Southern latitude (33 S 51' 17") we arrive at a Birth ASC of 7 Pis 4. This represents an adjustment of only four minutes of arc in respect of the original speculative Chart, evidently because it was a good guess to start with.

Gwen states that she has followed this procedure for speculative birth times of 8 am, 7:30 am and 7:00 am, and they all end up with the rectified time of 7:29:39 am. Gwen has rectified her daughter's Chart using this Prenatal Epoch method and gets the same result (within seconds) as rectification by Topocentric Primary Directions and Cosmobiology.

The Prenatal Epoch method adopted by Gwen is standard procedure, except for Gwen's innovation of working Southern Hemisphere Horoscopes as if they applied to the Northern Hemisphere, up until the final erection of the Rectified Chart. No doubt other researchers would like to test this procedure. It does seem highly significant that with her daughter's Chart, Gwen obtained the same result by the three different rectification techniques mentioned above.

I might mention that Gwen is an outstanding example of that very Aquarian virtue - the capacity for close observation and accurate recording of phenomena. The astrological work in which she engages is quite demanding and may very well enlarge the mental horizon of others, in true Aquarian fashion. The Sign Sagittarius at the Midheaven of her Chart is also indicative in this respect. I pay tribute to Gwen's indefatigable search for Truth and Wisdom.

- Dymock.

I remind readers of the opportunity to attempt a rectification of Karen Scoble's Chart (see page 6). An ounce of practice is worth a pound of theory. The correct birth time is now known to Gwen Stoney, and it will be transmitted to me in time for next month's "Astrologers' Forum". Any correct answers that reach me before publication will receive due publicity.

Another thing: Don't hold back on any interesting case histories in your possession. Send them to me with the data. This is the stuff that practical astrology is made of, and it's a prime way of enlarging one's experience - reading about the experiences of others.

Finally, please introduce "Astrologers' Forum" to your friends. If they are really keen astrologers this unique publication can only be of benefit to them, and their subscription will help to keep the project viable. My kind regards to all.

- Dymock.
19th August 1984.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., Australia, 2785. Tel: [047] 87 8874.

Issue No. 36, 19th July 1984

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

Leslie Black's remarks in last month's "Astrologers' Forum" about Pluto have excited some interest - and dissenting views, which appear below. Elva Howson adds her experience to Thomas Zimmer's comment about the Saturn/Uranus/Pluto generation (1956-1966), and Allan Johnson gives some thoughts on the planetoid Chiron. No one, however, has essayed to finish the counselling interview discussed in the last issue, so perforce I shall do this myself.

From ALLAN JOHNSON (N.S.W.):

re PLUTO

I was interested in Leslie Black's remarks on Pluto in the June Issue. But I doubt if he will find many astrologers to agree with him. It may be that astronomical knowledge about this planet is different now from what it was when Pluto was discovered, but we are dealing with fantastic distances with outer planets, so it is quite possible that research will show even further reassessments as time goes on. Who will have the last word? But astrologers can only work with it in their day-to-day experiences in charts.

When I first got into professional work I was a bit reluctant to accept Pluto as the Ruler of Scorpio, but over the years I have found increasing evidence to support this. On one occasion a lady who was helping me with my work had Pluto making a trine by transit to her Sun at the very time I had the same transit to my own Sun. We both got legacies in that year! Seeing that a legacy is pretty much a once in a lifetime type of event, the odds against this being purely coincidental would be enormous.

On another occasion a client had Pluto conjunct his Sun by transit and arrived home one evening to find his ex-wife whom he had seen little of in 23 years, on his doorstep - and she was interested in re-marrying him! This is very much a typical Pluto event - bringing the past into the present. Things hidden over long periods can come to light, deaths and legacies, revelations, exposures, new beginnings, migrations, all are Pluto-oriented, and I have seen cases of these coinciding with Pluto transits or Progressions over and over again. Pluto is often linked with journeys to the land of a person's origins, which is very Scorpio and 8th House.

Of course, I don't think we should expect transits or Progressions to line up with 100% certainty with any of the planets. But I think we can regard Pluto as a pretty reliable factor both in natal delineations and prediction. And this brings me to another planet, or planetoid if we like, Chiron.

re CHIRON

I have just been reading a new book by Erminie Lantero: "The Continuing Discovery of Chiron." This is the first book I have seen since Chiron's discovery in 1977. My renewed interest in it coincides with it's being exactly conjunct my natal Sun right now. It will recur at the end of this year and the middle of next, which will give me the opportunity for research. It has been linked with Scorpio and birth by some writers, as well as with Sagittarius and Virgo. I think the case for a Mercury/Virgo meaning is worth looking at. I know another person who has Chiron conjunct her Sun right now, and is finding she is being launched into a lot of activity with teaching and lecturing.

I think some astrologers jump too easily on to the bandwagon with these things and let themselves go with the mythological and legendary point of view - purely on the strength of the name Chiron. This was given to it by an astronomer, just out of the hat as it were. In this case we have to accept that such choices are inspired by a Higher Power. But should we accept this too readily? I prefer the more pragmatic approach of the checking on a day-to-day level. So I am making a practice of inserting it in each chart, but not giving it a lot of attention unless it is prominently placed.

Twins

I have another case of twins to do profiles on. Twins born in the Sign of the Twins. Two girls born 6th June 1984, 1.37 pm and 1.40 pm, Sydney. So, they are only three minutes apart. I think in a case like this we have extremely little to distinguish between them. Will they have identical destinies? I would say no, because of the powerful planets in the First House (Pluto, Saturn, Mars) and a T-square involving Sun/Moon/Uranus. These are signifiers for highly individualistic personalities. These children will have to pursue pretty independent ways of life. So I would think they would separate pretty early and pursue quite different types of career. So this would make for differences in their life stories in itself. The first would take a more positive role.

Invite your friends to subscribe to Astrologers' Forum - to help themselves and Astrology generally. Only $A12 a year (12 issues). Sample copy for $1.

From ALEXANDER MARR (WEST GERMANY):

re LESLIE BLACK'S Statements About PLUTO

("Astrologers' Forum", June 1984, pages two and three)

Grey is any theory (Wolfgang von Goethe; Faust)

Research with astronomically correct astrological systems have revealed that Pluto is an adequate Planet in our astrological work. Its psychological expression is SHOCK. Its nature I have explained in 'Prediction using Common and Prenatal Cycles'.

In view of Pluto's signification as, for instance, sexual organs; death; end and new beginning, it has the characteristics of Scorpio, although I do not favour the mostly fictional applications of Rulers and Sub-Rulers in the Signs. The best and most simple way to analyze Pluto's efficacy are various precessional Lunar Returns. An approximate Lunar Return computation (by pocket calculator) takes not more than one minute, its rough analysis another minute. In this way every average astrologer can test the nature of any planet within a quite short time, analyzing only the planets that are close to the Angles of the Lunar Chart in question.

These Angular planets reflect with an astonishing accuracy the psychological conditions of the native during the operational period, mostly resulting from minor or major events. Another advantage of these Lunars (except the ASC-Lunar or Conception-Lunar) is the fact that Lunar technique may also be applied for Radices with approximate birth times.

Re Jenifer Pommerin's views about the accuracy of given birth times (Astrologers' Forum June 1984, page three)

We have to realize that the number of countries which nowadays are trying to record birth times accurately is extremely small. On the other hand in our research and practice we have to deal mostly with middle-aged people and older generations, for instance V.I.P.'s. Therefore most birth times are at best given to a quarter of an hour. As concerns the more advanced countries; I found that even birth times given to minutes are not as exact as they pretend to be.

In my personal recordings I have so far five cases of accurate birth time recording: Two sons, and three children of friends. By now these children have reached an age suitable for rectification of their Charts. The rectification results have been throughout within a minute of the recorded time, taking the first breath or cry of the child. My advice: Don't regard any birth time given to the minute as absolutely trustworthy.

From ELVA HOWSON (VIC.):

Saturn/Uranus/Pluto

Thomas Zimmer raised an interesting point re the Mars-conjunct-Uranus-conjunct-Pluto-opposite-Saturn people. I really can't answer the question of the long term technological effect but from what I have observed of individual cases I have genuine doubts that many of that 'generation' will be left to create a long term result. We all expect some 'normal' rebelliousness and anti-authority attitude from the youth of the day but the young with this configuration seem hell-bent on destroying themselves in a dozen different ways at once, they appear to have a very poor comprehension /awareness of consequences.

The phrases I use for them: "Dare-devil restlessness; anything for a momentary thrill; rebel against authority/restriction at ANY cost. The planetary line-up is like a self-destruct fuse. Probably some will have other strong chart influences to counteract the malefic aspects but I can assure you trines from Sun, Moon or Venus do little good, the people just seem to be lacking in control over their strengths and weaknesses.

Death Significators

Was it a misprint/oversight or am I to conclude that Uranus is not considered by you to be a significator of death?

(Uranus I regard as signifying suddenness and unexpectedness, but not malefic unless afflicting or afflicted by one or more of the traditional "malefics". In conjunction or good aspect with Jupiter I have found it to bring sudden good fortune. - Dymock.)

I agree that Jupiter is not always a life saving influence, in fact, I have observed that it is often strongly active in cases of instant death by crushing (together with Saturn) these cases afford a quick death as against a slower more painful experience.

The Vertex

I was disappointed that Alexander Marr was not more enthusiastic about the Vertex. I have been researching this point (although my work unfortunately is rather slow) and I have very good results working with it, possibly more so in Solar Returns than the Secondary System, I agree it is more an indicative rather than a causative point.

S.R. Location

The question of the native's location on the DAY of their Solar Return is an interesting one from the 'fate-dodging' side of the argument. My observations are that while the change of location does not appear to entirely alleviate the action of a malefic conjunct a S.R. Angle (or a benefic for that matter), the reaction experienced by the native can be modified/intensified by a change of location from the birth place. I do think a period of at least several days would be required in the case of a very temporary location change for the sole purpose of experiencing a 'softer' Solar Return.

Astrological Counselling

In the last Issue of Astrologers' Forum I quoted from the book Astrological Counseling by Christina Rose the record of an interview the author had had with a client (Pam). In this interview Pam expressed her anger and frustration with her married life, as her husband (Tony) left her and the baby alone at home nearly every night while he attended to business matters.

My comment was that a professional counsellor might be expected to offer more help to the client than merely pointing out the obvious - that Pam's idea of separating from Tony would not solve the problem of the marriage. Of course Pam did benefit by being able to express her anger and resentment freely to a sympathetic ear. This is often the chief therapy needed, and may lead to the client solving her own problems. But in the present instance it seems something more is required, as the interview finishes on a note of desperation, with Pam saying, "...what else can I do to make him see".

I invited readers to contribute their own ideas of how the interview might profitably have proceeded. As no one has accepted this invitation, I submit my own counselling effort, and invite comment or additions. After all this is a prime way to make astrology practical and useful instead of merely an intellectual exercise, and so it deserves attention:

Cllr: Well the problem is clear enough, now how can we deal with it? I think the essential thing is to open up more "lines of communication" with Tony. He has to be made aware of how serious the problem is for you. It's possible he is so involved with business affairs he doesn't fully appreciate the frustrations of your life.
Pam: He  well doesn't! Or he couldn't go out every night!

Cllr: Well, it's not as if he's running around with other women. You know that he loves you, and he's very conscientious and hard-working in the business.

(In Tony's Birth Chart the Sun and Saturn are in conjunction in the Sign VIRGO, which spells a deep sense of responsibility and unflagging industry.)

Pam: I just wish he'd pay more attention to me instead of worrying about the  business all the time!

Cllr: I believe he still has the same feelings towards you as he did when you married. His intense application to the business is a large part of this concern, as he feels responsible for maintaining your present living standards.

Pam: Yes, I suppose maybe that's right.

Cllr: You have to draw him into a full discussion of the present set-up. He's an intelligent man, and can't fail to recognize your needs and the causes of your unhappiness. Ask him is it more important to have a successful business than a successful marriage.

Pam: Of course he's very keen to make the business successful, and I want that too. I just don't want him to go on as if the business is the only thing that matters.

Cllr: Well, the main thing is plenty of honest talk between you. Men sometimes become so obsessed with one idea that they overlook the obvious in other departments. You have to talk it out freely with him. Don't lapse into furious silence. Give him a chance to put matters right by rearranging his life style, and I think he will.

Pam: Yes, all right, I'll try that. Thanks. I'll let you know how I get on. - Dymock.

From MARGUERITE BROSE, (N.S.W.): If I had been Pam's Counsellor my woman's point of view would have been the following: Apart from the great sorrows in life we make most of our own unhappiness - loneliness, boredom, frustrations, etc, ourselves. Women, if they want to be truly emancipated and enjoy a certain freedom have to learn to develop their own skills and potentials, thereby abolishing their emotional dependence on men.

Pam may be hampered at the moment by her situation but there are child-care centres and nurseries that gladly look after children for a morning or afternoon session. A single-parent friend of mine is teaching T'ai C'hi twice a week and attending an art class once a week - her baby is 15 months old and adores the company of other toddlers in the day-care centre.

Instead of being a dependent female, Pam should try to be an interested party to her husband's business dealings - full of her own experiences to discuss with him and giving her opinions.

Pam should know that if a person is a worker e.g. a Virgoan, neither she nor anyone else will ever change the basic nature of that person. As Dymock says above, his working so hard is Tony's way of saying "I care". To wish to change a person is only wooing disaster. Accept the facts of life - change yourself and work towards happiness. That, I think, might have been painful for Pam but it is positive advice.

Chiron

Readers may remember the inceptional Chart shown below of my first contacting a teacher of Chinese Calligraphy ("Astrologers' Forum" Issue No. 32). The only application of the Moon was its rather close trine to Chiron.

The contact with Mr. Chu (the Chinese teacher) has had many beneficial ramifications. The fact that the association has been primarily connected with the development of calligraphic skill, supports Allan Johnson's suggestion that Chiron might be associated with Virgo (Sign of the Craftsman). It is interesting also that the Moon rules the 3rd House, with Geminian connotations. (Intellect, Communication).

From LESLIE BLACK (England): You mention in your final paragraph on death Directions in the "Forum", 'What orb should be allowed for Directions, Progressions, and Transits?'

With regard to all three these should not exceed 1 degree only. With Transits the conjunction should be the only effective aspect to be considered between principle significators. But what is important is that it is not enough for the conjunction to be longitudinal, for it must correspond also to the orb of latitude allowed between the occulted position and the transiting planet. Research has shown that two degrees of latitude should be regarded as a maximum separation between the occulted position and the transiting body for effectiveness, otherwise no interaction in the birth magnetic field will bring a positive result.

The failure of astrologers to understand the astronomical significance of what brings an effective transit about is responsible for astrologers saying that transits do not work, as many even do not take the trouble to compile a list of latitude and declinations of the birth positions. Another reason also why this is important is that the birth positions of the planets are not the same all through life. They are subject to progression at the rate of 50 secs per year, so that at any time the precessed position is different from the Radical position.

STOP PRESS!

I have just received a note from ALEXANDER MARR to the effect that the Publisher of Marr's book "Prediction II" has brought it onto the market without having given him a chance to correct the galley proofs.

Marr has already tried to stop the delivery, but in the event that the book should appear without an "Errata" sheet, he advises astrologers NOT to buy it.

Naturally, an unrevised edition contains errors that can be misleading.

* * * * *

A further item of interest to the increasing number of astrologers owning or using Commodore-64 computers: RUDOLF SMIT, 12 Rockcliffe Street, Eltham, Victoria, the Australian representative of MATRIX software

CAN NOW PRODUCE HERE IN AUSTRALIA ALL THE PROGRAMS FOR THIS POPULAR MODEL. Hitherto there have been lengthy delays between ordering the Programs from the U.S.A. and receiving them here in good condition through a sometimes uncertain mail service.

* * * * *

ASTROLOGICAL PUBLISHING SYNDICATE

A minimum investment of $500 will make you a Syndicate member for the publication and marketing of any approved astrological work. The promoter is RAY WEBB, Editor of Review Astrological Monthly. DENGAR PUBLICATIONS will publish for the Syndicate and handle the distribution and marketing for a 20% share of the final profit on each work, plus expenses.

Says Ray, "The profits from publishing can be good but the initial outlay and risks are fairly great - a well-managed Syndicate does offer a chance of success that would otherwise not exist."

I might add that this venture offers a chance of successful publication to much good Australian work that would otherwise possibly sink into oblivion - a sad loss to the astrological community generally.

For further information contact Ray Webb, P.O. Box 296, Broadway, N.S.W., 2007. (Tel: (02) 51 4827).

Topocentric Primary Directions in Action

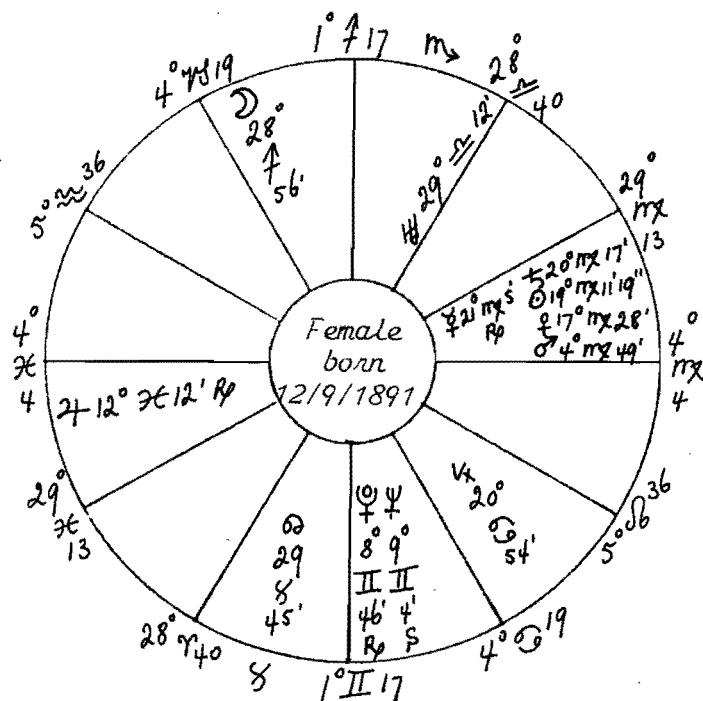

In the May "Astrologers' Forum" I undertook to give some examples of T.P.D.'s when space was available. The Horoscope below is the Birth Chart of a woman who died on 5th October 1977, after being taken to hospital six days previously on the 27th September.

The Topocentric Primary Direction for this event was SATURN SQUARE ASC on 27th September, 1977. This is a typical Primary Direction, and one that I have mentioned previously in connection with the Significators of death. Saturn's natal conjunction with the Sun was no doubt a potent influence in the final drama.

The Chart did not need rectification, but was cast for the given time of birth - 4:28 pm at Sydney on 12th September 1891.

For any who wish to check the calculations, the geographical longitude and latitude used were 151E10 and 33S55. Saturn's Pole is 27.697 degrees South, and its Oblique Descension 168.874 degrees. On 27/9/1984 Saturn's Oblique Descension had increased to 4Sag4 where it was exactly square the ASC.

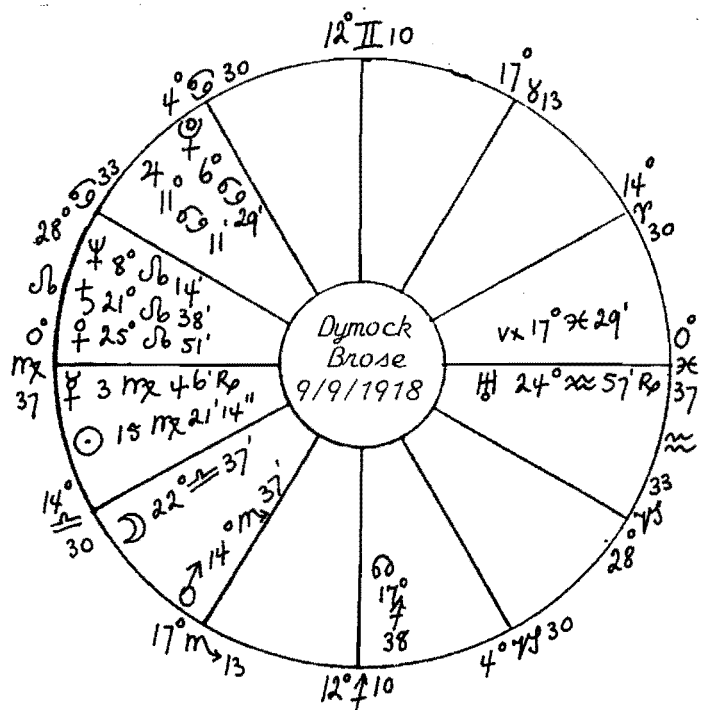

I have previously given the method of calculation for Primary Directions, but anyone interested can obtain a copy of the necessary formulae if they send a self-addressed envelope and $1 to cover postage, etc.

It is important to note that with T.P.D.'s the Significator's Pole and its Ascensional Difference under that Pole are calculated differently from the older version (as, for instance, in DeLuce's textbook, "Complete Method of Prediction").

Here is a further Nativity - my own - also calculated for the given time of birth.

Here are some of the highlights from my undistinguished career: On 9th October 1925 at the age of seven, I was nearly killed on the Manakau Road, Auckland, N.Z., but escaped with five months' hospitalization. The Primary Direction was MARS SQUARE SATURN, exactly to date - 9/10/1925. (They are not always as close as this, of course.)

In early February 1940 I was called up for military training. Primary Direction MOON CONJUNCT MARS on 25/1/1940.

After the War, on 16th August 1950, when money was scarce (my chronic malady) I achieved the distinctly good fortune of being able to buy a block of land for my first home, with the aid of a Bank overdraft. Primary Direction MC CONJUNCT JUPITER on 22/8/1950.

On 17th May 1951 I accepted the offer of employment with a good firm and was happy to stay there for the next 21 years. Primary Direction: SATURN SEXTILE SUN on 10th May 1951.

On 4th February 1972 (having survived - though not well - a difficult first marriage and subsequent separation) I had the great good fortune to link up with my present wife. Primary Directions, which tell their own tale, were SUN CONJUNCT JUPITER on 26/1/1972, and VENUS CONJUNCT MARS on 6/2/1972.

As a dedicated astrologer all those years I kept precise dates of the major events in my life, and many of the minor ones too, a practice I recommend to all astrologers, whether professionals or students. If and when you want to test any prognostic system the information right at hand is invaluable.

Here are a few more incidents from this obscure saga:

On 31st March 1936 I started work in the legal department of a Sydney Bank, a stroke of good fortune that lifted me from a condition of respectable poverty to one of comparative but indifferent affluence. The Primary Direction was SUN SQUARE JUPITER on 2nd April 1936. No one should be deceived by the square. Both the Sun and Jupiter are well placed and unafflicted in my Chart, and Jupiter exercised its traditional benefic influence.

Towards the end of May 1945 I commenced the study of radio, inaugurating a fundamental change in my life. It directed me away from stuffy legal corridors and into the fascinating world of electronics, which was a revelation to me, and a continuing source of wonder at the limitless ingenuity of the human mind. The very appropriate Primary Direction was MIDHEAVEN CONJUNCT PLUTO on 16th June 1945. (PLUTO = fundamental changes; MIDHEAVEN = life direction).

To cut a long, and perhaps tedious story short, I was providentially released from bread-winning labour and able to concentrate on the obsessive interest of my life -

Astrology - in September 1978. Hitherto the ancient art and science had been a long-continued but interrupted interest, study and practice. From that year it absorbed most of my time, and, with the new and marvellous tools available to the modern astrologer - electronic calculators and computers - it has been a source of intense delight to me ever since.

The Primary Direction that introduced this euphoric state of being was none other than JUPITER CONJUNCT THE SUN, exact on 6th July 1978, but shedding its expansive and benefic influence over an extended period of time.

I hope this brief account of the efficacy of TOPOCENTRIC PRIMARY DIRECTIONS will encourage more astrologers to study and apply them. To avoid tedious mathematics you will need either a programmable calculator or a computer. The first-named might preferably be a Casio FX-602P, and the latter a Commodore-64. I shall be glad to offer any help wanted. - Dymock.

Bonds between Brothers

JENIFER POMMERIN (W.A.) has now obtained the consent of the parents to publish the birth data of the two brothers she mentioned in the June "Astrologers' Forum", the sons of a black and a white parent:

Boy 1: 4:30 am local time, Melbourne, 25th September, 1980.

Boy 2: 11:26 am Daylight Saving Time, Melbourne (Eastern Standard Time, 10:26 am), 2nd November, 1982.

Jenifer's previous remarks were (June "Forum"), "These boys, born approximately 13 months apart, have several astrological bonds. The most striking are Moon to Sun opposition; Mercury conjunct Pluto; a prominent Saturn."

Jenifer now adds, "The Moon in the first Chart probably would not have such an impact in the life as there is one other planet in the same Hemisphere."

"Already the boys have had some experiences different from the average toddler. They both left Australia after birth for their mother's country. Now they are staying for some months with the father's parents in yet another country."

So, in the early environmental sense (home), they have experienced some changes."

A MESSAGE TO ALL SUBSCRIBERS

I am glad to hear from readers what they like, don't like, criticize or commend about "Astrologers' Forum". Contributions for publication should preferably be typed with open spacing. Add your voice and experience. Participate!

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock, 19th July, 1984.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., Australia, 2785. Tel: [047] 87 8874.

Issue No. 35, 19th June 1984

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

In last month's "Astrologers' Forum" I reported that Dr. Geoffrey Dean of West Australia is testing my hypothesis that death is astrologically signified by certain Progressions or Directions to either the IC or the ASC. The aspects so far specified are conjunctions, oppositions or squares involving Pluto, Neptune, Saturn or Mars with the Angles or with the Sun or Moon if the Luminary concerned is 'Hyleg'. I did not assume that the list is exhaustive, and I called on other astrologers of experience to contribute their ideas on the subject. It is to be remembered that we are trying to find a hypothesis that will account with true astrological symbology for ALL deaths, and yet not have so many factors that one is almost bound to be involved by chance at every demise.

So far little help has been forthcoming on this subject, the only contribution being from LESLIE BLACK of England, who writes as follows: "I don't think your hypothesis is wide enough to cover all the potentialities that result in death. While one Direction may look powerful enough to bring about death, experience has shown that this is usually not the case, as it is accompanied by a series of Directions of a lesser nature, and to an extent supported by appropriate transits and Lunar activity. Some horoscopes are seen to respond more to the latter than to actual Directions themselves.

"It is true that Saturn and Mars are considered anaretic promitters, and tend to destroy life when the 'Hyleg' is Directed to them. Also, although both Jupiter and Venus can be the main indicators of death, either through illness or accident, they cannot actually bring death about.

"I question the IC being taken as a Significator, as although a fixed point, like the ASC, it is concerned only with the conditions prevailing at the end of life, and is not considered a health-area indicative of physical death. The same applies to the Eighth House which, being a terminal House like the Fourth, describes only the manner of death, and is not consistent enough to warrant much credence, a complicating factor being the number of House systems in use, showing varying positions for the same death.

"It has been found that Progressed parallels of the ASC and Sun to Radical malefics can prove fatal, as can malefic midpoints of planets when Directed to the conjunction or opposition of the ASC, if within one degree only.

"Uranus and Neptune are noted for creating the conditions at death by their very nature, while MARS and SATURN are the prime movers as destroyers of life. I exclude Pluto altogether."

The above raises some interesting points, not the least being that Leslie 'EXCLUDES PLUTO ALTOGETHER' (!) as a Significator of death, or indeed, of anything else, as private correspondence with Leslie has revealed that he ascribes no significance whatsoever to this body. This certainly comes as a great surprise to many, including myself and Marguerite, and, on the basis of our personal experience, we find ourselves unable to adopt Leslie's view. I would certainly want to include Pluto as a Significator in any investigation into the astrological indication of death.

Leaving that aside however, I fully agree with Leslie that TRANSITS, when PRINCIPAL Significators, should be included, with the qualification that they must be either STATIONARY or SLOW in motion, through just arriving at, or leaving, first or second Station. This means, of course, transits only of the 'death' planets, Saturn, Mars, Neptune - and Pluto! Jupiter, though often present at deaths, cannot be regarded as a causative factor, but rather as signifying an easy passage from this life to the next.

It is agreed that one single Direction or Progression is insufficient to cause death, but the difficulty lies in defining (for statistical purposes) the number and nature of the supporting indications. In my correspondence with Geoffrey Dean on this matter I remarked that I thought it had to be left to the judgement of the astrologer, and that I did not see how the indications could be adequately defined.

Geoffrey replied, 'It should be possible to produce a list of Radix indications that virtually all astrologers would agree on, and another larger list that relatively few might agree on; in other words, we can put bounds on the likely indications, and then calculate the range of outcomes within these phenomenon which can be traced on any star map or celestial atlas showing Pluto to be separated by more than twice the allotted orb of latitude allowed from the position of 0° Scorpio 0° , (which if I may use a simple analogy), is like a person stationed in Melbourne claiming he is in physical contact with another in Sydney! Only of course the linear distance between Sign and planet is considerably greater!

So how can astrologers contend that Pluto rules Scorpio, when it does not even transit the Sign?, or even be exalted in it, - as some pundits would have us believe'.

The fact is that Pluto has been boosted up out of all proportion over the last 53 years, which today has almost amounted to 'Pluto Mania'. Indeed all the events and happenings that have been attributed to it could have been due to other planetary causes instead, whether Pluto has been inside or outside the limits of a Sign.

The case for Pluto being a genuine astrological influence is further questionable when all the astronomical factors about it are taken into account, as when it was discovered to be six times smaller and less massive than the perturbation of Uranus seemed to require. This proves that the residue forces on Uranus could still come from a more distant planet. If this does eventually happen, and a new giant Trans-Plutonian planet is discovered, it will be interesting to see what Rulership astrologers will ascribe to it!

From JENIFER POMMERIN (W.A.): The 'Interview' with Alexander Marr (May Issue) has style. Further dialogues with other experienced astrologers would be fascinating, and of great value as well to those still learning.

I take slight umbrage, though, at his statement concerning the recording of birth times (last para. page 3). The obstetric team routinely check the wall-clock at the moment of delivery. (The time is important as it signifies a stage in labour, and also, because of possible complications arising from anoxia of the newborn - in particular where the infant makes no attempt to breathe). This, then, is the time usually marked down - which I must admit is very much dependent upon the individual's memory!

Leslie Black's article brings to mind an exciting lead as regards singleton planets, and the Moon in particular.

Two brothers with a similar chart pattern as that of the sextuplets, come from a racially 'mixed' marriage. One parent is black, and the other is white.

When one thinks of the Moon and its symbolism .. mother-home, roots in the clan, security, self-consciousness, feelings, prejudice, the general public, the heredity ... then perhaps a personally felt isolation, via the separated Moon, could be a pretty big factor in their lives. And this may also apply to the sextuplets.

These boys, born approximately 13 months apart, have several astrological bonds. The most striking are - Moon to Sun opposition; Mercury conjunct Pluto; a prominent Saturn.

I endorse Ross Harvey's recommendation re the submission of birth data. However, in this case, there hasn't been time to contact the parents for permission to do so. There could be some delay before the boys' birth data is made available, as the family is often away.

From ROD AND COLLEEN BRANDT (QLD.):

The Chamberlain Chart

Isobel Bell's comments on retrograde Mars are quite fitting, but in regard to the ASC we think it is being overlooked that the events are happening to her, not the baby.

To put the configuration in the 5th House is putting the emphasis on the baby, not the mother. We believe the Leo subdecane of Aries is just not powerful enough to give this lady the control and power that she so obviously has.

The royal Sign Leo also knows how to conduct itself in a manner appropriate to the occasion and the circumstances of the moment. One only has to look at the way that she walks and the clothes she wears to see this, in fact, we almost expected to see that royal wave many a time while watching the trial on the news.

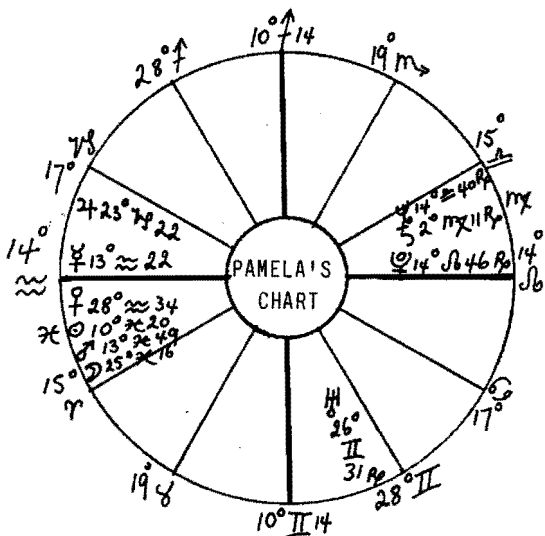

Also don't forget to take into consideration the placing of Trans-Pluto in the Chart. If you use the Leo ASC, conjunct Pluto, which gives her the power that she has, Trans-pluto is at 4 degrees Leo and Saturn and Mars at 17 and 22 degrees Leo respectively. This puts the ASC at 13 Leo, with Pluto conjunct right on the midpoint of Transpluto and Mars. To quote John Robert Hawkins in his book on Transpluto this midpoint is 'severed throats, brutality, and bloodied crimes, decapitation, untiring, extraordinary physical and mental energy and powers; never gives up', and so on. The list goes on, all confirming the Leo ASC with the relevant planets in these places. We have done a lot of work and research on this lady's Chart and the events that have happened, and we have dug up a lot of evidence to confirm the Leo ASC, some of which we can't put into print, and everywhere the transits for the events all confirm what we have just said.

Astrological Counselling

(Continuing the discussion of Christina Rose's book - see "Astrologers' Forum", Issue No. 33)

Ms Rose goes deeply into the theory of the Signs and Houses, but without giving any practical exemplification of the principles expounded, and certainly the profundity of the theory is by no means matched by the transcripts of the counselling sessions. These are more on the level of a neighbourly chat over the back fence. Such a neighbourly chat may be all that is necessary for people whose problems fall short of the need for psychotherapy, but it seems a little pretentious to dignify it by the name of 'counselling'.

Here is one of the transcripts from the book - the author's interview with a client: "Pamela has been married once, but it only lasted a matter of a year or so because her husband drank a lot and ran around after many other women. Pam describes him as a no-good who got entangled in all kinds of impossible schemes and escapades about which they had many stormy arguments. She adds that he made her feel very worthless and depressed.

The Sun and Mars in a woman's chart are taken as signifiers of the type of masculine spirit she looks for and attracts in her relationships with men. Here, they are conjunct in Pisces, and Mars is within orb of a quincunx aspect to Neptune on the Eighth House Cusp (Neptune the Ruler of Pisces). This suggests the type of 'lightweight' Martian energy that Pam seems to have met through this relationship, i.e. one that is unfocused, emotionally muddled, entangled in foggy webs rather than clearly directed. They are in wide opposition to Saturn in the Seventh House, there is a closer opposition of Venus and Saturn, and Pluto falls on the DESC. Together these highlight the 'worthless and depressed' feeling attributed to her partner's behaviour, as well as the powerful and destructive 'stormy arguments' they went through.

Pam is a very dynamic, artistic and original person who has lived her life in exciting and adventurous ways (ASC in Aquarius, Moon square Uranus, Sun and Moon in Pisces, MC in Sagittarius). [The author misses the prime factor in Pam's dynamic nature, exciting and adventurous ways, etc., which is Sun conjunct Mars in

Pisces - certainly not ASC in Aquarius. - D.]

She is a talented painter and designs her own clothes; but more than anything else she has enjoyed travelling the world (Sagittarius at the MC, Mercury rising) (I myself have Mercury conjunct the ASC, and desire nothing better than to stay put, enjoy my interests and get on with my work. - D.) and to this end has worked as a courier and in travel firms.

Having ended her first marriage, Pam then met Tony who has Sun conjunct Saturn in Virgo (opposite her Sun and Mars). Tony has Sagittarius on the ASC and shares with Pam a love of travelling. When they met he was also working as a courier/travel guide and eventually they decided to start a venture of their own in travel and tour services. Pam put a great deal of flair and energy (Aquarius, Moon square Uranus, Sun conjunct Mars) alongside Tony's organizational skills (Sun conjunct Saturn in Virgo): she was also instrumental in helping him make new contacts and had a knack of sensing the right things at the right time generally (Pisces, Moon square Uranus in 4th, Jupiter in 12th). Amongst it all they fell in love and married. They both wanted to have a child and were delighted when Michelle, their baby daughter, was born.

However, Pam began to feel very distraught because Tony was working practically all the time keeping the travel service going; occasionally he travelled abroad, but he was also out most evenings working in the bureau organizing tour programmes or otherwise meeting other people and contacts. All in all, Pam saw very little of him. As Pam and the counsellor talk, Pam's distress seems to contain some muddled emotion (Pisces, Neptune in 8th) dramatic fury and a few verbal histrionics (Moon square Uranus in 4th, Pisces, Mercury opposite Pluto across the ASC/DESC Aquarius/Leo) [Again, Sun conjunct Mars in Pisces is the principal factor - D.]

Pam: I mean that  man is out five nights a week at least! I can't stand it much longer. Sometimes I think I shall just  leave and that's all there is to it (powerful ultimatums from Sun conjunct Mars. Mercury opposite Pluto, Aquarius/Leo).

Cllr: You're thinking of leaving Tony altogether?

Pam: Well, I am not going to go on like this much longer that's for sure (furious and adamant).

Cllr: Yes, if he's away most evenings that must be pretty grim, especially if you're left alone with the baby (pauses). How many evenings would you like Tony to be home?

Pam: Well, at least three or four, I mean that's not too much to  ask surely!

Cllr: No, I wouldn't have thought so (pauses). I can understand that you're feeling angry and upset Pam, but at the same time I have the feeling that in the process your needs are getting a bit muddled up. You see, if Tony's out five evenings a week and you'd like him home three or four, I don't quite see how leaving him is going to get you nearer...I mean, by leaving you'd have him with you no evenings a week.

Pam: (Big sigh) OK, but what else can I do to make him see?

The transcript ends there. How would you finish it? Here is an opportunity to develop your skills as a counsellor. Let me know your ideas, or give an imagined dialogue. All submissions will be considered for publication.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock, 19th June 1984.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., Australia, 2785. Tel: [047] 87 8874.

Issue No. 34, 19th May 1984

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

Thank you all for your positive response to my introduction of a subscription for "Astrologers' Forum". An improved printing process now adds to the attractiveness of this monthly publication.

AN INTERVIEW WITH ALEXANDER MARR

by Dymock Brose

The German-born astrologer Alexander Marr is internationally known as a dedicated practitioner and keen researcher into the more advanced aspects of the art. Over the past thirty-five years, with the aid of computer technology, he has not only investigated Primary, Secondary and Tertiary Progressions but also developed a wide variety of cyclic horoscopes, including Prenatal Solar and Lunar Returns and 'Ascendant-Lunar' Charts, both in the Tropical and the Sidereal Zodiacs. He has worked in collaboration with Cyril Fagan (eminent exponent of the Sidereal system) and the famous A.P. Nelson Page and Wendel Polich who, in Argentina in the 1960's, originated the Topocentric system of House Division and Primary Progression, the most momentous astrological advance of this Century.

Marr is the author of three books on astrology embodying his researches, Prediction, Using Common and Prenatal Cycles, Prediction II and Prediction III, the last-named still awaiting publication. Very recently he has completed some studies on the Prenatal Epoch which promise to establish this technique on a truly scientific basis, and details of which will appear in Prediction III.

Aside from his achievements in the field of astrology, Marr is also a highly skilled musician, having been first violinist with Radio Symphony Orchestras in Germany and Ireland. During the Second World War he was a cypher expert with the German Air Force.

In this 'Interview', which perforce was conducted by correspondence, Marr gives his views and experience in relation to a variety of astrological issues of pressing interest to all serious astrologers.

Question: You have done a great deal of independent astrological research over a number of years and are in a better position than most to give an authoritative opinion on the controversial and other aspects of Astrology. First of all, do you consider the Topocentric system of House Cusps the most satisfactory? Do you use them for Primary Directions, Secondary Progressions and transits?

Answer: Yes, I think the Topocentric System of Houses fulfills all the conditions that are necessary to give astrology the base for scientific research as well as for serious predictions.

I use Topocentric Houses in all astronomically correct and astrologically effective systems: In an advanced interpretation of the Radix and the Prenatal Epoch, both rectified, and in the Primary Directional System where, without doubt, the Naibod key 1 year = 59' 08.33" is valid. My experience with this measurement goes as far back as 1950. From this time on I made valid rectifications with the MC and ASC. From 1962 onwards I included the Topocentric System for Houses and interplanetary Directions, improving my results (number and quality of Directions) by at least 60%, and in Secondary Directions progressed and regressed, where the Solar Arc in Right Ascension for Directing Angles and House cusps, without doubt gives satisfactory results with an astonishing accuracy as well.

Q: How do you rate the importance of the Midheaven and ASC as compared with the Sun and Moon?

A: I think it is not possible to compare the one with the other. Let us say I give to MC and ASC almost the same importance as tradition teaches.

So far as the Sun and Moon are concerned, I treat them according to their significance in the birth chart. In some charts the Sun and/or Moon may be of less importance than some of the planets. The Sun, mainly if surrounded by other planets (frequently Mercury and Venus) in aspect to the ASC, may greatly influence the character and destiny of the native, with the symbolism of the Sun-Sign. Generally valid Sun-Sign characteristics however have to be rejected. The same applies for the Moon, which can only develop its pure symbolism in the character of a native if it has a relationship to the Radical ASC.

EXAMPLE: In my Birth Chart, the Sun, Mercury and Mars occupy the 9th House in Tropical Aries. This configuration is in trine to the ASC in Leo and to Angular Saturn. Here the Sun (and also Mars in its own Sign, Aries) strengthens the position of Saturn in a mighty trine from high in the sky, (orb 4' of arc). In fact my character mainly resulted from a combination of Sun, Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

My Moon in the Second House only affected my sources of living in that I always preferred secure jobs as an employee (Moon in Virgo). But to a certain extent this latter characteristic may also be related to Angular Saturn.

The MC, which to a large extent has to be related to the career of the native, reflects the successes and failures of the native, while the ASC with its aspects promotes or obstructs the career.

Q: How much importance do you attach to the Moon's Nodes?

A: The Mean Nodes symbolize relationship to other individuals. The Ascending Node promotes relationship, the Descending Node separates from relatives and friends, often in combination with Saturn (mourning). The Mean Node can never act alone as it is only a catalyzer. (See 'Prediction I', page 84).

Q: You have published many cyclic charts (Solar and Lunar) and though in your books you seem to rate the Tropical Returns as most significant for events, most of your demonstrations and examples are concerned with precessed or Sidereal Returns. Do you consider these of greater importance?

A: Tropical and Sidereal Cycles have different specifications which cannot be explained in a few words. Here the following example may help to explain the differentiation: In his fatal Solar year 1963, former President J.F. Kennedy had a very impressive Tropical Solar Return Chart for his assassination, with Moon, Mars, Uranus and Pluto right on the MC (conj. Regulus), in opposition to Saturn (IC) and in a mundane square to Neptune (ASC).

The relevant Sidereal Solar Return Chart, however, mainly showed his immense success during that year (Jupiter) but no obvious indications for his assassination. In fact, the psychological experience of J.F.K. had been absolutely positive during this Solar year, while his sudden death neither produced suffering nor any other psychological experiences concerning his death.

Main events are always better indicated by the Tropical Solar. For particulars see Prediction I, pages 11, 39-41).

Q: The French astrologer, Volguine (now deceased) and some others, have recommended travelling to a distant place on the day of a Solar Return if thereby one would obtain more favourable House positions of the planets.

This to me has always seemed a dubious theory. Can you comment on this belief?

A: I don't think that the change of the place of residence for a short time can change the outcome of main events, which naturally should also be supported by all effective astrological systems. A well-chosen place for the days surrounding the Solar Return may give some fortunate experiences at that place, but no changes in main events (predestination). Experience shows that even short-lasting Cycles, such as all kinds of Sidereal Lunar Returns, have to be recomputed for the new place of residence if it has been changed after the operational date. The place of residence always has priority in all cases where certain factors of the Transit System are involved, such as, Ascensional Transits (Meridian Distance in Oblique Ascension or Oblique Descension applied to Radical MDO's), Solar and Lunar Return Charts and, to a certain extent, also Eclipses and Lunations. The two latter should also be analyzed with birth coordinates.

Q: Volguine also taught that of first importance with Solar Returns was the comparison of House positions in the Return Chart with those in the Natal Chart. This superimposition had to be done first. Do you consider this House relationship is more important than positions in the Return Chart itself?

A: My interpretation of mainly Tropical Solars is much simpler, but I hope more successful in prediction. The most important indications in a Tropical Solar Return Chart are S.R. planets in aspect to factors of the Radix and to Angular planets in the Tropical Solar itself. (Planets aspecting Radical factors with very small orbs). Of some importance may also be Angles of the Solar if conjunct Luminaries or planets of the Radix. (Necessary conditions are a rectified birth time and a Solar Return Chart computed by a precision method). To avoid fantasy and to diminish or restrict fictional effects I do not interpret the House positions of planets in any Cyclic Chart. (The large number of effective Cyclic Charts makes this 'logic' unavoidable).

Q: Have you researched the Vertex? If so, have you anything to add to the current belief that the Vertex indicates fateful occurrences?

A: So far, I have not had any results when using the VERTEX in Directional systems. However, I cannot deny that in some horoscopes it has an impressive position, e.g. in the Radix of HITLER, the Vertex is conjunct ALGOL; in the Radix of GANDHI, the Vertex is conjunct Uranus.

(It sometimes appears also in the neighbourhood of the ASC of the Prenatal Epoch).

I doubt that we can give the Vertex a special significance of its own. Like other Ecliptical points, for instance Pars Fortuna, the Vertex should be rather a catalyzer but not, as maintained, an evil-doer. (This assumption developed probably, as in moderate Northern and Southern Latitudes the Vertex often appears in the VI, VII or VIII House.)

In contradistinction to the Vertex which is an Ecliptical point, the EAST POINT has no connection with the Ecliptic whatsoever. For this reason I use the East Point only in connection with the MUNDOSCOPE - a horoscope based on the Horizon System. The East Point is the intersection of the Horizon and the Prime Vertical in the East.

Q: Nowhere in your three books 'Prediction I, II and III' have I seen any mention of the PROGRESSIVE (i.e., Progressed Birthday) Solar Return, which I have found helpful and valuable in my own work, sometimes clearly more indicative of the course of events than the normal Tropical Solar Return. Have you any comment on this?

A: I have published such a Progressed Solar in SPICA, London, some 20 years ago. I don't use it in view of already having too many other useful astrological tools.

Q: I use Topocentric Primary Directions, as you do, and find them the most satisfactory predictive method where the birth time is accurate. In this system Directions are made to the Ecliptical position of the Promisor, whereas in the older systems the Direction was made to the Promisor in the latitudinal plane of the Significator, i.e. the Promisor's Right Ascension (and consequently Oblique Ascension/Descension) were calculated using the Celestial Latitude of the Significator. I found this method inferior in its results. What is your opinion?

A: I fully agree with your investigations and like to say: All the other methods of Primary Direction are doubtful, not least because of doubtful symbolism and too large orbs.

Q: What special use do you find for the MDo's and OAO's of the Argentine astrologers, Wendel Polich and Nelson Page?

A: The practical, special use of MDo's is restricted to time periods that can be fixed beforehand. This for instance is the case in sporting events. The Radices (rectified) of several sportmen of the same team (rectified) give a clear answer on (a) the outcome of the game, and (b) the exact time of goals which are obtained pro or contra the team. Success and misfortune are here indicated by an accumulation of MDo's in aspect to Radical MDo's - Jupiter combinations for success and Saturn combinations for failures.

The assumption of the originators that MDo's may be used in forecasting events that do not have a speculative character, however, is definitely wrong, as accumulations of MDo's for a Radix are happening all day long.

The immense scientific value of these MDo's, or better Ascensional Transits, lies in the fact that accumulations of these phenomena also coincide with the most unimportant events, such as receiving a letter or a phone call. MDo's can be proved statistically for their validity and for the existence of astrology as a serious science.

The same applies for so-called inherited MDo's. Here radical MDo conjunctions between relatives and even close friends prove astrology with a high probability factor against coincidence. (See forthcoming 'Prediction II'.)

Q: In my Rectification of nativities, and the correlation of Directions, etc., with known events in the native's life, I prefer to give orbs of aspects in TIME, not minutes of arc. I consider this more to the point, as a slow-moving Significator (particularly in the Secondary Progression system) might have an orb of only two or three minutes of arc, and yet be a year or more out in timing. Don't you agree?

A: Yes, especially Primary Directions mentioned above mature on a Right Ascensional base. Example: An effective Primary Direction of the ASC maturing in the 'quick' Sign Pisces (Northern latitudes) may have an Ecliptical orb of 10' of arc. In fact, the orb of this Direction is reduced to some 3' of arc if the time and space measurement in RA, OA or OD is applied. (Here, OA).

If Secondary Directions are concerned the above rule is only valid if applied for the progressions and regressions of Angles and House Cusps (key = Solar-Arc in Right Ascension).

Q: Do you agree with Michel Gauquelin's findings regarding the position of the planets for maximum mundane effect (just past the Angles in a clockwise direction)?

A: I don't agree with Michel Gauquelin's findings regarding the position of planets in the 9th House for maximum effect. According to now over 200 properly rectified Radices, it is obvious that most birth times are 'late', because the nurses in the hospitals record the birth time for the moment they write it into the Journal. Planets near an Angle have from both sides (XII-ASC; III-IC; VI-DESC; IX-MC) the same strength.

This is the practice and besides this a logical cognition of all serious astrologers. On the other hand, planets in Angular Houses (not close to the Angles), as we all know, have more efficacy on for example the character (I) and the career (X) of a person than planets in the other Houses. This applies to Cyclic Charts as well.

Q: Have you any information relating to the efficacy of Horizon and Prime Vertical Coordinate systems in astrology?

A: For long years I worked with the Campanus system, which is undoubtedly a correct astronomical system. I have rejected it after having made the acquaintance of the Topocentric system.

Q: Do you have any use for the minor aspects (quintile, biquintile, novile, etc.)?

A: No, I think, in my astrological practice, I am using just those systems and factors which have the maximum effectiveness. However, I admit, in Primary and Secondary Directions all 15 degree (interval) aspects (15, 75, 105, 165) are of a certain effectiveness. In my practice they appear together with other, more effective Directions (conjunctions, oppositions, etc.) and are only valid if maturing with the utmost possible accuracy (within 1' of arc).

Q: What is your opinion regarding the use and efficacy of Harmonics?

A: The Harmonic System is a very dangerous system, having regard to the fact that the measurement 1 year = 1 Harmonic does not properly fit into the results. So far research upon this matter was only possible with RAMC's rectified to one minute of arc, and planets computed to a few seconds of arc. Even working them out this more serious way, Harmonics are unreliable and are not being expressed in all available main events. Besides this, we have still too large orbs for Harmonic conjunctions and oppositions, mainly to Radical factors. The other Harmonics for the main destiny of a person I reject, except maybe the 9th. However, as all the mentioned Harmonics have large orbs, they tend to belong more to 'Astrology as a belief system'.

Q: Have you any comment to make on the state of Astrology generally at the present time?

A: This is indeed a very sad and discouraging subject. Compared with other sciences, the percentage of talented and skilful astrologers is very small.

In summary, astrology must still be regarded as a belief system, as most astrologers are working with tools that are over 50% fictional. Fiction starts already at birth times that are not properly authenticated. Orbs cannot be brought under reasonable control if they offend the coincidence factor (probability against coincidence). Midpoint combinations with up to five factors involved, and other abuse and misuse of midpoints, is very common.

Astrology has a chance of development, i.e. to become a real science, only if the findings of some eminent astrologers are used and developed by other talented astrologers. Analyses of professional statisticians may help. If astrology, as is nowadays the case in its highest ranks is dominated by Neptune-oriented people, treating astrology as a belief system and combining it with occult and other beliefs, the final death of 'true' astrology may occur one day, and it will plunge into oblivion.

Advanced astrology is based on traditional rules which are now cleaned of unnecessary ballast. If a reasonable number of scientifically-oriented people can be associated with this true and useful Astrology, our science may one day, even decisively, influence the development of philosophy.

From THOMAS ZIMMER (QLD.): I'd like to mention a subject that has been of continuing interest to me: I've been fascinated by the possible ramifications of the period of 1965-66 characterized by the conjunction of Uranus and Pluto, opposed at the same time by Saturn, and aspected by Mars and the swifter planets at various times over the mid-sixties.

There is virtually no precedent for interpreting such a line-up of malefics in the charts of people born then (who are now coming into adulthood). One could also say that there is virtually no precedent for estimating the probable course of technological civilization over the next decade or two.

I see natal astrology and mundane astrology converging in the lives of this generation, which I call 'the Uranus-Pluto people'. By this I mean that the fortunes of this generation, as they live out their extraordinary horoscopes, will correlate with equally extraordinary mass pressures or events. A beginning to this may be seen in 1985 as Uranus transits the square of the natal conjunction (which was at $17^{\circ}10'$, $16^{\circ}29'$ and $16^{\circ}06'$ of Virgo).

I would like to canvass other astrologers to see if anyone has thought deeply on this situation, or knows of anything written specifically to prepare the young people of this generation. Is the configuration as extreme as I have suggested? Does astrology have a public responsibility to prepare this young generation in some way? I don't primarily want to draw attention to this, but rather find out if anyone else has been doing some serious research on the 1965-66 horoscopes. If so, and you would like some dialogue, the Forum could be used, or write to me personally. (Mt. Cougal Road, TALLEBUDGERA VALLEY, QLD. 4228).

ASTROLOGICAL COUNSELLING

From ALLAN JOHNSON (N.S.W.): I was interested in Dymock's comments in the last issue on this subject. I have been recently reading 'The Astrology of Choice - A Counselling Approach' by Roy Alexander, another London consultant. I have met Roy several times, so couldn't resist getting his book. But I must say, his theme is very similar to that of Christine Rose.

He writes: 'I always have the target that the client is going to have his life turned round in one session. As far as I know this has never actually happened, but it is a wonderful way of focusing your intention and follows the lead of Eric Berne, the Californian creator of Transactional Analysis.'

Alexander is concerned that the normal chart reading does not radically transform a person's capacities or direction in life. Most of us are aware that there are a considerable number of processes in addition to Transactional Analysis which claim to do that: Gestalt, Psychosynthesis, Mind Dynamics, etc. All these are concerned with transforming the individual's ability to cope with life from an underlying psychological point of view. It is undeniable that astrology can be used as an adjunct to these processes. But is that what astrology is all about?

Are astrologers really expected to transform people's lives? This is a continuing debate among astrologers. Certainly the two subjects do overlap, and a lot of the newer professionals are going into psychology as a prelude to astrology. Such people are then inclined to give a secondary role to astrology. But there is a distinct difference in how the two disciplines operate. I know I never encourage a client to come back under six months, or more likely twelve months. But when it comes to psychological therapy, sessions are likely to be much more frequent, maybe even on a weekly basis. So a psychologist who is using a bit of astrology is really on a different wave length to an astrologer who is using a bit of psychology. So we have to make up our minds where we are. It is a difference of clientele.

I think, the difference here could be exemplified by a client who is unemployed and one who is unemployable. Astrology might help the first but not the second. I think the astrologer does have a pretty definite role in society. Most people who visit an astrologer have problems, but it is the question of degree. The person who has had several suicide attempts might not benefit all that much from a single visit to an astrologer. I must say the majority of clients I have dealings with, don't have problems of that severity. They don't want their lives turned around in one session, but do want an intelligent assessment of what the future holds as they head into it, very much in the manner of a ship's captain with a good weather forecast.

This was the case with the subject I selected for last year's F.A.A. Certificate Examination. This was a man who was coping with life quite well, but was concerned about his decision to give up his secure job and return to England, with the possibility of going into a partnership with his brother. So a lot hinged on what the future held for him.

I think for these types of questions astrological prediction will always be in demand, provided it can deliver the goods. Then there is the question of personal relationships, which is a perennial subject for astrological guidance.

The reason astrology has survived so long over the centuries is that it is a predictive art - and still is. But again the word prediction can mean different things to different people. I think we can leave behind the heavy fatalistic dogmas of some of the early astrologers, seeing too much in terms of disastrous objective events.

But now a lot of modern astrologers are going to the opposite extreme, often denigrating prediction altogether in favour of a purely psychological approach. Destiny can still play a part in our lives. But this doesn't mean we should try to claim prediction as an exact science. It isn't. If it were, then life would be a lot more fatalistic than it really is. I think good prediction lies midway between the 'exact science' and the broad generalities a lot of astrologers dignify by the name of prediction.

I agree with Dymock that the typewritten reading is preferable to the taped variety as it makes certain sections much more accessible for checking back on. But the 'formula' type has little value.

From ROSS HARVEY, (N.S.W.): Here are a few minor points raised by the latest Forum before I get down to the main topic. A subscription is an excellent idea; indeed I could not see how you could keep going without one, donations being neither regular nor reliable enough. Secondly, a point you raised with me earlier; Would it not be a good idea if all correspondents quoted the birth data for all charts they referred to, so that those of us who might like to try other methods of analysis than those used in the article could do so? And related to that, would it not also be advisable if the given birth data were quoted together with rectified charts so that the sceptics among us could check the rectification? (Yes, I favour and encourage this. - Ed.)

I have by now communicated most of my ideas about Harmonics, and to say much more would be repeating myself. But there are a number of points raised by Alexander Marr in the latest Forum that need to be answered. When I read his submission which questioned my conclusions I began to doubt myself, and so I checked a number of charts in my files which had yielded relevant indications, and found that I had no reason to change my mind; so I shall answer his objections one by one. Firstly, as to the orb of four to five degrees in Harmonic Charts being 'quite beyond any serious consideration', I maintain that that is the orb which is suggested by experience: It is, on the contrary, an orb of only one degree that is unrealistic.

Such an orb certainly avoids 'fictional results', but also most of the true ones as well. Indeed both John Addey and David Hamblin go so far as to suggest an orb of twelve degrees for a conjunction in a Harmonic, and I do most certainly regard as very much too wide. (cf. Hamblin Harmonic Charts, pp. 27 ff.) A quick glance through Addey's Harmonics in Astrology (Cambridge Circle edition) shows several examples with orbs of four degrees or so (eg. pp. 118 and 163), examples which would be invalidated had an orb of only one degree been used. If Alexander cannot accept this, we shall have to agree to differ.

Secondly, as for the alleged misuse of 'real (true) symbolism', it is most important that, when one begins to investigate a new method, one does not start with preconceived ideas of what ought to turn up, but that one simply notes what does occur. So, when I began to look into Harmonic Directions, I calculated the Age Harmonics for marriage (among other things) for as many reliable charts as I had, and I noticed that Jupiter was by far the most common planet in aspect to the Angles or the Lights, though Venus, the Moon, the Sun, and Pluto also occur, roughly in that order of frequency. As an example, Alexander's own 58th Harmonic, (the year in which he was divorced, and remarried): Sun h 19Vir2 is conjunct Moon r 20Vir7, Jupiter h 3Aqu20 is opposite MC h 7Leo32, EP h 24Tau25 is conjunct Venus r 24Tau17, and Vx h 19Sco52 is opposite Venus r. The adverse indications are Neptune h 18Leo56 conjunct ASC r 16Leo34, ASC h 0Ari52 opposite Mars h 3Lib2 and square Pluto h 0Can40 and Uranus h 29Gem58. Had an orb of one degree been insisted upon, most of the important indications would have been missed. These indications conform to what happened (in a general way, of course; one cannot expect great precision from Age Harmonics; that must come from Solar Returns, etc.)

As a further point of interest, Alexander's Fifth Harmonic has many afflictions, something I have frequently found in the charts of divorced people, (see below). (All these afflictions would have been missed with an orb of one degree).

In my mention of the Princess of Wales's pregnancy I was guilty of omitting something important, namely that the most significant indication was the Prenatal Solar Return, where Pluto Rlr. 5th 29Can36 (Pluto again; Age H's often have similar indications to those of other methods) is conjunct the ASC 24Can19. The Tropical SR and the Progressive SR had no relevant indications. The Prenatal SR taken together with the indications in the Age Harmonic led me to conclude that she was going to have another child, which turned out to be the case. Obviously, one cannot predict anything from one Harmonic aspect considered in isolation; and I had remarked in the same article that several methods of predicting should always be considered together when one attempts to make a forecast.

In general, Age Harmonics are probably most useful in determining whether a chart under consideration is accurate. If in the Harmonics for a number of years of life appropriate planets in the Harmonics come to the Radical Angles, then the chart is at least approximately correct; if, however, the Harmonic Angles fail to make appropriate contacts for a number of important years (within the Harmonic chart, or between the Harmonic chart and the Radix), then the Radical Angles are not precisely accurate. Although Harmonics have many more uses, so much at least anyone should find it worth his while to try.

Alexander claims that he uses 'acid-proof' rectified charts, but that he can accept Page's preposterous rectification of the Queen's Chart (see his Prediction Using Common and Prenatal Cycles) does not inspire confidence in such rectifications.

Alexander's Fifth Harmonic, referred to above has the following afflictions;- Moon h 10Leo35 conjunct Neptune r 6Leo32, conjunct Jupiter h 11Leo40 (the latter obviously not an affliction); Mars h 19Leo55 conjunct ASC r 16Leo34 and opposite ASC h 22 Aqu50; ASC h opposite Saturn r 21Leo28; Saturn h 17Pis20 opposite Moon r 20Vir7 and opposite MC h 16Vir10; Neptune h 2Cap40 conjunct Vx r 7Cap4; and Vx h opposite Neptune r. All the Radical positions have been calculated from the American Ephemeris, and so may not be as precise as those calculated by computer.

I should add that, in view of the much greater uncertainty surrounding Bob Hawke's birth time than I had originally been led to believe, I can't say that I any longer have much faith in my rectification of his Chart published in Forum No. 27, which was based on misleading reports of his birth having been between 2.30 and 3.30 am.

LESLIE BLACK (England) sends the following Chart and comments on the English sextuplets, delivered by Caesarian section, all within the space of four minutes, on 18th November 1983.

The appended Chart seems to be a very striking one, with the Moon the Ruler of the Chart commanding the whole Southern Hemisphere, and singularly oriental; while the remainder of the planetary forces are under the Horizon, setting, save for Venus and Mars which are Angular (Porphyry House system).

It does not appear by this particular orientation that the children will lead separate lives, or indeed have any personal control over their destiny, as the majority of planets are within 78 degrees in a somewhat inertial Quadrant. Further to this, the Moon increasing in light and Exalted, automatically disposes of the Sun, Venus, Mars, Saturn and Pluto, thereby strengthening the idea for them to keep together in group form. But they will never be out of the public eye.

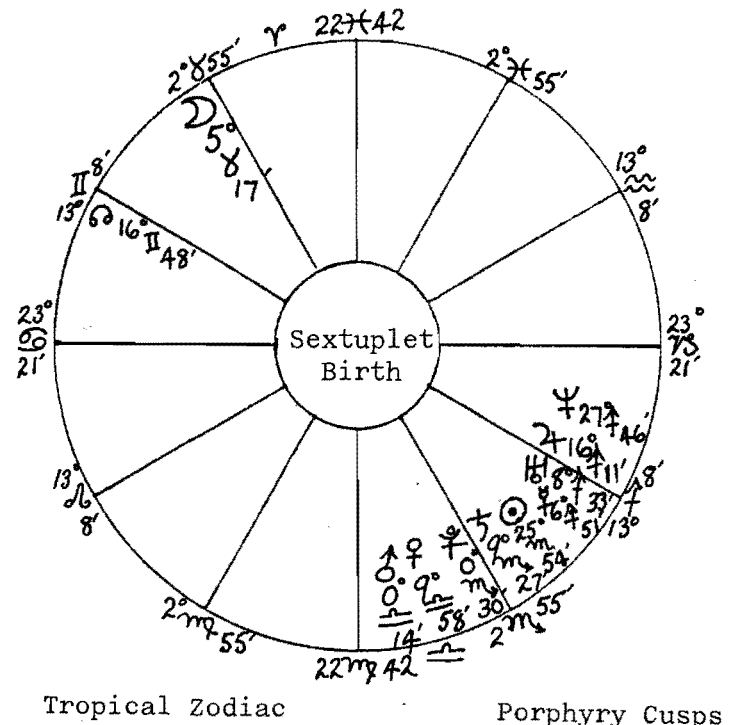

It is possible they may be directed towards some form of public life, perhaps as celebrities, as they are seen to be talented both musically and artistically, and also very ingenious and clever. Great wealth is shown by the Moon being in trine to Fortuna, and by the Sun, Ruler of the Second House, being in trine to the MC and ASC - wealth coming through artistic pursuits (Fifth-House-Sun).

The home and the guidance of loving parents do seem to be the dominant influence whence success will spring. The sextile aspects of Venus and Mars to Mercury and Uranus indicate that they will be a closely-knit

THE LIVERPOOL SEXTUPLETS

Born Friday (Venus), 18th November 1983, between 7:56 pm and 8:00 pm, Liverpool, Eng.
Lat. 53 N 25 Long. 3 W 0

Horoscope of First-born family despite the many pressures of a public nature that may befall them.

The Moon is technically Hyleg in the figure, which will guarantee reasonably good health and a fairly long life.

The progress of medical science that accounts for such births poses a great challenge to astrology from which, in general, astrologers tend to dissociate themselves, and some proclaim that all unnatural births by Caesarian section are not astrologically admissible. This assumption must be ruled out of court, as every beginning in nature in any form has a frame of reference peculiar to its being.

The case of these babies, who were born within a space of four minutes, does not allow much room to define six separate Horoscopes, although even within four minutes this is mathematically possible, there being a separation of 48 seconds of arc on each MC and equally 40 seconds of arc Moon difference. But even with this small margin the problem of delineation and the calculation of Directions seem an impossible task.

Again, the idea of identity may fall into disrepute because of the father's observation that each child at birth was totally distinguishable from the other. This does not seem to be the case statistically of naturally born twins, triplets, etc.

To those who believe in reincarnation, the problem of free will or predestination may prove very confusing in this case. It is difficult to understand why six egos decided to accelerate their evolution and be born within 48 seconds of each other.

PRIMARY DIRECTIONS

A reader new to the field of Primary Directing has sent the following questions, to which I append answers.

1. Is there any one Significator more powerful than the rest? For example, perhaps the Ruler of the MC or ASC, or the Ruler of the Radical Sun-Sign is more often involved than not, when there is a definite event.

ANS. In a general way, the MC, ASC, Sun and Moon are more important Significators than the planets, but any Angular planet is always important and significant, the more so if it is within three degrees of the Angle.

2. Can the Primary Directions be regarded as also showing general trends? (I do realize that their first use is Rectification by event timing.)

ANS. Yes, psychological states and physical or material conditions over a period do correspond to Primary Directions of the appropriate kind. The best aspects for Rectification are the minor ones (sextiles, semi-squares, sesquares) as they have a very small time orb, particularly if involving Mars or Uranus. Conjunctions are so powerful they may precipitate an event two months before they become mathematically exact.

3. Is there any comparison between the Converse and Direct positions, that is would one be more consistent than the other? How can the converse be logical?

ANS. First we must clarify what is 'Converse' and what is 'Direct'. These terms have been used in diametrically opposite senses by different writers on Primary Directions. Strictly speaking, the apparent diurnal motion of the planets, rising in the East, passing to the Midheaven and setting in the West, means that this is the DIRECT Primary motion - against the order of the Signs. As you know, in Primary Directing the Significators do not themselves move through the Zodiac, but are carried up (or down) to the position or aspect of another body by the rotation of the Earth. Actual movement through the Zodiac is SECONDARY Progression, the system most widely practised by astrologers, but which is complementary only to PRIMARY Direction.

So, in Primary Directing, movement of the Significators in the order of the Signs (Aries to Taurus to Gemini, etc.) is really CONVERSE, but to simplify the matter, and to bring it into line with ^{the} standard meaning in Secondary Progressions, the Topocentrists call apparent movement in the direction of the Signs DIRECT, and if against the order of the Signs, CONVERSE.

Your question, therefore, should really be, 'How can the so-called Direct movement, from the Ascendant, down under the Earth and up to the Descendant be logical, as this is not the apparent result of the Earth's rotation on its axis?'. Well, perhaps it is not logical by our normal standards, as it appears to be contrary to what actually happens in the sky, but there are explanations of an occult nature. The important thing for the practising astrologer is that both types of Direction are effective, just as both Direct and Converse Secondary Progressions are effective. Without employing both forward and backward motion in either the Primary or the Secondary system the astrologer finds gaps in the correlation of aspects with events, circumstances and psychological conditions. The attempt is then often made to account for some occurrences by a simple transit, which has little power unless the transiting body is Stationary or abnormally slow in motion, as when arriving at or leaving its First or Second Station. Some farcical claims result from this desperate measure.

4. How do retrograde planets fit in with the concept of Primary Directions?

ANS. If a planet is retrograde in the Nativity it retains the attributes associated with that condition when it is Directed to another body, or receives a Direction. For example, a marriage Significator applying to a retrograde planet is an indication that any union then formed will be broken off later, for whatever reason. A stationary planet in a chart is powerful, and Directions to it or of it have added significance on that account.

5. Can you give a timing guide for both the Direct and Converse movement of the planets, for example, 'Jupiter progresses by x degrees each year'?

ANS. Such a guide is impossible because the Primary motion is in Oblique Ascension or Descension, and the rate of progress varies with the latitude for which the Radix is calculated. Degrees in O.A. or O.D. are not linear with degrees in the Zodiac. This is an individualising effect of Primary Directions which is lacking in Secondary Progressions. In the last-named, people born on the same day find their Secondary aspects maturing at the same time, but this is not the case with Primary Directions for people born at different locations.

6. Can you give some examples of the effects of planets and/or aspects?

ANS. Yes, but as this requires more space than is here available, it is reserved for the next Issue of "Astrologers' Forum".

- Dymock.

EXPERIENCE/SUGGESTIONS WANTED

What are the DIRECTIONAL SIGNIFICATORS of death in a Nativity? Dr. Geoffrey Dean of W.A. is testing my hypothesis that death is signified by conjunctions, oppositions or squares involving the IC or ASC and either Pluto, Neptune, Saturn or Mars, if the afflicting planet occupies or rules the Eighth House. We could include afflictions from these planets to the Sun or Moon if either is 'Hyleg'. Another proviso is that no saving influence comes from Jupiter or Venus.

How would you add to, or qualify, this hypothesis to include ALL deaths? Suggestions based on experience wanted, please.

- Dymock.

'THE SEATTLE ASTROLOGER'

with the sub-title, 'Through Difficulty from the Stars to Earth', is published (and largely written) each month by Joanna M. Ashmun, 9259 Sixth Avenue N.W. Seattle, Washington 98117, U.S.A. Your Editor and Joanna have agreed to exchange periodicals with each other. 'TSA' makes you think about various aspects of Astrology.

Send $A2 for a sample issue.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock, 19th May, 1984.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., Australia, 2785. Tel: [047] 87 8874.

Issue No 33, 19th April 1984

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

At the suggestion of a number of recipients and in order to put Astrologers' Forum on a more economic basis I have decided to introduce a subscription of $12 a year for Australian readers, and $16 for those in Europe and North America. These amounts do not quite cover the cost of production and distribution of an eight-page issue. Those recipients who have sent voluntary donations within the last twelve months will find these amounts credited to them as an offset against the annual charge. A slip enclosed with their copy of A.F. gives the individual expiry date of each subscription. My thanks to all who have given monetary assistance in the past. This has been a great help in keeping A.F. going.

From ALLAN JOHNSON, (N.S.W.): I agree with the Editor in deciding to charge a regular subscription for Astrologers' Forum. Nobody can really expect a free publication in these days of high printing costs. A reader recently complained to me that the Forum is getting too technical. But readers are also the contributors, so I think it is up to those readers who feel a bit lost with highly technical debates to keep up their end with viewpoints on the less technical issues. That way we get a good mix.

From ISOBEL BLACK (TAS.):

Mars Retrograde in Female Charts (Continued from last Issue)

Another deserted wife with three sons works at a full-time job and pays her ex-husband to look after their children. This income supplements his dole-cheque. She has ♂ R♂ M♂ in the 5th.

A foreign woman divorced her husband in Europe during an extended holiday in Australia. She has since re-married for convenient reasons and has re-located elsewhere in Australia with her long-term woman friend, ♂ R♂ M♂ - 5th.

An extremely sensitive young woman with ♂ R♂ X intercepted in the 6th sacrificed her academic and artistic career to live in a remote village. Her husband initiated the move. He too is a talented artist. Recently he reduced his working hours at his well-paid job because he doesn't enjoy the work. Their financial situation is now desperate. To exacerbate their plight, her ailing, tyrannical father wants to move into the household.

For several years the woman has suffered protracted gynaecological problems which have proved difficult to resolve medically.

During her short marriage a young woman with ♂ R♂ X in the 7th contracted venereal disease several times as a result of her husband's indiscriminate sexual encounters. ♂ R♂ X ♂ ASC M♂ . In her subsequent relationships with men, she has been the victim of blatant treachery and sexual exploitation. Unhappily, she initiates sex prematurely in all such relationships.

In Lindy Chamberlain's Chart

(Using the Chart suggested by Dymock Brose in "Astrologers' Forum", 19/1/1983)

In this Chart ♂ R♂ J♂ is of crucial importance. Mars rules the Aries ASC and disposes of Venus in the 1st House.

Decanate sub-division of the ASC reveals a strong Leo sub-influence relating to the 5th House, which is actually occupied by ♂ R♂ J♂ . (This may interest those readers who think Leo ASC more appropriate for this Chart).

In 'Aspects and Houses in Analysis' p.38 Noel Tyl says,

"With Mars, retrogradation is particularly telling: The counter-point dimensions of energy application keeps much energy inside and, in certain configurations, can endanger the health and nervous system. The energy goes in before it goes out: for censorship, consideration, adjustment, timidity."

The energy retention and strategic release would be wilfully controlled - ♂ R ♀ J .

At times there will be adverse effects on the health and nervous system. Mars rules the Aries ASC and opposes Mercury (stationary direct) in Aquarius. Virgo rules the 6th House.

Tyl goes on to say, p. 75:

"In a Fire Grand Trine, we see an inspirational self-sufficiency, a self-motivational isolation."

The ease of personal functioning correspondent to a Fire Grand Trine would not be so evident in this person's life.

The self-motivation especially, would be of a 'different order' - Earth and Water count low, two points each; ♂ A ♀ H II is the only tense Lunar aspect, and ♂ X disposes of ♂ R ♀ J .

In general terms an Aries ASC describes an individual who instinctively knows how to conduct herself in a manner appropriate to both the occasion and the circumstances of the moment. Her involvement is spontaneous.

Paradoxically ♂ R ♀ J introduces self-doubt, uncertainty and deliberation, hence the over-controlled personal presentation exhibited by Mrs. Chamberlain.

'My will be done!'

$\text{♂ R ♀ J ♀ S D} \approx$ presents Mrs. Chamberlain with an unavoidable dilemma in life. $\text{♀} \approx$ and ♂ H II are in mutual reception. By natural House-placement, both planets are transposed in the Chart.

Of mutual reception, Margaret Hone says, p. 144, 'The Modern Textbook of Astrology':

"...when each of two planets is...in the Sign ruled by the other. The position brings them into relationship as if they were in conjunction".

Of $\text{♀} \text{♂ H}$ Alan Oken says p. 238 'The Horoscope, The Road and its Travelers',

"...There is a tendency, however, to be quite opinionated, and one is always eager to express oneself in new and unusually unconventional ways. Thought may come in 'flashes' and there is an uncanny ability to come up with immediate solutions for complicated situations. A lightning mind."

From OLIVIA BARCLAY (ENGLAND): Thank you for the Forum, in which I was delighted to see your Horaries. Where can I read that Leo is associated with teaching? How I do endorse your remark "I have yet to see a Horary fail."

Things seem to be turning to event-astrology at last. It feels like the tide coming in.

The Lodge (The Astrological Lodge of the Theosophical Society, - Ed.) is having a day of Horary this Saturday with Derek Appleby. He has a book coming out any minute containing eighty horary charts interpreted. It will be good, and I think it will excite some interest in the subject.

I very much enjoy getting the Forum, which gives me a sense of being in touch with overseas friends. I look forward to hearing what Chiron did in Marguerite's Chart No. 4.

I am pleased to note from Olivia's letter that the tide of astrological practice is turning again to event-astrology. I do not decry the great value of the psychological aspect, but some exponents (even eminent ones) with their fixation on Jung and their obsessive interest in feelings, thoughts and 'esoteric' considerations tend to get well into the realm of fantasy. A firm basis of practical commonsense, and precise techniques that relate Astrology to the incidents and circumstances of everyday life are needed if the science and art is to remain credible.

In reply to Olivia's question regarding the Sign Leo, this follows naturally from the 5th Sign correlating with the 5th House, which is associated with children, schools and education. My sister, who is the Principal of the Rudolf Steiner School, Glenaeon, in Sydney, has the Sun and Venus in Scorpio in the 5th House - a typical example, I would say. The association of Leo with teaching seemed so natural to me that I had never thought to look for a text-book authority, but I did find one on page 88 of Sakoian and Acker's The Astrologer's Handbook.

- Dymock.

From JEANETTE SIMPSON (N.S.W.):

Short Study of Health Problem

Subject; Male age 11 years 5 months

Indication: Collapsed upper left lobe caused by either pneumonia or clogging from excess mucus. Two doctors could not reach mutual agreement. Subject has a history of chronic chest problems.

Significators:Radical

♀ ♂ ASC (rules 6th) ☐ ♂ ♀ (rules ASC) Lungs affected by fever and infection.

☉ Ruler ♀ ♀ 12th ♂ ♀ 6th
(☉ 8 1st; ♀ 8 Cusp 2 ☐ ♀ 6th)
Health problems affecting head, ears, nose throat.

☐ II ☐ ♀ 6th Problems with elimination processes, particularly affecting the lungs.

♂ 7 8th favourably aspecting ☉ -Ruler
Protection

Progressed

♀ p ♀ ♀ p: Natal condition activated (♀ had been retrograde prior to progressing to its Natal return and then on to aspect ♂ p).

Corroboration from ☉ p // ♀ r; ♀ p // ♀ r
T ♀ moved to Δ ☉ r and activated ♂ r by ☐ T ♀ activated Natal ☐ ☐ ♀ by ♂ and ☐ respectively.

T ♀ opposed ♀ and ASC.

The situation received some help from ♂ p to favourable aspect with the strong
♂ . MC by One Degree Direction * 3Sag
8th (♂ 4°34'; ♀ 2°21 Sag 8th).

Apart from ASCp entering the Sun Sign no other Angular aspects could be determined but this Taurus influence would put extra emphasis on the Radical ♀ ♂ ♀.

From ROSS HARVEY (N.S.W.): Thank you once again for another fascinating Forum. For your interest I have just received (in the same post) a reply from the Prime Minister's Office, whose second paragraph I shall quote in its entirety:-

"Mr. Hawke was born at Bordertown, South Australia, in the early hours of the morning on 9 December, 1929. Unfortunately, it is not possible to provide the exact time of his birth."

From this it would seem that even the approximate times of 3 to 3.30 am quoted in the Journal and elsewhere are someone else's speculation, and cannot be relied upon to have any basis in fact. (That does not mean that such a time arrived at by rectification techniques may not be valid, just that no time at all is recorded, and indeed the birth may have been anywhere between midnight and, say, 6 am.

Regarding the 'old rule' about Directions,
I was quoting from memory from Charles Carter.
When I checked, I found he refers to it as an ideal (Principles of Astrology, p. 177), and goes on to say, 'Unless at least an approximation to this is insisted upon, almost any system will seem to pass muster'.

Hear, hear! (An approximation is a different thing from 100% correlation, which is what I consider an unjustified assumption.
- Dymock.)

I could not agree more about the importance of Prenatal Solar Returns; indeed they are often clearer than the ordinary Tropical SR's, as with Ross McWhirter. In that case,
I don't think that one could have deduced death before the event from that Tropical Return alone. That was my point. The adverse indications in that Return are such as I have seen on quite a few occasions when the events turned out to be comparatively minor - 'terminations', for instance, have often been of an association, etc. In this instance it was the Primary Direction ASC d square Neptune that was of overriding importance.

I remarked some time ago that I have found that the 13th and 16th Harmonics can be useful in determining which planets in a solar return (all sorts of SR's) are most important. The 13th Harmonic of the Tropical SR of Ross McWhirter for 1975 gives Neptune h
27 Pis 39 conjunct ASC h 28 Pis 16, square
MC h 29 Sag 21, and Saturn h 9 Gem 18 opposite Neptune SR 9 Sag 3 (Ruler ASC SR). I have frequently found Neptune prominent in charts concerning death, and in this case it echoes the Primary Direction. In the Progressed Birthday SR 13th Harmonic Saturn at 16 Leo 15 is conjunct Sun r at 19 Leo 31, while in the 16th Harmonic Saturn at 20 Leo 0 is conjunct Uranus at 20 Leo 32, both conjunct Sun r; Neptune at 1 Tau 44 is conjunct ASC at 0 Tau 24 (Neptune again), and the MC h at 9 Lib 4 is conjunct Sun at 8 Lib 4 and Pluto at 9 Lib 6 (in the latter case an orb of two minutes of arc, assuming the birth time is correct.

There are a few indications in the Progressive Solar Return Chart, viz., Moon Ruling the ASC conjunct the 4th Cusp, Saturn Ruling the 8th and 7th square Uranus Ruling the 9th and 10th, which links an adversary, death, foreigners and the self (the MC can also represent the self in Return Charts; at least I have found that it does quite often). It is easy to see all this after the event, but I would not have been able to predict disaster (of any sort) from either SR without reference to the 13th and 16th Harmonics of both, and of course without the Primary Direction. Sun conjunct Pluto in the Chart indicated a remarkable year, but the rulerships are not appropriate, and the same conjunction would have been in his brother's Chart.

Ross Harvey writes further about his experiments with fractional Solar Returns (that is, the Solar return to the same degree position as in the Radix, but a different Sign) and Harmonic Directions applied to Solar Returns. He concludes that only the Half-Yearly and Quarterly S.R.'s are reliable. This echoes my own experience, and I would add that the Quarterly Charts are quite valuable, showing the most significant event or circumstances in that particular Quarter.

I have not tried Harmonic Directions within the Solar Return Chart at all, being still dubious about their value, even in a Nativity. Ross himself concludes that Harmonics are valueless as a Directional System in the S.R.'s.

Ross has been trying Primary Directions within the Solar Return, using the Mean Solar Arc (or Naibod Arc - 59'8.33" in Right Ascension) as the equivalent for a month of time, instead of a year, a time measure that I modestly claim to have originated. I have found this Directional system, on the Topocentric model, to pinpoint many events when applied to Cyclic Charts. Ross also uses Topocentric Directing, but employs the latitude of the Directed Significator, whereas in the pure Topocentric method the Significator is Directed without latitude. Ross believes he gets better results this way, but that has not been my experience.

Prenatal Charts and Transits

ALEXANDER MARR's computer-aided research over many years into PRENATAL Cyclic Charts and PRENATAL Transits has been most valuable in drawing attention to these remarkably significant astrological indicators. Marr has made the remark to me that doing Post-natal Charts without the corresponding Prenatal ones is like having a head without a tail - it is only half the story. Certainly, in the limited amount of research I have done in this field, the results have indeed justified his claims about the effectiveness of Prenatal Cyclic Charts and Transits.

The Prenatal Solar Returns are easily worked out if you have an Ephemeris going back far enough: You simply take the same number of years before birth as have elapsed since birth for the normal Solar Return Chart. Thus for a person born in 1940, a normal S.R. for 1984 is 44 years after birth, and the corresponding Prenatal Solar Return would have to be calculated for the Sun's Return in 1896.

Prenatal Lunar Returns pose much more of a problem, but are easily managed if you have a Julian Day Routine in your calculator or computer. I devised a program of Julian Days to suit my Casio FX-602P Calculator and found it accurate when checked against the Julian Day Routine in my Commodore Computer. It gives the prenatal day and time corresponding to any postnatal date, and vice versa, accurate to within approximately one minute of time. I shall be glad to supply this Program free to any owner of a Casio FX-602P Calculator who sends a blank cassette and $1 to cover postage.

One of the chief uses of the Julian Day facility is to see immediately what prenatal transits correspond to any given postnatal date. I can assure everyone that it is a fascinating business to see the events of your life being indicated by planetary positions and transits occurring thirty, forty, fifty or more years before you were born! I have, indeed, found them often more indicative than the conventional ones.

Perhaps the explanation of this lies in the fact, again pointed out by Alexander Marr, that they are of a more highly individual nature. For instance, everyone born on, say, the 9th September in any year will have a rather similar Solar Return Chart, though with different House positions corresponding to the time of birth. But people of different ages, though born on the same day and in the same month will have distinctly different and highly individual Prenatal Solar Return Charts, because they will be calculated for a different year entirely.

The Progressive Solar Return has a similar individualistic quality. This Chart (also known, rather more clumsily, as the Progressed Birthday Solar Return) is calculated for the day and time in the current year when the Sun arrives at the position it would hold if the native was born on the Progressed Date (one day = one year) and at the original birth time. So, here again, the different ages of people born on the same day will yield a distinctly different and individual chart.

In reading any S.R. Chart it is of first importance to superimpose the Return Chart on the Natal Horoscope.

In the Progressive Solar Return of McWhirter, calculated by Ross Harvey for the year of McWhirter's murder, the conjunction of Pluto and the Sun falls on the Radical 8th Cusp, Pluto being within 28' of the precise position. This is a specific warning of dire peril. The 8th Cusp of the Radix is at 9 Lib 34, whether calculated by the Placidian or Topocentric formula, though there are small differences amounting only to minutes of arc in the position of the other intermediate Cusps. (Where there is any difference I invariably favour the Topocentric system, which appears to me to yield more precise results). - Dymock.

From ALEXANDER MARR (WEST GERMANY):

Questionable Harmonics

Here are some points concerning ROSS HARVEY's extensive demonstrations of HARMONICS, especially those in the last issue (Number 32 of Astrologers' Forum, page 5),

1. Even an orb of around one degree which I admitted for Harmonics, is not small enough to avoid fictional results, especially if the planets are not computed with the utmost possible accuracy, and we have to deal with a so-called rectification with the aid of Harmonics. In my opinion, Rectification is here undoubtedly the wrong expression. At its best we may call it an insecure authentication of an approximate birth time.

1a. Ross Harvey's suggested orb of four degrees is quite beyond any serious consideration.

2. Ross Harvey's examples misuse the real (true) symbolism of planets.

2a. An Angular Jupiter in Harmonics alone (if not completely fictional because of a four-degree orb) does not necessarily mean a marriage. I actually avoid restricting certain planets to special events, but, if we recall the most frequent Angular factors for a marriage, we find the SUN for females and the MOON for males on mainly the ASC-DESC axis. JUPITER appearing as the dominant planet for a marriage (preferably on MC) is mostly found in charts of individuals (mainly females) where apart from other things, the native's standard and style of living is improved in relation to his/her social and occasionally financial position through the usually dominating role of the partner.

The same applies to 'PLUTO for the birth of a child'. In certain cases this may be acceptable, but it depends on the character of the birth and on other more conclusive indications. I remind the reader that an Angular PLUTO frequently reflects death.

3. THE RULE OF ONE (i.e. one indication for an event) is false and also illogical. Experience shows that no matter what astronomically correct system is used, even for minor occurrences, we will find several indications for the event. Recent research has consolidated this well-known tenet in a more than sufficient way.

3a. I ask the reader: 'What can we actually predict with a single PLUTO in HARMONICS?' Answer: 'Simply everything'. This makes the interpretation of past events especially, very comfortable.

CONCLUSIONS:

I am sure that Ross with his enthusiasm for Harmonics has computed many more cases than I have. However, the decisive difference in our approach to the matter is the fact that my analyses have been performed on 'acid-proof' rectified Radices, with a considerable number of events known in detail. Besides this, planetary positions have been computed to a few seconds of arc. I invite the reader to weigh these considerations in order to get matters into perspective when dealing with 'COINCIDENCE against CHANCE'.

COINCIDENCE AGAINST CHANCE is a main problem in astrology, and an indispensable requisite is the skilled use of PLANETARY SYMBOLISM. Neglecting these matters means that Astrology drifts into being A BELIEF SYSTEM.

The discussions in previous Issues about Astrology as a belief system in my opinion, have been most disappointing, mainly because (with a few exceptions) the defenders of astrology have produced very little towards the truth of astrology. On the other hand, the subject had not been properly determined from the very beginning, and this is the precondition for any serious discussion.

GEOFFREY DEAN is a very clever and versatile writer but he should rather support astrology than try to cripple it.

Theoretical conclusions about the PRENATAL EPOCH are no longer relevant as in practice this problem is solved in its most important aspects. Here, only the demonstrations of JAMES MCKEAGUE have shed any new light. (A.F. No. 32, page 3).

So far, my starting point for the search for a Prenatal Epoch assuming 272 (273) days before birth has been successful in all up to now rectified Prenatal Epochs. (272 days is the traditional rule). I agree that in the overwhelming number of cases (out of 46 rectified Prenatal Epochs) the time periods of pregnancy until birth have been a few days shorter than the traditional rule of 272 (273) days. Therefore, I appreciate very much the statements of the doctors.

Retrogradation

There have been pages of complicated reasoning about RETROGRADE PLANETS. Here the most appropriate and simple statement was from the deceased CHARLES E.O. CARTER, whom we may call 'an eminent astrologer of his time', with an open mind for new ideas and, last not least, a promoter of astrology in all its branches. (A.F. No. 21, page 4).

Most of the complicated accounts relating to RETROGRADES that I have seen so far during my astrological practice are based on traditional and mediaeval assumptions that not only visually but also in reality the planets change their direction. CARTER had the right idea, and I would put the whole question in the following form:

'The strength and efficacy of a planet do not depend on the apparent direction of its motion, but on its apparent speed. Stationary planets especially are powerful and of long-lasting effect, but always according to their true symbolism, i.e. never changing their original character.'

ASTROLOGER AND SCEPTIC: A DIALOGUE

By Dymock Brose (Answering The Anonymous Sceptic)

SCEPTIC: Astrologers never let on that there is a total lack of evidence to support astrological beliefs as traditionally applied, or that there are many non-astrological explanations for why astrology seems to work.

ASTROLOGER: I challenge that 'total lack of evidence'. Every sincere astrologer practises astrology because his own enquiries and experience have convinced him of its truth and validity. If this same method does not carry conviction to others, who, perhaps, want 'scientific' proof, then that is their problem, not ours. Incidentally, I could name quite a few scientists who were also convinced astrologers. That 'seems to work', I see as an admission that astrologers are not so far wrong even in the view of the sceptics. Are the 'non-astrological explanations' more credible than the astrological ones?

SCEPTIC: Astrologers stress that total accuracy is unattainable only because birth times are uncertain. They never mention that they disagree about mostly everything.

ASTROLOGER: I am not sure whether 'total accuracy' refers to character delineation or other branches of astrology. So far as the delineation of personal characteristics is concerned, I believe we score at least as high as psychologists, probably higher.

I have never met or read of a genuine astrologer who claims 'total accuracy' in this department. I think only the wildly enthusiastic would claim 'total accuracy' in any branch of the art, but then neither does this wishful state of affairs exist in any of the learned professions, - law, medicine, economics, architecture, engineering, political science, archaeology, etc.

Certainly, astrologers disagree about many things (I dispute that 'mostly everything') a characteristic they share with those in the learned professions above-mentioned. Astrologers, do, however agree on the basic truths of astrology, and for the rest, their disagreement is simply a healthy sign of their struggle for the truth.

SCEPTIC: Astrologers never check their interpretations with proper controls and statistical analyses in case they are proven wrong. They insist that astrology is a Divine Truth, which is why it is beyond question, and refuse to be confused by facts.

ASTROLOGER: Many astrologers are uninterested or too busy to be involved in statistics, which they do not see as an essential to Astrology. Statistics, though useful, do not tell the whole story. When one considers the number of astrological factors that can contribute to one item of delineation, it is apparent that there can never be a sufficient number of like cases to provide reliable statistics. I do not personally insist that Astrology is a Divine Truth (though it well may be) but that, like many occult truths, it comes to be known and understood in the process of sincere and patient study. It is not 'proved' but revealed to each man in proportion to his capacity to receive.

Whoever experiences this revelation finds it sufficient 'proof'.

SCEPTIC: Not the Sun and Moon but Ego and Bank Account are the most important factors in any chart, and putting them before truth and credibility is what being human (and successful) is all about.

ASTROLOGER: I can excuse your cynicism, seeing that, in fact, many pursuits of the human species are degraded by materialistic and profit-making exploiters. 'Quack' remedies have many times made a mockery of the noble art of healing, and professional confidence tricksters are with us in all walks of life. Astrology has not escaped the attention of those with an eye purely for quick gains, but this does not reflect on Astrology itself, only on those who thus abuse it. There are an overwhelming number of astrologers who practise their art in all sincerity, and with the best interests of their clients in mind.

SCEPTIC: Astrology brings unparalleled insight into life and character. Which is why the astrological community is so noted for its tolerance, understanding, and lack of internal conflict.

ASTROLOGER: Well, you've got something right - the first sentence. I'm glad you acknowledge this. As for the sarcastic second statement, it leaves me quite untouched. There is both tolerance and intolerance among astrologers, as with any segment of the people pursuing a common aim. It would be hard to point to any section of the community that is free of internal conflict. Political, religious, scientific, medical groups, etc., are all characterized by opposing views and internal conflict. Perhaps this is a good thing: Out of struggle comes progress, and we have it on the authority of our former Prime Minister that 'life wasn't meant to be easy'.

SCEPTIC: Explain to your clients that astrology requires a lifetime of study, which is why you have no time for any other relevant discipline. Tell them also that predictions never fail except through free will or lack of accurate data, which is why you aren't rich.

ASTROLOGER: You are becoming embittered. It is true that the dedicated astrologer never gives up studying and learning, and for many of them this does include 'relevant disciplines' such as astronomy, mathematics, psychology, computer-programming - and even statistics!

It is a foolhardy astrologer indeed who tells his clients that predictions never fail, for whatever reason. The eager novice may occasionally let his enthusiasm get the better of his good sense in this respect, but experience teaches humility.

Certainly, predictions as made by astrologers often fail, but this does not reflect on the science and art of Astrology, only on its interpretation. Doctors, economists, politicians, meteorologists, political commentators, sporting pundits and businessmen all make predictions - and all are often wrong. Astrologers are fallible too.

SCEPTIC: Astrologers give readings so general they can't be wrong, and select chart factors that fit the facts.

ASTROLOGER: You are perhaps referring to 'Sun-Sign' columns in the popular press. These must of necessity be somewhat general, though within their limited field they are sometimes also surprisingly apposite. The delineation of a whole chart by a competent astrologer deals in specifics. There will be some general traits which people share with many of the same astrological type, and which must be included to make the picture complete. Chart factors are not 'selected' to fit the facts, but observed to do so, thus providing further confirmation of Astrology.

SCEPTIC: There is a discrepancy between the clear-cut influence of signs in actual readings and articles, and their anything-but-clear-cut influence when actual tests are involved.

ASTROLOGER: Zodiacal Signs (a capital 'S', please, - we are not talking about algebraic signs, street signs, signs of the times, etc.) when considered on their own are naturally clear-cut and definite. But in an actual chart-reading they are modified by all the other astrological factors that have to be considered. In proportion to the skill of the astrologer so is he able to merge the different factors successfully. 'Actual tests' willy-nilly involve all the different factors in the chart of each person under test, so it is only to be expected that the Sign effects will be blurred.

SCEPTIC: Astrologers reject all pretence of critical thinking.

ASTROLOGER: This sounds very much like a wild last shot in a losing battle, and does not call for comment beyond saying that an examination of modern astrological literature will reveal plenty of instances of critical thinking. Criticism is one thing, but equally valuable (and less common) is appreciation. It is just as necessary to appreciate a good thought as to criticize a wrong one.

ASTROLOGICAL COUNSELLING

A book that has come my way for review is 'Astrological Counselling' by Christina Rose. A note on the back cover of the book states, 'Christina Rose is a qualified counsellor and astrologer who is particularly active in the promotion of counselling education in astrological practice. She also teaches and lectures on basic and advanced levels of astrology and has a client-practice in London, where she lives.'

Ms Rose approaches her subject with enthusiasm and some definite ideas about how Astrology should be used. It is a question, however, whether the type of counselling she advocates would not be just as effective without the assistance of Astrology, whose contribution to the whole process often appears to be little more than nominal.

Perhaps the book should have been called simply 'Counselling', the astrological content being general and theoretical, and used chiefly by the author as a peg on which to hang her ideas.

Thus her idea of 'counselling' is to pick some salient feature of the birth chart, and explain its general nature to the client who is then led to reveal precisely how it has worked out in practice.

There is no doubt this procedure saves Ms Rose a great deal of work, and saves her also from the uncomfortable situation of committing herself to precise delineatory statements that may turn out to be wrong. It enables her, too, to handle a greater number of clients than would be possible if an in-depth study and typed delineation of each birth chart were required. For both these reasons, many practising astrologers record their chart 'readings' on cassette tape, disregarding the fact that often the ideas they attempt to express are not properly thought out, and the tape is of much less practical use to the client than a typed delineation where quick reference can be made to different sections.

The use of Astrology in this way cannot be said to forward its development as an instrument of diagnosis, whether of the client's psychic state, physical condition, character or destiny. It appears that the work of discovery and refinement in Astrology will remain the province of the dedicated researcher who pursues his/her studies through love of the subject matter and of humanity, uninfluenced by considerations of great monetary gain.

When Ms. Rose does get down to the astrological aspects of her subject, she makes some valid and useful statements (interspersed with others that may be regarded as questionable). Here is one that I find wholly commendable: '(The astrologer) can shift (the client's) astrological conversations from "What is Saturn going to do to me when it transits my Sun?" to "How can I use this instruction in the heavens and put it into practice, apply it for my life and the way it is developing?"

"Instruction"...is not understood as a precise and clearly-defined event. The heavens do not say that in March you are going to have a depressing time in your love-life because Saturn will transit your Venus in the Seventh House. What it says is that the process for you, the individual, to bring to life, is a concrete scrutiny (Saturn) of your inner values (Venus) concerning interpersonal relationships (Seventh House). The individual may well focus the main theme of this process upon a key relationship in his life; the manifestation might be ending a relationship, putting an existing relationship onto a different footing, starting a relationship--in fact anything that will reflect the requirement made of the individual to focus upon personal boundaries, feelings, needs, fears, direction and truths when relating to another person. The astrological counsellor cannot impose upon the individual what it will be, but is in a position to help him find the significance of whatever experience he goes through by putting him in touch with the theme and process behind it.'

Such worthwhile statements are interspersed with others of a general philosophical nature, expounded with all the enthusiasm of one who has just lit upon some basic age-old truths, and is bent on proclaiming the discoveries to the world at large, however familiar they may be to the readers. Thus, 'Astrology used within a counselling framework sees the individual and the universe as interrelated and interdependent...', and, 'the universe is regarded as one Whole, one totality...'

The book would have been improved if the author had undertaken the discipline of illustrating her many general precepts and pronouncements with specific instances, though she does not altogether fail in this respect. When endeavouring to explain the psychological function of the I.C. (opposite the M.C.) Ms Rose describes it as the individual's 'point of recoil, where he is rooted, where he periodically touches base, then to return back into the world and his endeavours'.

This sounds fine - until we try to put the idea to practical use, then we wonder if it has any relevance at all. An illustration or two from the author's own experience (presumably she has had some to make this statement) would help to clarify the matter and decide just what value to set on it.

There is a good deal more to be said about this book. If readers are interested I shall continue the discussion in the next "Astrologers' Forum". Please let me know your views. I accept each letter as representing about 10% of readers.

Easter greetings from Marguerite and myself.

- Dymock, 19th April, 1984.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., Australia, 2785. Tel: [047] 87 8874.

Issue No. 32, 19th March, 1984.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

Both Marguerite and I think that Horary Astrology is a much neglected art, one that is of great practical value in everyday affairs. Here is a recent example of how we use it.

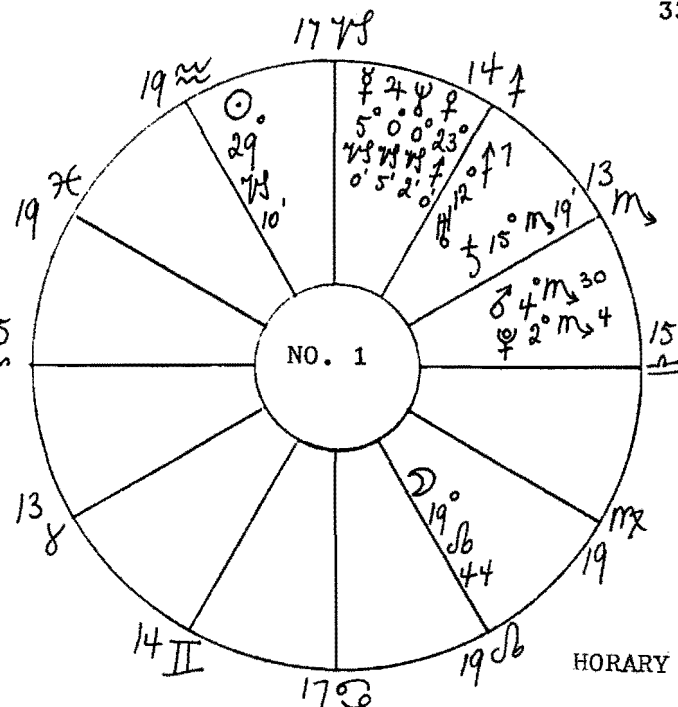

From MARGUERITE BROSE (N.S.W.): Having ploughed through some five years of an adverse Neptune-biased existence (slow Neptune transiting and retrograding opposite natal Sun, and Neptune conjunct MC), during which time I was victimized by high-handed bureaucracy and suffered devastating disloyalty with which I will not burden my reader, light has emerged at last.

During those long years there were indeed plenty of ideas floating through my brain but whenever a Horary Chart was erected for a particular idea the ever-recurring answer was negative, like an evil genie bent on destruction.

Questions such as 'Should I enter this or that Exhibition?', 'Should I approach Council for a permanent Art Gallery at my home?', 'Should I import a quantity of Chinese rice paper from Peiping?', or 'Should I give a painting workshop at the local Art Group?', all met with a repetitive sameness that was predictable (no pun).

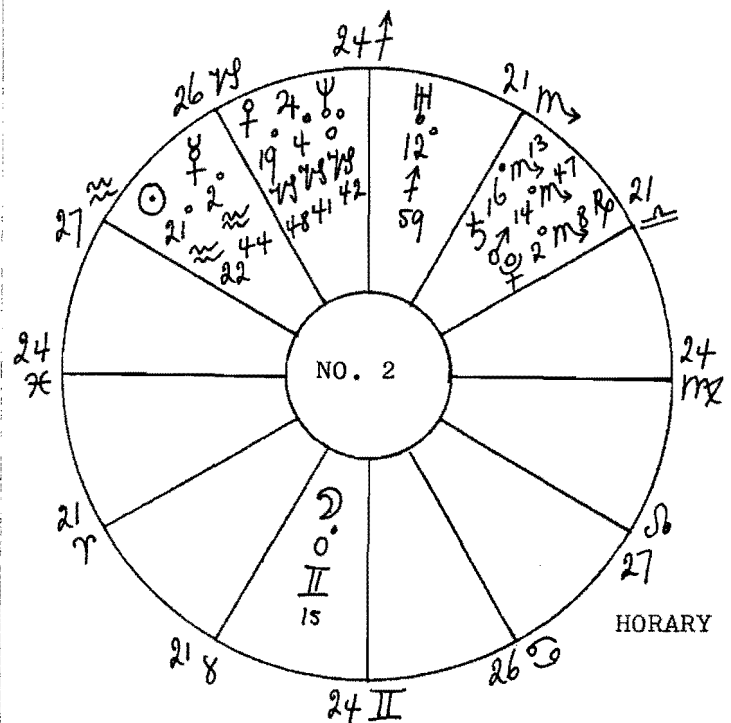

Imagine my exhilaration when the Horary Chart erected for a phone call received at U.T. 1:17 am on 20th January 1984, Blackheath, proved to be positive.

BLACKHEATH: 150E17
33S18

The question: 'Do you wish to run a class for Chinese Brushpainting for the Day and Evening College in Katoomba?'. See Chart 1. The Moon is very favourably placed in the teaching Sign Leo and conjunct the 5th Cusp (art and teaching) and is making a mouth-watering trine to Venus in the 9th House (higher learning, foreign matters). It is the only application of the Moon before it leaves the Sign it occupies; so there are no disturbing factors, the Moon's applications being the most important factor in Horary Astrology. Not only would the teaching go well, there would be a nice amount of love generated in the class to lift the whole thing out of the dreary dullness with which I have associated art tuition generally. The Ruler Mars conjunct Pluto in Scorpio and Angular is indicative of the energy and drive I put into all my projects.

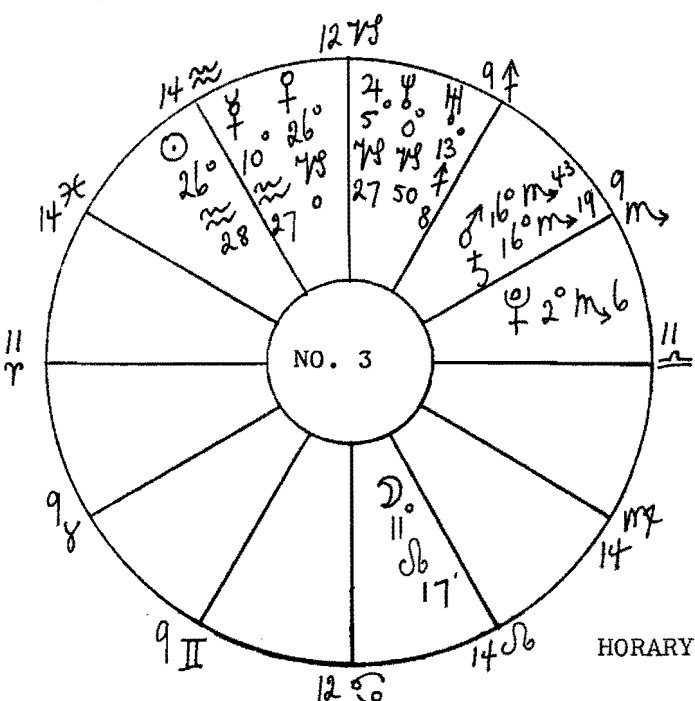

It was inevitable that after my initial 'high' I should level out and wonder if there would be a sufficient number of pupils for the class to be viable. I am the owner of a Moon opposite Saturn natively, which I find not so much a depressing agent as a nibbler at one's faith (The Moon is in Leo). The thought 'Should I ring some persons about the Classes?' occurred to me strongly at 22.08 U.T. on the 10th February 1984, Blackheath, and Chart No. 2 was erected.

(Topocentric Cusps on all four Charts)

The Moon in Gemini (communication) in the 3rd House (communication) applying closely to the trine of Mercury (communication) in the 11th House (friends, supporters) is a triple indication of good contacts. All three factors namely House, Sign and planets point to the same thing. The result was that I spent half a day on the telephone and was amazed to hear all the nice comments and the straight-out goodwill. This fishing expedition resulted in two people joining the Lessons making a total of fourteen, four more than the ten needed.

The Inceptional Chart for the commencement of the Class (U.T. 23h10m on the 15th February, 1984, See Chart 3) has the mid-point of Sun/Venus at 11Aqua14, which conjoins Mercury.

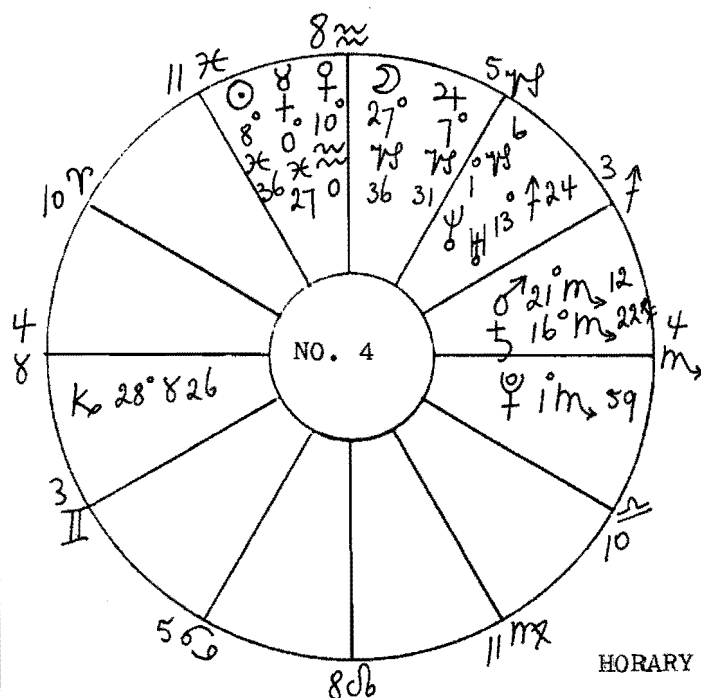

The Moon is again in the teaching Sign and House, Leo and the 5th. Although the placement of the planets on the 11th and 5th Cusps is very favourable, the approaching squares to Saturn and Mars do appear to introduce some practical difficulties. Time will show what these are although they possibly worked themselves out when at the beginning of the Class I had to receive about $90 for brushes etc. from the pupils and there seemed to be a mad exchange of cash (8th House - other people's money).

So far the Charts have been indicative of the sunny atmosphere in which the classes have been conducted. This is not surprising. I have yet to see Horary Astrology fail.

My last Chart (No. 4) on matters of art involves a rather interesting slant. To improve my calligraphic skill I found a Chinese teacher.

In the Chart erected for U.T. 0h14m on the 28th February, 1984, Blackheath, the Moon shows only a close application to Chiron, which is an enigma to me. By the time you read this I should have a better understanding of Chiron's significance. Any reader with experience of Chiron's workings might please contribute his quota of knowledge.

I do not wish to give the impression that I submit my will and thinking to the planets. There are, however, enough difficulties to overcome without swimming against the tide.

From JENIFER POMMERIN (W.A.): Recently I undertook a chart interpretation in which there was a retrogression of a Secondary Mercury from the age of 8 to 31. This Chart had the Sun and Mercury in Virgo - and thanks to Sr Lebron's comments ("Astrologers' Forum" - Issue No. 23), I had a very good guideline as to what might be expected in those years.

There have been previous requests in the Forum for examples of Direct to Retrograde Progressions, and vice versa. In a similar vein, I would very much like to read of contributors' experiences when a planet, by retrograde motion, passes from one House to another or from one Sign to another. That is, has anyone ever noted any significant changes that were linked to the year when the planet moved to another Sign or House?

Both types of retrograde motion would be of interest, Natal and Progressed, and of course the House System used by the astrologer.

From JAMES McKEAGUE (N.S.W.): I was most interested in Alexander Marr's 'Rules' for the Prenatal Epoch (Forum No. 31). However, it is a little startling to read his Rule No. 1, for medical texts certainly do not seem to agree with it. The average time from conception to birth, says Alexander, is 273 days. But medicos give the average time from the first day of the last menstrual period to the day of birth as 280 days, and assume that probable ovulation was 14 days after the beginning of this 280 days, and that probable nidation ('implantation of the early embryo in the uterine mucosa' - Ed.) was seven days later again. When we realize that actual ovum fertilization can occur many hours after intercourse, and Jonas even claims another period as 'fertile' independently of the ovulation cycle, we realize that the whole problem is one where astrologers can happily speculate with no fear of ever being proven either right or wrong! (Well, not in the present state of medical knowledge).

RUDOLF SMIT had an interesting objection to the Prenatal Epoch in Forum No. 25. He said to consider three births 20 minutes apart on the same day in the same city. Because in one hour the Horizon moves on the average 15 degrees, this just does not fit in with the fact that the Moon on the day of conception moved only about half a degree per hour. However, this would be an objection only if there was a standard length of time for these three pregnancies, with all three babies being conceived on the same day, as well as being born on the same day. The fact that the length of pregnancies can vary by a month - indeed, even much more - overcomes Rudolf's objections to the theory. The Prenatal Epoch is as difficult to disprove as it is to prove, so no doubt it will remain as a perennial in astrological argument.

By the way, I do hope both Rudolf and Dymock will make an attempt to apply their respective variants of Primary Directing to the problem of Frank's release from gaol.

From ALEXANDER MARR (W. GERMAN FED. REP.):

The Secondary Lunar Horoscope

This cycle which I published in SPICA, London, July 1962, resulted from intensive research into the structure of the Secondary Directional System as well as from experience denoting that Solars and Lunars, especially the Sidereal ones, are effective not only when considering the conjunction but also when using the opposition and both square aspects.

One full circuit of the Moon corresponds to 27.322 days which in the Secondary System equals about 27 years and 4 months.

Consequently, one Moon's quarter in Secondary measurement corresponds to about seven years of life. Due to the irregular apparent motion of the Moon the time periods of the Moon phase's vary between six and eight days = six to eight years.

Seven-year periods in life are not new. There is evidence that the ancients believed in seven-year periods of luck or misfortune. The Bible tells us of the Pharaoh's dream in which seven fat cows were swallowed by seven lean ones, this being interpreted by Joseph as seven prosperous years followed by seven years of misfortune and frustration.

There had been a good deal of logical objection to this cycle and also doubts by myself. Seven years seems to be too long. In such a time period a lot of events may happen and such a chart could rather encourage our phantasy than give us clues about tendencies and events in our lives. However, this logical objection had been overruled by the fact that these Secondary Lunars do show:

- Main events and, in sometimes very characteristic charts.
- Fortune or misfortune during its operational period.

As in the case of Solars and Lunars these seven-year Lunars can also be used successfully for nativities with approximate birth-times. Another advantage of this cycle is its simple computation. However, as in all the other astronomically correct systems the use of both, the direct (progressed) and converse (regressed) chart is indispensable.

Example: The writer's Secondary Lunars covering a) Progression September 1973 - July 1981 and b) Regression August 1973 - September 1980.

Radix: 12th April, 1919; 12h 11m 14s U.T.; Moon rad 20 Virgo 06.5'.

A glance at the Ephemeris shows that on June 6, 1919 the Moon reaches its radical position. From birth to the progressed date we have about 55 days = 55 years; this corresponds to about the year 1974 (precisely, September 1973).

Computation for the place of residence at operational date, 6E32.5; 49N42

MOON rad 20 Vir 07

MOON pro 19 Vir 48 6th June 1919, 0h

0° 19' difference

12° 14' Moon's motion in 24 hrs.

0019' / 12° 14' x 24 = 0h 37m

0h 37m

+ 06s acceleration RAMC TRIER 17h57m

16h 53m25s S.T. 6th June, 0h RAPHAEL

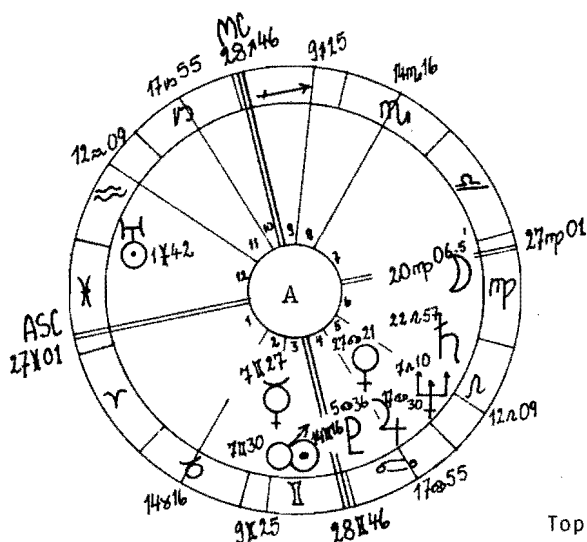

17h 30m31s RAMC GREENWICH HOUSE

+26m10s TRIER fast TABLES

17h 57m-- RAMC TRIER for 50N05

MC 29° Sagittarius XI 18° Capricorn
 XII 12° Aquarius ASC 28° Pisces
 II 16° Taurus III 10° Gemini

Placidian House positions are almost identical with Topocentric Houses in moderate Northern and Southern latitudes and may be used for approximations like these. Chart A is computed with more precise figures. (Moon to seconds).

ALEXANDER MARR SECONDARY LUNAR
 6th June 1919 ; 0h 34m 59s U.T.
 Operational date September 1973 - July 81

The other Moon positions for all quarters are, in consecutive order: 20° Sag 07'; 20° Pis 07'; 20° Gem 07'.

CHART A (Interpretation)

We notice a very inactive Chart, with all planets, except Uranus, below the Horizon. Mercury conjunct Mars on Cusp 3 with a sextile from Neptune (unfavourable as, Mercury, Mars and Neptune is an incompatible combination) is obviously obstructing the successful development in writings and in publishings, as well as in all sorts of communication with foreign countries (Cusp 9).

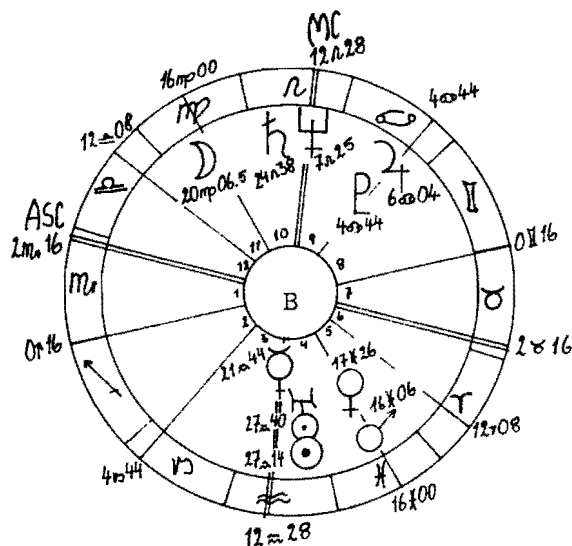

PLUTO Angular near IC in a typically inactive Chart, not supported by benefics promises changes unfavourable in character. JUPITER on Cusp 5 with a sextile to the Moon near the DESC favours legal partnership. URANUS in XII as the only planet above the Horizon, could activate matters of the 12th House such as hospitalization and others.

As said before, to get a clear picture of any cyclic system, we have now to compute and interpret the corresponding Converse, i.e. Regressed Chart.

Computation for the appropriate converse date we have to search about 54 days (54 years) before birth. We find: Moon for 16th February 1919, 0h as 8 Vir 11. The refined computation with a radical Moon position of 20 06 42 Virgo gives: 16th February 1919, 22h 50m 05s UT.

It has been found in practice that converse cycles, and especially those with longer duration (Solars, cycles of planets) reflect more events which do NOT INVOLVE ACTIVITIES OF THE NATIVE'S SURROUNDINGS but are entirely connected with the native's own personal situation. For this reason the native's physical and mental

ALEXANDER MARR PRENATAL SECOND. LUNAR
 16th Febr. 1919 ; 22h 50m 05s U.T.
 Operational date: August 1973 - Sept. 80 conditions during such a cycle are always better illustrated by the Converse Chart. This mainly concerns illnesses with all its physical and psychological consequences.

In Chart B SATURN and NEPTUNE on both sides of the MC are obviously dominating. Mighty Saturn is in opposition to SUN conjunct URANUS.

An unfavourably aspected or suppressed SUN, as here, very often affects the physical condition of the native. To a certain extent this negative aspect annuls the favourable SUN-SATURN trine in the Radix (orb 4' of arc), where the SUN is high in the sky (in IX).

The regressed MERCURY is about to reach an opposition to Radical SATURN (21 Leo 28). In contradistinction to Chart A, here the 9th House is favourably aspected by the JUPITER-PLUTO conjunction.

The assembly of VENUS conjunct MARS and opposite MOON on the V - XI axis has to be regarded as favourable.

SUMMARY OF EVENTS during this Secondary Lunar period: Main event during that period: Larynx cancer, diagnosed in December 1973, shortly after both cycles went into operation. The illness started with the usual hoarseness the opposition of Mercury to natal Saturn, 21 Leo 28 maturing almost exactly for that date. Main indication: Saturn and Neptune on both sides of the MC in Chart B. See Mercury's position in Chart B.

The 2nd main event: On 23rd June 1977 I won a legal procedure (my first wife appealed) and finally was divorced. JUPITER and PLUTO on Cusp 9 (court decisions) in Chart B. I have to emphasize here that Topocentric House Cusps in this type of cycle produce events only if the appropriate planets are in extremely close conjunctions with these Cusps. As can be seen, all the demonstrated events follow these conditions.

The 3rd main event: On 7th October 1977 I married for the second time. A favourable Moon, Venus and Mars combination, V - XI (Chart B). MOON on DESC sextile Jupiter on V (Chart A).

The contradictory character of the 9th (3rd) Cusps in both Charts is explained by the following events:

a) Favourable (Chart B). During that time I had some successful trips to foreign countries, JUPITER conjunct PLUTO on the 9th Cusp, making new friends, due to a remarkably good disposition of the V - XI axis in both Charts. In this period I wrote a good deal of my astrological books, by now published or in print. Besides this, I did some successful research (ASC-Lunar; Prenatal Epoch, Partner-Horoscope, developments in Ascensional Transits (MDO's) and in Directional systems).

b) Unfavourable (negative, Chart A)

My chief negative experiences had been with three astrologers who promised to correct my English in 'Prediction I', but who all let me down one after another.

It is interesting to note that all these astrologers had a strong NEPTUNE in their Radices. (See Chart A, Mercury and Mars on the 3rd Cusp aspected by Neptune).

Ultimately, the accepted manuscript was not printed during this Secondary Lunar period because the publisher suddenly died.

The situation in these matters evidently changed, when the next following Secondary Lunar went into operation. (From July 1981 on a 7-year cycle with JUPITER on the MC within 15' of arc, 13th June 1919, 13h31m29s not reproduced).

As we all know, analyses are much easier than forecasts. For this reason I advise the reader to interpret only the chief indications in such a chart. As explained above, the structure of all cycles is of eminent importance (planets in Quadrants, above or below the Horizon; planets below the Horizon suppressed by malefics high in the sky, etc.).

From LESLIE BLACK (ENGLAND): I would like to reply to Ross Harvey's suggestion that I should produce examples showing the irrelevance of 'Age Harmonics', but I am aware that no useful purpose can be served by doing so, after I have stated that the system is neither astronomically nor mathematically correct to be subject to such a test.

The fact that it has been demonstrated to produce some results is agreed, but these must certainly come under the category of 'accidental aspects' peculiar to such a system, which is not conclusive enough for astrologers as a whole to give any warranty to it.

Of course many similar schemes have been put forward in the past by astrologers under the guise of 'new measures' etc (but not on the same model as this one). They will always be re-advanced by those disappointed and frustrated by their failure to make 'Directions' work, or they try something new, to provide them with a predictive method. They welcome any delusory device as the only means of salvaging some of their shattered beliefs - like 'Age Harmonics', another device offered to the disillusioned for restoring hope to the disaffected.

His gibe about my negative 'it doesn't work because I say so attitude', is a gross exaggeration of my intent, as I have no axe to grind and only want what is good for astrology and stand to be judged wholly in the interests of astrology itself.

From ROSS HARVEY (N.S.W.): I was very glad to see Dymock's example of the usefulness of Age Harmonics; let's hope others are now inspired to do some research of their own. Alexander Marr's article was refreshingly thorough and rational, though there are a few points about which I do not agree. I only brought the Greeks into the discussion because it had been suggested by Leslie Black that Harmonics were a completely new method; I would take no notice of the rules of the Greeks and their predecessors for their own sake; as I have said before, the only criterion for the value of any astrological method is its usefulness - 'Does it work?' I have never meant to suggest that Harmonic Directions should supersede better-known methods, but rather that they are a (very) useful adjunct to Primary Directions, Solar Returns, etc.

I myself always give primacy to Primary Directions. However, there are certain events which can appear more clearly in the Age Harmonic than elsewhere: For example I successfully predicted the Princess of Wales' second pregnancy from the following indications in her 23rd Harmonic - Pluto 19 Pis 9 conjunct MC 20 Pis 9; and Vx 8 Pis 54 opposite Pluto r 6 Vir 3. (These figures are for the given time of 7:45 pm BST, Sandringham, 1st July 1961, which I believe to be correct. I have frequently seen Pluto conjunct or opposite the Angles, either within the Age Harmonic, or between the Harmonic and the Radix in cases of childbirth. Jupiter conjunct or opposite the Angles (including the Vertex and East Point) is by far the most common single indicator of marriage (Jupiter to Angles, or Angles to Jupiter). Obviously, one would have to look elsewhere to be sure it was marriage one was dealing with, and not something else (Solar Returns, etc.)

However, the usefulness of this indication can be in cases where someone is contemplating marriage, but is unsure of the outcome.

Another example: A friend of mine had, last year, become engaged, but was uncertain whether this would result in marriage, in view of strong parental opposition (born Sydney, 25th January 1951, 9h 20m UT).

Her 33rd Harmonic had ASC 12 Pis 39 conjunct Jupiter r 9 Pis 40; Vx 15 Aqua 7 opposite Pluto r 18 Leo 59 (this may relate to a coming pregnancy, for which there are other indications); Moon 28 Sag 17 conjunct Pluto 26 Sag 27 and opposite MC 2 Can 33.

The ordinary Solar Return gave no indication, though there were such indications in both the Progressed Birthday SR, and the Regressed Prenatal SR (neither Chart really explicit, however). She was married on the 28th January this year.

With reference to Alexander's conclusions, the important indications in an Age Harmonic in my experience are conjunctions and oppositions of and to the Angles (including the Vertex and East Point), the Sun and the Moon, within the Harmonic, or between the Harmonic and the Radix. The orb of only one degree seems to me to be much too strict: Had I restricted myself to such an orb when I began my investigations into Harmonics, I would have soon concluded that they were of little practical application.

I have found that an orb of four degrees is certainly justifiable, and possibly one of five degrees; any more is just as certainly not acceptable.

I quite agree that conjunctions of other planets within the Age Harmonic, or between the Harmonic and the Radix are not of any real significance, excepting perhaps those Harmonics that have special significance for interpretation of the Radix (13th, 16th and 5th). I have found that there is often a period of overlap between the Age Harmonic and the year to which it applies; but a period of one month seems to be all that I can vouch for at this stage of my research. I should add to avoid any possible confusion, that the 20th Harmonic applies to the twelve months following the 20th birthday, and so on, NOT to the 20th year of life, which is the preceding twelve-month period.

I have noticed that square aspects are at times relevant in Age Harmonics, but once again a one-degree orb is too small. I do think (unlike Alexander) that rectification by Age Harmonics is the simplest and most reliable method of rectification, as indeed Dymock's own example suggests, PROVIDED THAT one has enough events to work from. I consider that six are the absolute minimum that can enable one to be reasonably certain of the result, and ten or more are definitely to be desired. The success of the method then depends on the original uncertainty in the birth time, and the patience and diligence of the astrologer; and of course, all such rectifications should be checked by Primary Directions, transits to Angles, and Solar Returns.

I have indeed found occasions when Age Harmonics have not provided clear indications of events, but then I do not know of any absolutely reliable method of prognostication: The old Rule was a Direction for every event, and an event for every Direction; and I think if one gets ninety per cent of Directions for events and vice versa, one is doing acceptably well. I have seen many Solar Returns for instance, which completely fail to give any indication of major events, and yet nearly everyone relies on Solar Returns (and rightly so, if one remembers that one should always compare several different methods of prognostication to determine what is likely to occur).

An example of the failure of Solar Returns is the case of Ross McWhirter (data in the American Book of Charts); where there is absolutely no indication of his murder in the SR and nothing in the Progressed Birthday SR that would not also have applied to his twin brother, born twenty minutes earlier. Only Primary Directions (ASC d square Neptune) and the Age Harmonic foretold disaster.

I might add that by now I have analysed over three hundred charts using harmonics in varying degrees of thoroughness, and the results consistently bear out the conclusions I had reached when I first communicated my results to Dymock: I might also add that my offer of the tests I proposed in Forum No. 29 still stands, if anyone wants to prove me either right or wrong, or better, simply wants to advance our understanding of Astrology.

I have also been experimenting with one or two ways of being able to restrict the influence of a Primary Direction to a particular month, instead of the six-month period which at the moment is all I can consistently rely on, namely harmonics of the ordinary Solar Return, and fractional Solar Returns; preliminary results are fairly encouraging, but it will be a while before I can be more certain whether I am 'on to something', or just mistaken. Once again congratulations on the quality of the Forum, and keep up the good work.

Ross Harvey's mention of the 'old Rule' - 'a Direction for every event, and an event for every Direction' - leads me to comment that there never was any warranty for such a 'rule'. What grounds have we for assuming that any Directional system we discover is complete in itself? The 'Rule' seems more like somebody's wishful thinking that it ought to be so. In practice we find that to get a comprehensive picture of events, both important and less important, it is necessary to utilize a number of techniques.

The first of these is the quick and simple observation of transits, especially those of planets at their station, which are very powerful, followed by those of planets retrograding. Then come major Secondary Progressions, both forwards and backwards in the Zodiac, Primary Directions likewise, and cyclic charts. If one wants to get down to the minutiae of everyday living the Lunar Returns are a good guide, and for the assessment of a few years the Solar Returns are a principal tool. ROSS HARVEY enthusiastically supports Harmonic Directions, which are categorically rejected by LESLIE BLACK. Time may prove them to be a valuable addition to astrological techniques. I still have an open mind on the subject.

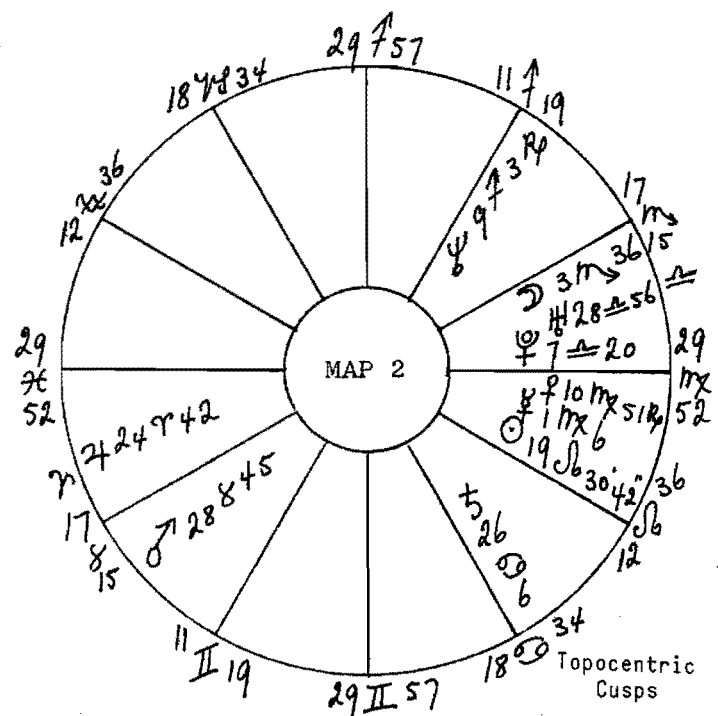

ALEXANDER MARR has made a significant contribution in the field of Prediction by drawing specific attention to the Prenatal Return and Prenatal Transits. The importance of the Prenatal S.R. is particularly evident in the life of Ross McWhirter, adduced by Ross Harvey in the preceding article as an instance of the failure of the Solar Cycle Chart. McWhirter's Birth Chart is reproduced here (MAP 1) from Lois Rodden's The American Book of Charts, which states that McWhirter was shot by the IRA at his front door on 27th November 1975.

MAP 2, the normal Solar Return in the Tropical Zodiac, is not devoid of warnings of danger, chief among them being Neptune conjunct the Radical Meridian and only 20' off the square of Radical Mercury, ruling the Radical 4th (terminations). Neptune's

Birth Chart of Ross McWhirter

12th August, 1925, 8:00pm BST London, Eng.
0 W 06, 51 N 31

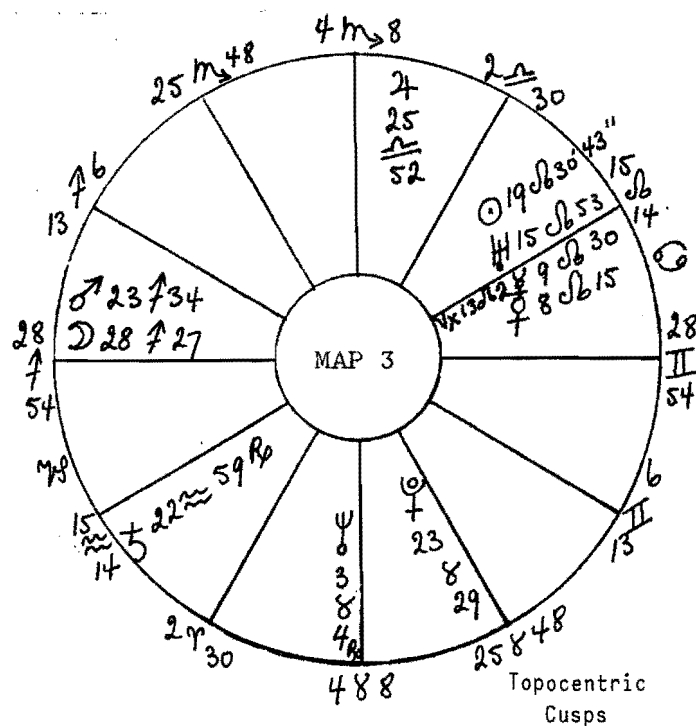

Tropical Solar Return, 12/8/1975
UT 20h37m30s

malefic nature is fully evident in the Birth Chart where it is Angular and conjunct both the Sun and Mars. Mars retrograded over the SR 4th Cusp on the 26th November, the day before McWhirter was shot, and by Topocentric Primary Direction came to the sextile of Saturn (in T-Square with Uranus and Jupiter) on 30th November (Time Measure, Naibod Arc x 12).

The above, however, is incidental to the main purpose of this discourse, which is the dire portents shown in the PRENATAL SOLAR RETURN (MAP 3).

PRENATAL SOLAR RETURN

This Chart is cast for fifty years before birth, (12th August 1875) just as the normal Solar Return is for fifty years after birth. Here we have the Moon conjunct the ASC, afflicted by Mars, the Sun in the House of Deaths conjunct Uranus, opposite Saturn and square Pluto - a malignant T-Square. Neptune, Ruler of the Natal ASC, is retrograde on the SR IC (endings).

McWhirter was shot and killed on the 27th November, 1975, and the Prenatal Transit date corresponding to this is the 4th of April 1875. At midday on 18th April 1875 Uranus was stationary at 11 Leo 10 - about two degrees from the opposition of the Natal ASC. On the 4th April, corresponding to the day of death, Pluto was at 21 Tau 17, square to both Natal Sun and Neptune. Saturn at 23 Aqu 5 also afflicted Natal Sun and Neptune (by opposition). Neptune at 29 Ar 53 was only 4 arc-minutes from the trine of Natal Mars, and Mars itself at 24 Sag 41 was just 6 arc-minutes from the square of Radical Uranus, Ruler of the Natal Chart, and rising. All this is certainly a vindication of ALEXANDER MARR'S teachings.

The question arises, as ROSS HARVEY implies, of how to distinguish between the Charts of Ross McWhirter and his brother Norris, reported to have been born twenty minutes earlier, and so far as we know not suffering a similar dreadful fate. The difference of twenty minutes would change the Midheaven of the Prenatal Solar Return to about 28 Lib 53, bringing Jupiter (The Preserver) into conjunction with it. Was this sufficient to spare him? ROSS HARVEY claims that the Age Harmonic distinguishes between the fates of the two brothers.

Whether or not this is so, there is a clear-cut distinction afforded by the Primary Directions: The ASC, Directed under the latitude of birth, came to the square of Neptune on 22 November 1975 (only three days before the killing), Neptune being in the House of enemies conjunct the Sun and Mars. In the Chart of Norris, the brother, this aspect did not occur until 18th December 1980. We have no information as to what might have been his fate at that time, but the cyclic Charts could have been vastly different. It just points up the lesson that we must not put all our faith into one astrological system, but use all proven techniques at our disposal. - Dymock.

From ISOBEL BELL (TAS.):

Mars Retrograde in Female Charts

This factor seems to correspond to definite difficulties with men in life. A woman with Mars intercepted in the 12th, Mars in the 8th is a most unreliable worker who rarely notifies her employer prior to her frequent absences. She has collected much ill-feeling from co-workers Mars in the 8th exact. Mars rules 6th House (work and worker-relationships).

Domestic upsets are frequent, caused by her de facto husband leaving home to chase various girl-friends. The woman suffers from asthma further aggravated by her habit of over-dosing herself with medication.

Nevertheless, she remains in the situation. Mars rules 7th.

A woman with Mars in the 4th is seriously accident-prone having sustained various injuries to her head and face especially (Mars), as a motorist and pedestrian. There is seldom a time when she is not involved in some related legal matter Mars in the 1st. Mars rules the 9th. She has had a variety of live-in lovers all of whom have exploited her grossly. Her most recent lover had the odd habit of bringing a girl-friend home for the night; next morning they were given breakfast in bed and generally waited upon by the woman. (Surely, the original masochist! - Ed.)

Since then she has entered group-therapy.

Another woman with Mars in the 11th House endured many years of semi-slavery running dairy farms with limited help from her much older husband. Re-entering the work-force corresponded to enormous personal changes. She left home and fell in love with a male co-worker whose ailing wife was in the terminal stage of her illness. Following this lady's death the couple married. Social and family acceptance of the event is strictly limited.

A deserted wife with four children had been apart from her husband for two years when she became pregnant. She has Mars in the 7th. To aggravate her difficulty she claimed that her pregnancy resulted from a previously fertilised but dormant ovum. No one has seen any boyfriend or ex-husband in order to dispute her claim. Her ultra-conservative and religious father has virtually cut-off all contact with her. However, her red-headed baby son is a 'look-alike' version of his older brothers.

(To be continued next issue)

My kind regards to you all.

- Dymock.
19th March 1984.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., Australia, 2785. Tel: [047] 87 8874.

Issue No. 31, 19th February, 1984.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

The January issue of Astrologers' Forum has brought a number of favourable reports, which is certainly gratifying to your Editor. I hope to improve still further on the standard reached. This is possible if you will continue to give your support by way of contributing information and experience that helps to advance astrological practice.

From ROSS HARVEY (N.S.W.): I was delighted to receive the new expanded Forum: Congratulations! You should be very pleased with the result.

Returning to the discussion on Harmonics, the classical world knew of, and regularly used, the 13th Harmonic, which the Greeks called 'dodekatemorion', or twelfth part. Hand further refers to Neugebauer's Greek Horoscopes, where such positions are repeatedly found in the horoscopes published there.

The ancients did not refer to this method as 'Harmonics', it is true, and this terminology is a recent, and perhaps, infelicitous, invention; but as this is the name by which the method is nowadays internationally known, we are stuck with it. Pythagoras does not come into it.

Leslie Black is guilty of a serious logical inconsistency by quoting (misquoting incidentally) Recent Advances (p. 137) in his support, as if it were holy writ, in paragraph one, and then in paragraph three completely disagreeing with most of what the passage quoted contains! He uses strong language to condemn Harmonics but has not adduced a shred of evidence in his support. The method is simple in its application, and hence it should be easy for him to produce examples showing the irrelevance of Harmonic Directions and the uselessness of Harmonics for birth chart interpretation, if indeed this is the case, as he seems convinced. If he is not prepared to provide such evidence, one is left free to form one's own opinion about the value of his objections. To me it seems he is merely reiterating unsubstantiated prejudice. This negative "it-doesn't-work-because-I-say-so" attitude will get Astrology nowhere. All I can say to anyone who may be in doubt about the value of Harmonics is 'TRY THEM FOR YOURSELF'; indeed the principal purpose of my reporting my findings is to encourage others to investigate for themselves.

I have noticed for some time the particular usefulness of Harmonics in being able to distinguish between closely-timed births, as even one minute's difference in the birth time can produce different indications, especially in the 16th Harmonic ($\frac{1}{4}^{\circ}$ difference in the Radix gives 4° difference in the 16th; and as I allow 5° orb, a time difference of slightly more than a minute can lead to a completely different life for even identical twins. I remember Rudolf Smit's having mentioned two Hungarian twins, one of whom emigrated; their Charts would be interesting to see.)

Would anyone be able to provide me with the birth data of identical twins (or triplets, etc.) born less than five minutes apart, who have led markedly different lives in any way, or for one of whom a major event has happened that did not happen to the other (happy/unhappy marriage, serious accident/illness, different career, overseas journey, etc.)?

In the Charts of Elvis Presley and his still-born brother, assuming the times given are correct and have not been rounded-off to any significant degree, aspects of and to the Angles in the 13th and 16th Harmonics should enable us to differentiate clearly between the two.

For the still-born brother the clearest indications in the 13th Harmonic Chart are Mars opp. MC r and Neptune r; and MC opp. Mars r. The Moon is conjunct Mars in the 13th Harmonic Chart itself. In the 16th Harmonic Neptune at 21 Can 12 is conjunct the Vertex in the Radical 8th House.

For Elvis, one would expect indications of fame and riches and they are there in the 13th Harmonic: Sun conjunct MC (an especially favourable indication - Margaret Thatcher has the 13th Harmonic MC conj. Sun r), Jupiter opp. the East Point r, and the E.P. almost conjunct Jupiter r. (It would require an adjustment of the birth time by only a few seconds to bring this within the orb of 5° .) In the 16th Harmonic Saturn is conjunct the MC r, and it is to be remembered that Elvis died comparatively young.

The complete 13th and 16th Harmonics for both Charts are given here.

13th	16th
☉ ..14♌02	05♌44
☽ ..26♋13 ♂ MCr	02♌16
♄ ..19♌54	26♋48 ♂ MCr
♅ ..21♌46	19♌52
♂ ..16♋37	25♌04
♄ ..24♌52 ♂ EPr	19♋04
♅ ..04♌45	22♌00 ♂ MCr
♄ ..27♋30 ♂ MCr	20♌00
♅ ..07♋51	21♌12
♅ ..26♋44	12♋08
ASC..10♋33	17♌36
MC..18♌37	09♌04
VX..07♌41	02♌32
EP..25♌10 ♂ ♄ r	17♌07

Still-born brother -

☉ ..13♌36	05♌12
☽ ..21♋40 ♂ MCr	26♋40
♄ ..19♌28	26♋16
♅ ..21♌20	19♌20
♂ ..16♋37 ♂ MCr, ♄ r	25♌04
♄ ..24♌52	19♋04
♅ ..04♌32	21♌44 ♂ MCr
♄ ..27♋30	20♌00
♅ ..07♋51	21♌12 ♂ Vxr
♅ ..26♋44	12♋08
ASC..04♌47	19♌44
MC..14♌41 ♂ ♂ r	06♌32
Vx..17♌31	23♋52
EP..10♌12	07♌56

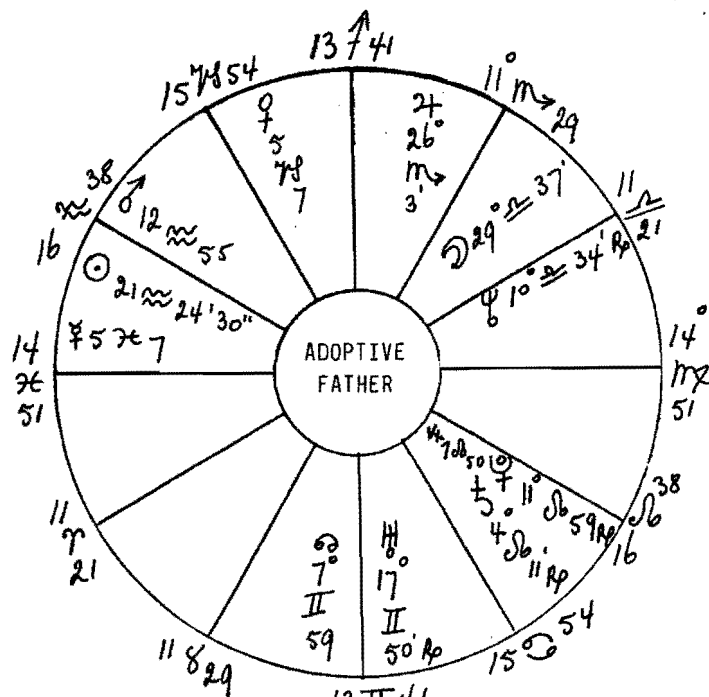

There are other indications in both Charts, as shown above, but I confined myself to mentioning the most important indications only, for the sake of clarity. I hope by now that I may be persuading some people, at least, that this technique has great possibilities, and is worth serious investigation. I should hope that no one would be content to take my word for it, but that everyone would be open minded enough to try it for themselves.

I might add that the Charts of the recently born 'test-tube quads' show variations, the younger two having in the 13th Harmonic MC ♂♂, and in the 16th Harmonic, ASC ♂♂. The elder two have MC ♂☽ in the 16th Harmonic, and only the youngest has the 16th Harmonic ASC ♂♀ r. One could infer from this that the younger two could face serious difficulties at some stage in their lives. (They were all born by Caesarian section, one minute apart.)

ERRATUM: In Ross Harvey's article, Issue No. 30, page 8, the sentence commencing in line 15 should read: The Solar Return for 1977 has ♄ and ♅ Angular, and these positions do bring the Harmonic Angles in the 13th Harmonic closer to Pluto r,...etc.

Age Harmonics

There is some persuasive evidence for

11th February, 1947.

Subiaco, W.A. 7:45 am

Rectification by Age Harmonics. Here is a case from my own practice. The man whose Birth Chart appears above, with his wife adopted a baby boy on the 9th of March this year. This adoptive father's Chart was erected for the given time - 7:45 am (claimed to be exact) and has not been adjusted or altered in the slightest degree. He was aged 36, and his 36th Harmonic gives the following positions:

MC 12 Leo 45, conjunct Pluto rad. in Leo (children). Pluto rules the 9th (legal formalities).

Moon 16 Pis 15, conjunct ASC rad. The Moon rules the 5th House of the Birth Chart.

Mars 15 Can 7 conjunct 5th Cusp rad. (children; Mars = a boy)

Jupiter 8 Sco 2 conjunct 9th Cusp rad (legal formalities)

Pluto 11 Gem 21 conjunct 4th Cusp rad. (transformation in the home)

Are there any factors that could be more indicative of child adoption?

- Dymock.

From ALEXANDER MARR (FED. REP. OF W. GERMANY):

The Prenatal Epoch (Conception Horoscope)

(Marr has done a great deal of research into the Prenatal Epoch, and the following embodies his most recent conclusions. - Ed.)

General Rules for Normal and Premature Births:

(A) Normal Births

1. In the average the time period between conception and birth consists of 273 days.

2a. If in a birth chart the Moon is approaching its OPPOSITION to the Sun (distance SUN-MOON under 180 degrees, measured anti-clockwise) the Ecliptical position of the MOON in the Conception Horoscope corresponds to the Ecliptical position of the radical ASC.

2b) If in a birth chart the MOON is approaching its CONJUNCTION with the SUN (distance SUN-MOON exceeding 180 degrees, measured anti-clockwise), the Ecliptical position of the MOON in the Conception Horoscope corresponds to the Ecliptical position of the radical DESCENDANT.

3a) In most cases the Ecliptical position of the radical ASC (or DESC) is almost identical with the Ecliptical position of the Conception Moon. Of course, this also depends on the accuracy achieved in the rectification, especially of the birth chart.

3b) Experience shows that by paying regard to the Rules 1 to 3a, in most cases, the final rectification of the Conception Horoscope does not cause any difficulties as its Directed factors (to the Conception Horoscope and to the Radix) produce sufficient Directions for a secure rectification. Limited to the position of the MOON (radical ASC or DESC), the speculative time for the conception is much closer to the true one than the usually available unrectified time of birth.

3c) EXCEPTIONS

In very few cases (up to the present only 2 out of 41) the difference between the position of the radical ASC (or DESC) and the Conception Moon may reach and even exceed one degree. Here the writer recommends proceeding as follows:

If Rule 3a seems not to work, it is necessary to make an analysis with the Conception Lunar described in the book, Prediction III. These exceptions obviously result from some irregularities which are connected with the actual birth process.

B) SEVEN MONTHS' BABIES

Here, reduced to seven months, the same rules have to be applied as in normal birth cases. (1 - 3b). So far only two cases have been available, and have been successfully analysed.

C) IDENTICAL TWINS

The following particular case has shed much light into astrological research of twins. About ten years ago the writer succeeded in rectifying the birth charts of identical twins who were born with a time difference of two hours. However, in spite of several efforts during this long period of ten years, it seemed to be impossible to find the conception date and time which these identical twins should have in common. This in spite of the fact that the day of conception was undoubtedly known. (The father of these twins stayed only one day in his home while fighting against the Soviets when liberating RIGA on May 22, 1919).

In the mean time a great number of scientifically correct and provable Epoch identifications have been produced by the writer, validating the above demonstrated cognitions.

About 30 events (eight of which were common to the twins) analyzed in the horoscopes of both twins brought the proof that in this special case, the Ecliptical, radical Mid-heaven position of the twin born first proved to be the wanted Moon position for the Conception which, of course, these identical twins had in common.

Another peculiarity of these nativities was an eight months' time period between conception and birth. This often happens if twins are concerned. However, in the case of triple births, eight-months' babies are very rare, in contra-distinction to seven-months' babies.

Summarized Features of this Analysis:

1. The identical twins were born with a time difference of two hours.
2. We had to deal with eight-months' babies.
3. Conception and birth happened at different localities.
4. The MC of the elder twin was the base for computing the Conception Horoscope. (MC twin I = MOON of Conception).

The outcome of the analysis for 1 - 4 corresponds to the witness of the mother as well as to the historically provable date, the liberation of Riga on May 22, 1919.

This analysis may be a link for further investigations into the lives of identical twins. Charts and events in the life of these will be demonstrated in a separate article on advanced methods and new findings.

Harmonics

In some respects we may agree with LESLIE BLACK's reasoning about Harmonics. As, so far, only those astrological systems have been found valid which are based on solid astronomical grounds. However, logical reasoning can never decide about the efficacy or usefulness of any phenomenon. For this reason the passionately expressed opinion of Leslie Black (A.F. No. 28, page 4 and A.F. No. 30, page 5) against Harmonics has to be rejected.

Neither the rules of the Babylonians, Chaldeans or Greeks have to be taken as unfallible models, but, as I maintain, the advanced astrologer has to find out for himself what 'is working' in astrology, and which are the most effective systems for analyses and forecasts.

Here are the results of my investigations into this matter in which I have analysed over 150 major events, using rectified horoscopes with planetary positions compiled to a few seconds of arc, and Angles which may be regarded as exact to one minute of arc.

1. Harmonics do show certain reflections in eventful years, however, these indications are not reliable and they don't appear regularly for all major events.
2. Some discrepancies also arise with the problem of what is the operational date (starting point) of the 'year to year' Harmonic. It seems that no exact operational date can be fixed for these phenomena. By simple logic the first year of life should correspond to the 1st Harmonic, the 2nd to the second, and so on. However, this is not the case. So far I have achieved the best results with the following method: The first Harmonic starts six months after birth, the second, one and a half years after birth, and so on. This method has not always been satisfactory and I suspect that this more or less symbolic astrological phenomenon cannot be exactly fixed in relation to operational date and duration. This is unfortunately a point that moves Harmonics nearer to a belief system.

to 1st November 1937.

Compulsory military service 11th November 1937 (to 1945)

MARSr 27 Ar 58' 58"; SUN 27 Ar 38

ASCh 27 Ar 59' ; SATURN h 26 Ar 38

NEPTUNE h 27 Can 21

(Primary Direction for 'military service' ASC conv sq. MARS r, orb 1')

The 36th Harmonic (operational period October 1954 to October 1955)

Event: Emigration to Ireland, Job in Radio Dublin Symphony orchestra, 2nd February, '55.

VENUSr 24 Tau 16' 14", ASCh 25 Sco 58

SUN h 25 Tau 16; NEPTUNE h 25 Sco 19 (travel overseas)

(Primary Directions: NEPTUNE c conjunct JUPITERr exact

IX c sextile MARSr exact)

The 44th Harmonic (operational date October, 62 to October 1963.

Event: Job in the German Air force, 4th November, 1963

SUNr 21 Ar 32' 08"; MCh 21 Ar 49

The 53rd Harmonic (operational date October, 71 to October 1972)

Event: Death of father 15th May, 1972.

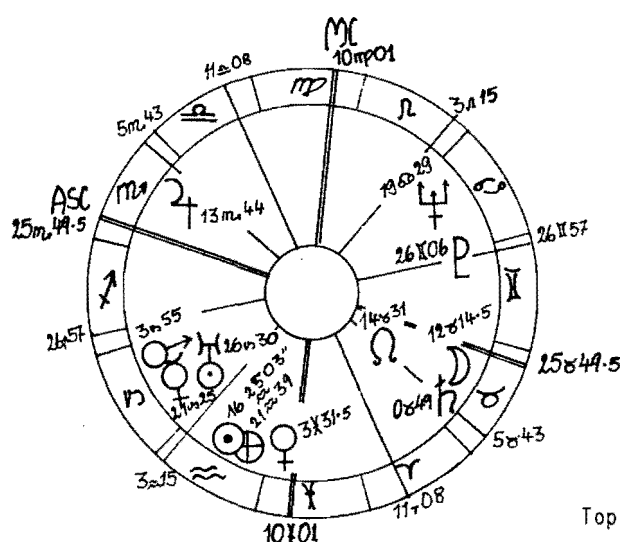

SATURN r 21 Leo 28' 02"; PLUTO r 4 Can 39

MC h 20 Aqua 50; NODE h 5 Can 39

MC r 3 Tau 13; MERCURY h 3 Tau 45

(Primary Direction: Pluto direct conjunct SATURNr Orb 1')

EXAMPLE 2: RONALD REAGAN (see Charts RADIX and EPOCH)

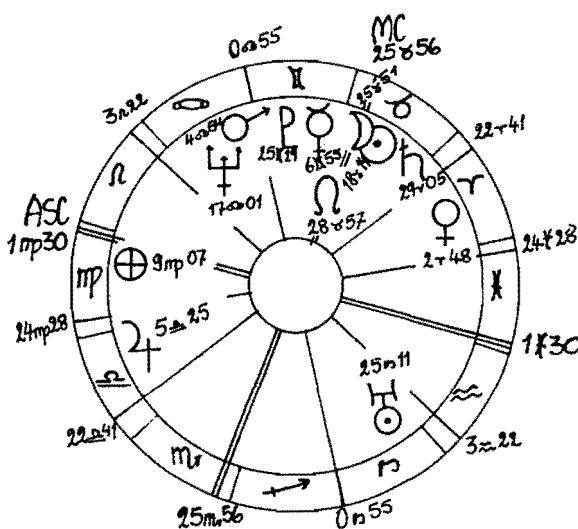

RONALD REAGAN

RADIX rectified

6th Febr. 1911 ; 07h 44m 06s U.T.

89 W 49 ; 41 N 38

RONALD REAGAN

PRENATAL EPOCH rectified

9th May 1910 ; 18h 26m 58s U.T.

89 W 49 ; 41 N 38

EXAMPLE: Radix Alexander Marr, 12th April, 1919; 12h 11m 14s U.T. 8E33; 47N22'57".

The 18th Harmonic (supposed operational period October 1936 to October 1937).

Events: Compulsory labour service 4th April

The 69th Harmonic (operational date September 79 to September 1980)

Event: Elected President, 4th November, 1980.

JUPITER r 13 Sco 44; MOON r 12 Tau 14.5

MOON h 14 Tau 33; NODE r 14 Tau 31

SUN r 16 Aqua 25; JUPITERh 17 Aqua 25
(SUN transit (5th November 4h U.T., Result)
= 12 Sco 53).

The 73rd Harmonic (operational date September 1983 to September 1984)

Future Event: Supposed Presidential Elections; 6th November, 1984

JUPITER r 13 Sco 44 URANUS r 26 Cap 30

URANUS h 14 Tau 28 ASC h 25 Cap 13

JUPITER h 12 Leo 21 SATURN r 0 Tau 49

MOON r 12 Tau 14.5 MERCURY h 2 Tau 03

(SUN transit (Results, 7th November, 4h U.T.) = 14 Sco 46

JUPITER tr(Results) 10 Cap 04 trine MCr
10 Vir 01

Prenatal transit for the same date = 6th

May 1837, 9h U.T. SATURN prenat tr. conj.

JUPITER rad orb 1' of arc

PRIMARY DIRECTIONS in the TOPOCENTRIC

SYSTEM for the Election Day:

RADIX - RADIX RADIX-EPOCH
MC d sext URANUS 2' orb (exact) ASC c quinc. Saturn r

SUN d trine MC r 2' VENUS d 30 IX r 3'

PARS F d opp. Jup r(Sep'84) SUN c opp Merc

MOON c sesq. URANUS r 1' (favourable)

EPOCH - EPOCH

EPOCH - RADIX

ASC d opp. SATURN Ep 3' JUPITER d a MC r 1'

VENUS d conj MERC. Ep 4' (Fav.) (favourable;
see transit

PLUTO d sext MARS Ep 2' JUPITER trine MC r for that date)

SECONDARY DIRECTIONS (Topoc. System) Angles

and House Cusps directed stereometrically with the Solar ARC in Right Ascension

RADIX - RADIX

VENUS pro quinc. SATURN rad ex.

MARS re opp. MOON rad ex

RADIX - EPOCH

ASC pro square SATURN Ep 4'

IX pro square URANUS Ep 1'

(Failure? not Elected?)

SUN re square ASC Ep 4'

(very unfavourable)

EPOCH - EPOCH

EPOCH - RADIX

MC pro sext MERC Ep 2' ASC pro opp Saturn rad ex

PLUTO pro semisq.

MOON 5' (orb probably too large)

The Tropical Solars and their Prenatal equivalents for 1984/85 and 1985/86 overshadow the favourable indications for re-election through the malefics, mainly Saturn and Pluto, with some influence of Uranus. The Mean Node is also involved.

According to some characteristic Directions President Reagan may be re-elected. However, his personal life, and his psychological experiences around and after the Elections will be deeply affected in an extremely unfortunate way. Close relatives may die. Beside this, his physical condition should also suffer considerably. Serious illnesses with serious results are possible. This in spite of the fact that Reagan's Radix, although appearing to be very insignificant, has extremely harmonious aspects. The T-Square of SUN, MOON and JUPITER has to be regarded as very favourable. The real Chart for a leader of a State is the demonstrated PRENATAL EPOCH (Conception Horoscope). Here SUN conj. MOON is right on the MC - one of the best configurations we can expect in the Chart of a President.

Conclusions:

1. The most effective Harmonics are those in conjunction with Radical factors, preferably Angles. The theoretical orb should not exceed one degree. Exceptions: If more than one planet is conjunct the same Radical factor (see examples of Reagan and Marr) conjunctions and oppositions are also valid with larger orbs. Squares of Harmonics to the Radix may also be valid if appearing together with other Harmonics (conjunct or opposite Radical factors).

2. The conjunctions of Harmonics among themselves are only significant if touching Radical factors (conjunction or opposition) This is quite logical as in special cases (close conjunctions, oppositions, trines, sextiles and squares in the Radix) conjunctions of Harmonics among themselves may appear periodically every 2nd, 3rd, 4th, etc., year.

3. Analyses of Harmonics are only reasonable and therefore acceptable if:

- a) The Radix is rectified within 1' of arc
- b) The planets are computed with the utmost possible accuracy to seconds of arc by Astronomical Ephemeris or sophisticated Computer programs. An inaccuracy of 1' in RAMC enlarges the final error to one degree for a native aged 60 years.

For this reason the Harmonics relating to Angles, demonstrated above, have larger orbs than the theoretical one established with the aid of the very accurate planetary positions.

Although, as we can see in ROSS HARVEY's demonstrations, the multiplication of the Angles encouraged him to consider rectifications, I can assure the reader that this assumption is far too optimistic. In fact, that these Harmonics may reach theoretical orbs of one degree and more, invites the astrologer to select apparently appropriate, but wrong, fictional Harmonics.

On the other hand, if working with approximate planetary positions, and with no rectified Angles, wrong Harmonic numbers may be selected for wrong (fictional) aspects. This is mainly because this symbolic system does not permit exact fitting to the operational period.

The demonstrations I have seen so far in matters of Harmonics have been unsatisfactory throughout, mainly because the necessary preconditions of exactness have been missing.

I admit, that my analyses of Harmonics, although performed with the utmost possible accuracy, do not by a long way fulfil the demands of a scientifically approved system.

From ELVA HOWSON (VIC.): How timely that in the midst of the discussion re monitoring jet flights (Forum issues September/October/November) Indian astrologers advised against the planned noon arrival at Delhi of the Queen's plane from Dacca, Bangladesh on 17th November, 1983. The flight arrived instead at 11.55 am. Only astrologers are aware of the significance of five minutes. It appears the Indian astrologers were more concerned with arrival time than with departure time.

Although I can work the Charts through on our traditional systems I would be interested to read comments from astrologers who are conversant with the Hindu system.

Has anyone the 'Birthdata' for India? That Chart may prove an interesting comparison.

Season's greetings to all fellow astrologers with thanks to Dymock for another year of interesting Forum discussions.

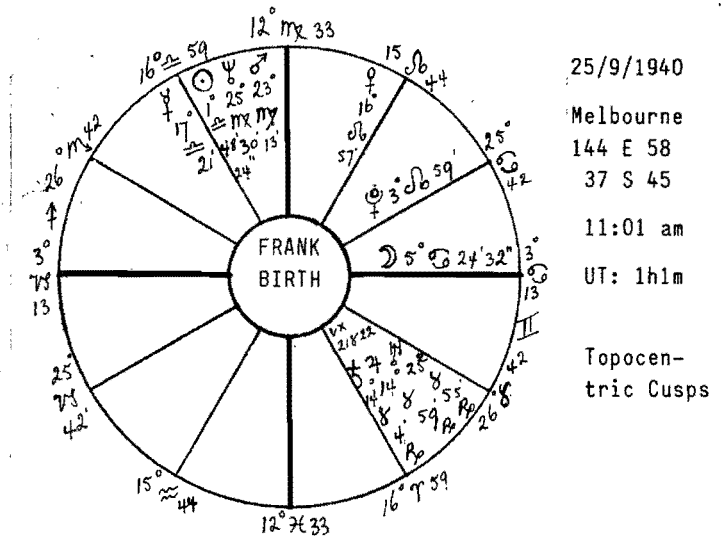

From JENIFER POMMERIN (W.A.):

Re Frank's Release

Jeanette Simpson is quite right about the importance of the Natal Chart in the final analysis of Progressions.

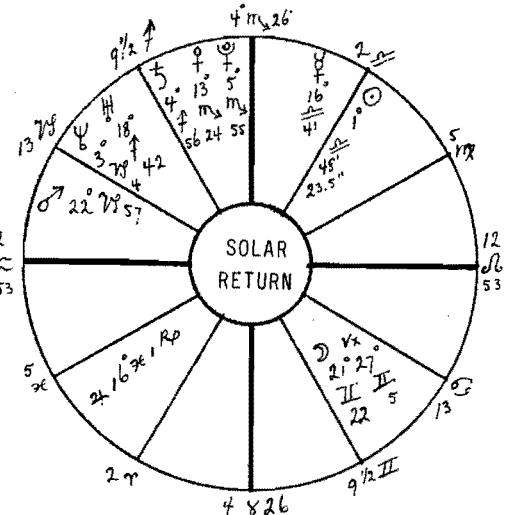

That is essential, and I did indeed take note of Frank's Horoscope. For instance, Saturn and Jupiter, Rulers of the ASC and the 12th House respectively, are also in Trine to the MC - so their action may not be wholly detrimental or invalid. Nevertheless, difficulties could be expected in a transition from an orderly and relatively secure prison environment (no pun intended!) to a life where one must take responsibility because of personal freedom.

So, perhaps Frank's break from the past, and his future actions/reactions could be demonstrated by somewhat more challenging aspects. Whatever the date of release, it will be a little surprising if the powerful ASC - SUN - MOON - PLUTO pattern is not brought into play by one or other of the Prediction methods.

FRANK'S
SOLAR RETURN for 25/9/1986
Bendigo
144 E 21
36 S 48

Placidian
Cusps

Here is Frank's Solar Return Chart for 25th February 1986, as submitted by ROSS HARVEY. The Birth Chart (unrectified) is also reproduced for comparison purposes. Ross notes that S.R. Jupiter, ruling the 11th House, opposes the Radical MC, and Pluto occupies and rules the 10th, its mundane distance from the Meridian being 6°40' East.

[Also noteworthy is the trine of Jupiter to Venus in the 10th, ruling the 9th (legalities) and the square to Uranus, S.R. Ruler. - Ed.]

On these and other indications Ross predicts Frank's release in November, 1986.

Elvis Presley's Still-Born Brother (see last 'A. Forum')

Alexander Marr raises the point that a still-born child does not have a Birth Chart, and one must look to the Conception-Chart (Prenatal Epoch) for correlative astrological features. He says that most babies that die at birth have T-Squares involving malefics and the Sun or Moon.

On the other hand, we are not sure whether Presley's brother was actually born dead or died soon after (even a few seconds after) the delivery. But the delivery, even of a dead child, is still an event, for which a chart can be drawn up and analyzed like any other Horary Horoscope.

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock, 19th February, 1984.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., Australia, 2785. Tel: [047] 87 8874.

Issue No.30, 19th January, 1984.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

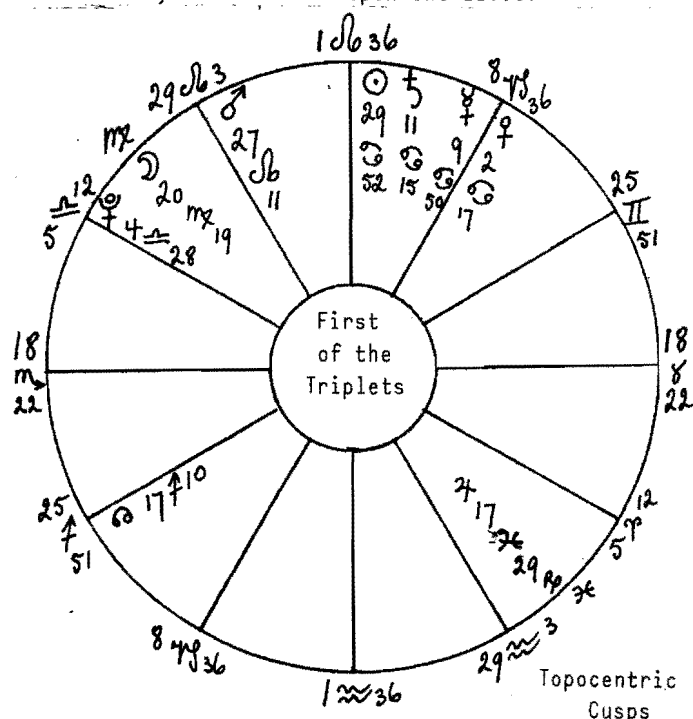

As promised, here is the first of our regular double-issues, a development made possible by the generosity of a recipient who is meeting half my cost of production and distribution.

From ALLAN JOHNSON (N.S.W.):

Multiple Births and Polarity

Some months back I made some comments about twins and the theory of positive and negative polarities which could explain marked differences in life-patterns which often occur. Following on this I have recently had to do life-profiles on triplets. If anyone is interested the dates are 23rd July, 1974, Sydney: All boys, 12:09 pm, 12:20 pm and 12:29 pm. I think with multiple births they would always face two options - either to stick together as a group or go their separate ways. I do know several relatively prominent people who have a twin, yet most people would not know the twin actually existed, he or she has kept such a low profile. So some twins find it necessary to go their own ways.

The astrological reason why this can happen must lie with the basic natal chart. Of course, a lot of planets in the Western half would favour the tendency to stick together for mutual support. The reverse would show the need to follow an independent life style. The more positive one would have the more eventful life. In the case of triplets there could be a sort of identity crisis. I think this would be the case in the one here. There are a lot of elevated planets, Mars in the 10th and Sun close to M.C., as well as Scorpio on ASC. I think these three boys would definitely have to go their own ways and have independent lives.

Naturally, the only changes in the three Charts are Angles, and neither MC or ASC changes Sign over the period of their births. To establish their own identities, I should think that each would have to pursue a quite different career. Another interesting point is that the Sun is exactly on the Cusp of Cancer/Leo. In the case of multiple births the first is always positive and the second negative, and it follows logically that the third would again be positive. Their mother confirmed that this was actually the case.

So I anticipated that the first boy would be very much a Leo type and the second a Cancer and their careers would conform to these two Signs. But what about the third? With the third we get much more emphasis on Mars as a career indicator, as the Sun has slipped back out of such close conjunction with the MC. Of course, Mars has a close link with Scorpio. So, I would predict a Mars/Scorpio type of career, maybe the Navy. This aspect also reinforces the idea of the third child being a positive.

Unfortunately, since they are only nine years old we will have to wait some years before they can confirm or deny these future profiles. As an additional item to this positive/negative polarity idea, someone has suggested that normal families also run through this positive/negative sequence. This is a point worth looking at and checking on. I would be interested to hear of any other cases of multiple births. I do know of another case, which is quite the opposite to the one above - triplets who have all gone into Yoga and are living in an Ashram, a communal society. I hope to get their data and present it at a later date.

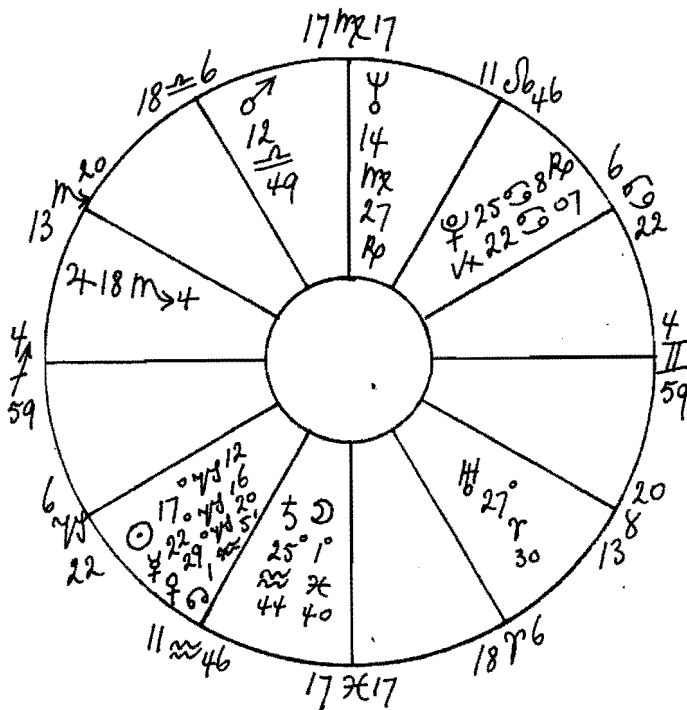

From MARGUERITE BROSE (N.S.W.):

Twins

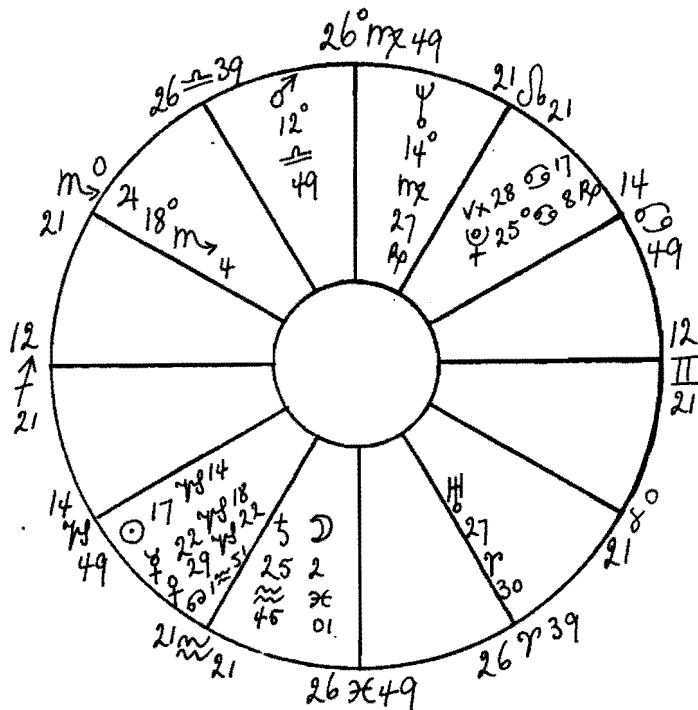

In the 'Astrological Monthly Review', an article written by Mary Coleman titled 'The Enigma of Elvis', aroused an interest in me to look further into the much debated issue of twins in previous 'Forums'. I am indebted to Mary as she saved me from having to plough through a 700-page biography (Albert Goldman) of one who is, to say it mildly, not my favourite musician.

Mary points out that Elvis was one of twins. His brother (Map A) was stillborn at 4.00 am. This was a good opportunity to try to find out why one baby died while the other (Elvis, Map B), born 35 minutes later, lived. Naturally, with the date and place the same, and the time nearly the same, the two Charts are practically identical. There had to be something highly significant that distinguished between the two.

The differences of the two Nativities is, as expected, in the Cusps and Vertices.

Elvis Presley's stillborn brother, 8th January, 1935, 4 am Tupelo, Ms., 88 W 43, 34 N 16.
Topocentric Cusps

Elvis Presley, 8th January, 1935, 4:35 am, Tupelo, Ms., 88 W 43, 34 N 16. Topocentric Cusps.

MAP A: $\frac{5}{\Psi}$ (54°06') δ ASC (Possibly the main factor for the death. $\frac{5}{\Psi}$ is well-known as a signifier of illness and weakness and is here directly connected with the physical body - the ASC).

MAP B: The above-mentioned crucial aspect does not occur.

MAP A: Vx in the 8th House applying to δ $\frac{5}{\Psi}$.

MAP B: The Vx is separating from the δ $\frac{5}{\Psi}$ having passed its peak of strength.

MAP A: $\frac{5}{\Psi}$ afflicted by the opposition to $\frac{5}{\Psi}$ is only 9' from δ Vx in the 8th House.

MAP B: $\frac{5}{\Psi}$ is certainly also afflicted by $\frac{5}{\Psi}$ but the opposition to the Vx is 6° off perfect. (Bearing in mind that Elvis too died at a fairly young age).

MAP A: $\frac{5}{\Psi}$ /ASC (24°43') \square $\frac{5}{\Psi}$ (applying) \square Vx δ $\frac{5}{\Psi}$ (applying).

MAP B: $\frac{5}{\Psi}$ /ASC (28°24') \square $\frac{5}{\Psi}$ (separating) \square Vx (separating) δ $\frac{5}{\Psi}$ (separating).

$\frac{5}{\Psi}$ is much closer to the Meridian in Chart A than in Chart B. An energy aspect in Chart B of δ $\frac{5}{\Psi}$ ASC (28°) does not occur in Chart A.

The lesson of this comparison is the importance of the correct Ascendant, and the significance of any close aspects to the ASC that may operate as a saving factor.

From ALEXANDER MARR (WEST GERMAN FEDERAL REPUBLIC):

Tropical and Sidereal

Ed. Caselli queries in FORUM No. 26 why I am using the Tropical Zodiac in connection with cycles which involve precession. Research has undoubtedly revealed that all traditional and newly-developed Directional systems, if applied to the Radix, have to be measured in the Tropical Zodiac. This also applies to the Transit System and its cycles, whether on the Tropical or Sidereal basis. Even Secondary Progressions and Regressions from Sidereal Solars applied to the Radix obey the Tropical measurement.

These Secondary Directions of the Sidereal Solar (used as Tropical Precessional Solars) are continuously analyzed by myself. They give results with mostly conjunctions and oppositions to a few minutes of arc only if both the Precessional Solar and the Radix are computed in the Tropical Zodiac.

The reason why Sidereal Astrology has not made any substantial progress since the time of the eminent astrologer CYRIL FAGAN, lies in the fact that progress could be achieved neither in the interpretation of the Sidereal Zodiac nor in a reasonable application of Sidereal Charts (in the Sidereal Zodiac) to the birth chart.

Plane Disasters

[Referring to the demonstrations of the Korean Jet disaster in preceding Forums].

I fully approve of both ALLAN JOHNSON's and DYMOCK BROSE's standpoints.

The question arises: Is it and will it ever be possible to prevent disasters of any kind which obviously are purely a matter of predestination? This is true if we admit the possibility of any forecasts with various methods (psychic, astrological, etc.). If any disaster can be prevented by foresight then this is programmed by the powers of higher dimensions, where infinity and time (forwards and backwards to infinity) are no more insoluble problems.

In my experience neither the Chart of the accident itself nor the start of a flight (train departures, etc.) give enough clues for preventing disasters methodically. During the last 35 years I continuously analyzed my own Charts of mundane accidents as well as those of other astrologers, illustrated in text-books and journals. As these Charts are often unimpressive, astrologers sometimes try to force into these charts significances which are on rather fictional grounds, neglecting the simplest astrological rules and taking refuge in unessential midpoints.

Analogous to methods applied in birth charts of individuals, I recommend using basic charts of the countries involved and/or, if these are not available, Eclipses and Lunations preceding the event, for its location.

Recently, THE AIRPORT OF MADRID had TWO PLANE DISASTERS, which happened within a time period of 11 days, and which caused the death of almost 300 people:

1. Air crash (explosion) 27th November, 1983: 0h 04m U.T., Madrid.
2. Collision of two planes: 7th December, 1983: 8h 50m U.T.

Because of lack of space I am not going to demonstrate these Charts which, I admit, have some pertinent characteristics, mainly if applied to the ECLIPSE demonstrated below and to the Franco Regime Chart, 17th July, 1936; 17h U.T., computed for Madrid (3W41; 40N25).

We notice an almost exact conjunction of ASC rad. with the DESC of this Eclipse Chart (orb 12' of arc). The most essential thing in the comparison of Radices with eclipses and lunations, however, is always a close conjunction of the eclipse itself with a characteristic factor of the Radix. In our case, the eclipse (Sun/Moon) in 19Gem43 is conjunct the radical DESC (16Gem49) and, what is of equal importance, the Eclipse itself computed for Madrid has a close conjunction with Sun, Moon and Mars on the ASC. As can be seen, this Mars (17Gem40) is even closer to the radical DESC than the Eclipse itself.

Other significant particulars in this eclipse are:

- A) Five planets in Air Signs (aviation) and four planets in Fire Signs (for explosions and fire in both accidents)
- B) Mercury 26Tau13 in the 12th House is conjunct Algol (25Tau56) in an Earth Sign, (orb 17' of arc).

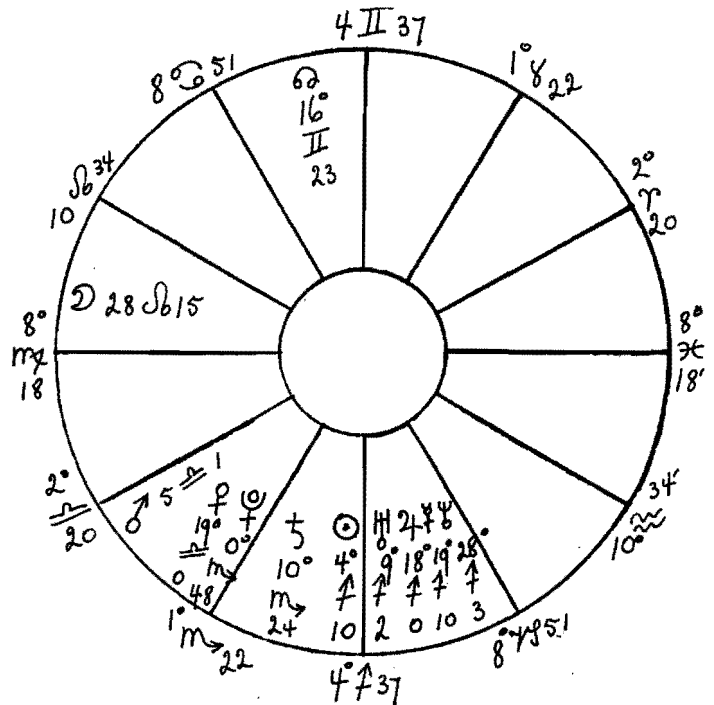

Both accidents have a Neptunian character. The cause of the first plane crash (possibly an explosion) has not yet been found, while in the second one (collision) the pilot was misled by fog. The most significant midpoint combination is Uranus and Neptune (M.P. 17Gem20) in close conjunction with Mars and the ASC, as well as with the radical DESC.

The symbolism of Mars, Uranus and Neptune suits the event and its circumstances best.

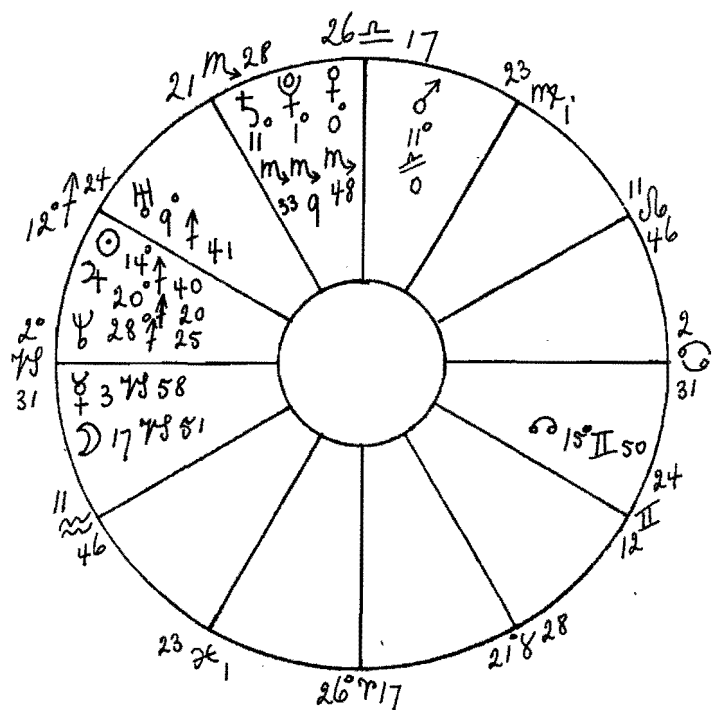

The Chart of Franco Spain, published by E.H. TROINSKY, is still effective and has been used (occasionally) since 1953. The birth time of this Chart is approximate but workable, especially with Tropical and Sidereal cycles. Experience shows that the eclipse itself should be nearer to the Ecliptical position of the DESC. Maximum orb in rectified charts is about two degrees if Angles are concerned, and about one degree for planets).

The position of planets in the demonstrated Eclipse, of course, is also significant for other developments in our world. For instance: The large number of planets in Air Signs activated space travel and discussions about nuclear missiles. These discussions have been fruitless and increased the danger of war, because of the high percentage of planets in Fire Signs. This Chart is unbalanced indeed, whatever locations in the world are considered. Needless to say that I do not forecast mundane events with these simple tools alone. Instead, mainly in politics, as experience shows, satisfactory results may be achieved if the analyses are extended to other charts. When considering political forecasting the charts of several countries and their leaders should be taken into consideration.

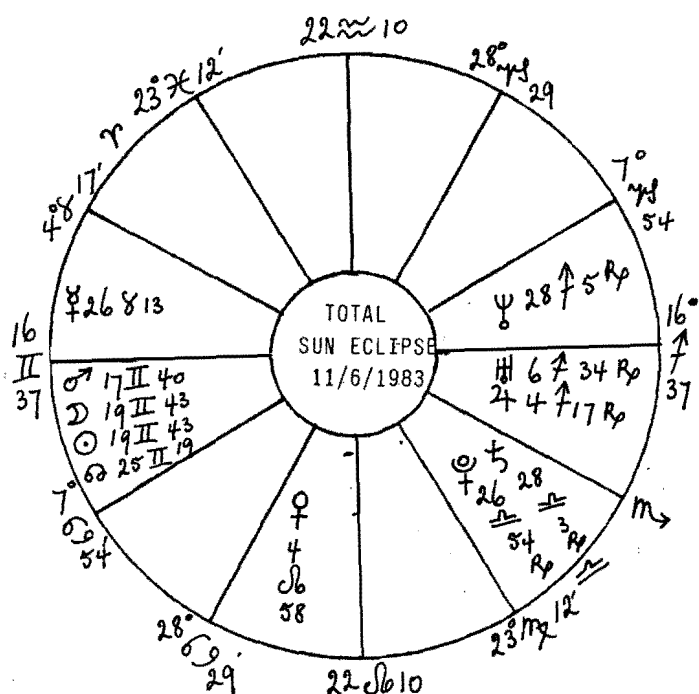

Air Crash, Madrid, 27/11/1983, 00:04 am GMT. Topo. H.

Air Disaster, Madrid, 7/12/1983, 8:50 am GMT. Topo. H.

5 pm GMT, MADRID, 3 W 41°16", 40 N 24°16" Topo. H.

4:37 am, GMT, Madrid Airport, 3 W 41°16", 40 N 24°30" Tropical Zodiac, Topocentric Houses.

Planets: Benefic, Malefic and Neutral

Some months ago I read in an astrological journal 'Instructions for the Beginner', which represent an example of the desperate standard of astrology in general.

Besides some other statements that are not worthwhile discussing as they belong in the field of 'Astrology as a belief system', the following assumption should not pass unnoticed: The writer maintained and suggested that: SUN, MOON, VENUS and JUPITER are BENEFICS, whereas MARS, SATURN, URANUS and PLUTO are MALEFICS.

There have been many discussions and suggestions upon this matter in all parts of the world. In Germany, for instance, some authorities abandoned the traditional classification, 'benefics, malefics and neutrals', maintaining that the psychological expressions, i.e. the characteristics of the planets should be used alone.

I have no objection to this decision as long as the true symbolism of the planets is guaranteed and properly used in connection with Radix interpretation as well as in Directions, transits and cycles. To get a more differentiated interpretation and in order to give the inexperienced astrologer a clear picture about the real character of Luminaries and planets, I decided to keep the traditional classification.

There should not be the slightest doubt that the factors of our Solar system have to be classified in the following way if traditional views are applied:

BENEFICS: VENUS, JUPITER

MALEFICS: MARS, SATURN, NEPTUNE, PLUTO

NEUTRALS: SUN, MOON, MERCURY, URANUS.

There is not enough space in a journal to give full evidence for the positive (constructive) and/or negative (destructive) effectiveness of Luminaries and planets. However, I should like to draw the reader's attention to the wrong interpretation of URANUS which is a REAL NEUTRAL. Unfortunately, many astrologers have not yet recognized the true symbolism of URANUS, which is shortly described as SUDDENNESS and SURPRISE.

Sudden events may be fortunate or unfortunate and are entirely dependent on other planets involved.

A constructive way to learn the independent, pure symbolism of planets, is Sidereal Lunar Returns, whether reproduced in the Sidereal or Tropical Zodiac. No wonder that CYRIL FAGAN the re-discoverer of these cycles had such a splendid experience in matters of planetary symbolism.

NEPTUNE is a real malefic. It is negative and destructive in view of many kinds of misfortune if its pure symbolism is considered. This is clearly shown by transits, cycles and, to a certain extent, in Directions. In the Radix, of course, NEPTUNE has to be treated the same way as the other malefics, Mars, Saturn and Pluto. (An extensive demonstration about the differentiated workings of planets in the Radix, in Directions and transits is in preparation).

In relation to astrology, Neptune is the enemy of constructive and logical research, and has helped to make 'a belief system' out of the subject. This expression so far is characteristic of all those astrologers who are rather destroying the real advance of astrological research, whether by letting their fantasy run into unscientific grounds, or, showing their inability by producing confusion as writers about or against astrology.

It does not seem to be necessary to explain in detail why PLUTO has to be put into the category of malefics. It is, besides others, the real planet of death (to a much greater extent than Mars and Saturn).

The reader will have noticed that we have up to the present only two benefics against four malefics and four neutrals. Research over many years has given me serious reason to consider that there should be two more benefics, ONE corresponding to the symbolism of VIRGO (as the counterpart of NEPTUNE) with some symbolism, such as:

Reasonable; clear-headed; industrious; employees; office workers; precisionists; pedants; etc.

The SECOND, corresponding to the symbolism of LIBRA (as a counterpart of MARS): Well-balanced; acting as arbitrator; overcoming the force of gravity; the Sign (and planet?) of court decisions, aviation, space travel, etc. (URANUS is by no means the planet of 'aviation').

Statistical research in my own Radix with over 1400 mainly minor events with ASCENSIONAL TRANSITS has brought to light a factor with a MERIDIAN DISTANCE in Oblique Ascension of $39^{\circ} 53'$ and a possible position in 29 Gemini (or 29 Pisces) (12th April, 1919). According to the character of many events analyzed at which this phenomenon has been frequently noticed (letters of lawyers, court decisions) this could be a planet corresponding to the Zodiacal Sign LIBRA. More research into this matter with the aid of sophisticated micro-processors will bring, I hope, some more light into this problem.

My research into the workings of newly-discovered and recommended phenomena such as TRANSPLUTO has not brought up any substantial evidence, that these factors should be adequate companions of our planets. However, although I had no worthwhile results, it is not my intention to prevent astrologers from serious research into this matter.

Here is the writer's distribution of planets according to their similarity to the corresponding Zodiacal Signs: Aries/Mars; Taurus/Venus; Gemini/Mercury; Cancer/Moon; Leo/Sun; Virgo/?; Libra/?; Scorpio/Pluto; Sagittarius/Jupiter; Capricorn/Saturn; Aquarius/Uranus; Pisces/Neptune.

There should be no doubt that the theory of the ancient astrologers: 'Luminaries rule one Sign, planets two Signs' had a logical reason only as long as the new planets, Uranus, Neptune and Pluto had not been discovered.

Fictions in Astrology

[Due to an editorial lapse, a garbled version of part of Alexander Marr's article was produced in the last 'Astrologers' Forum'. In his article Fictions in Astrology Marr referred to the excessive use of mid-points in Directions and transits, and the Uranian system of 'planetary structures'. The article should have continued as follows:]

The writer has analyzed these planetary structures (accumulations) and found that (a) they are not individualistic, as in the overwhelming number of cases, they are connected with either slow planets or even much more slowly moving hypothetical points which are almost the same in the Radices of individuals born within time periods of days up to months.

The use of individualistic points such as MC and ASC with small orbs is not impressive either, as so far I have not found any Radices that had been satisfactorily rectified. (This is in Uranian textbooks and journals). (b) The computer showed that the accumulations of structures in Radices cannot be properly controlled as they are continuously 'overlapping'.

An error in logic also appears when we notice that Uranian astrologers concentrate only on those combinations which they happen to need for the characteristics of the event. What happens with the other 5000 combinations at any time in any Radix for any event?

From LESLIE BLACK (ENGLAND):

Harmonics

If Ross Harvey believes I am labouring under some misconceptions about the nature of Harmonic Charts, the same can be said of himself or anyone else who believes that harmonic positions as postulated by John Addey was the normal part of astrological method, as he puts it, among the Greeks 2000 years ago. Recent Advances says this: 'Harmonics is a recent technique that throws light on Signs and in general promises to revolutionise astrology, yet there are many basic similarities with ancient traditional techniques' (see page 331).

Surely, no parallel can be drawn between this non-sensical symbolism and that of the theories of Pythagoras who realised the full meaning of 'harmony' and of 'harmonics', for he was the first man to hear the music of the spheres and to record his findings for his followers. Not only did he discover that harmonics were properties relating to harmony, but in general, were related to acoustics and music. I have not read the author's essays that Ross refers me to, but I have every reason to believe in the astrological structure of the science that came into being as the result of the scientific and mathematical abilities of the great men of the Greek era, who succeeded in wresting the study from the corrupt hands of the Chaldean, Babylonian and Egyptian priests, and who bequeathed to us an astrology which for two thousand years from their day has been the mainspring of scientific thought.

It is not my intention to get involved in a long digression on harmonics, as I regard it as a time-wasting effort of prodigious proportions, even with the aid of computers and which is unlikely to lead us anywhere when applied to Signs or astrology.

It is also straying too far from the point of issue, and I have stated my objections to the claims put forward for harmonics to be used as a Directional system.

From JENIFER POMMERIN (W.A.):

Frank's Release

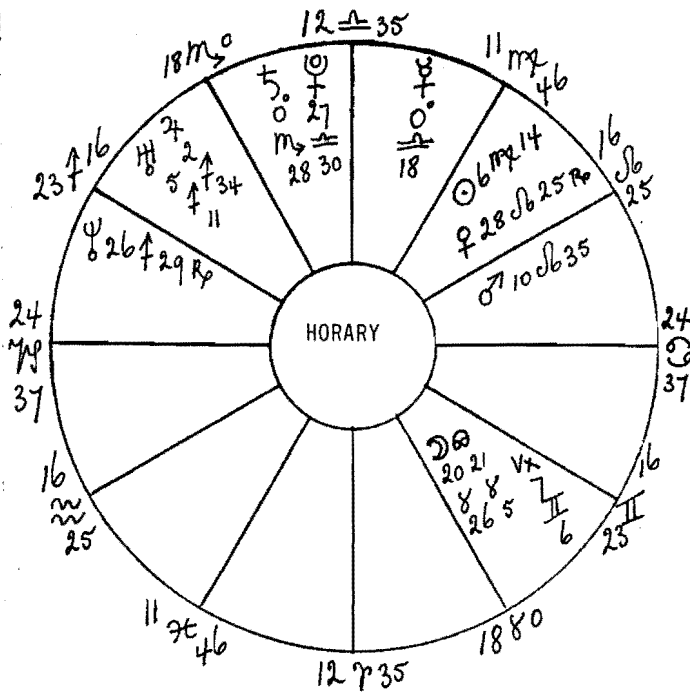

To estimate the time of Frank's release from prison, I have made use of three Charts, plus transits.

Chart 1. Horary - data from Dymock. Frank's remarks re his projected release seem to be borne out here. Neptune in the 12th House (institutions) is trine to Venus, but both planets are retrograde, with Venus separating from the aspect. Possibly this is an indication that the release date has already been decided upon and, as Frank suggests, is out of his hands.

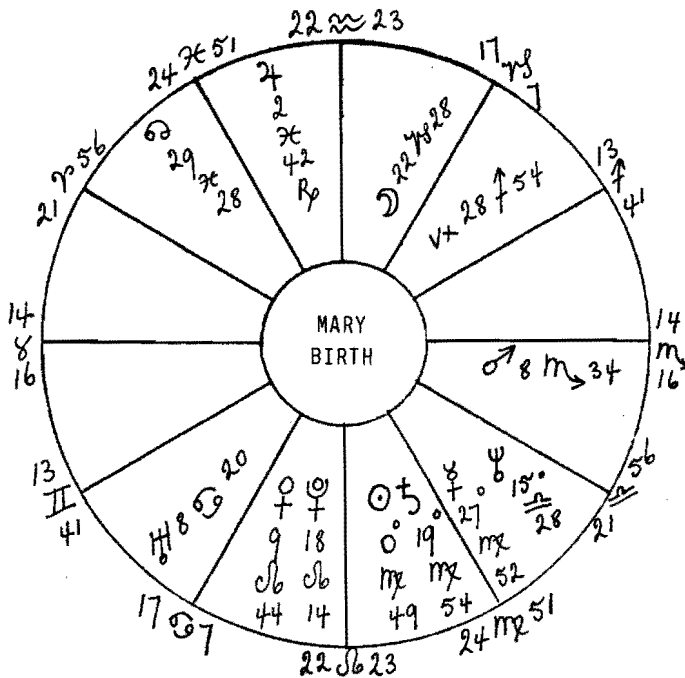

However, if the query was prompted by a concern for his future (establishment of a health farm, and his life with Mary), the Chart can still be quite meaningful.

Taking Mercury (Ruler of the Natal 10th House) and the MC point (Government and authority, one's own occupation etc.), the orb separating them is $12^{\circ} 17'$. In Horary time, approximately 12 months and 1 week, making a date sometime in September, 1984.

HORARY for U.T. 4h14m on 30/8/1983, Blackheath, NSW.
150 E 17, 33 S 18. Placidus.

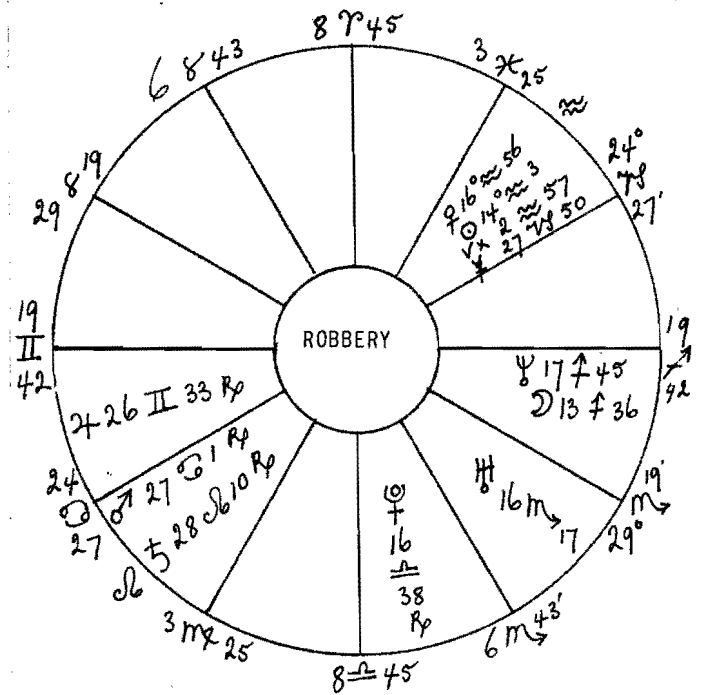

24/8/1950, 13:50 GMT, 144 E 58, 37 S 45. Placidus.

Chart 2. Mary's Natal Horoscope. Frank's Chart indicates that his close associates have considerable impact upon his life. Because of this, transits that are important to Mary could be a signpost to Frank's activities.

Chart 3. Event Chart erected for 5.00 pm, Daylight Saving, the day of the robbery. The purpose, here, is to highlight which planets were linked strongly to Frank's destiny that day.

Most noticeable is the pattern that Mercury has formed. The Natal relationship with Jupiter and Saturn is reproduced, even to 3/2/1978, 5:0 pm D.S.T., 144 E 58, 37 S 45. Placidus.

the inclusion of Taurus via the 2nd House position. Mars, the Ruler of Chart 3's 10th House, is antagonistic to Frank's own 10th House Ruler, Mercury.

Transits (for the month of September, 1984). I would like to use these to 'confirm' the September date. For the most positive result the transits should be involved with the most significant planets in the above Charts.

Mercury, placed in Virgo, turns Direct on the 7th and transits Mary's Natal Sun on the 10th. The transit of Mercury would largely be disregarded but it is included because of its power in Frank's life.

Jupiter in Capricorn, passes over Frank's Ascendant, and in quincunx to his Natal Pluto. A pattern which started in February and, following retrograde motion, is now finishing.

Saturn, in Scorpio, is approaching the opposition to the Natal Saturn and Jupiter. Likewise it is nearing the end of a long period of retrograde swing that aspected these planets plus Natal Venus. Saturn, by transit, will be on the Cusp of Mary's Natal 7th House by the end of the month.

Pluto in Scorpio, is the Ruler of Mary's 7th House and will be in trine to her Natal Jupiter by mid-November. On about the 10th of September the Horary Saturn is transited. If the Horary Chart can be regarded as a basic desire for re-generation - personal and careerwise - this could be a powerful timing device. The fact that it has been in that vicinity since the query and that it is the Ruler of the Natal 12th House, may demonstrate the build-up of pressure as Frank awaits release.

Neptune is puzzling in that it is not very active. It turns Direct on the 10th but one would expect more. The likeliest explanation (apart from the obvious one of September being the wrong date!) is an unfavourable Parole.

From JEANETTE SIMPSON (N.S.W.):

Concerning J. McKeague's comment on Frank's Chart re station of Jupiter. ('A.F.' No.29)

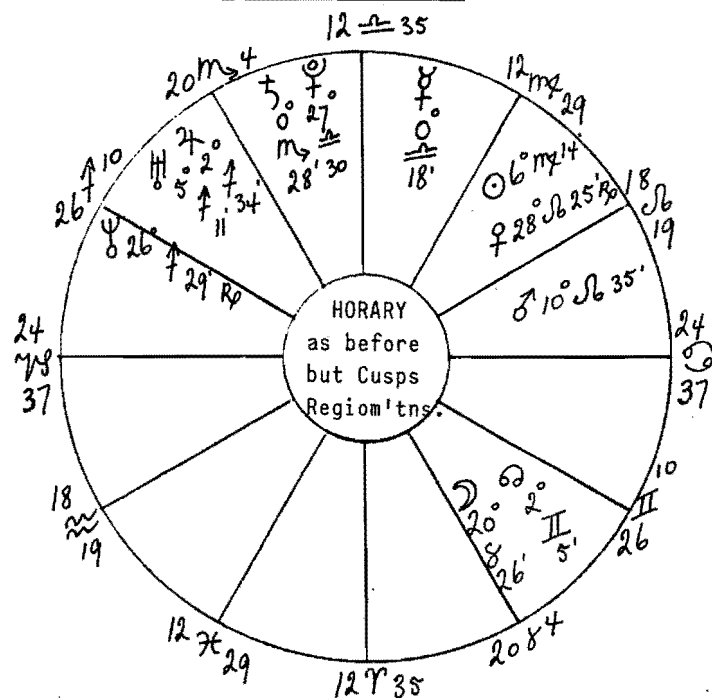

Although stationary Jupiter conjunct ASC could be expected to be greatly beneficial (if considered alone and out of context with the Natal Chart), with both points being under affliction natally (ASC $\square \odot$, $\odot \text{D}$, $\square \Psi$, πQ ; 4O 5 , $\square \text{Q}$ \odot) would not this be likely to modify any benefic action of Jupiter, whether this planet be in stationary transit or Progression?

Also, other progressions for the year under review i.e. 1984, are not generally benefic ($\odot \text{p}$ \odot 4r plus transits Q \square Q r , H \square MC r , 5O 4 , 5r) so surely this would hold sway over an already weakened Jupiter.

From OLIVIA BARCLAY (ENGLAND):

One swallow, says Dr. Dean, does not make a summer. How many do? (Will two?) How many suns make a sun-set, how many moons make a moon-lit night? How many bombs make devastation? I am with you in wanting to prove astrology, but one chart truthfully interpreted is worth thousands of meaningless statistics. Proof need not be in large numbers.

Frank's Release

This question was presumably asked by Frank and his fiancée, represented here by the ASC, its Ruler, Saturn, peregrine in an Angle, and the Moon.

The only major aspect to be made by the Moon before leaving Taurus is to the square of Venus, retrograde in Leo.

The Moon on the 5th Cusp shows their love, and despite the square aspect, when the square comes to perfection they will achieve their union. The square only shows their difficulties.

Venus not only represents the lady in the case, and their love, but also as Ruler of the 10th Cusp, authority.

The 8° between the Moon and Venus in Fixed Signs shows the 8 years to which he was sentenced. However, the Angles are all Cardinal, which indicates shorter duration, and Venus is retrograde, moving toward the Moon, making his release, when it happens, sudden and sooner than expected. Therefore, the Chart makes it clear that he will be released sooner than the eight years, which would have been up in 1986.

With Sagittarius on the 12th Cusp (prisons and prisoners) and Jupiter so well-placed in the 11th, Frank must have been an exemplary prisoner, and has good reason for high hopes. However, before being too optimistic, I note that the next planet the Moon would pass over is Mars in the 7th. (This is Ivy Goldstein Jacobson's rule.) The 7th House is of opposition to the Querent. It is the same Mars which no doubt sent him to prison in the first place, (the Moon recently squared Mars.)

Despite this difficulty there must be some planetary position in 1984 or 1985 that will release him, and the stationary position of Jupiter at the end of August which coincides with the observation of James McKeague about Frank's Natal Map, seems a good possibility.

If this is not quite strong enough I suggest that January, 1985, might be the time when Saturn enters his own term at 28° Scorpio.

I find timing very complicated and do wish I was better able to solve the problem precisely.

From ROSS HARVEY (N.S.W.):

Frank's Birth Chart and Harmonics

In the Birth Chart, where are the indications that Frank has been a criminal who has been seriously injured (shot) and has spent some years in prison? Both his Ruler and the ASC are afflicted by the Rulers of the Twelfth (prison), and there is the Q/Ψ conjunction in the Tenth, but otherwise there is little that strikes one immediately. However, here are the 13th and 16th Harmonics -

13th	16th
☉ ..23 \pm 24.....28 γ 48
☽ ..10 γ 25 ϕ MCr.....26 γ 40
♀ ..15 γ 33 ϕ 4, γ r.....7 γ 36 ϕ r Δ
♂ ..10 γ 21 ϕ MCr.....18 γ 12
♂ ..1 γ 49 ϕ ASCr.....11 γ 28 ϕ EPr
4 ..14 γ 47 ϕ 4, γ r.....29 γ 43 ϕ ϕ r
5 ..2 γ 52.....15 γ 4 ϕ MCr
☿ ..6 γ 55 ϕ ϕ r (approx).....24 γ 40 ϕ γ r
♂ ..1 γ 30 ϕ γ r.....18 γ 0
♀ ..21 γ 47 ϕ γ r.....3 \pm 44 ϕ ϕ r
ASC..11 γ 49.....21 γ 28 ϕ γ r
MC..13 γ 9 ϕ γ r.....20 γ 48
Vx..7 γ 46 ϕ γ r.....11 γ 52
EP..17 γ 24.....2 γ 57
ASC..5 γ 29 ϕ γ r.....13 γ 41 ϕ 5, 4 r
MC..6 γ 39 ϕ γ r.....12 γ 49
Vx..2 γ 44 ϕ γ r.....5 γ 41 ϕ Δ r
EP..11 γ 45.....26 γ 00

I have given two sets of positions for the Angles, as consideration of the Age Harmonics for the years when dated events occurred leads me to suspect that the given Angles are slightly incorrect, though unfortunately not enough events spread throughout the subject's life were given to enable me to be sure of the rectification I have attempted, though I think it is probably right.

For indications of serious injury note ϕ h13 ϕ ASCr, and γ h16 ϕ MCr (ASCh16 rectified is ϕ γ r); for his criminal activities note γ h13 ϕ γ r, and γ h16 ϕ γ r; and MCh 16 γ ϕ h γ .

For the violence which must go with armed robbery note γ 13 ϕ γ r, while γ 16 ϕ ϕ r and the many ϕ contacts to the Angles in the 13th Harmonic indicate the nature of the person who would attempt such an enterprise. There are some indications of prosperity - γ h16 ϕ ϕ r, and ASC (rect.) h16 ϕ 4 (and γ r), but in view of the condition of 4 in the Radix, I do not think very much could be expected of them that would be of a durable nature.

Let us now consider the 37th and 38th Harmonics in particular the 37th (for the year in which he was shot, arrested and sentenced)

37th	38th
☉ ..6 γ 36.....8 γ 24
☽ ..20 γ 25.....25 γ 50
♀ ..11 γ 57.....29 γ 18 ϕ γ r
♂ ..27 γ 09.....14 γ 06 ϕ MCr
♂ ..19 γ 01.....12 γ 14
4 ..14 γ 23 ϕ 4, γ r.....29 γ 22 ϕ ASCr
5 ..10 γ 28.....24 γ 32 ϕ γ r
☿ ..28 γ 55 ϕ ASCr.....24 γ 50
♂ ..13 γ 30.....9 \pm 00
♀ ..27 γ 23 ASCr.....18 γ 22
ASC..29 γ 01.....2 γ 14 ϕ γ r
MC..14 γ 21 EPr.....26 γ 54 ϕ γ r
Vx..10 γ 34.....1 γ 56
EP..4 γ 47.....18 γ 41
ASC..11 γ 00.....13 γ 43
MC..25 γ 52 ϕ γ r.....7 γ 55
Vx..26 γ 15.....17 γ 14 ϕ γ r
EP..5 γ 45.....20 γ 30

The 37th Harmonic made me suspect that the given Angles were not entirely correct, for γ ϕ ASCh and γ ϕ Vxh are hardly convincing indications for such a year; certainly the γ ϕ conjunction on the ASCr is appropriate, but when we consider that only a small alteration in the position of the given radical ASC would bring the Harmonic ASC ϕ γ h and ϕ γ h it seems likely that these positions may be the correct ones, and at any rate are worth a try. The 38th Harmonic does not help us to decide one way or the other, but the 40th Harmonic has γ 0 \pm 0, ϕ ϕ r, ϕ MCh 2 γ 0 (his father died). The Solar Return for 1977 has γ and γ Angular, and these positions do bring the Harmonic Angles in the 13th Harmonic closer to γ r, which seems more appropriate, though there are not enough events given to enable me to confirm this rectification, which must therefore be regarded as TENTATIVE. The radical positions arrived at nevertheless are ASC 2 γ 44, MC 12 γ 03, Vx 20 γ 59, ϕ r. 1 \pm 48'19", and birth time 10h59m10s, local time.

For the given birth time, the Primary Direction that covered his arrest, etc., was ASCd ϕ γ r, and MCc ϕ γ r for the rectified time.

Marguerite's mention of γ ϕ γ seems as though it may be a mistake; by Topocentric P.D. γ d is 7 γ 24, and converse, 15 γ 33. [It was not a mistake; γ ϕ γ was a P.E.A. Primary, exact on 5th April 1978, for a birth time of 11:01 am; and on 14th March 1978 for a birth time of 10:59:10 am. - Ed.]

Later that year ϕ d is ϕ γ on the 29th October (his wife told him she was leaving on the 10th), though using the rectified Solar position the same Direction is timed to the 6th October (a further indication that the rectification may be correct).

The soonest likely time for Frank's release is November, 1986, when 4 d is ϕ ϕ (taken with latitude, 1st November) and transiting 4 is stationary ϕ the MCr on the 8th November.

There are several favourable Primary Directions in the time between now and then, but in the various Solar Returns for 1983 to 1985, the Rulers of the ASC's are conjoined to the Rulers of the 12TH (prison) and there are afflictions from the Rulers of the 9TH (legal matters), making his release in those years seem unlikely; only in the returns for 1986 are there positive signs without overwhelming negative indications. The station of 4 over the ASC in August, 1984, which has been mentioned by several correspondents, seems to me to relate to other matters; indeed I think there are indications that he may marry his fiancée while he is still in prison, as the returns for 1983 contain such indications, while, if my rectification is correct (IF), γ h 8 γ 51 is ϕ 4h 14 γ 17, ϕ MCh 8 γ 10, quite appropriate for marriage, not altogether for his release. For what it is worth, the 46th Harmonic has γ 3 γ 14 ϕ γ r, ϕ ASCh 5 γ 44 (Rect. ASC), ϕ h 22 γ 48 ϕ γ h 18 γ 06, γ h 29 γ 42 ϕ ϕ r, and Vxh 5 \pm 14 ϕ ϕ r. [Ross Harvey has submitted 12 S.R. Charts in support of his article; space for some may be available in the next Issue.]

The monthly "Astrologers' Forum" is now assuming the proportions of a quarterly Journal.

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock.

19th January, 1984.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., Australia, 2785. Tel: [047] 87 8874.

Issue No. 29, 19th December, 1983.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

"Astrologers' Forum" will expand to double its present size from the next issue (January, 1984). This is possible through the generosity of a donor who has undertaken to meet half the cost of production each month ($80). Recipients can now look forward to a greater coverage of various topics and more space for their individual contributions.

From GEOFFREY DEAN (W.A.): In Issue 16 (November, 1982) I launched a debate on truth and falsity in astrology. This addressed the problem of how do we know whether chart indications are true or false. The debate continued in Issues 17, 18, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25 and 26.

Now, exactly one year later, and with grateful thanks to all participants, I would like to summarise the outcome.

The problem boils down to the question: Is astrology a belief system? In Issue 22 (May, 1983) I invited readers to send in answers to five questions designed to clarify whether astrology was a belief system. For the benefit of new readers let me explain why this point is so crucial:

If astrology is a belief system, then the conflicts (such as fill this Forum) between different systems are instantly resolved. If it is not, then the conflicts can be resolved by controlled experiments (such as do not fill this Forum). The point is that we can improve astrology only if we really understand what is going on.

By last issue a total of 10 people had responded to my questions. Of these, Dymock (Issues 20 and 26), Caselli, Turner and Bunnett (all in Issue 25) answered the questions. The others did not, preferring instead to debate irrelevancies like my motives, the horrors of science, and the state of my fun-deprived life. So if nothing else we have established that only 4 astrologers in 10 are capable of giving straightforward answers to straightforward questions.

Here is a summary of the questions, responses, and my own answers:

1. How do you know that astrology works?

Dymock: By experience of charts and events.

Caselli: By experience.

Turner: By experience of natal charts and progressions.

Bunnett: By experience of transit charts.

Dean: By experience. But since I get equally positive results from controlled studies using wrong charts, I cannot say that astrology works because of astrology.

2. How do you know that astrological effects are real and beyond ordinary explanation?

Dymock: By experience. Because astrology describes people and events very effectively, it doesn't matter if there is a non-astrological explanation.

Caselli: By experience.

Turner: I don't.

Bunnett: I don't.

Dean: I don't.

3. In the absence of hard evidence why should we accept your views rather than any other views?

Caselli: No answer.

The rest: No reason at all.

4. If wrong charts are found to be as readily accepted by clients as right charts, what would this mean for astrology?

Dymock: People don't know themselves.

Caselli: No answer.

Turner: Astrologers are fallible.

Bunnett: Everyone is a complete person (sic).

Dean: It means that chart interpretations do not have to be valid to be useful.

5. Having given your ideas about whether astrology is a belief system, what sort of evidence would make you change your mind?

Dymock: Convincing evidence that what I ascribe to astrology was in fact due to something else.

Caselli: None, my mind is made up.

Turner: Not sure.

Bunnett: Scientific evidence, eg Gauquelin. (Bunnett also cites Nelson; unfortunately Nelson's claims have recently been disproven.)

Dean: Evidence from controlled studies.

So is astrology a belief system? McKeague says yes. Johnson says partly. Caselli says no. Hetherington implies yes. Dymock, Bunnett, Holden, Andre and Barclay imply no. Turner is not sure.

Hence the majority opinion is that astrology is not a belief system. But that is not the end of the matter.

The problem is that the responses show that this opinion is based not on controlled studies (ie studies which look at not just astrology but at all participating factors) but on personal experience. And personal experience is demonstrably unreliable. For example people once believed in bloodletting and phrenology, simply because of their personal experience, yet we now know that their beliefs - and their experience - were erroneous. So, as I said in Issues 16 and 18, why should we believe in astrology and not in bloodletting or phrenology? Suggestions come from Barclay and Andre:

Barclay suggests that her example of a correct Horary outcome is proof of astrology. But one correct outcome is no more proof of astrology than one swallow is proof of summer. What is needed is a controlled study showing a significant incidence of hits for a large unselected sample of outcomes, but Barclay does not provide this.

Andre points out that there are hundreds of books containing thousands of charts, all of which correspond to the life of the person concerned, and suggests that this proves astrology. But occasional inadvertent major errors in the charts, and recent controlled studies in at least four countries, have shown that wrong charts fit people just as accurately as right charts. So such a correspondence proves nothing - in fact if it did there would be no need for the Superprize.

(Incidentally these same studies meet Johnson's demand [Issue 25] for hard evidence that astrology is not valid. This does not mean that astrology is not useful. As with a placebo, astrology could be totally invalid and yet still be very useful.)

In the same vein I pointed out in Issue 12 that it is useless to argue about the best system of prediction until we know what can be expected of each system by chance alone. But what happened? Sixteen issues later the arguments still rage and we still haven't been told what can be expected by chance. So we have got precisely nowhere. It seems that astrology has no need of enemies when it has friends like astrologers.

Conclusions

1. The majority opinion of the 10 respondents to this debate is that astrology is not a belief system.
2. This opinion is based on experience, not on controlled studies, and therefore merits no confidence, especially in the light of contrary evidence from controlled studies.
3. The most reasonable interim verdict is therefore that astrology is a belief system.

This is not to say that the evidence from controlled studies may not change (in which case the Superprize is waiting for those who can muster such evidence). Nor is it to argue that astrology is any less useful for being a belief system, eg see Dymock's comment under question 2. Now go back to the 4th paragraph.

From ALEXANDER MARR (WEST GERMAN FEDERAL REPUBLIC);

M.C. prog. trine Saturn rad. as an indication for an 'Oscar' award, adduced by Gwyn Turner ("Astrologers' Forum", No. 23, page 5) is in absolute contradiction to the real meaning (symbolism) of such a Direction. Experience shows that the best outcome of MC Directed trine Saturn may be A RETIREMENT (under normal satisfactory conditions).

If Saturn rad. is in a bad cosmic condition, such an (as it seems) harmonious Direction may even result in a retirement in a negative sense or, as a great number of events show, as a loser (Presidential Elections, etc.)

Here are the main rules in this respect, based on between 2000-3000 events analyzed with Primary Directions on rectified Radices:

1. Planets which according to their true (pure) symbolism are contradicting the character of an event are neither suitable in Directions nor in transits or cycles.

Example: Saturn Directed conjunct 5th Cusp of the Radix, will never reflect a happy birth even if Saturn is in the best possible cosmic condition. Instead, Saturn directed to the 5th Cusp (or to the ASC) and vice-versa may reflect a serious complication at birth such as the birth being overdue or the child already dead before birth, etc.

2. Angles and House Cusps Directed to planets or vice-versa are the only real SIGNIFICATORS for an event. (The original idea of ancient astrologers.) [I am sure Alexander meant to include also inter-planetary aspects - D.]

Example: ASC Directed square Mars may reflect a surgical operation just as does Mars Directed square ASC rad. This simple example contradicts statements that the Directed factor is always the SIGNIFICATOR and the radical one the Promissor.

Analogous: Jupiter Directed conjunct (or trine) Pluto may reflect a succession or an inheritance, as does Pluto Directed conjunct (or trine) Jupiter. This, of course, depends on the structure of the Radix analyzed. From all these reasons we find for instance for 'happy births' (a) ASC or Cusp V Directed to Sun and Mars or vice-versa (boys), (b) ASC or Cusp V Directed to Moon or Venus or vice-versa (girls).

Occasionally Jupiter and Uranus may be involved. These combinations will appear in most normal births, especially in the horoscope of the mother, no matter which Houses Sun, Moon, Venus, Mars, Jupiter or Uranus may occupy in the Radix.

This makes interpretation in astrology much easier and should encourage astrologers to use true and sure astrological methods. Needless to say that the mentioned planets for a birth should be in satisfactory cosmic conditions.

Concerning SATURN rad. near Cusp 5 rad., Saturn will always act negatively in some way if the birth of children, sexual approach, or wins (hazards) etc. are involved. In many cases such a radical Saturn prevented a woman from bearing any children at all, while in other cases trouble in connection with children has been suffered the whole life.

Suitable Primary Directions for awards, promotions, etc., are MC (ASC) conjunct, opposite, or trine Jupiter the Sun (Moon, Venus) and vice-versa.

These are examples of how to use (not misuse) planets in Directions (Primary and Secondary), and with slight differences in transits.

Fictions in Astrology

The Directional systems which follow have been analyzed by myself with the aid of a large IBM computer in the '70's. About 200 events have been computed with thousands of midpoints and triple combinations. This was performed with much generosity towards orbs and symbolism of the planets.

Completely fictional are:

1. The Solar-Arc in the Ecliptic, also called the Symbolic Arc.
2. The Uranian System using hypothetical Trans-Neptunian points on (or near) the Ecliptic in connection with 1, and also in the Transit System.
3. The excessive use of midpoints in Directions and transits.

Regarding 2, the methods here vary slightly; however, about 5430 triple combinations had been noticed which, if used only in conjunctions, give the following proportions on the Zodiac: $360 \times 60 = 21,600$ minutes of arc; divided by $5430 = 4'$ approximately; i.e., there are 5430 points on the Zodiac (whole circle) with orbs of plus/minus $2'$ of arc (average). These figures may be extended 'ad absurdum' if this technique is reduced to a $90(45$ or even $22.5)$ degree-wheel measurement.

No wonder that whatever technique is here applied, up to 15 and more midpoint combinations with small orbs can be produced at any time, for any event, and for any radix.

Followers of this Uranian system maintain that their results are controlled by so-called planetary structures which, as they say, appear in the Radix as accumulations.

I have analyzed these planetary structures (accumulations) and found:

- They are not individualistic as, in the overwhelming number of cases, they are connected with either slow-moving planets or even slower-moving hypothetical points that are the very same in the Radices of individualistic points such as the MC and ASC, especially with 'these small orbs', is not impressive either, as so far I have not found any Radices in Uranian Textbooks and journals which had been rectified the way they should be (within $2'$ of arc = 8s of time).
- An error in logic also appears when we notice that Uranian astrologers are only concentrating on those combinations which they just need for an event. What happens with the other 5000 combinations at any time in any Radix for any event?

In contradistinction to this I remind the reader, that for reasons of logic we examine all appearing traditional aspects to the Radix in transits as well as in Directions.

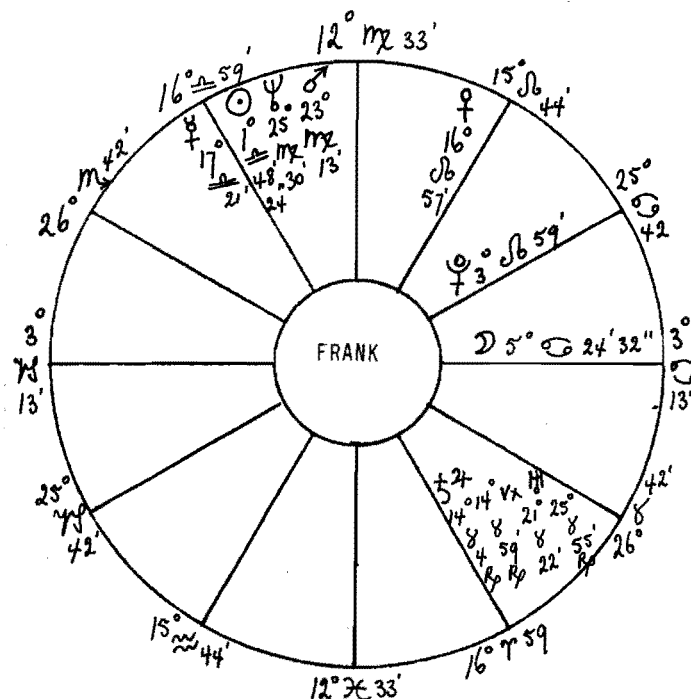

I also noticed a great deal of wrong symbolism in one of the leading textbooks of Uranian astrology. (Regelwerk fuer Planetenbilder = Recipes for Planetary Structures).

It takes too much space to enumerate all the wrong symbolism and other obviously fictional assumptions in this book. However, my criticisms do not particularly concern the Uranian system. The same abuse of astrological factors appears in other systems. Here the abuse of midpoints is dominant, while traditional astrological methods, if not handled properly, are giving no better results either. The fundamental problem in Astrology, solved in theory and practice, but lacking a sufficient number of talented and experienced astrologers, is the RECTIFICATION.

From JAMES MCKEAGUE (N.S.W.):

Re 'Frank'

So far no one has thought it worthy of mention that at the end of August, 1984, the transiting benefic, Jupiter, will become stationary, exactly on Frank's Ascendant. Old textbooks used to make a big thing of such a station, saying that it has 'all the force of 25/9/1940, Melbourne, 11:1 am. Topocentric Cusps.

a Primary Direction'. But amongst recent writers I have seen this mentioned only by a few - Dymock for one, and Ebertin. (I think it was Ebertin, who successfully predicted a time of serious trouble for Richard Nixon from a station of Saturn: This was October/November, 1974, when Nixon underwent surgery twice and was near death with a transiting stationary Saturn exactly opposing his Natal Sun).

If Frank's Ascendant as charted is reasonably correct, what more likely event does this station of Jupiter indicate just now in Frank's life than his release? Admittedly, there are other possibilities. But on this powerful indication alone I would suggest August/September, 1984, as his likely release date.

From ED. CASELLI (N.S.W.):

Progressions and Directions

Re Thomas Zimmer's statement that Directions are more likely to indicate a two-year period rather than events, my own experience is that both take place, especially events. In fact, Directions to the Angles, or transits thereon, are more likely to produce events. I particularly recall a Converse Secondary, Mars square radical Saturn, which apparently produced only events. Where we have a progressed planet aspecting a birth position and then a progressed position, we are likely to get both. For instance, when I had progressed Mars semi-square a birth Saturn (on cusp 6th = service) I was drafted into the Army, and my military service continued until Progressed Mars was semi-square Progressed Saturn. It took six years for Mars to move from the first position to the second, and this exactly spanned my military service.

Austin Levy states (August, 1982) that Secondaries work only with the Sun and Moon. This is not so. The inter-planetary Secondaries do work. I will quote three cases which, by the very nature of the planets, can hardly be disputed. Under Progressed Mars (Secondary direct) square radical Uranus I suffered in a street accident from being hit by a vehicle. Now Mars/Uranus is typical of something mechanical. Also Uranus is my rising planet showing my very personal involvement. Furthermore, radical Mars is on the radical Third House Cusp showing the street as the setting for the accident. Any argument? In the second case the Converse Secondary Mars arrived at the square to radical Saturn. Now Saturn rules my Ascendant, so again I was most personally and directly involved. Result, I broke my arm while on a visit to a friend prior to my emigration. Emigration is Mars. Saturn was the locked door I encountered which set the stage for the accident. Also Saturn represented the fall I physically suffered. Saturn was the friend. Mars square Saturn showed the separation from the friend (Saturn) through emigration (Mars). Mars square Saturn was misapplied energy (Mars) resulting in the broken bone (Saturn). Mars square Saturn must be the astrological classic for a broken bone. Note again, Mars on radical Third House Cusp indicating the short journey I took and the arm (both Third House). Did the aspect work? Of course it did, in a number of different ways (about ten different ways). This third case involved Venus progressed in trine to Uranus. It involved the mechanical recording (Uranus) of the voice singing four songs (Venus). Even the number four showed Uranus again. So did the cost of the recording (£40). Venus and Uranus were clearly the planets concerned. I might add the second case mentioned (Mars square Saturn) worked to within a week of the event.

Astrology Not Belief

Finally, I challenge James McKeague's contention that Astrology is a mere belief system. People do reflect their Ascendant Sign or planet. If I find that an Aries Ascendant can be distinguished from Taurus etc., then Astrology has proved itself no matter what mathematical system is said to be used. And we can prove that the Ascendant works if we devote enough time to it, as I am sure most of the contri-butors have, in fact, done.

From ROSS HARVEY (N.S.W.):

Harmonic Charts

Leslie Black appears to be labouring under some misconceptions about the nature of Harmonic Charts and their use. Let him take a number of accurately timed charts and calculate the Age Harmonics for such major events as marriage, death, child-birth, accidents, serious illnesses, career successes and setbacks, etc., and I am of opinion that such a test would show convincing correspondences at better than chance frequency.

Harmonic Charts are not maps of the heavens, as are birth charts and Solar Returns. The wheel form of the Harmonic Chart, devised by John Addey, simply enables one to see aspects within the Harmonic more easily. I do not bother drawing a chart for a harmonic, as the only aspects I think are of real importance, conjunctions and oppositions, are easily seen from a list of harmonic positions.

As for applying harmonic positions to the Radix, not only has experience shown me that it works, but precisely this practice seems to have been a normal part of astrological method among the Greeks 2000 years ago (see Robert Hand's essay on Dodekatemoria in his Essays on Astrology, pp. 115-129). Is that not time-honoured enough?

I have not reached any definite and irrevocable conclusions about any of the matters I am writing about, but I have satisfied myself that they are worth further investigation, and the 13th and 16th Harmonics especially may lead to greater depth and accuracy of natal interpretation. I hope to encourage others to investigate for themselves. I do strongly believe that anyone who thinks he has a case, myself included, must have enough evidence, and be prepared to present that evidence, to encourage others to take seriously what he has to say. Unsubstantiated pontificating will not do. A couple of tests have occurred to me which could help substantiate, or invalidate, some of my ideas about harmonics, and to which I would be very happy to submit. For example, could anyone, by traditional means, tell the charts of half a dozen millionaires from an equal number of charts of old-age pensioners? I, at any rate, could not; and so it occurred to me that if anyone could give me a number of charts of people who are (or were) very prosperous and successful (not necessarily millionaires), and an equal number of charts of people of a fair age who have never been at all prosperous (of a fair age so that there is no likelihood of their becoming rich in the remainder of their lives), say half a dozen of each, I would undertake to tell them apart. All I ask is that the charts have a birth time which is known to be accurately recorded. Rectified charts won't do (how do I know that the rectification is correct?). I would be rash indeed if I claimed to be able to get them all correct, but I would hope to get at least 80% right.

The second test concerns Rectification: If I could be given a chart (or charts) which is/are known to have an accurately recorded birth time (but not told the time naturally), together with at least ten timed major events in their person's life and a brief description of that person's character and circumstances in life, I would try to correctly rectify the charts. Although I have been able to produce convincing charts for a few people whose birth times were not known at all, perhaps to make things easier for me at first, the birth time could be given to within a period of two hours. To ensure that it is a fair test, the charts presented must be known to be accurately timed, to the minute if possible, and, for the first test, if there is any doubt about the times, this should be stated. One would not need many charts, particularly for the rectification test, to know one way or the other. Would any Forum reader, be willing to supply me with data?

More forecasts re 'Frank' next Issue, and some persuasive evidence for Rectification by Harmonics from my own practice. A happy Christmas to all!

- Dymock, 19th December, 1983.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., Australia, 2785. Tel: [047] 87 8874.
Issue No. 28, 19th November, 1983.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

Following the discussion of Frank's Chart in last month's "Astrologer's Forum", I applied to him for further information, and asked whether he was willing to have astrological dissection of his character. Frank has responded with the following letter:

'I don't mind the astrological dissection of my character by readers. God knows, laughs are few and far between, down this way.

'As far as information for rectification goes, the offence, shooting and arrest all happened on the 3rd February, 1978, at about 4 to 5 pm. Sentenced to 10 years on the 19th July, 1978. However, the Crown appealed and subsequently on the 4th September, 1978 the State Full Court increased the sentence to 14 years. On the 10th October, 1978, I received a letter from my 'wife' severing the relationship. This was the single most traumatic thing that had ever happened to me. On the 8th January, 1981, my father died. I met my fiancée on the 1st August, 1981, but as the relationship sort of 'blossomed' from there I find I cannot add anything to that. My knowledge of Astrology before the robbery was restricted to reading Sun-Sign columns in magazines.

'My 'feelings' are that the Angles of my Birth Chart are very close to being correct. Early on I had a box of books and relevant information on rectification but finally abandoned - for the time being at least - this aspect of astrology because of the underlying uncertainty of the end result re absolute exactness, plus the need for same.

'I had much material which acted to support Primary Directions as a means of absolute rectification but then - from different sources - along came fairly reliable information about astrologers timing births to the second and as the child grew up events were not co-inciding with Primary Directions to the known birth time.

'At this stage I make sure - by questioning - that I have the planets in their correct Houses, thereby indicating that the Angles are 'close', and then tighten it up a bit with transits. In fact, by doing it this way, rarely does it come about that the Angles can change much more than a few degrees because then the likelihood presents itself that a planet may change Houses. An astrologer doesn't have to be particularly brilliant to know what House a planet is operative in. Many so-called professionals set up the Angles to support various rectification systems and in-so-doing remove a planet from the House it's in by birthright and assert that it's in another. The question of what system to use to rectify charts became a very relevant one, to me. At the moment I believe most of the systems probably have some validity because all charts are different and what may be applicable to one chart may not necessarily be applicable to another.

'I tend to agree in part with both Marguerite and Elva in that 1986 is highlighted. However, I feel my best chance of release is sometime in 1984. Several dates are possible but a good chance shows itself in May.

'Elva mentions "get-rich-quick schemes" and taking a gamble. Depending on one's view of etiology she could be considered both correct, or quite wrong. I'm not predisposed to taking gambles, even though I have gambled professionally - if I can use that term. When I put my money up I know I'm going to win. As far as the "get-rich-quick schemes" goes, the robbery was just another day's work. It wasn't a spur-of-the-moment gamble. At that time I was a professional crook. Obviously the 10th House emphasis contributes to my giving my all to whatever activities I'm involved in.

'Elva states that my pending release will no doubt be a big event for me. I will be happy to get out of this hole, but it won't be any big event for me. Just a transition from one set of problems into another.

'Both Marguerite and Elva bring up valid points which are subject to interpretation. Marguerite states that in 1983-84 the planets being in the Western part of the Map incline to less control of my destiny. This is quite correct, I won't have any say at all in my release; It's right out of my hands. But, if I do get out in 1984, 1986 will be about the time I'd expect to begin developing some acreage with the prospect of not simply being a primary producer, but supplying health food shops and having people stay there for treatment, a health farm type of thing. As Elva states 'a transformation of status, heavy responsibilities from home', etc.

'The outcome of Judicial hearings Marguerite mentions could either be finalization of Parole or it may indicate legal proceedings I'm considering bringing against the Parole Board and other authoritative bodies. It may indicate a favourable publishing!

'Even though I'm up to date with my own life I can't predict my own release because that indication in May next year could only be indicating my final degrees in naturopathy. I believe I know a bit about Astrology but no-one is more aware than I am that I'm only scratching the surface of what it has to offer. I'll keep you posted with all the relevant material re my release.'

[Frank also sends some material on Secondary Progressions, which is saved for a future issue, together with other submissions on the same subject. -D.]

From MARGARET KEEN (N.S.W.): I would like to add a few extra points to those already made by Elva and Marguerite on the possible release of Frank in February, 1986.

1984...Progressed Sun (Secondary) opposite Natal

Geoffrey Dean's summing-up of the Truth/Falsity debate has been received and will be published in the next issue.

Jupiter, also transiting Jupiter conjunct ASC, shows there could be an opportunity for release but these do not have other aspects to back them up.

During 1984 transiting Saturn will be opposing Natal Saturn/Jupiter, so this would tend to delay or hinder any progress being made with those in legal authority. Also transiting Neptune will be in square aspect to his Natal Sun from the 12th House (institutions, prisons etc.) during 1984/1985, so a state of uncertainty and disappointment could prevail.

But Neptune goes direct from September, 1985; also Progressed Mercury (Secondary) is sextile to Natal Mars in the 10th House (status) so this could be a good opportunity for him to put his case before the Parole Board with possible favourable results. It's interesting to note that when he was arrested in February, 1978, Progressed Mars (Secondary) was conjunct Natal Mercury.

In February, 1986, Progressed Moon (Secondary) in Pisces in the 4th House (residence, endings) is sextile Jupiter/Saturn and though these are not in aspect natively, I feel they should be noted as the Moon is in a fairly prominent position and in strong aspect to the Natal Sun. Therefore these aspects could indicate a favourable outcome with civil authorities and a recognition of good behaviour.

Also transiting Mars from the 12th House trine Natal Pluto (February) could indicate a new beginning.

Progressed Sun square Venus could be more involved with his adjustment to relationships after being released. Also at this time transiting Neptune is opposing his Natal Moon and then conjunct the ASC, so this again is an adjustment to his environment, and possibly a deep-seated desire to establish a secure home base (Moon in Cancer).

With Neptune transiting this position for a couple of years, I expect this could mean he would have to report periodically, being on parole.

Therefore, taking all the aspects into consideration along with the Solar Return Charts, February, 1986, seems a more likely time.

T Ψ 12th Ruler 3rd Impractical application of the mind expressed through desire for luxury and comfort through acquisition of others' possessions (T Ψ * Ψ Δ Ψ).

T Ψ Ruler 2nd Desire for quick gains sought in negative ways (\square Ψ) resulting in confinement and personal restriction (σ Ψ , 4).

ASC Ruler 10th \square Restriction of freedom, through conflict (by transit) with others.

T Ψ 7th σ ASC σ Legal conflict, resulting in transformation of life pattern through confinement. (σ Ψ 8th Cusp, 4 Rules E H 12th).

Δ p also entered the 12th aspecting Ψ r and Ψ p. Interestingly Ψ went retrograde in 1978.

On these grounds the following Progressions could indicate a likely release in late 1986 or early 1987.

Frank's minimum sentence is stated as eight years, and there do not seem to be any Progressed aspects to the contrary before the finish of this term, thus: The Δ p again aspects (by σ) Ψ , 4 this time radical in 1983/84; \square Ψ 1985.

Ψ p * Ψ , σ σ Ψ , 1983 to 1985, but under a lack of appropriate Angular or Δ -aspects this is more likely to be changes of mental attitudes and philosophies.

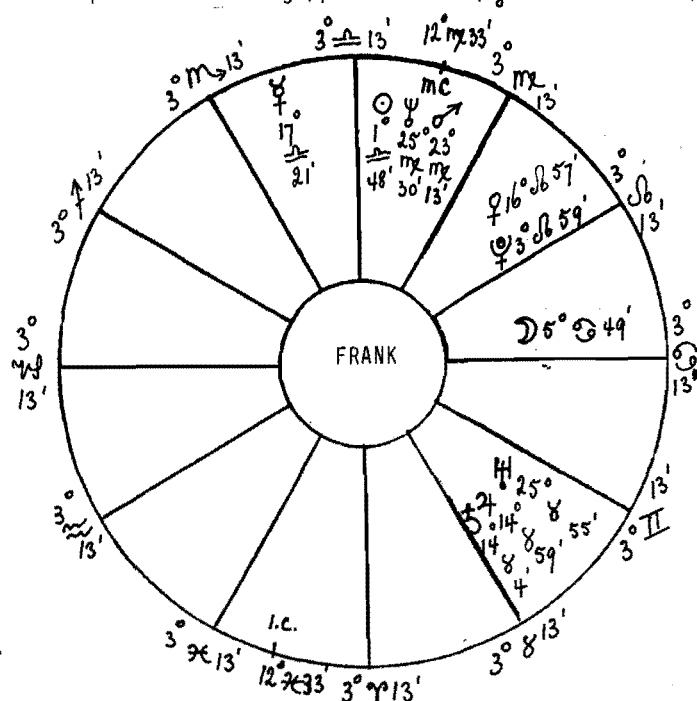

The next major Angular aspect occurs in 1986:-

[Ψ p 10th Δ ASC p] The ASC has progressed into \approx and as [ASC p \square 4p] Ψ is well aspected one would assume personal circumstances generally would be of more benefit to him under this Progression. A straight interpretation of Ψ p Δ ASC p would be of wishing to achieve more harmony with a reciprocal effect from others (Ψ p 10th, Ruler 10th) and also alleviation of Natal Ψ 8th, afflicted. The ASC p also aspects by \square 4p, so some care will have to be taken if he wishes to take advantage of this opportunity.

In the same period, i.e. 1986,

Δ p Ψ Ψ brings opportunity to career/social position (Ψ rules MC EH) and Ψ p Ψ Ψ giving mental/emotional and exterior freedom (Ψ rules MC, Ψ rules 2nd) σ p Ψ σ Ψ Would activate natal σ Δ Ψ giving independence and freedom in home surroundings (σ rules 4th EH) and his personal feelings/possessions (Ψ rules 2nd EH),

From JEANETTE SIMPSON (N.S.W.): To find the date of Frank's release from prison an examination of the circumstances of his confinement would be pertinent. Thus, using Equal House System and Secondary Progressions:

1978

ASC p σ Ψ 8th Transformation of life pattern through social causes.

σ p [Ruler 4th] σ Ψ Change in domestic and career situation due to over-hasty activities involved in desire for easy money (Ψ r * Ψ Δ 8th) resulting in personal limitation through confinement (Ψ r \square Ψ , 4 - ASC Ruler, Ruler 12th H).

[The following year (1979) Sun p activated (by opposition) Ψ , 4 = materialism and confinement]

T Ψ 10th * Ψ Δ 8th Transformation of external worldly position [ASC p σ Ψ] through wilful desire for others' possessions. Effects of others on his career activities (Ψ r 8th rules 6th, 10th).

The transits give support to these Progressions:-
 ♀ on the 8th Cusp (EH) natally makes Frank subject to life/death situations, radical changes and new phases of life. In 1986 (T♀ Δ 7th) would imply benefic radical change domestically and in his relationship to the general public, therefore possible release.

T♂ ♂ ASC ♂ He will be very sensitive to the conflict of his situation as opposed to the views of others, but he can use the influence to 'adjust himself to life and find his proper level'. (This will not be easy for Frank, whose Chart is unbalanced by the heavy Earth influence and natal ♀ ♂ Δ ♀; but the gains can be great if this aspect is handled with full consciousness that can come with fore-knowledge). The aspect also indicates a long journey. (Natal ♀ ♂ ♀ 9th).
 T♂ ♂ [Nat. Δ] Sudden change, home surrounds (♂ rules 4th), travel.

T♂ [ASC Ruler] Δ More personal control and consolidation of effort bringing further personal development, changing conditions between self and the effects of others on him.
 T♂ ♂ MC Responsibilities incurred socially.
 T♂ [Ruler 12th] (♂ Natal, well-aspected, rules 2nd), freedom/improvements and advancement.
 ♂ ♀
 T♂ * ASC, Δ Opportunity for balance in relationships between self and others.

T♂ ♂ MC, * ♀ Increased social responsibilities; opportunity for relief of conditions of imprisonment and legal matters.

In October 1986, D♂ ♂ activates environmental conditions through ♂ ♀ ♂, and in January, 1987, D♂ ♂ * ♀.

In early 1987, ♀ activates natal ♂ ♀ Δ ♀, = will-power, freedom, independence; enters the 4th EH and Δ ♀ - indications of freedom and transformation of 12th House conditions and domestic situation.

So, in conclusion there is a good chance of Frank's release in October, 1986.

The Jumbo Jet Tragedy

From ALLAN JOHNSON (N.S.W.): I agree with Dymock that the only value of a 'hindsight' look at a disaster of this type is that we can make some practical use of it. In fact, all Mundane Astrology is concerned with prediction, as distinct from Natal Astrology, which can have its psychological value. Whether it is stock markets, weather patterns, racing, company charts, political elections or charts of countries, it is all a question of looking into the future.

So, any 'hindsight' chart should give us additional insights to do that. Even the chart for an attempted assassination can aid us to anticipate a similar occurrence. But I think we have an exception with an air disaster. No one has so far ever succeeded or even attempted, to turn this information round and predict when and where the next air disaster will occur.

I think the reason for this is that in a large measure these types of charts have become redundant due to the amazing technical efficiency of air travel. If an Astrologer were going overseas I don't think there would be much value in erecting a chart for the departure time and being guided by this. Regardless of the nature of the chart we could be pretty sure of a routine flight. That is in 99.99% of cases. But of course this would not have been the case in the early days of aviation when each flight was a hazard. I think the charts of those early flights would have pretty accurately depicted the outcome. Even today this could still apply to more individual and special flights, such as to the Antarctic. Dymock suggests that only certain days need monitoring, but the fact is that certain airports can have many years of accident-free flights. Who can remember the last time when a plane out of Sydney failed to reach its destination?

But these air disasters will continue to have their fascination for astrologers. So this latest one will certainly get a good deal of airing in the overseas journals as well as in Australia, but I still maintain that it will be a purely academic exercise of little practical value. Perhaps the launching date of a new plane could have more relevancy, if this could be known. Certainly this applies to ships. Fifty years ago R.H. Naylor used the Chart of the launching of one of the huge gas-filled airships of the times to predict that it would go down in disaster. And it did - later on the very day the prediction appeared in print.

[The high safety level of air transport does not invalidate the proposal for astrological monitoring of all flights, which modern computers make entirely practicable. It must be remembered, too, that aircraft are subject to other misfortunes than crashes - hi-jackings, diversions through bad weather, dangerous cargoes, straying from the correct flight path, etc. The tremendous cost of just one air-crash, with the usual total loss of life, more than justifies the expense of round-the-clock astrological monitoring. - Dymock.]

From CLAIR BUNNETT (VIC): The planets Saturn and Pluto in the 3rd House of the Flight Chart are at the midpoint of the ASC and the planet Neptune. ASC 29°19' Leo | Neptune 26°29' Sag. ♄ = Pluto 27°32' Libra conjunct Saturn 0°36' Scorpio. A/♀ = ♄/♀

According to Ebertin, the Pluto midpoint would have indicated 'a feeling of depression caused by one's environment', 'The suffering of harm or damage through deceit, libel or malice coming from other people'.

From the Saturn midpoint, 'The tendency to become weak in bad company, Emotional suffering caused through others', suffering illness through others. The misfortune to be hindered, harmed, or defamed by others'.

So a later time of departure could have avoided this ASC/Neptune midpoint.

From ROSS HARVEY, N.S.W.:

Harmonics

I was very interested to see Charles Harvey referred to in Hamblin's book ('Harmonic Charts') à propos of the 16th Harmonic as quoting the Hindu view that it represents the fullest manifestation of the individual in the material world - more or less in accord with my own findings. I am particularly interested in trying to determine as fully as possible a person's circumstances in life from the Birth Chart - how can one pick the very successful, the famous, the powerful, the accident-prone, the chronically ill etc. To summarise very briefly, the rich and successful have ♃ or ♄ the Angles or the ☉ in the 13th and/or 16th Harmonics; those attracted to power, ♀ (and this seems to include the overbearing as well as the powerful). It also appears in the charts of very influential people such as famous actors (film stars) and writers.

The ☉ or ♄ the personal points indicates renown; the precise significance of the ♃ so far remains unclear. And as a further point, although both the Vx and EP seem to be significant, especially the Vx, I am not yet sure how powerful they are as indicators when ♃ or ♄ a planet as compared with the ASC and MC; I have an idea that they are less strong, with the EP less strong than the Vx, but this needs further research.

Drug addicts and alcoholics have ♃/♄ contacts (i.e. one ♃ the other within the Harmonic, or between the Harmonic and the Radix); those who have accidents or who suffer violence, and also those who suffer serious illnesses have ♃, ♄ and ♃; ♃ alone may relate to deprived circumstances, but as yet I am not certain of this; and I have not been able to come to a definite conclusion about ♄; and, too, there are many more inter-planetary combinations which I have seen so far too little in charts of people I know a fair bit about to be able to arrive at anything but the haziest notions of their significance.

The 5th Harmonic seems consistently to relate to the circumstances of marriage as well as to creativity; thus it shows many positive contacts in the charts of artists of all types, and also in the charts of those blessed with a harmonious marriage; and conversely, the unhappily-married and divorced have many afflictions here: All in all the 5th Harmonic is beginning to seem a more consistently reliable guide to the potential for marital felicity or otherwise than the radix alone. I have not so far been able to ascribe a consistent meaning to the 9th Harmonic despite the regard in which some people hold it; at least it does not give direct indications about the character or destiny of the native as do the 13th and 16th: So, for example, a person with ♃/♀ in either of these two Harmonics could reasonably be expected to show characteristics of such an aspect, almost as if he had it in the Radix (sensitive and artistic); whereas a ♃/♂ conjunction in the 9th Harmonic in no way predisposes the native to the characteristics of such an aspect (strongly emotional) (both examples taken from my own Chart); these examples are quite consistent with my experience of the 9th - sometimes the contacts within it, or between it and the Radix are very appropriate, and at other times seemingly quite irrelevant; why this should be I do not as yet know.

Perhaps an example of the significance of the 5th; A lady of my acquaintance has ♃ the IC, ☉ (♃ the 4th = domestic disharmony), and the ♃/♂, but neither ♀ nor the Ruler of the 7th is afflicted, and the 7th is unoccupied; however, in the 5th ♀ is ♃/♂ (55' orb), ♃ is ♃ the MCr (1°53' orb), ♄ is ♃/♂ (2°18' orb) and ♄ is ♃ the ASC r (2°1' orb); both ♀ and ♄ are ♃ the Vx (5th Harmonic). From these indications I told her that the indications for marriage in her Chart were, I was afraid, distinctly unfavourable, and she replied ruefully that that was perfectly correct.

From MARGUERITE BROSE (N.S.W.): The planet Pluto is indicated by some astrologers as an abbreviation of the first two initials of Percival Lowell, the astronomer. This, I think, is wrong as it is acceptable only in our alphabet; but if the alphabet being used is Urdu, Arabic, Greek, Russian, etc., the letters PL become meaningless. Symbolism should be understood universally. The symbol for love, for instance, is ♡.

'Symbolism is the representation of a thing, person or idea by means of a sign, drawing, symbol, etc., which recalls that which by analogy it is intended to represent'. (Collins National Encyclopedia).

Pluto should be written thus: ♄, which has a meaningful and ancient concept. Explanations of its esoteric meaning have been expounded by writers such as Alan Oken in 'Complete Astrology'. As we write the Symbols into a chart a thought as to the occult meaning will help to keep us humble in our delineation.

From LESLIE BLACK (ENGLAND): False Astrology

The Harmonic System of Directing which was mentioned in the October Issue, is a complete departure from orthodox principles adopted for the Directing of horoscopes. This has always been by a method of addition in every known system and not by multiplication. To multiply the entire radical figure by a number which is then worked out in Zodiacal degrees, can only result in the production of fictitious charts, which in principle will not retain a radical influence on any factor in the radical horoscope.

In a Harmonic Chart the MC and ASC can become conjoined, and the MC can fall below the Horizon. This is a complete contradiction of the fundamental principles for the construction of the celestial theme. The attempt to apply the Harmonic positions to the Radix is a further contravention of time-honoured astrological tenets.

My thanks to all recipients who have sent pecuniary donations. This does help to keep 'Forum' going. More MSS have been received than could be accommodated in the present issue. My kind regards to you all. - Dvmnck.

Astrologers' Forum

A Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Knowledge, Experience and Techniques. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., Australia, 2785. Tel: [047] 87 8874.

Issue No. 27, 19th October, 1983.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

This month we again have a variety of topics for information and response.

From ALLAN JOHNSON (N.S.W.):

The Korean Jumbo Jet Disaster

In the last Issue Dymock Brose posits the possibility of preventing such disasters by astrological monitoring. This doesn't impress me as a practical possibility. It is very easy by hindsight to explain the malefic nature of a chart associated with such a disaster, but seeing things by hindsight, and actually making a definite prediction before the event, are two totally different things. What makes this type of prediction so incredibly difficult is the enormous frequency of flights from every major airport. The number of flights in progress around the world at any one time would be well-nigh astronomical. I don't think it has ever been computed. But in contrast we fortunately have only a small number of flight disasters. So the odds against anyone actually being killed in an air crash are fantastic. We might say a million to one.

So what we are looking at is a situation in which a considerable number of flights would take off with technically highly malefic charts - and yet having a perfectly normal flight. The sheer magnitude of the thing makes this inevitable. In a lot of airports we could have planes moving out at five-minute intervals. If any airport tried to monitor this sort of thing astrologically they would have unlimited disruption if not chaos. What we really have is a situation of saturation point, and I think it is here that a normal assessment of a chart could break down. How are we to pick out the one isolated flight which does result in disaster? From a predictive point of view this could be an astrologer's nightmare. I think there are other situations where the idea of a 'saturation point' could apply. Take the person who goes overseas every year. Progressions or transits will normally indicate an overseas trip, but in this case that would be negated to a large extent.

Then we have cases like the Korean Jet where 269 people were killed. Would each and every one of these people have the indications for such a disaster in his chart? This is a good type of research, but I don't think it has ever been possible to research a mass disaster of this sort. The problems of getting the data would be too great. Here we would possibly have another 'saturation point' where sheer numbers might override individual charts.

Allan's view seems like commonsense until one examines it more closely, then it appears unnecessarily defeatist. There is no reason why astrological monitoring of flights should result in chaos, which anyway would be preferable to aircraft tragedies. With experience and planning, there would be a minimum of disruption, as only a small percentage of flights would have to be cancelled. Large-scale cancellations occur frequently with industrial strikes. Four charts, 6 hours apart, calculated for Anchorage on 31/8/1983 show that by 2 pm local time the T-Square had lost its power, as the orb between the Sun and Moon had increased to more than $7\frac{1}{2}^{\circ}$ and of course the Sun was no longer Ruler of the Chart. The power of aspects falls off in logarithmic fashion as the orb increases. At one-degree orb the aspect has about 70% of its power when exact, falling to 40% at two degrees of orb. Specially dangerous times on the day in question were when the T-Square of Sun, Moon and Uranus was close to the Angles, and/or the Sun or Moon was ruling the ASC, i.e. Leo or Cancer rising. These two Signs were rising between 7h51m and 14h1m U.T., while the T-Square was well past the Angles by about 1600 hours. If flights for the whole day from any particular airport were cancelled, it would be a small price to pay for saving lives, but with experience and the aid of computers, we would soon see a dramatic break-through in pin-pointing the danger times.

There are further possibilities, such as recording the 'birth time' of passenger aircraft in computer data banks, and with Directions, Progressions and transits determining when any particular aircraft should be temporarily grounded. All this, and much more is possible with modern computer systems. I have merely pointed the way. If we don't make an effort in this direction our astrological analysis becomes little more than an intellectual exercise, of no practical utility.

- Dymock.

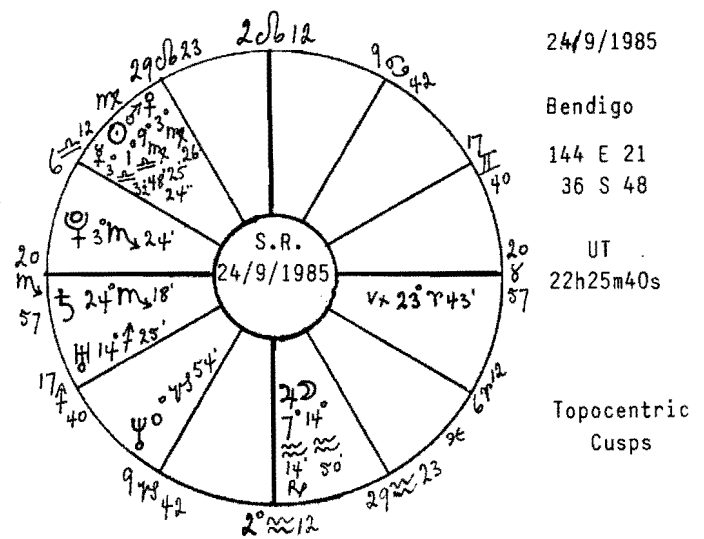

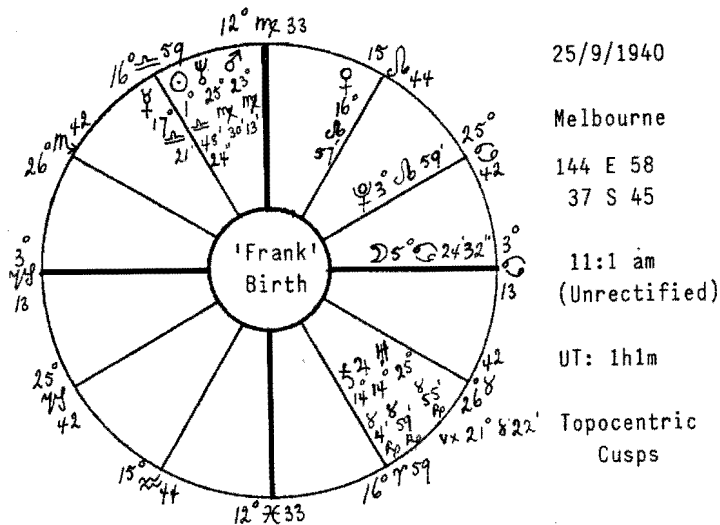

From ELVA HOWSON (VIC.):

Re 'Frank'

This is a very interesting case which raised a lot of questions in my mind. The first one was "Did 'Frank' have a knowledge of astrology BEFORE the robbery, and if so was he unaware that his Natal Chart indicated the possibility of a lengthy term in gaol due to 'get-rich-quick' schemes?" To be brief, Saturn Ruler, conjunct Jupiter intercepted 12th House Ruler in Taurus in the 5th House, square Venus in Leo conjunct the 9th - taking a gamble on easy money was really tempting intervention by authoritative/legal persons, leading to imprisonment. There again, if it was to be a gaol where he found love, maybe he feels it was worth it!

We were not asked to discuss the Natal Chart but rather the question of the coming release, which no doubt will be a major event in his life.

Before attempting such an important forecast I would normally require more information about his life to test the accuracy of the birthtime. One could assume that 'Frank', having a good knowledge of our science, is himself satisfied the 11.01 am is 100% correct, but I wonder if, should that be a rectified time, what system was used for rectification? Also although it was stated that he was arrested on 3/2/1978, for armed robbery and shot while resisting arrest this does not necessarily mean that the robbery, the shooting and the actual arrest all took place on the same day. The actual dates of Court appearances and sentencing would also have been helpful.

Assuming the birthtime to be correct, and that he is in a Melbourne gaol, I erected the Solar Return Charts for 25/9/1983 and 25/9/1985.

Viewing these I would select the latter Chart as indicating the more important year. Briefly, S.R. MC conjunct Natal Pluto square S.R. Pluto in the 12th could well indicate transformation of status in the world, i.e., Prisoner to Free man. S.R. ASC conjunct S.R. Saturn (ruling 3rd and 4th S.R.): Heavy personal responsibility is placed upon the Native, some of which involves the environment and home. The ASC is Scorpio, i.e., remaking life on a new foundation. The Natal Vertex is placed opposite these on the 7th Cusp, hence the man comes face to face with himself.

The Solar Eclipse of 13/11/1985 falls conjunct S.R. ASC opposite Natal Vx. Those who have read my published comments on the Vertex point will recall that I have in my research repeatedly observed this contact in years when a major event occurs in the life - a crucial point of re-adjustment. This surely could be considered to be consistent with a man being released after 8 years' confinement!

The Solar Return Chart 25/9/1985 and Eclipse contacts do not necessarily indicate February 1986 as release month but it certainly shows an important change in the lifestyle between the 45th and the 46th birthdays.

the most likely one to coincide with Frank's release from gaol. See Chart.

Apart from the indications mentioned by Elva, there is the favourable Angular Jupiter/Moon conjunction in the 4th House (end of matters), whereas the 1983 and 1984 Charts have the planets in the western Hemisphere (1983) and lower Hemisphere (1984), which indicates less control of his destiny.

In the 1985 Solar Return Chart, the majority of planets are rising, showing a greater measure of control over his life and less dependence on circumstances and other people.

The transits revealed a stationary Jupiter conjunct S.R. Jupiter in October, 1985. This may be indicative of the favourable outcome of a judicial hearing, Jupiter indicating legal matters and the Moon ruling the 9th House, which is also judicial decrees. As the Moon/Jupiter conjunction occurs in the 4th House (the home), it is appropriate to a favourable ruling by the Parole Board in the gaol (Frank's 'home').

Four months later, in February, 1986, stationary Pluto squares S.R. Jupiter. As Frank was originally arrested under a Pluto aspect (Primary Direction Neptune square Pluto), it may well be the end of a cycle and that the same planet (Pluto) releases him.

A Sun square Venus Secondary Progression occurs in early March, 1986, the nature of the planets involved in this aspect probably being more important than the type of aspect.

I have looked hard for earlier releasing indications, but I can't see positive signs to tell Frank to start packing earlier than February, 1986.

From ALEXANDER MARR (W. GERMAN FED. REPUBLIC): Beside the accurate rectification with Primary Directions (ASTROLOGER'S FORUM, No's 23 and 24) and the confirmation with the demonstrated ASCENDANT-LUNAR there are a few more approved methods to achieve a well-authenticated birth time.

"When CYRIL FAGAN in the 'fifties made the discovery that the progressed Moon of the Sidereal Solar Return, when in conjunction with or opposition to the progressed SSR Sun or the progressed SSR planets, coincides with events, he found an instrument to prove astrological efficacy in a simple way such as never had been found

['Frank' is not an event-oriented astrologer, and does not claim that his given birth time is correct to the minute. I am asking him to supply further details so that a rectification may be made. - Dymock.]

From MARGUERITE BROSE (N.S.W.):

Freeing 'Frank'

Elva raises a valid question regarding Frank's pre-robbery knowledge of Astrology. I also erected a number of Solar Return Charts and have found the Chart for the year September, 1985 to September, 1986 before".

This method has been carefully analyzed and extended by the writer to the following additional statement: Progressed and regressed factors of the SSR and its equivalent Prenatal SSR (Luminaries and planets) to factors of the radix coincide with events. Here conjunctions, oppositions and squares (at the second level, trines) are fully valid. This statement is, as I will demonstrate in the following example, an undoubted proof that any astrological system if applied to the radix has to be measured on the Ecliptic, in the Tropical Zodiac. This disproves one of the main principles in Sidereal Astrology, i.e. the general validity of the 'Sidereal measurement'.

Example: GRACE OF MONACO (authentication, D. Brose, 'A.F.' No 23) - Event: Birth of son; March 14, 1958. Prenatal Sidereal Solar for 1957 = 1901 (1929 minus 28 years)

Vernal Point Radix (Nov. 12, 1929) 6 14 33.6
V.P. SSR 1901, Nov. 12 6 37 37.5
(Stahl's V.P. Ephem.)

Recession minus 23 04'-

Sun rad 19 34 05 Scorpio
- 23 04

Sun SSR 19 11 01 Scorpio

Sun SSR Prenat 1901 19 11 01 Scorpio

Sun, Noon, Nov. 11, 1901 18 24 43 Scorpio
difference 46 18

Sun's daily motion 1 00 24

46'18"

1°00'24" x 24 = 18h 23m 50s (Noon Ephemeris)

SSR Prenat. 1901 (for 1957) = Nov. 12, 1901 6h23m50s UT.

Moon SSR 1901 29 27 Scorpio

Mars rad 25 38 Scorpio

Difference = 4 degrees = ca. 4 months in the Secondary Dir. system.

U.T. of SSR 1901, Nov. 12 6h 24m Nov. 12

Moon SSR regressed to 25 Sco 38 22h 39m U.T. Nov. 11
Difference 7h 45m

Sid. Time of SSR 1956 15h 26m (Raphael Noon Ephem.)
+ 7h 45m

March 10, 1957 Sid. Time = 23h 11m (Raphael Noon Ephem.)

March 14, 1957 BIRTH OF SON.

Difference 4 days = 8' of arc in the SSR 1901 Moon's motion (orb), (See 'Prediction Using Common and Prenatal Cycles', pages 23-38, Queen Elizabeth II; 16 examples.)

During the last 15 years between 200 - 300 cases analyzed have consolidated this method to authenticate a birth time.

Most of these procedures are automatically performed with Program No. M-61 (for Commodore, Apple TRS-80, and others) available at Matrix Software, 315 Marion Ave, Big Rapids, MI 49307, U.S.A. [And in Australia from Matrix Software, 12 Rockcliffe Street, Eltham, Vic., 3095. - D.]

For births of boys, SUN, JUPITER and MARS (if as here in a satisfactory radical cosmic condition) may be used. For the birth of girls: MOON, VENUS and JUPITER are valid. URANUS rad too may be the indicator of the event (this in cases where the birth occurred suddenly or prematurely).

The directed MOON of the SSR is always only a catalyzer if radical planets are concerned, while the characteristics of the event are shown by the radical planets. For main events the following combinations are valid: The Moon directed to radical planets, or the Sun, and to radical Angles and House Cusps (Moon = catalyzer).

All SSR planets, Sun included, directed to radical Angles, House Cusps, Luminaries and planets.

ROSS HARVEY (N.S.W.) has been experimenting in the past year with 'Age Harmonic' Directions to rectify birth charts, that is, a harmonic equivalent to the years of age of the native. Age Harmonics are also used as a method of prediction, and they have recently been the subject of discussion in The Astrological Journal of England. Pamela Crane even advocates the use of fractional numbers instead of the more usual integral harmonics. Ross's method of rectifying consists in calculating the Age Harmonic positions for every year in which a major event occurred, and noting whether or not appropriate conjunctions or oppositions were formed to or from the MC and ASC of the radix, or to the Angles within the Harmonic Chart itself. For the purposes of rectification, as distinct from prediction, only the Angles (and/or Vertex and 'Equatorial ASC' - East Point) are considered, as these show considerable variation with time. The planets' positions do not vary sufficiently to allow of rectification within, say, half an hour. Ross's communications to me are spread over a number of long letters, which I am obliged to paraphrase for reasons of space.

In applying his method to the Chart of Australia's Prime Minister, Bob Hawke, Ross computed Age Harmonics from 13 to 56, using tentative planetary positions for a 3:30 am birth. (Estimates of Bob Hawke's birthtime vary from about 2:30 to 3:30 am.) Ross notes that even if the time were 2:30 am it would make a difference of only 2°5' in the Sun's harmonic position by age 50, which would not be enough substantially to affect the results he obtained, though the Moon's position would vary more. The geographic coordinates, 140E44 and 36S21, for Bordertown, Hawke's birthplace, are drawn from the Encyclopaedia Britannica Atlas.

As a result of his investigations Ross has come up with the accompanying Chart for Bob Hawke, with birth at 3:25:56 am, C.S.T. (U.T. 17h55m56s the previous day, 8/12/1929). This is based on the following harmonics covering all known important events of Bob Hawke's life:

AGE 17 (17th Harmonic) MOTOR CYCLE ACCIDENT
h 7 13 13 ♂ M.C. 2 - h 7 25 450 ♂ ASC. 2

AGE 21 (21st Harmonic) APPLICATION FOR RHODES SCHOLARSHIP REFUSED
h 7 18 18 ♂ M.C. 2

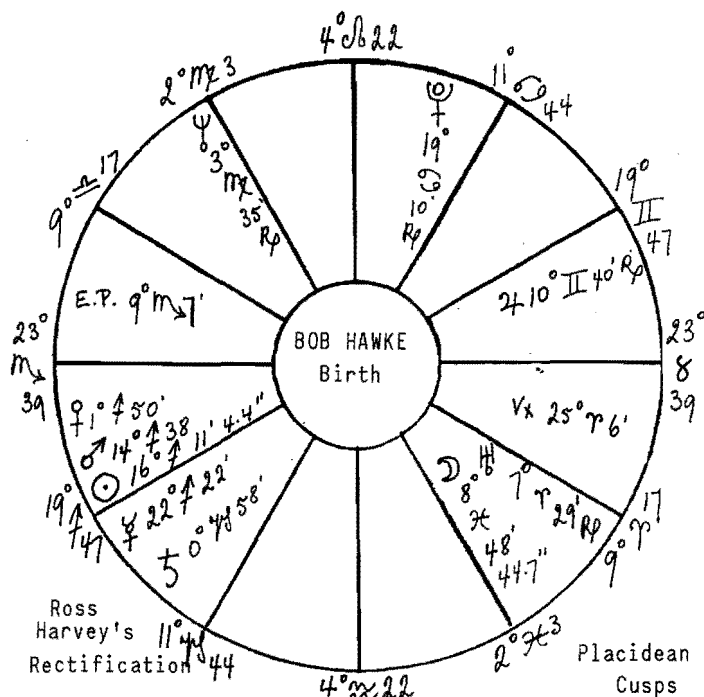

AGE 22 (22nd Harmonic) CHOSEN AS RHODES SCHOLAR
h 2 26 2 ♂ ASC. 2

AGE 26 (26th Harmonic) MARRIAGE
h 4 7 8 20 ♂ E.P. 2

AGE 39 (39th Harmonic) ELECTED PRESIDENT A.C.T.U., Sept. 1969. h 4 26 0 ♂ ASC. 2; 5 7 42 ♂ M.C. 2; 8 19 45 ♂ ASC. 2

AGE 50 (50th Harmonic) ELECTION TO PARLIAMENT
7 28 8 20 ♂ ASC. 2

AGE 50 (50th Harmonic) LOST CHALLENGE FOR LEADERSHIP OF THE LABOUR PARTY
h 5 20 8 16 ♂ ASC. 2; h 5 29 48 ♂ 5 2

AGE 53 (53rd Harmonic) ELECTED PRIME MINISTER

h Vx 10f18 6 8r 2r

Ross claims that his rectification is supported by the Primary Direction, Jupiter conv. trine MC in Bob Hawke's Chart, exact on 7th February, 1983, (Hawke was elected Prime Minister on 5/3/1983). Ross uses the time measure of 59'8.33" for a year, but in other respects follows the method expounded in DeLuce's 'Complete Method of Prediction', where the Significator is directed to the Promissor under its own Pole, and in the plane of its celestial latitude. In this last respect it differs from the 'Topocentric' system where the Promissor is considered as an Ecliptic point, without latitude. There is also a difference in the calculation of the Significator's Pole and its Ascensional Difference under that Pole. Ross claims more accurate timing for the method he uses. I have to add that I once used the same method but discarded it in favour of the Topocentric system which gave me much improved results. The timing of Directions by the two methods is sometimes small, but can amount to years.

My own rectification of Bob Hawke's Chart gives an MC of 5Leo9, and an ASC of 24Sco28; RAMC 127.5061554; U.T. 17h59m5s on 8/12/1929. This yields a Topocentric Primary Direction of Jupiter conv. trine MC on the day Hawke was elected Prime Minister, as well as a number of other appropriate Directions on important occasions in his life.

If Ross's method of rectification by harmonics stands up to rigorous testing, it will be a very considerable 'break-through' in the matter of obtaining an accurate radix.

I am at the moment reviewing a new book by David Hamblin, 'Harmonic Charts', in which the author lists a number of reasons why he thinks harmonic positions should not be applied to the radix, but he is arguing from theory, not evidence, and as Ross remarks, it 'could be the theory that is defective, not the evidence'; the latter is what counts. My own brief investigations support Ross, so far; but whatever the outcome, this is the type of research Astrology needs.

Ross is also investigating harmonics generally, and attaches much importance to the 13th and 16th as revealing aspects of character and career not readily visible in the radix. He finds that these two are the only harmonics that give consistent indications of the native's circumstances in life. Ross will probably submit more of his findings on this and it is to be hoped that other researchers will add their quota of experience. For anyone with a programmed computer or calculator this is a relatively simple business, requiring time and careful observation rather than any particular skill. Ross sees harmonics as a magnifying glass on a photograph - a small area can be examined in detail. He does not think one would find in harmonics something denied by the radix.

Ross notes, in passing, that (1) Harmonic Directions validate Placidian cusps as against Koch, Campanus and Regiomontanus, and (2) Ebertin's interpretation of Saturn = Jupiter/Pluto, 'the inability to progress' is most inappropriate for Bob Hawke!

Relying on his rectification of the Chart, Ross predicts a very unfortunate time for Bob Hawke next year. The 54th Harmonic, applying to the period from December, 1983, to December, 1984, has Sun conjunct Neptune rad., Saturn conj. MC(h) and conj. ASC rad; Vertex conj. Saturn rad. The Primary Directions, (taken in the plane of the Significator's radical latitude) are MC c. opp. Mars, December, 1983; Sun d. conj. IC, August, 1984; MC d. square Saturn, December, 1984; E.Pt. d. conj. Saturn, January, 1985; Saturn c. square MC, February, 1985; Venus d. sext. ASC, April, 1985. (Ross recently found the East Point to be significant in Directions.) In 1985, Saturn transits Hawke's ASC on 21st December, 1985, Neptune transits Saturn rad. on 18th December, and Pluto transits square to the MC rad. on 1st January, 1986.

Ross points out that a Half-Senate Election is due by December, 1984, and that there is a referendum about simultaneous Elections in February. He infers from the above Directions that Bob Hawke will call a General Election in December, 1984, and lose.

Ed. Caselli queries why Alexander Marr uses the Tropical, not the Sidereal, Zodiac for the ASC-Lunar Charts, yet allows for Precession. This is a standard procedure in Return Charts for Tropical-Zodiac practitioners who measure the position of the Significator from the fixed stars instead of from the Vernal Point. As the V.P. is moving backward in the Zodiac its apparent travel has to be added to the Significator's original position. Of course if one measures from the Vernal Point at all times, this small addition is not needed.

Geoffrey Dean's summing-up of the debate on truth and falsity in Astrology has been delayed through a typewriter breakdown, but will appear in the next Forum.

I had hoped in this Issue to reproduce the Chart for the exciting last race in the America Cup yachting contest, but space has run out. If anyone has details of the times when the fortunes changed during the Race, would he/she please contact me? The Race started 50 minutes late, and has a number of points of interest relating to Australia's wresting of the Cup from the U.S.A. after their 132 years' monopoly.

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock.

19th October, 1983.

Astrologers' Forum

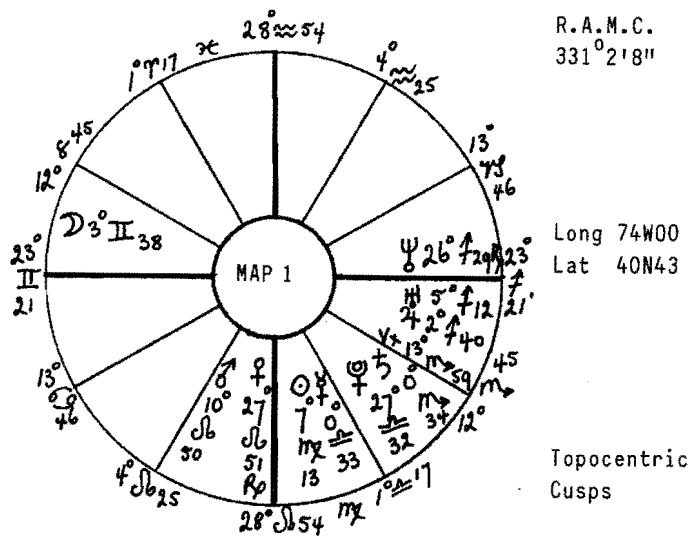

A Free Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Ideas, Experiences and Information. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W., Australia, 2785. Tel. [047] 87 8874.

Issue No. 26, 19th September, 1983.

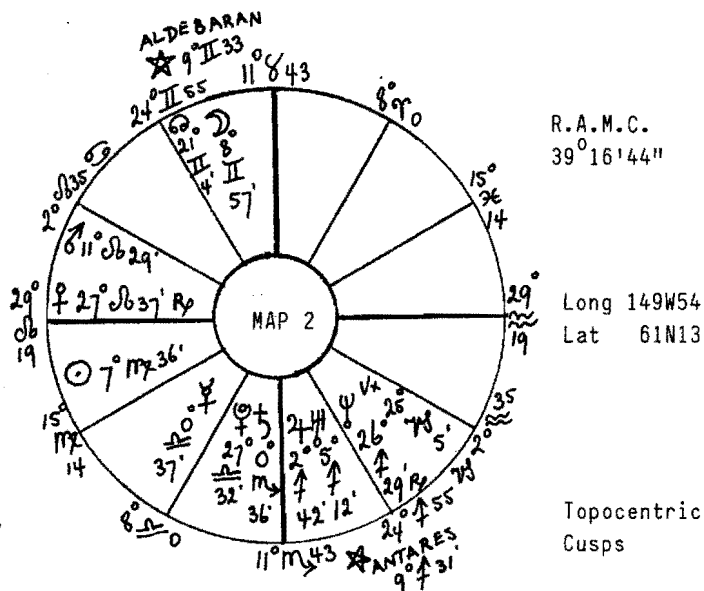

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

The world this month is aghast and horrified at the shooting down of the Korean Jumbo Jet Airliner with 269 men, women and children aboard, all of whom have perished. It is all the more terrible because the proper astrological monitoring of the Flight (No.007) from Anchorage in Alaska would have forewarned the airport authorities who could therefore have prevented the tragedy. 'Time' magazine of September 12th gives the departure times of Flight 007 both from New York and from Anchorage. The Chart for the first leg of the flight is safe enough, but that for the second leg contains dire portents of disaster. Here are the two Charts:

JUMBO JET, FLIGHT 007, departs from New York at 4h25m G.M.T. on 31/8/1983 (Though scheduled to leave at 11:50 pm New York Summer Time, on 30/8/1983, the Flight was delayed 35 minutes until 0:25 am on 31/8/1983, = 4h25m G.M.T., allowing for five hours time difference, less 1 hour Summer Time in New York).

JUMBO JET, FLIGHT 007, departs from ANCHORAGE, ALASKA, 14-hours G.M.T. on 31/8/1983.

A comparison of the two Charts is instructive as both hold much the same T-Square (Moon opposing Uranus/Jupiter, with the Sun at the focal point). It demonstrates the power of Angles and of Rulership. In Map 2 the Sun is RULER, and the T-Square is ANGULAR. This alone is sufficient warning of catastrophe, but in addition we have:

Mars square the I.C. (orb 14') (violent end)

Mars sesquare Neptune (exact to the minute). Neptune rules the Death Sector (8th), and the Mars/Neptune combination is associated with drowning.

Moon conjunct Aldebaran and opposed by Antares. Both these fixed stars are of a violent nature. Their positions in 1983 are 9 Gem 33 and 9 Sag 31, so that the orbs of conjunction and opposition to the Moon (representing the passengers) were respectively 36' and 34'.

The midpoint of MC/Mars is 26 Gem 36, where it opposes Neptune (orb 7'), signifying failure and destruction.

- Dymock

From ALEXANDER MARR (W.GERMANY): (Continued from Forum 25)

Prince Rainier

Other Directions in Prince Rainier's Birth Chart for the death of his wife on 14/9/1983, are:

Saturn direct at 1 Cap 30 (near the MC) semisq. Cusp 8 (orb 5' of arc) [The Topocentric Cusps - D.]

Cusp 5 conv. ssex. Mars (4')

Pluto conv. semisq. Mars (2')

Desc. dir. sesq. Venus (6'): This Direction, as well as Desc. conv. conj. Pluto speaks for a birth time that should be about 12 seconds later. However, there are a considerable number of Directions that point to

31/1/1923, Monaco, 1h12m26s U.T. (Rect.)
7 E 26, 43 N 44

the birth time given above. Directions speaking for a later time are:

Sun conv. trine MC (orb 4') for his marriage (See similar Direction in Grace's Chart for the same event - "Astrologers' Forum", No. 23, page 5.) For the birth of a daughter, 23/1/1957 Jupiter conv. sext. Cusp 5 (5'); Jupiter dir. conj. Moon (exact); and for the birth of the second daughter; 1/2/1956; Uranus dir. sext. Cusp 5 (5').

While this rectification method needs a good proportional feeling, experience in symbolism and some mathematical knowledge, astrologers who do not have the perseverance to do it this hard way have some other possibilities to achieve fairly good results (approximations) in rectification by means of the Precessed Lunar Chart, introduced by Cyril Fagan in the late 1940's. This enables us to authenticate the birth time within a margin which depends on the number of events analyzed. Such a control, which in most cases will remain only an approximation, allows serious research work mainly in the TRANSIT and PRENATAL Transit System. (Ref. 'Prediction, Using Common and Prenatal Cycles', Alexander Marr, A.F.A., 1982).

In cases where birth times had been accurately recorded (first breath, first cry), or rectified with the Page/Polich method demonstrated in Forums 23 and 25, a cycle developed and published in 1978 by the writer in most cases is giving results of astonishing accuracy.

THE ASCENDANT LUNAR is based on the Ecliptical position of the ASC, and the precise time at which it is transited by the Moon.

EXAMPLE Radix Grace. Event: Birth of son, March 14th, 1958.

Rectified ASC 4 Sco 41

+ 24'	Precession for 29 years
5 Sco 05
25 Lib 58	MOON, Noon, March 8, 1958
9 07	Difference
14 37	apparent motion in 24h

$\frac{9^{\circ} 7'}{14^{\circ} 37'} \times 24 \text{ (hours)} = 14^{\text{h}}58^{\text{m}}$ (2h58m UT, March 9)

14h 58m

+ 2m Accel.

23h 03m Sid. Time, Noon, March 8

14h 03m RAMC Greenwich

+30m Monaco fast

14h 33m RAMC Monaco, which gives, using

RAPHAEL's House Tables for 43N40:

MC = 11 Scorpio; Jupiter 1° Scorpio
MOON = 5 Scorpio; Node 4° Scorpio
ASC = 14 Capr. : Mars 24° Capricorn

This quite simple method should be applied for all available events using the place of residence as a base. Characteristic for events and psychological experiences are ONLY factors on or near the Angles. This makes interpretation of all sorts of Precessed Lunars quite easy. In cases where Lunars are too far back (prior to the event), in most cases the Demi-Lunar computed for the opposition of the radical Moon (here the radical DESC) is more characteristic for the event.

For Grace's tragic death, September 14th, 1982, we get: ASC-Lunar, August, 24, 1982, Moon 4Sco41 + 44' = 5Sco25; 4h34m U.T., MC 21Tau; Mars 12Sco; Uranus 1Sag (IC = midpoint MARS/URANUS). As the ASC-Lunar preceded the event by 21 days, other events or main psychological experiences may have happened before her fatal accident.

We try now the Demi-ASC-Lunar which is closer to the event by 14 days: Moon 5Tau25; Demi-ASC-Lunar September 7, 15h59m U.T. MC 26Sco; Mars 22Sco; Uranus 1Sag.

Here the characteristic planets for an accident, Mars and Uranus are much closer to an Angle (MC) as a midpoint. In fact, we have here, with two events analyzed, an acknowledgement of our rectification, as the ASC Lunar is in effect a magnifying glass.

In the average: 1' of arc (4s of time) difference in the ASC gives a 30' (2m) difference in the ASC-Lunar. 1 degree of arc difference in ASC gives 2h of difference in the ASC-Lunar, i.e. one full Zodiacal Sign. That means our average proportion is 1 to 30. The Angles of an ASC-Lunar are moving 30 times as fast as the difference in Longitude of the radical ASC.

All this means in practice, that stated birth-times which differ from the true one by only 2m do not give any characteristic results in ASC-Lunars. Experience shows that it is difficult but possible (if enough events are available) to rectify a chart within a few minutes of arc with only these ASC-Lunars.

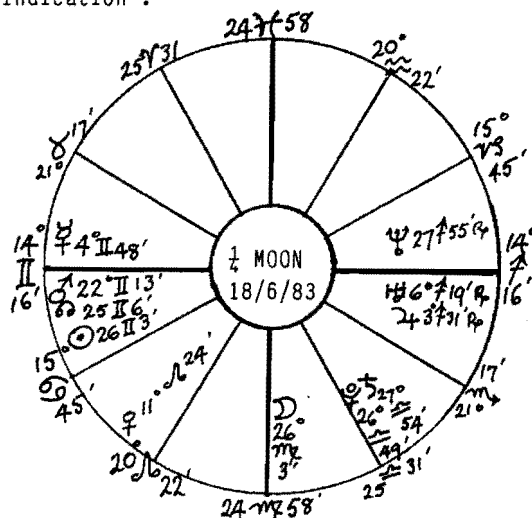

How to use these ASC-Lunars for getting the true Prenatal Epoch will be demonstrated in a forthcoming book, Prediction III; Synastry, Prenatal Epoch, Fixed Stars.

Prediction II, Directions and the Art of Rectification will be available in late 1983. (A.F.A., U.S.A.)

From ROD AND COLLEEN BRANDT (QLD.):

Brisbane's and S.E. Queensland's Heavy Rain and Floods
18th to 22nd June, 1983

The Lunation Eclipse Chart for 11/6/83 hinted at the deluge that was to come. The Sun/Moon conjunction at 19Gem approaching an opposition to Neptune at 28Sag was a sure indication.

a sure indication.

The Chart for the Moon's first Quarter on the 18th June, however, was the one that brought it all down. The most outstanding feature of this Chart and the cause of the whole thing was the T-Square involving Sun and Mars conjunct in Leo opposite Neptune square the Moon.

The Sun and Mars conjoined in Leo in the 3rd Decanate of Gemini were opposite Neptune in the last Decanate of Sagittarius (earthquakes) and square the Moon (watery influence) in the last Decanate of Virgo. Here we find storms and thunder (Sun and Mars), flood rains Neptune, with the Moon acting as the discharge rod flowing into the 4th House (land). The oppositions and squares lower the temperature and the rains came down. During the following five days and particularly on the Wednesday, we all thought that we were in for another flood similar to 1974.

By this time the Moon had moved on to the conjunction first of Pluto then to Saturn, indicating extreme changes and heavy rain. We also had thunder almost all of that day. Also during this time Mercury opposite Jupiter was counter-parallel at the same time. This also had a bearing on the weather, bringing in also rains and storms and exaggerated potential. Mercury then moved on to the opposition of Uranus indicating transportation, communications and electrical breakdowns. By Wednesday, roads were cut, power lines were down and communications went haywire during the period.

By Friday the rain had all gone for the time as the Moon had moved on from its position of influence but on Saturday, 25th June, as the Moon came to the conjunction of Neptune at 7:39 am, it sparked off that planetary configuration in the Chart and it rained again on and off for most of the day.

Princess Grace

From ED. CASELLI (N.S.W.): Concerning the debate between Dymock and Gwyn Turner in regard to Princess Grace, the aspects they adduce in regard to her death appear largely irrelevant. As I understand it, she died as a result of a brain haemorrhage. This is Mars, both for the haemorrhage and the brain or head. (Certainly for the haemorrhage). It is not good enough to find just any planet for an event. It must be the correct planet, and certainly in this case there can be little argument that Mars is the one concerned. Moon opposite Mercury is not a 'killer'. All it is likely to do is to produce gossip, some acrimonious correspondence or perhaps adverse press criticism. Mercury square Saturn, under normal circumstances, is likewise not a 'killer'. It might produce some hard mental work or study, but in order to be at all serious, Mercury would have to be the Ruler of the Chart and in hard aspect to Saturn in the Radix. Note that on the day of death Mars transited Princess Grace's radical Mars. The transit, of course, is not sufficient to explain the event but it does indicate the villain of the piece!

Ed. is under a misapprehension as to the astrological indications of cerebral haemorrhage, or apoplexy, the established cause of Princess Grace's death. It is precisely because Moon opposite Mercury, and Mercury square Saturn, are so appropriate to this condition that it puts the issue of the correct birth time beyond doubt, even without the long string of strikingly appropriate Primary Directions relating to other events of her life over a long period of years.

If Ed. refers to that monumental work of H.L. Cornell, M.D., 'Encyclopaedia of Medical Astrology', he will see the following (Page 66): 'Among the planets, Mercury is the strong Ruler of the brain in both sexes...The brain substance is ruled by the Moon and Mercury...The functions of the brain are ruled by Mercury and the Moon.'

On page 26 Dr. Cornell describes apoplexy (including cerebral apoplexy) as 'a Moon disease', and goes on to mention specifically Mercury square Moon as one of the causes of cerebral apoplexy.

Aside from this, there can be nothing more appropriate to the end of life than the Primary Direction of Saturn square the I.C. on the day of death.

- Dymock.

From JEANETTE SIMPSON (N.S.W.): I thoroughly enjoyed reading the "Astrologers' Forum", particularly the article on Princess Grace. It seems to me that her dignity and beauty speak more of Scorpio ASC with Venus rising, than a Libra ASC conjunct Venus. Her whole personality seems far stronger and controlled than this would suggest. Would not Scorpio ASC, Ruler Pluto 9th be necessary for control of such a strong Sun conjunct Mars in Scorpio influence? Scorpio ASC still puts Venus rising which would surely account for the dimples, beauty and love of finer and feminine things of embroidery, dancing, etc. As to the maths - maybe she never gave it a try although Ruler in Cancer would probably give more love of homely things rather than mental. Also, maybe Cancer on the 9th could contradict mathematical ability and perhaps Capricorn 3rd give a dislike of running around, which could include driving.

From THOMAS ZIMMER (QLD): On the subject of accuracy in getting the Primary Directions to pinpoint a particular event, I have this comment: My own experience indicates that Primary MC and ASC Directions, as well as important Secondaries, do in fact portray a two-year period and not a particular event. There may be events and those events may fall near the centre of the two-year period, but such events are not necessarily the important thing from the point of view of the native (or client).

When the native is in the middle of such an astrological two-year period, his need is for counselling to cope with the unfamiliar sensations he is experiencing from within. If he is able to make this adjustment there is less likelihood of an event occurring to dramatize that astrological period. If an event occurs which he would prefer to avoid, but was not able to avoid, then the hand of destiny is more powerful than his self-determinism at that point; in which case it is not really helpful to speculate about that event prior to its occurrence.

It would be more helpful to discuss and counsel about the two-year influence and the types of issues which could assume importance during that period. This encourages the native to work with the energies shown by his Directions, rather than to submit to the spectre of an event due on a particular date. In fact most charts I have done do not have clear definite events to match Progressions. The lives seem to be 'muddy' in the way developments occur, with several events or no events to match the appropriate Directions. Perhaps this is the case with ordinary people whereas famous people who are 'larger than life' experience life more objectively, more visibly.

All I am saying is that even if the ultimate system of calculating Directions is found, the art of using that information is still the greater challenge to the astrologer.

From MRS. P. HETHERINGTON, (N.S.W.): The recent correspondence, Dean vs. the Rest, was fascinating. I have a great admiration for Dr. Dean's work, but I am firmly on the side of those correspondents who believe that Astrology cannot be proven as Dr. Dean would like it to be. Science can only prove something which is (a) within our physical world; (b) obeys the laws of that world; and (c) at the relevant time is known to conform to (a) and (b). Phenomena and theories outside those categories belong to philosophical thought (and none the worse for that) until, perhaps, our stock of knowledge expands to embrace them.

Astrological interpretation has an historical side, changing and responding to the changing world. The aspect that indicates illness and disfigurement as a possibility could be seen in an 18th-Century chart as smallpox, as the trauma of a car accident in a 20th-Century chart.

But interpretation also has to deal with the level of evolvment of the individual. This, I think, is the really tricky one. I don't see how the requirements of proof for astrology can ever be reconciled with it.

Geoffrey invites my reply to his 5th Question. Here it is: What would make me change my mind (that Astrology is not a belief system) would be convincing evidence that what I had hitherto ascribed to astrological causes was in fact due to something else.

- Dymock.

A Prisoner's Release: Can you Predict the Date?

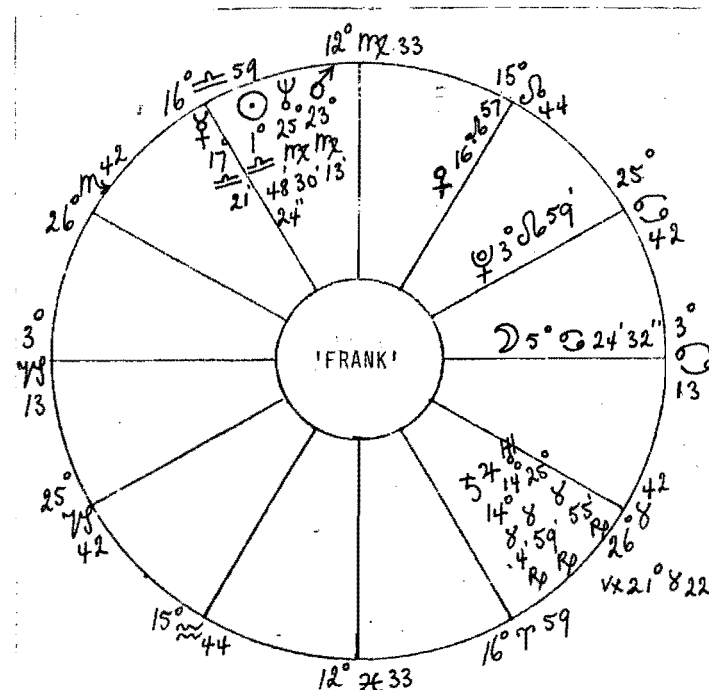

A real-life situation in which readers can involve themselves and test their astrological skills is the present confinement in an Australian gaol of a 43-year old man, whom we shall call Frank. Frank was arrested for armed robbery on the 3rd February, 1978, and about six months later was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment. Frank had been shot in the stomach while resisting arrest. Shortly after the initial trial, the Crown appealed and the sentence was increased to 14 years, with a 12-year minimum. With a possible one-third remission for good conduct, this means a minimum of eight years to serve, which term will be up in February, 1986. But due to Departmental differences in interpreting the length of the sentence, Frank may be released two years earlier in February, 1984.

The eligibility for release on any particular date does not imply certainty. When will Frank be released? We shall know the outcome, whatever it is, so try your hand at prediction. Predictions supported by their astrological basis will be considered for publication. No clairvoyance or psychism, please.

Frank was born in Melbourne on 25th September, 1940; given time, 11:01 am, E.S.T. For those who want to try Horary Astrology, the time and date I received the information may be useful: 30th August, 1983, 2:14 pm E.S.T., Blackheath, N.S.W.

Frank's fiancée (let us call her Mary) was also born in Melbourne, 24th August, 1950; given time: 11:50pm. Mary and Frank met on 1st August, 1981, at the Gaol, when she was visiting with a friend. One other point of interest: Frank is also a knowledgeable astrologer.

- Dymock.

CRISTINE JAMES (N.S.W.) (correct adopted spelling of 'Cristine') thanks Jenifer Pommerin for responding to her request for experiences relating to retrogradation, and adds, 'If anyone else has examples of the incidents which occurred when a planet went retrograde or stationary I would be pleased to hear. I also need House, Sign and aspects of the planet changing motion as shown in the natal chart. (Address: 106 Prince Edward Park Road, WORONORA, N.S.W., 2282).

JACKIE CAVALERO SLEVIN, 43 Chestnut Hill Place, Glen Ridge, N.J. 07028, U.S.A., who is the Research Chairman of the Northern New Jersey Chapter of the National Council for Geocosmic Research (NCGR), writes asking for information regarding the generational aspect of Neptune in Leo quincunx Uranus in Pisces between January, 1924 and March, 1927. This is their current research project. Some effects already noted have been severe disappointment; loss of spouse through sudden tragedy, heart-disease, and long-term marriage of either a very positive or very negative nature.

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock,

19th September, 1983.

Astrologers' Forum

A FREE MONTHLY PUBLICATION DEVOTED TO THE IMPROVEMENT OF ASTROLOGICAL PRACTICE THROUGH THE SHARING OF IDEAS, EXPERIENCES AND INFORMATION. EDITED AND PUBLISHED BY DYMCK BROSE, 86 CLARENCE ROAD, BLACKHEATH, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. TEL. [047] 87 8874. ISSUE No. 25, 19TH AUGUST, 1983.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

Another bumper issue this month due to the numerous contributions received, for which I thank all correspondents. A special reducing process of the original copy has to be employed in order to accommodate all the material.

From RUDOLF SMIT (VIC.):

Rules for Rectification

The remarks by Gwyn Turner and Ed Caselli in regard to what I have said on different occasions on the problem of birth-times and rectification, gave me a strong feeling of dismay. Not only were those remarks not in the spirit of friendship and co-operation and sharing of ideas, but also taken out of context. I ask these two contributors to read again, and this time accurately, what I have said on these matters (I have been very clear in my statements) and not just take out those portions which seem suitable to attack me on.

Here are the Four Rules concerning Birth-times and Rectification, which I formulated for my own use several years ago:

1. If a time of birth has been given on the whole hour, and there is no assurance - either in written form or by reliable oral communication - that this given time is close to the actual time, then there is a high probability that it is rounded-off or even guessed. In such a case attempts to rectify this time astrologically, up to half an hour or even more, are justified.
2. If a time is given on a quarter of an hour, or on a half-hour, then very probably it is still rounded-off, but close to the actual time (unless indicated otherwise - see under 1). In such cases rectification of up to 15 minutes may be justified.
3. If a time of birth is given with an accuracy of one minute, and this time has been recorded on an official or family-document, then very probably the time has been recorded very precisely (examples: 3:59, 10:41, 5:31, 21:55, 3:17, 9:36, etc., whether am or pm). In such cases rectification may still be justified, but certainly no more than up to three minutes! (Unless there is an indication that the first breath or cry came several minutes later).
4. Whatever the case, any rectification-result is by definition speculative, as so far no astrological method has been developed that is totally reliable.

I adhere strictly to these Rules.

Seen in the light shed by these Rules, Number 3 in particular, I consider very wrong, in fact condemnable, a rectification that really is wide off the mark, only in order to justify a certain system of progression. One does not advance Astrology in this way, but on the contrary makes it more a matter to laugh and scoff at. When a particular system needs a far-out rectification to make it 'work', then the only conclusion is that it failed on that particular occasion. Even in the science of physics there is no such thing as absolute 100% certainty, hence why should we astrologers expect 100% certainty in the science (or art) or Astrology, which has certainly not been so well researched as physics?

Every astrologer who approaches his/her art with a sense of critical assessment can testify that there are no fixed rules as to astrological configurations. The so-called rule, for example, that every major event in a native's life MUST be accompanied by an aspect from or to the Angles, appears not to be a rule at all. A few computerised tests on a set of exactly-timed horoscopes - even with a built-in control on a margin (in time) to either side of the birth-moment, will reveal that this 'rule' is only partly true. In other words, in only some cases will there be a significant aspect to or from the Angles, that is, one fitting the event.

The word 'research' is often misused. When research simply means finding reasons to confirm what one wants to confirm, then the meaning and implications of the word 'research' are misunderstood. True research often means that long-cherished beliefs prove to have no ground at all. Too many astrologers simply believe, but do not thoroughly test.

The Pre-Natal Epoch

The Pre-natal Epoch, or Trutina Hermetis (the Rule of Hermes), for example, is such an item of Believing. In its basic form this Rule says that the place of the Moon at conception is the ASC at birth. The total fallacy of this Rule is illustrated by a very simple test: Take three births on the same day, just twenty minutes apart. (Nobody can say that such does not happen: The birth-records of any large city will prove him/her wrong.) Calculate the ASC's of those three births. In one hour an ASC can move on average 15 degrees. How does this fit in with the fact that the Moon moves only about HALF a degree in one hour?

The counter-argument that the astrological moment of birth is not the physical moment of birth, and that it is the astrological moment of birth which is 'dictated' by the Moon, is a very nice theory but can never be proven - hence we have to stick to the moment of physical birth.

The other counter-argument that the astrological moment of birth can be proven by correct predictions is not a valid argument either. It is known that correct predictions have been made on totally wrong charts. Just recently I read the 'confession' by the German astrologer Peter Niehenke how he had read correctly, that is to the satisfaction of the client - a chart which was twenty years out. In such cases it is either clairvoyance of the astrologer, or the gullibility of the client (to many people you can tell anything and they believe it, or they give it such a twist of thought that they make the statement fit the event).

I close this letter with a call on all contributors to "Astrologers' Forum" to write according to the true meaning of Research, and more so to the true meaning of discussion, which simply means giving of opinions, of findings, but also accepting the findings of others. The acceptance, for example, that one can be wrong after all. It testifies to someone's intellectual integrity and courage to relinquish ideas that one has held for many years but which cannot be supported by facts after all. There are too many astrologers who have the attitude of 'I have made up my mind, don't confuse me with facts'. What I would like to see in these columns, is more true discussion, not one-way-traffic.

Geoffrey Dean's invitation to astrologers to answer some straightforward questions about their craft has aroused a good deal of feeling in some quarters. But Geoffrey is not challenging Astrology so much as enquiring into the reasons for our belief in it. It is not a bad thing to look closely into the basis of our beliefs. If that basis is sufficiently well-founded it will withstand any assault.

This is a forum, for the enlightenment and education of astrologers by giving access to various, and sometimes opposing, ideas and viewpoints; as well as giving readers the benefit of vicarious experience and technical know-how. So, before we get our hackles up; and into fighting stance like an old-man kangaroo, let us take a dispassionate look at what is contributed, from any quarter, and see what we can learn from it. Science has something to teach Astrology, just as Astrology has much to offer Science.

Below are the latest offerings on the current controversy.
- Dymock.

Truth and Falsity in Astrology

From ED. CASELLI (N.S.W.): Astrology is not just a belief system because in my experience transits, progressions and, in particular, the ASC's do work. Regardless of mathematical theory, the ASC does exhibit the appropriate changes in appearance and temperament as the Zodiacal Sign changes. It makes no difference whether we have 30 degrees in a Sign or 100. The Sign divisions prove themselves and therefore, in fact, support the mathematical system employed.

Re Dean's questions: How do we know that Astrology works? This question insults our experience and expertise. We know Astrology works by personal experience. By this question Dean is doing his best to convince us that he is not an Astrologer. I wish he had the good grace to concede that astrologers just might have the experience and expertise that he, apparently, lacks. I have already referred above to the kind of experience that has proved Astrology for me.

Re Dean's Question No. 2. I have answered this in my reply to the first question.

Re Question No. 3. The only 'hard evidence' the sceptic is likely to accept is his own. He has to be an astrologer to understand the astrological argument. It would be pointless, for instance, to refer to a Saturnian aspect if the recipient of the information has not experienced Saturn. He would remain unconvinced. If, however, he has had the experience, that will convince him. He requires no other evidence.

Re Question No. 4. 'Wrong' charts (in terms of birth-time) have the same planetary aspects as 'right' charts, and therefore there would be plenty of similarity in the delineations. This would surely cover most cases, as there is normally no argument as to the birthdate.

Re Question No. 5. I have stated why Astrology is not just a belief system, in short, because of my experience. No further 'evidence' is going to change my mind.

Concerning statistical evidence, in general, this evidence has usually been confined to Sun-Signs in regard to occupation. The emphasis on occupation is understandable because this is non-debatable. This emphasis on Sun-Signs, however, is inappropriate for two reasons. Firstly, the Sun-Sign is more concerned with character or temperament than it is with occupation and, secondly, the Sun-Sign influence is normally overridden by other factors. Occupation is more linked to Angular planets, especially in, or ruling, the 10th House. This is why Gauquelin's studies are more relevant. For instance, he demonstrated that Mars close to the Angle applied to sporting champions, while Saturn close to the Angle was consistent with scientists. Does not Dean accept this?

From CHRIS TURNER (N.S.W.): Geoff, I feel that much of the debate you have been provoking for the last four or five years has been going around in circles because people have been trying to answer you objectively, when you have wanted subjective answers. In fact, the answers to your questions can ONLY be given subjectively, until such time as you and other researchers can give us something that is 'scientifically' factual.

I am tempted to give great long justifications for my answers, but I won't, as I don't have to 'convert' anybody. If I weren't convinced in my own mind (not my heart - my mind) that Astrology worked, I wouldn't do it, and neither would you.

1. How do I know Astrology works? From feedback from my clients regarding both the manifestation of character as described by the natal chart, and circumstances as described by the Progressed chart.

2. How do I know that astrological effects are real and beyond ordinary explanation? I don't. I don't really think it matters, so have never debated the question with myself to the point where I arrived at an answer. Probably the effects do have an ordinary explanation - it has not yet been found. I don't think any serious astrologer thinks that Astrology is causal, rather that it is reflective.

3. Why should you accept my views rather than any other? You very definitely shouldn't! No individual should ever accept any one other person's view as gospel. If my views are acceptable to you, then explore them with others, through discussion and reading. Perhaps rigid minds are the basic problem with this whole debate.

4. If wrong charts are as readily acceptable as right ones, what would this mean to Astrology? It would mean astrologers are fallible human beings, as are doctors, lawyers and scientists. All 'guru' professions have made mistakes, and it has not caused their demise, rather it has made ordinary people see the practitioners as ordinary people, which is all they, and we, are, albeit with a particular expertise. In my experience, when I have made a mistake in the chart, it has been found through the expression of doubt on the part of my client, whereupon I am prepared to recheck that the chart is correct and admit that I have made an error if that is the case. I have not found that a wrong chart delineated in an interview situation is 'readily' accepted by a client.

5. What sort of evidence would make me change my mind that Astrology is or is not a belief system? There is no succinct answer to this question. Firstly I don't think my answers have made up my mind for me about whether or not I think astrology is a belief system, therefore I can't be specific about evidence. I like to think I have an open mind, and am willing to think about and explore any evidence that is presented, either for or against. However, I would have to be presented with pretty strong evidence that Astrology doesn't work at all (regardless of how or why) before I stopped using it.

From GUENTHER ANDRE (VIC.): I have followed the exchange of letters between R. Holden, G. Dean and others with great interest, but also with some disappointment. When 'Recent Advances' was published, there were long discussions about it for nearly two years in the Astrological Journal, London. No agreement or even mutual understanding was ever reached. And now it continues in the 'Forum'.

What is disappointing is G. Dean's insistence to get an answer at all cost, though this answer has been given many times, but is rejected by him. R. Holden has set out his views repeatedly. A. Levy discussed the problem at length in Forum No. 17: He says: 'I do not think we shall see any successful resolution or arguments about Astrology in either purely symbolic or scientific terms.' A. Johnson points out that in Astrology we combine the rational with the irrational. But G. Dean takes no notice.

G. Dean is obsessed with the idea to put Astrology on a scientific level, because he believes in Science. Whereas I claim that Science with its materialistic outlook, with the denial of 'purpose in life' has no basis at all to test the depth of Astrology. For me there exists a universal Mind - contained even in the atom - and Man is the Child of the Universe and his breath and heartbeat is in harmony with the cosmic Rhythm, which goes through the whole creation. How the planets affect us, we do not know yet, but many years of research have shown that the planets move in absolute harmony with the cosmic forces in our Solar System and their relationship at every moment of time indicates 'the patterns in time - those rhythmic processes, which characterise all natural processes of growth and unfoldment'. To interpret this pattern is the basis of Astrology.

I personally find G. Dean's questions absurd. Ronald Harvey (Astr. Journal, Summer, 1979) wrote in a letter: 'His (G. Dean's) naive confidence in the measurement of the unmeasurable (the psychology of the unconscious - Freud, Jung, etc., e.g.) as if it was mere Skinnerish behaviour that was in question, seems to me to be verging on the irresponsible. The splendid proofs and certainties that G.D. appears to worship are just not there and much less so in the realm of Astrology. They are a relic of 19th Century Science'.

G. Dean asks: 'How do you know that Astrology works? This question is a challenge to every astrologer. Astrology is an ancient and modernised knowledge, far superior to any psychology. The horoscopic chart is a mirror of the birth pattern. Every person who practises Astrology must know (not only believe) that Astrology works (even if not 100%), otherwise it would be senseless to practise it. There are hundreds of excellent astrological books which bring thousands of well-proven charts where it has been established that they correspond with the life facts of the persons concerned. Are these not hard facts? What can Psychology show in comparison - some statistics? If he does not accept or appreciate the excellent examples in astrological literature or in astrological journals all over the world, what does he ask us for?

Every astrologer knows by his extensive experience and studies that Astrology works. The Zodiacal Signs are in absolute harmony with the course of the Year in Nature, starting in springtime (Northern Hemisphere) with Aries representing germinating time, unfolding energy, the will, the urge to act. Then follows Taurus... See R. Ebertin, Combination of Stellar Influences: the yearly rhythm as basis for interpretation. The Signs are an expression of nature. We, as Astrologers, know that our science and art is not perfect yet. But the knowledge of Astrology is carried and supported by private people and not supported by governmental funds in scientific research establishments (with the exception of Prof. Gauquelin's work). If we had public funds at our disposal the research in Astrology would expand rapidly.

But let us look at Psychology: R. Oppenheimer observed in 1956: 'The worst of all possible misunderstandings would occur if psychology should be influenced to model itself after a physics which is not there any more, which has been quite outdated.'

Nonetheless, this has happened. I find it amazing that 'materialistic science' has not caught on yet with 'modern physics'.

Sir James Jeans said, 1937: 'The Universe begins to look more like a great thought than like a great machine'. Eddington summed it up in his epigram: 'The stuff of the world is mind-stuff'. I would like to go into more detail, but space does not permit.

Our materialistic psychology is far behind 'modern Science', which does no longer deny the power of the mind-force in our universe. But there is more to come: In No. 2 of 'Meridian', the largest German astrological Journal (March, 1983), there is a report about a German TV program of 2/3/1983, to which Prof. Eysenck, University of London made the following contribution: (I translate his words from German into English) -

a) Practising astrologers and people who believe in astrology are unstable (labile) and neurotic persons. He would like to remove Astrology as well as astrologers.

b) 99% of the present Astrology is 'humbug'. 1%, however, is extremely exact, but it has been developed by Prof. Gauquelin.

c) If the 1% could be taken as starting point for further results, science would open up a new enormous field of research.

Does this need a further comment? Shall we take this as a joke? Or a breach of trust?, because Eysenck was involved in an investigation of astrology in cooperation with the Astrological Association of London, Mayo and others.

A. Koestler quotes Prof. Eysenck in 'the roots of coincidence' as follows: 'Scientists, especially when they leave the particular field in which they have specialised are just as ordinary, pigheaded and unreasonable as anybody else and their unusually high intelligence only makes their prejudices all the more dangerous.'

Did he refer to himself?

I do not deny G. Dean the right to his ideas and opinions, but I claim the same right for myself. And I refuse his right to call the opinion of others 'non-sense'.

Modern Science, as evolved by atom-physicists will be much closer to Astrology and I am sure, Astrology will have an important part to play in the future of mankind.

From CLAIR BUNNETT (VIC.): In regard to Geoffrey Dean's questions, I give my own answers. I dislike long winded answers, so mine are brief.

1. How do you know that Astrology works? Transits to natal charts appear to correlate with life events of people.

2. How do you know that astrological effects are real and beyond ordinary explanation? I don't.

3. In the absence of hard evidence, why should we accept your views rather than any other views? I neither wish nor expect this.

4. If wrong charts are found to be as readily accepted by clients as right charts (RA gives examples of this) what would this mean for Astrology? It would mean that everyone is a complete person, as taught in Jungian psychological analysis.

5. Having (in your previous answers) given your ideas about whether Astrology is or is not a belief system, what sort of evidence would make you change your mind? Scientific evidence, such as given in Michel Gauquelin's book, 'The Spheres of Destiny'. Or the work of John Henry Nelson on the link between the planets and 'radio weather'.

From ALLAN JOHNSON (N.S.W.): I think the Geoffrey Dean debate should be closed but I would still like to make one final comment on it. That is on the question of debating in itself. Anyone who has done competition debating knows that it is very much a matter of tactics

It is not a matter of truth or falsehood. A good debater can win a case even when he knows perfectly well there is no truth in it. The big thing is to side-step sticky questions but always keep your opponent on the defensive. There are all sorts of things in life which we take for granted but which we would find very difficult to prove if put to the test. If you went up to a person and said: 'You prove you exist', you could soon have him floundering. But there is an answer to this, and a very effective one. The ambiguous subject which is difficult to prove is equally as difficult to disprove. So the answer to 'You prove you exist' is 'You prove I don't exist.'

What it amounts to is putting the boot on the other foot. And this is what astrologers should do in this debate. Astrology has its ambiguities because of its complexities, plus the fact that it is an art as well as a science. If it were purely and simply a matter of mechanics it would be a different matter. So astrologers everywhere should get off the defensive and simply put the question back to Dean himself; 'You prove that Astrology is not valid. You produce the hard evidence. The result might be interesting.

Astrology has existed for a very long time indeed and has survived all sorts of vicissitudes. So to be actually debating the validity of Astrology itself at this late hour is very much like a group of priests getting together to seriously debate the existence of God. All we could say is that they would seem to be in their wrong vocations. I think every person who goes into Astrology with the idea of doing it professionally needs to be very much of a sceptic at first. In talking to other professionals I have found this to be very much the case. He or she has to be a pragmatist. In other words he has first of all to find out if it works. And he won't do this by looking at statistics or expecting someone else to provide 'hard evidence', but by getting involved in actual cases. And seeing how charts do line up very closely with people's lives. This is Astrology in action.

I did mention previously that astrologers don't have the time for much research. But this is not strictly true. I was only speaking about formal research. In actual fact every practitioner is doing research with almost every chart he does. He has to work from a trial-and-error basis and find out what works and what doesn't, where he is on thin ice and where on thick. A professional who has been in practice many years deals not with hundreds, but many thousands of charts, and in this process will get an enormous amount of feedback, especially if he interviews a good percentage of clients. But he will also know quite a few people who won't be convinced of the truth of Astrology, regardless of what evidence is presented to them. Most scientists come into this category. So if Astrology is a fact of life, the doubter is also a fact of life, and we have to accept that.

If scepticism and doubt are essential at the beginning of an Astrologer's career, there must come a point when doubt has to be cast aside and he has to definitely make up his mind. Perpetual doubt can be counter-productive as it inhibits your capacity to be effective in whatever field you are in. I think this is a particularly personal problem for Geoffrey Dean which he is trying to unload on to other people. But he has to make up his own mind. Nobody else can do it for him. I first met him at the Nottingham Conference in 1976 and people were saying to him then: 'Whose side are you on?' Seven years later he still doesn't know which side he is on. I have a strong suspicion that in seven years' time he still won't know which side he is on.

From ROBIN ARMSTRONG (CANADA): Thank you for sending me the latest copy of Astrologers' Forum, I am impressed by the concept and the quality. I sincerely applaud your dedication and the effort required to make it all happen. I am only sorry that you do not have copies of back issues. As you know I run an astrologers' library (IAO Research Centre) and we are trying to collect a complete collection of astrology periodicals. I feel that a complete selection of Astrologers' Forum would be a valuable addition to the library and should be remembered for its contribution in improving the state of Astrology in the world. I would be willing to reimburse anyone for the cost of copying and mailing the first 22 issues of Astrologers' Forum. I hope that someone has a complete set.

From OLIVIA BARCLAY (ENGLAND):

To Dr. Dean: A Simple Calculation

I would like to stand up and be counted amongst those who produce convincing proof of the predictive techniques of Astrology.

My prediction of the place where the satellite would fall last January was greater than chance. (See May issue of "The Australian Astrologers' Journal"). I predicted, and told witnesses beforehand, that the satellite would fall in the Indian Ocean. The Indian Ocean I now understand covers one eighth of the surface of the Globe. But if I had had the ability to understand more I would have been able to say it would fall in the Southern Hemisphere and the Indian Ocean. William Lilly remarks on page 394 of Christian Astrology, published 1647, that in the case of fugitives 'goe by the Moon'. This is where I made a mistake, I looked at all the other planets. Nevertheless the evidence is in the Chart.

More than this, I now learn that it fell ON THE TROPIC OF CAPRICORN, a further clue given by the Chart, which if I had had the cleverness to find, I might have been right at enormous odds against chance. How many? The actual position was 25S and 84E.

I am aware that all modern astrologers may not entirely understand the techniques of ancient Horary Astrology, but please bear with me. The satellite, about which this question is asked, is represented by the Ruler of the ASC, Mercury. It is in Capricorn. The place where the Significator is, is described by the Sign it is in. (That is a Horary rule). The Sign is Capricorn, Ruler of India. That it rules India was written down by Ptolemy and was known before then and ever since. I have explained in my interpretation that the distribution of the planets shows it would fall in ocean. It is obvious, like a simple crossword clue.

It also clearly demonstrates that Tropical Signs are true. Did the satellite fall in Spain (ruled by Sagittarius, which would be the Sidereal Zodiac Sign)? Is the prize of $2,000 still available?

What is truth, someone asks. I ask 'Where will it fall?' It reads 'In the Indian Ocean.' It did. That is truth.

How do you know Astrology works, Dr Dean asks. 'By understanding and applying its rules.' Few trouble to learn them. How do you know its effects are real? I ask where a satellite will fall. It tells me. That is hard evidence. If wrong charts are accepted I agree with Dymock, it hardly affects Astrology, in which lies the truth, but maybe the astrologers are giving woolly answers.

Our techniques are being lost in a confusion of ego-trips both of the clients and the astrologers.

Not many charts are as simple to read as the Horary Chart for the fate of the satellite. It is a good example. Let us all learn from it the importance of the Moon in a 'run-away' chart.

It was by carelessly overlooking the speed of the Moon that I was a day wrong in my timing. It fell on 24th January, 1983, as can be verified from the newspapers, and I had said after five days from the date of the Chart (20 Jan., '83). The importance of the Chart is that it can be verified, unlike the many domestic questions dealt with. That I had witnesses before the event can also be verified. I spoke to the Astrological Lodge of London about the Chart on the evening of 24th January, but had already told well-known astrologers. On 20th January, 1983, nobody had the slightest idea where or when it would come down.

I have shown you how I could make a prediction before the event, and I have shown you where I was not exact enough, but I am not trying to demonstrate what I am capable of, but WHAT IS IN AN ASTROLOGICAL CHART, and how it PREDICTS.

From ALEXANDER MARR, (WEST GERMANY): The authentication of Princess Grace's Birth Chart produced by Dymock Brose in 'Astrologers Forum', No. 23, is correct. It differs from my rectification by only two seconds of time, a margin that has to be admitted because of:

- The small number of available events.
- An insufficient number of Angular and House-cusp Directions.
- (Possibly) inaccurate geographical coordinates for the birth place.

In addition to the events discussed, here is another, the birth of a son, the successor to the Monegasian throne, on March 14, 1958. System and Directions are identical with those of D. Brose.

14/3/1958: JUPITER converse at 19Tau32 sextile PLUTO rad at 19Cancer32 (exact).

(Jupiter/Pluto combinations are characteristic for all sorts of successions and successors.)

This Direction is very strongly supported by the fact that at the same time JUPITER also forms a Direction to the Natal Sun, JUPITER converse opp. SUN rad. at 19Sco34 (orb 2' of arc).

Here, one of the strongest and most beneficial points in Grace's Chart has been touched - the almost exact trine of the Sun to Pluto, both in trine to the radical Moon, the latter giving the radical triangular aspectation an individual note.

The Rectified Chart of Rainier III of Monaco, Grace's Husband.

Here again the official birth time is close to the rectified one. May 31, 1923, 1h 15m U.T., rectified to 1h 12m 26s U.T. (Monaco). The rectification made in the sixties with the same method has recently found a satisfactory acknowledgement at his wife's death, September 14, 1982.

DESC conv. conjunct PLUTO rad orb 10' of arc. Although in general orbs over 5' of arc should not be accepted, experience shows that conjunctions are asking for larger orbs. These large orbs (only for conjunctions) are appearing very frequently with Pluto, probably due to its great distance from the Ecliptic. On the other hand the Sun and Moon are showing these bigger orbs too, probably because of their large diameter in the sky. A third reason for orbs up to 12' for conjunctions could be their great efficacy, with perhaps 'more radiation'. While these Directions are always valid for interpretation, they should not be taken for the result of the rectification (arithmetical average of all RMC's) as they may spoil the true result considerably.

(Marr's article will be continued in the next 'Forum'. - D.)

Anyone who has the use of a computer or calculator and wants to try the Primary Directions as detailed in my article on Princess Grace, can obtain a free Instruction Sheet from me on request. This unique system is well worth mastering and will repay the trouble with interest.

Further 'Forum' contributions, whose publication has had to be deferred, are acknowledged from Rod and Colleen Brandt of Qld. (re death of Lindy Chamberlain's daughter, Azaria); Leslie Black (England), re Princess Grace; Thomas Zimmer (Qld.) re Directions and Progressions; Jeanette Simpson (N.S.W.) re Princess Grace; Ed. Caselli (N.S.W.) re Princess Grace's death; Alexander Marr re Precessed Lunar Charts. These should all appear in the September 'Forum'.

Distribution of "Astrologers' Forum" is now sixty, in Australia and overseas. I very much regret that the economics of the operation prevent my posting it to all applicants.

JENIFER POMMERIN (W.A.) writes, 'Should someone check on what Marguerite and Dymock Brose are doing in their fun-filled and highly educative hours??' ANSWER: Astrology, art, music, poetry and more Astrology. (And, maybe one or two other things...)

My kind regards to all.

1983. 10. 14. 1983.

Astrologers' Forum

A FREE MONTHLY PUBLICATION DEVOTED TO THE IMPROVEMENT OF ASTROLOGICAL PRACTICE THROUGH THE SHARING OF IDEAS, EXPERIENCES AND INFORMATION. EDITED AND PUBLISHED BY DYMOCK BROSE, 86 CLARENCE ROAD, BLACKHEATH, N.S.W. AUSTRALIA, 2785. Issue No. 24, 19th July, 1983. TEL. [C47] 87 8874.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

GWYN TURNER has sent a lengthy defence of her proposed Birth Chart for Princess Grace of Monaco (discussed in the June 'Astrologers' Forum'). Her letter is reproduced below in full, interspersed with my replies, which makes it easier for readers to follow the arguments. - Dymock.

From GWYN TURNER (N.S.W.): Dymock's Forum certainly gives Astrologers the opportunity for airing their various views, which is good, but in the case of Princess Grace's rectification I am afraid we are at cross purposes. As the M.C. and ASC degree fixes the birth time, these are the only points that can be used in a progression to determine birth time. In the five events in my Chart over a 27-year span I have kept to this formula and the simplicity of the exercise is in being able to adjust the birth time by adding or subtracting approximately one minute of Sidereal Time for every three months these MC and ASC aspects are out. When the time has once been established future Primaries will automatically fall into their time slots. They only have to be interpreted correctly, which of course comes about through experience.

I did mention in my article that my maths were only approximate and would need some adjustment, preferably by a computer, but not having time to wait for results from 'Astrosearch' I sent the article as it was, and as you no doubt have read Dymock's strong criticism of my being out about three months late. This means about one minute is needed to be added to the Sidereal Time. Just under four minutes represents a whole year.

With William Holden's death Chart, shown in the Winter, 1982, Australian Astrologers' Journal, I sent it twice to 'Astrosearch' before I was satisfied.

One of the main proofs is in getting important MC and ASC events in sequence also that these events make sense by the nature of the Sign and planet involved.

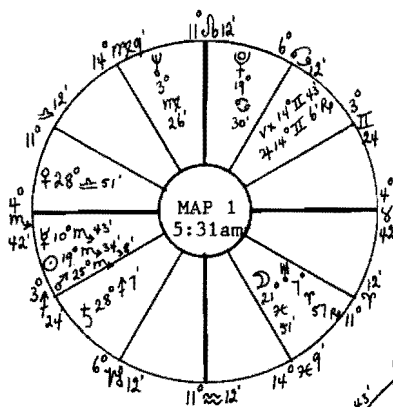

Gwyn starts with a misconception as to the nature of Primary Directions. These are aspects formed among the Significators by the rotation of the Earth on its axis, once every 24 hours, and are distinct from those due to the motion of the planets in their orbits. Orbital motion results in Secondary Progressions and transits. Any standard textbook that treats of Primary Directions will confirm this. The term 'Significators' includes not only the MC and ASC but the Sun, Moon, planets and various Ecliptic points. To confine Primary Directions to the Angles is to take an unduly simplistic view of life and severely limit the scope of the system.

The birth time fixes the Angles, and these, when altered in the process of 'rectifying' a chart, imply a different birth time. But the same goes for altering the Pole of a planet or other Significator in the process of 'rectification', as this, too, alters the MC and hence the presumed time of birth. Exclusive reliance on the MC and ASC in 'rectifying' a chart can lead one into boundless error, as I venture to say it has Gwyn in the present instance. Some of the aspects Gwyn relies on are out a great deal more than three months, which I shall again demonstrate.

I do not comment on the correctness or otherwise of Gwyn's rectification of William Holden's Birth Chart, as I have not myself investigated it.

My first Primary aspects of Leo MC trine Saturn and sextile Libra ASC are very appropriate for winning an Oscar. Note that Leo is a theatrical Sign and MC prestige. To win this prize is not all glitter, much work and concentration is behind this achievement (my Saturn in 3rd House, for mind). For the joy, I show the MC aspecting the birth Libra influence. Dymock's aspects for this event are not Primaries as they don't aspect MC or ASC; even as Secondaries they do not aspect birth planets, therefore are not workable for a forecast.

The 'work and concentration' was over long before the Oscar was awarded to Grace, so MC trine sombre Saturn is anything but appropriate for the joy and flush of achievement in an artistic field, and the Direction MC sextile ASC is a colourless aspect no matter what the Zodiacal

PRINCESS GRACE
OF MONACO

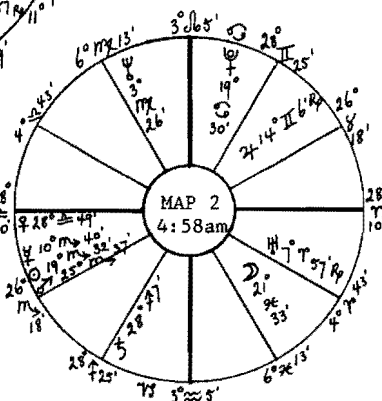

Born 12/11/1929
Philadelphia, USA

at 5:31 am

(Topocentric Cusps)

The speculative Chart proposed by Gwyn Turner for 4:58 am.

(Placidian Cusps)

Signs involved. Contrast this with the Primaries Moon trine Venus and Sun conjunct Venus from the authentic Birth Chart, which are anything but colourless. Gwyn's quaint idea of what constitutes a Primary Direction prevents her from recognizing the obvious truth. A little explanation of one of these aspects, say, Moon trine Venus, may forestall similar misconceptions in the future: By the apparent movement of the Heavens (in reality, the rotation of the Earth on its axis) the Moon is carried from its 5th-House position in Pisces (theatrical activity) along its nocturnal arc to the point 28Aquarius51, where it forms the trine to Venus. The Oblique Descension of the Moon under its own Pole (19°28'12") is 351°39'; the Oblique Descension of the Ecliptic Point 28Aquarius51 under the Moon's Pole is 326°44'; the difference between these two O.D.'s constitutes the Primary Arc of Direction, and is converted into time at the rate of 3m56.56s (or 0°59'8.33" of arc) for a year. This is as 'Primary' as anything can be in the astrological field.

In my second Primary aspect for engagement and marriage I show Leo MC prestige sextile Ruling planet Venus on ASC (love). The engagement was in January, and marriage in April, 3 months apart. The one aspect could cover both these events, which are really tied together, or we can allow this period for adjustment of Sidereal time as already mentioned. In the April the Progressed Moon was trine Mercury (contracts), Venus was transiting Jupiter and the transiting Sun was at the cusp of the 7th House.

Dymock uses a different method to his previous one to account for the engagement and marriage, but how he could get the Progressed ASC to travel to Aquarius to trine Jupiter, and the Progressed Sun to trine the MC, which was already trined at birth, also Venus to conjoin the Sun, which by the Ephemeris happened eight years previously is a mystery, particularly as Dymock agrees with my 'day for a year' for progressions (Remember students are using the ordinary Ephemeris for their maths.) and Sidereal time.

Prince Rainier proposed marriage to Grace on 31st December, 1955, and the civil marriage took place on 18th April, 1956, ('Princess Grace'—biography by Gwen Robyns). The Primary Direction quoted by Gwyn, MC sextile Venus, by her own time measure (with which I fully agree) occurred on 25th October, 1955. Yet Gwyn wants it to cover both events, making it over two months too early for the engagement, and nearly six months too early for the marriage. The MC could be altered to make the aspect agree with either one of these events, but then we have two more speculative 'birth' charts to deal with, both with as little claim to acceptance as the one proposed by Gwyn.

The great advantage of Primary Directions (properly used) is to substitute precision for vagueness, and accurate dating of events, instead of quoting 'orbs' of up to six months or even a year.

As against Gwyn's mild 'MC sextile Venus' (more than two months early for the engagement and nearly six months too early for the marriage), the authentic Birth Chart yields a Primary Direction ASC trine Jupiter on 27/3/1956, Sun trine MC on 19/5/1956, and Venus conjunct Sun on 6/7/1956. I do not need to enlarge on how much more fitting is this trio of aspects both as to character and dating for what was the most important event and happiest period of Princess Grace's life. These aspects are derived in exactly the same way - by Primary motion of the Earth - as all the other Primary Directions I have quoted. Thus, the ASC moves to 14 Libra 6, where it trines Jupiter. The difference between the ASC's Oblique Ascension at 14 Libra 6 (197°39') and its radical O.A. at 4 Scorpio 42 (223°39') is 26°, which again constitutes the Arc of Direction, to be divided by the time measure and added to the birth date, as before.

Similarly, when the Sun by Primary motion of the Earth reaches 11 Sagit 12, it trines the MC at 11 Leo 12. The Sun's Pole in the Birth Chart is 34°31', and the O.A. of 11 Sagit 12 under this Pole is 265°53'. From this we subtract the Sun's radical OA (239°44') under its Pole, and again obtain the Arc of Direction, 26°8', which, divided by the time measure and added to the birth date, yields 19/5/1956.

Finally, the O.A. of Venus at 28 Lib 51 in the Birth Chart is 214°43', with Pole 37°2'. By apparent notation of the Heavens it is carried to the place of the Sun (19 Scor 34) which, under the same Pole, has O.A. 240°59'. The difference between the two, the Arc of Direction, is 26°16'; yielding the date 6/7/1956 by the same process as above.

Gwyn's incomprehension arises from her confusion of Primary motion (by axial rotation of the Earth) with Secondary Progression (travel of the planets in their orbits). This confusion leads her to quote the Progressed position of Venus from the Ephemeris, which is its movement in orbit and which has no relation to its Primary movement.

The Secondary Progressions and transits are common to both Charts, so do not call for comment.

My third event, the birth of the first daughter shown by Scorpio ASC conjunct the Sun and trine Pluto, being a Primary and ruling the body and reproduction far outweighs Dymock's transits to House cusps. One only has to change the House system and these would disappear. As Ralph Holden comments in the May, 1982, 'Forum', 'why I feel hesitation is using the Topocentric House system'. He uses the Equal House system.

As a birth is a painful traumatic physical event I had to find Mars somewhere and there it was opposing the Birth ASC within orb, as well as the Sun transiting opposite the Leo MC.

Endless error arises from Gwyn's misunderstanding of the true nature of Primary Directions: The aspect Uranus conjunct the 5th Cusp in the original Birth Chart is NOT a transit (transiting Uranus was in Leo - nowhere near the 5th Cusp) but a true Primary Direction, calculated in the same manner exactly as all the others, and having far more power than a non-stationary, non-retrograde transit. With the Pole of Uranus (27°12'), its Oblique Descension is 8°52', and that of the 5th Cusp (14 Pis 9) is 342°11'. Adding the circle (360°) to 8°52' to allow subtraction of 342°11', we find the Arc of Direction, 26°41', and, proceeding as before, we find its date, 9/12/1956, 45 days from the birth of the daughter. This is already much closer to the event than either of the two aspects from the substitute Chart, and, as I pointed out before, the conjunction of Uranus with the 5th Cusp would be exact to the date of the birth with an alteration of 25 seconds only (not 33 minutes). It is well to remember that I have not tampered in any way with the recorded Birth time.

In this particular nativity of Princess Grace, it happens that the Topocentric and Placidian systems both yield an identical 5th Cusp (they are nearly always close to one another). So far as Equal House, Koch, Campanus, Regiomontanus, Porphyry, Alcabitius and other House Systems are concerned in Primary Directions, the matter was cleared up as long ago as 1930, when the scientist-astrologer Vivian Robson wrote that the question of different House divisions was disposed of in that the Placidian Cusps were the only ones that responded to Directions and transits. My own experiments confirm this, the Topocentric Cusps (dating from about 1960) being slightly more accurate in my experience than the Placidian.

Gwyn omits mention of the Primary Direction from the original Chart of Neptune trine Uranus, which is highly symbolic of the birth of a daughter, as Neptune rules the House of Children, and Uranus the House of the Home.

It is straining credulity to assert that ASC conjunct the Sun refers to the birth of a daughter, when the Sun (masculine) is natively joined to Mars (also masculine), neither body has any relation to the 5th or 11th Houses, and the aspect itself is four months late. Scorpio ASC trine Pluto for the birth is barely admissible, and hardly deserves the benefit of the doubt in view of its mistiming (three and a half months late).

My fourth event, birth of a second daughter brings Mars into the picture with the ASC in Scorpio conjunct Mars, another Primary and traumatic event. Dymock thinks this is an unlikely aspect for such as a birth. I must disagree here purely on the grounds of proof. My own son was born under Primary Leo ASC conjunct Mars, and it was not Ruler of the 5th or 11th. In fact this strong ASC - Mars aspect, in the appropriate Sign, has come up in hundreds of births to my knowledge.

ASC conjunct Mars may be applicable where the trauma of the birth (tearing, haemorrhaging, etc.) is more significant at the time than the joy of creation. In other cases, more appropriate indicators may be overlooked. Gwyn quotes her own Chart but does not give the data, so I am unable to comment on her own experience and the relevance or otherwise of ASC conjunct (or opposition) Mars. The biography of Princess Grace gives no hint that the birth of her second daughter was particularly stressful, only that it was an occasion for general rejoicing. Even if we allow the dubious 'Mars opposition ASC' as indicative of the birth, it is a tenuous thread on which to hang a whole new Horoscope, thirty three minutes removed from the recorded birth time.

My fifth event, death of Grace at 52 years and 10 months shows on my carbon copy as four Primary aspects, not one Primary as Dymock says. It takes a lot of aspects to kill a body and they need not all take place at the same time, in fact where a damaged organ is responsible, that damage sometimes has to be built up. Take Grace's brain haemorrhage which I think was slowly coming on through stress and worry over her children, shown in the Progressed Chart as Mars, Saturn and Venus all co-joined in Capricorn and the Third House (mind) quincunx the birth Leo (children) MC over the previous two years.

Regarding Pluto and Saturn transiting Grace's Libra ASC, with the Saturn also afflicting the Birth Moon, as these are such slow-moving planets they can be considered Primaries when hitting the ASC and as Pluto is one degree more than first stated it is practically on the Birth degree. (full information of Pluto's movement later).

The influence of this planet is dramatic as shown in my article 'Winds of Change for Australia' when Pluto transited the Libra ASC, published in the October, 1972, F.A.A. Journal. All predictions became reality and are still operating to-day.

I do not use either of the above Primaries as triggers for the death as Dymock suggests. They are part of the breaking down process.

I repeat: There was only one Primary aspect in Gwyn's proposed Chart that related to the death - MC square Saturn - and this occurred ten months beyond the event! The other aspects Gwyn referred to as Primaries were the Secondary Progression, Mercury opposite the MC 19½ months late, and two transits, Pluto and Saturn over the ASC. By no stretch of the imagination can these be termed Primary Directions, and they are useless from the point of view of precise rectification, which is the issue being debated. Slow-moving Pluto and Saturn were both two months late in transiting the ASC of Gwyn's proposed Chart.

We now come to MC square Saturn (showing in my Chart in the 3rd House and Sagittarius), most appropriate for short journeys and the car accident, together with Mercury opposite MC for loss of consciousness. Both are Primary aspects. I have again worked out the timing of these two aspects and they do not respond to such a time lapse as given by Dymock. I would say that as all aspects of the five events over the 27-year span come later than the first test, the original birth time will need to be altered to about 4:59 to 4:59½ am so that all come earlier.

The later the Sidereal Time the closer it is to the aspect. This Sidereal method soon shows how much adjustment is necessary.

I have a Progressed Computer Chart from birth for 90 years ahead, and can tick off all the important MC and ASC events as they have come to date.

Primary Direction MC square Saturn in Map 2 (Gwyn's proposed Chart) occurs on 11/7/1983, nine months late. Here is the calculation: RAMC in Map 2 = 8h21m31s = 125°23'. Right Ascension of 28 Vir 7, where the MC comes to the square of Saturn, is 178°16'. The difference between the two, the Arc of Direction, is 52°54' (or 3h31m34s). Dividing this by the time measure, 0°59'8.33" (or 3m56.56s) gives 53 years, 7 months and 29 days which, added to the birth date, 12th November, 1929, comes to 11th July, 1983, nine months too late.

The Secondary Progression, Mercury opposite the MC, in Map 2 is 11 months late, as the following precise calculation shows: Map 2 birth time 4:58 am on 12/11/1929. By normal symbolic measure (24 hours corresponding to 12 months), 0 hours on 12/11/1929 in the Ephemeris corresponds to A.C.D. 28/8/1929, and 0 hours in the Ephemeris on 5/11/1930 (54 days later) corresponds to 28/8/1983 (54 years later). Mercury at 0 hours on 5/11/1930 was at 3°7', and it travelled 1°10' in the previous 24 hours. Mercury opposes the MC at 3 Leo 5, 2' short of its Progressed position on 28/8/1983. The exact opposition occurred (2/70 x 365) days previously, that is on 18th August, 1983, 11 months late.

Now to Dymock's interpretation of the above events - Saturn square IC/MC on 14/9/1982. This could not square the birth points as Saturn is in Libra and not on the Birth ASC, Scorpio. The Moon's opposition to Mercury could not happen in the Progressed Chart as the Moon is in Pisces, and as a transit it is in Scorpio.

Mercury could not square Birth-Saturn because in the Progressed Chart it is in Aquarius, and by transit it is in Scorpio. Transiting Pluto is in Libra and could not square either the Birth Sun or Moon.

As mentioned earlier, for events to happen, any progressed aspect must hit a birth planet or the MC or ASC. I may also mention here that Mercury is not a killer, it rules the conscious mind and intellect, it is the Moon that rules the brain, which is also part of the body, represented by the Birth ASC. That is why the ASC must come into the picture at death. In my Chart the Libra ASC (Venus ruling the venous veins) was badly afflicted by two very malefic planets, hence the haemorrhage. You will note that Venus is also Ruler of the 8th House.

The triggering by the various quicker planets could be Mars transiting Mars, as Dymock previously suggested, or transiting Moon in Cancer squaring Saturn, Jupiter or Venus, Ruler in Libra, or transiting Sun opposite the Birth Moon, already besieged by Saturn. The exact time of death is not recorded, but it would seem to be within a two-day period as the doctors tried to revive Grace from her coma.

Gwyn's basic misapprehension of the Primary System leads her into these completely erroneous statements. Primary Directing has nothing to do with either the Secondary Progressed positions of the planets or their transiting positions. It is based entirely on the axial rotation of the Earth, which means that all the planets will traverse the whole circle of the sky and contact every other position within 24 hours. However, the first six hours correspond to about 90 years of life, and it is usually only in charts other than birth charts that the system is carried further.

All the aspects I cited do in fact occur, and on the dates given, as can be verified by anyone with a modicum of mathematical skill. Saturn does square the IC/MC on the date of death (14/9/1982, when the life-support system was removed). The Moon does oppose Mercury on 19/9/1982 (and is a far more pertinent indicator of brain haemorrhage than Gwyn's Secondary Progression, Moon opposite MC, 11 months later). Mercury does square Saturn on 30/10/1982; and all three aspects are by Primary Direction. Here again are the calculations, so that all may check:

1. Saturn square IC/MC on 14/9/1982.

Saturn squares the IC/MC when, by the Earth's axial rotation (Primary motion), it comes to the point 11 Scor 12. (This has no relation to Saturn's Progressed position in the Ephemeris, or to its transiting position!). One must appreciate that by Primary motion Saturn, and all the other planets will traverse the whole Chart in 24 hours. To find when this square occurs we must calculate the Oblique Ascension of the point 11 Scor 12, and subtract the radical Oblique Ascension of Saturn, both O.A.'s being under Saturn's Pole. This gives the Arc of Direction, which is then divided by the time measure to give the time elapsed since birth, and the result added to the birth date. It is not the place here to expound the mathematical equations necessary to establish the Poles, Right Ascension and Oblique Ascensions/Descensions, etc. For those who want it I have the information available. Here I simply give the operative figures:

Saturn's Pole = 19°7'. Saturn's radical O.A. = 276°15'
O.A. of 11 Scor 12 = 224°10'
Arc of Direction = 52°5'

divided by 59'8.33" = 52.8382 years = 2d 10m 52y

Add birth date, 12 11 1929

Saturn square IC/MC, 14/ 9/ 1982

(the very day of death! One can hardly be more accurate than that.)

2. Moon opposite Mercury on 19/9/1982.

The Moon will be in opposition to Mercury when by Primary motion it reaches 10 Taur 43.

Moon's Pole = 19°28'. Oblique Descension of 10 Taur 43 = 43°45'; adding the circle (360°) to allow subtraction = 403°45'

Subtract radical O.D. of Moon = 351°39'

Arc of Direction = 52°6'

Dividing by 59'8.33" = 52.8528 years = 7d 10m 52y

Add Birth date 12 11 1929

Moon opposite Mercury 19/9/1982

3. Mercury square Saturn on 30/10/1982.

When Mercury reaches 28 Vir 7 by Primary motion it will be square to Saturn.

Mercury's Pole = 37.934° (using decimals this time, which is the more convenient form).

Radical O.A. of Mercury = 229.893°

O.A. of 28 Vir 7 = 177.688

Arc of Direction = 52.205; dividing by 59'8.33" = 52.9652 years = 18d 11m 52y

Add Birth date 12 11 1929

Mercury square Saturn 30/10/1982.

As Dymock has used different methods for the various events - would he know which were appropriate to use in predicting future events for, say a public figure? Ideas that look good in theory do not necessarily come off in practice.

It is obvious that the various methods that have crept into Astrology for forecasting, have been due to trying to make aspects fit into a given birth time, that has not worked.

Dymock's new method can only be proved when we see printed predictions of important events yet to come.

Gwyn's article finishes here, and it only remains for me to point out, in refutation of her last assertion, that I have used the one consistent method throughout, as my calculations show. Gwyn's failure to understand the Primary System is unfortunate as it is our most important prognostic tool. It is by no means new: 'At the end of the 19th century, Primary Directions were the most popular method of prediction'. (Dean's 'Recent Advances', page 189). Now, with our marvellous electronic tools (computers and calculators) Primary Directing is available to every astrologer without the tedium of complicated mathematical procedures.

The over-simplified system Gwyn uses is little more than an apology for the real thing, an abbreviated version that just touches the surface. The potency of Primary Directing is effectively demonstrated in the aspects I have cited. At the same time they show how untenable are any claims that Princess Grace's recorded birth time is incorrect.

Again, through shortage of space we must defer consideration of the other matters raised by Gwyn in Issue 23, relating to the appositeness of the authentic Birth Chart.

- Dymock.

From GEOFFREY DEAN, (W.A.): If you asked your doctor or garage mechanic a straightforward question, and they replied by debating the meaning of truth, science, and your motives, you would rightly regard them as raving politicians or as simply daft. Sadly the same thing is happening in the August pages of this Forum.

In Issue 22 (May, 1983) I invited readers to send in answers to five questions designed to clarify whether Astrology was or was not a belief system. Four of these questions were originally put to Ralph Holden in Issue 16 (November, 1982). For the benefit of new readers the five questions are repeated later.

In Issue 23 (June, 1983) James McKeague, Ralph Holden and Allan Johnson respond to my invitation as follows: McKeague does not answer the questions. Instead he states that Astrology is a belief system, and that at the heart of this debate is the insoluble problem 'what is truth'. But I have already twice pointed out the futility of debating this problem (see Issues 16 and 18), and it was precisely to avoid this futility that I drew up my five questions. McKeague therefore adds nothing to this debate.

Holden ignores my questions for the fourth time. And his reply confirms that he is indeed a king among those for whom sustained irrelevance is a way of life. His points are:

1. This debate has generated more heat than light. This is certainly true of his contributions, wherein there is not the slightest glimmer of light, ie answers to my questions.
2. He is not really vague and long-winded because my Forum letters are as long as his.
3. I seem to claim that science alone is the guardian of truth. What I actually say (Issue 22) is 'I am not arguing in favour of any particular opinion. I am saying only that this is an important issue that deserves clarification'. So Holden is simply wrong.
4. It is silly and not serious debate for me to point out that he does not answer the question 'how does one know that Astrology works'. But note how Holden has subtly reworded the question to make his point: The correct version (Issues 16, 18, 21) reads 'how does he know that Astrology works'. The question is entirely reasonable (such as any beginner might ask) and he still does not answer it. Thus Holden reduces this debate to a farce.

Johnson does not answer the questions either. Instead he takes an entire page to suggest that Astrology is based partly on belief, and that the other part can be explained via synchronicity. The last merely replaces one mystery by another and therefore explains nothing. In any case how does Johnson know that Astrology works via synchronicity?

Johnson ends by saying that my preoccupation with trying to prove the validity of Astrology itself is largely a waste of time. And so far he is right - thanks to McKeague, Holden and Johnson.

Consequently, I am no closer to getting straight answers to straight questions than I was 8, repeat 8, issues ago. So for one last time I again invite readers to send in their answers to my questions, which are:

1. How do you know that Astrology works?
2. How do you know that astrological effects are real and beyond ordinary explanation?
3. In the absence of hard evidence, why should we accept your views rather than any other views?
4. If wrong charts are found to be as readily accepted by clients as right charts (RA gives examples of this) what would this mean for Astrology?
5. Having (in your previous answers) given your ideas about whether Astrology is or is not a belief system, what sort of evidence would make you change your mind?

Please note that:

1. The questions are straightforward and capable of equally straightforward answers, as Dymock showed in Issue 20 and as I will show in due course.
2. They do not suppose that Astrology is causal, or synchronistic, or whatever.

3. To answer them you need not debate the meaning of truth, or parade the horrors of Science, or misrepresent my motives, or admit that you have finished beating your wife, or fill page after page with waffle and codswallop.
4. All you need do is deliver five sentences, one per question.
5. Issue 22 gives the background to these questions if you need it.

In view of current pressures on Forum space, I will give you two months to send in your answers. I will then close this debate by giving my own answers, plus whatever conclusion may be possible based on your answers.

In the meantime perhaps Dymock could again set us an example with his answer to question 5.

From CHRISTINE JAMES (N.S.W.): I take issue with Alfred Alban on his reference to retrograde planets operating 'more constructively'. I believe judgement should not be passed on planets' motions, but instead they should be seen as acting 'differently'. I find the turning point in either direction in a Progressed chart to be a momentous time until the owner becomes used to dealing with the energy that is operating in a manner with which he is not accustomed. You may have found, Alfred, until you felt comfortable with your 'Direct Jupiter' that it spilled out in all directions pushing you overboard until you were quite exhausted.

When one comes to terms with the new motion, things settle down and direct motion can become as useful as retrograde, but in a different kind of way. It seems when the planets change motion we have just chosen a different kind of lesson to learn, or experience to go through.

Did Charles Carter ever describe specific examples? I thought he only felt that as a retrograde planet moved clockwise along the Ecliptic it could even be more constructive, other things being equal, than when it was direct.

Being a Mayo graduate I was 'brought up on' Carter, but at the time he was around I was given to understand astrologers hadn't done too much research into this area.

I am short of Saturn examples and descriptions of Houses Signs and life experiences involved when Saturn turns retrograde or direct. Please, can anyone help with this or any other examples of retrograde of direct planets? I'd be glad to hear from the astrologer with retrograde Neptune regarding Signs and Houses involved.

From MARGARET KEEN, (N.S.W.): With reference to Ed. Caselli's letter in February Forum, I have also found the ASC to be an overriding factor to that of the Sun-Sign in many charts. This is especially evident in marriage and partnerships in general where the usually acknowledged compatibility aspects are missing (Suns in square aspect comes up quite often), yet these partnerships survive and appear to be quite successful.

Often the ASC's are in similar elements such as Cancer and Scorpio; Signs which are 60° apart as Aries/Gemini, or opposition Signs. Another frequency is the Moon from one chart in strong aspect to the ASC of the other.

THE 1983 VERNON CLARK EXPERIMENT

Disciples of the fun-filled life can add still further to their joy of living by taking part in the above experiment. Marguerite and I are finding it highly educative and a fruitful source of discussion to enliven our dull moments, few as they are. Aside from that the Experiment has the serious purpose of improving Astrology, so is worthy of support at least from every reader of "Astrologers' Forum".

The test involves 120 computer-calculated charts, from which the participant has to judge whether the 'native' is extrovert or introvert and stable or unstable, as defined in the Instruction Sheet. There is no time limit. Send your request to Geoffrey Dean, Box 466, Subiaco, W.A. 6008, who will supply full details. I assure you it is a worthwhile exercise.

Further letters and articles have been received from Rod and Colleen Brandt, Thomas Zimmer, Ed. Caselli and Rudolf Smit. Lack of space prevented their immediate publication. My kind regards to all. - Dymock, 19/7/83.

Astrologers' Forum

A Free Monthly Publication Devoted to the Improvement of Astrological Practice through the Sharing of Ideas, Experiences and Information. Edited and Published by Dymock Brose, 86 Clarence Road, Blackheath, N.S.W. Australia, 2785. Tel. [047] 87 8874.

Issue No. 23, 19TH JUNE, 1983

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

Truth and Falsity in Astrology

The Dean-Holden debate has aroused both interest and antagonism. I feel it should be allowed to proceed to some sort of conclusion whether satisfactory or not to the protagonists. Here are further contributions.

From JAMES McKEAGUE, (N.S.W.): Like Dymock I have followed this with both serious interest and much amusement. Dean is scoring well in attempting to pin Holden down to some clear answers. But Holden is scoring well by pointing out that the real argument is much wider than Dean's questions allow. Neither will win this argument, of course, for its heart is that great insoluble problem which has plagued thinkers down the ages; 'What is Truth?'

In the final analysis, Astrology must be accepted merely as a belief system, and this status cannot be altered by ANY statistical or scientific findings whether favourable or unfavourable to Astrology - because the mathematical method which is the basis of science IS ITSELF MERELY A BELIEF SYSTEM! It necessarily depends upon a belief in the supernatural.

Mathematicians and scientists don't like thinking about that, of course. But it is true, and easily demonstrated by utilizing that strict adherence to mathematical law which science insists upon:

Take your own life, for example, your own existence - where did you come from? Science points to your parents (and to nature's beautiful system of procreation) and pronounces that there is your source. But where did your parents come from? Science points to your grandparents. But where did they come from? The scientific method can only keep going back step by step through the generations...to infinity! But there is the paradox, because mathematical laws do not permit such an 'infinite regression'. The scientist is carrying back to infinity an INSUFFICIENCY OF REASON FOR YOUR EXISTENCE, and this is mathematically impossible! So it does not matter whether our origin was here on earth or at some vast distance in space. If in fact we do exist, somewhere, way back at the beginning, there had to be a SUPERNATURAL CREATION, which is quite inexplicable by the methods of science.

So we cannot let the mathematicians and the scientists state that they have any superior claim to the unveiling of truth or falsity, whether in Astrology or in any other field. Running up and down the ladder of their probability theory, they are as much in the dark as anyone. Naturally, this philosophic consideration will not prevent a vast army of uncertain astrologers feeding data into computers, fondly imagining that they are about to discover the truth about Astrology. Even knowing that they are doomed to failure, let's wish them luck!

From RALPH HOLDEN (S.A.): I am afraid that I cannot totally agree with Dymock's assessment of the debate between Dr. Dean and myself. It seems to me that to a perhaps unhelpful degree heat has many times been substituted for light.

I think too that the accusation of 'galloping periphrasis' may be a little hard to sustain, as there appears to be minimal difference in the lengths of our respective correspondences. However, if my answers are not sufficiently 'straightforward' - which I gather means 'short' rather than 'reasonable' - it may be that imprecise questions (for example, the second of his four) are difficult to answer precisely.

It is fairly clear that Dr. Dean has been angered because I have questioned his beliefs about science. He seems to claim as an article of faith that it alone is the guardian of 'truth', which (in this case) may be determined by submitting certain chosen events to the scrutiny of unspecified mathematical processes. These processes being beyond question and infallibly determinative of what is 'true'. As with the Mormon at my front door, I find myself confronted with an issue that deals with the basis of authority. Truths justified by appeals to authority tend always to be a belief system.

Nor have those matters related to the nature of scientific demonstration (and which were raised originally) been clearly debated. To respond to my answer to the question, 'How does one know that astrology works?' by saying, 'Holden discusses science, scientists, solar motion, and hypotheses in general, but does not tell us etc...' is simply silly, and not serious debate at all.

Science (and presumably statistical analysis) is not really in the 'truth' business, as Dr. Dean's own scientific philosophers like Karl Popper and Alan Chalmers clearly point out. The one certain thing about scientific history is that it is littered with the wrecks of truth.

Unhappily it seems unlikely that much of value is to be gained by extending this particular debate further. Strangely I am not 'anti-science'. Science is a tool of great value; yet like all tools its use is governed by the attitudes and prejudices of its users. Also if one examines its achievements critically, these will be found to be strong in artificial systems (where it is allowed to create something under its own terms) but surprisingly weak when it seeks to handle natural phenomena.

It is not the prerogative of science 'to create astrology in its own image', but rather to provide its tools in an appropriate way to assist in the assessing of the astrological experience. But it is astrologers who have the right to declare what these grounds ought to be.

From ALLAN JOHNSON (N.S.W.): In the last issue Geoffrey Dean says: 'Surely Astrology is more than a belief system?' Then later he says: 'So far the evidence does suggest that it is a belief system.' So he seems to be embracing both points of view. And I think this is exactly the whole point. It is a belief system, in a measure, but that's only a fraction of the whole story. The fact is that every area which has to do with human beings has a strong component of 'the will to believe'. What we could say about Astrology we could apply equally to psychology, or to politics, or to medical science. It is an inevitable ingredient. For instance in the medical field tests have been made by substituting coloured water for specific remedies, and the patients have responded just as successfully to the treatment. Then could we say from this observation that the whole of medical science is a belief system? Christian Scientists have done precisely this and sometimes with dire results. But it is unquestionable that the power to believe can be a very strong force.

It should be no surprise at all that we do strike this type of situation in Astrology. There must be times in the lives of all practitioners when a client has praised a reading on a wrong chart. But I would say there would be even more occasions when a correct chart has been found unacceptable. I have known clients who were highly critical of a chart, but have later admitted that the time was in error, and the subsequent reading was much more acceptable. So I have always made a strong point to students that we can't have a good reading from a wrong chart. Despite the exceptions, we do need accuracy in all chart work. All this means that any argument can be a good argument so long as you don't take it too far. And this is what Geoffrey Dean is trying to do. There is no way where the question of belief can be divorced from the human component. If we are dealing with geology or zoology then it is a different matter.

Actually the amount of real research into Astrology has been very small because no one has been prepared to come forward to finance it. Not to the extent you would get in a lot of other subjects. Naturally practitioners have little time for such work even if they do have the charts. Gauquelin has done some very good work over a long time, but of necessity his field has been limited. I think some researchers have wasted a lot of time and effort through asking the wrong questions. Firebrace spent a lot of time on relating Sun-Signs to occupations in order to disprove the Tropical Zodiac, but any good book on vocational astrology could have told him that there is not necessarily any direct relationship between Sun-Signs and occupations. So all this was a waste of effort.

Recently I decided to look at the charts of Australian Prime Ministers since Federation for common denominators we might reasonably expect to exist. I reduced the number to those who had had a reasonable length of term. Immediately it became obvious that Sun-Signs had little relevance. We should expect Capricorn and Aries to be dominant here, with Scorpio and Leo to follow up. But looking at this from a new angle and taking the Rulers of Capricorn and Aries, Saturn and Mars, which are also the natural Rulers of the 10th and 1st Houses, as the key planets, I got a very effective picture. In a very high percentage of cases either Saturn or Mars was in one of the four dominant Signs. As an example Menzies had Mars in Aries, Saturn in Scorpio; Fraser has Mars in Aries, Saturn in Capricorn; Lyons had Saturn in Aries; Fisher, Mars in Aries; Deakin, Mars in Scorpio; Chifley, Mars in Leo; Curtin, Mars in Capricorn. So we can see the repeat pattern. To come right up to date we have Hawke with Saturn in Capricorn; Peacock, Saturn in Aries.

Geoffrey Dean's Question 2 is: 'How do we know that astrological effects are real and beyond ordinary explanation?' I think the answer here is that astrological effects are not beyond ordinary explanation. Astrology is not causative. I think there would be few practising astrologers who really believe that planetary influences cause things to happen. The problem here is the use of terminology. We tend to say we are under the influence of Pluto for instance and this results in such and such. But it is a way of explaining it and not a statement of literal fact. It is a traditional hangover from a more superstitious past. What is meant is really a synchronization between the terrestrial and the celestial. There are no malignant forces 'out there' causing us to have accidents or do this or that. If an event occurs it occurs because of a perfectly normal chain of events. If a fatal accident occurs it is because of alcohol or an error of judgement. Everything has to have a natural explanation. The fact is it is hard to write astrological explanations without using causative terminology. But this doesn't mean we believe in the causative theory.

I think most professionals will have this problem with clients. A lot of people get the idea that things 'just happen' because the chart says so. People who are hoping to get married will simply expect an astrologer to give them the date and all they have to do is to wait for it. Whereas they have to go out and meet people socially and make it happen - or it won't despite the forecast. It is difficult to see how causation can be sustained with Secondary Progressions for instance. The actual astronomical phenomena would have occurred maybe 40 or 50 years earlier. How then can it be causing things to happen in the present? The whole thing is purely symbolical, as are one-degree measures or solar-arcs. Symbols can correlate with happenings but they don't involve energy, any more than a picture of a car can provide you with transport.

I think Geoffrey Dean's preoccupation with trying to prove the validity of Astrology itself is largely a waste of time. Astrology is a fact of life. If he did prove to his own satisfaction that Astrology is invalid it would carry no weight. It is like proving that religion is valid - or invalid, or Darwin is right - or wrong. Those sorts of questions are too broad. I think what is more useful is testing the validity of some facet of Astrology. It is a subject that has grown with the years and there are certain areas that could do with overhaul.

From MARGUERITE BROSE, (N.S.W.):

The Positive Attitude

Bouquets to Allan for being clear about complicated matters. (Is his Geminian Sun shining through here?). I like to take up his point re placebos (1st para.). For many, many years the medical fraternity has known and used sugar pills and coloured water at times. The patient has often received considerable relief from suffering, which brings me to my question: 'What is the healing force in a placebo?' If it is the power of the positive thought, why are we not using it more in our daily life instead of giving in to negativity? Is the proverbial luck of the Sagittarian nothing but the confident attitude that things will come his way?

A fine example of positive thinking was used by Camille Saint Saëns's mother. During her pregnancy she was convinced her child would be a great musician. Well, she actually gave birth to a musical prodigy so precocious that he gave a concert at age 11. Let's take a leaf out of the Sagittarian's book and think positively.

From Sr. JOSE M.A. LEBRON, (ARGENTINA):

Retrograde Progressions

As regards the retrogrades question I've got a couple of words to say. One of the cases in my files strongly supports your views on the matter: It's that of Argentine strongman Juan D. Perón (born October 8th, 1895, 11h 57m 47s UT, 59°05'25" W, 35°11' S, rectified by me with Primaries - Sagittarius ASC with Jupiter in the 9th near the MC). As an Army colonel he was Vice-President, Minister of War and Secretary of Labour and Welfare in the military government inaugurated in 1943. An anti-fascist movement managed to obtain his resignation to all his posts on 9/10/1945 (one day after his Solar Return), and he was imprisoned. But a spontaneous popular demonstration on his behalf changed his destiny not less abruptly on 17/10/1945 (a remembrance day since then for all 'Peronists' or 'Justicialists').

On that occasion, exactly when his Secondary Jupiter was turning retrograde, his (melodramatic) words to his assembled followers were: 'This afternoon the Executive has accepted my application for retirement from active service in the Army... I'm leaving the honourable and sacred uniform the Fatherland gave me to put on civil clothes and mingle with the suffering and sweaty masses that bring off this country's greatness. And so I give my final embrace to the Army, that cornerstone of the Fatherland. And I turn to these wonderful masses that stand for a feeling almost dead in this country,' etc.

Here's a résumé of his political career since then: He won two elections (1946 and 1952), was ousted by a liberal coup in 1955 but in his golden exile he kept the favour of the working class and through it the key role in Argentine politics, up to 1973, when he regained power by a landslide vote. He died in 1974 leaving his political heirs a voting majority. All this under a retrograde Jupiter, the ASC Ruler.

But I would like to point out that Mercury's retrogression, at least in Mercurian charts, can be quite deleterious indeed. It can be psychically and physically hindering and debilitating (in a child or a youngster, for instance, it can bring on physical development and school problems). In fact, it seems to be good only for accumulating information, but it checks the fruitful use of that information. Let's for example suppose you're an author. The way you've covered under a retrograde Mercury will turn out to be not valid and you'll have to unweave and do it again when it turns direct. The latter is a good time to get free from age-old intellectual and psychical hindrances and view life more realistically. In a Mercurian chart it may mean: 'Your apprenticeship is over. Now you're free to follow your own way'.

From LESLIE BLACK (RUNCORN, ENGLAND): With reference to Bill Slape and the perplexing situation concerning the 'House boundary limits' this has always been a source of confusion with astrologers. It was through the discrepancy of degrees between cusps which occurs in the quadrant systems (as Bill so rightly points out), that the traditional Cuspal Rule was founded, which may not be known to a great many astrologers.

The Rule implies that, when a planet is within five degrees of a cusp it is considered to be in that House. This is still a valid traditional rule for all quadrant systems in use today; but I think also it is a generally accepted fact amongst most astrologers, that the point of greatest intensity in any House is the actual cusp position, as a planet on the cusp, or not far removed from it, will bring out the particular influence of that House more strongly than if considerably distant from it.

The two House division systems which offer the greatest accuracy in this respect are those of the Hindu's, - Porphyry and Equal House. The latter was to become known as the Ptolemaic System, and was adopted by Western astrologers, who omitted to divide the Houses up equally as Hindu astrologers do.

So it follows that the points of least resistance as demonstrated by Porphyry, must be equi-distant on each side of the cusp, which can be arrived at by a division of the distance between each cusp into two equal parts. This means that instead of the cusp forming the beginning of a House, it should really mark the central position of a House; whilst the beginning and ending should be a point, one twenty-fourth part of a circle on each side of the cusp.

Under the present system of House spacings the point of greatest intensity is regarded as being at the commencement, and the weakest point that preceding the cusp of the succeeding House. This means that both greatest and weakest points of intensity are joined to the succeeding House, which, when one comes to think about it, imposes a most ridiculous hypothesis that has led astrologers into believing a planet is Cadent when in fact it is Angular.

From ED CASELLI, (N.S.W.):

Birth Times

Re Princess Grace, I am surprised to see Rudolf Smit insisting that we must accept the recorded birth time. Not long ago he cast considerable doubt on recorded birth times. According to Rudolf, the father on the way to registering a birth usually visited a number of pubs, and by the time he got to the registry office he had not a clue about the birth time. Rudolf argued that then the birth time was generally recorded as that shown by the registry office clock!

So much for recorded birthtimes. After over 50 years of being led up the garden path by given birth times I've learned to take them all with a large grain of salt, so much so that if I cannot reasonably be satisfied as to the ASC in particular, and the chart in general, I will not seriously work upon a chart.

From GWYN TURNER, (N.S.W.):

Time of Birth

I cannot agree with Rudolf Smit that one should be satisfied with the time of birth given, either verbally or on a birth certificate, unless it has been proved by either a prenatal epoch or at least five events in the life matching a rectification of the M.C. and ASC to birth planets. If R. Smit ever did public predictive work, where four minutes out in the birth time can make one year's difference in events, I think he would change his tune. It is only through my many years of predictive work, personal, political and national, that I found how important the exact time of birth is. I also found that most times given are not exact, even where birth certificates are available, which of course they are not in Australia, and also not in many other countries in the world.

According to Roy Owen's comment in the May, 1982, Forum, and I quote:- 'If our friend, R. Smit, thinks that birth times are accurate, he must be joking. Experience shows that most birth times are off by nearly half an hour'...and to continue he says that 'there are only half a dozen countries that record the birth time on certificates and that in the South of the U.S.A. they don't even have the correct day recorded'. I can vouch for this fact as my own Birth Certificate has recorded the wrong date of birth; and I was born in South Africa.

Imagine trying to get a horoscope into focus with not only the wrong date but the wrong time, of about 1½-hours, given to me by my mother. This can easily occur with home births as there is no one present with their eyes on the clock.

However, with a proper rectification by Primary aspects (M.C. and ASC) of many events in my life, I eventually made the grade. Secondary Progressed aspects are not suitable for rectification.

Princess Grace

While on this subject I might mention that one current event as given to prove Princess Grace's time is not sufficient, and I am rather surprised at this in view of the fact that in earlier Forums it was agreed by all, that at least five major events over a long period were essential, and above all that the Chart itself must ring true. Although past events are always helpful, correct future forecasts are certainly the major proof. It is unfortunate, as Dymock mentioned in the last Australian Astrologers' Journal that to-day's Astrologers are not doing anything in this direction.

Is this because they are using the wrong technique for rectification? So many different methods seem to have crept into Astrology over the past few years - the One-Degree method, the Solar-Arc, the P.E.A. and the Oblique Ascension, for Primary Directions.

I use the Standard Formula of Sidereal Primary Directions which has never let me down over a lifetime of predictive astrology, and one that I demonstrated in the December, 1982, Australian Astrologers' Journal, in the horoscope of a client for 20 years. Primary Directions were shown to fit into their correct time slots over many years and many dated letters were given, all verifying how events had occurred at the times predicted. How would I have got on if I had accepted the Capricorn-ASC Chart that was handed to me on first meeting this client?

No, the appearance did not ring true, just as Princess Grace's Scorpio appearance does not ring true. A Scorpio ASC alone may give a pretty face as Rudolf Smit says, but with three planets also conjunct same, some of the Scorpio appearance would be apparent. Note the droop each side of Bob Hawke's mouth, which is also apparent in Lindy Chamberlain's mouth, both indicative of a Scorpio - Pluto influence. I ask any Astrologer if they could, being presented with Grace's Chart as it now stands, predict the life that we all know she has had? Where is the fame, public life, prestige through a royal marriage? Could not this Chart, with the Scorpio ASC cojoining Mercury, Sun and Mars, and Neptune in Virgo in the 10th House (career) be read as one skilled in pharmacy, a nurse, doctor, surgeon, something to do with the nursing profession or chemical research etc. However, Grace's biography says that she was no good at maths or science, and that she was fragile physically. She also hated driving a car and was not mechanically inclined. Does this sound like a fourfold Scorpio ASC? And by the way she did not like sport.

The biography also says that when Grace smiled she had dimples at each end of the mouth, loved knitting, embroidery, art, singing, flower-arranging, dancing, and was very shy and reserved. She loved ballet, lived a great deal in a dream world and was a good listener, also that it was difficult to upset her equilibrium. As mentioned before her book of flower decorations was accepted by a publisher for linen decorations just before her death. As these characteristics far outweigh the Scorpio ones I suggested a late Libra ASC and on this basis have done a prenatal epoch, which formula shows a gestation period of 12 days to be added to the standard 273 days, resulting in 285 days. If these days are counted back in the ephemeris they will come to 29 degrees of Libra at Noon, but as the birth time was earlier it would be likely that the degree would be a little earlier, probably around 28 degrees.

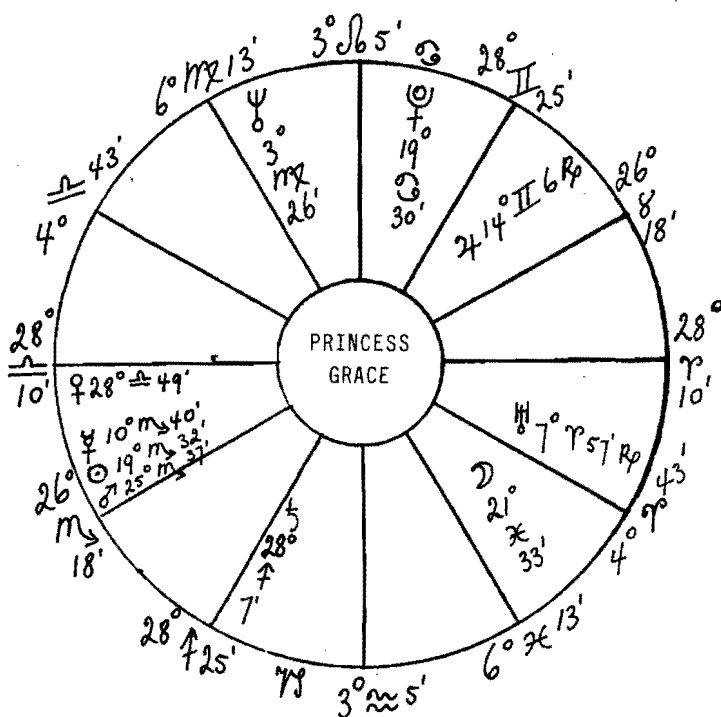

With the Chart herewith I show the progressed Horoscope with five of the most important events of her life stretched over a period of 27 years with Primary aspects from and to the M.C. and ASC. One event as recently given by some astrologers is not sufficient nor does it prove new methods that are being used. My method, the traditional Sidereal, conforms with the method used by Austin Levy's progressed computer service, which I made use of when doing the Death Chart of William Holden, published in the Winter, 1982, Australian Astrologers' Journal.

It is only by this extensive research work that Astrology will be lifted out of its present fog. As I mentioned in my Forum letter of 27/11/1981, 'Unless more research is done to remedy the inconsistencies surrounding Astrology to-day, it will only advance at a snail's pace'.

To progress Princess Grace's Chart by the traditional Sidereal method you will need to count down the number of days in the Ephemeris, which represents years, stopping at the age required, and with the Sidereal time shown on the same line, do exactly the same sum as you did to the birth Sidereal time, which was 15:24:31 at Noon and with a birth time of 4:58 a.m. you should come out with a corrected Sidereal time of 8:22:10, which in turn will give approximately a 3 degree Leo M.C. and a 28:10 degree Libra ASC.

PROPOSED CHART

I start the first important event at 25 years of age with the winning of the Oscar prize, for best actress in 'Country Girl'. With the completed Sidereal Time of 10:0:44 the progressed M.C. was approximately 28 degrees of Leo, which made a Primary aspect of M.C. trine Saturn, an aspect of prestige and achievement, also M.C. sextile ASC.

At the age of 26 years and 6 weeks the completed Sidereal Time shows approximately 10:5:0 which brings the Leo M.C. to a sextile of Venus (Ruling Planet) in Libra, a Primary aspect that brought the marriage proposal from Prince Rainier. Marriage followed shortly afterwards in April with gifts galore.

The progressed Moon was at the cusp of the 5th House.

At the age of 27 and 2 months the first daughter was born, on 23/1/1957. The completed Sidereal time shows approximately 10:9:17 which brings the progressed ASC Scorpio (births) to a Primary aspect of conjunction Sun and trine Pluto, A rather important aspect for the first born of Royalty. Mars by transit was exactly opposite the ASC and the progressed Moon was in the 5th House.

At the age of 35 and 3 months the second daughter was born, on 1/2/1965. The completed Sidereal Time shows approximately 10:41:0 which brings the progressed ASC Scorpio (births) to a conjunction with Mars, quite safe because the Moon was trining same at birth. Transiting Neptune was conjunct Sun.

At the age of 52 and 10 months Princess Grace died. The completed Sidereal Time shows approximately 11:51:0. At this time aspects are shown both to the M.C. and ASC - a Primary Direction and a Secondary Progression as well as transits:

The Virgo M.C. squared Saturn in the 3rd House and Sagittarius. Progressed Mercury made an opposition to the Leo M.C. Pluto transiting the Libra ASC was within 2 degrees of the Rising Degree (the Moon's place at conception).

Saturn was transiting the Libra ASC and making an exact quincunx to Birth Moon in Pisces (ASC at conception) a strong aspect because the Moon was square Saturn at birth.

As I mentioned in the Death Chart of William Holden - as the Moon and ASC point at conception forms the physical body, these points in the Birth Horoscope must have a part to play in the final destruction of the physical body.

Further transits are shown in Grace's Death Chart - Mars was transiting Mars. Sun was in opposition to the Moon. The Moon was transiting Pluto. The Pluto/ASC aspect (Venus ruling the venous veins) and Mercury afflicted from Aquarius (ruling the blood stream) could account for the brain haemorrhage, but I also think the car accident shown by M.C. square Saturn could have done further damage to cause her death, as well as the progressed Saturn-Moon affliction.

Although some Astrologers say Secondary Progressed aspects don't work, I find that many are very strong, such as Mercury conjunct Saturn for Grace's appendix operation at age 30. The progressed Moon was also opposite the ASC from the Sixth House.

As the Maths for Grace's Progression have been done by hand, a computer may get a little closer.

From DYMCK BROSE (N.S.W.):

Validation of Princess Grace's Recorded Birth Time

As writer of the original article on Princess Grace, I suppose the onus is on me to demonstrate the validity of the Birth Chart based on the recorded 5:31 am, and to show that Gwyn's arguments for a much earlier time, though plausible, are in fact illusory.

I shall do this by specifically rebutting all four arguments advanced by Gwyn to justify her claim. These were:

1. Only one current-event Direction supports the original Birth Chart. On the contrary, the 5:31 am Chart is supported by numerous Directions, far more accurate as to timing and relevance than those adduced by Gwyn.
2. The Chart does not 'ring true'. I shall show that it does.
3. Princess Grace's appearance is not consonant with the Chart. Contrary evidence will be produced.

4. The proposed new Birth Chart is supported by the technique of the Pre-Natal Epoch.

It will be shown that confidence in this technique is misplaced.

I should point out first that the altered birth time proposed by Gwyn, 4:58 am, is thirty-three minutes prior to the time recorded on the Birth Certificate (5:31 am). I do not say that this immediately rules it out of court, (though certainly many astrologers would take that view), but some weighty reasons must be advanced to make it acceptable. Again, it is not likely that a birth time recorded to the minute, and not rounded off, as is usual, would be so far out. If the recording party were so unsure of the time as to be noting it within a half-hour only, would it not be natural to do so to the nearest five minutes, or even 15 minutes?

Grace Kelly's birth was no casual affair. She was not born into an under-privileged household, where the recurring round of pregnancy and birth might be regarded as just one more of life's afflictions - another mouth to feed - to be endured with stoicism and as little interference as possible with the on-going battle against want. Grace was the scion of an affluent, 'upper-class' family, and it may be confidently assumed that minute attention was paid to every detail connected with her birth - including the time. Some may think this is mere conjecture, but it is no more conjecture - and certainly more justified - than assuming the birth time was not properly recorded.

But let us proceed to the 'hard' evidence. In this electronic age we do not need to deal in approximations. By the use of a hand-held calculator we can dispense with vague dates that appear to apply to any point within several months, or even a whole year, and quote instead precise dates for the incidence of any aspect. This is one means by which we can help remove the fog to which Gwyn refers as currently enveloping Astrology.

Accordingly, I have attached precise, carefully calculated dates to all the Primary Directions, Secondary Progressions and transits cited in this article, including those advanced by Gwyn, and using her own method of the Sidereal Time increment. This is the only way in which a true comparison may be made. Quoting orbs in minutes of arc is less satisfactory because a minute of arc will correlate with different periods of time, depending on the rate of ascension of the significator involved.

In her article Gwyn shows that she has adopted the standard practice of directing the Midheaven by Right Ascension, and the ASC by Oblique Ascension, which last is what happens when one takes a specific point on the MC and refers it to the latitude of birth for the degree on the ASC. I have no quarrel with this. With the extension that I shall explain, I use the same method, with the same time measure (3m56.56s) for one year. 3 minutes, 56.56 seconds is the daily increment in Sidereal Time, so that the Primary and Secondary ('day-for-a-year') System correlate in this respect. One is, in fact, complementary to the other, and both should be employed.

The simple method of Primary Directing above-noted is effective as far as it goes, but its utility is enormously increased by extending it to all the planets, both forward and backward in the Zodiac. Just as the ASC is directed under its own Pole (the geographic latitude of the birth), so the Sun, Moon, Mercury, etc., and any other Significators, can be directed under their respective Poles. In the past I have referred to this System as Primary Directing by Oblique Ascension under individual Poles, but an equally descriptive and briefer title is simply Ascensional Directing, and the aspects so obtained, Ascensional Aspects.

It should be noted in passing that the Semi-Arc System of Primary Directing, as expounded by Alan Leo in his book, 'The Progressed Horoscope' is deficient in that the planets are, in effect, all directed under the Pole of the ASC, instead of their own Poles. This leads to inaccurate timing of the Directions, except those of the MC and ASC.

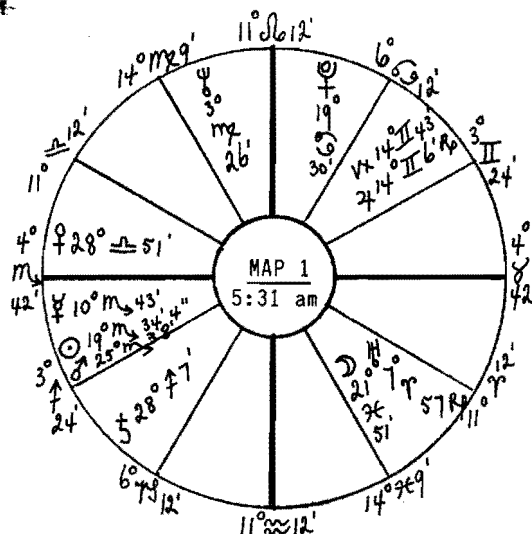

It fell to Wendel Polich and Nelson Page of Argentina to point out and develop the correct procedure for Primary Directing. These two must be reckoned the outstanding astrologers of the century. A study of their works is a revelation to those who have been content with the relatively crude and often widely inaccurate Secondary Progressions, Solar-Arc, One-Degree and other symbolic directions, or who rely principally on transits. Transits, when stationary, have the force and effect of a Primary Direction, but otherwise their role is principally to trigger off the Directions or Progressions then current. Most experienced astrologers find that transits are occasionally absent altogether at critical junctures in the life.

The system of Primary Directing I have outlined above is a joy to use for its accuracy and reliability, and eclipses all other methods with which I am familiar. In many years of astrology, I have tested the Secondary System (Direct and Converse), the Radix System, Solar-Arc, One-Degree and some other symbolic directions, obtaining partial success with each one but never being wholly satisfied until, through the good offices of that highly respected astrologer, the Rev. Ralph Holden of South Australia, I was introduced to the writings of the Argentinian School.

It is unfortunate that only one of the important works of this School has been translated into English, but those who, like myself, find the goal sufficiently attractive, will not balk at acquiring a reading knowledge of Spanish in order to further their astrological skills and insight. Spanish is relatively easy for anyone who has done some Latin, Italian or French, and, as with any foreign language, it opens a new world to the enquirer.

Here, then, are the Primary Directions applied to the two Charts in question. Map 1 is the original Nativity of Princess Grace, drawn up strictly to the recorded birth time, 5:31 am. Map 2 is the Chart advocated by Gwyn Turner, calculated for the time of 4:58 am. In this Chart the earlier time has naturally made a difference to the positions of the more quickly moving bodies, and I have re-calculated them accordingly.

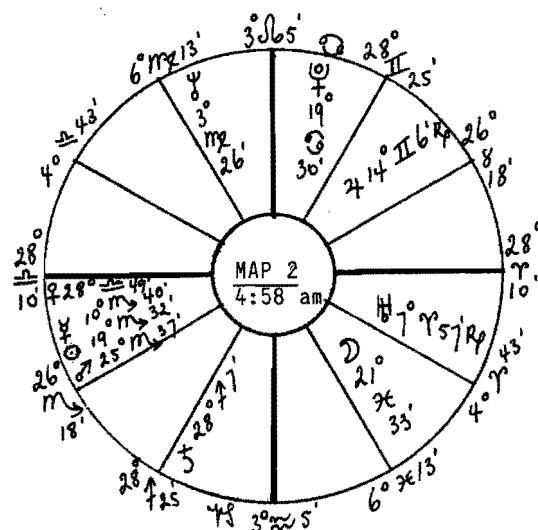

The first event given by Gwyn, for which a precise

PRINCESS GRACE OF MONACO

Born 12/11/1929
Philadelphia, USA
75 W 10, 39 N 37

Topocen- Placi-tric dean
Cusps Cusps

date is not quoted, is Princess Grace's winning of an Oscar for best actress, at age 25. Gwyn gives the Primary Direction for this event in Map 2 as MC trine Saturn which occurred on 20th February, 1955.

But for this epoch in Grace Kelly's life, Map 1 shows four appropriate Primary Directions; which in chronological order, are:

Moon trine Venus, on 26/2/55, signifying joy and happiness (Venus) through theatrical activity (Moon in Pisces in the 5th House).

Venus opposite Uranus, on 8/4/1955, signifying joyous (Venus) exhilaration and excitement (Uranus).

Sun conjunct Venus, on 4/6/1955: Of outstanding importance - achievement and prestige (Sun, which rules the House of Career) in the artistic field (Venus).

Jupiter sextile Moon, on 5/7/1955: Jupiter ruling the 5th House aspecting the Moon occupying the 5th is a double emphasis on theatre and celebration - a singularly appropriate aspect for stage success.

It is obvious that the aspect of our Saturn in the speculative Chart is not to be matched with this glittering foursome.

On another unquoted date, Prince Rainier proposed marriage, which took place in April, 1956. For this event Gwyn gives

MC (Leo) sextile Venus, which occurred on 25th October, 1955, (five to six months late), and Progressed Moon at the cusp of the 5th House. I have carefully calculated the exact Placidian 5th Cusp for Gwyn's proposed Chart, as Gwyn favours the Placidus system, though I consider it inferior to the Topocentric system which is just slightly different, and I find that the Progressed Moon made this contact on 24/12/1955 - four months before the event.

As against the above, the Primary Directions for Map 1, the original Birth Chart, are:

Ascendant trine Jupiter (co-ruling the House of love matters) on 27/3/1956 (the engagement),

Sun trine MC on 19/5/1956 - a characteristic Primary Direction for a woman's happy and successful marriage, and less than a month from the actual event, and Venus conjunct Sun on 6/7/1956. The Sun rules the House of status and worldly achievement, so there could hardly be a more distinctive Directional Aspect for a woman's marriage, elevation to royalty and connubial happiness than this.

It is obvious, again, that the Directions for the original Birth Chart completely overshadow those for the speculative Chart.

On the 23rd January, 1957, the first daughter, Princess Caroline was born. The Directions cited by Gwyn for Map 2 were: ASC (now in Scorpio) trine Pluto on 6/5/1957, (three and a half months late) and ASC conjunct Sun on 22/5/1957 (four months late).

As regards appropriateness to a birth, the first aspect may perhaps be allowed, as Scorpio is connected with reproduction, but the second is highly dubious as neither the 5th nor 11th House is involved. One would not be justified in prognosticating a birth from this, and anyway both Directions are well past the event.

The Primary Directions for the original Chart are: Uranus conjunct the 5th (Topocentric) Cusp on 9/12/1956, i.e. forty-five days before the birth. Adjusting the birth time by twenty-five seconds only (not thirty-three minutes) would bring Uranus exactly to the 5th Cusp on the precise day of the daughter's birth.

Neptune trine Uranus on 12/12/1956 (42 days before the birth) Neptune rules the 5th House (children) and Uranus the 4th (home); quite appropriate.

The Progressed Moon was in the 5th House of both Charts, and as regards the triggering transit of Mars which Gwyn mentions, this was exactly opposite the ASC of Map 2 on the 25th of January, and opposite Venus in Map 1 on the 26th of January. Map 1 gave a further and more precise triggering by the passage of the Moon over the ASC on the actual day of the birth.

On first February, 1965, Grace's second daughter was born. For Map 2 Gwyn gives the Primary Direction - ASC conjunct Mars. This occurred on 15/3/1965, close enough to be taken into account, but it can hardly be admitted as indicative of a birth, as Mars has no power in either the 5th or 11th House. Mars's trine aspect to the Moon does not make it a Significator of children.

In both Maps, however, the birth is indicated by the position of Neptune (ruling the 5th House) stationary on the Sun on 19th February, 1965. As experience shows, a stationary transit has the effectiveness of a Primary Direction. In addition, however, Map 1 shows Uranus retrograding at 14 Virgo 3 on the day of the birth, and this would be exactly conjunct the 11th (Topocentric) Cusp if one made the 25-second adjustment to the birth-time mentioned earlier. The 11th Cusp, as well as the 5th is involved with children, being the 5th reckoned from the spouse's ASC (7th Cusp).

We come now to the final dramatic event in Princess Grace's life, her death on 14th September, 1982, following a motoring accident. The Palace surgeons identified the cause as a brain haemorrhage occurring while the Princess was driving. This is where Gwyn's case for her changed birth-time really falls to pieces. For Map 2 Gwyn cites a Primary Direction, a Secondary Progression and some transits, in particular one by Pluto and one by Saturn:

Primary Direction MC square Saturn. In the Chart that Gwyn relies on this did not occur until the 11th of July, 1983 - ten months beyond the event!

Secondary Progression, Mercury opposite MC. The date of this Progression was the 27th of June, 1983 - nine and a half months late.

Pluto transiting the Libra ASC was two degrees 42 minutes away from the ASC, and was not exact until 23/11/1983. As a timing device it is useless, and the same applies to Saturn transiting the ASC on 13/11/1982. Neither of these planets was stationary, in which case they would have had greater significance. Saturn transiting quincunx the Moon occurred on 18/9/1982, which was close enough to the event, but was not even of use as a timing device without some major Directions or Progressions within at least two months of the death.

Contrast the above with the super-accuracy and appositeness of the Primary Directions for Map 1, the original Birth Chart:

Saturn square IC/MC on 14/9/1982 - the very day of death! Saturn rules the 3rd House (roads and transport) and the IC stands for terminations. In my earlier article on Princess Grace, due to a small error in calculating the Pole of Saturn, I gave this Primary Direction as falling due on 2nd of October, 1982, which is 18 days after the event, and still close enough; but being challenged on the issue, I re-calculated everything and discovered that this Direction did indeed fall due on the day of death. In case anyone wants to check this out for himself, here are the data: Saturn - 28 Sagit 7. Celestial Latitude, $05^{\circ}1'$; Declination, $22^{\circ}35'$; Right Ascension, $267^{\circ}57'37''$; Meridian Distance, $45^{\circ}41'33''$; Nocturnal Semiarc, $110^{\circ}23'24''$; Pole, $19^{\circ}7'18''$, which is calculated by the Topocentric formula, $\tan^{-1}[(MD/SA) \times \tan \text{Lat. of birth } (39^{\circ}57')]$; Oblique Ascension under that Pole, $276^{\circ}15'8''$; difference between this Oblique Ascension and $224^{\circ}10'21''$ is $52^{\circ}4'46''$ ($224^{\circ}10'21''$ is the Oblique Ascension under Saturn's Pole of the Ecliptic point, 11 Scorpio 12, where Saturn forms the square to the IC/MC axis); divide $52^{\circ}4'46''$ by the time measure for one year - $59^{\circ}8.33'$ (365.256 of Sidereal Time) and we get 52.8379 years; adding this to the decimalized date of Birth, 1929.8662 gives 1982.7041, or 14th September, 1982. All this is tedious by Logarithms but dead easy with a programmed calculator. I use the Casio FX-602P, and have developed programmes that accommodate all the above and give the final result in a few seconds.

There are two other powerful Primary Directions in Map 1 to signal Princess Grace's death. They are: Moon opposite Mercury, on 19/9/1982, which is symptomatic of the brain haemorrhage that caused the accident. Note that it is only five days removed from the date of death.

Mercury square Saturn, on 30/10/1982. Mercury rules the House of death, while Saturn rules the House of roads and transport, and is Co-Ruler of the 4th House (end of life). This Primary Direction is still only forty six days away from the date of the accident.

Gwyn makes further reference to Princess Grace's life events - her appendicectomy at age 30. Again, a precise date is not quoted. There are Secondary Progressions that are common to both Maps, but a much more vivid indication is given by the Primary Directions in Map 1:

Pluto square Sun, and Pluto square Moon, both on the same day, 11/12/1959, the one by direct and the other by converse ascensional motion. The Natal Sun in Scorpio conjunct Mars has specific reference to an inflamed appendix, particularly as the conjunction occurs in the 1st House and Mars rules the 6th (sickness). Pluto in this Birth Chart is the dispositor of the Sun.

Why didn't these powerful Directions result in death? Because there was no connection with either the 8th House (death) or the 4th House (end of life), as there was on the 14th September, 1982, repeated several times: Saturn square the 4th Cusp, Mercury ruling the 8th square to Saturn, and again the Moon opposite Mercury (8th).

The above catalogue of Ascensional Directions appertaining to Map 1, the original Birth Chart, demolishes any claims made for the authenticity of Map 2. There is nothing more convincing than 'hard' aspects over a long period, accurate as to time and specifically relevant to the life events of the native.

Nevertheless, as Gwyn goes into the subjective side, let us take a look at this too. Unfortunately, space being so limited, this will have to wait until the July 'Forum'.

Those correspondents whose contributions could not be accommodated in the present issue will have first claim on space in the next one.

After the pruning of some 'dead wood', the distribution of "Astrologers' Forum" has been restricted to some 50 copies. This keeps the project within economic bounds. Each copy of an enlarged issue like the present one costs 98p, or $1.46 if posted overseas. Ways are continually being sought to reduce the overall cost, so that there can be a corresponding increase in the number of recipients. The prime aim, however, remains the development of Astrology, and not the curtailment of expenditure.

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock
19th June, 1983.

Astrologers' Forum

A FREE MONTHLY INTERCHANGE OF IDEAS AND INFORMATION FOR ASTROLOGERS
EDITED AND PUBLISHED BY DYMCK BROSE, 86 CLARENCE ROAD, BLACKHEATH,
N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. TEL: [0471] 87 8874.

ISSUE No. 22, 19TH MAY, 1983

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

You will be interested to know that "Astrologers' Forum" is now going to a few readers in foreign countries (France, Germany, Switzerland and Argentina) as well as to N.Z. and England. This is a start. I hope to make 'Forum' within a year or two a truly international publication in that it will provide a ready means for advanced astrologers to exchange ideas, information and experience. It is unfortunate that air-mail costs out of and into Australia are so high. This necessarily limits the number of letters that can be sent overseas, and also those who are willing to write from foreign parts.

Quite a few extra names have been added recently to the Australian mailing list, and I am anxious to hear of any other likely participants. One unfortunate result is that I may have to delete names of those who, though receiving 'Forum' for many months, have not taken any part in the discussions or pooling of information. This is not discrimination but economic necessity. I would exclude from this cost-cutting measure those non-participants who have generously sent a donation towards expenses. They evidently consider 'Forum' an educational medium worth paying for, which is gratifying, and they will continue to receive it.

From GEOFFREY DEAN (W.A.):

Truth and Falsity in Astrology

This is my response to Ralph Holden's reply (Issue 21) to the four questions I had put to him (Issues 16, 18, 21) in the interests of furthering our debate on truth and falsity in Astrology. By truth and falsity I mean the problem of how do we know whether chart indications are true or false.

The issues underlying this debate are spelt out in Issue 18 pages 3-4. For the benefit of new readers this is what has happened so far:

1. Holden (Issue 15) questioned my various challenges to astrologers to demonstrate the truth of their beliefs, and pointed out that everything depends on what is meant by truth.
2. I pointed out (Issues 16,18) that Holden's comments amounted to saying that Astrology is a belief system.
3. I am now seeking to clarify whether it is or not. Such clarification is central to the problem of truth and falsity in Astrology because:
 1. If Astrology is only a belief system, discussion of truth and falsity is pointless since one person's beliefs are as good as another's.
 2. But Astrology is surely more than a belief system. Thus it makes distinctly concrete claims, like people with X in their charts will on average be more X-ish than those without X.

3. This means that if Astrology is to be recognised as being more than a belief system, then it stands or falls on whether such claims are true.
4. But all the controlled experimental studies to date (and there have been dozens of them) have found no convincing evidence to support these claims. And this applies whether the studies looked at the whole chart or only isolated factors. Indeed the evidence is so uniformly negative that an international $5000 prize for positive evidence is about to be launched (for details see the next issue of "The Australian Astrologers' Journal").
5. So the evidence so far suggests that Astrology is just a belief system. This does not mean that it cannot be useful or meaningful. The problem is that a belief system has no provision for the detection and elimination of error. So your chart indication could be highly meaningful but dead wrong.
6. The key question is therefore: Why should we believe that Astrology is more than a belief system?

The last point is where this debate is currently at. Please note that I am not arguing in favour of any particular opinion. I am saying only that this is an important issue that deserves clarification. And it was for this reason that I put my four questions to Ralph Holden.

Question 1 was 'How does he know that Astrology works?' In his reply Holden discusses science, scientists, solar motion, and hypotheses in general, but does not tell us how he knows that Astrology works.

Question 2 was 'How does he know that astrological effects are real and beyond ordinary explanation' Holden gives two meanings to effects. (1) Effects = causes, in which case he does not believe that Astrology is causal. (2) Effects = correlations between chart and person which are statistically significant, in which case he does not see statistics as being relevant. Neither point answers the question.

Question 3 was 'In the absence of hard evidence why should we accept his views rather than any other views?' Holden partially debates the nature of hard evidence but does not tell us why we should accept his views rather than any other views.

Question 4 was 'If wrong charts are found to be as readily accepted by clients as right charts ('RA' gives examples of this) what would this mean for Astrology?' Holden suggests this would tell us more about people than about Astrology (whatever that means), and then discusses (1) the merits of one of 'RA's' examples, and (2) the limitations of inductive reasoning. What he doesn't tell us is what it would mean for Astrology.

Thus the only thing which is clear from Holden's reply is his masterly incapacity to give straightforward answers to straightforward questions. That straightforward answers, in simple English undiluted by galloping periphrasis, are entirely possible is demonstrated by our esteemed Editor in Issue 20 page 4. And if our Editor can do it, why not Holden? One can only conclude that Holden is too busy with his fun-filled life to be serious about this debate on truth and falsity in Astrology.

Accordingly, in the interests of furthering this debate, I invite other readers to send in their answers to my four questions, plus their answer to a fifth question as follows:

Question 5. Having (in your previous answers) given your ideas about whether Astrology is or is not a belief system, what sort of evidence would make you change your mind?

It is to be hoped your answers will help to clarify the issues, in which case this debate will have been successful. In response to Dymock's invitation (Issue 20) I will answer my own questions in due course.

Of course, the above is a serious subject, but your 'esteemed Editor' was doubled up with mirth over Geoffrey's colourful Cancerian phrases 'galloping periphrasis' and (in an earlier missive) 'relentless prolixity'. I'm sure Ralph Holden was equally entertained by the 'good Doctor' (Ralph's expression).

Marguerite and I find it all vastly amusing, even if the philosophical depths are beyond our simple minds. Well, back to my own fun-filled life. - Dymock.

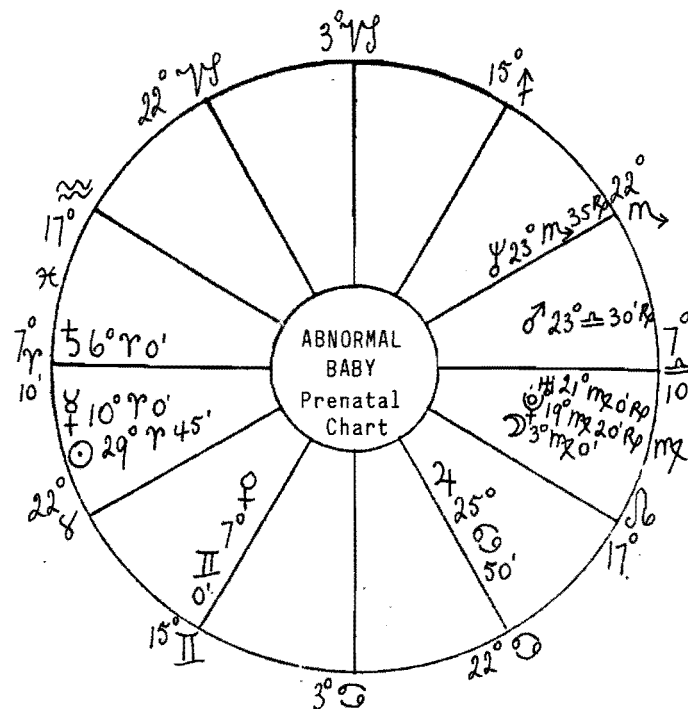

From GWYN TURNER (N.S.W.): I would also like to make some extra comments on the Contest Chart of a deformed baby. After doing the prenatal epoch by Alan Leo's formula in his book 'Casting the Horoscope' page 64 to 66 (prenatal chart herewith) it is quite obvious that the malformation occurred during the embryonic state. This standard procedure shows that the Moon's place at birth is the ASC at conception, and the ASC or DESC at birth is the Moon's place at conception.

The formula of Alan Leo is quite simple and far outweighs Bailey's method in simplicity. I have used it for many years with excellent results, but must admit that the time given must be fairly near. It is of great value when determining the end of one Sign and the beginning of another.

According to the Contest Chart and the Formula, the Moon increasing in light and above the Horizon is a distance of 34 degrees from the DESC, which in turn calls for a minus of 12 from the standard conception period of 273 days. This 261-day period counted back in the ephemeris brings the conception date to the 20th April, 1967, where the Moon will be found at an early degree of Virgo, the ASC at birth. If it had come to the end of Leo, the Birth Chart would have shown Mars opposite the ASC, and Neptune square same, and with the Birth Moon cojoining Saturn, square the Sun. I doubt if the baby would be alive to-day.

Now back to the 20th April, Saturn is still shown at an early degree of Aries, but note that Mercury has also joined it, so that we find the pair conjunct the conception ASC, and this is where the trouble started, in Aries - the head. Note also the Moon in Virgo and the 6th House conjunct Pluto, Rulers of the 4th and 8th Houses. Medical science shows how the pituitary gland, situated deep in the middle of the brain, is the orchestra leader of the ductless glands, which may be termed the Deputy Rulers of mankind. This gland governs assimilation and growth and if abnormal in any way is responsible for the strange and abnormal growths that we see in the occasional freaks of nature.

the formation and structure of the physical body. It was while I was examining this factor in some horoscopes taken from my files of children born with deformities that this interesting pattern emerged, showing abnormalities that might otherwise go unexplained. Each of the five Charts mentioned had the same pattern, although where Mercury was involved in one Chart the child was definitely an imbecile.

I met personally some of these children, when in the Phillipines, where many were taken in the hope of cures by the Phillipine healers. An interesting lecture was given by their President, pointing out that cures for children deformed from pregnancy were practically impossible to cure by their method. Physical ills brought on during life were possible. I saw many of these cures with my own eyes and I must say they were remarkable.

Getting back to my lecture on the prenatal epoch, the National President of the F.A.A. will vouch for the accuracy of the maths and formula of each case presented, and was quite delighted to find that his own Chart conformed to the same formula.

It is only through research that we can uncover some of the secrets that Astrology still holds.

Twins

I am afraid Rudolf Smit has entirely misquoted me in reference to my suggestion regarding the reason why some identical twins are different. I did not suggest the level that these twins had acquired from centuries of incarnations, I imagine a rather difficult feat, but that they both must have arrived at about the same stage of evolution to have been attracted to the same Cosmic pattern, a pattern that may not arrive again, and suggested very minor dissimilar interests from the same department of life, that may account for their appearing different.

[Gwyn also writes about incorrect times of birth, giving her own rectification of Princess Grace's Chart, and comments on present-day systems of Direction. This will appear in the June Forum. -Dymock.]

From AUSTIN LEVY (N.S.W.):

ASTROLOGICAL RESEARCH IN 1983

An Invitation to Astrologers

Have you ever wished you could test some 'pet' astrological theory on a large number of charts, but lacked the data or the facilities with which to make it a reality? Well, here's your chance, using the data collected by the Gauquelins on almost 20,000 famous people, each with an accurate birth time. If you have an idea for research that you think could add to our understanding of astrology, given some testing, then I'd like to hear from you. At this stage, the most important thing is feedback - getting a sample of research ideas together so that appropriate experiments can be made on this data.

Naturally, any results published later would include credit for the idea, and you will be kept personally informed of the progress and results of your particular project from start to finish. You will also be able to comment (and it is to be hoped, improve) upon the ideas of others, as it is planned to publish a summary of all the ideas received in a few months' time. At present there are already some hypotheses being tested on the data, but shortly there will be computer time available to test others, such as yours! If you feel that rigorous research is the province of scientists alone, then now is the time to come forward, because all that has changed. Here is a chance for practising astrologers to get some vital feedback on their case-history work at a more general level. Obviously, the only limit to what can be tested, is that imposed by the nature of the available data, which will now be discussed.

The Gauquelins made their original studies on famous professionals in the following categories:

1) Sports champions	2,088
2) Scientists	3,646
3) Painters and musicians	2,722
4) Actors and politicians	2,412
5) Military men	3,047
6) Writers	2,027

The figures on the right indicate the number of subjects in each group. These are all European subjects, but there are an additional 1,714 U.S. subjects too, which are also available for study. Clearly, by any previous standards this is a huge amount of astrological data. The information on each subject includes:

- a) Raw birth data - date, place, time etc.
- b) Planetary longitudes Sun - Pluto, plus Moon, True Node, Asteroids (Ceres, Pallas, Juno, Vesta), Chiron, Transpluto.
- c) Placidus House cusps.
- d) Gauquelin sector positions (36 sector divisions).
- e) Character traits noted in objective biographical sources for that subject. NB: The number of traits for each individual varies greatly and only those traits which occur 20 times or more throughout the entire professional groups are retained.

This is a comprehensive amount of detail, all the more useful because it allows tests to be done where personality is the criterion rather than just the profession, although this is still of great interest, and can provide an alternative starting point for investigation.

An example of a viable research idea might be to look at say Sun-Mars aspects in the charts of sports champions, a logical enough proposition since Gauquelin found Mars strong in the diurnal sectors above rise and culmination. Against these, we could compare un-championlike people like painters and musicians, who avoid Mars according to Gauquelin. I personally find this idea interesting because I have a brother who was a champion athlete, and who doesn't have Mars in one of the key sectors stipulated by Gauquelin, but who does have an exact Sun-Mars conjunction!

The next stage for this idea would be to look at people across the board who are described as being 'courageous, daring, aggressive, competitive, etc.', and see what results are obtained. The Gauquelins claim that the effects are stronger for personality than for profession, so there should be an improvement in correlations as this step is taken. This example just given is simply intended as an illustration, and your ideas can be either traditional notions or entirely new and original ones. It is important, though, that ideas be clearly stated, to avoid misconceptions about what you want to test. Group efforts are more than welcome.

Significant areas of interest using this data could include:

- a) Signs of the Zodiac (Tropical only)
- b) Houses (Placidus only)
- c) Aspects (or lack of)
- d) Rulerships of Signs and Houses
- e) Midpoint structures
- f) Harmonics
- g) Planetary cycles

This list is by no means exhaustive, and each item could lead to dozens of hypotheses in itself, so the limit is really only your imagination!

Next, a point needs to be made regarding interpretation of results from astrology experiments. Considerable argument has ensued over the years concerning the role and value of statistics in astrological research. Negative reactions to statistics are invariably the result of an association formed between statistics and reductionist (and usually heavily sceptical) science. This view, which has gained considerable currency in recent years (due in no small measure to the activities of both the pro- and anti-statistics forces in astrology) is misleading and often downright false. The bald facts are that statistics never have been, and never will be, the criterion of absolute truth - they simply acknowledge what we all know to be a truism, that our view of the world is imperfect (which is presumably why we want to do research in the first place), and given that fact, help us to minimise errors of judgement and thence the likelihood of accepting false ideas. Like a criminal jury, we would like to be sure 'beyond all reasonable doubt' that the conclusions we reach are correct before we accept the new ideas contained in them, or conversely, retain the old ones.

Statistics are simply a more refined way of making comparisons of the kind we do in everyday life without their benefit. In life-and-death situations, like crossing a busy intersection, we have the cognitive capabilities for making correct, split-timing decisions, but this is not always so when we are dealing with large amounts of impersonal information, and where the standards of discrimination are considerably less than ideal. Here the impartiality of a statistical approach is vastly superior to our own, at least in a discriminative sense. The comparisons implicit in the statistical method mirror our own perceptions of the real world, and without them all observation, personal or scientific, would be meaningless.

Thus, if we say that the weather is very hot today, we are really saying that compared with the average weather which our body is used to, today is rather hotter than normal. But if we say that today is twice as hot as yesterday, this statement is meaningless until we know what yesterday's temperature actually was. Closer to the point, if we conclude that chain-smokers have a serious-illness rate of 50% (say) at age 50, this also is meaningless unless we know what the illness rate for a similar-sized group of non-smokers is at the same age, since it could be anywhere from zero to 100%, thus entirely altering our conclusions about the relationship between smoking and illness. It is intended to apply similar such comparisons to any idea tested using the Gauquelin data (usually called controls), so that meaningful conclusions can be reached, since that is all we are really interested in.

Finally, proposals for research ideas should be sent to me as follows: Austin Levy, PO Box 217, Holme Building, University of Sydney 2006, AUSTRALIA, Tel. (02) 692 9816.

Replies will be acknowledged within two weeks of receipt, including any points needed for clarification of your idea. A summary of all the ideas received will be published later to facilitate more general feedback, and it is hoped many of the projects will commence immediately after that process. The data is currently being stored on a Prime mainframe computer at the New South Wales Institute of Technology, where it will be analysed in any subsequent experiments. I hope you send your ideas in shortly, and good luck with them!

Retrograde Progressions

From ALFRED ALBAN (VIC.): I accept Charles E.O. Carter's observations in "Astrologers' Forum", Issue No. 21, that retrograde planets operate more constructively. My own experience confirms this; also Allan Johnson's observations of retrograde and direct motions of planets. I have Jupiter retrograde at birth, which turned direct in 1966 in Progression, bringing about a complete change in my life.

From JENIFER POMMERIN (W.A.): From personal observation here are two results of a change in direction: 1. The year Neptune turned retrograde - Migration to Australia of a practically penniless, non-English-speaking person. A truly Neptunian situation as he was virtually imprisoned by lack of knowledge, no friends, family, etc., and at the mercy of others. 2. The year Jupiter turned direct - Travel to America to expand business interests, renew sporting contacts, see and enjoy a different style of living. Most aims were achieved easily - the only disappointment being unexpected loneliness.

From RAY WEBB (N.S.W.) (Ed. 'Review Astrological Monthly')

U.F.O.'s

I wonder whether any 'Forum' readers have looked at charts based on the time flying saucers have been sighted in this country? About 8 years ago I contacted the U.F.O. Research Society (a rather conservative body) and they were able to give me details on (from memory) seven sightings they considered worthwhile. A study of the charts (hardly enough for definitised conclusions to be drawn) showed nothing worth reporting. In the move from the City to Newtown earlier this year this information was lost, and I was keeping it with a view to a science-fiction-astrological article when more information (and inspiration perhaps) came to hand.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock, 19th May, 1983.

Astrologers' Forum

A FREE MONTHLY INTERCHANGE OF IDEAS AND INFORMATION FOR ASTROLOGERS
EDITED AND PUBLISHED BY DYMCK BROSE, 86 CLARENCE ROAD, BLACKHEATH,
N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. TEL: [047] 87 8874.

ISSUE No. 21, 19TH APRIL, 1983

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

Some copies of the March Issue of Astrologers' Forum were of inferior quality, unfortunately, due to the inadequacy of the photo-copying equipment. Under the Oblique-Ascension Direction of Pluto square to the Midheaven I spent several days and train trips going from one printer to another trying to obtain a satisfactory result. If the copy you received was not up to standard, I offer my apologies, and assure you I am doing everything within my means to keep the standard of legibility as high as possible. -Dymock.

From GEOFFREY DEAN (W.A.): In Issue 20 Dymock states that my 4 questions (Issues 16 and 18) were addressed to astrologers. This is incorrect. They were addressed to Ralph Holden in the interests of furthering our debate on truth and falsity in astrology.

Unfortunately, Holden has not replied. Therefore I challenge Holden for the third time to answer these questions.

From RALPH HOLDEN (S.A.): No doubt the fact that I was in places where even Australia Post could not reach me for the last few months came as a welcome relief. However, (even at the risk of 'relentless prolixity') I would like to respond to Dr. Dean's letter of last January.

He proposed four questions:

A. How does one 'know' that astrology 'works'?

How does one 'know' that science 'works'? The answer is that one doesn't really KNOW at all. Rather one BELIEVES, because a sufficient number of experiences are given cohesion and meaning, either by astrology, or by science.

I feel sure that Dr. Dean does not subscribe to the myth of the scientist as an unbiased observer of a totally objective nature, which will tell him about itself if only he observes it impartially enough. The scientist - as much as the astrologer - sees and interprets the world through the lens of his hypotheses about it. (For example, it is a 'hard fact' of observation that the Sun revolves about the Earth each day, as any impartial observer may check. If we do not believe this, then our observations have been modified by our beliefs).

One accepts (believes? knows?) that one's hypotheses 'work' if they explain and give coherence to the maximum number of events and phenomena satisfactorily, with the minimum number of inexplicable ones. Apart from the methodological problems associated with 'proof' in inductive science (as has been argued previously), it seems important to remember that 'hard' science cannot handle a number of phenomena which astrology can. Music and art are examples of this.

B. How does one know that astrological 'effects' are 'real' and 'beyond ordinary explanation'?

I am not sure what exactly is being asked. If 'effects' means 'causes', I don't think that I have ever believed that 'the stars do it to us'. I consider astrology to be descriptive, and so would expect that 'what it describes' to be effected or caused by some natural process. M. Gauquelin has made some tentative suggestions as to how 'description' and 'cause' may be related.

If, however, I am being asked whether character descriptions by (say) Sun-Signs are 'statistically significant' (real), and 'beyond chance' (ordinary explanation), I can only say that statistical significance seems to be rather a long way from any concept that talks about a 'real world out there, separate from our interpretations of it'.

C. In the absence of 'hard evidence' why should we accept (my) views rather than any other view?

What this curious world of 'hard evidence' is all about - and what are appropriate frameworks for examining the astrological phenomenon - is the reason for this exchange. It does not seem very useful if one party says, 'Statistical evaluation may not be the most appropriate way to handle astrology', and the other replies, 'If you can't prove that statistically why should I believe you?'.

D. If wrong charts are found to be as readily acceptable by clients as right charts ('RA' gives examples of this) what would this mean for astrology?

Presumably (as Dr. Dean points out in the next section of 'Recent Advances') it will have a similar implication as the same kind of gullibility study had for psychology. That is (as Dymock said in the March 'Forum') it tells us more about people than about either astrology or psychology. Indeed, one can find 'excuses' for astrology, as those who responded to falsified general horoscopes through newspaper advertisements would very likely have been those with a real sense of need in their lives. Thus far from being a random sample, they were probably a group with a high 'gullibility factor'.

Messages with a far less rational content given by religious sects are responded to with even greater enthusiasm; presumably because they also give the promise of meaning to those with personal needs. Nor are we required to admit (as the form of the question seems to imply) that 'wrong charts GENERALLY are found to be readily acceptable by ALL clients'. As - in the astrological tests - over 70% did not respond to their horoscopes, one may assume that this group was not overly impressed with what they received.

However, in this test - as in the 'match-the-Sun-Sign' style of test - there seems to be a conceptual conflict. The astrological method is, in important respects, opposite to the inductive (scientific) one. The scientist begins with an array of particulars and seeks to extract from them certain common factors, which are then analysed and quantified. The astrologer on the other hand, begins with a number of common factors which are then refined until they apply uniquely to one given person. So far as I can see, this is a path which inductive science cannot follow.

Because of this necessary limitation in its own methodology however, I would raise the question whether science is properly able to demand that it should be allowed to take what is essentially bad astrology, and examine that in order to determine whether or not it is good science.

From ROD. and COLLEEN BRANDT (QLD.): In regard to Lindy Chamberlain, we certainly agree with the comments both from Carol Squires and Dymock and also from Ed. and Gwynn. The Yod, Grand Trine, Mystic Rectangle and the series of sextiles forming a Cradle with a hood certainly make for one very powerful lady. As regards the ASC however, we think that we have to look more deeply into the complex nature of the woman than has already been done. In Brisbane, Channel 7 and State Affair both had a news team in Darwin for the duration of the trial and every night we had her for dinner so to speak.

We had plenty of time to study her from a detached point of view and the main thing that stood out to us, was Scorpio/Pluto and Leo. Although we found out only days before the trial verdict that she had a Pisces Sun we were in agreement that Scorpio and Leo were very strong in her Chart. Note that almost every day of the trial she had a different dress on and the hair was always done to perfection. Also, she never missed a chance to do an interview or pose for press photos in the time leading up to the trial - all Leo traits.

We looked to see what was in Scorpio that would accentuate that Sign for the ASC, but the only planet in Scorpio at her time of birth was Chiron, and not enough is known about this tiny planetoid to give the Sign the power that we felt it needs for it to be on the ASC. Because we felt the Scorpio influence was very strong in her life, the other alternative is Pluto. Pluto at her time of birth was at 13° Leo, so we put it on the ASC and worked out a birth time from there. We came to a birth time of 4:52 p.m. on the 4th March, 1948. This puts the powerful triple conjunction in the ASC. It also puts the Moon in Capricorn in the 5th, where we feel it should be, and the Sun in the 7th as the focal point of the Yod, indicating religious service and research with her partner. If you put in Transpluto at 4 Leo in the 12th it adds another dimension to the Chart.

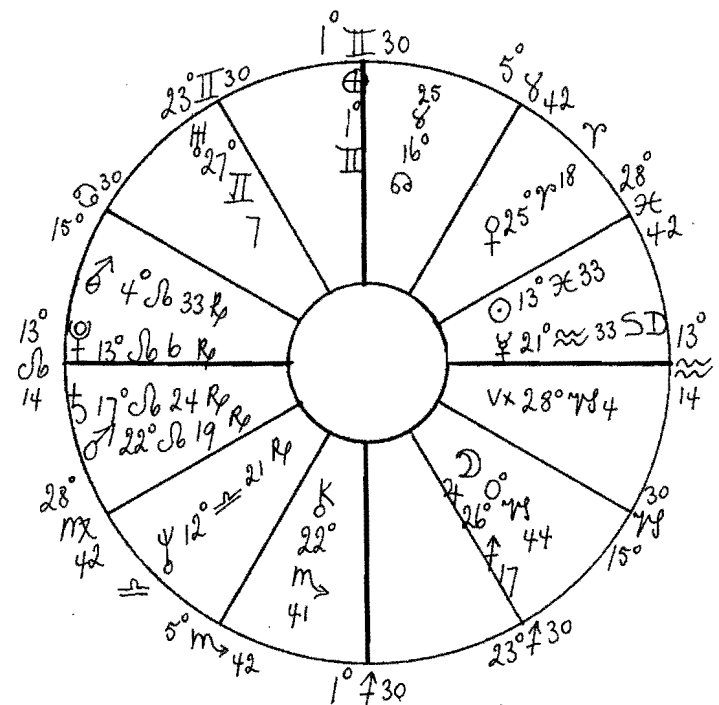

John Robert Hawkins in his book on Transpluto, states about the midpoint of Mars/Transpluto, upon which the ASC and Pluto are exactly placed, 'brutal and bloodied crimes; decapitation; severed throats; rash determination; powerful, brutal; extreme endurance, stubbornness'. All of this seems to fit her personality very well. If the time is correct, and again we can only speculate, she was born with those conditions built into her personality and her crime at that point in her life was inevitable.

Also worth noting is the Mars, Pluto, ASC conjunction indication that she would not hesitate to use sex to further her ambitions etc. This comes in with her latest pregnancy, timed to terminate on or around the trial verdict, so as to make people feel sorry for her if things went against her. This is precisely what did happen. We haven't had a lot of time to work on the Progressions but we have checked out the transits, and there are plenty of them for the various events, and they all seem to tie in with the Leo ASC Chart.

[Rod and Colleen had evidently intended to include a time chart for the murder or disappearance of baby daughter Azaria, but unfortunately this was omitted. They make specific reference to Arabian Parts in the Chart (which may still be forthcoming) as well as pertinent correlations with the mother's Chart. Rod adds that he has done a lot of work on the transits for the various events - the trial, verdict, appeal, and the second appeal date, etc. - and could probably write a short story on the transits alone.]

ALICE LYNNE CHAMBERLAIN
Speculative Chart

Born 4th March, 1948 at Whakatane, N.Z. (177E1, 37S57)
Chart for G.M.T. 5:22 am on 4th March. N.Z. time,
5:22 pm. Placidian Cusps.

The Contest Chart

From RUDOLF SMIT (VIC.): I wish to make some extra comment on the native behind the Contest Chart. I have searched through some literature on human monstrosities (such as people with two heads, four legs, tails, and so on), and there it was stated that the cause of a lot of these malformations is not known. Obviously, strong malformations occur during the embryonic state. In such cases I think the horoscope of the conception should provide some clues (in theory. It is extremely hard to define the moment of conception, even with the new technique of in-vitro fertilization). As for the Native of the Contest Chart, she seemed a normal baby at birth. It became apparent only after some months that something definitely was wrong. And it was certainly not caused by poisoning or whatever.

As for astrological clues, it may be interesting to know the findings of Dr. C. Kuypers, a G.P.-astrologer in Holland, who was the only astrologer a few years ago, when I put this Chart to the test of my group, who was aware of something medically wrong - to be more accurate, a deformity. He based this on the fact that during his practice of 40 years he had delivered some babies with deformities, and a majority of them had Neptune conjunct the IC, just as in the case of the Contest-Baby. As for the opposition of Neptune to Algol, it must be borne in mind that such an opposition is not, in first instance person-bound, but generation-bound. We all know that Neptune moves extremely slowly, which means that millions and millions of people have been born with that opposition. As for the fact that this opposition took place, in the Chart of this giant baby on the MC/IC axis, it must also be borne in mind that thousands of babies are born every second all over the world, and therefore hundreds on the same Meridian and many tens in the same country. Yet, a giant baby is still an extremely rare case. Hence there must be many more factors than astrological ones only to determine the way a native will ultimately develop.

Twins

Once again this is illustrated in twins. As for that I am very glad that at last some astrologers have reacted to my initial remarks and questions in this matter. In particular the elaborate remarks of Allan Johnson are of great value. They tie in precisely with the observations of child-psychology, namely that indeed one of the two twins appears to be the extravert, and the other the introvert. This points precisely to the environmental factor as well, and makes clear that if one wants to judge a horoscope the environmental factors, and other factors for that matter, have to be taken into account. Rheinholdt Ebertin has said it already in his CSI: 'The cosmic factor alone is never sufficient nor ever can be'. As for esoteric explanations, such as given by Gwyn Turner, they are very nice, but are of not much practical use, as the 'level of a person, acquired from centuries of incarnations' cannot be determined in any way from a horoscope, let alone from two horoscopes that are virtually the same, as in twins.

Princess Grace

A final remark I'd like to make about the controversy as regards the ASC of Princess Grace. I simply do not understand why there is still a debate on the birth time when, (a), a very precise birth time has been given on the birth-certificate (5:31 a.m.), and when, (b), Dymock has made his point very clear that for this birth time the Primary Directions in his system relating to the tragic event of September last year provide excellent proof. The same by the way for my PEA. I felt no need either to change the birth time. When an accurate birth time is given, then it is not right at all to shift it along only for the sake of 'what ought to be'. There is no reason whatsoever, incidentally, to assume that a woman with a Scorpio ASC cannot be beautiful, or have the kind of Princess Grace's beauty. By the way, has anyone ever thought of all the astrological rules for physiognomy as regards Chinese, Japanese and Negroid people?

From Christine JAMES (N.S.W.): The Ascendant aspects are terribly important because the whole chart has to filter through this point. A friend of mine, an astrologer, recently had the chart of an epileptic, subnormal youth, and it showed up by squares to the Ascendant, and planets in the First (Mars).

Retrogradation

Regarding retrograde planets I recently had a client whose Jupiter was going retrograde there and then. He was a prominent businessman born 2nd October, 1942, with Jupiter in Cancer in the First House together with Pluto in Leo in the First.

He had had to sell his failing business because of the recession and go and work for someone else for the first time in his life, and take orders from someone else, which he was finding very hard. From being a sunny outgoing, fairly optimistic person (at work—Sagittarius ruled the 6th cusp), he had become a reflective, introspective loner, and this change quite worried him. His confidence had been badly shaken and he found it desperately hard to be an employee. He was fascinated by astrology a year ago when I did his Chart, and in the year between our interviews had done much reading on astrology and philosophy etc.

My own T-squared Mercury went retrograde in 1969. I spent the stationary period in London for three months - my first visit back after tramping round the world and finally emigrating here. I 'hit' London at the time of Harold Wilson, The Beatles, Hair, Carnaby Street; and London was on fire and totally alive. I remember a dinner party where there were three TIMES correspondents, an art critic and a Japanese conductor and some musicians, and it seemed to me at the time that the conversation was the most stimulating I had ever heard at an 8-hour private dinner, (a funny thing to remember).

London was alive with the 'new deal' and there was much enthusiasm and discussion. I even danced with an American Negro dancer on stage after the show, Hair, was over, when the theatre went wild. I came back to Sydney and simply couldn't convey the excitement of that period the joy and the zest for living. I remember thinking, 'don't try you will spoil it', so I just shut up but I also remember friends coming to visit me saying it was just to see how different and alive I was. My Progressed Moon had also gone into the First House.

I am collecting examples of retrograde-to-direct planets, and vice versa, and especially what happens on the stationary period, both in the Progressed and Natal Charts.

From ALLAN JOHNSON (N.S.W.):

Retrograde Progressions

Since Issue 19 when I mentioned retrograde progressions, I had an interesting chart to do of an escapee from a maximum security prison; details naturally not supplied by the person himself. He has Mercury conjunct

Neptune in the 10th, square Jupiter. At age six his Mercury went retrograde, which may or may not have been important, but the very year his Mercury turned direct was the year he escaped from prison. And of course escaping from a maximum security prison does need an emphasis on Mercury in a very positive way. I think this is a very good example of a change of direction in a planet. Mercury also made the square to Uranus, which is highly appropriate, but I see the two together as a crystallization for the event which took place.

'Retrograde motion is said to weaken planets, and to delay the fruits of their action, though it is debated whether these effects operate only in lessening and hindering benefic action, or whether evil action is also diminished, supposing they are in bad aspect.'

'The present writer has seen no real evidence whatever to lead him to suppose that, in natal astrology, retrogression has a baleful effect. On the contrary, since a retrograde planet moves clockwise in the Ecliptic, i.e., from East to West, so that its Zodiacal motion agrees with its diurnal motion, due to the Earth's rotation, such a body may even be disposed to operate more constructively, other things being equal, than when it is direct.'

- Charles E.O. Carter.

Mundane Strength

From BILL SLAPE (S.A.): It was very interesting for me to read in a recent English astrological research journal, 'Correlation', about personality dimension and the position of planets at birth. I quote: 'Extraverts are significantly more frequently born when Mars and Jupiter have just risen or just passed their upper culmination. The diurnal circle of a planet is divided into twelve Sectors, and the Key Factors where most of the significant results appear are Sector 1, just rising, and Sector 4, just after the upper culmination. Among the main observations, those of the planets Mars, Jupiter and Saturn are specially clearcut. Sports champions, military leaders and business executives were frequently born with Mars in the Key Sectors, actors and politicians with Jupiter in the same Sectors; scientists with Saturn.'

My point of interest was the emphasis given to 'just rising' and 'just after culmination', which places the planets on the Cadent 12th and 9th House side of the Angular cusps. Doris Chase Doane, President of the American Federation of Astrologers and successful writer of many astrological books, states that the power of the Houses wanes progressively from the Angular cusp through the Succedent and Cadent Houses to its weakest point at the Cadent side of the following Angular cusp or, in other words, the strength is at the Angle and continues to wane until the next Angle is reached. She gives an illustration to clarify her statement, and has 40 years of astrological experience, she says, to support her findings. The majority of her astrological compatriots appear to follow along these lines and declare the demarcation point between one House and the next is at the cusp.

This means that any planet conjunct but prior to say, an Angular cusp, would be classed as a Cadent planet. During my astrological studies most of my time has been absorbed by researching the astrological tools we use and, in the case of House cusps, I find it necessary to allow quite an appreciable orb of influence back past the cusp and into the previous House. With Angular cusps I extend this as much as 8°, depending on various factors like House distortion, etc.

As regards the intermediate cusps, I am still plugging away into various House systems, but to establish any form of appreciable value is most difficult. For me the Placidus system gives the greatest satisfaction and reliably 'works' with the most consistency. As an example, just recently charts of both Placidus and Koch, completed by me, showing the astrological configurations of a person born in London, displayed a discrepancy of 23° between the 11th House cusps of the two systems. As usual the Placidus system 'fitted'.

Unlike the House cusp, and contrary to popular opinion I feel that the demarcation line between one astrological Sign and the next is a very fine one. A person is born with his Sun in either one Sign or the next. Thus the so-called 'cusper' cannot share the attributes of the adjacent two Signs because of the Sun's position, unless of course the Sun is 'straddling' the cusp.

However, the Sign we were born under, the Ascendant Sign, not always 'displays' its attributes. Personally, I feel from my observations, that the ASC Sign maintains authority over the physical body, but the East Point, which can be the Sign before or after the ASC can play a prominent role in how a person projects himself to others. The East Point evidences as the deep down of the other self rising to the surface, a more definite and heavier mask to be worn, like an actor doing his part, - however, that's yet another subject for discussion.

From MARY REGTS (W.A.): Regarding Australia's bush fires, briefly, ♄, ☿ and ♀ all in ♈ - ♄, expansion; ♀, smoke, gases; ☿, air, explosives, etc. This was a disastrous omen for Australia (geographically governed by ♈). This is so easy to say in hindsight, too much like stating the obvious. A mundane chart at the February new Moon (from memory) showed ♄ and ☿ in Angles aspecting Australia. There was probably a recent eclipse degree involved as well.

Drought conditions for Australia in the '80's have been predicted for years, so it doesn't even take an astrologer to realise that the country, like a tinder box, needs little to set off the spark at any time.

Conservationists, too, are a minority, who can see how an eroded country loves its trees that attract rainfall and produce water supplies. The thinking goes a bit woolly there - more growth can also mean more fire danger - but it could also mean that more precautions would remain enforced. Green vegetation, forests, etc., surely ignite more slowly than the drought-stricken eroded areas.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock, 19th April, 1983.

Astrologers' Forum

(FORMERLY 'CIRCULAR LETTERS' TO ASTROLOGERS)

A FREE MONTHLY INTERCHANGE OF IDEAS AND INFORMATION FOR ASTROLOGERS
EDITED AND PUBLISHED BY DYMCK BROSE, 86 CLARENCE ROAD, BLACKHEATH,
N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. TEL: [047] 87 8874.
ISSUE No. 20, 19TH MARCH, 1983

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

An interesting batch of letters has been received this month. Here they are:

From JAMES McKEAGUE (N.S.W.): Rudolf Smit's contest Chart and result were most interesting, but I would question the value and the efficacy of the contest as far as astrology is concerned. Traditionally, astrology is held to have evolved from the repeated observations of celestial patterns coinciding with terrestrial happenings (Tetrabiblos, Book I, Chapter 2). Is it likely then that a "one-in-a-million" baby such as this could be pinpointed utilizing astrological techniques? Would not all astrological techniques applied to this Chart be much more likely to point to a baby which, in all probability, will adhere to various norms? The fact that this baby does not, merely shows that astrology is not a 100% perfect guide to humankind and the universe.

I'm sure that anyone holding this view would be very keen, as I am, to read Austin Levy's own explanation as to exactly how he arrived at his close-to-correct decision, notwithstanding his use of an inaccurate Chart! A 'psychic source', as Rudolf hints?

From AUSTIN LEVY (N.S.W.):

The 'Contest Chart'

I feel honoured to have been awarded the $50 prize for the Contest Chart, and thank both Rudolf and Marguerite for their kind comments. However, I would like to dispel the notion that my analysis of the Chart was either guesswork or psychic intuition, although that may seem to have been the case since I was working with the earlier, partly incorrect, Chart. Of the planets which were incorrectly stated, only Pluto was involved in my reasoning, and it moved a couple of Signs, so it still remained in aspect to the same planets. In publishing the results, Rudolf did not include my astrological reasoning with my conclusions, so I will explain now what made my opinion of the Chart fairly clear-cut.

It is my experience that the charts of the eminent are very often not too different from those of the greatly handicapped - usually there is just a subtle change of emphasis, and that can often come about simply because of the influence of one syndrome in the chart. In asking myself whether this Chart belonged to the former or latter category, naturally I looked at the Angles, where we find Jupiter rising and Mars setting. Since this combination is often found in the charts of the successful (i.e. any strong Jupiter/Mars contact), it did look as if this might be the Chart of such a person. However, since I had done a small study of the charts of autistic children and found that the Mars/Jup. aspect or midpoint seemed to be involved very frequently, I did not discount another possible interpretation for it. What swung me overwhelmingly the other way, was the Moon/Saturn conjunction in the 8th House. This conjunction is frequently found in connection with repressed, inhibited, or sick people, or people who are suffering developmental inabilities or blockages. Clearly the extrapolation to hospitalisation or institutionalisation is a logical outcome. Of this aspect, Ebertin says (C.S.I. 374): 'Inhibited, lonely and sad people. The lonely woman or mother ... difficult advancement in life, often alone in life ... estrangement from the mother, isolation'. The picture is very clear. When we add to this the fact that the conjunction is in the 8th, it becomes even more significant. I have always found that people with Sun or Moon contacts with Saturn in or from the 8th invariably have a crisis of role-identity. In one such case where Sun, Moon and Saturn were all conjunct in the 8th, the subject had a sex-change operation. In the present instance, the conflict over role is a biological one, since no successful transition from the infantile state was ever made. I do not claim to have predicted that, for as Rudolf said originally, it really was just about impossible to pick the precise details, but I did feel that it would add to the problems of this Native, not only in her personality but in her relationships as well.

Chart Interpretation

All of this leads me to make a few comments about the nature of the chart interpretation process. It appears to me from reading a lot of astrological literature from all over the world (I currently subscribe to about 12 journals and magazines from different countries), that there is far too much emphasis on factors other than the planets themselves. I do not criticise those who use the Vertex, the Part of Fortune, the House cusps or anything else for that matter, but often there is a really mystifying avoidance of the fundamental planetary structures. For me at least they are really what count in any chart. Take John Lennon's death as an example: The literature was filled with articles 'showing' how the death was predicted by the most obscure, off-beat techniques. Yet for me, the result was, in the words of Geoffrey Dean 'unambiguous', for at the time of Lennon's death his Progressed Sun was exactly opposite Natal Uranus. Ebertin says of this aspect: 'sudden setbacks in life, upsetting experiences, connection with accidents or catastrophes'. Clearly Lennon was due for a life-changing experience of some kind - you don't need 100 indications of this kind to make it work! If astrology has any validity then one should be sufficient, providing it is a reliable one, which, as I have indicated in a previous contribution on prediction, the Secondary Progressed Sun is. Such approaches may seem simplistic to some, yet a plethora of techniques can only lead to ultimate confusion and a consequent inability to make clear and fairly precise estimations of character and events. Another question which I will ask is this: How many astrologers have read Ebertin's book on aspects from cover to cover, and not in just some ad hoc consultatory fashion? It seems to be not too many.

Life Events from the Birth Chart

Another observation: My experience with astrology has lead me to confirm the truth of the old saw, 'Character is Destiny'. I would say that at least 60% of all the life-events of a native should be apparent from the birth chart without any reference to predictive techniques, which simply play a triggering role. Clearly a predisposition to anything should be considered before finding out why an event occurred, whether the field is astrology, medicine, air-crashes or whatever. Yet how often do we find astrologers almost totally ignoring the natal chart in their predictive work! The recent discussions of Princess Grace's death are an almost perfect example of this. Obviously the conjunction of Sun and Mars in Scorpio predisposed her to accidents and injury, particularly in cars, and thence to possible violent death by same. For a parallel, see the Chart of Jayne Mansfield, who died by decapitation in a car accident - a Natal Sun/Mars aspect transformed into a square by progression at the time of her death at age 34. Readers interested in the full details should consult the S.A.R.S. Journal of March/April 1976, where my original article on it appeared. As I have indicated previously, endless case histories prove very little - it is much more important to find the patterns from which we can deduce the relative merits of different approaches, rather than spectacular 'one-offs'.

The Psychic Factor

Regarding the psychic component in interpretation, it would be hard to deny the presence of such factors but I think it is possible to apply the criterion of justifiability to interpretations and predictions. Does the interpretation derive from a clear line of astrological reasoning? If not then we have every right to be suspicious of the source - either guesswork or intuitive hunches, a factor which I have pointed out to Geoffrey Dean regarding his proposed replication of the Vernon Clark experiment (see RA pp 544-549), where astrologers are asked to appraise 120 pairs of charts using any methods, none of which need be justified or explained. Ideally, a psychic control group should be used, in the event that the outcome is favourable to the astrologers, to see whether in fact it could be attributed to psychic rather than astrological perceptions. Even when astrological reasons are given, there is no saying that intuition cannot play a role, but at least it is minimised. It may well be that 'good' astrology consists only partly of astrology, with the rest being taken up by psychic ability, and cues obtained from interviews with clients, since clearly a good chartside manner does no harm at all.

I agree in the main with Austin's observations, but his reference to the discussion in these columns regarding Princess Grace's death is not a good, or fair, example of astrologers not observing the birth chart in relation to life-events. The Princess's Chart was originally cited to illustrate the Eclipse technique suggested by Elva Howson, and subsequently to compare different methods of prognostication. It was not a discussion of the fatality factors in her Nativity, which were obvious enough, and hardly needed elucidation for 'Forum' readers, who are presumed to be beyond the beginners' stage.

I do not have Austin's article on the death of the actress, Jane Mansfield, on 29th June, 1967, but I would suggest that her Natal-Chart aspect of Mars opposite the Moon, the Ruler of her Chart, was a more important factor in relation to her death than the Natal trine of Mars to the Sun. Certainly, the Sun's Progression to the square of Mars on 26th June, 1967, was an effective and closely-timed trigger for the Natal afflictions.

It is true individual case histories prove very little, but their investigation is the only way we have of establishing the patterns that Austin talks about. So we need to continue along these lines, which is not hard to do anyway, as the subject is of fascinating interest.

- Dymock.

From CLAIR BUNNETT (VIC.): I was naturally delighted to win the Consolation prize. It did seem that the Mercury (mind) in the mystery Chart was afflicted. A further Mercury midpoint to the one I mentioned would be Neptune at the exact midpoint of the planets Mercury and Uranus, indicating nerve troubles. And, as Marguerite pointed out, this Neptune midpoint would be linked with Algol, usually designated as the most evil star in the heavens.

There is also a well marked yod, or finger of fate, in the mystery Chart, linking URANUS/PLUTO/NEPTUNE-NORTH NODE/SOUTH NODE. This yod involves the 2nd, 4th and 3rd/9th Houses of the Natal Chart. The Moon's nodes in the yod would indicate a sharing of the peculiar life experience with others (the parents).

From RUDOLF SMIT (VIC.): A short reaction to Marguerite's comments. I disagree with the use of the fixed stars. When astrologers start to use the more than hundred more or less visible fixed stars, close or even pretty far away from the Ecliptic, then there is no reason not to work with all the other thousands of fixed stars. Does that make sense?

Besides, one astrologer of the group in Holland attacked the contest-baby with fixed stars, and of course came up with Neptune opposite Algol. But he was nevertheless far off the mark. Another astrologer worked for a month with the 'highly-praised' system of the Hamburg school. Despite the inclusion of the eight hypothetical planets and the use of the more than 4000 possibilities

[Austin writes further on the subject of Astrological twins. See later in this Issue.]

What has Astrology to say about the calamitous bushfires in Victoria and South Australia on Wednesday, 16th February, 1983?

19 Mar 1983

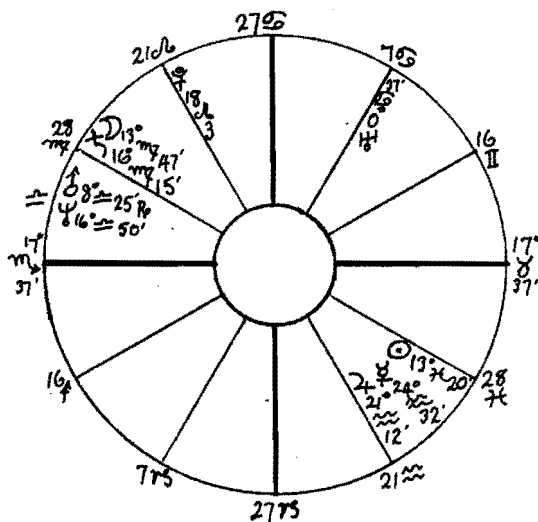

lodged up in the system of 'planetary' pictures, he wasn't even near a proper conclusion.

Marguerite was not making claims about the fixed stars, but suggesting them as a possible avenue of enquiry in relation to rare cases like the Contest Chart. The huge number of fixed stars can be whittled down to a very few if we (a) keep the orbs to less than 15', (b) consider only those close to the Ecliptic, and (c) rule out stars of less than the second magnitude.

- Dymock.

From GWYN TURNER (N.S.W.): I am including the Chart hereunder as a good example of brain damage, taken from my book, 'Human Destiny'.

Siamese Twins

Born on 4th March, 1950, at 9:10 pm Local Mean Time, North Tasmania.

The Moon (ruler of the brain) is co-joined to Saturn (ruling the bone structure) in Virgo (health Sign), and both planets are opposed to the Sun (giver of life) in Pisces (Sign of confinement).

It has many features similar to the Contest Chart, which also had brain damage. You will note the Moon conjunct Saturn afflicting the Sun is repeated in the Contest Chart but from different Signs. However, the fact that it has Jupiter on the Ascendant in a wide trine to the Sun, and Uranus, Ruler of the Sixth in sextile to Neptune and trine Mercury, the Ruler of the Chart, would be responsible for the physical body still growing. At the same time I have always found that the Moon in the Eighth House shortens the life span. Returning to the Siamese twins - during their stay in hospital they slowly deteriorated and died when their Scorpio Ascendant squared its Ruler, Pluto.

Their Chart also has a Mars-Neptune flavour for confinement similar to the Contest Chart.

Regarding the reading of this Chart - if it is astrological I think a planetary delineation should be given. Just how Austin thought the subject may be highly gifted is difficult to understand.

Reply to Ed. Caselli

I agree with his conclusion over Lindy Chamberlain having a Scorpio Ascendant and for the same reasons, in fact he beat me to sending in the same article.

Regarding the true Ascendant of Princess Grace. I have just finished her biography. Ed thought it could be Aquarius, and I thought Libra. Regarding Aquarius - she detests anything mechanical, hates driving a car and still could not park backwards up to the time of her death. Aquarius loves all these things.

As against this, Aquarius comes out strongly in the family tree - Caroline has her Sun in Aquarius, Stephanie has both her Sun and Moon in Aquarius.

Prince Rainier has his Sun in Gemini and Moon in Capricorn - no time given - could he have an Aquarius Ascendant?

Although I still have to analyse the whole facts, and would have to do a rectification with possibly a pre-natal Chart, the Sign Libra has much in its favour. She is a very good listener (Libra), her whole interests are artistic both in fabric selection, and flower-decoration. Just before her death she had a book published on flower designs which was taken up by a manufacturer for table linen.

With due respects to Dymock I do not favour Scorpio - the intensity of that Sign does not show in her expression or demeanour nor in a temper, although her Sun, Mercury and Mars in Scorpio would account for her fixed determination in certain things, which she keeps hidden. The rectification of aspects for her death I do not feel are strong enough according to my file of deaths. There have to be mighty strong aspects to kill the body including Primaries particularly to the Ascendant.

I hold to my opinion that the given birth time, resulting in a Scorpio Ascendant, is correct. I have known other cases of Scorpio Ascendants where the intensity was not apparent in the general demeanour, but the Scorpio temper was obvious in the life - no planets being in the Sign Scorpio. The Libran quality is accounted for by the conjunction of the Ascendant with the mid-point of Venus/Mercury (C.S.I.0468). The Primary Directions I cited were obtained without any alteration to the given Birth time, and in my view were quite sufficiently indicative of death, especially Saturn square to the MC/IC. R.C. Davison ('The Technique of Prediction', p. 41) does not distinguish between the Ascendant and the Midheaven in this respect. -Dymock.

From AUSTIN LEVY (N.S.W.):

Astrological Twins

The subject of twins seems to have attracted the attention of astrologers again. The 'problem' of time-twins, fraternal twins and so on is exactly that - a problem, since nothing consistent or convincing has ever been found. For many years psychologists have seen family twins as a means of determining the respective contributions of heredity and environment to human development, often called the nature/nurture controversy. Even here there is little overall agreement of results, and many divergent opinions.

However, there have been cases of remarkable parallelism between twins (identical) who were separated at birth. In one study by Newman, Freeman and Holzinger (1939), a male twin pair had married on the same day to women of the same name, both had a terrier called Trixie, worked in the same profession and had reached identical positions. Similar such cases were highlighted in a lengthy article in 1981, in the London Sunday Times, based on a university research carried out in the U.K. Whether such cases can be adduced as evidence for astrology remains doubtful, since they are very rare indeed. So while they are still unlikely to be merely the result of coincidence, no credible theory of astrology is likely to be obtained from them. As Dean points out, many cases of time twins quoted by astrologers are the subject of exaggeration and fall apart under even casual scrutiny.

From ALLAN JOHNSON (N.S.W.):

Astrological Twins

Further to the points I raised in the February Forum, the positive/negative polarity is only one aspect in regard to astrological twins with differing life stories. I think it is foolish to suggest that the validity of astrology itself is to be questioned where twins don't match up. It is just not reasonable to expect that the birthchart has the answer to every question. Astrology just simply has its own limitations. We are not our body, but we do have a body. We are not our mind, but we do have a mind. But a great deal depends on how we use or abuse these possessions. The same thing can be said of a horoscope chart. We have a chart, but a lot of factors in it could be potentialities only, and therefore open to use or abuse in the same way as mind and muscle. Different people have different levels of awareness or consciousness. Carter makes a point of this. He mentions the powerful aspects to Mercury in the charts of several brilliant intellects - but then there were others with the self-same powerful aspects without any suggestion of mental brilliance at all. Could this be said to invalidate astrology? Obviously there are factors in a person's make-up not shown in the chart at all.

On this reasoning we couldn't look at the chart of a genius and detect that he was a genius simply from the chart alone. Naturally social and family backgrounds can account for distinctions in how a chart will work out. But there is still more to it than that. There are all sorts of contingencies people are exposed to in life, and often a very minor event can change the direction for a person and be the beginning of a chain reaction. To take a hypothetical case, we could have two boys with identical charts and each falls foul of the law at the same time, and both have a strong sense of grievance as a result. But one could take his sense of grievance just a little bit further than the other and get into another minor crime - but this time goes to gaol. This could confirm his sense of grievance even more markedly and by a chain reaction he gets involved with other criminals. Looking ahead 20 years we could see this man being given a life sentence while the other person could be embarking on a world cruise! Yet both have identical charts. And does this invalidate astrology? I think most charts have strong elements of duality. So often one side could be activated more than the other. All sorts of potentialities are never realized in most of us. But despite all this we can get some astonishing parallels at times in life-stories, but should not insist that it should always happen.

[Allan also sends an interesting story regarding retrograde Progressions, which will appear in the next Forum.]

In Issue No. 18 (19th January) Geoffrey Dean posed four questions for astrologers. Here they are again, together with my own answers:

A How do you know that Astrology works?

By repeated personal experience of the correlation of specific astrological factors with events, circumstances and personal characteristics.

B How do you know that astrological effects are real and beyond ordinary explanation?

By observation, as in Question A. There may be some other explanation as well, which wouldn't matter - Astrology charts the characteristics, events, etc., very effectively, whatever the cause.

C In the absence of hard evidence, why should your views be accepted rather than any other views?

The evidence is sufficiently 'hard' for me. Each person must satisfy himself about the 'hardness' of the evidence he requires, and I do not ask anyone to accept my views.

D If wrong charts are found to be as readily accepted by clients as right charts (see examples in Recent Advances), what would this mean for Astrology?

It would not necessarily mean anything for Astrology, but for the people concerned it would mean that they don't really know themselves (a common situation) and need the help of Astrology to enable them to do so.

I'm sure none of the above is going to be satisfactory to the scientist, which I regard as his problem, not mine. But Geoffrey Dean is himself a practising astrologer. How does he answer his own questions?
- Dymock.

HAWKE WINS

The result of the recent Federal Election was easily foreseeable on the basis of the astrological portents. My prediction was based on the Solar Returns of Hawke and Fraser, Gwyn Turner's and Clair Bunnett's were based on transits, Rosalind Sugerman's on Secondary Progressions. The result could also be read from a Horary Chart, and from Directions in Oblique Ascension. These latter were excellent for Hawke and defeating for Fraser, but I did not rely on them as the exact birth times are uncertain. BUT, a correspondent from Victoria reports that a noted Cosmobiologist there predicted a win for Fraser. In view of the overwhelming astrological evidence in favour of Hawke, this is extraordinary, and points to some serious deficiency in Cosmobiological technique, despite its useful contribution to Astrology generally. Unfortunately, the lady in question made the further error of foolishly asserting that her predictions, based on Cosmobiology, are never wrong.

My kind regards to all. - Dymock, 19th March, 1983.

Astrologers' Forum

(FORMERLY 'CIRCULAR LETTERS' TO ASTROLOGERS)

A FREE MONTHLY INTERCHANGE OF IDEAS AND INFORMATION FOR ASTROLOGERS
EDITED AND PUBLISHED BY DYMCK BROSE, 86 CLARENCE ROAD, BLACKHEATH,
N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. TEL. [047] 87 8874.

ISSUE No. 19, 19TH FEBRUARY, 1983

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

Of first interest this month is the result of the special Chart Contest. Here is what the originator has to say about it:

FROM RUDOLF SMIT (VIC.): The number of entries for this contest was rather disappointing. Only five people have submitted their findings. I wonder why only five? Have the other people been afraid to stick their necks out? As I pointed out clearly, if one were to return a wrong solution, there was nothing to be ashamed of! After all, astrology DOES have a lot of conspicuous limitations, and the results of this Contest show it again: None of the five entries was right. But I have awarded the first prize (value $50.-) and the consolation prize nonetheless.

Let me list first what each of the five astrologers had to say:

1. "I'll stick my neck out and give an opinion on the contest Chart. I think she is an heiress" (of a large sum of money or estate? This is not clarified—R.S.).
2. "Most likely a musical conductor and child prodigy, possibly composer also".
3. "this native is different because of the way she was conceived, e.g. a. Perhaps her mother is paralysed from the neck down, through polio. b. A pioneer variation of the In Vitro fertilization method may have brought her into being".
4. "It would be possible that the young girl could have suffered some injury or accident at birth possibly connected with drugs or from anaesthetic effect on the mother. Accidental poisoning would also be possible as Mars in the Sixth House squares the planet Neptune in the Fourth House.

Also, the planet Mars is at the midpoint of Mercury and Saturn in the girl's Chart, so there could be some disability or injury to the organs of speech or hearing."

5. "The child is either autistic or highly gifted. I see loss of contact with mother, and general emotional withdrawal, a recessed mind, unusual relating, hospitalisation or institutionalisation".

Response number 5 is of special interest as it was based on the (partly) wrong Chart! Though the last entry is still very wrong, I have found it of such a standard that the first prize will be granted to the author, AUSTIN LEVY. Congratulations, Austin, you have done well, but I'll bet that you will be the first to agree that your findings have a psychic source.

Entry No. 4 was from Clair Bunnett, and though also wrong it was closer than the other three, so I am awarding her the Consolation prize.

Here is the solution: The Contest Chart is the Horoscope of a human 'monster', a freak of nature, so to say. Though now 15 years old, this being has the mind of a baby AND...the body of a baby, but is still growing. In other words: A giant baby, but acting as a vegetable. The only thing it does is lying in bed and staring at the ceiling. As I said, there is perhaps one chance in a million of such a birth. I have not seen this giant baby, but I have seen a picture (a rather recent one) of a forty-year-old (according to the caption under the picture) giant baby - in this case a male, and I can tell you that it is quite horrifying. And, obviously, such an event is quite a disaster for the parents.

All in all, an absolutely extra-ordinary native. The point is now: Was it, is it visible in the Chart? Does this Chart look so extremely extra-ordinary? The answer is clear: IT DOES NOT. So no wonder that no one came up with the right description.

However, I was astounded with the entry by Austin Levy, as there were clear similarities: Though the child was not autistic - on the contrary, perhaps the worst example of an imbecile - there is a similarity: A total lack of contact with the outside world. Of course, there is loss of contact with the mother. A being like this can only exist in an institution.

It is here that Austin was right, which is rather unusual. This is why I decided to award him the full prize after all, though, it was based on a partly wrong Chart. As Austin has already his own (excellent) astrological computing service he doesn't need any computer run-offs by mine. Hence I have sent him a copy of my new PEA-Computer-Programme, which has the value of $50.-. It can run on his computer without any problem, because both Austin and I work with the Commodore machine.

As for the four other astrologers, I thank them very much for their trouble, and please, be sure that you have not made fools of yourselves! After all, this world can not be explained by Astrology alone.

(Rudolf has written at length on 'The Moral of the Story, or The Limitations of Astrology', which, though too long to include here will appear in the Autumn issue of The Australian Astrologers' Journal, due out next month.
- Dymock.)

From MARGUERITE BROSE (N.S.W.): Rudolf has quite justly pointed to the impossibility of assessing a birth chart without some background information about the native, - one reason for my not entering the contest. An astrologer has to be told whether the chart in question belongs to a human, an animal, an idea, or an enterprise, and if to a human being, whether male or female (there is a distinct difference in life experience for either sex!) Another variable, difficult to assess, is the evolutionary level of the subject. (I bet you could not judge this, even in connection with your nearest associate, the one you hobnob with daily.)

I must admit to have had more than a cursory glance at Rudolf's Contest Chart, and going through the accepted routine of chart reading, with the pre-knowledge 'here was a very unusual Chart', to say the least.

Rudolf's example shows clearly the need for astrologers to have information when given birth data, if they don't want to be classed in the same category as teacup readers.

As man's perception of life and understanding of astrology grows, the birth chart will bring us in time closer to the Truth. Even if this Truth has an ever-widening horizon. Therefore, I firmly believe in the capacity of the astrologers who come after us to delineate with greater precision. Astrology does not fail us, we fail as interpreters.

I congratulate Austin on his win, but as it was judged on a partly incorrect Chart, it is questionable just how much astrological factors had to do with it.

Back to the Contest Chart: An artist-friend of mine with a perfectly 'healthy' Birth Chart, has the malefic fixed stars Aldebaran opposite Antares on the Horizon. She is rather an 'odd bod'. The idea occurred to me to look for fixed stars in the Contest Chart, and I found the following 21 malefic fixed stars apparently exerting an influence:

(All star positions have been adjusted to the birthdate - 6th January, 1968.)

STAR	POSITION	ASPECT	ORB
ALGOL	25 8 43	♂ ♀	3'
ALGENIB	8 7 42	♂ ♀	1 32'
BATEN KAITOS	21 7 30	☐ ♀	36'
SHARATAN	3 8 31	Δ ASC	32'
CAPULUS	23 8 45	♂ M.C.	16'
ALCYONE	29 8 32	Δ ☿	19'
ENSIS	22 II 35	☐ ♀	8'
POLARIS	28 II 7	☐ ☿	1 06'
MENKALINAN	29 II 28	☐ ☿	15'
WASAT	18 3 4	♂ ☿/♀	10'
CASTOR	19 3 48	♂ ♀	1 06'
NORTH ASELLUS	7 3 5	Δ ☿	5'
ALPHARD	26 3 50	♂ ♀	1 09'
REGULUS	29 3 23	♂ ♀	1 24'
MARKAB	28 IV 28	♂ ☿	45'
GRAFFIAS	2 4 44	☐ ASC	15'
SPICULUM	0 7 12	☐ ☿	59'
FACIES	7 7 52	☐ ☿	42'
SADALMELIK	2 8 54	♂ ASC	5'
FOMALHAUT	3 8 24	♂ ASC	25'
SCHEAT	28 8 55	♂ ☿	18'

It is notable that the worst star of all, ALGOL forms its opposition to Neptune right on the Meridian of the Chart (ORB 3'!)

I have kept to close orbs - the widest being 1° 32', as this was a conjunction with the Moon.

Is this an unusually large amount of malefic fixed stars in any one chart?

One day we may have more knowledge, but at the moment we are left with an horrendous picture of the Native without understanding the reasons.

(While I agree with Rudolf that we cannot 'read' everything from the Birth Chart at our present stage of knowledge, I think it probable that the horoscope has not yet yielded all its secrets, and that the increasing pace of present-day investigation will uncover at least some of them. One day we may be able to diagnose just such an abnormality as that revealed by Rudolf in the Contest Chart.
- Dymock.)

From CLAIR BUNNETT, (VIC.): Re the Chart of Lindy Chamberlain. In Victoria the Liberal Party, now the Opposition party for Victoria, elected a new Leader, Mr. Jeff Kennett, on the 26th October, 1982. Jeff Kennett, according to "The Age" Newspaper (Melbourne) was born on the 2nd March, 1948, two days before Lindy Chamberlain.

At the date Jeff Kennett was elected to the State leadership of the Liberal Party in Victoria, Neptune was transiting his Natal Jupiter, and Jupiter was transiting square to his Natal Saturn. He would have shared both these transits with Lindy Chamberlain around the time of her conviction on 29th October, 1982. In both Charts matters of Jupiter were involved - in Lindy's case conviction in a court of law, in Jeff Kennett's case election to high office.

An interesting thing about the Lindy Chamberlain Chart is that on the day of the conviction on 29th October, 1982, the transiting Sun at 5 degrees of Scorpio was conjunct her Natal Vertex, close to the cusp of her Eighth House. Transiting Venus would also have conjoined her Natal Vertex a couple of days later on the 31st October, 1982. The Vertex is associated with turning points in the life, so perhaps the Venus influence helped!

From ED. CASELLI, (N.S.W.):

SATURN-PLUTO CONJUNCTION

I find the comments on the Saturn/Pluto conjunction interesting, especially since I have this conjunction at birth on the cusp of the 6th House. To me, it represents a strong concentration of interest, or fatality, if I may use the word. Personally, I was always interested in the idea of service (6th House), despite a Capricorn Ascendant and a rising Uranus, both of which tend to be of independent mind, perhaps because Saturn is the Ruler in conjunction with Pluto. The analogy of the pot on the boil is very good, though I prefer the volcano, where the Plutonian pressure comes up against the crust of the cooling Saturn.

LINDY CHAMBERLAIN

Regarding Lindy Chamberlain, I prefer a Scorpio Ascendant, rather than a rising Venus. Scorpio is in keeping with her intense gaze and remarkable control in court, and it also puts the triple conjunction of Mars, Saturn and Pluto in an elevated position, in keeping with her present reputation. It also puts the Moon in Capricorn, consistent with her self-control and publicity. This, of course, is after the death of Azaria. It does not preclude the possibility of an emotional eruption or blow-up, consistent with the triple conjunction in Leo at the time of, or causing, the death of the child.

ASCENDANT RATHER THAN SUN-SIGN

May I say a word about the undue emphasis placed on the Sun-Sign for statistical purposes: In my view, the Ascendant is more important, while any rising or culminating planet or a planet in strong aspect to either Luminary is also more important. Since the odds are that a person will have a rising or culminating planet or a planet aspecting a Luminary, it follows that the Sun-Sign is ordinarily of secondary importance. For example, I would rather know that the Sun was in strong aspect to Saturn than that the Sun was in Pisces, as in a case known to me; especially since in that case Saturn was setting, probably in opposition to the Ascendant. What is more, the subject had a rising Sagittarius to go with the Sun in Pisces, yet the setting Saturn in square to the Sun was clearly predominant over Jupiter's influence.

ASCENDANT ASPECTS

This, again, brings up the question of aspects to the Ascendant, which can radically alter the personality. Of course, we do not have the same certainty concerning the Ascendant as we do with the Sun-Sign, hence the preference for the Sun-Sign, statistically speaking. My point holds good, however, that the Sun-Sign is of secondary importance. As another example, my father had the Sun and two other planets in Leo, the Sun's own Sign, yet he was more Saturnian than anything else, because the Moon was conjunct Saturn in Capricorn, which Sign was also almost certainly his pre-natal Ascendant, while his birth Saturn was also the most elevated planet. So, though the Sun-Sign is more certain, for statistical purposes, we must keep it in perspective as compared with other factors, especially an aspect to the Sun, which is also certain, on the day in question.

I note Gwyn Turner's statement that the horoscope is a perfect replica of our particular stage of wisdom or evolution. I disagree. I once knew a charming lady who had a Chart similar to Adolf Hitler's! Besides, to a degree, in some cases, the horoscope may show potential rather than actuality.

CHRISTINE JAMES (NSW) writes that she sees the SATURN/PLUTO conjunction as a problem not of control, but of detachment. This refers to Stan Walters' Letter in Issue 18 (third para. from end).

From ALLAN JOHNSON (N.S.W.):

POSITIVE AND NEGATIVE POLARITIES

Rudolf Smit is anxious to get more readers' views on the subject of twins. Gwyn Turner takes this further with her reference to the need for a more esoteric viewpoint in cases where the births are so close together that there is no room for chart differences to explain why two people have such widely different life stories. That this situation does arise there can be no question. I have had twins themselves bringing this question to me. My answer is the law of positive and negative polarities. This seems to be part of the natural order of things. In this case it means that if twins are born, one must be of the negative and the other positive polarity; one extrovert, the other introvert. One needs a challenge, the other plays for safety. It is a question of dominance. If we look at any set of twins, we will find that this is exactly where the differences lie. One always has more initiative, and if we apply this right throughout the life we are bound to get some interesting divergencies.

Interestingly enough this situation can still prevail whether the twins separate and tread quite different paths or remain always together. One contacted me who had migrated from Switzerland, and in Australia has had a varied career, a divorce and second marriage and so on, and whose life generally had been quite eventful. But his twin brother has remained in his city of birth and has married and lived a comfortable but extremely uneventful life. No divorce, no career changes. This is a good example of the positive and negative, the one adventurous and the other safe. The main point is that one will be consistently positive, and the other the reverse. And it is easy to see how their lives would have diverged quite remarkably from the point where they separated.

I know another case who were relatives of mine. These were so much alike in early life it was often impossible to tell one from the other. Yet one went to the war and the other elected to stay home because of a family responsibility. The one who returned from the war married. The other did not. Also the more positive one achieved a more responsible position in his career, the other took a more minor role. Yet the interesting point was that these two brothers lived together all their lives except for the war years. And both died in the same year, though not of the same complaint. Yet despite these differences they had marked similarities of mannerisms and temperament in all sorts of ways. In support of astrology, one twin lived comfortably at home, while the one who went to the war had a fairly 'comfortable' war. He didn't become a prisoner or suffer severe privations. They still continued to live together even after the one's marriage.

CHANGE OF ROLES

Another man who was a twin and to whom I gave this positive/negative polarity hypothesis, agreed with it except that he felt that at a certain stage he and his brother had changed roles. So this is another point to look at. Interestingly enough, too, the Sydney Morning Herald featured an article on twins only a week ago, and here this question of dominance was very much raised. A number of cases were quoted and in each case the one born first had always been the one with all the initiatives. In one case the mother got quite a shock when the usually passive one took the lead for a change. So looking at twins from this point of view, it does seem more logical that purely astrological twins, with no family relationships, would be the more likely to have similar destinies. There are certainly some remarkable cases of this, but then again I have met cases of two separate people with almost identical charts, and one was by the far the most colourful personality and lived a much more eventful life than the other. So maybe the polarity theory could still apply in such cases. But of course whenever some really outstanding personality is born there must of necessity be a lot of babies born in the same city with almost identical charts. So as Gwyn Turner states, there have to be a lot of factors to life in addition to simple chart factors. The chart should not be expected to contain everything.

ASTRO-METEOROLOGY

Stan Walters and Rod Brandt have mentioned the subject of Astro-Meteorology. In 1980 I did try to stir up some research on this subject through an article in the F.A.A. Journal. I still think it is a fruitful subject for research, but personally lack the time to give to it. There are no books available on this subject as such. But it does get a bit of space in books on Mundane Astrology. The best of these is the 'Text Book of Astrology' by Alfred J. Pierce. This gives a chapter of 40 pages on Astro-Meteorology. Pierce had 50 years experience in this field and knew what he was talking about. This book has been re-issued by the American Federation of Astrologers in more recent years and could still be available in astrology bookshops.

DIRECT-TO-RETROGRADE PROGRESSIONS

Elva Howson (December Forum) mentions progressed planets turning retrograde and vice-versa. I don't think these should be looked at in terms of being detrimental or beneficial, but rather as a change of direction. I have seen them coincide with very interesting developments. With Venus it can frequently mean the beginning or ending of a relationship, and takes the place of an aspect. The event will usually happen right on the year of the change. In general a retrograde progression can mean a turning back, a refusal to continue in that direction, a link with the past. With retrograde Mercury it could mean taking up some new line of study, or doing some mental house-cleaning, maybe getting into the occult. I have noticed that people with large numbers of retrograde planets at birth often have a fascination for things of the past, such as a passion for vintage cars.

It doesn't need a soothsayer to forecast the result of the Federal Election on 5th March. The Solar Return Charts of the two main protagonists give ample evidence of a win for Labour.

What has Astrology to say about the calamitous bushfires in Victoria and South Australia on Wednesday, 16th February, 1983?

Astrologers' Forum

(FORMERLY 'CIRCULAR LETTERS' TO ASTROLOGERS)

A FREE MONTHLY INTERCHANGE OF IDEAS AND INFORMATION FOR ASTROLOGERS
EDITED AND PUBLISHED BY DYMCK BROSE, 86 CLARENCE ROAD, BLACKHEATH,
N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. TEL. [047] 87 8874.
ISSUE No. 18, 19TH JANUARY, 1983

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

We start 1983 with an enlarged distribution list, which augurs well for the future of this Astrologers' Forum. Many will be glad to see the introduction of some new themes, with which, perhaps, they will feel more at home than with the technical articles. As always, your comments on and experience in connection with any of the matters under discussion will be more than welcome. Remember this is a forum - no one is 'laying down the law' on any point, but we are all trying to discover astrological truths, and to advance Astrology both as a science and an art. Marguerite and I wish you all a happy 1983!

From GWYN TURNER (N.S.W.): In answer to Elva Howson's question as to why some identical twins do not experience the same events during life, firstly, the exact minute of birth would have to be examined to see if they were in fact, identical twins - both male or female, the same Ascendant degree, and with the planets falling in the same Houses. There is still a query as to just what is the exact time of birth, as outlined in my article in the October Circular Letter.

In my book, "Human Destiny", published in the U.K., 1969, Chapter 3 gives many authentic fascinating cases of identical fate, irrespective of whether the twins had the same parents. The more the time varies the more the similarity differs, although even here there are similar elements in the life, and a similar urge. I have also found that the same events in life occur, but at a different time.

For identical twins, whose life events differ considerably, a more esoteric view may be necessary as outlined in Chapter I of "Human Destiny" - a life is not governed by the stars because of the birth time; it is the birth itself that is timed in accordance with the planetary pattern that can give the necessary physical and mental conditions for that life's development.

As the birth is timed in accordance with the necessary planetary pattern to agree with the soul's stage of evolution, and as this pattern may not appear again for some considerable time, if at all, a second soul (in the case of twins) may also have to take advantage of this particular Cosmic pattern and yet it may be slightly more evolved than its twin and therefore respond in a slightly different way to planetary influence.

For instance, where the 5th House was very active, Twin A may wish to create by having a baby, whereas Twin B may create by acting in a successful play, both working on the emotional plane, and no doubt both events would coincide in time. In fact one of my cases in "Identical Fate" shows twin sisters responding to many things alike and yet one formed a partnership in marriage at the same time as the other formed a partnership in business. Yet they both died at exactly the same time.

Elva's comment on 'Fate versus Free Will' may find an answer in Chapter 9 of my book under 'FATE OR FREE WILL'.

A most prevalent question among students of Astrology is 'Are we bound by the planets or have we free will?' A problem which causes quite a deal of confusion. The solution to this problem lies within ourselves and our own inherent wisdom.

The horoscope is a perfect replica of our particular stage of wisdom - some call it evolution. It is the same thing. It is the essence of experience gained through many lives, a stored up knowledge which, although hidden to the conscious mind, is the basis of our character and hence our actions. This stored up knowledge, in the sub-conscious mind, is automatically tapped by the conscious mind whenever a problem arises, the result depending entirely upon whether it has the answer to that particular problem. If one has learnt through a similar past experience, one immediately picks up the answer and thus finds it easy 'to rule the stars'. If not, it is only proof that there is a lesson to be learned.

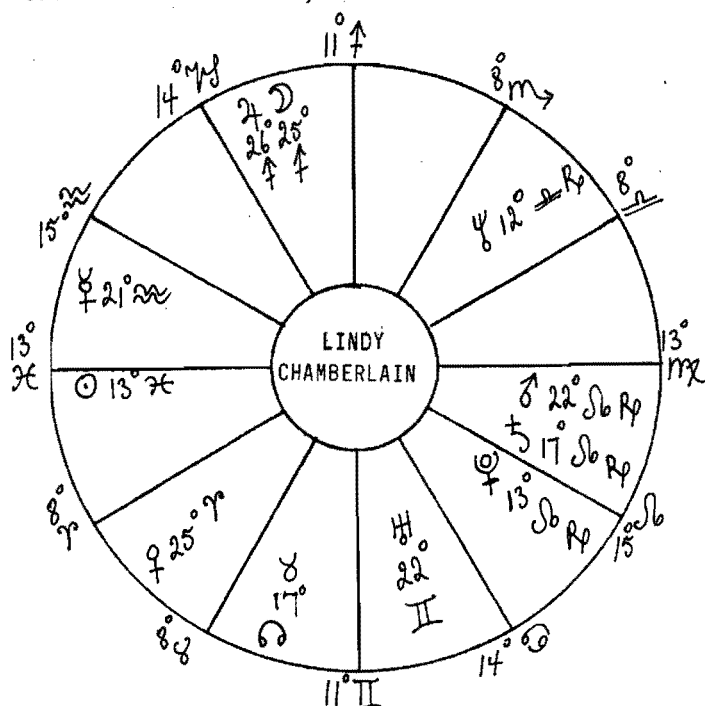

We are limited and restrained only by ignorance. Had we complete knowledge of Universal Laws Fate would have no power over us. Fate is only another name for the reaping of ignorance. Knowledge, which can be gained only through experience, is reflected in the various vibratory planetary influences, which stamp us all...

Elva's idea of 'inflexibility within a given framework of the natal chart' would be, from my outlook, none other than the amount of knowledge one has gained of Universal Laws, which gives the key to the ruling of Fate. Ignorance of these laws is the tie that keeps the treadmill of Fate working.

There will always be some fatal elements in our lives due to past causes, but we are quite free regarding how we respond.

Astrology is well named a science, an art and a philosophy.

From CAROL SQUIRES (N.Z.): Marguerite's note in the last Forum re Lindy Chamberlain, plus Christine James's very interesting observations on the Saturn/Pluto conjunction, prompted me to erect the enclosed Sunrise Chart for Lindy Chamberlain.

Sunrise Chart - 6:02 am, N.Z.S.T., Whakatane, N.Z.
37 S 56 Lat., 177 E Long., 4th March, 1948 (Placidian House Cusps).

Has any work been done on her Chart? - forgive me if I am going over old ground - but my only contact with the Australian astrologers is through the Forum.

Who/What is this Lindy Chamberlain?

The Innocent, or the Seductress, or the Murderess?
The Deceived, or the Deceiver?

With her Pisces Sun quincunxing both Neptune and Pluto she can be either one or other of those quincunxes, almost as if she has to switch to another character before becoming the person she is. Confusing - I'm sure she's not. She would be totally aware and in total control of what she's doing - the obsession, the control and the manipulation that Christine refers to, very evident in that configuration.

The Grand Trine in Fire is a complex of two oppositions. Mercury Stat/Direct opposing the Pluto/Saturn/Mars conjunction and Uranus opposing the Jupiter/Moon conjunction, with both opposing planets - Mercury and Uranus - being in a close trine aspect, and sextiling each of the planets each other opposes. Each conflicting part is easily transferred into a beneficial one. The oppositions 'feed' the Grand Trine - I think she enjoys trouble and strife just to prove how easy it is to get out of!

To be found guilty of murdering one's own child, sentenced to life imprisonment with hard labour, only to walk out a 'free' woman days later - this in itself speaks volumes for the above configuration.

Her Secondary Progressions for 1982 are interesting - prog. Sun at 17 Aries trine Saturn, prog. Moon conjunct natal Sun. Prog. Mercury at 26 Pisces squaring Jupiter indicating the sentence went against her, but Jupiter in turn setting off the Grand Trine - she can't lose!

I note that prog. Mars went Direct in 1973, age 25, at 18 Leo 6. I would take that to be the time she began to release the suppressed energies indicated by Natal Mars retrograde conj. Saturn - or that others certainly became aware that she was a person who had a great deal of powerful energy hitherto held in check.

Christine's analogy of the 'pot on the boil but with such a heavy lid that none of the steam or water is allowed out' describes the Mercury opposition Mars/Saturn/Pluto conjunction to a 'T'. I would expect that the lid finally blew off when her prog. Moon conjuncted Mercury in 1979/80. - She had to prove she was in control, by losing control.

Looking at that prog. Sun, together with the prog. Moon - in orb of aspecting the Grand Trine configuration for the next 10 years. In 1991 prog. Sun conjuncts Venus, a year later trining Jupiter.

What's the bet the whole thing is revived at that time, a magnificent and glorified film made of it and she makes herself a fortune. Or, like N.Z.'s Arthur Alan Thomas (subject of the book 'Beyond Reasonable Doubt'), finally found not guilty and awarded $1 million in compensation.

She'll be laughing all the way to the stake.
(Please excuse my Pluto..)

From STAN WALTERS (VIC.): In response to Christine James's letter and Dymock's prompting, I checked my files for Saturn conjunct Pluto, as I knew I had several charts with that configuration. As it turned out I had only three charts where I knew the individual well enough to comment on. All are females.

One has the conjunction on the Descendant, opposing the Sun in Aquarius. This one takes into her home all the lost souls and down-and-outers one could possibly imagine - some as lovers. Inevitably, they let her down, abuse her, treat her badly and cause the severe mental anguish - described by Christine. A few even brutalized her.

She has a heart of gold, but is as erratic as only the Sun Aquarian can be.

Another with the conjunction in the 12th, as Christine says, had a hard row to hoe, but she does have 'control' - last House showing integration.

The other has them in the 11th, but also in conjunct with the Moon - Mars, which spills over into the 12th. 23/2/48, 7.25 p.m., 51°50' Nth, 5°52' East.

This Chart sports a fairly even pair of Grand Trines with everything in the sky being Retrograde except Venus and Jupiter.

This person liked to argue and have the last say. She argued about politics too. She had a complicated type of uterine infection which traditional medicine failed to cure, and she became an embarrassment to them.

Liz Greene has a spot-on way of describing Saturn. She calls Saturn 'The Keeper of the Keys to the Gate', meaning that his placement in the chart is where one is especially challenged to LOOK beyond the Self imposed restrictions of the mundane plane, out to the trans-personal zone where the sky is quite literally the limit.

John Soric states that Saturn conjunct Pluto can act to break up past structures so that ones consciousness can take on a new perspective.

In all the charts I have with this Saturn/Pluto conjunction, the persons concerned are all exceptional people, inasmuch as anyone can be called exceptional.

The first-mentioned (Sun Aquarius) takes all sorts of occult matters for granted, just like eating and sleeping.

The second is consciously psychic.

The last-mentioned Astral-travels with her guides (a recent innovation).

Christine's descriptions are really very good, but in the Charts I have of that conjunction, the persons are all challenged to develop personal control while also facing the challenge to lift the restrictions from their minds. I think this is what Christine means.

Alternatively, if she really means that being out of control 'per se', would be desirable, then on the strength of the Charts I have, I would have to disagree. Though I take it for granted that another chart may indicate recklessness as being food for the soul. It just points up the fact that each Chart must still be judged on its merits in the final analysis.

Finally, I also would like to pursue some study into Astro-Meteorology, but I'm totally bankrupt of any kind of knowledge in that area.

If someone who has already done some work in that department could recommend me some books as a starting point, I'd really appreciate it.

P.O. Box 114, Coburg, 3058.

From GEOFFREY DEAN (W.A.): Re my interchange with Ralph Holden:

In his first letter (issue 15) Ralph Holden questioned my various challenges to astrologers to demonstrate the truth of their beliefs, and pointed out that everything depends on what is meant by truth. His points were:-

1. I should demonstrate the untruth of Signs using the same scientific criteria that I expect of others in any demonstration of the truth of Signs.
2. Things are true if they have meaning.
3. The truth of astrology is demonstrated by the existence of people who gained benefit from it.
4. To this kind of thing the scientific method is irrelevant.

My replies (Issue 16) to these points were:

1. All the studies which meet scientific criteria have shown that at least some of the traditional claims made about Signs are not true.
2. Truth is not the same as meaning. Astrology's ability to provide meaning does not depend on whether it is true, any more than our seeing faces in clouds means that they are really there.

3. In the past many people have gained benefit from countless erroneous practices like bloodletting and phrenology.
4. In the absence of scientific evidence, ie the kind that Holden sees as irrelevant, how do we know that astrology is not equally erroneous?

To help resolve this problem, I challenged Holden to answer the following questions:

- A. How does he know that astrology works?
- B. How does he know that astrological effects are real and beyond ordinary explanation?
- C. In the absence of hard evidence, why should we accept his views rather than any other views?
- D. If wrong charts are found to be as readily accepted by clients as right charts (RA gives examples of this), what would this mean for astrology?

In his reply (issue 17) Holden ignored these questions and instead made the following points:

1. I have missed the point, which is that the scientific method can never prove or disprove that anything is true.
2. Truth is concerned with meaning, not with conformity to scientific criteria.
3. Truth means different things to different people.
4. Astrology may or may not be scientifically demonstrable but such a demonstration is not the only valid one.

His point 1 conflicts with his point 4, and is incorrect anyway: What for example is impossible about scientifically disproving my hypothesis that this letter will not reach Dymock?

His points 2,3 and 4 merely re-iterate his previous points 2,3 and 4 without noting my objections thereto. Such sustained indifference suggests that in his eyes this Forum is a joke. But at least this attitude is in keeping with one whose life, by his own interpretation, is significantly more fun than mine.

Readers not stupefied by Holden's relentless prolixity should by now have spotted the real issues underlying this supposed debate, namely that Holden equates truth with subjective truth, whereas what I am concerned with is objective truth. In other words Holden is concerned with beliefs whereas I am concerned with facts.

Now if astrology is a belief system (as Holden seems to imply), then no further discussion is warranted, since one person's beliefs are as good as another's.

But astrology is surely more than a belief system. Astrology authors and lecturers do not hedge their gospels with a Government Warning that only beliefs are involved. Instead they make distinctly concrete claims, like people with X in their charts will on average be more Xish than those without X. And because the claims are concrete, they can be tested without us first having to debate the meaning of truth.

Holden of course questions the need for such testing. But if astrology is to be more than a belief system, then it will stand or fall on whether such claims are true. In the present absence of hard evidence, ie the kind eschewed by Holden, why should we suppose that astrology is more than just another belief system?

The problem is that such a system would require that no belief about anything could be false, hence there would be no provision for the detection and elimination of error.

In other words the issue is not whether astrology is meaningful, but whether anything which has no provision for the elimination of error is worth having. Or to put it another way, why should we believe astrology and not bloodletting or phrenology?

In the interests of finding an answer, I again challenge Holden to answer questions A, B, C and D that he so conveniently ignored last time.

LINDY CHAMBERLAIN

Here is a speculative Chart for Lindy Chamberlain, a rectification I have attempted based on some of the dates given below. They are listed for the benefit of any other readers who would like to do some research:

18/11/1969 - Married Michael Chamberlain, at Wahroonga N.S.W. (Husband born 27/2/1944, Christchurch, N.Z.)

2/10/1973 - Son, Aidan, born.

16/4/1978 - Daughter, Regan, born.

11/6/1980 - Daughter, Azaria, born.

17/8/1980 - Disappearance of Azaria.

13/9/1982 - Trial of the Chamberlains commenced at 10 a.m.

29/10/1982 - Both Defendants found guilty.

17/11/1982 - Another daughter born to Lindy, in prison.

19/11/1982 - Lindy freed on bail, pending her appeal. (The appeal is due to be heard on 7th February, 1983.)

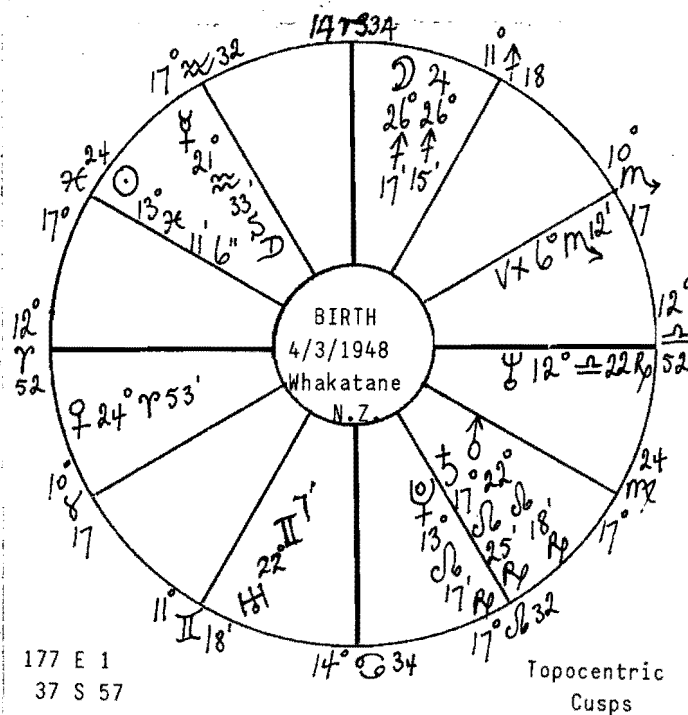

For the benefit of overseas readers who may not be familiar with this Court case (notorious in Australia) the Chamberlains were camped with their children at Ayers Rock, a famous beauty spot in Central Australia, when they reported that their last-born daughter, Azaria, had been taken by a dingo (a wild Australian dog). The unique nature of the event attracted wide attention, and some suspicion was cast on the Chamberlains and their account of their daughter's disappearance. However, at the coroner's inquest they were completely exonerated.

Following further scientific examination of the baby's clothes, both in Australia and England, the Crown preferred a murder charge against Lindy, and charged her husband with being an accessory after the fact.

Both defendants were convicted, Lindy being sentenced to life imprisonment, and her husband released on a bond. Another daughter was born to Lindy while in gaol, but two days later she was released on a $300 bond, pending the hearing of her appeal.

SPECULATIVE CHART FOR LINDY CHAMBERLAIN

Birth time unknown. This Chart for U.T. 20h29m
On 3/3/1948 (N.Z. time 8:29 am on 4/3/1948).

At this stage the Chart must be regarded as speculative, but it does have a number of features that relate closely to the facts so far as I know them: Lindy married Michael on 18th November, 1969. By Primary Direction, the Midheaven came to the trine of Venus on 17th November of that year. It will be noted that Venus rules the House of Marriage, and there could hardly be a more characteristic Direction for this event.

Further Directions of the Midheaven are - 11/8/1982, MC trine Pluto
20/9/1982, MC square Sun
20/9/1982, MC opposite Saturn.

All these led up to Lindy's conviction and sentence of life imprisonment on 29th October, 1982.

The Aries Ascendant is certainly appropriate for the outspoken, assertive Lindy, and Neptune on the 7th cusp is a good indicator of her husband—a pastor in the Seventh Day Adventist Church—and who, additionally, was born with the Sun in Pisces which is ruled by Neptune.

The traumatic events associated with the baby Azaria are well indicated by the conjunction of three malefics round the cusp of the House of Children, and Lindy's deep involvement both with religion and with the law follows from the Moon conjunct Jupiter in the 9th, opposed by Uranus, and in Grand Trine with Mars (her Ruler) and Venus, Rising. There are other powerful aspects, including a Yod to the Sun. This is a noteworthy Chart, and much could be written about it.

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock.

P.S. Results of Chart Contest in next Forum, 19th Feb.

19th January, 1983.

Astrologers' Forum

(FORMERLY 'CIRCULAR LETTERS' TO ASTROLOGERS)

A FREE MONTHLY INTERCHANGE OF IDEAS AND INFORMATION FOR ASTROLOGERS
EDITED AND PUBLISHED BY DYMCK BROSE, 86 CLARENCE ROAD, BLACKHEATH,
N.S.W., AUSTRALIA, 2785. TEL [047] 87 8874.

Issue No. 17, 19TH DECEMBER, 1982

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

Christmas Greetings from Marguerite and myself go with this issue of 'Astrologers' Forum' to all recipients. We look forward to an increasingly lively interchange of ideas, opinions and experience during 1983.

I am grateful to all those astrologers (usually the busiest ones!) who have put time and effort into writing down their views and opinions and sending their letters for inclusion in this publication. The success of this venture, and the benefit we can all derive from it, depends entirely on the response from all you good, experienced astrologers. So please keep it up!

Thanks, also, to those contributors who have assisted with pecuniary donations and stamps. 'Astrologers' Forum' is not a profit-making project, and was never intended to be, but the financial assistance that has been volunteered has kept it from being too much of a loss.

From AUSTIN LEVY (N.S.W.): First, congratulations to Dymock for conducting what is to my knowledge, the first successful survey of astrologers in this country! All too often we are greeted by yawning apathy, so clearly this Forum (née Circular) is fulfilling a need. Secondly, my appreciation to Dymock for his profound understanding of the editorial function, and sympathetic treatment of all views, a feeling I'm sure which would be echoed by other contributors. The only comment of my own which I would like to add to those listed already by Dymock, is that contributions should not be long-winded; keeping in mind that this is not synonymous with length in itself, because complex issues do require full explanations. Brevity is often far more indicative of a clear line of reasoning, while its opposite is merely counter-productive and cannot serve the best interests of the writer.

In my last contribution, I touched on quite a wide range of points pertinent to the topics of rectification and prediction. While I do not wish to linger any further on these, it has occurred to me that there were some issues and sidelights raised in the process which are central to many, if not all debates currently being engaged upon in astrology. I can see that this Forum provides an excellent opportunity for different slants on astrology to be aired, and it is interesting to watch various contributors 'slugging it out' over different case histories put forward as evidence for this or that system. But more of that shortly.

Some readers may have felt that comments made in my last article were a little negative, not offering much hope for a 'proof' of astrology (whatever that actually is!) in scientific terms. Reasons of space did not permit me to tell readers that the experiments conducted by Targ and Puthoff in remote-viewing (clairvoyant perception) were in fact extremely successful under the strictest possible conditions, and that their results were widely reported in a variety of very eminent scientific publications, including 'Nature'.

The seemingly paradoxical conclusion of these two researchers, is that consistent success in prediction is only possible when the tasks involved are sufficiently complex to gain the interest and motivation of the subject. This runs totally contrary to the 'building blocks' approach deemed to be essential to experimental success by those who view such activities in reductionist terms. Consciousness, it seems, does not always obey the laws which apply to inanimate matter - support for this wholistic approach also comes from cognitive psychology, in which experimental evidence seems to weigh in favour of global, overall perception rather than analytic perception. Thus, the 'scientific viewpoint' is by no means settled, and is certainly not the unified body of opinion that some would have us believe.

For those interested in the work I have reported by these two scientists, I can recommend a book they have written (in non-technical language) called 'Mind Reach: Scientists Look At Psychic Ability' published by Delacourt Press. In the excellent introduction by Margaret Mead, herself a distinguished scientist, she makes some comments that are highly germane to the dilemma in which astrology finds itself vis-à-vis science: '...it is important to realise that if a certain phenomenon can be studied by scientific methods, and one or more of its mechanisms can be related to existing scientific theory, this does not necessarily lead to a reductionist demolition of the essence of the phenomenon...science is not simply a device for explaining away events and capacities hitherto thought to be God-given.'

'Because science expands one type of knowledge, it need not denigrate another. All great scientists have understood this. But those who hold a slavish belief in "scientific facts" and who do not understand the glorious uncertainties of modern science are likely to come to small conclusions that are as trivialising as reducing remote viewing to repetitious readings of a pack of cards.'

I have a feeling that many of the proposed 'tests' of astrology currently being put forward by different researchers with a scientific approach fall more into the latter category than the former, and that such incomplete treatments of astrology are doomed to failure, but the failure will be attributed (possibly falsely) to astrology rather than the weakness of experimental design.

In case this sounds rather theoretical, let me give an example: It is well known that no significant (in the statistical sense) results have ever been found for Zodiacal Signs, a fact which no doubt prompted Geoff. Dean's Prize for anyone demonstrating such a result. (see Recent Advances, pp75-163).

However, under the heading 'Intuitive Assessment of Signs' (RA pp 135-6), is a study in which four leading astrologers in the UK were asked to match one of the twelve Signs with each of a group of twelve subjects, (one of each Sign). The results were quite unambiguous - eight correct out of twelve, or one chance in a million of getting the result by a fluke.

However, equally interesting are the comments made by Dean on the experiment: 'Judgement was based on the whole person and no characteristic was used more consistently than another. The panel reached a verdict via group discussions between interviews. The brief clues given with each verdict appear trivial, out of context, but illustrate the wide range of characteristics considered.' (Panel members had been allowed a brief, tightly controlled interview with each subject). While conceding that telepathy may have played a role, Dean concludes, '... clearly the ability to guess Signs is an intriguing area that deserves much greater research...it is unfortunate that orthodox researchers should so often ignore this area in favour of more complex (and uncertain) areas.'

The evidence of the above experiment leads me directly to the next point, which is that the widening rift between the 'symbolists' and the 'scientists' (and I am using the terms here fairly loosely) in astrology can be directly traced to a left-brain vs right-brain processing of the same phenomenon. The intuitive (and ultimately extremely successful) assessments of the four astrologers show the hallmarks of right-brain functioning, which is also the type of processing that tends to generate symbolic lateral thinking. In sharp contrast to this, is the linear, logical approach of the left hemisphere.

Clashes between the two hemispheres can be very disruptive and upsetting, the classic example of which is when one is enjoying a beautiful Mozart piano concerto, only to find that enjoyment diminished by record-liner notes that go into endless details about recapitulative inversions of the second theme in the key of the relative minor! Until all such dichotomies of the human mind are more fully understood and properly allowed for, I do not think we shall see any successful resolution of arguments about astrology, in either purely symbolic or scientific terms.

Next, a word about the value of different predictive systems. Let us say we are presented with two methods of prediction, A and B, and we discover that, by its very nature, A produces five times more planetary configurations than does B. Such would be the case with Solar-Arc Directions versus Secondary Progressions, in which only the inner planets move appreciably. Let us further suppose that both methods are judged to be equally successful in correlating with life events of subjects. The question is, are they really successful at the same level? Clearly the answer is NO, because method A needs five times as many astrological indicators to get the same results, so its 'coherency' rating is one-fifth that of method B, and it is the coherency rating of a system that demonstrates its validity, not simply how often we can find any correlation, no matter how irrelevant, otherwise we could invent a system that would be totally foolproof in a numerical sense, but whose actual results were garbage.

Thus, it is better to have a system that, while it only produces astrological correlations for 20% (say) of all events, can be considered to have adequately explained 80% of these, compared with a system that produces correlations for 80% of all events, and yet can only adequately explain 20% of them. The latter result is 75% noise and only 25% signal, whereas the first one, while weak, has 20% noise and 80% signal. The signal-to-noise ratios are therefore in the ratio 12:1; that is, the first method is twelve times better than the second, even though the second appeared to give a result 80% of the time.

This consideration must be taken into account, particularly with Solar-Arc or Primary methods, or ones involving midpoints. Personally, I would prefer (as I imagine would most other astrologers) a method which had a high consistency of results, even if the frequency of obtained correlations was lower. Otherwise, one is swamped with data which is not to be trusted, so that genuine correlations will hardly ever be recognised, due to mass confusion caused by spurious ones. Therefore, voluminous case histories rarely prove anything at all, because until we know what the relative strike rates of all the methods are, and take them into account, it all adds up to very little.

Finally, a brief comment on a remark by Allan Johnson in the last Forum, concerning the use of statistics in prediction. He says, quite rightly, that professional astrologers are pragmatists, and in order to survive, must use a number of techniques to gain overall consistency, and goes on to add that 'of course this situation by its very nature makes the statistical application unworkable'. This is not true. In game theory, which deals with probabilistic situations like card games, it is possible to prove that such mixed strategies are indeed the way to go, in order to maximise one's overall success rate. Allan's misconception is a very common one about statistics, that it is only good for determining the exact probability of a given outcome, (hypothesis testing): its other major branch is decision theory, a widely used application of statistics in the predictive area, where no reliable information is available beforehand about what will actually happen in an experiment except for broad possibilities.

Last but not least, some more birth information, from my own files:

JOHN LAWS: 8th August, 1935, 7pm, Wau, PNG (data from him)
GRAHAME BOND: 21st November, 1943, 6.30 pm, Sydney, (data from him). ('Auntie Jack').

From CHRISTINE JAMES (N.S.W.): I have read with interest the comments in your 'Astrologers' Forum' and am also a fervent fan of Rudolph Smit and his methods.

For years I avoided Progressions until I had to teach, then I allowed the flood gates to open so I could learn. Right now I find I have to 'do a de Bono' on them and try my utmost to think laterally. For example my own Natal 12th-House Mars in Libra came by Secondary Progression to oppose my Natal 7th House Uranus, Mars being Ruler of the 7th. One would have justifiably thought that the marriage would probably fall apart - never mind its 22 years of thoroughly enjoying a 7th-House Uranus. True it hit stormy waters by our standards but overall this progression was freedom from hang-ups.

About half-way through I twigged because transiting Saturn and Pluto and Jupiter were going through the 12th - 'onion-skin' time - peeling off all the layers of conditioning and inhibitions etc - and because Mars and Uranus form a Yod with a Second House Sun (Sagittarius) the marriage has been revamped totally after a crisis involving fundamental changes. However, the 'hang-ups' freed involved many areas of life.

This example I now watch for in charts I do, and over and over the transiting 'heavies', especially Saturn, point the meaning of the progressions by House. Also in progressions I find I can still get what I want from them without relying too heavily on the pMC and pASC. Only today are birth times spot on - I actually get birth times 7 mins. past 12, and not 12, or 12.15 p.m. Also mothers are even writing in texts on their tummies, 'put down the correct time', in case they are out for the count!

A Sagittarian diversion: I find the semi-sextile works like a conjunction but not so strong, and the semi-squares and sesqui and quincunxes (inconjuncts) are all very relevant. By and large, I am quite happy with Secondary Progressions, and when stuck I always remember what Charles Carter wrote, 'if all else fails Solar-Arc shows up' and it does, I use it all the time.

I did a seminar with Alia Griffin on Saturn and Pluto, following which I had many, many charts, all with the 1947 conjunction. As the current babies will all have it, I thought you might be interested in hearing various interpretations:

It is a very tricky aspect, giving overall the feeling of a pot thoroughly on the boil but with such a heavy lid that none of the steam or water is allowed out. My own words for it are, 'there she blows', because sooner or later it does blow in order to release the tension, the obsession and the controlling tactics within the psyche. Lindy Chamberlain had Mars, Saturn and Pluto conjunct, time unknown, but date, 4th March, 1948.

It is an aspect of supreme fear and frustration; a student of mine with it in the 3rd said it feels like a Chinese burn to the brain. There seems to be a fear of falling apart at the fundamental seams, so a compensating mechanism of obsessional control, i.e., in the 9th, life seems utterly pointless and meaningless; this is our hell and we wait for heaven. Religion is therefore obsessional as a means of holding the bits of the psyche together. In the 7th or the 10th there is often great mental or physical cruelty suffered at the hands of parent and partners, or even bosses. In the 8th and 12th the hardest of all and the greatest control. Once can see that control operating in Lindy Chamberlain's coping with the trial.

It seems some time in the life the individual with this aspect creates a situation that leads headlong into crisis of the order of .8 on the Richter scale. This crisis is designed, it seems, to prove to the individual that even a situation of this magnitude doesn't make him/her fall apart, and then the obsession and the control and manipulation and even the ruthlessness can be relinquished, and a great healing of the psyche occurs.

With any luck the individual can learn that the greatest control is to be out of control. The crisis releases powerful energies, which were formerly used in repression and holding down into the psyche to be used creatively; and, of course, the individual no longer draws such ruthless behaviour from others. There are many descriptions but all with roughly this meaning, (fear of change and the unknown). If any of your readers are willing to bare their souls I am sure the rest of us would be grateful.

Christine has given us some psychological effects of Saturn conjunct Pluto in the 3rd, 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th and 12th Houses. Readers might care to add their observations on these or other Houses. I have in my files a 1947 Chart with Saturn conjunct Pluto in the 4th House, close to the cusp: This woman suffers from agoraphobia (morbid dread of open spaces) to the extent that she even feared to leave the house to hang out washing. She is predisposed to phobias through the Moon in Aries in the 12th House, opposed by Neptune. She has been helped to overcome her weakness through Yoga. Externally, the conjunction caused an overthrow of plans and ambitions relating to real estate. This was particularly painful to her, as she has Taurus Rising, and those born under Taurus normally set great store on property and possessions. The trouble arose through previously unknown facts coming to light (Pluto) involving legal requirements (Saturn rules the Natal 9th - legalities). - Dymock.

From RALPH W. HOLDEN, (S.A.): I certainly did not wish to pretend that I was advancing anything original in my questioning of what seem to be the underlying assumptions of Dr. Dean's challenges to the astrological community. The 'philosophical and terminological legerdemain' I am prepared to admit is not mine, but largely that of Dr. A.F. Chalmers of the National Committee for History and Philosophy of Science, ('What is This Thing Called Science?').

However, he seems to have missed the point which I wished to make when I suggested that he should consider the implications involved even in an attempt to show the untruth of the Astrological Signs, using the same criteria as was proposed for the demonstration of their truth, namely, it must rest upon 'facts whose interpretation is unambiguous'. In such a context, no evidence could be considered as beyond challenge. To disprove is as impossible as to prove: That is the nature of things.

One may perhaps wish to judge things as 'likely' or 'possible': Yet such judgements arise from the pre-suppositions originally posited, and from the tools, methods, and concepts available at the time of the judgement. But this is an entirely different matter from 'proof'. It is indeed possible that if there is a confusion between 'scientific method' and 'statistical inference', that this may lie with Dr. Dean and not with myself.

It may be for this reason that I am criticised for my use of the word 'hypothesis', and the point which I wished to make is dismissed by saying 'a hypothesis is under challenge by definition'. Certainly it is always true to say that an hypothesis is challengeable (which is a little different), but let us also clearly understand what things are an hypothesis, and what are not.

An hypothesis is a mental construct or concept, used often as a basis for investigation. That is, it is a framework against which we check certain areas of our experience to determine if we can obtain an integrity of experience and understanding. Obviously Astrology is an hypothesis; but so also was Newtonian physics; and so, today, is general relativity, quantum mechanics, or astrophysics. The only things in science that seem not to be hypotheses are mathematics, definitions, and descriptions (although these last may often be quite suspect).

A set of essays dedicated to Dr. Paul Dirac on his 70th birthday ('The Physicists Conception of Nature') contained 40 papers, not one author of which claimed that any part of modern physics was more than a concept or an hypothesis. Dr. John Wheeler of Princeton wrote, 'The review one by one of the fixed points of physics has left not a single one unquestioned, neither "constant" nor principle. It is difficult to find any other way to summarise the situation as it now appears than this: "There is no law except the law that there is no law" '.

It seems reasonable to suggest that statistical research - as mathematics generally - finds its meaning from within its own discipline and not from its subject matter. Perhaps it is for this reason that the Gauquelin studies have in the final analysis been greeted with little more than a stifled yawn by both scientists and astrologers.

However, Dr. Dean rightly points out that the scientific method has some very notable achievements to its credit, in a specific number of areas, of course. That our society appears to be dominated by technology is possibly as much a measure of the narrowness of our lives, as of the broadness of our science. As well, 'right' results can be produced by suspect theories, acupuncture I would imagine being a glaring example of this with respect to present-day medical science.

Many parts of Western society unfortunately have tended to accept 'scientific' as a synonym of truth, meaning and value. This seems to be the point of view of Dr. Dean in his constant declaration that astrology 'can only be understood or considered in the light of 'hard evidence'. An attitude which reached its philosophical culmination with A.J. Ayer of Oxford and the Logical Positivists. For them only statements possessing the possibility of verification could have meaning. Thus 'the Moon is made of green cheese' is sensible (as the statement may in theory be tested), but to say 'that woman is beautiful' is non-sense (since it is a subjective judgement and scientifically non-verifiable).

This I fear may all be a little removed from the use which Dymock intended for Astrologers' Forum. Yet the issue I am raising is that of the proper 'grounds' for the examination of the astrological hypothesis. Just because Dr. Dean tells me that it must be those of scientific demonstrability or statistical significance, does not necessarily mean that I am compelled to accept his judgement. Indeed, I think that I have grounds for not doing so. For this he accuses me of not 'doing something about it' (i.e., statistical demonstration), and of 'trying to knock those like (Dr. Dean) who are'. I must confess that I had not previously thought of his work - although obviously encyclopaedic - as unquestionably constructive for astrology.

Astrology may - or may not - be demonstrable in terms of present-day physical hypotheses or statistical methods. But that those are the only proper frameworks by which it may validly be examined is for me a very doubtful assumption.

The issue which I wished to raise - as I tried to say initially - is that involved with the nature of our concept of truth. I have suggested that this is essentially concerned with an integrity of meaning and experience, and not simply with conformity to a set of predetermined criteria. To this Dr. Dean has objected, 'how can truth for one be error for another?' The concept of one all-encompassing truth would no doubt have gladdened the heart of any Inquisitor: 'Which faith except everyone do keep whole and undefiled, without doubt he shall perish everlastingly'.

It is simply a matter of observation that people live in this world with vastly different concepts of what is 'truth'. It is the simplistic device of the fundamentalist (whether religious, scientific, or political) to say, 'because truth can only be one thing, and I know that I am right, you are therefore wrong'. It seems to be becoming increasingly evident that we are living in a world in which truth is not one simple thing at all. In early high school we learnt that light could be examined either as a wave form or as a particle. The dilemma of the truth about light would not be solved by investigating whether wave forms or particle reactions were the more statistically significant.

The subject with which we are concerned may not only determine the nature of truth for it, but also the means by which this is to be perceived.

But why did I dare suggest that my world might be more fun than Dr. Dean's? - something 'about which [I] cannot possibly know'. I have always considered writing to be a quite self-revealing process, and certainly Dr. Dean's writings are by now quite extensive. Admittedly such evidence is not of a kind 'whose interpretation is unambiguous', but still, it did seem to be 'significant'.

From ELVA HOWSON (VIC.): I would be interested to read reports of observations from contributors to the Forum in regard to natal planets that were in direct motion, and later turned retrograde, and vice-versa. Is the effect detrimental or beneficial, does the main effect occur in the year of changed motion or, in the case of a direct natal planet which turns retrograde then later again turns direct, which would be the more significant year? Any information or guidance toward interpretation would be appreciated.

Rudolf Smit has made a very pertinent point in regard to the different behaviour patterns, life styles and life experiences or responses of twins. Such cases that he cites are further proof to me that whilst our life and personality POTENTIALS are shown in our natal charts the long-standing 'Fate versus Free Will' is still a debatable proposition.

The entire complexity of interpretation, whether such is natal or progressed, exists because we are dealing with potentials, not unvariable facts. I firmly believe each individual has a certain amount of flexibility within a given framework (his/her natal chart).

An instructive and beneficial exercise would be to compare life profiles of twins, born in a very close time span, that do have quite diverse lives. Such studies would be sure to expand the understanding of how flexible human responses can be under the same astrological influences.

The topic should most definitely NOT be ignored.

My good wishes to all for the festive season.

From JAMES McKEAGUE (N.S.W.): As a new reader, may I present the following old astrological puzzle. I haven't heard that anyone ever completely solved it. If so, please enlighten me.

In his 'New Dictionary of Astrology' Sepharial gives a table of 'Planetary Years' (under entry: Planets). DeVore copies it in his 'Encyclopedia' (entry: Planetary). Says Sepharial: 'What are called the shortest "years" of the several planets are understandable by the orbital motions in most cases, but the mean, greater and greatest years are difficult to trace and seem to bear no arithmetical proportion to one another. I give them however for the more careful study of the ingenious student.'

Planet	Short	Mean	Greater	Greatest
Saturn	30	43.5	57	465
Jupiter	12	45	79	428
Mars	15	40	66	264
SUN	19	69	120	1460
Venus	8	45	82	151
Mercury	20	48	76	450
Moon	25	66	108	320

Years ago I decided these figures must be based on actual planetary motions, and became determined to trace their origins, but had only partial success:

The Short Years are related to orbital motions, but not merely by longitude. The pattern of latitudinal motion is also taken into account. Thus Jupiter's orbital period is usually given as 11.862 years, but the old astrologers were not so interested in this 'sidereal period'; they were tracing the repetition of the PATTERN of Jupiter's movement in the sky in two dimensions (celestial latitude and celestial longitude). Refer to the ephemeris and you will see the pattern is repeated in 12 years, not 11.862. The pattern produced is shifted a little in the Zodiac, and that is why seven revolutions brings Jupiter back to the same place in 83 years, not 84 (12×7).

The situation is similar with Mars. In translating the 'Tetrabiblos', F.E. Robbins repeated Bouche-Leclercq's remark that Mars' 15 year period is 'a mystery', and called it an astrological, not astronomical statement. But it IS an astronomical statement, as you can see by looking at the latitudinal movement of Mars at 15-year intervals in the ephemeris. Again, it is the PATTERN of movement which is being repeated. (You may have to trace out the patterns for a few months at 15-year intervals on a graph before you will believe this!) The Short Years of Mercury, Venus and Saturn also refer to this repetition of pattern of movement.

The Sun's '19 years' is, of course, the Metonic Cycle, where lunations return to the same day of the year. (Some may think 19 years would be more suitably related to the Moon, but the ancients must have been thinking of the Metonic return of Solar eclipses.)

The Moon's 25-year period I did not solve, but found the answer in an old Egyptian work. Twenty five years (of 365 days each - the old Egyptian year) bring the Lunar and Solar cycles into harmony, e.g., from New Moon of January, 1950, to New Moon of January, 1975, equals 9125 days (365×25). The old Egyptians could locate dates of lunations by looking at a calendar for 25 years earlier. We can, too, if we subtract intervening leap year days.

For the Mean Years, halve the difference between Short and Greater, and add to the Short. These are, if you like, the 'midpoints' between Short and Greater.

I could not trace any of the Greater Years. Perhaps they are 'Goal Years' in an unfamiliar calendar? Goal Years are an ancient device used by astrologers who haven't an ephemeris for a particular year. For example, 83 years is a Goal Year for Jupiter. For Jupiter's position in 1999, look up its position in 1916, and it is fairly close. (The reason why, I explained above.) According to old sources, the Goal Years for the various bodies are: Moon, 18; Mercury, 46; Venus, 8; Mars, 79 and 47; Jupiter, 71 and 83; Saturn, 59. Even allowing for differences between various calendars, some of these are still useful. The 83-year period for Jupiter is almost exact. The 59-year period for Saturn has an increase of about two degrees.

I know the source of only one figure in the list of Greatest Years, the Sun's 1460. This is 365×4 , and is the number of Julian years required to bring the Egyptian calendar back into harmony with the Julian measure of the mean Solar Year. 1460 Julian years equals 1461 Egyptian years. (365.25×4 equals 1461.) So it took 533,265 days to harmonize the two calendars.

Can you solve the remainder? Without computers and calculators I spent as much time on this years ago as I could afford. Now it is over to you electronic whizzes.

As to the practical use of this material, you may be interested in my article on Cycles, which, I'm told is coming out in the December, 1982, issue of 'Cosmos'.

From MARGUERITE BROSE (N.S.W.): I noted that it was announced on the seventh December, that Lindy Chamberlain, convicted of murder after a seven weeks' trial will have her Appeal heard on the seventh February, 1983.

From CLAIR BUNNETT (VIC.): Princess Grace had the planet Mars at 25 Sco 38 in her Natal Chart (Circular Letter No. 15). This Natal position of Mars was in opposition to the fixed star, Algol, often designated 'the most evil star in the heavens', while at the time of the accident Mars was transiting its Natal position, and therefore also opposed to Algol.

Natal PLUTO in the 9th, or Travel, House was conjunct the fixed star, Castor. Vivian Robson ('The Fixed Stars and Constellations in Astrology') interprets Castor as being associated with 'sudden fame or honour, but often followed by loss of fortune and disgrace, sickness, trouble and great affliction'.

In a horary chart for the time and place of the car accident, the Moon in Cancer in the 9th House is conjunct the fixed star, Procyon, and square Pluto at 25 Libra 31. Vivian Robson says Procyon can give 'activity, violence, sudden and violent malevolence...'

A strange feature of this Horary Chart for the reported time of the accident near Monaco is that the House cusps are very similar to those of Princess Grace's Natal Chart.

There would be few astrologers who could deny that the sudden death of this beautiful woman was indeed associated with some 'sudden and violent malevolence' of the planetary configurations at the time of the accident.

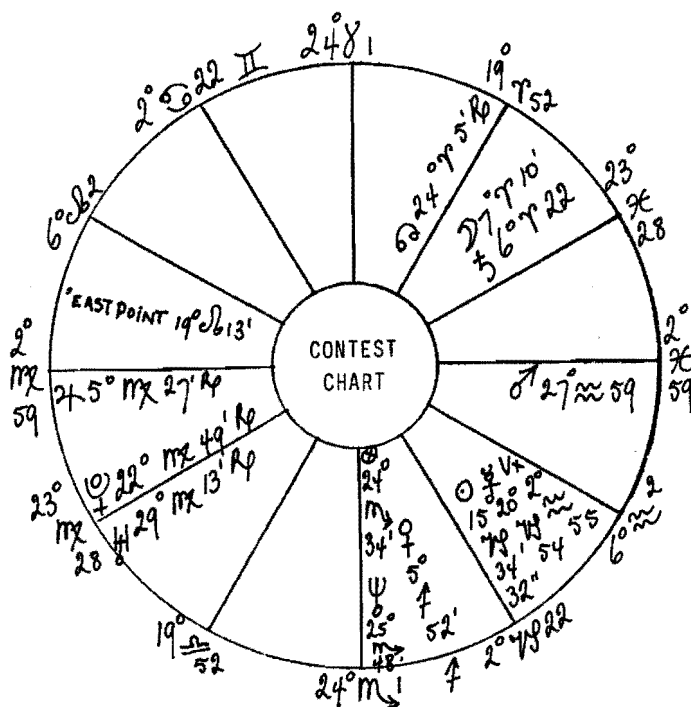

ROD BRANDT, 16 Albert Street, GOODNA, QLD., 4300, (Tel. [07] 288 2743) is doing some research into ASTRO-METEOROLOGY, and would be very glad to contact somebody with an interest in this useful branch of Astrology, to discuss and share ideas.

The F.A.A.'s 5TH INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION will be held at Monash University, Melbourne, from January 27th to 30th, 1984. Overseas astrologers who have accepted invitations to lecture include Robert Hand, Eleonora Kimmel, Lenora Hill, Neti Leo, Jeff Jawer and Edith Wangemann. An open invitation is extended to all astrologers from all astrology groups to enjoy the occasion and benefit from the large astrological repertoire to be presented.

Write for a brochure to Pamela J. Rowe, National Vice-President and Convention Convenor, F.A.A., 6 Zodiac Street, BURWOOD, VIC. 3125. Tel. [03] 288 1225.

THE CONTEST CHART

An unlucky combination of circumstances gave rise to some errors in the Contest Chart published in the last issue of 'Forum'. The positions of Venus, Uranus, Pluto, (True) Node and the Part of Fortune were wrong; apologies to all concerned. Here is the correct Chart:

The question was, 'What is special about this girl?' She was born in Venlo, Holland (51N24, 6E10) at 9 pm on 6th January, 1968. G.M.T. 8 pm.

Some replies have already been received, and you still have about five weeks to think about it. No astrologer (I exclude present entries to the Contest) has yet found the right answer.

From ED. CASELLI (N.S.W.): I do not accept Libra as Winston Churchill's Ascendant. I prefer the beginning of Scorpio, with an elevated Moon aspecting the Ascendant. This latter factor explains the Lunar appearance, while Uranus on the M.C. is also more indicative of his career. A Rising Mercury in Scorpio would be consistent with his verbal skill, especially his power of invective.

[Winston Churchill's Chart was a matter of contention for many years during his life, when his birth time was not known. This was supposedly resolved after his death, when a birth time was discovered, giving an Ascendant of 0 Libra 53, and a Midheaven of 1 Cancer 9. This was the Chart I accepted in my remarks in the last Forum. I concede that the 'discovered' time is not conclusive. - Dymock]

Distribution of 'Astrologers' Forum' is now being extended overseas. A list will be printed when space is available. My kind regards to all. - Dymock, 19th December, 1982.

Astrologers' Forum

(FORMERLY 'CIRCULAR LETTERS' TO ASTROLOGERS)

A FREE MONTHLY INTERCHANGE OF IDEAS AND INFORMATION FOR ASTROLOGERS
EDITED AND PUBLISHED BY DYMCK BROSE, 86 CLARENCE ROAD, BLACKHEATH,
N.S.W., AUSTRALIA. 2785. TEL 10471 & 8074.

Issue No. 16, 19TH NOVEMBER, 1982.

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

After some hesitation I have finally adopted 'Astrologers' Forum' to replace 'Circular Letters' as the appropriate name for this publication. 'Forum' adequately describes its nature, which is to provide a ready means of communication between astrologers, a platform for debate and a means of raising standards in astrology by the pooling and discussion of ideas.

My thanks to Austin Levy who suggested the new title (which was also the choice of Allan Johnson), and to all the others who offered suggestions. Many were content to leave the name as it was.

About two-thirds of the recipients either returned the Questionnaires or replied by 'phone. Regarding contents, the replies were:-

'Fine as is.'

'The content is good'

'I didn't like the tiny print of Circular 13, otherwise it is hard to fault'

'Please keep the very attractive heading of each Letter.'

'More teaching, less preaching.'

'Content and presentation are good.'

'Sometimes the natal charts are difficult to read, but this cannot be helped, as the 'Circular Letter' has to be compact'

'I did like Circular 13, but a slight increase in size and with larger printing could possibly be a further improvement, but most importantly retain the original concept and objective in the method of correspondence.'

'I don't think the presentation can be improved without incurring added costs. Contents, of course, depend on the writers.'

'I think your presentation is very good and informative, especially about current events, and you must be congratulated and thanked for all your effort involved.'

'I am always happy to read anything instructive, and also discussions on aspects, systems, etc.'

'Circular Letter No. 13 had a different format which I liked very much, and intended to bind the whole year together in book form. However, No. 14 was in the old shape again so the book idea is out.'

'Contributors should try to condense their material to essentials, avoiding long dissertations.'

'I would like articles including more of a psychological bias, as well as event-orientated astrology.'

'Character delineation and psychological analysis no longer have any interest for me. I want accuracy in prediction.'

'I think we need to avoid (as far as possible) "articles" and dissertations. Exchange of ideas, a little stirring here and there. We have journals, so we don't need to duplicate them. Should you have a "word limit", (800-1000)?'

'I like it the way it is--informal and not "bitch-type". Just keep up the tone of friendship.'

It can be seen that there is some difference of opinion on certain aspects of 'Astrologers' Forum', but in general the tone of the replies was one of enthusiasm, both for the idea and its execution. I thank all contributors for their complimentary remarks and/or criticisms, and assure them of my intention to meet all their wishes as far as possible. The money and stamps donated is also greatly appreciated.

This seems an appropriate place to mention that I am always glad to add new names to the mailing list. The more people there are involved, the more useful the 'Forum' will become. So, if you know of any likely participants, please advise me.

The main difficulty of a smaller format, as in Circular Letter No. 13, (which some liked and some didn't) is that the edited copy has to be sent from one printer to another a long distance away, involves me in extra train trips, and the whole business takes another two or three days to complete.

I prefer to interfere as little as possible with the expression of ideas and opinions by correspondents, though some changes are occasionally necessary in the interests of good editorial practice. Your ideas are welcome, however expressed. If condensing is needed, care will be taken not to change the original meaning.

The heading, 'Astrologers' Forum', is in German Gothic, hand-lettered by my wife, Marguerite, who is a trained calligrapher as well as an artist in oils and Chinese Watercolours, and my chief help in just about everything.

- Dymock.

PRINCESS GRACE OF MONACO

From Ed. CASELLI (N.S.W.): I agree that Princess Grace's squarish cast of features and square build of body are typical of Scorpio, but they are also characteristic of Aquarius and of the Fixed Signs generally. Also Princess Grace's cool beauty is more like Aquarius than Scorpio.

Incidentally, how do you arrive at Saturn sq I.C. and Mercury sq Saturn in this regard? [These are Primary Directions in Oblique Ascension. See later in this issue.

- Dymock].

Re the Spring, 1982 Journal. Herein Rudolf Smit says that in regard to Janny the P.E.A. Jupiter sextile Mars is 'remarkable'. The only think remarkable about this is Smit's attempt to link it to the accident.

Jupiter sextile Mars suggests good luck (Jupiter) through things of metal (Mars), which hardly fits the case. Granted that Jupiter can coincide with a death that is a happy release, this is not the case here in regard to a mechanical accident.

Rudolf also refers to a direct Primary Ascendant conj. Mars and an Indirect Primary Mars to radical Ascendant at the same time. He appears to be counting the same aspect twice (in regard to Henk).

From CLAIR BUNNETT (VIC.): In regard to the Ascendant of Princess Grace, the U.S. book 'An Astrological Who's Who' by Marc Penfield (Arcane Publications) gives her Ascendant as 15°47' Aquarius and an M.C. of 4° Sagittarius. This Aquarian Ascendant and Sagittarius M.C. was suggested by your correspondent Ed. Caselli in Circular 15.

However, this information in 'An Astrological Who's Who' may not be entirely reliable, as the Moon placement for Grace's Chart is given as 25°38' of Aquarius instead of Pisces, as it should be.

[This is interesting conjecture, but we must remember that the time of 5:31 am, giving a Scorpio Ascendant and Leo MC, was taken from the Birth Certificate. To me it bears the hallmark of truth, not only for the reasons set out in Circular Letter 15, but also because of the Leo Midheaven. The Midheaven frequently influences the physical body as well as the psychic nature. Winston Churchill is a case in point: His Cancerian Midheaven was much more indicative of his physical appearance than was his Libran Ascendant. Princess Grace's appearance might be considered Aquarian or Libran (and still more so, Leonian), but certainly not Sagittarian.

- Dymock.]

From RUDOLF SMIT (VIC.): I know of two Charts for Princess Grace - the one which Dymock has used and another one for 4:58 am, which gives an Ascendant that is, conspicuously enough, almost exactly conj. Venus in Libra. I have the strong feeling that this is a 'rectification' by an astrologer who found that, because of her beauty and serene character, the Ascendant "HAD to be conjunct Venus in Libra". Anyway, I have tried out this 4:58 am Horoscope in regard to her death, and it did not work out as well as the 5:31 am Chart.

Of course I used Primary Directions according to Prime Event Analysis. See what it yielded, on the date of her accident/death: (all the following are P.E.A. aspects; orbs in brackets):- MC \angle \odot (9'), ASC \nearrow Vx (in 8th) (32'), Cusp 8 \nearrow \oplus (8'), Cusp 12 \nearrow \nearrow (5').

1. It should be borne in mind that 'P.E.A. - cusp conjunct a planet' means in reality that the heavenly body itself crosses the radical cusp!

2. Pluto in this Horoscope is very important. As the radical Ascendant is in Scorpio, Pluto is Ruler of the Chart. As well as being the natural Ruler of the House of Death.

3. In this Horoscope Mars is the Ruler of the 6th as well as Co-Ruler and natural Ruler of the 1st. PEA-Cusp 12 conjunct Mars is therefore a good indication that Princess Grace suffered a sudden (Mars) sickness (6th and 12th in her head (Mars), part of the body (1st House - Mars again). It proved to be fatal (Pluto and Vertex: The fateful encounters).

PEA-MC \angle Sun may indicate a very public (MC) matter - no definite conclusion.

Other very significant PEA-aspects: Mercury, incidental Ruler of 8th sq. Moon, incidental Ruler of 9th, which may be an indication that she found death far away in a foreign country - that is, foreign to her home-country, the USA. Together with House 3, the Ninth House is also indicator for traffic. Why, according to Dymock, the Moon and Mercury rule the brain is not fully clear to me. As far as I know traditional astrology always assigns Mars to the head and brain. Anyway, in PEA Mars and Saturn are heavily involved:- $\nearrow \angle \nearrow$ (25'); $\ddagger \square \odot$ (11'), $\ddagger \pi \oplus$ (13').

By the way: Mars was moving to the \angle of its Natal position, and Saturn was moving out. The resulting 'peak' is around the date of death.

Moving in also was PEA $\ddagger \angle \ddagger$, but though still within 'working' - distance, the orb is somewhat wide: 44'.

Then there is PEA-Pluto itself:

Pluto conjunct Cusp 11, or opposite Cusp 5, orb 38', indicating the child which was involved (Princess Stephanie).

 Pluto semi-square Venus, (17'), Ruler of 1st to Ruler of 12th, Hospitalisation.
 Pluto quintile Mars, orb only 3': speaks for itself.

Pluto square Jupiter, orb 32'. Apart from the fact that Jupiter is in House 8, this aspect is hard to understand.

I have also done a few PEA-directions with relevant midpoints (I have recently developed a new computer-programme which makes this possible) and it is quite amazing:

Sun/Mars conjunct Cusp 3, orb 24'
 Sun/Pluto tredecile Pluto, orb 7'
 Mars/Saturn sesquare Vertex, orb 22'
 Mars/Uranus sesquare Mercury (Ruler 8, orb 13')
 Mars/Pluto conjunct Mercury (Ruler 8, orb 50')
 Mars/ASC conjunct Saturn, orb 31'
 Saturn/Uranus sesquare Mars orb 23'
 Saturn/Pluto sesquare Uranus, orb 2' !
 Uranus/ASC square Vertex, orb 40'

As one sees, the violent midpoints make, in PEA-direction, very relevant hits. I do not like to give PEA-aspects on dates of exactness. My long-time experiments with PEA-directions have established that PEA-only seldom works on dates. It covers a long period of time instead. Besides, important events usually go with many PEA-aspects, all pointing, however, to the same kind of event, as this example, Princess Grace, proves again, at least with this time of birth. Judging from the above evidence, I feel that the time is close to that given in 'The Circle Book of Charts', 5:31 am. It seems to be substantiated by the Solar Eclipse Chart. I agree with Elva Howson on her findings with Solar Eclipse charts. In my home-country, Holland, much work has already been done on Solar Eclipse Charts, but also on New Moon Charts and, most of all, New Moon Charts where the place of the New Moon has been corrected for the local parallax. This is something to write about later on.

PRIMARY DIRECTIONS IN OBLIQUE ASCENSION

As mentioned earlier, hereunder is detailed the method of Primary Direction of planets and points in Oblique Ascension, the method which yielded the significant 'death' Directions in Princess Grace's Chart, as shown in the last Circular Letter (as it was called then).

This method is not the same as the Prime Event Analysis system espoused by Rudolf

Smit, but its efficacy has been demonstrated over many years.

The following abbreviations are used:
 ZL = Zodiacal Longitude; E = Obliquity of the Ecliptic; L = Geographic Latitude (negative if South); D = Declination;
 CL = Celestial Latitude; RA = Right Ascension; OA/OD = Oblique Ascension/Oblique Descension; OAQ/ODQ = Oblique Ascension/Descension under own Pole; PQ = Pole of the planet or point concerned; MD = Meridian Distance; DSA/NSA = Diurnal Semiarc/Nocturnal Semiarc; AD = Ascensional Difference; ADQ = Ascensional Difference under own Pole.

METHOD: (1) Find the RA of the Significator i.e., the planet or Personal Point that is to be directed to the conjunction or aspect of another planet or point (the Promissor).

$$RA = \tan^{-1}[(\cos E \sin ZL - \sin E \tan CL) / \cos ZL]$$

(2) Calculate the Significator's MD (Upper or Lower, according as the Significator is above or below the Horizon):

(3) Calculate the Significator's AD:

$$AD = \sin^{-1}(\tan D \tan L)$$

(4) Calculate the Significator's DSA or NSA (according as the Significator is above or below the Horizon):

$$DSA = 90^\circ + AD; NSA = 180^\circ - DSA$$

(AD may be negative)

(5) Calculate the Significator's ADQ:

$$ADQ = (MD/SA) \times AD$$

(ADQ may be negative)

(6) Calculate the Significator's OAQ/ODQ (according as it is on the Eastern or Western side of the Map)

$$OAQ = RA - ADQ; ODQ = RA + ADQ$$

(ADQ may be negative)

(7) Calculate the Significator's PQ:

$$PQ = \tan^{-1}(\sin ADQ / \tan D)$$

You now have the required elements of the Significator - its Pole and its OAQ/ODQ.

(8) Calculate the OA or OD of the Promissor (the Ecliptic Point where the Significator conjuncts or makes an aspect to another planet or point) under the Pole of the Significator.

MD = Difference between RA's of Significator and MC/IC

$$\begin{aligned}
 RA &= \tan^{-1}(\tan ZL \cos E) \\
 D &= \sin^{-1}(\sin ZL \sin E) \\
 AD &= \sin^{-1}(\tan D \tan PQ) \\
 &[PQ \text{ from (7) above}]
 \end{aligned}$$

$$\begin{aligned}
 \text{Promissor's OA} &= RA - AD \\
 OD &= RA + AD
 \end{aligned}$$

(9) The Arc of Direction is the difference between the OAQ/ODQ of the Significator and the OA/OD of the Promissor.

(10) The time of operation of the Direction is found by dividing the Arc of Direction by 59'8.33" (= one year).

The above calculations are tedious if worked by logarithms. I have programmed my Casio FX-602P Calculator to do the job for me, and do it quickly.

I consider these Primary Directions the most important of all astrological prognosticators.

Applying the process to the Birth Chart of Princess Grace (see Circular Letter 15), the Primary Direction of Mercury square Saturn is arrived at as follows:

$$\begin{aligned}
 \text{Mercury's ZL} &= 10 \text{ Sco } 43) \\
 \text{CL} &= 1 \text{ N } 1) \text{ From the} \\
 \text{D} &= 14 \text{ S } 4) \text{ Ephemeris} \\ RA &= 218.6208 \text{ (E in 1929 =} \\ MD &= .95.0321 \text{ 23.4486}^\circ) \\
 AD &= -12.1151 \\
 NSA &= 102.1151 \\
 PQ &= 37.96 \\
 OAQ &= 229.896
 \end{aligned}$$

The Promissor is 28 Vir 7 (the Ecliptic Point where Mercury would be square to Saturn).

$$\begin{aligned}
 \text{Promissor's RA} &= 178.2721 \\
 D &= 0.7493 \\
 AD &= 0.5847 \\
 OA &= 177.6874 \\
 \text{Arc} &= 52.2082 \\
 \text{Time Equiv.} &= 52.9684 \text{ years.}
 \end{aligned}$$

Princess Grace's birth date was 12th November, 1929, or decimalized, 1929.8662. Adding the time, 52.9684 years, equivalent to the Arc of Direction, gives 1982.8346, or 31st October, 1982.

(The above figures, in degrees of arc, are reduced from the Calculator read-out to a few places of decimals for convenience. Very slight differences, amounting to no more than a few hours in the date, will be obtained if a greater or smaller number of decimal places is used.)

For Primary Direction Saturn square the IC in Princess Grace's Chart, we have the following:-

$$\begin{aligned}
 \text{Saturn's ZL} &= 28 \text{ Sag } 7) \\
 \text{CL} &= 0 \text{ N } 51) \text{ From the} \\
 \text{D} &= 22 \text{ S } 35) \text{ Ephemeris} \\
 RA &= 267.9604 \\
 MD &= 45.6925 \\
 AD &= -20.3882 \\
 NSA &= 110.3882 \\
 PQ &= 19.44 \\
 OAQ &= 276.400
 \end{aligned}$$

The Promissor is 11 Sco 12, where Saturn is square the IC (and MC).

$$\begin{aligned}
 \text{Promissor's RA} &= 218.7693 \\
 D &= -15.1953 \\
 AD &= -5.4996 \\
 OA &= 224.2688 \\
 \text{Arc} &= 52.1308 \\
 \text{Time Equiv.} &= 52.8899 \text{ years}
 \end{aligned}$$

This addition to the Birth Date (1929.8662) gives 1982.7561, or 2nd October, 1982. Princess Grace died on the 14th September, 1982. - Dymock.

From STAN WALTERS (VIC.): I have correspondence with an astrologer in S.A. who by day works as a receptionist/clerk in a doctor's (GP) surgery. As the doctor's patients die off on him, she gets their file and sets up a chart for them - for noon on date of birth, birthtime naturally unknown. The outcome is that her experience in this exercise realized the single most predominating transit in aspect at death to be Jupiter trine to some strong natal point. The quaint way she put it to me was that 'They seem to go out on a good trip!'

This doesn't 'do violence' to the way I use Jupiter at all. It seems to fulfill an esoteric interpretation.

By remaining with Princess Grace's Natal Chart, Roy Owen made some good points. I'd simply like to add that transiting Jupiter was a bit more than close to the Ascendant. Jupiter was transiting the Pre-Natal Eclipse (Eclipses fall near the Nodes, in her case, South Node conj. Mercury and trine the transiting Node. Node transiting being conjunct 9th cusp, in the Sign of terminations).

To me, this isn't a configuration to be treated lightly, especially when one notes that the transiting Node opposes that group of progressed planets (Saturn, Mars, Venus and Sun in the 3rd House, progressed planets showing where an emphasis lies. In this case a marked emphasis as it's bringing into play ;he Natal emphasis on brain and head.

We all know that it takes some hard aspects to kill someone before their 'due-time'. It also takes some very hard aspects to make someone ill enough to die. And they are all in that Chart. Every hard aspect in that Chart involves the physical body, health in general and the 6th and 12th House, Rulers and planets in them.

6 to 12 Axis = health in general and auto-immune systems. 1st and 6th, head; 3rd, brain. The engorgement is indicated, also the organ involved. The cause being of course their apparent failure to respond to the positive factors in her Chart and fulfill her purpose in life. This precipitates the expression of planetary energies at a negative level. All could see she was overweight. Venus sesquare

Jupiter = excessive indulgence - negative response.

By not attending to her spiritual development and developing her 'head', the energies have for all intents and purposes virtually built up in it and 'blew it up'. Jupiter rules blood. Venus rules veins. Gemini - 'connectingness'. There's possible engorgement of the first order.

The 12th House under hard aspect means the auto-immune system will be liable to failure. In this case also indicating the possible engorgement of an organ with blood. The organ or area is indicated by the first and 6th Houses. 1st is always indicative of the head, the 6th by way of having Aries on the 6th cusp. Uranus in Aries in 'striking' distance of 6th cusp. Uranus sesquare Mars. Mars ruling 6th, Natural Ruler of 1st. Sun in 1st conjunct Mars sesquare Uranus. Pluto in Cancer - Pluto rules 1st, Cancer rules meningeal covering of brain.

All those progressed planets in Capricorn and the 3rd House simply show the breakthrough to the brain, which was indicated by the progressions but triggered by transiting Jupiter and the Node. (Also transiting Pluto beginning to 'pressure' Venus; those recent Libra transits didn't help) aspecting the Pre-Natal Eclipse conjunct Mercury, in the 1st. Mercury rules brain (function) and the Node aspected always has some potential for a health problem.

As my friend in S.A. would say 'She went off on a super trip'. There is much more in that Chart that contributes to the known ending; space and common sense has kept me to the most obvious and important ones.

Medical Astrology is quite enlightening when it comes to rectifying or confirming the Angles of a Natal Chart of negative responders. Of course the positive type aren't as PRONE to the indicated illnesses.

I'd better add that though I would have recognised that pattern as an epoch-forming time in the development of that soul, I wouldn't have been looking for it to kill her. Only in retrospect does the full force of the potential of that Chart to kill at that time become apparent.

CONVERSE SECONDARY PROGRESSIONS

From RUDOLF SMIT (VIC.): I have given some thought to the phenomenon of Converse Secondary Directions, as advocated, apparently with enthusiasm, by Ed Caselli and Dymock. Seen in the light of recent findings in quantum physics and also in the light of the findings of over 100 hundred years' serious investigations into the paranormal which suggest that, indeed, present, past and future seem to exist simultaneously (to a limited extent, anyway), I am willing to accept the possibility that Converse Secondary Directions have validity. Hence, from now on I will do experiments with it, and shall include them in my computer-programme.

I do this also because Secondary Directions are still based on the real motions of the planets and Moon around their central bodies (Sun and Earth). As for Solar-Arc Directions, however, I have experimented with them now for years, already, but I can't say I am fond of them. As I said before: Nature does not deal with simple arithmetic. In this matter I certainly agree with Austin Levy, who in his very lucid letter made perfectly clear that such a thing as a Solar-Arc Ascendant simply does not exist. Solar-Arc Directions would be mathematically correct only when the angle of the Ecliptic on the plane of the Equator was exactly zero, and not, as it is now, around $23^{\circ}27'$. In the case of $E = 0$ those Solar-Arc Directions would be Primary Directions, and as I, and for that matter also, Dymock, have lined out many times: Primary Directions, whatever the system may be, are more in accordance with the true mechanics of the Celestial Sphere.

From GEOFFREY DEAN (W.A.): Ralph Holden (Circular Letter No 15) is not the first to invoke philosophical and terminological legerdemain to prove in effect that the RA Prize is impossible to win, and is therefore a joke.

However, there already exist studies which meet all the conditions laid down and which, if their results had been positive, would have won the prize. So he is talking nonsense. Furthermore his views are obviously not shared by those people around the world who are competing for the current prize.

Some of his other points deserve comment:

Re reversing the challenge and asking me to demonstrate the untruth of Signs, the problem is that all the studies to date do exactly that to a greater or lesser extent, which was the reason for the RA Prize in the first place.

Re the new Vernon Clark test being a challenge to prove predictive techniques, and being similar to the RA Prize competition, predictive techniques are not involved (as my letter made clear), and they could hardly be more different.

Re deductive reasoning, he finds this doubtful because one cannot infallibly project from the known to the unknown. However, one does not try to: This is what statistical inference is all about. He then goes on from this to imply that the scientific method cannot work, a view not exactly supported by its performance to date.

Re his being unaware of any scientific hypothesis not under challenge, a hypothesis is under challenge by definition, so he is saying in effect that he knows of no white swans that are not white.

Re demonstration, Holden seems to be unaware that nowhere in the entire astrological and related literature is there a single convincing demonstration that astrological effects as traditionally conceived are real and beyond ordinary non-astrological explanation (and there are many such explanations including Barnum, placebo, social desirability, halo, variability, projection, cold reading, intuition, and self-fulfilling prophecy effects). I would have thought that this would be a matter of some concern and that he would be doing something about it rather than trying to knock those like myself who are.

Re truth, he equates this with meaning. But astrology's ability to provide meaning does not depend on whether it is true, any more than our seeing faces in clouds means that they are really there.

Also, he says that the truth of astrology is demonstrated by the existence of people who gained benefit from it. Ignoring the inconvenient point that, by his own argument, his statement is disproved by the existence of people who do not gain benefit, this means that what matters is not whether astrology is based on fact but whether it makes us feel better. Thus is astrology reduced to the role of a celestial placebo, to be consumed as directed regardless of the underlying reality. As with any placebo, there can be no objection to its use provided it is honestly named, but Holden provides no such label.

Furthermore, in the past people have gained benefit from countless erroneous practices like bloodletting and phrenology. In the absence of hard evidence why should we suppose that astrology is any different?

In the interests of finding an answer, I challenge Holden to answer the following questions:

1. How does he know that astrology works?
2. How does he know that astrological effects are real and beyond ordinary explanation?
3. In the absence of hard evidence, why should we accept his views rather than any other views?
4. If wrong charts are found to be as readily accepted by clients as right charts (RA gives examples of this), what would this mean for astrology?

Holden ends by asserting that he is sure that his world is more fun than mine. So not only does he talk nonsense, muddle his facts, and misunderstand the scientific method, he is also sure of things about which he cannot possibly know.

From ALLAN JOHNSON (N.S.W.): Here are a few interesting sidelights on the recent U.K. Conferences. I attended both the English and Irish Conferences. With both Conferences the emphasis was much more on the philosophical side of astrology than we are accustomed to here in Australia. Perhaps this is all to the good. We do need more debate on the reason why astrology works in the first place.

The overall subject for the Irish Conference itself was 'Fate and Free Will', so this did perhaps condition the speakers in advance to a more philosophical approach, rather than putting charts on the blackboard. But the circumstances of the Irish Conference have been a surprise to a lot of people I have mentioned it to. In the first place it was held at a Catholic Monastery, an Order of nuns under the direct control of the Pope himself. Also one of the lecturers was a Jesuit priest from New York, a Father Cassidy. He is a teacher at a Catholic college in New York, and the School authorities partly financed his trip to the Conference. Of course this sort of thing could not happen in Australia. Which simply means that Ireland is Ireland and Australia is Australia. But it does go some of the way to explain the current boom in astrology in that Island.

In previous issues of the Circular I have stressed the intuitive or individualist approach to astrology, and to prediction in particular, rather than the more mechanistic which is more responsive to statistical methods of proof. And I must say the majority of speakers at both Conferences tended to support my view. There does seem to be pretty much a consensus of opinion that astrology must always remain a border-line science, very much open to individual interpretation.

Geoffrey Cornelius, the new President of the Astrological Lodge was inclined to define astrology as a system of divination, not all that far from other divinatory systems. Of course this was not unexpected as the Astrological Lodge has strong links with the Theosophical Society. Actually the Astrological Lodge was started in 1916 and is still flourishing. It is the sole brain child of Alan Leo, out of all his many ventures, to have survived. It has had some very distinguished Presidents since that time, with Charles Carter and Ronald Davison each doing 25-year terms.

What we are really doing in astrology is to combine the rational with the irrational, the application of mathematics to human behaviour. This is an odd mixture indeed. And in this mix we must inevitably get the two distinctive schools of thought. Of course divination is much more concerned with the more specific prediction of events not trends.

In the main I would say the professionals are the pragmatists. They have to live in the real world and survive. So they have to learn to live with the imperfections of astrology. Which means that every system of prediction will let you down from time to time. No 100% reliability could possibly exist in such a field. I think the only safeguard against this is not to rely too heavily on any one factor, but to look for supportive evidence. If you do get a number of factors all pointing in the one direction, then you can be on pretty safe ground. I think this is the real secret of accurate prediction.

But of course this situation by its very nature makes the statistical application unworkable. So Geoffrey Dean is getting out on a limb. But his methods could apply in other areas of astrology. The English Conference this year was at Canterbury and was well up to the high standard that English Conferences usually put on. But John Addey was missed. He is really the main founder of the Astrological Association and therefore the main inspiration for the setting up of the Conferences in the first place.

THE PROBLEM OF TWINS

From RUDOLF SMIT (VIC.): NO ONE so far has reacted on my, I would say, very important observations about twins. Important, because they really gnaw at the roots of our Art. I bring this nasty topic up quite often and I have noticed that, when confronted with it, many astrologers seem to ignore it. Is then Astrology, for many astrologers, rather a religion with unshakeable dogmas, than a source of knowledge which must be revised continuously?

As Austin Levy said so nicely: 'I often get the feeling, after talking to astrologers, that they live in a mental fantasy world, a kind of astrological universe where no explanations outside the astrological ones are permissible'. He is extremely right. The observations on twins prove it: If there is no astrological explanation for the differences between two people born very closely to each other then, yes, just ignore it. This fact cannot be ignored, as sooner or later everyone of us astrologers will be confronted by it: and then the few cases where the lives of time-twins, for example, DO match perfectly, are INDEED too few. As one scientist/astrologer in Belgium once wrote: 'Of course, it is nice when the lives of two people, born at the same place, and the same time, but from different parents, do match perfectly. However, seen from the standpoint of the science of astrology, it is much more interesting to know why there are so many similar cases where the lives of the involved people DO NOT MATCH'. Again, this man - his name is Dr. Herman de Vos, a biochemist - is very right. But, apparently it all falls on deaf ears. Too many astrologers do not realize, or do not wish to realize, that astrology has its severe limitations. We cannot explain everything with astrology, neither can we predict, purely on an astrological basis, the future, without knowing about the background of the person involved. Even then, if we know, we can only forecast probabilities!

For example, leaving predicting of the future at rest for a moment, it is ridiculous to expect an astrologer, when confronted just with a chart of anyone, to tell straight away about the profession of the person, whether he is married or not, and if so, describe the spouse, tell about the children, how many, and order of sexes, and so on. Nevertheless, this is sometimes expected. Astrologers who fall into that trap have not realised that such can only be done psychically, and not purely astrologically.

Once again, observations on twins, whether identical twins, fraternal twins, or time-twins, prove it over and over again. Geoff Dean gives beautiful examples in his Recent Advances. I have also such examples in my files. Here is one: Two girls, born just five minutes apart; Horoscopes the same, only the cusps differ slightly (Asc. 1 degree). One is a shy, introverted personality, married only once, and having NO children. The other one the opposite in character, married three times and has two children. Great differences, but virtually the same horoscopes.

As far as I see these observations are much more relevant to Astrology, than all that statistical manipulations can prove or disprove (if it were only for the fact that statisticians themselves apparently disagree on the applied methods).

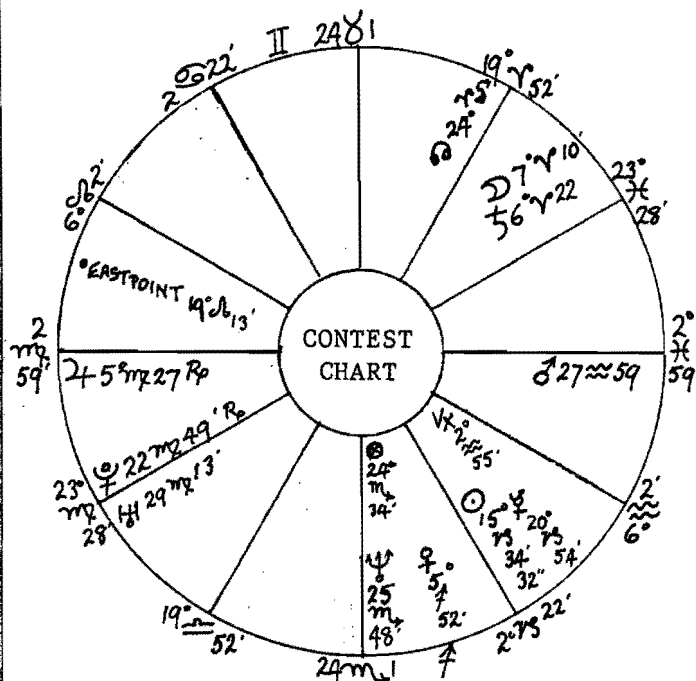

Therefore, instead of ignoring it, I think that astrologers must recognise it and start to work on this problem to find a sensible solution which confirms or adds something to astrological theory, philosophy and practice.

CONTEST

It is not only the problems of twins that bother me. It happens too often that astrologers are confronted with seemingly average charts, which afterwards prove to be of very, very special people. Herewith is such a chart, and I connect a contest to it. It is a challenge indeed, for up till now there hasn't been any astrologer who could establish the one and only remarkable thing that makes this native so extremely different. It may be one chance in a million that a human being like this one is born. If that is the case, then it should be shown in the Chart and very clearly, shouldn't it?

Well, I presented this Chart to the Society of Astrologers in The Netherlands, which I founded. They had a month to work on it. Everyone of them was totally wrong, and when I told them the truth they were utterly flabbergasted, but also honest enough to admit that this could not be discovered in the Chart. We have since sought in vain for the astrological clue. But now it is up to you to find this out, and especially the astrologers who claim that EVERYTHING is visible in the chart.

What is special about this Native?

This Native is a girl, born in Venlo, Holland (51N24, 6E10) at 9 pm sharp (the parents assured us that this was the right time, maybe with a margin of one minute only). This gives a GMT of 8 pm, or 20.00 hours. The date was 6th January, 1968.

I do not need a full description of the Chart, only a short sentence - 'This Native is...', or 'This Native has...'; and then a short but purely astrological explanation of your findings.

To keep it impartial, I suggest Dymock be the one who collects the findings, copies them and later forwards them to me.

THE PRIZE: If you are correct you can have computer-runs to a value of $50 from my computer service, or a free rectification of a birth chart. A consolation prize, for someone who is close to it, is computer runs to the value of of $20. Retrospective explanations are not accepted. The contest closes at the end of the January, 1983, school holidays.

So far no one has come up with the correct answer, so if you are wrong it is nothing to be ashamed of. Send your findings to Dymock. [I shall take due care of all entries. Meantime, my kind regards to all. Keep up your letters. - Dymock, 19th November, 1982.]

Consultant Astrologers

Dymock Brose

Teacher and Researcher in Astrology

Marguerite Brose

Diploma Fed. of Aust. Astrologers

19th October, 1982

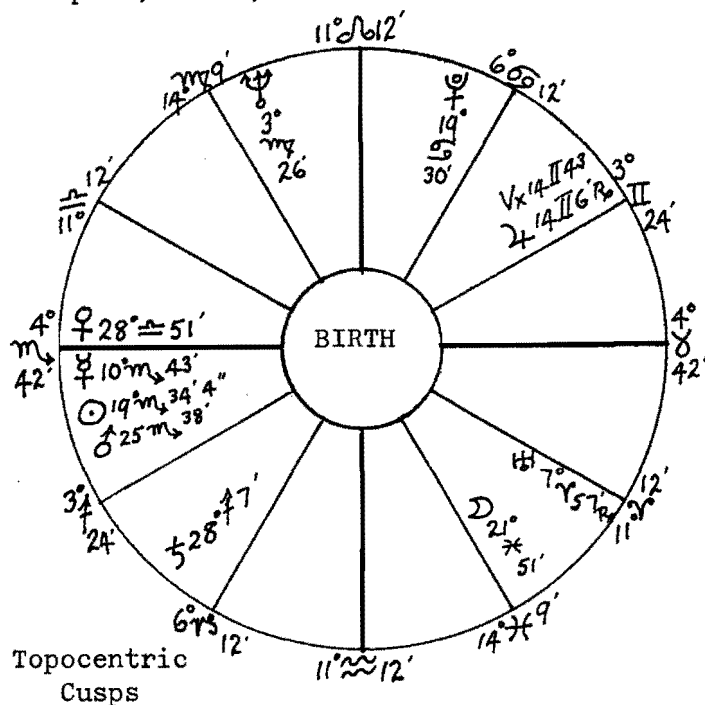

86 CLARENCE ROAD, BLACKHEATH, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA 2785

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

Much interest has been aroused by the astrology of Princess Grace and the fatal car accident of 12th September, 1982. In the Princess's Birth Chart, published in the last Circular Letter, Saturn was inadvertently shown as 28 Capricorn 7 instead of 28 Sagittarius 7. (My thanks to Ed. Caselli for advising me of this.) Here is the Chart again:

PRINCESS GRACE OF MONACO

Born 12th November, 1929, 5:31 am, Philadelphia, 75W10, 39N57. RAMC-133.65289

I have recalculated the aspects apertaining to Saturn in the Sign Sagittarius instead of Capricorn, and the results are dramatic. The Oblique-Ascension Primary Directions are now the most impressive of all the astrological indicators of the accident so far advanced.

More of that later, but meantime here are some communications on the same theme:

From ED. CASELLI (N.S.W.): Some comments on Princess Grace: Saturn/Pluto at 9° ⊥ opposes Uranus. Basically this might be operative somewhere since ♄ is sesquare ☾ and ♂ in the Radix (exactly ♄ ☾/♂ midpoint). In this connection the ♂ transit on 13/9/82 was parallel ♄ in 20¼° S. Declination, heightening ♂ transiting ♂ r.

However, I've never been satisfied with the given birth time for Grace Kelly. She seems more Aquarian to me. I don't have much information to go on but you might like to consider an Ascendant of 27 Aquarius (♈ ♀ r. and ♈ ♂ r., i.e., elegant sexuality). This places ☾♂♂ in the 9th House, which is consistent with marrying foreign royalty of a ♂ or ♀ nature. (☾ ruling 7th, with ♂♂ in 9th - her husband being a Rising ♀.)

Try these Directions for size:

1. Aquarian Ascendant (about 8 hours later than the given birth time) brings ♂♂ ♀ much closer.

2. The same time gives us ☾ conv. much closer to ♂♂ conv., ♂♂ T. and ♀. Saturn at the time in 21° is at the concentration point of the ♂, ♂, ♀ conjunction at the July eclipse.

3. MC 11° ♀ (for 27° ASC) plus 1° per year brings 4° on the MC at 53 years = 25 ♄ on the DESC, ♂♂ r.

4. MC 11° ♀ by converse angular motion brings 18° on the MC at 53, yielding ASC ♂♂ r & p.

I'm not suggesting this is conclusive but it is interesting. Note the ♄ parallel with ♂ on the day. (♄ - ♄ = mechanical accident)

I would require more information and more aspects to make a strong case, but I thought I'd offer the foregoing at this point. Though I do not attach much importance to the converse or direct Secondary Moon, in itself, it is a good timing trigger, and you can see it is closely involved in the ♂♂ ♀ and ♂♂ T at the time, provided you have an Aquarian Ascendant.

Re recorded 'birth times', as I believe I've said elsewhere, I view all given times with suspicion.

I realize ♄ in 10th is more consistent with the career and 'legend' of Princess Grace, but I still hold my view.

From GWYN TURNER (N.S.W.): Regarding Birth Times - There is a rather interesting item at the foot of page 59 in Alan Leo's 'Casting The Horoscope', which is worth considering.

'In the extremely interesting account by Colonel de Rochas of experiments with a hypnotised subject, wherein the sensitive is made to recount the experience of the soul in seeking reincarnation, the statement is made that the astral body in an inchoate form surrounds the yet unborn child, to which it is attracted some little time before birth, and that this astral body only takes form at the moment of severance of the umbilical cord. A statement which seems to establish this as the true moment of birth. The article entitled "The Regression of Memory", is to be found in the Annals of Psychical Science for July, 1905.'

It is a well-known medical fact that newborn babies sometimes take a while in drawing their first breath, so that even Astrologers with a stop-watch for the first cry, may even be incorrect. That is why it is so necessary to rectify a Birth Chart by events. One event is not sufficient, such as shown for the accident of the Dutchman, Henk, given in The Australian Astrologers' Journal, Winter, 1982. A slightly earlier time would have brought Mars to co-join the progressed Leo Ascendant; and of course one would not stop here, several more M.C. and Ascendant points would have to be progressed to fit in with the life events, such as examples shown in my article 'Applying Rectification Technique' in the F.A.A. Journal, October, 1973. These were true cases where the time had to be taken back. One of them is a client of 20-years' standing, whose Progressions have more than proved her rectified time.

Now to Princess Grace's Chart in the last Circular Letter, No. 14. This Chart does not depict the appearance, temperament or life-style of Princess Grace. She is a pure Venus type with Venus rising in Libra - the features are so balanced and agree with my description in 'The Complete Home Astrologer'. Her lifestyle has been in the public eye - Libra - both as an actress and as a hostess as Princess of Monaco.

Venus the Ruler, so strong in the marriage Sign would account for her prestige through marriage. Uranus in Aries would fall well into the Sixth House (Health). Leo would still hold the M.C. and its Ruler, the Sun, conjunct Mars in Scorpio, would describe the father's great efforts in acquiring wealth. The Chart as it stands shows no Progressions sufficient for a death, and the Ruler of the marriage House is placed in the Twelfth in a very weak position.

By the way there are two events that may help the astrologer wishing to rectify, as given over T.V. on the news of her death: An Oscar for her picture, 'The Country Girl', with Bing Crosby at the age of 25, and her marriage at the age of 27. I will try to obtain her biography for further details.

I am at present in the middle of rectifying political Charts with the help of biographies. Replies to my letters always bring the same answer - 'Sorry, I cannot locate my time of birth'.

With due respect to the above two correspondents, I prefer to accept the given birth time (5:31 am, Scorpio Rising) for Princess Grace as the correct one. The squarish cast of her features, and square build of body, is unmistakably Scorpionic. Scorpio women are often strikingly beautiful, and here the presence of Venus in its own Sign so close to the Ascendant injects the Libran quality of which Gwyn writes.

There is also the confirmation from the Primary Directions which, now that Saturn is correctly placed in Sagittarius, are augmented by two others that outclass all the rest in importance and power. They are

♄ I.C. (End of Life) on 2/10/1982, ♄ on 1/11/1982 (In the Geniture, ♄ rules the House of Death, and ♄ that of Roads and Transport.)

These two Directions are additional to those already mentioned in Circular Letter No. 14 - ♄♂, 25/9/1982, and ♄♄ on 22/8/1982.

Finally, there is a striking Primary Direction of the Vertex: ♄♂♂ (Rising), on 14/9/1982 - the very day of death, when the life-support system was removed, there being no further hope of Princess Grace's recovery.

The actual date of death (14th September) is also given by Primary Directions within the Solar Return Map (Normal) displayed on page 4 of Circular Letter 14. There, Saturn came to the conjunction of Pluto on 14th September. As an indicator of death, ♄♂♂ has unparalleled significance. The calculation is too lengthy to detail here, but will be given in a later Circular if readers are interested.

Experiences like this sustain my belief that this system of Primary Direction of the planets by Oblique Ascension under their individual Poles is pre-eminent in the matter of rectifying birth times. No other system to my knowledge, whether in Zodiacal Longitude or Right Ascension, gives anywhere near the same accuracy in dating the event. We nearly always find that this issue is avoided, orbs being given in minutes of arc, which, when translated into time, can mean anything from a month to twelve months or more, depending on the speed of movement of the significator involved.

An amendment is needed for the Solar-Arc Directions. With Saturn correctly placed in Sagittarius, the aspect between Saturn and the Moon on the 18th October, 1982, is a semi-sextile, not a conjunction. This considerably weakens its significance, of course.

- Dymock.

From ELVA HOWSON (VIC): Re Princess Grace: You may think I was disappointed to discover the error of Natal Saturn being in Sagittarius, not Capricorn, as shown in the last Circular. This of course meant that the Eclipse ASC was NOT conjunct Natal Saturn, which at first seemed so apt. However, we must realize, that as you pointed out correctly in your comments under Primary Directions it was the stroke (an affliction of the physical body) that caused the accident - not the other way around - therefore Natal Saturn's involvement quincunx Eclipse point (orb 24') and trine Eclipse Vertex (207') is more fitting to an incidental involvement in the entire story.

My 'alert signal' from the Eclipse Chart would have come from Eclipse MC in the Natal 1st \odot and \odot ; Eclipse Vx (~~not~~ \odot) \odot Natal (orb 30'12') and also parallel 33' enforcing the contact. These, by inherent significance, would have made me think of possible hospitalization due to physical illness as \odot rules the Natal 6th and co-rules Natal ASC and is placed in the First House (I believe ψ now to be far more indicative of the one and a half day coma Grace lingered in before actual death.

The Eclipse point \square Natal, Ruler of 12th, again would have enforced my tendency towards hospitalization. The Natal Vx, brought to some prominence by being \odot Eclipse 5th (orb 47') \square Eclipse 8th (orb 33'), could be the explanation of being in the daughter's company at the beginning of the death experience. This is debatable.

I'm sure I made it clear that I consider the Eclipse charts not the 'total' of an event but a definite 'alert signal' for closer scrutiny of other factors. I also mentioned that once alerted I apply a superimposition with the Progressed Chart. If we do this we will notice further interesting features: On the day of Eclipse 20th July, 1982, Prog. \odot at 4^h17 and Prog. ψ at 4^h5 are within minutes of the 12th House of the Eclipse. Furthermore, as I have previously stated (Circular 12) the method I use to calculate Progressed Angles and cusps coincides with Rudolf Smit's Primary Angles, giving the results at the day of Eclipse of Prog. ASC 15^h8 \square 8th Eclipse (orb 8') \odot Natal Vx (25' orb). The final 'weight' of importance in the Eclipse Chart (at least to my mind) would have been the Prog. Vx at 28^h36 not only \odot the Eclipse itself (53' orb) but \odot Eclipse ASC (1^h47' orb.)

My research with the Vertex over the past two years has shown me that a strong contact between an Angle and/or an Eclipse with a Vertex so very often appears to bring (or is at the time of) an extremely strong personal crisis. The \odot and ψ score highest in this regard.

Although I unfortunately do not have a great number of suicide cases, each of the cases I do have show these contacts. I would be most appreciative if anyone would be willing to send me further data to research. Knowledge gained may not only give us a greater understanding of the Vertex but could well be 'preventive' of dire outcome of such personal crisis times.

There is a wealth of astrological interest and indications in the other applicable charts for Princess Grace for those who wish to erect and study them. I think I have taken enough space for the moment.

From ROY OWEN (QLD.): I notice that no one has mentioned in the case of Princess Grace that her Uranus was on the M.C. of Monaco by Longitude, and the Eclipse was on the ASC of Monaco by Latitude. The Moon at the time of brain death was on Grace's M.C. The Sun was opposing her Moon. Mars was conjunct her Mars. Uranus was nearly opposite her 8th Cusp. Jupiter was close to her Ascendant. Saturn was close to a square to her Pluto. Jupiter was ^{has} conjunct her Mercury. The time Chart/Ascendant with Mercury conjunct MC and Neptune conjunct Ascendant.

There really have to be many aspects or transits adding up to a pattern to make a major event in life.

I have left out interpretations but they should be obvious.

Re the above, Uranus in Princess Grace's Chart was at 7^h57, which had a Right Ascension of 7^h18'. Roy is pointing out that this is close to the geographic longitude of Monaco, 7^h26'.

In regard to the Eclipse, I think Roy means it was on the Descendant as it appears in the Eclipse Chart on page 2 of Circular Letter No. 14.

I agree that a series of adverse aspects is necessary to produce a major event, but it is a risky business to rely purely on transits, and well-nigh impossible to forecast with them alone years ahead. On the other hand, the disaster was adequately and completely foreshadowed by the Primary Directions detailed above, the transit of Mars over its Natal position acting as a trigger.

- Dymock

From RALPH HOLDEN (S.A.): I noticed some time ago with interest, Dr. Dean's challenge to astrologers (July newsletter) to produce convincing proof of predictive techniques through a series of character assessments of charts. In particular he said 'those interested in demonstrating the truth of astrological claims now have a chance to stand up and be counted'.

This is a remarkably similar invitation to that of the prize of $2,000 which he and Arthur Mather offered to the astrological world (FAA Journal, 1981, June) for a demonstration of the validity of Signs. The conditions of this stipulated that '1. The entry must demonstrate that the Tropical-Sign hypothesis is true.' Yet this apparently simple demand to demonstrate the 'truth' of a relationship between Sign and character hides a most horrendous trap.

The scientific method (which is obviously demanded in both instances) is that of deductive reasoning. Yet its weakness lies in that it is unable ever to demonstrate that anything is true.

The basis of the method lies in the proposition that if a large number of events are found to contain a common 'ingredient', then it may be deduced that all events of that kind will contain the same ingredient. Thus it was once believed that all swans were white, because all observed swans were thus. But one cannot infallibly project from the known to the unknown.

Karl Popper therefore introduced the idea of Invalidation. If one cannot prove anything to be true, at least it may be possible to prove that it is not true. Thus one black swan disproves the white swan theory.

If one accepts this line of reasoning, all that is needed to invalidate any astrologer's 'demonstration' of character assessment or Sign hypothesis is to produce an instance where the relationships claimed cannot be proven to exist.

Yet there is worse to come! It has been logically pointed out that the Popper approach of saying 'That is not true', is actually a claim of truth in disguise. If you can say absolutely 'That is not true', we must assume that the methods and techniques used to disprove something are themselves infallible and unquestionably true. Which of course can never be!

The force of this kind of reasoning becomes apparent - not only by implication in the character assessment challenge - but quite explicitly in Dr. Dean's Sign-hypothesis competition. In this latter one of the conditions is '4. The entry must be supported by facts whose interpretation is unambiguous.....'

I must confess my ignorance of any major scientific hypothesis today which is not under challenge by some, or which does not contain 'facts' liable to a variety of interpretations.

I rather wonder whether it would not be fun to reverse the challenge and ask Dr. Dean to 'demonstrate that the Tropical-Sign hypothesis is UNTRUE.....', and that this demonstration 'must be supported by facts whose interpretation is unambiguous'.

Obviously our problem is that of Pontius Pilate, 'What is truth?' I would want to argue that truth is not some kind of property which is attached to things. As if it is true to say that common salt is a molecular association of chlorine and sodium; but it is untrue to say that Bach wrote wonderful music or that my character is Aquarian.

Truth is not a property of objects, but lies in our understanding of experience. It is what makes sense of things. It is the manner in which I am able to integrate into a coherent 'world view' all those experiences which impinge upon me throughout my life.

The search for truth is really a search for meaning. I think that I would claim that if astrological concepts are a part of a structure which gives pattern and meaning to my experiences, then for me they are true. If one wishes to demonstrate the truth of astrological tradition, one really only needs to find if there are those whose understanding of their experiences is given shape and substance by its concepts. They live in a coherent world, and the ultimate test of truth is no more and no less than that.

Unless Dr. Dean is playing a little joke upon us (and I have always suspected that the Great Astrology Prize is really that) then his 'truth' about experience is built upon a different framework from mine, and is presumably founded on what I hold to be the doubtful concept of deductive reasoning. But that is his problem not mine; and besides, I'm sure that my world is a pile more fun than his anyway!

Much material (including answers to the Questionnaires) has had to be held over until next time. My kind regards to all.

- Dymock.

Consultant Astrologers

Dymock Brose Teacher and Researcher in Astrology

Marguerite Brose Diploma Fed. of Aust. Astrologers

19th September, 1982.

86 CLARENCE ROAD, BLACKHEATH, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA 2785

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

These Letters have now been circulating for sixteen months (since 20th May, 1981) and the distribution has increased considerably in that time. Originally they were issued at irregular intervals, as material came to hand, but with the increasing response of astrologers, it soon became apparent that a regular monthly publication date was desirable. Accordingly, the 19th of each month was fixed upon, and since the beginning of this year the Letters have appeared consistently on that date.

The Letters are proving an invaluable means of exchanging information and ideas between serious astrologers, and help in large measure to surmount the disadvantages of distance, and the natural inclination of many astrologers to 'go it alone'.

It is my hope that the Letters are educational for both practitioners and advanced students, and that they will raise the standard of astrological practice in Australasia. No School of astrological thought is excluded; all are welcome, and by the testing and comparison of all available techniques we may hope eventually to settle on what is the most productive and useful in current astrological practice.

Collation, editing and distribution of the Letters is a service I am glad to provide, but the cost cannot be entirely disregarded, and to make best use of the funds available I am asking recipients of the Letters if they will kindly complete the enclosed Questionnaire, and return it to me, or alternatively, phone. If you do not have time to take an interest in the Circulars, or do not wish to do so, there is of course no need to return the Questionnaire. All who do return it will continue to receive the Circulars each month.

Since our extra-large Circular in August, only one communication has been received, but in the light of the recent tragedy at Monaco it is of considerable interest.

ECLIPSE CHARTS AND LUNATIONS

From ELVA HOWSON (VIC.): I was pleased to note Clair Bunnett advises her students to consider eclipses in evaluating planetary trends (Circular Letter 13), however, from my own personal experience I would suggest widening this from mere eclipse ☾, ☽, ☿ natal planets to erecting a Locality Chart for the time of the eclipse and superimposing this over the natal chart (of course including the Vertex points.)

I have been doing this for some years as a matter of routine and I have found that when the Eclipse Angles (and this includes the Vertex that Charles Jayne calls the third Angle) falls on or square a natal planet, OR a planet in the Eclipse chart falls on a natal Angle, a specific event following the eclipse is very frequently related to those planets. Of course it takes more than one contact to herald a significant event. Should two (or more) natal malefics fall conjunct, square or parallel the Eclipse Angles then I am alerted to very closely scrutinize the following six months or so (until the next 'like' eclipse). This scrutiny is done by erecting Lunar Return charts, New and Full Moon charts etc. I do not find any eclipse having a longer effect than the time span of one solar eclipse until the following solar eclipse, likewise Lunar to Lunar.

Just to give you one example, I have a case of a man rushed to hospital for an emergency operation for a massive blood clot on the brain brought on by a blow to the head when he was intoxicated three days previously, the Eclipse Chart ASC was ☿ natal ♂, ☿ natal ♀ in natal 6th/12th. Eclipse Vertex ☐ natal ♀, Eclipse ☿♂ Natal Vx, Eclipse ♄♂ natal ♀, Eclipse ♃♂ natal ASC, although his Solar Return Chart did indicate possible surgery due to a blow it was nowhere near as clear as the Eclipse indications. The pertinent point I am endeavouring to make is that the Eclipse itself made only one aspect to the Natal Chart - parallel and semi-square Uranus, hardly worth considering; but once the entire Eclipse Chart is superimposed over the Natal Chart there is a revealing line-up of contacts.

After using Eclipse charts for a number of years I find them invaluable both when forecasting and in research work. After much usage I now include comparisons (superimpositions) with the current Solar Return and Progressed charts, but this can become a little complicated until one learns to be able to weed out the unimportant contacts and clearly see the significant ones. As Allan Johnson says (same Circular): "Frequently it is a matter of how much weight we are to give to this, in preference to that". Research and practice are by far the best teachers.

I have little preference as to changing the name of the Circular Letters - 'a rose by any other name...'. The main thing seems to me that the basic idea is maintained, that we now have an available avenue through which ideas can be presented for comment by others. I look forward to each month's delivery and to reading of others' experiences with the various systems, aspects etc. As I see it, controversy is a healthy symptom of the Astrologer's dilemma.

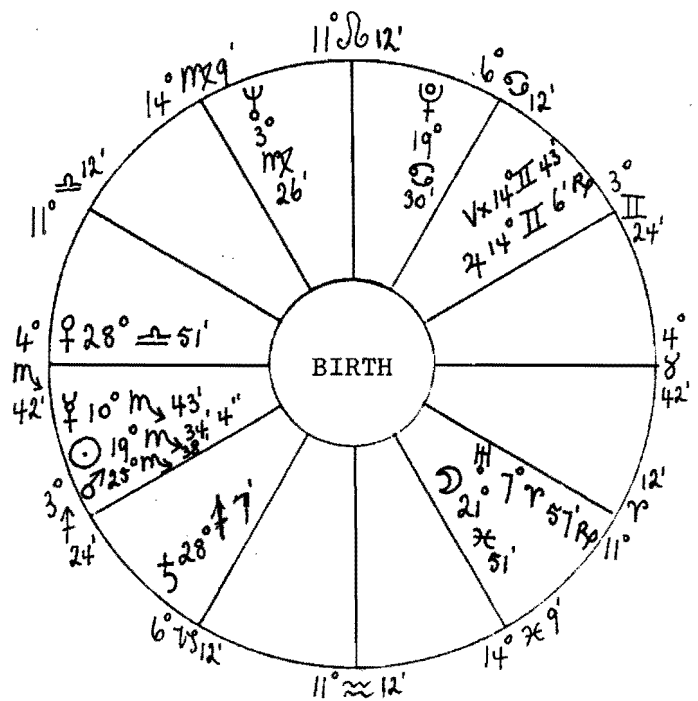

ROAD ACCIDENT, 13TH SEPTEMBER, 1982

The above letter came to hand at almost the exact time that the news was received of the car accident in France involving Princess Grace of Monaco and her younger daughter, the Princess Stephanie. Princess Grace subsequently died, and at the date of writing this her daughter is still in hospital, apparently in a serious condition. She has only lately been told of her mother's death.

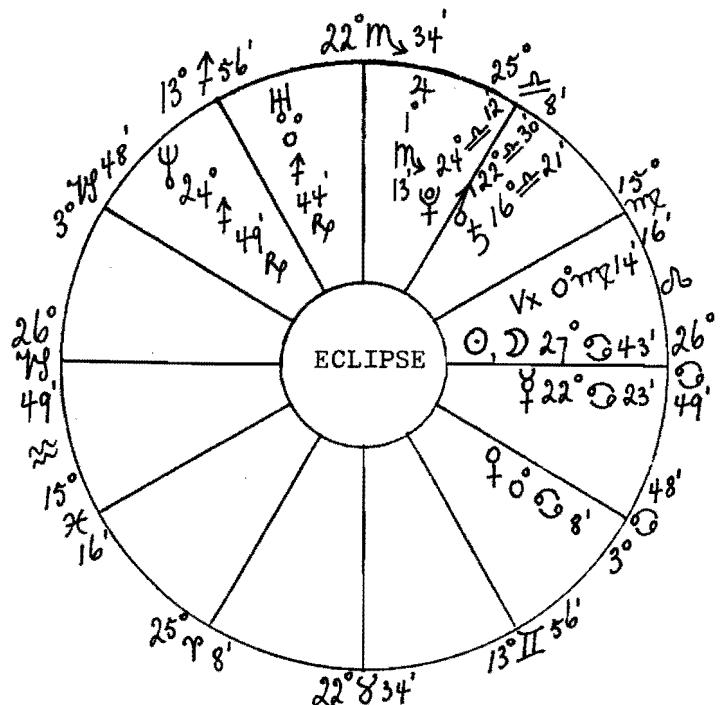

This accident enables us to test the ideas put forward by Elva Howson, and with this in mind I have drawn up the following set of Charts and aspects. As will be seen, they support to the hilt the claims made by Elva.

Here is the Natal Chart of Princess Grace, from data furnished in 'The Circle Book of Charts'. The time is given as 5:31 am, which, as it is not rounded off to the nearest five minutes, suggests that the birth was precisely timed.

An Eclipse of the Sun occurred on the 20th July, 1982, less than two months before the accident. The Chart of the Eclipse follows, calculated for the longitude and latitude of Monaco, which was very close to the scene of the accident.

PRINCESS GRACE OF MONACO
12th November, 1929, 5:31 am Philadelphia.
UT 10h31m 75W10 39N57 O.E. 23:26:55
Topocentric Cusps

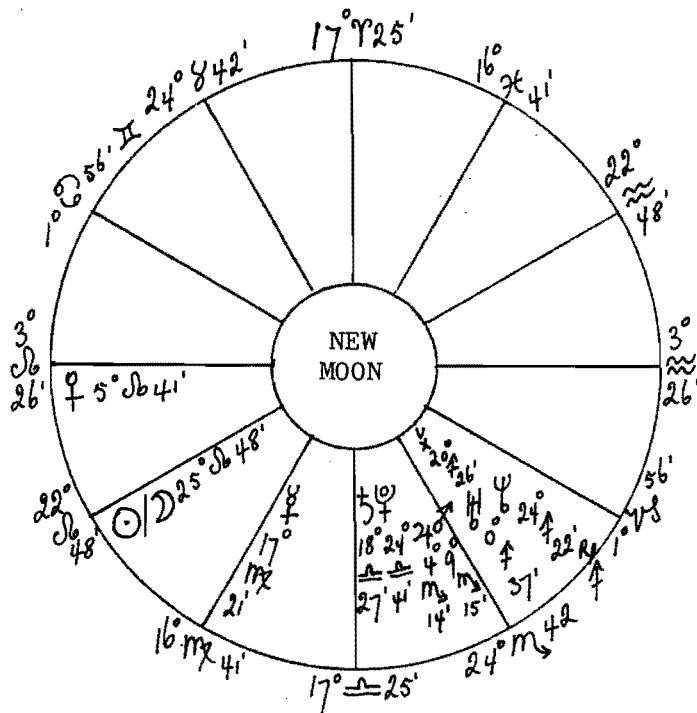

SOLAR ECLIPSE, 20th July, 1982, MONACO
UT 18h58m 7E26 43N44

Elva's stress on the importance of the Angles of the Location Chart is strikingly borne out: The Midheaven of the above Chart (22° 34') is almost exactly conjunct the Natal ☉/♂ (22° 36')! Furthermore, the Ascendant conjoins Natal Saturn (orb 1° 18'). Elva could not have wished for a better illustration of her claims.

Aside from the Angles, the Eclipse Pluto conjoints ♄/♀ at 23°48' (orb 24'), Mars is quincunx Natal Moon (orb 39'), and the Eclipse point itself (27°43') squares Natal Venus (orb 1°8'), which rules the House of Hospitalization.

Following the Eclipse, a New Moon occurred on the 19th August, and again the Chart is indicative:

NEW MOON, 19th August, 1982,
MONACO, UT 2h46m am.
Topocentric Cusps

The Midheaven squares Natal Pluto (orb 2°5'), which is the Ruler of Princess Grace's Chart, and there are the following additional aspects, in close orb:

LUNATION	NATAL	ORB	NATAL HOUSES INVOLVED
♂	♂	10'	The physical body, and
♂	♂	1½°	Death, and /sickness
♂	♂	(Rising)	the body.
♂	♂	1°	Road and transport,
♂	♂	(Ruler)	and the body.

There is another aspect from the Lunation Chart to the Natal which seems at first sight to be inconsistent - Jupiter conjunct the Ascendant. But then we note that Jupiter occupies the House of Death in the Princess's Chart, so it was not a harbinger of good for her, except perhaps in the esoteric sense of freeing her from the tribulations of this world.

PRIMARY DIRECTIONS

It is instructive to compare other standard methods of prognostication. Primary Direction of the planets by Oblique Ascension under their individual Poles yields two important Directions: The Moon opposes Mercury on the 25th September, 1982, and Mercury comes to the sesquare of Uranus on the 22nd August, 1982. The 'resultant' of these two is the 9th September, which is very close to the date of the accident, 12th September.

These two Directions support the diagnosis of the surgeon who attended her after the accident; he declared that Princess Grace suffered a stroke (brain haemorrhage) while driving, which caused the accident - and not the accident which caused the haemorrhage. The Moon and Mercury undoubtedly rule the brain. Had it been the other way round, I should have expected to see Mars and Saturn involved.

In the Natal Chart, Mercury is Rising, about 6° below the Ascendant, and is Ruler of the House of Death. Uranus rules the 'End of Life' House, and is close to the cusp of the House of Illness.

SECONDARY PROGRESSION

The normal, direct, Secondary Progressions do not show any significant close aspects to Natal planets or Angles, but the Converse Chart points quite strongly to a fatality. The aspects are:-

Mars c. square Pluto (Chart Ruler) on 6th June, 1982

Moon c. square Pluto on 5th July, 1982.

SOLAR-ARC DIRECTIONS

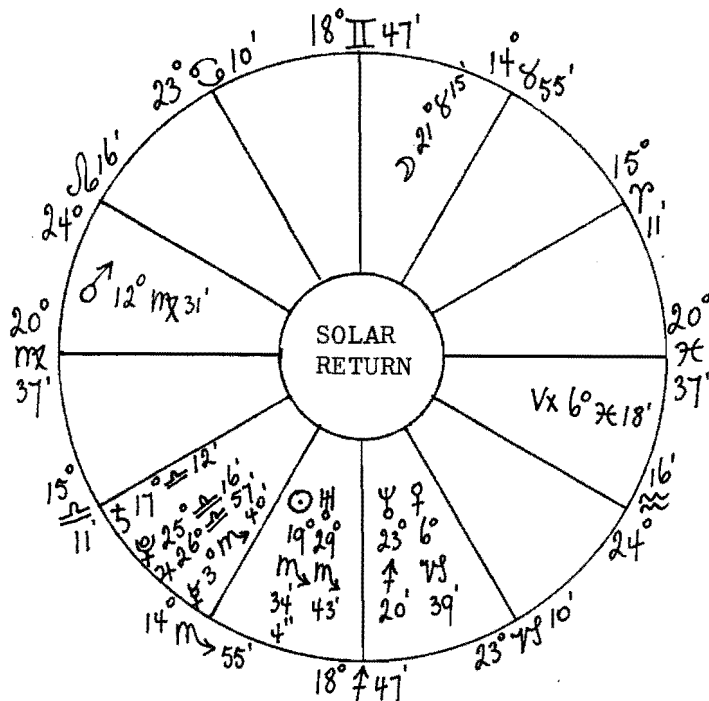

The Zodiacal Solar-Arc Directions (arc 53°47'43" to 12/9/1982) are:

Saturn ~~conjunct~~ ^{semi-sextile} the Moon, 18/10/1982,
Mars opposite Pluto, 4/12/1982.

The resultant of these two dates is the 11th November, 1982, two months later than the date of the accident, but still close. They must be considered appropriate as, apart from their inherent signification, Saturn is Natal Ruler of the House of Roads and Transport, Mars is Ruler of Illness, and Pluto rules the Natal Ascendant. The Moon being in the House of Children points to the injury suffered by the daughter, Princess Stephanie.

ANNUAL CHARTS

The Solar Return Map for Princess Grace, on 12th November, 1981, at Monaco, appears on the next page.

SOLAR RETURN, PRINCESS GRACE,
MONACO, 12/11/1981
Topocentric Cusps

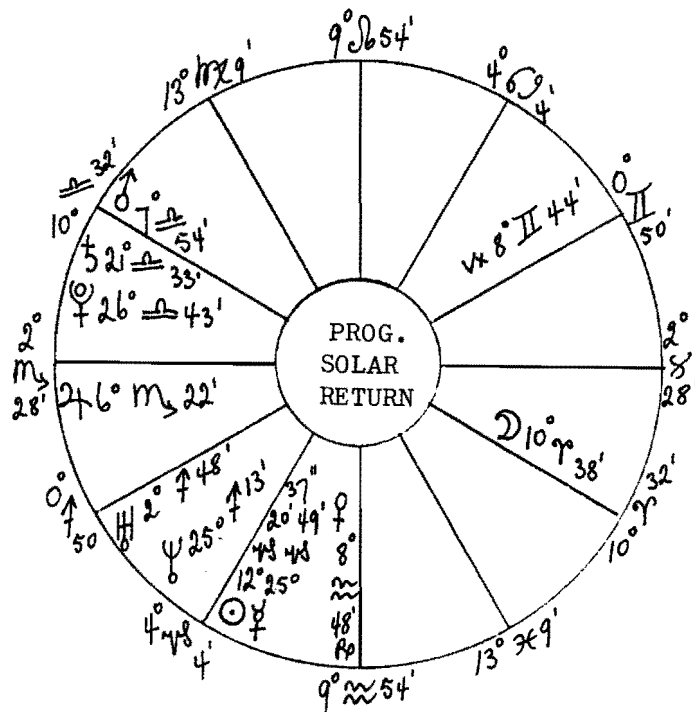

Mars rises, ruling the House of Death, and square to Jupiter in the Natal House of Death. Neptune in the 'End of Life' House, squares the Natal Moon.

The Sun and Uranus are in the House of Roads and Transport, opposed by the Moon. Uranus conjoins Natal Mars. The S.R. Sun and Uranus rule respectively the House of Sorrows and the House of Illness. This is all indicative enough.

The Progressive Solar Return is likewise indicative: The Angles practically replicate those of the Birth Chart, which is in itself highly significant - an important, perhaps 'fateful' year. The Ruler, Pluto, squares Natal Saturn, Mars opposes Natal Uranus (orb 3'!), the Moon conjuncts Natal Uranus, Saturn is quincunx the Moon, Neptune square the Moon, and Uranus square Neptune - an impressive array of malefic inter-chart aspects.

In the Progressive Solar Return Chart itself, the Sun in the House of Roads and Transport is involved in a T-Square with Mars and the Moon. It is significant also that the Vertex, from the House of Death, forms a Grand Trine with Mars and Venus, associated respectively with Sorrows and Terminations.

The adverse Directions were triggered by Mars transiting Natal Mars, and the Moon transiting Natal Pluto, on 13th

PROGRESSIVE SOLAR RETURN, 3/1/1982,
MONACO
Topocentric Cusps

September, 1982, which was the actual date of the accident, so far as I am aware.

Further analysis, whether by Ebertin, Uranian or any other astrological method is invited.

ROYAL BABY BIRTHDATE COMPETITION

The Astrological Association of Great Britain held a competition to see who could come nearest to forecasting the date and time of the birth of Lady Diana's baby. In the current issue of 'Transit' it was announced that the winner 'by a very short margin' was one Colin Parker of Gloucester, who predicted 22nd June, 9:45 am G.M.T. Second in the competition was a Richard Lilley of Clacton who chose 21st June, 7:53 am. B.S.T. (The actual date and time was 21st June, 9:03 pm B.S.T.).

The winner chose his time on the basis of the Moon being about 13° of Cancer, which he had noted was a sensitive degree area in Royal charts. The baby's Chart does show the Moon's Node on that degree.

The runner-up based his prediction on the June 21st eclipse, but chose 7:53 am B.S.T. for its 5° Leo Ascendant, which related to the Charts of the Royal parents.

Joan McCulla of N.S.W. also predicted the 21st June, but did not specify a time. Had she done so, and entered the competition, we might have had a winner from this country. Joan uses Cosmobiological methods.

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock, 19th September, 1982.

Consultant Astrologers

Dymock Brose

Teacher and Researcher in Astrology

Marguerite Brose

Diploma Fed. of Aust. Astrologers

19th August, 1982.

88 CLARENCE ROAD, BLACKHEATH, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA 2785

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

The last Circular Letter was unfortunately delayed for eight days through a breakdown of the local printer's photo-copying equipment. Alternative arrangements have now been made, and your Editor intends to keep the Letters flowing regularly on the 19th of each month. If possible, please send your literary contributions to reach me not later than the 16th of the month, to ensure immediate publication.

From AUSTIN LEVY (N.S.W.): Regarding accuracy of birth-time, Gauquelin made a fairly systematic investigation of the subject (see RECENT ADVANCES p. 386 also p. 468), and found no real evidence that actual birth takes place more often before or after the time recorded at the Registry. Astrologers seem to concur however, that rectified times tend to be 10-20 minutes before the time given. This latter claim is hard to substantiate and would require a proper study to be really credible.

My own opinion is that if astrology has a can of worms, then rectification takes the award for it. Some of the so-called techniques that pass for 'rectification' are just incredible. By that, I don't necessarily mean so-called 'intuitive' factors - indeed, some of these appear quite reasonable compared to more outwardly exact methods which violate every known principle of astronomy. I can never understand why astrologers do not adopt the same methods for rectification that they do for drawing up a set of House cusps, and yet very few do, which perhaps just proves that we tend to pass on methods that themselves may have been conceived out of a desire for convenient simplicity - for example, simply adding the Sun's daily motion (or even just a degree a year) to the Ascendant, as if that's how it really moved!

We must never lose sight of the fact that all methods of prediction are based on the premise of expanding or contracting time, e.g. day for a day, day for a year, day for a month, and so on. This type of change does not thereby alter the means by which the change is effected - the Celestial Sphere still rotates with respect to a local horizon and meridian, and this fact needs to be respected. This inclines me therefore to be sympathetic to a system of primary directions, at least in principle. I have not seen enough of Rudolph Smit's work yet to give an honest opinion of its worth. By that I mean a detailed analysis of his methodology, rather than examples of case histories, interesting as they may be. On a lighter note, I think someone could make a killing selling astrological dart-boards to all those self-rectifying astrologers, who, when totally frustrated, can end the controversy quite painlessly! More than one Melbourne Cup winner has been chosen by such methods!

A practical suggestion for assisting rectification, and which gets over the problem of working with too little life data, is one devised by John Clarke of the Sydney Astrology Centre. Two pieces of graph paper are marked, respectively, with the life events of the subject, and the progressed aspects (particularly those for an hypothesised set of Angles). In this way, by sliding the two pieces of graph paper around, a 'best fit' of the two sets of data can be obtained. Astrologers have to remember that no one in the sciences shares their preoccupation with obtaining 'foolproof', 100% watertight methods, since errors of measurement are a fact of life, and perfectly acceptable providing they are within reasonable limits.

I often get the feeling, after talking to astrologers, that they live in a mental fantasy world, a kind of astrological universe where no explanations outside of astrological ones are permissible, and that if the events of the real world do not accord with astrological notions or predictions, then yet another astrological technique will have to be invented to explain it. I know that these are hard words, but if astrology is to survive in a meaningful sense, and not just as the idealistic fancies of wishful-thinking astrologers, then there will have to be an attempt to align our notions with at least basic facts of the material universe.

To amplify this point further, the late John Addey made the telling point at the Research Conference held last November in London at the Institute of Psychiatry, that even if astrology did explain 100% of people's character, no single element or part of astrology (for example the Sun's position by Sign) could contribute more than its requisite portion of the total, otherwise one would have the absurd situation whereby the sum of the parts was more than the whole. In addition to this, we must keep in mind that in the social sciences at least, and of which astrology by default, is one, correlations of 5-10% are standard, so it would seem extremely unlikely that any given factor in astrology would be expected to explain more than a tiny amount of variability in human behaviour. Contrast this fact with the naive expectations of most astrologers and one can quickly see why many social scientists frequently reject astrology outright. I'm not saying they are right in doing this, but they would certainly be entitled to. This phenomenon may also explain why so many competing techniques have proliferated in astrology in recent years, due to the failure of traditional methods to provide any measure of efficiency or consistency in predictions.

My own work with predictions over the years, has drawn me to conclude the following (for what it is worth): Secondary Progressions are effective really only for the Sun and Moon, and in the following manner - The Sun, major and minor aspects and ingresses, about 80% reliability (NOT that they indicate 80% of all the events!); the Moon, position by Sign and House (and ingresses to same), and only 0,180 and 90 degree aspects, about 60% reliability. The rest of the planets - no reliable indications. Consequently, my work with rectification has been tempered by these considerations, and in regard to using progressions and rectification, two points need to be made: 1) If Sun or Moon are to be used in rectification a problem arises, which is that altering the time of birth affects the natal position of the planet, which in turn affects the timing of progressed aspects by that planet; in other words one has to be careful. 2) It would seem wise to seek confirmation of hypothesised Angles by cross-checking against transits by the slow-moving outer planets. I always insist that at least one or two major events are confirmed in this manner before I will fully accept a rectification, but even then never as 'the' birth chart. I always remain highly suspicious when astrologers, no matter how eminent, claim 'total accuracy' - this approach always necessitates what Geoff Dean aptly describes as 'safety in numbers' or 'hyper-astrology', although inevitably it turns out to be more hype than hyper!

In reference to this last point, I would also like to point out the false security which many Ebertin-based astrologers rest upon when they gleefully divulge all the factors that explained such-and-such a disaster or whatever. All of this work is done post-fact, and I have yet to see a prediction published prior to the event, using Cosmobiology. There are 78 midpoints, and over 4,000 ways of obtaining an aspect to them, so by chance alone there would always be in the region of 45 midpoint structures being triggered off in a 90 degree dial using a 1 degree orb. If one couldn't explain just about any event from that kind of abundance then one really should go back to noughts and crosses. The trouble with astrological symbolism is that it is so rich and versatile in its meanings that black can be made white and vice versa without generating many blatant contradictions at all.

How then, are astrologers to prove the worth of their predictions in a manner that would please a scientist? The most objective method is one recently used in parapsychology research studies done by the Stanford physicists Targ and Puthoff. Their methodology is quite straightforward - let the seer-astrologer make a series of predictions (or post-dictions, if it was deemed necessary to use known cases for convenience, but this would also necessitate double-blind trials to ensure that astrologers were not reading the minds of the experimenters, if the results were already known to them), and write up what and when he thought was going to occur (or had). The astrologers could be as detailed or general as they liked in describing events, or even just the state of mind of the subject at the time in terms of his (or her) response to the given event.

This process would then be repeated several times with different cases, and the results, along with objective descriptions of what had actually taken place, given in a scrambled order to an independent evaluator who would then pair the astrologers' description of each event with the objective description which it most closely resembled. This is continued until either no more descriptions can be matched or there are none left to match; then the number of 'hits' are recorded and used to calculate a probability of chance occurrence; the greater the so-called coherence of the two sets of results the less likely they are to have been arrived at by chance. Such a protocol, as it is called, ensures that no hidden or subliminal clues are being given away to the astrologer, such as may occur when an astrologer interviews a client.

In case you find all this a bit too strict, just read about several of the classic research blunders in astrology described in various parts of 'Recent Advances' and it will become evident why it is wise to err on the side of caution in such matters. For example in the case of the Mayo-Eysenck Sun-Sign study, the problem was the fact that people tend to report their personality according to what they have read about their Sun-Sign in astrology columns and books. When people who definitely knew nothing about their Sun-Sign were studied, so-called astrological correlations with personality disappeared altogether! These things may be depressing to us, but they are facts of life, and force us to either revise our opinions of the basis of astrology, or to seek carefully other means in which to study it.

For those of you who are interested in research, I should mention the new journal Correlation, which publishes all the latest results of research in astrology. It is funded by the Astrological Association of GB, and is completely independent of their regular journal, and even of the Association itself, at least editorially. It can be obtained by sending £6 (airmail) or £4.50 (surface) to Mrs F. Griffiths, 98 Hayes Rd, Bromley, Kent BR2 9AB U.K. There are four issues per year, and the articles are all of the highest quality, by people like John Addey, Gauquelin, Eysenck, Geoff Dean and so on. It really is a worthwhile cause to support.

Next, a brief word about the subject of astrology courses. Local astrologers may like to know that it is possible to sit the D.F. Astrol.S. exam without actually having completed the Faculty course, providing of course that one feels that one has mastered enough astrology to be able to cope. I have a copy of their syllabus for courses, and am willing to send people photo-copies of it if they send me $1.- to cover costs. Otherwise, you can write to Jonathon Powell, National Secretary of the Faculty of Ast. Studies, c/- Homecroft, Brownston St, Modbury, South Devon, England.

Lastly, a few pieces of interesting data gleaned from Transit the Astrological Association's news bulletin in the UK. Elvis Presley - the final, conclusive birth-time from the attending doctor's baby book: 4.35 a.m., 8/1/35, 34N16, 88W42 (CST). (Agrees with Birth Certificate). John Hinckley, Reagan's would-be assassin - from the Birth Certificate, 11.42 p.m., 29/5/55, 97W08, 34N10 Ardmore, Oklahoma. Shirley Williams, SDP politician in Britain, data from her. 10.00 a.m. (BST) 27/7/30, London.

Rudolph Valentino - from the Birth Certificate, 3.00 p.m. 6/5/1895, 40N38, 16E57, Castellanea, Italy.

From GWYN TURNER (N.S.W.): In Circular 12 there seems much speculation regarding predictive Astrology and I think this is because so many folk call themselves professional Astrologers and start forecasting before they have the experience; in fact in many cases they may never have the necessary aptitude for this art, for art it is, the same as painting, singing or being an outstanding musician.

It is very difficult to acquire any of these arts without being tuned-in to the right cosmic vibration - some call it intuition - sixth sense. Carol Squires, in Circular 12, calls it 'right frequency'. As each person responds to a different frequency by the very pattern of his horoscope, it behoves every astrologer to have a good look at his own horoscope before attempting this branch of Astrology. Even some dazzling mathematicians never master this predictive art, and in this case are the first to scoff at it's being possible.

I notice those with Watery Signs and planets predominant, especially Neptune, have their sixth sense well developed. Uranus and Mercury seem to favour the mechanics of Astrology, and, of course, with the three very prominent we could have an all-round clever astrologer.

When you come to think of the varied interlacing of planetary vibrations, which have to be assessed and synthesised in a progressed horoscope, it becomes quite an art. There is the nature of the significator with its Sign and House position, aspecting the birth planet in a Sign and House, plus the nature of the birth Houses these planets rule; not forgetting important transits that may be taking place at the same time.

The first rule in forecasting is to see that the birth time is correct by rectification. After doing a lifetime of horoscopes I have found that you cannot rely on even the most sworn birth times. As the M.C. and Ascendant are the important points in this exercise the method used is important. I always work on the R.A. of the Mean Sun, as against the Solar-Arc method. One needs several aspects from the progressed points M.C. and ASC to birth planets and also several progressed planets to the birth M.C. and Ascendant. This could stretch over several years.

The second rule. You cannot predict something that is denied in the birth horoscope. Very rarely do two horoscopes respond in the same way to a given aspect.

The true art of Astrology lies in the astrologer being so experienced in interpreting the birth horoscope that he/she is pretty sure when a Secondary aspect is not likely to work. A benefic aspect to a very afflicted birth planet may not cause a ripple of activity, and the same applies to the order being reversed - bad to good. A slow moving malefic transit, particularly over the M.C. or Ascendant, can diminish a beneficial Progressed aspect.

Then there is what is termed the frustrated Progressed aspect. That is when a Progressed planet is about to aspect another, which would tend to signify some event, but is frustrated by a third planet or point of a swifter motion interposing and completing one of its own aspects to the same planet.

An example of this was recently shown in my own Horoscope when Progressed Mars came to a square to radical Uranus from travel Signs. I decided to take the trip as my progressed Ascendant was also sextiling the same Uranus, it being of a swifter motion than Mars, and it therefore frustrated the adverse square. The outcome of the holiday - quite enjoyable other than there was a heat wave on (Mars).

It is these kinds of Secondary aspects that tend to trip up the astrologer and cause him/her to say that Secondaries do not work.

From JOAN McCULLA (N.S.W.): Circular Letter No. 10 made me realize that if I spent so much time writing on which type of Astrology works or does not, I would have no time to put into the exacting work I do.

As you know, my forte is Cosmobiology; and although I am trying out events in retrospect, it's to see how events in the life affect different people. The important things to follow are: Do not touch a chart with an unknown birthtime, and when a fairly accurate time is given do find out the exact place on Earth, not just, for example, Sydney, Melbourne, Adelaide, etc. Find the part of that city, its exact latitude and longitude. If the person has relocated look to this ASC and MC, also for any events after the relocation. Look also to the Natal aspects. It is these, \circ , \square , \angle , \square , \angle , \square , very close, when touched off by a progressed aspect (I use Solar-Arc) and/or a transit, that will sure-fire make things happen. The true Solar-Arc also, not just the mean $59^{\circ}8.33'$, works out exactly. I use the Kickbusch Table, absolutely wonderful for accuracy.

For a December birth such as mine, my Sun's motion, $1^{\circ}1'5''$, for my age would be way out if using the mean.

Nothing comes easily. The more work put in the more one gets out. From the beginning, when it was reported the Princess of Wales was pregnant, I sat down and worked out which day in June 1982 would be best for birth, using both her Chart and Prince Charles', coming up with the 21st. The next report was that it would be early June, I checked again - still nothing as good as the 21st. Our group in at the Sydney Astrological Research Society all knew the work I put into this, the Cosmobiology Workshop especially.

The next report was that the birth would be on Diana's birthday on the 1st July. I checked this thoroughly also, but found the 21st just too good. Now I do not call this predicting; just a great deal of exacting mathematical work.

Charles' Solar Arc at date of son's birth, 21st June 1982, was $34^{\circ}4'06''$ and the Solar Arc Directions were: \odot/\odot , $11^{\circ}25'$, Prog. to $15^{\circ}29' \angle$ \odot radical at $08^{\circ}26'$ on 2/6/1982 (\angle transit at $0^{\circ}30'$) \odot r ($22^{\circ}25'$) at $26^{\circ}29' \angle$ \odot/\odot radical ($11^{\circ}25'$) on 27/5/1982.

Although the ASC or MC of the baby's birth did not touch anything, the baby's ASC/MC at $29^{\circ}58'$ was square Charles' \odot/\angle $0^{\circ}09'$, ($11'$ of arc) and opposite Charles' \odot/\square , $0^{\circ}11'$ ($13'$ of arc). Charles has a nearly exact opposition of \angle ($29^{\circ}53'$) to \square ($29^{\circ}56'$) natively, making this a very important point in his Chart. His father, Prince Phillip, also has close opposition: \angle ($10^{\circ}46'$) to \square ($9^{\circ}38'$).

Diana has a fairly close $\odot \circ \square$, both squared by \square . She became engaged on 24th February, 1981 (Solar-Arc $18^{\circ}43'$), when \angle , $5^{\circ}06'$ radical, came to $23^{\circ}49'$, \square the midpoint \square/\square at $8^{\circ}51'$ (6/3/1981); married 29/7/1981, Solar-Arc ($19^{\circ}08'$) when \angle came to $24^{\circ}14'$, \square \angle at $24^{\circ}24'$ (2/10/1981). At the birth, Solar-Arc ($20^{\circ}00'$) \angle was at $25^{\circ}06'$, which was \angle the \odot radical within 5 minutes of arc (25/5/1982). This area of her Chart becomes more important yet as natively \odot is $\angle \square$, $\square \odot$, $\angle \square$ and $\square \odot$ at $9^{\circ}42'$.

If we relocate Diana's ASC and MC from Sandringham to the exact location of the hospital, the baby's ASC, $27^{\circ}29'$, would be \angle her Solar-Arc MC, $12^{\circ}26'$. Diana's relocated ASC by Solar-Arc for the birth is at $7^{\circ}56'$, \square \square radical, $23^{\circ}19'$ ($23'$ of arc). The relocated ASC/MC at $20^{\circ}11'$ becomes \square with the transiting \odot of baby's birth, $4^{\circ}57'$. (A birthtime of 7.49 p.m. for Diana gives an ASC of $18^{\circ}20'$, which by Solar-Arc ($20^{\circ}00'$) arrives at $8^{\circ}20'$ \square radical \square $23^{\circ}19'$ (orb $1'$ of arc). An interesting additive).

Genetically, the baby's ASC at 27° 29' squares Queen Elizabeth's radical ♀, 27° 22'; ♀ her radical ♀, 12° 07'. The ♀/Transpluto at 27° 17' also ties in. There are many more things in the Queen's Chart which I will not go into here.

If the ASC I have for Prince Phillip, 0° 05', is close, the ASC/MC of the baby's birth, 29° 58', is only 7 minutes of arc off a conjunction. His radical ♀ at 20° 13' has the transit ♀ of the birth ♀ at 4° 57' (16 mins of arc).

(In the above, I have introduced the dates at which the various Solar-Arc aspects became exact, as this affords a better indication of their relative precision than minutes of arc. - Dymock).

Joan McCulla asks the question, 'Would you not agree that in Prince Charles' Chart, those (Solar-Arc) progressions should indicate a birth?: Sun semisquare Sun/Moon radical; Sun/Moon semisquare Moon radical; taking into account that in Prince Charles' Nativity Jupiter is trine the Moon, and the Sun is trine Moon/Venus (23° 24)'.

When the above progressions are plotted on the 90° wheel, a favourite tool of the Cosmobiologists, the 45° angles appear as oppositions, and look more impressive. Nevertheless, even as the traditional semisquares, the aspects quoted are consistent with a birth, when one observes that in the Natal Chart of Prince Charles the Sun is close to the 5th Cusp (children). I think this final delineating factor of the House Cusp is necessary, otherwise the aspects could relate to other things, such as marital friction, psychological unbalance, professional difficulties, etc.

Further comments are invited. - Dymock.

From ALLAN JOHNSON (N.S.W.): I agree with Geoffrey Dean's views that a lot of time can be wasted in arguing about the best method of prediction (Circular Letter No.12) but for the opposite reason. I would rule out altogether the possibility of resolving the matter either by debate or by Geoffrey Dean's statistical methods. So the same arguments that have gone on over the past fifty years are likely to continue for the next fifty. The best system, or the perfect system which will always work, is like 'the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow'. It doesn't exist.

Prediction by its very nature, and especially when dealing with human beings, is far too complex a subject for genuine scientific testing - that is, in the way a scientist would use the word. Right at the start a very clear line of demarcation should be drawn between the professionals who actually do the predicting and the researchers who start with an event that has already happened and try to line this up retrospectively with data provided by the system being used. What I am saying is that prediction just cannot be put in a test tube.

The reason for this is that Astrology just has too many complications. If you really want to justify a system you can always find something. If you widen your net sufficiently you can prove anything you want to prove. There is no risk about that. But in actually doing real prediction, the only way to handle it is narrow your net, limit your options, or you never come to grips with it at all. But in reverse you can open the door as wide as you like. So this is why so many of these arguments become circuitous. Who really gets convinced?

If we go back to the professionals who really do the predicting and have been doing it over a long period of time, what do we find? We find hardly any two astrologers using the same methods. What does this suggest? It suggests that the capacity to predict is a thing in itself, regardless of the methods used. What it boils down to is that the future can never really be determined by the mechanics of any system. If it could, prediction could be put onto a computer and we could have our future mapped out for us, and would not need to make decisions. But this will never happen. A good astrologer has to get a 'feel' for a chart, to get on the right wave-length.

Every successful astrologer develops a strong intuitive faculty. I am not suggesting that we should dispense with mathematical exactitude in the use of a system, but this is not the whole story. I think an astrologer who has been using a particular system for a long time can get attached to it and think it is the only system -- but if he switched to another system he would most likely get just as good results. A case in point is the two London professionals, Edward Whitman and John Naylor. Whitman used the 'one degree' method, while Naylor used the 'day for a year'. Yet both were successful practitioners for over 30 years. Did the systems matter all that much?

Recently I have been reading the 'Deductive Interpretation of the Progressed Horoscope' by the American, John McCormick, who died last year. McCormick built up a highly successful practice over a long period of time. He was using Secondaries, certainly, but not in the way I would ever dream of using them, or expect to get results. But he was highly successful. So it means that each astrologer has to work out his own individual technique for getting results. For any professional to survive over a long period, he or she has to get a lot of repeat work and personal recommendations, and this must link up with good predictive work. It would be almost impossible to work out a percentage rate for accurate prediction, as most professionals have not the time to keep statistics, even if they could get the feedback. Nobody expects infallible work, but a client expects a good percentage.

Half the battle in doing predictive work, as in a lot of other things, lies simply in having the confidence that you can predict. Most students are anxious to learn, but are conditioned by too strong an element of caution in their make-up ever to let themselves go. So they simply generalize--and in many cases nothing will ever get them out of it. In real prediction it is not just a matter of finding a specific aspect, as there is a whole range of other factors which do influence a judgement. One is the background of the person. Another is the type of chart the person has. Is he responsive to change? Or likely to take advantage of circumstances if they arise? Sometimes even the prediction itself will be the decisive factor in determining a person's actions.

Added to this of course is the presence of concurrently operating 'Directions' which could point in a lot of different ~~directions~~ ^{ways?}. So very frequently it is a matter of how much weight we are to give to this, in preference to that. I think in most cases where I have fallen down on a prediction I have given the weight to the wrong thing. The factor that lined up with what eventually did develop was in the chart asking to be noticed -- but so were a lot of other things as well. So it is often a choice of options, and this is where intuition can come in.

The revolution that Margaret Hone started was in getting away from the preoccupation with lists of planets and aspects and getting down to the real guts of a chart as a whole, and ventilating the client's problems. So good astrological practice is not just a matter of prediction, but getting an insight into the person's life and giving practical advice and help. I have never been a particular disciple of Hone, but when I started a full time practice I did do a thorough study of her two books, as these are basic for a real thrust into chart work. We can disregard Equal House if we wish.

From RUDOLF H. SMIT (VIC.): The reactions on my previous contributions by E.S. Caselli and Gwyn Turner compelled me initially to produce a reply of about six tightly typed pages. I realised that such would be too much for the present Circular, hence I confine myself now to short replies, explanations and rebuttals, where possible. But, as for me, I intend to close this 'discussion' within the arena of these Circulars, as it has become too personal, apparently. However, if Gwyn wants to continue the discussion by private correspondence, she is quite welcome. As for E.S. Caselli, I call him Ed now, as we are on friendly terms since we started a personal correspondence. He let me know, by the way, that he withdrew his comments on my being dogmatic, arrogant, or whatever, as he was happy to acknowledge that I had, indeed, tried out his Converse Secondary Directions. This does not imply, however, that I have been converted to them already. I cannot be convinced that easily.

At this point I want to make a clear statement: If being 'undogmatic, flexible, responsive', or whatever, means to some astrologers that one has to accept unquestionably whatever is said by any other astrologers, and only because those astrologers are claimed to be authorities, or experienced, then those people have no understanding at all of what it really means to be 'open-minded, undogmatic and flexible'. It simply means that one is prepared to investigate the problem, and to test the postulations, and see whether they fit the criteria imposed by the investigator. If those criteria are not met, then the investigator has the right to object to those postulations. Not only that: There is also the right to express the views derived from the investigations. If these rights are not recognised in practice, then all discussion will be in vain. And as far as Astrology is concerned, no real advancement will ever be made.

As for techniques of progression, when it is maintained that ALL systems work, depending on the astrologers who use them, then we can go on forever, and the confusion will only grow. Even within the apparently subjective realm of astrology, some objectivity is necessary. As for me, though I haven't felt insulted to be called dogmatic, I nevertheless resent this accusation (though I am grateful that at least Ed Caselli withdrew his comments in this matter). No one should accuse another who has been an amateur-astronomer from his ninth year of age onwards and who became an astrologer, after all!

I was brought up, so to speak, with the idea that Astrology was nothing more than remnants of a medieval superstition, 'advocated only by gullible nit-wits'. My knowledge of astronomy, and especially celestial mechanics, goes so far that I am able to calculate, by hand, and without an ephemeris, all planetary positions for almost any time. Well then, I have shown willingness to become converted to Astrology (if you want to look at it that way). It took me a year to become convinced, in which year I taught myself the techniques of erecting a chart, and chart analysis, without any help from a teacher (not available in those days). Mind you, I did not confine myself to my own Chart only - in that year I worked in my spare-time through approximately thirty charts, before I became persuaded enough to give it a go. I don't think there is much wrong with such an approach.

Neither is it wrong to look with a sceptical eye on the methods of progression, certainly with my background to reckon with. I accepted the possibility, however, after some time. But, knowing about the laws governing planetary motions, the idea that we can also use Converse Secondary Directions, which implies that the natural motions of the planets are to be reversed - hence, strictly speaking also the flow of time.... that idea is virtually impossible for me to fathom. Anyway, I have promised Ed Caselli to look further into this matter. And having said so, I will do it. But someone has to come up with a proper astrological-philosophical explanation. Also I'd like to know who first proposed this idea about Converse Secondary Directions of the planets. I have looked in vain for any reference to this method in my many books. Alan Leo, for example, only talks about Converse Secondary Angles.

As for the objections to the Converse Primaries (which I do NOT use, by the way - I have only accepted the principle), it is obvious that many astrologers do not know what Primaries are all about, otherwise the objections would not have been made. I have already said that with Converse Primaries the natural order of things is not violated. In both systems - Direct and Converse Primaries - the Earth, and hence the Celestial Globe, maintain their same rotational direction: The Earth rotates from West to East, and the Celestial Globe rotates from East to West. To give an example how this affects a point on the Zodiac: A Direct Primary Ascendant is the ever-changing degree on the Eastern horizon in the hours after birth. A Converse Primary Ascendant is the degree which was Ascendant at the moment of birth, but now carried up into the sky, and hence moving through the Houses, from 12 into 11, from 11 into 10, and so on. I repeat: In both cases, the rotation of the Earth is not reversed, hence the flow of time is still going forward. By the way, other schools would call the Direct Primary planets Converse, and the Converse, Direct. Internationally, astrologers haven't come to standardisation in nomenclature. There is further information in my series of articles on Prime Event Analysis in the F.A.A. Journal

Gwyn Turner wants me to demonstrate and verify my system and theories. Well, I think a Circular Letter is too small for that. Besides, I am already giving demonstration in the A.A. Journal and the F.A.A. Journal. I cannot summarise my day-by-day work for over five years on hundreds and hundreds of horoscopes in just a few pages. That would probably evoke an avalanche of questions and angry responses instead of a meaningful discussion. And what is so unusual when I say that I am not so sure of the correct method of rectification? There is only one proof of correct rectification - the right time of birth. Where this time is not known, a rectification is needed, and we can never be sure.

What I have seen so far, however, is that 'my' method of Prime Event Analysis came up with a consistent result all over the years, in regard to very hard and clear-cut events, with natives whose birth-times were exactly known - a fact that I could not establish with the Normal Secondaries and the equally popular Solar-Arcs. Hence I tend to call PEA a bit more reliable in this respect.

When I say that the 'correct' method of rectification is probably one of the methods of Primary Directions, then I say so because I am well aware that there are more systems of Primaries around, the Topocentric one, professed by Dymock, for example. And as long as I have not received a $50,000.- Government grant which enables me to spend a few years on pure research into this matter, in order to come to definite conclusions, I do not dare give you an absolute statement. I can't see what is wrong with that. My investigations have proven so far that no system can boast infallibility. All of them have flaws, Primaries included. What I have seen so far, is that Prime Event Analysis scores higher, compared to Normal Secondaries and Normal Solar-Arcs, but moreover, seems to have a certain consistency in its aspects, when it comes to a certain kind of event. This will be demonstrated in the forthcoming Journal of the F.A.A.

When I say that the so-called Secondary Progressed MC and ASC (the usual ones) are a totally wrong astronomical and astrological concept, I mean it, as I know what I am talking about. I have also demonstrated this, and made clear what the True Secondary Angles are. (As for the remark by Elva Howson on this, she has misunderstood me - I will go into it in the next A.A. Journal when I show the Horoscopes of Henk's wife and daughter, both killed in the accident). What the so-called, widely-used Secondary ASC and MC are then in reality, is nothing more and nothing less than a pure Primary Angle, but then based on the time-key of 0°59'08" in Right Ascension per year. I do not believe in that measure of time, for the Angles anyway. It can be a different matter for Primary Planets as Dymock continuously demonstrates, in the Topocentric System of P.D.'s. Whatever, the case may be, I rule out the value of this widely used MC and ASC when it comes to forecasting within the realm of Secondary Directions, I mean in the timing of events. But this does not rule out that they have some value on a different level. What is wrong with leaving this option open?

Again about rectification, nowadays it is almost my daily work; that is, a large part of my income is derived from doing rectifications. I have been doing this now for quite some years, hence there is some experience, I would say. And I repeat: Secondaries, and Solar-Arcs have appeared to be unreliable for this particular kind of work - sometimes a straight hit, but when one expects a hit, there isn't one. This is just a fact - I can't help it. In the following statement Gwyn Turner quotes me wrongly. I said that I had only three events to rectify on the Chart of Ronald Reagan, not the Chart of William Holden! For William Holden I used only one event, his death. And I clearly stated in the F.A.A. Journal that such was not enough to rely on.

When in this respect Gwyn says that Pluto cannot be a Ruler of Aries, then such is her opinion. In Europe it is becoming more and more accepted that Pluto certainly has a big role to play in this Sign. There is even an astrological school of thought that considers Pluto the sole Ruler of Aries, and Mars the sole Ruler of Scorpio. I will certainly not go so far, but have found sufficient indications that Pluto is of much more explosive nature than Gwyn thinks. I will demonstrate this in due time.

There is besides an interesting analogy between the three 'mystery-planets' and the metals which have the same name: Uranium is connected to Uranus, and is fuel for nuclear reactors and atomic bombs. From Uranium is derived an artificial element, called Plutonium, also material for nuclear reactors and atomic bombs. Not many people know there is a stage in between: Before Plutonium is formed, there is another artificial element first - Neptunium. However, this element is extremely unstable, it disappears within a short time. Is there not a nice connection between Neptunium and Neptune?

Last point: I have indeed said that predictions are totally out of the question - they do not prove Astrology. To find substantiation of this statement, just read 'Recent Advances in Natal Astrology' by Dean & Mather. But even that is not necessary. Just take a phenomenon that many astrologers prefer to ignore, because strictly taken, it shatters their basic assumptions about Astrology. I am referring to TWINS, whether they are identical twins, fraternal twins, or time-twins (people born from different parents, but at the same time and the same place). Oh yes, there are a few showcases where time-twins apparently have led the same lives and are identical on other levels. However, there are many more cases where this is not so. I have quite a few in my files. Although for example, identical twins can be born just five minutes apart, they will all too often show remarkable differences in character and lives. Such is even more the case with fraternal twins, born only a few minutes apart. Nevertheless, they have virtually the same horoscopes, thus possess the same potentials for character development and circumstances in life.

A nice example: Just a few days ago I had a man in my consultation-room who just casually mentioned that he had a twin-brother (identical one), born five minutes earlier. My client had left his home-country, Hungary, 33 years ago, married here, but had a lousy matrimonial life. Now, finally, the marriage had broken up. I enquired about the brother: He still lives in the town of birth, in Hungary, and has been happily married all over those years. Now realise: These two people have virtually the same horoscope (ASC's only one degree apart, in a slow-rising Sign) and hence will experience the same progression by whatever system. Yet, their lives have been totally different! This simply implies that prediction, forecasting or whatever, is virtually impossible without knowing the background of a person. On a purely astrological basis I deem it virtually impossible, for reasons that are very clear: Astrological symbolism is so extremely rich in meanings, that one is quite lucky to pick the right meaning. But then it is 'educated' guess-work.

As for these two twin-brothers, the only possible clue for the differences in their lives can be found perhaps in their different Solar and Lunar Returns, as those are based on the place where one resides. But apparently the 'major' progression-systems do 'fail' here. Anyway, twin-cases make it very clear how tricky is this whole business of prediction. It is certainly the weakest point in our art, and realising this I cannot understand why so many astrologers, especially here in Australia, still maintain that such is the main-objective of astrology.

In Europe and the US the trend is much more going to psychological counselling with the assistance of astrology, which I find a very good development. Seen in this light, a comment could be made on the positive response by Gwyn's clients: That she receives so many nice letters from them is something on which I can only congratulate her. And I do! This however, does not prove Astrology. It only proves her considerable skill as an astrological consultant (on which, once again, I heartily congratulate her).

Allan Johnson is very right when he says that most astrologers use, willy-nilly, intuitive or psychic powers when they are in consultation with clients. This is nothing to be ashamed of, I would say. Be glad about it, for it helps the client and hence the astrologer. But it is known that astrologers have done accurate forecasts for a particular client though based on a chart, not of the client, but inadvertently on the chart of a totally different person... This happened to me, a few years ago, for example. Geoffery Dean also mentions this in his invaluable 'Recent Advances in Natal Astrology', a book, however, which many astrologers prefer not to read, as it presents them with too many nasty facts and problems concerning our art.

To close this lengthy letter (can't help it - many accusations had to be rebutted), I am quite happy to discover that Gwyn acknowledges that apparently Secondaries do not always work. Then there is still a basis for discussion. However, if Gwyn would like to continue this discussion with me, I suggest private correspondence, as I mentioned earlier.

Enclosed is a cheque to cover a part of the cost of these Circulars, which seem to be growing into an alternative astrological magazine. How about changing the name - 'The Astrologers' Bulletin', for example?

Rudolf's difficulty in accepting Converse Progressions is understandable. There is an occult concept that Time is one and indivisible, but our limited human consciousness makes us feel it is only flowing forward. The occultist accepts that past, present and future are all one, and can be revealed as such in moments of greater awareness. It is a common experience that people at the moment of 'death' have a panoramic vision of their whole life, laid out before them as if occurring at that moment of time.

Antiscions, Mundane Parallels and Rapt Parallels derive their effectiveness through being equidistant with some significator from an axis (such as the Meridian or Horizon) but on the other side. A parallel might be drawn with the moment of birth, as representing the axis, with planetary positions before and after it. The analogy is not wholly satisfactory as it implies that the retrograding planets before birth should form effective aspects with those progressing after birth. (Perhaps this is so - I haven't tested it.)

I confess I do not usually delve into the philosophical aspects of an astrological technique. If it 'works', I use it, and leave the philosophy to others; though I am glad enough to hear a satisfactory explanation when someone else has worked it out--a typically Virgoan attitude, I guess. It annoys my wife.

Who first suggested Converse Secondary Progressions is lost in the mists of antiquity, but it is dealt with in the 1930 (?) publication of Vivian Robson, B.Sc., 'A Student's Textbook of Astrology' (now being reprinted). The author writes that Converse Secondary Progressions (he calls them 'Directions' - wrongly, I think) 'are frequently termed "pre-natal" Directions since they are all formed in the heavens before birth. The process of calculation is exactly the same as that used in the ordinary Secondary system except that the number of days corresponding to the native's age in years is counted backwards from birth, 30 days before birth representing the events of the 30th year of life. The horoscope and the Solar and Mutual aspects are calculated as usual and the Moon's daily motion is divided by 12 to obtain its monthly position, the only difference being that everything is passing backwards and the Moon moves about 1° backwards each month instead of forwards. This is probably the most important of the minor methods and forms a useful adjunct to the ordinary Secondary system'.

- Dymock.

From CLAIR BUNNETT, (VIC.): Thank you for Circular Letter No. 12. E.S. Caselli (Circular Letter No. 12) need have no fear: My admiration for Margaret Hone and her text book stops well this side of idolatry.

I teach beginners Placidus House cusps, but explain that, for example, Margaret Hone of England and Robert Pelletier of the U.S.A. prefer the Equal House cusps. I also explain that some distinguished astrologers favour Koch House cusps. And that others dispense with the House system entirely. It is a little difficult to make the different methods of House division sound sensible to a beginner!

Dymock, in re guide lines for the 'reading' of a horoscope, I attach a very rough guide I sometimes give to beginning students.

The Circular Letter is really worth while in my opinion, and I hope you can keep up the good work, although the deadlines must be difficult to keep. (But perhaps not to a Sun/Virgo subject!).

GUIDE TO READING A HOROSCOPE

Sun/Moon Polarity

Ascendant

Planets Above/Below Horizon etc.

Elements

Qualities

Moon's Node. Aspects. House.

Romance and Partnerships

Venus. Aspects, Sign, House.

Planets in 5th and 7th Houses

Signs on cusps of 5th and 7th Houses

Ruler of Sign on 7th House cusp. Aspects

Aspects to Sun (Woman's Chart) to it.

Aspects to Moon (Man's Chart)

Career

2nd - 6th - 10th Houses

Sun Aspects (Both Men and Women)

Moon position (General Public)

Jupiter. Aspects, House

Saturn. Aspects, House

Planets Above/Below Horizon etc.

Health

Ascendant

Sun, Moon. Aspects of Mars to both. Mars

Sun. Aspects of Neptune. Sign.

Planets in 6th House

Sign on cusp of 6th House and its Ruler.

Parents

4th and 10th Houses

Planets in 4th House

Sign on cusp of 4th House

Ruler of Sign on 4th House Cusp and aspects

Aspects to Sun (Father) to it.

Aspects to Moon. (Mother)

Travel

3rd/9th Houses

Sign on cusp 3rd/9th Houses. (Fixed Sign. Moon. Aspects, House. Less Travel)

Planetary Trends

Progressed Horoscope (Day for a Year)

Transits (Direct to Natal Horoscope)

Eclipses (Conjunction, Square, Opp. Natal Planets)

Birthday Map (Planets on Day of Birthday for the Current Year. Called a Solar Return).

The content of this Circular Letter is five times that of a year ago (ten pages instead of two!). Following a suggestion by Geoffrey Dean of W.A., I have cast around and found a printer who can reduce the size from A3 to A4 in the photo-copying process. This makes the publication more manageable and avoids increased postage charges. I hope it meets with everyone's approval.

I am more than delighted with the response of readers, which sustains my belief that serious astrologers want this interchange of ideas and information. The gain to us all is incalculable. How else would you benefit so quickly from the experience, knowledge and diverse viewpoints of astrologers scattered all over the Continent? (I nearly said 'Australasia' - but we do have one contributor from New Zealand, and I am expecting more.)

I take this opportunity to thank those readers who have helped financially and whose donation may not have been individually acknowledged. Their contributions are always appreciated and have helped to expand these Circular Letters to their present size and distribution level. But I want no one to drop out because he/she feels unable to assist in a monetary way. The most valuable aid you can give is to write your thoughtful letters. I am happy to make up the financial shortfall.

It is only right that I also acknowledge with deepest thanks the effort and time of my artist-astrologer-wife who spends hours and hours typing the manuscript and putting up with my Virgoan 'nit-picking'. Marguerite is a partner, colleague and helpmeet in the true sense, and having experienced the other sort, I am eternally grateful.

The list of contributors has had to be omitted from this Circular, but has now reached forty.

Any more ideas on changing the name of these Circular Letters?

My kind regards to all.

- Dymock, 19th August, 1982.

Consultant Astrologers

Dymock Brose

Teacher and Researcher in Astrology

Marguerite Brose

Diploma Fed. of Aust. Astrologers

19th July, 1982

86 CLARENCE ROAD, BLACKHEATH, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA 2785

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

Various aspects of astrological prediction have gained the attention of most correspondents this month. Further comments will be welcome, as also those on past issues discussed, or any other subject of interest to astrologers.

From GEOFFREY DEAN (W.A.): The arguments in these columns about the best system of prediction are no different from those which have raged continuously in the astrological literature for over 50 years. Therefore they are likely to be just as ineffective as the earlier ones obviously were.

They are also unnecessary, because the situation can be resolved by investigation. In other words we don't have to endure this endless parade of conflicting opinions but can put everything to the test. Let me explain:

The fundamental question to be asked before anything else is: How well can a system's performance be explained by chance? The question is fundamental because, given a series of events and a series of unrelated chart indications (as for example from an unrelated chart), some correlation between event and indication is bound to arise purely by chance. And if a system's performance can be explained by chance, it follows that no genuine correlation exists. In which case the system is worthless.

The same information immediately allows us to arbitrate between rival systems. Thus if it is claimed that system A gives better results than system B, this tells us precisely nothing unless we are told in each case what results are expected by chance. And until we are so told we are entitled to maintain disbelief.

The results expected by chance can be calculated provided that the rules are clearly defined. Even if they are not (as is usually the case) the calculation can be extended to cover possible variations in the undefined areas. Recent Advances (pp 31, 171, 176, 178, 428) gives examples of such calculations, hence there is no excuse for anyone not following suit.

I have calculated the results expected by chance for numerous systems including those discussed in these columns. In no case is there convincing evidence that the performance is due to anything but (1) chance, or (2) selection of examples to fit the case. In other words the system works but for the wrong reasons. To prove me wrong please note that an avalanche of angry letters is not needed: one simple calculation is enough.

On a brighter note, a new improved Vernon Clark test has been announced in the latest issue of the astrological research journal Correlation. This means that those interested in demonstrating the truth of astrological claims now have a chance to stand up and be counted. Unlike previous experiments which required a small number of difficult judgements, this requires a large number of easy judgements, and should therefore attract a wide participation.

The new experiment involves two sets of 120 charts. In the first set the native is either extravert or introvert, and in the second set the native is either emotionally stable or unstable. The judgement required in each case is: Which? And how confident are you that you are right?

The relevant criteria should be easily seen in the chart, especially as a full description of the terms is given, plus other relevant information as suggested by astrologers in a pilot trial. Each subject has an extreme score on the Eysenck Personality Inventory, which makes them clear-cut and therefore well suited to this experiment. All natives have birth times.

All charts have been computer-generated by Astro Computing Services in San Diego. To suit particular techniques various options such as midpoints, asteroids and sidereal charts are available on request.

Any reader who would like to participate, and who has the three or more spare evenings necessary to make 240 chart judgements, can obtain a set of charts and associated material from me. Please specify what sort of charts you want. All charts have to be returned to me for use by others. Write to PO Box 466, Subiaco, WA 6008.

From E.S. CASELLI (N.S.W.): I refer to R. Smit's comments in Circular No. 11: The fact remains that his main argument in relation to Eichmann depended on the tredecile aspect, which does not compare with the converse Secondary to which I referred.

I correctly stated, in Circular No 11, that Smit was in error in stating that 3 min. 56 sec. produced the movement of exactly one degree over the M.C., but I think I ought to elaborate a little further. Since 360 degrees pass over the M.C. in 24 hours, it is clear that on average it takes 4 minutes for the passage of each degree. Clearly, therefore, in most cases, it must take more than 3 min 56 sec. for the passage of one degree over the M.C. A brief perusal of the Table of Houses will confirm this.

Smit says that "advancement in astrology can only be obtained by examining all important postulations on the question". He also says "astrologers should keep an open mind and avoid dogmatism". These statements ring hollow when he, himself, dogmatizes against converse Secondaries without investigating them. He is being inconsistent, to say the least. Furthermore, he uses converse Angular Directions, which also go back in time before birth. To use these, and reject converse planetary directions, is again inconsistent. The cause of Astrology cannot progress through people burying their heads in the sand, and I do not admire Smit's dogmatism from a position of ignorance. Had Smit expressed the opinion that he could not see the logic of converse Secondaries, that would be one thing. To reject or belittle the experience of other people in this regard, without any investigation on his part is something else again.

I hope Clair Bunnett's advocacy of Margaret Hone's book does not mean that she considers Hone to be infallible. I do not agree with Hone's advocacy of Equal House Division, and I deplore her cavalier dismissal of the Pre-Natal Epoch, apparently without investigation.

My experience supports Mr. Caselli's in the matter of converse Secondary Directions, which I have frequently found to be significant. However, I intend to produce comparative evidence of all the principle methods of prognostication whenever the opportunity arises with a birth chart of which the time is reasonably certain.

I agree also, that Margaret Hone's "Text-book of Modern Astrology" is fallacious in supporting the Equal House System of domification (notwithstanding that this system has the approval of Ralph Holden of S.A., author of that excellent book, 'The Elements of House Division'). Nonetheless the book has some excellent features and I should not disagree with any teacher who wants to use it and who will no doubt introduce whatever modifications he/she thinks fit.

My experience with the Pre-Natal Epoch was disappointing. After a detailed study and application of Bailey's work some years ago, I was obliged to conclude that as a system of chart rectification it gave only approximate results, though it may have value in other directions. - Dymock.

From GWYN TURNER (N.S.W.): I thoroughly agree with your comments in Circular 11, that mere assertions as to the relative merits of different systems is not enough and demonstration and verification is required.

Long epistles, such as R. Smit's, seem to me to defeat the purpose of your Circulars, as they give no examples or proof of his various theories; in fact he admits in Circular 9, that he is not sure of the correct method for rectification and that it will probably be one of the variations of Primary Directions.

Also, in Circular 6 he says that Secondary Directions have no real value at all, and the same applies to transits. He also includes in Circular 9 that predictions are totally out of the question and do not prove Astrology.

In Circular 11 he goes on to say that the Secondary Progressed M.C. and ASC is a totally wrong astronomical and astrological concept, and a few lines further on says he does not rule out the validity of this Secondary M.C. and ASC in some way.

The only joyful note in his last article seems to be because some readers agreed with him over the fact that rectification and forecasting is most difficult. I also agree on this point but do not agree that it cannot be achieved.

The fact that R. Smit says he had only three events on which to rectify W. Holden's death Chart, really makes little difference, because the whole thing is based on an incorrect premise.

Pluto is too devious, slow and undermining to be Ruler of Aries, which is impulsive and outgoing. The Sun, Giver of Life, and the birth Ascendant, the very root of the physical body, are not afflicted at all. In fact this Chart has no resemblance to a death Chart.

Now, back to the question of Forecasting. The only real proof of this does not lie in an Astrologer being convinced that he or she is correct, but in verification from clients over many years.

It is only when one can open files of many years' standing, showing clients' case histories, accompanied by verification that their Progressed Horoscopes, each ranging from three years to twenty years, have worked out correctly that one feels competent to argue on this point; and in the case of National and Political Forecasts, where the public can read of their having come true.

In my book 'Human Destiny', published in U.K. 1969, there is one complete chapter of extracts from clients' letters on the authenticity of my Forecasts. (Photo copies of all letters can be supplied).

Herewith is a copy of a letter from an original sceptic: "North Sydney 6/3/1972

"Dear Gwyn Turner: As you know, for nearly seven years I have been guided by you in all aspects of my life and activities, emotional and business, and the tremendous change in my fortunes I have experienced since first consulting you has given me an optimism and serenity which makes life fun and exciting, whereas previously I was beset by exaggerated fears and self-doubts.

The awareness of periods coming up showing good or bad aspects affecting areas of my life, and the consequent adjustment of my plans accordingly, continues to produce such positive and successful results that the uninitiated person, when told of these things, firstly does not believe me, and later when they fully realise that, as I am a businessman involved in a highly competitive field where any mistakes I make are costly, I must be taken seriously when I speak of these matters.

Usually, as you well know, people are so sceptical - as I was before meeting you and learning something of Astrology, or, more important, your application of it. Of course the ridiculous over-simplifications published daily in the press are so ludicrous and damaging that it is a pity they are not banned.

On looking over my notes from our very first meeting until to-day, I can only repeat my gratitude to you for helping me help myself. I look forward to future meetings with you and wish you every success with your writings and a very happy future." Signed F. H.

In case I have taken up too much space with my comments I will leave until the next Circular to outline the reason why some Secondary aspects do not work.

When we see Astrology working in our own lives we become convinced of the truth and wonder of it. I am an artist and I thought art was enough to occupy me for the rest of my days. However, living at close quarters with Astrology convinced me of the value of knowing more about it for self-development as well as for guidance in daily life.

I am convinced that nothing works like personal experience, that nearly everyone is a potential Astrologer, and that we should join forces rather than use division in pursuit of greater understanding.

Gwyn's letter from her client is a typical example of how sceptics become advocates of Astrology - not by dazzling him/her with calculations etc but by the day-by-day help that it affords us all here and now.

- Marguerite Brose

From ELVA HOWSON (VIC): I would like to congratulate Rudolf Smit for being open-minded and honest enough to present a method which he then admitted showed negligible results in the particular case of Henk who was crippled for life.

Rudolf's results, of what he calls the Real Secondary Angles certainly did not denote an enormous tragedy, however, he ends by saying "much research will be necessary before a final assessment can be made". Continued research into many facets of our science IS needed, for were the systems perfect there would not be such obvious dissension between astrologers.

As constructive criticism may I point out that Rudolf has, in my opinion, contradicted himself. Firstly he goes to great length to inform us that the popular Secondary System Angles are merely artifacts, and here I agree with him - the Primary Angles certainly appear more valid. I long ago gave away Secondary Angles for this preferred method of calculating Progressed Angles, however, he then proceeded to show calculations for the Real Secondary Angles based on the exact method of the 'Artifact Angles', i.e. he began by using the birth-time projected into the progressed date. Whilst this certainly holds good for the planets it does NOT for the Angles. If the Primary M.C. is determined by the Progressed Solar Arc, which in Henk's case was 3⁰²' less than the normal Secondary M.C., surely the Real Secondary M.C. begins on the progressed birthday at 26⁰⁶' Aries. In this case the Real Secondary Angles for 28/5/71 are M.C. 4³⁶' Aquarius, ASC 10⁰' Gemini, Vertex 0⁰²' Scorpio. In the 24-hour period which covers the day of the accident (for which no time was given) we can see the Real Secondary ASC in orb opposition to Natal Vertex and parallel declination by 9'. The Real Secondary Vertex squares Natal

Pluto in Leo.

Those who read Spring Journal, 1980, may remember my strong suggestion that major events very nearly always link in strongly with a Vertex. I urge every Astrologer to include the Vertex in all charts, I am confident that it will quickly reveal it's importance to you.

I would like to add that I have been using the Real Secondary Angles for some years, they are useful as added confirmation but alone are not of great significance. We have to bear in mind that these Angles make one complete circuit of the Zodiac each day and therefore are useful only as a supplement to other systems. They seem to me to be the second-hand of the Zodiac clock, and from this point of view may assist in the question of rectification where a birthtime is given but thought to be inaccurate.

Am posting this off immediately as I do seem to have a habit of deferring things to another day and so I will be writing some further correspondence that I have in mind in the very near future.

From CAROL SQUIRES (N.Z.): I would like to go back to the original question printed in Cir.Letter No. 10 - 'What are your thoughts on Astrological Prediction?' I cannot speak for those readers who did not answer the question in Cir.Letter No. 11, but for those who did, the answer seemed to centre around the best system to use in order to make predictions.

I will hasten to add that I found the letters very informative and thank the authors accordingly. I also thank them for making me ask myself a few questions.

What are predictions? Why are astrologers continually searching for a "perfect" System in order to make predictions?

To my mind, in order to predict future events, trends, or whatever, the astrologer must be 'on the right frequency' to be able successfully to predict with any degree of accuracy what the client is likely to expect in the future, the right frequency being a logical, consistent, reliable method of chart erection, interpretation and progression.

If the astrologer is not on the right frequency, then predictions become inaccurate and of value to no one. When this occurs, the astrologer tends to blame the system of progression, saying it doesn't work so therefore there must be a better one. From there it is only a matter of time before we get the astrologer who not only blames the system he is working on and invents another that 'fits', but at the other end of the line we get the astrologer who dogmatically believes that his system of progression is the only correct one, so therefore the chart must be wrong!

To change the given time of birth - particularly a very accurately recorded one as in the case of Queen Elizabeth - in order to fit a system of progression is downright dishonest. The words of Barbara Watters from her book 'Horary Astrology' come to mind here - 'A dishonest question yields a dishonest answer, that is, a false answer' and 'An honest question will elicit an honest answer from a chart that is correctly cast, whether or not we like the answer'. So the question could be - not 'Is this system of progression correct', but 'Is my method of progression consistent with my method of interpretation?'

We will always get, no matter how logical and consistent the system, 'the event that does not fit'. I feel once again that the event that does not fit is perhaps not a reflection on the system of progression used, but perhaps a reflection on the astrologer's original interpretation of the natal chart?

A system of progression is only as good as the astrologer using it. I feel strongly that we astrologers are getting to the point where we are so intensely searching for the 'perfect answer' that we are losing sight of the original question.

From ALLAN JOHNSON (N.S.W.): The subject of Prediction must always be a thorny one. So it is not just a matter of which type of progressions to use, but whether in fact we should predict at all. Should we predict events or anything specific, or merely trends? Here again the word 'trends' itself could mean as many different things to as many people. Some trends can be presented in such a broad and general way as to be of little value to the recipient. Professionals do have to predict if they really want to survive and don't have other sources of income. Also we have to be realistic about human nature and be aware that most people are much more interested in the future state of their bank balances or their love life than the state of their souls.

I think we can definitely predict events so long as we are not dogmatic about it and also don't expect that every progression or transit is necessarily going to indicate an event. In many cases it won't. States of mind or new realizations can line up with current directions but may not be so readily perceived at the time. An astrologer has to get a feel for these sorts of things. Intuition does enter quite a bit into all predictive work, and those who deny they use it could still be using it just as much as others. So, to check whether in fact a given progression did or did not work can be another complexity in itself. So we have to be careful about downgrading other people's systems. They could work for them. Some systems seem to work very well with certain charts but not with others. All we can say is that where prediction is concerned we have to be flexible.

The temperament of a particular astrologer can be a big factor in what he predicts. So a naturally optimistic person would be more inclined to predict successes rather than disasters. Possibly those who continually predict doom and disaster are very insecure persons in themselves. It is noticeable that those who continually predict tidal waves, nuclear holocausts etc. never lose heart by their own continual failure to be right. They seem to go on hoping that maybe their next disaster will come good. But this sort of thing gives prediction a bad name.

Choice of words is another vital point. If we are forecasting a difficult time ahead we can present it in a constructive way. I think the astrologer should work unceasingly to build the client's morale up, not down. So the client should be encouraged to make his own decisions. Also in a lot of crisis situations a lot can be done by ventilating the whole problem. The person begins to look at things from several new angles and so get an entirely new perspective. This type of counselling can be combined with the prediction of events. The two are not incompatible. Prediction should always be presented as an assessment, not something totally inevitable.

Of course there is the question of how far one can get with postal readings. Counselling does need feedback. Margaret Hone used to make a practice of interviewing the person before she would consent to do a written reading. This was all right in England where most people could get down to London fairly easily. But Australia is a big country and an astrologer can have a client three thousand miles away. I have had quite a few clients in this situation, but have still felt the distance was not all that much of a barrier. It could need follow-up readings, this is only natural, but I do think one can really get to grips with people's problems by post. If it is a major problem, feedback is a must, but it is up to the astrologer to establish confidence in the fact that he can read a lot from the chart directly, without being supplied with very much detail. A lot of postal readings are going out at present which cover only the broadest generalities. This has tended to create a climate of opinion that postal readings are of little value. These sorts of readings are of little value. But they need not be.

From RALPH HOLDEN (S.A.): May I make just a short comment concerning this question of prediction?

It seems to me that we are faced with two issues, one philosophical and the other practical. The first is whether our experiences are predictable, and the other is that if this is so, is astrology a reliable technique by which this may be done?

While obviously involved in prediction, astrologers have in fact been remarkably cagey about the first. We mutter vague things about the stars inclining but not compelling, yet even a vague or incorrect act of prediction still involves the acceptance of the fact of predictability. I have a feeling that our hesitancy over the issue of prediction stems not from a concern for human free will (whatever it may happen to be) but from a dislike of getting things wrong.

Nevertheless, if we see prediction simply as the technique for 'telling someone what will happen', we have missed a very important issue. Let us say that we are asked the question, 'Will my wife leave me?' Is the question basically one which asks, 'What will happen in outward circumstance?' or/* I believe that it is the astrologer's responsibility to help a client come to that point of self-understanding in which they are now confident of their own responses to those things that will happen to them.

There seems to me nothing wrong in saying, 'Well, my judgement about what will happen is this, but I have made errors before, and no doubt will do so again.' The act of prediction itself is often a way of helping people face issues which they have tried to ignore. The test of a good astrologer is not how many 'points' they obtain on the prediction score-card, but whether those who come go away more aware of their own ability to accept even their own future.

From RUDOLF SMIT (VIC.): This time a technical contribution only. I want to reply to Mr. E.S. Caselli, on his remark: '...he goes on to say that in practice this means that the MC increases by exactly one degree a day.... this is simply not so...'. Mr. Caselli is right. I do not know how it came about, but I simply overlooked it when I corrected the manuscript of the article. Indeed, it is certainly not exactly one degree in longitude on the MC. The word exactly is better replaced by virtually or almost. To show what I mean, let us do a little bit of arithmetic.

*'How will I react to such a situation?'

The fuss is about the calculation of the True Secondary Angles. I have made clear that what is usually considered to be the Secondary MC and Secondary ASC, are such only on or roundabout the birthdays of any native. For the periods in between the Secondary Angles run through the entire Zodiacal circle. The problem was: with what increase on the MC per day?

When we deal with the principle of "One Day for One Year", we talk, in the case of Secondary Directions, of the Mean Solar Day, which consists of 24 Mean Solar Hours. We also deal with the Mean Sidereal Time, based on the Mean Sidereal Day. There is a straight relationship between the two:

One Mean Solar Day = 24h03m56.555s Mean
Sidereal Time
One Mean Sidereal Day = 23h56m04.091s Mean
Solar Time.

We immediately discover the well-known increase, called 'acceleration of Sidereal Time' in the first equation: 3 minutes and 56.555 seconds. Every time we look up in the Ephemeris a 00.00 hrs Sidereal Time, or a Noon Sidereal Time, and compare it to the next day or the previous day, we see that the difference between the two equals 3 minutes and 56.555 seconds.

We have to realize, however, that in reality there is not the difference of that number 3m56.555, but the 24hrs and 3 mins and 56.555 seconds.

According to the principle of One day for a year, that figure 24:03:56.555 has to be spread out over a year. The problem is only what year? The year of exactly 365 calendar-days, or do we have to take the Tropical Year of 365.25 days? (or more exact 365.2422). I have tried these two out, including also the Sidereal Year (which is 365.2564), but the differences are practically negligible. So let us take the calendar year of 365 days, as after all, we work with the calendar-days only in astrology.

One year of 365 days covers 24:03:56.555 hours of Sidereal Time. To convert this to Right Ascension, we convert that sexagesimal number to decimals:

24:03:56.555 = 24.06570986.

Multiply by 15 to obtain decimal degrees in Right Ascension:

24.06570986 x 15 = 360.9856479.

This means a daily increase over the year of 360.9856479/365 = 0.989001775.

Which is virtually one degree in Right

Ascension per day (convert back to sexagesimals: 0.989001775 = 00deg59mins20.41secs (59'20.41")).

Now how is then the increase in Longitude per day?

Do not fall in the trap of simply applying the trigonometric MC-formula: -
 $\tan \text{Long.MC} = \tan \text{RAMC} / \cos \text{Angle of Ecliptic.}$

Applying the formula,
 $\tan 44.50507988 / \cos 23.4475$ (an average value for the angle of the Ecliptic) = 1.071337157 and the Arc tan is 46.97249546, which is the increase in Longitude of the MC over those 45 days.

Repeating the same procedure for day 46, we arrive at an increase of 47.95783752.

The difference between the two figures is 0.98534206, (0°59'7"), which is the daily increase in longitude of the M.C. - not far off the one degree per day.

Indeed, Mr. Caselli was right on principle. Had I said 'virtually' or 'almost' instead of 'exactly', my statement would have been all right.

A last point: I cannot agree with Mr. Caselli's remark on the way I calculate a Primary Ascendant. I do not calculate a Secondary Angle this way. To explain this would require a full-length article - I reserve this for a later date. I think I have already gone outside the scope of these letters by going into such technical details as above.

I am looking forward to the next Circular;

Distribution is now at 39, as follows:-
NEW SOUTH WALES:- Keven Barrett, Joyce Butler, E.S. Caselli, Beverley Farrell, Gay Griffiths, Stephanie Higham, Allan Johnson, Austin Levy, Joan McCulla, Richard Sterling, Gwyn Stoney, Bob Stoney, Gwyn Turner, Victor Voets, Ray Webb, VICTORIA:- Fred Alban, Clair Bunnett, Nareme Collins, Erich Dressler, Duane Eaks, Elva Howson, Mrs. F.L. Lawton, Valerie Morison, Kaye Raymer, Pamela Rowe, Maurice Silver, Rudolf Smit, QUEENSLAND:- Ron Gaunt, Gillian Murray, Roy Owen,
SOUTH AUSTRALIA:- Ralph Holden, Hilary Marshall, Bill Slape,
WEST AUSTRALIA:- Geoffrey Dean, Jenifer Pommerin, Ethel Webb,
TASMANIA:- Isobel Bell, Jacqui Burton,
NEW ZEALAND:- Carol Squires.

- Dymock, 19th July, '82

NEXT TOPIC: WHAT METHODS DO YOU RECOMMEND FOR 'READING' A HOROSCOPE?

Consultant Astrologers

Dymock Brose

Teacher and Researcher in Astrology

Marguerite Brose

Diploma Fed. of Aust. Astrologers

19th June, 1982.

88 CLARENCE ROAD, BLACKHEATH, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA 2785

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

It is apparent that serious workers are deeply concerned with the matter of getting an accurate Chart to interpret, and the most satisfactory methods of Progression or Directions. Here are further contributions on this and other matters.

From RUDOLF SMIT (VIC.): Of course it has been a pleasant surprise for me to discover that my views on astrology, as expressed in some previous Circular Letters, have sparked off so many favourable comments. However, in the process of the shaping and expressing of opinions, the less favourable comments on someone's view are always more interesting than those which are in almost perfect agreement. Apparently some astrologers do not agree with me, and that is perfectly all right, as long as disagreement is based on a rational point of view instead of emotionalism.

I have always wondered why so many astrologers feel that their toes are being trodden on as soon as other astrologers question their findings or general opinions. It seems to me that many astrologers treat astrology as something sacred, or as something strongly attached to their emotional make-up. Astrology has become a part of their life-style, of their thinking, of their feeling, and woe to him who dares to question their cherished beliefs!

This is all very understandable, of course. I have to admit that I would not feel very happy either if for example someone came with the definite proof that astrology and astrologers are totally wrong. But, as I pointed out in a recent letter to an astronomer, if that definite proof were established, I certainly would have to accept it.

Anyway, I don't think that astrologers serve astrology to its benefit, by sticking to their own cherished beliefs. In one of his editorial comments (in The Australian Astrologers' Journal) Dymock called for an advancement of astrology. I heartily support his ideas in this matter, but then we have to realise that advancement in astrology can only be obtained by examining all important postulations on the question - whether they hold good, or have no ground at all. It does not matter then whether an astrologer has been working for forty years with a particular system and claims to have had excellent results. Even these results can be either based on an artifact or psychic ability. For that matter I refer again to that invaluable work of Geoff Dean, et al: "Recent Advances in Natal Astrology", where Geoff makes very clear how excellent delineations can be based on totally wrong charts! (That is, charts of other persons...) In such a case, the perfect analysis was due to psychic abilities and not to astrology!

Another point is, what are excellent results? It is a general human tendency - and we astrologers are not any exception - that one forgets the bad results and talks about the few good results only... Excellent results can only be proven if we duly record all our findings, and check and re-check them. In other words, follow a scientific approach. (Though, once again, I express my opinion that modern astrology cannot be judged with the criteria of modern science - there is more to astrology than the quantitative judgement by statistics alone. But I can write a whole article on this matter, and such is not what I had in mind for this Circular.

What I wanted to say is that we astrologers should accept criticism from other astrologers, hence keep an open mind, and avoid dogmatism. Only then, can we advance astrology and, of course, our own status as people to be taken seriously by others.

In view of what I have said I wish to comment on the remarks of some contributors: To Mr. E.S. Caselli (see Circular Letter 9): I do not "belittle" Secondaries in favour of "my" Primaries. I merely establish facts. The fact is that Secondaries only seldom seem to work. As for your remarks about your "more powerful converse Secondaries" in the case of Adolf Eichmann, I have the following replies: 1. If you had read my article on Eichmann in full (see also page 28 of The Australian Astrologers' Journal, Vol. 5, Summer, 1982), then you would have seen that it was not only that tredecile between Primary Mercury (Ruler of 8) and Saturn (Ruler of 1 and 12) which did the job. There were quite a few extra Primaries which gave very sensible indications, which is fully explained on that page 28. 2. I am willing to consider all kinds of progressions, but certainly not the system of "Converse Secondary Directions".

Secondary Directions are based on the true motions in their own orbits of the planets around the Sun (or in case of the Moon, around the Earth). Planets move only forward, and not backward. We experience also the time-flow as going forward, not backward. Hence Converse Secondary Directions would mean that not only the planets, but also time would move backward. Such is not the case: With all systems of directions we intend to look into the future, also when that future is already past (in the case of rectifications).

When you seem to have good results with the converse Directions of the Secondaries, I think your results are based on an artifact, rather than fact. As I already explained in my discussion about birth-times, I have the strong opinion that we have to start somewhere. Which means that we have to adopt axioms. The axiom, for example, that we don't muck around with an exactly-timed birth-moment. And also the axiom that with progressions we move forward in time, and not backwards.

With Converse Primary Directions the matter is totally different. Converse P.D.'s depend on the "angle of view" of the observer. In both cases (direct and converse Primary Directions) the directed planets still move from East to West through the Houses. The principle that the Earth moves from West to East, and hence the celestial globe from East to West, is not violated. To Roy Owen of Qld: No, Roy, I do not think that recorded birth-times are accurate. I am not so inexperienced. To elaborate on recorded birthtimes in my native country, it is a well-known fact that, especially in certain rural areas, a birth was an opportunity for a feast of some sort. It was then said that the road to the registration-office passed the pub. Well, you can understand what happened when the drunken father stood in front of the officer. On the question at what time the beloved baby was born, the father usually did not know. Quite often, the time of the clock in the registration office was written down...

What I mean with exact times of birth, are those that are really very accurately recorded. I have the tendency to suspect always such times as 2.00 am, 4.00 pm, 2.30 pm, and so on. However, when I see a time of 9.41, I have reason to believe that it is fairly accurate. And even then the question may be whether this is a time recorded by the watch of the father, and previously set precisely, or the time of the clock in the labour ward. In the latter case it is known that those clocks are often not reset for weeks and weeks... I believe only 95% of the times given by doctors-astrologers; two of them I happened to know. In such a case I certainly do not fiddle around with the given times to make certain events fit my particular system of progressions. If an event does not fit, I am compelled to admit that the particular system apparently does not work in that case. Astrology is NOT an infallible art!

To Gwyn Turner: I am perfectly well acquainted with what you call the "Classical Method". As a matter of fact, I have dealt with this classical method extensively in the latest and the forthcoming Australian Astrologers' Journal. My opinion is that this method, the normal so-called Secondary Progressed MC and Ascendant, is a totally wrong astronomical and astrological concept. I have been well aware of this method and I have used it till a few years ago when I discovered its artifact nature. Sorry to say it: You may think it to be the right formula, I have clearly given proof that it is the wrong formula. It belongs to the advancement of astrology, as in any other science, that things which have been taken for granted for many years, can be wrong anyway. I do not rule out the validity of this Secondary MC and Ascendant in some way. As a matter of fact, Kaye Raymer has some very interesting ideas on this matter, and I hope she will write about it.

As for rectification, I emphasise once again that this is a very tricky business. For a rectification it is necessary to have, I would say, at least five very clear-cut events over a very long period of time. For that reason I have made clear in my FAA-Journal article on Prime Event Analysis that my rectification of Ronald Reagan's Chart was not absolutely sure, as I worked with only three events.

To Ralph Holden: Thanks for your notes which are in agreement with my views. As for your comment on the Topocentric system, I wish to agree with you in what you say of the "rectification" of Queen Elizabeth's Chart. Twenty seven minutes off the recorded time is certainly a very unfortunate example of dubious rectification, when, indeed, it can be taken for granted that the birth of an heir to the throne is recorded as precisely as possible. However, this does not rule out that the system of Topocentric Primary Directions has value. In this case I like to refer to Dymock's work with the Topocentric P.D.'s which indicates that it is very worthwhile to consider it seriously. After all, the Topocentrists were not mad, and neither is Dymock. The problem here might be that it is astrological symbolism which can be very confusing. Let us give one example: The idea that Saturn is always the father in someone's horoscope, or House 4 denotes the end of life, the Moon always the mother or the wife, and so on, are only assumptions. In my many experiments I have not seen that House 4 denotes the end of life, nor that Saturn always denotes the father; nor have I seen that Saturn is THE planet denoting death. What I want to say is that present-day astrologers are still relying too much on tradition, or part of tradition, rather than on facts established after long experimental investigations.

The rules in astrology are not clear-cut, and hence every astrologer can set up his or her own rules. In the case of the Topocentric people, working with the Horoscope of Queen Elizabeth, the recorded birth-time might not have suited their interpretation of astrological symbols. I think it is high time that astrologers all over the world set out to establish a standard for astrological symbolism. However, this requires an enormous amount of work and very serious investigations. I don't want to be pessimistic, but in a case like this, I fear that my dream will remain an idle one.

Though I really like to say a lot more, I dominate again this Circular Letter. A pity that paper is such a patient listener. Let's see what others have to say on examinations and the idea of predictions.

But I want to close this contribution with expressing my joy and gratitude that Dymock has undertaken this venture. It is an excellent way for interchange of views amongst astrologers in Australia. None of the two Journals can provide for this! Dymock, however, has to pay for it. I think we have to support him, not only morally, but also financially!

(Thanks, Rudolf, for your financial support.
- Dymock)

In fairness to Messrs. Polich and Page who introduced the Topocentric System of House division, it is necessary to make a distinction between this and the technique of Primary Directions that they originated and developed. These latter have been dubbed (conveniently, perhaps) "Topocentric Primary Directions", but they are really quite independent of the House system of the same name, and can be employed without any reference to it.

It follows, of course, that the validity of these Primary Directions does not stand or fall on whether the controversial "rectification" of Queen Elizabeth's Chart is correct or otherwise (although the authors do advance some not insignificant arguments in its favour).

If for the time being we adopt the term "Topocentric" as a matter of convenience, we can distinguish between three current methods of Primary Directing as follows:

The original "Semi-arc" method, popular last century and still used by serious astrologers, finds the "arc of Direction" by proportion of the semi-arcs of the planets involved in the aspect. This arc, in Right Ascension, is then equated to a period of time by one of several time measures, among them 1 degree, solar arc or mean solar arc, all in Right Ascension, being considered equal to one year. The mean solar arc (0059'8.33" of R.A.) is the one referred to by Gwyn Turner as the "Classical" method, and is the one I prefer myself.

However, I have achieved greater precision by using this time measure in the manner set out by Polich and Page in their "Manual of Primary Directions". I was introduced to this system through the kind offices of Ralph Holden of South Australia, who made available to me his private translation of the original Spanish work. (The book is still not published in English.) In this "Topocentric" system, planets are directed under their own poles to the conjunction or aspect of other bodies or points.

In the "Prime Event Analysis" system espoused by Rudolf Smit, a "proportional ascension factor" is used to maintain the relative position of the planets in the Placidian Houses, and the time measure used is the (varying) solar arc in Zodiacal longitude.

There is little doubt that Primary Directions are the most effective and important of all systems of astrological progression, though other methods certainly have value. The tedious mathematics involved can now be avoided by anyone who buys a suitable computer (see Rudolf Smit's article in the forthcoming issue of The Australian Astrologers' Journal) or, less expensively, a programmable calculator. So it is to be hoped that more and more astrologers will avail themselves of this technique.

I find the Topocentric P.D.'s much superior to the Semi-Arc system, and on present indications not inferior to the Prime Event Analysis method.

But mere assertion as to the relative merits of different systems is not enough: Demonstration and verification is required. In future, therefore, where illustrative charts and progressions are given by contributors to these Circular Letters, I shall present the Topo-centric Primary Directions for purposes of comparison.

This is the only reasonable way to achieve some sort of objective judgement concerning competing techniques, and accords with the object of these Letters - better communication among serious astrologers, and the advancement of Astrology as a science and an art.

No astrologer is being attacked, but informed criticism is necessary to distinguish what is valid and real from what is false or illusory.

We are searching for truth and enlightenment in astrological matters, as I personally have been doing for decades. Rudolf Smit's entertaining account of the "Minus-One" system of a Dutch Astrologer (Circ. Letter No.9) illustrates just how necessary it is to interchange data, facts and experience among astrologers to save ourselves from absurdity.

- Dymock.

From E.S. CASELLI (N.S.W.): Thank you for your Circular No. 10. Yes, I have received the Autumn Journal. In that issue I have read with interest Mr. R. Smit's contribution on "Primary" Directions. The point is that when he uses the Secondary Sun's motion as the basis of the increment for his "Primary" Directions, he is, in fact, simply calculating a Secondary Direction of the Angles. It is regarded as such by Ron Davison, who uses the same method, though I still have not known it to work very well anyway.

I note, too, that Smit refers to what he calls the "Real Secondary Asc. and M.C." which he says is arrived at by the daily increase in Sidereal Time by 3 minutes and 56.58 seconds, which is something else again. He goes on to say that in practice this means the M.C. increases by exactly one degree per day. This is simply not so.

I note Roy Owen says he does not use Converse Secondaries. He should. Let me illustrate. When I emigrated from Britain to Australia, two Secondaries stood out, viz. Mars converse square Saturn radical; and Mars progressed conjunct the radical Fourth Cusp.

Clearly, Mars conjunct 4th radical showed the pioneering act breaking the environment and cutting off employment (opposite M.C.), but that was not all. There was also the break with friends (Mars square the friends of Saturn), the break with old ties, and, what is more, I broke my arm (Mars - misapplied energy - attacking the bone of Saturn). Mars square Saturn must be the astrological classic for a broken bone.

That I broke an arm was consistent with radical Mars occupying the cusp of the radical 3rd House. I also travelled a short, local journey to do it. (Third House). My arm was encased in a restrictive plaster cast (Saturn), and especially going through the heat of the Red Sea (!) my skin (Saturn) suffered intense irritation (Mars). All this from converse Mars square Saturn. (Secondary).

The progressed Mars in Taurus, on the radical Angle, also produced an inflamed throat (Mars-Taurus on Angle, in mundane square to Ascendant) but the broken arm, the break from friends (Saturn) etc., required the converse Mars square Saturn. After all, one can emigrate without breaking a bone, and one does not necessarily break with friends in that event. They might have come with me! I might add that both these Martian aspects were extremely close to time.

I hope this will lead more astrologers to at least investigate Converse Secondaries. It won't worry me if they don't, but in that case they will miss out on a lot of information.

While writing this, the foregoing is an excellent example of linking up the correct Direction for an event. Too many astrologers allow themselves to believe they have done the job by finding any adverse Direction for a difficult event, or any comfortable Direction for a harmonious event. It must be the right planet. Mars will not do the job for Saturn, and vice versa.

One further illustration should suffice. Take communication. This, of course, is Mercury, but sometimes Venus (art) is involved. Mercury speaks, but Mercury-Uranus speaks on the radio, viz. Ronald Reagan, who started out as a radio commentator. Venus, however, sings, and with Uranus she sings on the radio or by electronic recording. I ought to know. Under Progressed Venus trine Uranus (Secondary) I did both. What is more, some of my own songs were also broadcast and recorded. Here we have the correct planets and an illustration of planetary combination between a rising Uranus, radical, and a Third-House-Venus (creative writing).

Nothing is more fascinating than to see planets, exclusive in their own sphere, none the less working in combination. Note how Mars, the mechanic, works with Uranus, the engineer, while the Uranian engine so often depends on the steel of Mars.

Re Circular Letter No. 9, Smit takes Charles Jayne to task for advocating a Chart that works whether or not it can be identified as the time of birth. I think he is misreading Jayne, who is not arguing against the moment of birth as the basis of the horoscope. He is simply arguing for a chart that works even if the time of birth is not claimed to be known. As regards birth times, with the exception of Royal horoscopes of people near the Throne, for whom an official time is published, I have learned to view all given birth times with suspicion. I've known them to be half a day out - and we cannot get much further than that away from the truth.

I agree with your quotation from Jayne, who insists that the chart must ring true in itself, basically, irrespective of "rectification", and then it takes a number of events before one can even hope to be right. Most people cannot give us more than a few events of any real consequence, so even then I work more in hope than in expectation. I am sick of seeing so-called charts published based on a so-called birth time when the chart itself does not ring true, either basically or by Directions.

In regard to her own published book of charts, for instance, Lois Rodden admits to receiving 2900 sets of data for only 1700 people. In other words, 1200 of them were contradicted. She even published a Chart for Jeanette McDonald when she did not even know the year of birth! ("She was born either in 1907 or 1901" says Rodden - see "Profiles of Women"). And, unfortunately, any of these doubtful charts will be republished elsewhere as gospel by people who will not voice the original publisher's honest doubts.

I cannot stress too strongly that we dare not blindly accept so-called birth-times in the majority of cases. I hope that R. Smit has the experience to prove that in the English-speaking world as a whole he will be damn lucky to get his "birth-times" correct within one hour. That is why even the most honest rectification of the Angles by bringing planets to the Angles (ignoring other considerations) is suspect unless the astrologer is certain of the Ascendant beforehand.

Given only the relatively few events we get to work with, and using Converse Secondary Angles as well as "Progressed", one has a possible eight birthtimes for bringing each planet to the Angle. With a little "goodwill" it is not difficult to marry up a few planets to "prove" more than one birth-time, and this is made easier if we include Progressed and Converse planets to birth and Progressed Angles, to say nothing of transits.

So... the birth-time problem is a mess, but we gain nothing by ignoring the fact. We must not bury our heads in the sand or blindly accept any birth-time as given. To me, that is the blind leading the blind. One last example should suffice. Lois Rodden tells us she got six different birth-times for Carl Jung, from different people, all supposedly from him, and what is more, they did not all agree as to the place of birth.

Good luck to all. You surely need it.

From CAROL SQUIRES, (N.Z.): Another interesting Circular received, and thank you for your note. As far as other astrologers in N.Z. who might like to participate, I will be attending our annual "Solstice Conference" at Taupo in June, and will take your Circular Letters to show to a couple who may be interested - will let you know if they are.

What are my thoughts on Astrological Prediction? I feel they may be best summed up by the following paragraph which I include with every Progressed Chart I prepare for a client.

"The following description of the trends for the year ahead is based on an assessment of planetary cycles related to your Natal Chart. The particular dates mentioned are indications of times within those cycles when certain opportunities or feelings of restriction will be most obvious. They do not necessarily indicate events that will happen, but are only guidelines to follow should you wish to plan ahead or make changes over the next year. The dates given are when a particular planetary aspect becomes exact. The influence may be felt several days before or after, or where indicated, may be a general overall influence that will be in play for several months or years depending on the individual cycle of each planet."

From CLAIR BUNNETT, (VIC.): Thank you for the Circular Letter No. 10, which I found very interesting.

In regard to Allan Johnson's letter in this Circular, he said he did not know of many teachers of astrology using Margaret Hone.

I am presently teaching astrology at the C.A.E. (for the A.A. Co-op) and at the Brighton Recreational Centre (in my own right). At both these classes I recommend Margaret Hone's "Modern Text Book of Astrology" as a standard text for students.

As a science graduate of Melbourne University I appreciate her no-nonsense approach to astrology. Unfortunately, her book is not cheap. It is now around $19-00 in hard cover, and $14-00 in paperback.

For students wanting a cheaper text I recommend Jeff Mayo's "Astrology" in paperback at around $4-00.

Of course I mention many other astrology books to students in the course of my classes, but Margaret Hone's text brings together in the one book all the information on astrology that beginners need.

The subject of astrological prediction is receiving attention from readers of 'The Astrological Journal'. The original letter that sparked the comments was from an astrologer who is concerned about the practice. She considers it 'both distasteful and irresponsible to capitalise thus on anxiety about the future', and, further, 'the snare of prediction is that it gives us to think that with foreknowledge, we have some control over our destiny... but it ignores the present and, in so doing, robs us of our real autonomy'.

In support of the above, another writer opines, 'astrology does itself a major disservice in attempting this type of work in the first place. The problem is knowing how to correlate any given significator with a future event with 100% certainty'; and, further, 'If this cannot be done, then the technique should not be used'.

A writer taking a different view points out that delineation of the natal chart itself is largely prediction, as it deals with recognition of potential, this being defined by the Oxford dictionary as: 'Capable of coming into being, expressing possibility', and without this feature, natal analysis would have very limited value.

I agree with the last opinion, while sympathizing with the other views. It is a question of how the 'predictions' are handled. Confidence and hope can be engendered - not merely fear and anxiety. Predictions are not necessarily gloomy ones. The utmost discretion and care are called for from the astrologer, and the results achieved are dependent on his personal calibre, as with every other form of human activity.

True, it is difficult to arrive at precise forecasts on purely astrologic grounds, but perhaps not impossible, given the rapid advances likely to be made with the opportunity to consider scores of computer-calculated charts, instead of, perhaps, a dozen or so. If 100% accuracy were demanded in other fields, how many would survive?

There is still much to be said on this matter. All communications received by 16th July will be published in the next Circular Letter, due out on the 19th.

- Dymock.

PAYMENT FOR SCRIPTS!

In the latest issue of 'Transit' is the news that the British Astrological Psychic Society is now paying £5 per thousand words for articles published in the Society's newsletter, 'The Mercury'. It appears that articles may be on any aspect of Astrology, and will be judged according to quality. Mss should be typed on A4 paper with 1½ spacing, and submitted to the Editor, Anne Halfhide, 49 Canham Road, S. Norwood, London, SE25, U.K.

Distribution is now at 37, as follows:-

NEW SOUTH WALES:- Keven Barrett, Allan Johnson, Ray Webb, Richard Sterling, Gwyn Turner, Joan McCulla, Gwyn Stoney, Austin Levy, Stephanie Higham, Victor Voets, Bob Stoney, E.S. Caselli, Gay Griffiths, Beverley Farrell.

VICTORIA:- Pamela Rowe, Maurice Silver, Rudolf Smit, Fred Alban, Erich Dressler, Elva Howson, Valerie Morison, Mrs. F.L. Lawton, Duane Eaks, Clair Bunnett, Nareme Collins.

QUEENSLAND:- Gillian Murray, Roy Owen, Ron Gaunt.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA:- Ralph Holden, Bill Slape, Hilary Marshall.

WEST AUSTRALIA:- Geoffrey Dean, Jenifer Pommerin, Ethel Webb.

TASMANIA:- Isobel Bell, Jacqui Burton.

NEW ZEALAND:- Carol Squires.

- Dymock, 19th June, 1982.

Just received from GAY GRIFFITHS (N.S.W.):

Many thanks indeed for your invitation to join in your Circular Letters and also for the complimentary copy of your Journal, which I found good reading and informative. The Circular Letters are an excellent idea and I should be very pleased to receive them and to send in comments from time to time. This seems to be a good informal way of tossing ideas around, and inviting the opinions of fellow astrologers. We all meet with certain realizations from time to time that we could pass on to others in this way.

Enclosed is a cheque for subscription to your Journal plus a donation towards the Circular Letter costs.

* * * * *

(Thank you, Gay, and welcome! - Dymock.)

Consultant Astrologers

Dymock Brose

Teacher and Researcher in Astrology

Marguerite Brose

Diploma Fed. of Aust. Astrologers

19th May, 1982.

88 CLARENCE ROAD, BLACKHEATH, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA 2785

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

The matter of rectification of the birth time and the question of examinations in Astrology have aroused interest and comment from various quarters. All letters received up to 16th May are printed below, together with comments on previous topics discussed.

From RALPH W. HOLDEN (S.A.): I would wish to agree with the comments of Rudolf Smit regarding the dangers of rectification of the birth time. Of course this is a necessary evil when the time is not accurately known, and the astrologer is required to exercise his or her judgement in determining what appears to be a reasonable time given the circumstances. However, I have not yet found a method of rectification which I can accept with confidence, for if it is found to be inappropriate once, doubts will always linger. I always treat a rectified birthtime, therefore, with considerable suspicion.

Again with Rudolf Smit, I find it difficult to accept that idea which is held by many astrologers, that even when the birth moment is accurately known, rectification is still required. This is in order to obtain the true "astrological" birth time (as distinct from the natural one), and which then becomes the basis of later work on the chart, especially progressions.

In my personal work, I must confess that I use no other method for more accurately finding an imprecise birth time, than to discover a natal chart where the planetary positions in the Houses reflect as near as I am able to assess the character and experiences of the person concerned. This often still contains a span of time in which the birth may have occurred but I accept this as a limitation necessary in the interpretation of such a chart. It is often self-delusive to use what appears to be an accurate time, but which in fact is built upon supposition.

As those who have read my small book, ("The Elements of House Division" -Ed) will guess, the House system which I use for rectification (as in all my work) is the Equal House. I believe in fact that there are good and sound reasons for its acceptance.

This question of rectification is one of the reasons why I feel hesitation in using the Topocentric House System. Like myself, the authors of this accept that the use of the House cusps is an acceptable way to carry out rectification, whether in a natal chart or by the use of progressions to them. In their work A MANUAL OF PRIMARY DIRECTIONS the substantiating evidence which Polich and Nelson-Page give for this system is based upon a detailed examination of the Chart of Queen Elizabeth II and the readily available events of her life. The claim which they advance for the Topocentric System is that it was discovered in an empirical manner by examining progressions to events of a cuspal nature, and then determining a formula which established the House cusps at these significant points.

Unhappily, to make the system work, the time of birth of Elizabeth II was rectified by 27 minutes from the official birth time (A Manual of Primary Directions, p.iii). It seems to me to be almost beyond belief that such a "public" event as the birth of the heiress to the throne should be in error by almost one half-hour. Thus I am worried that - in spite of much argument in favour of the Topocentric System - one seems to be confronted by another example of fact being forced to conform to theory. If the Topocentric System does not work with the true known birth-time, it would seem that its value must be seriously questioned.

From ROY OWEN (QLD): If our friend R. Smit thinks that birth times are accurate, he must be joking. Experience shows that most birth times are off and late by nearly half an hour.

Just because in Holland they are on the birth certificate there are only half a dozen countries that do this, and even in the South of the U.S.A. they don't even have the correct day recorded. It is best to try some form of rectification using transits on each and every chart. Jayne makes sense sometimes. I often use Converse Directions (not Secondaries though).

From CAROL SQUIRES (N.Z.): Thank you for sending me a copy of your Circular Letter No.9. I would very much like to be included on your mailing list. May I suggest that in future you send the letters airmail (I have enclosed postal vouchers to cover the cost) so that "slow mails do not prevent useful participation by the New Zealanders"! (Or in my case, an Australian in New Zealand!)

I note that your next Circular will be covering Examinations in Astrology. In New Zealand, the Astrological Society of N.Z. holds examinations twice a year and these are open to all financial members of the Society who have signed the Code of Ethics. Four levels are tested: Diploma Member, Diploma Teacher, Diploma Associate and a newly introduced Student Test. The Test is a four-hour paper (the others 8 hours) and the same high standard is required, and no Diploma or Certificate is awarded to the successful examinee. The Test was introduced mainly for those students who have not sat exams for many years to help them familiarize themselves - and to gain confidence - in an examination situation. I do not know whether such a test is available to members of the Australian Societies - if not, perhaps it might bear considering, as it has been more than welcomed here.

I read with glee Rudolf H. Smit's contribution and wholeheartedly agree with what he has to say. I must admit I am highly suspicious of those astrologers who present a rectified time of birth that "fits" neatly to a particular event to "prove" that the rectified time must be correct! I would love to see, when these rectified charts are published in astrological journals, an indication of what events were taken into consideration when rectifying the chart and what method of rectification was used. All too often we are presented with "here is the Chart for Miss Famous Personality, Birth Time 20.04 (Rectified)." I'm afraid that we would all learn a lot more from working with those charts where an accurate moment of birth was known, rather than wasting time messing around with times that, to my mind, will never really be "proven beyond reasonable doubt".

I look forward to receiving your next Circular.

It is appropriate here to quote from Charles Jayne of the U.S.A. In his book "The Technique of Rectification", he states: "It is really impossible to emphasize too much the importance of careful and rigorous examination of the placement of the Ascendant and of the planets in the Houses BEFORE one uses any Arcs of Direction. One can find an Ascendant and House orientation that is quite plausible but also wrong! That is to say that one can find several convincing reasons to justify such a placement. I used the word rigorous. One really must try hard to be rigorous and consistent in one's interpretations if one is to avoid self-deception. When it comes to Directions, I have used a simple arbitrary test, i.e. at least eight major Directions, to or by the Angles, must "fit" not only as to time but also as to correct meaning before one may consider that the Angles are probably right. I suggest that some similar minimum number of factors must "fit" not only as to Directions and events, but also as to their radical static pattern of relationships of Houses and Angles to Lights and planets." -Dymock.

From ALLAN JOHNSON (N.S.W.): In your last Newsletter you mentioned that you would like some discussions on the subject of Examinations. This raises the question of what exactly does constitute qualifications in Astrology. When I was last in England in 1978, attending the A.A. Conference at Cambridge University, I did actually attend a meeting got together to discuss this specific topic. Present were teachers of Astrology from quite a number of European countries - U.S.A., many different parts of the U.K., New Zealand, etc. But I soon found there was very little prospect of any basic agreement ever being reached. It seemed quite impossible for them to get to first base at all, so any motions that were passed were couched in terms so broad as to have little meaning. The problem was not that there were so many schools of thought, but that each thought that their approach was the only right one. I plan to attend the A.A. Conference again this year, but I will be surprised if any progress has been made in this direction.

So from this it follows that it is not possible to set up an exam paper without having it subject to a lot of criticism. Astrology is a subject which abounds in differences of opinion. However, when I set up the first F.A.A. Examinations ten years ago I found it impossible to get much feed-back or opinions at all. There had been ideas of setting up a National Examination Board but this just didn't have practical possibilities when it came to the point. Probably the idea was too premature. But I think I am getting a little more feed-back now. I think the nearest approach to what might be called an international authority for examinations in Astrology is the Faculty in London. This has been successful in getting itself accepted by students in over 100 countries. So its Certificates and Diplomas do count for something. Its influence has spread far beyond England or the English-speaking world. As a result some might ask whether we do need examinations in Australia at all. But I think we do. The Faculty Exams and also the Jeff Mayo Exams are tied very much to the specific teachings of the Margaret Hone School and I doubt whether there would be too many teachers in Australia using her books as basic texts.

Margaret Hone was responsible for a revolution in approaches to teaching and consulting work, using a synthesis of all the factors, and not inflicting loads of technical data on to the uninitiated client. I think this has permeated the attitude of a lot of students, even though they may not use her books especially. I do use Hone's methods to a great extent, but not "Equal House" or her special key-word system. So time has modified her original methods without altering her basic intentions. But of course a lot of new books have come out since her innovations 30 years ago. Astrology will always continue to be a highly individualistic thing.

Could there ever be one final House division system, or one system of progressions, or any of the other techniques? It would make Astrology more "scientific" if it were possible, but it isn't. It looks as if any system is only as good as the astrologer who uses it. It is all a question of interpretation. And interpretation is an art, not a science. So I don't think there can ever be such a thing as a right system. It is expecting too much from any system of progressions to have it work all the time. We have to be satisfied with good percentages. Yet astrologers continue to be dogmatic on this point. All this of course highlights the difficulties of setting up an examination which would have a general acceptance, or be recognised.

Right, here we have the old controversy about external and internal examinations. This is a controversy in education generally. A lot of teachers don't like external exams at all. They prefer to issue their own certificates. It is the students who want the external exams, not the teachers. So for this reason a lot of astrology teachers have not been interested in cooperating with the F.A.A. exams. But some have. With an external exam the candidate and examiner are most frequently unknown to each other. This could mean a fairer assessment. There are no personal feelings to influence the matter. This is a factor which can weigh heavily with a student. They want to get as honest a judgement as they can get. I think the F.A.A. Certificate is getting more and more accepted Australia-wide. In the last exam in November, 1981, only two out of the eleven candidates were my own students.

Being a professional myself, I am more interested in the practical usefulness of astrology rather than the more academic side or the research angle. So one half of the exam is devoted to answering specific questions on a definite chart. This brings in the predictive side, without expecting all that much experience in this area, but the student should know how to go about it. I never insist on Secondaries. If the student wants to use Solar Arcs or the One-Degree method there are no disadvantages. So the students can use whatever method they have been studying. The same rule can be applied in setting up charts. The student gets used to looking at a chart set up in a certain way. In fact most professionals find it hard to read someone else's chart. This problem can be overcome by simply listing the data and it can be copied on to a chart in a few minutes. So there are basics in exams which have to be pretty universal. Everybody must know how to erect a chart and get precise figures for the planets, to know the meanings of the various "times" that are used, the nature of chart patterns and so on.

When it comes to the Diploma Exam, most students approach it with an eye to professionalism in various degrees, or to apply astrology to practical needs, even if they are not going to charge fees. So the ability to do a complete reading of a chart in a fairly professional way is a basic necessity. Here the final results are more important than the precise technique of doing it. So any known method of prediction is acceptable, Solar Returns, Converse Directions, Midpoints, anything at all. An examiner should be sufficiently conversant with any of these methods, even if he doesn't use them regularly, to judge whether the student knows what he is talking about. The important thing I have always insisted on in these readings, is that the reading should always be addressed to the supposed client in non-technical terms. The average client is not a student of astrology and knows scarcely anything of the technical side of astrology, so should not be loaded with lists of aspects, lists of planets in Signs, and so on. This is the raw material of delineation, not the finished product. The client is interested in what is happening on earth, not in what is happening in the heavens. This is where the Margaret Hone approach is vital, but I don't think it should mean a total elimination of technicalities, but move very much in that direction.

Astrology students should be encouraged to take examinations for the very good reason, among others, that it reveals to them gaps in their knowledge of which they may otherwise remain unaware. There are no doubt gaps in the knowledge and understanding of every astrologer, but with students these can exist even in the basic areas of Signs, planets, Houses, aspects, transits and progressions, without the student realizing it.

Left to themselves, most students will pursue some topic that particularly appeals to them, while neglecting large areas of greater importance. The probing questions on an examination paper can correct this. An all-round level of competence is certainly desirable before any astrologer starts purveying his wares to the public, whether for gain or for love.

The examination itself, particularly the first one which, in Australia, is the Astrology Certificate Examination, need not prove a nervous ordeal if adequate information is given beforehand of what will be expected of the candidate. A syllabus is useful, but by far the most valuable aid is a batch of previous examination papers which the candidate can peruse and work over for himself. These not only direct his attention to what is important in the subject, but also acquaint him with the way in which the questions are asked. When he subsequently enters the examination room he already has his mind oriented in the required direction.

I applied this system very well myself in an altogether different field - law - when studying unaided for the Solicitors' Admission Board Examinations. Articled clerks in those days (the 1930's) profited by a system whereby successful candidates in the law examinations passed on to the aspiring lawyers following them a bundle of previous examination papers. This bundle grew with every successive quarterly examination, and, over a decade or so, achieved huge proportions. With the aid of these papers I had no difficulty in gaining good passes, but it would have been a different story if I had been left to struggle with the massive law tomes prescribed by the examining Board. I remember one such, Dicey's "Constitutional Law", with particular horror. For a candidate to find in this book what was important and what was not would be practically impossible without the indications given by the test papers.

A similar difficulty arises for the un-informed student when faced with the mass of books and literature on Astrology that is now published. But the way is made clear if enough test papers are available for him/her to work through. Specimen answers are also a considerable help, and with this in mind I instituted the section, "Answers to Examination Questions", in The Australian Astrologers' Journal. Here, one has to avoid the trap of making the answers too detailed, and thereby possibly frightening off prospective examinees.

As a practical measure, and to encourage students, I now recommend that the F.A.A., or the A.A.C., or an independent body, undertake to reprint all previous Australian Examination papers, and make them available at nominal cost to anyone interested. I am prepared to give all possible help in this direction. Any takers?

- Dymock.

From GWYN TURNER: In the last April Circular, Rudolf Smit takes exception to Charles Jayne's statement of rectification, but as this was only one paragraph from his article, the rest shows that he is talking about a life-time of events, not a small portion.

However, I agree that it is possible to make events fit into incorrect times of birth for a short span, but what I cannot understand is that Rudolf Smit with his long investigation of rectification has not yet hit on the correct formula. Has he forgotten that apart from the progressed M.C. & ASC to birth planets, the progressed planets to the birth M.C. and ASC will give the final proof?

A typical example of this is shown in William Holden's death Chart, which will appear in the next issue of the Astrologers' Journal. The rectification finds his minute of birth not only by Primary aspects to birth planets but by Secondary planetary aspects to his Natal Ascendant (progressed Sun square radical Ascendant and progressed Mars conjunct same).

The method I use is available from most computer firms in America and also in Sydney, and is usually named "Classical". The Dictionary definition of "classical" is: Good quality, example generally given, expert, work of highest quality; and this is how I, too, see this method.

Some computer services go further and mark the print-out progressions by this method as "Progressions by Sidereal Time", which is the basis of the "Classical" method. It is also known as "R.A. of the Mean Sun" or sometimes simply called a "birthday horoscope".

I have found this method most accurate over many years of my professional work of predictive Astrology, both in personal and political charts and made it the subject of a lecture at the January, 1980, Sydney FAA Convention, when I compared 50-year computer Progression print-outs on the life of Elizabeth Taylor.

The Solar-Arc progressions did not match the events in her life, while the "Classical" did. As mentioned earlier, a critic might say, why could not the birth time be altered to make the Solar-Arc directions match the events? But we again come to the question, what about the progressed planets aspecting the birth M.C. and ASC? In the case of Elizabeth Taylor's "Classical" Natal Chart, I demonstrated numerous Secondary Progressed planets aspecting the Angles to match major events of her life, so proving that you must show all aspects to and by the Angles to be able to forecast correctly.
(more later).

VALE, JOHN ADDEY

John Addey, Founder and Patron of The Astrological Society, died on 27th March last in the Royal Homoeopathic Hospital, London, after a short illness. It was a sad day for our British colleagues, and indeed for many outside the United Kingdom.

Mr. Addey was chiefly known for his pioneering work on harmonics in astrology, a study on which he was still engaged at the time of his death. Let's hope others will carry on his work with the same enthusiasm; and perhaps John himself will lend a hand from the inner planes.

Being a long-time advocate and practitioner of Horary Astrology I was delighted to see the following in the current issue of "The Astrological Journal", published by the English Astrological Association:

"The modern trend of Psychological Astrology has eclipsed the important use to which the Ancients put Astrology. An Astrologer confronted with a request to predict the ramifications of an event or to give advice on some question would draw a chart for the moment of hearing the request. Such a chart is known as a Horary Chart. Horary Astrology is a powerful tool which gives the Astrologer a panoramic view of the circumstances and the likely outcome of the question. Its use is illuminating and its results more dramatic than any other branch of Astrology."

(The underlining is mine -Dymock.)

From BILL SLAPE (S.A.) (adverting to the influence of Pluto in the Houses, a current project in The Australian Astrologers' Journal): I was recently attending an informal social gathering when I became aware of being under scrutiny. It was so intense I sought the person out. He was a short, squat man, around my vintage (1924), with very penetrating eyes. Scorpio, somewhere, I thought, and as he was friendly enough, I diplomatically extracted from him his birth details. He had Pluto in the 1st House, in orb of his ASC. Repeatedly I have found this so, that is, Pluto 1st-House native with deep, pool-like, penetrating eyes.

Talking on Pluto - Houses: The two most arrogant, volatile and unapproachable men I have ever had the misfortune to work with, who could be classed as typical b...s, who would erupt at the slightest provocation, had Pluto in the 4th House, both with Aries Rising, which didn't help much either. I don't find that typical of a 4th-House Pluto, but those two unacquainted individuals had such an outstanding nature, I thought it too coincidental not to make mention of it.

(Thank you, Bill, for your good wishes and contribution to expenses. - Ed.)

Pamela Rowe has now retired from the position of National Secretary of the F.A.A., having diligently and conscientiously discharged its duties since the beginning of 1979. The office of secretary in any organization is usually the most onerous, and the one that receives least recognition.

We welcome Dr. Duane Eaks as the new National Secretary, and include him in the list of recipients of these Circular Letters.

Distribution has now risen to 35, with at least one in N.Z. (we hope more will participate), and is as follows:-

NEW SOUTH WALES:- Keven Barrett, Allan Johnson, Ray Webb, Richard Sterling, Gwyn Turner, Joan McCulla, Gwyn Stoney, Austin Levy, Stephanie Higham, Victor Voets, Bob Stoney, E.S. Caselli.

VICTORIA:- Pamela Rowe, Maurice Silver, Rudolf Smit, Fred Alban, Erich Dressler, Elva Howson, Valerie Morison, Mrs. F.L. Lawton, Duane Eaks, Clair Bunnett, Nareme Collins.

QUEENSLAND:- Gillian Murray, Roy Owen, Ron Gaunt.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA:- Ralph Holden, Bill Slape, Hilary Marshall.

WEST AUSTRALIA:- Geoffrey Dean, Jenifer Pommerin, Ethel Webb.

TASMANIA:- Isobel Bell, Jacqui Burton.

NEW ZEALAND:- Carol Squires. (35)

- Dymock, 19th May, 1982.

THE NEXT CIRCULAR LETTER (19th June, '82) : WHAT ARE YOUR THOUGHTS ON ASTROLOGICAL PREDICTION? And any more comments on matters discussed to date. (MSS by 12th June, if possible please)

Consultant Astrologers

Dymock Brose

Teacher and Researcher in Astrology

Marguerite Brose

Diploma Fed. of Aust. Astrologers

19th April, 1982.

86 CLARENCE ROAD, BLACKHEATH, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA 2785

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

Interest is growing in these Circular Letters. Here are the latest contributions.

From RUDOLF H. SMIT: Your latest Circular (No. 8), and in particular Gwyn Turner's letter, compel me to comment, as it talks about some facets of astrology which have kept me busy for quite some years. But before I go into that I have to rectify a small typing error in your Circular Letter No. 6, which states (in a letter of mine) that I arrived here in September, 1981. Such was not the case: I arrived in September, 1980.

First of all I wish to say that I feel more or less horrified with Charles Jayne's statement: "The time that really matters to an astrologer and his subject is the time that correlates with what is happening in the life, whether or not that time can be identified as the moment of birth. In other words, a rectification that can show a true sequence of events".

I cannot agree with this statement - it shakes the basic principle of all astrology: The time of birth, that is the moment the baby enters the world, which is its being pushed out of the mother's womb and starting to breath its own breath. Only then it becomes an individual of its own, to a certain extent independent of the mother. We have always worked with that principle, and I think it is a right principle. Astrology has to start somewhere, and the starting-point has always been the actual moment of birth, no time later, and no time earlier.

Of course, we can argue about the question of what the actual moment of birth is: The first cry (= breath) or cutting the umbilical cord, whilst it becomes a lot more complicated with babies starting to breath only several minutes after the actual birth has taken place. These are nice subjects for investigation, by the way. However, as Geoff Dean makes clear in his Recent Advances in Natal Astrology it appears that by far the most astrologers all over the world stick to the first breath at the actual moment of birth. Once again, I feel that such is the right starting-point. Because if we do what Charles Jayne suggests, then every astrologer simply can do what he or she likes, that is "Rectifying" till you arrive at a time that suits the astrologer's method, nothing more and nothing less.

I know of astrologers who fiddled around with exact birth-times only to make sure that a certain event fitted the employed method of progression. Voila, one more reason for sceptics of astrology to condemn our art. If a birth-time is exactly known, then it is, from a scientific point of view, horrifying to muck around with it. From a scientific point of view it is then right to concede that a certain method does not work, however much of a pity that may be, in that particular case anyway.

I feel that modern astrology has to behave in many respects like a modern science. I certainly think that there is no need for a strictly reductionistic view of astrology as Geoff Dean propagates, for then it becomes very easy to reason astrology out of existence! But I am sure that astrologers can adopt a more critical approach to the art than is normally the case. To that approach belongs, in my opinion, that we do not deviate from basic principles, such as the moment of birth, just to make sure that it fits into our astrology.

To what absolutely stupid results that may lead I will illustrate with one example: In my home-country, The Netherlands, there is one, rather infamous, astrologer, who claims to have found the only right system of progression. He calls it the "Minus-1" System. Guess what he does. He used the old dogma of "one day for a year" in relation to Secondary Progressions. So far so good - but then it happened to him one day, that he made a calculation-error. Instead of adding the actual amount of days in relation to the age of the native, he added the days minus one. And look - he discovered that in that year (by error taken for the right year - in reality the year prior to the right year) some secondary aspects were spot-on. From then onwards he employed this system, and claimed to have excellent results. However, a critical approach to his Minus-1 System revealed that his "excellent results" were just a very few of many aspects. And indeed, it happened sometimes that the "minus-1 Progressed Ascendant" coincided nicely with an appropriate event. We discovered however, that this Minus-1-Ascendant coincided with the true Primary Ascendant, hence this "success". A success based on an artifact, for sure, for what the man never realised was that this Minus-One System produced a horrendous anomaly: This system implies that right at the moment of birth the entire Progressed Horoscope JUMPS, in an infinite small moment of time, BACKWARDS, a FULL DAY. Hence the radical horoscope was normally calculated, but when applying the Secondary Progressions according to the Minus-1 System one had to start a full 24 hours before birth, with the obvious consequence that the Progressed Horoscope of the native at the moment of becoming one year old, was exactly the same as the radical horoscope.

When this was made clear to the astrologer his response was a furious reaction, and the claim that other astrologers were out to trap him, because of jealousy, and more of that rot. He still sticks to this stupid Minus-1 System, which produces an overall result of almost nil, by the way.

In a case like this, one could say that the astrologer in question placed the birth actually 24 hours before the actual birth took place, only to make it fit his system of progression. (Applying this idea in all its consequences, would mean that (if we still maintain the idea of one day for a year) those 24 hours before birth represented one year before birth. It is sure that in such a case the first three months are absolutely empty, as normally conception takes place nine months before birth.)

Hence I maintain that we have to stick to the real moment of birth - not anything else. It leads to nothing, only to further condemnation of astrology and its adherents, once again we will be seen as a bunch of superstitious fellows doing stupid things in order to boost our egos.

Of course, there is the big question about "how to rectify a horoscope", when as is so many times the case, the exact moment of birth is not known. I agree with Gwyn Turner that it is indeed confusing when astrologers are coming up with different times of birth (or death) as in the case of William Holden. As regards my own birth-time rectification of William Holden I wrote on page 23 of the FAA-Journal: "I rectified the Chart on only one event and came up with a time of 5:06:25 pm, so, regardless of how fitting the results may look, it simply does not imply that the rectified time is indeed the right time of birth". In other words, I am very well aware of the difficulties involved in the rectification of Charts.

The point is that any system can be made suitable for rectifying a chart, but such a system can only be valid if the chart-rectification provides very fitting aspects for all major events over a very long period of time. Well firstly, at the time of writing the articles about William Holden we knew only the approximate date of his death. There was nothing more available. For a proper rectification we need at least four to five very strong events over a very long span of time. And then it is a matter of tuning in, till all these events fit neatly. Yes, fit neatly, but it still will be some sort of compromise... But that is a different matter altogether. What I am aiming at is to make the reader realise that we can only try rectification with a system that is sufficiently foolproof.

Gwyn Turner is asking in her letter: Why is there not more effort shown in this direction? There she is very right. The possible answer is: It takes a hell of a lot of time to do the necessary investigations, and a very critical approach, AND a very good understanding of the different techniques of progression in astrology. And let's face the fact that most astrologers do not possess all those assets. A small group of Dutch astrologers however, took the trouble to delve extensively into this vast problem. I was one of that group. We have over a period of more than five years very thoroughly investigated the most widely used systems of progressions, transits, Secondary Progressions, Solar Arc Progressions". Literally hundreds and hundreds of horoscopes have passed through our programmable calculators, and later on computers. The verdict: The Secondary Directions are a very weak system of progression, in any case very unsuitable for proper rectification. The Solar Arcs show better results, but are not reliable for rectification either, and mainly because of lack of consistency. The same can be said of transits - sometimes a hit, most times no hits or only weak indications.

The only system so far that provides sufficient reliability both in the indicating of hard events and rectification, because of its consistency in rules, is the one of Primary Directions according to "Prime Event Analysis", about which I am writing extensively in the FAA-Journal. This system, which is based on centuries-old astronomical and mathematical knowledge (the foundations of it were laid by the great Claudius Ptolemaeus himself!) has another advantage as well: It is pure mathematics, and in accordance with the real phenomena of celestial mecha-cs. It is not the oversimplified arithmetic of Solar-Arc Directions. For that reason I have always rejected Solar Arcs because they do not comply with the proper movement of the Celestial Sphere. That Solar Arc Directions seems to work in quite a few cases, is mainly because the S.A. planets often line up with Primary planets.

Here is an answer to the question of Gwyn Turner: Thanks to the computer, and thanks to the readiness of some astrologers to delve into the complicated mathematics of the celestial movements, we have arrived at the verge of a breakthrough. When we want to find out which System has the most scope, the answer will probably be: one of the variations of Primary Directions. Indeed, one of the variations - they are there as well. Which is perfectly normal in any science. We are investigating new possibilities, and then it is not unusual that different approaches will emerge. It is then only a matter of testing which one gives the highest score.

I see that I am carried away. There is a lot more I like to say, for example that I hate the word "prediction", as my blunt postulation is that prediction in the absolute sense of the word is totally out of the question. Besides, with predictions one does not prove astrology, if it were only for the fact that always the big question of the "self-fulfilling prophecy" will pop up.

One last thing: I did not understand Dymock's way of explaining the algorithm for finding the angle of the Ecliptic for any year. Let's put it in a general formula:

$$E = -((Y - 1900)/100 \times 0.01301) + 23.452294.$$
Herein is E the angle of the Ecliptic in the Year Y.
The average angle in the year 1942 would be, according to this formula:
23.4468298, which = 23°26'49".

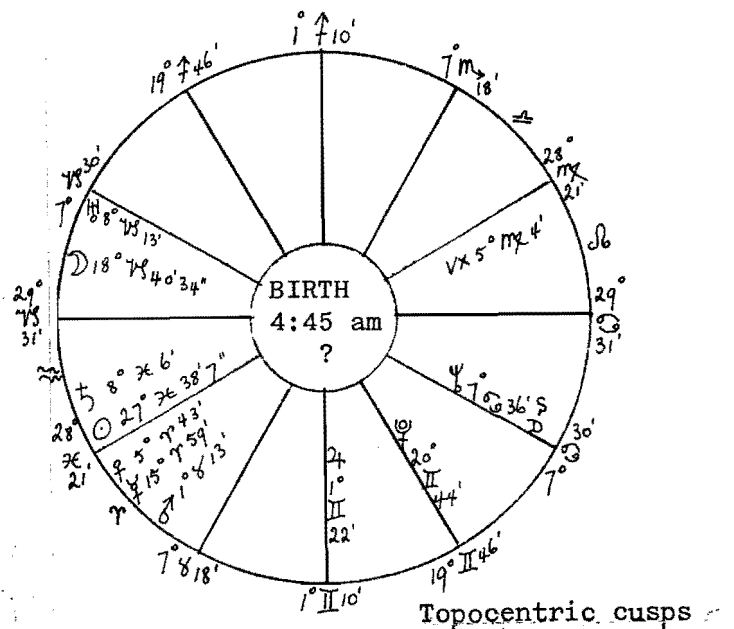

From Mr. E.S. CASELLI: In the Summer issue of The Australian Astrologers' Journal, I note that Mr. Rudolf Smit belittles Secondary Directions in favour of his Primaries. It is clear that he has not done the Converse Secondaries. Take the case of Eichmann. The Converse Sun is close to square radical Mars in Taurus, suggesting violence to the neck, while Converse Saturn is close to the square of the birth Meridian (taking the time of birth Smit prefers) as well as square Jupiter radical. This "T"-square between Converse Saturn, Jupiter radical and the Birth M.C. is consistent with a physical fall (Saturn) and the end of life and career by judicial sentence. This Jupiter on the Nadir is therefore not very friendly. I consider these indications more powerful than the Primary tredecile between Mercury and Saturn.

I do not associate Mercury with violence, particularly, and therefore the quintile series of aspects, derived from Mercury (the number five) also cannot be particularly violent in themselves.

I note that on the day Eichmann was hanged, Mercury (ruling radical 8th) was by transit in square to converse Mars, the transiting Mars was conjunct Mars radical and square Sun Converse (thereby activating Sun Converse square Mars radical) while the transiting Moon was approaching the radical 4th cusp and conjunct Jupiter Converse, square Saturn Converse.

Let us take Mr. "Y" (murdered after kidnapping). I note the Sun Converse was sesquiquadrate Saturn radical (one of the two villains - with Pluto straddling the Birth M.C.) while Mercury was similarly aspecting Pluto, the planet of kidnapping. Mercury sesq. Pluto may not immediately strike the eye but if the birth took place a mere two minutes earlier then Mercury would be the Ruler of the Chart. On the day of death, Uranus by transit was conjunct the Converse Mercury, suggesting that this position was important, and consistent with radical Uranus sesq. Birth Saturn.

EICHMANN, 19-3-1906, 7E4, 51N10 RAMC 15:56:8

In the case of the death by stabbing, the Secondary Directions are admittedly not so clear, but I note that the Converse Mars was approaching the Birth M.C. and it might well have been closer had birth taken place some minutes later. Interesting, also, is the position of Prog. Mercury (Secondary) which was almost exactly opposite both the Birth Mars and the Prog. Mars (which was close to its birth position). While I would not regard Mercury as so important in itself, unless it ruled the First, Eighth or Fourth Houses, this Mercury could well be regarded as a time pointer, especially since it is involved in the radical Sun/Pluto/Mars afflictions. By progression it is also at the apex or mid-point of those afflictions. We are not told if the lungs were attacked by the stabbing, in which case the Mercury indication would be clearer. Strangely, or perhaps not so strangely, this Mercury involvement is duplicated by the case of Mr. "Y" who had Mercury conjunct Sun/Mars at birth and sesq. Pluto by converse Secondary.

From ELVA HOWSON: I am never disappointed in the contents of The Australian Astrologers' Journal. The Summer issue was once again of a high standard and your wife's article re "Indications for Murder" was particularly interesting. However, I was disappointed to note the Vertex omitted from every chart in the issue. If we are ever to arrive at conclusions and judge the validity of this point surely we must observe it frequently in all various types of cases and events, the very presence of it's position (should this become common practice) could not help but draw attention to the role it plays.

Re Eichman: Vx natal at 5° Virgo opposite Saturn (his ruling planet) square Jupiter trine Mars and square 4th/10th cusps. In his S.R. Chart Vx natal conjunct Pluto SR opposite Mars SR opposite Mercury SR. Vx SR falls 29° Taurus conjunct 4th natal conjunct Jupiter natal square Moon SR square Uranus SR square Jupiter SR.

I am sure I don't have to point out to you that here is ample planetary representation for the events that took place. The other two cases (Mr X and Mr Y) are equally interesting, but I don't want to go into a lengthy dissertation.

Regarding your request for observations of Pluto in the Houses. I enclose a list of my own personal findings and will look forward to reading the overall observations from all contributors.

Thank you for including me on the mailing list for your Circular Letters. I will look forward to receiving them.

.....

(The point regarding the Vertex is well made. In future I shall include it in the charts. - Dymock.)

From JENIFER POMMERIN: The Circular Letters should be very productive. Yet I feel my standard in Astrology is too low to contribute anything worthwhile to those people who read the Letters. So, please omit my name from your list.

In reference to Gwyn Turner's comment (paragraph 5). If it hadn't been for people of her character who did struggle on against heavy odds, Astrology in Australia wouldn't be in such a healthy, and I think, on the whole, respected position that it now holds.

Enclosed are some stamps, as I must owe you some.

.....

(Jenifer underrates herself. She has made a number of thoughtful and worthwhile contributions to The Australian Astrologers' Journal. - Dymock.)

The current distribution of these Circular Letters is as follows:-

NEW SOUTH WALES

Keven Barrett, Allan Johnson, Ray Webb, Richard Sterling, Gwyn Turner, Joan McCulla, Gwyn Stoney, Austin Levy, Stephanie Higham, Victor Voets, Bob Stoney, E.S. Caselli. (12)

VICTORIA

Pamela Rowe, Maurice Silver, Rudolf Smit, Fred Alban, Erich K.K. Dressler, Elva Howson, Valerie Morison, Mrs. F.L. Lawton. (8)

QUEENSLAND

Gillian Murray, Roy Owen, Ron Gaunt. (3)

SOUTH AUSTRALIA

Ralph W. Holden, Bill Slape. (2)

WEST AUSTRALIA

Geoffrey Dean, Jenifer Pommerin, Ethel Webb. (3)

TASMANIA

Isobel Bell. (1)

A total of 29. I am willing to extend this list indefinitely to include anyone who has the interests and development of Astrology at heart.

If the absence of some names comes as a surprise to readers, they may be assured that it is not due to any discrimination on the part of the Editor, but to a total lack of response from the people concerned. Confirmation of the recipient's correct postal address would be accepted as a sufficient indication of interest, but lacking even this minimal response I have little option but to curtail fruitless expense.

Extension of distribution to New Zealand is being considered. It is a question whether slow mails would prevent useful participation by the New Zealanders.

- Dymock.
19/4/1982

NEXT MONTH: In the Circular Letter to be published on the 19th May, we shall take up the question of EXAMINATIONS IN ASTROLOGY. Your views, comments and suggestions are invited.

Consultant Astrologers
Dymock Brose Teacher and Researcher in Astrology
Marguerite Brose Diploma Fed. of Aust. Astrologers

19th March, 1982.

86 CLARENCE ROAD, BLACKHEATH, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA 2785

Dear Fellow Astrologer,

Hitherto these Circular Letters have been restricted to members of the F.A.A., but I feel the time has come to extend their circulation to any serious astrologer interested in the welfare and development of Astrology. This is a free service at my own expense, the object being to provide a ready means of communication between astrologers who have some contribution to make in the way of ideas, new techniques, criticisms, research, news, etc. I publish the Letters on the 19th of each month, and material for inclusion should preferably be received about a week before that date.

Contributions relating to any matter of astrological interest, and any branch of Astrology - Traditional, Ebertin, Uranian, Sidereal, etc. - are welcome. All letters will be published, no matter how critical, provided they do not descend to personal abuse. My own views are, of course, just as much open to criticism as anyone else's.

If you do not wish to participate in this venture, kindly advise me so that I may be spared unnecessary expense (about 65c per letter, for photo-copying, postage and stationery).

* * * * *

From GWYN TURNER: Many thanks for sending me a copy of "The Australian Astrologers' Journal" (Vol 5, Nr. 2). Your page "Notes & Comments" certainly shows the high standard that some of the old traditional astrologers achieved, such as Charles Jayne, who implied: The time that really matters to an astrologer and his subject is the time that correlates with what is happening in the life, whether or not that time can be identified as the moment of birth. In other words, a rectification that can show a true sequence of events.

I agree with Gwen Stoney's remark, that trying to use the tools of one system in another system does not work, and yet it is still particularly noticeable in the efforts of some students to combine traditional charts with Ebertin tools.

As I mentioned in your November Circular, there are too many systems coming up with different answers - take the three articles on William Holden's death - two in the December F.A.A. and one in your February Circular, all with a different answer, and mine yet to come in the March issue of F.A.A. with still a different answer (done, of course, by computer with the Progressed Event Calendar, and rectified).

As Astrology is a science for helping humanity both in character analyses, future trends and challenges, why is there not more effort shown in this direction? Results would soon show which system has the most scope.

Students to-day have never had it so easy. I am afraid I, starting in my teens, had to learn the hard way, particularly as most of my work was forecasting (of course to prove Astrology). In the years following one had to be so exact with predictions, so that work would follow through recommendation, as advertising in this field was not allowed, also if a client was not satisfied, the law being what it was at that time, the astrologer could be heavily fined, or even serve a prison sentence. All in all this compelled an enthusiastic astrologer to work hard in research in all directions of Astrology to get better and better results.

Like all sciences, books and theory are necessary to start with, but, as with medical students, practice on hundreds of subjects is necessary to become a good specialist, and even then some are born and not made, and I think the same applies to astrologers.

There is no doubt that with the advent of computers, astrologers will have more time to devote to the analysis of horoscopes. Perhaps this is why my second book, "The Complete Home Astrologer", written for computer charts has been so successful.

Having been published in four countries, it is about to be published in a fifth, the U.S.A., by Routledge & Kegan Paul.

* * * * *

RALPH HOLDEN sends the following clipping of Des Colquhoun's column in the "Adelaide Advertiser", with the comment, "It is a salutary reminder to us that prejudice is still deeply ingrained in our society, although perhaps generally not quite as vocal as it once was.":

"Astrology just a load of old Taurus. Oh, God save us - now it's the astronomers as well as the astrologers. An American observatory has issued a seven-page analysis to repudiate claims made in a book that the world will end on March 10 because all the planets will be roughly lined up on the same side of the Sun. It's true that astronomers are still babes in the wood in their own universe despite centuries of inspired observation, brilliant intellectual enterprise and help from equipment as awesomely complex as the very cosmos itself.

The information they've painstakingly accumulated is as mind-boggling as the celestial conundrums they have posed. And it sometimes seems that the more they discover the less they know.

However, I for one am prepared to accept the professional experts' view - to say nothing of milleniums of human experience - and to believe our world will still be here on March 11 even if a bunch of insignificant planets do get together for a galactic chat.

And I just wish those amateur or half-baked astronomers would go away to outer space and take their zany prognostications with them.

But not half as much as I wish those other nutty star-gazers, the astrologers, would go away. Now everyone is entitled to his own opinion. And everyone is entitled to fool himself into believing anything he wants to. And generally there's no great harm in playing nonsensical social games. But it is a curious thing, and a damn boring one, that the more informed and pragmatic we become, the more the childish superstition of astrology seems to flourish.

It is almost impossible to join any gathering these days without someone - and it's fact rather than prejudice which makes me say that it is usually a woman - asking what Zodiac Sign you were born under. Well, I neither know nor care, so they ask me my birthday, which is about the only date I ever remember, and that's probably only because it seems to occur more often than it used to.

'Oh, you're a Capricorn,' they say - or an Aries, Taurus, Gemini, Cancer, Leo, Virgo, Libra, Scorpio, Sagittarius, Aquarius or Pisces. And they then proceed to tell me that I am aggressive, imaginative, gentle, ambitious, loving, energetic, placid, artistic, phlegmatic, a born leader, creative, loyal or the whole meaningless lot. They tell me that, according to some unfounded astrological oracle, I should have married, or should marry, a Leo or an Aries or whatever illogical pairing their fancied system advocates.

And so on, ad boring nauseum. How otherwise perfectly intelligent, educated and informed people can place apparent credence on such primitive manipulation of a non-existent galactical occult I do not understand.

As I say, they're entitled to believe whatever nonsense they wish, and to formalise their inane faith into whatever foolish games they can devise. But I do wish they wouldn't stuff it down my neck and expect me to pander to their addled cosmography. I'd rather face a Hare Krishna or a Jehovah's Witness any day."

* * * * *

It's a safe bet that Des Colquhoun's grasp of Astrology is limited to what he has (unwillingly) heard at the gatherings he talks about. There's no harm in this sort of light conversation. After all, it's a more interesting subject to me and many others than football games, cricket results or the weather. That the talk represents a superficial view, and possibly a misinformed one, of an age-old study, is apparent to any one who chooses to dig below the surface with some independent research. But the Des Colquhoun's of this world (and they will always be with us) prefer not to be enlightened lest they forfeit the chance to score with a display of their prejudice. A man who doesn't want to be convinced, never will be. "Against stupidity the Gods themselves contend in vain."

A media-offering of a different calibre to the above column was the BBC's TV production on Astrology, shown on the ABC network early in February. This gave a fair-minded view of Astrology, and some of its practitioners, including well-known ones, at work. Evidence and views of scientists both for and against Astrology were presented. In the final result, Astrology came out ahead. — Dymock.

* * * * *

A news item from England: Dr WILLIAM TUCKER, the well-known (and controversial) British astrologer died on 9th December last. He was the author of many books and articles, used the fixed stars extensively, and considered rectification of the birth time imperative before delineation. Just prior to his death he had been collaborating with Geoffrey Dean and Arthur Mather on a section of "Recent Advances 2" — a review and assessment of his own work.

* * * * *

THE NETHERLANDS: (Reported in "Transit") "A Federation has been formed which will link the major astrological societies of the Netherlands, the aim of which is to promote and support astrological activity in the Netherlands linguistic area." This is a forward move. Unity is strength.

* * * * *

JOAN McCULLA writes to correct a misprint in Circular Letter No. 7 about the death of William Holden: The suggested time of 10.28 p.m. on 9th November, 1981, was not UT but local (Los Angeles) time, and the UT not 4.28 a.m. on 10th November, but 6.28 a.m., giving an Ascendant for the "death" Chart of 7^h 45', which is conjunct radical ♄ at 7^h 41' in William Holden's Nativity.

* * * * *

Now that electronic calculators and computers are inducing a higher order of accuracy in astrological charts, the precise worker will also want to have an exact figure for the Obliquity of the Ecliptic, which is used in just about every trigonometrical calculation associated with the horoscope. In the past we have mostly accepted 23°27' (23.45°) as being close enough, but the angle does vary over a period. For example, in 1900 the O.E. was 23°27'8", whereas in 1980 it was 23°26'31". Only a small difference, but significant when working with Primary Directions, which can now easily be refined down to accurate dates by the electronic means aforesaid.

A simple programme which can be readily adapted for programmable calculators such as the Casio FX-502P and FX-602P, and pocket computers such as the Sharp and Tandy, is the following:-

"YEAR?" Halt - 1900 = X .01 = Min 1 xY3 X .0017 - MR1 X 46.837
- MR1 x² X .0085 = Min2 23°27'8.26" + MR2 / 60x² =

In the above, at the first Halt enter the year in which you are interested. "X" means multiplied by, and "/" divided by. The final result comes out in decimal form, and can, of course, be reduced to sexagesimal notation if required. — Dymock.

* * * * *

KEVEN BARRETT is at present researching the Arabian Parts by progressing the traditional Midheaven and Ascendant, and using a midpoint system on the sixteenth harmonic. This brings out the event as indicated by the Arabian Part of the event. We hope to have an example to make this clear in our next Circular Letter.

* * * * *

A further excerpt from Henry C. Owen Jr.'s lecture of 1st May, 1971:

"It should be born in mind very clearly that all directions are conditioned by the state of the horoscope at birth. If a planet is fortunately aspected, free from affliction in the horoscope and located in a fortunate Sign and House, even serious directions to it, such as squares and oppositions will have only a limited power to harm, while good directions to it will mark periods of decided good fortune. And vice versa, with those which are heavily afflicted at birth; adverse directions to them will be serious and dangerous, and good ones will be restricted in their scope.

Two planets in good strong aspect at birth mark fortunate points in the horoscope throughout life, and two that seriously and closely afflict each other will always be a source of trouble or danger under adverse directions.

Some other points concerning the natal chart should be mentioned. The Signs occupied by each planet affect a permanent and intimate modification of its action, it is not Mars or Uranus as the case may be, but Mars in Pisces or Uranus in Libra for the whole life, and whatever other elements may intrude, the essential modification must not be forgotten. It is part of the planet's attributes so far as the map in question is concerned. When a planet progresses to a new Sign, the new Sign constitutes a secondary and temporary modification of the influence of the natal Sign. For example, to follow Mars in Pisces above, Mars might progress into Gemini, and this could lead to activity in working or thinking, Pisces in character expressed through Mercurial media. Such sub-influences may seem puzzling and involved, but careful analysis will usually disclose the probable manner of their action.

As for the Houses ruled and occupied, they are strictly the fields of operation for the planet and do not modify its action in any other way, unless perhaps very exceptionally indeed. Saturn in the 5th operates through 5th House affairs; thus, the effect will be that the native will prefer serious forms of relaxation.

The Sign occupied has a very concrete meaning, despite the common assertion that the Signs refer to the disposition. Thus, Saturn in Leo often shows disappointment through children, there may be none, or they may be sources of worry and loss.

Because of the controversy over the Houses from the natal point of view, the best plan is probably to allow fairly wide cuspal orbs.

From the point of view of probability, if something is indicated once in the natal chart there is a possibility of its actually happening in the native's life, if it is indicated twice there is a probability that it will happen, and that if it is indicated three times, the event will definitely happen."

* * * * *

Dymock Brose
Dymock Brose

V I R G O - S O F T W A R E

At last!

Now Australia has its own software-buro for astrological programmes for both

COMPUTERS AND CALCULATORS

We have and make available programmes for Apple-II, CBM (:PET) and other computers.

Programmes for programmable calculators such as HP-97, HP-67, HP-41C, and TI-58C + TI-59 are readily available.

...Reasonable prices...

Enquire at: Virgo-software (Dir. Rudolf Smit and John Rawson),
12 Rockcliffe Street,
ELTHAM, Victoria 3095, (03) 439 3447.

Consultant Astrologers
Dymock Brose Teacher and Researcher in Astrology
Marguerite Brose Diploma Fed. of Aust. Astrologers

19th February, 1982.

86 CLARENCE ROAD, BLACKHEATH, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA 2785

Dear Fellow Member,

Our last Circular Letter has sparked the following comments:-

From GWYN STONEY: I am glad to receive your Circular Letters, and enclose some postage stamps. I feel we should all make a donation to help your good work. I hope you keep it up.

The Solar Arc does work with Cosmobiology and Uranian Astrology if you put the work into them, including all transits and transiting midpoints. You'll get any method to work if you do it in detail and use calculator and computer to help.

I've seen astrologers use a bit of this and a bit of that method and include it in one chart. Astrology doesn't work that way; and why condemn other methods and think your's is the only one? I have done so much work in Uranian Astrology and Cosmobiology, and find Solar Arc does work exactly if you do it in detail. But I still try other methods and keep an open mind.

In the last Circular (No. 6) Rudolf Smit expressed the way I feel about astrologers and Astrology: "We still have a lot to learn, and must work together in the humble knowledge that we actually know nothing, that there is no absolute certainty in Astrology and its methods." I feel we are here only to know so much, and if we knew all the answers we wouldn't be here. So we should just try to learn as much as we can, and share with others. The more you give the more you'll receive.

(Here, Gwyn gives some interesting details concerning work she has done on the Azaria Chamberlain Chart, but as this matter is sub judice we cannot publish it at present. - D.B.)

From JOAN MCCULLA: If I do not put pen to paper immediately, the same thing will happen as before - the Circular Letter No. 6 put aside with the previous copies. This is not my natural self; for over a year I have been troubled by allergies, which certainly can be distressing. The tests proved 35 things.

I have so enjoyed the Circular Letters. It is a very good way to keep in touch.

Rudolf Smit's expression, "Astrology is over-populated with know-alls" is apt; I call it ego-tripping. A large dose of humility is in order.

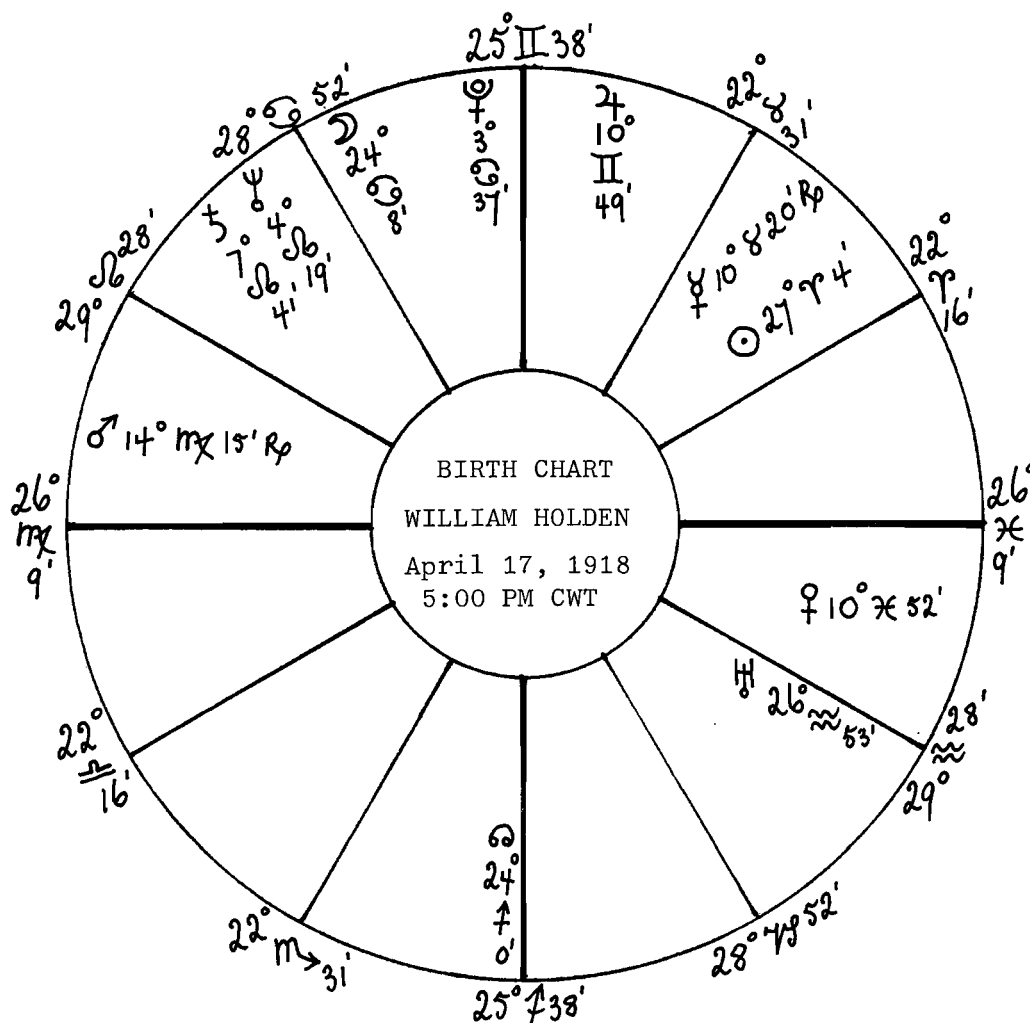

I am so tired of cases being printed with "birth data confidential". How can anyone check the work? In doing Cosmobiology time factors are so very important.

Or a lecturer is asked for data. Invariably the answer is, "Oh! I do not have it with me". How dare anyone be so smug? A total walk-out would be in order.

The research work I have compiled has been very fulfilling. For me, the Solar Arc progression plus transits gives a true answer to whatever event I am looking into. Cosmobiology is not for everyone, as shown by so few people using it. It certainly answers my questions of Astrology - how it pinpoints areas of importance in a person's life.

I have something I have been working on that I would like to share. In many, many cases of unusual events in certain charts I have found the transiting midpoint becoming exact to its Natal or Solar Arc position; e.g., the actor William Holden's unusual death. Birth data from Lois Rodden's American book of Charts: 17th April, 1918, C.W.T.; Solar Arc $61^{\circ}14'$. In Natal Chart $\delta/\mu 5^{\circ}34'$ or $20^{\circ}34'$. (Opposite point on the 90° wheel).

In the week prior to his being found, the transit at 10.28 p.m., ^{local time} $8^{\circ}41'$ on the 9th November, 1981, gave $\delta/\mu 20^{\circ}34'$ or $5^{\circ}34'$. (Opposite point on the 90° wheel). This time gave an ASC $7\delta 45 = \delta$ Radical $7\delta 41$; M.C. $29^{\circ}19' = \delta$ Radical $14^{\circ}15'$.

At the point of ♂/♂, we also have Transpluto radical 20° 24'; ♀/♀ rad. 20° 39'; ♀/♀ transit 21° 06' (for U.T. 2:28 am on 10/9/81) makes a pretty close square.

There is just so much in this exercise. I will try to curtail to important areas: ASC radical 26° 09', MC radical 25° 38' - a close square, with ♀ radical 10° 20' forming a square, the ASC and MC, the Moon by Solar Arc is at 25° 23', close to the Ascendant. ♀/♂, 10° 30', ♂/♀, 10° 20'.

The radical Moon has a Moon transit at this time and day, at 24° 12' - another close square.

ASC and MC by Solar Arc, 27° 24' and 26° 53' = radical ♀ 26° 53'; with ♀, ♀/♂ 27° 06', ♀/♂ 27° 17' (by polarity on the 90° wheel); ♀ by Solar Arc 11° 35' to ♂/♂ 10° 58' (polarity) - the death combination in all unusual deaths. I cannot answer why ♂/♂ = ♀ is rarely exact; there is anything up to a degree in this combination. ♂/♂ (24° 58') by Solar Arc, 27° 13' = ♀ radical, 27° 04', ♂.

I could go on and on, there is just so much. The relocated ASC and MC from where he was born to Santa Monica (118W30, 34N00) is also interesting. Lois Rodden give the birth place, O'Fallon, Illinois, as 38N36 89W58 (5 pm, CWT).

Stop! I could fill another three pages if let go. Although I feel the birth data are sound, my time, day and date of death are only speculative, but food for thought.

To keep these Circular Letters alive we need a continuing stream of correspondence. If you have some view to put forward, some ideas to discuss, some controversial issue on your mind or some experience that confirms, negates or modifies what others have declared, then please don't let it wait. Write now. The next Circular is due on 19th March.

Dymock Brose

Dymock Brose

Consultant Astrologers
Dymock Brose Teacher and Researcher in Astrology
Marguerite Brose Diploma Fed. of Aust. Astrologers

19th January, 1982.

86 CLARENCE ROAD, BLACKHEATH, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA 2785

Dear Fellow Member,

We start our Circular Letters for 1982 with a stimulating communication from the former Editor of a Dutch astrological journal.

From RUDOLF SMIT: Thank you for sending me the latest Circular Letter. Perhaps I can add a contribution to the general discussion.

First of all I wish to express my agreement with the idea of circular letters. These letters are, I would say, an alternative way of an astrological magazine, except that, in contradiction to a magazine, the communication between the readers becomes very lively and straightforward because of the personal touch. Hence this way of expressing ideas and changing opinions is much more effective than any astrological journal can be. So I really hope that this excellent initiative of Dymock will not die a slow death because of lack of interest!

Re your efforts to unite the two groups, I have the impression that such will be in vain. When I came out here, in September, 1981, I was very dismayed to discover that also in Australia the world of astrologers is split in two groups disliking each other. Whatever happened in the past I do not know exactly, but apparently it was of such a nature that, as long as the players of that piece of theatre played at that period still have a big role in the community of Australian astrologers, we can forget about a possible unification of the two groups.

It always depresses me to see that adult people can fight like children, but that seems to be human, so what can you do about it? Mind you, I am not pointing to anyone - as an outsider I was not involved in whatever way - but it is a general conclusion. Wherever there are people there seems to be fighting, especially when people form groups around certain figures with charisma. Astrologers all over the world are no exception to that. I have experienced that myself, to my deep distress, when I played a leading role in the astrological community of Holland.

I have the feeling that because of the special nature of astrology, splits between astrology groups in general and individual astrologers in particular are perhaps more conspicuous than anywhere else. I have the impression that the world of astrology is over-populated with know-alls, with religious fanatics (i.e. people who see astrology, and especially those "divine revelations" brought to the world by great "masters", as a sacred science or sacred source of knowledge), and so on, whereas we all have to realise that astrology in this era is only at the very beginning of a new development.

Though astrology is already thousands of years in existence, it is only at present that we see an enormous revival which, because of new technology like computers, makes it possible to evaluate and re-evaluate astrological postulations. And indeed, as the monumental work of Geoffrey Dean shows very clearly (though I certainly do not agree with every conclusion in it), a tremendous lot of those "sacred" astrological postulations seem to have no basis at all! I realised that some years ago when I bought my first programmable calculator, and after development of the appropriate programmes set out to test the claims by old astrology and so many authorities in astrology; for example, different systems of progressions.

I had to discover, to my dismay, that the most widely used system of progression, the Secondary Directions, has no real value at all. I tested several hard events, exactly on date, and found, in most cases, no connection at all. Whereas at first I had believed in them, because I had some nice examples in my own life, the so-called "state-horses" every astrologer has. This and many other matters made me realise that we still have a lot to learn, which simply implies that we, all of us, must work together, in the humble knowledge that we actually know nothing, that there is no absolute certainty in astrology and its methods, hence we have to set out finding the truth, thereby forgetting our own biases, our own assumptions, and so on.

It is not for nothing that we devised Article 11 of the Ethical Code of the NGPA (Society of Professional Astrologers in Holland) which says that every astrologer must realise his or her fallibility. As so nicely translated by Marguerite Brose: "...Every form of dogmatism is frowned upon... In this a role is played by devotion to research, as well as the recognition of one's own fallibility; respect for ideas, as well as for the person who presents them on rational grounds; and the wish to convince others as well as the readiness to be convinced..." I am afraid that many astrologers in this world know only one way of communication: Try to convince others - but don't listen to those others.

Anyway, seen in the light of what I just said I can only heartily agree with Gwyn Turner who says that too much material is made up of theories and suppositions, and that all articles in any journal should provide ample proof of the postulations. From what I have seen so far in the FAA-Journal of such articles, this proof was lacking almost completely. But this does not mean that I have ever found the FAA-Journal a bad magazine. I have perused several magazines from all over the world and the FAA Journal does not make a bad impression when compared to these others!

And as the Editor for four years of "Tijdschrift Astrologie", now "Wetenschap en Astrologie", considered to be the best astrological magazine in Holland, (sorry, I am stating a fact; I realise that for many people "own fame stinks" - a Dutch expression), I know very well how difficult it is to get any issue out in time, and how nasty it is to chase up contributors, and what a bad job it is to refuse contributions or to alter them. Nevertheless, I have always found it extremely rewarding to bring out magazines, and when I brought the lot to the post-office I had forgotten about all the trouble. Maybe the fact that I have had a professional training in journalism, and have authored some books on photography and astrology, and was the managing editor of a monthly photo-magazine, explains a lot. As I have some time now - after all, I try to be a professional astrologer full-time - I am quite willing to dive into editing again. So if the Queensland branch finds it hard to bring out FAA-Journals, I am willing to accept that job. As for age, I am 40 - perhaps that is young enough (see letters Allan Johnson and Drew Dawson)?

As for the contents of a magazine, I disagree with the idea of short, and hence superficial articles. Any magazine may contain one or a few short articles, that is articles which provide light reading, containing a bit of entertainment; but it is also a provider of ideas, of hints, of hunches. But indeed, as any society has to rely on its means of written communication, i.e. a journal, (and the Australian community of astrologers in particular, because of the enormous distances in this country, it can't be otherwise), a journal must also have the nature of a textbook, hence in-depth articles, and expression of opinions, and results of (serious!) investigations.

I agree with Dymock where he says that the contents of a magazine must form an interconnected discussion. However, that is not always possible. Indeed, one can bring in a controversial article, but that does not guarantee that a discussion will follow. After all, let's face it, most astrologically interested people don't go further than their own chart, or the charts of their family!

Most astrologically interested people have no real scientific interest either. That's why, for instance, thorough articles on Primary Directions and their mathematical aspects, fall on deaf ears - it is simply beyond the scope of most people interested in astrology. In this respect, I have found it very disturbing that often in discussions the topics do not go further than Sun-Sign astrology, even with members of the FAA. (I mean people are still too often referred to their Sun-Sign only, or their Ascendants, whereas every astrologer should know that a personal horoscope is far more complex than the Sun-Sign, Moon-Sign, or Ascendant only!) In this respect, that formidable piece of work by Geoffrey Dean et al is far beyond the scope of most astrologically-minded people, too. Hence, most astrologers ignore it, some are absolutely hostile towards it, and others, of a very high-brow level, are willing to start discussions that almost no one can follow...

It seems that I am contradicting myself now: I am very much in favour of a high-standard magazine. Sure, but I realise the difficulties connected with it. Hence one can try for a compromise: Some short, slightly superficial articles, and then a few in-depth articles. My experience in the world of journalism shows me that such an editorial formula works. Not to the satisfaction of everyone, of course, but in general, it will do well. By the way, also an occasional joke is always good in a magazine. This one for instance:

"Old astrologers never die they just cross cusp eight".

From ALLAN JOHNSON: Your last Circular Letter made reference to Geoff Dean's competition on proof of Sun-Signs. I correctly anticipated that nobody would win the prize. A lot of those who entered didn't seem to be actually dealing with that particular question at all. Nobody really came to grips with the question. I think most failed to appreciate the magnitude of what they were attempting.

But why single out Sun-Signs? Wouldn't we find the very same difficulty with a host of other astrological factors regularly employed by astrologers? Could we really prove the validity of Houses for instance, or of orbs or aspects, or progressions, or the meaning of retrograde planets? So in the nature of things an astrologer is regularly using a whole lot of items in his daily work which would be extremely difficult if not impossible to prove objectively. For one thing nothing in chart work is dealt with in isolation, yet if we wanted scientific proof of any factor in astrology, this is precisely what we would have to do. We would have to extract a given factor (such as Sun-Sign meanings) out of context and deal with it on a statistical basis with several hundred cases.

We would have to show that certain specific characteristics or way of life identified with each Sun-Sign. And they would have to apply in a ratio well above chance. This would have to be done by ignoring all modifying circumstances, such as powerful conjunctions to the Sun, or House positions which might give more weight to the Ascending Sign, or heavy concentrations in other Signs and so on. In any case we would always have the contrasting or supporting effect of the Ascendant. So on a statistical basis Sun-Signs might not show up on such an impressive scale - but the whole exercise in itself could be very misleading.

Firebrace did do a statistical analysis on occupations, but he had to use the assumption that the occupation is shown by the Sun-Sign. This seems an entirely unwarranted assumption in the first place, so his whole case had to fall apart. I think the method that most working astrologers rely on in these sorts of decisions about the validity of this or that would be by day to day observation. If you are interviewing you register impressions of each person and of course get quite a bit of information about their life style. I have found it quite remarkable how people can be so typical of their Sun-Signs. But of course in consultative work there is not the time to do organised research work at the same time. I would think that most professionals like myself do find these Sun-Signs can be pretty reliable guides. If they seem not to figure then there is usually strong contra-factors in the chart, such as a Sagittarian with a heavy emphasis on Fixed Signs. The same type of first-hand experience would equally apply to other factors in chart work. But nothing works 100%. It is not really possible for this type of thing to be sufficiently documented to be convincing from a statistical or scientific point of view. So I think Sun-Signs are going to remain unproved - but continue to be used by all astrologers.

From MARGUERITE BROSE: According to Jung, we grow through tensions within us. We can find these opposing forces in the Horoscope. But if we then take only one aspect of this set-up we find any one particular influence will mostly be countered more or less by others, making isolation of any one factor almost impossible. Growth is the result of struggle between opposing or inharmonious forces. One may well be asked to prove cold or hot water. They are only so in relation to one another.

From ROY OWEN: There was an article on W. Holden using Primary Directions by Smit that doesn't explain how it is calculated; from looks I figured that it was the mundane calculation but mine don't agree with his. R.A. makes more sense to me.

I wrote to Geoff. Dean some years ago: I find rulerships work so well, yet they are so illogical - a planet couldn't rule a Sign (stars), more likely Sign rules planet.

I am a bit disappointed with the present state of the FAA as there are more tarot readers in view than astrologers. I dislike magazines that are supposed to be about Astrology printing everything else but.

There are lots of things I could comment on, but later.

RICHARD STERLING signifies his interest, is joining the F.A.A., and sends a contribution towards expenses. (Thank you!) Richard is at present engaged on much work with horoscopes of nations and we are both conscious of the marked lack of reliable "birth" data. There is a great need here for specialized research, which seems to have been much neglected over the past decade or two. Any contribution in this field would be welcomed, especially as regards the Charts of the USSR, Israel, Poland, Italy, China and the South American republics.

The controversy regarding the relative importance of the Sun-Sign and the Rising Sign continues. I personally attach much more weight to the Ascendant in most charts, and totally disagree with those writers who declare that the Rising Sign (and planets) show only the "persona", or mask, over the native's real nature, which they attribute to the Sun-Sign. Granted that the Sun-Sign is sometimes the more important of the two, as when reinforced by a stellium of planets, or strongly placed at the Midheaven.

Here is an excerpt from a letter by P.R. Lewis-Bizley in the latest issue of the English, "The Astrological Journal". He is referring to a new periodical, "Correlation", which approaches Astrology from a technical and scientific point of view: "...One simple example which appalled me was the attempt (in the first issue of "Correlation") to correlate temperamental traits with Sun-Signs; surely this is mere Sun-Sign astrology which I would think is rejected by all worthwhile astrologers. The Sun represents the life motivating and vitalising force and (in my 50-odd years' experience of astrology) has very little to do with temperament unless it is otherwise connected e.g. with Ascendant or Ruler; and indeed many people I would say fail to respond to their Sun-Signs altogether in this incarnation."

While on this subject, it is interesting to note that some people respond even more to the Sign at the Midheaven of their Chart than to either the Ascendant or the Sun-Sign. Would anyone deny the power of Cancer in the nativity of Winston Churchill? (Chart given below). I believe too little attention is paid to the MC from the character point of view, though there is some nonsense written about it by "psychological" writers indulging their fantasies drawn from modern psychology or merely their own imagination.

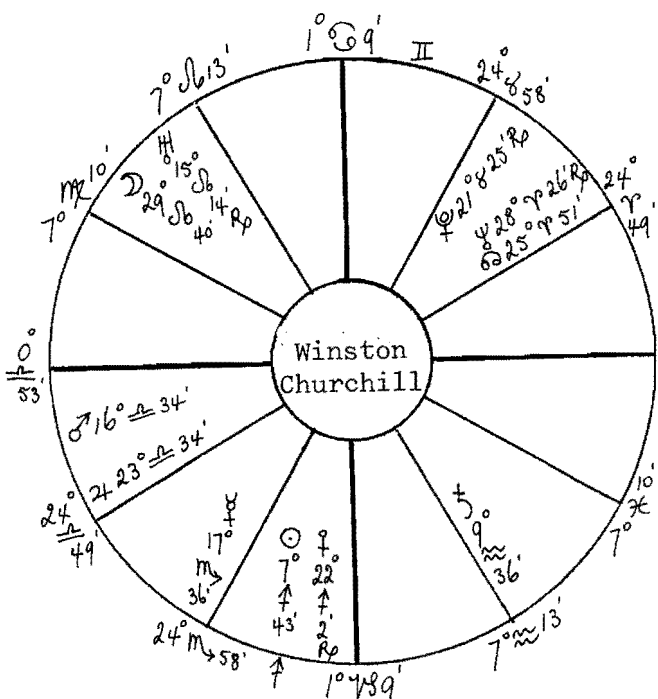

Distribution to:- Keven Barrett, Pam Rowe, Allan Johnson, Ron Gaunt, Ray Webb, Roy Owen, Geoffrey Dean, Gillian Murray, Gwyn Turner, Austin Levy, Bill Slape, Joan McCulla, Gwyn Stoney, Ralph Holden, Rudolf Smit, Richard Sterling and John Clark.

Dymock Brose

Dymock Brose

20th January, 1982

Source: The American Book of Charts

Consultant Astrologers
Dymock Brose Teacher and Researcher in Astrology
Marguerite Brose Diploma Fed. of Aust. Astrologers

27th November, 1981.

86 CLARENCE ROAD, BLACKHEATH, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA 2785

Dear Fellow Member,

Since the distribution of Circular Letter No.4 on 26th October, the following interesting communications have been received:-

From BILL SLAPE: Sorry I have been "so long-winded" in replying to your most welcomed circular. I have been plagued by sickness in the family plus the passing away of my mother, and this alone has left me disorganized both mentally and emotionally, and being the only one in the family, gave me those unhappy responsibilities that always follow that big crisis. However, when I again become organized I wish to write to you more fully and perhaps I could be of some help to you in some way. In closing I wish to compliment you on your journal and the extensive efforts you are making in attempting a reunification of the two major Astrological organizations. P.S. Please find enclosed $5.- to help your expenses.

We commiserate with Bill in his troubles and bereavement and hope the future will be happier; and we thank him for his contribution to expenses.

From GWYN TURNER: Many thanks for your circulars endeavouring to stimulate writers for the F.A.A. Journal. However, I do feel that material that is made up of theories, suppositions etc, does little good, although it may get the Journal out on time and no doubt is very enjoyable for those on ego trips. I feel that all articles should be accompanied by examples of proof, particularly as so many systems are in vogue. How will Astrology ever be recognized as a science, when each system comes up with a different answer? This must be very confusing to the student and although I have seen an increase in membership of the F.A.A. during my eleven years as a member, do these members stay interested?

I do feel that we should push forward the system that gives the greatest proof of Astrology. The traditional system I find gives the most scope, such as rectifying a birth time, the very essence of Astrology and absolutely necessary for accurate forecasting. Even here there is confusion over which method is best to progress the M.C. and Asc. for rectification:- the Solar Arc, the One-Degree method or the traditional Sidereal method. Research would soon decide this, but does anyone ever bother? If they did they would soon find that the Solar Arc method as against the traditional Sidereal method brings the progressed M.C. anywhere around 13 to 15 months earlier in contacting a birth planet, and in consequence fails to predict an event to time. The traditional method also gives scope for finding the prenatal epoch, and thus verifying the Ascendant Sign.

My comments only give a bird's eye view of the inconsistencies surrounding Astrology to-day, and unless more research is done to remedy this, Astrology will advance at a snail's pace. I gave a rather lengthy lecture at the International convention Jan. 25-28, 1980, on the difference in timing events by the two methods already mentioned. It was a fifty-year progression of Elizabeth Taylor's Horoscope, done by computer for both the Solar Arc and traditional Sidereal Primary Directions. Having first matched events of her life by her biographies. There are also several articles in the F.A.A. Journal on this matter: "A Classic case of rectification" of Alan Leo, April, 1976, Journal. "Applying Rectification Technique" 3 Charts, October, 1973, Journal. "Finding Birth Time" of Gough Whitlam, time unknown by letter to me. Birth time found by biography, then progressed showing Primary Directions for his downfall sometime before it happened. (October 1975 Journal). "Finding Birth Time" of Malcolm Fraser, Article published in January, 1976, Journal, before I received a letter from him with approximate time of birth, practically matching mine.

I entirely agree with Gwyn Turner regarding rectification of Charts. In the last issue of the Australian Astrologers' Journal I wrote: "On the matter of Rectification, the most accurate, but also the most difficult, method, is by Primary Directions, that is the Primary Directions as developed by Polich and Page in Argentina. This system is without peer for accuracy and general utility, but can be usefully supplemented by the method of axial rotation of the Solar Return Chart. These techniques are all made much easier now by computers and programmable calculators. I once had great hopes for rectification of a birth time by the Pre-Natal Epoch, (or Trutine of Hermes), but found to my sorrow that it gave only approximate results, and had to be discarded."

The measure by Solar Arc I have tried, tested and discarded. It is hopeless for anything like precision. The simple "One-Degree" progressions are better.

From ALLAN JOHNSON: First, I don't agree with Ray Webb's suggestion of reducing the number of issues of the F.A.A. Journal to one or two a year with sketch-type articles. If this were done most of the subscriptions would lapse. We do need in-depth articles without being altogether too heavy or technical. I think if you go too far in any one direction you lose readers. My aim while Editor was to try to balance things out to suit all tastes, that is within the bounds of the material available. I don't think an Editor should necessarily publish an article simply because he likes it himself, but rather he should gauge what the readers want. I don't think the "gossip-column" type of magazine like "Mercury Hour" could ever survive in Australia. The number of personalities on the Astrological scene in the U.S. is enormous, and besides they do have the more serious magazines. So "Mercury Hour" does fill a need. What can kill a Journal is too many articles of the one type. I think the March issue was just about too much for everybody concerned.

When questions like, "Why do we have a Journal at all?" come up, I think we have to go back to the real reason for starting the F.A.A. in the first place. The reasons for founding the F.A.A. were three-fold:- (1) to start a national magazine, (2) to run National Conferences (3) to conduct examinations. These were what all the discussions were about when the founders got together. So the Journal was really the major primary reason for the very existence of the F.A.A. The setting up of State Branches was never discussed initially and was very much an after-thought. Actually the State Branches were only duplicating what was already being done by the astrological societies in existence at that time, and were never even set up in most of the States until many years later.

So basically what F.A.A. membership has actually meant has simply been subscriptions to the Journal. Right to this day the great majority of members are purely Journal subscribers and don't have much contact with local branches, if any. So we can't discontinue publication of the Journal without to a very large extent dismantling the organization itself. This is something to keep in mind.

Austin Levy's letter was also interesting, with his reference to Drew Dawson's letter. This letter was really too foolish to merit any editorial comment, but I put it in because I thought it might stir up a few controversial letters - which is grist to the mill of every Editor. But I failed to get a single nibble. But no letter is so stupid it doesn't have some sensible ideas. The three main points I think Drew was making were: (1) that we need younger Editors (2) that we need younger writers (3) that we need more innovating ideas. With each of these three points I would agree 100%. When I took over the Journal in late '79 I did make a call in two following editorials for readers to write in with their ideas and suggestions of how to improve the Journal. Only one letter came in response with a suggestion for a series of articles the author wanted to write - but those articles remain still unwritten! So this is the sort of situation.

Successive Editors have had to rely pretty heavily on articles from older astrologers simply because there was nothing else coming in. So the question arises, why aren't the younger generation contributing more, writing articles, volunteering on the editorial side, or coming up with new ideas generally? The opportunity has always been there. No article is going to be knocked back unless it is in very poor shape indeed, and certainly not because of innovating ideas. I don't think editing the Journal for maybe two or three years is going to kill anybody. To the younger astrologer with journalistic ambitions it represents a very good opportunity to see his work in print, even if there is no payment. And editing a journal like this can be a very worthwhile experience to the person himself from a purely practical point of view. So why aren't there more takers? A lot of younger people have gone into astrology professionally, but this is not an easy profession to survive in, so maybe this makes too many demands in itself. But the future of the Journal does depend on a younger Editor coming forward.

One more point, and that is the reference to Geoff Dean's "Recent Advances". This has been on the market almost four years now and I think I am the only one who has given it even a brief mention in the Journal. Yet over the period in England's "Astrological Journal" there has been a pretty constant series of controversial letters about it. So it has had quite a long and thorough exposure. So are Australians less able to debate in these types of controversies? Why do we fall down? It could be there is a more established professional astrological community in England who like to be in the forefront of things. Maybe here we have too much of a floating population in Astrology, who don't have the confidence for such discussion. I don't think Editors are necessarily to blame. It needs people to start the ball rolling - and Austin Levy himself has been remiss on this.

Yes, I found "Mercury Hour" to be wearisome reading because of the spate of words and minimal content of useful Astrology. I could not spend time ploughing through the unending chatter in the hope of lighting on something of real value. As Allan says, it may fill a need in the U.S.A. which, being primarily under Gemini, revels in verbose communication of superficial thoughts. I endorse Allan's remarks about the need for the Journal. If this publication folds up, or loses its readers because of poor content, the whole F.A.A. structure is in danger of foundering. I was amused by Drew Dawson's letter, which I thought slightly ridiculous with its extravagant language and mixed-up ideas. But Allan's charitable view is right; with an effort, one can extract some points from the letter that do need answering, otherwise it appears that we have all tacitly agreed with the writer. Well, an effective answer has now been made.

The lack of connected discussion in the Journal is a short-coming that has always surprised me. Someone writes an article, perhaps bringing forward some new material, making some controversial points, or simply relating a personal experience of astrological interest, and however interesting, helpful, well-informed or otherwise the article may be, it simply falls flat. It seems to fall on deaf ears - no one bothers to comment on it, add to or qualify it. So far as stimulating discussion is concerned, it might just as well never have been written. Is not one of the functions of a community of astrologers to take up each other's ideas, to discuss, enlarge, modify, rebut or endorse them, in the light of individual knowledge and experience? We are all dependent to some extent on one another - no man can live to himself alone; we all want to be good astrologers; so let us be generous and giving in the matter of sharing our individual knowledge and expertise for the common cause.

Geoffrey Dean's monumental work "Recent Advances in Natal Astrology" has perhaps seemed too formidable for the average astrologer to tackle. However, his scepticism about the Zodiacal Signs, and concentration on the planets, is worthy of attention. Any comments?

As we have some space available in this Circular, I am including an excerpt from a lecture given by Henry C. Owen Jr. on 1st May, 1971, at the National Astrological Society Conference, New York University:

"It is a golden rule in forecasting that no direction can bring about what is not first of all inherent in the natal chart. This is the basic principle of forecasting work and admits of little, if any, modification.

However, the basic question arises as to what indeed is inherent in the natal Chart. Some of these are briefly listed as follows:

(1) Which Zodiac to use? The Tropical which most astrologers use or the Sidereal which the Hindu astrologers use and have used for centuries, as well as many in the Occidental world? Also, some astrologers use the heliocentric, rather than geocentric. The present writer uses the Tropical Zodiac.

(2) Should Houses be used? Some astrologers do not use Houses although most do.

(3) If Houses are used, what kind should be used? Allied to this question, is the question of whether the cusp of a House is the beginning or centre of the House.

(4) There are conflicts between astrologers as to what both Houses and planets signify.

(5) There are also conflicts as to which aspects should be used in both natal analysis and forecasting. Two German schools recognise only the conjunction, opposition, square and the 45° and the 135° angles. Charles Carter stated that he thought there was an aspect every 15° , to which this speaker agrees.

(6) Whether there are "good" and "bad" aspects, or whether the essential nature of the planets involved solely determines their expression. The student should note how the meanings of aspects expressed in astrological works have evolved over the centuries reflecting the fact that mankind itself has evolved.

(7) Whether or not planets represent things and persons plus other things, or whether they denote only a state of consciousness or awareness.

(8) Whether or not some events are, or are not, denoted astrologically, such as an accident or tragedy that kills hundreds.

(9) Whether the Part of Fortune and North Node of the Moon should be used. What indeed does the natal chart portray. It is possible to delineate character from the natal chart with considerable accuracy up to a certain point. Mannerisms, temperament, outlook, habits and health may all be more or less completely described by a competent astrologer.

Unquestionably destiny, the second great division of astrological work, can likewise be delineated, with as much certainty as temperament. Mental and spiritual astrology may alter the temperament; but it seems as if, once born, the soul is bound to a certain type of destiny almost, if not quite inexorably. By this, I do not mean an absolute fatalism but that the broad outline of our life is fairly fixed. As rational beings we shall always have a freedom of choice but there will also be a fatal element in our lives which is shown in the natal chart.

In the spiritually undeveloped person, this fatal element is everything - or almost so. It sways his choices and his actions; he floats with the stream of stellar influences. In the more spiritually advanced type, the fatal element becomes less and less important. One gains, first of all, control over his own interior nature and then, perhaps, over his bodily functions, and finally over his environment. The saint, perhaps, will be so eager to make inner progress that he will neglect all else, but integral development must call for a complete unfoldment and a gaining of power over the external as well as the internal.

But for the great majority, the fatal side of the horoscope will be much in evidence and the main character and course of the external life, as well as nine-tenths of the inner life, may be extracted from the natal chart.

The natal chart has been compared to a set of tools, which to some extent condition the work produced by the craftsman, who is the ego behind the chart. But a good and patient craftsman can produce valuable work with inferior instruments, whereas a lazy and inefficient workman makes little use of even good implements. Thus, it is said, that we cannot, without a knowledge of the essential self behind the horoscope, say with certainty what the result of life's activities will be. Theosophists express it that they must know the "age of the soul"; this, they say, is not contained in any horoscope."

There is plenty of room for discussion in the above. Any comments will be welcomed and circulated, possibly leading to an article or letter from the writer concerned that the Journal Editor would be pleased to have.

These Circulars now have a reduced circulation, in line with my declared intention in the last one to cease distribution to those recipients who have shown no interest. The mailing list is now as follows:-

Keven Barrett, Pamela Rowe, Allan Johnson, Ron Gaunt, Ray Webb, Roy Owen, Geoffrey Dean, Gillian Murray, Gwyn Turner, Austin Levy, Bill Slape, Joan McCulla, Gwyn Stoney, Ralph Holden, Rudolf Smit.

If anyone has a suggestion regarding a name to be added to the list - a member interested enough to join in the discussions or make a comment on astrological matters from time to time - please let me have it.

Dymock Brose
-Dymock Brose

29th November, 1981

Consultant Astrologers
Dymock Brose Teacher and Researcher in Astrology
Marguerite Brose Diploma Fed. of Aust. Astrologers

26th October, 1981.

86 CLARENCE ROAD, BLACKHEATH, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA 2785

Dear Fellow Member,

In this Circular Letter No.4 there are five more thoughtful and helpful letters from interested members of the F.A.A. The response is gratifying, and these Circulars are obviously filling a need.

From RAY WEBB: I would like to thank you for keeping me informed on your feelings relating to the idea of the two major Astrological organisations getting together - personally, I think it's a highly commendable idea. I certainly look forward to the time when there is a reunification... I feel that there is room for many Astrological organisations in Australia and not all of them need be Nation-wide. Some could specialise in a certain type of research, some could concentrate on people, training, ethics, etc.

What keeps a problem alive is the petty attitude adopted by some of our better known astrologers who apparently delight in sniping at each other and actually going into print on the matter. As long as I control Review Astrological Monthly, it will never publish anything against any astrologer, or astrological club, or association - if well known astrologers have a difference of opinion on a matter, they should simply agree to disagree and let it go at that... if outsiders see in-fighting, many will elect to remain outside organised astrology and develop alone.

The mess with the Journal can only be resolved when the job of arrangement, layout, typesetting and printing (and mailing) is handled from either Sydney, or Melbourne on a permanent basis - it is amateurish that an organisation like the F.A.A. has been running so late with its official publication this year. Only Sydney, or Melbourne can get it out on time and at a fair price. It matters not where the Editor lives (Darwin if you like) for the Editor should simply be responsible for the writing etc.

Personally, I consider the F.A.A. Journal should be published only once, or twice a year and that it should be bigger and should contain sketch-type articles and not in-depth jobs such as was the case several years ago. The recent change of style (under the new Editor) is not really for me either, (written before the June issue - D.B.) because it's far too mysterious and not meaty enough - still, I congratulate Susie Chamberlain for having the guts to get up and have a go - under her editorship at least something has begun to happen.

I cannot comment on "The Australian Astrologers Journal" for I have never seen a copy and have never been approached to join the Australian Astrologers Cooperative... I would be happy to apply for membership if I were asked.

To summarise Dymock, I think Astrological Associations are like religions - some are right and some are wrong - mostly however they are all a little right and a little wrong and no Astrological Association (big or little) has any title to secret knowledge, or methods that cannot be equally owned by all. I further believe that whenever an Astrologer puts down another Astrologer, or Astrological Association in public, she/he cuts off a part of her/his inner soul... this is, I emphasise, my personal opinion... criticism should be made face to face - on the phone, or by letter to the person, or people concerned only - your idea of a circular to a select group is endorsed by me - I feel the people you have selected will hold your confidence even if they do not all comment.

From AUSTIN LEVY - (in London at the time of writing): Thanks for sending the latest Circular (No 3), which arrived the other day. At first I was disappointed that you had not published any of my comments, but then realised that the bulk of my objections about the FAA Journal were contained in the letter I wrote to Susie Chamberlain, and which was never printed, or replied to, despite the fact that no negative statements about the new editorial regime were in the letter! So please feel free to quote anything from this letter, if you so wish, for future Circulars.

Although my original letter to Susie Chamberlain contained things which would be dated by now, as it was essentially a reply to a scorching letter from Drew Dawson criticising the Journal under Allan Johnson, I did not disagree with all of his points, but took exception to his remark that the Journal "served no useful purpose anyway" or words to that effect. In addition to rebutting this particular point I also took the time to make some points of my own, a couple of which I feel are still relevant, and are therefore worth hearing.

Before doing so, though, I would like to make a couple of observations about the March 1981 issue of the Journal, which I received on the eve of going to London; so I did not have a proper chance to assess it until some time later, although my initial first impression was quite favourable (e.g. better paper, typesetting etc), until I finally got to read it! It was reminiscent of B-grade American astrology conference talks I have witnessed; that is, mostly a lot of hot air! I have nothing against symbolism and in fact I am very sympathetic to its cause in astrology, as I see it having a complementary function to hard-headed research - they need each other as insurance against excessive speculation or obsessive empiricism as the case may be - but to fill a Journal with only one type of article is just stupid, and plainly, suicidal! I haven't seen the next issue, but feel comforted somewhat from your remarks that the style of contents was modified in the direction of research. I hope that a more balanced editorial stance prevails in the future.

But let me return to my original thread - suggestions for the improvement of the Journal. Firstly, I would like to know why the FAA Journal has never run anything even resembling a forum/symposium/critique of Geoff Dean's monumental work, RECENT ADVANCES IN NATAL ASTROLOGY? I say this, not because I agree with everything the book contains or says, but because to ignore it, as the Journal undoubtedly has (or perhaps more correctly, Australian astrologers), is like astronomers ignoring a supernova explosion: quite simply, it is the biggest thing that has happened in astrology for a long time, and it seems fitting that a Journal such as ours should give it exposure accordingly, and give everyone a chance to argue pros and cons to their heart's content. Not only is this the stuff of a stimulating, vital Journal, it also fills space, something which seems to have become a problem over recent years for FAA editors.

My next point is regarding the problem of contributions to the Journal (more correctly, lack of same!). Having contributed regular articles last year to the Journal, I understand the problem of writing only too well, and of trying to meet deadlines with articles, but I think it is something that simply requires discipline on the part of a contributor, and can be learned. My suggestion for partial solution to this problem, for it cannot ever be total, is that each State branch of the FAA ensure that an article is forthcoming from among their ranks each issue; this alleviates the situation of "action by Committee" (i.e. non-action) which Allan Johnson described so succinctly, because there is still an Editor who has final say, and yet removes the almost unbearable pressure put on the hapless Editor in normal circumstances. Obviously this system would have to be applied with some degree of flexibility, as contributions will not always flow in a completely even way, but unless the editorial responsibility is diffused to some extent, given the chronic nature of the present situation, the Journal is not going to have a happy future - there will always be some poor mug killing himself to make it a reality!

Finally, I would also like to see a re-unification of astrological groups in Australia, as it does seem a waste of resources to have parallel organisations doing essentially the same thing. Astrology has enough enemies without, so it hardly needs the ones within the field! There is simply too much important work to be done for the development of Astrology to be bogged down in such petty machinations and issues. I have spoken to Charles Harvey, of the Astrological Association of GB, and he is quite favourable towards the idea of the FAA Journal taking occasional articles from the AA Journal over here. That's something I'll be looking into further before I leave the UK.

From RALPH W. HOLDEN: Thank you for your trouble in sending me the first two copies of your Circular Letter, and also for your own personal letter to me. I appreciate your concern regarding the FAA Journal, which does appear to lack the "fire" of its earlier years. Perhaps this is a function of age, and of a relatively restricted circle of potential writers for it. I must confess that I have been slack in this area, and you have at least prodded me into the production of a small effort which may (or may not) be of value to its Editor. Certainly there is considerable value in the kind of Circular Letter which you have taken the trouble to produce. There is often a need to exchange or debate ideas with others before one "goes public" in a Journal. Your Letter could certainly serve this purpose. I suppose that my fear would be that there could develop a tendency to limit one's output to such contributions, which would in the end impoverish the Journal. Presumably the opposite effect to the one which we would desire.

With regard to the other matter which you raised, the Polich and Page system of Primary Directions, I have not received any reply to my letter written in February to the Centro Astrologico de Buenos Aires concerning the use of my translation of the Manual of Primary Directions. I am therefore somewhat at a loss to know what are the most appropriate steps now to take. It may be of interest to know if others would wish to have a copy of the work, which could give added impetus to a second request being directed to the Centro Astrologico. If after that there is still no response from Buenos Aires, it may be worthwhile taking some legal advice about the possibility of preparing a small private edition for ourselves. With modern photocopying and binding techniques, this ought not prove to be very expensive. This would be especially so if only a translation of the actual Manual - rather than the instructions (and tables) associated with the First Part of the work - "The Tables of Right Ascension of the Ecliptic" - are omitted. These are after all, able to be calculated without too much difficulty. I have enclosed a cheque for $5.00, which may go some way to your costs of postage.

Ralph Holden's reference to the Polich and Page system of Primary Directions is in reply to my suggestion that he publish his private translation (from the Spanish) for the benefit of English-speaking astrologers. I can personally vouch for the fact that this is a most valuable system. It has yielded accurate results for me, better than the semi-arc method, and I have been urging Astro Computing Services of San Diego to incorporate it in their "Future Trends" programmes. Alternatively, Astrosearch Computer Services, North Sydney, might extend their service to include Primaries of this type. It would be some help to know who, among the present readers, would be interested in acquiring a copy of the projected publication. - D.B.

From GILLIAN MURRAY: Thank you for your letter of congratulations on my temporary appointment as Editor of the F.A.A. Journal. I did appreciate your kind thoughts. Your circular of the 19th September has a lot of interesting comments, and I agree with the points raised re letters to the Editor and giving them to the person involved so they have the right of reply. Gwyn Turner has written a reply to the Nostradamus criticisms which is in the issue at present at the printers. I also noticed that your letter in the June issue did not carry your name and I can find no excuse for that omission. I have certainly put names on the letters I have published. I guess it was an oversight, or lack of experience by the previous editor. You would appreciate the lack of articles is a major problem, but I must say I received an excellent response to my pleas. Within three weeks I had sufficient material for this Journal which I found extremely gratifying. However, they were only received because I made personal contact with the writers. I would be very happy to receive any articles that you care to submit. I agree the March issue was far too "esoteric" and I think the content of this next one is fairly well balanced considering the short time available for preparation, and the June issue was a great improvement. I have reverted to a typed issue for the present, as noted in my Editorial but hope this will be rectified in the next issue. Noosa Heads is not exactly the hub of the publishing world!

I agree with Keven Barrett and Ron Gaunt's comments re the amalgamation of the two groups; I do not feel the time is right. However, membership of the F.A.A. is open to the A.A. Co-op members.

Now that Gwyn Turner has completely rebutted the mistaken criticism of her Nostradamus article, it is as well to look at the matter of controversy generally. There are some gentle souls in the astrological world who frown on any sort of critical writing, but some support it as a means of achieving higher standards as well as stimulating interest and uncovering useful ideas. I belong to the second group, always with the proviso that the controversy should be a discussion of ideas, not a battle of personalities, and still less personal abuse.

There is a type of astrological dissertation, with which we have been much afflicted of late, that deals in abstractions and vague generalities. Apparently it has a great attraction for some theorists, as giving full scope to their excited imaginations. I do not question the sincerity of these writers, but we should ask ourselves, "Do these outpourings really achieve anything worthwhile, increase our knowledge or understanding of Astrology or make it more effective in our lives?"

I submit they don't do any of these things, but on the contrary tend rather to confuse the mind and render straightforward ideas complicated and abstruse. Dane Rudhyar is a past master of this type of writing; but coming nearer home we have had several prime examples of it in this very Journal. Recently, one such article was admiringly referred to by the then Editor as "illuminating". The only thing illuminated was the author's capacity for speculation and conjecture. One statement followed another, mostly without any real basis for acceptance, and then, as likely as not, would be referred to as "principle". Where the article didn't contain theories, it dealt in platitudes, both equally tiresome.

In 1931 Vivian E. Robson, B.Sc., wrote in his "Beginners' Guide to Practical Astrology", "There is too great a tendency nowadays to float about in a comfortable haze of so-called esotericism. The first need of astrology is accuracy and definition, not pseudo-religious speculation, and it is only by concentrating on the practical and scientific side that we can really make astrology of service, and obtain for it the recognition it deserves."

These words are as true today as they were then. They should be kept firmly in mind by those who feel the urge to let themselves go in "occult" speculation.

It is time also that we freed ourselves from the mistaken idea that all wisdom emanates from the East. This delusion has led many to seek the wrong path, to adopt a philosophy and style of living that is quite unsuited to their Western civilization, however well-adapted to the country of origin.

A typical example of Eastern "teaching" quoted in the Journal, and apparently advanced by the writer as a piece of Oriental wisdom, was "...what is the sound of one hand clapping?" The answer of course is that the expression is a contradiction in terms: "Clapping" implies the impact of two bodies. Therefore "one hand clapping" has no meaning. It is not an Eastern profundity, but an Eastern idiocy. Let us have no more of these mental vagaries; at least not in the limited space of the F.A.A. Journal.

From ALLAN JOHNSON: The only point I would like to comment on in No. 3 Circular Letter is Geoffrey Dean's suggestion. This is now an established practice by political Journals who by necessity publish highly controversial articles. The same could apply to an astrological Journal. When a letter criticizing an article is sent in, the Editor then sends a photocopy to the author who can then send in a reply. So both criticism and the reply to it can then go in the same issue. Of course, the writer of a letter of criticism should never be expected to personally send a copy of the letter to the person criticized. No one would ever do that. The same practice could be used in your Newsletter as in the F.A.A. Journal.

Yes, this is a good practice which will be implemented as far as possible. Due to the frequency of appearance of these Circulars - approximately every month - it may not always be possible to include both criticism and reply in the same Circular. But, certainly, both will be published.

I am happy to give unstinted praise to the brochure accompanying the last Journal, advertising the International Convention in Adelaide next year. It is beautifully and professionally done - a delight to the eye.

At the end of this Circular Letter there are two groups of names. Members in the first group have evidenced their interest and will continue to receive the Circulars. Those in the second group are asked to indicate their feelings in the matter-even if it is only a confirmation of the postal address. The expense of production and distribution does not warrant the mailing to uninterested parties.

GROUP 1:- (Who will continue to receive the Circulars)- Keven Barrett, Pam Rowe, Allan Johnson, Ron Gaunt, Ray Webb, Roy Owen, Geoffrey Dean, Gillian Murray, Austin Levy, Joan McCulla, Gwyn Stoney, Ralph Holden, Rudolf Smit.

GROUP 2:- (Mailing will be discontinued unless otherwise requested)- Robert White, Arthur Bowman, Roy Knight, Guenther Andre, Gwyn Turner, Susie Chamberlain, Mr. & Mrs. P.J. Slape, Kaye Raymer, John Clark, Alia Griffen, Graham Townsend, Bob Stoney, Doris Greaves, Drew Dawson.

Any suggestions for names that should be added to the list will be welcomed.

Lynne Brose Dymock Brose.
26th October, 1981.

Consultant Astrologers
Dymock Brose Teacher and Researcher in Astrology
Marguerite Brose Diploma Fed. of Aust. Astrologers

19th September,
1981

86 CLARENCE ROAD, BLACKHEATH, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA 2785

Dear Fellow Member,

Replies to the first two Circular Letters have been received from Austin Levy, Keven Barrett, Roy Owen, Allan Johnson, David Cooper, Gwen Stoney, Joan McCulla and Geoffrey Dean. Alia Griffen responded with a brochure advertising an Astrological Seminar. David Cooper bowed out, explaining that he is not at present deeply involved with Astrology, and feels he cannot just now contribute anything useful.

Where sanctioned by the author, the letters are reproduced hereunder in their entirety. (They are addressed to me, as writer of the Circulars.)

From KEVEN BARRETT: Sorry for the delay in answering your letter of 9th August, as I have had many commitments to the F.A.A. with the International Conference and the Journal.

In regard to the Journal, Sth. Australia no longer are responsible for the preparation of the editorship, due to lack of support, not only from the local Branch but all States. There were, and still are, no articles forwarded by our members, and at this stage the Journal will be prepared by the Noosa Sub-Branch, and Gillian Murray is having the same trouble from members not being prepared to submit articles.

The second issue from S.A. has been with the printers for six weeks and is held up by industrial strife. Also, the "Great Australian Apathy" is a fact, and only a few are prepared to help without any personal glory.

The public relations side of the F.A.A. activities is not poorly handled, the one instance of the Conference invitations was due to lack of supervision at that time and ignoring National Directive, and therefore does not reflect on the high standard we have set in the past, as others who have something to say volunteered without waiting for personal invitations, and this is the attitude I expect.

Constructive criticism will always be accepted within the F.A.A., and it is the right of any Editor to print or reject such criticism, and your remarks have not been in vain, and no doubt Gillian Murray would welcome any articles you wish to submit, and also if you wish to lecture at the International Conference in Adelaide, it would be best for you to advise them immediately and not let any oversight stand in the way from giving others at this venue the value of any work you have carried out.

The time is now for those like you who have the interest of Astrology in their heart to be prepared to participate in the future aims of the F.A.A. and become part of the working committee at the next State and National elections, and also attending the meetings or lecture venues that are held regularly, as this is the only way we will unite all astrologers in this country. Therefore, once again I invite you to lecture at our monthly meetings or Sunday Forums.

I don't think that the F.A.A. will ever join together with the A.A. Co-op. in its present concept as there are still outstanding monies and financial books in their hands and, as we do have considerable respect overseas as a Federation, it seems to me that at the next financial year the A.A. Co-op. members could join the F.A.A., and those who are already members have the right to nominate for Committee positions.

I appreciate your efforts and comments to stimulate others to supply good quality articles for our Journal, and hope that some of those you write to share with you their personal time and, at some future date, an informal gathering.

From RON GAUNT: Further to your Circular Letter No. 2 of 9th August, 81, many of us no doubt would like to see one strong Astrological Association in Australia. However, I feel that the break in Victoria is still too recent for effective recombination and consolidation to take place in the near future.

I would tend to agree that the F.A.A. Journal has seen better days; however, this is possibly our own fault in that we as more experienced members have tended to ignore our responsibilities and provide the interesting copy required to have a successful Journal. In my own small way I will try to rectify this by submitting articles starting with the next issue. If other experienced members did likewise we would quickly have an interesting and informative magazine.

From ALLAN JOHNSON: In response to your Circular, I think it is quite a good idea to get members' views on the future of the F.A.A. Journal. It would certainly be more financially viable to have just one Journal rather than two competing Journals, though it might not be so easy to bring this about. Basically, it depends on getting a good Editor who would be acceptable to both sides, but here I must make it quite clear at the outset that I have no intention of putting myself forward in that role. I have done quite a considerable amount of work both for the F.A.A. and the Journal over a period of ten years, and now I have retired from the Executive Committee altogether, so I no longer feel responsible.

1980 was the most successful year the F.A.A. Journal has had since its inception. The subscriptions got up to 450, so I had the continual problem of keeping up with the increasing demand. For the last couple of issues I was printing 500. So this means the potential is there. I think there were three main reasons for this success. It was well printed and with good chart work, there were a good range of articles, not especially stressing any one line, and each issue came out on time. There is nothing particularly remarkable about all this, but it got results. If a journal comes out spasmodically and irregularly, raising doubts if it is really coming out at all, well then subscriptions must take a deep slide downward, as they have done this year. People won't continue their subscriptions out of a sense of duty to Astrology. If they are paying $15.00 they expect a good magazine.

I think the idea of transferring the Editorship to a different State each year is quite impractical. This was something which was first proposed by the National Executive back in 1976, and it looked as if it might have a few possibilities at the time. But as soon as we started to put it into practice it proved quite unworkable, so it had to be scrapped. So I was rather intrigued to read that this same proposal was brought forward once more at the July, 1980, Executive meeting. It had already been tried and failed.

There are some very good reasons why such a scheme could never work. It is just not possible for State Committees to meet annually in rotation year by year and elect an Editor. For one thing there would simply be no takers. It is just too big a job. Apart from that it can be disastrous to change the Editorship of any journal too frequently, and especially with this particular Journal. With all the problems of getting printers at an economical price, and all the other problems a new Editor does have, by the time he really got on top of things the year would have run out. Then the process would have to start all over again.

Naturally, there is one way out if you can't get an Editor, and that is to form a committee. But it is well known that the best way not to get something done is to form a committee to do it. Where everybody is responsible it really means nobody is responsible. We do need a committee to assist the Editor with a lot of the work to be done. That goes without saying. But that is quite different to having a committee as a substitute for an Editor. Editing a journal is pretty much a highly individual job. So everything depends on having someone who can take the responsibility for pushing things along, for setting deadlines and meeting those deadlines. You know yourself how the frustrations can mount up. People promise articles and fail to deliver. You get held up by typesetters or printers. So I have never turned out an issue yet that hasn't been a bit of a rushed job, overcoming last minute obstacles. If one hasn't enough articles by a due date then one has to set to and write something, or dig something up. In most cases I have found I have had to write at least 25% or 30% of the contents or it would never come out. You yourself have had plenty of experience of that sort of thing.

But this is the sort of responsibility an Editor takes on. It is a challenge but a lot of work. If one sets himself a deadline then often it means putting aside a lot of other things and really making that deadline. But with a committee the whole atmosphere is different so you get delays and delays.

Then there is the question of "Letters to the Editor". I agree with you all such letters should be published whether they are critical or not. In fact it is all the better if they are critical. The more controversy we can get into a journal the more successful it is likely to be. But also an Editor is responsible for answering other letters addressed to the Editor. Every letter deserves an acknowledgment. But this hasn't been happening this year. No letters have been answered.

But I get back to what I said at the beginning: We do need an Editor who is acceptable to both sides if the two Journals are to merge. Basically, being an editor is being a writer, so one possibility for finding an Editor is among those who have contributed articles over the last few years. If a person has been interested to write articles then such a person might be interested in being Editor. It is true the Journal has gone back and forth between Melbourne and Sydney since its inception, but it hasn't had a lot of new Editors. It has always been the same people. This is a workable proposition, and it has worked, since the Journal has survived for ten years. Overseas publications do have co-editors, but each person is fully responsible as an Editor, and they do lighten the work by taking turns.

I hope the others on your list do contribute with their viewpoints.

The above thoughtful and informative letters are much appreciated. They are achieving what I had hoped to do - establish better communication between members so that we all become aware of each other's ideas, feelings and viewpoints, as well as what is going on within the organization. Other recipients of these Circular Letters are invited to respond as opportunity offers.

Regarding the production of one composite Journal, it is apparent that if 400 subscribers to the F.A.A. Journal join with over 100 subscribers to The Australian Astrologers' Journal, the financial aspect of the operation is greatly eased. This would not be the only benefit, the most obvious one being a unifying effect on most of the active astrologers in Australia, from which various benefits could be expected to flow.

I have said my piece in this respect, and do not intend to urge the matter further. I am not an envoy from one side to the other, but a member of both Associations who can see that the ultimate good of Astrology lies in a union of the two groups. If they consider their differences at the moment are irreconcilable (and both sides have received my overtures with less than enthusiasm) then I am content to wait for a happier day.

Regarding "Letters to the Editor", the non-publication of which is a sore point with some members, GEOFFREY DEAN of W. Aust. has made a suggestion that should certainly be implemented: That letters of criticism be submitted to the writer criticized so that both criticism and reply, if any, can be included in the next issue of the Journal.

The June issue of the F.A.A. Journal has just come to hand, after being delayed by industrial disputes, and though not without weaknesses, it certainly represents an advance on the March issue, with excellent contributions by Pamela Rowe and Keven Barrett. Both these articles are gratifyingly practical, and the sort of painstaking research that is badly needed, being much more demanding than vague speculation on "esoteric" aspects of the science.

I agree with Doris Greaves that published charts should be accurate, but was there any need for the deliberate downgrading of a competent astrologer who has made her mark both here and overseas? Mrs. Greaves herself, like all of us, is by no means free from error. The reproduction of Michelson's computer Charts for Nostradamus was on such a small scale as to be unattractive and barely legible. It would have been more effective if the writer had gone to the trouble of re-drawing the figures and typing the associated letterpress.

Possibly as the result of protests, one of my letters was published in this issue, but with the omission of my name. Why? It implies that I have written anonymously and am not prepared to accept public responsibility for my utterances.

As to the matter of future articles for the Journal, apart from indications given above, ROY OWEN of Qld. has intimated in a private communication that he is prepared to lend a hand, and others will be following suit. This is a needed response. We cannot blame the Editor for a poor Journal if we do not furnish him/her with the material for a good one.

These Circular Letters are produced and distributed at my own expense to provide members with an opportunity to communicate more freely and express their views on any matter touching the betterment of Astrology in general, and the Journal in particular. If you have something to say, write it. Your remarks will be published unless you indicate they are a private communication only.

COPIES TO THE FOLLOWING:-

Keven Barrett, Robert White, Pamela Rowe, Allan Johnson, Ron Gaunt, Ray Webb, Roy Owen, Geoffrey Dean, Arthur Bowman, Gillian Murray, Roy Knight, Guenther Andre, Gwyn Turner, Austin Levy, Susie Chamberlain, P. & M. Slape, Joan McCulla, Gwen Stoney, John Clark, Alia Griffen, Kaye Raymer, Graham Townsend, Ralph Holden, Rudolf Smit.

Dynock Brose
Dynock Brose

Consultant Astrologers
Dymock Brose Teacher and Researcher in Astrology
Marguerite Brose Diploma Fed. of Aust. Astrologers

9th August, 1981.

86 CLARENCE ROAD, BLACKHEATH, N.S.W., AUSTRALIA 2785

Dear Fellow Member,

It is apparent that our F.A.A. Journal has sunk to an all-time low, and something must be done to resuscitate it. It is generally conceded that "The Australian Astrologers' Journal", published by the Australian Astrologers' Cooperative, is a more interesting, informative and readable quarterly, and this must give an impetus to the movement to re-combine the two astrological societies. If it did nothing else but result in an improved publication, worthily representing the best in Australian Astrology, such a movement should have the support of all those with the best interests of Astrology at heart. In addition, however, it could very well arrest the declining membership of the F.A.A., a decline only to be expected from the small return for the $15 membership fee.

Complaints I have received about the F.A.A. Journal include the non-publication of thoughtful, if critical, letters sent to the Editor. Apparently the Editorial Committee does not realize that the stimulation of controversy, so far from being a bad thing, is a boon to any publication that relies for its existence on the interest and active participation of readers. If editors are so thin-skinned that they cannot tolerate criticism, however well-informed and apposite, then it is much better if they remove themselves and let someone else handle the task.

Not only are the letters not published, they are not even acknowledged. Admittedly, this calls for the expenditure of time and effort, but it is a simple courtesy, and anyone undertaking the responsibilities of editorship should be prepared to expend themselves in this direction also.

The public relations side of the F.A.A. activities is being poorly handled in other respects. One instance is the issue of invitations to prospective speakers at the Adelaide Conference next year. My invitation read, "Dear ---- (no name) We would like to personally invite you to attend the 1982 International Conference in Adelaide, South Australia. Considerable interest has been shown in your work here and we would like to provide Australian and international Astrologers with the chance to share some of your expertise..."

Aside from the fact that this invitation exhibits no great standard of journalism with its split infinitive, "would" instead of "should", etc., it is not even addressed to me personally (thus negating the expressed interest in my personal work), and is unsigned. Apparently no one was prepared to accept responsibility for the hazardous business of inviting me to express my views.

It is no excuse to say that all this work is voluntary. Voluntary work, like any other work, should be the best that one can turn out, and if this is the best that can be turned out, then we need to make other arrangements quickly.

As an Association, we must realize that we are up against The Great Australian Apathy. Without constant stimulation, exhortation and example, only a tiny minority of members will bestir themselves and take an active part in forwarding the interests of the body to which they belong.

Because I believe, at this point, that you personally are one of this minority, in common with the others whose names are listed below, you are receiving this circular letter. It is produced and distributed at my own expense to stimulate communication among members, and give them the opportunity to state their views, criticisms and approvals --an opportunity that is at present being denied them insofar as the F.A.A. Journal is concerned. What you write to me on any matter of common interest to astrologers will appear in the next Circular, whether it agrees or disagrees with my or anyone else's views. A vigorous astrological community can be forged in the ferment of controversy.

If your remarks are not for publication, please so state, and your wishes will be respected. But I am addressing this Circular to those members who, I think, may have something to say, and are prepared to say it. If you do not come into this category be good enough to advise me, so that I may be spared unnecessary expense. Conversely, if there is some name you would like to see added to the list, please send particulars.

The first step in ensuring the right content in our Journal is to supply good quality articles to the Editor. Are we failing in this respect? Surely, the more experienced members are not deficient in knowledge and expertise, garnered over the years. What, then, is the problem? A lack of energy? An "I'm-all-right-bother-you-Jack" attitude? A good project like the Journal, which is the strongest binding force in the Association, is worth the sacrifice of some personal time and effort. There are at least ten members among those listed below who, I am sure, could provide very acceptable articles. Let them make a covenant with themselves to do so, and I shall do likewise.

Dymock Brose
86 Clarence Road,
BLACKHEATH, N.S.W. 2785.

COPY TO: Keven Barrett, Robert White, Pam Rowe, Allan Johnson, Ron Gaunt, Ray Webb, Roy Owen, Geoffrey Dean, Arthur Bowman, Gillian Murray, Roy Knight, Guenther Andre, Gwyn Turner, Austin Levy, Susie Chamberlain, P. & M. Slape, Joan McCulla, Gwen Stoney, Kaye Raymer, John Clark, Alia Griffen, David Cooper.

BIRTH CHARTS
PROGRESSED HOROSCOPES
DAILY GUIDES
ASTROLOGICAL ADVICE

CIRCULAR LETTER NO. 1

86 CLARENCE ROAD
BLACKHEATH
N.S.W. 2785
PHONE: 87-8874

DYMOCK BROSE

CONSULTANT ASTROLOGER

12th May, 1981.

The Editor, F.A.A. Journal,
P.O. Box 26,
WELLAND, STH. AUST., 5007.

Dear Editor,

The March issue of the F.A.A. Journal makes one wonder just what is the role of a Journal such as ours. If it is to present its readers with philosophical and speculative dissertations, however far removed from the practice and problems of Astrology, then it has succeeded admirably. If it should be presenting material of real utility, addressed to the actual needs, questions and difficulties of astrologers, then the March issue must be deemed to have signally failed.

The only article of any practical significance, though slight, was Susie Chamberlain's, "The End of an Era".

The article, "Supernatural Sex", represented light entertainment, but its connection with Astrology was sufficiently tenuous to have excluded it from publication.

Many of the facile assertions made by the other contributors were open to question, but to take issue on them would simply prolong discussion of what is merely an intellectual exercise, of academic interest only.

I sincerely hope this is the last issue of its kind.

Yours truly,

(Signed) Dymock Brose

25th January, 1981.

Dear Ms. Chamberlain,

Now that the editorship of the Journal is passing to South Australia for 12 months, it is pertinent to recall what has been achieved in the past year and what should be avoided in the future. No one can complain about Allan Johnson's services to the Association--three terms as Editor, and a constant supplier of good quality articles, apart from unremitting work on the Committee. It is creditable that he handled all those in addition to a busy life as a professional astrologer.

One of Allan's major difficulties so far as the Journal is concerned has obviously been the lack of a good assistant proofreader, as witness the frequent misprints and misspellings in Journal articles. An Editor can hardly cope with this unless he has competent help, and this sort of help is not easily come by: The helper has to be not only knowledgeable astrologically but also a good speller with a wide vocabulary and an acquaintance with the rules of grammar. The difficulties of good proof-reading are known only to those who have tried it.

In the interests of good presentation let us avoid the numbing monotony of modern letterpress with its featureless expanse of lower-case type, unrelieved by a single capital. At the very least we should capitalize such terms of our Art as Zodiac, Sun, Moon, Mercury, etc., Sign (of the Zodiac), Ecliptic Ascendant, Midheaven, Zenith, Nadir, Descendant, East Point, West Point, Vertex, First House, Second House, etc. There is no justification (beyond the sheep-like practice of some publishers) for printing Sign and House with lower-case initials. These words are used in a special, unique sense, and should be distinguished by a capital letter. "Astrology" should sometimes have an initial capital and sometimes not. It is hard to suggest rules but I think when in doubt use the capital and do not downgrade the subject with small letters.

As regards the articles themselves, the Editor should decline material that is not really astrological but merely philosophical or "occult" speculation. A case in point is M.C. Jain's "You Can't Escape Your Stars!". Aside from its appallingly negative title, which is calculated to increase the superstitious fears of the uninformed, the astrological content is virtually nil, and completely lost in the pious sermonizing and rambling talk about "Karmic Astrology", Free Will, Evil, suicide, etc.

Arthur Bowman's contribution on Retrograde Planets, on the other hand, was very worthwhile. It is obviously the result of some personal research on a subject where research is needed. No matter if one cannot agree with all the statements; it should stimulate others to present their findings. I would cavil only at the laboured explanation of Retrogradation, which was suited more to an elementary textbook than a professional Journal. Valuable space could have been saved here.

Yours sincerely,
(Signed) Dymock Brose

Above letters circulated to members in view of the difficulty in getting them published in the F.A.A. Journal. Comments, whether approving or critical, invited, for possible re-circulation. From Dymock Brose, Editor, "The Australian Astrologers' Journal", and member F.A.A.

COPIES TO Keven Barrett, Robert White, Pam Rowe, Allan Johnson, Geoffrey Dean, Gillian Murray, Roy Owen, Ray Webb, Guenther Andre, Ron Gaunt, Arthur Bowman, Gwen Stoney, M. Slape, Susie Chamberlain, Jan Herbert, Gwyn Turner, Austin Levy, Joan McCulla Roy Knight, Candida Spender, Cherie Milne, Drew Dawson.